

Tips And Tricks

I am a man who always gets what he wants. Always.

If I see a hottie, and I'm in the mood for the chase, I go for it. Doesn't matter if she's 'out of my league', doesn't matter if she's got a boyfriend or fiancé or husband, doesn't matter if she's surrounded by friends or is blatantly not the kind of woman who likes to 'hook up'. I go for it, and I get it. Without fail.

I always get what I want.

Always have, always will.

So, dear reader, I'm going to take a wild guess here and assume that you want to know how I have this amazing power to bed any woman I want.

Well, in order to tell you that, first you have to understand a little about the man writing this.

Don't worry, this won't take long. I'm not going to give you my whole damned life story. You don't care about all that shit, and I don't care to share it. But, if you want the same kind of power over pussy as I have, some things need to be said.

I am, some might say, charismatic.

A charming guy, a smooth-talking dude, silver-tongued and confident.

That is the most important piece of the puzzle, dear reader.

Without that visible confidence, everything else falls apart.

People are like mirrors, you see. They reflect what they see, emulate what's in front of them. It's not a conscious thing. They don't decide to do it. It's simply human nature. If everyone around you is smiling and laughing, it'll make you that much more likely to do the same. If you see someone who bleeds confidence, has complete trust in themselves, you're going to be inclined to trust them too.

Confidence and charisma lead to trust.

Trust leads to control.

Control leads to beautiful women bouncing on cock. My cock.

Yours too, if you read on.

So, charisma is step one. And charisma stems from confidence.

You'd be surprised how much a charming smile can put a random stranger at ease, make them lower their walls to you.

This, unfortunately, is either something you have, or it's not.

No amount of self-help bullshit will make you confident. No audio books or videos or repeated mantras will magically give you the gift of the gab. There are ways to earn it, to turn yourself into a confident, charismatic charmer. But you'll have to figure that shit out for yourself. I'm not some fucking guru or something, I'm not here to help you to become a better version of yourself. I'm here to tell you how I score any and every woman I want, and to share the secrets of how.

I'm not a fucking guru.

I'm a fucking god.

So, charisma. That's step one. If you have it, great. If not, too fucking bad.

On to step number two.

The analytical eye.

Every woman has a weak-spot. Some crack in their psyche that you can expose and utilise, provided you know where to look. Does this bitch have daddy issues? Does she have secret kinks that she's never explored before? Is she bored in a marriage? Is she happy with life, but feels like something is missing?

Find the weak-spot and you're in.

But that is easier said than done.

I hear your question. How the fuck am I supposed to know the answers to any of those questions when it comes to complete strangers?

That, dear reader, is what the analytical eye is for.

It'll take practice. A lot of it.

Be prepared to make shit-ton of mistakes before you have this trick down. A lot of humiliation and failure. Because there ain't no short-cuts when it comes to training your eye to spot these things.

Women – and people in general – wear their lives and experiences for all to see. From their clothes, to their hairstyle, to their facial expression, to their posture and body language. You can learn exactly who a person is from just a single glance, if you know how and what to look for.

If a chick walks around with a straight, stiff back, chances are she's a stubborn one. If she's always smiling, but those smiles rarely reach her eyes, she's not gonna be afraid to lie. If she wears wide-rimmed glasses... Well, you get the idea.

Again, this isn't a conscious decision on their part.

They might choose to wear outfits that they 'like' and think that's all there is to it, but the real magic lays is why they like to wear the clothes they wear. And, more importantly, what that says about them and who they are.

That's step two. Knowing how to read a person at a glance.

Find their weakness, their vulnerabilities, and have to confidence to know you're right.

Which leads us neatly to step three.

Manipulation.

This'll be the one, dear reader, you are most interested in. How to use a woman's vulnerability to get her to fuck you.

Every idiot knows how to manipulate a chick with daddy issues. You become an authoritative figure in her eyes, someone with a commanding presence. Firm and domineering, with just enough softness for her to grow attached to you. That shit is easy. It's also beginner-level manipulation.

Very few bitches in this world are driven by one defining characteristic. If you manage to find a woman who's only personality trait is that she has daddy issues, the above will work.

But what about a girl with daddy issues who's also intimidated of - and frightened by - domineering men?

For such a girl, attempting the daddy issues tactic will only damage your chances at getting with her.

In other words, if you want to be a manipulator, you can't just follow one method and hope it'll work every time. You have to have the brains and willingness to change things up, adapt to different scenarios. That's why step two is so important.

Now, I could write a book about all the different variables, how to adapt to them in order to successfully manipulate and seduce the woman of your choice. Fuck, I could probably write several. But that'd be a pain in the ass. So, instead, I'm going to share with you my great secret.

You see, no matter how great a manipulator you are, you're going to have misses every now and then. You're going to get some thing wrong and fail sometimes. That's just life.

But not me.

I don't fail. Ever.

More than once, I've spotted a recently married woman who loves her husband more than anything else in the world. A woman who'd rather die than break her love's heart. And with a single conversation, I've had those women bouncing on my cock and loving every sinful moment of it.

I've fucked women who, until that moment, believed they were only interested in other women. I've fucked girls who were saving themselves for marriage. I've fucked women who downright despised me beforehand. I've even fucked women who swore to whatever deities they believed in that they'd never have sex with me, not even for a billion dollars.

They, as with all the others, spread their legs for me for free.

So. How do I do it?

Steps one through three all play their part. Don't underestimate how useful those things are. But yes, I do have a secret. A weapon in my arsenal that gives me a distinct advantage when it comes to claiming women.

Allow me, if you will, to tell you a story.

Don't worry, it's not long.

But it will be enlightening.

A boring guy sits next to his best friend, an attractive girl that he's known all his life. The girl is playing video games, barely paying attention to what the guy is saying. She's not even into the game, more like she's zoned out and just going through the motions.

The guy talks about nothing interesting. But his voice is a constant in that room. There, in the background, along with the sounds of the game, his dull words flowed.

It all starts with a question.

"What'd you have for dinner today?"

The awkward boy, trying to make small-talk.

"Wings," the girl answers slowly, "fries, and..."

Something happens then. The boy sees something in his crush's eyes. As if she's snapping out of a daze.

"Hey," the girl says, voice more awake and alert than it'd been a moment before.

"Wanna put a movie on or something? This is boring."

Most people wouldn't have seen anything strange. Just a zoned out girl snapping to her senses.

But the boy? He was ambitious. He saw more.

See, this boy had been crushing on his best friend for years. He knew she wasn't interested in him, saw him as a brother. Deep down, he hoped that one day she'd fall as deeply in love with him as he was with her. And, deeper down still, he knew that'd never happen.

Most guys in this situation would do nothing. Just sit by and hope.

But this one? His ambition and desire prevented him from giving up. He'd spent months and years searching for ways to trick the girl into loving him. And those searches had, inevitably, led him to learning about hypnosis.

He'd studied the topic, just in case he'd one day have the opportunity to hypnotise his best friend. He learned everything there was to know about it.

So, when he saw his friend 'snap out' of her zoned out daze, this ambitious guy started putting pieces together.

Hypnosis was an induced, dissociative state. A deeper, more powerful version of the 'zoning out' phenomenon.

Was it possible, the guy found himself wondering, to get his friend into a hypnotic state without actually hypnotising her? A way of getting her to zone out so far, so deeply, that her mind would be as open and malleable as if she were actually tranced?

It is possible, by the way.

You can hypnotise someone without going through the usual induction methods. All it takes is a simple conversation; provided you know how their mind works beforehand. Which, again, is why having sharp, analytical eyes is so important. Knowing a person's weaknesses makes pulling them into a mindless, auto-responsive state much, much easier.

Set images of unconscious people from your mind. No limp bodies and uttered answers to straight-forward questions. Instead, picture a woman who's simply far more open with her thoughts than she would usually be. Someone who's more easily influenced by the words she's hearing.

I call it a 'semi-hypnotic state'.

Not true hypnosis, but close enough to it for my purposes.

It's not perfect, to say the least. Once, back before I'd refined the technique, a girl had actually gotten upset and slapped me while she was in the semi-hypnotic state.

But, it does grant me a special edge when it comes to bedding women.

There's a trick to it. A certain tone of voice that you've got to take. And you must maintain eye-contact at all costs. Plus, it's always wise to get rid of any eavesdroppers nearby.

This is the technique that I, a man who has everything, will teach to you, dear reader. My ultimate weapon.

And, not just that, but I'll educate you on a great many other things too. Everything from finding the perfect woman, to initiating the conversation, to how best to fuck her once you've manipulated her into spreading her legs.

For example; never leave her 'wanting more'.

Whoever came up with that shitty advice, 'always leave her wanting more', must've been a tiny-dicked idiot incapable of fully pleasuring a woman.

Always leave a woman fully satisfied. Especially if you intend of fucking her again in future.

The key to repeated encounters is to trick your lover into believing there's 'compatibility' and 'chemistry'. Easy to do, once you know the trick.

All these tips, and many more, could be yours.

The secret to having any woman you want, the ability to satisfy every woman you fuck, the power to claim everything you've ever wanted. All of it could be yours.

And all you need to do is...