

ASCENSION:

BULLIES

PART FOUR

There was a moment of silence as the two girls let the new developments sink in. It soon was evident that Kate was considerably happier at what had happened than Hannah, who was looking up, mesmerized.

“I got really, really big!” the blonde giant said, excited.

Kate crouched in no time, to take a closer look at her friend, who now looked so much smaller than her, even if she still towered over her surroundings.

"You're like super cute!" she said as she reached out with one hand and grabbed Hannah by the head, much as if she were a toy.

"Let me go!" the brunette protested.

Kate ignored her and just grabbed her under her armpits, raising her back and lifting her like a doll.

“And you are very light too!” she said with a very broad smile in her face. “You remind me of my two-year old niece!”

"I said LET ME GO!" Hannah protested to her smiling friend. "You have no right to do this!"

"Oh, come on! Don't be so gloomy! Let's play a bit!" Kate replied, lifting Hannah well over her head, as if she were playing with a kid.

"You bitch!" Hannah protested.

Kate did not take her words well. She set Hannah back in the street and straightened back up, placing her hands on her hips and looking at her between her generous breasts.

“You should be more careful with what you say, Hannah,” she said in a somewhat threatening tone.

Hannah was as pissed off as she was startled by the new situation. How in hell had Kate managed to get so big? It was unfair!

Her ego was telling her to fight back, but she had been big for long enough to know that it would be to no avail.

They had been friends for long enough so that Hannah knew that Kate would not respect her as long as she was weaker. She had to get the size advantage again.

In an impulse, Hannah crouched and dashed between her friend's legs. Kate needed too long to react, turning and saying:

"Hey, shorty! Where do you think you are going?"

Hannah did not stop or turn. Instead, she just ran down the street as fast as she could. She had an idea or two about how Kate had managed to get larger, and she wanted to make sure that she had the chance to test them before facing her again!

Hannah dashed down the street, looking for the same power cables Kate had broken through just before falling and starting to grow.

She found them soon enough, rushing to get to them before her friend could react.

“Where the hell do you think you are going?” Kate asked as Hannah ripped through the hanging wires.

Hannah stopped, waiting for the magic to happen. It did not. She did not even get a mild shock. Unknown to her, Kate's previous antics had brought the power supply in the block down.

Hannah's frustration only increased when she heard the booming voice of her friend in the back:

"What did you think you would get? Come on, be a nice dollie and come back here!"

Hannah reacted in the only way she could think of. A second later she was running down the street, avoiding abandoned cars and reaching the intersection, where she made a left.

She did not know what she was going to do, but the plan was to stay out of sight of Kate while she found a way to make herself bigger too.

“Come on Hannah, don’t be a little girl! You cannot hide from me now! I can see over the rooftops!”

“Fine, whatever. It’s not as if I cannot catch you easily now!” Kate said in a cheerful tone, feeling incredibly excited at her latest change and her new condition.

She had not been expecting what happened next, though. Having overexaggerated her first step after Hannah, Kate's right foot hit the asphalt and broke through it, her weight now way too much for the road to hold without suffering the consequences.

The tarmac creased and cracked, consequences of her new mass spreading like spiderwebs on its surface.

Kate completed her step, the asphalt under her left foot suffering the same consequences that the stretch of road under her right had.

Kate marveled as she looked back over her shoulder to see her new impact on the world. Far from being concerned at it, she enjoyed it enormously.

Her latest change was recent but felt incredibly exciting. Rationally, she knew that she had just grown a third time, but suddenly everything had changed. Her perspective of the world was much different, now looking down on roofs and walking by vehicles that looked barely bigger than slot cars.

As she took yet another step and felt her weight shaking the world around her feet, there was only one thought in Kate's mind:

"I wonder what kind of stuff I can do now!"

The captain looked concerned as the officers gathered in the briefing room.

“Let’s start.” he said nervously as the last men sat down. “Our city is in front of a grave emergency.” he then said, extending his unrest to the rest of the policemen in the room.

He switched the TV screen on just then, showing everyone the breaking news and the disconcerting images of two young, naked and very good-looking girls... who stood as tall as a building, as regular citizens fled from them.

“Oh God!” could be heard in the back.

“The two girls are yet unidentified, but we have been able to confirm that the images are genuine. We are potentially facing a Diana Lane situation”

Just the mention of the name increased the level of discomfort.

Everyone in the police department had had friends killed by the scientist turned megalomaniac giantess. Over two hundred feet tall, Dr. Lane had crushed, eaten, inserted and tortured many of their colleagues.

She had, of course, also caused plenty of death in destruction in the city and disposed of a full army regiment in the process.

“How can it be possible? We got rid of her!” Officer Knowles protested. His brother had been one of the many victims of the giant.

"We do not have any more information about this incident yet. We believe the two girls did not seek growing in the first place. They have been reported to have caused some damage and there are some unconfirmed reports that they might have killed two officers" the Captain said, making the mood darken.

"They look smaller than Dr. Lane" Sergeant Barton observed.

"They are. We believe they are somewhere between sixty and seventy feet tall. It is believed that they have got to that size in two separate spurts, so they might have the ability to grow larger. Which is the reason we will engage with them before that happens" the Captain said.

"What are our orders?" Barton asked.

"Bring them down" the Captain finished.

Block street was the pure image of chaos, with cars packed right behind two vehicles that had been engaged in an accident.

"I clearly signaled that I was going to change lanes!" Jason protested.

"You did not have the right to!" Mariah replied in anger.

"You women do not know how to drive!" Jason came back, incredibly upset even he was starting to suspect that he might not be right.

Behind them, other drivers were starting to get nervous and either yelled or blared their horns.

And suddenly, everything came to a halt as the cause for the soft thuds and shakes they had been feeling came into view around the corner, standing as tall as an apartment building and immediately catching the attention of everyone in the area.

Hannah had been so focused on getting away from Kate after the frustration of seeing herself smaller that she had almost forgotten about the people and the fact that she was still considerably larger than everyone but one single girl.

She was suddenly reminded as her escape route brought her right into a very packed intersection.

Looking back down at the world had a reinforcing effect in Hannah's ego and made her forget about Kate for an instant and think about her own situation.

Encouraged by the new scenario, Hannah took two steps to stand right in front of the cars that had blocked the way to the rest of people, resulting in the densest gathering of small people she had found so far.

“God, I had almost forgotten how small you guys are” she said as she faced them and thought on what to do.

Quite predictably, people turned and started fleeing in the opposite direction, their screams easily reaching Hannah's ears.

"What's the problem guys?" she asked in a sarcastic tone. "I guess it must be the size!" she added, giggling as she finished.

The people did not go far, though. The first ones in the group were about to reach the end of the block when a foot came in, cracking the asphalt and making the ground shake so violently that a couple of people lost their footing.

The screams intensified as the crowd stopped, suddenly not knowing what to do.

The second girl was even taller than the first, her face almost looking distorted in the distance as she peeked between her massive breasts.

Kate was considerably happier than those down at the road.

"Oh God! You guys got even tinier!" she said in a satisfied tone that worried those in the crowd even more.

"I wonder what I can do with you!" the girl added.

Hannah looked pissed off as her much larger friend showed up on the opposite end of the street, blocking the way of the fleeing crowd.

God, she was massive! None of the buildings in the area could rival with her, the ones closer to her barely able to make it up to her shapely thighs.

The crowd was suddenly paralyzed, unable to decide which way to go as the new and bigger girl completed her step and blocked their way in the way they had been running.

"I told you that you would not get far, shorty" Kate mocked from the opposite end of the street.

"Why can't you leave me alone?" Hannah protested.

"Well, I just don't feel like it!" Kate replied cheerfully.

"Well, you'll have to get through all this people to get me then!" Hannah snapped back.

"As if that was going to be a problem!"
Kate replied. "As a matter of fact, kind of feel like testing this new size a bit!"

It was obvious from her words and attitude that Kate was not going to have any inhibitions. The crowd feared the worst, but they could do nothing to stop her as she raised her left foot.

People looked quite smaller from her new vantage point of view than they had before. Or, what was the same, her foot looked comparably much larger. Large enough to crush a person or a few under its vast sole.

The man that had lost his footing as she had shown up was the obvious first victim, so Kate did not hesitate and moved her foot forward in his direction. Everyone knew what she was going to do and yet it felt impossible that it would happen.

Just in case anyone had had any doubts, Kate completed her step nonchalantly, her foot breaking through asphalt as it did every time she set her foot on it since her last growth spurt.

Of course, the man never stood a chance, a quick spongy feeling under her sole being the only indication that he had ever been there.

In the distance, Hannah looked in dismay at the murderous walk of her friend, feeling a mix of unease and jealousy as she did.

“That was FUN!” Kate boomed. “Let’s do this again!”

Her right foot rose menacingly as she chose the spot where it was going to land. The street was packed enough that she did not have too much trouble finding some people at a suitable enough distance.

Screams intensified as people quickly realized that the giant girl’s intentions were purely evil.

Her right foot landed with grim finality on top of a fleeing woman as her left lifted, ready to make yet another step as Kate proceeded to wade into the densely packed street.

Even those that had miraculously survived were hit by the giant girl's nonchalance, as the shockwaves of her steps sent them around, only to see her bloodied sole as it raised looking for more victims.

It was hell at street level, but from twelve stories above the ground the situation was quite more enjoyable. Kate had a Google Earth view of the street and the dozens of people filling the aisles between stalled vehicles and marveled once more at her new size.

The world looked so small! She had been big before, but this last growth spurt had really made a difference. People had shrunk down from looking like dolls to being little more than action figures. It brought the possibilities to a whole new level.

True to her inner self, Kate only focused on a subset: the ones that allowed her to bully the world in a scale it had never faced before.

“See? Not a problem” Kate addressed Hannah, who remained idle in the opposite side of the street.

The brunette giantess was as confused as she had ever been. Her initial reaction at seeing Kate had been a mix of fear and aggravation but seeing what she was now capable of had made her amazement and jealousy quickly increase.

“You’re stepping on them!” she finally addressed her blonde comrade.

“Of course! It’s a lot of fun! You should try it” Kate said as she raised her left foot and looked for another victim.

She was vaguely conscious about the fact that these were real people she was killing, but she could not have cared less. In her psyche, those she was stepping on were only weaker beings, ready to be abused at her convenience.

Her foot landed right on top of the man she had chosen once more, her somewhat forceful step creasing the asphalt as it pushed nearby cars away.

The crowd did not know how to react. For most, the fact that an impossibly gigantic girl had suddenly appeared and was stepping on them was still too hard to accept. And yet, she was killing them at an accelerated pace.

“You guys are so lovely!” Kate addressed them, her voice booming from above like that of an avenging goddess. “Fleeing away from me, as if you were going to outrun me! You are almost begging to be stepped on!” she added, taking yet another murderous step.

She was not bothered but actually amused at the screams that reached her ears. The feeling of power was exhilarating. All along high school and college, Kate had used her physical superiority to abuse those she considered inferior, which had included the majority of her coeds. There was nothing she had enjoyed more.

Now, thanks to her new size, the possibilities had expanded several orders of magnitude.

The crowds were fleeing like ants before her, and as slow as ants too. Blinded by panic, they could barely navigate the maze of stranded cars while Kate could simply plow in the midsts of them without any care at all. But one of them tried to actually be smart.

“Hello!” her voice thundered as she spied a man through between her massive breasts.

He had climbed into a taxi that had been abandoned with its doors open and was trying to start the engine. It was a stupid reaction, of course, since even if he managed to start the car, there was nowhere he would be able to go with it. Actually, all he managed to do with the move was to capture her attention. He was going to learn that this was not a good thing.

Her right foot landed square in the taxi, its length almost matching that of the vehicle.

"Wow!" she let out as she felt the taxi's frame crumbling as if the car had been made of tin foil.

"I love being giant!"

Kate was already halfway through the opposite end of the street and Hannah, who had apparently decided to wait for her there.

"I think you guys need some space to move. Here, let me help!" Kate mocked as she got ready for her next move.

This time her foot did not crush but instead it kicked. Two cars and a couple of people were instantly sent flying at the unstoppable power of her casual gesture. All Kate could do was giggle.

The cars Kate had kicked landed halfway to Hannah, who had already decided that it was pointless to leave and just stayed in place, observing her larger friend with a mix of jealousy and fascination.

For the first time since she had grown, Hannah had a crowd actually running to her rather than from her. Its first elements had actually already reached her and were now stopped, undecided on what to do.

"You are making quite a mess," she addressed her blonde friend in a plain tone.

"Really?" Kate asked cheerfully. "Wait for this!" she then added.

There was no warning before she jumped forward, sending hundreds of tons of sexy giant soaring into the air. Her face was the pure image of joy, the exhilaration she felt at her new situation unparalleled with anything she had lived in the past, even when comparing it with her first attempt at sex.

The crowd knew what was coming, but there was nothing they could do to prevent it.

Kate landed with a loud boom, the street and buildings around her shaking with force as her immense weight settled in the relatively small area of her soles.

Plenty were crushed under them. Many more were severely injured as the shockwave sent people and cars flying around the spot where her feet had set.

The world around Kate looked like a war zone, with the exception of her smaller but still giant friend.

"This was amazing! You should try it sometime" Kate said. "Oh, wait. You can't! You're not big enough for that!"

"Being bigger does not give you the right to treat me like this!" Hannah complained.

"Oh, come on, being bigger gives me every right. Why don't you ask them?" Kate replied, referring to the tiny people by her feet.

“Actually, you know why? Let’s ask them”
Kate said. “Here, let me pick some volunteers”.

The blonde giantess crouched in the catcher’s position and observed the few members of the crowd still standing after her rampage.

She smiled in anticipation as she mentally selected the ones that were closer.

Unknown to Kate, the consequences of her jump were still not over, a number of people still suffering the mayhem she had so casually caused.

Right under her impressive ass, Martha screamed as the upside down taxi crushed her legs, Kate's recent crouch having creased the asphalt enough to make her metal prison even tighter.

Kate looked at the four people she was holding in her palms with pride, amazed at the fact that there was even room to spare.

“Look at you!” she said, ecstatic. “You really ARE puny” she then mocked.

Looking at them from above, stepping on them as she walked, Kate had felt incredibly powerful. Holding them in her hands brought the power rush to a whole new level, though. For now it was obvious that she could do just anything she pleased to them.

“How do I look to you? Pretty impressive, I guess” she asked. “Can you help me with something? My friend Hannah is wondering whether being big means that I can do anything. So, I wanted to make a test. How much would you like it if I crushed you?”

Screams erupted immediately, but Kate ignored them as she closed her right hand and started to slowly tighten her fist, feeling the two little people inside it compress.

She was vaguely conscious that she was at her peak of cruelty, but she did not care. Much like in her bullying in college, all Kate could see was that she had the ability to hurt someone without that someone being able to pay back.

“See Hannah?” Kate asked as the screams reached their highest anguished tone. “I can do whatever I want. And well, you can do plenty of stuff too. Just not the same, shorty.”

“No need to dirty my hands yet, though” Kate said girlishly as she opened her fingers. The two people in her hand breathed in relief, but it lasted only as second. An instant later, Kate tossed them carelessly over her shoulder, sending them flying for over a block.

It was not the only thing that happened, though. Driven by the sudden move, the people on her other hand were tossed from their original position in her palm. The woman managed to get a hold of Kate’s finger, which was about as long as she was tall, and held in place. The man was not so fast and found himself dropping. For an instant, he thought he was going to die, but then, salvation appeared in front of him in the appealing form of a massive breast.

A close-up, low-angle shot of a woman with long, straight blonde hair. She is looking down with a slight smile at a tiny man who is clinging to her breast. The man is wearing a dark suit and a red hat. The background shows a clear blue sky and the corner of a building with a window.

Kate giggled as she noticed the tiny man she had been carrying holding for dear life in her nipple.

“I always knew my boobs were amazing, but I have to tell you: no one had held to them with such a passion before”

The fact that her breast had turned into a salvation table was exhilarating. Seeing that the man’s head was barely bigger than her nipple was amazing too.

“I’ll tell you what! You can stay in there for as long as you want! Believe me, not too many boys have been this lucky before!”

Kate's attention then focused on the woman, who was still wrapped around her finger to prevent falling to the street below. Seeing her pointer was about the length of a full-grown human being was empowering, yet another proof of how fantastic her new size was.

"You look so cute in there" Kate said in a mischievous tone. "And, you know what? I always loved finger food!"

The woman screamed as she understood the implications of the giant's words, but Kate just ignored it and brought her finger to her mouth, ready to lick it.

Back at street level, and miraculously alive among the chaos, Jason dived into his car, which was surprisingly in one piece, and decided to use the fact that the giant's attention seemed to be focused on her hands to make an attempt at fleeing.

He was no longer worried about her smaller colleague, who had been the main reason he had not left before.

He realized about his mistake as soon as he turned the contact and the engine roared.

"Hey, just where do you think you are going, tiny?" Kate boomed from above as she heard the car engine first and saw the toy-sized vehicle moving later.

She had already reached the intersection where Hannah had been waiting, so it was easy enough for her to take a step in the direction of the offending vehicle and crush it under her left foot like tin foil.

"God! These tinies need to be continuously taught about who's the boss here!" she said cheerfully.

Hannah looked up at her lager friend, who looked obviously content and quite proud at what she had done.

Above her, Kate was thinking on what to do next. The wriggling in her mouth gave her the answer. She played with her captive with her tongue and finally guided her kicking body to her lips, partially pushing her out.

“Catch!” Kate giggled as she spat the puny woman down at her friend.

Everyone was caught by surprise, starting by Hannah and including the man grabbing her nipple to prevent a fall like the one of the screaming woman that had shared a giant had with him.

The tiny woman's body descended too fast for Hannah to react, but she had a second chance when the woman bounced off her breast, her fall slowing down.

Up above, Kate was having the time of her life, enjoying the stimulation of her nipple-rider as she mocked her partner in crime at her lesser abilities.

“Oh, come on Hannah, don’t look so gloomy. I was just trying to throw you a bone. I know you probably don’t like not being on top, but we’re still friends” Kate said.

“I want you to enjoy this. Just as much as this little guy. Don’t you think he’s lovely? By now, I think he has already beaten the record when it comes to playing with my tits” she went on as Hannah looked at the scene, obviously less happy.

“I think this deserved a group hug” Kate then said, reaching out for Hannah, who could do nothing to prevent her friend picking her up like a doll once more.

Kate ignored the apparent coldness of the smaller giant and mashed her against her chest, making sure that Hannah’s breasts would trap the tiny nipple-man against her much larger ones.

For Hannah it was a weird feeling. She had secretly fancied Kate for some time now, so the eroticism of the scenario was undeniable. Her friend’s attitude was pissing her off enormously, though.

Her thoughts, as the tiny man was slowly crushed between them were focused on how to get as big as Kate. This would balance their relationship, opening up new possibilities. And well, she also wanted to do some of the stuff her blonde friend had shown her was possible.
