"My ship went down somewhere on the ocean. Our navigators were completely lost and we'd been relying on dead-reckoning. We could have drifted a thousand miles and we'd have had no idea."

"I went overboard, and a rip current tore me from the boats. I fought, but the water took me."

"Last thing I remember was gasping, lungs filled with burning seawater, vision going black and drifting down into the inky silence."

"I was hauled out of the ocean by two of the biggest women I've ever seen. I didn't have the strength to resist them."

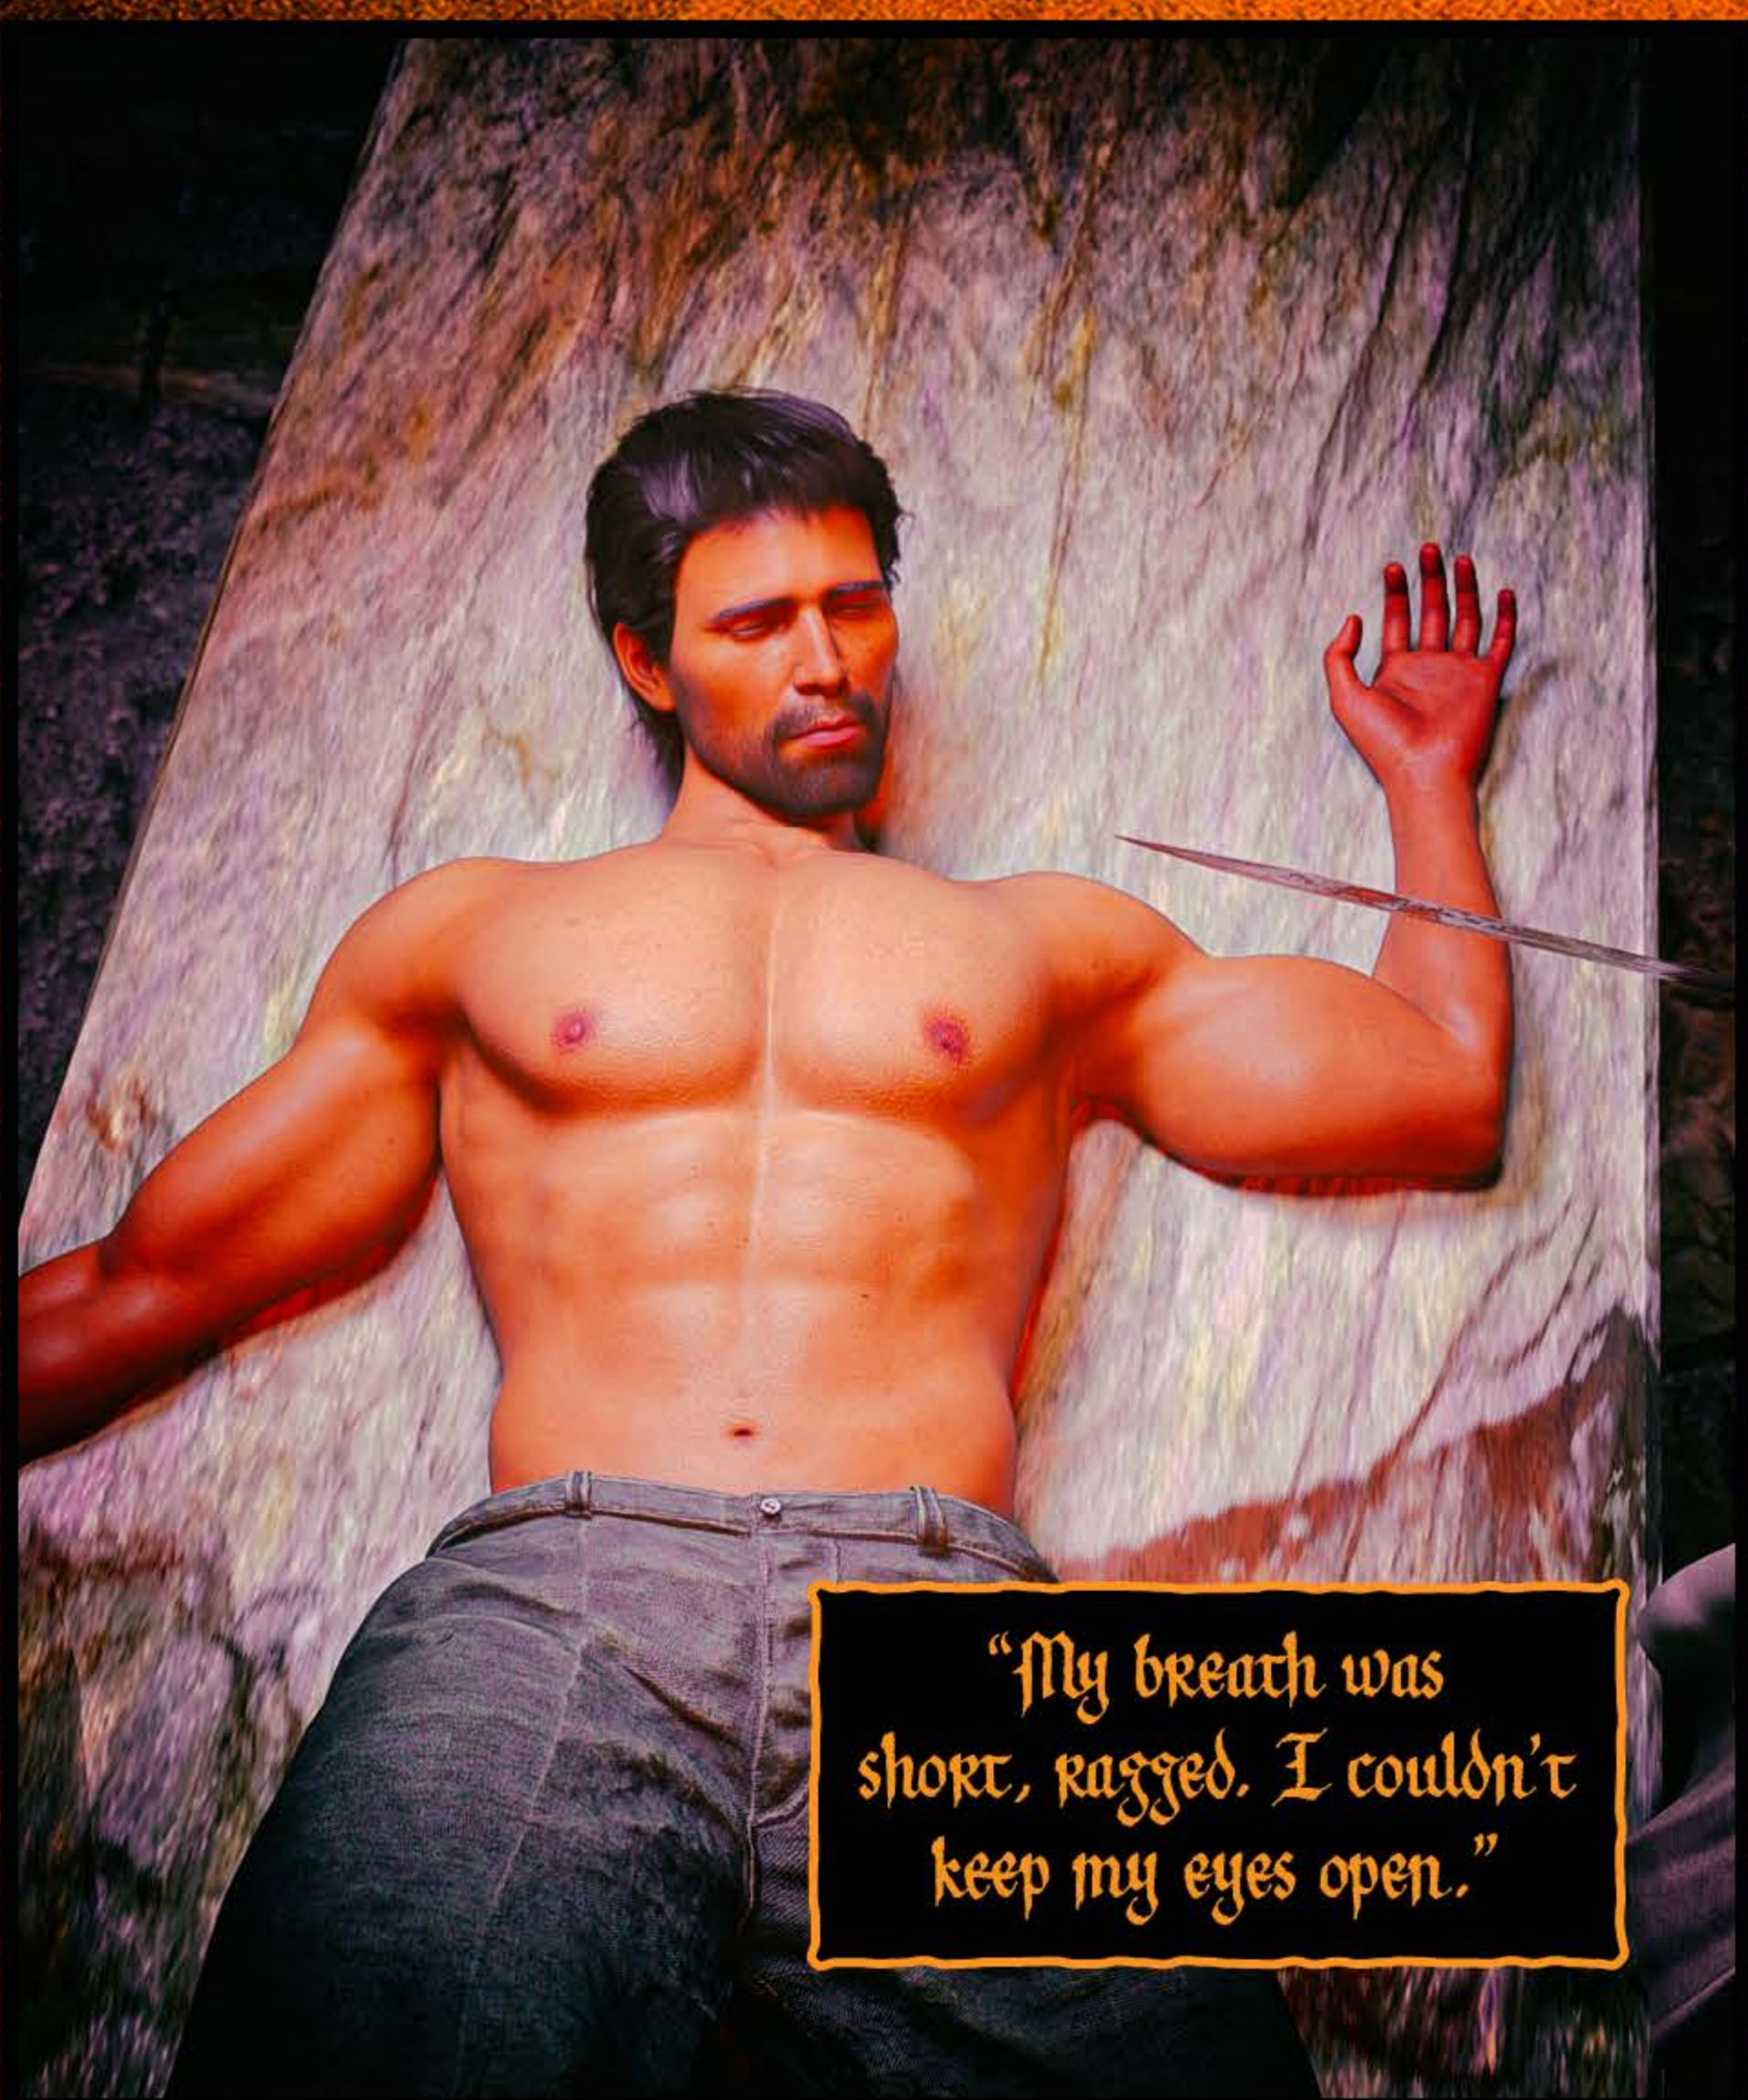

"They dragged me across a beach, up the cliffs and into a temple."

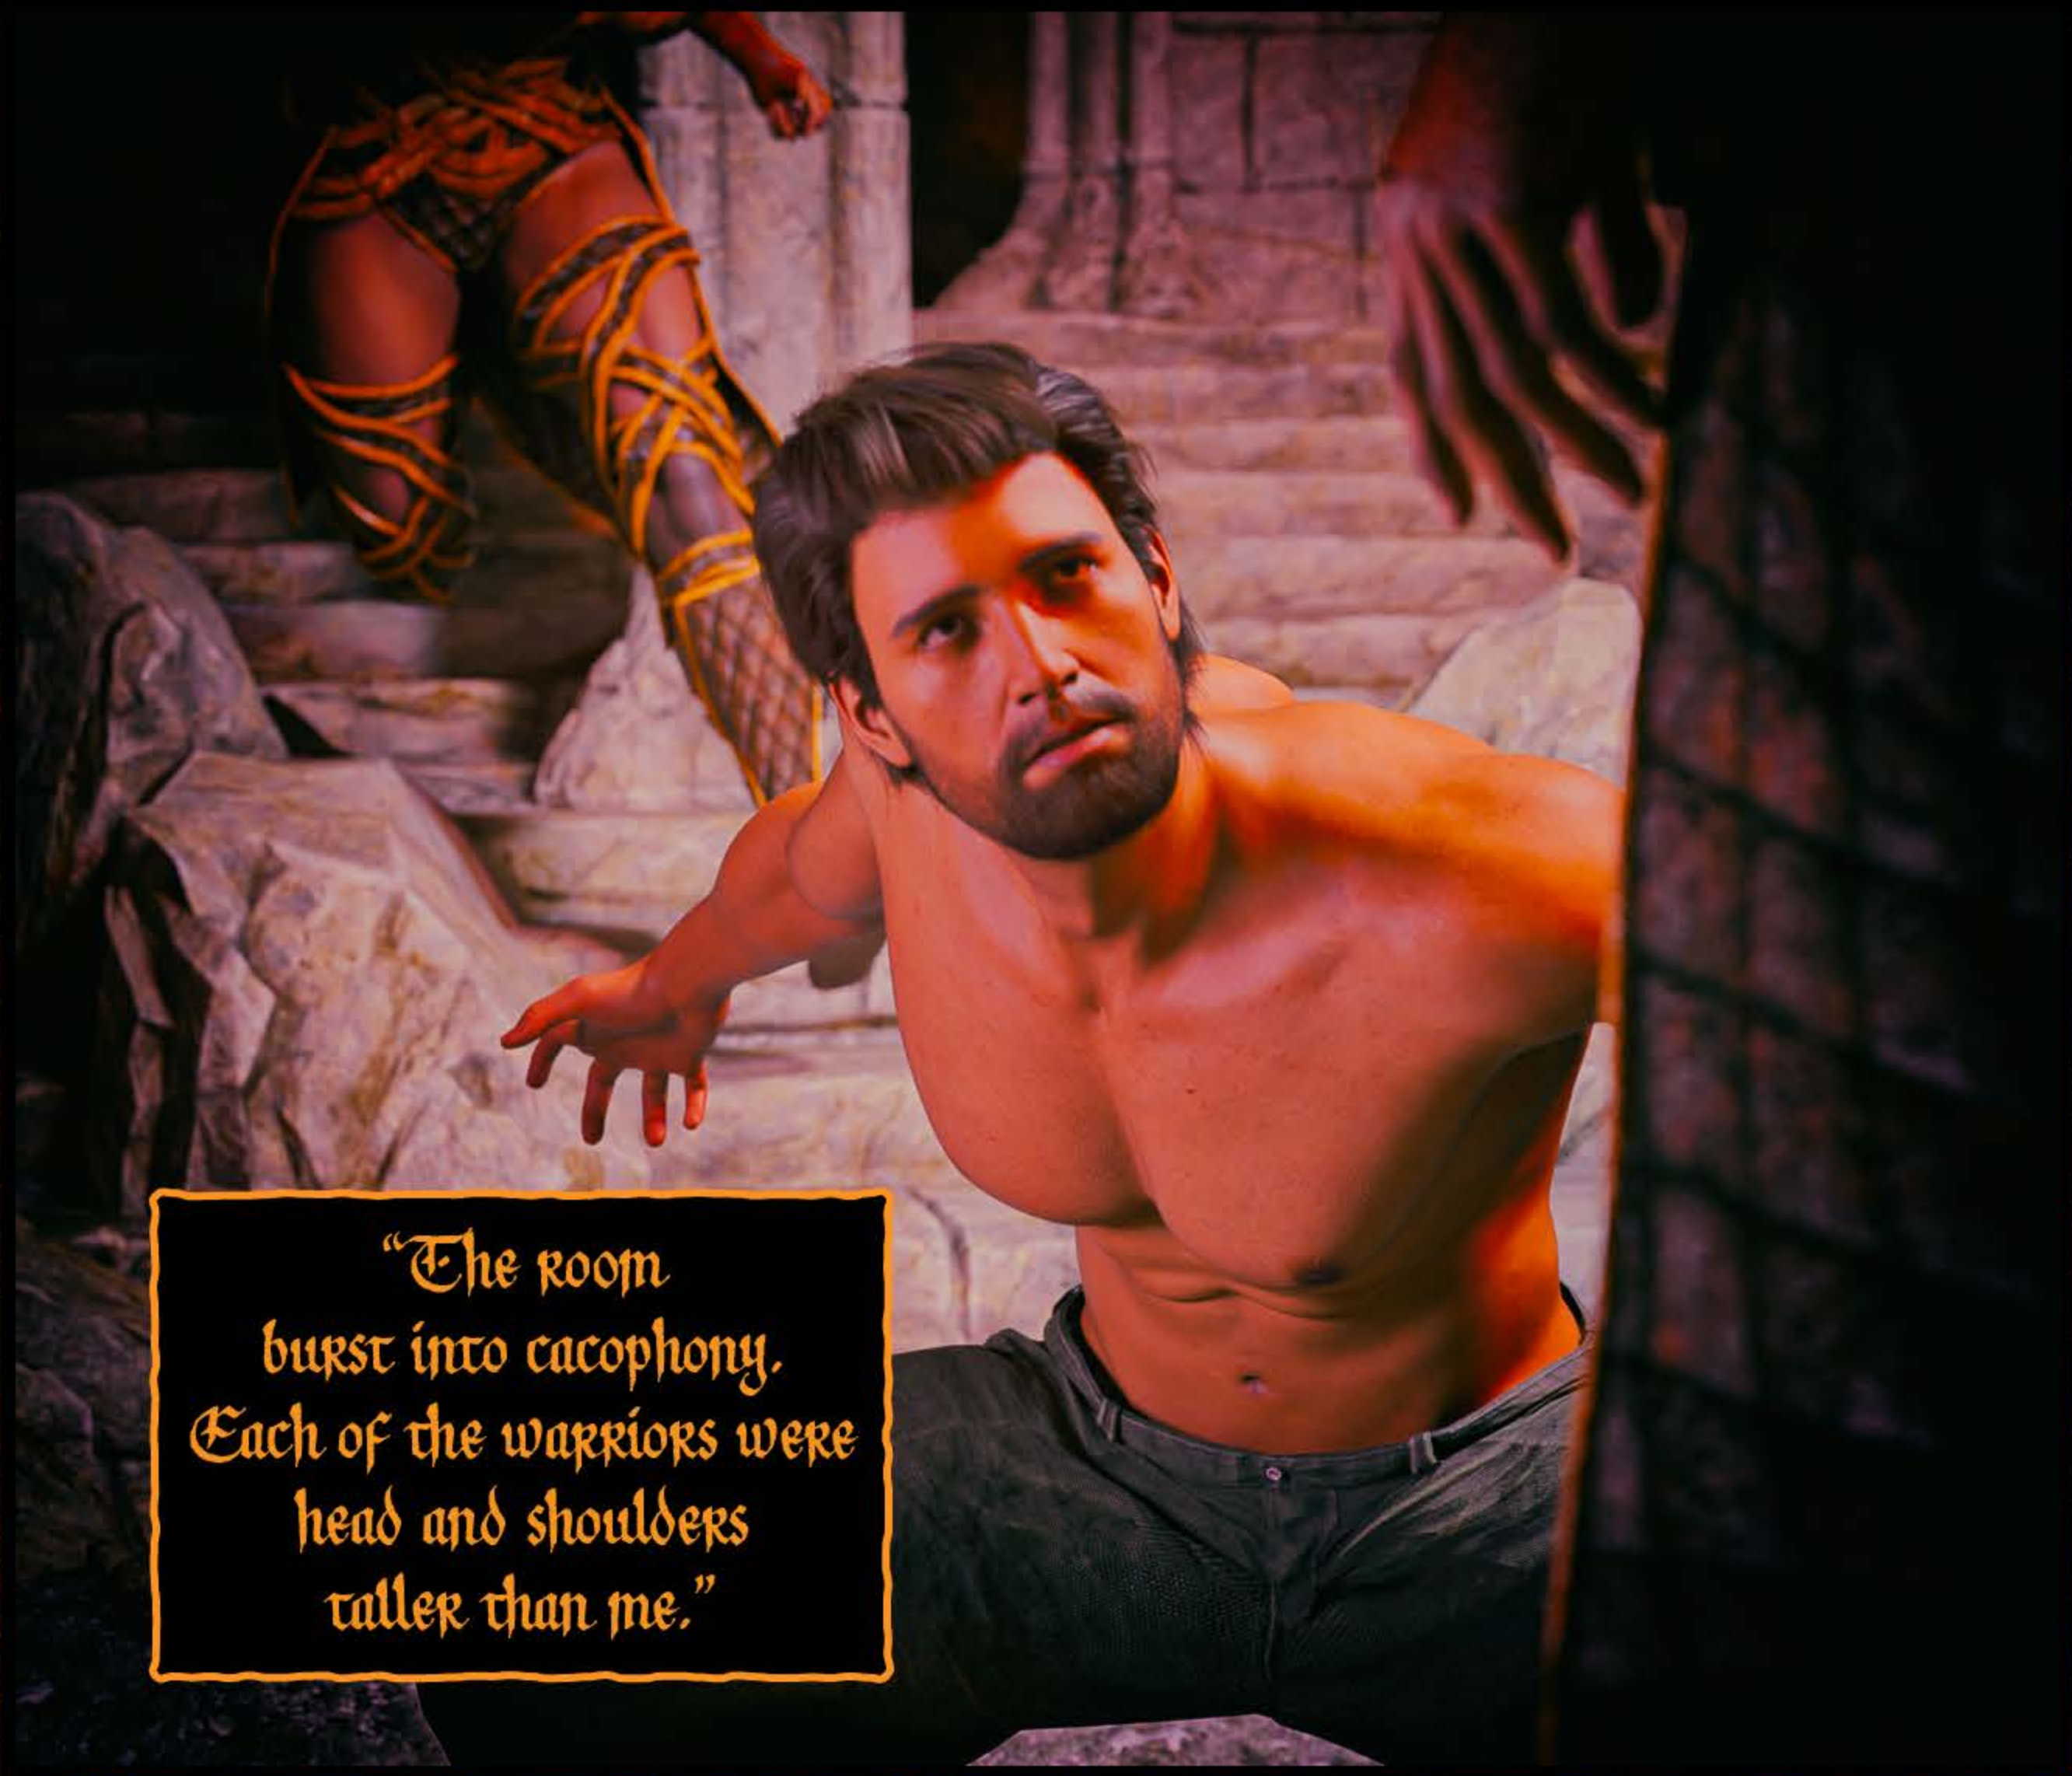

"Their faces were hard, their gaze filled with hatred. It felt like a nightmare."

"The room burst into cacophony. Each of the warriors were head and shoulders taller than me."

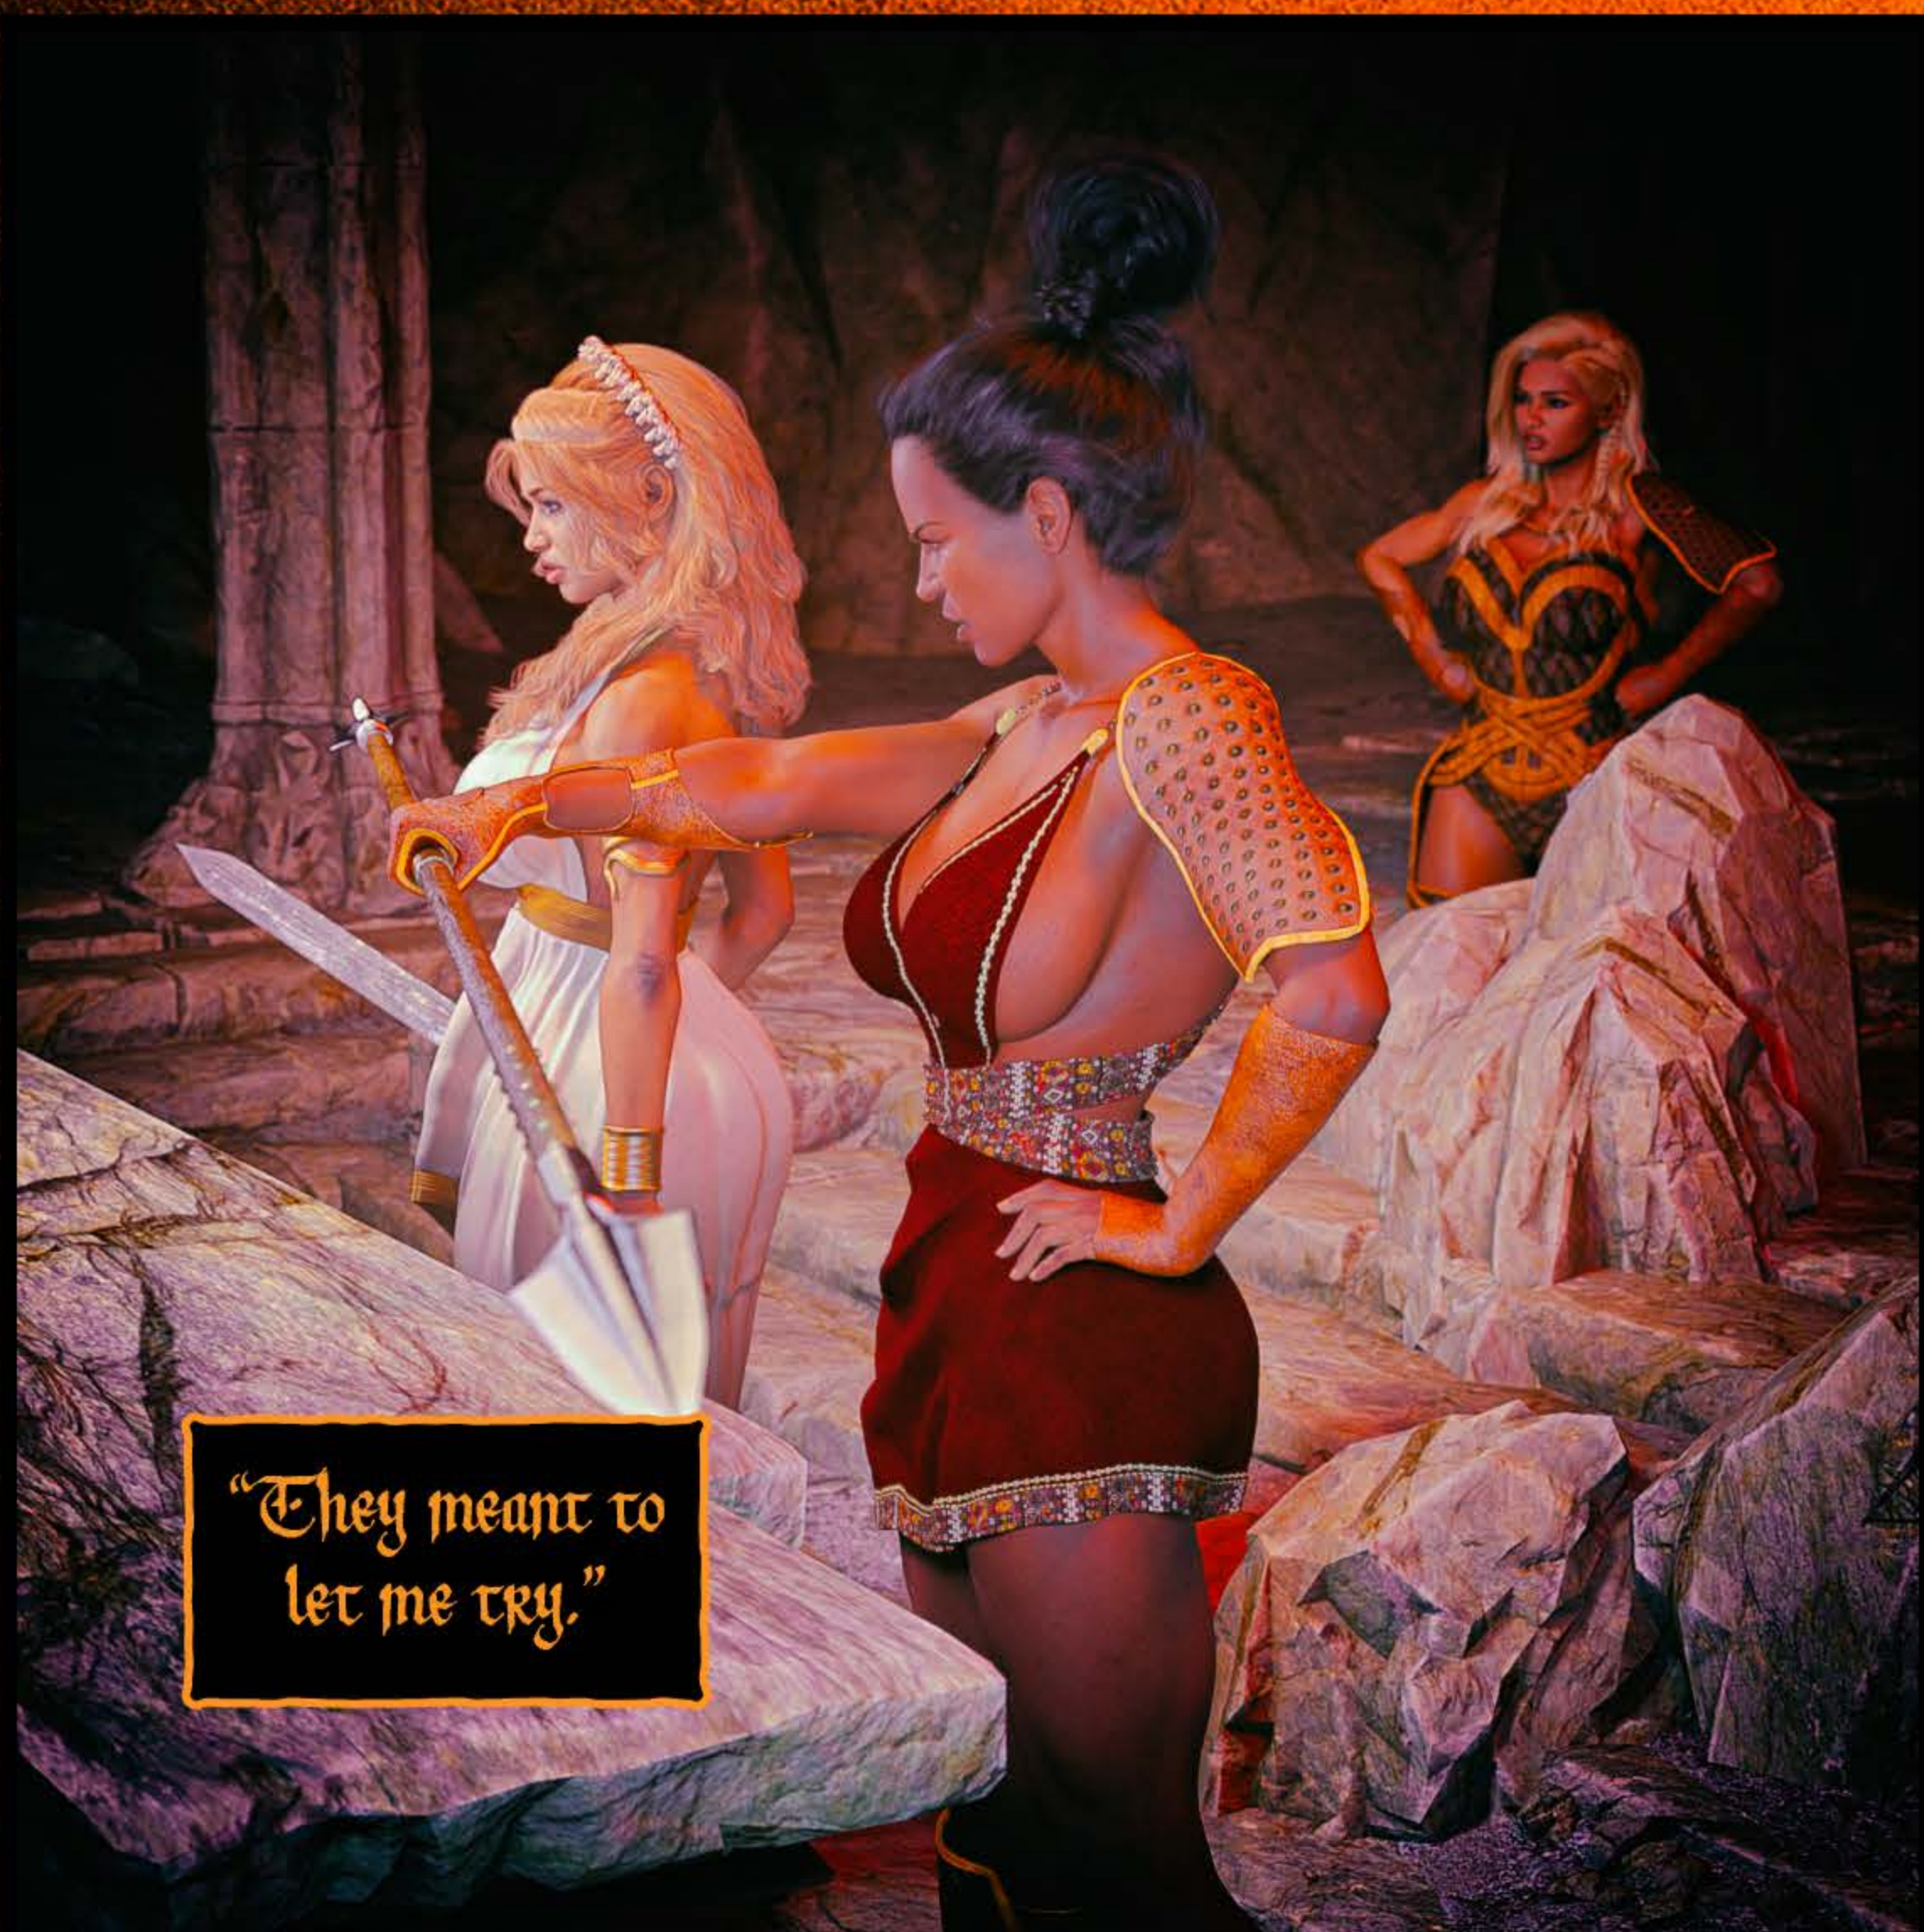

"Any of them could have torn me limb from limb."

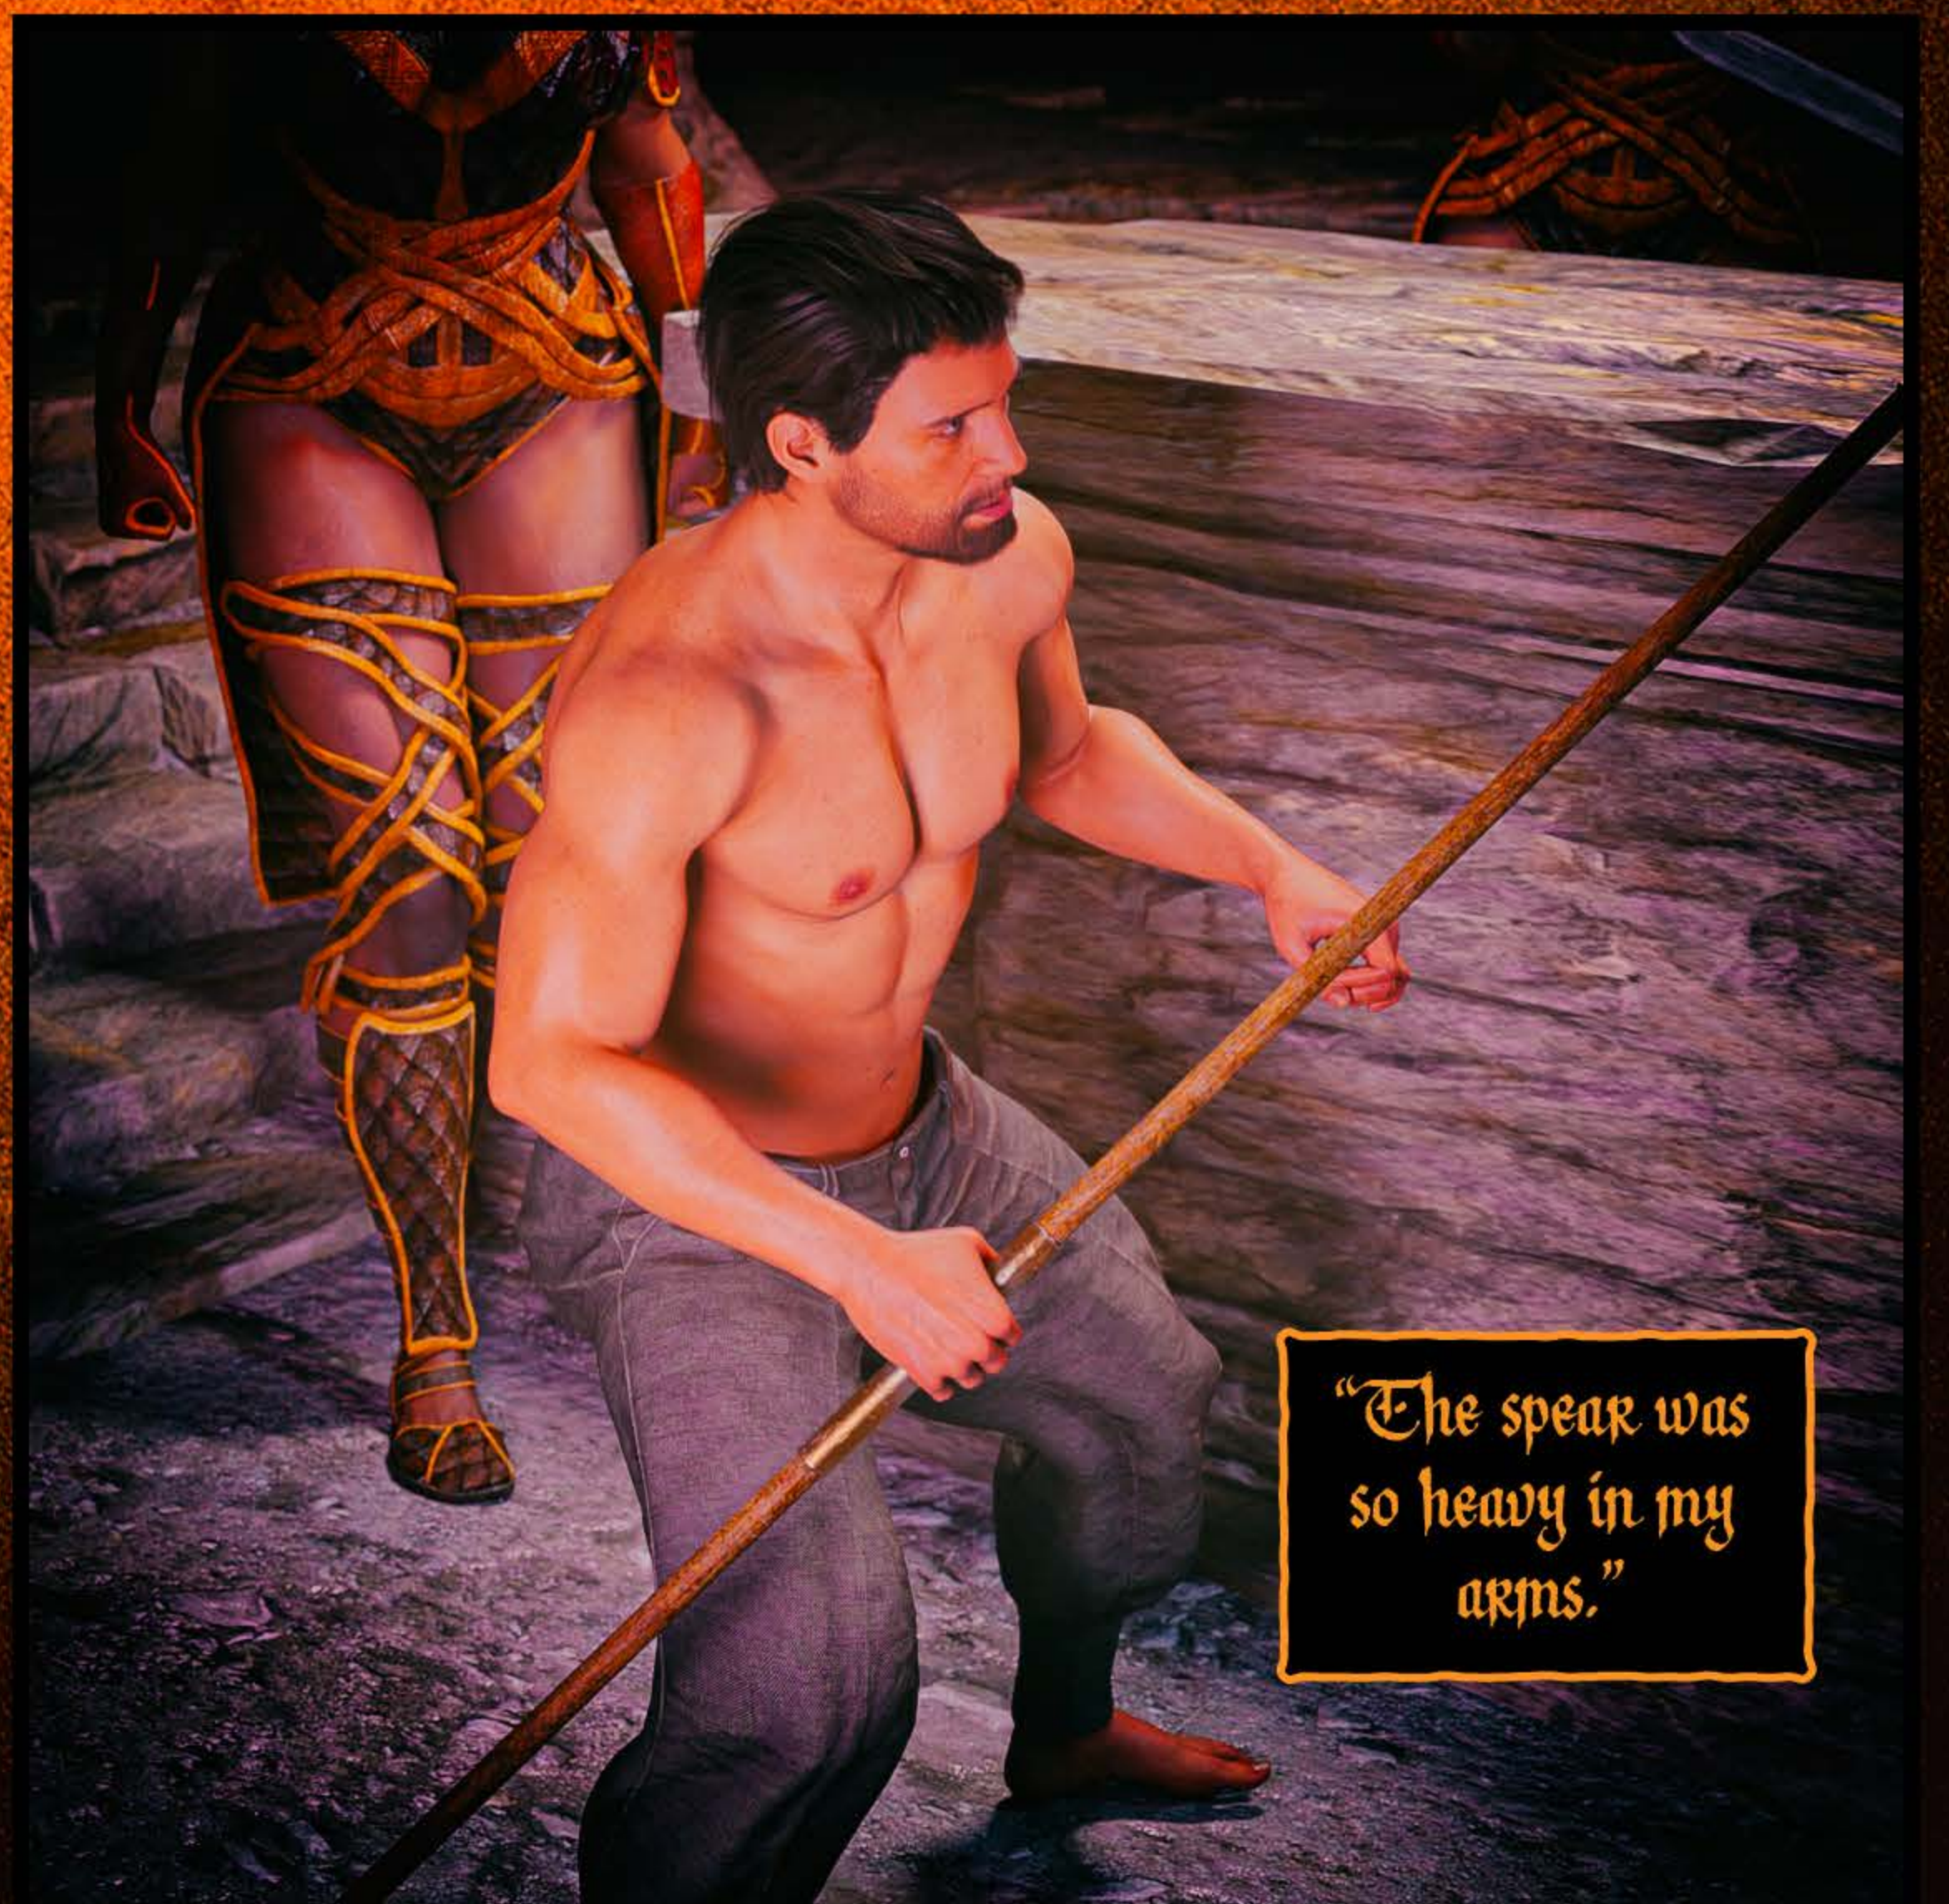

"Behind me, their leader and another warrior had started their own fight."

"It ended quickly."

"They meant to let me try."

"The spear was so heavy in my arms."

TOM REYNOLDS

"The smallest of their throng stepped forward. She was the most beautiful woman I'd ever seen. I heard someone say the word Helen."

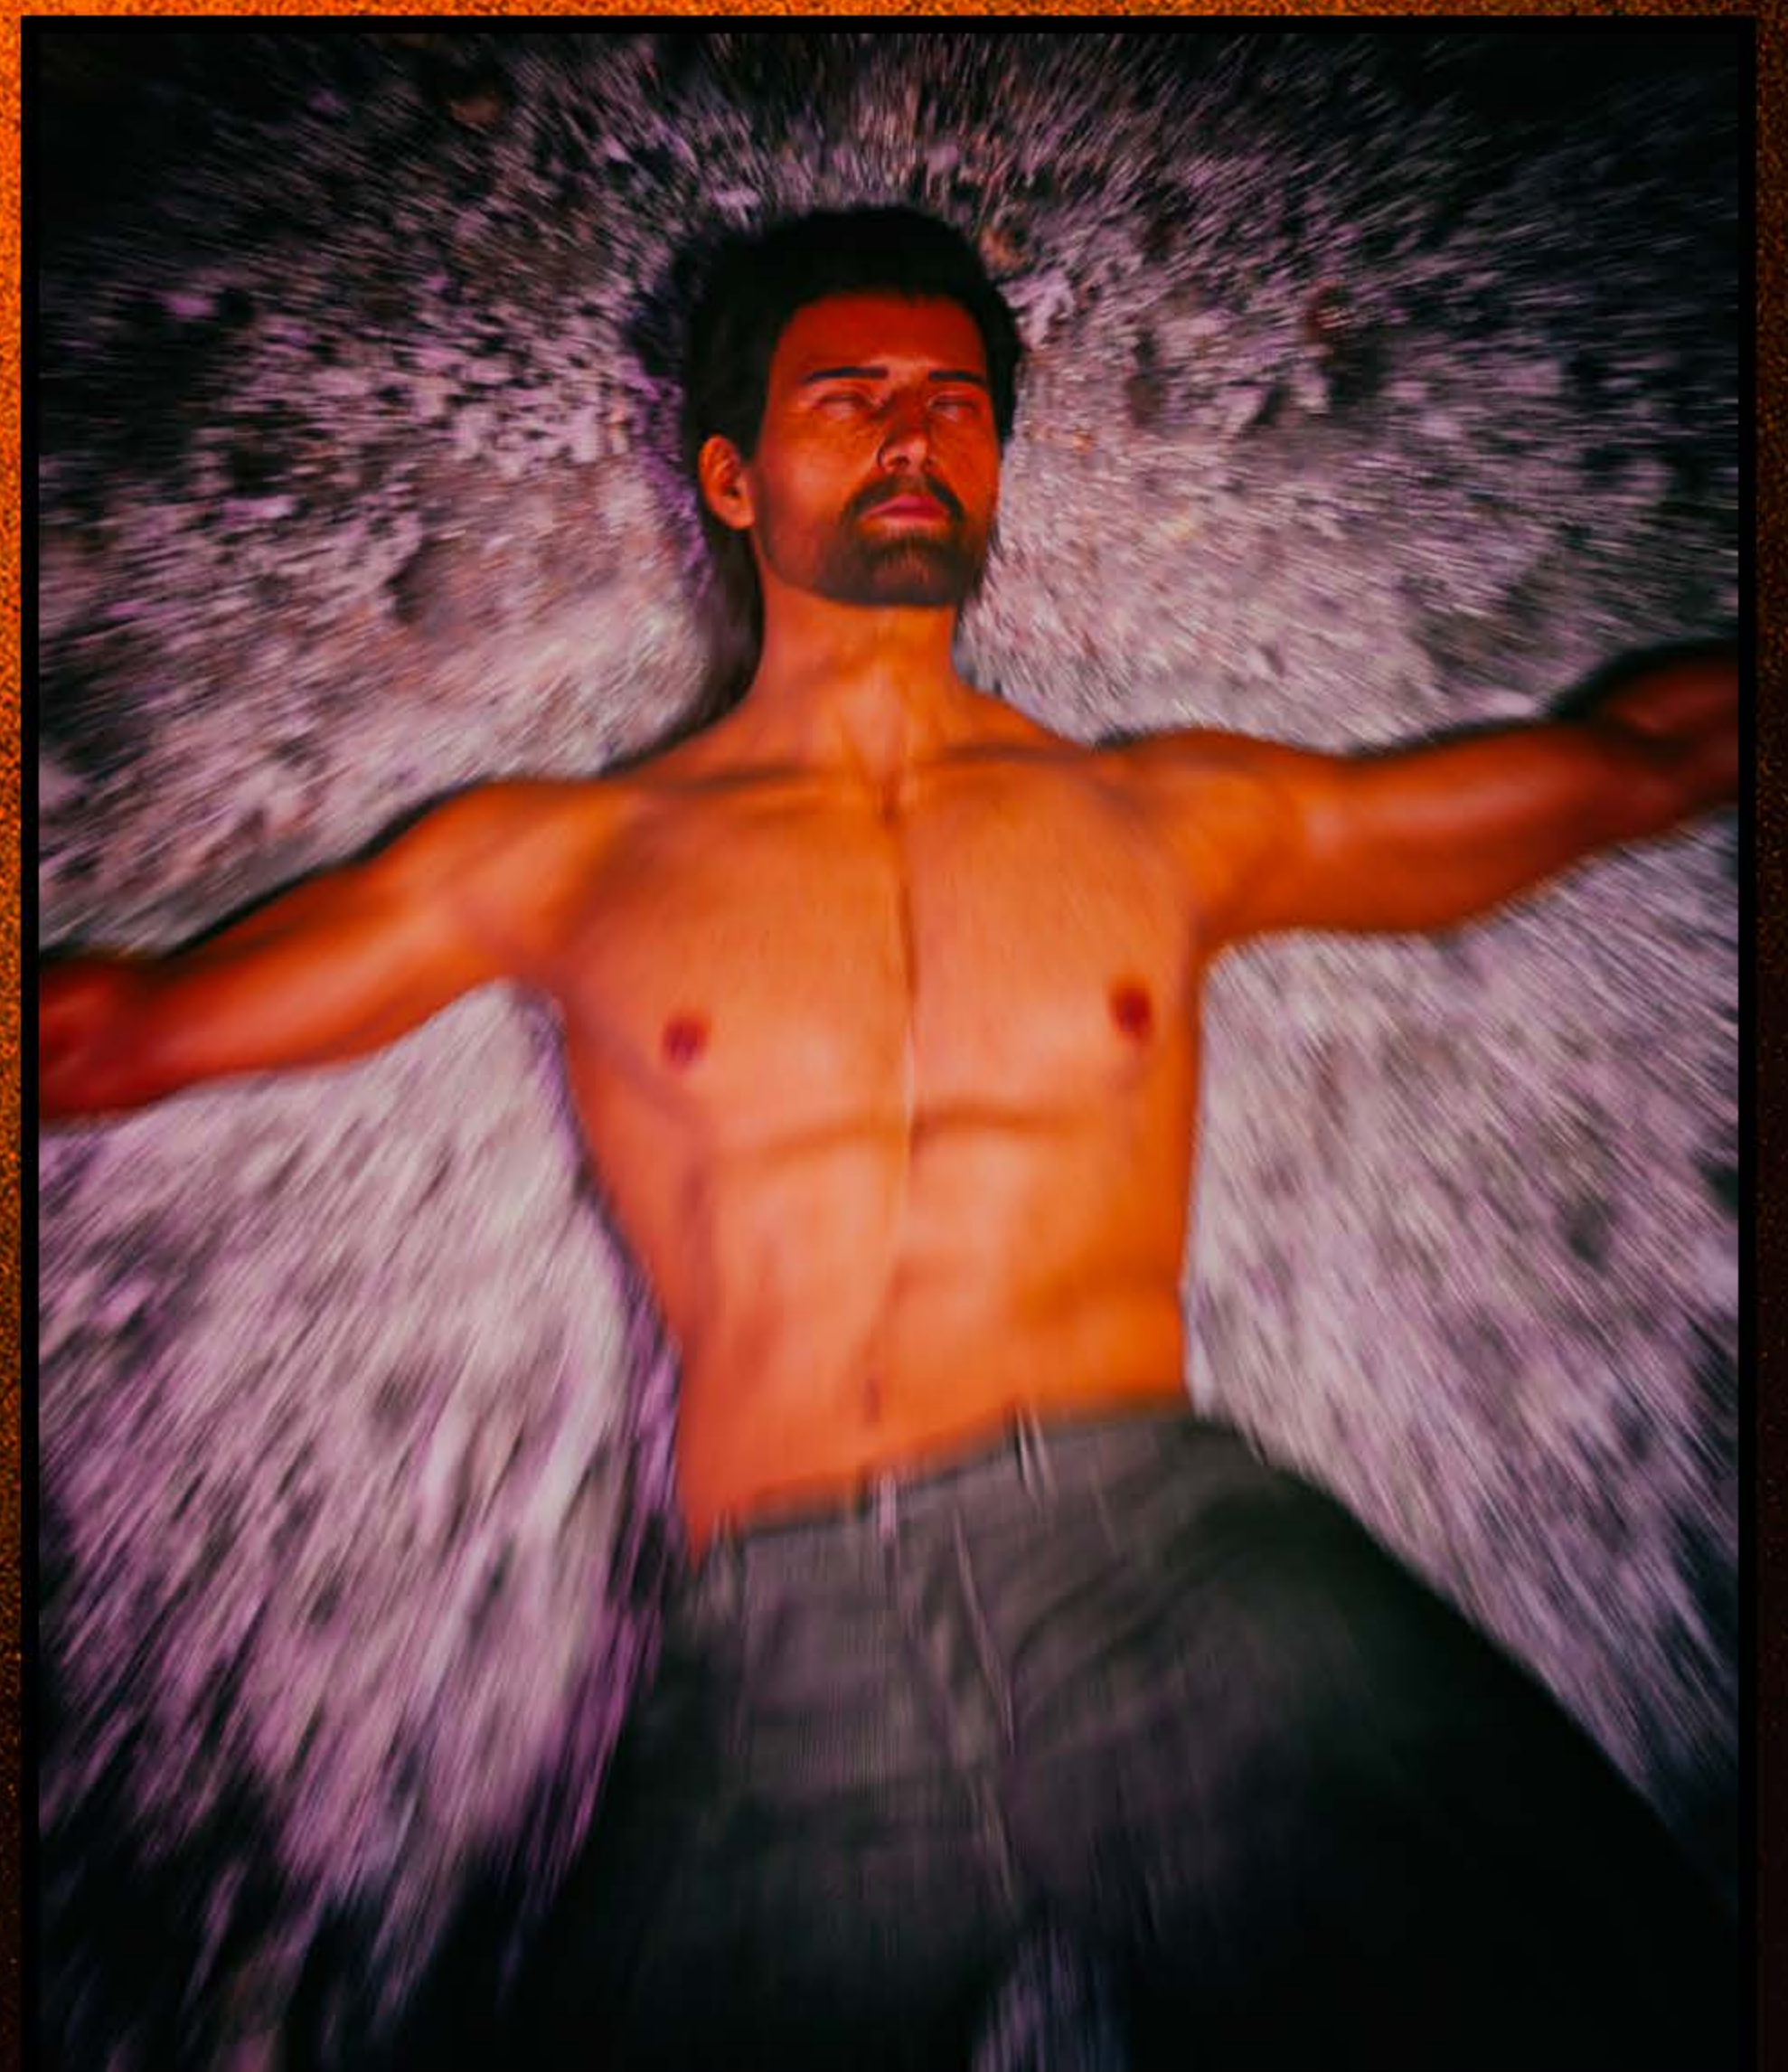

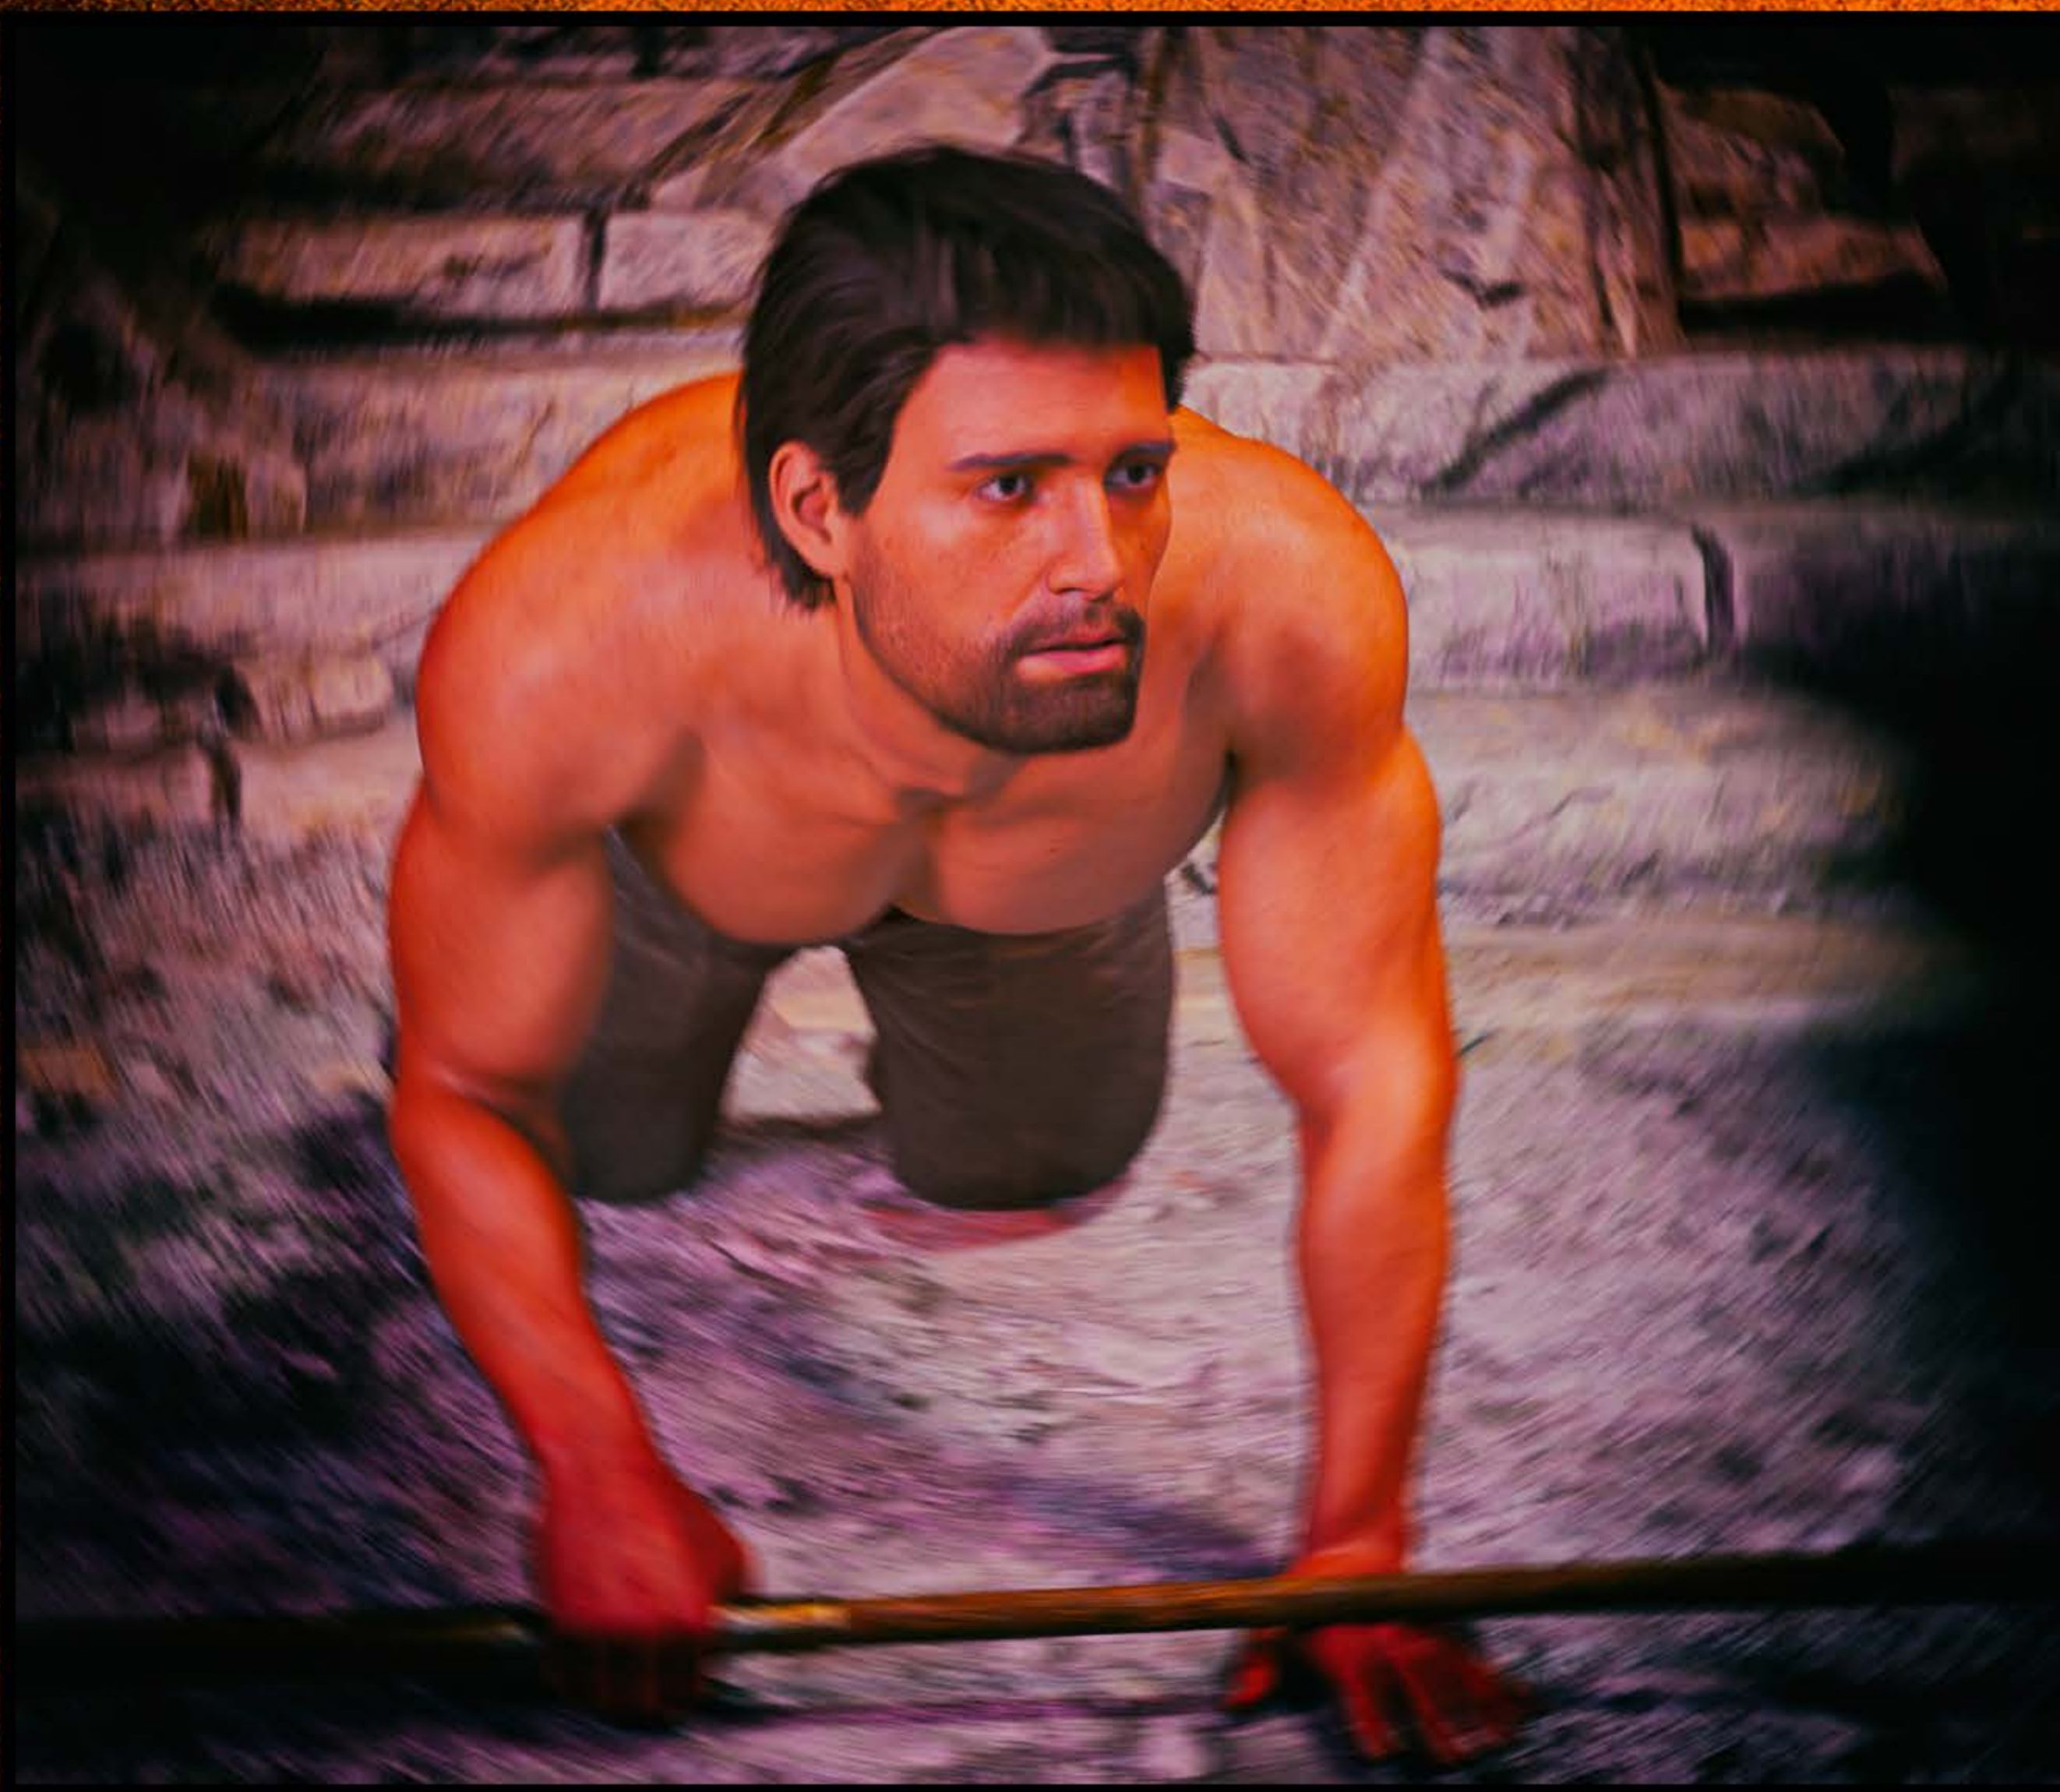

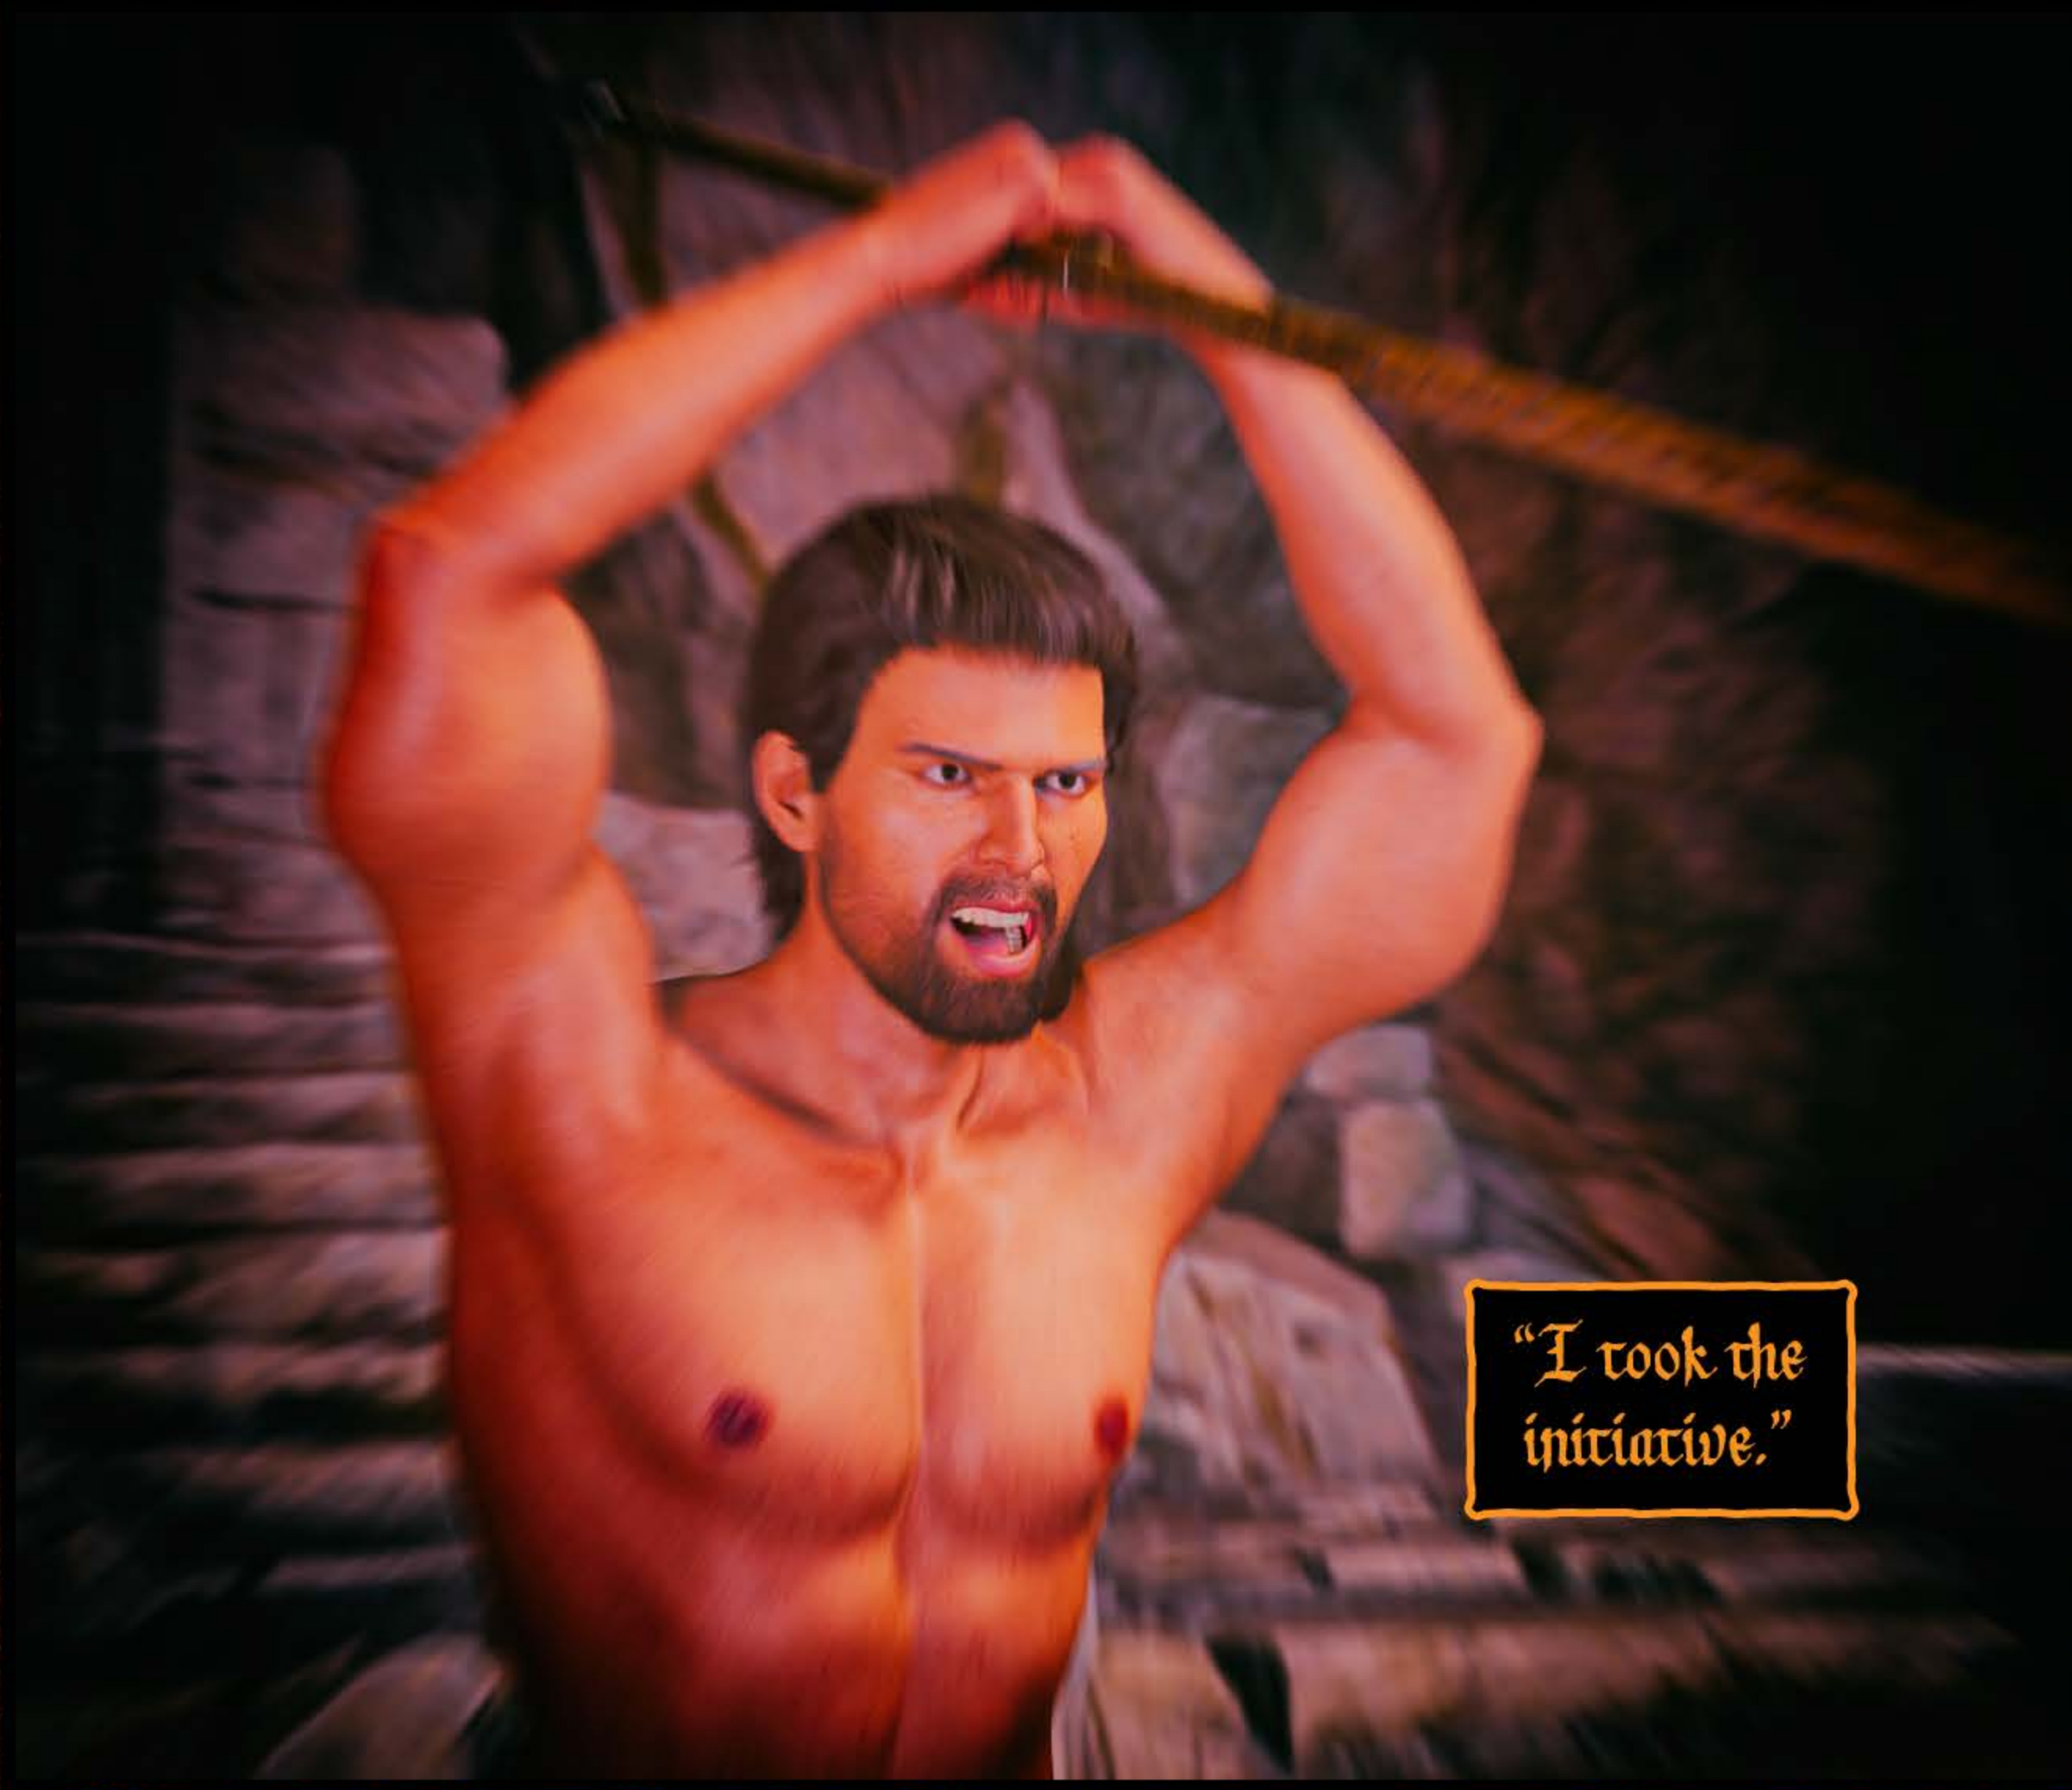

"Her smile was almost infectious. She moved so lightly, and with a bounce that told me this was just a game."

"She stood practiced, balanced, poised. The spear was just an extension of her arm. She could cut out my heart with a thought."

"I was already beaten."

"The smiling face of death."

"She would have killed me, too."

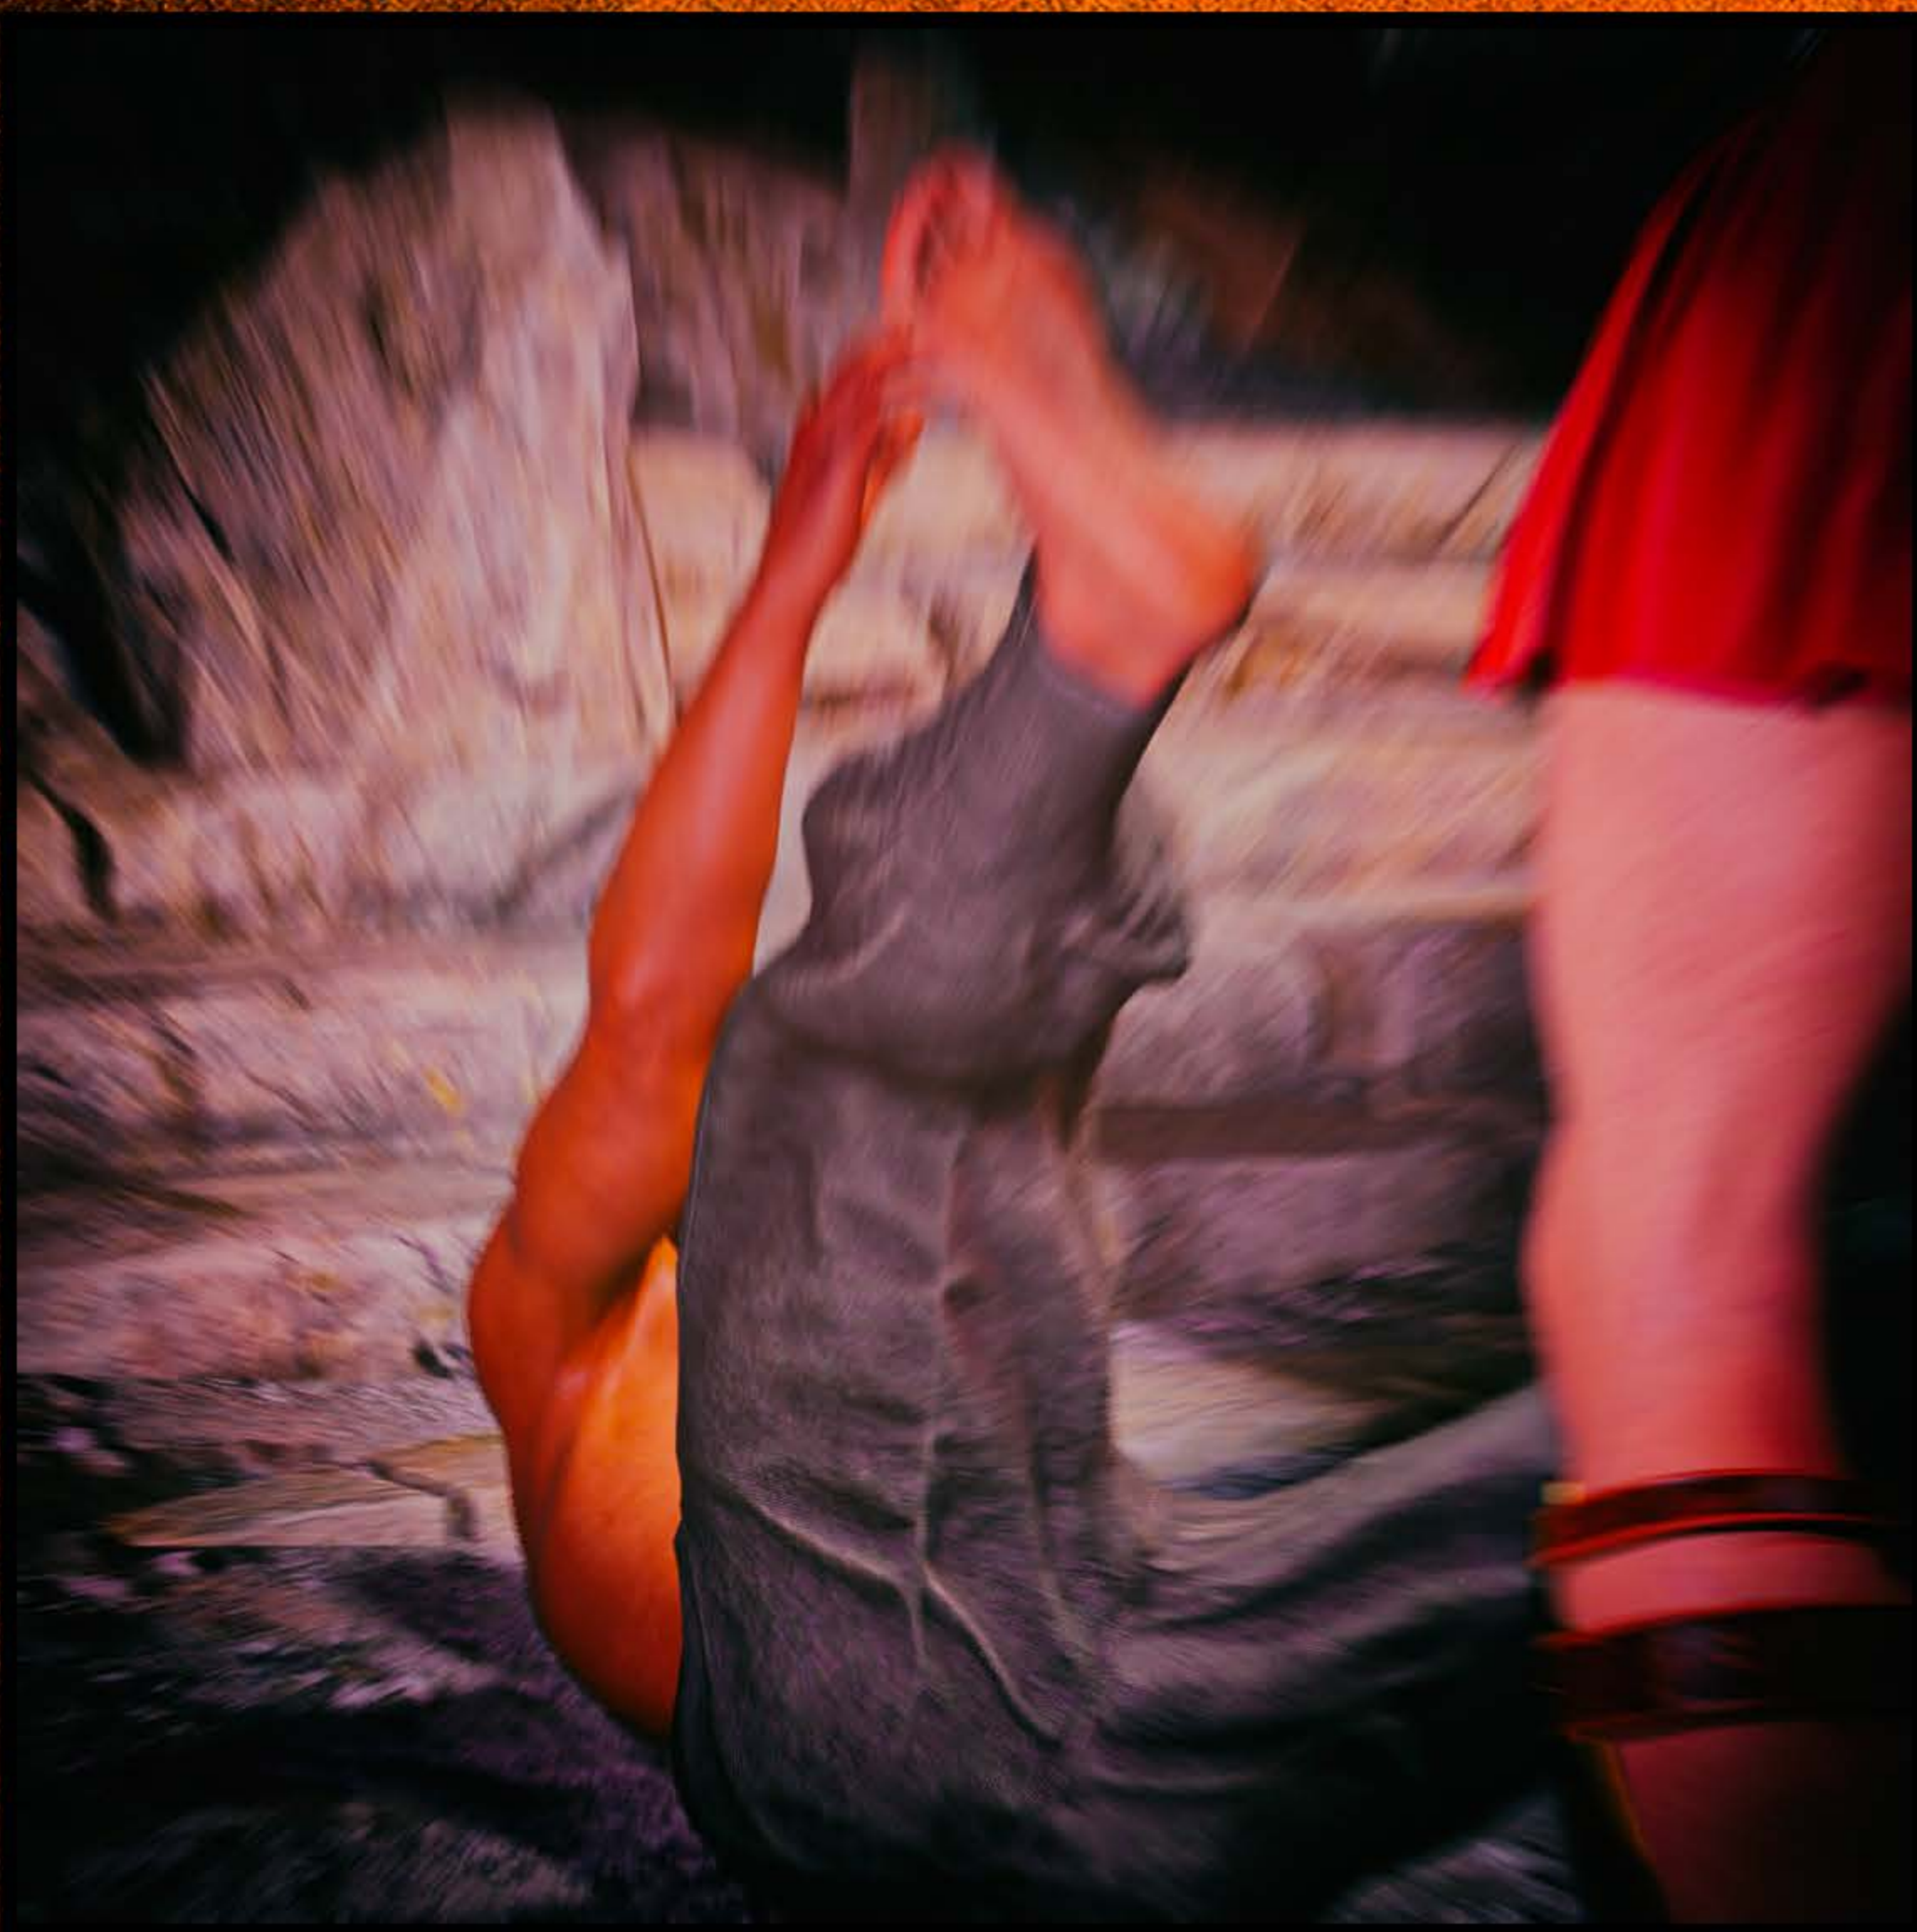

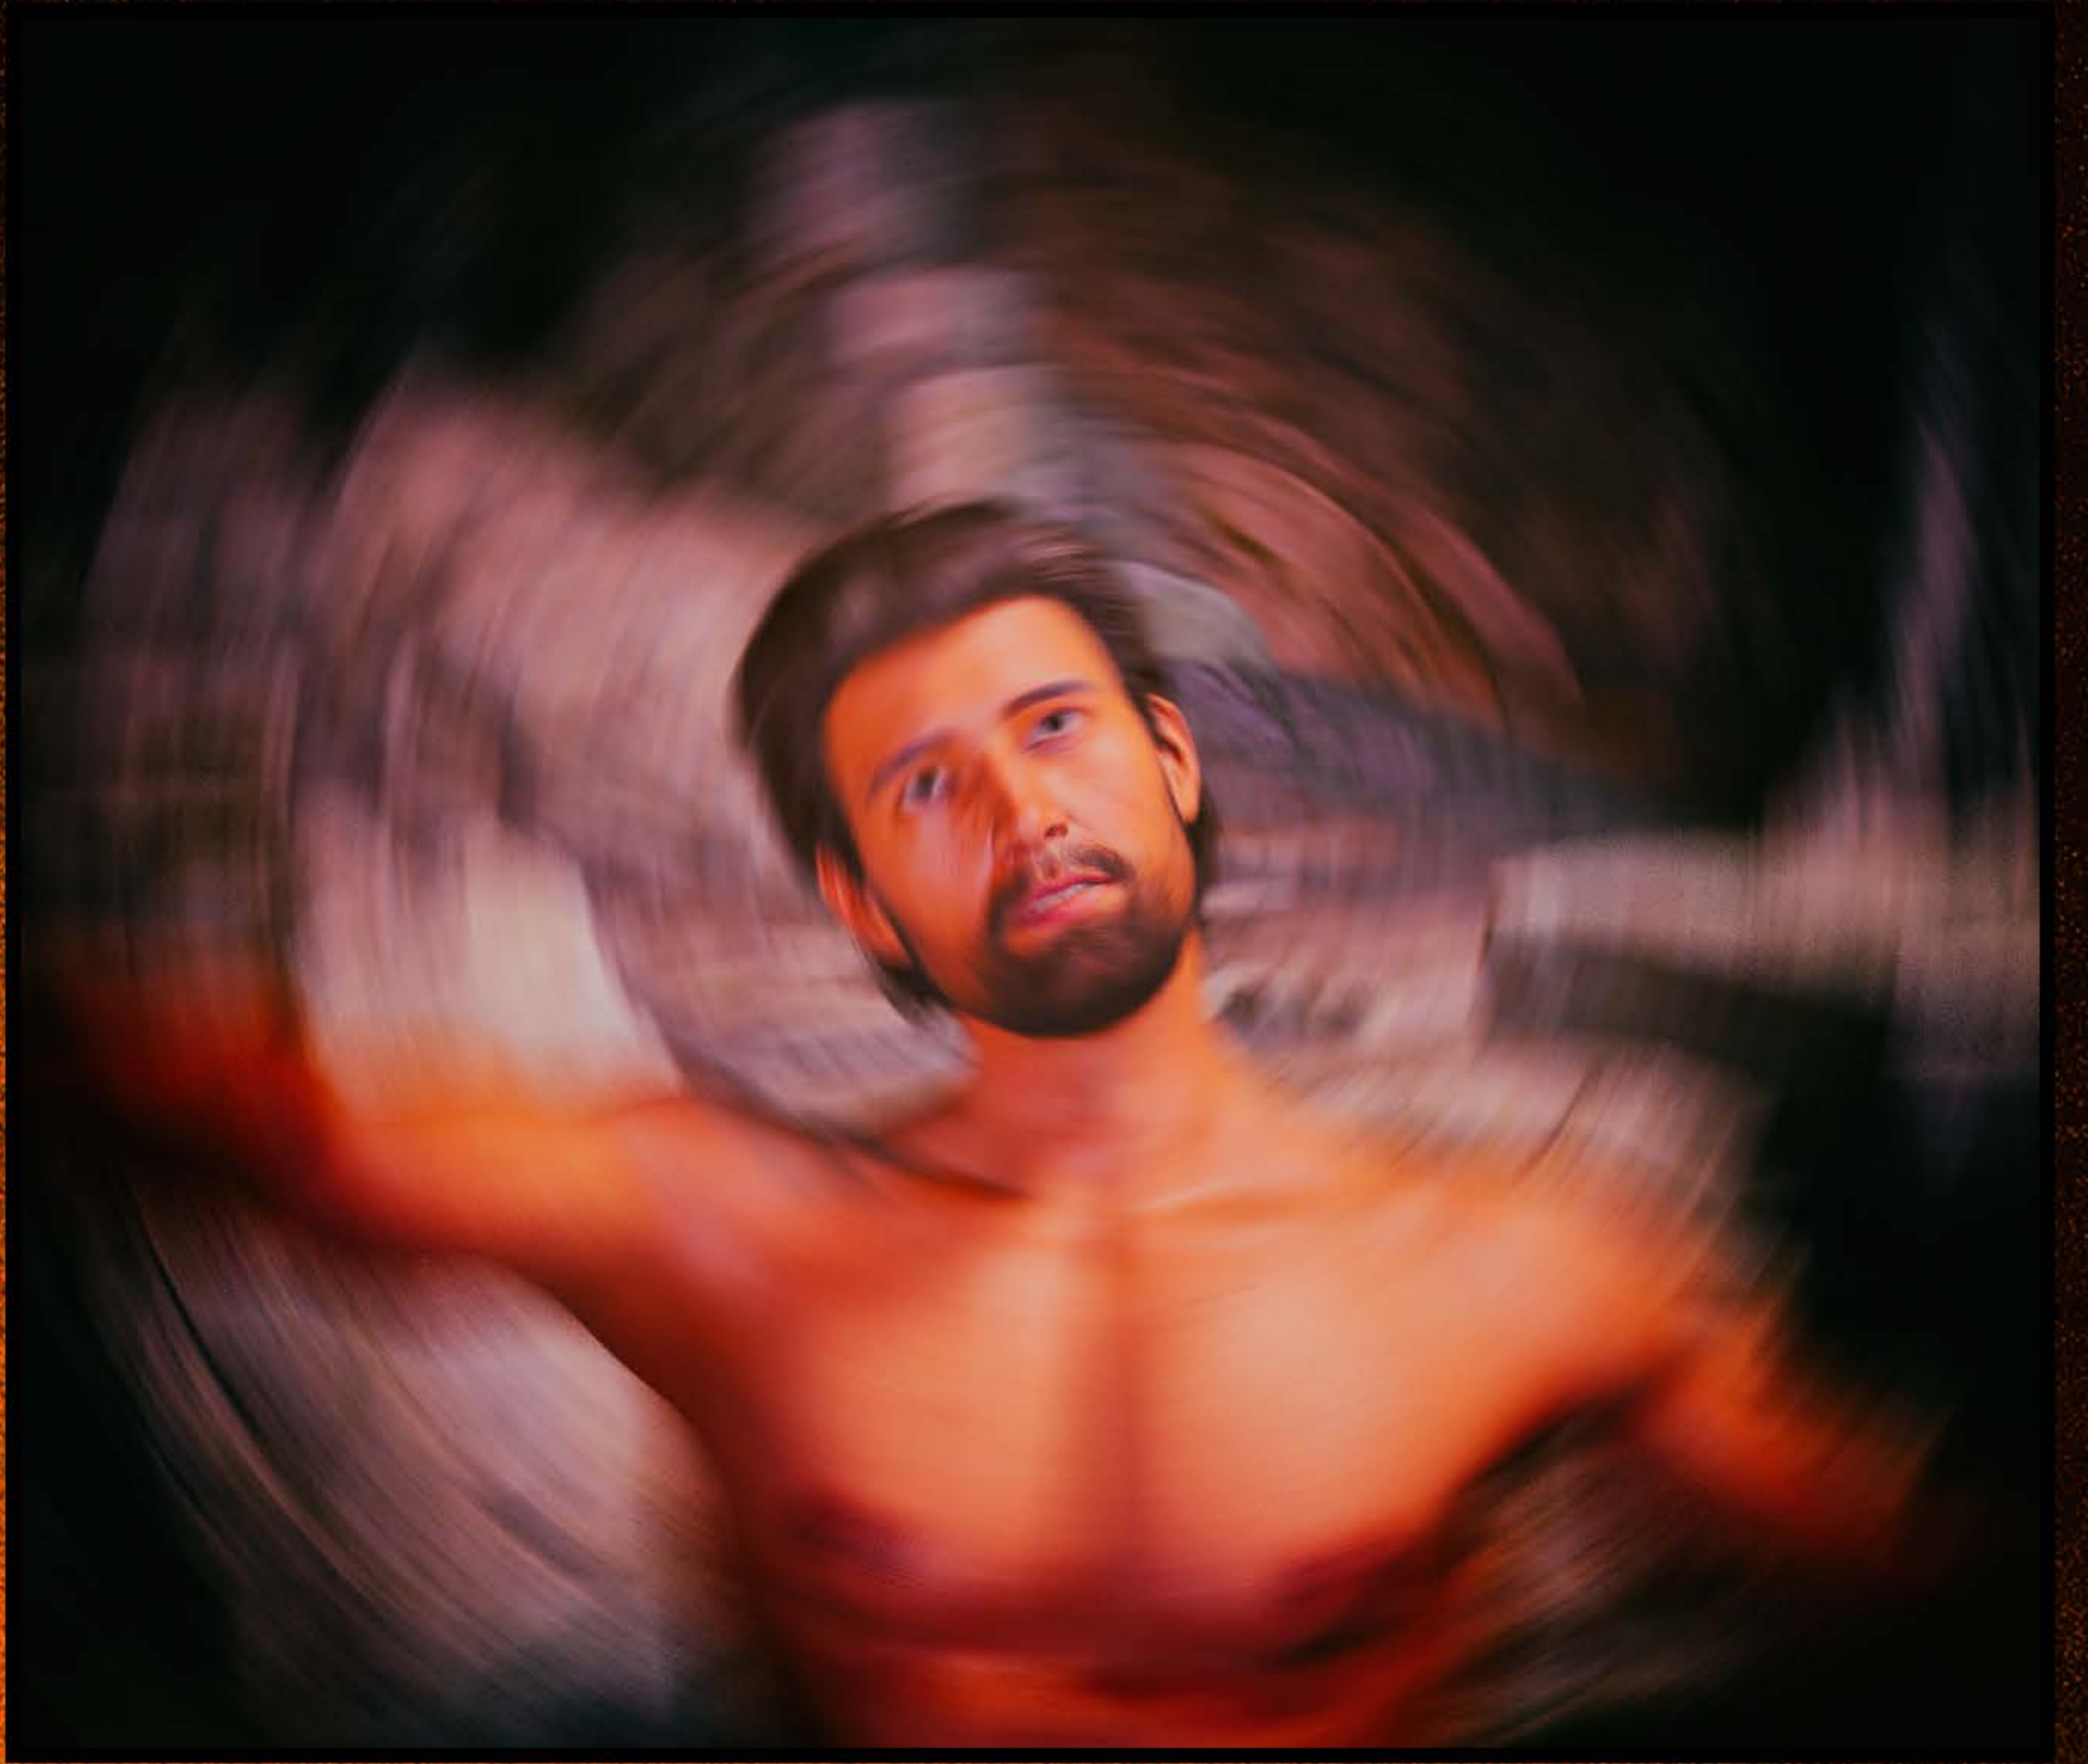

"If some unknown strength hadn't arisen from within me..."

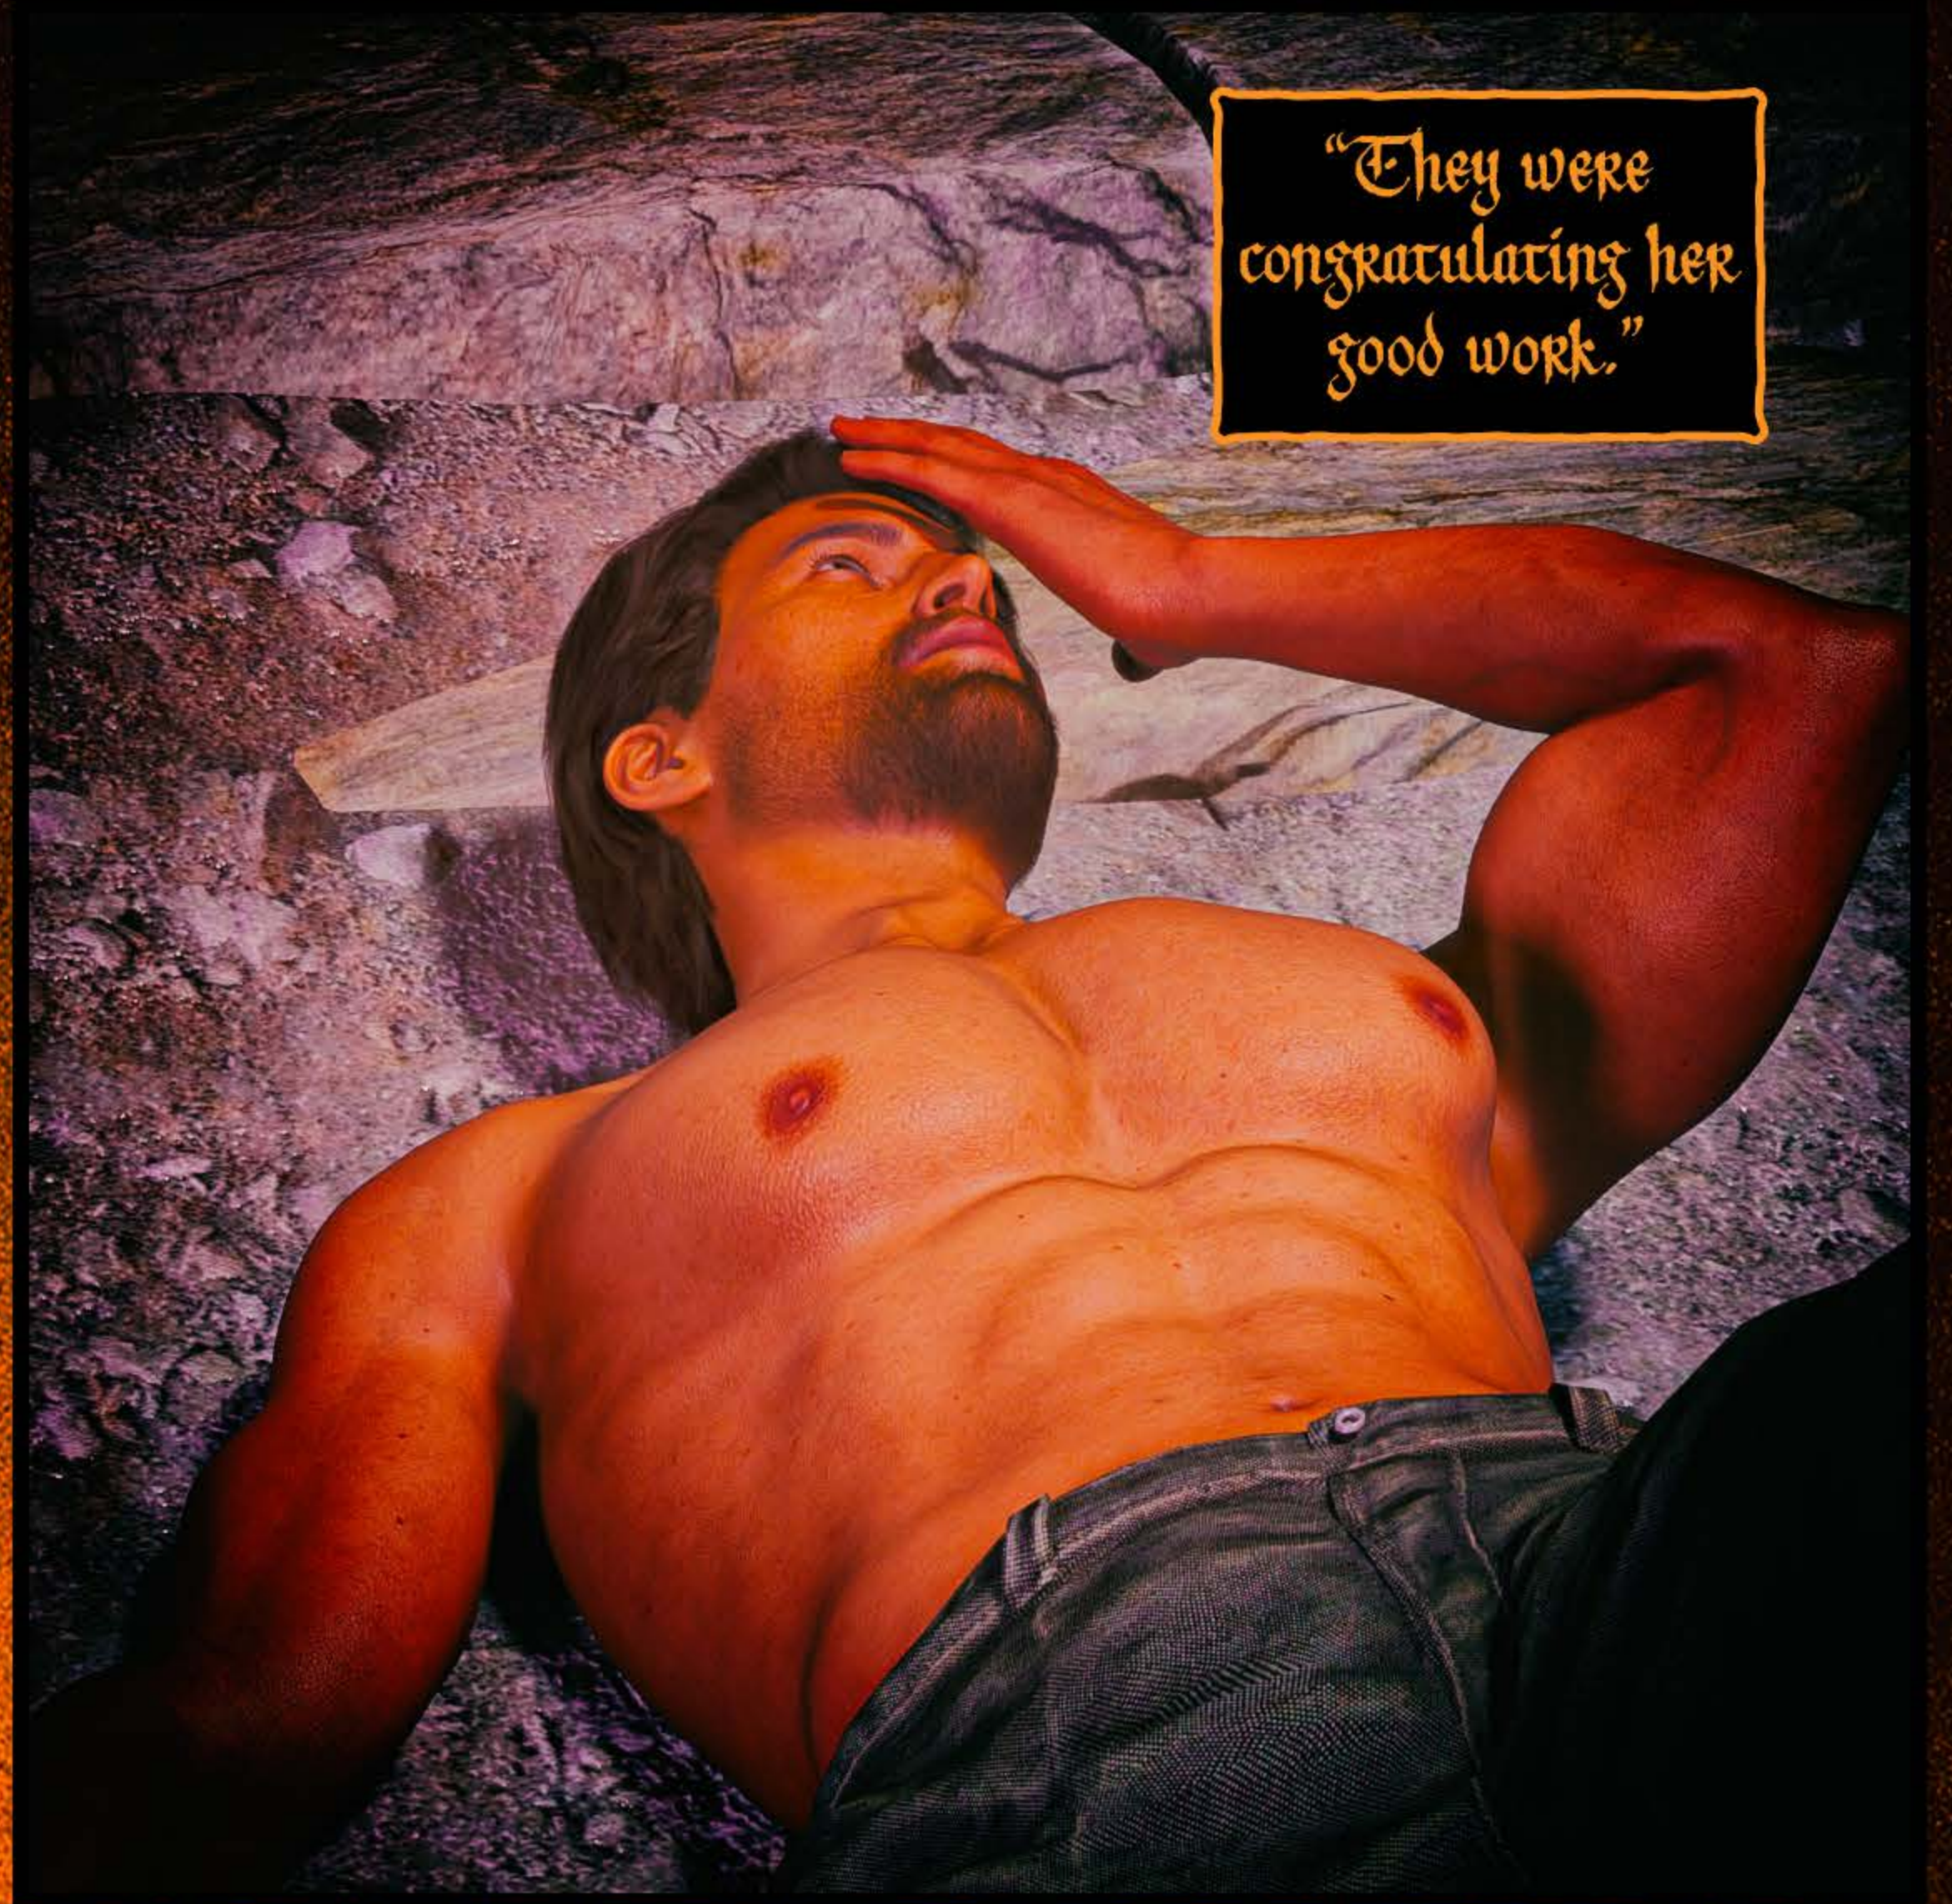

"Some fire I didn't know was there..."

"I woke up in a stone cell. I was still punch-drunk from the fight, but I was alive. I tried to fight the urge to sleep."

"In that lonely, terrified, gloom, I saw terrible things."

TOM REYNOLDS

"I saw a figure from beyond the stars, a dark god, wreathed in flame, and robed in shadow. His voice was sweet in the air, yet it awoke a fierceness in me. I had felt his words during the fight. The urge to kill, or be killed."

TOM REYNOLDS

"A sound in the corner startled me, rousing my attention and bringing me back to the real world."

"I froze. Cold fear gripped me. Yet I couldn't help but be warmed by her face. It was the woman who had defeated me so easily in battle."

ME. HELEN. YOU?

"What words I understood were alien. Gutturual. Like it was forbidden."

PELOS. ALEXANDER PELOS.

"I'd gone from dying, to fighting for my life, to getting my cocked sucked all in a few hours."

"Life had turned fantastic, although not in the definition I'd prefer."

"She expertly slid up and down my cock..."

"Bringing sensations I'd never dreamt of before."

"I couldn't hold back."

"They all looked so proud."

THE DAY I LEFT THE MAN'S WORLD, THE ORACLE AT DELPHI MADE ME A PROMISE.

THAT THERE WOULD COME ONE FROM THE SEA, WOULD RISE THRICE IN THE FACE OF CERTAIN DEATH...

BORN FROM THE CLAY, THEY WOULD BECOME OUR PRINCESS OF HA-MAZON, OUR DIANA.

THEY WILL LEAD OUR PEOPLE TO VICTORY OVER WAR AND DARKNESS ITSELF.

TOM REYNOLDS

"It took me a while to realize I could understand them."

RISE FOR US. OUR DIANA.

TOM REYNOLDS

"They took me back to the cell. I could hear a wild party going on beyond the walls, but I was again left to my thoughts."

"These monsters. They looked like women, but they acted like pirates, brigands, religious zealots."

"They made me into something I wasn't. I pledged to run at the first opportunity."

"To throw myself from the cliffs rather than be their mad messiah."

"Then she came again. My Helen."

*"I fought her mentally and physically.
But my heart wasn't in it.
I swooned for her. For my Helen."*

*"I could feel
myself fighting attraction,
fighting arousal, fighting lust. All for her."*

"The one who had beaten me with a stick and turned me into a monster and... Turned me on so much."
