They are wearing a black, glossy latex mask that covers their face, with cutouts for their eyes and a circular opening over their mouth. The mask has a futuristic or industrial design. They are also wearing a black harness or restraint system made of leather or latex straps, which is secured with metal buckles and clips. One of the clips is attached to their chest. The person's skin is a light brown color. In the background, there are metal structures and a red circular sticker with the text "True Lock" and a logo.
