

No. I need to talk to you right now.

Y-Yeah, it is.

I... I'm sorry, William.

Can't we talk about it later, honey? I'm so exhausted.

Hmm. Sounds like it's serious.

I made a terrible mistake, and I hope you can forgive me for it.

Sorry about what? What's wrong, Adrianna?

A terrible mistake? You?! Hehe... I'm sure, knowing you, it is something playful and amusing.

Serious argument, Dad.

Okay, darling. Tell me what happened.

Yeah?

No... It's different this time. I'm being serious.

Lucas and I...

L... Lucas and I had se-

Um, hey,
Dad!

Usually. But
this time it's
about you,
Dad.

Well, I got a
research
assignment
from my professor. And it involves traveling to Toraky City.

Lucas, what's this
about a serious
argument
between you and
your mother?
That's hard to believe... You two are always
pleasant and in
agreement.

About me?
How so?

What's he talking about??

Yes, but I will have to be going there several times from morning until evening until I'm done with the assignment.

So, I asked Mom to accompany me on those days to relax and have a fun day out because the city has so many interesting and entertaining places to visit.

Toraky? That's only 30 minutes away by train.

That sounds like an excellent idea. What was the issue, then?

Jesus... What is he....?

Me what???

Mom did agree at first but then she changed her mind.

HAHA.

Saying she felt guilty because we would be out there most of the day and nobody would be here to make dinner for you.

*Oh, sweetheart!
You are my angel!
How lucky I am to
have a fantastic
wife like you.*

*You don't have to worry about me, honey. I can get something for myself on those days. Go with Lucas and enjoy yourself. It will be a nice change from boring
household duties.*

Umm...

I'm going upstairs to get changed. Can you get dinner ready as soon as you can, dear? I'm starving!

But...

Of..Course...

Step one is done. Pfff.

Lucas??! Why for God's sake did you do that?!!

I can't hide the truth from your father anymore. He must know!!

Why not???

Take it easy, Mom, please.

He will, but not now.

You?!?! But...
W-Why not
me?

And if you say it, he
will be mad, more
aggressive and still may divorce me. I don't see any difference but
worse.

Because I'm
going to tell
him myself.

If you say it, Dad
will get upset,
and you two may
get divorced.

Perhaps he will not because I
have an idea
that I think
might work.