Not only was his cock much bigger and thicker - it was also a hell of a lot more sensitive, and a lot more 'functional'. Though he was still relying on Ma Thumb and her four daughters - more often than ever before - he was amazed at the length and intensity of his orgasm, not to mention how quickly he could achieve another erection afterwards...

...speaking of which...

"Well, if you do need anything..." Dan said, quickly, "You know where to reach me."

"Uh huh..." Jessica murmured, vaguely, eyes almost helplessly fixated on his bulging crotch as unwanted sexual thoughts, triggered by his enhanced pheromones, swirled around her mind.

Quickly, Dan turned and left the cubical - heading for the bathroom he'd visited just before coming up to see Jessica.

As much as he was enjoying the effects of the pills, he had to admit that there were certain drawbacks, at least in terms of workplace demeanour.

For one thing, with his increased sex drive he could get more aroused, faster, then ever before in his life. Not only that, but that arousal could - and did - lead to more, and more rapid, erections then he'd ever experienced before...

...which explained why he was spending so much of his time in bathrooms, jerking off to keep from walking around with a constant erection.

An erection fuelled by the sexual fantasies now running non-stop through his brain.

It was getting steadily more difficult for Dan to think about anything but sex. Anything the least bit sexual would get his mind running on sexual tangents. The way a certain woman's calves curved as she walked by in a simple skirt and low heels. The way another woman's bosom might heave as she coughed. A certain shade of lipstick, a specific tone of voice - any of these might rev up his fantasies - and his hormones.

It was pleasantly frustrating, and frustratingly pleasant. Not only was the sensations he felt during masturbation stronger and more enjoyable, but so was the mental and emotional sensations as he walked around in a sexual half-daze - and that seductive enjoyment was beginning to worry him, because he was finding it harder and harder to concentrate on his work, finding himself more and more tempted to simply slide into a sexual fantasy in the most inopportune time or place.

Well, it wouldn't be long before he ran out of pills, at which point he'd be able to spend his evenings satisfying these steadily more powerful - and more vivid - fantasies he was having...

* * * * *

"Well, that - coupled with your lack of work and... odd behaviour of the past month... well.." Mr. Williams looked at the drawn figure of the person who'd once been a most dedicated worker, and shook his head. "I'm going to have to let you go."

"I understand." Dan said, numbly - though, in truth, he did so in only the most vague way. He was too busy thinking about sex.

That's the reason he was getting fired, and in the back of his mind, he knew and recognized that fact - but it was hard for any of this to make an impact.

None of it seemed real. Not any more.

Since the withdrawal symptoms had kicked in when he'd run out of the drug, nothing had seemed real anymore. Except for his craving for sex...

...a craving he couldn't satisfy.

Even as Mr. Williams watched, a disgusted look on his face, Dan's thin hand was working at his own crotch as he numbly rose from behind the desk and heading for the door, his body more or less on autopilot as he moved in a vague, lust-filled daze.

Though his eyes recorded what they saw, and his brain guided him around obstacles, he wasn't truly seeing any of this, any more than he'd heard Mr. Williams on anything but a peripheral level.

He was too busy watching the never-ending pornographic movie playing in the theatre of his mind.

It had been this way ever since he'd stopped taking the drug. Even as he headed out of the building and began walking towards his apartment, a good distance hence, he was only barely aware of his own body - except for his cock.

His shrunken, limp, pathetic cock.

He hadn't been able to get an erection, much less reach orgasm, since he'd run out of the drug.

The sexual desire the drug had given him was as strong as ever - stronger, in fact - but as each day went by where he was unable to satisfy these cravings of his, they need only worsened, to the point where nothing else mattered. For the past week he'd been walking around in a daze, unable to truly connect with the world as he suffered his own personal hell. Nothing mattered, nothing could reach him,. Not in the deep chasm of withdrawal as he struggled to cope with a terrible, powerful need he couldn't meet, his entire body crying out for something he couldn't give it.

A body that was changing.

He had always been slender - but now he was almost painfully thin as well, eating only when hunger grew powerful enough to break threw the layers of insatiable lust that filled his mind. Oddly enough, the pattern of his weight loss seemed odd, certain parts of his body stubbornly refusing to lose mass even as the rest of him began withering away - but he couldn't spare the attention to worry about that, any more than he could about losing his job, or being to 'zoned' to drive anymore.

His whole attention was focused on sex, sex, and more sex - endless sexual images and desires that ran through his mind.

He walked numbly - and lightly. Over the past two weeks, something else had been happening to him - his body had been becoming more and more sensitive. Now, he couldn't 'stomp' when he walked - now he walked carefully, practically on tip-toe, only barely aware of how he was walking with short, gently, tip-toeing steps - though he noticed when he failed to do this, bolts of pain shooting up his thinning legs if his heels met the ground too hard.

Dimly, behind the layers of lust that enshrouded him, Dan was worried about what was happening to him - but with lust and desire and sexual imagery thrumming through his mind, stringing together coherent thoughts was steadily more difficult, and even as he felt the alarm rising at each new realization of the things happening to his body and his life, they were swept away by the tidal wave of sexual need, lost in the shuffle and forgotten almost the instant they happened, only to reoccur again, briefly, every so often - and be swept away just as quickly.

Dazed, confused, barely in touch with the world around him, Dan sissy-stepped his way home in a numb fog.

A fog punctuated occasionally by ribbons and thrills of discomfort as the clothes would bind or scrape across his highly-sensitive skin. In the past week, his body hair had begun to fall out, and he was dimly aware that it should be worrisome - but with such highly sensitive skin, the body hair that remained would itch constantly, and as more and more of it fell out, so did the very thing that was drawing his attention to it, so that the problem, while in actually getting worse, was fading from his mind as the symptoms faded.

Besides, like every other problem or thought that flitted across his mind, it was only momentary, long enough to be noticed, but not held nearly long enough for his mind to even attempt to formulate a course of action.

Thinking was no longer his strong suit - he was too busy wanting...

...needing. Reaching his apartment, Dan let himself, only habit making him clothes the door behind - just as habit had kept him from stripping off his clothes in public, as he did now, letting the garments fall wherever they landed in the mess his apartment had become since his new sexual obsession had overwhelmed the bulk of his housekeeping skills.

.just as they'd overridden some of his grooming skills.

Though he still showered regularly - more regularly than normal, as a matter of fact, since the water felt so good against the highly-sensitive skin he now was cursed with - he'd stopped doing anything as mundane as going to the barber or trimming his nails, such secondary thoughts lost in the lust-filled tumult of his besieged mind.

Now, naked, he slumped onto the couch and once more began desperately trying to reach climax, long-nailed fingers struggling to grasp the tiny little nub that passed for his cock these days.

Barely two inches long, his shrunken, limp cock no longer boasted a scrotum, his shrunken balls having pulled themselves back up into his body the week previously, leaving a loose-hanging bag of skin that had slowly been tightening back up as his skin became softer and finer-pored over time. Now, surrounded by pubic hair, his cock was almost lost as he frantically worked it, trying in vain for any sign of life as his body cried out for sex.

.or, rather, the hormonal surge that came from arousal, because it was that - even more than the pleasure of orgasm - that he truly craved.

His body, in its withdrawal, had gone into hormonal shock, and was now pumping out the same massively-increased volume of hormones that had come from taking the drugs.

.but the wrong hormones.

His glands were now producing massive amounts of extremely powerful female hormones.

Dan was well aware of this - as well aware as he was of anything else, that was. It popped up in his mind, about a hundred or so times a day, each instance causing a moment of pure, disgusted horror.

.before being washed away by the unending tide of need that tugged and warped his mind.

In a very real sense, the shear force of what he was going through was slowly eroding the moorings of his mind, driving him slowly but steadily insane with his desperate need for male hormones.

.and, at the same time, denying him even the few minutes of clear thought that would have been all he really needed to realize at least the first step towards curing this problem.

Instead, he was at the mercy of his changing boy, unable to concentrate on anything by trying, vainly, to fulfill the need that he didn't even have time to realize that he didn't want to have.

* * * * *

By it's very definition, being self-aware include (or was comprised by) the fact that you could notice that you were self-aware. Which was the situation Dan found himself.

It wasn't an all-at-once sort of thing. It was gradual, his rusty, vague mind slowly picking up on the fact that he was picking up on the fact that he was noticing his own actions and his surroundings - and then, a little bit later, realizing that this meant that he was once again 'thinking', even if not anything near the level he once had.

Not that the central fact of his new, personal hell had changed, for it hadn't - much of his attention was still swallowed up by this deep, unrelieved craving, this yawning metaphysical voice at the center of his own person universe, desperately needing something to make him complete.

.but the unending sexual imagery and fantasizes that had swept through his mind and derailed any attempt at coherent thought for so long had finally faded, allowing that small part of his mind not taken up with desperately crying out for what he craved to once more function in a linear - if limited - fashion.

Slowly, he began to realize that he was going through the cupboards in the kitchen - and had been for some time, this being at least the tenth time he'd gone through the exact same motions, opening and closing every cupboard and looking inside.

.to find nothing.

Fuzzy-headed and vague, seeing the world through the numbing, hazy veil of need, he realized that he'd been 'out of it' for quite some time - more then enough time to completely empty a kitchen that his previously anal-retentive self had kept assiduously over- stocked with canned and non-perishable food over every sort.

In fact, his mind was even functional enough to realize that there probably wouldn't be anything the cupboards that hadn't been there on any of the previous passes, and he slowly stopped working.

.and with nothing else to do, came to notice something about his body.

It might have seemed odd that he hadn't noticed it first off - but then, truly noticed or not, the changes his body had gone through had been gradual, over time, and he'd had a chance to get used to the altered feelings and movements of his altered body, and so nothing immediately jumped out and shouted at his sense that something was wrong. It took the intellect he had reclaimed, small enough as it was, to compare the sensations and feelings he was registering to those that he should have been feeling, and realize that there was something very, very different about it all.

A vague, weak fear and worry surfaced, gnawing at his mind - but, with the vast chasm overshadowing anything else, the emotions couldn't build any sort of momentum, so it was nothing more than a sort of resigned distaste that he walked to the bathroom to verify what his initial assessment had suggested had happened to him.

Or, rather, to her - for as she'd thought, the person who stared back at her from the grimy mirror was undeniable feminine.

She knew that this was so wrong that there wasn't even a phrase to describe it, and her stomach - growling from hunger - tightened at the realization, but she couldn't work up the emotions she knew that she should be feeling from looking at her fully-feminine body. She was aware she'd never wanted to be female, and that being unwillingly transformed into a woman was a terrible thing - but it wasn't an emotional response, but an intellectual one, and give her situation, a fairly weak one at that. It was as if she were constantly noticing that she was now female, thinking to herself 'oh, yeah, I'm a chick now, how horrible.' - and then the thought would slide to the back of her mind to steep for a while in a weak tea of humiliation and disgust as she contemplated the long list of other things her limited attention needed to deal with.

Like the 'complex' series of events she'd have to manage to make her fuzzy brain navigate through before she could fulfill the least powerful of her cravings - that for something to eat.

The odd thing was, though she had no frame of reference to describe the muted emotional and intellectual response to her gender- swap, she had a very good frame of reference to describe how her thick, wooden mind felt as she struggled to work through the problem.

Once, when she was considerably younger - and a man, she thought with a sudden burst of pity that faded rapidly into that low, constant sense of disgusted fear - she'd been at one of the few parties she'd ever attended, where her willingness to offer up all the money she had for 'refreshments' had bought her grudging acceptance into the party.

.and she'd gotten stoned and drunk, taking in enough booze and marijuana to get her flying high without passing out.

That's what she felt like now - as if every thought was a work of art to be labored over, handicapped by the inability to focus on more than a single concept at any given moment.

Which explained why, as she worked through the first problem in the series, she kept getting surprised.

Since she seemed to have bathed fairly recently, the first problem to overcome was the fact that she was naked, and so she'd begun struggling with the task of finding something to cover her body so that she could go out in public - and each time she remembered that going out in public was, in fact, what she was aiming for, she'd stop dead for a second or two.

When she recalled the goal of getting dressed, she'd feel uncomfortable - and then remember that she was now female, and that she didn't really want to go out in public as a woman...

...and then, on top of that, she'd remember that she had to go out in public to get food, and the hunger - with its constant 'symptoms' tugging at her stomach, would override the muted horror of being publicly female long enough for her to go on with getting dressed - until the next time the thought cropped up, that is.

Of course, that's not the only time the thought of being female cropped up while she tried to find clothing to cover her new body. No, as she sought to find some coverings that wouldn't irritate her hypersensitive smooth new skin too much, she was constantly 'remembering' that she was female, and feeling a burst of self-pity and disgust over the fact - but during those instances, she didn't think about the fact that this female body she now had was going out in public, as well, since that was a separate line of thought, in another order.

Numbly, slowly, and with many fits and starts, she managed to dress her new body.

Out of habit, she shrugged on one of the smooth, thin short-sleeve dress shirts in her closet, but found that her long fingernails weren't nearly as much of an impediment to getting the buttons done up as where her...

"Tits!" She gasped in stunned horror, cupping the firm, heavy mounds thrust so perkily from her ribcage, too new for gravity to have much effect on their nearly perfect dome shapes. "I have big, round tits!"

Her hands lightly squeezed the mounds, each on like a halved cantaloupe rising firmly from her chest - and she gasped in response to the wave of pleasure the highly sensitive flesh transmitted.

"Big, firm, sensitive tits..." She murmured to herself - then blinked, staring down at her chest wondering why there was something niggling the back of her mind, telling her she shouldn't be standing here fondling her tits,. Even though it felt really good and she could vaguely remember spending hours and hours playing with steadily larger tits...

"Oh, right - I was getting ready to go out..." She murmured - then stiffened at the thought she was going to go out in public like this, a woman whose breasts had to be a remarkably firm DDD-cup...

...and then her stomach rumbled, and she remembered that her sensitive, firm new tits were too big to button the shirt over, so after a moment of hard thought, a vacuous expression on her face, she finally figured out that she could tie the shirt in a bow at the front, which did a pretty good job of covering her chest, though the thin fabric, tied in a knot, exposed both...

"Holy shit!" She gasped, shocked, staring down at the creamy canyon of cleavage the opened neck of the shirt displayed - not to mention the long, thick, and impudently erect pink nipples outlined and only faintly obscured by the thin fabric, rubbing with pleasant susurrations over her highly sensitive nipples, which felt really good when she squeezed them and tugged them through her shirt - but it would feel even better if she took the shirt off and lay on the couch and played with her tits for awhile...

...but she was hungry. She'd have to leave playing with her tits and nipples until she got back from getting food...

...in public...

...as a woman?

She blinked - and then shook her head, wondering what the brief bolt of horrified disgust she'd just felt had been about, but too hungry to pursue the thought, especially with that constant urge for something nibbling at the edge of her consciousness.

After some thought, she had a stroke of genius, and cut the stitching at the top of one of her plaid-patterned pillowcases, creating a 'sheath' that she pulled up her cute legs and over her full, taut ass, using a pair of safety pins, one on either side, to take in the excess fabric so that the surprisingly not-makeshift-looking skirt would stay in place, hiding her...

"Cunt!" She gasped, disgusted and horrified. "I have a.. oh, yeah, right, I'm a chick, and... I'm hungry."

Blinking, she looked around - and managed to find an old pair of white sneakers that fit her slightly shrunken feet, even if she had to walk kind of funny in them, sort of on tip-toe and almost with a bounce to keep her feet from hurting, but it wasn't that bad, since it made her tits bounce and everything, and a look in the mirror as she walked to it and away from it showed that she actually was walking like you might expect cute-sexy, eighteen-or-nineteen-year-old looking buxom woman/girl in the mirror to walk, her huge blue eyes blank and vacuous, her full lips curved in an unconscious smile, working with the 'schoolgirl' look to make her seem even more of a...

"Bimbo!" She said, shaking her head in negation as horror flooded her at what she was doing to herself. "I look like some brain-dead, big-titted bimbo schoolgirl, except that I don't have pigtails..."

She paused, blinking in confusion, a gut-rumble of hunger having distracted her for a moment - and then she remembered, and she smiled happily at her reflection as she used a couple of short lengths of white string to pull her long mane of sandy-blonde hair out of her face into a couple of loose pigtails.

Indescribably happy to have successfully dressed herself, the new woman jiggled and bounced her way out of the apartment and down onto the street.

Enjoying the wonderful feeling of her big tits jiggling under the shirt, the fabric caressing her erect nipples, she headed towards the nearest supermarket, walking down to the corner...

...where she found a guy lounging in the parking lot of the abandoned gas-station, smoking a funny-smelling cigarette.

Since she'd forgotten to put on her glasses, she couldn't see him very well as she approached him, so she stared at him, wide eyed, giggling at the sensations caused by the jiggle of her breasts and the cool air up her skirt as she approached the guy - following the trail of scent much weaker than that of the funny cigarette, but infinitely more mouth-watering, a sort of musky, manly smell that was triggering all sorts of pleasant synapses in her brain, reaching deep into that yawning chasm of craving and overwhelming most other thoughts.

"Hi!" She chirped brightly at the fuzzy images of the guy as she drew ever closer, trying to track down that elusive, enticing scent.

"Well, well, well..." The darker-toned blur said in a lazy voice. Slowly he resolved himself into a tall, lean man with dark hair - though she had to step right up to him to get the image to clear.

Not that she minded, because it felt really good to crush her big, sensitive tits against him as she stared blankly up into his face, smiling brightly as she savoured the wonderful thrills running up and down her spine as she breathed in his male pheromones, her long-denied body eagerly accepting that which it hadn't been able to produce for so long - and had consequently become hyper- sensitive to.

"Well, now.." The man said, wrapping an arm around her - which felt really, really good, especially where flesh-meet-flesh and her hormonally-starved body could absorb even more of what he had to give. "What is a girl like you doing out this late at night?"

"I'm looking for something..." She responded, licking her lips hungrily - even though she was so busy sucking up the great sensations of being held by this man that she didn't remember, exactly, what it was she'd left the apartment to come looking for.

"I bet you are." HE chuckled, staring down at her cleavage. "I bet I know what it is, too - and I bet I can give it to you." "Really?" She chirped, happily - what a wonderful man! So nice and helpful!

"Sure." HE said, flicking away his joint. "Come with me."

With no second thoughts - and barely any first ones - she followed him into the deep shadows behind the abandoned gas station, giggling and gasping with pleasure as his hand, draped around her shoulders, reached down to roughly squeeze her tit.

Once behind the gas station, she watched - puzzled - as he pulled away from her - then did something with his pants.

Blinking at the fuzzy image, especially in the darkness, she couldn't figure out what he was doing, so she did the most sensible thing

- she knelt down and put her face real close, so that she could see...

"Yeah, I knew that was what you wanted..." The man said in a hoarse voice...

...while she blinked at the rapidly hardening cock just inches in front of her face.

"Go ahead, babe - suck it." The man said, putting a hand on top of her head and drawing it closer to his hardening cock. "It's what you want..."

There was something about this that was making her very uneasy, a feeling that there was something horribly, horribly wrong...

...but that wonderful smell was much stronger from his cock than anywhere else, and he seemed so sure that this was what she was looking for, so she hesitantly opened her mouth and let her tongue slowly slip out and ever-so lightly touch the end of his cock...

...and then she was eagerly wrapping her mouth around his now-hard cock and her hands around its shaft.

That uneasy feeling was gone - buried in pure bliss as she licked and sucked and stroked the warm, throbbing man-meat in her mouth, filling that deep and terribly craving that had been central to her for so long now.

Thoughtlessly, lost in the wonderful sensation of fulfilment, she slurped and licked and sucked at the cock, stroking it and fondling it - not in technique, for she didn't even realize she was giving a blow-job, but to savour the wonderful hormones filling her mouth from his flesh.

Which was why she was taken completely by surprise when her mindless enjoyment of his cock led to him pumping a load of thick, salty cum down her throat...

...and then she couldn't even be surprised anymore, as the hormone-laden cum gushed down her throat and into her stomach, short-circuiting every synapse in her mind with pure, utter bliss.

If she'd been capable of thought, she might have realized that she'd become addicted to cum, desperately needing it - or the hormones carried within it - the way a coke junkie craved his drug of choice.

However, she wasn't thinking - no more than that coke junkie would be just after getting his 'fix'.

So, it was in a mindless state of ecstasy that she finished slurping down the hot load of cum - then remained there, a blissful look on her face, as the man zipped himself up and left, after a couple of increasingly half-hearted attempts at paying the 'hooker' for her services.

Gradually, the high began to wear off...

...and with that desperate addiction finally sated, her mind 'spun up' fully for the very first time since she'd taken those pills...

...and the big-titted new woman screamed in horror at what she'd become.

Staggering up from her knees, hands trying in vain to crush her firm new tits back into her body, she fled, not knowing or caring where she was going as she desperately tried to outrun the memory of the eager, happy cock-sucker she'd just been.

Gasping in horror, hating every jiggle and sway of her undeniably feminine form, she ran into the night, cute/sexy legs pumping as she was helplessly forced to use that tip-toe sissy step to avoid the pain of her sensitive heels hitting the ground...

...and then, after a couple of blocks, she staggered to a stop, new despair and horror rising - as she felt the first, faint edges of that craving began to nibble at her mind again.

It was only a faint current - but she'd lived with it so long that it was unmistakable. As was, to her restored mind, the implications.

She could fight it, refuse to give into the addiction - while her mind slowly decayed, until in a week or so she'd be as mindless as she had been tonight.

Or, she could give into it every so often, depending on what level of intelligence she wished to retain.

From the rate at which it was rising, she could tell it would take two or three loads of cum a day to keep herself 'normally' intelligent - and she shuddered and almost retched at the thought.

Almost retched - because she was horrified to realize that nothing would induce her to expel the load of man-juice still sending unwanted shivers of pleasure throughout her system as her stomach lining absorbed the last of the hormones it had to give.

She hadn't just sucked a cock - she'd loved it. Just as she'd love doing it again.

Just as she'd enjoy getting fucked - not nearly as intensely as taking cum orally, due to the lesser absorption rate of her new cunt - but, by the same token, the lesser 'high' would last longer, for the same reason.

She would have to fuck or suck men to keep from becoming a bimbo - or she could become a bimbo and then fuck and suck men. Either way, sucking and fucking men would be guaranteed - and she couldn't even delude herself of it...

...because, even though the craving wasn't yet anything close to strong enough to impair her, she found herself, against her will, craving the blissful high that cum would provide.

Sobbing, finding the non-addiction-but-desire-induced craving for cum, she headed back to her apartment, trying to figure out how she could possibly hope to cope with this horrific fate...

* * * * *

"Oh, God, YESSSSS...!"

Big tits bouncing, the scream of utter blissfully ecstasy ripped from her throat, Danni shuddered and thrashed her way through yet another mind-bendingly powerful orgasm, physically as every bit as powerful as any other woman might feel at being fucked long and hard by a huge, thick cock - but augmented by the addiction-bliss that came from the hormones within the massive, thick load of cum pumped deep into her womanhood.

She slumped back in the bed, mind overwhelmed with the cum-induced bliss, barely conscious of her lover's eager hands fondling her naked body as he stroked and caressed her almost obsessively.

Slowly, as the initial rush wore off, she slowly became aware of the pleasurable sensations the eager hands on her flesh caused, and regained enough sense-of-self through the slowly fading cum-induced bliss to hear him pleading with her...

..so she pulled herself up, crouched on her knees, and spread her lipstick-clad lips wide to accept the head of his massive, already- hard cock into her mouth for a long, wonderful blowjob.

As her skilled, eager hands and lips went to work on his massive cock, Quick's eyes rolled back in his head and, through a mist of desire and pleasure, wondered who the hell this wonderful little cock-sucker really was.

Not that it mattered.

Sure, he didn't really know who she was - but she'd known that he had some potent, banned sex-pills, though it had been a secret stash he'd kept, afraid of using them until he managed to foist them rest of them off on somebody else first, as a test subject.

Well, the geek he'd sold them to had never come back, so Quick still hadn't known if they were safe to use - but this big-titted bimbo had all sorts of 'persuasive arguments' that had convinced him to give it a try...

...and, god, what a thing it was.

It didn't matter that his drug business had gone down the toilet - because the reason it had gone down the toilet was because he had a huge cock that could get hard faster then you'd believe, and a hot, busty slut eager to make use of that cock. Life had become a near-constant sexual experience exceeded only by the lust that filled his mind.

In fact, the very fact that almost constant sex still wasn't quite enough to satisfy his amped-up desires was a little frustrating - but that was okay.

Surely that would change now that he'd taken the very last of his stash of pills and they were all gone...

Eagerly gulping down the incredible load of salty cum Quick provided for her, Danni sighed and fell back on the bed in blissful contemplation of the revenge she was enacting on the dealer who'd 'hooked' her...

...and a blissfully unworried consideration of where she could go next to ensure a constant enough supply of cum to keep her too blessed-out to contemplate her feminine fate.

Not that she was worried.

She was sure she'd be able to find all the cum she needed, one way or another...

...especially since the fact that all this cum left her intelligent - intelligent enough to have stolen a single pill from Quick's supply, and secretly have it analyzed for composition - so that she could have as many more pills made up, should she find any man who deserved a month of heaven supplying her with her cum before spiralling down into a lifetime of cum-craving hell, right along side her and Quick.

THE END

 BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Three boys go to the home of one of their deceased grandparents and discover a device that turns one of them into a female bimbo...or does it?

Inheritance

By Gunslinger

"...for Arnault and Wilkenson Counties. Due to unusually heavy rains, flash-flood warnings are in effect. Motorists are strongly urged to stay off the roads unless it is an emergency. Police and Rescue Services are falling behind, due to both the heavy rains affecting road conditions, and from the number of emergency calls made in the past eight hours "

"Shut that damned thing off." Jerry growled irritably. He was hunched over the Explorer's steering wheel, peering intently into the silver curtain of rain that obscured the road past a few feet. The athletically-built youth's muscles were tensed with the strain of driving in the torrential spring downpour, and his mood wasn't improved by the dire news from the radio.

Wordlessly, Sean reached over and snapped off the radio. He knew better than to distract Jerry while the driving conditions were so bad.

Brad, however, wasn't nearly so considerate. The tow-headed youth leaned forward, draping his arms over the center of the front seat.

"Great day to visit the old homestead, Jerry." Brad said with an irreverent grin. "Hopefully, your Grand-dad's place hasn't been washed away by the time we get there."

Sean whirled in his seat. "Lay off, man. He's having a hard enough time concentrating as it is."

Under his red-headed friend's cold glare, Brad leaned back. Though both of them had nearly the same build - namely, massively muscled - Brad knew Sean could drive him into the ground - if he was angry. Sean was one of those red-heads who lived up to their fiery reputations, and Brad knew enough not to anger his usually placid friend. "Sorry, Sean - just wasn't thinkin'."

Satisfied, Sean turned back around, shooting a glance at Jerry.

Although he was athletically inclined, and built, Jerry lacked the massive musculature of his body-builder friends. Instead, he had a naturally rugged, broad shouldered build, enhanced by all the camping, hiking, biking and canoeing he did. While his friends spent hours in the gym each week, Jerry's athletic build came from hours spent outdoors. He hated being cooped up in enclosed places - in fact, Jerry suffered from a mild case of claustrophobia.

Which was why Sean was beginning to become worried. Three days ago, Jerry's paternal grandfather had passed away. A bit of a recluse, the self-proclaimed scientist had only seen Jerry at the occasion family gathering, and barely knew his grandson - which was why it had come as a shock to Jerry when he'd been told that he'd inherited his Grandfathers house-slash-lab out in the boonies. So, he'd asked his two best friends - and roommates - to join him on what was supposed to be a four-hour trip.

Now, well into their seventh hour, Sean knew that the enclosed space of the Explorer must be driving Jerry nuts. They'd had no way of knowing that the storm system that had been sweeping east yesterday would suddenly - and inexplicably - swing south this morning, and hit them square on. Meteorologists in six states were flabbergasted - but it was the three friends in the big four-by-four that were inching their way up a narrow dirt road that was rapidly washing away.

"Look, Jerry..." Sean started, seeing the set look of his friends jaw, and the sweat pouring from his short mop of black hair.

"There!" Jerry called, triumphantly, pointing as he stepped on the brakes. Due to the short visibility, they'd almost gone past the barely- visible driveway with the small mailbox beside marked with 'Stanton'. Sighing with relief, Jerry spun the wheel and eased down on the accelerator. The Explorer pulled onto the drive leading up to the sprawling Victorian farmhouse...

...and promptly sank up to it's wheel-wells in the watery mud.

"Damn!" Jerry shouted, banging the steering wheel with a fist. Angrily, he drove the gas pedal to the floor, and the engine in the big vehicle screamed as all four drive wheels spun impotently.

"Jerry..." Brad said, his usual cheerfully mocking tone missing. "It's okay. It's what - a hundred, hundred ten yards to the house from here? So we'll get a little wet."

Jerry slumped over the wheel, and turned off the ignition. Aside from the heavy patter of the downpour on the metal body of the car, silence reigned supreme.

Then Jerry smiled ruefully and said "Okay guys - grab just the necessities. Beer and underwear."

Shaking their heads, the three youths grabbed the basic items from the pile of luggage in the back of the Explorer than hopped out of the truck. Immediately soaked to the skin, the three friends discovered that sprinting in knee-deep mud wasn't possible. Shivering in the chill spring torrent, they waded slowly through the quagmire to the semi-protected verandah surrounding the house. Digging in the pocket of his jeans, Jerry located the key, and the friends - laughing and pushing - almost literally tumbled into the farmhouse, slamming the door shut on the wind-driven rain.

"Whoa - I feel like I just swam the English Channel." Sean said, using his hand to get the worst of the water out of his fiery hair. "I bet we all catch pneumonia."

"Nah - we'll do okay." Jerry said, shrugging out of his sopping Army-surplus bush jacket. "The lawyer of the estate said Grandpa installed his own electrical system, run from a generator on an underground stream. Even with the storm, we'll have power. We just have to turn on the heat."

"...and get out of these wet clothes." Sean said. Suiting action to words, he began stripping out of the sopping garments as a bass crescendo of thunder shook the wood-framed house. "There any towels, you think?"

Jerry looked around the unfamiliar foyer. "Probably. Brad, you do the towel search. I'm gonna try and find the thermostat."

The three friends parted, shedding their soaked clothing as they went. As roommates and teammates, the three had no body modesty around each other. Within minutes, it would have made a coed's heart flutter - three naked, handsome, incredibly well-endowed 'hunks' wandering a round a huge, sprawling, house - buck naked.

They met again in the sitting room off the main foyer. Not only had Jerry found, and adjusted, the thermostat for the electric heat, but he'd started the fire already laid out in the hearth of the fieldstone fireplace that was flanked by two narrow windows. Brad tossed one of the thick, soft towels to each of his friends, and used one for himself. He'd brought six in total - after toweling off and dropping the damp towels negligently on the floor, the three friends wrapped themselves in the towels and huddled in front of the fire, letting its crackling, aromatic warmth soak through their clammy skin.

"There was some clothing upstairs - maybe we should see if we can find something that'll fit." Brad suggested. Jerry snorted. "Yeah, right - Grandpa was short, scrawny and hunch-backed. I'm sure his clothes will fit great." Brad laughed. "Oh - that's not what I meant."

Sean tilted his head. "What's so funny?"

Brad shook his head with amusement. "Upstairs looks like a thrift shop exploded. Except for the master bedroom, all the rooms are stuffed full of clothes and stuff like you wouldn't believe. Guys clothes, women's stuff - even kid's clothes. It's nuts."

Jerry shrugged. "Hey - I told you my grandfather was eccentric."

Sean shrugged. "Yeah, well - what say we take a look around? We already know what's upstairs, so why don't we start in the basement and work our way up? By the time we get upstairs, we'll be dry, and can dig through all those clothes for something to wear."

They three friends briefly discussed it, and came to an agreement. With Jerry in the lead, they padded down the parquet floored hall to the kitchen, and down the steep stairs to the basement.

"Whoa - paging Dr. Frankenstein..." Sean joked in awe. The basement had been converted into a sort of laboratory, stuffed full of unidentifiable inventions in various states of completion, complex chemical stills, and odd, unlabelled jars, bins, boxes and every other sort of conceivable container.

Slightly stunned by the profusion of weird devices and odd substances, the trio wandered around, looking at the strange contraptions. "Hey - what's this?" Brad said, grabbing Sean's arm. "An electric chair or something?"

The three youths gathered around the odd device. It was a large, padded leather chair enclosed in a clear plastic box whose front hung open on hydraulic hinges. The chair was covered with a profusion of wires, cables, and less identifiable protrusions. Thick cables ran from the chair to the outside of the box, where a large console of some sort was attached to the outside. Obviously a control panel of some sort, the only identifiable components were the scavenged ATM screen, a computer keyboard - and a six-CD carousel that was in the open position. Stacked beside the empty CD-player's open carousel was a stack of writable CD's, all of them unlabelled.

"Weird..." Jerry said, examining the strange device. He picked up the three-pronged power cord, which was lying on the floor. It was unplugged, about a foot from the nearest socket. Shrugging, Jerry dropped the power cord, and wandered into the enclosed box portion of the device, settling down into the padded chair.

"Hey - what are you...?" Sean said, startled.

Jerry waved a hand. "Don't worry - this thing's unplugged." He settled into the chair. There were padded grooves for his arms and legs, and a curved, padded, headrest. Settling into the position, Jerry found that he was looking at himself - a large mirror had positioned so that when a person sat in the chair correctly, they were able to see themselves in the mirror. "Hey - this thing's real comfy." Jerry said, grinning. "Maybe it's the 'ultimate Laz-e-boy'."

Brad shook his head. Flipping through the stack of unlabelled CD's, he picked six of them at random, and slid them into the CD player. "Yup, complete with 6-CD changer." He quipped, pushing the tray closed...

The instant the tray latched, lights blossomed to life on the console. Before any of the youths could move, padded metal restraints snapped shut on Jerry's wrists, ankles, chest and head. The hydraulically operated plastic door swung shut, locking with a dreadfully final 'thunk'.

"What the...?" Jerry said, near panic. "What's happening?"

Sean and Brad were frantically going over the console, which had come to life.

Sean read the small screen inset into the middle of the controls. "It.. it says it's running on battery power!" He said, his voice muffled through the plastic. He pounded at the keyboard for several seconds. "It's on some sort of automatic cycle!"

Brad had settled for a more direct method. Ignoring the controls, he was trying to break into the box surrounding the chair - but it was constructed of three-inch-thick Plexi, reinforced at the corners by metal beams. Brad could only pound impotently at the clear casing around his friend.

Jerry was starting to panic, his claustrophobia kicking in. "Get me out of here!" he shouted, struggling vainly against the restraints.

Sean, at the console, was frantically trying to get some response from the controls - but it had locked him out and was function independently. "It says it's loading parameters..." Sean called, as the CD drive whirred to life. Several seconds later, the screen changed. "Now it says... beginning procedures...SHIT!" Sean barely saved himself from losing some fingers as he jerked back. Another three-inch-thick slab of Plexi had descended over the console, sliding out of a recessed pocket and sealing the controls away. Helplessly, Sean beat against the cover.

"Jerry!" Brad shouted, drawing Sean's attention back to his trapped friend.

Jerry was struggling in the chair when he suddenly felt sharp pricks in the back of his neck. Seconds later, he felt himself go limp. He was still conscious, but he was completely unable to move. Moreover, his entire body went completely numb. Helplessly, he could only watch in the mirror as the automated machinery went to work.

A strange, cup-like device on an arm slid over, covering his mouth and nose. Large, boxy enclosures encased his hands and feet, as more enclosures, sprouting wires and tubes, covered his crotch, waist and neck. Two needles on robotic arms rose and proceeded to position themselves above his chest. Moving forward, the needles pierced the center of his nipples, entering his chest.

"Jerry!" Sean shouted, again, as he beat on the Plexi. Jerry was unable to answer - unable to move at all as even more equipment unfurled from various hidden compartments and positioned themselves around his body.

Sean and Brad, horrified by what was happening, looked around the lab, searching for something to help their friend. Spotting a red fire-ax, Sean pounced upon it and rushed back to the Plexiglas box. Frantically, he began to smash at the box.

"I'll go call for help!" Brad shouted, pounding up the stairs. "Forget the box - smash the console and disconnect the battery!"

As the blond youth vanished in search of a phone, Sean took his advice and switched to raining blows on the Plexi-protected console.

Behind the Plexi that imprisoned him, Jerry was unable to see what was going on - his entire knowledge of the other's actions came from what he could hear. But the processing of the auditory information was an instinctive act, not an act of concentration. For all of Jerry's horrified attention was fixed on the mirror that his gaze was helplessly locked on to.

He could see slightly less than half of his body through the maze of wires, arms, cables and tubes that surrounded and covered his body. But he could see enough for his mind to make the connection - and what his mind deduced horrified Jerry to no end.

The way that his hair was gradually becoming longer, and lightening in hue from the roots outwards could be accepted. But that was a minor alteration, lost in the sea of other changes that Jerry was undergoing.

His waist, barely visible through an odd device constructed partially of clear plastic, was slowly shrinking in diameter. That slow shrinkage actually seemed to be occurring much faster than it actually was, and optical illusion created by the way his hips were slowly widening. Hips that were becoming devoid of hair, as was his entire body, as his body hair slowly loosened from its follicles and drifted towards the floor.

The needles imbedded painlessly in Jerry's chest were also having a very noticeable effect - slowly, but all too surely, the flesh behind the nipples was slowly puffing outwards. The nipples themselves were slowly expanding as the flesh blossomed outwards forming two small - but definite - breasts. Female breasts, currently looking barely pubescent, but steadily gaining mass as they swelled out of a shrinking ribcage that was rapidly becoming devoid of its layer of chest hair.

His shoulders were slowly squeezing inward, becoming narrower, as his once toned arms lost some of their mass, becoming daintier, softer - more feminine.

These were the changes that were easiest for Jerry to see, but he could tell that the changes were not limited to just parts of his body - all of him was being altered. And Jerry had no doubt about what he was being altered to become.

The machine was changing Jerry into a woman.

* * * * *

Brad clattered down the stairs. "The phone's dead!" He gasped as he dashed towards the accursed device that held his friend captive. "And you cell phone's fried - it got soaked." He skidded to a stop in front of the Plexi box and looked inside. "Hold on, Jerry " He started -- then stopped abruptly. "Holy SHIT!"

"What!" Sean yelled, moving to stand beside Brad. The red-head's eyes widened as he saw what the machine was doing to Jerry. They, too, had no illusions - by now, Jerry bore little resemblance to himself, and was most definitely feminine in nature.

"Nooooo!" Sean yelled, anguished. He attacked the Plexi surrounding his friend with hellish intensity, ignoring the intense pain in his arm as he rained blow after massive blow down on the box.

Brad whirled and dashed off, returning minutes later with a second ax - not a fire ax, but a long-handle wood ax. He, too, began frantically attacking the Plexi, his massive muscles flexing with the strain of the blows.

Slowly, the plastic facing began to scratch, then chip. Bit by painfully small bit, the two muscular young men began to grind their way through the Plexi as sweat poured off their now-naked bodies, their towels long since fallen aside.

Jerry heard the rapid double-drumming of his two friend's frantic attempt to free him - but inside, something was curling tightly around his heart. Figuratively, that is - intense emotion was causing him to lose hope - from what he could see, it was too late to truly save him - from what he could see, he was more than just on his way to womanhood - he was as womanly as he could possibly imagine, and then some.

Then, a strange helmet-like device slid out of the back of the chair, and over Jerry's face. The helmet blocked out all outside sight and sound, and replaced it with a swirl of light and sound. It was so soft... so soothing... so.....

...hypnotic.

* * * * *

"What's happening?" Sean gasped, his arms feeling like they were on fire. He and Brad watched the helmet like device settle in place, poorly seen through the scarred surface they'd created.

Brad went around to the console.

"It... it says..." Brad gasped, "Physical transformation complete - beginning mental alter JERRY!"

With renewed, deeper horror, Brad threw himself back into his attack on the protective casing around Jerry, Sean matching him stroke for torturous stroke. For what seemed an eternity, their blows beat against the plastic with seemingly no effect. Then, all at once, the power of the two men's strokes exceeded the Plexi's structural integrity - and the front of the box shattered into hundreds of tiny shards along the indentations created by the two axes.

Frantically, Sean entered the box and began ripping apart the device that enclosed Jerry - or the person who had been Jerry. Pulling the female figure from the chair, Sean gently hoisted her in arms that felt like they were going to break. With Brad following closely, eyes wide in shock, Sean gingerly carried Jerry upstairs and lay her on the couch.

Her eyes were open, and she was obviously conscious, still unable to move as the drugs in her bloodstream continued to affect her. Those eyes - a startlingly bright blue - were the only part of Jerry that remained completely unchanged.

The rest of her was completely and utterly different than the young man who'd entered the house only a short while ago.

"Holy shit " Brad muttered as he really, really looked at the woman lying on the couch. Unwillingly, he felt his cock begin to harden at the sight.

Jerry's new body was the avatar of erotic. She was short, and amazingly slender, with skin so smooth, hairless and silky that it looked slightly unreal. Her legs were amazingly long and sexy, leading to the feminine swell of womanly hips before pinching in at the tiny waist.

Her breasts were perfect. DDD-cup, they were amazingly firm and round, and absolutely flawless. They were tipped by large, pink nipples that were almost literally mouth-watering.

And her face ! Even without make-up, she was a glorious vision of sensuality. Large, bright blue eyes, amazingly full, sexy lips, high cheek-bones - all surrounded by a glossy mane of curly golden-blond hair. "God, Brad - stop drooling!" Sean snapped.

Brad flushed and looked away - but he noticed that his fiery-haired friend's cock was also standing at attention. It was a reaction neither could suppress - their friend had become the sexiest woman they'd ever seen. She was a living, breathing wet-dream.

Then she stirred, and slowly sat up, her firm breasts jiggling at the movement, her eyes slowly lowered to her firm new endowments, and she gently cupped them in her dainty, feminine hands.

"Jerry - oh my God. Are you... okay?" Sean asked, feeling ridiculous. There was no way Jerry could be 'okay', not like this - but it was the only way to phrase the question that he could think of.

Those gorgeous blue eyes came up to meet his - and in an incredibly sexy, feminine voice that was filled with confused good cheer, she said...

"Huh? You mean me? I guess so - but where am I? And who are you?" Her forehead furrowed slightly, and in the same good-natured way, asked. "For that matter - who am I?"

* * * * *

"What the hell do you mean, 'do we tell her?' - I mean, him. I mean... you know what I mean!" Brad huffed, waving his hands in frustration.

Sean held his own hands up, glancing at the door to living room. "Shhh... Keep your voice down!" He sighed. "Look, it's obvious that she... has amnesia, and doesn't remember a thing. I think, right now, the kindest thing we could do is not tell her what happened - spare her the emotional baggage. We can restore her memory after we find some way to get her - him... back to normal."

The two men looked at each other in confusion and frustration. As soon as it became obvious that the newly-born woman had no memory of herself, either male or female, they'd retreated to the kitchen to discuss their next step. Frankly, they were out of their depth, and they knew it. But whether she knew it or not, she was their friend, and they were going to do what they could to help her.

After another shared look, the two men went back into the living room.

The incredibly sexy woman was still sitting on the couch, fondling her perfect breasts with a soft, sensual smile. When they re-entered the room, she looked up. "Hi, again. Hey, you guys should have these... things. They feel great!"

Sean and Brad shared a look. "You mean your tits?" Brad asked, slightly stunned. "Breasts" Sean corrected quickly.

The woman blinked and looked between them. "Which one is it?" Sean shook his head. "Actually - breasts, or tits... or boobs..."

"knockers, hooters, melons,..." Brad continued until Sean waved him to silence.

"Oh. Okay." The gorgeous blonde said with an accepting smile. "Whatever you call them, they feel great - why don't you have them?"

"Uh... well..." Brad stammered.

"We're male - you're... female." Sean explained, blushing. "There's differences between us."

"Oh. Right - guys and girls. Okay." She snapping her fingers in the manner of somebody remembering a fact. She cocked her head - cutely, Sean thought - and said. "So, these are tits. You're guys, and I'm a girl. Do we have names?" She paused. "You called me Jerry when I woke up - right?"

Sean and Brad had discussed this. "Close - you must have misheard." Sean lied. "Your name is Sheri, and I'm Sean. This is Brad - we're your friends."

Sheri nodded again, rising smoothly and gracefully to her long, sexy legs. "Sure. Where am I? Why am I here? Is there something I'm supposed to be doing?"

Brad coughed. "Um. You had an... accident, and that's why you don't remember anything. But we're going to help you. As for your questions - well, we're at your Gran... your new house - you just got it. We came up with you to spend some time, and help you get settled in. And - well, we don't have to do anything. Just... you know, whatever we want to do."

Sheri smiled, and looked around. "But - I don't know what I want to do. What do you guys think we should do?"

"Um... putting on some clothes might be a good idea." Sean suggested, all too aware of their nakedness - and his and Brad's natural male reactions to the gorgeous woman.

Sheri clapped her hands together eagerly. "That sounds like fun!" She paused and, still smiling, asked "What are clothes?" "Oh...boy..." Sean said, looking at Brad for support.

* * * * *

"How about these?" Sean asked digging the jeans out of the pile of clothes.

Sheri felt the material, and frowned prettily. "Do I have to - they feel awfully course and heavy." "No " Sean said. "Not if you don't want to."

"Okay!" Sheri chirped. She leaned against Brad to reach past him, and the now-clothed young man closed his eyes and tried to control his thoughts as her warm, perfect body, clad only in lacy French-cut briefs, pressed against his.

"What about these? Are they good for women? They feel so soft." Sheri said, holding up her prize - a pair of 'nude' nylons.

"Uh - sure. You, um wear a skirt with those." Sean said, watching Brad's face flush as she peeled her nearly nude body away from him. Brad offered to find a skirt for her, glad to turn away and hide his embarrassed arousal.

Which made it Sean's turn, as she next leaned across him, her soft, silky thigh on his as she picked up a short-sleeved silk blouse.

"Oh this feels nice." She said, and began to pull it on.

"Uh - you might want to wear a bra with that." Sean offered.

"What's that?" Sheri asked, rubbing the soft material over her tits and clearly visible nipples. "Oh - this feels really good!" Sean cleared his throat. "A.. a bra is to... hold your tits."

Sheri blinked, and smiled. She stuck her shoulders back, pushing her tits against the slightly too-tight blouse, straining the sheer fabric. "Oh, yes please. You be my bra - I bet that would feel great!"

Sean fought against the urge to do just that. "No - I meant, it's a piece of fabric, made to support your breasts, and keep them from sagging."

"Oh." Sheri said. "No, thanks - it doesn't sound nearly as fun, and my tits don't sag - do they?"

"No. They certainly don't" Brad assured her, handing her a black skirt that would come to well above her knees. "This was all I could find."

Sean looked at the short garment as Sheri pulled it on, then shot a look at Brad.

Then instantly softened - Brad was having as hard a time dealing with a super-sexy, pleasure-oriented Sheri as he was. Brad, apologetically, shrugged, and held up the only other skirt he'd found that might fit - an even shorter, super tight leather one. He tossed it aside before Sheri could see it.

"Great - thanks Brad." Sheri gushed. "Now what?"

"Shoes?" Sean said, pulling out the ones he'd found that would fit her diminutive feet. Immediately, she picked up a pair of black platforms with a seven and a half inch stiletto heel. "Um... maybe one of these..." Sean offered, pointing out the shorter-heeled ones.

Sheri, however, already had the high-heeled shoes on, and was balanced gracefully atop them. "Oh - if you want." She said, sorrowfully beginning to step out of the shoes. "These... I just liked how tall they made me feel."

Sean sighed. "Sheri - I'm just making suggestions. It's not like you have to obey us - do what you want to." Sheri's gorgeous smile resurfaced. "Great! Okay - now what do we do."

Brad cleared his throat. "Why don't I throw together something to eat, and we'll watch some TV?"

"Okay." Sheri agreed readily. "What's a TV?"

* * * * *

She found out soon enough - and was entranced by it. She was a never ending fount of questions about what she saw on the screen, and paid attention to the way the women acted and talked, what the things they did were...

...which is what led to what Brad and Sean dubbed 'The Makeover Incident'. After seeing women with their hair always carefully arranged, always wearing make-up and jewelry, Sheri wanted to be like that. So, the three of them had gone on a quest to locate the necessary items - which had been the easy part. The hard part had been two-fold. One, Sheri's figuring out how to apply make-up.

And the second was the guys trying to deal with the effect when she got it right, emphasizing her already gorgeous features. It was becoming harder and harder to remind themselves that Sheri was - or had been - Jerry.

It was also the TV that led to the next situation.

"Oh!" Sheri gasped, entranced. "What are they doing? Biting each other? But they seem to be enjoying it. And I thought they liked each other!"

Sean blushed fiercely, and looked helplessly at Brad, who shrugged in return. "They... um, they're kissing. It's something that men and women do when they.. like each other." He explained, awkwardly.

"Oh." Sheri said, digesting the information. Then she smiled up at Sean, and asked the question he was afraid she was going to. "Will you show me how to kiss?"

"Uh " Sean said - and Sheri's face fell, and her eyes began to cloud.

"Oh." She said in a subdued voice. "I'm sorry - I thought you liked " She cut herself short, and seemed to shrink back in on herself.

Sean kicked himself mentally. His awkwardness with the situation was no excuse to hurt Sheri's feelings. He thought desperately for a way to make everything all right. "Sheri - I'd love to show you how to kiss." He said, running with the first thing that popped into his head. "I just didn't want to alienate Brad. We're all friends, and I didn't want any of us getting jealous."

And he mentally kicked himself again for coming up with such a stupid excuse.

Sheri, however, smiled tentatively, and Sean felt his spirits rising with the corners of her full, soft kissable lips.

"What's jealous mean?" She asked.

Brad cleared his throat. "It means.. well, if there's two guys, and one girl, and she seems to prefer the other guy well the one might feel left out "

"Oh!" Sheri said, blushing. "I'm sorry - I didn't mean that I don't like you just as much. If I could, I'd kiss both of you at the same time. But is it okay if I do one first, then the other?"

The two men shared a look. "Sure "

Turning her face to Sean, she waited expectantly.

Part of his mind found this incredibly weird - but the larger part of his mind, and all of his body, only knew there was an incredibly sexy woman waiting for him to kiss her.

So, he did.

It started off awkward - she just let him kiss her. Then, slowly, she began to catch on, until they were involved in a deep, passionate kiss that Sean found incredibly satisfying, and sensual. He was beginning to think his cock might burst from the erections he'd been putting it through ever since...

Before he could finish that thought, Sheri finally ended the kiss. "Oh - that was wonderful." She enthused dreamily - then turned to Brad and gave him the kiss of his life.

The two men looked at each other, feeling incredibly aroused - and more than a little guilty.

"Uh - it's been a long day." Sean said. "I think I'm going to head off to bed. But you can stay up and watch TV for as long as you want." "Okay." She turned back to Brad. "Are you going to stay? We can kiss some more."

"I'd love to, Sheri - but I'm tired too." Brad said, blushing.

And the two men left, while part of their more primitive male brain stem shouted the question. Are you nuts? Where the hell are you going?

And another part of their brains answered - 'to jack-off until we fall asleep.'

* * * * *

As soon as Brad and Sean entered the kitchen the next morning, they knew something was wrong.

Sheri sat at the table - wearing a baggy black sweater and along, shapely black skirt. She wore no makeup-or jewelry, and she seemed to have aged overnight, like somebody under great emotional pain. Her face bore the set look of someone determined not to cry.

"I... thought I'd wait and say good-bye before I left - and to apologize. I was stupid." Sheri said, rising slowly, gracelessly, to her feet.

"Sheri? What 's wrong?" Sean asked, wondering what the hell had happened after they'd gone to bed.

"I... I found a show. I watched it all night - they were talking about relationships, and men and women, and what goes on..." She straightened her back. "I... I'm sorry. I just didn't know enough to see what you were trying to tell me."

"What? I don't understand, we weren't trying to tell you anything." Brad said, confused.

Sheri smiled sadly. "Yes, you were - without words. But how you acted." She looked down, and when she spoke, they had to strain to hear her. "The way to avoided touching me. The embarrassed looks when you did, and how quickly you pulled away. The way you try to have me dress. The hesitations. The awkwardness. The way..." She sniffled, but tried to plow through. "The way you didn't want to have any... kind of... sexual.. relations..." she was openly crying now. "I... I didn't... realize... that you didn't find me... attractive. That you didn't like me the way men like women."

And she turned away from them, her slender shoulders shaking with the force of her sobs.

Sean and Brad looked at each other, stricken. They knew that that was exactly how they had acted - but it had never occurred to them how it might seem to her. They'd displayed no real interest in her as a woman, because, despite her body and her new mindset, they had tried their best not to think of her as a woman.

Now her every sob seemed to drive a steel spike deeper into their hearts. There was only one thing they could do to set things right...

..surrender.

"Sheri, Sheri " Sean said, coming up behind her. Gently he pulled her around. "It's not like that at all - you saw the signs, but they didn't mean what you thought they did."

"The didn't?" She asked, looking at them, hope in her eyes.

"No - they didn't." Brad assured her, although he wasn't exactly sure how Sean was going to clear it up so she'd accept it. Sean, however, had a brainstorm and was running with it. "Sheri - last night you didn't know about any of these things." "So? I.. I don't see "

Sean shrugged. "We were afraid of going to fast. Of getting you right in the middle of something - only to have you discover that it wasn't how you felt. We were reining ourselves in, so as not to push you into something you didn't want. It wasn't that we didn't think you're incredibly sexy - it was that we didn't know how you felt about us."

Sheri's perfect lips formed a little 'o'. "Really? You.. you want to have sex with me?"

And Sean and Brad answered in unison, being perfectly honest. "Yes!"

And like the sun coming up, that glorious smile resurfaced. "Oh... thank you." She dabbed at her eyes. "I guess I did it - made a perfect fool of myself, huh?"

"That's all right." Brad said, tenderly. "We forgive you."

Sheri's smile seemed to light the whole room. "I'm going to go upstairs and make myself... presentable. Why don't you make some breakfast, and I'll be back down shortly. Then after breakfast..." She trailed off suggestively, then paused long enough for a quick but passionate kiss from each of them before bounding up the stairs.

"Are we really going to...?" Brad said, watching her go. "Don't you want to?" Sean asked.

"God! Yes!" Brad replied, emphatically. "But, she's..."

"Sheri." Sean said, firmly. "Face it - there's no way of undoing what happened - we don't even know where to begin. So, we can all try to pretend, and be miserable - or just accept what has happened, and move on."

Brad nodded. "You're right."

* * * * *

"I... I paid close attention to the show - but you guys are going to have to help." Sheri said, nervously. "I.. I'm kind of new at this... I think." She grinned, and moved towards the huge bed, where Brad and Sean, mostly naked, lay.

The two men felt somewhat strange doing this as a threesome - but it had been Sheri's idea, and they were past arguing with her. Instead, they ignored each other, and focused on Sheri's glorious, nude body.

Climbing up on the bed, she slid in between the two men, putting an arm around each of them as she turned her head and began to kiss Brad, passionately.

Gently, Sean reached out and began caressing one of her firm, perfect mounds, enjoying the creamy flesh beneath his hand. Sheri moaned softly as Sean's movement became less hesitant. Seconds later, Brad's hand rose to her other breasts, and she moaned again.

She then switched, kissing Sean while Brad put his mouth to good use, licking and nibbling at her large, erect nipple while his hands roamed her body.

After finishing a long, passionate bout of lip-lock with Sean, Sheri smiled - and began to slide herself down his body, lightly kissing him as she made her way to his crotch - where she paused for a second before enveloping his hard, throbbing cock in a warm, willing mouth.

Sean moaned as Sheri, now on all fours, began to slowly, sensuously suck his cock, using her hands in time with her lips and tongue. Brad, meanwhile, was half-straddling her, crouched over her as he continued to fondle her glorious tits.

Sheri's technique might not have been expert - but it was pretty damned good. Sean gasped and stiffened as she brought him to orgasm, and she gulped hungrily at the hot cum that flooded her mouth. Only when she'd sucked him dry and licked him clean did she roll over and lift her legs, smiling an invitation to Brad.

Brad wasted no time in replying. Gently, smoothly, he slid his all-too-ready cock deep into her hot, wet womanhood, causing her to gasp in pleasure.

The gasps soon turned to moans as Brad began to pump, his face twisting in pleasure as he drove into her wet, tight cunt. Her moans increased in pace as she built towards orgasm - helped by Sean's eager hands and lips on her perfect tits.

She creamed, writhing, as her orgasm hit, sharp and sweet, followed closely by a softer, longer aftershock. She called out Brad's name as she came, and her internal muscles clenched, pushing Brad over the edge as he pumped hot cum into her cunt.

"Oh, God YES!" Sheri screamed, then smiled up at Brad. "Oh - that was incredible." She looked over at Sean. "I hope you're almost ready, lover "

"Yeah " Sean said, feeling his cock rapidly growing hard again.

"Good - I want to try being on top." She said, smiling. Then she winked at Brad. "You get ready, too - I still want to see what a tit-fuck is like "

* * * * *

Three and a half hours later, Sheri looked over at Brad and Sean, who snored in sync after she'd drained every ounce of energy in a furious bout of love making that had covered just about every conceivable position...

...twice.

Quietly climbing from the bed, Sheri began padding towards the bathroom to get cleaned up. Idly, she caught the drop of cum as it fell from her large nipple, and sucked it off her finger.

As she stepped under the spray of the shower, Sheri let herself indulge in the feeling of guilt. She still felt bad about lying to the guys, and playing the 'amnesiac bimbo'.

But what else could she have done. When she'd realized what the machine was doing to her, she'd realized she had a golden opportunity here. After all, she'd been hiding the secret that she was gay from them for fear of rejection. She could just imagine her, as Jerry, admitting the truth - 'Oh, by the way, I'm really gay, and just pretend to be straight to fit in. Oh - and I think you guys are incredibly sexy, so can I suck your cocks, and get you to fuck me up the ass?'

Now, it was better than her wildest dreams. Not only did these two gorgeous hunks fuck her, but she enjoyed it more as a woman than she had as a gay guy. Hell - this cunt was incredible. And, although Jerry had little interest in tits, Sheri had only been telling the truth when she had said how great these things were. Even now, she could barely keep her hands away from them - or her crotch.

Hmm... now that she could freely indulge in her choice of partners - men - she could make up for lost time. As great as Sean and Brad were, as lovers and friends, two guys just didn't have the staying power to satisfy her like she wanted.

Of course, there was the other machine that she'd found downstairs last night - the one that was supposed to increase a man's sexual prowess, stamina... and size....

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a young man tries to conjure a spirit to help him get laid, his plans go awry when the spirit takes advantage of his lack of inexperience.

Inside Out

By Gunslinger

I wasn't always like this, you know. In fact, not all that long ago, I was practically as far away from what I am now as it was possible to get and still be human.

It's all because of a mistake I made - a wrong assumption, really. Nothing more than that.

It was little more than two months ago, in fact, that I found my life turned, well... inside out...

* * * * *

I held my breath expectantly, pulse thundering in my ears...

...and, after a couple of highly anticlimactic minutes, let it out again and slumped my shoulders.

I was feeling decidedly silly - about as much from the fact that I'd actually expected it to work as from the fact I was sitting, buck- naked, in the middle of my living room floor.

Heaving a sigh, I stood up, pushing my hands over my head and stretching mightily. Shaking my head at my own foolish nature, I headed towards the kitchen, eager to get a cold drink to soothe a throat dried out by nearly a half-hour's worth of steady chanting in bastardized Latin.

I didn't even bother taking the extra-long stride necessary to step over the entirety of the warding circle. I'd spent nearly two hours getting it 'just right' - a pair of perfect circles, with Latin writing between them, on the faux wood flooring of my small apartment. Now, I just walked over the chalked lines and letters.

"Not the brightest bulb in the box, are you?" I asked myself...

...which startled the living hell out of me, because I hadn't known I was going to say anything until I heard the words, uttered in a tone of amusement, leave my mouth.

"What the hell...?" I gasped.

"You know enough how to do a summoning - but not the basics to keep yourself safe." My voice chided me, unbidden, still sounding disgustingly amused. "The warding circle is to trap the entity in. You're supposed to put an object for it to animate in the middle, and sit outside."

My hands flew to my throat, my eyes as wide as saucers as I made a choking noise of willing disbelief...

...only to have it cut-off in mid-choke by that voice.

"Not that I'm complaining, mind you." It said, with a chuckle. "A living host is much nicer than some doll or puppet - and especially since you, the summoner, was nice enough to break the warding circle and free me... well, to the extent that I am, anyway."

I made a grunting sound, as if I'd been punched in the stomach.

"You mean... I have a demon inside of me!" I screamed at myself, horrified.

"Not... exactly..." I told myself, with a chuckle of disbelief at my own ignorance. "The reason you put an object to be animated into the warding circle - other than to keep from being possessed yourself, of course - is to determine what type of servant you're calling up to do your bidding. That's determined by the size of the object being animated. Most people, to be safe, would use a doll, and get an imp. The really strong - or really stupid - conjurers would use something about twice the size of a human to get a minor demon. You, however, used a slightly-less-than-average height human body... which is just perfect for me to inhabit."

"What are you?" I demanded in a hysterical scream.

"Well, considering the sole task you were summoning a servant to help with - to wit, getting you laid - I'm one of the two obvious choices..."

I was already horrified - but I discovered previously unplumbed depths of horror as I heard my own voice shift upward in pitch. "My name's Cassandra." I told myself in a rich, undeniable feminine voice full of great amusement. "I'm a succubus."

"Get out!" I demanded, shrilly - not because my voice was higher, which it wasn't when I was using it, but because I was damned near hysterical - and for good reason, I'd say. "Get out of my body!"

"Oh, I don't think so." Cassandra chuckled. "Hell, is really quite dreary, so I think I'll enjoy the vacation you've given me. Since you 'invited me in', so to speak, you can't cast me out. The only thing that can force me to leave is by completing the task you summoned me for, which I haven't done."

I considered the situation...

"Please don't hurt me!" I begged, falling to my - our - knees.

"Oh, get up!" She said, disgusted. "Of course I'm not going to hurt you! One of the drawbacks to a human host is that I feel whatever physical pain you do - something that wouldn't happen if you'd used an inanimate object. No, I'm not going to hurt us - and, also, my powers are also limited by the summoning procedure. I can only use them in pursuit of the task I was summoned specifically for, mores the pity..."

Hope, which had plummeted, slowly began to rise.

"So... What are you going to do...?" I asked myself, hesitantly. Again, that annoying chuckle.

"Why, I'm going to help one scrawny, pale twenty-year-old computer nerd get laid." She said. "I'm twenty-four..." I said, numbly - then blinked, realizing what that meant.

"You can't read my mind!" I blurted out.

"Right the first try." She said, amused. "I 'saw' you just before possessing you, so I know you - we, ugh! - are short, skinny, pale and have messy, oily black hair and a bad complexion. I also know your name is Gary William Myers, because you used it in the incantation. Other than that... nada."

"Oh..." I sighed, finding myself feeling somewhat relieved. The female 'sex demon' trapped within me could commandeer my vocal chords - probably because communicating with me was unarguably 'in pursuit of her goal', allowing her to use her powers - but she didn't know what I was thinking.

"So, why don't we sit down and talk about what you're looking for... after, of course, you put on a robe or something, for Satan's sake!"

Okay, so maybe she wasn't human, but she was definitely female, and the realization that I was naked 'in front' of her made my blush and scramble for the bathrobe I'd kept handy...

...which explains at least one of the reasons why my sex-life, to date, had been practically nonexistent. Well, no...

After all, you'd have to actually manage to ask a girl out on a date, get her to come home with you, and at least imply consent to sexual activities before the issue of me being so incredible body-shy would even become a factor.

Still blushing - and more glad than ever that she couldn't read my mind - I sat on the worn couch I'd pushed out of the way for the warding circle.

"So - what type of girl were you looking for, Dave?" The demoness-within asked.

I hesitated a second before answering.

"Well, she should be intelligent... but also somewhat free-spirited..." That's as far as I got before she cut me off.

"Bullshit, boyo." She said, firmly. "I heard the summoning. Your request wasn't for a girlfriend, or a soul-mate, or a wife. You want SEX, boy, and we both know it."

My blush deepened.

"Okay..." She said, with an amused sigh. "I'll just ask the questions, and you just give the answers, 'kay?"

"Okay." I agreed, still hardly believing that ANY of this was actually happening - much less that it seemed to be moving in the direction it was. I mean, I had hoped to end up with myself getting some action, but I hadn't really believed it would work, no matter how much I'd hoped it would...

"Tall or short?" She asked.

"Well... a couple of inches shorter than I am, I guess." I replied.

"Is that in or out of her heels?" She asked - and I blinked, realizing I hadn't really thought about it. Her follow-on question stumped me even further: "Either way, what sort of shoes does she wear?"

Just the realization that I could actually 'define' a dream girl was stunning and a little daunting. I mean, I'll be honest - when I first conceived this whole 'impossible' idea, it had been in the vague hope of finding a way to get laid by just about any woman. The thought I could design a girl from the ground up had never occurred to me...

...and now that it was happening, I realized anew just how little I knew about the mysteries of femininity. Well, I knew I didn't want her looking down on me, either literally or figuratively, that was for sure.

"That's her height in the heels." I finally said. "As for how high... uh.. well, what do you think would be sexy?" "How about six-inch heels?" Cassandra suggested.

I blinked, thinking about it. I might not know much, but I knew that 'six inch heels' were practically a euphemism for sexy shoes, and I kicked myself for not thinking of it first.

"Yeah, six inch heels would be great!"

"Pumps, platforms, mules, boots..." She started rhyming off in a questioning tone, and I had to let her list off a few more types of women's footwear that I didn't even recognize before I could admit my own ignorance.

"Why don't you just choose something?" I suggested.

"How about a nice pair of rounded-toe three-inch platform pumps?" Was her 'suggestion', and I agreed eagerly...

...only to blink at her next question.

"So, you wanted there to be a six-inch height difference between the heel-line and the toe-line?" She asked.

"Yeah, that's right." I said, a bit annoyed that she was repeating her questions... or, maybe she just wanted to make sure, considering the fact I must be announcing my own ignorance with every word I said.

"Okay, good - you want her to be a two inches shorter than you when she's wearing her shoes." She said, cheerfully. "Moving on: Blonde, brunette, redhead - or are we going with a different flavor, like maybe Asian, or Negro?"

I'm certainly not a racist or anything, but, well... If I was getting to design my own girl, it was just, you know, a decision, right?

"She should be a white girl - and blonde. Definitely blonde." I said, starting to really get into this whole thing. The initial shock of finding myself possessed faded quickly in the rising tide of arousal as I answered the rest of the questions.

By the time we were done, I had a raging hard-on - which, given the fact that I had a female 'in residence', was making me blush. "So, are you ready to meet your fantasy babe?" Cassandra asked - and I, of course, agreed.

"Well, then - I'll just take you to where she'd going to appear." She said... and I found myself getting up and walking towards the door!

I tried to protest... but I couldn't. When I'd agreed with her, I'd unthinkingly given her permission to commandeer everything in our shared body to accomplish our task.

At the door, she paused long enough to pull on a pair of shoes, but other than that I was dressed only in my old blue bathrobe when we went outside - and the door swung shut and locked behind us, and she hadn't grabbed my keys!

Helpless to intervene, I could only quail under the looks I got from various people as we left the building and headed through the park. I mean, in this city you see some weird things, but that didn't make me feel any more comfortable about what was going on, me walking around in broad daylight in nothing but my bathrobe. When she finally stopped in the relative anonymity of a deep shadow under a bridge, I felt considerably relieved.

Then my body began to... tingle.

Too late - TOO, too late - I realized what, exactly, our conversation and the request I'd made could be construed to mean - and that realization, just a bit too late, made it all the more horrible as my body and clothing painlessly and irrevocably changed.

I knew what was happening even as it happened - and there wasn't a damned thing I could do, now, to change any of it.

I'd specified her height - which, only as I shrank down, truly realized what I'd done, losing a full eleven inches of the height I'd begun with - which hadn't exactly been all that great, anyway.

Soon, I was damned well tiny...

...and that was just the beginning.

Even as my clothing began to reform into the tight little denim skirt, white tee and white fishnet nylons, the body beneath was configuring itself into what, too late, I realized Cassandra had conned me into.

The over-the-top body of the sex-crazed woman I was to become.

My chest, hips and ass all swelled outwards as my waist narrowed. I was going to have a highly over-exaggerated, top-heavy hourglass figure, with tits the size of volley-balls... and I knew this even before it happened.

Not that it took long to happen, that was.

Even as my physique changed rapidly,. My hair grew longer and lighter in color, cascading down around a face that was becoming a perfect example of cute/sexy. As my lips puffed outwards, my eyes turned blue, flanking a small, pert nose...

...but what the hell did I care about the face, when it was the most 'normal' thing about the over-curvaceous body I was getting. A body I'd been conned into making, shall we say... 'persuasive'?

Only now I realized what Cassandra had been aiming for when she'd talked me into making sure my 'dream girl' would enjoy sex. The sensations were already increasing in my body, matching my 'request' that she be ten times more sensitive to physical pleasure than the norm...

...and that was just the beginning.

Cassandra had asked if my dream girl should enjoy giving blow-jobs, and when I'd eagerly - and stupidly - agreed, she'd 'suggested' that we altered her taste buds so that she enjoyed the taste of cum, and did some other things so that she enjoyed the sensations associated with sucking cock. I'd eagerly agreed, just as I'd eagerly agreed to all the other 'enhancements' that would make sure she 'loved' having sex, thinking I'd reap the benefits of this.

You see, Cassandra had played me like a fiddle. She knew I was hesitant, still barely daring to believe that I could get this fantasy woman to have sex with me, so she'd offered all sorts of ways to 'guarantee' that she couldn't turn me down - only she'd never, ever said it in so many words, of course, because the entire time she was defining this woman she never actually said she'd be 'separate' from me.

So, instead, she could use her power to make her and me become one - the same huge-breasted sex-crazed woman I'd 'willingly agreed' to become - since, after all, that would fulfill the task of ensuring I got laid, now wouldn't it?

In just the scant space of a few minutes it was over - and my life as a man had ended. I was now a woman. I felt like I was ready to burst into flames.

This new, curvaceous little body she'd cursed me with was so unbelievably pleasure-sensitive that any move I made caused in intense awareness of the body parts clamoring for attention.

Just breathing caused my massive new tits to move under the skin-tight white shirt, dragging my thick, engorged nipples over the fabric, practically begging me to play with them - while the slight jiggle and sway of the huge, firm tits themselves demanded the same things for them, as well.

I was too incredibly aware of my tongue in my mouth - not to mention my full new lips, all from the breath just passing in and out of my mouth - unless, of course, I tried breathing threw my new nose, in which the unbelievable intense man-scent floating in the air seemed to sent jolts of electricity to my nipples and crotch.

All of this was just from breathing!

A single step atop my impossibly high new heels, and I felt those white fishnet nylons on my legs, almost - but not nearly enough - like somebody was fondling them, the way I didn't-want-desperately-wanted from the sensation. My wide new hips would swivel - and the tightening and loosening of my gluteus maximus would remind me with disgustingly powerful pleasure about my full new bubble butt - and the hot, wet, and all-too-ready cunt between my silken thighs.

Every single part of my body cried out for satisfaction...

...and it was driving me nuts!

I continued wiggling and jiggling my way down the street, struggling to control the desperately out-of-control hyper-sensations I was experiencing so that I could get home...

...and I passed a small blacktop basketball court where a couple of guys were taking a break from playing a little one-on-one.

They wore only shorts, showing off their tanned, taut bodies - and, once they were aware of me, they eyed my own new body with obvious interest. I tried to hurry past them, but hurrying was impossible in the shoes I was wearing, and one of them called out to me:

"Damn, girl, what's your hurry!" The darker-haired on said. "I mean, I love watching those melons o'yours jiggle and shake, but hold on up!"

"Yeah, come a bit closer, babe!" His brunet buddy said, with a leer. I tried to ignore them...

...but that was easier said than done. I could taste them!

The oh-so-masculine musk of a sweaty male was filling my mouth - which was watering like crazy, practically urging me to put something in there that had more of that flavor which Cassandra had altered - and 'hyper-enhanced' - my taste buds to 'like'. Struggling to deal with that fact, I tried taking a deep breath through my nose, instead...

...and turned around and started back towards the guys before I even fully realized what I was doing, the intense scent firing off my olfactory nerves and practically short-circuiting free will as my body went into a hyper-ready state for sexual action.

I had thought, up until that instant, that I'd already been aroused. Maybe, if I'd thought about it, I would have realized I was trying hard not to be aroused - which put my body in the same 'state' as my male body would have been if I'd been trying not to get aroused in it.

So, there was as great a jump in my arousal level when I got 'turned on' now as if it had happened in my old, male body - as long as you remembered to factor in the 'ten times as strong' effect of Cassandra's evil little plan.

I was, quite simply, lost. There was so much sexual need thrumming through my body, so much hormones flooding my bloodstream, that ratiocentric thought wasn't possible. I wasn't thinking, I was reacting - and the reaction I was performing was to increase that unbelievable, unwanted pleasure I was experiencing by drawing closer to its source.

"Hey there, big boys." I said in a husky, sensual coo - and to this day have no idea if it was 'me' or Cassandra who said it. It could have been either. "My, but aren't you a couple of fine-looking hunks."

They shared an incredulous, eager smile between themselves as I found myself striking a pose that enhanced features that need no enhancement. I wasn't thinking, was considering what I was doing - I was just responding to what my body was feeling 'instinctively' doing whatever it took to increase the pleasure that, intense as it was, was nearly painful...

...enough so that my barely-functional brain was desperately seeking the final increase of sensation that would act like the trip-wire to Cassandra's.. uh, 'booby-trap'.

"So..." I heard myself say. "You studs want to go somewhere and fuck?"

The worst part was - at that very moment, I meant it, completely and utterly. There was nothing in the universe that I wanted more in that instant than to fulfill the sexual desires... sexual NEEDS that were 'driving me crazy'.

We headed off to a nearby hotel, and the entire time I was touching or being touched. I ground myself shamelessly against the men, rubbing my huge tits against their arms and chests - and, however helplessly, however thoughtless, truly enjoying it, because it all felt great. I was hot and horny and intense pleasure so close to pain that, as much as I was loving it, I was also looking forward to final satisfaction.

At the hotel I shamelessly stroked the brunet's crotch as his friend paid for one of the cheap rooms, and then I led them up to it, swaying my ass for all it was worth, knowing they were both already hard as rocks - since I'd brazenly fondled their cocks, both through their shorts and by dipping my hands inside, giving myself a preview of what I so desperately needed - even if part of me, under the screaming craving for satisfaction, knew I didn't really WANT it, if you know what I mean.

Not that that part of me had any say in what happened next.

We'd barely made it through the door before our clothes were lying in a heap, and as eager as I was to fuck and get fucked, I didn't begrudge the guys a little fondle time, loving the way pleasure thrummed through my flesh wherever their hands roamed. I especially loved my massive new tits, and was already thinking about how, even when I wasn't so 'hyped up', I'd be putting them 'out there' to be admired - and act as advertising, of course.

I could have taken them both at once - and was, in fact, so damned horny, I would have happily allowed them to take me then and there, in any combination they wanted. They, however, said they wanted their 'money's worth'. Unsurprisingly, given my build and brazen approach, they thought I was a hooker. At the time, I didn't care what they thought I was, and their comment didn't really register in terms of its implications. All I knew is that I needed sex, and these guys could give it to me.

I'd do anything they wanted if only they'd satisfy these cravings I was suffering from.

When the first guy wanted a blow-job, I was only too happy to oblige, my mouth watering at the thought. I threw myself into my first cock-sucking, really getting into it - because I was loving every second of wrapping my full lips around a big, thick cock. I sucked and I slurped,. I licked and I stroked, and every minute of it was pure bliss.

It was even wonderful when he came, dumping a load of delicious cum down my eager throat.

It wasn't until later that I got to enjoy the full humiliation and horror of having sucked a man's cock. You see, that was part of the 'fun' Cassandra was having with me.

When I'm fully turned on, I lose the ability to think, or to feel anything more than a burning need for sex. It isn't until I'm sated - as little as I am ever slated, and for the short period of time that it lasts - that I'm fully capable of realizing what had been done to me - and worse, what I was, at the time it happened, quite willingly doing. Cassandra didn't make me suck that man's cock - I did it myself, eager to do so, loving every minute of it, and briefly happy afterwards that I had.

However, that was just the warm up to the main event - my first time getting fucked as a woman.

Not that the guys realized I was a 'virgin'. No, wait, you can take the quotes off of that. I WAS a virgin, in either sex...

...but you'd never have known it by the way I acted.

I actually BEGGED him to fuck me - and when he complied, I begged him to do it harder, faster, deeper... In fact, I begged him to fuck me in any way and every way he possibly could.

It was WONDERFUL!

I LOVED having a cock thrusting into my cunt. I adored getting pounded by a big, hard dick. I was in love with having somebody fuck my brains out, and even as it was happening, I was thinking about how much I'd love doing it again, next time.

I didn't, however, experience my first female orgasm at that time. No, just walking here - and him watching me slurp some cock - had gotten him so on-edge that he came well before me.

He came - and left.

They both did, after I rather mindlessly agreed to a 'price' for my services.

The door wasn't even closed before I frantically began finger-fucking myself, my other hand playing with my massive rack, still in that mindless state in which I exist perhaps half the time, so desperately needing satisfaction.

I didn't get it, not from my long and energetic efforts.

You see, that was something else Cassandra had slipped by me. Since I wanted to be the one to satisfy my 'dream girl', I hadn't thought twice to agreeing that, just like trying to tickle yourself, my girl would have a 'cut out' that would keep her from pleasureing herself. She could masturbate for hours - and I frequently do - but she'd never reach orgasm by herself.

So, I had a quick shower, got dressed, and went out, prowling for men to fuck my brains out some more.

I didn't have any trouble finding them - but though they kept coming and cumming, it took five more tries (not counting two blow-jobs and a tit-fuck - before I finally hit my first orgasm...

...and scared and confused my 'John' when I began screaming in utter horror.

Not that I do that anymore - well, not often anyway, not unless I've done something especially disgusting while in the grip of my literally mind-crushing sexual need. No, I'm sort of 'used' to this, now, if anybody could ever be truly used to what happened to me. That, however, was the first time I came out of my 'arousal fugue' and realized what I'd done, and it occasioned nearly two straight hours of sobbing, gibbering and screaming.

I'm sure it would have lasted longer - like, maybe, my whole life - if not for the fact that that was also the longest I've been 'sated', and only because of the fact I started from such a terrible low point.

But, as my body was designed to do, I began getting horny again, until it was finally enough to override even that - and before long, I was once again prowling the street in search of sex.

I don't even get the 'pleasure' of avoiding it through sleep. At Cassandra's suggestion, this body needs only about an hour of sleep a night...

...right after a good, hard orgasm, of course.

As for Cassandra... Well, in a way, the last laugh was on her, because I really DID 'enjoy' that first orgasm - which 'booted her out' for having finished her job, so she wasn't really there when I went through the mini break-down.

Still, I'm pretty sure she saw it all from Hell...

...and enjoyed every single, eternal second of it.

* * * * *

Well, that's the complete story. I'm now a huge-breasted, cum-craving nymphomaniac slut who quite literally can't control herself and HAS to keep fucking. Sure, I became a hooker, because I need money to live, and I might as well get paid for something I'm going to be doing anyway. I mean, it's not like I can stop, you know?

So, you wanted to know how I 'ended up' here, and that's it. Enough talking.

Let's fuck.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When his genie suggests that he transform himself into a woman in order to fit in with the 'in' crowd he isn't sure that he is going to like it, but now he has a date that he doesn't want to miss

Inside-Outside

By Gunslinger

Slumping back against the recently slammed door, his muscular body limp with dejection, Jim let his head sag and sing slowly from side to side, as if trying to physically deny the truth of what he knew in his heart.

"Shit." Jim said - sighed, really - as he stared down across the expanse of t-shirt pulled tight against him muscular chest and trim abdomen, right down to where the shirt was tucked into a pair of faded blue-jeans that bulged, almost obscenely, over his crotch.

He was tall.

He was muscular.

He was handsome, like Brad Pitt crossed with a young Paul Newman. He was fantastically well-endowed...

...and he was still every bit as awkward and uncomfortable in public as he had been a week ago, when he'd been a tall, painfully thin, acne-scarred young man.

Though his new body was strong, healthy, and full of vigor, Jim pushed away from the door and slumped towards the living room of the his apartment like an eighty-year-old man, weighed down with despair rather than by years as he walked over to the couch and dropped into it, hissing in indifferent pain as the movement drew the crotch of the pants tight against his oversized genitalia.

With sad eyes, Jim turned and looked at the miracle cure to all his troubles, the thing that could make his every dream and wish come true - the simple-looking brass-trimmed bottle he'd discovered while walking on the beach.

In purely aesthetic terms, it was damned ugly - a maroon-colored glass bottle roughly the size and shape as a wine bottle, with a brass base and brass hinged cap corking the top.

With a sigh, Jim reached over and picked up the bottle, the 'thing dreams are made of', and swung the brass cap open.

With a soft 'whoosh' of displaced air, the space in front of Jim, previously empty, suddenly became occupied by a short, squat figure. Roughly half the height of an average human adult, it nevertheless had a roughly human look - if you could ignore the thick, tough hide, roughly the color of old wine, and the eyes that glowed a deep red.

"You have summoned me, Master?" The creature asked, its voice a dim rumble.

When Jim had first opened the bottle, the sight of the creature had shocked and frightened him, its very resemblance to the standard mythology of demons enough to make his heart race with superstitious fear.

When Amzadi, as the creature was called, revealed himself to be a Djinn, what the average person would call a genie, Jim's heart had raced for another reason completely, and visions of fame, fortune and happiness had danced through his head.

Now, Jim's heart merely continued its heavy, lethargic beat as he put the bottle, still open, aside, and nodded his handsome new head.

"Yeah..." Jim said, redundantly, since Amzadi wouldn't have appeared unless summoned - but it was a stock phrase, something included in the curse that held one of the last Djinn in servitude to mankind. "You wanna grab a couple of beers, 'Zadi?"

"Certainly." Amzadi said, agreeably, padding off towards the kitchen to grab a couple of cold brews and bring them back. "All did not go as well as you had hoped, Master?"

Jim sighed again, thinking about the irony that his best friend in the whole world was a supposedly mythical creature of inestimable age and unimaginable power. One so ethical that he, along with his entire race, had willingly 'cursed' themselves to eternal servitude after their first meetings with early mankind revealed that their own altruistic efforts to help man almost always resulted in unmitigated disaster.

Just as Amzadi had warned Jim before the first wish was ever uttered.

Taking the beer, Jim thanked Amzadi and popped it open, the two of them silent as they took long pulls on their beers. Though Amzadi didn't need food or drink for physical sustenance, he could - and did - enjoy the flavors and textures of food and drink, and when he lowered the bottle it was with a deep, rumbling sigh of satisfaction.

"What happened, Master?" The genie asked, waving a hand to draw an easy chair close enough for him to clamber into it and sit opposite his master and friend.

Mythology to the contrary, genies couldn't do 'anything'. They were bound by certain rules - and not obscure, mystical rules, but the same ones mankind had come to understand ruled the entire universe. Among these rules was the fact that a genie couldn't just create something out of nothing. Though Amzadi could change any given mass into any other object or material of the same mass, he couldn't just whip up anything out of 'thin air' - unless, of course, it was another gaseous substance of the same mass as the air.

There was also the fact that Amzadi, while able to change Jim's appearance, couldn't do anything at all to his mind, his memories and feelings...

...which was why Jim heaved a great, sad sigh.

"You were right." Jim admitted. "I may look like this, but I still feel like the geeky, unpopular young man - worse, because I feel like that, in this body I feel like I'm... I'm in some sort of 'costume', feeling even more self conscious."

"I'm sorry, Master." Amzadi said, honestly. "I had hoped I was wrong when I warned you about this."

Jim nodded. Amzadi had, indeed, warned him. After all, it wasn't really his body that had made Jim so shy and awkward all his life, not really. It was how he felt around other people, especially around 'the guys' - guys interested in sports and cars and music that Jim had never had an interest in. Bookish, with a taste for classical music, Jim felt lost in social situations, when people of his own age of twenty-two seemed to speak a foreign language.

Amzadi could do a lot of things - but he couldn't change the thoughts and memories Jim had, couldn't give him the frame of reference necessary to understand the jokes, comments and topics of conversations other people his age took for granted.

It wasn't that he hadn't tried, of course - he'd attempted to watch the same sports, shows, and concerts, listen to the same music - but for the life of him, he just couldn't figure out the attraction it held for those who actually enjoyed it. Worse, he'd started too late - because most of the movies and TV shows others in his age group enjoyed seemed to contain references he didn't understand, letting him know that the missed frame of references stretched all the way back to his childhood, when he'd grown up in a household without a television.

Now he'd learned that appearance didn't make up for a lack of social skills...

...and he'd 'shot his bolt'.

"Damn." Jim said, wearily. "I was really looking forward to 'storming the beach' tonight..."

It was a big yearly event, supposedly to commemorate D-Day. Held June sixth for as long as Jim could remember, it was an 'open event', not the sort of thing that required any invitation. Anybody could do it...

...if they had the guts, which is where Jim seemed to be coming up short. "Master, if I may..." Amzadi said, hesitantly.

"What?" Jim said, eagerly, leaning forward with renewed hope. "You have an idea?"

"Well..." Amzadi said, slowly. "The problem, really, is that you are aware of your own 'deficiencies' as you - and your social peers - see them. If you were to choose a form that was completely outside your own frame of reference, it might force you to stop trying to rely on the skills and interests that you know full well you don't have..."

Jim blinked, frowning. "What - you mean become, like, a midget or something strange?"

"Well, it might seem 'strange' to you..." Amzadi admitted, diffidently. "What I was thinking of, actually, was if you became female." "A girl?" Jim asked, wide-eyed. "You want me to turn myself into a.. a chick?"

"Surely none of the other men there would find it odd if you, as a woman, didn't know - or have an interest in - 'manly' things." Amzadi said. "Moreover, you yourself have told me that women tend to find you more of a 'friend' than somewhat they'd have any sexual interest in. That would be fine, if you were female - and not only would you get to attend this event you have been talking about for so long, but it would give you a perfect chance to examine these popular men 'in situ'. It would be very helpful for you, later."

Jim gaped, almost ready to dismiss the ludicrous idea out of hand...

...but not quite.

Amzadi had been nothing but helpful. Everything he'd done and said had been aimed at assisting Jim in his endeavors, and there was no sign - or reason - to believe that this was some sort of prank or trick. Amzadi, a being with much more wisdom and experience than himself, honestly thought this was a good idea.

"Really?" Jim said, doubtfully. "A girl? You think so?"

"I really do, Master." Amzadi affirmed. "You would still feel like... like 'a fraud', I think you'd say - but, unlike the way you felt today, you'd have good reason to feel that way. Also, it has been my experience that women are more.. forgiving than men. I really do believe you'd have a much easier time 'fitting in' as a woman than a man at tonight's festivities - and, as I said, this would give you an excellent chance to watch and learn from men who are comfortable in that situation."

"I don't know..." Jim said, not completely unwilling to be convinced, despite the clenched feeling in his gut. "It seems so... humiliating."

"It would, indeed - if there was any chance anybody could ever find out it was really you 'pretending' to be a female." Amzadi allowed, with a slight grin that showed his pointed teeth. "We both no that, with my powers, there's no chance of that, don't we?"

"Yeah." Jim chuckled, blushing brightly as he considered the idea. "Um... what, exactly, were you thinking of...?" Amzadi quickly fleshed out the basic concept.

"Hell, no!" Jim shouted, shaking his head violently...

..but, almost against his will, still listening - and still considering - as Amzadi hurried onward, explaining the logic behind the idea...

* * * * *

He couldn't believe he was doing this... No. That wasn't true.

She couldn't believe she was doing this.

It felt... strange. Not just physically, though there was a hell of a lot of new and different sensations that she could easily describe as 'strange'. Not necessarily bad, mind you - in fact, some of the sensations of her new form were quite pleasurable - disturbingly so, in some cases.

No, it felt strange emotionally - to be walking around, in broad daylight, not just in the body of a woman, but in the persona as a woman, not just looking female, but 'pretending' to be female, to act and behave and talk as if this form that people saw was her 'real' - her only - form.

However, as strange as it all seemed, however, the strangest part of the whole thing was that she was, indeed, was doing this. That was the weirdest part of all - that Amzadi had been right.

The whole situation was so strange, so weird, so unusual... that it somehow made it possible to do this, when she hadn't been able to get up enough gumption to do it in either of the male bodies she'd inhabited so far.

Amzadi had been right.

Just being female felt so strange and weird that it overshadowed anything else, situationally speaking. As a guy, Jim had felt comfortable, if lonely, when by himself, with only social situations pushing him into a sort of withdrawal that kept him from being able to cope - he'd escape back to when he felt comfortable.

In this body, however, she didn't feel comfortable anywhere, not really - so it was no 'worse' doing this publicly then it was to just stay at home and try to cope with the new form she wore.

It was quite the form, too, one of the things that had bothered her so much about this plan...

...and that thought returned with a vengeance as she felt the eyes of men - and not a few women - on her as she rather slowly and hesitantly climbed out of the cab she'd taken to the public beach and docks at the edge of Moccasin Lake.

They had good reason to look at her.

She was just an inch above five feet tall, not counting the extra height lent by the two inch stacked heels of her 'combat boots'.

Her body was lean and toned, well muscled without being unfeminine - and it was easy to see that fact. She was clad from neck to wrists to ankles in a black nylon body stocking that clung to every smooth inch of skin, darkening without really concealing.

Her more... private parts were concealed under a wrap-style miniskirt and a kerchief-style top, both green-and-black camouflage patterned. The skirt was wrapped around trim, boyish hips and a firm, full ass that lay below her slim, firm-muscled waist - and the kerchief top just barely covered her full, firm, round breasts.

Firm, round, EEE-cup breasts in a black strapless push-up bandeau bra that left quite the display of cleavage under the nylon above the kerchief top.

Topping off this eclectic ensemble was a Korean-war vintage US Army helmet perched atop her short, modishly-style thatch of deep red hair, and completing her 'Goth warrior chic' look was the compressed-gas powered paintball gun clutched in one slender hand.

"Um... hi..." She said, hesitantly, mentally wincing at the undeniably feminine voice the uncertain words came out in. "Uh... anybody got room for another passenger...?"

The response from the group of young men and women gathered around the multitude of boats, rafts and canoes lining the beach and docks immediately at the base of the beach immediately verified Amzadi's conclusions about how things would work out.

More than a dozen men and at least half a dozen women immediately offered her a place in their watercraft - some of which were already loaded to the maximum.

Nervously, she chose to accept the offer of one of the people she didn't know, feeling more comfortable 'playing a woman' around relative strangers. Managing a weak smile, she let herself be led to near the bow of the aluminum fishing boat, where the other 'armed' members of this particular craft were waiting in the light of the setting sun.

"Hey - how's it going?" The slender, deeply tanned young man at the very bow asked, smiling back at her as he held a hand back. Dressed in army-surplus clothing and carrying a pump-action paintball gun, he was nineteen or twenty, about the apparent age of her current form. "I'm Luke."

"Jane." She introduced herself with her current name. "Uh... nice to meet you."

"Sure." He said, being politely enough to peer surreptitiously at her cleavage, rather than openly like some of the other guys in the boat were doing. "You ready to hit the beaches?"

"I hope so..." She said, with another weak smile - as the boat began to move, growling under the weight of not only the people filling it, but the unpowered boats being towed in her wake.

With a rising whirl of noise, a flotilla of nearly fifty small watercraft headed out to cross the lake.

As was often the case of small towns that each boasted colleges, a rivalry had existed since time out of mind between the town where 'Jane' lived, and those 'no good bastards' who lived in Norman's Landings, the town across the lake.

For tonight, however, it wouldn't be Norman's Landing - it would be Normandy...

...and just slightly over a three hundred and fifty eighteen-to-twenty-four year-old men and women were going to 'storm the beach', taking over the enemy territory for their night-long party.

Of course, the same age-group of 'Landers' across the way weren't going to let them hit the beach without resistance - hence the paintball guns and water balloons carried by the 'assaulting army', roughly matching the arsenal of the opposing side...

...who, as part of tradition, were also 'guarding' a good-sized cache of booze and beer to supplement the lesser amount being hauled in the boats.

Since the end target of the night was to party, the eventual capture of the 'supply dump' was guaranteed, as more and more of the 'enemy troops' were captured or defected - but, as part of the tradition, the battle came before the party.

A battle that, just as the sun touched the horizon, got underway.

The first salvos were launched from the 'enemy' positions atop the low bluffs backing the beach. Three-man 'fire teams' were standing by - two of them each holding the end of a length of rubber surgical tubing which was, almost invariable, connected to a 'cup', and athletic supporter, holding a water balloon.

On order, ten of these giant sling-shots were fired, lobbing their 'weapons' towards the incoming boats.

"INNNN-coming!"

As the first ten balloons came down, only three of them managed to hit the gaggle of boats - but the 'shore artillery' that did impact targets immediately splattered the occupants with water colored with red food coloring...

...and the flotilla opened up in response, every person armed with a pain-ball gun responding to the attack.

Jane was one of these. Lifting the paintball gun to her slender shoulder, she began lofting rounds towards the shoreline.

The fact that she wasn't skilled in using the paintball gun didn't matter. What mattered was that she was firing, involved in the whole thing - and she felt a sort of rich joy welling up in her as she found herself into the rising roar of rebel shouts and yells pulled from the throats of the people around her.

Now paintballs flew almost randomly in both directions, punctuated by the incoming water balloons from the 'shore batteries'...

It was a simple fact. Collage-age students who would go out of their way to avoid 'serious' work of any kind would throw themselves into 'play' with a vigor and intelligence that was staggering - which all served to explain the 'flagship' of the incoming flotilla.

With a 'pfft' sound, the speedboat owned by one of the wealthier young man in town let loose with the 'heavy weapon' mounted on it's small front deck.

Three lengths of PVC central vacuum tubing mounted together in a triangular pattern and powered by the compressed air from a SCUBA cylinder belched out the thirty-six paintballs stuffed down the three-barreled throat of the weapon, creating an easily-visible 'buckshot' pattern on the bluffs - and one of the 'shore batteries' atop it.

As the cheers of the attacking group redoubled, the first boat reached the beach - and groups of screaming, cheering, laughing collage-age students stormed out onto the beach, firing paintball guns or lobbing water balloons with abandon, providing 'covering fire' for the unarmed, mostly female members of the assault who were busy dragging the beer and booze out onto the beach.

Laughing and cheering and enjoying herself immeasurably, Jane joined right in.

Rather than join in assaulting the bluffs, Jane chose a hung of driftwood as cover and provided 'covering fire' for the assault. Of course, she probably hit as many of her 'own' troops as the 'enemy', but it didn't matter. Every so often, somebody would swing by and drop off a beer or drink. Usually female, these 'bearers' would chat for a minute as they rested in her bit of cover...

...and Jane was amazed to find that, whether the more common female or the occasional male, each person accepted her as she appeared to be - right down to her awkwardness and lack of social graces.

In fact - they tried to make her feel more comfortable, much more so then she would have imagined, not to mention how they'd treated her as a man.

Of course, a lot of it came from the fact that men were supposed to be 'assertive' and 'assured' - but women were allowed to be more...

...more the way she really was inside, male or female.

It was a startling revelation - as was the fact that she was having more fun as a woman then she ever had as a male. It took nearly two hours until a mutual peace was established and the party began in earnest...

...by which time Jane was already pretty well on her way to being drunk, having failed to take her reduced body mass into account in her drinking.

She'd found herself a nice little spot in a small niche in the bluffs, surrounded on three sides by sandy walls that reflected back the heat of the small bonfire that Luke, the guy she'd met on the boat, had built.

She was sitting on his beach blanket, drinking his beer, her head swimming pleasantly as she leaned back against the sand wall, Luke a hand's-breadth away as they listened to the voices and music rising from the length of the beach. Across the fire sat Dave and Lucy, an 'enemy' couple who'd surrendered to Luke - in order to get some of his beer. Now, she was listening as Dave wound up a long, convoluted, and rather risqué joke.

"...and so, she says, 'Five bucks, same as in town!'" Dave finished, slapping his thigh and howling with laughter.

The other three chuckled politely - as Dave unsteadily rose to his feet, holding out a hand to Lucy and pulling her up, as well. "Well, we're gonna go find ourselves a little private space..." Dave said, winking salaciously as he led Lucy away.

It took a minute or two for Jane to realize that she was now alone with a fairly handsome young man - who was obviously interested in her, physically.

'Obviously' - because the realization came as Luke shuffled his butt over on the blanket, and lay an arm around her shoulders.

Even then, the intention of the move took a minute to register on her booze-befogged mind - long enough that by the time it register, it had been to long for her to suddenly jerk or act indignant...

...which was especially weird, because she didn't feel any particular urge to do that.

In fact, she was rather surprised to find that she didn't mind his arm around her shoulders. It felt warm and comfortable...

...and she'd found that she liked Luke. Really liked him.

He was attentive and interested and willing to listen to her - while ogling her, of course, but that was to be expected. In fact, for a social outcast like her, this was... almost heavenly.

The fact that came from being female was something she couldn't ignore - nor was the fact that she was enjoying it all so much that, despite the butterflies in her stomach and the mix of uncertain emotions rolling through her mind, she didn't want to do anything to ruin it.

All of which helped explain why, rather than stiffen or draw away from him when he slipped an arm around her, she slowly and hesitantly leaned into him...

...having already learned that she didn't have to hide her hesitancy or uncertainty, that he accepted it as being completely natural for a woman with a strange man.

Besides... it felt good.

It felt even better when Luke slid his hand down to lightly caress one firm, full breast. Part of her was a little unsure about this 'homosexual' feeling she was harboring...

...but, on the other hand, she was lonely, horny and drunk - and Luke was nice, friendly, and kind about the way he was 'coming on to her' - which was more than she could say about any sexual experience she'd had as a man.

Not that she'd had that many. Okay - she was a virgin.

After all, when you couldn't even manage to get by in a simple social situation, would shy away from parties and social gatherings due to fear, and just couldn't bring yourself to say three words to anything even remotely feminine, it was pretty damned hard to get laid.

As a man, at least.

As a woman - well, you really didn't have to do anything to get laid as a woman.

In fact, all you had to do was not do anything, and let the man - who was supposed to be the one doing something, the thing that Jim had always failed to be able to get through - do whatever he was going to do to 'get laid'.

Which was why, after some internal debate, Jane - did absolutely nothing.

As the hand fondling the cloth covering her firm breast met no resistance or complaint, Luke slid his other hand over to begin caressing one nylon-clad leg - and again there was no complain, nor resistance.

So, leaning over, her pressed his lips against hers...

...and she began to kiss back, her first overt contribution to this situation. It felt... really, really nice.

From there, things progressed more or less apace, Jane slightly bemused to find how easy it was to get laid as a woman, especially as an 'unskilled' one - all she had to do was follow Luke's lead as polite groping and kissing progressed onwards. Soon, she found herself being eased back on the blanket, clothes being strewn around her as eager hands groped warm flesh - on either side of the equation.

It all felt so good.

Not just physically - but emotionally, as well. It all felt really, really, really good.

So good, that she not only didn't do anything to discourage Luke, she actually began making soft little sounds of encouragement...

...and, as he slid his cock into her wet, ready cunt and penetrated her for her very first sexual experience, it became shouts of encouragement and began rocking her hips, working her body against him without skill, but with great fervor.

Which only grew greater as the incredible sensations doubled and redoubled, more pleasure than she'd ever felt in her life as she fondled her own breasts, hips bucking wildly as she gasped and moaned in extreme pleasure, loving the sensation of being filled by a man's cock...

...and loving the way Luke said her name as he thrust into her over and over again, increasing the pleasure that she felt with every second.

Every passing second - until she reached her first female orgasm and cried out her pleasure, screaming and moaning and gaping, still begging him to fuck her harder and faster even as her orgasm ripped through her like nothing she'd ever felt before.

Her scream of pleasure were long and high and shrill, and would have embarrassed her greatly if she'd had the presence of mind to realize what she was doing.

Of course, if she'd had the presence of mind to notice what she was doing, she would have become quite aware of the fact that she wasn't the only female voice screaming out her pleasure into the night air...

* * * *

"So, did you enjoy yourself, Mistress?" Amzadi asked, grinning as Jane walked in the door. She blushed nearly as red as her hair. "Uh - yeah, I did."

"I'm glad to hear that..." He said, slyly. "So - are you ready to change back?" "Um... not quite." She said, her blush deepening even more.

"Why would that be, Mistress...?" Amzadi asked, a knowing tone to his voice. Her blushed deepened - but her voice was defiant as she answered:

"I have a date tonight."

Laughing, Amzadi watched his new mistress toss her head and strut off to the bedroom, a wiggle in her firm new ass as she mentally savored the joys of being in the body that Amzadi, with all his years of wisdom and experience, had subtly chivvied her into wearing...

...for the rest of her life, if he wasn't mistaken. THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A group of college men and woman enter a "haunted" house on Halloween as part of pledge week, little do they know that the spirits of the house have their own idea of Trick or Treat.

The Initiation

By Gunslinger

Sunday, October 31st, 1999 - 11:38 p.m.

The cold, chill wind of autumn whistled through the stark, bare branches of the trees lining the pitted, overgrown paving-stones that had once formed a long, winding drive. Leaves, some still holding their bright hues, but most the color of old pennies, scurried and tumbled over the worn surface with a chitter, caught in the grip of the bitter wind. Above, dark clouds scudded low over the sky, obscuring the fey light of the moon.

Like a pair of bright sabers, twin spears of light cleaved the darkness, illuminating the dark, forbidding trunks of the dormant trees as the car made it's way over the occluded path. A small, aging import, the rusting vehicle moved slowly, bouncing and swaying as it's small, narrow tires rolled through the aged ruts in the drive. The bottom of the vehicle made ominous sounds as the buckled stones between the wheel-ruts rattled and banged on the rusting under side of the aging vehicle.

Reaching a spot where the trees lining the road drew back a dozen yards or so, the vehicle swung off the pitted stones and into the long, autumn-browened grass, coming to a shuddering halt as the weak-sounding mutter of the four-cylinder engine dies into silence. The door swung open, and the dome light inside the vehicle sprang to life.

Shivering, the occupant - a slender young man of Asian heritage - swung his legs outside the car and rested his elbows on his knees, crossing his arms as he shivered in the chill air. Dressed impeccably in a black tuxedo complete with bow-tie, the youth had the air of somebody who was waiting for something. On the seat next to him rested a violin case, its brass hinges and clasps gleaming under the glow of the dome-light.

A few moments passed, and the youth had just checked his watch, the dark eyes in his slender face inscrutable and enigmatic, when the sound of an engine carried in the brief cessation of the wind. The noise slowly built upon itself, a growling, powerful sound that reached a crescendo as a single beam split the Stygian darkness and washed across the faded red pain of the car.

The large, meticulously maintained motorcycle swung in beside the car, its engine dying with a last, almost defiant burst of revolutions. Long and low and sleek, the bike was a study in black-and-chrome power, the only color highlighting the stark contrast of gleaming metal provided by the red and orange around the legend 'Indian'.

The rider of the powerful bike was well matched to his vehicle - a tall, massively muscled black man with hands the size of ham-hocks and dark, wary eyes.

His current ensemble of clothing, on the other hand, was definitely at odds with both the bike and its rider.

Dark blue knee-britches strained over muscular thighs and revealed the massive, thick calves below. A white cotton shirt was straining at the buttons as it curved over massive, broad pectorals and a flat, ridged abdomen. The blue blazer over the shirt looked ready to burst its seams where the man's broad shoulders pushed outwards, and the matching 'poofy' bow-tie barely could barely find a place to rest as the man seemed to have no neck, his broad, chiseled face rising directly from massive shoulders. Atop the man's usually shaven head lay a wig of long brown hair that fell in curls, topped by a ludicrous blue hat with a white band.

"Hey, Charlie - can you believe this shit?" The biker asked, his voice rumbling in a sound reminiscent of his bike's engine. A disgusted look was plastered on his heavy-featured face. "Man, I can't believe that I'm doin' this."

The Asian's dark eyes remained inscrutable. "Through shame, one learns the value of honor, and through adversity, the meaning of success." He spoke in a soft, strangely beguiling voice.

The black man's eyes narrowed. "What?"

Unable to hold it any longer, Charles Yawakuzi dropped the act and laughed. In his normal speaking voice, he elucidated "If you want to get into the Frat, ya gotta dress like a dork."

Walker Forman grimaced. "Hey - you can laugh, man. It looks like you got off easy. What the hell you s'posed to be, anyhow - a butler?"

Picking up the violin case, Charlie brought it out for inspection. "Nope - a violinist." One eyebrow rose. "And I'm not saying I got off lucky until I see who my 'date' is."

"Yeah - smart thinking, bro." Walker agreed. "Hell, you might get paired up with the Demon Bitch from hell or sumthin', ya know?"

Charlie nodded. "Yup - It'd be just my luck, too." He glanced at his watch. "In any case, we should find out before too long. It's getting late, and the others should be here any second." He glanced past the line of tree and upwards. "I hope it's soon - at least we'll be outta the wind in there."

'There' was the low, sprawling mass of stone outlined against the horizon. Laying at the terminus of the drive they were on, the massive mass of dark stone was a creepy old mansion - or, perhaps more accurately, castle - that fulfilled all the prerequisites of a horror-movie set. Aging and empty, Brandt Castle had been the home of an eccentric old man who'd built the forbidding stronghold in the late thirties. He'd lived there, almost a recluse, until his strange disappearance in the late eighties, at the rumored age of a hundred and twenty years. Although it was assumed he was dead, the police - who'd searched the eerie building from top to bottom, had been unable to turn up a body.

The place was dark, forbidding, eerie - and to get into the local Frat, Charlie, Walker and two other guys had to spend the night inside the looming structure.

But there was more to the initiation than just spending the night in a supposedly cursed old house. One of the other parts to the little 'game' was the costumes they'd been assigned - in which 'humiliation factor' was obviously a part. The second part tied into the costumes as well.

The 'blind dates'.

They'd been told that four girls who were attempting to get into the local sorority were also being forced to spend a night in Brandt Castle. But more than that, these girls - whose identities hadn't been given - would be wearing costumes that they'd been assigned, as well. Each girl's costume would 'match up' with one of the guys, and they were a 'team' - they had to remain together the entire evening, or both members of the 'team' flunked the initiation.

As the two youth traded small-talk, shivering in the chill wind (Walker felt like his bare calves were going to get frostbitten), there was the sound of another engine, and both pair of dark eyes swung towards the road.

As soon as the gloss-white Beamer came into view, each of them mentally crossed their fingers, hoping against hope that the owner of that particular vehicle was clad in a something other than the 'matching' costume of their own.

The owner of the infamous vehicle was known to almost everybody on campus - Pamela Goodhartz. A trim, attractive blonde with great legs and a remarkably slender waist, the young woman missed 'beautiful' only on account of the haughty expression that seemed etched on her smooth, well-formed face. Fate had thrown a fit of irony into life by grossly mismatching the woman to the name - the daughter of a wealthy family and an inveterate snob, Pamela would have been better suited by a last name such as 'Rich-Bitch'.

The expensive BMW pulled to a stop in the grassy area on the other side of the drive. The door popped open, and the trim, slender figure of Pamela emerged - and both men sighed in relief at the sight of her 'Cinderella' dress. Made of blue sequins, the dress was sleeveless, clinging to her small, taut bosom and incredibly slender waist before flaring out into an ankle-length skirt. The shoulder- straps of the dress were big, puffy, white-sequined 'flares' that matched the white opera gloves and white shoes she wore.

"Oh..." Pamela said coolly, eyeing Walker as she might eye a chained ape. "Hello." She didn't even glance at Charlie, apparently deeming him below notice at all. She smirked at the outfit that the massive black wore, and his eyes narrowed as his hands balled up into fists.

Before anymore unpleasantness could issue from the brown-eyed blonde, two more vehicles arrived, one after another, spilling out their passengers into the chill air, and the even chillier gaze of Pamela.

The first was Alan Reed. Slender, with a short mop of dark-red hair and a slightly horse-like face, he usually slouched around campus in faded Levi's and a various dull-colored sweatshirts. However, his costume tonight was definitely different than his usual outfit, and Charlie was beginning to think that maybe he did get off lucky.

Alan was dressed in women's clothing. A powder-blue short-sleeve blouse with a square neckline hung untucked over the knee-length black skirt that revealed his shaven legs encased in black nylons. The shoes enclosing his feet were black leather with a short, block heel, and his face was carefully made up. There was even jewelry - a pair of small clip-on earrings, and a 'wedding ring'. But bad enough as that was, it wasn't the worst of the costume - that 'honor' went to a combination one-two punch for his 'girlish figure'.

The first 'punch' was the painfully tight black leather corset that he lifted his shirt slightly to display. So tight that sitting in the car had been painful, the heavy black garment cinched his already slim waist down into womanly proportions.

But it was hard to notice Alan's waist - you had to get past his chest first.

Obviously going for humiliation, the Frat boys who'd put together Alan's costume had supplied 'tits' that were held in place by the straps of the 'bra' they'd had made. However, it wasn't just the fact that he had a 'bust' that was so humiliating - it was the size of the monstrosities they'd chosen for 'tits'. The size of beach-balls, that's basically what they, in fact, were - fully inflated beach-balls covered in a thin sheathing of flesh-colored foam rubber. The massive 'tits' strained the shirt to its limit, and the white satin 'bra' they'd had made was faintly visible through the shirt.

The second arrival was obviously Charlie's date, as she was dressed in a simple black dress, and lugging a cello case as she emerged from her car. A somewhat chunky girl with long, wavy black hair that was her best feature, Charlie had seen her once or twice on campus, but didn't know her by name until she shyly introduced herself as Maryanne Plunkett. She joined Charlie at his car, shuffling anxiously from foot to foot, ill at ease. She was obviously self-conscious about the way her somewhat thick - but not entirely unattractive - body looked in the dress, and Charlie tried to make her feel at ease with some small talk.

A moment or two passed, then another vehicle arrived. The doors swung open - and there were an interesting mix of expressions on the faces of those already there.

It was the Garrison 'twins'.

Not actually twins, Marc and Micki (somehow derived from 'Michelle') were siblings that differed in age by a little more than a year, and who might as well have been twins, so similar in appearance were they.

Mark - dressed in white tights, blue doublet and cape, and broad brimmed plumed hat that made it obvious he was Pamela's 'date' - was tall and broad shouldered, with the muscular build of an outdoorsman rather than a body-builder. With an easy smile and an amiable nature, he got along with everybody, and even Pamela only sighed lightly, despite the fact that Marc was a 'working-class stiff' and would be beneath her dignity if he were any other than the guy voted 'Nicest Guy on Campus'.

Of course, the fact that he was devilish handsome and (as the tight doublet and hose made quite clear) very well endowed didn't hurt. However, all the things that made Marc look like a near-perfect 'All American Guy' did something else for his slightly older sister.

She was tall and broad shouldered for a woman, with strong, even features much like Marc's. In many ways, she was a near carbon-copy of her brother, but somehow transmogrified into a feminine version - and there was no doubt that she was female. Despite her smooth musculature, slender hips and wide shoulders, she was still attractive, if not 'dainty'. Most men, upon seeing Micki, thought of Brigitte Neilson - only better endowed, as Micki possessed a pair of incredibly firm, round, high-set breasts that were easily a triple D-cup, yet looked just right on her frame. More than one guy had tried to date the attractive, powerful woman, but Micki had grown up in a house with three brothers, and was a quintessential tomboy, and she tended to have brief, energetic sexual flings that inevitably settled into comfortable friendships rather than relationships.

Micki laughed and walked over to Walker, shaking her head. "I guess you're my date, handsome." She said, holding out her hand. "I'm Micki."

Walker introduced himself, having to shake his own head at the sorority girls who'd paired them together. As silly as he looked in his 'Little Lord Fauntleroy' outfit, Micki was equally unsuited for her costume.

Balanced atop black platform shoes with six inch heels, she wore little white ankle socks with pink frills. Her long, attractively muscled legs disappeared under the hem of a short, puffy pink skirt with white lace trim. Over her prodigious bust was stretched a matching pink blouse with puffy short sleeves and lace collar. To complete the 'Little Miss' look, her long, golden hair was topped with a big pink bow.

"Well, that leaves us short by one." Marc said, looking around at the pairs they'd formed into. It wasn't hard to spot Alan, standing by himself in his top-heavy costume. "I think we're all matched up right, which means we're just missing your 'date'."

Before Alan could reply, there was a muffled whine that indicated that the missing member of their odd little clique was about to make an entrance - which she promptly did, atop a motor-scooter.

It took half a second - then the entire group (excluding Pamela, but including the new arrival) broke into laughter. Whoever had planned this had been inspired for this particular match-up.

Where Micki was muscular in a smooth, feminine way, Terri White-Feathers was a mass of muscle to rival Walker. Short, even for a woman, the woman seemed as wide as she was tall, with massive, bulging biceps and thighs. Her Sioux heritage was obvious in her darkly bronze skin, dark eyes and short mane of gloss black hair.

And, to make the whole joke complete, she was dressed in a pair of jeans, a baggy sweatshirt that hid her small breasts, and a pair of men's running shoes. She wore no makeup, and the watch on one wrist was a large men's model.

But, as Alan's 'female' costume was made undeniable by the massive bust, Terri's jeans were straining at the crotch over whatever massive object that was pretending to be an equally outsize cock and balls. To make sure that there was absolutely no doubt as to who she was teamed with, she wore a matching 'wedding' ring on her finger.

After making sure that everybody had been introduced to each other, the octet finally turned and began to walk the last stretch of road leading up to the forbidding building looming above them.

* * * * * 11:56 p.m.

"So - how do we get in?"

Marc asked the question in a reasonable tone of voice that would have been a little more effective if not for the sudden 'thud' of Walker throwing his bulk against the thick oak door that barred entry to the broody mass of stone.

"Well, we could..." Alan started to reply, only to be cut short by an even louder 'thud'. The small group huddle around the planter near the door looked up at the booming sound, smirking as Terri, Walker and Micki rebounded from the iron-bound door with muffled curses.

"Uh, guys?" Marc called to the muscular trio. "That's an oak door, at least two inches thick and reinforced with iron bands. Working together, the three of you could probably replace a locomotive and haul freight over the Rockies - but trying to batter that door down's only going to bruise you."

The three outlandishly clad new friends looked at each other, gauged the looks they received, then looked at the door again.

The door was set into a three-story tall octagonal tower that protruded out from, and over, the rest of the two-story building. The only break in the heavy stone wall was the door they were assaulting - which, as a quick circuit of the house after finding the door locked had revealed, was the only entrance to the building, the stone walls otherwise unbroken aside from small, slit-like windows on the second story that were too narrow to fit through - even if they could find a way up to them.

"One... two... three..." Micki counted off, and all three rushed the door again. With the same result.

"Okay - I felt it shudder that time." Walker said, rubbing a shoulder gingerly. "Let's give it one more try - third time's the charm, right?"

The three of them crouched and prepared to charge again, as the rest of the group shrugged and turned to watch the 'fun' with amused expressions - even Pamela seemed to find this vaguely entertaining.

"Okay. One... Two..." "Hold it!"

This came from Maryanne, and all heads swung in her direction - more out of the fact that she'd spoken, rather than what she'd said. Obviously painfully shy, she'd barely spoken two dozen words - and those had been in a quiet, hesitant voice.

Now, she brushed brightly at all the eyes on her, and seemed to shrink back in herself a bit at all the attention.

"What is it, Maryanne?" Charlie asked, keeping his voice friendly and supportive, and receiving a grateful look in response. "Um... this place is, like... really ugly, right?" She half asked, half stated.

"Well, thank you for the architectural critique, my dear." Pamela said, coolly. "Why don't..."

Marc's hand on her arms stopped her biting comment, and she glared daggers at him for interrupting, but - surprisingly - held the rest of her comment. "Go on." Marc urged Maryanne.

Blushing even deeper, Maryanne stammered when she spoke. "Well, um.. there's like, um.. no decoration at all, and no.. um, landscaping and..." She stopped, then spoke in a rush, getting her idea out in one unbroken string of words. "WhyisthereaplanterouthereandIthinkweshouldlookunderit." Like a balloon, she seemed to deflate as the words rushed out of her, practically curling into Charlie's comforting embrace.

It took the others a second to decode her words. You could tell who figured it out in which order by watching the eyes swivel to stare at the planter they were clustered around. Then, Alan sank to his knees and pushed against the large, ugly stone object, teeth clenched as he strained...

It barely budged. Alan relaxed and stood, looking over at the muscular trio bunched to the side. With a smile, he clasped his press-on- nailed fingers together over his massive bosom and spoke in a remarkably realistic, Southern-accented falsetto. "Oh, my dear, I fear little ol' me will never move this."

Laughing, Terri strode over, forcing her voice into as low a register as she could. "Step aside, woman - you're big strong man's here now."

Fluttering his artificial eyelashes - garnering another laugh - Alan steeped aside to let 'her husband' get at the planted. With a powerful motion, Terri tipped the planter over - revealing an old-fashioned style key, only lightly touched oxidation along it's brass length.

"Eureka!" Marc said, stopping and scooping up the prize. Leaning over, he kissed Maryanne soundly on the cheek, causing her to go a deep red - and to smile.

Following Marc closely - and saying a few congratulatory words to the blushing brunette - the rest of the group followed Marc up to the door. Inserting the key into the lock he twisted it and was rewarded with a hollow 'clunk' as the large tumblers moved. He pushed the door open and walked inside, followed by the others.

"Hey, anybody got a flashlight?" Marc called.

"Yeah - Stuck one in the violin case." Charlie replied. "Hang on - I'll just step outside so I can see the clasps to..."

That's when the door swung shut with a heavy booming nose, cutting off the little light that seeped from the cloudy skies and leaving them in stifling darkness.

* * * * * Midnight

Charlie winced as Maryanne screamed, practically in his ear - but it was short, as she cut it off in a second, leaving behind an instant of silence before she giggled.

"Sorry - it's just that it's so..." She trailed off.

"Creepy?" Pamela's voice came out of the darkness - and heads swung in a useless attempt to gape at her, for she'd spoke the word not in sarcasm, but in a commiserate tone. It was the first vaguely humane thing she'd ever done within earshot of any of them, and they were startled to realize that even Miss Rich Bitch could be nervous in the dark.

Then a stab of light flared, making them all squint as their eyes adjusted. "Ha!" Charlie said, triumphantly. "I knew I could... what the fuck?"

A couple of them gasped. Charlie had been swinging the flashlight around, and now it was aimed at the door they'd come in...

...only, there was no door there. Only blank wall, broken by a small wooden plaque with writing of some sort carved into it. "What the hell... did I get turned around?" Charlie asked, slowly swinging the flashlight around the room.

"No - I mean, I'd swear that's where we came in, too." Alan said, confused.

The flashlight's beam confirmed the impossible. It swept slowly in a circle, revealing the octagonal space they were in. Directly opposite of where all of them thought they'd entered, there was a small opening that showed only darkness, and couldn't possibly be the door they'd come in, only mistaken in location. No, the opening was definitely into the building proper - yet by the time the beam had come back to the plaque, there was no sign of the door which had provided access to the room in which they stood.

"This just isn't possible!" Walker said, angrily. He stormed over to the seemingly solid wall. "It's gotta be some sort of trick - like the inside of the door's covered with fake stones or somethin..." His voice died as his fingers met cold, unyielding stone, with no trace of a seam where the 'hidden' door would have to be. Thumping against the surface yielded no hollow sounds, only the dull, meaty sound of fist on unyielding stone.

"This can't be..." Pamela said, shaking her head. The entire group was now clustered around the place where all of their senses told them there should be a door - but wasn't.

"Holy shit..." Micki breathed. She'd been reading the plaque on the wall, and now her face was pale. "Read this, guys. Charlie, give 'em more light."

Charlie shone the beam full on to the wooden plaque, and they all leaned in closer to read the words inscribed on its aging surface;

By an All Hallow's midnight, horrors you will learn.

Onward you must travel, to gain the exit that you yearn. Two tests for each, choices all, each must take their turn.

Face the demons, make your choice, but to yourself you'll not return.

Escape this house by sunrise, or in Hades shall you burn.

"No." Walker said, shaking his head. "Uh, uh. This is some sort of joke - part of the initiation."

"Yeah - you're probably right." Terri agreed, and a couple of them murmured agreement and relaxed.

Maryanne, however, was clutching Charlie's arm, wide-eyed and obviously spooked, and Marc looked unsure as he asked, "But... how'd they hide the door?"

Pamela obviously had control of herself by now - or, perhaps more accurately, was using the explanation of it being part of the initiation to reassure herself. "Don't be silly." She said, her voice once more cool. "They had ages to set this up. Obviously, if we want to get in, we have to play they're stupid little game. Now, lets just get on with it."

They looked around at each other, gauging what they read in each other's eyes.

"Well - we sure as hell can't get out through here." Marc said, banging on the wall. "We might as well look for another way out." He didn't mention that they search along the exterior of the building had yielded no signs of another exit. If they were right and the door they'd come in was just hidden, then maybe there was an exit that was hidden on the outside.

But when he'd thumped the wall, it had felt solid to him....

* * * * * 12:11 a.m.

By the flickering glow of kerosene lamp, the group of young men and women looked around the room the found themselves in, just inside the door that led from the tower.

"All right - let's stick together and try to make the best of this." Marc said, rubbing his hands together in chill, still air of the castle. "Charlie - are you willing to share your little cache with us? Kind of a 'good luck' drink?"

The Asian shrugged. "Sure."

They'd found the lamps sitting on small tables just inside the door and lit them with Walker's matches, to spare the batteries of the flashlight Charlie had the foresight to bring. But that wasn't the only think he'd secreted inside the violin case - he'd also brought with him a small bottle of scotch, and it was this that Marc was referring to. He thought it might keep all of their spirits up if they each had a drink, although the eight of them would empty the bottle pretty quickly...

"uh..." Maryanne said, and once more the group turned to look at her. She was blushing. "Maybe.. I mean, we could " She stumbled to a stop - then ducked out of the circle the group had made, into the darkness of the tower. "Wait! Where are ?" Charlie called after her.

"I'll get her." Walker said, ducking into the dark doorway, the smoke from the cigarette he held between his thick lips wafting in a trail after him.

There was a second of silence - then Walker's laughter rolled out of the darkness, followed shortly by the massive man himself, trailed by Maryanne.

In the foppishly dressed black man's bulging arms was Maryanne's cello case, left behind in the rush - and it was open, exposing a remarkable array of booze.

"I thought... well, spending the night by ourselves and.." Maryanne tried to explain. She paused. "I brought enough for everyone."

Laughing, Charlie gave her a big kiss, right on the lips. The others also chuckled, shaking their heads at the mousy little girl who proved, so far, to be one of the most useful members of their group, followed closely by her 'date'.

Selecting a bottle each, with only a couple of minutes wrangling over who got what, they stood once more in a loose circle.

"Here's to Maryanne!" Marc said, holding up his bottle. The others echoed the sentiment, clinking their bottles together lightly, then taking varying amounts as each one's personality dictated in a complimentary slug.

Forming into a rough double line, each person with their date, they headed into the darkness. Walker, with one of the lamps, took the lead, Micki close beside him. Behind them came Charlie and Maryanne, even closer together as they actually embraced. Behind the embracing couple came Alan and Terri, having to leave a half-step more between them and Charlie to make room for Alan's impossible bust-line. Bringing up the rear was Marc and Pamela. Marc held the other lap, and Pamela walked a half-step behind and a step to the side, her arms wrapped around each other with her hands trying to cover the brae skin of her shoulders above the opera-length white silk gloves she wore.

Catching the movement out of the corner of his eye, Marc paused and pulled off his cape, holding it out to her. Pamela turned up her nose. "No, thanks - I'm quite all right, thank you."

Marc smiled wryly. "Never said you weren't. This damned thing's pretty heavy, and it's bugging the hell outta me."

Pamela looked startled - then, almost invisible, a faint smile tugged at the corner of her lips. "And you want me to act like a pack mule, right?" She asked - but there was no rancor as she took the thick cape and pulled it around her like a shawl, protecting her bare shoulders. Marc turned away and moved to catch up.

A second later, he became aware of a presence beside him as Pamela caught up to him - and continued to walk beside him, inches away.

Before he could make anything of it, however, she spoke. "Don't think this means I owe you anything, Marc." Mentally shaking his head, Marc kept his peace as they continued deeper into the house.

* * * * * 12:23 a.m.

"Well - I'd say this is where the test begin." Marc said, looking at what lay before them.

There was eight doors. All made of thick oak and bound in iron, each one had one of their names written upon it.

"I guess we're each supposed to go through our own door, and there we'll find our 'test'." Walker said, with a grin. "See, I told you it was some kinda prank - otherwise, how would our name get on these doors?"

Marc, however, still wasn't quite sure. "Well - let's get it over with."

"Wait a sec!" Charlie protested. "The rules said we had to stay with our dates! What if this is some kind of set-up to disqualify us?"

Marc shrugged. "Well, if this is a prank, it's set up by the same person who gave us the original rules - so, if we don't follow these instructions, they'd have just as much reason to disqualify us. Either way..."

"yeah." Charlie agreed.

With that, each of them opened the door with their name on it and stepped through.

* * * * *

12:24 a.m. - Walker.

Stepping through the opening, Walker heard the door swing shut behind him - but he didn't turn to look, as he was too busy staring. He was in a bedroom.

It was a typical on-campus dorm room. There were the usual posters and bric-a-brac, odds and ends, as well as clothing, a desk with a computer on it - and, of course, a bed. In fact, it wasn't all that different - except for one thing.

This was most definitely a girl's bedroom.

He shook his head and began to gingerly move around, looking at various items - then stopped dead, picking up the photo that sat beside the computer.

"What the...?" He muttered, shocked.

It was a photo of Micki and Marc, both several years younger, standing in front of a lake somewhere, smiling. Walker's head snapped up and he looked around with a new eye.

"I'm in Micki's dorm room - how the Hell..." He was stunned. It was miles and miles of distance between the castle and the dorm - yet he'd simply stepped through a door and ended up here...

...unless, of course, this wasn't really Micki's room, but a mock-up.

Slowly, he made another circuit of the room, looking for anything that might give it away. "Holy geez..."

Walker stopped, his mouth dropping open. He'd ended up at a two-way mirror in the corner. To make looking at herself easier, Micki (or whoever had set up this simulated room) had installed a full length mirror on each wall of the corner, thus providing a double view.

The only think was - neither mirror was actually reflecting at the moment.

The one on the left showed him - only, he was dressed in a completely different outfit than the ridiculous one he wore now. In the reflection - which moved as he moved - he was dressed in all black, right down to a pair of black leather gloves.

In his right hand, his 'reflection' held a long, wicked looking knife. A knife that slowly dripped large droplets of blood from its gore-soaked blade. And in the background, on the bed, he could see a mound that was similarly gore-soaked - even the long, blonde hair that trailed over the bed.

Whirling, Walker verified that the room was indeed empty - no disemboweled body was soaking the bed in blood, and there was no grotesque splatter of blood on the wall - until he looked in the mirror again, and could see both quite clearly.

Then he shifted his gaze to the other mirror. The one that showed...

Micki. Well, sort of. It was her, right down to the costume she'd been wearing - but the reflection in that mirror also moved as Walker moved.

"man - this is too damned strange..." Walker said... Then, it got stranger.

The door to the room popped open, and Walker spun around. His jaw dropped as he stared - for several reasons. The first was the fact that Micki's roommate, Cindy, was leaning in the door. The second was that, behind Cindy, there was no stone hallway, as there had been moments before, but the living-room of a standard dorm.

Thirdly - because Cindy's neck had been gut from ear to ear, and she'd been gutted.

"Choose..." Cindy said, her voice a hoarse rattle. "Choose - become like her, or kill those who are like her. You must choose - for if you do not, the choice will be made for you, and you will be both - you will be like her as you kill yourself. So choose - or die."

Walker gaped at the apparition in front of him, wondering how any of this was possible. "I.. I don't understand!" He told the Cindy in the doorway (it had to be make-up, right...? But he could smell the blood...) "How...? What...?"

"Choose a mirror, and touch it. Now - or never."

Slightly spooked, Walker staggered back - and bumped into one of the mirrors.

"You have chosen..." Cindy intoned - then, before his very eyes, her wounds vanished, and she stood whole and unmarked. "Hey, what's up?"

Confused, Walker just gaped at her, wondering how they'd done... whatever they'd done. Then a strange cramp struck his gut, and he grimaced.

"All th' sudden, I feel.." He started to say - then, with a moan, he suddenly doubled over, clutching at his stomach. The hat and wig tumbled off, revealing his clean-shaven scalp.

Walker's skin was.. moving.

Not just his skin - his clothes too seemed to be melting or something. The massive black man's mouth opened in a scream - but no sound emerged.

Then, suddenly - he began to get taller.

Walker wasn't getting taller - as he watched, shocked, his writhing shoes began to change shape, the small, flat heel rising upwards, narrowing as it did so...

He couldn't see everything at once - there was no way. Instead, what happened next came in a flurry of images, disjointed and almost unreal. The way his short pants became baggy, rapidly lightening in color, fading through purple and violet as the bottoms of the pants rose and flared farther and farther out...

The way his massive biceps began to shrink, his whole arm slowly fading in color, becoming pale even as the hair seemed to fall away...

...as the contours of his rapidly lightening legs shifted and altered...

Before time to break the shocked paralysis that gripped he had them, it was over, and Walker staggered, staring down at...

..herself. Because, in those few seconds, he'd turned into an exact copy of Micki, right down to the clothes she was wearing. Balanced easily atop the high-heeled shoes, he looked into the mirrors, both of which also showed Micki - moving the way he moved.

He'd become an exact clone of her.

"Holy fuckin..." Walker started to exclaim - then stopped dead at the sound of her voice - exactly the same as Micki's.

She staggered back from the mirrors, horrified, finally realizing that this was no collage prank - no this was something far, far different.

Horrified, unable to think clearly, she gave a small, horrified scream she didn't even hear. Turning, she staggered to the now-closed door, yanked it open, and stepped...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Micki

Micki stepped through the door...

..and suddenly stopped dead.

She didn't have a choice. Stunned, she looked down, then up, to find herself chained, spread eagle, at wrists and ankles.

"What the..?" She asked, eyes wide. She looked around, nearly panicked, wonder what the hell had happened - one instant she was stepping through the door, the next she was chained in the middle of a large, empty room.

Well - not empty. Because, across from her, seated in a chair was...

..a demon.

The creature gave all the indications of being just that - the skin was a dull, dusky red, and didn't look like make-up. Neither did the horns, or the glowing red eyes, or the tail.

The creature rose to its full height, and held up an object. A massive black dildo, complete with a set of balls at the end. It was huge.

"Oral or anal?" It asked, almost politely. Its voice was unlike anything Micki had ever heard a human throat make, sounding like a rockslide that spoke.

"Wha.. what.." Micki stammered, her nostrils assaulted by the smell of brimstone.

"Do you want to take this orally or anally?" The demon asked. "Either one will have an effect. If I shove it deep up your ass, you'll find yourself forever possessed of the craving to be fucked up the ass - figuratively speaking." It smiled, displaying yellowed, pointed teeth. "You'll do anything you can to become the most pathetic wretch on earth. Drugs and booze and sex. You'll only consort with the most wretched slime of humanity, and enter a downward spiral of debauchery that will drag you down - and along with you, you're two youngest brothers, who will follow you every step of the way." He cocked his head. "Take it orally, and this will become yours, for your use and pleasure - and I assure you that it will be pleasurable if you use it. however, its use will be your own choice." It smiled. "Most of the time."

It tapped the dildo thoughtfully. "I give you ten seconds to choose - or I do both. Now - choose."

Micki wasn't sure what was going on, and even less sure of what was being offered - but as the creature approached her, holding the massive dildo, she was sure that if it was shoved into her ass, it would rupture her - it was too big. Probably for her mouth, too - but..."

"Oral.." Micki whispered as the creature smiled.

Stepping up to her, it placed the end of the massive dildo against her lips - and pushed.

She strained, trying to keep her teeth clenched - but it did no good. Her jaw was forced farther and farther apart as the massive, thick plastic phallus forced its way deeper and deeper into her mouth - and throat.

Impossibly, her mouth and throat seemed to stretch to accommodate the massive dildo. Slowly, the huge object continued farther and farther into her - until, with a wet, slurping sound, the end of it - the massive fake balls - slid past her lips, and down her throat, creating a massive bulge in her neck as it slid down a pipe that should have been way too small for it's passage.

Micki gagged and coughed slightly - then felt a strange sensation - and understood what the creature had meant. Shocked, she gazed downwards, feeling the sensation as her vagina began to change, bulging outwards. Her panties drew tighter and tighter around the bulge as it filled - and she knew that, dangling between her legs, was a massive cock, identical to the penis she'd just swallowed - except that it was real.

Then, there was a strange whirling sensation in her mind, and the world seemed to gray out before reforming into...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Charlie

Although he'd really had no choice - not when the option was becoming a pedophile - Charlie gritted his teeth as the demon-nurse smiled merrily.

"This is going to hurt - a lot." She/it promised - then rammed two needles into Charlie's chest. He screamed. The pain was incredible.

Laughing, the 'nurse' walked over to the machine beside the 'operating table' in the Geiger-inspired OR, and turned on the pump.

Charlie screamed again, in both pain and horror, as the flesh beneath his nipples began to slowly bulge outwards, forming two perfect domes that increased slowly and agonizingly, forming small, almost prepubescent mounds - then continued to grow.

He'd really had no choice, he kept telling himself through the haze of pain. It was either become a pedophile - or accept that he would have a pair of tits of his own to lug around.

But as they continued to swell, growing ever larger in an agony of growth, Charlie realized he'd forgotten to find out just how big his new endowments were to be...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Maryanne

The once short, slightly chunk girl looked down at the tall, massively muscled male form she now possessed and hesitantly flexed one incredibly huge bicep. At seven feet, she was massive, with musculature that rivaled any man's one earth - or, he was massive.

Despite the shock the new man felt at the new, male body he possessed, he knew it was better than becoming a woman who would give birth to twenty children - each of whom would die a slow, agonizing death...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Alan

Alan stumbled as the weight on his chest... no, her chest - increased as her tits suddenly became real - as did the rest of her costume. When given a choice between having to become what the costume made him appear to be or to become the President, it would have seemed to be a hard choice - if not for the fact that as president he would have initiated a nuclear war within three years...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Terri

She screamed as the 'radiation' washed over her, making real the illusion her costume presented...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Marc

He screamed as the pain washed through him, his innards altering to produce the massive amounts of sperm as 'promised', even as his appearance changed on the outside as well...

* * * * *

1:24 a.m. - Pamela

She screamed in pain as her breasts continued to swell under the pressure of the fire-hose shoved up her ass...

* * * * *

INTERLUDE - 1:33 a.m.

"So - I think they're actually going to stay the whole night." The slender, dark-haired woman who made the remark lowered the binoculars she'd been using to keep an eye on Brandt Castle.

Gary, head of the Frat on campus looked over at his Sorority counterpart, Linda. "Ya think?"

She shrugged. "I expected them to come out by now, if they were gonna. I guess they must be having fun."

Gary shook his head. "I still can't believe they went for this. Obviously, they have no idea that you and I have been friends for years - of course we'd set something up together."

"Yeah." Linda agreed. "Say, speaking of our friendship - you remember where we first met?"

Gary grinned. "Of course - the Revival Show. God, wasn't that great? All the legends - well, all those still around."

Linda nodded. "Yeah - they were kinda geriatric, weren't they? Well, that's the problem - ever since interest faded, there hasn't really been anything new, you know?"

Gary snorted. "Well, there's some new stuff - but it's all shit..."

Soon they were deep in discussion over their shared interest.

* * * * * 1:46 a.m.

The group was back together.

Minutes before, they'd suddenly appeared, all in the same instant, in a large room. The following minutes had been filled with cries of horror, of outrage, of anger fear and confusion, followed by repetitions of what had been done to them, the choice they'd been forced to make.

Then, as they stood around, emotions flaring in different spectrums, the door to the room they were in opened...

The stiffened as a demon entered. However, this demon was unusual - in that it was dressed in a tuxedo, impeccably attired.

"Well, let's not take forever. You should get ready." The creature said, making shooing motions with its taloned hand. "Come on, we haven't got all day."

Marc - now impossibly handsome, every square inch of his body absolutely flawless - stepped forward. Despite being scared silly, he forced his voice to remain calm. "What? Get ready for what?"

The demon blinked. "What? Nobody told you?" He sighed. "Look, mortal - it's Halloween night. It's our time to have a little fun - and you're the entertainment. I can see you've already been modified for the show - but some of you still have to get costumed..." he glanced pointedly at the naked, massive mountain of a man that had been Maryanne "...and decide who's doing which act."

"Which act? Which acts are there?" Marc asked, hesitantly.

The demon threw up its hands, muttering something. Then it ticked off on its four clawed fingers. "There's the dance act, the magic show, the comedy skit and the love story." He winked. "You always finish with a love story - it's a given."

The confused group shared looks, confused.

The demon clapped its hands together. "Come on - the first acts on in two minutes!"

It scurried out of the room, and the group looked at each other, now more lost then ever, and unsure what to do.

* * * * *

"Succubi and Incubi, Demons of all ages!" The Deecee (Demon of Ceremonies) intoned. "Welcome to the two-hundred and fifty seventh million, eight hundred and seventy three thousand, four hundred and twenty first annual Human Show!"

The audience booed, hissed, clapped and cheered - as well as other various sounds that human language didn't have words for. "And now - let's have a big round of applause for our first act, the ladies of light-footedness, the gals of grace - Micki and Nicki!"

And Micki and Walker - apparently, she'd been given a stage name without being informed - stepped out behind the curtain, standing at the end of the stage nervously. One look at the huge crowd of demons, numbering into the millions, didn't help at all.

Music started - a heavy, driving beat. Though there was no visible speakers system, the music seemed to fill the huge expanse equally, never wavering in volume at all as Technotronic's 'Move To The Rhythm' pounded across the plain.

Awkwardly, stiffly, Walker began to dance, her stomach like a ball of ice and cold sweat trickling down her face. She wanted to vomit from the fear, cry from the sensations her feminine body was producing as she moved, and scream from the anger of what was happening to her. The one thing she didn't want to do was dance, and it showed in her movement, as it did in Micki's.

The audience began to get ugly.

"You're making me look bad." The Deecee whispered - then pointed a finger at them. "This should do it."

Nicki felt like she'd been electrocuted, and from the way Micki jerked she was sure the same sensation was running through her body.

Then they began to dance. Really, really dance - because they'd suddenly been overwhelmed by the need to do so, and found that they had the ability as well.

With sensual struts, both of them moved down the stage to the center and began to dance to the music - much in the same way that a stripper would. Because that's precisely what they were, now.

Nicki tried to fight what she was feeling - but was completely unable to do so. She was filled with a need - a need to move sensually, to dance, to arouse - and to be aroused. She and Micki were moving as if they were a rehearsed team, lewd, suggestive movements as they danced, hands sliding over their own and each others bodies, touching, fondling, caressing. In short order they'd removed their skirts, revealing their pink panties, Micki's bulging with her huge endowment.

The audience was going wild as their act became more and more sexual. Nicki was in a state of sexual anguish - the two of them were touching, kissing, fondling m- and although she was disgusted, she couldn't stop. Part of her didn't want to stop - the touch of Micki's hand on her new tits, the way her firm new ass felt as it was fondled - it was all so pleasurable - and disgusting.

But she couldn't stop - the demon's spell had seen to that. Even worse, the spell made her crave what was happening to her - all she wanted to do was...

...was...

..as the song drew closer to the end, the now naked Nicki got to do what she wanted yet feared - she bent over, still moving in time to the music.

And, in time to the music, Micki stepped up behind her and shoved her massive, rock-hard cock deep into Nicki's new cunt.

Nicki screamed in pain, pleasure, disgust and ecstasy as Micki's huge new endowment entered her tight cunt and began to pound into her in time to the heavy driving beat of the music. Pleasure and pain warred as Micki fucked her deep and hard, the cock feeling like it was the size of a nuclear submarine as it stretched her cunt to the limit - and brought wave after wave of intense, incredible ecstasy.

Then, as the music came to an end, Nicki came too - screaming at the top of her lungs and begging for more as Micki's hot cum gushed deep inside Nicki's new body.

The Deecee clapped his hands together. "Weren't they just wonderful, folks? Well, get ready for a treat - for our next act is none other than the great Martini and his lovely assistant Charli!"

'The Lovely Charli' wanted to die as he followed the now tuxedo-clad Martini (nee Maryanne) onto stage. He was dressed in a pair of fishnet tights, tiny black panties, a black bra over his massive, impossibly firm tits, and a tuxedo jacket.

Twenty-five minutes later, Charli wiggled off the stage with a huge smile on her face, massive tits bouncing and giggling. No longer masculine in any part of body or mind, the new assistant was a giggling, bimbo-like Asian ditz. After Martini's first few, pathetic tricks, the Deecee had 'Jazzed' him, and the next tricks - like pulling Charli's cock out of a hat, cutting her apart and substituting in a new waifs, etc., had made a definite impression - although the 'big finale', when Martini had transmitted his knowledge of the secret card through his cum - she'd sucked his cock, swallowed his cum, and then shown the card - had been her favorite part. She just loved sucking cock, even if it wasn't in the act.

Then it was Terry and Anna's turn. The renamed couple were in a skit where their parents dropped by. The parents had given Anna her gigantic tits and Terry his massive cock as anniversary presents, and they had to pretend they loved them. Like, when Anna's huge tits overbalanced her, making her fall face-first in her 'Father-in-Laws' lap, and she had to pretend that it was on purpose, so she gave him a blow job. Or, another time when Anna had fallen down on her back, and Terry had bent down to help and his cock had burst out of his pants. He'd covered by claiming it was because he was going to tit-fuck Anna, which he promptly did.

At first, they were reluctant in their roles - but by the time the skit was done, they were loving every second of it, hardly able to wait for the next 'fucking pratfall'.

And off course, Marc and Pamela's love story wasn't nearly as entertaining until the Deecee switched their bodies on them...

* * * * *

"Oh - I think they're coming out."

Linda pointed at the figures - they were to far away to make out details - that were walking down the hillside of the castle's mount. "It's gotta be them." Gary agreed. "Come on, lets go down to where they parked and meet them."

As the headed down the hill, Gary finished the discussion they'd started earlier with a sad shake of his head. "Yeah, Like I was saying - ever since Sullivan went off the air, Variety Shows have gone to Hell "

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: In a medieval world, three men try to relive their fathers glory, but, instead, find themselves transformed into women and transported into the present day future.

Into The Breach

A Comedy of Heirs By Gunslinger

In the steely gray pall of predawn he strode, his long, hunter-green cloak flowing back from his broad shoulders as his mane of dark hair stirred in the cool morning breeze. Beneath the steely shine of his chain mail, his leather vestments creaked in soft counterpoint to the steady beat of the sword that thumped against his thigh as he moved through the thick mists rolling off the fields with the sure-footed grace of a...

"Ouch!"

Stopping dead, Jace began hopping on one foot, his chain mail jingling and jangling discordantly as he cradled the booted foot that had quite firmly connected with the unseen rock hidden by the mists. Cursing vehemently, he rubbed at his stubbed toe as he tried to keep his balance by hopping back and forth in place...

...until the slightly over-long cloak managed to end up directly under the heel of his bouncing foot, and he was suddenly faced with the ignominious prospect of successfully managing to choke himself to death. Gasping for air against the constriction of the cloak around his neck, he quickly lifted his foot from the trailing end of the cloak - and since he was only standing on the one leg, it resulted in a sudden descent that was only stopped by the firm impact of poorly-padded fundament against the hard-packed dirt of the road.

"By Elath's third testicle...!" Jace Heigelson swore, loudly - then, quickly, slapped a hand to his mouth, his narrow, acne-scarred face coloring as he quickly glanced around to make sure nobody had heard him utter the particularly vile oath...

...or had witnessed his less-than-triumphant entry into town.

Rising, the skinny - he would have said 'rangy' - young man quickly brushed the dust from his cloak and linen breeches. Straightening the somewhat over-sized chain-mail hauberk over his narrow shoulders, Jace rolled his head and took a deep breath, trying to return to the mindset he'd been in when he'd set out this morning.

Finally ready, Jace resumed his steady pace towards the building nestled near the small village's only crossroad. Nearing the two-story stone-and-wood building, he threw back his shoulders and proudly mounted the three rough-hewn steps leading onto the wide, covered veranda fronting the entire length of the Dancing Unicorn. Turning away from the heavy double doors that led into the inn itself, he walked down the wide veranda, the heels of his knee-high leather boots clocking hollowly on the worn planking.

Reaching the smaller - but much more heavily trafficked - door near the southwest end of the building, Jace lifted the rust-spotted iron latch and slipped into tavern.

"Sorry, but we're not open yet," the long-limbed young man wiping a hard-used table with a rag said, not looking up. "You can break your fast in an hour..."

Jace grinned at the russet-haired young man's back. "Liam, it's me..."

At the sound of the familiar voice, Liam Gairkson quickly dropped the rag, wiping his hands on the stained leather apron as he whirled to greet his friend.

"Well, well - Joyous birthday, Jace!" Liam said, warmly, looking over his friend from head to toe. "Hmm... not a bad fit. How's it feel to be wearing the very arms and armor that the great Heigel himself wore on his adventure...?"

"Oh, about as good as it felt for you when you wore your father's adventuring gear last week, I imagine." Jace replied, with a trace of bitterness.

"Yeah. Sorry..." Liam said with a wry smile of apology. "Kinda really sucks, having to sneak around before dawn in your birthday suit- of-armor, doesn't it?"

"You can say that again..." Jace said, with a sigh.

"Kinda really sucks " Liam started to repeat, with a grin - only to have a much deeper voice chime in for the rest of it.

"Figured you be here " Dirk said with a grin as he finished the sing-song repetition. "Looking good, Jace - almost as good as I look "

Practically preening, the broad-shoulder young blond struck a 'heroic' pose, shield braced on a massively muscled forearm, massive double-headed axe held skyward in his other ham-like fist.

"Too bad nobody else will get to see us in our inherited finery " Dirk said, dropping the pose and coming into the tavern to clap Jace on the shoulder, nearly sending his much lighter friend to the floor.

The three shared a grimace of understanding. Besides all being nearly exactly eighteen years old, to the day, the three friends shared something else in common:

Nearly exactly eighteen years ago, to the day, their fathers had achieved singular and undying fame in the village by having survived The Breach. Indeed, it had been the celebration of that event which had led to each of the boys' conception...

...and, consequently, to eighteen consecutive years of living in the constant shadow of their fathers' accomplishment. No matter what they did, no matter who they spoke to, it was always seen - and spoken about - in the light of who their fathers were.

Eighteen years ago, Trewind had been a dying village on an unimportant road on the edges of the Southland. With crops ravaged by a harsh winter and a bitterly dry summer, the entire village had been ready to collapse under the weight of it's own despair - until three young men had decided to take their fates, and the fate of the town itself, into their own hands. Heigel Newton, Gairk Colson and Dirk Anderson had set out on foggy morning heading north - and walked into legend....

...for a league northward lay The Breach.

The Breach was an enormous canyon, a deep chasm that split the Southland vale-country from the vast plains of the Midlands. More, much more than merely the border between the lands, however, The Breach had once been home to a powerful warrior-mage. More than two hundred years ago, Alric the Feared and nearly a hundred of his loyal soldiers and sorcerers had resided within the fortress built within The Breach. Rich, powerful, and feared, Alric had ruled the surrounding lands with an iron fist, reaping for himself the finest goods, the richest foods, the comeliest lasses - and all the money he could squeeze out of every man, woman and child.

It had been envy that had brought Cirla the Dreaded to The Breach. Alric's twin brother, Cirla had brought with him a full hundred warriors and wizards to do battle with his brother, and so win for himself everything his brother had rightfully stolen.

According to legend, the battle had raged for a full fortnight, the very ground shaking with the force of the fell powers spent in the mêlée. Too evenly matched were the foemen, though, the brothers as alike in power as they were in appearance, until, finally, each army destroyed the other, and all had perished...

...but the dread spells and evil creatures brought forth during the battle remained. For two centuries after the battle, any who were unlucky or foolish enough to venture into The Breach vanished, never to be heard from again...

...until the valiant three had returned, bearing with them packs over-flowing with gold coins and jewel-bedecked icons. Though they told of horrors they had faced and overcome to win forth this treasure, they did not hold it for their own, but used it for the betterment of the entire town - which was why, to this day, none of the three could pay for his own drink, the grateful townspeople actually arguing for the honor of buying a round for such legendary men.

"By Elath, I would do nearly anything to escape." Dirk Dirkson said, annoyed. "Our fathers gave away their riches, settling down to be a huntsmaster, an innkeeper, and a woodsmith - and what do their sons get? A looming shadow of their fathers' fame, and no money with which they could move to another town to escape it. It's unfair, I say, unfair! Why, even to be seen as being 'worthy' of who are fathers happen to be, we'd have to... to "

"To come back from The Breach with twice as much money as they did " Liam remarked, idly.

Blinking, Jace jerked bolt upright and turned to stare at Dirk.

"Wait a second..." The dark-haired youth said, urgently. "Fame - and fortune... and we wouldn't be stupid enough to give it away..." Startled, Dirk gaped at his friend.

"Damn right!" Liam said, sharply. "I'm not even dumb enough to go into The Breach in the first place. I'd rather live poor, thank you! We've all heard the stories of what are fathers faced in there."

"Yeah - sixty different times, at least..." Dirk said, slyly. "...and each time, it gets more dangerous, more deadly, and their actions more heroic."

Liam blinked. "Well, yeah, I guess - but there's got to be some truth to the stories. I don't think it was a casual stroll..."

"No - but they are dangers that can be overcome." Jace said, with certainty. "Come on, we all know our fathers for the men they really are. We're not blinded by a legend. Do either of you really believe you are a lesser man than your father...?"

The answer to that particular question was preordained, the same answer any eighteen-year-old-boy throughout recorded history would have given: "Hell, no!"

"We have their armor and their weapons, exactly as they had..." Jace said, in excitement. "...and I can get a long bow and a score of arrows..." The huntsman's son said, eagerly. "...and I'll provide the provisions, while Jace can get torches!" Liam said, getting caught up. Flushed with excitement, the three friend looked at each other.

"Well...?" Jace demanded. "What are we waiting for? Come, lads - fame and fortune await!"

* * * * *

"Fame and fortune, sure..." Liam said, wryly, as he slumped to the ground and began prying off a boot. "We forgot to mention the rocks and stones, however..."

Pulling off the leather footwear, the red-head turned it upside down and shook it, emptying it of the dirt, sand and stones that had trickled down inside during their slow, arduous descent into The Breach.

It had taken over an hour to reach the canyon, and though they'd had the foresight to bring ropes, another hour to make their way down the steep side of the canyon. Two hours past sunrise, the sun had shone fully on them during that slow descent, and burdened as they were under cloaks, armor and provisions, they'd sweated and broiled all the way down - only to immediately begin shivering as they'd reached the bottom, and the deep shadows that still claimed the canyon floor.

Putting his boot back on, Liam slowly stood and stretched. Like the others, he'd traded his workaday clothes for his father's old gear. Col, Gairk's father, had been a man-at-arms in the old Imperial Infantry, before it had been disbanded, and it had been that gear that Gairk had worn on the adventure, and that his son now wore in turn: An old-fashioned steel breastplate and a hard-leather kirtle that hung nearly to the top of his knee-high boots with their greaves.

Nearly - for there was enough of a gap between the leather strips of the kirtle and the tops of the boots for plenty of the countryside to have made it's way in on the descent...

"I told you not to wear the skirt..." Jace said, with a smirk.

"I told you...!" Liam said with mock ferocity, whipping out his broad-bladed short sword and shaking it in Jace's direction. "It's not a skirt, it's a kirtle! A skirt is worn by women and sad, pathetic little sissy-boys, while the kirtle is an ancient and honorable battle garment, providing protection without sacrificing mobility!"

"Fine, fine...!" Jace laughed, holding up his hands in surrender. "It's a kirtle!"

"Good..." Liam growled, theatrically, snapping his blade back into it's scabbard. He drew himself up with regal dignity, and held a hand out towards the heavy, embroidered scarlet-and-gold over-robe designed to provide an Imperial Infantryman with warmth while he traveled. "Now, if you would be so kind as to hand me my dress..."

Whooping, Dirk slapped the front of his round wooden shield in applause as, with great aplomb, Liam accepted the robe Jace handed him, slipped it around his shoulders, flipped his hair with the back of his hand, then headed off towards the massive stone gatehouse of the Wizard's Redoubt walking on tip-toe and swaying his hips outrageously.

Still chuckling, his friends hurried to catch up with him as he dropped the simpering stride - and then the chuckles tapered off as they looked up at the massive stone walls that loomed over them, blocking of the entire width of the canyon. Centered in the high, ancient walls was the gatehouse, a massive square construction with crenellated battlements, whose open archway gaped into the blackness that led to the courtyard beyond.

Even after two hundred years, the massive magicks and bloody battles could be divined from the stones themselves. Though each block was the size of an ox, many of them had been shifted by the force that had struck them, while others bore scorch marks of a fire so intense that the blocks had partially melted.

Scattered around the foot of the wall were the slowly rusting remains of iron and steel weapons, the wooden hafts or handles having long ago rotted away, as had the flesh and the clothing of their owners - but here and there, looking like strange, dun-colored rocks and sticks, the scattered bones of two armies lay where they'd fallen, undisturbed.

"Not exactly the cheeriest place on earth, is it...?" Liam commented, with a slight shiver.

"No - but there's a bit of reassurance in it, nevertheless..." Jace said, after a moment. Seeing his companions' surprised glances, he gestured with a sweep of an arm. "They're all centuries old. Nobody's died her recently."

"Hurray for us..." Dirk said, wryly. Throwing back his broad shoulders, he took a deep breath. "Well, we aren't going to get anywhere standing about, now are we?"

Sharing a long, courage-bolstering look, the three friends slowly made their way towards the gaping maw of the gatehouse, hands tightly wrapped about the grips of their individual weapons.

Slowly, they passed from the sand and dirt of the canyon floor onto the ancient stones of the gatehouse road, following it's worn pathway into the arched opening. High above them, the shattered remnants of what had once been a massive iron portcullis hung askew, warped by tremendous heat and force - which was fortunate, since had that massive barricade been lowered, entry into the Redoubt would have been impossible.

Beyond the raised portcullis was the short hallway beneath the gatehouse proper. Each of the three young men nervously eyes the many murder holes lining the passageway - small openings designed to allow the defending archers to fire upon intruders, as well as holes in the ceiling to allow boiling oil or other unsavory objects to be poured down into the passage.

Since, by design, there was no effective method to defend oneself from anybody using a murder hole, the three friends could do nothing but look about themselves nervously and hurry through the passage, hoping that the continued lack of fresh bodies bode well for their chances.

A moment later, they shouldered their way through the opening between the massive, iron-bound oak doors at the far end of the passageway. Once closed and heavily barred, the doors had been shattered in that ancient attack, leaving them hanging asunder on their hinges, with just enough space to slip past, and gain entry to the courtyard beyond.

Dirk was the first one through, and even as he stepped out into the open, his long-bow was rising, a massively-muscled arm drawing back on the notched arrow with enough force to make even the huge bow creak in protest. Taking just the two scant steps necessary to clear the way for his companions, the broad-shouldered young man kept a wary eye out for any signs of danger as his friends slipped into the fortress, freeing their own weapons from their sheaths as they came.

Stretching a good three hundred yards square, the ancient courtyard was paved in stone, and bound on all sides by stone walls tipped with battlements. Along the north wall ran the tottering and rotting remnants of what had once been stables, and to the south lay equally decaying wooden buildings that had once housed smiths, fletchers and the other professions needed to maintain the castle and its army.

On the far side of the courtyard, directly opposite the gatehouse, stood the main entrance to the fortress itself, a blocky stone tower built into the wall, its entrance a good ten feet from the ground.

"Is quiet..." Jace said, slowly, his eyes narrowed. "Maybe too quiet..." Liam blinked. "How can it possibly be 'too quiet'?"

Jace cocked his head and shrugged. "I dunno. It just seemed like the thing to say, is all. Come on, let's get inside..."

In near lock-step, the three young men made their way across the open expanse of the courtyard, eyes tracking all about them for any sign of movement or danger. It seemed to take forever to cross the open paving-stones, but finally they stood in front of the tower, looking up at the entrance above them.

In the days of the fortress' use, entry was gained up an inclined ramp that could be drawn up in time of attack. Apparently, it had never been raised, or had somehow been forced back down during Ciria's attack - and so the defenders had burned it, leaving only ashes and charred chunks of oak to remain.

"How are we going to get up there?" Jace said, looking at the lip of the doorway, a good five feet above his head.

With a sigh, Dirk loosened his grip on the bow, then slipped the weapon over his shoulder and returned the arrow to his quiver. Turning to put his back to the wall, he formed a stirrup with his clasped hands, and nodded to Liam.

"Okay, Liam Long-Arms - up you go." Dirk said.

Nodding, the red-head sheathed his weapons and approached his muscular friend. Placing one booted foot in Dirk's hands, he quickly hoisted himself up to where he could lace his other foot on Dirk's broad shoulders, and from their find enough of a grip on the worn, dust-covered stones of the entranceway to pull his limber body into the alcove in front of the still-intact twin doors of the citadel.

It was while Liam was still regaining his footing in the alcove to the entrance that the attack came.

The came scampering out of the ruined remains of the buildings - small, dark, misshapen creatures who's only resemblance to mankind was their roughly bipedal body shape. With sharp, jerky movements they moved, knotted and corded muscles writhing under their dark, rough skin as they scuttled and scampered across the courtyard, reddish eyes glaring balefully at the trio as they rushed forward.

Barely three feet tall, each of they tiny attackers might have been seen as ludicrous, on their own - but literally hundreds of them emerged from their lairs to move quickly towards the tower, and as they moved the long, sharp claws and jagged, discolored teeth the each boasted as their weapons reveled less the friendly intentions - as did the strident screeches that filled the air, the unmistakable sound of a battle-cry.

"Liam!" Dirk roared. "Get a rope down here!"

It was obvious that the attackers had some sort of rudimentary intelligence, as they'd waited until one of their opponents was at the doorway, effective unable to aid his friends, and another had slung the only ranged weapon the trio boasted. It was that weapon that Dirk now hurried to unlimber, knowing that they stood no chance of warding off that many of the small, gnarled creatures.

Even as Dirk loosed the first arrow into the closing mass of creatures, Liam was hastily securing a knot around one of the iron rings that served as handles on the massive hardwood doors. Tugging twice on the rope to ensure it was securely tied and that the rusting iron would bear weight, he hurriedly tossed the free end of the hemp rope down to where Jace anxiously waited, sword in hand.

"Hurry!" Liam cried, his urgency underlined by more thrumming thumps as Dirk loosed arrows as fast as he could notch and draw. Not waiting to see what happened, the russet-haired young man quickly turned his attention to the other door, knowing that they had to get inside as quickly as possible.

Hesitating, Jace looked at the rope, loath to leave Dirk to face the oncoming mass alone, even for a few moments. The first of the small creatures was nearly within sword's reach, and there were more of them then could be stopped by their rapidly depleting stock of arrows - but there was also more then could be stopped by sword and axe, as well, and so Jace hurriedly re-sheathed his weapon and began to climb the rope.

Reaching the entrance-way, Jace gripped the rope and flicked it with his wrist, sending it's end over the broad right shoulder of his flaxen-haired friend. Leaning precariously over the edge, he cupped his hands around his mouth and shouted over the enraged screams of the attacking mob: "Toss up the bow!"

Quickly, Dirk did so, then hurriedly slipped the half-full quiver from his back and tossed it up as well. Though Jace managed to grab the bow in mid-arc, he failed to do so likewise with the quiver, and the arrows spread out in a fan across the stone floor of the entrance way.

Dropping to one knee, Jace ignored the burst of pain it brought as he grabbed the arrow nearest to hand and quickly nocked it. Picking the scurrying black figure closest to his friend, Jace quickly drew and fired. Though he had considerably less power to draw on than Dirk had when firing the bow, the target was close enough that it didn't matter, the arrow embedding itself in the creature's chest. The dark figure went down - to be replaced by two more who scurried on past their fallen companion.

"Hurry, Dirk!" Jace shouted, loosing another shaft.

Seconds later, barely ahead of the first of the creatures, Dirk rolled over the lip of the stone and sprawled into the alcove. Rearing back, he lifted one thickly-muscled leg and brought the heel of his boot down sharply on the skull of one of the creatures, knocking the smaller figure from its perch on the rope.

"Cut the line...!" Dirk bellowed, legs pistoning as he kicked one agile creature from another from gaining the top of the rope.

Discarding the bow, Jace quickly drew his sword and, in one swipe, severed the taut line. Under the weight of the creatures upon it, the rope quickly slithered off the edge, carrying its burden to the ground below, which was quickly filling with a tide of black creatures smashing up against the shoals of the tower.

Hurriedly, Jace grabbed up the bow and a scant handful of arrows, then turned to where Liam was still struggling with the door.

Though Liam had managed to slip the latch with the edge of his long hunting knife, the heavy door refused to swing on its rusted hinges, and the weight of the body he was throwing against it simply wasn't enough to move the door. Jace quickly added his own mass to the assault, and with screams of protest, the ancient hinges began to grudgingly turn.

At the sound, the creatures below went hysterical, screaming in fury as they attempted to scramble up the sheer stone wall - and, with so many of them, they slowly began to succeed, each succeeding wave simply climbing atop the writhing forms of their brethren in a growing pile.

Without a word, Dirk pushed Jace and Liam aside. Placing one hand flat against the one door, and the other gripping the ring where the fragment of rope still hung on the other, he tensed himself and began to heave, thick muscles straining.

With a steady, thin screech, the door gave way - and as soon as there was enough room, the three young men scampered inside.

Even though they were effectively blind, eyes unprepared for the musty darkness beyond, Jace took up a pose of readiness, sword in hand, as Dirk turned his attention to closing the heavy portal. Peering into the gloom, Jace watched as even the tiny sliver of light vanished as the door swung ponderously shut behind them, finally slamming home with a heavy boom that reverberated through the unseen chamber they occupied.

Dropping the bow and arrows, Jace fumbled at his waist for the small sack that contained some provisions and two stubby torches - but Liam beat him to it, the sound of flint on steel matching the sharp flares of sparks that soon brought one of the pitch-coated torches to life, creating a fan of dancing yellow-orange light.

As Jace used Liam's torch to bring one of his own to life, Dirk hastily chapped a short length of line from his own rope, quickly wrapping it several times from one door handle to the other before tying it into a series of thick knots, effectively closing off any chance of the small creatures coming through behind him. That done, he briefly considered bringing one of his own torches to life, then discarded the idea, realizing that they had no idea how long they'd need to provide their own light.

Instead, he stepped between his two friends, hastily reclaiming the bow and the four remaining arrows as he peered into the chamber before them. With the quiver lost, he had to settle for jamming the arrows point-first into the wood of the shield sling on his arm, where he could easily reach them.

"Wow..." He breathed, his blue eyes shining as he took in the tattered remnants of elegance that had once marked the rectangular entrance hall. Frayed and faded sections of what had once been luxurious tapestries still dangled from the walls, interspersed by rusting and collapsing suits of armor that stood like silent sentinels. Now dried and rotting, what had once been furniture carved of the finest woods lay in broken and scattered heaps about the chamber, whatever purpose they'd once served now long forgotten.

"Okay - which way...?" Liam asked, wincing at the muffled shrieks of the dark creatures behind them, as they vainly sought to force the doors.

"Good question..." Jace admitted, eyeing the four hallways that ran from the entrance way: One each to the left and the right, and two diverging hallways straight ahead. "Where do you think a warrior mage would keep his treasury...?"

"The cellar." Dirk said, firmly. "Dungeons and treasure-vaults are always in the vaults below the main building, where they can be easily protected."

"Then we look for stairs leading down." Jace declared, gesturing at one of the diverging passageways that sloped slightly downwards before disappearing into the darkness beyond their torchlight. "That way."

The sound of their enraged attackers faded behind them as the three entered the stone-walled passage and made their way forward, weapons in hand and all senses alert. The dry, added remains of a once-rich carpet softened the sound of their footfalls, providing an eerie silence to their slow advance past doorways, some of which gaped open while others lay closed off behind ornately carved doors of heavy walnut.

"Hey..." Jace said, gesturing, as they drew abreast of a partially open door - from behind which, the flickering light of his torch caught sharp highlights off gleaming metal. "Not the treasury, surely - but there's something shiny in there."

"Valuable things are shiny..." Liam agreed, with a tight grin.

Dirk considered, one golden eyebrow arching - then nodded, looking at the numeral inscribed on the wooden door. "Okay, let's see what's behind door number two, shall we...?"

With the application of one broad shoulder against the ancient door, Dirk quickly forced entry for them, and they stepped into the room.

It had obviously been a study of some sort, the shelves that lined the wall still holding the collapsing collection of leather binding, their pages long ago turned to dust. The wood of the shelves and furnishings had survived the test of time better, drying and cracking somewhat, but still sturdy enough - and it was one such piece of furnishing that held what had caught the Jace's eye, the collection of cut-crystal decanters still free enough of dust to throw back reflections of light.

The tightly-stoppered collection of glassware still contained liquid, the dozen or so bottles filled with shades of liquid fire - deep red and mellow gold, tawny yellow and translucent silver.

"There's no way any of that is still save to drink." Dirk said, with a sigh. "Oh well - it was worth a look anyway." "Wait a second..." Jace said, stepping forward. "Look at this..."

'This' was a small crystal vial, containing a bare draughts worth of a thick, swirling substance that looked more like a capture pink cloud than a liquid. More to Jace's interest, however, was the threaded cap that closed the small vial - for it was unmistakably formed of finely etched gold, inlaid and braced by silver, and suspended from a finely-formed silver chain.

"This is worth something..." Jace said, prying unsuccessfully at the cap. "Now... if it would only... come off..."

"Just bring the whole thing." Dirk suggested. Though they were certainly looking for something more valuable than the few coins worth of gold and silver the vial would bring, it was at least enough to ensure that they wouldn't be leaving empty-handed, even should they fail to find the treasury.

Shrugging, Jace acquiesced, slipping the chain around his neck and letting the vial slide inside the layers of leather and armor.

After a quick look around to make sure they weren't leaving anything else of value, the three friends slipped back through the partially opened door, and headed down the passageway once more.

After a few more yards, they came to where the passageway split into a 'T', and glanced both ways down the intersection - and spotted the flight of stone stairs that ran downward from an alcove a dozen or so feet to the right.

"That's more like it..." Liam said, taking the lead as they headed towards the stairs. "I'll go first, just in case - my short sword will be more effective in the enclosed space..."

Since he was undoubtedly right, neither of his friends argued as he lifted his torch high in his left hand and carried his sword low and ready in his right, peering into the gloom of the spiral staircase as he carefully tested the first step.

They made their way slowly down the twisting stairs, Liam carefully placing his weight on each step, knowing that a pressure-sensitive step was one of the classic traps. Each step remained firm and immobile under his foot, however, and after a short while they reached a landing, barred by a simple oak door, while the stairs also continued onward into the dark depths.

"Well?" Liam asked, looking over his shoulder. "Try the door, or keep going?"

"Might as well at least try the door." Jace suggested. "If it's locked or anything, we'll keep going, and just come back here if we don't find anything."

"Fair enough..." Liam agreed, stepping onto the narrow landing. He reached out and tried the latch on the door - and it opened easily under his hand, the door swinging slowly open even as he quickly prepared to meet any attack.

No attack came, and the door completed its slow motion to reveal what had obviously been a small armory. Racks of rusting weapons lined the walls and floor, and equally decaying armor hung from wooden dummies along the north wall.

"Hey, look at that..." Liam said, pointing to a sword hanging on the wall, its sheath beside it. Slim and well-crafted, the elegant blade was in pristine condition, its steel untouched by the ravages of time - and its ornate hilt bound in gold wire and trimmed with small gems.

"An Elvish sword..." Jace breathed in admiration. The fay folk of the distant woodlands were renowned for their skill in weapons-making, and only an Elvish sword could be counted on to never rust, tarnish or dull. That alone made the slim blade worth a small fortune - not to mention the gold trim and small, valuable stones upon its ornate hilt.

"Well, you found it..." Dirk said to Liam, not without envy. "I guess it's only fair that you get it."

"Sounds fair to me..." Liam agreed, readily. Grinning, he sheathed his own sword as he stepped into the room, then reached up and wrapped his hand around the Elvish sword's hilt, pulling it from the wall...

...and then he gasped as the blade of the sword suddenly flared to life, a bright white glow banishing the darkness and making the three men squint, even as the light began to expand - and envelope the long-limbed young man who held it.

"It's enchanted!" Jace said, eyes tearing from the light. "Drop it, Liam...!"

"I.. I can't...!" Liam cried, afraid, as his body began to tingle eerily. His hand was firmly locked around the hilt, and no effort could make it release. "I can't let go...!"

Then the light flared once, brutally, as a high-pitched squeal was ripped from Liam's throat - and then the light vanished, momentarily plunging them all into blindness as their dazzled eyes struggled to re-adapt to the dimmer light thrown by their torches.

It was Jace's eyes that managed the task first - and he gazed, eyes widening, as he stared at the slender figure still gripping the sword.

"Li.. Liam...?" Jace stammered, his voice stunned. "Is.. that you...?"

Slowly, the wide, stunned eyes of the person in the room left the sword and rose to meet Jace's, the shock visible behind the emerald-green irises.

"Jace..." She said, her voice incredibly sweet and musical, even in it's stunned monotone. "Jace... I.. I'm... a woman..." She certainly was - and an Elvish woman, at that...

Even with the massive wealth of rich, fiery curls that piled atop her head before spilling down her back, the new woman's slender and wasp-waisted body didn't quite reach to Jace's shoulder. Onto the slender, supple, fine-boned Elvish body was the remnants of her original form, the long limbs made all the more attractive by her new body.

A body enclosed in Elvish finery, or everything Liam had carried and worn had changed to match her new figure. The boots, now finely crafted Elvish ones, came just to her dimpled knees, exposing a length of silky, pale thigh before vanishing under the hem of her leather skirt. Above that, her breastplate was altered, both in shape and in style, it's now elaborately-inlaid surface molded to her tiny waist and firm, dome-like breasts, each like a halved melon upon her trim frame.

Her face was that particular Elvish delight to behold, nearly triangular in shape with it's high, wide cheeks and pointed chin. Flanking her long, slender nose was her huge, emerald-green eyes, and below that smoothly curved nose lay the delight of any Elvish woman, a pair of perfect, full lips.

"Oh, Elath..." Dirk whispered, brokenly. "Liam, what's happened to you...?"

"Li'ann..." The new woman corrected, absently - and then her glorious eyes widened as she realized what she'd just done. "Oh, Dirk - something has changed in my mind, too. That's why I'm not panicking. Somehow... I'm thinking like the Elvis I've become..."

At her usage of the correct Elvin term for her new gender and race, her two friends shared a startled glance - as they couldn't help but wonder what other specific Elvis traits she had been given...

...even as the thought occurred to Li'ann herself. Before she could help herself, her eyes flickered down to her friend's crotches. Her indrawn his of breath, half-horrified and half-hungry, told the tale.

Along with her bee-stung new lips and incredibly long, supple tongue, she had acquired the Elvis taste for that most sought-after delicacy - a male human's seed...

"By Goloth..." She whispered, unconsciously using the Elvish deity. "No.. not that too..."

Even as she tried to deny it, however, she cold feel the coiling pleasure churning in her throat and gut at the thought of swallowing the rich, intoxicating juice her male friends could so easily provide...

Willfully hauling her reluctant mind away from the thought, then new Elvis struggled not to let her new desires take hold, determined to keep herself as much Liam as possible, despite what had happened to her. With a determine motion, she shucked her old sword and claimed the scabbard for the enchanted one that had done this to her, knowing that the slender, incredibly keen blade was more suited to her now.

She could not even bring herself to hate the enchanted blade for what it had done, for it had only done as it was meant to. Indeed, many a woman of another race would have killed to be the one to claim such a boon - and it was only her own greedy eagerness that she had to blame for being the one to whom this fate had descended.

Squaring her slender new shoulders as best she could, Li'ann once more faced her friends.

"Well, there's nothing we can do about it now." She said, firmly, distantly wishing that she was at least able to be hysterical over what she'd become, rather than feeling the unwanted sensation of satisfied happiness the mental changes forced upon her. "Let's keep moving, and find us some treasure. If I'm doomed to spend my life as an Elvis, I want to at least be a rich Elvis..."

Dropping her eyes from the enticingly male figures of her friends, most especially Dirk, then new woman once more took the lead, her abrupt manner and obvious desire not to discuss the incredible alteration her life had just undergone silencing her companions as she carefully moved past them. They gave way immediately, as uncomfortable as her at the thought of her body brushing past theirs - and for the same reason.

All were afraid they might like it...

Wordlessly, Li'ann took the lead down the stairs, moving somewhat faster now - since her fear was accordingly less. After all, what's the worst that could happen to her, now...?

Dirk and Jace were left no choice by to follow as quickly - and, as they did so, each of them cursed themselves for not being able to help themselves as they watched the graceful sway of a well-packed ass under the taut skirt, especially with Li'ann's new body moving with all the feminine grace that could be expected of it, ever her stride altered by the magic of the spell.

Moments later, the stairs debouched into a rotunda. From the circular chamber ran three other corridors, making for an opening at each of the cardinal points of the compass. Of the other three corridors, the one directly opposite housed a staircase that vanished back upwards in the gloom, while the other two run perpendicular to the two sets of stairs.

"Well?" The Elvis in the lead asked, her rich voice short. "Left or right...?"

"Whichever you think the best, Li...ann." Dirk said, awkwardly.

Wordlessly, she chose the right, damning her new stride as she gracefully swayed into the opening - and damning her new thoughts, for even as she walked, she was aware of the eyes of her friends upon her new fundament... and some enchanted part of her liked it, giving rise to a disturbingly pleasant warmth that centered deep within her new womanhood.

Turning with a curve in the corridor, the new woman chased her own torchlight along the stone passageway... then slowed, emerald eyes widening in surprise, as she entered a long, wide stretch of corridor that ran perhaps a hundred yards.

"What the...?" She said, steps slowing as she entered the long hall, her friends close beside.

Along the entire length of the corridor, feminine finery was displayed. Somehow, held by invisible forces, the clothing held the shape of female figures over empty air. Lining each side of the hall, as if on display, more than a hundred of the outfits stood - outfits of every conceivable description, from workaday clothes to armor to the most expensive finery to be had across the length and breadth of all the lands.

"I don't like this..." Jace said, nervously, as they carefully began making their way down the hall. Perhaps a quarter wide as it was long, the hall seemed to reflect much the light of the torches ten-fold, creating an even glow much more than the torches should have been able to produce. Perhaps it was nothing more than some sort of 'museum', with a spell to properly light the displays... but it was unnerving, nonetheless.

Grunting in agreement, Dirk eyed some of the expensive jewelry that the richer costumes bore - but made no move towards taking it, all too aware of what Liam's claim to a feminine item had produced.

Nervously, the continued forging a head, eager to be rid of the strange hall. Their bodies continued to tense the deeper into the chamber they traveled, and reaching and passing the half-way point produced a small surge of relief...

...that vanished even as it formed - for the costumes all about them suddenly came to impossible life, and began gliding in their direction.

"Run...!" Dirk shouted, suiting action to words as he took to his heels. Since he was already facing that direction, and because it was marginally closer, he ran for the exit ahead of them, and his companions struggled as best they could to keep up with him. Li'ann, despite the handicap of her much shorter legs, ran with the graceful swiftness of a doe, a bare half-stride behind the massive man, and Jace was hard-pressed to keep up with his fleeing friends.

"Look... out...!" He gasped in warning, as one of the outfits swept in from the side.

Seeing the 'attack', Dirk swung his massive double-headed axe through the air with a whistling sound, cutting the linen bodice asunder. It collapsed, lifeless, to the ground - but the leather pants and the boots that had come with it continued closing on the party, and it took three lightening-quick sword strokes from Jace to finish it off...

...and still the clothing closed on the party.

Slashing and hacking their way through the attacking vestments, they forged their way towards the exit... but, forced to both fight and flee, Jace found himself rapidly falling behind the others as more and more of the garments focused themselves on him.

Then one got through - a wide, soft-leather collar that whipped itself around his neck and fastened itself in place. Even as he continued battling onward, Jace expected to feel the collar tighten, chocking the life out of him - but though there was a momentary feeling of pressure, it faded in a second, and nothing else happened.

"I don't think..." He started to shout - and then his eyes widened as the warm and unmistakably feminine voice flooded from a neck that was now slimmer and definitely feminine in proportion.

In renewed panic, he fought onward - but still he was losing ground, and more and more of the attacking garments focused their attention on him alone.

Even as his friends managed the safety of the exit, Jace knew he'd never make it - and so, even as Dirk turned and, horrified, found Jace still within the room, not inches behind him as he'd believed, Jace stopped running and stood his ground.

"Keep going!" He roared to his friends.

Dirk hesitated - and then Li'ann whirled, thrust the torch into his hand, and gave him a hard shove down the corridor as one of the outfits, seeing their hesitation, veered towards them.

Dirk turned and ran into the darkness...

...unaware that Li'ann had turned and plunged back into the room.

Jace, however, had no chance to notice the Elvis battling her way towards him. He was too busy 'picking his battle', knowing he couldn't stop all of the garments, but that he could stop the worst of them.

His sword flashed with blinding speed, rending the garments as they came at him - but sure enough, some slipped through, and it took all he had in him to not swing his sword away from a 'worse' impending change to the closest. Instead, he could only grit his teeth and continue to battle.. as his manhood was slowly stripped away from him.

Though the clothes did not affect her, they struggled to hold her back, and Li'ann watched as a fate much like her own was conveyed on her friend - and she cried out in horrified anger at it. "Oh, Jace, no...!"

The distraction cost Jace dearly - for in the instant his attention focused on Li'ann, one garment that had hovered beyond reach swooped in - a garment he'd been carefully watching, determined not to let it get him.

As it pulled itself onto him, it momentarily bound his arms - and in that moment, all was lost.

The instant the person who had been Jace was fully clothed and so transformed, all the other clothes dropped lifelessly to the floor, and Li'ann, sobbing, hurried to her altered friend's side.

"Oh, Jace..." She said, brokenly. "I am so very, very sorry..."

The new woman didn't answer her, instead continuing to stare down at herself in horrified shock.

What she stared at was the most overwhelming change, the one wrought by that certain garment. The garment was a leather-bottom shirt with a white cotton bodice and sleeves...

And that oversized bodice top now strained mightily to contain the massive, round breasts that its scoop neck displayed so enticingly, its leather lower half tightly laced against the new woman's slender waist, and so allowing the fabric above to cling tight even to the underside of the massive breasts that jutted forth from her ribcage.

The breasts were, quite simply, enormous, each one as large as the new woman's head. The rest of her was less 'emphatic', her battle having allowed that, at least, and so she was, for the most part, a woman of average appearance - except for the massive, round breasts that hung heavily from her chest.

Her long, black hair framed a narrow face that was merely pretty, not as stunning as Li'ann's new countenance - but nevertheless undeniably feminine. Around her slender new throat, the leather collar clung tightly, before the plunging neckline below showcased her amazing bosom, now lightly cradled in the hands encased in the tight leather gauntlets that run a third of the way up each slim arm.

Below where the leather 'corset' of the top clung tight to a trim but unremarkable waist, womanly hips swelled beneath the fabric of her simple linen skirt, hiding acceptable but unremarkable legs that, in turn, vanished into ankle-high boots of soft kid leather. All in all, a woman who would be remarked as neither especially ugly nor especially pretty, who would have been unmistakably feminine but otherwise unremarkable - if not for the enormous bust she could not tear her eyes from.

"Oh, Jace..." Li'ann repeated.

The new woman looked slowly over to her friend... and Li'ann was amazed at the expression in the new woman's eyes. "Call me Jasmine..." The new woman said, numbly - then smiled oddly. "Aren't my new breasts wonderful...?" "Jace...?" Li'ann said, horrified. "Jace, what are you saying..."

"They're so wonderfully huge and sensitive..." The new woman said, lightly squeezing her huge new tits, and shivering in pleasure. "It's horrible that I've been made into a woman, especially such an unattractive one - but at least I was lucky enough to get such wonderfully gigantic tits to enjoy..."

"By the Gods..." Dirk gasped, coming to stand beside them, helplessly ogling Jace/Jasmine's new rack. Catching the glance, the new woman smiled broadly at her friend.

"Hi, Dirk..." She said, her voice becoming low and husky. "Do you want to play with my wonderfully massive new tits...?"

Startled, Dirk recoiled. "Jace - what's happened to you...?"

The new woman's eyes filled with loathing. "Dirk, I'm sorry. I know I'm acting strange, I know I shouldn't be acting - feeling this way... but I can't help myself. The clothes.. they changed my mind, as well as my body. Even though I don't want to, I'm thinking like a woman now - and the more the clothes changed me, the more my mind changed too..."

Still lightly squeezing her massive new bust, Jace/Jasmine let out a sob.

"I can't help myself..." She said, brokenly. "I.. I love my huge new tits. I know I shouldn't, I know that I didn't want to - but I love them, and I love the thought of a man looking at them.... touching them... fondling them... a man... a big, strong man..."

Slowly, her eyes rose to Dirk, her broken tone once more giving way to hungry sensuality - and then, at the look that crossed Dirk's face, she visibly wrenched her mind away from that dangerous line of thought, getting a hold of herself once more.

"We need to get out of here..." She said, urgently, staring at a point in the distance and forcing her hands away from her huge new breasts. She was trying hard not to even think about them - but with their massive, sensitive weight shifting with every breath she took, that was impossible. "Forget the treasure, Dirk - we have to get out of here before anything happens to you, too..."

Part of that concern was friendship - and part of it was because she didn't want him to lose the massive, manly physique that she was trying very hard not to find appealing - and failing.

"Well, we can't go back out the way we came..." Dirk said, also pointedly looking away from either of his now female companions. "We have to keep going forward - and if we happen to find the treasure on the way, so much the better. Come on..."

"I'll go first..." Li'ann said, quickly. "Jace.. uh, Jasmine can take up the rear. That way, you'll be protected."

Dirk opened his mouth to argue, feeling decidedly wrong about letting two women take the risks - but then, sighed and nodded, recognizing the logic of the situation.

Wordlessly, they headed out. Jace/Jasmine had lost the other torch in the fight, but they decided to go ahead with just the one, conserving the others in case they were down here long enough to need them. Slim sword in slim hand, Li'ann lead the way, with Dirk a few steps behind, holding the torch aloft so that it cast light both fore and aft, allowing Jasmine to keep a rear-guard behind them as they slowly pushed onward.

Once more, they followed the torchlight into the darkness, this time more slowly than before, all too aware of the dangers that they faced. Though, so far, the dangers had not been to life and limb, but to form and mind, they were nevertheless dangers to be avoided...

...even if, after the fact, they were dangers that were unwillingly appreciated.

In the lead, trim hips swaying enticingly, Li'ann was aware of the warmth of Dirk's gaze as they swept over her taut, leather-encased buttocks. Though she could not see her muscular friends, she was nevertheless somehow aware of every time his constantly seeking gaze would stray back to her ass - and the knowledge brought a surge of the disturbingly present warmth, one that she hated herself for not hating - even as her mind kept trying to return to the thought of just how wonderful it would feel to fulfill her urge to feed from Dirk's undoubtedly large, thick manhood, letting his wonderful fluid fill her mouth with its sweet taste...

In the rear of the little procession, Jasmine was having no easier time of it. With every step she took, her huge new breasts jiggled and swayed, her thick, fully engorged nipples dragging with delicious pleasure across the fabric over her scoop-necked top - and she was having a hard time keeping her mind on any possible danger, her eyes wanting to devour Dirk's manly physique as part of her wondered with guilty intensity what it might feel like to lay with him, in the manner that a woman lay with a man.

Hating herself for the unwanted thoughts and desires, but unable to banish them, the new woman struggled to stay alert - and to keep her hands from straying to the sensitive breasts that ached to be fondled and touched...

In the middle of the little group, Dirk was struggling to keep his mind firmly on the thought of 'danger' - rather than on the mental image of either of his now-feminine friends. Friends who had both indicated an unwilling desire for him, one that he now knew he could 'call up' - if he let himself sink to such a low.

What scared him the most was the fact that part of him - a small part, but a part nonetheless - was enthusiastically rooting for him to do just that...

In awkward silence, each lost in thoughts they'd rather not be having, the little procession moved deeper into the fortress, weapons in hand.

After a length of featureless corridor, the hallway opened out into a small, triangular chamber - and the trio of adventurers were faced with a choice, as two clogging hallways ran from the chamber, one gradually trending upward, the other down.

Coming to halt in the center of the chamber, they surveyed their options, peering fruitlessly into the gloom of each passage. "Well, what do you think...?" Dirk asked, thoughtfully.

I think I'd like to drop to my knees and... NO! Li'ann forced her mind off the 'instinctive' response, disgusted by how enticing the idea seemed to her altered mind - while Jasmine was struggling against her own 'instinctive' thought of how much she'd like Dirk to rip open her blouse and 'go to town' on her huge new tits.

"Whatever you think, Dirk..." The two new women chorused, too busy trying to hold back their new urges to deal with making the decision.

"Um, well..." Dirk said, considering. "Let's keep heading downwards."

Obediently, the women formed up on the muscular young man again, and they headed down the gently sloping corridor. This time, their footfalls echoed and re-echoed as they moved through the darkness, and the sound seemed to multiply until it was as if an entire army marched through the hallway.

Walking in the rear, Jasmine was still struggling to control the new thoughts and considerations running through her mind, trying hard to deal with the transformation that had befallen her...

...when, out of the darkness, a pair of massive arms simply appeared out of the wall, seemingly formed of the very stone that made up the passage. Before the woman could draw in a breath to scream, the arms wrapped themselves around her, one of the cold, hard hands covering her mouth - and then they yanked her back, right through the wall itself.

She found herself plunged into darkness. She couldn't see anything, not even the restraints that suddenly wrapped themselves around her new form as the hands released her. Something that felt like thick leather bands now gripped her, holding her spread-eagle to a cool, hard surface, unable to move so much as an inch.

'Hello, Jasmine...'

The voice sounded in her own mind, low and chuckling and almost visibly oozing with evil. Eyes widening in horror, the new woman tried to struggle against her bonds - but it was an exercise in futility.

'That's quite a body you have there...' The voice continued, slyly. 'Very remarkable - especially your lovely breasts. They are lovely, you know - and very enticing...'

Echoing in the vaults of her mind, the voice was overpowering. There was no way to ignore it, to shut it out - as it continued to weave its spell.

'Don't fight your fate, Jasmine...' The voice said, darkly. 'You want to be a woman, don't you...? You want to dress as a woman dresses, act as a woman acts - and please men, as only a woman can...'

Insidious and unavoidable, the voice burrowed into her mind - and helplessly, she listened, her mind slowly succumbing to its hypnotic call...

* * *

"This damn corridor seems to go on for ever..." Dirk said, his feet aching. "I think we should take a short break..."
"Sounds good to me..." Li'ann said, musically, stretching theatrically.

"Sound like a plan to you, Jac... Jasmine...?" Dirk asked, turning... "Jasmine? Jasmine!"

Only silence greeted his suddenly frantic shout, the corridor behind him empty of life. Horrified and confused, Dirk whirled to Li'ann...

...and found the corridor in front of him as inexplicably empty as the one behind.

* * *

'Women live but to serve, Li'ann...' The voice whispered in her mind. 'To serve their own desires, to serve their own emotions - and to serve their function, which is to serve men...'

Helpless to block out the insidious voice, the new woman could only helplessly listen as the words sank deeper and deeper into her consciousness...

* * *

Frantic, Dirk plunged through the hallways of the fortress, choosing twists and turns at random as he ran. All thought, all plans, had vanished - except for the need to find and rescue his friends.

Frantic with worry, praying to all the gods that they still lived, the muscular blonde dashed through silent corridors, echoing galleries and decaying chambers, ignoring the growing ache in his legs and feet, the desperate rhythm of his heart driving him ever onward.

Then, in the darkness in front of him, he noticed a faint, green glow flickering over the walls. A reflected light source from some chamber ahead - and, discarding his own torch and gripping his axe in one hand and the shield in the other, he rushed forward to do battle with whatever malevolent being was doing this to him and his friends.

Sprinting, the heavy young man burst into the large chamber that was the source of the light...

...and came to a screeching stop.

It wasn't the eerie sight of the strange, whirling cloud-like mass in the center of the room that drew him up short, despite its hypnotic swirl and the green glow it emitted.

It was the sight of Li'ann and Jasmine standing before it, their eyes blank and faces slack - as they chorused their submission: "We are women. To be womanly is pleasure. To fight being womanly is pain. We are women..."

"Li'ann!" Dirk shouted, frantically. "Jasmine! Snap out of it...!"

Startled, the two women blinked, shaking their head as they fought to free themselves from the bonds that had been entirely mental - and then, with a horrified need in their eyes, they turned to look at their friend.

"Dirk..." Jasmine said in a low, seductive voice, driven by new needs to choose a gracefully feminine pose that best displayed her assets. "Help us, Dirk... Help us feel like women..."

"Yes, Dirk..." Li'ann also pleaded, striking her own pose. "It.. It hurts so bad, knowing that we've been men, and acting like men. Make the pain go away, Dirk - treat us like women. Please..."

"Ye Gods..." Dirk almost sobbed. "What has been done to you? Why has it been done to you...?"

It was a rhetorical question - so Dirk was flabbergasted when it was answered, by a voice that echoed out of the swirling cloud.

"They've been made to serve..." The voice said, evilly. "They've been given an overwhelming compulsion to be as womanly as possible - and in the most sexually pleasing manner as possible. Whether they would will it or no, they are now helplessly enslaved to the desire to have men find them attractive and feminine."

"Who are you!" Dirk demanded of the cloud. "What do you want!"

"I am the spirit of Alric." The voice answered. "When death approached, I cast my essence here, into the well of the worlds, where I might dwell, undying in the ether between the universes - until I once more emerge into the world... through you."

"What?" Dirk said, furiously. "Never!"

"It is preordained, Dirk..." The voice said, with a deep chuckle. "It always has been. You, and they, exist solely for this purpose - for that is the compact I made with your fathers."

Dirk was stunned.

"I let them go free, and gave them wealth, solely that they might breed you." The spirit of Alric said. "None of your fathers would serve as a vessel for my spirit, so I ensorcelled their seed to produce one who would. It might have been any one of you, but upon entering my domain I felt each of your strengths, and choose you, Dirk - and so I let these less useful vessels have the honor of becoming the first women of my new harem."

"I'll never give you my body, you evil thing!" Dirk cried, with determination. "Never...!"

"You will..." Alric said. "I cannot take your form while you guard your mind, not even in sleep - but any mortal completely looses himself in that one divine moment of orgasm, and then I shall take you."

Dirk opened his mouth to declare his defiance - but never got the chance, as he felt his manhood suddenly stir, and a powerful need flow through him...

...even as the two women gasped as needs and desires filled them, as well - and in all three cases, the need was identical. Sex. They needed sex.

Desperately.

"No...!" Dirk cried, dropping his axe and clasping his head, struggling to fight against the desperate need. "No.. I won't..." "Oh, Dirk...!" Jasmine said, in a moan. "Dirk, please... I need you... I need... sex. Please, oh Gods, no... I.. I..."

Li'ann was equally as beset, unwanted needs flooding her as she squirmed and writhed in a mixture of pain and desire. "Dirk.. help us.. please..."

"Well...?" Alric chuckled. "Either you have sex with them - or you kill them. That is the only way to end the pain they are feeling, to stop the desperate needs that now hold them. Kill then or have sex with them - and, with you as hopelessly aroused as they, and with them being your friends, even transformed, I do not think you have it in you to kill them... nor yourself."

It was true. Even as Dirk knew that he should take up his axe and kill himself to stop this evil from being reborn, he helplessly found himself taking the first faltering steps towards the two women, feeling his will slowly eroding...

"Yes... No... Oh, please, make it stop..." Jasmine sobbed, helplessly starting to move towards him as well, driven by her own horrific needs. Li'ann, silent, dropped to her knees - not only out of the will she was using to fight these urges, but because that was the position the particular urges she was feeling could be best served.

"Which woman will it be...?" Alric taunted, as Dirk helplessly drew closer to them. "Oh - I see you like Jasmine's breasts. By all means, Dirk - give into you urges..."

Dirk's hands had risen, as if by their own accord, stretching out towards Jasmine's massive breasts. The voice of Alric chuckled in evil anticipation as Dirk's hands drew closer to those enticing mounds...

...and then, in one swift motion, tore the vial from its chain around Jasmine's neck and hurtled it to the stone floor, where it burst into a cloud of pink smoke that quickly enveloped him.

"NO!" Alric roared.

Dirk welcomed the feeling of his body shifting, becoming more feminine - for, as his friends before him, his mind was shifting as well. Though his/her sexual desires didn't lessen, what it was that she desired changed - and as the changes were completed, the new woman was as unable to satisfy those needs as her friends were, with no man present.

"Never, I said...!" Dina swore anew, her toned, athletic body trembling with the horrifyingly powerful new desires that flooded it. With sheer force of will alone, the tall, incredibly toned blonde woman grabbed hold of Jasmine, then reached down and hauled Li'ann to her feet...

...and with one convulsive thrust of her long, incredibly shapely legs, the stunning new blonde woman threw herself and her friends directly into the Well of the Worlds, and vanished...

* * * * *

Though conceived and executed on the spur of the moment, Dirk/Dina's plan was a good plan, a strong plan. Even as they transited the misty corridors between one world and the next, the uncontrollable sexual needs faded, once more returning to the lesser 'innate' desires and urges inherent in the female bodies they wore. Even as they swirled through the mists and emerged into a new world, the mind-numbing, physically painful desires were stripped from them...

...and, unfortunately, so were their clothes and weapons, since only living beings could be transmitted through the Well of the Worlds.

Well, Dina could hardly have been expected to know that, of course...

With a shudder, three women emerged from the swirling mists into the cool air of a strange new world. The first to emerge was a tiny little slip of a woman, her skin smooth and almost luminescent in it's milky perfection. Even as her tiny, dainty feet met the cold ground of the new universe, the frank, pink nipples tipping her domed breasts were rigid - engorged originally by the overwhelming sexual desire she'd fought, now kept that way by the cold air as she stumbled out of the way of the gate on her long, slender legs, the cool air helping dim the 'natural' sexual desires of her new body, even as she was bemused by the realization that she was grateful that she now only wanted to behave as a sexually submissive woman, instead of needing to...

...and instant later, a dark-haired woman appeared from the thin air behind her, led by quite a margin by the enormous, round breasts that thrust from her chest, large, dark nipples pointing the way. Even as she emerged from the mists, she was shivering - not just from the cold, but from the delight of finding herself no longer ridden by an overwhelming urge to pleasure any and every man she met, but by a lesser and more controllable desire to be found pleasurable by men.

At least Li'ann and Jasmine had the 'advantage' of having grappled with their new sexual orientation and desires for a while. Not so the final member of their trio. Tall and toned and well-muscled, yet still incredibly - and attractively - feminine, the glorious golden vision staggered out of the gate still trying to deal with the powerful-yet-sensual nature of her new stride. Riding high and proud on her fairly broad ribcage was her new bosom, which was closer to Jasmine's own bust in total size, despite looking less enormous on the significantly larger body that bore them - and yet they were as firm as Li'ann's smaller breasts, more domed than spherical, and thrust aggressively forward with little shimmy and shiver to distract the new woman as she tried to deal with the cat-like new agility and grace that came with her long, lean body.

"Where are we...?" Jasmine asked, blinking, as she peered around her with amazement.

"I do not know..." Li'ann said, equally as bemused. "This pathway, the bridge above... such construction! It as if it is carved whole from one stone...!"

The three women were standing on a pathway that run under a bridge larger then any of them had ever seen. The bridge spanned the good-sized river that lay in front of where they'd entered this new universe, while the place where the mists had just closed behind them was occupied by a massive support that did, indeed, seem to be one single piece of grey stone - as did the long ribbon of river-side pathway that wound it's way off into the darkness in either direction, though it was of a darker stone.

"By all that's holy...!" Li'ann gasped, looking about. "The lanterns...!"

All three women looked up at one of the lanterns that stood at regular intervals along the dark single-stone pathway. Supported by a black metal column, there were three glass-sided lanterns per post - but the light they threw forth was not the flicker of candlelight, but some bright, inhumanly even orange-yellow glow.

"What manner of sorcerous world have we entered...?" Dina muttered, now having something to take her mind off of her new gender. Cautiously, she edged slightly out of the dark shadows beneath the bridge, to take a better look at their surroundings.

Though the pathway was bordered on one side by the river, on the other side buildings lined the way - and though a few were made of stone, others were built of materials, and in a style, like none she'd ever seen...

...and so much glass! ...and metal!

Both expensive, hard-worked substances were in easy abundance. Even what appeared to be simply trash containers spaced along the pathway were made of worked metal. Such wealth this city must boost, that every building could so afford such workmanship...

There were no people in sight, and that was good, from one point of view - but from another, it was worrisome. What manner of creature inhabited these lands, that they could work such magic and afford such luxuries...?

"Come - we cannot stand here all night..." Dina said, shivering in the chill air - and in reaction to the effect such air had on her thick, highly sensitive new nipples. "We must start trying to make our way in these strange and wondrous lands..."

Huddled close, each moving with an unwanted grace that the despised, yet could not help but appreciate having, the three new women carefully left the shadows under the bridge, their lack of weapons making them feel even more naked then their lack of clothes. Quickly, they slipped over an open, well-lit stretch of pathway, and into the shadows of a narrow alley that ran between two buildings.

Every sense was heightened by their situation - which made it difficult to be alert for danger, for those senses were reporting in the feelings of their new bodies as they crept forth, distracting the mind from the task at hand.

Unsurprisingly, for Jasmine it was her breasts that caused the most consternation. Even with her slow, graceful movements, the massive mounds of flesh on her chest insisted on swaying and quivering in the most disturbingly delightful manner - and with her helpless affection for her new endowments, it caused a constant series of sexual thoughts to flow through her, thoughts of how good it would feel to have a man appreciate her new breasts...

"Ye Gods...!"

Dina's breathless exclamation drew Jasmine from her thoughts, and she peered around her friend's toned body at what had brought forth the stunned reaction.

They stood just within the shadows of the alley's mouth - and before them lay a street. Not the dirt street of most towns and villages, not even the cobblestone of the more prosperous cities, but more of that endless gray-black stone that seemed to be of one piece - though, oddly, it appeared to have been painted here and there with yellow or white lines or dashes.

Perhaps they were sorcerous symbols of some sort - perhaps even the ones that made possible the incredible vehicles that moved along such a wondrous road.

For even as she watched, breathless and amazed, another vehicle like the one that had caused Dina's exclamation came into view.

It was some sort of wagon or coach, totally enclosed. Perhaps the fact that it seemed made entirely of metal and glass would have been cause enough for amazement, and the fact that more of that cold-fire light was thrown from lanterns imbedded in the front of the vehicle would have been worthy of comment - yet, for all that, the most amazing part of this strange vehicle was that it moved under some sorcerous motivation, no creature of any sort drawing it.

"It is some sort of... horseless carriage..." Li'ann said in open amazement. "Dirk..."

"Dina." The broad-shouldered blonde corrected, knowing the other two women would understand - only since her own transformation did she understand how the sound of her old, male name hit her like a blow, since it was lost to her now.

"Dina - how shall we make our way in this new world?" Li'ann asked, afraid. "In a world of such wonders...?"

"We must obviously take great care not to arouse the ire of any of the great wizards who make this possible..." Dina said, slowly. "Unfortunately, the first thing we must do is clothe ourselves - and since we have no gold or silver, needs be that we must steal to do this."

"Oh, what terrible fate might befall us if we are caught..." Jasmine said sarcastically, with a quick smile, as she pointedly ran her hands over her massive new breasts - and sighed with pleasure at her own touch, before regretfully pulling her hands away.

"Come - we passed a door in the alley. Let us try and see what lays behind it..."

The trio went back down the alley, pausing before the door and peering up at the sign above it. "What are 'videos'..." Jasmine wondered aloud.

"It matters not." Dina shrugged the question aside. "Fortune has smiled upon us, for we find not only a clothing shop before us, but are lucky enough to find one that does not make clothing for children."

"Truly..." Li'ann agreed, reading the sign aloud. "Teasers - Adult clothing, videos, and novelties."

Looking about, Dina spied yet another metal refuse bin, and a quick look inside yielded a short metal rod that, with an application of force, quickly gained them entrance to the shop inside. Silently, the three women entered, and began to search the incredibly large and diverse stock of the store by the light that seeped in through the unbelievable huge, clear glass that comprised most of the store's façade.

"Sweet Elath and Enders..." Dina swore, looking through the shop's diverse merchandise with a stunned expression. "What evil fate would bring us to a world where women are to be such sexual creatures?"

"Indeed" Li'ann agreed, sorrowfully, looking at the incredible, life-like illustrations upon the hundred of small boxes that lined many shelves along one wall. One each, women of all description were engaged in sexual acts of all description - indeed, some of the women were even as busty as Jasmine had become.

"Perhaps we assume too much from our first look at this world..." Jasmine ventured, hesitantly. "Let us see more of this world before we judge it. At least we now know that the inhabitants be human - and there is clothing for us here, and these illustrations to show how it should be worn..."

She held up one of the slender books she had found, its paper incredibly smooth and glossy, and filled with illustrations so detailed that they almost looked as if life itself had been captured and flattened for the pages. Though the illustrations were mostly showing women in states of undress, each series of pictures for each woman started with the lady clad in a complete outfit, and from this they could see how women in this world were to dress.

"You are right, Jasmine..." Dina agreed, hoping against hope that their fates were not to be as she so feared. "Come - let us dress appropriate to the new world..."

Dina chose to dress as the form of warrior-woman that was illustrated in some of the slender books. Like the warriors of her own world, much of the clothing was tight-fitted leathers - by leathers like none she had ever seen, of such a fine, supple grain and colored such a shining black.

The trousers she wore were so tight as to cling to every curve of her toned new legs and spectacular new ass, the muted gleam of the fine-grain leather only too obviously designed to reveal every curve and swell of her physique - but perhaps that was only to showcase the taut, shapely musculature of her body in silent warning to any foe.

For her firm new breasts, there was a garment that was little more than a tube of some material of remarkable give and stretch, that also clung to her ribcage like a second skin - what little of it there was. The tall blonde would certainly have felt more comfortable positioning the tube-like top so that it covered her new bust as much of possible, but the illustrations made it clear how it was to be worn - low enough that it rose but a bare inch above her damnably erect nipples, before curving downward and under her new bosom in a molded form that displayed her new attributes to a remarkable degree.

The bottom of the strange material sat a few inches below her large, firm new breasts, displaying her taut new abdomen - but not for long, for she pulled on a heavy leather garment that seemed to serve as some sort of protection. Much like the lower half of the bodice-blouse that had given Jasmine her enormous bust, the heavy leather garment fit tight around her waist, its tops pushed up against the underside of her breasts, further delineating them in their thin top, and the lower part of the garment sat high on her now leather-clad hips, the entirety of the tight-fitting device only emphasizing her trim waist.

There were a pair of wide leather bracers to be worn, one strapped to each wrist, and each studded with little pyramids of metal obviously designed to ward off an opponent's blade. With the bracers came a matching collar to provide some protection for her neck, and a belt to cinch around her slender waist.

The weapon of choice for this clan of warrior-women appeared to be a whip, and such a weapon was available to her in the shop, so she coiled it and attached it to a clip on her new belt, hoping that the mere appearance of it would serve, for she had no skill in effectively employing such a weapon...

...and even less skill in employing the secondary weapon of the warrior-woman of this land.

"That footwear should be a weapon in this land..." Dina said, amazed, as she pulled on the leather boots that clung tight to her legs before flaring slightly before ending at mid-thigh. She cocked her foot, eyeing the remarkably high, slender heel of the boot, a metal spike a good six inches in length. "I cannot conceive how to make effective use of such a weapon. The illustrations all that show it being employed show the woman grinding it upon a man already downed, yet never does it show how a woman might do this..."

"Perhaps it is such a common skill among the women here that nobody thought to illustrate it..." Li'ann suggested, pulling on her own shoes. "Do not all these shoes have some similar heel, if not as obviously a battle-weapon as yours...?"

Indeed - the shoes that the tiny red-head pulled on also sported a long, narrow heel - in fact, longer than that of Dina's boots, if neither metal nor as slender. The shoes, however, sported a much thicker sole, and lifting the tiny woman a respectable three inches higher.

The flame-haired beauty had chosen an outfit that the illustrations seemed to indicate belonged to some sort of minor noblewoman - and indeed, it seemed likely, for who but a noblewoman could afford clothes of such smooth softness...?

The white silk garment next to the skin of her torso was of an incredibly fine and even weave, soft and supple against her skin, even if its lace-edged neckline displayed a good third of her domed breasts. Over this low-necked shirt came a jacket of fine linen, black and patterned with fine white vertical lines, cut to cling tight to her body and, when buttoned, sharply display her slender waist.

The matching skirt that such an outfit was worn with was barely long enough to cover her new womanhood, and clung tight to hip and thigh. Indeed, it was so short that when she sat or moved you could see the lace-trimmed top of the strange hose that was worn with the outfit - not the thick woolen hose of her world, but hose of an incredibly fine, translucent material that not only felt disturbingly pleasant upon her milky skin, but that served to emphasize every curve and shadow on her long new legs. Still, the illustrations made it clear that it was to be worn with the outfit, and so it was over this fine hose that she slipped the black high-heeled shoes, with their rounded platform soles and the leather strap that buckled over each ankle.

"What odd vestments the women of this world choose to wear..." Jasmine said, looking over her friends - and then, ruefully, down at her own clad form.

Having seen the outfits chosen by her companions, Jasmine had chosen one that seemed to sit somewhere between the two, under the hope that it was the equivalent of a woman's workaday outfit. Like Li'ann, she now wore a short leather skirt and a strange pair of hose - but neither was the same as the shorter woman's clothing.

The hose she wore was not the fine, translucent material, but of an open-weave, resembling more than anything a fisherman's net.

The skirt, also black, was similar in style to that of the one Li'ann wore - but was made of the same incredibly fine-grain leather as Dina's pants. The boots she wore, which rose to just below her knees, were also black - but not leather, for they had no grain at all, but were incredibly glossy and black.

The top she wore was also incredibly glossy, but a rich shade of purple. It resembled the garment around Dina's waist, but it included an upper portion that resembled a pair of half-goblets made of the glossy not-leather, each of which cupped one enormous breast to just slightly higher than the nipple. It was the only garment she could find that would comfortably enclose her massive breasts, even as little as this garment enclosed them - but it also served to lift them and display them, the 'cups' of the garment making her breasts firmer than they were.

"Well, we are clothed, at least..." Li'ann replied, with a shrug. "For that we should be grateful."

"I suppose." Jasmine allowed - though, in truth, the clothing made her feel more aware of her feminine body than she had while naked, as if designed solely with the thought of increasing a woman's sexual enticement.

"Come - let us leave before we are caught in mid-act of pilferage." Dina 'suggested' firmly. Though the thought of walking the paths and byways of this strange new land in clothing that so displayed their new bodies made each woman uncomfortable, it was better than the unspecified threat of what might happen should they be caught stealing. Bracing their courage with deep breaths, the trio made their way to the back door of the shop and once more emerged into the alley.

"Well, where do we go now...?" Li'ann asked, trying to ignore the strangely pleasurable way the wind felt, moving over her hose-clad legs.

"Well..." Dina said, thoughtfully. "I suggest we go back to the river-path, and head north along it. It seems less peopled, and will allow us a chance to look around..."

'Less peopled' was only one reason for the golden woman to choose that path, with 'less brightly lit' being another. The real reason, however, was the fact that none of the horseless carriages seemed to use the path, and in truth, the wizard-wagons scared her.

The also made the other women nervous, as well. Sharing a brief, commiserating look, the three women nodded in agreement, then turned and headed for the end of the alley, no longer skulking, but walking as if they had every right to be out in this strange new world - even if the new shoes they wore, coupled with their innate grace, did cause their firm, determined stride to look remarkably sensual.

Soon they were on the waterfront path, heading what seemed to be generally southward. Though they'd left their own world sometime in the forenoon hours, it appeared that, in this world, it was quite late, perhaps an hour or two past the high moon. They encountered no-one as they strode down the path, their high heels clicking on the strange single-stone that made up the walkway.

Gradually, the close-packed buildings gave way to wider spaced one, and in turn, onto what were obviously houses - but houses larger and containing more glass than any woman imagined any but the wealthy being able to afford. As expensive as the first houses they saw must be, the ones that came after only grew larger and more ornate, sitting on progressively larger plots of land set progressively further back from the river.

An hour passed, during which they encountered no-one on their travels, the houses they passed dark and silent for the most part, though from some glowed the bright, steadily light from the wizard-lanterns mounted outside or somewhere within the rooms. Hungry, and growing footsore, the women continued on, the pathway now winding through what seemed parkland, stretching a hundred yards from the river to the fenced-in grass courtyards of the houses lining the other side.

Then, as the women began to wonder what they were to do, where they were to go, they heard a familiar sound that immediately helped comfort them, reminding them that there were still some things in this world that mirrored their own - for the sound of a dog barking was unmistakable, in any world.

Across the incredibly smooth, green grass of the parkland came a dog, bouncing and leaping playfully. Of a breed none of the women had seen before, it had a long, tan-and-black-on-white coat of wavy hair and a long, slender snout. Obviously neither a hunting- or war-dog, the lean, frisky animal bounded up to the women, barking and yipping, tail wagging furiously.

"Good doggie..." Dina said, crouching down in a creak of leather to stroke the soft, silken coat of the frolicking animal. She glanced briefly at the plumbing. "Good girl, yes you are - such a pretty doggie..."

"Lassie!" A voice called out of the darkness, causing the dog's ears to perk up. "Here, Lassie - I've got a treat for you... and a swift kick for the idiot who left the back gate open..."

The last part of the comment, spoken in the 'sweetness and light' tone used to entice a dog, but obviously directed at somebody else with less cheerful feelings, trailed off as the voice's owner trotted up - and slowed to a stop, his eyes widening as he took in the sight of the three women.

Slowly, Dina rose as she surveyed the man. Perhaps two or three years older than her own age, he was oddly attired in a pair of ragged half-trousers of a thick, faded blue material, and an over-sized red shirt bearing a big white numeral on it's front. Fairly tall and broad shouldered, the man had short, brown hair and his skin was deeply tanned.

"Oh - uh, hi..." He said, awkwardly, crouching down to give the dog that had bounded to his side the promised treat. "I'm sorry of Lassie startled you. She's friendly, though..."

"Yes, she is..." Dina agreed, trying a hesitant smile of her own - and, since the man seemed nonthreatening, decided to appeal to him for information. "We are three poor, lost travelers, with no coin of the realm. Prithie, might you know where such as we might food and lodgings for the night, kind sir?"

The man blinked at her request, and Dina felt a sinking feeling in her stomach as she realized that her choice to address the man as one would a noble, to be on the safe side, was inappropriate...

...but the man didn't correct her on her assumption of his station. "You.. don't have any money, or anywhere to go?"

"I fear not, milord..." Dina said, deciding it was safest to use the High Speech until he saw fit to detail his station in this society. She thought fast, trying to find a reasonable explanation for their situation. "We are.. performers, who had a disagreement with our former master..."

"Oh, of course..." The man said, relaxing and smiling in gentle commiseration as he waved a hand in their direction. "Dancers, right - I should have figured..."

"Yes, dancers..." Jasmine agreed, quickly, and Li'ann nodded in affirmation - it seemed to be a stable 'story' on which to base their situation.

"So you had a fight with your manager while on tour?" The man asked, frowning angrily. "What - did he just kick you off the bus here in town, with no money and just the clothes on your back?"

"Something much like that." Li'ann agreed, quickly.

"Well - isn't there anybody you can call?" The man asked, as much confused as worried. "I mean even if he kicked you out without your credit or ATM cards, surely you have friends that can loan you enough money to get home?"

The women hesitated - and Jasmine blurted out the first thing that came to mind: "Our... 'manager' was providing housing and our funds on allowance. We have nothing..."

The man seemed startled. "But surely your contracts..."

He paused, a suspicion dawning in his eyes, and the women suddenly worried that they'd said something wrong... "How old are you?" He asked, suddenly.

Not knowing why he was asking, Dina fell back on the truth: "Eighteen, just this very day, milord."

The man's face hardened, and he nodded slowly. "I've heard about things like this: Slimy bastards talking underage runaways into working for them..."

Though unsure what he was talking about, Dina didn't hesitate to agree: "Yes - that's exactly how it was. Now we have nothing, no home or family. Please, can you help us, kind sir...?"

"Oh - of course, of course..." The young man hastened to assure them. "Uh... me and some friends are just sort of hanging out, pulling sort of an all-night movie marathon. We've got some pizza and snack food, and some beer, if you'd like - and we can figure out what to do about this."

"That is a most gracious offer, milord, and we would be honored to accept..." Dina said, hating the humility her new gender forced her to take in the situation.

The man blinked. "I don't know what your manager made you do, but you don't have to call me 'my lord'. The name's Steve."

"I am Dina..." The tall blonde introduced herself with a bow - and mentally kicked herself for it as she continued, "...and my friends, Li'ann and Jasmine."

Blushing faintly, feeling humiliated, at least the two shorter women remembered to curtsy.

"Pleased to meet you, even under these circumstances." Steve said. "Come on - let's get you inside, where it's warm."

Nervously, the three new women followed their new benefactor, grateful for his assistance - but extremely uncomfortable at having to deal with a man as their new genders demanded, automatically being placed into the subservient position.

Wordlessly, the simply followed Steve as he led them into the yard of a large, two-story home. Closing the gate they'd entered through behind them, he briefly patted the dog and told her to go play, then led the women through a door of glass that led inside the lowest level.

The two men lounging on the couch immediately sat upright at the appearance of the women, and the one on the right - a tall, lanky man with skin the color of mahogany - whistled in amazement.

"Steve, you sly devil - you never said it was gonna be that kind of party..." The other man, a stocky man with dark, curly hair said, grinning.

"It's not like that, Al." Steve said, shortly. "Al, Mark - this is Tina, Leanne and Jasmine..."

As Steve quickly proceeded to relate their 'story', the women chose not to correct the slight mispronunciations of their names, since the three men seemed to accept those versions as being common enough to accept without question. When Steve finished the story, the other two men were full of questions - but 'Tina' quickly headed off that dangerous territory by humbling asking that they not talk about it.

"Of course. How insensitive of me..." Steve said with chagrin. "You just want to relax a bit, and feel safe and comfortable. Look, girls, I know we just met and everything - but my house is your house, until we find something more suitable for you and get this all straightened out. Please, sit down, and we'll get you something to eat and drink..."

As the two men abandoned the couch and eagerly ushered them to the incredible comfort of the amazing furnishing, the women tried not to show any of the shock and amazement on their faces.

The house was.. incredible. Not only was the furniture incredibly ornate and comfortable, not a single rough-hewn piece like they were accustomed to be seen, but the wonders that resided in the house - like the large, glass-fronted box in which a tiny play magically appeared...

...but as incredible as all this was, it was the behavior of the three men that aroused the most surprise, for though obviously high-born by their very residence, they acted as near-servants onto the women, treating them as some sort of royalty, fetching them strange but tasty foods, and a sort of golden ale served, amazingly, chilled.

Seated on the couch of surpassing comfort, food and beverage in hand, with the men almost literally falling over themselves in a desire to please, even the obviously attracted looks the men showered upon their new bodies seemed a small enough price to pay. Perhaps condemned to femininity in this strange land would not be as terrible as they once feared...

Lulled by the chilled ales and the considerate males, the women slowly let their guard down...

...completely unaware of the insidious, sneaking effect of the final, vindictive spell of retribution that Alric had cast upon them as they slipped past his spirit in their escape from his lair.

The one that slowly, but steadily, increased their bodies sensitivity to both pleasure and male pheromones - while slowly but steadily peeling back their defensive layers of their minds, letting their brains act as 'receivers', unknowingly picking up and taking for their own the thoughts of any man close enough to them.

The three, highly attentive young men almost literally waiting on their hand and foot were, indeed, 'close enough'.

Feeling one of the predictable side-effects of the ale, Tina started to move towards the glass door through which they'd entered. "Can I get you something, Tina...?" Al asked, once again admiring the tall blonde's supple body and cat-like grace.

"Oh - I just needed to make use of the outhouse..." She replied, with a faint blush - while thinking to herself that it was surprisingly pleasant to have such a limber, agile body that felt so... comfortable... wrapped in tight leathers that showed her new physique to such an advantage.

"Outhouse...?" Al said, startled. "Uh, Tina, I had no idea you came girls came from some backwoods hollow still poor enough to be using outhouses - but we have bathrooms here. Come on, I'll show you where it is..."

"Oh - thank you..." Tina said, heading towards where he waited - and letting herself move with just a hint more supple, sensuous grace, simply because it felt so good to do so. Even though she'd just verified that she and her friends were poor peasants, and these men some sort of minor nobility, relegating her immediately to a thoroughly subservient role, Al was still being extraordinarily kind to her, so she felt she might as well smile blindingly at him, touch a light, appreciative hand to his shoulder as she leaned down and, pressing her melon-like breasts firmly against his shoulder, gave him a light kiss of gratitude.

"Lead on, sweet knight..." She said, warmly, finding that touching him wasn't nearly as disgusting as she thought touching a man would be. Indeed... it was pleasant.

Quite pleasant...

As they left, Jasmine turned her attention to Mark - and, catching the direction of his gaze, decided that her question could wait a second. After all, he had been extraordinarily kind to her, and so it didn't really cost her anything to take a deep, deep breath and roll her shoulders back, thrusting her enormous tits even further forward, so that he could better admire them.

In fact.. it felt very nice to do so, and so she left them out-thrust and prominently on display as she graced him with a bright, eager-to- please smile befitting a wench of her class... at least, what she thought he class to be.

"Pray tell, handsome Mark, why is a privy called a 'bathroom' here...?" She asked, leaning forward to give the tall, dark-skinned man a better view of her deep, yawning cleavage, thrilling at the feeling created as the fabric shifted slightly over her oh-so-wonderfully- sensitive breasts.

"Um.. because that's where the bathtub is..." Mark replied, staring.

"Truly?" She replied, wide-eyed. "A bath, within the house... and does it have hot water for it, as well?" "Of course." Mark replied. "Um.. would you like to see?"

Well, since she was a mere wench, and he a high-born lord, it was best she not turn the offer down. Indeed, it was best if she accepted it using the correctly submissive response of wench to master: "I would go wherever you see fit to lead, my lord."

"I'll take that as a 'yes'..." Mark said, with a grin. Rising, he led her towards the doorway...

..and since he was being so very kind to her, when he didn't need to, she decided that it wouldn't hurt in the least to lean into him as she walked, pressing her massive breasts into his back, near the kidneys.

He didn't seem to mind in the least, draping a hand around her bare shoulders - and she, a mere wench, couldn't rightfully refuse him that touch...

...especially when it felt as wonderful as it did.

Now alone on the couch, Steve turned to Leanne with a bemused look.

"Did the three of you really grow up in such poverty...?" He asked, hesitantly.

Leanne decided it was safest to tell the truth - or, a version of it, at any rate: "Indeed we did, Steve - though, it being all we knew, did not realize it for poverty. All three of us are used to much cruder surroundings and possessions."

Casting about for an example, she found one: "Why, I did not even know that such wonderfully fine fabrics existed, until I... was forced to become what I now am."

By way of illustration, she ran her slender fingers over the smooth hose she wore - and then did it again, with a bit more pressure, enjoying the sensation immeasurably.

"I had no idea that such fabric could exist, that would make touch so pleasant..." She amplified for him - then, considering, realized that perhaps the high-born women Steve must surely deal with might not wear such a thing, and so may not know how truly smooth and fine the fabric was. "Go ahead, m'lord - feel for yourself..."

Hesitantly, Steve reached out and lightly drew his hand over her encased leg.

"That feels so good... doesn't it?" She asked, trembling at the pleasure of his touch... and thinking that perhaps such a short, light touch didn't reveal how truly amazing the fine-woven fabric was. "Nay, milord, do not remove your hand. Continue to touch my leg.. to caress it firmly.. yes, like that..."

With a sigh, she closed her eyes and let her head roll back. Certainly, he seemed to have become extraordinarily interested in the fabric, continuing to caress and touch the fine fabric that encased her leg, and who was she to say nay to a lord... especially when it felt so good?

So very, very good...

..so good, in fact, that she found herself slipping off the couch, sliding down in front of his spread legs, her slender fingers reaching for the fastenings of his strange half-trousers..

'I shouldn't be doing this...'

The thought shot across her consciousness - and she immediately refuted it, even as she forced herself to free his hard, throbbing cock from it's prison.

After all, she was Elvis, wasn't she? Sooner or later, her new race would force her to do this to men, and by all rights she should be the helpless slave of an evil wizard. Now, instead, she could use her new - and, of course, utterly uncontrollable - needs to please a kind lord who treated her almost as if she were an equal...

Yes, she thought, as her Elvis blood forced her to moan in absolute delight at the wonderful sensation of filling her mouth with a hard cock. This was the best fate she could hope for, forced - helplessly, of course, because she'd never willingly become a man's sex- slave otherwise - to please the wonderful man, forced to accept the fantastic pleasure that came part-and-parcel with her heritage as she hungrily sucked and licked his throbbing cock with her skillful mouth and long, supple tongue.

Oh, what a fate, she bemoaned to herself as she brought him to orgasm and greedily gulped at the flood of delicious man-seed that flowed from him. Forced to accept the intense physical pleasure that came from sucking upon a man's cock, helpless to stop herself from feeling the wonderful pleasure that came from surrendering to her heritage...

* * * * *

"Yes, Mark - yes...!" Jasmine forced herself to scream, as she braced herself against the tile wall of the bath, her huge tits shuddering and shaking from the force of his thrusts.

She had no choice, she knew. After all, she was a mere wench, and he a high-born lord. She was nothing, her only purpose in life to serve her lord's every desire - and it was obvious what he desired. After all, he had been quick to show her the bath, and suggest that she might wish to take one - and she knew what that meant. Women were, of course, the serving wenches at bath-houses - and so, she'd known what she'd had to do.

She simply forced herself to accept the pleasure that came from undressing them both as the tub filled with warm water. Forced herself to not shove his hands away from her massive breasts when he'd first touched them, instead grinding her teeth in what must have seemed a smile to him, forcing herself to simply accept the horrific pleasure of his touch.

The sight of his hard, throbbing cock had made clear his attentions, and so like any good wench she'd begged her lord to do to her what he was planning to do anyway, making it seem as if she truly wanted it.

This was her fate. For the rest of her life, she'd be forced to accept all of her lord's attentions on her. Forced to simply accept the indescribably pleasure his mere touch brought, and forced to accept the ecstasy that came from being his sexual plaything.

As she screamed and thrashed, overwhelmed by a horribly powerful orgasm, she knew that she was doomed - doomed to spend a life experiencing indescribably pleasure, day in and day out...

* * * * *

"Say it...!" Tina commanded, her long legs flexing as she rode atop Al. "Say it, Al!" "You're my mistress!" Al complied. "Oh, yes, Mistress Tina!"

Flushed with satisfaction, Tina increased her pace, thrusting herself harder atop the cock that filled her tight womanhood.

She was still a warrior - and she'd proven it. Upon finishing her business in the indoor outhouse, she'd decided to try her skills as a warrior-woman upon the man who would not stop eyeing her with lust. Certainly, his lust might make her shiver with pleasure, but that was no excuse - he needed to learn a lesson, and it was one she was now teaching him, fucking him long and hard.

How humiliated he must feel, she thought with a grin. In the subservient position, beneath her, while she rode atop him, the mistress of the situation.

She'd found the secret. The one where the warrior-women in the magazine could lay a man low. It didn't require much battle! Indeed, the real trick of it had been amazingly simple...

...you undressed!

Amazingly, if you took off your clothes, the males of this land seemed to simply surrender to you, doing whatever you demanded of them! Look how easily Al had let himself be humiliated into such a subservient position, laying beneath her as she took control and fucked him, riding atop him with strong, hard strokes of her long legs! She demanded from him - and he complied! She instructed him to fondle her ass... and he did it immediately, without even a show of resistance!

Indeed, she had his number now. High-born as he might be, he had acknowledged that she was the mistress. For Al, she was his Mistress Tina - and, best of all, Tina knew that if he showed even the faintest hint of getting out of line, she could force him to let her fuck him long and hard, reestablishing her dominance...

Come to think of it, she thought as she screamed out in primal ecstasy of orgasm, maybe she should do this a couple of times a day, at the very least - just to make sure he knew who was the boss here...

* * * *

Alric fumed.

From within the mists of the Well, he watched the three women - and fumed.

They weren't supposed to be enjoying their fates! They were supposed to be humiliated and horrified...

..yet, somehow, they'd managed to convince themselves that any 'bad' thing about it was simply his fault, and so nothing the could be ashamed about - while, inside, they reveled in the pleasure that came from being female!

It was unbelievable. How could any man find being turned female and forced to become extremely sexual pleasurable? Oh, certainly, there was great physical pleasure involved but the greater the physical pleasure, the greater the emotional humiliation should have been.

Instead, these three new women somehow managed to lie to themselves, finding some way of 'justifying' to themselves accepting all that pleasure.

Churning within the mists of the well, Alric swore a vow to himself.

Gone were his plans of returning to dominance in his own world. Gone were his schemes for rebirth. Instead, he began mustering all his powers and intellect, searching for a new plan.

A plan to get revenge on the three women who had escaped his clutches...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: On what should be a dream vacation in the Caribbean, one lonely man wishes that he understood women better and meets an Island woman who promises to help him; little does he know he is in for a change.

Island Magic

By Gunslinger

The warm island breeze carried the scent of exotic tropical blooms and even more exotic tropical rhythms across the moon-lit beach. The beat of the distant drums blended in with the gentle susurrations of the surf upon the white sands of the shore, creating a soothing tropical lullaby.

Beneath the flickering golden light of a bamboo beach torch, Andy lay on the slat-backed chaise lounge, staring out at the horizon where the star-filled sky seemed to meet the deep, white-capped ocean. Although his eyes were watching, none of the information was processed by his mind, which was much farther away than even the far-away horizon. His slender, pale face was set in a melancholy cast, and his dark eyes were turned inwards.

A sudden gust of sea-air ruffled his Bermuda shorts and loud Hawaiian shirt. The sudden draft was enough to draw Andy back to the present, and the short, slender man blinked as if awakening from a long nap, then slowly sat up.

Heaving a deep sigh, ill-suited to the romantic atmosphere, Andy watched a couple farther along the beach walking hand-in-hand in the surf. Shaking his head, the native New Yorker swung his knobby, hairy legs over the side of the chair and rose to his full, unimpressive height. Head down, the breeze ruffling his shaggy mop of sandy hair, the young man began to trudge along the beach, his bare feet kicking up small plumes of clean, white sand.

Andy had no idea how long he'd been strolling like that when the voice startled him out of his reverie. "Oh, why such a lon' face, liddle mon?"

Startled, Andy looked up. He'd wandered onto part of the beach that wasn't built up - the thin strip of sand was bordered by the ocean on one side, thick jungle on the other. And sitting on the beach, under a twisted tree's lower boughs, was the oldest woman Andy had ever seen. Her dark skin was wrinkled like a prune, her hair was whiter than the sand on which she sat, and her shoulders were slumped by the weight of her years. She was grinning, gap-toothed, up at Andy.

"Excuse me?" Andy asked, blinking down at the apparition.

The old woman, cocked her head. "I say, why you so sad? You on the most beautiful island in the whole wide world, an' you walking along like yo best friend jus' die." She reached behind her and dragged a small wooden chest into view, surprising Andy - her bony arms didn't look like they had the strength to move an object like that. Popping open the lid, she rummaged around in it a bit, then emerged with a small bottle of amber fluid. "Why don' you sit down an' tell Mama Kotiki all abou' it, liddle mon?"

Andy sighed - the old woman was obviously one of the amazingly friendly natives who made a fairly good living selling things to the tourists. With a mental shrug, Andy sank to a cross-legged seat beside her. To be honest, he felt like talking about it.

"Here - no charge for you." She said, handing him the bottle. "Now, you start talkin', and I start lissenin'."

Uncorking the bottle, Andy took a sniff, confirming his suspicions - Rum. Already having had one run in with the local product, he took a small swig of the 180 proof liquid fire, feeling it trace it's way down his throat.

"You see..." Andy said to the attentive woman. "I came here on one of those single's cruises... You know, a chance to meet women in a romantic setting." He sighed, deeply. "But, that didn't help - there's more guys than girls on these cruises, and that means some guys don't even have a chance. Guys like me."

"Like you? Like you how?" The old woman said, sounding truly interested.

Andy sighed again. "It's... I don't understand women. I mean - I really can't figure out how they think, what they like. I never have been able to pick up on those little body signals they send - hell, I can't tell whether a woman likes or hates me - unless she comes right out and says it."

The old lady laughed. "Mon, ain't no man unnerstand women - or they them, eider. It's de way of the world, liddle mon."

Andy smiled wryly. "Yeah - I've heard that." He sighed again, a surprisingly deep, heavy sound coming from his scrawny body. "Even if there's no understanding women themselves, I still wish I could understand their reasoning behind their romantic and sexual... signs and urges, I guess."

The woman's wrinkled face wrinkled up even further. "I don' getcha, liddle mon."

Andy looked for an easier way to explain it. "I wish I could tell which sexual acts a woman liked, and which ones she didn't." "Oh - now I getcha." The old woman cackled. "Well, liddle mon - you in luck. Ol' Mama Kotiki help, sure she do."

Andy's brow rose. "Excuse me?"

The old woman smiled her gap-toothed grin and rummaged around in the chest, emerging with a small, dark bottle with a wax-sealed cork. "Dis be de stuff that help you, you bet." She said, holding it out towards him. "You drink dis stuff right down, and den you know all dere is to know 'bout what a woman likes from a man, I betcha."

Andy took the bottle with a doubtful look. "What is this?"

"I tol' you - it's what you need, liddle man." The woman said with a cackle.

Shaking his head, Andy gazed out at the white-capped ocean for a minute, trying to think of a polite way to thank - but refuse - the friendly native woman. Thinking he'd come up with something appropriate, he turned back to...

...where she'd been. She was gone.

Snapping from his slump into straight-back rigidity, Andy glanced around, confused. There was no trace of the woman or her chest, and he wondered how the hell she'd left so quickly and so silently - fading back into the jungle like a ghost. The only sign that she'd even been there was a small indentation in the sand.

Shaking his head in amazement, Andy turned back to his soulful contemplation of the bright, starry night under a lover's moon and went back to sipping at the high-test rum, savoring the warmth it burned down his throat and the thin coating of indifference it brought to his mind.

When he'd finished the small bottle of fiery amber liquid, Andy leaned back on his elbows and stared up into the heavens, wondering what he was going to do - not just for the remaining two days of island 'shore leave' and the four day trip back to Miami, but for the rest of his life. He'd had a notable lack of success with the opposite gender, and even this splurge of his savings was yielding nothing for him.

With that thought, his glance fell on the small, dark-brown bottle the old woman had handed him, and he leaned over and picked it up, eyeing it in the moonlight. He shook it, feeling the weight of the thick liquid inside sloshing around in the bottle, and he sat up with it in his hand, an intrigued expression on his face.

Using his fingernails, he broke the wax seal over the stopper and pried the cork out with a low 'pop'. Lifting the bottle to his nose, he inhaled...

...and smelled an unusual, slightly fruity, but definitely alcoholic fragrance.

Andy laughed, the old woman's words becoming clear to him now - it was the old 'Dutch courage' routine. Drink enough, and you'd hit on anything living, and not care if you got rejected, merely moving onto another woman. Sure, you'd make a real fool of yourself that way, and you'd pay for it the next day, but...

Shaking his head, Andy figured 'what the hell?' and lifted the bottle to his lips for a sip...

...then mentally shrugged, and downed the whole bottle in one quick shot, feeling the alcohol sliding down his throat, the low warmth of the cordial-like liqueur cool in comparison to the fiery channel carved by the 180-proof rum he was chasing it with. A faint taste of passion-fruit lingered in its wake, tinged with some exotic spices that Andy couldn't identify.

Climbing to his feet with a small belch, Andy picked up the two bottles to dispose of properly, and began to wander back in the direction of the resort, the light of which he could see spilling out over the white sand of the beach a ways down, tinted with the flickering orange glow of the torches around the chaise lounges on the beach.

He'd taken about a dozen steps when the low warmth of the alcohol in his stomach flared into life as a bright, painful burning sensation, and Andy doubled over with a muffled screams as cramps worse than any he'd ever experienced hit.

It felt like he was being torn apart from the inside out. Intense, wrenching, pulling sensations were occurring in his guts and waist, while a terrible pressure was straining at his hips, ass and chest. Nerves flared and sparked with agony as an intense itching sensation screamed over every square inch of his skin. At the same time, it felt like somebody was trying to pick him up by his hair, and it felt like somebody was battering his face to a pulp.

All of these sensations were kept company by an utter agony in his crotch, as if somebody had kicked him square in the balls with a steel-toed boot.

Andy's knees came unhinged, and collapsed gracelessly to the sand, rolling in agony as his very bones ached, as if they were being slowly crushed to dust. Muscles revolted against his control as they writhed and twitched, and his eyes began to burn fiercely, bolts of pain ripping through his optic nerve.

Then the pain began to ebb, and Andy could feel sensation - real sensations, not just the mind-numbing sheet of agony - slowly begin to displace the persistent throb that was the fading echo of what he'd just endured. Shuddering, he sat up...

...and screamed.

The scream wasn't very loud, nor long - the intense agony had left him gasping in the aftermath, and he didn't have the air in his lungs for anything more.

Or, more accurately - she didn't have the air in her lungs.

For the thing that had initiated the scream was the two large, dark breasts thrust proudly from the slender body that now housed the once-male being that was Andy, tenting the front of the Hawaiian shirt outwards, with a nicely displayed view of cleavage visible in the neckline.

His... Her mind whirled in confusion, disbelief and denial - but it was hard to deny something that your every sense insisted was real. It wasn't just the inexplicable sight of the dark, rich, chocolate-shaded flesh that now covered Andy's 'soul' in decidedly feminine contours. It was also a thousand other sensations - the weight and heft of the DD-cup breasts thrust roundly from a slender ribcage. The feel of the cool night air moving across large, dark nipples, impeded only by thin, brightly colored fabric. The sensation of that same wind stirring long hair across the nape of a slender neck and slim, feminine shoulders.

Slender, long-nailed hands shaking, she fumbled with the button of the shorts that were now stretched skin-tight over suddenly wider hips and a fuller ass, finally opening the fly. Reaching down inside, Andy shuddered when her new fingers touched the small patch of pubic hair - and, nestled in the center, the undeniable contours of a vagina.

Her vagina.

She was a woman.

"No... This can't... I'm not..." Andy muttered to herself, eyes bulging in shock. She barely heard the rich, feminine contralto that the words were coming out in, but was definitely aware of the way her lips felt as they formed the words, feeling swollen and sensitive - but not painful. "I... I... help..."

The last word came out in a whimper, and the new woman staggered to her feet, feeling the completely different sensations that accompanied the movement - the way her more muscular (in a decidedly feminine way) legs flexed and lifted her upwards, while her firm, round breasts shifted with the motion, causing the swollen, erect nipples to move over the inside of the shirt. Her hair bounced around her head as she moved, and her firm, full new ass moved, tightening and relaxing in such a way that it almost dislodged the shorts she wore stretched over her round, womanly hips. Numbly, her slender new fingers did the shorts up, fumbling around with the simple act as her longer nails got in the way.

She took a few stumbling steps forward, her widened hips swinging in a completely new motion as she moved. It was in an absent manner that she kicked off the now too-large sandals and continued on barefoot, the sand pushing up between dark, feminine toes.

Her eyes stared blindly ahead, her full lips hanging half-open in shock as she moved with a stiffly mechanical reproduction of a woman's stride without noticing it - her body was moving as if on autopilot, her sense of balance converting her motions into the correct - and feminine - ones that her new body required for easy balance. Although her body was in motion, it was a slow, almost drunken motion.

Her mind, on the other hand, was racing a hundred miles and hour - in circles.

She staggered up the beach and across the lawn, completely unaware of the stares that the resort's guests gave her as she moved across the lawn and past the deck. By instinct, her body carried her into the rear entrance and too the elevator, pushing the button for the tenth floor.

Then the doors slid shut, and she shuddered, her mind reconnecting with the here-and-now as she stared at the mildly distorted reflection shown in stainless-steel doors of the elevator.

A gorgeous black woman stared back at Andy. "Oh... my... God..." Andy breathed in disbelief.

If she tried hard enough, she could see her old body within the alien curves and contours of the alien flesh clothing her spirit - but it was hard, as her perceptions were thrown off by the simple fact that what was one thing for a man was another for a woman.

Andy had been short and slender for a man - but this new form, while the same height and build, was of average height, with a slim figure that any other woman would envy. Her skin was a rich, dark shade of brown, smooth and flawless, unmarred by the thin, dark body hair that Andy's male body had 'boasted'. Her hips were wide and womanly above long, shapely legs, and those hips supported an ass that was nothing short of 'spectacular'. Above that, her waist narrowed nicely before swelling slightly into a slender ribcage that supported the firm, DD-cup breasts that strained at the once-loose shirt. It was the perfect hourglass figure - with an extra twenty minutes thrown in for good measure.

Above that was a face that, while based on Andy's male visage, would never be connected with the young man from New York.

It was much more that the rich island shade of her new skin. The lips that had once been thin and rather bloodless were now incredibly full and sensuous, just shy of the point where they would have become a parody of sensuality. Her nose was somewhat broader than it had been, in proportion - for it was also somewhat smaller, and very feminine. Her cheekbones were high and finely shaped, drawing the jawbone into an elfin, heart-shaped model of feminine perfection.

Her eyes were dark and sensual, framed by long lashes and had a slightly heavy-lidded look that was sensual and knowing.

Long, dark brown hair hung around her face, trailing down her neck and splashing against her shoulders before ending up with a slight, 'natural' wave near the small of her back. The dark, glossy hair was 'marred' by a single streak of sandy-blonde that blended in naturally and started just above her finely curved left eyebrow and ran all the way down the back.

She was an absolutely stunning vision of sensual ebony womanhood...

...and Andy was her.

Then the doors slid open, dispelling the image and revealing the carpeted hallway of the eighth floor. Shaking with shock, Andy staggered three doors down, on the left, and fought to extract the key from the now incredibly tight pocket of her shorts. Retrieving the item, she unlocked her door and staggered inside, shutting the door behind her before she staggered to the bed and collapsed on top of it, staring mindlessly at the ceiling as she tried to come to terms with her inexplicable transformation into a gorgeous black woman.

Then, like a bolt of lightning, she realized it wasn't inexplicable....

"What a woman likes!" Andy said, sitting bolt upright in the bed with a look of shocked comprehension on her gorgeous new visage.

The old black woman had given him the small bottle with the promise that if he'd drink it, he'd know what a woman like - and, although he'd thought it was only so much hokum, there was no way she could argue that she could now find out exactly what a woman liked...

...from the inside.

"This isn't what I meant!" Andy shouted angrily at the uncaring ceiling. She looked down at the cleavage the shirt she was wearing displayed, and shuddered again...

...then a chuckle escaped from her throat, shocking her. She tried to muffle it - but as the comprehension came, the chuckles forced themselves out with growing frequency and strength, until she was actually laughing at the sheer absurdity of the situation - her mind, unable to provide unrelieved shock and denial, had moved on to another step completely.

"I... I actually... asked.. for this...!" Andy gasped out to herself between chuckles, unable to keep the wry humor of the situation from registering and affecting her. Although she would never have considered this particular 'solution', not in a million years - yet, if you looked at it from a certain viewpoint, this was exactly what he'd said he'd wanted, and the old woman had provided to him, free of charge and without arm-twisting to actually use it. She'd done everything of her own free will - just not knowing the consequences of her actions. Which was more-or-less the biography of mankind itself - looking before it leaped.

Although there was still an awful lot of shock, and not a little ingrained disgust, the worst of it was gone now that Andy understood - to some degree - what was going on. What she had to do was find that old woman again, and find out how to reverse this situation. It wasn't going to do her any good to panic or scream.

And, between the now and when she found the old woman again - there was no reason why she couldn't... well, not 'enjoy' her new body, exactly. But, at least, learn from it. It was stunning, when you thought about it - no other man ever got to see the life of a woman from the inside before, and Andy knew that, as unwanted as it was, this was an amazing opportunity, and she'd be a fool not to learn something from this in the short time before it was over.

However - first things came first. Now that the panic-induced numbness was fading, Andy was becoming all-too-aware of the fact that she'd flopped around on a sandy beach for a few minutes - the sand that was down her shorts, the sand in her shirt, the sand between her toes....

Pushing herself off the bed, she was now in a condition to.. uh, 'appreciate' the sensations from her new body as she went into the bathroom and turned on the shower, adjusting the water.

She undressed slowly, watching herself disrobe in the mirror. She was forced to admit that the body was nothing short of spectacular - if only it wasn't hers...

She stepped into the shower and began to wash off the sand, her slender new hands sliding off the silky-smooth skin of her altered body. She was amazed to discover how sensitive her new flesh was, especially the soft, smooth globes of her perfect new tits. She hefted the globes experimentally, feeling their heft in her dainty hands, then slowly slid her hands over the flawless chocolaty flesh, shuddering slightly as her hands passed over her large, frank nipples. She lightly pulled her full lower lip between her teeth at the pleasure it created - and let her hand return to the nipples. Closing her eyes, she let herself experiment a bit, enjoying the sensations her touch brought to her new body. Even as she adjusted her technique to bring the most pleasure possible from her caressing of her new endowments, she filed them away in her mind. She had no doubts that, after this was over, if he could just convince a woman to give him a chance, he could wow her with his expertise at this.

Leaning back against the wall of the shower stall, she continued to play with her new endowments, finding the best methods and means for causing herself pleasure. Her long, feminine fingers lightly pinched at her swollen new nipples, then pressed down lightly on them before sliding down to lift and caress the breast itself, her thumb resting atop the nipples and make small, slow circles that caused a low but steady wave of pleasure to emit from the highly sensitive nubs of flesh.

She gently pressed the globes together, then slid her hands upwards and squeezed each breast lightly. Then, as she let one hand continue it's work on her new chest. She let the other one slide down her body.

Now that she was in control of the situation - sort of - she knew that there was one thing she'd never forgive herself for if she didn't try it before changing back...

She gasped as her fingers found her new vagina, which was now warm and wet from much more than the water streaming from the shower head. It took a bit of experimentation before she found what felt the best in position wise - although simply pressing her hand down on the surface and sliding it back and forth felt pretty damned good, too. But what felt best was when she used her index and ring finger to spread the lips of her new pussy apart...

...and she discovered a good reason why the middle finger was used for the 'fuck you' sign. It must have originally come from a woman - as she slid that finger into her wet crevice and began to move it in a motion similar to the one you would use to signal somebody to come closer - a smooth rhythm over her swollen, highly sensitive clit that caused her to writhe in pleasure, gasping at the sensation flooding her feminine new anatomy.

Then she let her other hand drop to her crotch as well, and as the finger on her right hand continued to stroke her clit, she inserted the index finger of her left hand into the clit at the lower end, sliding it as deeply as possible, then pulling part way out in time to the finger she was using on her clit, matching the rhythm...

...and the pleasure she was feeling doubled, making her sexy new legs feel weak as the pleasure thundered through her body.

She was breathing in gasps now, her head slowly rocking back and forth as the sensation built and roiled atop one another, increasing with each stroke of her questing fingers. She began to moan, low in the back of her throat, as the pleasure continued to build.

She eyes flew open with a sharp gasp as her body went tense - pleasure rocked through her nervous system, taking her in it's grip and shaking her like a rag doll as she reached orgasm, warm pussy-juice running freely down her fingers as she writhed in pleasure, sliding down to the floor of the stall as the sharp orgasm was matched by a second, lesser one, then trailed by a third, mild one that sort of tapered off into a warm after-glow.

"Holy shit..." Andy breathed as the multiple orgasm faded. Her dark eyes were wide with amazement - she'd never known how a female orgasm could feel. It wasn't that it was better than a male orgasm was, exactly - but it was different, and it lasted longer.

And, unlike a male orgasm, which relieve all the built-up sexual arousal, a woman's orgasm was almost like priming a pump - it just increased the readiness for another one. Andy had once read a book where the author had asserted that a woman is never more ready for an orgasm then just after she'd had one - and now he truly understood what was meant. A woman didn't have any built-in limitations to how many orgasm she could have in a short span of time, like a man did. But, like a man, her sexual organs were most intensely sensitive immediately after an orgasm - and that was the state Andy was in right now...

Shocked by the power of the female orgasm, Andy finished showering and toweled off with a stunned look on her face, feeling warm and tingly all over - but most especially in her crotch and chest.

"Wow..." Was all Andy could really say to the experience - as she made a mental note to remember the reasons behind a woman's interest in foreplay. A man's body was similar to a woman's in many ways - and very different in others. A woman had a hell of a lot more erogenous zones...

Still, Andy thought as she pulled on an ill-fitting pair of black denim shorts and a black T-shirt, as... intriguing as this whole situation had been, she was looking forward to finding Mama Kotiki and get her male body back.

This was just... too weird.

Slipping into a pair of too-large black canvas sneakers and tying the laces as tight as they would get, she headed to the elevator and rode it down to the lobby lost in thought. As the doors slid open onto the lobby, she tucked the brush into her purse and walked out of the lobby, hoping to find the old woman quickly and get this over with - every step she took reminded her of the current body she was in, right down to the way her double-D breasts jiggled with every step her sneaker-clad feet took.

Looking around at the courtyard of the hotel, and the festivities going on, Andy realized that she didn't have to waste all night looking for Mama Kotiki - aside from the cruise passengers, a great many of the islanders were her and she should be able to find out where the old lady lived by asking around. It seemed like the smart way to handle it.

Walking over to the open bar, she got herself a drink and began to wander through the cluster of people. Taking a sip of her gin-and- tonic, she noticed the bright-red lipstick mark on the side of the glass. She dug her compact out of her purse and assured herself that her gloss-red lipstick was okay, as was the rest of her make-up. Satisfied, she continued to move through the crowd, hoping to spot a likely person to ask - she really, really wanted to find Mama Kotiki and get back to being a man.

"Hey, baby - looking goood..." A voice said to her side.

Forcing a smile onto her full lips, Andy turned - then saw she could have dispensed with the fake smile. The handsome man wasn't looking that high, his eyes firmly locked on the taut fabric where her skin-tight tank-top was molded over her firm DDD-cup tits.

"Oh, you like...?" Andy asked, breathing in - and almost making the man drool.

"Yeah, do I ever!" The guy said, practically panting. "Tell you what - why don't I give you ten bucks to get you to sit on my lap and let me play with those babies?"

Andy forced a sneer of disgust from curling her lips. "How 'bout fifteen?" She countered - and the man eagerly agreed.

Taking the money and sticking it into the pockets of her skin-tight 'daisy dukes', Andy slowly and sensuously peeled off the tank-top, setting free her incredibly spherical tits, and shimmying her torso side-to-side to make them move around a bit. Turning, she lowered her firm, fully packed ass onto the man's lap and sat back against him, her sneaker-clad feet now inches off the floor.

The man smiled as his friends took pictures, and reached around to fondle and squeeze her tits.

Andy suppress his disgust at having a man fondling her tits, and forced herself to look like she was enjoying his attention. Truth be told, it did feel good, physically - she just wished it wasn't a man who was doing it. Frankly, she just wanted to get back to Mama Kotiki and go back to being herself.

After the few minutes were up, she gratefully rose and packed her triple-E tits back into the spandex-crop top, glad that the ordeal was over.

But many of the guys had seen that she was 'willing', if the price is right, and when a man sidled up to her and named a figure for a certain act, she forced herself to look eager and followed him to a 'more secluded spot' - his phrasing - in the jungle off of the beach. Crossing the sand while maintaining a sexy wiggle of her hips was tough - black suede pumps with a three-inch heels wasn't the right footwear for walking in the sand.

Reaching the 'secluded spot', them man turned an waited with an expectant smile.

Feeling her gorge rise, she forced herself to hide her disgust behind a false smile, and slowly sank to her knees. Reaching out, she unzipped the man's fly, setting free his already hard cock.

Then, closing her eyes, she forced herself to ignore her disgust and bent forward, her lips sliding over his cock.

She used one hand to massage his balls and the other to work his shaft as she bobbed her head back and forth, her tongue tracing patterns over his swollen glans. The musty tastes of the cock in her mouth made her want to gag - but she forced back the reflex, and concentrated on doing the best job she could.

It didn't take too long at all before he stiffened, and she knew he was about to cum - but he'd paid the 'premium' for the extra, so she forced down her natural urge to pull away and instead let the man cum into her mouth, swallowing the hot, salty cum with disgust, and - forcing herself - licking the cock clean before putting it back into his pants.

She wanted for him to go away so he wouldn't see her stuff a couple of breath-mints into her mouth to get rid of the awful, musty taste le退耀 behind - but she didn't get a chance, as one of his friends appeared, all hot and eager - and with a big wad of cash> She didn't even have a chance to get off her knees - instead, she accepted the money and let him flip her over, his hands eagerly removing her short denim skirt and black tube-top. Luckily, he didn't rip her lacy black panties as he pulled them off, and she lay back in the sand and tried to close her mind off what the guys was doing as he paused only long enough to fondle and suck the huge, erect nipples tipping her round FFF-cup tits before thrusting into her cunt.

She forced herself to make the appropriate sounds of pleasure as she pounded away at her, but the truth was, masturbating had felt better than this - he didn't care at all about making her cum, just himself. Besides - she'd never really enjoy being fucked by a man, no matter the circumstances. Sure, she was doing it right now because of the money - but, while it was mildly pleasurable, physically, it was utterly disgusting for her emotionally, and she let her mind go to the thought of fucking a woman as the man stiffened and pumped his cum into her cunt - without her getting even close to an orgasm.

Finally alone, she popped the mints in her mouth, glad to kill the taste of the other man's cum. Then she pulled on her black leather mini-shirt and the full-cup bikini top before rising and heading off down the beach, cursing her damned black leather platforms with their seven-inch tall spiked heels.

Finally reaching the spot where she'd started from earlier that day, she turned and went into the jungle, walking down the hidden trail before finally arriving at the ancient mansion in the obscure clearing. Her nine-inch spiked heel ankle-boots clicking on the marble steps, she climbed the stairs to the front to, her massive yet firm HHH-cup tits bouncing within the negligible confines of the string bikini top. "Ah, Angelyne, you're back." Madame Kotiki said as Angelyne entered the office. "How did your day go?"

"You know how it went." Angelyne said to the shapely, well-preserved forty-five year old woman who ran the brothel. Angelyne quickly shed the tiny amount of clothing she was wearing and pulled her own clothing from the closet. "I'm looking forward to fucking women again, of course."

"Yes, of course..." Madame Kotiki said in an odd tone of voice. "But there simply aren't enough submissive lesbians around to allow you to pursue your own personal choice all the time."

"I know, I know..." Angelyne agreed, pulling on her thigh-high black leather ballet boots, balancing easily in them. She quickly pulled on her black leather corset that left her incredible, MMM-cup tits free, then strapped on the massive black double-ended dildo, moaning with pleasure as the massive phallus slid into her cunt. "At least I get to do it two nights a week - and the girls are willing to pay extra for the 'fetish' theme."

"Of course - but not enough that you can stop fucking and sucking men the rest of the time. Besides - no matter how much you hate doing it, you are very good at it."

Angelyne shrugged, causing her massive tits to bounce and sway. "I should be - I've been hooking since I was sixteen." She shrugged a second time. "Besides - I might hate doing it, but I'll be the first to admit that lonely, horny American men can be a good source of profit."

Madame Kotiki smiled enigmatically. "Oh, my - yes they sure can."

Shrugging at the odd tone in her boss' voice - after all, everybody knew that Madame Kotiki, self-proclaimed Voodoo Priestess, was a little nutty - Angelyne turned and headed towards the 'dungeon' where she did her best work. When it came to working with the small group of submissive lesbian clients she had, everybody who knew about the situation would admit that, in that particular case...

...Angelyne knew exactly what a woman liked.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A ship wreck victim, ends up on an Island where the only males have a serum which converts men into women.

The Island

By Gunslinger

The night was beautifully clear, the stars shining in the velvet skies. I enjoyed the quiet solitude of the open ocean air, accompanied by the gentle throb of the diesel engine. I took a deep breath of the bracing salt air, and told myself for the hundredth time that THIS was the vacation I'd been needing.

For three days I'd been aboard the Sally Anne, with no-one but my own thoughts to keep me company. The small ocean-going yacht handled like a dream, and since I'd merely picked a direction and sailed straight ahead, not even the worries of navigation disturbed my contemplation. The fact that I was technically lost at sea, with no idea where I was, didn't worry me a bit. In two more days, I would turn on my GPS unit, and be able to find my way back to the dock without any trouble. For now, It was just me, my boat, and the sea.

The sound of the coffeemaker gurgling to a stop let me know it was ready. I tied off the wheel and left the throttles open at one-third speed, then headed down the small galley below decks. Though small, I had assured that it was well stocked before leaving port, taking extra of everything I could imagine I would want on the voyage. Willing to admit to having one vice, I grabbed a fresh pack of cigarettes from the cabinet. Locating a lighter, I then poured myself a cup of coffee, Navy style, adding a touch of rum to it. Taking the steaming mug to the stern, I stepped upon the transom and unwrapped the cellophane, allowing it to flutter off into the night. With a mellow air, I lit a cigarette, enjoying the roll of the Sally Anne as I slowly smoked the cigarette down to the filter, with the occasional sip of coffee.

I had just leaned forward over the stern and dropped the butt into the dark waters when a larger breaker swept alongside the boat. The surge lifted the small yacht onto her port beams with an easy, rolling motion. With long established instinct, I easily grabbed for the spar on my left - and the coffee mug I still held in my hand clanged off the polished brass.

Surprised at my own stupidity, and off balance, I didn't catch myself in time to make a difference. The swell sank down, and with it, the keel of the Sally Anne. The boat literally dropped out from under my feet as I tumbled forward into the cold Atlantic.

With my mouth open in surprise, I swallowed a fair amount of seawater as I went under - but that wasn't my major concern at the moment. From the steady pulsing waves moving through the water, I realized I had hit the water dangerously near the screws, still turning at half-speed and able to shred my flesh easily. I belatedly released the mug and pushed outward, clearing the screws and rising to the surface. Coughing up the vile water I had inadvertently swallowed, I began to stroke powerfully towards my boat. Almost immediately, I knew trying to catch the Sally Anne would be futile - still travelling at five knots, my sturdy little craft was receding faster than I could swim. I floated in the water, and found myself thinking that whoever came across her would find another Marie Celeste - an empty ship, everything in its place, sailing onwards with no hand at the helm. Then I dismissed the irrelevant thought, and took stock of my situation.

I was an able swimmer, and could stay afloat for many hours - in a pool. However, the Atlantic Ocean is not a pool, and its cold water would sap my strength much more rapidly. I needed to get out of the water, and soon. First of all, it was important to get rid of extra drag, which I did by removing my shoes, and letting them sink. When your life is at stake, you do not worry about a thirty dollar pair of shoes.

The errant swell of water that had caused my predicament had been running sideways to the tide - which could only mean it had been a coastal breaker, rebounding from a nearby island. As the sound of the Sally's engine faded, I heard the welcome sound of breakers rolling onto shore, somewhere in the darkness to my right.

With long, even strokes to conserve my energy in the cold water, I began to swim. I stopped every few minutes to listen, and correct my course from the drift of the current. Almost an hour later I was rewarded by the faint phosphorescence of water breaking, and pulled myself onto the beach. I rested there for some time, wishing for a cigarette, then pulled myself upright to explore my environment.

It was the darkest time of the night, yet I found that I could see fairly well, while on the beach. The moon, at its fullest phase, was providing quite a bit of light along the deserted strand. However, if I were forced to enter the heavier undergrowth - which was almost rain forest - that light would vanish immediately. With this in mind, I struck off along the beach.

Almost immediately, I found a well worn track winding away from the beach and into the hills. My eyes followed the probable path of the trail after it vanished into the jungle, and was rewarded for my effort by spotting a steady glow of light. Hitching up my soaked pants, I pushed my tired body into motion, and followed the trail upward.

Under other circumstances, it might have been considered a leisurely stroll. I, on the other hand, was exhausted by my swim, shivering with chill, and walking barefoot, up hill, in the middle of the night. Every sound from the surrounding vegetation seemed magnified.

Finally, the undergrowth gave way, and I walked into the clearing.

Whatever I may have expected to find, it was not this. A huge, elegant Victorian manse lay spread over several acres, many of its windows aglow. The entire building, even in the dark, all but reeked with opulence and elegance, despite the decidedly odd setting for such a structure. The only similar building I'd ever seen were ones that had been purchased by either lawyers or morticians, and turned into Law Offices and Funeral Parlors.

Behind the house, nestled in a clearing, lay a helicopter of a make I was not familiar with. A large, six bladed one, it bore a camouflage paint scheme, and practically shouted its military origins. Despite its obvious age - hinting that it was military surplus - it was remarkably well maintained. The whole estate was well maintained, and definitely out of place on this wild island.

With a not small amount of bemusement, I approached the front door, wishing I had fallen overboard in a formal tuxedo. I was all too aware of how I looked in such an opulent setting. Squaring my shoulders, I lifted the heavy iron knocker, and brought it banging down on the oak door. A hollow boom sounded through the foyer on the other side, audible to me even through the massive door.

A few moments passed before the door creaked open. A flood of light and the gentle strains of Pachelbel's Canon in D flowed out, filling the very air around me with the grace of civilization in the wild. The light, welcome as it might be, was near blinding to my dark adapted eyes, and I blinked at the glare. When my eyes adjusted, I found myself looking at a bull of a man, his massive shoulders straining at the vaguely uniform-like clothing he wore. His rounded, low browed head was shaved clean, and he had no neck to speak of. He grunted at the sight of me, bedraggled and dripping, standing on the step. His prodigious brow lowered further, apparently in anger. I hastily opened my mouth to explain my predicament - and the door slammed shut.

Once more I stood nearly blind, my now light adapted eyes struggling to readapt to the sudden plunge back into the Stygian darkness.

I stood on the great stone step for a moment, bemused by the surprising lack of hospitality - or curiosity. Then, straightening my tattered raiment, I moved to knock again. Before my hands could touch the brass knocker, the heavy door was opened again, and the massive man stood there once more, this time with another man at his side. It was immediately clear to me who was the master of the two - the shorter man, slender and rugged, was elegantly dressed in a Prussian manner, a paisley smoking jacket thrown over his expensive silk shirt and tailored trousers. He had sharp, quick features and a meticulous moustache. His deep set eyes, dark and quick, revealed wry intelligence as he took in the sorry sight I must have made.

The shorter man stepped forward, a smile creasing his face. "Please, please" he said in a voice laced with an unidentifiable accent. "Come in." With an inborn grace, he put his arm behind me and, without ever quite soiling his finery on my soaked garments, swept me into the warmth of the foyer.

I stepped into the large open foyer of the mansion, water dripping from my bedraggled clothes. I stopped for a second, admiring the ornate woodwork that so complemented the marble flooring. The short man, with a polite graciousness, guided me to a bench along one wall, ignoring the salt water that was damaging the velvet cushion.

"My name is Mikhail Zarkov." The slender man stated, offering me a small humidor. Foregoing the expensive cigars, I helped myself to a cigarette, quickly lit by the hulking manservant. The dapper man continued smoothly. "Colonel Zarkov, late of the Byelorussian army. I must apologize for Igor here - a tragic accident in the field cost him his speech. I assure you, he was not being rude."

I shook his hand warmly. "Samuel Rainford" I said, "Chief Boatswain, United States Navy, retired. I was swept of my boat, and carried to your island."

He cocked his head with interest, a faint smile playing at the corners of his lips. "Will not your crew come looking for you?" he asked, signaling to Igor for something.

I shook my head. "No, I was travelling alone."

Just then, Igor returned, being trailed by a truly stunning young woman. Dressed in the classic French Maid uniform, she was slender, with an elegant upsweep of brunette hair. Her legs were remarkably long and shapely, shown off to full advantage by the short skirt and high heels. I could not help but stare at this unexpected vision of loveliness as she approached me. She carried a very large, plush towel. She smiled at me, and said with an exotic French accent "Bon Soir, monsieur. Please, allow me to dry you."

Before I could protest that I could do it myself, she had wrapped me in the towel and began to massage me dry. She was extremely thorough about it, standing quite close and paying special attention to my crotch, which was flourishing under the ministrations of the young woman. I fear my face flushed slightly as she worked. She smiled at me frequently, obviously enjoying the task. I smiled back, and mentally raised my opinion of the good Colonel's hospitality. When the young lady was finished, she walked away with a delectable sway in her step, and we three men remained respectfully silent, enjoying the view.

Zarkov led me into a very large dining room, insisting on feeding me. Since I was ravenous, I did not protest too hard. The meal was excellent - as was the service. It was served by three stunning ladies - two Caucasian, and one oriental, and each remarkably attractive in their own way. They were also remarkably cheerful and eager to please. I was amazed that this type of service could be obtained in such desolate surroundings.

"Where on Earth do you find such women?" I asked amazed. He answered with a seeming non-sequiter. "Do you hunt, Mr. Rainford?" he asked, and I blinked, shifted mental tracks.

"No." I replied. "I'm afraid I don't"

Zarkov smiled. "I do. I hunt the perfect woman." He snapped his fingers - and Igor emerged from the shadows. Following him was an amazingly muscular, yet still attractive and feminine, woman, clad in a feminine version of the quasimilitary uniform Igor wore. Before I could begin to understand, they had completely emerged from the shadows and grabbed a tight hold of me. I struggled, to no avail.

Igor was a mass of brute muscle, and looked it. The woman, much more feminine in appearance, was nonetheless Igor's equal in strength. Resigned, I then went limp, glaring at Zarkov.

He shrugged, then placed a small dart, like those in tranquilizer guns, on the table.

"All these women around you were once men." He explained. "While in the army, I was a biological warfare expert. I came up with a serum that, after several uses, makes a man into a sensual, submissive woman." He smiled coldly. "Since it works differently in each person, there's no telling how many doses it will take to convert you, or how you will appear when you are done. Overdoses tend to create an insatiable woman. That can sometimes be very...gratifying."

Igor and the woman began to haul me away. Against their combined muscle mass, I was as helpless as a newborn kitten.

"Tomorrow morning, you will be given a head start" Zarkov continued, falling in step. "I and Igor will follow you, and keep shooting you with the darts, until you join my service." He stopped, and a heavy, barred door was opened. I was taken inside, and efficiently strapped to a bed. Then the door closed, and I was left in the dark.

I was awakened the next morning by a buzzer. The straps binding me fell away, released by some automatic machinery. A second door, leading to the outside, popped open, revealing daylight. I realized the hunt was on.

I sprung from the room and moved swiftly, eschewing to path before me in favor of the woods. I had gone some distance when I passed through an open clearing - and felt a sharp pain in my shoulder. I found one of the darts hanging there, and tore it out. I looked up and spotted Zarkov, Igor hulking beside him, some ways off on a tall, rocky pinnacle. I took off again.

As I ran, I felt myself changing. My body slimmed a trifle, and my hair became shaggier. Two small lumps formed under my nipples. I did not stop to better inspect the changes.

I avoided the next shot for nearly two hours - then, I came to a chasm in the ground too wide to hurtle, and skidded to a stop. There across the chasm, was the grinning colonel and his goon. I spun, but failed to disappear into the woods until two more darts - one Igor's, on Zarkov's - found my flesh.

I was finding it harder to force myself to keep running - a mild urge wanted me to return peacefully and obey anything I was told. I shrugged it off, concentrating on moving with my new body. I now sported two firm breasts on my chest, and longer hair, among other changes.

The contest ended on the beach I washed up on. Two more darts had found me from a distance, and when they arrived, I was laying, naked, on the ground, my dainty hands fondling my full breasts.

"Well, well" Zarkov murmured to Igor. "One too many, I think" "Please," I begged in my new voice. "Fuck me. Fuck me now."

The two men smiled, and began to disrobe. Zarkov claimed the honor of having my newly formed vagina first, so Igor's erect member was the one I took hungrily in my mouth. As Zarkov's thrusts pushed me nearer and nearer to orgasm, I had trouble concentrating on Igor. We came almost at the same time, Zarkov and Igor quickly pulling out to ceremoniously spray my new body with their cum, marking me, while my body shuddered in orgasm. The men sighed, and helped me up.

At that moment, I grasped four darts in each of my smaller hands, and imbedded them in the two men's flesh. They yelped and spun, but I held tight to Igor, injecting him twice more. As he fell, changing, I tackled Zarkov. After another injection, I located what I knew he must have - an antidote, in case of accidental injection. I used it on myself. The thought that a man might be willing to fake the complete mental change and let them have sex, had never occurred to them.

An hour later, I re-entered the house, fully male once more. Following me the two new women. Igor had become another muscle- bound seductress, swaying obediently in front of me, as I enjoyed the view of her muscular buttocks working.

Beside me walked the transformed Zukov. I had maliciously injected him with every single dart remaining in a massive overdose - and she was a parody of a woman, with enormous, firm tits, slender waist and an insatiable sex drive. We'd had to stop twice on the way up here so I could satisfy her.

For the first few days, I used the transformed Zukov almost exclusively. Then I began to sample the eight other women available to the compound. But now, I grow bored of the selection. But that is alright. I have invited several of my friends to visit. I will pick them up, one every two days, in the helicopter, which my little slut Zarkov can still fly. I told my friends to keep this whole trip invitation secret.

I told them I was taking them hunting.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After his girlfriend dumps him for a new guy, he frames the guy to look like a cheater, the only problem is that Cupid had other ideas. Now he finds that he must be the new date for the guy he just framed.

Isn't It Romantic...?

By Gunslinger

Part One

My back was aching, every slightest twitch sending twinges of pain running up and down my spine. My leg was itching like a colony of ants were crawling up it, and I knew - just knew - that if I didn't scratch it soon, those ants would be come fire-ants, bringing pain with them. I had a headache, caused by the gritty, dry sensation in my eyes as I stared, without blinking, through a set of lenses that amplified and intensified the early-morning light to head-splitting levels.

In other words, I was feeling utterly miserable - and I was enjoying myself more than any man should have the right to experience.

Actually, I didn't have any right to be feeling this good - or, rather, what I had done/was still doing was something I had absolutely no right to do to another human being.

Which, of course, was probably why I was enjoying it so damned much. Sure, I guess I knew it was wrong of me to ruin a man's relationship, sending his fledgling and hard-earned love-life right down into the crapper - but, hell, it was the damn-nastiness of what I was doing that made it so damned delicious.

I was barely breathing as I sat on the steel-and-vinyl chair I'd pulled from my kitchen, my arms braced on the window-sill of my fourth- floor apartment window, staring through a pair of binoculars at the apartment across the street.

I was busy enjoying the show.

Currently, the only actress on stage was one Linda Cotrall. Slender, dark-haired, and lithe, she had a body to die for and a killer temper.

I should know - she used to be my girlfriend. Well, at least that's what she'd called herself. I called her a 'high-maintenance fuck-toy'

- but never to her face, of course. Though she'd been high maintenance, she'd been a real tigress in bed.

Currently, her red-hot temper was in full evidence. As it so happened, she was busy tearing the apartment apart, vanishing from my view-point as she stormed through the rooms, tearing open dressers and wardrobes. Though I certainly couldn't hear her, I could see her mouth working, and could imagine the steady stream of curses she was filling the air with. She liked to pretend like she was cultured and all, but when she got pissed, she could swear better than a sailor.

As much fun as watching her trash the apartment was, however, it was only the prelude to the 'grand finale' - namely, the moment when the apartment's owner showed up.

See, I hadn't been lucky enough to be living across the street from my girlfriend. No, fate had been both crueler and kinder than that - because it was her new boyfriend who lived across the street.

Cruelty, because it was that chance location that had allowed Linda to run into Danny when she'd blown me off. It had been one of our 'regularly scheduled' arguments, another stupid thing she'd gotten ticked off about, I don't even remember what - and cared even less. As usual, she'd given me the 'I'll never talk to you again, Michael Bicardian', and stormed out. Just like a hundred times before. Just like a hundred times before, she should have climbed behind the wheel of her car, gone tearing away - and come back about two hours later, calmer and willing to give it another shot.

Except that, this time, she ran into Danny O'Malley. Skinny, scrawny, red-haired Irish geek, Danny.

Danny - who'd thought she seemed to angry to drive safely. Who taken her to the café on the corner for a few cups of coffee to get her calmed down. Who listened to her bitching about me...

...and, somehow, unbelievable, got her to dump me in favor for him! Geez, Louise - I weigh twice what he does, all of it muscle. I used to be the star Quarterback in College, and even if I didn't make the pros in the five years following, I was still the man, friends with everybody, the guy every guy wanted at his party, and every girl wanted in her bed. So how did this little nothing of a geek steal Linda away from me?

What made that little shit think I'd just let him get away with it?

If I didn't get Linda, neither did he. I planned this little show for the past week, and it was perfect. All those buddies I mentioned? Well, it wasn't hard to get them to 'hint' things about Danny. Those girls I talked about? Eager to suggest that Danny wasn't nearly the 'nice guy' he seemed.

All nice and easy to set up - and today, today was the final touch. See, the reason why Linda was trashing Danny's apartment was because she was finding all the women's lingerie I'd planted in his apartment after breaking in last night. Now all those ideas I'd planted were 'proven' to her, and she was royally pissed. Any second now, Danny would walk in - and she'd blow him away, hit him with such anger that a pathetic wimp like him couldn't possibly convince her she was wrong. She was going to dump him harder then she did me...

...and on Valentines Day, no less.

Man, I was some sort of evil genius, or something...

Grinning diabolically, I watched through the binoculars as the piece de resistance finally came to pass:

The door to the apartment opened, and there was the original ninety-pound weakling in all his pathetic glory. Oh, the joy the confusion on his scrawny, pinched little face brought!

Now he was backing away from Linda as she stalked closer to him, and this was even better - he was even shorter then she was, and oh was it so fine to watch the pale little carrot-top run from five feet, eight inches of feminine fury. Oh, this was just more perfect then I could have ever hoped, and...

"Hey, bud - you know just how long I hadda work on this little gig?"

The dour, nasal voice speaking Brooklynese less then a foot behind me definitely came as a shock. I mean, I'm not any sort of coward, but when somebody sneaks up behind you - in you own, locked apartment, no less - a certain amount of surprise is allowed.

I did not shriek like a girl, and I'll kill any of my neighbors who claim that's what it sounded like.

Ignoring the distinctive sound of the binocular's lenses breaking as it bounced off the floor, I spun around, manly muscles bulging as I formed fists, ready to pound on...

...a three foot tall guy? In a diaper?

With wings?

I gaped at the apparition standing before me, unable to believe my eyes. That confusion was probably the reason why I didn't just kill him, right off the bat. I know for sure it's the reason I asked the question: "Who the fuck are you?"

"Cupid, dumbass." The midget replied, hitching up his over-sized cloth diaper with one hand as he glowered at me from below the brim of the old-fashioned bowler hat he was wearing.

That hat was one of the reasons I was so disconcerted. Sure, the wings and the diaper, not to mention the height, were pure 'Cupid' but this asshole was no cute little golden-haired angel-boy. No, he looked ten years older then God Himself, and not only was his dour, wrinkled face topped by that dumb hat, but he was gnawing on the end of a foul-smelling cigar almost as big as he was.

"Bull shit..." I said, starting to stand up - and then the pint-sized psycho pulled his other hand out from behind his back.

It wasn't the hand that stopped me, 'course. No, it was the full-sized Thompson sub-machine gun he was toting in that hand that caught my immediate attention.

"I usually use the bow-and-arrow routine." The midget said, grasping the front of the drum-fed Tommy-Gun with his other hand. "In your case, I need some heavier artillery..."

Okay, I'll admit it - the shriek I let out at this point probably did sound like a scared girl. I figure there's nothing unmanly about that, though, considering the fact the little psycho had just opened up on me.

That's right - he lifted the muzzle of that damned Tommy-gun, and blew my ass away. Only - he didn't kill me, and that when things got really, really strange.

You ever go paint-balling? I did, once, and that's what getting hit by Shorty's sub-machinegun felt like. The same sharp, angry pain, fading quickly into short-lived numbness. Hell, it even seemed like he was using paint-balls, since his 'bullets' disintegrated on impact. Though it sounded like a real gun, the effect was that I got spun around, knocked off my feet, and covered in the pink mist/dust of the bullets, just as if they were paintballs.

"That should do it." Shorty said, with satisfaction. I heard sounds that seemed to indicate he'd put that damned gun down, but I couldn't look to make sure. In fact, I couldn't do anything at all - I was numb, completely numb, unable to so much as twitch a single damned muscle.

"Listen up, dumbass, 'cause I ain't gonna 'splain this twice." Shorty grumbled. "See, since you screwed Danny over, you're gonna make it up to him. I mean, you damned well better make it up to him. See, buddy, if you want any chance of getting your old life back, you'd better make sure you and he not only go out on a date tonight, but you'd better make sure that he has at least as good a time as he woulda had with that Linda broad. If you don't..."

He didn't finish the threat. No, Shorty just let it hang, as if I was supposed to understand the threat he was implying. Well, actually, I figured it out pretty soon, but at the moment I had no idea what the hell he was talking about.

"Don't expect no cops to show up about the shootin', dumbass." Shorty said, as my body began to tingle. "Ain't nobody but you heard or seen me - and you don't even exist anymore, so, no huhu..."

I didn't hear him leave or nothing, but I figure he must have gone at that point. To tell you the truth, I didn't really notice - I was busy with something else.

My body had begun to tingle, see, something kinda like what it feels like when you arm 'wakes up' after falling asleep, and so I figured it meant that this was some sort of revenge Linda and/or Danny had planned after finding out my little scheme. I figured they had 'playacted' that scene for my benefit, while hiring a midget to shoot me with a realistic-looking 'Tommy-gun' that shot pink paintballs.

That's what I figured, at least - right up until I felt my body begin to shift. Not 'shift', as in moving around on the ground - 'shift', as in bones and flesh moving itself around under my skin.

I'll tell you right now: If there's any possible way you can arrange your life so that you don't have to feel the sensation of your cock and balls being pulled back up into your body, then you should take that route.

It hurts like a son-of-a-bitch. I mean, I'd been sacked before, sometimes accidentally, sometimes on purpose, and none of those came close to the sensation I felt as Mini-Mike was changed into a nice, tight cunt.

Yeah, you heard me right - a cunt. See, whatever it was that Shorty shot me with, it turned me into a woman.

Not that I knew it at that second, of course. Well, given some of the sensations I was feeling at the time, I probably suspected it. If the feeling of my cock and balls retreating back into my crotch wasn't a giveaway, then the feeling of extra weight and mass forming on my chest might have clued me in. Sure, the change in the way the air felt as it moved over a body suddenly sporting considerably less body-hair might have been 'subtle', but I sure as hell noticed the short, dark hair I used to have suddenly getting longer as it fell down in front of my eyes. Long stands of silky, gloss-black hair, finer and (undeniably) more feminine than my old hair.

So, I should damn well have known what was happening to me, and on some level, I probably did. I just didn't want to admit it, not even - or, perhaps, especially - to myself.

The whole thing couldn't have gone on for more than a few seconds - yet it felt like an eternity before that tingling sensation faded, and I once again found myself able to move. Still in denial about what had happened to me, I was at first telling myself that the 'bullets' I'd been hit by must have clobbered me in the crotch, and the pain I'd felt had just been sort of retroactive.

Of course, I was trying hard to deny the new - and altogether different - sensations I was feeling, from every square inch of my body. In fact, I tried not to believe anything had happened to me, despite all the evidence to the contrary.

Part of that denial shattered when I started to get up - because the hands I was pushing off the floor with were not the hands I should have seen. They were too slender, too fine-boned, with not nearly enough hair and with way too much fingernail.

Still, I tried to lie to myself as I fought the strange new configuration of my body to get myself upright. I even managed to willfully ignore the sleeve of the bathrobe.

You see, I'd been wearing my ratty old dark-blue bathrobe when I'd sat down to watch the 'show' - but the sleeve now encasing a slender, much less powerful arm was fluffy pink terry cloth. So, since it wasn't the 'right' material and color, I tried to ignore it.

I might just have been able to keep myself in denial for longer - if it weren't for the fact that my lame attempt to avoid looking at myself left me looking around my apartment...

...only it wasn't my apartment.

Oh, sure, it was the same room. The same physical layout...

...but the furniture, the paint and wallpaper, were all wrong. The room was now painted pastel pink, and the carpet was deep and white and fluffy - not at all like the sensible blue carpet and white painted walls it should have been.

The furniture was white, brand-new - and it matched. It was obvious that the bedroom set was supposed to go together - something I'd never worried about when furnishing the room.

Then there was the personnel effects. The very feminine personal effects...

Maybe I'd be able to handle denial if that had been all. Perhaps, in an effort to disbelieve what had happened to me, I could have forced myself to ignore the overwhelming evidence of the altered decor I was seeing.

Maybe - but I never got the chance. In addition to all the changes to the bedroom, there were the mirrors. Everywhere.

One over the white dresser. One on the back of the bedroom door. And, in the corner, near the free-standing wardrobe, a three-fold mirror.

All of them reflecting the room's sole inhabitant. The room's sole, female inhabitant.

Me.

I'll admit freely - this time the scream I let out sounded exactly like a woman's shriek. After all, the person making it was undeniable a woman.

I was barely aware of the scream I was letting out. I was too busy trying to cope with the image in the mirror. You see, the thing that made the change hit home was something I couldn't simply pass off.

The woman in the mirror was me.

It was the old, male me - as a woman.

I mean, I was undeniably female. With the bathrobe hanging open like that, there was no doubt of that - but the woman I'd become still looked enough like the old, male me to be recognizable. My eyes, though set in a smaller, finer-boned face, were still the same shade of blue. My nose, though toned done to a feminine equivalent, still had that sort of hawk-like profile, only now made cute and feminine.

My hair was still gloss black - but longer and finer.

I suppose the best way to explain it would be to say that I looked exactly like I would have looked, had I been born female, instead of female.

There was one, major change, though.

It was as if all the testosterone I'd had as a man had been transformed into estrogen - or something.

Instead of being a massively muscled man, starting to run somewhat to fat, now I was a once-athletic woman, now carrying a few extra pounds.

Oh, it wasn't that the new, feminine me was 'fat'. In fact, I looked quite attractive, with still-firm muscles now sheathed in a light layer of feminine padding that was just a little thicker than most women would have wanted - but very well distributed, despite that.

Let me put it this way: I was about five pounds heavier than what most women would have considered 'perfection' on my frame - but, by the same token, I knew a hell of a lot of chicks who would rather have had my new body, extra pounds and all, than their own, even if their own body was at their own 'perfect' weight.

See, I'd been tall as a guy, and I was still tall. Several inches shorter than before - but, then, women were shorter than men, anyway, so I was still tall for a woman. Which meant that the extra weight was spread out on a 'longer' frame, leaving me with legs that went on forever, and a waist that looked 'delightfully' slender, even if the actual measurement was a couple of inches wider than it should be for pure perfection.

My waist was especially slender compared to the rest of my frame. See, I'd had broad shoulders, before - now I had broad hips, hips that would have looked a bit too wide, except for that extra weight that filled out my firm, fleshy buttocks.

More of that 'extra' weight was padding my very-much-unwanted bustline, pushing what would otherwise be firm C-cups into a slightly less firm D-cup.

I wasn't 'fashion model' slender, nor 'porn star' sexy - but I was 'Girl Next Door' perfect, tomboyish without being the least bit masculine, feminine without being too beautiful to be unapproachable. I was tall, leggy, and damned cute.

I was a 'realistically' sexy woman instead of some 'unrealistic' centerfold fantasy...

...and I wanted to be sick at the thought of how many men would find me attractive - very much so.

It was right about then that my scream cut off - because I'd suddenly remembered what Shorty had said, and realized that this 'curse' was actually a good thing.

You want to talk about your screwed-up emotional situations, consider that one. Hating the fact that you'd been turned into a woman - but realizing that being cute/sexy was a good thing, because it'd make it easier for you to go on a date you didn't want to go on, but that would get you back to being male...

I'm surprised I didn't go stark, raving mad right then and there.

Then again, I did have that 'escape hatch', no matter how distasteful the thought was:

If I could show Danny a better time tonight, give him a happier Valentine's day with me then he would have had with Linda, then I could be a man again.

Given the choice of having to go out on a single date with one man, for one evening, or be left female for the rest of my life, I knew what I had to do.

Okay, okay - I didn't decide just like that. I did give a moment's consideration to the thought of being stuck as a woman, and becoming a lesbian - but that wasn't any better than the alternative, so I finally decided to go ahead and be all-out female for one day, rather than quasi-female for a lifetime.

Having made my decision, it was time to bite the bullet and get on with implementing it. As much as the thought disgusted me, I had to admit that I'd be good at it - hell, hadn't I been a major-league stud as a guy? I knew exactly what a guy wanted from a chick. All I had to do was act the way I'd want a chick like me to act towards the old, male me, and I'd have this thing nailed.

Assuming I could force myself to do those things, of course. They were completely natural; for a woman to do, of course - but I wasn't 'really' a woman, no matter how I'd appear to the rest of the world. By definition, the things that would come easily to a woman would be completely foreign to me.

I had no idea just how true that was until I had to face up to actually acting on my situation.

See, I knew the first thing I had to do was make myself 'presentable', so that I could 'meet' Danny, and get him to go on a date. The very thought of it all made me want to vomit, but it wasn't nearly as bad as having to actually do something about it.

See, everything in the apartment had changed to match my new gender - hell, even the ID I found had changed, now declaring me to be 'Michelle Bicardian'. There was clothing, make-up, everything 'Michelle' would have in 'her' apartment, everything I needed to be female...

...and all of it disgusted me. No matter how feminine my body was, I was going to have to be 'sick' and 'perverted', a 'man' putting on women's clothes and makeup.

Shuddering, I forced myself to examine the wide range of feminine clothing available to me, trying to choose the 'right' outfit for 'trolling'.

There was a huge selection available, making it easy to find just about anything I wanted - except, of course, I didn't really want to be wearing any of this stuff.

Grimacing, I started with the underwear. There was everything from 'old lady' panties to the sexiest, flimsiest excuses for underwear that you could imagine, stuff so sexy that any man seeing it would know exactly what was on a woman's mind. It wasn't hard for me to know what the right pair of underwear for today's task was - the skimpiest, sexiest red lace G-string stile panties. Swallowing much of my pride, I forced myself to pick the panties from the drawer, carrying them at arm's length to the bed, where I sat down and began to pull them up, shuddering at the way the soft, supple skin of my altered legs felt under my hands.

Feeling horribly defiled, I stood, and finished pulling the panties in place, the tiny triangle of lacy fabric barely covering my new cunt, while the tiny string at the back rode right up between my full new buttocks...

Hating wearing such feminine clothes, I started walking back towards the dresser...

...then stopped to re-adjust the panties, pulling them out of my ass with a wince. With them once more riding correctly on my hips, I started moving again...

...and they promptly rode up into that same, uncomfortable position.

Wondering what the hell was wrong with the panties, I glanced at the mirror - and frowned as I realized that they looked exactly the way they were supposed to.

There was something seriously wrong with these panties. I mean, there was no way 'real' panties were this uncomfortable to wear, right? Sure, I couldn't see all the panties all the women on the street wore, but a large number of chicks must wear stuff like this all the time, right? I mean, they weren't all ugly or lesbos, so most of the women I passed every day must be wearing something sexy and frilly under their clothes - and there was no way that women's underwear was really this uncomfortable.

Shorty must be laughing his ass off. Somehow, he'd made sexy underwear hideously uncomfortable, knowing I'd have to wear it to get the job done.

Tugging the annoying scrap of fabric back into place, I began sorting through the bras, looking for something that matched...

...then cursed and quite literally tore the panties off as they managed to not only ride up my ass, but between my new vaginal lips as well.

Staring at the torn panties in angry, embarrassed frustration, I flung them aside. There was no way I could wear something like that. I'd just have to go through the panties until I found a compromise between comfort and 'usability'.

Grabbing the entire load of panties from the drawer, I dumped them on the bed and began trying them on one at a time, walking a short lap around the bedroom with each pair on.

By the fifth pair, I was cursing Shorty loudly in the damnably cute contralto he'd forced on me. He'd done something to the panties to make them much more uncomfortable than they should be. Hell - if women's panties were really that bad, they'd never be able to sell any. Victoria's Secret and Frederick's of Hollywood's would have gone completely out of business if lingerie was really so bad that the only pair of panties you could wear comfortably were little different than men's briefs.

In fact, that's what I had to settle on, as much as I hated knowing that Shorty had gotten the better of me by forcing me to wear such un-feminine panties. Sure, these panties were lace-edged - but other than that, they were like 'tighty-whities', only without a piss-hole. Oh, maybe a touch skimpier, and altered to fit the different contours of a feminine body, but your average woman didn't wear stuff like this. Everybody knew women like the tiny, frilly things like you saw in movies or in Playboy spreads.

Again, it felt really weird to be so disappointed about having to wear such boring panties - but I knew what I had to do to get my masculinity back, and Shorty stacking the deck against me allowed my anger to more than match my shame at wearing panties at all.

Given that I was forced to wear such lousy underwear, I gave serious thought to not wearing a bra at all, to better advertise my new tits - but Shorty had done something to them, too. I mean, they looked okay in the mirror and everything, but he must have done something to them, because they moved around way too much. In fact, in certain positions and with sharp, quick movements, the way they jiggled and swayed could be anything from uncomfortable to mildly painful. Real women didn't have to put up with that, of course, but he'd made me suffer from it. Hell, I'd see plenty of my dates go around topless all the time, especially the hot chick with nice, big implants to give 'em round, firm boobs. If what I was feeling from my new tits was 'real', then women like that would never, ever go without bras, right? Naw, this was something done to torture me, so that I couldn't enjoy having big tits the way a real woman would.

Hell, what sort of twisted individual would make tits be a nuisance? How unbelievable was that?

Cursing all the unbelievable, unrealistic handicaps Shorty had foisted off on me, I struggled my way into the bra that matched the panties I was wearing. As I fumbled and fiddled with the lace-edged-but-otherwise-plain cotton bra, I cursed Shorty even more, because he'd somehow altered the damned thing so that you practically had to dislocate both your shoulders to get the damned thing on. I mean, I'd seen women put on or take off bras in mere seconds, even once, without taking off her shirt first - yet this damned tit-sling was practically a medieval torture device to get on and correctly in place over my new boobs.

Cursing that damned psychotic midget, I quickly gathered up the rest of my outfit and put it on the bed. Maybe he'd forced me to wear plain underwear, but I guess it wouldn't really matter, since I could put sexy-enough clothes on over top.

Yeah, I know how weird that is - actually 'looking forward' to putting properly sexy clothes on the female body I didn't even want to have - but it's what I had to do, so it's what I did.

Of course, I grimaced and cursed the entire time I was dressing. Pulling on the tight-woven black fishnet-stockings over the smooth, silky flesh of my new legs was done to the accompaniment of 'damn' and 'fuck'. 'Shit' and 'Crap' went with the short black-leather mini-skirt that (fortunately/unfortunately) hugged and emphasized my new ass and waist. Various other swear-words went with the hot-pink spandex crop-top that barely covered my bra-encased rack, and I started inventing new curse words as I forced my feet into the properly enhancing shoes, gloss red platforms with seven-inch heels.

I hated every moment of getting dressed in women's clothing, but by bulling through I managed to get it done quickly enough. Sitting on the bed, fidgeting to get the clothes to slide into the proper, comfortable position, I was now dressed in a manner appropriate for the cute babe I'd been forced to be.

The clothes weren't settling into place, and I decided to walk around a bit. Sure, a 'real' woman would have been able to get the clothes in their correct - comfortable - position almost immediately, but I didn't have their experience, so I'd have to let them get their naturally.

Well aware of the new high-heels I was wearing, I very carefully rose to my feet..

..and began to topple and sway. Shocked and surprised, I started to spread my legs for better balance...

...and the damned skirt practically shot up my thighs, exposing those damned panties...

...as I lost it and went tumbling back onto the bed.

"Fuck!" I shouted, thoroughly pissed off. That damned Shorty was still playing his damned games! Not only had he somehow be- spelled that damned skirt to ride up at the slightest motion, but he'd screwed around with my balance somehow. I'd been as careful as I could be, and yet I'd still fallen off those damned heels. Sure, I didn't have any experience in heels - but women danced in heels like this. I'd seen plenty of strippers do it, some in even higher heels. Obviously, it couldn't be that difficult to simply stand in the damned things - yet my ankles had practically felt like they were breaking, and I'd barely managed two seconds atop them before I'd gone falling.

Cursing to myself, I very carefully hauled myself back upright, struggling not to move at all as I carefully eased that damned, cursed skirt back down over my hips and thighs...

...and promptly went sprawling again as I jerked in surprise.

Muttering curses at whoever had chosen that instant to start knocking on my door, I very, very carefully got myself upright again, easing that skirt back into place as the knocking became more instant.

Maybe Shorty had thought that by cursing all the clothing I'd have to wear, he'd force me to give up or something. Well, he didn't know a damned thing about me. Come hell or high-water, I was going to be male again...

I took a step. I nearly broke my ankle, and I nearly wrenched my back forcing myself, but I stayed upright. I took another. Just as small, just as awkward - and just as marginally successful.

I don't know exactly how he'd cursed those shoes, but after six more slow, halting, silly-looking steps towards the door, I was in mild pain. My calves felt as if somebody was whacking them with a padded two-by-four, and my arches felt as if somebody had been hitting them with a hammer.

"I'm - uh, shit! - coming, just - oh, goddamn, fuck! - hold on!" I shouted towards the door, my voice cracking with the effort it was taking to move at all in the cursed clothing Shorty had given me.

The person at the door just kept knocking, even more instantly, as I staggered towards the door, rebounding off the walls and furniture. Items thumped and tumbled to the floor as I tottered around, light-bulbs shattering and metal clattering in conjunction with my shouted curses.

My apartment isn't all that big. Normally, I'd make it to the front door in just a few seconds. It took nearly ten damned minutes to get to the door in my cursed heels - and by the time I did, I couldn't control the tears of pain and shame that were running down my face.

My calves were burning. My knees felt sprung. My arches felt like they were being jammed with red-hot poker. My legs felt abraded by those damned cursed nylons, I felt like I could barely breathe as the ensorcelled crop-top kept squeezing my tits tighter and tighter, and that damned skirt was constantly trying to slide up to my legs.

Wanting to scream at Shorty at the unfair game he'd rigged against me, I yanked open my front door...

...and the motion promptly sent me off my heels, sprawled out into the arms of the god-damned tranny freak from across the hall.

"Oh!" The freak said, surprise all over his face - which didn't help things, since he was wearing make-up at the moment. "Are you all right? I heard all the noise and shouting..."

I forced myself not to scream at the weirdo.

"I'm just having some trouble." I said, tightly. "I gotta get a date for tonight, and these damned clothes and shoes..."

I managed to stop myself before I sounded completely nuts. I mean, if I'd finished explaining that my outfit was cursed, I would have ended up in Bellevue in seconds flat.

"Oh!" Fanny-the-tranny said - and he grinned. He grinned.

Knowingly!

"Let me guess - not your usual ensemble." Freaky Freddy said, in what he obviously thought was a 'feminine' voice. "You probably should have started with something a little less... I mean, a little more..."

His thin, lipstick-clad lips pursed as he tried to find a diplomatic way to phrase whatever it was he was going to say.

Not that I was going to bother waiting around to hear anything a freak like him had to say. I didn't need any advice from a dress-wearing freak, thank you very much...

...except, even as the thought went through my mind, I realized that maybe that was exactly what I needed. Even as I pulled myself upright, hanging on the door-frame for much-needed support, I forced myself to look - actually look - at the tranny freak who'd I'd been avoiding looking at since I first saw him in drag.

He was wearing women's clothes. Not old-woman clothes either, but stuff you might see a real chick wearing if she had to 'dress down' for a job. You know - frilly lace shirt, below the knee skirt, plain skin-colored pantyhose, short-heeled shoes. He didn't have a woman's fine bone structure, even though he was really thin and not terribly masculine - so, you might even think he was really a woman, if you didn't get closer than three or four feet away - and most of that was from the make-up and hair and stuff.

In other words, here was a guy who had gone to a lot of trouble to be as feminine as possible. As sick, as perverted, as that was...

...it might just be the sort of expertise I needed right now. I mean, even with the handicap of being a guy, this tranny looked sorta girly - so, with a female body, I could be sexy like I needed to be, if I could get this.. uh, 'person' - to help me.

Trying very hard not to think words like 'freak' or 'sicko', in case they slipped out, I forced myself to act civil to this weir.. uh, person.

"Well, um..." I said, feeling self-conscious about having to talk to... this person. "I really, really need to get a date tonight - it being Valentine's Day and all. Can... Can you help me, please?"

The perv.. uh, person, looked surprised - and then he smiled.

"Sure, why not. It's not like I have anything better to do... and us girls have to stick together, don't we?"

I barely managed to chock back my initial response. Since my impulsive reaction was to get this freak, um, individual away from me as fast as possible, that response was considerably less than flattering.

"Yeah." I managed, non-committal.

"I'm Carla." He said, holding out a bony, long-nailed hand. I forced myself to shake it, remembering at the last instant to give my feminine name.

"Well, Michelle - let's see what I can do to help you get that date for tonight." The tranny - uh, cross-dresser - said...
...and damned if I didn't actually invite 'Carla' into my apartment.

To be continued.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A misogynist boss gets his comeuppance when his female employees decide to subject him to a series of different body enhancements which he had intended for them.

Jiggle All The Way

By Gunslinger

'Twas a month until Christmas, and all through the House, not a creature was stirring...

...EXCEPT...

* * * * *

"I'm gonna kill the bastard!"

Linda's face was a peculiar shade of burgundy as she stormed out of her office, striding past the large brass letters on the wall that spelled out the company's name. Usually calm, efficient and perfectly coifed, now Linda was almost literally beside herself - her fashionable 'power' jacket unbuttoned, her eyes glittering dangerously below an errant lock of dark hair, her full lips compressed into a tight line of rage. Her sensible short heels beat an angry tattoo on the marble floor of the medical-supply-house's secretarial pool as she strode out into the main area, heading for the elevators at the far side of the floor - and towards her until-now employer, Mr. William Thaddeus Ludlow.

"If you're talking about Mister Ludlow..." Cynthia, one of the secretaries, said loudly. "...then wait until I grab a fire ax, and I'll come give you a hand."

There was a loud murmuring of angry feminine agreement, and Linda's angry stride faltered and she stopped, realizing that she was facing two dozen women who were at least as angry as she was.

Which meant...

"What's your... 'gift'?" Linda asked Cynthia.

"Liposuction!" Cynthia all-but-snarled. "Do I look like I need liposuction?"

Tall and pretty, sandy-blond Cynthia was a perfect size two. Frankly, Linda envied the younger woman's svelte figure - liposuction was definitely not necessary, and she said so.

"Yeah?" Karen, a voluptuous - and slightly pudgy - brunette, rejoined. "Well you know what he got me? Breast implants!"

"Me too!" Another voice chimed.

"I got collagen injections..." was partially obscured by "...plastic surgery..." and "...a face lift!", before the babble became too great to make out individual complaints.

Then a voice rose over the angry list of insulting 'gifts'. "I'm gonna sue the bastard for sexual harassment!"

There was a shout of approval - but Linda had to tell them the hard truth.

"It won't work." She said, loudly, gaining their attention. "These are 'gifts', not part of the job, per se. They aren't actionable - after all, you can't sue over a 'bad gift'. The best you can do is not accept it."

"Damn straight I'm not going to accept it!" A woman said, loudly, and there were shouts of agreement. "Of course not!" Linda said. "That's exactly what he wants."

"Huh?"

Linda shook her gift certificate at them. "Don't you get it - these 'certificates of payment' are all from companies and doctors Ludlow does business with. If we don't use them, then he doesn't have to pay for them - which is why he made sure to give non-transferable certificates that he was sure each person would never use. Face it - if these were transferable, we'd swap them around until everybody was happy - and then Ludlow would have to pay for them. He set this up so he looks 'generous', giving us all expensive operations - but we 'decided' to not use them "

"Son of a bitch!" A slender, usually shy secretary suddenly blurted out. "Do you realize that if we were actually to take up these... gifts then we'd be the ones arranging it? That lousy bastard!"

That gave Linda and the others pause - because it was true. Ludlow didn't really do anything in the company - he'd just fronted most of the money. He didn't even have any real experience in the field. He was a salesmen, basically - or a con artist.

Ludlow's Medical Supply House consisted of exactly twenty-five employees in a modern three-story building - Ludlow, and the twenty-four 'secretaries'. The company was basically a mark-up middleman - expensive private clinics of various sorts used Ludlow for supplies, book-keeping, scheduling and even arranging for cleaning and services. Basically, everything except for the actual surgery. Though they worked for Ludlow on paper, each woman here was really a full time secretary and accountant for a private clinic - at a hefty mark-up to the clinic, who passed the cost on to the usually wealthy clients. It was quite the scam - and it meant that if they were to actually use the 'certificates', they'd be going under the knife of a surgeon who they knew on a professional level, somebody they had to deal with on a daily basis.

"I'm going to quit." Somebody announced. "We don't get paid half of what we're worth, our boss is a sexist bastard who loves to ogle us - and now he pulls this!"

There was a swelling of agreement. "Wait, wait!" Linda said.

"Why?" one snapped. "We don't have to put up with this!"

"No, we don't " Linda said, a plan starting to form in the back of her mind. "But, look - if we all quit, then Ludlow's out of business "

"Good!"

"...but..." Linda continued, loudly, " he still keeps all the profits, and we're on the streets looking for a job!"

She paused for a moment as she let the girls absorb the truth of the situation.

"Now..." She said, beginning to grin, wickedly. | "If we're going to be out of work, and Ludlow's is going out of business... don't you think we should make sure our boss gets what's coming to him first?"

"What do you mean?" Cynthia asked, obviously interested.

"As was just pointed out, we really have all the power..." Linda said, as the plan gelled. "We arrange all the surgeries, get the supplies, schedule everything - and all the clinics trust us now, since we've been doing this for more then three years. They'll accept anything we say as gospel..."

She went on to explain the 'gift' they should give William Ludlow for Christmas - and by the time she was finished, the entire secretarial staff shared a wicked smile like hers...

* * * * *

William Ludlow - 'Billy', to his few friends - stood in front of the full-length mirror in his private bathroom, doing something he did many times a day in what he believed to be 'secret' - admiring himself.

Of average height and with a slender build, Billy liked to think of himself as 'trim' rather than 'slender', though the latter was probably more accurate. Since he lacked the muscle mass of some self-absorbed types, he made up for it in his mental 'image' of himself. He was wearing a pair of khaki slacks and a black silk shirt, along with an expensive pair of Italian-leather loafers. Between his casually expensive clothes and his long, dark hair tied back into a pony-tail, he liked to think he looked like some sort of 'Drug Lord', so important that he didn't have to be muscular and physically imposing. The image was furthered by the shortly, neatly trimmed goatee he was nearly obsessive about, and the overly-expensive 'accents' of jewelry he wore - a Rolex watch, an expensive-but-subdued chain with a small cross on it, and a large, ostentatious gold ring with a large emerald in it.

Running a hand over his slicked-back hair, Billy winked at his reflection, letting his other hand drop to his crotch and smooth the fabric of his pants over his crotch - which was strained by the bulge of his abnormally large, thick cock which - even flaccid - was visible through his pants.

Which was just the way he liked it, of course.

"Looking good, Billy-boy..." he said, a trace of his Brooklyn accent - which he'd tried so hard to loose - coming through.

There was a knock on the outer office door, and Billy hurriedly closed the cupboard door on which the full-length, gilt-framed mirror was mounted and flushed the toilet to simulate the reason for being in the bathroom. Calling out 'come in', he ostentatiously washed his hands and dried them - admiring his carefully manicured nails while he did so - then headed out into his large, almost overly-luxurious office...

...to find Linda waiting for him, holding a tray with two glasses of a thick yellowish liquid on it.

"Hi, Linda..." Billy said, a bit nervously - he'd expected her visit about half an hour ago, just after he'd had the 'gifts' delivered.

"Hello, Mr. Ludlow... Billy." She said, smiling warmly. "You don't mind if I call you Billy, do you?"

Of all the ways he'd expected her to act after his gift, this wasn't one he'd envisioned, and he was beginning to feel even more nervous. "Uh... no, I guess that's fine."

"Good..." She said, warmly, carrying the tray over to put it on his huge redwood desk - and putting a very provocative sway into her stride. She'd also removed her suit jacket, displaying the crisp white shirt underneath... which had the top two buttons undone.

She turned around and seated herself on the desk, crossing one nylon-clad leg over the other - causing her skirt to ride up and reveal more of her nicely shaped legs.

"I thought I'd bring us some eggnog..." She said in a husky voice, smiling in a way that made him feel suddenly very warm. "The girls and I had a bit of a... disagreement over who would get to bring it up, but I'm the most senior, so..." She put one slender finger between her full, soft lips and sucked lightly on it.

"Uh... so you girls liked the gifts...?" He said, visions of having to pay off all those certificates suddenly making a cold shudder run down his spine, dispute the warmth her mood and actions were generating elsewhere.

"Oh, well..." She said, seductively. "I'm afraid most of us won't use them but they're very expensive gifts all the same, and it made us realize just how much you... appreciate us "

She licked her lips very slowly while staring at him throw lowered lashes, and he cleared his throat and smiled a bit. "Well - of course I do "

"A toast - to the most thoughtful boss a woman could ever have " She said, picking up a glass of eggnog and holding it out to him. "And, I put something in it to give it a little more... authority "

Taking the glass, he held it up as she picked hers up and smiled. "Here's to you "

They downed the drinks, and Billy felt the liberal lacing of alcohol burn it's way down his throat and begin to spread it's warmth through his stomach.

"Gee, Billy " Linda said, leaning forward - and displaying a hint of cleavage. "Why don't you sit down, and we'll talk a little. Even after working for you for so long, now I know that I really don't know anything about you "

Billy's grin was even wider this time, as he settled into the big leather chair in front of his desk. The alcohol was hitting him hard, making him feel warm and very, very relaxed - and here a very attractive woman was not only coming on to him, but wanted to talk about his favorite subject - him.

"Sure, Linda..." He said, finding his words slightly slurred. "We should get to know one another "

"Comfy, Billy?" She asked, and now there was a bit of an odd tone in her voice - not as warm as before, and as if sharing some private joke."

"Yeah... comfy " He said, finding that he didn't seem to have the energy - or desire - to bother modulating his tone. The words just sort of came out in a monotone. "Don't feel like getting up, or moving?" Linda asked.

"No " Billy said, dully, feeling supremely comfortable and content.

"Not even if I do this ?" She asked - and leaned forward and back-handed him across the face, hard.

It hurt. That is, the sensation of a sharp pain was there - but it just didn't seem important enough to respond to. Billy was feeling very good right now, warm and content and happy, and very willing to let whatever happened.. happen. He didn't so much as stir in response to the wicked slap - and that made Linda smile even wider.

"So, Billy - I've worked for you for three and a half years now." She said, her voice still holding that odd tone. "I do a lot of your more 'questionable' contracts. Why is it that you have me do them?"

Billy smiled slightly. "Because you do them, and keep your mouth shut about them..." He said, blearily. "Oh - does that mean you trust me?" She asked.

"Yes. I trust you." He agreed.

"You must trust me a lot." She said, intently.

He'd never really considered it, but now he nodded. "Yes. I trust you a lot."

"You trust me completely." She said. "Trust me, and anything I say, utterly and without question. Don't you?"

"Yes..." Billy agreed, nodding. "That's right."

She grinned wickedly. "In fact, you will believe anything I say to you. You believe me completely - right?"

"Right..." Billy agreed, with warmth in his tone. He was feeling better now, more like himself - he knew what was going on, and he felt fine - he was with Linda, who he trusted completely. Everything was just fine.

"Billy..." Linda said, sliding the tray on the desk aside to reveal a business-sized envelope that had been underneath. She opened it and took a sheaf of papers out from inside. "You were saying that you want to get out of the business, so you wanted me to get some papers ready so you can give me the business, and all the assets - remember?"

"Of course, Linda." Billy said. "Are those them? I'll just sign them and get them out of the way..."

Linda seemed to be struggling to keep her face straight as he signed the papers - probably trying to repress a cough, Billy figured as he signed the transfer papers and bank directions. Once that was taken care of, he settle back to enjoy the conversation Linda wanted to have.

"Now, Billy, you got Janice a certificate to have her lips injected with collagen to make them fuller. Do you remember that?" Linda asked.

"Of course I do, Linda." Billy said, with a small sigh - he'd only handed out the certificates an hour ago, how could he forget?

"Now, you remember that I said you gave the certificates because you really thought it was what we'd want? They were real, honest-to-goodness gifts from you to us?" Linda asked.

"Yes, I remember." Billy laughed. "My mind's not going you know, Linda!"

"then you remember that you agreed?" Linda said, her voice full of some obscure emotion. "You agreed?"

Billy frowned for a second - then smiled. "Of course I agreed." He said, with a laugh. "Those are just the gifts I thought each of you wanted the most."

"But Janice already has very full lips." Linda said. "You must believe that Janice wants incredibly full lips then, right?"

Billy frowned for a second - then his face smoothed over as he grinned. "Well, of course silly. Janice wants incredibly full lips. That's why I gave her that gift, so she could get what she really, really wants - incredibly full lips."

"Gee - it seems odd that she'd want incredibly full lips so she could be embarrassed by them and try to downplay them. It doesn't make any sense... does it, Billy?"

"No, that's just silly." Billy said with a sigh, wondering why Linda was being a little dense - it must be the booze in her eggnog, he figured.

"Then you tell me why Janice wants incredibly full lips, Billy." Linda said. "You must know what Janice wants to do with those lips. You got her the certificate, you know it's what she wants - tell me why Janice wants those lips, Billy."

Well, that was self-obvious. Billy knew what Janice wanted, that's why he'd gotten her that certificate.

"She wants really full lips so she can wear bright glossy lipstick." Billy said, confidently. "She wants to have the type of lips men like to kiss... or have wrapped around his their cocks. Women's lips are for kissing and cock-sucking, after all, and any woman who wants fuller lips wants them so she can do it more often."

"Now - that's what Janice wants, right?" Linda pressed. "You're absolutely positive, aren't you. There's no doubt at all, that what you just said is exactly what Janice desperately, eagerly wants - right?"

"Of course." Billy stated, positively.

"Who are you?" Linda asked, quietly, a wide smile on her lips. Billy blinked. "Huh? I'm Billy - William Ludlow."

"No, you aren't." Linda said, forcefully. "You are Janice Carter."

He blinked in surprise... then grinned. "Well, of course I am, Linda. Who else would I be?"

"Nobody..." Linda said, in an odd tone of voice. "Hey, Janice, I've got good news - I've made all the arrangements for you! The doctor's ready to do your lips!"

"That's great!" Janice said, eagerly - almost desperately....

* * * * *

"Who are you?" Linda asked.

He blinked in surprise, licking his wonderful new lips. "Why, Linda, what a stupid question! I'm Janice Carter!"

"No, you're not - You're Cynthia Byers "

* * * * *

"You're Amanda Jenkins "

* * * * *

"You're Grace Lincoln "

* * * * * "...Debbie Colms..."

"...Jessica Smithers..."

"...Carol..."

"...Tonya..." "..."

* * * * * "...Billy Ludlow!"

Billy blinked and shook his head... and found himself seated in his office, surrounded by his wickedly grinning office staff, gathered in a group around his desk.

"What the hell is going..." He started to demand, angrily - then trailed off, suddenly, his eyes flying open wide at the sound of the voice that emerged - a husky voice, sort of breathy, in weaker - more feminine - registers than he was used to hearing - well, from himself, at any rate.

"What the hell...?" he gasped, hands going to his throat in shock. Well - trying to, anyway. On the way up, they were suddenly deflected by firmly soft masses...

...which transmitted the sensation of being hit by his arms through his nervous system, causing him to look down...

For a second, it didn't register. His mind refused to place what he was seeing - and then it dawned on him that he was looking down the neck-line of a skin-tight white spandex 'T-shirt' who's plunging neck- line exposed the most massive, spherical, utterly obvious 'fake' tits he'd ever seen in his life. The size of a pair of medicine-balls, the massive, saline-enhanced boobs were impossibly round and firm, with a chasm-like amount of cleavage...

...and they were thrust roundly and 'proudly' from his chest.

Billy screamed, his voice sounding even more feminine in that wordless, high-pitched, melodramatic sound.

"Stop that!" Linda ordered, sharply - and, unwillingly, Billy found himself snapping his mouth closed, the scream dying in his throat - even as he wanted to redouble it as he gaped at the slender hands that had been re-invented out of his own, the feminine-looking fingers tipped with long, gloss-red nails.

"Oh, my god!" Billy gasped. "I... I... I'm a woman!"

"You bet you are..." Linda laughed. "Grab your crotch, Billy!"

Even as his head whipped around to stare at her incredulously, he found his altered hand responding to her command and dipping downwards - to encounter what felt like a tiny spandex skirt. His hand slid under the barely mid-thigh hem and across the frilly panties beneath... and felt smooth front of the lacy panties that enclosed his - or, rather, her - tight new cunt.

"What the fuck have you bitches done to me?" Billy cried, the fact that his manhood was massing pushing him into blind anger - and despair.

"Billy!" One of the bitches said, sharply. "Stop using that tone - I want's you to talk as sensually and seductively as possible at all times!"

"Oh, fuck off, bitch..." Billy said...

...in a syrupy, sensual tone that converted his angry words into a come-on, dripping with lust and sensuality.

"Oh, gee, guess you forgot..." Linda laughed. "That's Karen's voice - you gave it to her for Christmas, remember? The certificate for a tracheal shave and chord tightening? So, you have to do whatever she tells you to with it."

"What...?" Billy gasped - sensuously.

Linda laughed. "Well - why don't we go see what you look like, then?"

Helplessly, Billy found himself rising from behind the desk... and stared down in shock at the long, nylon-encased legs that led to the black platform shoes with their seven-inch-high heels.

"Those are my new legs." One of the other girls said. "And thank you sooo much for them - I think they look great. Look so great, in fact, that they should only be used to walk with as sexy a stride as possible, in as high a heel as possible."

"What!" Billy gasped - but found himself following Linda towards the full-length mirror in the bathroom using as hip-swinging sexy stride atop the slender, towering heels.

The 'owner' of the legs giggled at the sight, knowing that Billy had been unknowingly practicing the walk for the past month, under Linda's directions.

Reaching the bathroom, Linda opened the door that the mirror was mounted on, then stepped back to let Billy get a long, hard look at his altered self.

If he could have, he would have screamed again at the sight of the freakish creature that stared back.

There was almost no trace of the original man that the new body was based on. If you'd looked closely enough, you might have been able to spot it in the slender, boyish hips or the vaguely masculine contours of the face...

...but it was nearly impossible to look that closely. The eyes was drawn away from those areas to the more feminine parts of her new body.

Like the impossibly long, shapely legs beneath their nylons. Lengthened and reshaped surgically, they were more plastic than muscle - but that wasn't visually apparent, leaving only the sight of towering, sexy legs atop surgically re-shaped feet whose tiny, dainty new contours were shoe-horned into the tiny, feminine shoes.

Though her hips were boyishly slender, it was hard to notice that - since and almost obscenely large, firm ass packed beneath a tiny skirt drew the attention of the eye, and the tiny waist above those hips made them look wider than they really were.

Her shoulders might have been a bit on the wide side - but it was hard to look at the shoulders when there was those enormous round tits to see, instead. Likewise, the masculine structure of her face was well-camouflaged by her huge, ripe new lips, tiny new nose and dark, sensual eyes, which were framed by long, dark lashes much the way her face was framed by a massive, thick mane of dark, wavy hair.

"Oh.. my.. god..." Billy, horrified at the sensual caricature of womanhood he'd become.

"No...!" He sobbed - sensuously... just before the women started informing him what they wanted done with the gifts he'd given them - and that they'd 'grafted' onto her outrageously feminine new form.

* * * * *

Freddy 'The Fence' Leozini paced up and down in his living room, growing more pissed by the minute.

"Billy, you little shit...!" he finally burst out angrily, talking to thin air. "If I get my hands on you, I'm gonna fuckin' kill you!"

He continued to pace, glancing occasionally at the clock while he waited for the 'representative' to show up.

For the past three years, Billy Ludlow had been handling Freddy's 'account', along with a couple of other, uh... 'Family' men who wanted a good way to launder their money. Using his business, Billy had been providing a good service... so good, that it was worth expanding. Just a month ago, Billy had promised he'd find a way to get rid of his entire staff without any legal entanglements, and then hire some more 'trustworthy' people - people whose surnames ended in vowels and whose breath tended to smell strongly of garlic.

However, the little bastard had disappeared! When Freddy had tried to get in touch with him, he'd found out that he'd left the company with some stupid bitch and had probably flown off to Mexico with the Family money! At least that dumb cunt who owned the company had be smart enough to send somebody to talk to him, even if the only time she could arrange was Christmas Eve - he'd make sure whoever this 'representative' was, he understood that Freddy and the others had BETTER get their money back, or somebody was gonna be in a world of hurt...

The doorbell rang, and Freddy staled towards the door, his muscular body tense. Hell - maybe he wouldn't even let this bastard get a word out. Sure, he'd beat the shit out of the guy right on the doorstep and send him back, as a warning. Not only would it be effective, but Freddy would feel much better after...

Then he opened the door - and thought simply ceased.

"Hi..." the person on the doorstep said, voice dripping with sensuality. "Are you Freddy...?"

Slowly, Freddy's eyes traveled upwards. They started at the bottom - at the shoes. Tiny little shoes, they would have been pretty plain 'Mary Jane' style business shoes - if it wasn't for the fact that they had three inch platforms on the front sole, and nine-inch-high stiletto heels at the back.

From there, his eyes slowly traveled up the incredibly shapely legs, encased in black nylons. They went up... and up... and up....

Her legs seemed to go on forever - and when he finally reached high enough, he found the lacy tops of the nylon half-visible beneath the hem of a tiny little gray tweed skirt that was as tight as a second skin over hips and incredible, firm ass. A white leather belt with a golden buckled cinched the waistband tight around a waist so tiny that Freddy could have encircled it with his hands.

Which was made up for by her tits. Pressing out the crisp white shirt - blouse - she wore, the massive tits were too big for Freddy's large hands to hold completely - they were enormous, and not at all concealed by the blouse, which had the top three buttons undone to reveal a mouth-watering valley of cleavage.

She repeated the question - and that force Freddy's eyes from her huge, mountains tits to her incredibly full, gloss-red lips - which led the eye past her tiny snub nose to her dark, sensual eyes...

...which were locked onto his crotch, as if she just couldn't help herself, like she needed to gaze hungrily at the spot where his cock was already stirring to life.

Finally, the dark-haired vision of sexuality's question registered.

"Yeah.. I'm, uh..... Freddy..." He stammered, having trouble remembering his own name...

...as, still staring at his crotch, this incredible woman slowly, sensuously, licked her unbelievable lips.

"Hi, Freddy... I'm Billi Boobs..." She said. "Linda sent me. Can I... cum in...?" She licked her lips again, slowly.

"Oh, yeah..." Freddy said, barely hearing her words other than registering them as a come on. He stepped back and let her in, his eyes going to her unbelievable ass as he numbly pushed the door shut and followed her into the living room.

"Linda's real sorry about what happened..." Billi said, sensuously, one hand fondling her massive tits. "I'm supposed to spend the next six months making it up to You, Tony, Nick and Carlito any way I can..."

"Any way...?" Freddy stammered, cock now firmly at attention.

In way of answer, she licked her lisp again - then grabbed her blouse and ripped it open.

Her tits jumped and jiggled - then settled down, still incredibly round and firm despite a complete lack of external support.

"Any way..." She breathed in confirmation - and then pressed her body against his, huge tits crushed against his chest as her unbelievably full lips met his, and she kissed him, hungrily.

Wrapping his hands around her, he began to fondle her spectacular ass, loving the feel of her massive boobs pressed against him - and then he realized she was slowly pushing him backwards, and he let himself be moved until his knees hit the couch, and he sat down suddenly.

Smiling hungrily, Billi slowly sank to her nylon-clad knees, her hands going to his crotch and unzipping his pants and pulling them and his underwear down around his ankles.

"Suck...?" She asked, staring at his throbbing cock. "Or fuck...?" "Oh, baby - wrap those lips around my cock..." Freddy gasped.

"That's what lips like these are for..." She said, in a slightly sing-song voice, like somebody repeating a memorized phrase. "For kissing or cock-sucking."

Then she stopped talking as she bent down, and her lips enclosed his hard, throbbing cock.

Freddy moaned as she began to slurp away at his cock. Her style wasn't all that great - but, god, those lips felt unbelievable, and she was going at it for all she was worth.

He barely noticed as somebody else came in the room - until a deep voice swore in surprise. "Whadda fuck...!"

Freddy opened his eyes - and saw Nick standing in the entrance way of the room. "She's... for us..." Freddy gasped. "Apology... for the bitch... at Ludlow's..."

"Damn..." Nick breathed, eyes wide at the sight of the huge-breasted woman on her knees, head bobbing vigorously at Freddy's crotch.

As he watched, she shifted position, until she was standing, head down and ass stuck up in the air - then she let go of Freddy's balls with one hand and pointed vigorously at her ass.

It didn't take Nick long to figure that one out. His cock rapidly hardening, he walked over to where the woman was and slide her tiny shirt down to her high-heeled shoes, finding she wasn't wearing any panties.

Grinning, Nick quickly stripped out of his pants - then plunged his hard, thick cock deep into her cunt, leaning his weight on her ass to reach forward and fondle her tits for a minute as he began to thrust his cock into her, hard. She responded by dipping and straightening her knees rhythmically, slamming herself onto his tool and helping him fuck her hard and deep.

She continued to slurp away at Freddy's cock as she was fucked hard by Nick - and then Freddy gasped and began to pump cum into her mouth,. She swallowed quickly, as if she'd been told not to spill so much of a drop of his cum - and she succeeding in getting every single salty, musky drop of his hot cum, allowing her to lift her mouth from his cock just in time to scream out in orgasm as Nick came.

To both men, the scream of 'ecstasy' lacked conviction - but neither cared as the huge-breasted, unreal slut accepted another load of cum, this one deep in her tight, hot - if somewhat too dry - cunt.

"thanks, guys..." She said, huskily. "I love getting fucked while I suck. It's even better if I'm laying on my back and getting tit-fucked, too..." She licked her lips, seductively.

"Damn!" Nick said. "I might be out some cash - but getting a piece of ass like you is not bad. I'm gonna fuck you every day for a year, and twice on Sunday!"

"Hey..." Freddy said, frowning, as that triggered something. "You said we only get you for six months. What the fuck is that about? You're a good cock-sucker, but that ain't gonna make up for the cash we lost."

She giggled. "in six months, Linda's starting a porn film company, and I'm going to work there. She thought you might be bored with me by then, anyway - so she figures you guys might like to meet some of the other stars and... get to know them - intimately."

The two guys grinned at each other as Billi's hands - as if on their own - rose to her chest and began to fondle her tits.

"I've got huge tits..." She said, in that sing-song voice. "The only reason why anyone would get tits like this is to have them fondled, sucked and fucked..."

"Damn straight..." Nick laughed. "bring those babies here!"

"Okay..." Billi said, walking over to where Nick had dropped onto the couch and crawling onto his laps to have her massive tits fondled....

* * * * *

ONE YEAR LATER

"How about this one?"

Steve looked at the cassette case Ron was holding out, and shook his head.

"Naw..." He said, getting an agreement from Brad.

The trio of college students continued looking through the racks of the adult video store, looking for something to watch.

"Holy shit!" Brad said, picking up a box. "Get a load of the tits on these gals!" the other two guys' jaws dropped as they took the box and stared at the women arrayed on the cover. "Geez..." Steve said, softly.

"It's even a Christmas movie..." Ron breathed.

Reaching an agreement, the three young men went to the front of the store to rent the seasons hottest Adult new release - 'Jiggle All The Way', starring Billi Bazooms, Tonya Titfucker, Carlotta Cocksucker, Nicki Nasti and Fredrica Fucktoy...

...and another seventy-six sent was immediately added to the account of Guise Tugurls Films...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A male actor decides to take a job as a sex-phone voice playing a California bimbo; little does he know that the persona that he has invented is soon to be his fate.

Job Description

By Gunslinger

"No, mom, I haven't found a job yet." Jason sighed into the phone. He closed his eyes and massaged his brow as he listened to his mother's voice.

The muscular, dark-haired man shifted in his seat. "Yes. I remember you told me that choosing to become an actor was a bad idea." Of course he remembered - she never let him forget. Nor did she ever let go of the topic she suddenly switched to next. He sighed again. "No, mom, I'm not seeing anyone right now... Uh huh... I know, but..." It was impossible to get an word in edgewise against her vocal tirade.

"Look, mom...mom... MA! I have to go, okay? Yes, I'll talk to you next week. Love you. 'bye."

With great relief, Jason dropped the receiver into it's cradle, stretching to do so. His shoulders slumped wearily as his mother's shrill voice echoed in his mind. Ever since he'd moved to L.A. to get away from her over-bearing presence, his weekly telephone calls had been near exact carbon copies of one another. It was starting to get a little more that annoying, he thought angrily.

Giving the phone one last, angry glare (which he'd never dared to give his mother), Jason Dixon pushed his muscular, six-foot three body out of the worn easy chair. Grabbing his keys from the table beside the door, he slipped on a pair of sandals and trotted down the stairs of the apartment building to retrieve his paper.

Reading the headlines, he slowly mounted the staircase and absently re-entered his apartment. Dropping his keys in their usual place, he kicked off the footwear, the wandered over to the kitchen table. Collapsing onto the chair, he spread the paper on the table and flipped over to the employment section of the paper. Picking up a pen, he began to scan the job listings looking for work.

Twenty six years old, Jason was finally starting to live his own life. Until three months ago, he'd lived in a large, rambling old farmhouse in Iowa, the sole offspring of a shrewish, overweight woman who had raised her son alone ever since her husband had died when the boy was three. Definitely over protective, Mrs. Dixon had raised her son in an oppressive atmosphere. In retaliation, Jason had started to rebel at an early age.

Since she didn't want him involved in sports ('You'll break your neck playing those damn games!'), he'd joined nearly every team he could in both junior and senior high school. Likewise his decision to become an actor came almost immediately after his mother's angry tirade about those 'useless, shiftless, overpaid people in Hollywood'. After he'd finally graduated from the states only collage offering Film classes, the decision to move out to the coast had been easy.

Where, he found almost immediately, an acting degree from a school in Iowa meant next to nothing. As one agent had put it - 'That and a quarter will buy you a cup of coffee'.

Like hell it would. The cheapest cup of coffee to be had in California was seventy-five cents, and could double as roofing tar.

The death of his father had been on the job, and the insurance had left Mrs. Dixon fairly well off. He'd come to the coast with a old, but well maintained Mustang, and a few grand in his pocket to 'tide him over'. Now, that nest egg was almost gone, and the pressure to find work - any work - was increasing. Still, Jason would rather end up as a bum in L.A. then ever go back home again.

Well, maybe not. Time was running out, and he was beginning to get desperate. Now, as he sat hunched over the paper, he scanned every single listing for the slightest chance for employment, and a continued life away from his mother.

The ad, three pages in and halfway down the page, almost slipped by him. The heading - LADIES! NEED TO EARN EXTRA INCOME FROM THE COMFORT OF YOUR OWN HOME? - meant that he almost skipped it completely, until the tiny disclaimer at the bottom of the ad caught his eye.

'Applicable male applicants may also be selected.'

Mentally shrugging, Jason went back to the top of the add and read the whole thing. It was an add for 'phone sex girls'.

Oh, it didn't state it that way - adult tele-entertainers was the wording used. But the possible income, up to ten grand a month, looked nice. The way Jason figured it, that number was greatly exaggerated - still, half of that would be more accurate, and five grand a month was nothing to sneer at.

Now, most men would sneer at the idea of doing this work. Not only pretending to be female over the phone, but to have a verbally simulated sexual encounter with another man? No way.

But Jason seriously considered it, for two reasons.

In film class, he'd learned he had an amazing gift to imitate voices, male AND female. And, he was really, really desperate.

Picking up the paper, he carried it over to the phone. He sat for several minutes, staring absently at the paper in indecision, then finally, reaching forward and picking up the receiver. Before he could change his mind, he punched in the number listed in the add.

"Omni Tele-Entertainment." A rusty voice answered after four rings. "Can I help you?"

"Uh..." Jason said uncomfortably. "I'm calling about that job listing. The one in the paper." A short pause. "Look, buddy, you do know what we're looking for, don't you?"

Jason took a deep breath. Calling his talent into play, he forced his voice into its higher registers and replied in a breathy, sensual voice. "Oh, yes, I know what you're looking for. I know exactly what you want." He couldn't believe how utterly stupid he felt 'coming on' to another guy, but if it paid the rent...

"Is that really you buddy? Holy Shit! That's amazing!" The voice, previously lack-luster, had taken on some animation.

"Oh? Do you really zink zo?" Jason asked in a sexy soprano with a French accent. He switched suddenly to a warm, chipper contralto with a strong southern accent. "Y'all think I'se can get a job? Earn me some greenbacks?"

There was a couple of seconds stunned silence at the other end. When it spoke again, the hoarse voice was filled with reverence. "Mister," it said, "you sound sexier than most of the women I got working for me. I can guarantee you'll earn at least eight grand a month, if you still want the job."

Well, it wasn't a job to brag about - and definitely not one to write home about - but it would pay well. Jason and 'Gordon, call me Gordo, McNair', the owner of the rusty voice, discussed it. Gordo promised to come by the next morning. He'd bring a phone technician to install a second line into the apartment, and have Jason sign the employment papers.

When Jason finally hung up, he sighed. As odd as it was to think about what he was going to be doing for a living, at least it beat the hell out of having to go back home.

* * * * *

Gordo was as good as his word.

A short, ferrety looking man with a shock of greasy hair, he showed up first thing in the morning wearing a rumpled brown suit that looked like he'd slept in it. With him was a bored looking man in a blue jumpsuit, wearing a tool belt and carrying a red phone in one hand.

While Jason and Gordo had signed the necessary papers, the telephone guy had installed the phone. Unlike regular phones, the red device had no key-pad - merely a red light and a small switch.

"This is how it works," Gordo had explained, showing Jason the phone. "Whenever you're available, you push this switch up, and the red light goes on. That means the main switchboard knows it can route calls here. If you ain't available - even if it's a bathroom break - you switch it off. This phone's got a special ringer, see, so you'll know which phone is ringing."

The pay structure was equally as easy. Jason would earn a buck fifty each minute he was on the phone. He set his own hours, working as many hours a day as he wanted. Of course, the peak hours - five in the evening to five in the morning - were the best to work, if Jason didn't mind changing his sleeping habits to accommodate it.

Now, having watched the little man and his silent companion leave, Jason gingerly lowered himself into the comfortable easy chair beside the new phone. Warily, as if afraid it would bite him, Jason reached out and flicked the switch, to be rewarded with the glowing red light. Since it wasn't peak hours, he settled back into the chair and tried to read a book, since it might be some time before anyone got routed to him.

The first call came twenty two minutes later.

Startled by the low, thrumming ring, Jason quickly put down the book - which he'd been unable to focus on - and took a deep breath. With a slightly trembling hand, he reached for the phone. Taking a deep breath, he picked it up.

Shifting into a low, sexy female voice, Jason said "Hi. I'm Veronica. What's your name?..."

* * * * *

Two days later, Jason was feeling more comfortable - if no less weird - about his new job.

He had shifted his sleep cycles to match the peak hours, and was doing good business - his phone was very rarely on the hook. He'd learned the basic trick to this line of work, as well - let the client set the tone, then give him what he wants. It worked well.

It still felt weird though.

He'd just hung up from a call when the phone buzzed again. Picking up the receiver, Jason picked a voice that was simultaneously cheerful and sexy, and said. "Hi! I'm Randi. What's your name?"

The voice that replied held a faint undercurrent of amusement, as if it's owner was indulging in a private joke. "Hi Randi. You can call me...Joe."

The hesitation before the innocuous name didn't surprise Jason. Many of his callers gave fake names. "Hi, Joe." "So," Joe asked, "where are you from, Randi?"

Jason faked a bright, sexy laugh. "I'm a true California girl, Joe." It was a standard 'opening', and Jason always matched the birthplace to the voice - Yvette, his 'French Maid' was from St. Lo, for instance. Jason had thought it would lend verisimilitude to Yvette if he didn't pick the obvious, Paris.

The next question was pretty standard, too. "Describe yourself for me, Randi."

"Well, I'm laying on my bed," Jason started, making it up as he went along. "The phone is between my long, sexy legs. The long, red fingernails of my left hand are lightly stroking my crotch. I'm using the other one to hold the phone to my ear."

"Go on." The voice, still laced with humor, urged.

Jason gave Joe a giggle. "My long, wavy blonde hair is spread out beneath my body. It doesn't quite reach my firm, sexy ass. It stops at my really slim waist." Jason paused, then threw in "I had to exercise a lot to get my waist so wonderfully small." He finished that statement with a giggle.

"What about your face?" the voice urged. That was a little unusual - most callers didn't care about the face, after all - but not unheard of.

Well, since he'd said he was a blonde... "I've got pale, blue eyes and really long lashes. But people say the best part of my face is my sexy lips."

"And your breasts? How big are they?" Joe asked.

Jason paused for the barest instant. This call was unusual. By now, the other voice was usually getting excited. Also, with a loaded question about 'her' breasts - usually, tits or boobs, actually - the tone usually gave some indication of what the caller wanted to hear. But Joe's voice was the same calm, amused voice as when they'd started.

Jason decided to 'Go-for-broke'. "They're huge." He cooed, hoping that Joe liked 'em big. "Absolutely enormous." The voice still held no trace of either approval or disappointment. "The nipples?"

"Really big, sexy ones."

"What kind of shoes do you like to wear, Randi?"

Definitely getting weirder. By now, they'd be into the 'sex' part, not discussing footwear. "I love high-heels. The taller the better. They make my walk so sexy."

Joe continued with his questions. "And what type of clothes do you wear?"

Jason was really starting to wonder about this guy. "I love sexy clothes that show off my fabulous body. Clothes that really turn men on." He said. Where the hell was this going?

Then again, Jason thought, it didn't really matter. As long as Joe stayed on the line, Jason kept making money. "So, Randi, what do you do for fun?" Joe asked next.

"Oh, I love to be in public and turn men on." Jason improvised off the cuff. "One of my goals in life is to give every man who sees me a raging hard-on. I want to be a walking 'come on' to every dick on the planet." Jason 'giggled'. Randi was quite the bimbo, Jason thought with a smile.

"What about sex?" Joe asked. Still, the same amused tone.

"Oh, I love sex. I'm so great at it too. I have this incredibly long tongue, so I give mind-blowing head. My cunt is really tight, and I know just how to use it. I also love getting tit fucked - in fact I just love the feel of cum on me, everywhere." Finally, it was getting back on track. Joe's next question was heading in the right direction too.

"Tell me, Randi." He asked, "What's your ultimate fantasy?"

Hmm... "I'd love to meet this group of guys - collage students," Jason said, making it up as he went, "who are all, like, perfect studs. They'd invite me to this party. I'd get all dressed up, really sexy, and go to their frat house. We'd party for a bit, then they'd ask me to strip, right? So I would, real sexy like. They'd all get really turned on, and it would get all their huge, thick cocks hard."

Jason paused for a second to see whether Joe liked where this was going. Apparently he did.

"Go on," he urged, "tell me every kinky detail." Oddly enough, his voice was still level. Oh well, let's see if I can't change that, Jason thought. He didn't realize that, for the first time, he was actually enjoying a call. It was a challenge, and Jason loved challenges.

Kinky details, hmm?

"Well, this is what would happen "

Half an hour later, voice still perfectly level with a hint of amusement, Joe thanked him and hung up. For some reason, Jason felt vaguely cheated.

Hours later, the odd call was forgotten, blurred by the dozens of roughly similar calls in the interval.

* * * * *

Jason yawned and blinked, rolling over to check the time on the clock. The late afternoon sun was kept off the apartment by the drawn blinds, leaving the apartment dim.

Jason rolled out of bed and stretched mightily. Slipping a bathrobe on over his boxer shorts, he headed to the kitchen and started a pot of coffee brewing, then popped into the bathroom for his 'morning' ritual of shit, shave, shower and shampoo.

Returning to the kitchen, he fixed himself a cup of coffee. Opening the fridge, he leaned against the open door and tried to decide what to make for 'breakfast'.

Just then the phone - his regular phone - rang. Letting the door to the fridge swing shut, Jason carried his coffee mug into the living room. Taking a sip of the steaming liquid, he put the mug down and picked up the phone.

"Hi, Randi speaking." He said in a bubbly, sexy voice.

And stopped dead, a shocked look on his face. He hadn't tried to use a feminine voice, and why the hell had he called himself Randi?

A voice was issuing through the receiver, trying to extol the virtues of a long distance company, but Jason wasn't paying attention. Absently, he hung up the phone.

"What the hell is going on?" he asked out loud, hearing the same chipper, feminine soprano. He cleared his throat repeatedly. "Testing, testing What the fuck is wrong with me?" he said angrily, unable to change to sound of his voice to anything other than the same bright, sexy voice.

Closing his eyes and forcing himself to calm down, Jason concentrated on producing his own, male voice.

"I am Randi Dixon FUCK!" He finished. Not only had he still used the same voice, but he'd said Randi when he'd tried to say Jason.

Jason tried to say his own name again, then again when he failed. No matter how hard he tried, all that came out was 'Randi', in a feminine voice.

"This is too fucking weird."

He took a deep breath and tried a different line of attack. "The name of that guy from the horror movies is Jason."

So far, so good. He smiled at the sound of the name he wanted to say, even if it was in a sexy, feminine voice. Next step. "My name is the same as his."

Okay. Now, the sneak attack.

He concentrated hard. While he spoke, he pretended he was that horror character. He was that guy, so, his name would be...

"My name is Randi"

"GOD DAMN IT TO HELL!" Jason roared. Well, tried to, any way. The cute, sexy voice he was helplessly speaking in was particularly ill suited for roaring.

What the hell was going on?

For the next twenty minutes, if anyone had walked into the room, they would have gotten a complete surprise.

They would have seen a tall, muscular young man with dark hair, stalking around the room angrily. In a sexy, chipper voice, he kept calling himself 'Randi', and cursing.

Jason had given up on Jason - now he was trying to call himself by any name but Randi. No matter how much he tried, that was the name that emerged from between his lips.

Finally, mind whirling in frustration, anger and confusion, Jason collapsed into his easy chair. What was going on was simply impossible. How could his own voice betray him?

Suddenly, his whirling mind latched on to an answer. It must be psychological.

"Sure!" Jason said in the feminine voice, snapping his fingers. "I have a subliminal problem with my new job, and it's my psyche acting up!"

Well, that was a relief. Of course, identifying the problem was only the first step in curing it.

Jason rooted around in the table until he pulled out the telephone book, and flipped open the book to 'psychiatrists'.

Not knowing any of the ones listed, Jason picked one at random. Balancing the book in one hand, he cradled the receiver between his ear and shoulder and punched in the number...

...only to receive a recording with the hours the doctor was in. A few more calls with similar results soon convinced Jason that every shrink in the city called it a day at four o'clock sharp.

With a sigh, Jason hung up the regular phone, and slumped back in the chair. Replacing the phone book, he reached over and flicked the switch on the red phone. Seconds later, it's odd warble filled the apartment. Jason picked up the phone.

"Hi! I'm Randi! What's your name..."

* * * * *

Five hours later, slightly punch-drunk with fatigue, Jason hung up the phone and switched it off. He still planned on taking some more calls - but after he got some coffee in him. Standing, he stretched mightily and wandered into the kitchen. Opening the fridge, he groaned. There was no cream.

"Oh, shit." He murmured in the sexy feminine voice. He had used it so much during the evening, he was actually used to it now, and barely noticed it.

Grabbing his wallet and keys, he stepped outside the apartment and locked it, then headed towards the nearest convenience store, two blocks away.

The heat of the day had faded into a pleasantly cool evening without a sharp edge of chill. Dressed, as usual, in jeans and a sweatshirt - he kept the AC in the apartment pretty high - Jason felt completely comfortable, and the walk was a good way to get the kinks out of his body.

At the store, he purchased the cream quickly. He might have temporarily forgotten he was stuck with a feminine voice, but it didn't matter. Aside from a single grunt, the cashier was silent, and Jason had no great urge to start a conversation.

With the creme in hand, he started to walk home again. He had only gone a few dozen yards, however, when something happened. He fell down.

"What the fuck?" Jason exclaimed, the confused obscenity sounding strange in a sexy, chipper voice. He looked down to see what he could have tripped over.

His own shoes. Suddenly, they were too big for his feet. Like wearing clown shoes, he'd just stumbled out of them. How the hell could that happen? He sat beside the footwear and stared at them. They seemed unchanged. Confused, Jason reached down to pull off his socks - and stared at his feet as he gasped.

They were smaller, more slender, daintier. They were extremely feminine feet.

Glancing around to make sure nobody was watching his strange antics, Jason grabbed his shoes and socks, and ducked into an alleyway. Quickly, he undid his jeans and slid them down.

"Un-dirty word-believable!" Jason gasped. All of the sudden, he felt the great need to sit down again. He pulled his pants back up before doing so. Not for decorum's sake - that was the furthest thing from his mind right now.

He pulled them up so he didn't have to stare at the long, shapely and complete hairless feminine legs that extended from his crotch to his new, dainty feet. Even his ankles were shapely. At least his, um, equipment was still intact - though it did look odd nestled between two smooth, womanly thighs.

Stunned, Jason slowly clambered to his feet. Barefoot, carrying his shoes and socks in one hand and the cream in the other, he walked home, mind spinning.

Letting himself in, he locked the door behind him with a relieved grunt. Hesitantly, he piled his load on the table, then slowly peeled off his jeans to get a good look at whatever had happened.

There was no doubt about it - his legs were no a very sexy, long pair of women's legs. Running a hand up and down them to verify their reality, he not only felt their silky smoothness on his palms, but felt his palms through the legs. The felt completely normal in terms of response to stimuli - the just didn't look normal. Not on him, at any rate.

Staring down at his transformed appendages, Jason came to only one clear-cut, undeniable fact.

It wasn't psychological. The subconscious might force a man who had the ability to sound like a woman use it, but it couldn't turn a pair of hairy, masculine legs into smooth, sexy feminine ones.

Jason decide to go to bed. It seemed an odd decision, but it was well thought out. Going to sleep now meant that he'd awake early enough to go see somebody about this tomorrow - if he decided to. He wasn't quite sure who he would see about this, if, in fact, he decided to see anybody at all.

It was just so damn weird!

With that less than cheery thought, Jason toddled off to bed on his new legs.

* * * * *

Jason slowly awoke the next day at just after noon. For a few minutes, he just stared stupidly at his clock, wondering what had possessed him to wake so early.

Then everything flooded back, and he sat bolt upright while yanking of the covers. As he completed the motion, several things clamored desperately for his attention simultaneously.

The first was the golden cloud that fogged his vision as he whipped forward. A mass of pale blonde hair falling in front of his eyes - apparently, from his own scalp.

The second was the hands grasping the covers. Slender and dainty, with long, clear nails tipping each supple finger. The hands were attached, via shapely, slender wrists, to smooth, less muscular arms completely lacking his normal, dark coating of fine hair. In other words, a woman's arms.

That perfectly matched the same long, silken legs he possessed.

"Holy fucking SHIT!" Jason cried, tumbling out of bed in shock. He stared for a few seconds at his? Hands, then used the long-nailed fingers to grasp and hold a hank of the blonde hair for observation.

Unsteadily, he clambered to his feet and walked into the bathroom, his breath tight in his chest.

The mirror confirmed his worst fears. His face itself was unchanged, but now it was surrounded by a mane of platinum blonde hair that trailed in gentle waves down his back, in a snarl of 'bed-head'.

And below his unaltered face, two feminine, graceful arms sprouted from shoulders that were no longer broad and muscular, as his had always been. No, the feminine arms were attached to feminine shoulders, above his hairy chest.

"This isn't happening" Jason tried to assure his reflection, in that damned sexy female voice. His reflection didn't buy it. Well, neither did he.

He decided that, embarrassment be damned, he was going to see somebody about this, and damn soon. If he could only figure out who to see. This wasn't exactly your run of the mill medical emergency - somehow, Jason doubted that the Los Angeles County Hospital's ER saw dozens of cases of spontaneous metamorphosis on a daily basis.

Quickly, Jason showered - trying hard to ignore how the altered portions of his body felt...and failing - and shaved. Then, he rummaged through his dresser for some clothes. Like many bachelors, laundry day wasn't exactly something he looked forward to, and most of his things were dirty. Very dirty, with a rather distinct aroma.

Finally, Jason pulled on his gym clothes, which were clean because he'd never actually gotten around to signing up at a gym. A pair of black track pants and a gray medium-weight sweatshirt. Not great, but it covered his arms and legs - he sure as hell wasn't wearing shorts and a T-shirt.

Then he brushed out his new, longer hair and fixed it into a ponytail, which he stuck through the back of a faded black ball-cap. With a pair of sunglasses, it was a very 'California' look - lots of guys had ponytails like that, although not many in that particular shade of blonde. Still, it wouldn't warrant a second glance.

The next problem was his hands and feet. He wanted to disguise his dainty hands, which was secondary to his other problem - all his shoes were too large for his smaller feet.

He solved the shoe problem by pulling on white athletic socks and a pair of strap sandals. The straps weren't designed to tighten that much, but he poked a few extra holes to make it work.

His hands turned out to be simple - the sweatshirt was one of the types with the large 'pouch' pocket at the midriff. After locking his apartment, Jason simply stuck his hands in the pouch, and sauntered off.

He'd decided to see a psychiatrist after all. For one good reason - if he showed up in the ER, the doctors would assume that he was nuts. So, if he went to a psychiatrist first, got him to believe, then had the psychiatrist arrange for Jason to see a doctor of some kind, he'd avoid the whole hassle. Jason was fairly proud of that chain of logic, actually.

He even had the presence of mind to have the correct change for the bus in his right hand, tucked into the pocket. Until then, he'd never realized how awkward it was to board a bus without using your hands, but he managed. The only time his hand emerged from hiding was one quick motion to drop the change in the fare box, over and done so quick that the driver couldn't have seen the hand, if he had of been interested in doing so.

He wasn't, of course.

Thankfully, this time of day the cross-town bus was nearly empty. One old lady sat, half nodding, just behind the driver. Jason picked the seat at the very rear of the bus, where he could take his altered hands out without anyone being able to see them, due to the seat backs between him and the two others at the front of the noisy diesel vehicle. He relaxed as the bus rumbled away from the curb.

His relaxation vanished twenty minutes later as the bus continued to trundle through it's route.

The old lady had gotten off a few stops ago, and now Jason was able to stare blankly at the front of the bus without anyone thinking he was a weirdo. The driver was obscured by a small partition behind his seat.

Then, without warning, several sensations struck Jason.

The first was that somebody had grabbed his balls and was gently squeezing the. At the same time, there was a tightness at his hips and ass, while his ass felt as if he was being pushed further down in the seat.

A casual glance down showed what caused the sensations. His previously slightly baggy track pants were now stretched taut over his suddenly wider hips and significantly fuller ass. The tight material clearly outlined his limp cock, and the taut fabric was what was squeezing his scrotum uncomfortably.

"Ah, shit." Jason whispered to himself. Making sure that the driver couldn't see, Jason set about repositioning things for more comfort while he silently swore to himself.

It was a major effort to force his hands down the front of his straining pants, but he finally managed to find a position for his dick that wasn't too uncomfortable - tucked back between his legs. He found the smooth crotch it created disturbing - a casual onlooker couldn't tell he had a cock at all.

Suddenly, Jason was overwhelmed with the conviction he was doing the wrong thing. Going to a psychiatrist would be dumb - after all, the psychiatrist didn't know what Jason had looked like. The story would sound nuts. Hell, Jason was living through it, and it still sounded nuts. The doc would figure that Jason had always looked that way, and had repressed Homo- or Trans-sexual tendencies, or some similar shit.

Without thinking, Jason reached up and pulled the cord. All he knew is he had to get off the bus and do some rethinking before he did something stupid. The bus pulled up to a stop, and Jason rose and headed for the rear doors.

And immediately found that his wider hips wanted to move differently than he was used to. With a wider center of gravity, they tended to swivel and sway. Trying to minimized the motion, Jason quickly departed the bus.

The driver, watching in the mirror, saw a young, slim-shouldered man with long blonde hair getting off his bus. The guy was wearing a pair of pants that fit his crotch and ass like a second skin, and the guy wiggled his hips as he walked like a bad parody of a woman's stride.

"Fuckin' faggots" the driver muttered, pulling away.

* * * * *

Jason, left alone on the sidewalk of a part of town he wasn't familiar with, while his body was turning traitor against him, did the only thing he could think of.

He ducked into an alley.

He needed time to think. Things were rapidly getting out of hand. Hell, they'd already gotten out of hand - and they weren't even his hands anymore. Not really.

"All right, Jason, think!" he whispered to himself, trying to pace up and down the dark alley. He discovered the only way to keep from having over-exaggerated hip movements was to make smaller steps. And swing his now feminine arms to counter balance. It worked - if he didn't mind performing an exact copy of how a woman in flats walked.

"This is just fucking crazy." He said, as viciously as a cheerful, sexy voice would allow. "It can't be happening!" But he knew it was, and he had to find a way to deal with it. Because, who knew what might happen...

Before the young...man...could even finish the thought, he felt a... - a tugging sensation is the best way he could describe it - at his waist. Stopping short, he sighed, and lifted up his shirt tail.

And groaned at the sight of a remarkably slender waist above the smooth curve of his womanly hips. "I don't fucking believe it."

He resumed his pacing, his small, oval track a perfect metaphor of the way his brain spun uselessly, trying to get a grip on this unbelievable event. Finally, he decided that if he was going to be confused, he might as well be comfortably confused. There was that bar he'd passed just around the corner...

"Damn!" Jason swore angrily. "I can't go into a bar like this. I'm a freak. I walk like a woman, I sound like a woman, my hands are..."

He drifted off into silence as the thought bloomed in his mind. He tried to push it away, but it kept coming back to circle in his mind like a school of sharks circling a raft full of tasty castaways.

Sighing heavily, he realized he had no choice. If he had to sound and walk like a woman, then the only way not to draw attention to himself was to not be a man with a woman's voice and walk - but be a woman. Not a terribly attractive one, granted, but hey, not all women are beautiful.

Jason decided it was worth a shot - he really wanted that drink right now.

With another sigh - he seemed to be doing that a lot more often than he used to - Jason pulled off his cap and slung it into the garbage, fluffing his mane of pale blonde hair into a halo around his head.

Next, he took off his socks. Stepping back into the sandals, he balled each sock up separately, then shoved them under the sweatshirt, which he rolled the sleeves up on. He left the sunglasses on.

Without a mirror, he couldn't accurately judge the results, but his mental image was close. With the tight crotch with no sign of a penis, and the womanly arms, he looked like a big-boned, flat-chested and not terribly good looking woman. Working up the nerve, he headed over to the bar. Pausing - hesitating - for a second outside of the door, he finally opened it and went inside.

Nobody paid any attention to him. The few patrons of the dimly lit hole-in-the-wall bar looked up, saw an unattractive woman - who was probably a lesbian (technically, they were right) - and went back to their drinks. Jason ordered a beer, in the feminine voice he was stuck with, and the bartender didn't even give 'her' a second look as he handed it across. Taking his drink, he retired to a dark corner booth and tried to work out a plan of attack, something he could do about whatever was happening to him.

It didn't do much good. Despite the "lubrication" provided by the beer, his mind continued to come up blank. He couldn't figure out how or why this was happening, or how to stop it, much less reverse what had already happened. It was like some urban myth, a modern horror story told by teen while swilling forbidden beer and looking at illicit magazines.

Yet, it was happening to him. It wasn't a myth, or a story - right now, it was his life.

The only thing that Jason got out of the whole thing was the time intervals between changes. Between his voice changing and the legs was five and a half hours, or there about.

He was asleep during the change to his hair and hands, but so far, each change had happened one at a time. In conjunction with what he already knew, he jotted ideas out on a napkin and worked out a rough time frame, that worked out like this: 5 and a half hours 2 hours 5 hours 1 and a half hours, and so on, right down the line, coming closer together. Which meant the next change should occur...

Jason quickly checked his watch and 'guesstimated' at what time the last one occurred. A short time span between the hips and waist, which meant the next one was due in four hours, give or take. About five-thirty in the afternoon.

Of course, knowing perhaps when didn't tell him what, or why, but it was a start - plus, he could be sure to be alone at the time, so he didn't freak people out.

Which meant he could get nice and drink before having to try and deal with the whole thing. So, he did.

* * * * * "Miss?...miss?!...miss!"

It finally dawned on Jason that the bartender was talking to him. "Yesh?" He slurred, somehow managing to sound sexy and chipper even drunk. "It's five twenty...you asked me to...?" The burly, florid face man ran off, hoping to jog the royally drunk woman's memory.

"Oh, yeah. I...gotta go powder my face." Jason managed, the most creative thing he could come up with while this drunk. Staggering, he managed to get to his feet and stumble towards the bathroom. He was just opening the door when the bartender was at his side, turning him gently around.

"Uh, that's the men's. This is the ladies."

It took Jason several seconds to realize why the bartender was turning him towards the ladies room, but finally nodded. "Shanks."

The bartender shook his head as the lesbian stumbled into the bathroom, then returned to watching over his bar.

Inside the washroom, Jason collapsed on one of the toilets and blinked at his watch. He wasn't quite positive what, exactly, he was waiting for, but was sure that he'd find out before too long.

Twenty minutes later he sighed. He must have screwed up - nothing had happened. He staggered upright and headed for the door.

He almost missed it. A sweeping glance in the mirror in his condition wasn't a lasting impression. But it was just enough to bring him back for a closer look. Adrenaline flooded through his system at the sight.

A stranger was looking back at him.

His face was completely altered. It was a bright, somehow Southern face, with bright blue eyes and a pert nose. But by far, the most memorable feature was the soft, full lips below the nose. Even without any lipstick they looked full and inviting.

All of the sudden Jason was nearly sober. Stunned, he slowly ran his fingers across the sexy/innocent young woman looking back at him from the mirror.

"Damn, I hate being right." Jason said sadly. If he was right this time, that meant he could expect another change in about half an hour - something he wasn't looking forward to.

Walking with only a slight stagger, Jason went back out to the bar and headed for the door.

The bartender glanced up as the woman walked through - and his jaw dropped. Still flat-chested, she was definitely more attractive, her face considerably more sexy.

"Holy shit!" he whispered. "When she said she was going to powder her face, I had no idea..."

* * * * *

Leaving the bar, Jason walked over to the bus stop and began to dig through his pocket for change - and cursed. While royally drunk, he'd spent all his money, not leaving him bus fair. Worse, he'd left his ATM card at home, and couldn't draw any cash. With an angry shake of his head, he began his hike home, knowing it would take at least four hours to get there from here.

At least the sandals were fairly comfortable to walk in. He kicked himself for wasting the entire day. He should have found somebody to help him - someone who knew him. Which meant going back to Iowa, and his old family doctor. If nothing else, maybe he could get a prescription for a sedative.

Which would be great, because he was hovering very close to the edge of panic. The sheer absurdity was actually what kept from panicking. He was so busy trying to deal with what was happening rationally that he didn't have time for panic. It was too new, too different, to allow anything but confusion - and to some degree, awe - to control him.

He checked his watch for the fifth time, finding that the time period between changes was almost up. Quickly, he looked around, and discovered a nice, secluded alley to duck into and wait out the change. Taking a seat on a garbage can in the far back of the alley, he closed his eyes.

"Please, not my cock. Don't take that." He whispered to whatever force was doing this to him. As long as he still had that, he wasn't really a woman, no matter how much he might look, sound or walk like one.

Five minutes later, he got his wish - sort of. After the change, he did have his cock still.

When the change arrived, he was staring down at his crotch, where he'd shifted his penis so it was once more clearly visible through the taut cloth.

Then, he felt a pressure in his chest, and the sweatshirt rapidly began to bulge outward. His view of his crotch was blocked out as the sweatshirt, propelled by blossoming breasts beneath it, bulged out...

...and out, and out. The growth rapidly passed an average B cup, slipped past C and D, and all but skipped past DD and DDD without even slowing.

Jason found himself slowly leaning forward, pulled downward by the mass of his growing endowments. They grew heavier as they expanded, finally stopping.

Despite the fact that he now had tits hanging from his chest, Jason, amazingly, ignored them. Their growth had blocked his line of sight to his cock, and in panic he grabbed his cock, sighing in relief as he felt it still in place. Rearranging his cock so it was once more invisible, he at last turned his attention to his new endowments.

They were huge...no, enormous. His sweatshirt was strained to the limit by the mass of breast flesh behind it, and Jason had to struggle to pull the tight material up and look at his new tits.

Easily a JJJ cup, his enormous tits were round, firm masses of creamy flesh topped with large, thick, pink nipples. Hanging from his slenderer chest, they seemed to weigh a ton.

"Holy fuck!" Jason gasped, lightly touching them. "They're gigantic!"

With an effort, he managed to pull the shirt back down over his gigantic, firm tits. They were so large that the shirt barely covered them, leaving his amazingly slender waist bare.

Jason knew that anybody looking at him would see a huge-breasted, sexy woman. He looked and sounded like one, and nobody could tell that hidden between his legs was a cock. To the rest of the world, he was a woman. A teen-aged boy's wet dream, brought to life.

Jason stood up - and almost fell over, unbalanced by the weight of his enormous tits. Carefully, he walked up and down the alley, getting used to the feel of his body.

With each step, his huge tits swayed back and forth, the shifting weight a completely new experience for Jason. When he was fairly sure he was accustomed to the shifting weight, he left the alley and began to head home.

Every step he took drove home the changes. The swivel of his womanly hips, the gentle bounce of his huge tits, the breeze blowing over his slender, feminine waist... He felt like crying, in anger, fear, and confusion.

Then Jason discovered the other part of being like this. Leaning against the side of a Z-28, eyeing him with amazement - and lust - was a young man, a smile playing around the corners of his mouth.

Great. Not only did he have to walk all the way home, but the entire time put up with men like this one...

The thought occurred to Jason like a flashbulb going off, and he couldn't stop the smile that came to his full, soft lips. She let it remain, as she walked directly towards the young man, who flushed at getting caught staring.

"Look, uh..." the young man stuttered.

"Hi, I'm Randi. What's your name?" Jason asked in his sexy voice.

The young man's jaw dropped. He couldn't seem to make his eyes reach her face, focusing several inches lower. "Uh...Steve."

"Steve, I need some help. I'm trying to get down to Brodbent street. Can you give me a lift?" Jason asked with a smile, knowing exactly what the answer would be.

Twenty minutes later, he was dropping into his couch. As weird and annoying as having Steve stare at her tits the entire time had been, it was cheaper than cab fare.

In the privacy of his own apartment, Jason finally gave into his impulse. Going into his bedroom, he stripped off his clothes and walked naked into the bathroom, and started running water for the tub.

While the tub filled, he turned to face the full length mirror on the back of the door, and get his first real look at his altered body. Staring back at him was - almost - an unrealistically sexy woman.

Along, wavy mane of platinum blonde hair framed a face that was simultaneously sexy and innocent. Bright, pale blue eyes - looking particularly brainless - poised above a pert nose above full soft lips.

A slender neck led down to slim shoulders, which in turn exploded out into huge, firm round tits that defied reality, then shrunk down into a remarkably slender waist, before swelling back out for the wide womanly hips.

Long slender legs led down to trim ankles and dainty feet. The only flaw in the picture was the cock and balls nestled between silken thighs. A cock that was rapidly getting hard as Jason looked at his unreal body - he was turning himself on!

Turning away from the mirror, he shut off the water and climbed into the tub. He set about washing his altered form.

He started with his hair, finding it awkward and difficult to wash and shampoo the mass of hair - he knew now why women didn't all have long hair. It was a real pain. It also seemed to weigh a ton when wet, trying to drag his head back.

Next he soaped and washed his legs, feeling their smooth, soft skin under his slender, dainty fingers. Then, he started to wash his newest alterations - and his plan for a simple plan went out the window.

He was amazed at how good it felt as his hands slid over their bulk. When his hands reached his now-engorged nipples, a bolt of pleasure rocked him. Closing his eyes, he began to play with his sensitive nipples, caressing and fondling his tits.

Soon one hand slid down to where his cock stood at rigid attention. He began to jack off, waves of pleasure rebounding back and forth between chest and crotch, until he shot his load.

Embarrassed at what he'd done, Jason quickly cleaned off and hopped out. For the next half hour he sat, naked, on the toilet, using the blow-dryer on his hair and cursing it. Finally, it was dry. He walked back to his room and crossed to the closet, trying to ignore the way the cool air-conditioned air felt on his swollen, pink nipples. He slid the closet open...

...and staggered backwards on his bed, shaking uncontrollably.

"No. No, it...I.." Jason stammered, staring. Lined up neatly along the bottom of the closet was shoes. Women's shoes. All of them with heels of various styles and heights.

It was odd, but the sight of the shoes hit Jason harder than his own changes. The human body was a living organisms - it grew, healed, got fatter or thinner - it was changeable, and what had happened to Jason was only a matter of degree and form of change. Give enough hormones over long enough time, Jason could have achieved a form not too different than the one he now wore.

But shoes - those should never be able to change.

In front of Jason's shocked eyes, another change occurred. The clothes hanging in the closet began to writhe and change form, becoming what Jason was sure was feminine clothing - and in the sizes to fit his altered body.

Although he'd quite smoking six months ago - he'd started simply because his mother had disapproved - Jason had a sudden, overwhelming craving for the calming influence of nicotine. And a drink. Several drinks, as a matter of fact.

He didn't have any booze or smokes in the house, and he knew what going out would involve, but right now, all of Jason's being was focused on one thing - getting that smoke he wanted so desperately. The thought of dressing in women's clothing, of going out in public like this wasn't enough to derail his urge, no matter how unsavory the thought was. He couldn't shake his need for a smoke. And, of course, several ounces of the Ethanol of his choice.

Any first year med student could have diagnosed the symptoms. The clammy skin, the shaking hands, the illogical and disconnected thought processes. Jason was deeply in shock, his mind not firmly anchored in reality.

In the same dazed manner, Jason began to dress. First, he rooted through his drawers, finally emerging with a bra and panty combination. Quickly he pulled on the black, French cut lace panties, tucking his cock back out of sight. Then, he struggled awkwardly to put the huge black bra on. He finally put it on backwards, clasped the hooks, turned it around and pulled the cups up over his gigantic tits.

The next part of dressing was a little more difficult - apparently, there was nothing in the entire wardrobe that could be called conservative. So, Jason was faced with the task of finding the least uncomfortable outfit for him to wear. He finally settled on a pair of black jeans and a black velour T-shirt.

The jeans he had to struggle into, as they were literally skin tight. Likewise the T-shirt, which clung to the curve of his massive bosom.

Lastly, he slipped his dainty feet into a pair of black leather pumps with a three-inch heel, the shortest in the collection. Dimly, through his shock-induced haze, he was not surprised to find that he had no problem walking in the heels.

His wallet had turned into a black purse. Jason grabbed it and headed out. Locking the door behind him, he walked in a daze down to the convenience store and bought a pack of cigarettes while the clerk openly ogled 'her' outrageous figure.

"Where's the nearest place I can get something to drink?" Jason asked the cashier, and was told that there was a night-club just around the corner. Walking with the least sexy stride he could manage in the heels, Jason ankled off the club. As he strode into the building, and was enveloped in the music, he didn't notice the many pairs of eyes tracking him as he went to the bar and got a scotch. Settling into a booth, he lit the cigarette and drew it deeply into his lungs, following it with a sip of his drink.

"Hey, gorgeous, can I buy you a drink?" A voice asked, and Jason turned to see a tall, tanned 'surfer' type leering at him. "No." Jason tried - and failed - to put ice in his cheerful voice. The man shrugged and walked off. Jason finished his drink.

The alcohol started to kick in. Unknowingly, it was the best thing he could have done - settling his nerves, the scotch began to pull him out of his shock, and his mind steadied.

About to get up for another drink, he looked up in surprise as a bottle of beer was placed on the table in front of him. He looked up to see a young, intelligent looking man with a shock of dark hair, and bright, intelligent eyes peering through a pair of glasses.

"Mind if I sit down?" he asked politely.

"Look I'm not..." Jason started, only to be interrupted.

"I saw the last guy. Um, no offense, but the way you look, you're going to get hit on a lot. I figured if I sat with you, it might deter other guys." He held up both hands. "I'm not trying anything, I swear."

Jason saw only honesty from the man's face. It made sense, too. Jason waved the bespectacled man to sit down, and held out his dainty hand. "I appreciate it. I'm Randi."

"Jeff."

Jason sipped at the drink. He'd planned to get another scotch, but found that the beer hit the spot better. "Thanks for the drink."

Jeff shrugged his shoulders, then smiled and leaned forward. "So, what's a nice place like this doing wrapped around a girl like you?" Jason laughed, spraying beer.

* * * * *

"Excuse me, I have to use the...uh, little girl's room." Jason said, rising to his feet. Jeff nodded, and Jason headed off, reminding himself to use the women's bathroom.

To his surprise, he'd actually enjoyed the last two hours. Jeff was an intelligent, amusing guy, and for the first time in his life Jason hadn't been faced with the undercurrent of competitiveness that men projected when they talked to each other. It was only now, with it gone, that he realized it had even existed.

Opening the door to the restroom, Jason almost stopped dead, and forced himself to go in. Nervously, he avoided meeting the eyes of the other women in the room, reminding himself that, to them, he looked like he fit in perfectly.

Going into the stall, he relieved himself and flushed the toilet. He was just swinging the door open when it felt like a flashbulb went off in his brain.

Jason stopped, shocked. Stepping back, she swung the door of the stall shut and assured herself that her cock was still in place. It was.

She frowned. It was about the right interval, but nothing had seemed to have changed. What's more, she'd never felt that 'mental flash' with any of the other changes.

Just then, she felt his cock under her hand twitch - and slide out of her hand, moving inwards. In shock, her hands touched her crotch, feeling the moist wet slit that had replaced her male equipment.

"I've got a cunt" she murmured, wide-eyed. For some reason, it didn't throw her into a panic like she expected. She waited for the horror, and it refused to come.

Standing, she pulled her jeans up and headed for the door. She didn't realized that her walk had changed - she was now moving with a sexy, hip swinging strut that emphasized her firm, ripe ass, and did enticing things to her enormous tits.

Arriving back at the booth, she unconsciously gave Jeff a bright, enticing smile. "Hey there, handsome, I'm ready to head out." "Want me to walk you home?" Jeff asked, trying to figure out why she was all of the sudden quite obviously coming on to him.

Randi was wondering why the hell she'd called him 'handsome.' So, it came as a surprise to her when she agreed. What's more, as they walked away, she found herself taking his arm, and pressing her huge tits against him.

'What the hell was going on with her?' she wondered. She hadn't yet noticed that she was now thinking of herself as Randi. Her memories weren't affected, but her thought patterns had changed.

Arriving back at her apartment, she unlocked the door and pushed it open. So, she was facing away from Jeff when an odd look suddenly passed over his face and was gone.

"Hey, Randi." He said, "me and my frat brothers are having a get together tonight. You want to come over?"

'No, I don't' Randi thought, and was shocked to find herself smiling at him saying. "I'd love to, Jeff. Just let me get changed." Jeff smiled back. "Sure. I'll go back to the club and grab the car." He turned and walked off.

As if in a dream, Randi found herself going into the apartment. Shutting the door behind her, she helplessly found herself heading towards the bedroom, undressing as she went.

She struggled to stop herself, but it was like she was a passenger in her own body, unable to control her actions. Twenty minutes later, she was climbing into Jeff's car, and he headed off to the frat house.

Opening the door, Jeff led Randi into the frat house. Walking into the living area, Jeff cleared his throat to get the attention of the other nine frat boys, sitting around, bored, while a local rock station pounded away on the small Sony stereo.

"Guys, I'd like you to meet...Randi!"

The guys looked up uninterestedly - then slowly rose to their feet, jaws hanging agape, as the living wet dream walked into the room with a sexy sway.

She was balanced atop black platform shoes with six inch heels. From the shoes rose a pair of long, shapely legs encased in black nylons. The nylons disappeared under the short, tight black denim skirt that hugged a firm, sexy ass and full womanly hips. The waist of the skirt was circled by a white leather belt that cinched tight to a deliciously slender waist. Above that waist was a black silk shirt, that strained outward, struggling to contain a massive pair of tits. The shirt's top buttons were open, revealing a delicious display of mouth watering cleavage.

If the gaping young men could have raised their gaze higher then that, they would have seen a slender neck, circled by a slender gold chain. Above this was an innocent yet amazingly sexy face. Full, soft lips, curved in an enticing smile, were a sexy shade of gloss red, below a small, upturned nose. Bright blue eyes sparkled below slender, arching eyebrows.

The whole package was complemented by a gorgeous blonde mass of hair, falling in gentle waves to her waist.

Randi saw the ten men gazing at her unbelievable body with lust - and to her horror, it was exciting it. Her stomach felt as if she was on a roller coaster, the thrill thundering through her veins, complemented by the hormones thundering through her.

She found herself moving forward, swaying to the beat of the music that filled the room. Smiling helplessly, she found her hands rising upwards. They lightly caressed the soft fabric pulled taut over her huge mounds.

Then, in a swift motion, she tore the blouse open, buttons popping off. She seductively removed the ruined blouse and let it drop, and swayed sexily with the music.

At the sight of the lacy black bra barely encasing her enormous tits, the young men clapped and whistled, bulges starting to form in their crotches as they settled in to watch her strip tease.

At the sight of their naked lust, Randi found herself laughing, a clear, bell-like tone. Swaying, she pushed her hands through her hair and wiggled her hips. Her hands slid to her bra encased tits and gently massaged them, before sliding across her flat stomach to undo her belt and skirt. She managed to remove the skirt by a few powerful gyrations of her hips, revealing her lacy black panties.

Next, she removed her bra, setting her firm, round tits free. Her nipples were engorged atop her firm tits, which swayed as she moved to the music. Finally, with a flourish, she slid off her panties, exposing her wet cunt to the horny youths, who applauded.

"All right!" one of them called, eyeing her form lustily. Helplessly, Randi found a hungry smile on her lips as her eyes unerringly locked on the enormous bulge in his pants. She jiggled and swayed over to him.

"What's your name, big boy?" she asked, gently caressing his crotch. Randi was horrified by the urges and thoughts running through her mind, but was unable to stop herself.

"Brad." He replied, smiling widely.

"Do you have a fantasy, Brad?" she asked, bushing her endowments against his chest. "Because I'm going to fulfill your - all of your guys fantasies tonight."

There was a general intake of breath at the thought. Brad's smile widened, and he nodded. "Oh yeah, I got a fantasy. Even better, I've got the key to the drama department's costume and prop room. So you can really fulfill my fantasy."

Smiling helplessly, Randy wiggled into the skirt, and strapped on her blouse, leaving the rest in a pile on the floor. "Lead on, guys."

* * * * *

Backstage, Randi heard Brad clear his throat, the signal he was ready. Randi struggled one last time to stop herself. He succeeded - for all of maybe two seconds, then helplessly wiggled out onto the stage.

The stage had been set up to look like a posh sitting room in an elegant mansion. Seated in the leather armchair was Brad, dressed in a paisley smoking robe. He smiled at Randy as she swayed on onto stage.

She was dressed in a 'French maid' uniform. The costume was too small in the bust, and barely covered the nipples of her enormous tits.

"So, Monique, did you empty the tub?" Brad asked, trying to fake an English accent. Randi found that her talent for voices had come back. "Oui, monsieur."

"And the garbage. Did you empty that too?" "Oui"

Brad smiled. "Then there is only one thing left for you to empty, my dear." With that, he opened his robe, revealing a huge, erect penis, throbbing slightly with each beat of his heart. "Make sure you empty it completely."

Helplessly, Randi approached Brad and sank to her knees before him. Struggling mightily - and failing - she slowly bent down, her hand encircling his worm, hard cock.

Then, she opened her full, red lips, and commenced her first blow-job.

Her warm mouth closed over his shaft, filling her with his ready man meat. She was shocked to find that it didn't feel as disgusting as she'd expected - the feel of a hard, throbbing cock in her mouth was actually kind of...pleasant.

She applied a light suction and let her incredibly long, supple tongue played with the head of his cock as her hand stroked his veined, throbbing dick. Although this was her first time, she was performing like a skilled cock-sucker, knowing just the right rhythm to keep. To her horror, she found the sight of her own long nailed fingers wrapped around a hard, thick cock amazingly arousing.

Using a combination of suction, tongue and hand, she slowly built Brad to a climax. His stiffened - and a wash of hot, salty cum flooded her 'eager' mouth.

Helplessly, she tried to swallow the seemingly never ending flood. Gulping furiously, she was unable to keep up, and some dribbled from her mouth to splatter on her mouth-watering cleavage. After she'd finished draining Brad's gushing cock, she licked up the trails of cum running down the slope of her enormous bosom.

* * * * *

"Ah, my darling, it's finally time." With those words, Jeff, dressed in a tuxedo, embraced Randi. His lips came down, and she 'willingly' met them with her own. They kissed passionately, Jeff reveling in her long, supple tongues ministrations.

Gently, he led her towards the bed and began to remove the straining wedding gown she wore, while she helped him out of the tuxedo. Nearly nude, she tumbled on to the bed, where Jeff began to massage and fondle her huge endowments, occasionally sucking lightly on her swollen nipples, causing pleasure to flood from them.

He stripped off her soaked panties. His cock was erect, almost thirteen inches long, and remarkably thick. As she stared in horrified fascination at the enormous dick hanging over her hot, wet pussy, she was terrified to discover that not only was her cunt hot and ready - but she really, really wanted it right now.

And then his massive organ plunged into her waiting cunt, and all thoughts were washed from her mind on a wave of pure pleasure.

Jeff began to pump, slowly and rhythmically, and little shudders of ecstasy shook Randi's body. His speed began to pick up, and the waves of pleasure began to build. She had never experienced such a sensation of being so completely . . . filled, as if for the first time in my life she was whole, with his gigantic penis filling her empty cunt, building me to a climax.

They orgasmed simultaneously, and he pumped hot cum into her spasming cunt as she screamed with the force of the multiple orgasms thundering through her body like an explosion of pure fulfillment.

"Oh, God!" Randi gasped, never knowing anything could feel so good...

* * * * *

Randi, dressed in an ill-fitting Army uniform watched 'the General' slowly walk around the desk that she was tied to in a bent over position.

"We have ways of making you talk, my dear." The general told her in a poor German accent.

"I will never talk" she promised, wiggling slightly to relieve the pressure of her laying on her huge tits. "Oh, yes you will." The general promised, dropping his pants.

And after he'd finished fucking her tight, soft ass with his huge cock, she told him what he wanted to hear...

* * * * *

"Now, this experiment is to determine the quantity factor." The 'doctor' told her. "Will you disrobe and lay on the examining table?"

As the doctor undressed, Randi shucked the hospital gown and lay back on the table. The doctor promptly climbed up and straddled her, laying his huge cock in the valley of her massive tits.

"Now, let's see if I can produce enough to soak not only your face, but your neck and tits to." It turned out he could...

* * * * *

Randi screamed in ecstasy, the cow-bell between her tits ringing madly as the 'cowboy' rode her off into the sunset...

Randi swallowed desperately, almost succeeding in keeping up with the flow her master, the sheik, was pumping into the mouth of his latest harem girl...

Randi tore off the apron as her 'husband' began to suckle her tits. Then she forcefully pushed him back on the table to and climbed atop him, to provide him with a proper sendoff before work...

...the policeman pounded mercilessly, punishing the 'hooker' for her crimes...

...the 'damsel' moaned as the knight in shining armor filled her ass with his ready 'sword'...

...The phys. Ed. Teacher made sure the cheerleader would get that passing mark she needed...

...the nurse most decidedly helped her patient's problem with impotence...

* * * * *

Randi finished putting on her clothes after a shower to wash off the cum that had covered almost every inch of her impossible body. "Gee guys, thanks for all the fun." She giggled brainlessly, twirling her finger in her hair. "We'll have to do it again some time!"

There was a general murmur of agreement from the guys. She turned to Jeff, who was waiting to give her a lift home. He lead her outside, and Randi followed, looking forward to getting back to the apartment and fucking his huge cock again.

No single thought - except sex - stayed in her empty mind more then a few minutes. Her I.Q. was only slightly higher than the average rock's, and her sex drive was the highest on the planet. She perfectly fit the image of her body - and air-headed blonde California bimbo.

Jason should never have described his 'fantasy' using the phrase '..and they'll fuck my brains out.'

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Being a prankster all of his life, Leonard Barkin turns himself into "Jenny Smith" to perform the ultimate prank of them all, however, as Jenny spends the weekend with friends, she realizes that the molds and latex are no longer needed.

The Joker

By Gunslinger

With a sharp, convulsive movement of her entire body, the tall red-head pushed the final pin into the stiff, new cork bulletin board in the employees lounge, securing the piece of paper at each of the corners. Brushing her hands off with satisfaction, the slender, attractive woman turned away from the bulletin board...

...and screeched.

"Whoa, whoa - I'm sorry...! " Leonard Barkin said, holding his hands up and back-peddling away from the startled woman, who put one hand to the crisp white blouse over her taut bust, green eyes wide as she sucked in a breath.

Leonard nervously stroked his full, neatly trimmed light brown beard. "Didn't mean to startle you, Jessica..." He said, apologetically. "Just wanted to see what you were posting is all..."

Jessica took another deep breath, then grinned weakly. "It's not your fault, Leonard. You startled me, that's all..."

"Sorry, sorry..." Leonard chimed, holding his hands up again and looking downcast at frightening her. Jessica's grin gained a little more power - it was impossible to remain upset with Leonard. Quiet, shy, almost exceedingly polite, Leonard was the least offensive person on the face of the earth, as far as Jessica knew. Always dressed in somehow archaic looking brown or mid-gray suits rumpled beyond compare, Leonard came into work every morning wearing an overcoat and a battered brown felt fedora, looking like a character out of an old movie brought to meek life. Of average height, Leonard was the type of guy who vanished in a group of more than four people, even the beard and archaic clothes not helping make him noticeable.

"It's all right, Leonard." Jessica said, walking over to the coffee urn and pouring herself a cup. "I was just posting an open invitation to a sort of a weekend getaway for female staff. First five women who sign up get to join me at an old hunting lodge on the lake I've rented. Sort of a way to meet some of the girls, you see."

Leonard cocked his head, looking thoughtful. "With thirteen hundred employees, all of them new to the company and the area, that would certainly be a good way to meet people. Also very kind of you, might I add."

"Kind, hell..." Jessica said, with a laugh. "It's a way to avoid the Phantom Joker, if only for a long weekend."

"I see." Leonard said, walking over to the table with the beverages. Rooting in an outer suit pocket, he extracted a individually-wrapped tea bag and removed the plasticized aluminum foil and carefully disposed of it in the trash before dropping the bag into a mug and adding boiling water. He did the entire procedure with his characteristic sharp, almost fussy movements. "That assumes, of course, that the unknown prankster is male. Perhaps 'he' is, in fact, a 'she', and might be at the lodge."

Jessica shook her head, chuckling at the thought. "There's no way on earth the Phantom Joker's a woman. It's not the sort of thing a woman would do. The thought never even occurred to me before you mentioned it, and I doubt it's occurred to anybody else for the same reason. It's just completely unbelievable."

"Oh." Leonard said, blinking. "I see. Well, I'm sure you'd know better than I would."

"Trust me, Leonard... whoever the Joker is, it's a guy - probably one of the big 'jock' types in Shipping who never stopped being a college frat boy." Finished doctoring her coffee to taste, she grabbed a Danish and headed out the door, mumbling a 'goodbye' around the pastry.

Leonard watched her go, his face locked into the hang-dog expression everybody at work knew so well... which was possible only because of years of practice, because he was itching to smile at his most spectacular run yet.

Leonard was the 'Phantom Joker'.

Very few people at Miller Industries knew Leonard, and those who did thought him a quiet, fussy, shy man - none of them having a clue that it was simply a facade he'd adopted for this unexpected opportunity, an example of his acting abilities so finely honed that nobody recognized them for what they were.

It had all started in high-school. Leonard had always been one of the 'odd boys out', separate from the mainstream cliques. He was too bland looking, and his areas of excellence weren't 'popular'. He was a bit of a prodigy in all the sciences, a marvelous actor, able to imitate voices with frightening accuracy, and very skilled at physical acting... but this hadn't been enough to get into any of the little groups.

Annoyed, he'd pulled his very first prank in grade ten, picking the perfect time and place to perform a little harmless revenge, working out his plan as finely as any espionage agency planning an 'op'.

Which is how it came to be that the school PA system somehow got tied into a ten-minute delayed loop recorder leading to a series of remarkable, skillfully made 'bugs', tiny microphones in the popular hang-out corners of the school. Ten minutes into lunch, the system had begun to play back dozens of supposedly 'private' conversations. Nothing really 'secret', but mildly embarrassing.

It had been a thrill to see the reactions his hijinks had created... but even more than that, it had been a real rush to get away with it, clean.

After that, he was an addict. His 'shame' became his most powerful weapon, his very 'outcast' and ignored status allowing him to do his work in secret, pulling prank after prank at school, the library, anywhere he could set one up and get away with.

Not once had he ever been caught. Slowly, his antics began to taper off as it got harder and harder for him to find situations he could exploit safely. He was past the 'boys will be boys' stage of justice, and real criminal charges could result if he got caught in one of his more spectacular - and embarrassing - pranks. God knew there were a lot of litigious people out there.

Then he'd gotten this job at Miller Industries... and it had been tailor-made for him.

The large new facility had been built outside of what had been a tiny, sleepy town whose agricultural heritage was fading through apathy and financial woes. Buying up all the land, Miller Industries had quadrupled the size of the city, the town's residents suddenly all gainfully employed in service and sales positions to support the workers of the new company. All the employees were new to the area and the company, nobody knowing anybody else, and the local constabulary wasn't fully up to speed with the sudden increase.

So, the 'Phantom Joker', as he'd become known, had started his reign of... well, mild embarrassment. He hit everywhere and anywhere, pulling pranks all over town and in the company, getting people in every department and walk of life - he even 'got' the chief of police, all of them 'clean' hits. Nobody had the faintest idea that the person the all mildly feared and secretly rooted for was Leonard.

Now, Jessica had unknowingly thrown down the gauntlet of challenge in front of the mysterious 'Joker', and his mind rapidly examined and discarded dozens of plans to make the 'weekend getaway' the most prank-filled seventy-two hours since his debut...

...and suddenly one hit him with such force that he almost broke character and grinned widely. It was daring, outside of his usual type of schemes, and would require a lot more 'personal interaction'... but the opportunity was just too damned good.

Glancing around, Leonard causally walked over to the fridge for a glance inside... which really allowed him to look down the hallway outside the employees lounge without appearing to be studying it. Sure that nobody was about to walk in on him, he scuttled over to the sign-up sheet Jessica had just posted, mind turning over at full speed.

Taking the pencil from the little shelf at the bottom of the cork board, he quickly wrote in 'Jenny Smith', in a delicate and passably feminine script.

Having studied the personnel records in a secret - and, technically, highly illegal - hack into the company's computer system, he'd found that there were twenty-two people named 'J. Smith' in the system, and the basic employee directory didn't list gender, just office designation, making his alias for this little stunt the safest one. By the time anybody had any reason to want to check out which 'J. Smith' it was, it wouldn't matter...

Finishing his tea quickly, Leonard put the empty mug down and went back to his cubical to finish his day's work, as unnoticed as ever. At the end of the work day, he went to the boss and meekly asked for - and got - the next three days off 'Due to a family tragedy'.

It wasn't until later that evening, safely ensconced within the walls of his modest bungalow and dressed in casual, comfortable clothes none of his coworkers could ever imagine him owning, much less wearing, he began to regret his hasty decision with this plan.

He hadn't fully appreciated the enormity of what he was planning, just seizing the opportunity out of instinct. Now he realized that the half-formed plan he'd formed on the spur of the moment was untenable, impossible - to pull off this coup would take much more from him, would require him to take certain steps that he was most uncomfortable taking.

The initial plan had been based on the idea of 'pranking the unprankable', getting the girls right in their sanctuary, right under their noses, and never even being suspected of it... because he'd be 'one of them'.

As an actor, he knew he could pull off a female character, intellectually, even though the thought made him feel a little uncomfortable... well, okay more than just a little. However, the initial thought of him pulling off a masquerade as a female had been spur-of-the moment, and now he saw the obvious flaw inherent in it.

He'd been considering it as a 'role', the way an actor would, and had thought his talents up to the challenge, no matter how much his masculine-indoctrinated side of his brain insisted that acting the part of a 'sissy' was wrong. He'd managed to quiet that part - after all, hadn't several big-at-the-time Hollywood actors gone in drag roles? 'Some Like it Hot', 'Wong Foo', and others were prime examples...

The problem was, this wasn't on stage or screen. This wasn't a willing-to-believe audience under controlled circumstances. It wasn't even as 'open' as a female impersonator's routine - no, he'd be required to maintain the female persona through close personal interaction, including circumstances he couldn't possibly foresee. More than that - it would be continuous, with no room for a 'time out' to break character for any reason.

It was almost enough to make him discard the plan. Almost.

Though part of him very strenuously argued against it, he just couldn't resist the chance to pull this off. It was the most demanding routine he'd ever have to do. If he could successfully pull it off and get away with it, he could happily let 'The Phantom Joker' fade into the night. Maybe it was time to give up his shroud of secrecy. He knew, intellectually, that a full and rich social life could be his, if he let his known Leonard persona slowly 'loosen up' until he was just one of the guys... and part of him desperately wanted that type of life.

But he had to go out with a bang, not a whimper...

...and this was his best chance.

Despite his emotional discomfort with the requirements of this ultimate prank, Leonard decided he'd do it. One last, big prank, then a new life for himself...

* * * * *

The next morning, Leonard woke early. Eating a full breakfast of eggs, sausage, and a toasted bagel, accompanied with the coffee his coworkers thought he never drank, he figured he was as sanguine about the plan as his ingrained inhibitions about femininity would let him get, and set about putting the plan into motion.

The first step was the 'slow fade', a move he'd practiced many, many times in various schemes.

It started with him leaving his house dressed in his usual overcoat and fedora, walking with a downcast look to his completely unremarkable black 1997 Ford Crown Victoria. Sliding behind the wheel, he brought the full-sized sedan to life and let the car run in the driveway for a measured five minutes before putting it into gear and carefully backing out onto the street. Staying well within all traffic laws, he drove sedately to Main street, turned left, and headed out of town.

Shortly, 'Main Street' was a secondary highway, and he motored along until he arrived at a fairly busy gas station, passing two less crowded filling stations in favor of this one.

He parked the car beside the building and went to the front to get the key to the men's room. Swinging by his car again, he grabbed a small black toiletry bag before disappearing into the surprisingly clean bathroom.

The first thing he did was wash his hair in the sink, a task made easier by one of the items he'd brought along - a spray faucet hose, all green ribbed rubber, with a socket end that stretched over the end of the tap to create a 'universal soft seal' without needing to be screwed on or attached in any other way.

Using handfuls of coarse brown paper towel, he got the worst of the moisture from his hair. He usually wore his hair slicked down as part of his 'Leonard' persona, which made his hair look several shades darker - and hid the fact that it was actually fairly long.

Next, he used an electric razor to shave off some of his beard and shorten the rest, using a disposable razor to finish of the short, rakish goatee he'd given himself.

Peeling off the overcoat revealed a pair of tan slacks and a white cotton work-shirt. Bundling his coat and hat up, he rinsed out the sink before leaving the bathroom.

From the trunk of the car he pulled out a brown leather 'bomber' jacket whose design made him look bulkier than he really was, and added to that a worn and faded baseball cap and a pair of aviator-style sunglasses. Now wearing the face and persona of 'Leo', who was closer to his true nature, he returned the key to the busy clerk who didn't consciously register the fact that it was apparently somebody different who returned it.

Safe from causal recognition by anybody he knew, Leo slid behind the wheel of his car and continued on down the secondary highway, heading for the large city about an hour and a half away, its very nature making it a wonderful place to remain 'anonymous' while he did some rather unorthodox shopping.

His first stop was at a department store. With an eye to budget more than fashion, he picked out a selection of on-sale men's clothing, mixing and matching at random. He also picked up a pair of basic blue coveralls in his size. He then swung by the hardware section of the store, picking up a work belt, a large four-cell flashlight, and a few inexpensive tools and a tape measure.

After paying for the purchases and lugging them out to the car, his next stop was a Laundromat.

He proceeded to wash all the clothes on a short cycle in water with a fair amount of bleach added. He even washed the work-belt, rolling it up in the coveralls so they wouldn't bang and rattle in either the washer or the dryer.

Stuffing the clothes in the back seat of the car, he separated the now somewhat-faded coveralls and work-belt and put them in the trunk with the tools and flashlight. He proceeded to a hardware store, where he bought a couple more tools and some electrical items, as well as a white hard-hat.

He broke for a quick lunch and some more coffee. To his surprise, he noted he was enjoying himself more than usual for the 'prep' phase. Part of it was the sheer audacity of his plan - even the prep set-up was more ambitious, a 'prank' in its own right, the goal being to get what he needed while covering his tracks.

After finishing his meal, he checked the phone book of a pay-phone - after looking through three separate phone-booths for a relatively intact phone book. It was with a sense of ironic regret that he tore the page he wanted from the fairly new book, dooming the next person who wanted that page to continue searching, perhaps on foot instead of in a car.

Using the listing he'd gotten from the phone book, he 'scouted' a few likely candidates for his later use, finally finding one that was perfect.

His next stop was the Archive Office near the center of town, where a twenty-five dollar fee got him a look at a Photostat of the building plans of the building he'd chosen. On a memo pad of paper, he noted down the name of the company listed for the original electrical installation, plus the date of construction.

Finishing the research, he headed back to his car, checking his watch and working out the timing in his head. Nodding to himself, he headed off to take care of several time-insensitive tasks he had to complete, filling the time before the biggest, most crucial part of today's 'acquisition phase'.

Besides being the most demanding, and the riskiest, it was also the part directly related to what made him the most uneasy, so he tried to keep it pushed to the back of his mind as he took care of other tasks.

First, he 'cased' a couple of motels in the low-to-mid price range, respectable but not expensive. He noted which credit cards they accepted - and which ones they didn't. Finally, he found one that suited his needs, and parked and entered the office. He asked for a room for the next three nights, paid in advance... and became indignant when 'learning' they didn't accept his credit-card there.

Grumbling, he paid the amount in cash.

He transferred some of the things from his car to his room, more to make a show of 'unpacking' than anything else, just in case, then headed off again.

He stopped off at a copy center that also had an in-store typesetter and graphic artist to produce standard forms. He outlined what he wanted and paid cash, noting the estimated time the documents he'd requested would be ready.

His next stop was a used-clothing store. He carried the recently-purchased and somewhat-faded clothing in, depositing them on the counter and asking how much he could get for them. The owner, a rather kindly old lady, looked them through, thanking him for washing the clothing before bringing it in - and naming a figure a fraction of what he'd paid for it earlier. With a grin, he allowed that it was a price 'more than fair' - then winked and told her he could knock it down even further, by trading the buy-value of the clothes for the sell-value of some clothing for his twin sister, who was going to be unexpectedly laid-over for a couple of days on business and didn't have any real 'casual' clothes packed. So, Leo thought he'd get her some. Just 'comfortable' stuff, nothing fancy...

Since the difference in what she'd make in mark-up in either direction was pretty hefty, the owner had no problem with that, and - at Leo's request - even helped him pick out some nice clothing for his supposed sister, stuff that was casual and comfortable and would coordinate well. He also bought a pair of one-piece bathing suits, 'because we had a hot-tub installed last month, and she'll probably want to use it...'

Twenty minutes after leaving the used-clothing store, he was in front of another one, one that wasn't nearly as nice as the one he'd just left. This time, he paid cash-in-hand for items he'd only shortly before been explaining to the old lady that his sister didn't need. Shoes, some underwear, some less... 'sedate' clothing, even some cheap jewelry. The multiple-pierced youth running the counter didn't so much blink as he rung up the purchases and accepted the cash.

Another twenty minutes, and Leo was back in one of the better parts of the city. This time, he visited a drug-store, where he bought a variety of make-up and other items. He made no effort to 'sneak' his purchases in any way - indeed, he went directly to a female member of the staff, rather bashfully asking for help. He explained that his new wife had asked him to pick up a few things for her, and showed her a fairly short list - one that Leo had written out in an acceptably feminine hand, one that raised no eyebrows from the helpful clerk.

He repeated the routine at two other drugs store, different chains in different parts of the city, with different lists, all short enough to look like the sort of thing a wife would hand her husband with a 'While you're out...'

Then, another glance at his watch told him it was time to move onto the most risky part of the plan.

Going back to the hotel, he parked his car in front of his unit and left it running as he transferred all the items from the car to the room. He then drove the car to the parking lot of a restaurant just down the street, parking it near the back and locking it up. He jogged back to his hotel room and called a cab.

When the cab arrived, he directed the driver to take him to a car rental agency. Shortly thereafter, Leo left the lot in a pretty standard white van, which he used to swing by the copy center and pick up his documents before returning to his hotel room. Quickly, he changed and got himself ready, then he was back in the van and heading towards the building he'd already chosen.

Parking the van in the parking lot of the building, Leo slid out of the van and sauntered towards the front door, the tool-belt slapping against his thighs as he straightened the construction helmet on his head. Pulling open the door, he walked over to the small reception area at the front, where a bored-looking woman looked up and gave him a professional smile.

"Can I help you? " She asked, politely.

"I guess I need to see the manager." Leo said, sounding s equally bored.

A few minutes later, a short, harried-looking man hurried up, introducing himself as Mister Hemels.

"Well, Mister, I've got a work order to change the main breaker in you fuse box." Leo said, handing over the 'work order' he'd had produced, bearing the letterhead of the company that had done the original electrical contracting. "Seems that the component used in the original construction is faulty, and a recall has been ordered because of the risk of fire hazard after five years or more of service.

You're riding right on the edge of that limit, so we're obliged to change it for you, free of charge." Leo grinned. "It's cheaper then the lawsuits, I guess."

"I'm sure it would be." Hemels said, abstractedly. "Look, I don't know if I can let you do this. Shutting down power would..."

"Hey, no, I understand." Leo said, holding up his hands. "It's gotta be near quitting time, though, right? I waited until late so that'd be the case."

"Well, I don't know about that." Hemels said, uncomfortably. "I don't really want to stay late, and leaving you here by yourself..."

Leo shrugged, projecting indifference. "No problem. I can come back tomorrow during the day, and we can shut the place down. Won't take long - an hour, maybe an hour and a half."

Hemels looked worried - then shook his head with a little laugh. "Oh, just go ahead and do it after closing. The main boards in the warehouse, and I can lock the offices separately." He laughed. "That'd just leave the warehouse for you to lock up - and who the hell's going to try and steal anything from us? Sure, it's pretty expensive stuff... but how the hell would you fence stolen Theatrical Supplies?

Leo chuckled along with him, having to keep the note of victory out of his laughter...

* * * * *

With satisfaction, Leo looked around the shambles that his day of effort had turned his hotel room into.

After his successful heist at the Theatrical Supply company, Leo had returned the van after unloading his stolen 'goodies' at the hotel. He'd broken and bent the law in various ways over the course of his 'career' as a Master Pranker, but this was his first out-and-out heist, with a bit of the 'short con' thrown in for good measure. It had been the most nerve-wracking part of this stunt, but it was safely past - after all, by the time the might even get close to tracking down the person who'd pulled it off, he wouldn't even look like himself anymore, and he doubted anybody would make any of the long-shot connections that would be required.

After a good night's sleep, he'd picked up a few more items he'd needed, then set to work on the messy and time consuming job ahead of him.

On a couple of different occasions, Leo had been required to produce cold-form foam-latex prosthetics, but they'd all been small-scale item, like a new nose or a scar. This time, he'd had to produce most of a new body, requiring him to make 'male' and 'female' - or 'positive' and 'negative' - molds of most of his body. That had been the easy part - because then he'd had to create additional molds of what he wanted from the finished product. Taking the plaster-of-Paris 'statue' he'd created of his body, he'd used clay, paper mache and bondo to sculpt out a feminine body atop the replica of his male one, then, after it had dried, created new outer molds of the new figure. Between the 'feminine' outer molds and the accurate inner molds of his body, he had a set of mold-forms to use to correct the latex 'padding' necessary for his little scheme.

Of course, there's been a necessary step before he could make the molds, one that had made his ego quail a bit, but he'd had no choice. As soon as he'd collected everything he'd need and ensconced himself in the safety of the hotel room, he'd begun the time- consuming and, to him, embarrassing task of denuding his body of any hair. He'd started with an electric razor, getting rid of all the hair he could, including the hair on his scalp, the last of his facial hair, and even his pubic hair.

The next step had been the use of good-quality disposable razors to remove even more hair. He'd stood in the shower, letting warm water sluice down his body as he'd started at the bottom and worked his way upwards. He'd never been particularly hirsute, but he'd never realized just how much hair there was on a male body. He'd stared with the fine hairs on the top of his feet, then worked his way slowly up his legs. He'd been extremely careful shaving his pubic area, then moved onward to the arms, armpits and chest.

He'd done his neck, then worked his way up to his eyebrows, then finally his scalp. By the time he was done, all the hair had been removed from his body... except his eyelashes, which were the next to go. Tears sprang to his eyes as he used tweezers to remove the lashes, and he swore to himself under his breath during the procedure.

Once the painful task had been accomplished, he went ahead and used a brand-name depilatory to get rid of even the follicles of hair left, doing a job so impressive thorough that he finally understood how semi-permanent laser hair removal could make money. He'd thought it was only extremely vain, wealthy and lazy women who would use such clinics... but after having to endure the effort himself to get baby-smooth skin, he appreciated why women would want to limit the amount of effort it took.

After completely denuding his body of hair, he'd gone on to doing the work with the molds. It had been a time consuming and messy procedure, made doubly difficult by the fact he was working unaided... but he'd finally gotten the molds he wanted, and set about mixing up several large batches of the cold-formed foam latex, similar to that used in movies and on television for effect make-up... but of an even higher, more durable grade. Most production companies didn't use such a high grade simply because each prosthetic was a one- time-use item, thrown away at the end of each day's shooting. In a show like 'Deep Space Nine', where the Ferengi race had massive amounts of 'prosthetics' for their face, the better part of a day was spent just applying the latex and blending it into the actual skin, providing a realistic-looking alien race - all to be torn off and thrown out at the end of the day. Leo needed something designed for longer use, though, and so he'd stolen the highest possible grade, mixing it up to much higher standards than usually required.

Leo had labored all day, and into the evening. Now, finally finished, the clock was swiftly approaching the midnight hour, and - aside from a couple of quick breaks to jam food into his mouth - Leo hadn't rested. By all rights, he should put everything aside, get a good night's sleep, and finish his transformation in the morning.

The problem was, the 'logical' decision didn't allow for human emotions. Excited and apprehensive, exhilarated and embarrassed, Leo was too keyed up to sleep, the swirling mix of emotions keeping him tense and on edge.

It was time for him to become 'Jenny Smith'.

Taking several deep breaths to help calm himself - as much as possible, at any rate - Leo shucked off the blue robe he'd worn for his tasks, now splattered here and there with different stains and substances. Tossing it aside negligently, Leo gathered the finished items around him and prepared for the final transformation from male to apparent female.

As he'd done with the removal of his body hair, he started at the bottom and worked his way up, slowly creating a whole new figure from his body's basic build.

Of average height, Leo was on the slender side. Not remarkably so, but enough that it helped, since there was absolutely nothing he could do to make his hands and feet smaller or daintier - but he could pick a body-type that would make them seem slimmer and more feminine - and that's what he'd done.

It started with the application of the prosthetic foam pieces to his rather unremarkable legs. Leo's coworkers would have been surprised to find how lean and toned his body was, though not heavily muscled. Still, it meant that his legs, more or less unremarkable for a guy, were hardly the most feminine-looking gams on the face of the planet. That began to change, however, as he opened a bottle of surgical glue and began to work on reshaping his legs with the latex that was almost the exact same shade as his natural flesh.

It started with the calf pieces he'd created. Each one lay on a sheet of paper labeled either 'left' or 'right' to avoid a mistake he couldn't afford. Starting with the left one, he carefully covered every millimeter of the inner surface with the pungent glue, being extremely careful with the paper-thin feathered edges of the piece. It took a bit of contorting to get his leg into the right position for him to be able to apply the piece, and the muscles began to cramp almost immediately from the awkward position, but he forced himself to ignore it and apply the latex piece with utter precision, making sure there were no wrinkles in the material that felt almost identical to human flesh, especially since he'd used a special 'texture' patch to create realistic skin-texture on the other side of the piece.

The latex prosthetic reshaped his calf, making fuller and smoother, while looking more toned and muscular - in a feminine way, of course. Once the left calf-piece was in position, he repeated the operation with the right one.

Next, he moved onto the thigh-pieces. There were three pieces for each leg, overlapping so that each thigh was completely covered by prosthetic. At least it was somewhat easier to position himself to apply the pieces, and he took his time to get everything perfect on each leg, filling out his thighs to a smoother, fuller and more feminine contour.

After his thighs were finished, there was the five pieces that formed the hips, ass and crotch of his new figure. The 'hip' pieces were the first pieces he put in place, since they contained 'cheater' pieces of plastic to allow the filled-out hips to feel as if they covered a wider pelvic bone, rather than softer flesh. Once they were in place, he had to work with two different mirrors propped in different positions to allow him to see his ass to position those pieces. He could have used just one mirror, but using two canceled out the reverse-image mirrors caused, making it much easier. Soon, his average-looking male ass cheeks were hidden beneath the prosthetic pieces that made his ass look fuller and firmer.

The last piece for the 'south of the border' area was the largest - and the most uncomfortable, in both physical and emotional meanings. It was the part that would hide his cock and provide him with an apparent 'vagina'.

The first step was to tuck his balls up and his cock back between his legs, fastening them into place with strips of tough surgical tape. His cock had to be carefully positioned, since it would sit above the 'cunt' he'd created, allowing certain functions to be performed.

Grimacing, he spread glue over the back side of the 'pussy' and carefully positioned it, starting in the center and working his way outward. A specially formed section of the 'inside' of the pussy sat over the end of his cock at the very back and top, carefully taped into place and then surrounded by a ring of rubber that formed a seal, allowing him to urinate through the false vagina.

Then he worked his way outward with the object, smoothing it into place. The inside of the pussy was already painted with very special paint that looked utterly realistic in every detail, Leo having carefully turned the 'cunt' inside out to paint it with the airbrush he'd bought. The design of the section meant that it looked authentic on the surface, and it would have taken very close examination - which Leo wasn't about to permit - to see that it didn't actually enter 'her' body, but ran beneath his actual crotch. Surrounded by reddish-blond pubic hair carefully woven into the section of prosthetic, it looked completely real once it was fully glued into place.

It was far from comfortable, though not actually painful. His cock and balls were compress tight to his body, completely hidden, and there was simply no 'comfortable' position, though the discomfort didn't grow any worse if he pressed his legs together or sat down.

His emotional discomfort with what he'd just done was greater, though, and more difficult to come to terms with. To all appearances, he'd just willingly 'emasculated' himself...

The next part Leo did was his arms, using various pieces of latex prosthetics to fill them out with smoothly rounded 'muscles', including his fairly slender shoulders.

Then it was time to give himself tits - and what a rack it was. Leo had purposefully bought the largest bras he could find 'of the rack' that weren't maternity, and had ended up with several GGG-cup bras, obviously designed for overweight women, but adequate for his task. Though the thought of having 'breasts' at all, much less extremely large ones, was repugnant to Leo's male-indoctrinated mind, but he needed the added 'distraction' to help with the final look he'd more or less been forced to take because of his build.

The breasts were 'hollow' on the inside, making room for the 'balloons' he'd gotten. Thicker-walled than actual balloons, the rubber pouches were filled with a mild isothermal chemical that would absorb the warmth from his body and matching it, allowing his new rack to be body temperature. More than that, the weight of the liquid would give his big new bust realistic bounce and heft. As well, small little rubber 'capsules' were in place in the large nipples of each breast, filled with a temperature-sensitive foam-like chemical that had specific chemical properties. Designed for use in specialized thermometers, the chemical would react to the difference between the body temperature and the outside air, expanding as the temperature dropped, which would allow the 'nipples' to react realistically to cold.

With great care, Leo positioned each breast on his chest. The size of ripe honeydew melons, each breast was designed with a 'breast plate' section that went from the bottom of his ribcage and up over his shoulders to his back, making sure that their own weight was supported to avoid the risk of tearing or pulling away from the flesh underneath. Before too long, they were mounted on his ribcage, their weight unfamiliar and strange, bothering his male psyche with their constant reminder of his 'femininity'.

Slightly shaken by the strange new feel of his feminine looking 'tits' and 'cunt', he went on with the rest of the procedure. There was the piece that made his neck look more muscular, yet feminine as it hid his none-too-prominent Adam's Apple.

Then there were the pieces for his face, mostly his jaw-line and lips, since there was nothing he could do about his nose. There was also the scalp piece, which was really a highly realistic wig on a prosthetic latex backing, a thick mass of genuine human hair that was the same strawberry-blond shade as his new pubic hair. Small pieces of matching hair also formed feminine-looking eyebrows that he glued into place, followed by long, dark eye lashes.

With everything glued into place, there was only one last thing to do, which was use the special paint to finish blending the nearly invisible pieces of latex into his actual body, adding the right color and complexion to the prosthetics. He also had to carefully pain the parts of his face not otherwise altered, so that blushes or other changes of coloration would be visible - which was a good thing, since 'feminizing' himself had caused a low, constant blush, and it looked decidedly odd, since the parts of his face covered with the prosthetics didn't change color.

It took nearly three hours for him to get the entire 'body' on, but the task was finally done. Tightly focused on each part of the body he was working on, Leo hadn't really looked at the 'whole package'. Now, however, he had to face what he'd turned himself into, and he approached a mirror to see the new body he'd created.

"Well, hello Jenny..." Leo said to the reflection, emulating a mid-range contralto voice that sounded feminine enough to avoid any question. 'She' looked herself up and down, feeling a mix of emotions, including embarrassment at what he'd done to himself... and a pride at how well he'd done it.

A woman was reflected back in the mirror. Even this close to 'herself', Leo couldn't see anything that even hinted that 'Jenny' wasn't what she appeared to be.

The woman he'd become wasn't especially beautiful or sexy - but she wasn't ugly or 'masculine', either. Indeed, she was reasonably attractive in her own right.

She looked tall, for a woman, and fairly sturdy - in a sort of 'Farm Girl' way, a toned, strong woman who was nevertheless very feminine, especially with her imposing bustline. Her face would never grace the cover of a fashion magazine, with a jaw-line somewhat too square and nose somewhat too large, but it was still attractive in a very pretty, approachable way. Her body was apparently all woman, her hips womanly and her ass full and firm above legs that were shapely, in a toned 'dancer' kind of way.

The body style created an 'optical illusion' that perfected the feminine look. The extremely large breasts made the shoulders look less broad, and with the womanly hips helped create the illusion of a womanly slender waist. By making himself look like a 'sturdy' woman, Leo had made his hands and feet look smaller, more feminine, and his average male height leant the illusion that 'she' was somewhat tall, for a woman, all of which 'worked' with the body design. 'Jenny' wasn't gorgeous, but she looked every inch a woman.

"Hi... My name is Jenny. Jenny Smith..." 'She' said in the feminine voice chosen to match the appearance. As always, it was part of the procedure of adopting a persona so perfectly that it was nearly impossible to 'trip'. It was more the appearances - it was a mind-shift to 'feel' the persona of the new character.

It was harder then usual, though. On a very basic level, it felt wrong to try and get inside the mind of a woman, taking more conscious effort to think as a woman thought - or a reasonable facsimile of it, at least. With a force of will, she directed herself to match thought to appearances, to think of herself in the feminine - something that made her feel distinctly uncomfortable, but was absolutely necessary if she were going to pull this off.

Sighing, the new pseudo-woman walked over to her collection of female clothes and sorted through them until she found what she wanted. Even the simple action of rooting through some clothing emphasized her feminine figure, the weight and bounce of her new bust a constant source of distraction, her long hair flowing over her shoulders requiring her to flick it out of the way with a motion that she had to consciously direct to appear both feminine and casual, the confined sensation of her now-hidden male genitalia trying to 'remind' her of her true gender, something that risked her falling out of character.

Finding what she wanted, Jenny had to hold back the urge to grimace, something a real woman wouldn't have done, as she pulled on a simple pair of white cotton panties. Then, lifting her arms, she let the salmon-colored silk nightie slide in place over her newly-reshaped body, the garment pulling tight over her prodigious new bosom and laying silky-smooth over her body. It's very feminine touch was yet another reminder of the role she was playing both bolstering her female characterization - and creating yet another layer of discomfort in her necessarily repressed male ego.

Pushing her hair back with yet another consciously feminine gesture, Jenny paid careful attention to her stride as she walked over to the bed, working on something that looked natural, even if it felt decidedly unnatural to her, especially the way she had to put more emphasis on the motion of her hips, something that caused her new bust to sway and bounce even more prominently. Sliding between the covers on the bed, she turned off the light and closed her eyes, trying to let the exhaustion of a long, busy day lull her to sleep.

Instead, the lack of visual or audible stimuli only drew more attention to the way her illusionary female body felt. The way the sheets felt against the places where her own, denuded flesh rested against them. The odd sensation of her tilted spine as she lay on the fuller ass that she'd created. The weight of her heavy, round tits on her chest, like a couple of warm feather pillows that rose and fell as she filled and emptied her lungs.

It seemed to take forever before her churning, discomfited mind finally allowed her weary body to take her into the blissfully unaware darkness of sleep.

* * * * *

Feeling oddly warm, snug and comfortable, Leo was in no hurry to wake up, enjoying the unexpected enjoyment of just lazing in a half- doze on the bed, body feeling decidedly odd, but in a very pleasant manner. Unfortunately, his mind wasn't as lazy as his body, and the veil of sleep began to withdraw, and Leo...

'No...' 'She' thought with a conscious direction of willpower as full memory flooded back. 'Jenny'.

Jenny let herself rise to full consciousness, her situation filling out in her mind as she let the sensations of her altered body register as more than an all-over body feeling, but as discrete sensations.

She was more than just a little bemused to feel so amazingly comfortable in the new body she'd created for herself out of high-grade latex prosthetics. Somehow, the new padding she'd given herself seemed ideally suited to a comfortable fetal position in the bed, knees drawn up close to her new bust, fuller hips and ass pushing her slightly forward onto one shoulder. It was as if her 'real' male form was all angular and hard corners, and this one was all, softly rounded contours. Even her hidden cock and balls no longer bothered her, the sensation having lasted long enough that it felt comfortable.

Of course, that 'comfort' was a purely physical thing. Emotionally, she was still having troubles dealing with the fact that she'd willingly made herself pseudo-female. It wasn't an emotional pain, or anything - otherwise she'd never have done this to herself, or she'd be using the special chemical designed to dissolve the glue holding the prosthetics to her body. No, it was a bearable level of discomfort, just a constant low-level awareness that her upbringing considered this very 'wrong' on a basic level. A prejudice, not subject to the laws of logical thought or consideration.

With a small sigh - in a feminine tone - Jenny rolled onto her back and pushed the cover back, swinging her apparently muscular, shapely legs over the edge of the bed and rising, extending her arms towards the ceiling in a brought, comfortable stretch. Padding on bare feet, she avoided the detours of yesterday's work, concentrating on a hip, swinging feminine stride as she went into the bathroom.

Pulling the silk negligee off of her remolded body, she peeled her plain cotton panties down her legs and lowered herself rather gingerly on the toilet, experiencing a simulacrum of feminine urination for the first time. It worked well, the system she'd set up functioning as expected. After wiping her new, womanly crotch carefully, she flushed the toilet and then padded back into the main room, rooting once more through the pile of women's clothes she'd purchased, feeling her new breasts bob and sway as she leaned forward to sort through the variety of fabrics.

She picked a very basic outfit for today - a knee-length faded denim skirt with built-in 'suspenders', over a black T-shirt. Lurking beneath that basic ensemble was a pair of plain white panties, and a black cotton-and-lace bra that was more utilitarian than decorative. It also turned out to be a trifle on the small side, pulling her firm tits up into near perfect spheres. Before she'd put the shirt on, she'd looked down at the delightful cleavage formed by the bra's support, and grinned wryly at the fact that such a lovely sight was on her chest...

She also pulled on a pair of white leather sandals with a cork keel. Four inches high and rather blocky, it was the highest heel of any of the shoes she'd bought, and she figured she needed the practice. It felt most uncomfortable to walk and stand in heels, and that wasn't just an emotional response - she found herself wondering how some women ever got to the six-inch stiletto stage without breaking an ankle.

Tottering, she began the task of cleaning up the hotel room, gathering up the items from the day before and wiping off the shaving and splatters of the various compounds she'd used. The latex components came in big plastic buckets, and she'd used maybe a fifth of that in her work. There was also the molds she'd used to form her new figure. She could have tossed them into the dumpster out back, but she didn't like the idea of leaving behind 'evidence' between her new body and the one she'd been 'wearing' when she'd committed what was, technically speaking, Grand Larceny.

It had taken her some time to get everything together, and she wasn't tottering nearly as much as she transferred the molds and compounds to the trunk of her car, pulled right up in front of the door for the shortest possible distance. Once she'd loaded the trunk of the car with the recognizable stuff, she loaded the scraps and cleaning cloths into green garbage bags and took them out to the dumpster, disposing of the last of the evidence.

Returning to the room, she packed up the clothing she'd bought into a couple of second-hand suitcases, sorting through it and packing in an almost fussy manner - not her normal packing system, but in the way she thought the hypothetical woman she was wearing the persona of would pack.

By the time she was done cleaning and packing, it was late afternoon - and that meant it was time to head out to the lodge. The mere thought made her heart pound a little faster - wearing this body in the privacy of a hotel room was one thing, but now she was going to be going out in public... taking a deep breath to calm herself, she loaded her bags into the car and shut and locked the door behind her. Slipping into the driver's seat of the car, she put it into gear...

...and drove down the block to a parking garage, where she pulled into an empty slot on the second-from-top level. Grabbing her suitcases out of the car, she locked the vehicle and headed towards the stairs, concentrating on nailing the perfect feminine stride in the heels she wore. Walking down the stairs was a bit of a challenge - made more difficult by the fact that she had to make it look casual, as if she'd negotiated stairs in heels many a time.

Reaching the ground floor, she walked down the street to a phone-booth she'd scouted out earlier, dropping a quarter in the slot and punching out the digits to a cab company's phone number.

There were several reasons why she wasn't taking her own car to the lodge, despite the cost of a long cab ride - but the major one was the fact that she didn't have any ID for the persona she now wore, and the last thing she wanted was to get pulled over by a cop for any reason, then find herself trying to explain...

The cab arrived, and the male driver hopped out to help her with the bags - something that had never happened when she was in male persona, and she had to keep herself from reacting out-of-character to the act, reminding herself that she'd be treated as she now appeared to be - a woman. The driver certainly didn't seem to notice any tell-tale signs that she wasn't anything other than what she appeared to be - though the way he eyed her imposing bust made her happy for the 'anti-blush' paint job.

It wasn't long before her bags were in the trunk of the cab, and the miles between her and the lodge were steadily decreasing. As she drew nearer and nearer to the 'stage' for her performance, a knot in her stomach began to slowly tighten.

When the cab pulled to a stop in front of the long, low, stone-and-log structure, she felt a sudden, irrational urge to have him turn the cab around and go right back to where she'd come from, to get out of here and forget that she'd ever planned to do this.

Fighting the sudden attack of 'stage fright' she paid the rather hefty fare and slid out of the cab, forcing herself not to fidget nervously as he opened the trunk and retrieved her bags for her. Her smile of gratitude was rather strained, but he didn't seem to notice anything unusual about it as he muttered a barely-heard pleasantry, her ears ringing with the beat of her own heart.

She'd pulled a lot of capers in her long and varied 'career' as a Pranker, and she'd never felt as awkwardly nervous as she did right now. The only thing giving her any comfort was the familiar feeling, the thrill, the adrenaline rush of playing a role. Hefting her bags, she headed towards the front door of the lodge, getting the easy, supply stride of a woman just right even as she mounted the steps and walked up to the door...

...which was pulled open by Jessica, her coppery mane gleaming in the late afternoon sun as she grinned cheerfully. "Hi. I'm Jessica." The tall, slender red-head said, stepping aside to let Jenny into the building.

"Jenny Smith." Jenny introduced herself, using the carefully modulated contralto tones she'd chosen for her new appearance.

"Hey, Jenny - most of the other girls are already here, so I'm afraid that you've got only two rooms to choose from." Jessica said, then lowered her voice in mock conspiracy. "To tell you the truth... it doesn't really matter since all the rooms are exactly the same anyway."

"Well, then..." Jenny said with an easy tone of voice that hid her racing pulse and suppressed nerves. "I guess I'll take whichever one is closest to the bathroom then."

Jessica laughed and led Jenny deeper into the building. Just inside the front door was a sort of 'cloak room', for the heavy winter clothing the cross-country skiing enthusiasts who rented the cabin in the winter would wear. Unused this time of year, it was just a slightly musty room separating the door from the large main room of the lodge, and that's where the other women she'd be spending the long weekend were, seated comfortable on the couches and chairs around the broad stone fireplace at the end.

"Everybody, this is Jenny." Jessica introduced her. The red-head gestured towards a short, cheerful-looking woman with dark hair. "That's Linda..."

"Hi, Jenny." The petite woman said, with a welcoming grin.

The next woman was an athletically-built black woman named Ronda. Beside her was a cute young woman with short, sandy-blonde hair and the face of a pixie. The last woman to be introduced was a brunette dressed in somewhat baggy clothing and wearing small, fashionable glasses. She was introduced as Tamara - but, in her warm voice, she insisted that Jenny call her Tammy.

Something about the way the women were gathered in the large open room seemed... 'off' to Jenny - but it wasn't until she was in the room she'd been given that it registered.

Both the TV and the stereo in the room had been off. For some reason, it seemed that whenever guys got together, some sort of external sound source had to be running. Never having been exclusively in the company of women, Jenny had never realized that it wasn't a cross-gender arrangement, but something peculiarly masculine. It gave her a small pause as she wondered what other unknown feminine traits might be lurking out there to trip her up.

Suddenly, Jenny realized just how deeply she'd sunk herself into this situation. Despite her discomfort at playing the role of a woman, she'd held the idea that she'd be up to the task, since she was such a consummate actor. However, she'd only played male roles until now - and only now did she realize how little she truly knew about the 'weaker sex', and their way of thinking. The persona she was playing wasn't really a feminine personality, but a masculine conception of a woman's persona... and that just might not cut it.

The knot grew tighter in her stomach, and it took a sheer act of will to force herself to leave the private safety of her room and return to the main room where the other women waited.

* * * * *

"Well, goodnight Jenny." Ronda said, uncurling her long, ebony legs out from under her body and rising from the couch with a supple grace. "See you in the morning."

"Yeah. Sleep well, honey." Jenny said with an easy grin. She watched the athletically-built black woman move with a panther-like grace, disappearing up the short hallway that led to the bedrooms.

It took all Jenny's willpower not to break character and sigh with relief.

She'd had no chance to pull any pranks tonight - she was too busy trying to appear as casual and comfortable as the other women, all the while picking up all the finer points of acting feminine in the company of women. There were more tiny differences than she could have imagined.

Take the way women say. Some curled their legs up underneath themselves. Others crossed their legs at the knees. Some of them even sat in a sort of 'girlish' pose with their legs crossed at the ankles while they sat with their body primly straight. In a guy, that last one would have looked 'prissy', yet somehow women pulled it off - especially Tammy, who actually made it look comfortable.

Jenny, herself, had curled her legs up under her new bottom halfway through the evening, and was surprised to find how comfortable the position was, as well as 'safe' - more than once, she'd almost goofed, sitting in an 'unladylike' way that just wouldn't have been proper, considering the fact she was wearing a skirt.

The girls had spent the evening just... chatting. Jenny couldn't think of a single time when she'd spent so long a period just sitting around, sipping a drink - white wine, in this case - and talking about inconsequential things. Well... apparently inconsequential, to Jenny's mind. Apparently, women had a different set of priorities than men.

Jenny, for her part, had provided little in the way of conversational tidbits. It could have been awkward, especially since her relative silence was quite noticeable compared with the easy flow of conversation among the other women - but Jenny had claimed to have grown up on a small farm, been home-schooled, including the correspondence courses she'd taken to get the computer skills needed for her supposed job. That 'sheltered life' routine had allowed her to feign a sort of innocence that let her avoid talking too much about herself, claiming her past really didn't have anything worth talking about in it.

Which was a good thing - since she couldn't have even begun to keep up with the women in their discussion of clothing, other people they knew... and men.

Once more, Jenny had blessed her 'anti-blush' coloration... because she'd never realized that women, when 'alone' together, could get so... so graphic. Not crude, just detailed... and almost clinical. It had come as a bit of a shock, and she'd had to struggle to maintain her facade of comfortable companionship.

It had also amazed her how much women touched each other. It was hard to keep in mind that there was nothing sexual about it - women were just more open, she guessed. Still, she knew her new 'persona' was coming off as sort of shy, just because she was having trouble adapting to the easy familiarity women developed so damned quickly. These women had only met one another tonight - yet they behaved in ways that it would take guys years to get to the stage where they'd be comfortable with. It was almost as if being part of the sub-set of humanity known as 'women' was a sort of fraternal - sororital...? - bond that made them sisters under the skin.

Jenny had never been a terribly social person, and she knew women could be the coldest of the cold, able to crush a man's hopes or spirit with just one cold look or one well-chosen word, yet they also had levels of compassion and empathy that stunned Jenny. In a few hours, these women had become friends, sharing thoughts and emotions most men would rather die than reveal to people they'd just met...

...and they'd included Jenny in their easy friendship, making her feel welcome. Of course, they didn't realize that it made her feel guilty, as well - not knowing Jenny's secret, they had no way of knowing she felt like she was eavesdropping on extremely personal conversations. Jenny's pranks had never been cruel or mean spirited, and the fact that she'd picked up some 'juicy' information didn't mean a damned thing, because she was too ethical to ever spread any of it. Hell - she'd just struggled not to react at some of the highly personal things women shared so easily.

Shaking her head at the ways of women, jenny slowly rose from the couch and headed off to bed, wondering what tomorrow would bring, and how well she'd deal with it. So far, about the only thing she'd been able to cope with without having to fight for a casual expression was the fact that one of the girls signed up for the weekend hadn't shown up.

"The best laid plans of mice and men..." Jenny muttered as she undressed and slid between the crisp sheets on the bed. Shutting off the light, she let herself drift off to sleep - the easiest thing she'd had to do all day. Maybe it was the wine - but she dropped off into the deepest slumber almost as soon as her head hit the pillow.

* * * * *

The morning sunlight streaming in through the high, wood-framed window set into the back wall of the room woke Jenny from her deep, deep slumber. She blinked and stared up at the ceiling above her, mind thick with sleep and making her feel as if her head were packed full of wool.

Yawning, she sat up in bed and stretched... and then a small frown creased her face as she slowly lowered her arms, wondering why something about the way her body moved and felt seemed... off somehow. Not quite the way it should be.

Sliding her feet over the edge of the bed, Jenny stood up, feeling her huge, firm breasts shifting with the motion. Reaching up, she lightly held her round, firm mounds to stop the motion, sighing slightly at the pleasant sensation as her nipples, swollen by the cool air, pressed into her palms.

Still feeling oddly in a pleasant, somewhat confused daze, jenny quickly dressed. She pulled on a pair of tight black spandex pants that molded themselves to every curve of her well-toned legs and her full, firm ass. She pulled on a white T-shirt, shivering slightly in pleasure as it pulled taut over her bare breasts, then pulled a burgundy knit sweater-vest on over that, making the outfit 'modest' rather than clearly displaying her huge mounds under the semi-transparent shirt. Slipping her feet into a pair of black patent pumps with a four inch heel, she quickly did her make-up in a simple 'at home' style, and brushed the worst of a night's tousling from her hair, wincing every time she hit a clump and the hair pulled at her scalp.

Opening the door to the bedroom, she heard sounds to indicate that she wasn't the first one up. Heel's clicking lightly on the hardwood floor, Jenny headed out to the main room - where she found Jessica in the stone-floored kitchen, making some breakfast.

"Morning, jenny..." Jessica said, an odd tone in her voice and an odd look in her eye. "How'd you sleep last night? "

"Great, thanks." Jenny said, blinking slightly as she tried to figure out the odd look in Jessica's eyes. More than that, there also seemed something subtly off about the way Jessica looked, but Jenny just couldn't put her finger on it. Shrugging all of it off as a side-effect of the odd state of mind she was in, jenny continued. "In fact, I think I slept to well - I can't seem to get fully awake. My mind's still half asleep."

"Oh, I see..." Jessica said, her voice sounding as if she were trying to keep from grinning, for some reason. "Well, there's some coffee ready. Maybe that'll help."

"Great." Jenny said, pouring herself a cup of the steaming, bitter brew. "so - anybody else up? " "Actually, they all got up early... and left." Jessica said.

That gave Jenny pause. "Huh? "

"Day trip, doing some shopping and stuff." Jessica explained. "You were so soundly asleep that when, uh.. Tammy knocked on your door to see if you wanted to go, you didn't answer."

"Oh - I must have really been out of it." Jenny said, blinking in surprise. "So - just you and me for the day? " "Yeah - seems like it..." Jessica said, that odd tone back in her voice. "Want some eggs and sausage? "

"Sure..." Jenny agreed, trying to figure out what was going on. The fact that they had the place to just the two of them was good news, because it would make 'faking' easier... but that was balanced by having a head that felt like it was stuffed full of wool. Jenny was having a hard time getting her thoughts to focus, and things kept wanting to slip away from her. She was alert to notice - or think she did, anyway - that many, many things seemed off about herself and Jessica... but she couldn't quite put her finger on any of it. Related to that was the fact that her memories seemed... hazy. She remembered yesterday, more or less... but the memories seemed dim, vague, and incomplete. For the life of her, she couldn't remember what the name of the wine she'd been drinking was, though she was certain she'd seen the bottle's label a dozen times. Things like that - the over-all memories of what had happened were pretty complete, but details were hazy or non-existent.

Breakfast and a couple cups of coffee didn't help 'wake her up' any more than she still was. She'd hoped the caffeine-laced brew would sharpen her mind, but there still seemed to be that sensation of walking around in a daze, where it was hard to pinpoint what, exactly, was setting off alarms in her subconscious.

After breakfast, the two women headed into the 'living room' section of the large, open room. They settled into the big, comfortable couches, and it took a second for Jenny to realize that, muddled thoughts aside, her instincts seemed to be sound - she'd folded her legs up under her in a very feminine manner without having to consciously direct herself to do so. In fact, now that she thought about it, she'd been doing everything this morning in an acceptably feminine manner, from the way she walked to the gesture she used to brush the hair out of her face. This was good news - because she hadn't consciously ordered herself to pay attention to acting consummately feminine, and if it hadn't been for this 'instinct' or new 'habit' that was back-stopping her wandering mind, she might have goofed a dozen times over already. Hell - if it wasn't for the fact that she was using the feminine 'Jenny' voice unconsciously, she would have given herself away the first time she'd opened her mouth, since she hadn't directed herself, consciously, to use the feminine voice.

Jessica seemed to want to make small-talk... or something. She was actually sort of 'filling time', not really conversing with Jenny so much as just putting words into the air. Jenny couldn't figure out what it was that Jessica was trying to do. It was almost like she was nervous or something... but why would that be?

About twenty minutes passed, then Jessica glanced at the clock and grinned. "hey - why don't we go down to the lake for a dip? " Jenny thought about it - then shrugged. "Sure - why not? "

They both headed for their respective bedrooms to grab their bathing suits - but Jenny, in her daze, accidentally opened the wrong door, the room next to hers...

...and looked around at the obviously unused room. There was no trace of it being used within the last month, much less last night.

Jenny frowned in confused surprise... then realized that it must be the unused bedroom of the girl who didn't show up. Shaking her head in a futile attempt to clear it, she closed the door and went into her own room.

Shortly, she emerged from her room dressed in a red one-piece bathing suit, which was strained to the limit across her massive bust. Jenny didn't like the way it forced the neckline lower, showing an amazing amount of her upper breasts and cleavage - and she liked even less the 'crushed' feeling it created, her tits crammed in so tight that the fabric seemed likely to burst. Still, there wasn't very much she could do about it.

She also wore a brightly colored wrap and a pair of sandals. Slung over her shoulder was a towel, and she headed into the main room to find Jessica similarly dressed. Walking through the cloak room and out the front door, they headed down to the narrow beach fronting the lake.

Jenny was beginning to relax, despite the strange 'stuffed head' feeling - her instincts seemed better equipped to handle the task of 'acting feminine' than her own conscious mind.

However, the slowly relaxing nerves tightened with a nearly audible snap when she caught sight of two men lounging on the beach, dressed in very skimpy swim trunks. One of them was tall and dark-haired, the other shorter and a brunette. Both were muscular and tanned and handsome - and as soon as the women came into sight, they smiled and rose. The shorter one's eyes seemed to home in on Jenny's tits, making her even more uncomfortable.

"Hey, Gorgeous..." the taller one said, walking up the beach... and wrapping his arms around Jessica and giving her a long, passionate kiss. Jenny stared in shock at the way Jessica not only accepted the sudden, passionate kiss - but returned it.

When they finally broke, Jessica grinned at Jenny. "hey - this is my boyfriend, Steve. The shorter one's Rob." Rob grinned at her, actually managing to tear his eyes away from her bulging bust. "Hey, Jenny."

"Hi..." Jenny said, feeling very self-conscious from his obvious attentions.

"So, stud - how's the water? " Jessica asked Steve.

Steve shuddered, theatrically. "Cold - very cold. I think I got frostbite."

"Aw... poor thing..." Jessica said, pouting. "Well, why don't we head back to the cabin and get some hot coffee into you?" "Maybe some antifreeze would be better." Rob suggested with a grin. "Got anything nice and strong? "

"Got some scotch, some vodka.. and some brandy." Jessica said, tapping a finger against her lips. "Okay - let's do that."

Everybody turned to return to the cabin - and Jenny found herself doing so as well, not able to find a good excuse to derail this most uncomfortable situation. It was pretty damned obvious that Rob was interested in her, even slowing his step to end up walking beside her - and she wondered how the hell women 'subtly' gave the signals that they weren't interested. Yelling at Rob to leave her alone didn't sound like the best plan in the world... though she'd hold it in reserve for a 'Plan B', just in case. As much as she was planning to act feminine, that didn't mean she was willing to go that far. Even now, nominally dressed (albeit in a strained-to-the-limit suit that displayed her most obvious attributes way to much for her taste), the attention Rob was giving her as he tried to strike up a conversation was decidedly unnerving...

...especially since she was shocked nearly out of her mind by the fact that she seemed to be enjoying his obvious attentions. What the hell was wrong with her? She shouldn't find her pulse racing, her nipples and crotch tingling from the fact that a man was trying very hard to be charming and interesting with her!

As shocking, frightening and disgusting as she found the way her body was reacting to Rob's presence, his very masculine presence, her mind's 'logical' reactions wouldn't override her body's reactions, no matter how much she wished it was different... and it was scaring the hell out of her. What the hell was wrong with her?

What made it worse was the fact that her head still felt as if it were stuffed full of wool. She didn't want to 'drop character' and overreact to his presence - so she was busy trying to seem calm, and a little distance, answering his conversational forays with polite - but short - answers, while her slow, thick thoughts struggled to clear themselves and find a solution to this sudden and shocking problem - while being further handicapped by the very thoughts she wanted to evict from her mind, spurred on by her body. The lodge wasn't all that far from the beach, and she hadn't found any safe excuse to get out of this situation as they climbed the steps and entered the building.

She saw a temporary reprieve, however, one that might give her enough time to escape this uncomfortably 'exciting' situation.

"Excuse me - I'm just going to change out of this.." Jenny said, waving a hand at her straining bathing suit and manufacturing a smile that she hoped looked genuine enough.

"Oh, don't do that! " Jessica said, with a laugh. "You and I might have clothes to change into - but don't you think it would make the guys feel silly, sitting around in swim-trunks while we're fully dressed? Besides... it's warm enough in here that these are comfortable."

"Yeah." Rob said, smiling. "And, trust me - you look great."

Jenny had to struggle to keep the manufactured grin from sliding off her face. Insisting that she change would look decidedly out of place, so she had to go along with the flow. "Yeah, I guess you're right..."

As Jessica went to get some glasses and the bottles of alcohol, Jenny sat down on one of the over-stuffed couches... then immediately cursed herself for not taking one of the armchairs as Rob sat down beside her, the faint, but definitely masculine, odor of his nearby body causing her own renegade thoughts, emotions and senses to step up their campaign of physical arousal, further befuddling her confused, bemused thought processes.

Jessica returned with the drinks, and curled up on the couch next to Steve. Jenny grabbed one of the Screwdrivers Jessica had mixed, mainly as an excuse to distance herself a bit from Rob. It didn't work, however - after she'd 'casually' shifted herself during the 'reach and grab' maneuver, Rob also grabbed a drink.. and his maneuver put him even closer to her than he'd been to begin with. He winked at her, grinning faintly, and she felt her face warming as she blushed. She drank quickly, covering her emotional - and physical - turmoil that his attentions brought.

Putting the glass down, she had to struggle to keep her face straight... because, across from her, Jessica and Steve were locked in a very passionate embrace, kissing hungrily as their hands roamed each other's bodies.

"Hmm... looks like they're having fun..." Rob said, with a smile, looking at the two lovers. He smiled at her, which made her stomach to interesting things and her legs feel weak. "What do you say - wanna try it ourselves...? "

"I.." Was as far as Jenny got - because Rob slid one muscular arm behind her neck, leaned forward - and pressed his lips firmly against hers...

...and she found herself kissing back, somewhat hesitantly at first, but with growing passion that matched his own. 'Holy shit!' She thought, frantically. 'What the hell am I doing! I'm kissing a guy...!' "

...and enjoying it. She knew that she should push him away. She even had ample excuse, with him just grabbing her and kissing her like that... yet she couldn't seem to bring herself to do it. Her muscles felt like they'd melted, turning her into a puddle unable to do anything but flow deeper into a kiss that was making her pulse race and her crotch hot and damp. Her mind swam and spun, barely able to form coherent thought as she kissed and was kissed, better and more thoroughly than any other kiss in her life had been.

The Rob's hands started to roam her body, sliding beneath her wrap to fondle her firm, taut ass, the touch of his strong hands on her taut flesh making the arousal so overwhelmingly powerful that her screaming mind became a prisoner to her body.

She'd never felt this way in her life, and no matter how utterly, completely, disgustingly wrong her mind insisted this was, she couldn't do anything to stop it.

Then his hands left her ass.. and reached up to pull the straps of her one-piece down her arms, the tension from her confined breast causing the material over her bosom to immediately 'pop' downward, ending up just below her huge, firm tits and displaying them fully. Rob's hands went to her full, firm tits, and she couldn't help herself - she moaned in pleasure, low in the back of her throat, as his hands gently and expertly fondled and massaged her firm, round boobs.

Then, still kissing her, his hands started pushing her suit even further down, actually stripping it down her legs, leaving her body nude - and she knew now would be a good time to go to 'Plan B', but she couldn't seem to, because her hands were busy taking off his trunks, revealing a cock that was hard and ready...

'What am I doing...!' She screamed at her traitorous body - followed by '..and why am I enjoying it so much...!'

Even the densest person in the world would know what was happening, and what was about to happen - and if that wasn't enough of a hint, there was the fact that Jessica and Steve were a couple of steps ahead, making the couch across the coffee table groan and creak, as Jessica's cries of passion filled the air.

Cries that were matched in contralto counterpoint as Rob eased her legs apart and slid his cock into her hot, sopping wet cunt... and she moaned in pure pleasure, mind and body stunned at the sudden feeling of being filled and fulfilled, his throbbing, warm cock filling her completely and creating pleasure like none jenny had ever felt before.

One of the things about being an 'outsider' was the fact that Jenny was a virgin - male or female, take your pick. Her only sexual experiences had involved Old Mother Thumb and her four daughters... and the suddenly sharp, ecstatic sensation that swept through her as Rob's cock filled her womanhood was by far the most intensely pleasurable sensation she'd ever felt.

Then, as Rob began to thrust in her, driving his cock in and out of her new womanhood, the pleasure only increased, and she began to expertly match his rhythm, doubling and redoubling the pleasure that filled her body and mind, her head tossing back and forth as cries of pleasure were ripped from her throat, her body shuddering in pleasure and ecstasy, the sound of their couch matching that of the one across the coffee table.

And still the pleasure grew. It didn't seem possible, yet it was happening - it was getting stronger and stronger as they continued to writhe on the couch.

Then it happened - orgasm. It surpassed everything she'd felt to this point, and she screamed a primal, mindless scream of purest ecstasy as her body was consumed by ribbons of erotic fire that ripped along her nerves and deep into the pleasure centers of her brain, cutting off any commands to her body and leaving her writhing spasmodically beneath Rob as he dumped his warm, thick cum deep into her cunt.

Then he slumped, carefully to keep his weight off of her, and the golden moment passed as her orgasm began to fade...

...and thought returned.

The realization of what she'd just done - what she'd let happen to her - flooded her returning awareness... and she screamed, pulling herself out from under Rob and tumbling onto the hardwood floor, her full, firm buttocks complaining as they took the brunt of the fall, her huge tits bouncing painfully from the sudden, sharp jerking motion...

...which was as wrong as the fact that the sex had been so spectacular. Everything was all wrong, and even her dazed mind could finally make the connection as she scampered backwards to the corner beside the fireplace, using her hands and feet to propel herself away from the three people on the couches who were watching her with oddly victorious grins.

"my tits...! " Jenny shouted, trying - and failing - to push her voice back into its 'real' register. "I can feel my tits! And.. and my ass - and my cunt! I.. I.. What's happening! Oh, my god...! "

Panic began to sweep over her, the inexplicable sensations her body shouldn't have been able to experience finally registering in her mind as she tried to deal with the fact she'd just had sex, with a man, and...

"Jenny! " Jessica said, sharply. She was grinning as she said; "Nostrodamus! "

The word seemed to slam into Jenny's consciousness - and deeper, right into the center of her brain. Like an explosion that blew the door off a tightly locked safe, the word's impact tore open a sealed part of her mind, and memories came flooding back...

Three years worth of memory. Memories of that weekend, three years ago, when she'd 'played' Jenny - and found she'd enjoyed it. After the first night, her nerves had settled down... and she'd never got around to playing pranks as she'd enjoyed the company of women, finding a warmth and happiness she'd never known.

Memories of using the left-over molds and latex to spend her weekends as Jenny, trying to hide her guilty secret as she'd lived her work-days as Leonard.

Memories of eventually being found out by her then/now best friend, Jessica... and, after a long, serious talk, seeking out a doctor to start the hormone regimen that led, eventually, to the surgery that made 'Jenny' real... or as real as medical science could make her.

Memories of enlisting Jessica's help in her own-going series of pranks, still the reigning monarch of practical jokes, despite the changes in her life.

Memories of meeting Rob and Steve, who were friends of Jessica's, and who started out as little more than acquaintances - then cohorts in Jenny's continuing reign of pranks. Of finding herself falling in love with Rob - and of the heart-rending fear she'd felt when she'd finally revealed the truth to him, afraid he'd leave her once he knew...

...and memories of the happiness that had flooded her when he'd assured her it didn't matter what gender she might have been born, because he loved her. Happiness that was only exceeded the day she'd walked down the aisle with him, becoming his betrothed wife...

...in a double ceremony with Steve and Jessica. They'd come here, to this cabin, for their joint honeymoon, Jenny now remembered. She also remembered last night - the real last night, not the one from three years past that she'd thought was last night.

She remembered Rob offering to demonstrate his skill at hypnosis. She remembered laughing as Jessica had been put under and given a command to act as if she thought she was John Wayne... which had led to good-natured joshing about Jenny's origins... and then Jenny had been put under... and that was all she remembered until this morning.

Jenny stared at her husband, eyes wide as the memories came back. Then she turned to stare at Jessica, her best friend, who's own lips were curved in a victorious grin as she said:

"Gotcha! "

And Jennifer Findley, once Jennifer Smith, and before that Leonard Barkin, the King (and Queen) of Pranksters, was finally dethroned by her 'disciples', got and got good by the ones nearest and dearest to her.

There was only one thing she could do, and so she did it - she burst out in laughter, shaking her head as she climbed to her feet and walked over to where the three people she cared about most in the world waited to enfold her in their welcoming embrace...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A group of Gamer's Guild geeks go to a Curio shop and play out a game that locks their conscious minds into a shared "delusion" that their bodies play in reality. But after the time limit on the Curios is reached, reality is edited to accept the changes brought on by the magic of the Curios which turns them into well-endowed horny guys, or is it gals?

Just Playing Around

By Gunslinger

Tonisha Banks leaned forward and tapped Steven Hildebrandt on the shoulder, then pointed past him and out the windshield. "Why don't we pull over here for a few minutes?" She 'suggested' rather firmly.

"Aw, c'mon - we already stopped in Burtonville for supplies." John Shillins, in the passenger's seat, complained.

"Yeah - there's nothin' in this little shit-hole of a town, anyway." Brad Winslow, sitting in the back beside Toni, agreed. "Sides, we're only ten minutes from the cabin."

"I want to stop at the curio shop there." Toni insisted, gesturing at the building they were coming up on. Brad rolled his eyes. "Geez, you don't look much like a chick - but you sure act like one."

The incredibly muscular black woman turned and leveled her dark eyes at Brad, her full lips tightening in anger. Tall, broad-shouldered and massively muscled, Toni might have been able to intimidate most people - but the fair-haired young man sitting next to her was almost as equally muscular, and three inches taller - he just grinned at her, impudently.

"C'mon - you know I'm just messing with your head." Brad said, laughing and lightly punching her on the thick muscle of her shoulder. "Steve's already pullin' over - and you knew he would."

She glared at Brad a minute longer, then snorted. Turning to face forward, she leaned towards the driver's seat and let her full lips curve upwards into a smile as she ran one long, gloss-red finger slowly up the driver's arm.

"Of course Steve's stopping." She said in a suddenly warm, smoky voice. "After all, he's the last of the real gentlemen..."

The bearded, somewhat heavysset brunet in the driver's seat blushed slightly and squirmed a little in the seat as he pulled the older model Jeep Grand Cherokee over in front of the curio shop. Neither he nor Toni noticed as Brad and John shared a knowing look, the tall, dark-haired youth in the passenger's seat rolling his aquiline green eyes and screwing his remarkable mobile face up into a comically exaggerated look of disgust.

The four of them made an odd sight when they traveled together - indeed, they were so completely different in appearance and personalities that it seemed most unlikely for the four of them to have formed a close friendship as they had. John and Brad had known each other for years, and got along great - but the addition of Steve and Toni seemed a little unlikely...

...but not nearly as unlikely as how they'd met.

All four of them were avid role-players. Dice-and-paper role-playing games, sort of like the rage of the eighties, Dungeons & Dragons - but the system they used was set in the modern world, using paranormally-powered characters. They'd met at a local gaming shop, when they'd been thrown together in a scratch adventure, 'run' by Steve - and the four of them had had more fun than they could remember, their different playing styles meshing very well.

In the past six months, they'd come to be close friends, expanding their friendship outside of just gaming - so when Brad had invited them all up to his Uncle's cabin for the long weekend, it had been an easy sell. Even to Toni - since she had no fear of her 'honor' being impugned during a weekend stay with three guys. She wasn't any of the guy's 'type', and in the case of Brad and John, the lack of interest was sharply returned...

...but with Steve, it was another story. Usually brusque, even nearly abrasive, Toni practically melted when she talked to Steve - who was the quietest and most reserved out of all of them. Dressed - as usual - in slacks and a button-down shirt, Steve was damned near a hermit... except when he was running an adventure, when he suddenly became 'God' for the course of the adventure, confident and sure. Between that rarely-exposed side of him and his usual polite, thoughtful - if shy - nature, he was an 'interesting' young man... and Toni seemed more than just 'friendly' towards him, though he didn't share the emotion.

The problem was, outside the game he was too shy and reserved to find a way to let her know, firmly enough, that he wasn't interested...

The four friends climbed out of the vehicle, stretching as they looked around the tiny town, which consisted mainly of a combination gas- station/post-office/general-store and a diner, clustered between a few small houses at a cross-roads. The tiny town existed mainly as a 'fictional' address to distribute mail to the farms in the area...

...and the curio shop that sat at the very edge of town looked decidedly out of place. With its dark-green woodwork, multi-paned bay window and brass lettering, 'Ye Olde Curio Shoppe' had a decidedly British feel to it - Olde English, to be exact, refined and sedate, a little mysterious. It wasn't the patina of refined Old English 'charm' used by many chain stores, either, but whole-hog Victorian England brought to life - and the building looked as if some sort of strange temporal anomaly had just picked it up out of Merry Old England and dropped it here.

"Let's take a look." Toni said, heading for the door. Clad in sneakers, black knee-length bike shorts and a dark-red crop-top, she presented a fearsome appearance of muscular power - but despite Brad's crack, there was no doubt that she was female, despite her short-cropped hair and muscular build. She moved with a panther-like feminine grace, and there was no doubt that the tightly encased ass was female. Despite their lack of interest in her, otherwise, the guys didn't mind in the least following that particular piece of her anatomy into the shop.

"This place wasn't here last year..." Brad muttered, quietly, as they entered the dimly lit shop. "...and it probably won't be here next year." John said, with a grin, just as quietly.

"Perhaps you are right, young sir..." A creaky old voice said, near at hand, and the four friends jumped and whirled - to see the oddest looking man any of them had ever encountered.

Short, wizened and balding, the man had a long, unkempt white beard and looked to be twelve years older than God. He wore a faded brown suit with leather patches at the elbows, and an equally faded plaid vest. He was hunched over, leaning on a gnarled wooden cane, and in his other hand he held a small, brass watering can, which he was using to water the plant directly behind the door.

"Oh - I didn't see you there." Brad said, uncomfortably.

"That's because you were looking too high..." John cracked, with a big grin. He crouched down, resting his hands on his knees so that he was eye-to-eye with the old man, presumably the proprietor.

"Say, don't I know you?" John asked in an affectedly conversational tone, then nodded his head sagely. "Oh, right - you're the guy they modeled those garden gnomes after..."

Toni couldn't help herself - she laughed, twice, before managing to clap one hand over her full lips, looking mortified. She shot John an ugly glance.

The old man smiled, revealing yellowed teeth. "Ah - a comedian..." He said, in his cracked old voice. "Always ready with a joke, are we?"

John shrugged easily as he rose to full height. "One does what one can..." He pretentiously. Brad chuckled. "Just ignore him, Mister - it's my fault he's this way."

"Oh...?" The Owner said, peering up at Brad, who grinned and crackled his knuckles, flexing the arm muscles revealed by his fully justified 'muscle shirt'.

"Yeah - we've been friends for years, so he thinks any shit his mouth can get him into, my muscles will get him out of..." The Owner grinned a lopsided smile. "Is he correct, my young friend...?"

Brad blinked, then grinned. "Hell - I guess he is, at that..."

The proprietor nodded, and shuffled towards the front desk. "Well, my young adventurers, please feel free to survey my wares. I have a wide variety, and perhaps you'll find something that suits your tastes. Just one caveat, my friends - all sales are binding."

"Huh?" Brad said.

"Final - all sales are final, man." John muttered, then suddenly slipped into a patently false upper-crust British accent. "It's the Queen's English, dear boy. Do try and display a little class..."

Laughing, the two of them headed deeper into the store to look at the cluttered-yet-elegant displays that filled the shop.

Toni rolled her dark eyes and leaned towards the Owner. "Don't mind them, Mister - they've always been a couple of assholes - but they're harmless assholes."

Turning, she headed towards the shelves herself, raising her voice to call to Josh and Brad. "Hey, guys - you break it, you buy it, so behave yourselves... or I'll kick your asses from her to the cabin and back."

Steve watched them go, hanging near the front desk - out of the four of them, he had the lowest income, his extremely shy nature having rather limited the type of work he was willing to go on an interview for - he worked, almost predictably, at a library.

"These are your friends, young master?" the Owner asked Steve, who started and blushed.

"Well, uh... yeah." Steve said, shrugging apologetically. "We kinda have, uh... that is, we like some of the same stuff, and, well.." As usual, he trailed off without quite finishing his sentence, something he did routinely when not running a game.

The Owner looked at him thoughtfully. "A man is known by the company he keeps. A much used cliché, perhaps - but a well deserved one." He glanced towards the shelves, where the other three were browsing, and then lower his wheezy voice, speaking almost passionately. "Perhaps you should find another place to spend the weekend, young sir."

"Uh, um..." Steve stammered, uncomfortable. "No, I.. I uh, don't have many friends, and.. well, they can be a bit of a pain at a time, but.. uh..."

"Not the whole weekend, then." The Owner said, even more intently, an almost desperate look on his weathered old face. "Just the next day - the next twenty-four hours, no less. Please, young sir - consider it..."

Steve was taken aback by the man's sudden intensity. "Uh, I, uh... no - I, uh, came up for the weekend, and, uh..."

The Owner looked at him almost regretfully. "I have made my suggestion, which is all I can do. I hope you fare well, my friend - but, somehow, I don't believe that these three have enough redeeming qualities to save themselves, much less you as well..."

Steve frowned at the Owner in confusion at the strange warning... but he didn't ask him to explain. Instead, he turned and fidgeted nervously until John emerged from the maze of shelves.

"Hey Steve - why don't you go start up the Jeep." He suggested. "I think we're about ready to leave..."

"Okay." Steve agreed, glad to get out of the store, as John walked up to the front desk carrying something small in his hand. "Remember what I said, young friend..." the Owner called after him, making him even more uncomfortable as he hurried out.

* * * * *

"Well - I think I'll turn in..." Toni said, rising and yawning almost theatrically. "Okay - don't let the bedbugs bite." Brad said.

"He ain't just whistlin' Dixie, either." John deadpanned tossing his ring from hand to hand. "This place had bedbugs the size of dogs - well, if you count a Chihuahua as a dog, which I don't..."

"Yeah - right." Toni snorted. With a defiantly feminine flip of her head, she headed towards the hall leading towards the bedrooms... and hoped that Steve was watching her ass as she walked away. She knew she was too muscular and flat chested for most guys, but she also knew that she had a world-class ass, and she hoped - prayed - Steve had noticed that fact.

She'd picked the room down at the end of the hall. Once a 'study', it was the smallest of the four, and separated from the rest of the bedrooms - indeed, the rest of the cabin - by the back-door mudroom... which was why she'd chosen it.

Closing the door behind her, she slid the old fashioned metal latch into place and walked towards the bed, slowly shedding her clothes as she went. Sitting down on the bed, she bit her full lower lip and glanced at the door, double checking the fact that she'd latched it even though she clearly remembered doing so a second ago.

When she'd left the curio store, the last to leave, she'd claimed that she hadn't found anything she wanted - but that wasn't quite true. In fact, she had purchased something - something she'd been shocked to find in the store. Something she wasn't willing to tell the boys about, and had hidden in her purse. Now, she picked her purse up from the bed-side table and opened the large knapsack-like shoulder bag, throwing another nervous look at the door.

Blushing slightly, she extracted her purchase...

...a huge, thick black plastic dildo, realistically 'contoured' with veins and all. Grasping the huge black phallus in one hand, she lay back on the bed, spreading her muscular ebony legs wide and letting her eyes slide close.

Slowly, she began to build an image in her mind's eye. A movie, actually - a mental film. A fantasy...

The knock on the door was hesitant, unsure, and Steve's voice came through the wood, sounding uncertain.

'Uh... Tonisha? Do you mind if I come in for a second...?' Tonisha smiled. 'It's open, Steve...'

The door opened, and Steve stepped into the room, shoulders hunched and eyes downcast. He pushed the door shut behind him - and the instant it was closed, he straightened, an easy smile coming to his face as he eyed Tonisha's sleekly muscled - but most definitely feminine - form, lingering for a second on the firm, round D-cup breasts that thrust from her ebony chest.

'You have no idea how hard it is to play the 'nerd' all the time, my love...' Steve said in a confident, controlled tone as his hands began to unbutton his shirt...

Whispering Steve's name, Toni pressed the head of the enormous dildo into the warm, wet embrace of her womanhood...

* * * * *

"So, uh, um..." Steve stuttered in embarrassment as a faint - but most definitely feminine moan - of pleasure floated from the back of the cabin. "That, uh... that's an interesting ring, uh, John..."

John glanced down at the gold-colored ring he'd been tossing back and forth, then slid it onto the finger of his left hand - a convoluted band surmounted with a 'Jester' face, complete with drooping cap with bells. It was the item he'd bought at the curio shop, unable to pass it up. He'd been showing it off all evening - but now he was completely uninterested in his new purchase.

"Yeah, right, whatever..." He said, grinning. "We ain't deaf, boy - we hear her back there. I bet we even know what's in her head as she's fingering herself, buddy - it ain't subtle. So, c'mon - you gonna be a good friend and nail her at least once, or what?"

Steve's faint blush darkened until he bore an eerie resemblance to a cooked lobster.

Brad, sitting on the couch, was playing with the 'bejeweled' pewter wrist cuffs he's bought. Looking like something from the Hercules or Xena TV shows, they went well with his massive physique, and he seemed to get an inordinate pleasure out of bouncing light from them onto the walls, especially from the raised letter - 'TRUTH' on the right bracer and 'IGNORANCE' on the left. Now, however, he glanced over at John with a look of disgust.

"Geez, dude - that's sick." He said, grimacing. "Toni... Well, Toni's just one of the guys."

* * * * *

She thrust her hips frantically, hands driving the dildo deep into her womanhood at the thought of her and...

...Steve fucking wildly. Gasping, he arched his back, hands working the shaft of his enormous cock as it gushed heavy, thick streams of cum up onto his muscular chest and belly.

Burning with shame at the strange homosexual thoughts he couldn't keep from thinking about Steve, Tony released his slowly softening monster and slumped back on the bed, wondering what the hell was wrong with him and why he couldn't stop thinking about Steve like that...

* * * * *

"Yeah, I know what you mean." John said, shrugging. "I swear, if I didn't know the all the women he screwed, I'd swear he was gay the way he acts around Stevey-boy here."

Steve blinked. "Huh? Who are you talking about?"

John blinked at Steve. "Duh, ain't you been listening, Steve - we're talking about Tony." Steve frowned in confusion. "Toni? What about her?"

" 'Her' who...?" Brad asked. "What are you talking about, Steve?"

Steve, still blushing, shook his head and lowered his eyes - obviously the guys were making some sort of joke about Toni being 'one of the guys', and he - as usual - just hadn't caught on.

"Well - it's a long drive, and I'm bushed." John said, stretching theatrically. "I'm gonna sack out, boys." "Me, too." Brad said, getting off the couch.

"Yeah..." Steve said, also getting up. The trio of guys headed for the bedrooms, switching off the lights...

...and as he was about to close the door to his room, Steve was surprised to hear a deep rumble from the end of the hall. Shaking his head at the chainsaw-like snoring Toni was producing, he closed the door.

* * * * *

"Mornin'..." Tony said, yawning, as he walked into the kitchen where John and Brad were already drinking coffee. John glanced up - and laughed.

"What?" Tony asked, frowning. John pointed at him - then at Brad...

Tony was wearing a pair of black shorts and a matching tank-top... and Brad was wearing a similar outfit, except in white. "Put a set of bracers on you, too, and you could be a color-reversed matched set..." John laughed.

"Yeah, yeah..." Tony muttered, grabbing the coffee pot, the light streaming in the window glancing off the polished pewter of his bracers. "We'd fetch a good price on the slave market, right? Matched bodyguards or something...?"

"Something like that..." John said, shaking his head.

"I dunno..." Brad said. "I think it's kinda cool, us having matching bracers."

"Of course you do." Tony said, eyebrow rising. "You're the one who bought them for us to wear." He glanced around. "Steve not up yet?"

Brad and John shared a look, as usual, then Brad cleared his throat.

"He'll be in any minute now..." he muttered, more just to say something than anything else...

* * * * *

Steve suddenly sat bolt upright, inexplicably yanked out of a deep sleep.

Blinking and yawning, he cocked his head and wondered what the hell had woken him - but there didn't seem to be any unusually loud sounds going on. Perhaps somebody had dropped something - which meant somebody had to be up, and his chances of falling back asleep were slim.

Still yawning, Steve pulled on a pair of frayed, somewhat baggy denim shorts and a somewhat baggy faded black T-shirt that was so long it hung almost low enough to hide the shorts altogether, wondering why he had a strange sense of urgency thrumming through his still sleep-sodden body. Shaking his head to clear it, he opened the door to his room and padded out to the kitchen.

"Morning Every..." He started, heading towards the coffee-pot... and then noticed something odd about Toni, and did a double-take...

If Toni had been born a fraternal twin, this person is what her brother might have looked like. Aside from the inherent differences between men and women, this guy was the near spitting-image of Tony... so much so, that at first glance he'd nearly passed for the muscular, under-endowed black women. The think that had caused the double-take, though, was the fact that this guy certainly wasn't under-endowed, not from the way his shorts bulged at the crotch - but all that was secondary to the question of who this guy was, and why did he look so much like Toni...

"Uh, um..." Steve stammered, stopping dead and pointing at the black man, aware of the odd looks John and Steve - and the stranger - were giving him. "Who, uh... who are you?"

The other three shared a long look.

"Geez, Steve..." the big black man rumbled in a deep voice, an odd look on his face. "What the hell do you mean, 'who am I'? It's me - Tony."

"But, uh, no... I mean, uh... Toni's a woman, and you're not, and..." Steve stammered, uncertainly, wondering what the hell was going on. Was this some sort of elaborate joke...?

The three of them shared another odd look - then Brad spoke.

"Geez, Steve - you must still be half asleep." He said, shaking his head. "I mean, Tony's a guy, dude - you know that..."

Steve gasped as he felt the entire universe shift two inches to the left... at least, that's what it felt like to him as his mind was flooded with sudden knowledge and memories. Meeting Tony at the Gamer's Guild, the first adventure, everything... yet, running parallel to that was the set of memories involving Toni. Both were as equally 'real' to him, equally complete and comprehensive... and it was only the fact that he also remembered what he just said that let him know which of the two equally valid sets of memories was the one he'd had first...

He opened his mouth to ask what the hell was going on...

"Tony's a girl?" John asked, incredulously, chuckling. "No way, man - hell, out of the four of us, you're the one with the biggest set of boobs..."

Steve started to turn towards John... when he felt a strange pressure in his chest. He gasped, eyes dropping downward...

...and he watched in horror as his shirt stirred and began to push outwards, forming two well-defined bumps. Bumps shaped by the flesh under the shirt, the flesh he could feel rubbing against the shirt... as his chest swelled outwards into unmistakable contours.

Stunned, confused and horrified, Steve reached up and grabbed his chest through the shirt, feeling his hands being pressed further out by the rapidly swelling mounds beneath the fabric...

...and feeling his hands through the flesh inside the shirt, as well as the very weight of the swelling mounds of what his mind was trying to deny.

"Oh my god!" Steve shouted, staggering back, his hands tightening painfully on the firm mounds inside his shirt, giving voice to the impossibility he wanted to deny. "I... I just grew tits!"

He didn't want to admit it, but there was no way around it - his hands were clutching a pair of firm, dome-shaped breasts through the thin fabric of his shirt. They weren't very large, all things considered - perhaps a 'C' cup - but since he wasn't supposed to have tits at all, they seemed huge riding on his chest.

The three guys shared another long look, eyebrows raised.

"What do you mean you 'just grew' tits?" Tony asked, confused. "You've always had tits, Steve."

Steve stared at Tony in confusion. What was happening here? Why didn't anybody seem to notice what was going on - and how the hell was this happening anyway? How did Toni become Tony? How and why had he, himself, just grown a pair of tits?

Before he could ask any of these questions, Brad spoke.

"Yeah..." He said, sounding a little annoyed at Steve's strange antics. "Stop freaking out and acting like anything weird's going on."

Instantly, Steve found himself relaxing, his face smoothing into his usual expression of mild uncertainty. He didn't want to 'relax', not with what was happening - but he couldn't help it. Though his emotions were churning and whirling inside, he found himself unable to express any of them.

"Sorry." He said, hesitantly - and almost unwillingly, finding the need to apologize so strong he was helpless to stop himself. He found himself doing exactly what he would have done if nothing strange was going on - pouring himself a cup of coffee.

The confusion and shock continued to roil inside Steve's somewhat pudgy body as he drank his coffee and listened to the other three chat over theirs. He didn't join in conversations like this very much, and he didn't this morning - but he watched, wondering what the hell was going on. Had something happened to them to make them act as if nothing was going on, just the way he was finding himself forced to act?

Their conversation was about what he would have expected otherwise - except for the fact that everything was wrong, but nobody was mentioning it. It was the normal friendly give-and-take about nothing in particular.

After finishing his coffee, Steve shyly excused himself and walked from the kitchen - and as soon as he was out of sight of the others, he hurried to the bathroom. There, he yanked his shirt up and stared at the reflection in the mirror.

Sure enough, a pair of mostly feminine-looking breasts were riding on his chest, covered lightly with the same dark body hair his chest had always boasted - but his chest had never 'boasted' these smooth round mounds before, tipped with large nipples.

Hesitantly, he cupped the new breasts riding on his otherwise masculine chest, the sensation transmitted through both hand and chest, proving that this was real and not some bizarre delusion.

"What the hell is going on...?" He asked himself, letting the shirt drop and mostly conceal the impossible, unwanted breasts - though the slight mounding of the fabric over them still gave mute evidence to their existence...

* * * * *

"So - what the hell is with Steve this morning?" Tony asked, shaking his head... and mentally dreaming of getting his hands on Steve's pudgy little body, which was still driving him crazy with a mixture of disgust and desire. "It's like he didn't even know he has tits."

Brad snorted. "Maybe that's because the shirt he was wearing is so dark and baggy it practically hides them." John laughed. "Shirt? Hell, that isn't a shirt - it's a fuckin' dress..."

* * * * *

Steve was still staring at his reflection in shame and horror, trying to deny what he was seeing, when he felt the strangest sensation, and his eyes widened in shock.

The fabric covering his chest was writhing, flowing - and he could feel the sensation of the fabric tightening and contracting as it altered shape and texture - as well as being able to see it happen.

He gasped as the shirt pulled in tighter, changing it's contours - and in the space of a few seconds, he was no longer wearing a shirt, but a black shirt-dress, with short-sleeves and a T-shirt neckline, but fitting tight to his paunchy body down to the waist before flaring out slightly over his hips. The fabric had become slightly thicker and stiffer, holding it's shape better - as well as the feminine garment could over a body ill-suited to the style, with the dress revealing too clearly both his breasts and his paunch.

"No..." He moaned, shaking his head and unconsciously taking a step back from the mirror, as if distancing himself from the visual proof that his tactile senses were confirming could make it go away...

* * * * *

Tony was glad that his skin coloring made a blush harder to detect as he tried desperately to sound casual, voicing a question that he'd been wondering in his imaginations, the ones that bothered him so. Since the topic had happened to come up, he figured it was a good place to 'innocently' ask the question...

"So..." He said, hoping his voice didn't sound as nervous to the others as it did to his own ears. "Do you think Steve wears a bra under his dresses, or what?"

Brad frowned and shrugged. "I'd never really thought about it, but I guess he does."

"Yeah." John wise-cracked. "Bra, panties, nylons and heels - Stevey wears the whole outfit..."

* * * * *

If having his shirt change into a shirt dress felt weird, what happened next was even more disconcerting for Steve, who was barely coping with the changes that had already occurred.

The world seemed to shrink slightly - except he was aware that the world was receding downward, but that he was rising slightly upwards, as something enclosed his feet and gripped them firmly - even a bit painfully, at the toes. Yet that wasn't the only thing happening - because he could feel a strange 'slithering' sensation climbing up his legs even as his underwear pulled almost painfully tight across his hips and ass. Beneath the new dress he wore, something wrapped itself around his hairy new tits and held them firmly in a soft grip even as a new pressure formed across his back and over his shoulder in discrete bands of force.

Though he'd never worn a bra in his life, Steve had no trouble figuring out that it was what was creating the sensations on his chest - and that was no great leap of logic, considering what the mirror showed - black nylons enclosing his thick, hairy legs, large black platform pumps with seven-inch heels enclosing his large feet. All the accouterments of feminine clothing, on a hairy, mostly masculine body topped with a fully-bearded face.

"I.. I'm a freak...!" Steve gasped, near tears from what was happening to him. Blindly, seeking reassurance and help of any sort, he turned and headed towards the kitchen, bracing himself against the wall as he staggered and stumbled atop the high, slender heels.

* * * * *

John's head turned at the sound of high-heels clattering in the hallway, an uncoordinated sound that was a mess of staccato clicks and awkward thumps.

"Geez - is that Stevey?" He said, frowning. "He sounds like he's gonna fall off his heels."

"Naw..." Brad said, shaking his head - after all, Steve had been wearing high heels on the weekends for as long as the three of them had known him. "He walks perfectly well in heels."

* * * * *

Suddenly, to a dismaying combination of relief and horror, Steve found his stride even out and become easy and comfortable - as if he had years of experience walking in high-heeled shoes. With a damning, almost perfectly feminine grace, he finished the walk to the kitchen, hating the fact that he was moving so easily and gracefully in heels, but grateful that he wasn't about to fall and break an ankle. With the easy stride, he entered the kitchen...

...and his miserable, stunned expression faded and he couldn't so much as bring up what had just happened to him as he shyly nodded to the other three and refilled his coffee cup and headed towards the table to sit down with them...

"We were just talking about you." Brad said, conversationally, trying to make his oddly-acting cross-dressing friend feel more comfortable by 'complimenting' him. "You really move all graceful and feminine, you know?"

"Thanks.." Steve muttered, uncomfortable, sitting down - and drawing one knee up under the other, tucking his nylon-clad right leg under himself in a graceful position that felt awkward to him and drew his unseen new panties painfully tight across his crotch. It was an undeniably feminine position, especially with the way he sort of tilted his upper body as he rested his left wrist on the table, near his coffee mug - but he couldn't help himself.

He'd sat down next to John - mainly because it was as far away as he could get from Toni.. uh, Tony, who was eyeing him with a slightly hungry look. Now, the dark-haired young man glanced down at Steve's lower half.

"What...?" Steve asked in concern, glancing down in fear that something else had changed without him even noticing...

"Not the least bit hairy at all, are you?" John asked, sarcastically - then smiled and clapped Steve on the shoulder. "Aw, c'mon, I'm just joking - if you want to shave your legs and wear women's clothes, that's fine with me. You know that."

Steve barely heard John's magnanimous comment - he was too busy staring at legs that had suddenly become smooth and hairless - as was the rest of his body, he was sure. From the feel of it, his facial hair was gone as well.

Somehow, his friends were pushing him towards femininity, apparently unaware what they were doing. Steve wasn't stupid - he could see that John's comment had made his body hair disappear.. and the instant it had, John's memories had altered so that the joke he'd just made had been different, something about Steve shaving off his body hair...

Steve now knew what was initiating the changes in him, if not the 'how' or 'why'... and he couldn't do a damned thing about it. The earlier comment made it impossible for him to act as if anything strange was going on, and so he had no basis to mention his changes at all, much less to tell his friends to shut up - or to 'suggest' him back to his normal self. He was helpless, trapped in this situation as if everything was normal, unable to say anything that wouldn't be completely normal in the view of his friend's altered memories.

"So, anyway..." Tony said. "We've decided to just spend the day hanging out here. After all the driving yesterday, we don't want to drive anywhere." He grinned. "We're even having a delivery service bring some beer and booze. It costs a bit more, but we don't have to drive anywhere."

"Yeah - you gonna chip in?" Brad asked. All of them knew cash was tight for Steve, and if he pleaded that excuse, they'd happily cover his booze expenses for the weekend... but there was a perfectly 'normal' opening created by Brad's question, one that would let Steve escape to his room, at least for a few minutes, where he wouldn't be 'constrained' by the way he had to act around his friends.

"Yeah, sure - I'll just go grab some money..." Steve said, rising smoothly and gracefully to his heels, and turning towards the door...

"Just has to go grab his purse..." John cracked as Steve walked out the door - and he wasn't at all surprised to reach his room and find a black patent-leather purse sitting on the dresser, containing his money and ID - and various other odds and ends, more than he usually carried, since they would have 'cluttered' his pockets, but there was plenty of room in the purse...

Steve was almost in a state of shock, barely able to think coherently as the changes continued to rapidly pile up. For such 'little' things like his wallet being replaced by a purse he was almost numb - after all, it was a minor thing next to what was being to his body.

Grabbing some money from the purse, he swayed gracefully atop the heels back to the kitchen, handing the money to Brad.

Sitting down, Steve finished the cup of coffee he'd poured, sipping at it slowly and calmly to all appearances, listening to the ebb and flow of conversation around the table with a leaden ball of apprehension in his gut as he waited for another change...

Nothing happened. They weren't talking about him, so nothing came up that caused a change to him... but that didn't mean he didn't see anything happen to verify his friend's new, incomprehensible powers.

It came when Tony shifted. He'd been out of the conversation for a few minutes, and staring at Steve in a way that made him distinctly uncomfortable - and then the big black man that only Steve remembered ever being female shifted uncomfortably - and the old, battered wooden chair he was resting on creaked alarmingly under his weight, drawing the other's attention.

"Something wrong?" Brad asked.

"Naw - just getting comfortable. Things were a little... confining, if you know what I mean." He grinned boyishly. "'Course, you wouldn't know just what it's like to have such a big, thick cock gettin' in the way all the time..."

Brad rolled his eyes - and John couldn't resist.

"Oh, come on..." He said, in an exaggerated sigh. "Just because you're just a teeny-tiny little bit bigger than Brad and I, you never let us forget it..."

Then, almost synchronously, he and Brad shifted the way Tony just had, and Steve had the sudden conviction that Brad and John now possessed bulges just slightly smaller than Tony's own.

When, a few minutes later, there was a knock on the front door, he was absolutely sure... "All right!" Brad crowed. "The booze is here!"

He rose, followed by John and Tony - and Steve saw that they were, indeed, much better endowed than before. At least he hadn't been changed... except that getting a much larger cock would have been a step in the right direction, he thought sourly to himself as he trailed the other three out to the front door to help with the booze supply. He didn't particularly want to display his altered body and attire to the delivery person, but being helpful was the way he was, and not doing so would have been too 'weird' - he couldn't help himself.

Quickly he grabbed two cases of beer and hurried them towards the kitchen, hating how easily he moved atop the heels.

* * * * *

Staring as Steve disappeared into the kitchen, the delivery guy lowered his voice and spoke to Brad, who was signing the delivery sheet.

"No offense or anything - but isn't he just a little... uh, 'heavy' to be wearing something like that?" He jerked his head in the direction Steve had gone.

Brad automatically jumped to his friend's defense, face going flat with anger. "Steve has the perfect figure for that outfit - understand?"

* * * * *

Tony put the cases of beer he was lugging down on the kitchen counter - and looked over at Steve, who was looking in the silvery surface behind the stove, using it like a mirror.

He was entitled to admire himself, Tony thought, feeling his cock stir again, and still feeling awkward about the situation. After all, he wasn't gay or anything - but Steve looked so damned good when he dressed up as a woman, especially from behind. Sure, his legs were just 'so-so', and his face was obviously masculine under his short hair - but that figure! Slender and supple, with a slim waist and womanly hips... and, to top it all off, a pair of firm C-cup tits. Of course, it wasn't surprising that Steve dressed in women's clothes on the weekends - after all, because of the strange genetic 'goof up' in his body, he was mostly female in appearance, naturally, right down to the tits he'd grown at puberty. Sure, it must have been rough on the slender young guy to find himself become more feminine-looking during puberty rather than masculine... but he'd adapted so well to his strange genetic background that he could play the woman damned near perfectly - so Tony's weird, kinda perverted attraction to Steve when he was being 'girlie' wasn't completely freaky...

* * * * *

Steve couldn't believe it - all the pounds had just melted away in a few seconds, leaving behind a slender - feminine - frame. Especially since his shoulders had narrowed and his hips widened, providing him with a very feminine hourglass figure that looked completely at home in the dress. All in all, from the neck down his body could pass as a completely average girl, his cock hidden behind the skirt - it was mainly just his face that was masculine, and even it had softened somewhat. His hands and feet were somewhat large and knobby, but within the range of 'acceptable' for a woman, if not particularly 'dainty'.

It was just after ten o'clock in the morning - and he'd gone from fully male to mostly feminine looking since awakening. The thought of what he'd look like by tonight scared the living shit out of him.

Then there was tomorrow. Then the next day... who knew how long his friends would have this inexplicable power?

Steve wasn't the most comfortable guy at the best of times - shy, withdrawn, socially awkward, quite often unsure of himself. Now, more than ever, he felt lost and adrift - not just in life, but in reality. He'd thought his life was 'unstable' before, with little he could count on - now he was finding out the things he could have relied on only by having them taken away from him - his very form and identity, even his ability to react 'naturally', even if that reaction would have been just to curl up in a ball and beg the uncaring universe to change him back...

"Lookin' good, Stevie..."

Steve, startled, whirled around - to find Tony standing close by, a look in his eye that Steve was used to seeing from the female Toni that, apparently, only he remembered existing. He hadn't been happy to see it in 'her' eyes, but would gladly see it now rather than having him look that way at him...

Then the thought struck him that things were the same, only different - he, as a all-male Steve, had been uncomfortable with a female Toni's attentions. Now, he was on his way to womanhood, and Tony was eyeing him with the same look...

He couldn't even get a break in that.

"Uh, thanks..." Steve muttered, able to show his discomfort at the compliment because it would be natural for him, anyway - but Tony apparently had no memories to let him know just how uncomfortable Steve was. As far as anybody remember, Steve was a cross- dresser, and there was nothing new or unusual about him having a woman's figure and a pair of tits. They didn't even realize they were changing him, which was 'bitter-sweet' - at least it was nice to know that they weren't doing this intentionally. Still, the net effect of the three guys making comments was...

Steve's mind screeched to a halt as he realized something - it wasn't the three guys who were changing him. It was apparently just John and Brad who had the odd powers...

Since Toni/Tony had claimed not to have purchased anything at the curio shop it was easy for Steve to draw the right conclusion from the wrong data. After all, as far as he knew, the only people who had any power to change anything about him was John - whose sarcastic, witty comments were becoming fact rather than folly, - and Brad, whose statements were becoming simple truth...

A joker's jokes coming true - after buying a 'joker' ring... and a brawny young man's statements becoming the 'Truth' as on his bracers.

There was the one glimmer of hope - now that he knew that the Curios were causing this, then there was a chance that the man who'd sold them could do something about it. The man had tried to warn Steve, who hadn't understood at the time - but now, maybe the same 'sympathy' that had moved the man to try and warn him might be called upon to change him back.

Steve was just trying to figure out how to put this to use... when Brad stuck his head around the door frame. "Hey - we're gonna role-play." He said. "I'm gonna GM a twisted little adventure I came up with..."

Steve's blood ran cold - as he found himself saying 'I'll get my stuff - What type of character do I need?'

He couldn't help himself. Brad had stated it as an absolute - and so now it was true. They were going to role-play, and Brad was going to be the Game Master...

"No - I've got your character." Brad grinned. "That's one of the neat things about this game - we're playing ourselves..."

Now Steve's blood was as cold as ice-water in his veins... but he couldn't help but follow Brad out to the living room, Tony following behind, and sitting around the coffee-table, where the stuff was already laid out.

"Okay - here's the story." Brad started. "All four of us are here, in the cabin - but the world isn't the same as the one we're in. We're in a world where Witches and Warlocks, after centuries of hiding, have decided to try and take power..."

Suddenly, reality seemed to waver - as the conscious minds of all four obeyed the 'truth' of Brad's words, and were pulled into another version of reality - the version of reality in the adventure...

+ + + +

Anybody looking in the window of the cabin would have seen an odd sight - four people, three of the obviously male and one of them a little more difficult to peg, sitting bolt upright, staring into the distance. Their faces were wooden and their eyes and voices were blank, their motions mechanical as they played their adventure. Their bodies were here, in 'reality' - but a large part of their conscious minds were locked into a shared 'delusion', playing out the game in their mind's eyes that their bodies were playing in reality...

..and Brad describing what was happening to 'them'.

For the next four hours, twenty-seven minutes and thirty-three second, the four of them played woodenly, unaware of what was going on in 'the real world' as Brad continued making statements as to what was happening...

...and then, exactly twenty-four hours after they'd left the Curio shop, they game-world wavered. The time-limit on the Curios had been reached, and it was time to 'edit' reality to accept the changes wrought by the magic of the Curios...

* * * * *

In a shop that didn't really exist in any one time or place, a powerful being of many appearances and guises throughout the century was sitting, feeling the thrum of his current 'lessons' among the mortal world.

Loki felt the power of his Curios build as the time limit arrived. After centuries of meddling in human affairs, he was still excited by these 'edits' to history. Ever since humanity had managed to lock away the rest of his brethren, the Demi-Deity had been forced to rely on this form of 'interference' for his entertainment - and entertainment it was, too, for he had thousands upon thousands of memories, his incredibly powerful brain easily capable of holding the thousands of altered time-lines in his memory. Every time he sold his Curios, the foolish Mortals altered history as far back as their own births - and thus provided the thousands of 'what if' versions of human history for Loki to peruse, his own metaphysical 'soap opera', with thousands of episodes...

...except, after centuries, he'd grown lax, and not considered all the possibilities, placing weaker and weaker 'safeties' on his magical items.

Though powerful and ancient, Loki wasn't infallible - and now he screamed with inhuman pain, doubled over, as the magic of his Curios intermingled with the unreal-yet-real magic the Curios had created from the game-world of Brad's 'twisted little adventure'. It was like boiling acid searing his brain as his supposed 'automatic' curious failed to integrate the levels and levels of time-lines - including the altered one from the game scenario.

Loki was not used to pain, certainly not searing pain like this. It was in self defense that he reached out his enormous powers almost blindly, grasping the overlapping waves of reality that the Curios were trying to integrate - and twisting them to the fastest, easiest configuration, breaking the feedback loop - and throwing himself out of the mortal realm for the next several centuries as all those thousands of time-lines merged, erasing the ones that, after being altered, hadn't 'really' happened. All those thousands of time-lines - including the one that had existed before the four youths had come into his shop - were erased, leaving only one behind - the one that matched the altered history that John, Brad and Toni/Tony remembered. Now, every human being alive, every history book, remembered the same version of history - small changes really, since they didn't extend back any further than the oldest of the four youths, and didn't effect much except them and the people they'd met through their lives...

...except that, in his pain, Loki forgot the Steve hadn't purchased any curio, and so wasn't within the 'umbrella' of obviousness to the changes - yet, being changed himself, he was separate from the rest of the human time-line...

Loki, as he was thrown out of the mortal continuum, simply didn't consider Steve's unique situation as he picked the first and easiest set of circumstances to allow his escape from the pain...

* * * * *

Steve stared in shock at the slender, feminine-looking figure he'd just acquired, reflected in the stainless-steel metal behind the stove...

...except that he wasn't even in the kitchen. He was sitting in the living room.

Steve's mind staggered and swirled as it appeared - to him - that he'd instantly and seamlessly transported from the kitchen to the living room, from standing to sitting - and from mid-morning to mid-afternoon, from the way the light coming in the windows looked.

However, as much as his mind was trying to cope with the sudden change of time, location and position, it was mostly concerned with trying to make sense of what it was seeing at the moment.

He was sitting on the couch - except the couch seemed to be bigger and softer than it had been before, and 'sitting' was entirely accurate - he was more 'lounging comfortably' in it.

Across from him, on the other couch, Tony, Brad and John sat - and they were looking at him with looks of lust...

...and they were naked, revealing every inch of their bodies s- and their hard, thick, throbbing cocks. Huge, hard, ready-to-use cocks... Then, to further confuse Steve's already lagging, whirling, barely-coping mind, John spoke.

"C'mon, Staci - let's have some fun "

"Staci ?" Steve said, confused, starting to glance to his left to see if there was somebody beside him - the stopping, eyes going wide, as the voice that he'd just spoken in registered. The warm, most definitely feminine voice.

"Staci - is there something wrong?" Tony asked in confusion - but Steve... Staci?... barely heard as he glanced down... ..at herself.

Black patent-leather pumps with six-inch heels enclosing dainty, feminine feet. Long, luscious legs, clad in black fishnet stockings - stockings that disappeared under the short, ruffled black skirt with a white ruffled apron over it. A skirt whose waistband was cinched tight around a slender waist...

...that she couldn't really see, as it was in the shadow of the enormous, firm, milky tits that strained the matching black satin top of her custom-made 'French maid' uniform that she loved best out of her various costumes, and...

Her mind screeched to a staggered halt as she 'remembered' something that never happened - herself admiring herself in the mirror this morning after choosing the French Maid costume. Herself - a stunningly beautiful, sexy young woman with huge, firm tits and a bright, cheerful face with a sharp-bridged nose and full lips, framed by a thick, luxurious mane of silky chestnut hair, now done in an elaborate style under her little white cap.

Who would ever believe 'shy little Staci', the librarian who wore baggy, colorless clothes and no make-up had a huge pair of tits strapped down painfully tight under her big, baggy sweater. Who would believe her thick glasses were zero-prescription fakes. Who would believe that, alone with her three hugely-endowed friends and lovers, 'shy little Staci' revealed her true self - a nymphomaniac into 'role- playing', dressing up as the Sexy Secretary or Naughty Nurse, Horny Housewife or Passionate Policewoman...

...or, her favorite, the Frilly, Fuck-Happy French Maid...

Staci shuddered as the new 'memories' slammed into her mind like a hammer-blow - and yet they were 'false' memories. Not memories of actual events, but a mixture of 'real life' memories from being 'shy Steve' who became confident while playing their games... and a sort of 'information' version of Staci's life, like a description written out for a character...

Staci gasped, shuddering again as she tried to cope with what was happening to her... "Staci...?" Tony said, in genuine concern. "Staci - what's wrong...?"

She snapped her head up, eyes wide, and stared at him, mouth opening to say something - anything - in hysterical shock...

...and she stopped, staring at his muscular body... and hard, throbbing cock.

"Wrong...?" She asked, numbly - then slowly began to smile, hungrily. "What's wrong... is that I'm sooooo horny..."

The words slipped out before she could stop them - but that didn't mean they weren't true... because, looking at the naked, hugely- endowed man, Staci felt a wave of insatiable desire thunder through her body. Part of her tried to insist that she stop, that she think... but, whatever might have come before, the raging lust of her new identity was real enough, as real as her new body - in this new time- line, she had incredibly strong sexual urges that built during the week while she was 'playing' the public version of Staci... and now, on the weekend, were so strong that her body was throbbing with lust and desire.

'God... I'm so very horny...' She thought to herself, slowly rising from the couch. 'This is all so strange and new I remember being

Steve, and I know how weird - even sick - this is... but I just need it so bad '

With a sensual stride, she crossed the short distance separating her from the three men.

'Part of me thinks I shouldn't do this.. that I should just let these urges build and build until I explode ' She thought. 'But this is my new body - this is who I am now.... and I can't resist them. I could never say no to my friends... and now I need this.. badly '

Reaching Tony, she felt an urge to kneel - and she did so, drawing closer to the huge, throbbing cock thrust from his crotch.

'I've never sucked a cock before - or not 'really'. I don't even have any memories of doing so as Staci - yet it's like somebody wrote down on a character sheet that I 'love sucking cock', and I know this - but as a fact... I wonder if it's true '

She smiled at Tony and slowly licked her full, feminine lips - then bent her head, opening those lips to enclose the head of his hard, thick shaft...

It felt wonderful sliding into her warm, wet mouth.

'Does it feel wonderful because that's how it 'really' feels ?' She wondered vaguely as she closed her lips around the throbbing cock and wrapped one hand as far around the massive shaft as she could. ' or is it because my Staci-mind has been altered to make me think it is so wonderful? How would I know?'

Staci slurped hungrily at the cock with an expertise she didn't even know she had - as she felt John's hands behind her, guiding her ass up. She moved from a crouch to standing, bent over, her mouth and hands still busy on Tony's wonderful, huge shaft - as John peeled her panties down and flipped her short, frilly skirt up, revealing her sopping wet cunt...

If her mouth wasn't so happily full of delicious, warm cock, she would have screamed in pleasure as John pressed his huge cock against her sopping wet cunt - and then thrust himself in, filling her tight pussy completely with his magnificent man-meat.

She was in heaven - sucking and fucking, just like this nympho body of hers was designed to be. Her huge tits jiggled and shook as John pounded his huge man-meat deep into her cunt again and again, causing intense waves of pleasure to thunder through her body as she desperately concentrated on not letting her impending orgasm for the hard, delightful fucking from behind interfere with her skillful blowjob.

She vaguely heard Brad say something, urging the guys to hurry up because it was 'almost time' - but she was too busy to thinking about it, lost in waves of pleasure at being used the way a woman like her should be - as a receptacle for huge, throbbing, pleasure- inducing cocks.

Then all three of them came at one, all stiffening as cum gushed down her eager throat and into her warm, ready cunt, increasing the pleasure she felt as...

...as she suddenly jerked and shuddered in utter, pure, horrified disgust at what she was doing. She yanked her mouth off of Tony's huge cock, getting several wads of sticky, disgusting cum on her face and the upper slope of her tits as she yanked herself of the cock penetrating - penetrating! - her unwanted new cunt.

"Oh, God - what the hell happened to me...?" She sobbed, pulling herself away from the guys, tasting the sickly salty flavor of cum in her mouth, feeling the disgustingly pleasant after-glow of a female orgasm as sticky cum dribbled down her leg.

She couldn't believe what she'd just done - she'd just fucked Tony and John. She'd just willingly given in to the urges she felt because of her made-up life as.. as a female librarian named.. named... the memories were fading. She couldn't even recall everything that had led her to believe she wanted this. Instead, she could remember everything else, her real life - as a man, damn it!. How the hell could she have let herself...

"See, I told you!" Brad said, annoyed. "Geez - we only had a quarter-charge of 'Staci' left, but you guys wanted your French Maid so damned bad you couldn't wait until tomorrow..."

Mind still spinning, it took Steve a second to understand what Brad had just said.

"Wha.. What are you talking about...?" She gasped.. and was amazed to hear her voice warble and crack, sliding down the registers.. as her body began to tingle.

Staring down at herself, she was stunned to see her French Maid uniform... disintegrating. It was like it was turning to dust, self- destructing...

...as the body beneath it began to change. Her tits began to pull back into her body, shrinking rapidly... as a sensation in her crotch unlike anything she ever felt made itself known...

"Shit - even the body charge is wearing off." Brad swore, angrily. "Damn it, I don't wanna see Steve - that just ruins it for me, y'know?" "Wimp." John sneered.

"Wha.. what's going on...?" Steve gasped, as 'her' body slid towards the masculine. "What's charged? Anything?"

"Uh... just 'Bambi'." Tony said, looking in a black suitcase. His voice turned accusing. "If you hadn't forgotten the AC/DC converted so we coulda charged them on the ride up..."

"Oh - just use 'Bambi'. It'll last until one of the other's are charged."

Steve, halfway masculine, backed away from the three guys, eyes wide in confused horror... as Tony pulled a strange-looking device out of the bag.

Steve didn't have the 'altered' memories of this timeline - so he didn't 'remember' what the guys remembered. How they'd gone to a 'geek-fest' - the Gamer's Guild - to find somebody they thought nobody would miss. Somebody they could use their devices on - the ones that the aliens who had abducted them and turned them into incredibly well-endowed guys (even Toni) had given them as payment... and as part of their on-going experiment in human sexuality...

So Steve didn't realize the threat in the odd-looking device as Tony pointed it and pressed the button....

* * * * *

Bambi shook her head, trying to clear it - then smiled.

"Gee, guys - where ya' been?" She said, with a giggle, snapping her bubble cum and bouncing on her toes, causing her big DDD-cup tits to jiggle under the pink-and-white sweater she wore. Her short, white tennis skirt shifted with the movement, revealing her pink panties in a brief flash.

"Waiting for you, honey..." The big, muscular blond one - Bob? Bill? Bart ? said with a grin.

"Gee... that's great!" Bambi giggled, eyes going to his huge, thick, throbbing cock... and feeling the familiar heat growing in her groin....

* * * * *

Watching the dim-witted blonde eighteen-year-old energetically bounce atop Brad's cock, Tony leaned over to John.

"Okay - so she's got more pure energy than any of the others... she's also got less brains. I just don't like the 'full mental' ones."

John snorted. "That's 'cause you're a sick lesbian turned into a man. You get off on the ones where it's Steve's mind trapped in a woman's body, helpless to keep from obeying us."

Tony looked over at him. "Hey - you like it too, admit it."

John shrugged with a grin. "Okay, yeah, I've got the same tastes as you do - helpless sex-slave with huge tits, original mind intact. It really gets me off. It's just Brad who like the 'whole woman' thing - he's queasy with knowing she's 'really' a guy - and he thinks Bambi's tits are too big, even though their just little DDD-cups."

"Too bad he was with us when we got scooped." Tony sighed. "He's really a pain ion the ass..."

John checked to make sure Brad was still fully involved. "Say - why don't we charge the units, and then..." He grinned, wickedly. "Tomorrow you can have 'Sarah', and I'll take 'Betty'."

Getting the drift almost immediately, Tony grinned back...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After he tries to rape a witch, he quickly finds out about justice as he is forced to deal with his new female body.

Justice

By Gunslinger

The eighteen-wheeler thundered over the two lanes of scarred black-top, stirring a trail of dust and debris behind it, sucked along in the suction of the transport's passing.

The dust-laden wind whistled through a patch of shrubbery bordering the gravel shoulder, leaving it shuddering. For several seconds, the sound of the truck's passage caused an unnatural silence in the air, until the local wildlife, feeling safe - for now - began to emit their nightly serenade.

From behind the patch of shrubbery, a darker shadow stirred in the still air, then slowly rose, resolving into the figure of a man. His bulky figure was dressed in faded denim and cotton, and the back-pack thrown over one broad shoulder was worn with use and time. A faded and oil-stained black ball-cap bore the faded yellow legend of 'CAT' above its curved brim.

Grant looked around carefully, his head up and his nose wrinkling in an unconscious imitation of a wolf scenting for prey. He knew the basic mistake of many people close to roads was to focus all their attention on what might be approaching on the asphalt ribbon - when it was always possible that there was somebody traversing the fields that lay behind the rusting barb-wire fences.

The moon was bright in a three-quarter phase, but still cast dark shadows that could conceal trouble. Grant completed two complete circles, letting his peripheral vision watch for movement while he focused on potential 'problems'. Finally satisfied, the large-boned man stepped onto the gravel verge and began making time westward, moving with surprising grace and balance for such a heavy, awkward- looking man.

Only moments had passed when Grant found what he was looking for - a fence into the field of grain to his right. Looking around once more, Grant approached the bed-frame style gate and eyed the rusting chain that held it closed. Typically, the primitive latch wasn't padlocked, merely wrapped around the gate and post a few times to keep stray wind from swinging it open. Unwrapping the chain, Grant swung the wide gate open, then turned his back on the gate and moved once more to the road.

Laying his back-pack in some long grasses, he dug through the worn pack, emerging with three empty beer-bottles. With all the prodigious force his muscular arms afforded, the big man smashed the bottles in the lane nearest to him, about a dozen yards short of the gate. With his foot, he carefully spread the sharp fragments over the road, occasionally stooping and carefully flipping shards over so they lay with the jagged edges upwards.

Stepping back, he eyed his work once more. Satisfied, he nodded once, sharply, to himself, then trotted back to the open gate, pausing only long enough to retrieve a couple of items from the concealed bag.

Fading back into the tree-line that edged the field, Grant lifted the pair of compact sport binoculars to his eyes and waited. He didn't have long to wait.

The glow of light reflecting off the trees lining the crest of the rise was his first hint, even before the car came into view. As the vehicle crested the rise, Grant focused the powerful little optical unit on the driver's silhouette, making the snap judgment he required - which in this case was fairly easy.

It was a woman - traveling alone.

Although he still didn't know if she would be 'suitable', it was a good start - last time, the first vehicle had held three college boys, and he'd had to rush out and flag the vehicle away from the glass. Once stopped, he'd been forced to use the 'damn drunk kids' speech, and pretend to be clearing the road. The trio of students, however, were rare enough to have had a social conscience, and had insisted on 'helping' him clean the glass away...

Even as the woman's car - a smaller Domestic model - reached the glass, Grant was assessing what he saw. It was too late to wave her off, but he still needed to decide how to play it.

As the front right tire on the small, light-colored vehicle - a Shadow, perhaps, or a Sundance... - was punctured, releasing almost all of its air with a muffled 'thud', Grant had already decided. The woman behind the wheel guided the shuddering vehicle to a stop on the gravel shoulder, and Grant counted - slowly - to sixty before moving towards the disabled vehicle, with restrained speed.

The driver was tall for a woman, and a little more sharp-featured than Grant would have preferred, but she had a trim figure that was nicely displayed by tapered slacks and a simple, sleeveless white blouse. From the look on the brunette's face, Grant knew that at least one other tire was suffering from a slower leak than the exploded front tire - it was the look of a person with at least two flats, and only one spare.

Grant slowed, then stopped, still a good distance away from the car. "Havin' some trouble, miss?" Grant called, carefully modulating his voice.

The woman's head came up sharply, and she took a step backwards, placing herself directly beside the open door on the driver's side. Grant's dark eyes noted the way her slender, manicured hand dipped into her purse and stayed there, and a little light went off in his brain. He cursed himself for not noticing that she'd slung her purse before climbing out of the car, but it was much too late to change the game-plan now.

"I seem to have had a blow-out." The woman said, her voice remarkably calm - which confirmed Grant's suspicion. Well, you couldn't plan for everything, he told himself philosophically.

"Oh." Grant said. "That's a shame." He looked around, purposefully turning his back completely to her as he scanned the road. Still with his back to her, he crouched down - leaving himself 'vulnerable' to anything she might do. Pointing, he looked back over his shoulder, finding the woman in exactly the same position and posture.

"Glass on the road, miss." Grant said, slowly rising. "Probably some of the lads havin' a bit too much fun. At least two of 'em get stopped by the Sheriff every week for drinkin' and driving." He shrugged ruefully. "So - rather than get caught with open bottles, they just chuck 'em."

It was working, he saw - just as it always did. Thank God for the inbred complacency of people, he thought with a mental grin - life was good when you were one of the wolves among the sheep.

"Can I give you a hand, miss?" He asked, politely. He didn't even take a few steps closer. "If you like, I can trot back to the house and call triple-A for you."

The woman finally let her features relax, even if she didn't smile. Better yet, her hand emerged from her purse - empty - although it remained close to the loosened flap.

"That'd be great, thanks." She replied, and Grant discovered she had one of those voices he didn't like - a little too strident, almost masculine in cadence and strength, if higher in pitch.

"No problem, miss - but can I ask a favor?" He lifted his other 'prop', the leash. "I'm out here looking for my dog - like an idiot, I forgot to close the gate."

Per the script, the woman's eyes went to the open gate and back to Grant, letting him know things were right on the money.

"He's just a pup - his name's Cory, and my daughter would be just devastated if I lost him." Grant 'explained' with just the right tone. "He's friendly, and if you know his name he'll come when you call, stranger or not. Can I leave you the leash while I go - just in case?"

The woman shrugged. "Sure - that's be fine, I guess."

Grant took a couple of steps closer and pitched the balled-up leash, making sure she could catch it. Hours of practice made the motion easy, and the leash practically dropped into the woman's hands.

"Did you want me to bring you something to drink, miss - coffee or something?" Grant asked. "I could..."

He broke off and raised himself to his toes, looking past the woman's shoulder. In a voice that was both relieved and scolding, Grant called out.

"Cory! Bad dog - you come here right now!"

Even as the woman began her turn to look, Grant was moving, his large frame moving with shocking speed and agility as he closed the distance.

The woman caught the movement out of the corner of her eye. But there was too many factors at work - the inertia of her turn, the speed of her reflexes, and the slow-down in her mental processes that insisted that 'the nice farmer' must be heading for his dog, before realizing the threat.

Still, her hand dipped for her purse - but she'd forgotten about the leash that - naturally - she'd caught by instinct with her right hand, and by the time she'd released the leash, it was too late.

Grant's heavy body slammed into the woman, pinning her against the open door of the car - which creaked in protest - and temporarily stealing her breath. Grant used that to his advantage - in the same movement he ripped the purse from her shoulder and flipped her face-down on the ground, yanking her arms back and behind her.

Reaching into a pocket, Grant removed two long plastic 'slip-ties' - the sort used to hold bundles together, they were also used by law-enforcement agencies as temporary 'cuffs'.

That's what Grant used them for, quickly securing her hands and ankles before she could get her breath back. By the time she did begin to struggle, it was too late.

He expected her to scream, - considering the remote location, he hadn't bothered to gag her - so it came a surprise when she spoke in a slightly breathless, but otherwise eerily composed, voice.

"You won't get away with this."

Grant snorted in contempt. "You expect the State Police to 'arrive in the nick of time', maybe?"

Her voice turned quietly dangerous. "I don't need rescuing - you have no idea who you're dealing with."

Grant snorted contemptuously - but the self-possessed nature of her tone bothered him. Despite himself, he felt a chill up his spine at the power of her voice.

He reached for the purse, telling himself he didn't want the gun inside for protection - just to make sure it was 'safe'.

He flipped open the typically cluttered purse - and blinked. While it was typically cluttered, there was nothing typical about what made up that clutter - instead, the large back bag contained some of the oddest things he'd seen, unidentifiable aside from the fact that they seemed to be various small bags made from fine mesh netting, each containing dried matter of some kind.

"What the hell is this shit?" Grant asked, irritably. Everything had gone perfectly, so far - but he didn't like irregularities in his game plan, no matter how minor. He reached into the bag to dig for the gun. "This stuff smells like..."

Suddenly, helplessly, he went completely still, unable to move. The only motion of his body was the rhythmic motion of his lungs - otherwise, he was completely paralyzed, from his toes to the hand now locked around one of the bags.

"Those..." The woman said with a hint of humor. "...are my charms."

Incredibly, Grant watched from the corner of his immobile eyes as she rose from the ground and fastidiously dusted herself off. "I'm a witch, you see." She 'explained' calmly.

Grant might have scoffed at the comment - except for the fact he was completely unable to scoff, or do anything else. He was locked in place as the woman looked at him with contempt.

"So - what's your name?" She asked.

"Grant Lewis." Grant replied - with more than a hint of fear. He hadn't planned on answering. He hadn't even known he could answer - but the words had popped from his mouth, unbidden.

The woman stiffened, as if electrified. "Did you say... Grant Lewis?"

Helplessly, Grant spoke against his will, verifying his name. The woman seemed to flounder for a moment, and Grant, through his fear, felt some satisfaction knowing that the police reports that had occasionally circulated over the years had made an impression on the women who heard it.

"Well, Grant - what were you planning to do with me?" The woman finally asked a bit shakily, leaning against the door jamb. "Rape you repeatedly, then kill you." Grant replied - again, unwillingly.

"I thought as much." The woman said, and now Grant felt unfamiliar tendrils of panic beginning to twine through his stomach. Before that sensation could exploded into anything else, however, the woman smiled - not unkindly.

"Well, I guess it's up to me to make sure that you never, ever commit such a horrendous act again." She stated, her voice heavy with an emotion that Grant couldn't place. "So - sleep, Grant, sleep "

And the world went dark, and Grant knew nothing more.

* * * * *

Grant jerked awake with a start, his sharp mind already starting to process information as he remembered the last few moments of consciousness, the inexplicable events, and the danger he was now...

His mind stopped it's processing, shut down with an overload of sensory information that was... wrong. He looked down. And screamed.

It was an instinctive reaction, and even as it started he was shamed by being so surprised as to loose his normal iron control of himself. Then that anger at himself was swept away as he registered the sound emerging from his lips. A high-pitched, shrill scream that would have been worth thousands in the hey-day of Hollywood 'B' horrors.

That sound, that high-pitched scream, trailed off with a strangled sound as Grant's hands flew to his throat. Well - to the smooth throat, devoid of an Adam's apple, that was in place of his throat.

Closing his eyes, Grant struggled for control, very nearly hyperventilating with the rush of emotions that he seemed incapable of controlling as he usually did. Even that was worse than it should be - for with each hitching breath, the odd sensation from his chest recurred, destroying his attempts to ignore them.

Finally grabbing some sort of control - tenuous at best, but better than nothing - Grant forced himself to open his eyes and stare at his feet, stretched out in front of him from where he sat.

Only - they weren't his feet.

He was staring at a pair of feet that must be considerably smaller than what he'd expected to see. How much smaller, it was hard to tell, exactly, as these feet were encased in a black leather boot, with a blockish heel that looked to be three or so inches high. The boot continued up his... well, the legs that were attached to the feet, ending at the slightly knobby knees. Above the boot lay legs that were encased in nylons of an unusual sort - the pattern on them was almost like that of a piano keyboard turned sideways, in 'black' on... well, almost clear but slightly tan/brown. However, unlike a piano keyboard, there were 'black keys' on every 'white' space. The thin lines marking the 'white keys' ran around the entire leg, while the 'black keys' took up only half the leg, on the outside of each leg.

These nylons, in turn, disappeared up under a short black skirt. This naturally led the eye to the top above the skirt. It was a blue fabric that buttoned up to a fairly low v-neck that displayed...

...displayed...

...cleavage?!

There was no doubt about it - the smooth curves on either side of a shadowed area - there were breasts pushing out the blouse. Not huge, they also weren't tiny - but Grant had never tried to judge breast size from this angle before, and it threw off his perception. It also threw off his mind, which almost slipped out from the tenuous hold he was keeping it under. Quickly, he shifted his gaze to the side, where he could look at the silvery fabric of the jacket that hung open over top of the blouse. His eyes wandered down the silver sleeve to the hand that protruded from the end of it. Slender and feminine, it had ragged nails that had been gnawed short, covered with a chipped layer of a red/pink nail polish.

Near to the feminine hand - the one that twitched or moved when Grant willed it to (he wouldn't think about that right now, no he wouldn't.) lay a back-pack, a faded black one. He eyed this for a couple minutes, a safe place to keep his eyes while forcing his mind back into a bad parody of control. However, it was enough that he didn't break down as he realized that he was looking at the bag through a thin screen of something that - when he focused his eyes on it - turned out to be a swatch of dark red hair hanging from his head.

In short, he'd just taken stock of the body that he was residing in - and it gave all the indications of being female.

Refusing to accept it, Grant closed his eyes to think. It didn't help much - there was a plethora of sensations that continued to intrude, with or without visual input. The constriction of the leather boots over the soft, silky feel of the nylons, the cool air moving over the bare portion of the nyloned legs - and up the skirt to a crotch that should be pressured by the way the legs were pressed together - but wasn't.

He forced his mind away from the implications of that - and found himself noticing, once more, the soft sensations that came with every breath, as the firm masses of flesh filling out the blouse shifted slightly with each cycle of inhalation and exhalation...

"This isn't real." Grant told himself firmly - not reassured but the feminine voice that spoke the words. Pushing that aside, he continued, telling himself what must be true. "She drugged me, or hypnotized me, or something." He wanted to believe that he was just dressed up in women's clothes for humiliation - but there was too much going against that theory. The body inside the female clothes bore nothing in common with his bulky, obviously masculine one.

But everything felt so real...

Pushing that thought aside for the moment, Grant took a deep breath and slid one hand up the skirt...

Smooth, nylon-encased thighs. Panties - but not men's briefs, but something else, that hugged the smooth crotch. And beneath the panties...

A slit. Slightly moist and warm, surrounded by a little, neatly trimmed patch of hair. With a small nub of flesh at the... "Ohh..." Grant yanked his hand away, mentally amending it to 'a small, extremely sensitive nub of flesh'.

It took a couple more long minutes to gather his control once more. Aside from anything purely physical, for some reason his concentration was scattered, his mind confused and his emotions stronger and closer to the forefront.

He focused himself, working it through. There had to be a logical explanation to this... hallucination. Drugs, hypnosis, something....

He considered each logical alternative...

...and none of them fit well enough. His mind struggled to fit a square peg into a round hole, and with each failure that panic tried to push him ahead, to overwhelm her completely...

...no, no, him. Overwhelm him completely. He wasn't a woman! "I am not a woman, god damn it!" He said, loudly and angrily...

...in a high-pitched, feminine voice.

And, somewhere in his mind, a dry, sarcastic voice he recognized as his own asked 'Wanna bet?'

Forcing aside the unwelcome thought from part of his own mind - and he refused to believe it was the part he'd always thought of as the 'detached, logical observer' - Grant turned his attention away from the impossible body that seemed to be encasing his life-force, and turned it outwards, amazed that he'd wasted so much time ignoring his surroundings, no matter what the cause of that distraction.

He (she corrected that dry voice in his head) was in a field somewhere. A frayed blanket lay beside him (her), obviously tossed aside during the motions of sleep. Only luck had kept it out of the small, carefully banked fire pit now filled with only a few fading embers.

Somewhere in the near distance there was the sound of traffic, mostly heavy vehicles such as trucks, but the origin of the sound was hidden by the low shrubs that surrounded his (her) resting place.

Trying very, very hard to ignore the sensation created by the movement, Grant slowly rose to... the feet at the end of the legs that were supporting this body. As the view-point shifted, Grant realized that it was early morning, and that the field he (she) was in was located a short distance from a truck-stop on a highway. None of it looked familiar to Grant, and from the chill in the air and the lay of the land, it was obvious that it was quite some distance - Northward - of where he was last night.

If it was 'last night' the dry voice in his head remarked, refusing to accept anything at all for granted anymore.

Taking a deep breath to calm himself - as much as possible - Grant considered what he could do - ignoring the dry voice's suggestion that he just give in to panic and have a nice, long cry.

If there was anything he refused to do, that was it.

Instead, Grant squared the narrow shoulders under the silver jacket. Leaning down - and trying to ignore the way the breasts shifted inside the blouse - he rolled up the blanket and tied it into the straps of the back-pack, which he threw over his (her) shoulder.

It was only after a moment, as he (she) made his (her) way down the hill that Grant realized that he (she) was moving easily and naturally atop the thick heels on the boots, as if he/she had plenty of experience walking in heels.

Pausing in shock for a second, he/she finally pushed the thought aside as irrelevant. Would he/she prefer barely being able to walk? Shaking his/her head he/she continued on his/her way down the hill to the truck stop.

Despite the early hour of the morning - about seven or so - there was a fair amount of business going on at the fuel pumps and in the restaurant. The number of people around didn't help Grant deal with the situation any better - she was all too aware of the people around, and what they would see - if any of this was real, that is. She still hadn't decided how to deal with this, but for right now she'd just 'pretend', and handle it the best she could.

Pushing open the door, Grant entered the warmth of the restaurant, the rich smells washing through the room until she felt a rich hunger. Ignoring those cravings, she headed towards the washrooms...

She was just reaching for the handle when it opened from the inside, and the burly man stepping through the door almost ran into her.

"Opps - wrong one, honey." The man said with a smile. "Over there." He pointed to the door marked with the symbol for the Ladies' Room.

Numbly, Grant turned, ignoring the man brushing past her as she stared at the door. No matter what was going on, the other people seemed to accept this as real, and her as a woman - that is, if any of this was real.

Taking a deep breath, she forced herself - haltingly - to pull the door open and enter the ladies room.

There was one woman in the room, and she was just heading for the door. She looked at Grant oddly, and Grant had a sudden, vivid image of her screaming, calling for help...

"Excuse me - can I get by?" The woman asked, politely enough, and Grant realized she was blocking the door. Suddenly, tension she didn't even know was there ran out, leaving her feeling limp and weak as she stepped aside, allowing the woman to get out.

Feeling hesitant - and afraid - she slowly approached the mirrors over the sinks, feeling a building fear in her stomach as she neared them, not wanting to look and see...

A girl. About eighteen or nineteen. Beneath a shock of shoulder-length, dark-red hair lay a face that was... unremarkable. Neither beautiful or ugly, it was a face that was female - and that was about it. Make-up struggled to accentuate the better features of the young face, like the full lips and large, dark eyes - but the under-defined jaw and slightly large nose made it a weak effort. The best the face could manage was 'cute'.

Numbly, Grant pulled the jacket open and looked at the reflection in the mirror. From this angle, she could judge her tits to be about a firm D-cup, and maybe the best feature on a body that was a little too thick in the waist. The legs were nice enough, if not remarkable, and the ass in the short skirt was just passable. In short, she was a completely average young woman...

"No!" She... he, damn it, he!... ground out between clenched teeth, realizing that sometime in the past few minutes she'd fallen into the habit of referring to herself in the feminine..

Damn it, himself in the feminine. Just because the body he was in was female... appeared to be female, was no reason for her to.. him, him!... to get into the habit of calling herself...

"God DAMN it!" Grant swore to herself - and was horrified to find herself on the edge of tears. Confused, scared and angry, she hurriedly retreated to the privacy of a stall, closing the door and sitting on the toilet while she struggled to sort out her own mind.

Basically, the problem was a simple one - on a deep level, she was dealing with this as some form or reality - one in which, impossibly, she was... well, she - was a female. So, she was calling herself 'herself', and referring to herself in the feminine.

The problem being that, on a level much closer to the surface, she didn't want to accept this as reality. She didn't want to be female, or use the feminine terms in referring to herself. Yet it happened, unless she made a conscious effort to avoid it. Like a Freudian slip, or using somebody's real name instead of the character's name during a play. She was calling herself female because that's what the cold mental processes of her mind insisted was the right term for the body in which Grant inexplicable found herself.

Grant shuddered under the implications - and, to her shame, felt tears began to trickle down her soft, hairless cheeks. No matter how much she fought to deny it, there was simply too much 'evidence' to the contrary of what she wished to believe. Like somebody trying to convince herself that the sky really wasn't blue, she was being overwhelmed by reality - no matter how impossible that reality was.

Angrily, she wiped the tears from her face with a swatch of toilet paper and took a deep breath. For the first time since awakening, she forced herself to think about her situation without allowing emotions seep into her thought processes. Instead, she forced herself to look at the situation as if she were outside of it, not connected.

She was female. She didn't know how it was possible, but this was a fact. If she tried to fight this fact, to deny the actual existence and nature of the form she was currently trapped in, then she was denying reality - which, technically, was the definition of insanity. As crazy as it sounded, the only way to deal with this sanely was accept that it had happened and move on to the next step.

It had something to do with that woman - the one who claimed to be a witch. Grant didn't believe in witchcraft - or hadn't. But, given enough evidence to the contrary, she'd have to accept it as a possible working theory. Which meant that, to get her body back, she'd have to find that woman - or another 'witch'. However, she wasn't ready to accept that any person who claimed to have powers really would - a vast majority of them would be frauds. The only person whom she could 'safely' assume was a witch was the one who'd done this in the first place.

Having looked at it from the outside, she now tried to apply it to herself - and again her mind balked at accepting this. But with relentless force she drove the thoughts home - the only way out of this meant that she'd have to 'play' at being female. The world at large would see her as female, and she would have to match the form she wore until she could get changed back. She knew that trying to convince people that she was really a guy whom a witch had trapped in this body would only get her locked up in some loony bin.

Having determined that - at least for now - she'd have to play the part of the young woman he appeared to be, Grant suddenly found that he once more had a handle on herself. Instead of denial, she was once more thinking 'logically', and was planning how to get out of this situation, instead of denying it existed at all.

To that end, Grant opened the back-pack and rummaged through it. It contained some packaged food, a couple of warm bottles of water, a few changes of underwear, twenty-seven dollars in crumpled bills...

...and ID for 'Rebecca Vetterly', with 'her' face looking from the small, grainy photo.

Sitting on the toilet, Grant looked at the ID and took a deep breath. Over the years he'd 'played' lots of different roles for 'The Hunt' - from the one he'd used on the 'witch', to the time he'd painted a car like a State Police cruiser, made a uniform, and acted like a cop. So, this would just be another role - and, he thought wryly, amore convincing one than usual.

Rummaging through the pack, he found a couple of more items. Aside from the loose change at the bottom, there was a couple of packs of cigarettes, a lighter and two packs of 'strike anywhere' matches, a few pieces of cheap, showy jewelry - and a credit card, in her name.

Closing her eyes, Grant - no, she thought to herself, getting into character - 'Becky' worked out her story in her head, going over it again and again, fleshing it out and committing it to memory.

Finally, satisfied, Becky rose from the toilet and opened the door to the stall. The thought of being a woman was still unnerving, uncomfortable, horrifying - but if she let herself dwell on that, she'd break down. No - the only way out was through - she'd have to stay completely in persona of a twenty-one year old (and with a stupid 'baby face' that makes me look younger) girl on her way home to Windy Falls, Tennessee, after flunking out of collage.

Then, she'd stake out that same road just outside of town and wait until that 'witch' came by again.

Walking out of the woman's washroom - and making a mental note never to make that mistake again while she was 'Becky', - she headed out into the parking lot.

The first thing she did was light a cigarette. Grant had never smoked before, but the easy way she drew the smoke into her lungs confirmed Becky's suspicions that she was a smoker - which helped explain the erratic emotions, nervousness and irritability that she'd been experiencing. She'd been going through withdrawal.

Indeed, after a few puffs of the cigarette, she found herself feeling much calmer. Looking around, she spotted what she wanted over to the left, and strolled over to the large map mounted under a Plexiglas shield. Thankfully, they assumed that you were stupid and marked the truck-stop with a star and the words 'You Are Here'. Normally, she would have been annoyed at the insult to her intelligence - but in this case, she blessed them for it.

To her surprise, she wasn't as far north as she'd assumed from the weather. She frowned, then butted out the last of the smoke and dug into the pack, pulling out the cheap watch that was inside. She pressed the buttons on the side of the digital timepiece, and was finally rewarded by the date.

If the watch was accurate, it was nearly two months after 'last night'.

Once more, fear began to rise as something else unexpected loomed. However, compared to waking up in the body of a twenty-one year old red-head of the wrong gender, a little thing like a missing two months could be put aside for later. Right now, it didn't really interfere in her plans...

...or, perhaps it did. But not negatively. In fact, instead of flunking out of college, the date was just perfect for her to be hitch-hiking home to surprise her parents for Thanksgiving.

Satisfied at the small alteration in her cover story, Becky looked around, and spotted what she'd hoped to see. Moving quickly, she trotted across the parking-lot.

Immediately, she wanted to stop, but didn't dare. Instead, she had to put up with the irritating intrusion of sensation - her bouncing tits, the cool air moving over nylon-encased thighs, and the disturbing emptiness of her crotch. Although she'd been forced to accept this condition - temporary condition - of womanhood to be real, she still didn't have to like the physical reminders of it that insisted on making themselves known. Like how much weaker she was now, how much shorter and lighter, less able to fend for herself...

...after being the wolf, she was now the sheep.

The thought - unvoiced until now - almost brought Becky to a shuddering halt. If it wasn't for the hurry she was in, it would have - but she forced herself to shove the thought aside, not having time to deal with it.

"Excuse me!" She called, huffing slightly, and surprised at the sound of her new, feminine voice even though she'd been expecting it. The truck driver stopped in the process of swinging the door shut. "Yeah?"

Becky smiled - forcing it, even though it was only a small, shy one. "Which way are you heading?" The trucker's brow rose. "Going to Kentucky. You looking for a lift?"

Becky nodded. "Yeah - I'm heading to Tennessee, myself - a surprise visit for Thanksgiving. Another truck might get me closer, but I'd prefer..."

The female trucker nodded. "Smart girl. I don't like to see you hitch-hiking at all, mind you - but at least you're being careful." She looked thoughtful. "I ain't supposed to give anyone a lift - but I guess I can make an exception. 'Long as you promise not to tell on me, I figure'll be all right. Hop on up."

"Thanks." Becky said, scrambling around the other side of the truck. Climbing into the cab once again reminded her 'sharply' that she lacked her previous strength - although she was more agile than she'd expected. "I really appreciate this."

"No problem," The trucker said with a smile, stretching a tanned, callused hand out. "I'm Carla, by the way." "Becky." She said, not even hesitating before giving 'her' name.

* * * * *

She was walking down a dark secondary highway. Trees, loosing the last of the autumn foliage, rustled overhead as the fallen leaves rustled under the heels of her boots. Shivering, Becky drew her coat tighter around herself. She paused, digging out a cigarette and touching the flame to the end of it, bringing it into glowing life.

Then, behind her, she heard the sound of a footstep on the carpet of brittle leaves.

Gasping, she spun around, the cigarette falling from suddenly nerveless fingers.

Materializing out of the gloom only a few feet away, a hulking shadow solidified into the figure of a man. His bulky figure was dressed in faded denim and cotton, and the back-pack thrown over one broad shoulder was worn with use and time. A faded and oil-stained black ball-cap bore the faded yellow legend of 'CAT' above its curved brim.

"Hey, babe - what's a nice girl like you doing on a deserted road like this?" His voice was deep and menacing, and there was no warmth in the shining crescent of teeth he displayed in a mad grin.

Spinning, Becky ran. Her blood pounded through her veins as adrenaline rushed through her system, and she sprinted for her life.

She heard laughter behind, cruel, cold laughter that sent chills down her spine - chills overshadowed by the ones that arose at the sound of leaves crunching under his feet as he launched into a full blown sprint, his long legs covering more distance than her own, shorter ones.

Becky cursed herself - every extra pound on her body from every extra snack. Once a source of embarrassment over her looks, it now became a matter of life and death as she pushed herself to the limit.

A hand touched her shoulder.

Screaming, she pulled away from the grasping hand, ducking that shoulder under and launching forward from the grip. But she had no more to give, and the extra speed of that push went beyond what her legs could keep up with. For a few steps, she appeared almost to be dancing, her feet skittering over the top of the leaves rather than pressing down on them as she fell forward.

Then she was downward, and her outstretched hands took the brunt of the fall. She landed on hands and knees, and immediately pushed off forward, as if a sprinter from a mark...

...and ran into a guardrail. Grunting at the impact, she collapsed forward, bent over the waist-high railing.

Trying to rise, she was stopped by her own lack of breath and by the strong hands that pressed downwards. She screamed again, her voice fading off into the deep stillness of the empty country side as the massive man behind her laughed again.

Then his hands gripped her skirt and tore it and the panties underneath, exposing her to the chill air as she began to cry at her helplessness.

"Well, what a tender piece of ass..." the man chuckled. She felt him move....

...then pain exploded. It was as if she was being torn apart as something huge and warm and stiff crushed against her virgin asshole - and pushed.

She creamed, shrilly, begging him to stop - but he only laughed harder, shoving deeper and deeper into her, now lubricated by the unholy mixture of feces and blood as he filled her with a size never meant for her.

Then he began to drive into her, each pistoning an eternity of pain and humiliation as she begged for release.

She lost consciousness twice, three time - each time being yanked back by the unbearable pain that the unconsciousness was trying to let her escape from. She screamed louder than she had ever believed possible, and now she was begging God to make him stop.

But he didn't. The agony only intensified as he drove his massive member deeper and deeper into her with each stroke. Now blood ran freely from her, coating each leg, and she no longer pleaded for it to end - but for life itself to end.

As the cigarette she'd dropped brought the leaves to life in a blazing inferno, back-lighting the monster who finally withdrew, whirling her around to face him one last time, he seemed to be both a hellish demon and the angel of mercy as he granted her that last wish, grasping her head in his massive hands and twisting until...

* * * * *

"Becky! Wake up!"

She sat bolt upright, screaming mindlessly, her eyes staring off into nothingness.

It took Carla several minutes to calm her down enough that she could begin thinking again.

When she asked Becky what had been so horrific a nightmare, Becky shuddered and refused to discuss it. She was barely capable of handling it herself - the dream of her, not knowing who she really was, being attacked by... himself. Seeing himself as some horrible monster, feeling the pain....

"It's nothing." She said quietly, laying back in the bunk of the truck.

Carla, doubting it, but not willing to push the young red-head on the subject, merely nodded and settled back into the driver's seat. Putting the truck back into gear, she accelerated away from where she'd pulled the truck over when Becky had screamed.

Grant, trapped in Becky's body, drew Becky's knees up to Becky's chest and, almost silently, began to chant. "I am Grant Lewis. I am not Becky Vetterly. I am the wolf. She is the sheep. I am Grant Lewis "

* * * * *

"Here - take this money." Carla insisted.

Grant had to think fast at that one. Becky wouldn't - but then again, he wasn't really Becky, and this would be the last he'd ever see of this annoying, 'mothering' bitch.

"Thanks - I appreciated it." He said, using Becky's simpering female voice to good ends. Taking the cash, he forced himself to wait until Carla's truck pulled away, even lifting Becky's pathetic, weak hand in farewell.

Then, sure that it couldn't be seen at this distance, Grant curled the thumb and three fingers inward, leaving Becky's dainty middle finger extended.

Turning away, Grant tucked Becky's shoulders tighter into her jacket and headed off down the road stretching away from the 'T' intersection. As he walked, he cursed Becky for her impractical boots - with those damned heels - and the thin nylons that did nothing to keep her legs warm. What the hell did women think about when they bought clothes, anyway?

Since last night - and the nightmare - Grant had realized he'd almost fallen into the trap that damned witch had set - empathizing with some young cunt, indeed. Well, from now on he'd be sure to keep 'her' and himself separate. After all - he might be in her body, but he wasn't her - he was a man, body be damned.

It took a lot of effort to remember and use the masculine references at all times, but after last night Grant didn't care, even if it did mean that he spent a lot of time with his mind occupied by remembering his masculinity and watching for possible slips. It might dull his edge, slow him down a bit and ruin his long-term concentration - but it was worth it, by God. He was a man, and he wasn't going to forget it.

Being in this bitch's body just made him the vaunted 'wolf in sheep's clothing'. That was all.

* * * * *

Becky curled up in bed, feeling better. A hotel room with a nice, comfortable bed - and a shower. She'd been wearing the same clothes for four days, and it was good to feel clean and warm and comfortable. Buying some new clothes with the last of Carla's money would make her feel better about hiking tomorrow, too.

Sighing with pleasure, she snuggled deeper into the bed... "Wakey, wakey, bitch!"

Becky screamed as the blankets were torn off the bed - revealing her fully dressed in the new clothes she'd just bought. Jeans, a warm sweater, socks and shoes - sturdy hiking clothes, but how had she gotten on her...

"God - that's just awful, bitch - you almost don't look like a girl no more!" The man's voice was full of sarcastic, evil glee, and Becky stopped worrying about how she'd gotten dressed, and instead tried to pull away from this hulking monster in her motel room....

...only to find that she was, inexplicably, tied spread eagle to the bedposts.

She screamed again, but no-one came to her rescue as the man, with gleeful maliciousness, made disparaging remarks about her 'manly' clothing and proceeded to cut it off of her with a switch-blade - and each cut went much, much deeper than just through the fabric.

Her screams became different - no longer intelligible cries for help, they were wordless shrieks of agony as the knife bit deep with each cut.

But she was still alive when he had his way with her. And when he flipped her over and had his way with her again. And when he took the knife and told her that, since the baggy sweater had hid her tits so well, she might as well not have any...

* * * * *

Gasping, sheathed in a cold sweat, Grant jerked bolt upright, unable to draw breath as the agony from the dozens of cuts on her body...

There were no cuts. Even as she... he managed to draw a ragged breath, the intense recollection of pain faded, leaving her limp and shuddering.

Curling up in the bed, she whimpered. She... he fought against the memory, so vivid, so... real.

But she couldn't sleep until she... he got up and thoroughly washed the soiled clothing he'd first awakened in, hanging it on the shower curtain so that it would be dry and ready to wear tomorrow. Only then was Grant able to curl up in bed and try to sleep once more, repeating the mantra over and over in her head.

* * * * *

Cursing the nylons, which did nothing to cut the bitter wind, Grant continued on, her legs almost numb from the day's walk.

She had no more money, and there would be no motel tonight. There might have been, if she hadn't wasted her money of clothes that she'd had to leave in the motel, afraid to even touch them. She cursed that fear, too - but the memory of the pain and violation that she associated with them was too sharp and clear to be ignored.

Shuddering, she veered off the side of the road into the shadow of a small stand of trees that blocked the worst of the wind. Dropping her bag, Grant searched around for rocks and stray branches, seeming to move in slow motion. It was even harder today to hold onto his... her... no...

She paused in her work for a second and focused. His! It was even harder to hold onto his identity today - he had to stop and think consciously about it. The two nights without sleep were to blame for her lack of concentration, and almost zombie-like state. Coherent thought just seemed to slip away from him.. her! Slip away from her when she...

She? No - he. When he wasn't paying close attention to his thoughts. And she couldn't do that, and do anything else as well. It was one or the other, never both.

Finally getting a small fire built, she curled up as close to it as he could and pulled the blanket of her, letting the warmth seep through him as she drifted off to sleep.

* * * * *

Grant smiled as Becky slid back into the passenger's seat of the station wagon, her figure lit by the flickering from the drive-in's screen.

"What, no popcorn?" Grant asked, leaning over to claim a warm kiss. She melted into his arms, and the kiss deepened as he embraced her warmly.

Finally breaking the kiss - but staying intertwined with Becky, Grant smiled. "By the way, I've been meaning to ask all evening - why the jeans and sweater? You usually wouldn't be caught dead in jeans."

Becky smiled mysteriously, but didn't answer. Instead, she pulled him off balance, and he scooted his butt over to her side, wondering what she was up to.

He found out seconds later as she slowly slid downwards, one hand unzipping his fly. Grant, startled, opened his mouth to say something - but Becky opened her mouth, too, and not to say anything, either.

Grant sighed then let his head loll back as she worked with surprising skill, her hands joining her lips on his shaft as she skillfully brought him closer and closer to...

* * * * *

The figure by the fire made an incoherent sound in the shallow sleep that held it, and twitched.

* * * * *

Becky, choosing the right moment, bit down hard.

As Grant screamed, she rose up, feeling the power she always felt at this point - when she let the sheep know the wolf was in the fold.

"This is what's with the Jeans..." Becky hissed - and unzipped her pants to reveal her massive, thick cock. Laughing, she forced the screaming man's legs apart and...

* * * * *

The figure by the fire twitched, making a muffled scream.

* * * * *

Becky screamed as Becky drove her huge cock into his unprepared cunt. He cried out for mercy, but she ignored him, and Becky could only writhe in pain and humiliation as Becky fucked him with his massive tool...

* * * * *

With a scream, Becky awoke, shivering from the sweat that bathed her from head to foot.

"No... It's not real..." She moaned, climbing to her feet and wrapping the blanket around her. "I'm not Becky Lewis... I'm Rebecca Vetterly..." She paused, trying to sort through the images running through her mind. "I mean I'm Grant Vetterly, not... I'm Be..."

She stopped, staring into the darkness, and whimpered. "Who am I?"

* * * * *

Becky walked along the edge of the highway, his dark eyes staring off into the distance without seeing anything. A chill breeze rippled across her nyloned legs, causing a shiver, but it didn't really register on the mind that was struggling to hold together some semblance of coherency.

She could no longer remember what was the nightmare, and what was real. He thought that Grant might be a real person, and actually raped and killed women - but how could she be Grant? But - wasn't she Grant? Was she a wolf - or was he a monster?

Three nights with no more than a few minutes of sleep - on top of which, those few minutes of sleep were horrible nightmares - or pleasant dreams, depending on who she was. But what was the nightmare? The ones Becky had while she slept - which seemed to be Grant's life during the day? Or Grant's? Was Grant real - or just in her nightmare, and the thoughts she was him just carry-overs from those dark dreams? Or... but how... but he was... when did.. how... who... what...

She realized she'd come to a dead stop on the verge of the highway, mind spinning uselessly. Taking a deep breath, she fumbled a cigarette out and lit it, then forced her legs to keep moving, her mind struggling to keep track of reality.

Stumbling along, she almost passed the building set off to the side of the road. It was an aging, obviously abandoned old farmhouse, small and weathered - but it was basically intact.

Staggering inside, Becky found that the roof was patching, and would leak in the rain - but in weather like this, it stopped the wind. Better yet, there was a fireplace along one wall that looked serviceable...

Soon she had a fire going, and settled in near it, wrapping the blanket around her.

As she felt the heaviness in her eye-lids, she fought to keep them open, knowing that one more nightmare would drive her absolutely insane...

* * * * *

Becky opened her eyes with a start, looking around fearfully.

She was in a warm, comfortably furnished living room. Seated on a sofa, she was surrounded by people that she - somehow - both knew and didn't know. A large mirror across the hallway revealed herself - dressed in a 'dressy' dress that actually did a nice job of flattering her figure - especially her D-cup breasts.

"I'm so glad that you came home for Christmas, Becky, " a voice said to her left, and she knew, somehow, that it was her mother, Jessica, who was speaking. "It just wouldn't be the same without you hear, dear."

"I'll second that!" A voice said to her right - and she felt a strong arm slide around her shoulders. For an instant, she was afraid - but while the person was muscular, he was about her own age, and fair-haired.

Mike. His name was Mike.

Mike leaned forward - and kissed her.

Startled, she pulled away. She didn't know why, but kissing Mike felt wrong, somehow....

"Now, now, dear - don't be that way." Her mother scolded kindly. "If you're not a nice girl who keeps your boyfriend happy - why, then you'll be raped and murdered!" She turned to somebody in the hallway. "Isn't that right, Grant?"

The massive, muscular man loomed in the doorway, grinning evilly. "That's right, Jessica - bad girls get raped and murdered." Mike nodded. "Right - everybody knows you can't rape a girl who refuses to withhold consent. Right?"

"Right." Jessica agreed, and Becky couldn't help but agree it made sense - if she didn't say 'no', ever, then it wasn't rape.

"Why don't you show Mike that there's no hard feelings, dear?" Jessica said with a smile. "Go ahead - give him a nice blow-job." Becky gaped at her mother. "Mom! I... I can't..." She flushed, disgusted at the thought of giving...

* * * * *

" a blow-job is so much fun!"

"Really?" Karen - her best friend since the fourth grade - asked hesitantly. "I mean, I thought "

"No, it's great!" Becky assured her. "It's like sucking on a popsicle - only it's warm. But it tastes wonderful." She giggled. "And when he cums, you gotta be ready, or you'll loose some - and it tastes so good, you don't want to do that "

The two fifteen year-olds giggled together, and Becky finished describing the blow-job she'd just given Mike Denbrough, the cute new guy, and how they'd almost got caught by...

* * * * *

"Miss Richardson doesn't have a clue." Josie told Becky quietly.

Becky blinked, then leaned in closer so that their sex-ed teacher couldn't hear them whispering at the back of the hall. "What do you mean?"

Josie smirked. "It's not all dry and clinical like she's telling you like it is. I mean - the orgasm itself is like..." She sighed. "You know what it's like when you masturbate?"

"Yeah." Becky agreed.

"Ever use... something else?" Josie asked slyly, and Becky blushed, thinking of the little pink dildo she'd bought by mail order with her mom's credit card.

"Well, it's like ten times better than that, especially if he starts with..."

* * * * *

"...foreplay is vastly under-rated." Mike assured her with a mock-solemn tone, his hands studiously fondling her breasts. He dipped his head down to her nipple.

"Mmmmm... That feels good..." Becky moaned, eyes closed. "Oh, yes..." She gasped, she opened one eye. "But where did you ever learn to be so good at it, I wonder?"

Mike feigned surprise. "Didn't you know? I was taught it the day I started dating you. By your..."

* * * * *

"...Mom!" Becky squealed, hugging the high-heels close to her (sigh) flat chest. "I love you, I love you, I love you!"

Jessica smiled. "You're thirteen today, honey - and that makes you a teenager." She winked. "Think you can learn to walk in heels in time for the spring dance?"

"You just watch little ol'..."

* * * * *

"Becky Vetterly..." Becky said with a soft sigh, opening her eyes and stretching. The morning sun shone through the grime-coated windows, revealing that she'd slept right through since she'd fallen asleep at about five yesterday afternoon.

Stretching, she rose to her feet with a grin - she'd needed the sleep. Hell, she hadn't slept this well since she'd woken up as a girl... She stopped dead, shocked. Slowly, she frowned, wondering where the thought had come from.

Like a dawn rising over the horizon, something surfaced in her mind...

She/he gasped, reeling as the strange memories flooded over her - awakening one morning with the conviction that she was a man trapped in a woman's body.

She shook her head, trying to clear the absurd thought away - but it wouldn't go. Instead, unconnected 'memories' floated through her mind, tied to the life of this man she'd thought she was. They were disjointed and vague, not coherent, and she wondered where her mind had come up with such things...

Then she gasped as she realized that her thoughts of her past - or, rather, of 'Becky's' past - were as vague and incoherent as the other ones.

The only clear, sharp memories she had were of the past few days - the certainty that she was a man, then the confusion and slow descent into a zombie-like state. She knew that it was connected to some nightmares she'd had - but for the life of her, she couldn't remember a single dream or nightmare - ever.

"Oh, God - I think I'm going nuts..." Becky said, swallowing hard. No matter how hard she concentrated, she couldn't seem to firm up any memories. It was as if her brain was trying to insist that either past was equally real - or imaginary.

"No, no..." She muttered to herself. "This is silly. I mean - I'm a girl, right? Isn't this like... obvious?"

But it didn't seem to be. The 'other' memories she had seemed to say that she was really a guy, who somehow became a woman. How, she didn't know, but it seemed to refute any chance to use her current gender to guarantee who she was.

Confused, she wandered to the doorway and sank to the threshold, frowning. She couldn't understand how this could be. Why didn't she know who she was?

Methodically, she ran down and examined every single memory she could, feeling each one out, testing it...

...and came to a stunning conclusion.

She was a guy, somehow moved into a woman's body. She was now positive that she hadn't been born as Becky Vetterly, but as some guy, who'd live to be twice her age as it was.

But she couldn't remember who she'd been, as a guy. Just scattered fragments. Working at a gas station. Playing pick-up football in a field. (Embarrassingly) Masturbating to a magazine. A few other things, none of which showed 'his' reflection in a mirror, or where anyone called 'him' by name. Quite often she would remember seeing parts of 'himself' - like when he was in the shower, soaping muscular arms and a broad chest. As for names - the owner of the gas station (Mr. Cooper, that was the owner's name) had called 'him' 'Sport'. The guys 'he' was playing hockey with one winter called 'him' 'Flash'. An older man, half drunk (his father?) saying 'Come here, boy, I got somethin' ta give ya.'

But, despite the gaps, Becky no longer had any doubts, after comparing these clear fragments with the oddly disconnected - dream like? - ones of Becky's past. She had been a guy.

But how did this change happen? Why did it happen? Had 'he' grown older than what fragments of memory existed, then somehow opted into a younger - if female - body? Was it by choice? Did 'he' want to be female? Becky remembered 'his' awkwardness around girls, the way he'd acted sometimes when the subject of 'faggots' came up in the locker-room. Had 'he' been a closet gay? Transvestite? Transsexual?

Sitting there, on the stoop of the ruined farmhouse, Becky was trying to deal with her lack of past and the confusion when she heard a car screech to a stop, and a door open.

"Becky? My god - is that you?"

Startled, Becky looked up to see a handsome, muscular blond man, about her own age, hurrying across the field to the house. Somewhere in the back of her mind, a name floated to the surface...

"Mike?" She said, rising to her feet, confused and unsure by a sudden rush of feeling that swept over her, faintly foreboding. "God, honey - what are you doing here?" The man - Mike - said with a smile. "I thought you were still in New York."

"Coming home for the holiday." Becky said, manufacturing a smile while her mind spun. New York? Is that where she was going to collage?

Or was she going to collage. Maybe it was all part of that cover... "God, babe - I missed you!" Mike said, leaning in closer...

Before Becky could even begin the instinctive recoil from the kiss, a powerful though thundered through her mind. Upset Mike, and bad things will happen. Keep him happy, and good things will happen.

The thought was so strong, so imperative, that she couldn't refuse it - it was like an avalanche bearing down on her, unstoppable. Forcing herself to relax, she let him embrace her. Closing her eyes, she screwed up all her will power...

...and kissed back. Passionately.

It wasn't bad, she was surprised to learn. Uncomfortable - but it did feel good. Maybe she had been gay as a guy...

"I missed you too, stud." Becky lied 'sincerely', biting back the grimace at the term of affection and faking a realistic smile. Keep Mike happy...

"Mmm... So, when's your mom expecting you?" Mike asked.

"She's not - this is a surprise visit." Becky told him, wondering if it were true or not.

Mike smiled. "You're going to make her Thanksgiving, sweetie." He lifted one eyebrow. "Although - if she'd not expecting you, than she can't miss you if we spend a bit of time together, huh?"

That was the last think Becky wanted, to be alone with Mike - she still wasn't sure how to feel with him, didn't know anything about him other than the fact that all the signs they were in a relationship were disturbing - almost disgusting - her. Either she'd been straight as a guy - or a very closet gay, and this 'open' relationship was...

Keep Mike happy. Like a program burned into her brain, it wouldn't go away. The thought of displeasing Mike - or, even, not actively pleasing Mike - almost literally made her shiver with the unknown promise of undisclosed threat. She didn't know why it was, or what the 'bad things' could be - but even trying to think about it made her feel cold, and ill...

..and scared. Deathly afraid, an unreasoning panic. She had to keep Mike happy - at all costs.

Swallowing her disgust, she forced her voice into a lower, sensual tone. "Mmm... come on in, Mike..." "What..?" Make, startled, didn't resist as Becky - unwillingly eager - pulled him into the farm house. "Let me show you how much I missed you..." She whispered with a fact, seductive smile.

Slowly, feeling like she was fighting herself every inch of the way, she sank to her knees and her hands reached for his fly... "Becky...?" Mike said, startled.

God - she felt like vomiting. She didn't want to do this.

But she had to - and without showing anything but eagerness.

Smiling up at Mike - hoping it didn't look like the grimace it really wanted to be, Becky forced her mind to shut down as she opened her lips and leaned forward, enveloping his rapidly hardening cock in her warm mouth.

No matter how much she wanted to shut it out, the sensations that came as she applied a light suction on the semi-rigid cock and began bobbing her head back and forth came through, and...

...and...

...they weren't that bad. Not like eating a (popsicle) chocolate éclair - but not actually unpleasant, either. In fact, if she grabbed the base of his now-hard cock with her hands - like that - and slid her tongue on the shaft - like this - until she was at the top end of the stroke, then licked the end of his cock like a lollipop...

Hmmm... Okay, something inside her still wanted to vomit at the thought of giving a guy a blow-job - she hadn't been gay, as a man, she guessed - but, physically...

It was okay. Bearable. She wondered if she'd ever lose the unpleasant emotional feelings, but doubted it - it would be kind of like having to sit in a room painted a sickly shade of greenish-yellow. Disturbing and unpleasant - but harmless.

Oh - right. Sounds.

Having gotten past the worst - the first step is always the hardest - Becky was able to spare enough attention to fake the sounds of pleasure as she went through with the blow-job. There was a bit of a 'sticky' minute when he came (ha, ha - first blow-job humor there Becky thought wryly) but she managed to recover fast enough to gulp at the warm, salty, slightly musty-tasting cum with all the signs of enjoying it. She even managed to repress the urge to up-chuck it back, and managed to lick his cock clean.

Swallowing several time - which didn't clear the taste, as she'd hope - she tried to ignore the salty/vinegary taste. If she pretended she'd just eaten a bag of French-fries with too much salt and malt vinegar (topped with anchovies) it was close enough to the taste, and less disgusting to think about.

Which really said something - but hey, she had to KEEP MIKE HAPPY.

Yeah, yeah, she knew.

"Oh, wow..." Mike sighed. "God, baby - you must have really missed me. You never even hinted you'd ever..." He stopped, flushing brightly.

"But you wanted me too, didn't you?" Becky said, finding that the smile wasn't as hard to fake as before - if only she had a couple of glasses of vodka to clear her throat, it would have been... less 'barely bearable'. "I've always wanted to, but was too ashamed that you'd think I was... you know."

She was lying through her (cum covered - now there was an 'icky' feeling) teeth, but he seemed to except it. "Wow - does this mean...?" He trailed off, his flush deepening.

Shuddering inside, she HAD to (keep Mike happy) say, "All the time, lover-boy - I love sucking that tool of yours."

"Mmm... well, I heard that some girls do like it - but didn't believe it." Mike said, shaking his head. "Then again, most women probably don't believe there's guys who actually enjoy fore-play..."

Smiling, Mike bent his head and begin nibbling and kissing her neck as his hands peeled off her coat - then her blouse....

During the next forty-eight minutes, Becky was really only uncomfortable for one instant - the instant before penetration. Seconds later, as she built towards her first - and thunderous - female orgasm, she thought to herself that maybe sucking Mike's cock two or three times a day, dressing in clothes that he wanted to see her in, and generally doing anything and everything that might make him happy might just be worth it in exchange for this absolutely mind-blowing pleasure. Hell - maybe that's why 'he' became a woman in the first place...

Then the orgasm hit, and all thought was wiped out completely...

...except the strange, disconnected thought that zipped through her mind, for now apparent reason. "...it's at least TWENTY times better, Josie "

* * * * *

Inside a dark, shuttered cottage set deep into the forest surrounding Windy Falls, thirteen women of varying ages and pasts sat in front of brightly kindled hearth, clad in simple white shifts adorned solely with the simple, intricate stitching at the collar that marked the ages- old cabal of the Wicca.

"Come, it is time." The eldest member of the group - more than one-hundred and thirty years old, although her altered birth certificate only claimed the seventy-two years she seemed to be - spoke in a deep, reverent voice. "Once more we meet, and the sacred circle has been closed. If any shall have had use of the powers we claim since the last of the full moons, speak now and be judged."

The others shared looks among themselves, waiting to see who would be the first to start in the usual litany of minor magicks and subtle, unobtrusive charms.

To their surprise, one who had never yet made use of the power was the first to speak - and on her face was an unusual expression, one that was out of place on her usually confident features.

"I have used the powers - and used them to their utmost." The woman - who was tall for a woman, and a little too sharp-featured to be called beautiful - spoke with an unaccustomed air. "It was precipitated, in a small way, by an attempted rape."

There was a general murmur from the group - the woman, who felt herself unworthy of the 'sacred gift', could certainly not be faulted for using it in her own defense.

She held up one hand, commanding there attention. "However - there is much more to this event. Hearken, while I tell a story "

"Once upon a time, there had been a young, somewhat solidly built seventeen year old youth named Grant Lewis. Somewhat shy and awkward, he'd been raised by an alcoholic and abusive (physically and sexually) father until Grant had run away at the tender age of fifteen. It was at that point, two years after leaving that home, still not fully recovered emotionally, that he'd had his first 'true' sexual experience with a woman. She'd been somebody he'd met while working at a gas station. A young, unremarkable girl a year or two his senior named Jessica Vetterly.

However, in the back of her van, Grant had discovered his 'abnormality'. Physically bulky, the young Grant had also been over-endowed 'down there'. At first Jessica had been awed by his equipment, and had been eager. But soon after he'd penetrated her, she'd swiftly changed her mind, compelled to do so by the pain of her nearly virgin womanhood trying to accept something that was twice the size of the one other man she'd had sex with, three times before.

Grant, confused, exhilarated, and caught up in erasing the 'faggot' history bestowed on him by his father, had been quite deaf to her cries of pain, her begging and pleading, until he'd shot his load deep into her. It was only after his orgasm that he realized what he'd done.

And something inside of him had 'snapped'. Until then, his only sexual experiences had been on the receiving end of pain, his father raping him anally, sometimes - when too drunk to 'get it up' - using a broom-handle to 'remind' Grant what it was like.

Now, the first time he had ever experienced 'pleasurable' sex, it had been causing pain to a woman. Deep inside Grant's tortured psyche, that 'snap' was the sound of a mind breaking down, and in its madness forming an equation - pain for the woman during sex equaled pleasure for him - and the alternative was for him to be on the receiving end of the pain.

But Jessica's screams of pain, the blood running from her as she cried and cursed, had bothered him in a deep, fundamental way that was held back by his psychosis.

So, he'd killed her to shut her up.

He'd left that town that very night and never looked back. Like all those who are truly insane, Grant had been unable to see his own madness, believing that his view of the world was right and sane, and that it was all the others who were deluded.

Then, one day, many years later, Grant - who no longer even remembered the woman who had started his rampage, lost as she was among the scores of others, had encountered a woman with powers beyond his comprehension. One who had been able to put him in a deep trance.

And when this woman asked that person what a fitting punishment for his crimes might be, the answer surprised her. In the very depths of his soul, this Grant knew what he had done was wrong - and all he wished was a chance to set it right. He wished that Grant Lewis had never been born, and that he might, somehow, make it up to that forgotten woman who was the first to suffer at his hands..."

Later, when the sharp-featured woman concluded, her voice tired with the repetition, the circle of women stirred in the glow from the fading fire. No word was spoken - for none was needed for this judgment.

The eldest nodded at the unspoken consensus of the room. Without a word, she rose from where she sat and approached the sharp featured woman, who bent her head with simple humility - unaware, in her own doubts, that there had never been any question as to the outcome of the circle.

Laying one hand on the woman's shoulder and spoke softly, her tone filled with understanding and compassion.

"When you first came to us, those many years ago, you wept before us, admitting to atrocities committed. You told us of your pain, of what you had become because you could not accept your 'sickness'. We took pity on you, granting you your one, most devoted wish - that you be given the form that was the true you, instead of the one that fate had cruelly bestowed upon you." The woman paused, and lifted the younger woman's eyes to meet her own. "We could not, then, absolve you of the guilt of what your own self-hatred led you to do - the drinking, the alienation of your wife, and the torture of your son. But now you have earned that absolution, and in giving up the past in which you committed these sins, you have erased these sins from existence."

And the woman who had once been Robert Lewis broke into tears of gratitude, knowing that after all those years of self-hate, the universe did, indeed, allow for justice.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Ariving in a Santa Suit, a would be thief hides in Santa bag under the tree of the house he is about to rob, only to find when he emerges, he has turned into a Holiday Bimbo.

Keeps On Giving

By Gunslinger

Ye Gods, but did Robert Lien love Christmas!

Cheerfully whistling 'Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer', Booby Lien strode down the sidewalk, black-booted feet crunching through the thin layer of new snow that was still silently drifting from the sky, creating golden halos about the street-lights.

Bobby was a rangy, limber thirty-eight year old man with a face that was all planes and angles – but no casual observer could have told that, at the moment, thanks to the big, fluffy – if somewhat tattered and dirty – false beard he wore. His body shape was also somewhat obscured by the clothing he wore – a suit of red crushed velvet, trimmed in fake 'fur'.

In short, Bobby was 'Santa Claus', right down to the red cap – a rather skinny Santa, true, but the sight of him was enough to have brought smiles to the faces of the few people he passed in the gathering night.

Which helped explain why Bobby loved Christmas so - for not a single person found his feature-obscuring beard the least bit suspicious this time of year...

With a cheerful grin, Bobby turned off the sidewalk at the edge of a small wooded patch that ran along the three sides of a good-sized estate. He made no effort to 'skulk', but made it look as if stepping off into the trees was the most natural thing in the world – and once into the trees, he began moving through the heavier snow quite a bit faster than he'd strolled along the street.

Once he was behind the grand old house he'd targeted, invisible from the street, he broke from the cover of the trees and headed towards the back of the house. A gorgeous old Victorian, the house stood in good repair... and, but for the Christmas lights adorning eaves and valleys, unlighted, a good indication in Bobby's 'line of work'.

Reaching a multi-paned window at the back of the darkened house, he quickly withdrew a slender metal rod he'd hidden in the front of his Santa suit. With motions honed by years of expertise, he quickly slipped the latch of the old-style windows. Tucking the tool away once more, he hefted his 'Santa bag', a surprising ornate sack with brocaded velvet fabric that he'd bought at a second-hand store.

Still smiling, Bobby let himself into the house to perform an operation he'd come to call 'grinching'...

The room itself, paneled in enough rich wood to make a member of the Sierra Club cry, proclaimed 'money' to Bobby's fine-honed senses, and he couldn't help but grin as he looked about. This one job might be enough for him to 'retire' for the season – like any halfway-competent criminal, he went for larger, more spaced-out 'scores', rather than a steady stream of smaller jobs. Any job, after all, had a certain percentage in terms of failure, and so the more you did, the higher the likelihood of eventually getting caught...

It was almost as if the thought itself had caused it – as if thinking about the low-but-real chances of getting caught on any given job had brought said possibilities for life.

Even as Bobby stood, looking about the room with a grin and thinking about how much this score was going to rack up, the light-level of reflect light in the room went up – as somebody turned on a light in the hallway outside the study in which he stood.

Bobby's heart rate jumped, driven by a spike of adrenaline, and his mind whirled as the old 'fight or flight' reaction kicked in with a vengeance. Bobby, however, didn't let the instinct override his mind, as some of his 'fellow workers' were prone to do – he, unlike many of them, actually realized that nothing drew the human eye like the sight of somebody 'fleeing'. Even as the sound of footsteps rang on the marble that must floor the hallway beyond, Bobby's eyes were darting about, looking for a third option – somewhere to hide.

The room itself offered many niches, it's ornate design lending well to places to tuck oneself unobtrusively into... but that, Bobby's adrenaline-fueled rain knew, was an illusion, for anybody already familiar with the room would quickly spot a person trying such a thing. What he needed was not a niche, but a 'shield', something that would hide him from view, not just clock him, and nothing he saw gave him the protection he was seeking...

As the footsteps grew even closer, panic provided a spark of an idea – and like many such ideas, it might be genius, or it might equally be madness – and idea so different from the general run-of-the mill train of thought that only it's outcome could determine it's worth, for there was no other basis on which to judge it.

He was out of time., With no other possibility springing to mind, Bobby accepted the gamble – and quickly stepped into his 'Santa sack' and crouched down into a near fetal-position, reaching up to pull the drawstring tight around the neck of the bag.

The bag – now with him inside it – had been sitting beside a Christmas tree in a room full of Christmas decorations. As he froze into position, his arms wrapped around his knees, his head tucked down to nearly the same level, he struggled to breath as shallowly as possible, hoping against hope that his desperate gamble would pay off.

The human mind was used to 'patterns' – for seeing what was expected to be seen. Whatever this room might look like the rest of the year, it was now decorated for Christmas, which meant that even somebody used to this room would expect to see it looking 'different'. Things that weren't usually there now were, brought out for the season – and the bag which Bobby was hiding in was the sort of thing that might fit right in with those decorations. At first glance, even an eye familiar with this room might look right past the bag, seeing it without noticing it, an unwary brain assigning it the label of 'decoration' without pausing to consider where it had come from...

For what seemed and eternity, Bobby crouched in the bag, struggling to hold perfectly still even as his ears strained to sort out what was occurring beyond the thin walls of his cloth prison.

He heard the footsteps moving about – and then stop, right near the door to the study. There was a pause.. and then, a deep male voice started speaking.

'OH, geez...!' Bobby thought. 'He's on the phone, right outside this room!'

The man might be looking in the door of the study this moment – but at least he hadn't entered the room, and if there was no movement to catch his eye, then maybe – just maybe – Bobby would get away with this insane plan.

There was, however, one major problem with that – Bobby thought he might be starting to suffocate...

There was a growing pressure in his chest, and his mind was starting to go fuzzy on him. There wasn't a pain, like when he'd tried to hold his breath, but he was definitely feeling... weird – and that made it damned hard to remain still as he heard the deep voice going on and on. There were pauses, where Bobby was almost tempted to believe that the man had stopped – but there'd been no sound of footsteps leaving, though Bobby found himself wondering if he would have heard them through the pounding pulse in his ears...

Finally, however, he did hear the sound of the man leaving. It was none to soon – it felt as if there were a hundred-pound weight on bobby's chest, and his mind was fuzzy and spinning, seemingly unable to hold on to any thought for a second. Almost uncaring if he got caught, he started to push up against the neck of the bag...

...and it resisted.

Desperate, Bobby strained against the neck of the bag. Giving up on trying to open it with his hands, he placed the top of his head against it and strained with all the might of his body upwards, trying to force himself up through the hole by standing up. The bag stubbornly resisted...

...and then he suddenly short upright.

For a second, confused and taken by surprise, Bobby just stood there, staring at the darkened room. Dimly, his befogged mind thought that the bottom of the bag must have given out, even though he hadn't heard any ripping – for while his head had emerged into the open air, the bag was draped down over him, almost like a cape or cloak.

Feeling both thick-witted and light-headed, Bobby tried to make sense of what was going on. Dimly, a panicked thought flashed across his mind, that maybe he'd gotten some sort of brain-damage from oxygen derepation... dapretatin... deereation...

Bobby giggled in annoyance as his brain skittered into a 'holding pattern' about the word that wouldn't quite come to him. He shook his head in annoyance, feeling his long hair whip against the soft, smooth skin of his face with the motion. He knew he knew the word he was trying to think of, it just wouldn't...

Wait a second.

Shouldn't his hair be hitting his fake beard, rather than his face? That didn't make any sense... Oh, Bobby realized with a relieved giggle. The beard must have fallen off.

God, but it was so hard to think! It might be easier without all the distractions, of course, like the way it felt like there was a heavy weight against his chest, and the weird way he felt 'down there', and the way he was constantly adjusting his balance atop his high, slender...

Wait a second – even if the beard had fallen off, why was he feeling his hair against his face when he whipped it side to side? Wasn't his hair too short to...

He had no idea how long it took him to finally decide to move. The initial surprise had held him in place long enough to start thinking about that word he couldn't quite remember, but since then one half-complete thought after another had taken up all his attention, and he'd been standing stock-still in the darkened room. Now, finally, it occurred to him to move, and Bobby pushed against the cloth draping his body...

...except, his befogged mind finally began to realize, that didn't seem right either. "Gee, like that's totally weird..." Bobby muttered, looking down at.. well, not 'himself'.

"I, like, totally look like a chick, or something!" She giggled in surprise – and then giggled again in reaction to the giggling itself.

"Geez, I like, totally sound like one, too!" She giggled, yet again...

...and then a cute little frown crossed her face as she realized that, just maybe, giggling wasn't the right reaction.

"Like, what the, y'know, hell...?" She demanded of herself, hesitantly surveying her body – absolutely positive there were many things wrong with both the situation and her reaction to it, yet also absolutely certain the her inability to quite put her finger on all these 'wrongs' at one time was even, somehow 'wronger'... without quite understanding why.

Frustrated, she stamped one foot prettily, carefully balancing herself atop the slender white heels of her fur- trimmed, knee-high red stretch velvet boots, and...

"Hey – even my clothes are, like, totally different!" She gasped, belated realization setting in. "They're like, totally girly, too!"

Her eyes widened, and she giggled in horror. "Omigawd! I've, like, so totally be turned into, like, a girl!"

Certain of those 'wrongs' finally snapped into a recognizable pattern with that realization – and the woman standing in the study gave off a breathless little scream of horror as that much-delayed realization finally made it through what she laughingly referred to as a brain.

She was, indeed, female – emphatically so.

"I've got tits!" She gasped, delicate hands rising to pull away the fabric that shrouded the bulging mounds. As the remains of what had once been a 'Santa Sack' fell away, her already big blue eyes widened even further at the sight of the magnificent mounds of mammary flesh that filled out a skimpy little 'Santa's Naughty Lil' Helper' tube-top. "They're, like, totally huge...!"

She stared, almost uncomprehending, at the massive mounds thrust from her much slender chest – huge, heavy, sensitive masses of tit-flesh that jiggled and shook with each breath the now-blonde woman took. They were much in keeping with the overall look of her new, feminine figure...

...and also very much in keeping with her new 'dazed' mental processes, but the same slow, dreamy nature of those processes kept her from making the connection.

In short, she not only looked like a 'bimbo' – she was one. She just didn't realize it...

Still feeling dazed and dreamy – but in no way connecting that feeling with what had happened to her body – the new woman surveyed her altered figure, tenuously aware of the fact that she was supposed to be horrified and disgusted by what she was experiencing, yet aware of the fact that she wasn't 'really' feeling any of that – indeed, if somebody had managed to make her observe her own emotional state, she might have been surprised to realize that she felt, well... sort of happy.

In a generalized, rather mindless sort of way, that was.

As it was, however, there was absolutely no introspection as she performed her own external inspection. Bemused and confused, she surveyed a figure clad in clothing, all altered in a way that should have been flat- out 'impossible' – and yet even the apparent impossibility of the situation was beyond her altered mental abilities. Instead, she giggled without realizing it as she took in her slender, massively-endowed new body with its long legs and trim waist, its dainty feet enclosed in high-heeled boots. A mere wisp of material covered her new womanhood, and when she ran her long-nailed new fingers over it, she unthinkingly moaned in pleasure at the 'ripe and ready' nature of her apparently now-permanent state of mild arousal.. and yet that new, sexually-charged state didn't raise any of the alarm bells it should have, her diminished mind merely noting how different it felt from what she was used to...

...with a giggle.

Hitching the over-strained stretch-velvet tube-top over her 'Santa's Helper' costume higher up over her massive, basket-ball sized breasts, the vapid blonde who had recently been Bobby Lien gave off another mindless giggle, and then headed for the door of the study. As her slender heels clacked on the hardwood floor, it didn't even occur to the new woman – the new bimbo – to wonder who she could walk at all in unfamiliar heels, much less with such a sexy little stride.

As she walked, her massive new breasts jiggled and swayed within the skimpy confines of the tube-top – and she was peripherally aware of how good that motion felt, without being 'disgusted' with herself for enjoying any aspect of her new body. If she'd bothered to think about it, she surely would have been horrified to realize that she found the sensations emanating from her new anatomy to be highly enjoyable – but she wasn't doing much in the way of thinking at all.

So, in mindless and 'happy' daze, she enjoyed the feeling of being emphatically feminine without any of the guilt or disgust that might have emotionally mitigated the physical sensations. In her dreamy daze, she was completely unaware of how 'accepting' she was of her new feminine state – how much she was 'enjoying' being a newly-made female, when everything in her past would indicate she should be anything but pleased with it.

All of which helped explain why, without even really thinking about it at all, she brought her dainty new hands up and began to play with her over-sized new breasts as she walked. She giggled and sighed at the pleasure her own touch brought her as she massaged her huge new tits and teased her ripe new nipples. No thought of how 'wrong' this action might be even occurred to her – indeed, it was practically a Pavlovian response, increasing a pleasure without any moral or situational judgment at all.

Given that, it seemed 'perfectly natural' to the new woman to pull off the tube-top to allow her questing hands better access to the sensitivity of her new breast. She giggled with mindless pleasure as she manipulated the massive spheres of her new bust-line, fingers squeezing and tweaking her turgid nipples without any thought but how good it felt to do so.

Her already moist womanhood grew warmer and wetter at the sensations, and her growing feminine arousal also didn't really register – oh, she felt it, surely enough, but her mind didn't assign any 'weight' to the increased sensations in her crotch. She was soon dripping wet and really horny, but it didn't occur to the new woman that this was either 'good' nor 'bad'.

In fact, her mental processes were so degraded, that she didn't even comprehend 'cause and effect' anymore – her ditz little mind literally could not understand the connection between the pleasure her hands were causing and the increased arousal she was feeling. The two sensations were 'co-incidental', happening at the same time, but the 'obvious' link between the two was anything but to the practically brainless new woman she had become.

At least – on the conscious level....

<Stop playing with your tits!> Bobby half-yelled, half-moaned in unwanted pleasure or, at least, that's how it would have emerged if the part of his brain thinking/'saying' it had a physical voice but even then, what 'he' meant was 'our' tits, for there was no doubt that, even in his mental prison, they shared an emphatically female body...

It were as if the vast part of his intellect – the part that was 'still male', at that – was trapped in some sort of Plexiglas enclosure. 'He' could see, hear, and most damnable of all, feel everything that was going on – but solely as an observer, unable to 'break out of the box' and contact the tiny little portion of the brain that was in direct control of this horrifying new body they shared. The 'bimbo' they had become hadn't really gotten any 'dumber' – it was just that only a tiny portion of their shared mind lay outside the 'barrier', and all the parts that would have stopped her from enjoying herself, as she now was, was trapped behind that immaterial but unreachable wall.

So, the 'real' Bobby could only watch in horror through their shared eyes as their shared reflection caught the bimbo's big blue eyes as she walked down a hallway lined with mirrors.

"Gee..." She giggled, pausing to eye her new body in the mirror.

"You're, like, a total babe, Bobby!" She informed her reflection with yet another omnipresent giggle – and then frowned prettily.

"Bobby is, like, a totally gross name for you." She told her reflection, not really thinking about the implications of what she was saying – while the 'real' Bobby screamed silently at her form behind those blank baby-blues.

"You look more like a... a Barbie!" She told herself.. and then giggled her way through an introduction: "Hi, big- boobie Barbie!"

Giggling happily to herself, not thinking much of anything at all, the newly-named 'Barbie' giggled, wiggled and jiggled her way down the hallway – while Bobby screamed...

A sound drew Barbie's attention – and even as Bobby helplessly screamed unheard warnings at her, she changed direction, heading towards the source of the sound rather than away from it. There were a great many reasons why Bobby didn't want to be 'caught' by anybody at all, much less while trapped in this ridiculously top-heavy female body, but none of his mentally shrieked reasons intruded upon the emptiness of Barbie's mind, and only that faint sense of giggling curiosity moved her as she stepped into the room...

A huge plasma-screen TV was mounted on one wall of the ornately decorated room. Nearly life-sized, the naked flesh squirming on that screen in full, living color was accompanied by 'truer-than-life' sound and bass- heavy music coming from a top-of-the-line Dolby sound-system. As the 'actress' and pair of 'actors' writher erotically on the screen, it cast a flickering cavalcade of light and shadow across the room – lighting the figure of the nude man sitting in an arm-chair, his broad hand wrapped around a truly impressive specimen of manhood.

Engrossed by the action on the screen – and the sensations coming from his nether regions as his hand slowly pumped up and down – the toned, lean black man with the short-cropped that of tight-curled hair didn't notice the intrusion upon his privacy.

Then, as Barbie watched the action of the big screen, unwillingly – and unthinkingly – becoming more aroused by the sexual content of the imagery, the inevitable happened:

She giggled.

The black man started, hands wrapped around his impressive cock moving in a wholly inadequate attempt to shield it from sight – and then his brain registered where – and who – the sound had come from, and his eyes widened.

"Duh-yam, girl – where'd you come from...?" He exclaimed.

'Bobby', steadily more frustrated and frightened by his isolation within her body, desperately shrieked at her, trying to tell her what to say – while what little she had in terms of a mind thought the question over...

"Hi, I'm Barbie!" She answered a few seconds later – with a giggle, of course. "I'm the new girl! I came from Santa's bag!"

In a way, it was a very cogent answer, allowing for her lack of intellect – but, of course, anybody who didn't know the 'impossible' truth about her would hardly be disposed to take her words in the correct light...

"From 'Santa's bag', hmmm?" The man mused, a 'cat that ate the canary' grin rising on his face as he eyed her outrageous figure. "You don't say..."

Barbie frowned in confusion. "But... I do say...!"

The man laughed, and said something Barbie didn't understand at all: "Jeff, Steve, buddies – I owe you big- time. You've outdone yourself this year..."

Bobby, however, had no trouble at all figuring out the drift of the man's thoughts – but, trapped helplessly in this new chassis, unable to control it, over-ridden by the despair and frustration of being unable to affect anything that was driving his rising tides of horror, disgust, and – worst of all - growing realization of his future was acting like an acid upon his sanity – his whirling mind no longer shrieked, it gibbered as the inevitable came to pass:

"Well, girl, bring that body of yours over here!" The man said, with a huge grin – and, giggling, Barbie did just that.

<NO! Don't...! He's going to... We'd have to... He thinks... NOOOO!> Bobby's mind gibbered – uselessly.

"Damn, baby..." The man breathed in something like lustful awe as he pulled Barbie down onto his lap. "That's what I call a real set of titties!"

"That's what I call them, too!" She told him in amazement, giggling – and then, to Bobby's gibbering whore, added: "...and, they're, like, sooo totally sensitive, too!"

"Then I guess I'll just have to play with them for awhile..." The man grinned, pulling her closer.

"Gee, that'd be, like, totally..." She started – and then had to stop talking, for his lips had found hers even as one hand came up to play with her massive breast.

She didn't think anything about it – indeed, it was just more 'mindless pleasure' as his hands roamed over her new body, and if there'd been any real consideration of 'right' and 'wrong' in her diminished little mind, she would have 'instinctually' decided that anything that felt good must be right – but she didn't even have thought's that 'deep'. Instead, she merely accepted the pleasure without any judgment at all.

In short, she simply responded to whatever the man chose to do, without even once considering anything as complicated as whether she 'wanted' to or not.

Not that Rod – for that was the man's name – found anything strange about the 'bimbo whore' he assumed her to be allowing him to do anything he wanted with her. After all, some of his 'rich buddies' had gifted him with similar things in the past – though never, he thought with a grin as his broad hands struggled, and failed, to encompass her massive tits, one quite so... remarkable.

His strong hands quickly ripped off the skimpy remnants of clothing that the 'bimbo hooker' wore, and he gorged his senses upon his body. His lips roamed over her upper body, kissing her lips before moving down to nibble and suck on the erect nipples that offered themselves to him. His hands likewise roamed her body, from her trim ass to the slender waist that dwelt in the shadows of her monster tits – but they kept returning to the soft, resilient flesh of those obviously-implanted, massively inflated boobs, and if his fingers never quite managed to come across the surgical scars one might expect to find, he was in no condition to consider that discrepancy.

Considering the fact he'd been jerking off to porn before she'd showed up, (and, given his state of arousal and the situation he found himself in, it never once crossed his mind to wonder how she'd gotten in), it was after relatively little 'foreplay' that he was ready to 'do the deed'.

"Baby, I'm gonna fuck your brains out..." He growled in a voice roughened by lust – and she merely giggled and agreed, her mindless response fitting in perfectly with his assumption that she was 'bought and paid for' to please him. So he found it in no way strange that she obediently, if rather mindlessly, let him pull her off his lap.

He was much too horny to take the time to lead her to a bedroom – instead, almost roughly, he shoved her backwards into the corner of the room near the fireplace, and she obediently complied with his motions, letting him shove her against the wall while his hard and ready cock throbbed with every beat of his heart. He'd enjoyed running his hands over the almost impossibly smooth, pale skin her lean-yet-busty body boasted... but now he wanted only one thing, and that was access to the dripping wet womanhood he'd so recently revealed.

She, however, had no idea of what was going to happen, completely oblivious to the 'implications' of the situation.

So, Barbie giggled while Bobby gibbered... and then the very aptly named Rod plunged his rock-hard cock deep into her sopping womanhood.

Caring not a whit for her own pleasure, in an eager need to 'get himself off', he pounded his long, thick cock deep into her wet, willingly womanhood – and as he thrust rhythmically into her, her huge tits bouncing with each powerful thrust, Rod had no idea that he was literally fulfilling his promise to 'fuck her brains out'.

Under the assault of sensations he couldn't control nor ignore, battered by pleasure that overwhelmed nerve endings, Bobby's mind whirled and fragmented under the assault, unable to accept that 'he' could possibly be enjoying getting fucked fast and hard by a big, black cock. It couldn't possibly be 'him' loving the feel of having 'his' huge tits crushed as Rod's muscular body slammed up against 'his', couldn't be 'him' loving the feel of the cock pounding the tight, sensitive confines of 'his' cunt – no, that had to be all 'her'...

...and since these things were the only thing they were experiencing, the only thing they wanted as they drew closer to orgasm, then it must be all 'her', there could be no 'him' whatsoever... and so the box containing Bobby crumbled, but nearly as fast as 'his' mind did, so that when they reached their first female orgasm, writing and bucking beneath Robs' taut body and screaming out in orgasmic pleasure, it was with only 'Barbie' gazing out through those big blue eyes of theirs...

"Wow – that was, like, fun!" She giggled almost literally mindlessly, any signs of intellect demolished by pleasure as she unthinkingly accepted a totally new life and purpose therein. "Let's do it again!"

"Baby..." Rod panted, with a grin, "It'd take a whole lotta lickin' before I'd be ready for some more dickin'!" Giggling mindlessly, the literal bimbo struggled to make sense of those words...

"Okay!" She giggled – and went down on her knees before him.

Her technique was shirt, Rod mused distantly... but nobody could fault this whore's enthusiasm!

...and, as he shortly found out, she also took direction extremely well, doing literally anything he instructed her to do, exactly as he told her to do it – which led to a couple of false starts before he finally realized that he did, indeed, have to 'do all her thinking for her' – but led to some rather spectacular results when he then consequently figured out that doing all the thinking for her made her a mindless extension of his own will, literally able to make have her do any- and every-thing he might have wanted...

...it wasn't until, some thoroughly exhausting hours later, when he tried to 'pay her off' just to put an end to her literally mindless desire to keep pleasuring him that things became really confusing...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

© 1997 - 2016 TGstories.

Stories on the "Public Access" pages may be Copyright by individual authors.

SUMMARY: Learning that her boyfriend has dumped her, Sam agrees to follow his large breasted friend on a vacation, and, when he discovers an artifact, it leads to a wish that he understood her better...can you say big breasts!

Lakeside

By Gunslinger

"Geez, Sam - would you stop staring at my tits?"

The slender, Scandinavian-looking man jerked out of his mild daze, his fair skin showing red as his eyes flicked away. "I wasn't staring." He protested - rather lamely.

Linda snorted. "Riiight - you weren't staring at all. You just happened to be looking in my direction... and drooling."

"Hey!" Sam said, an embarrassed grin riding on his lips. "So I might have been staring - inadvertently, of course - but I wasn't drooling!" "Uh huh." Linda said, her face screwing up into an exaggerated expression of doubt. "Then how come you look like you need a bib?"

Without waiting for a response (which Sam didn't have anyway), the tall, athletically feminine woman turned away and finished carrying the last of her luggage into the small cabin by the lake, leaving Sam alone with himself.

"Stupid, stupid, stupid!" Sam said, slapping himself on the forehead. Slumping onto the bumper of his Jeep CJ, the platinum-blond youth berated himself for his behavior. "What the hell's wrong with you, anyway?"

Samuel Vogelmann and Linda Corwin were as inseparable as a pair of Siamese twins - but it wasn't anything romantic or sexual. The same age - 22, - the two had met when they were in grade school, when Sam's parents had moved into the house next door. Back then, Sam had been a pale, scrawny little kid with a shy nature and a slippery grasp of the English language, and Linda had been the tall, gangly tomboy next door. Both had received a fair share of taunts at the hands of their so-called peers, and had found themselves becoming best friends.

Then they'd grown older - and Linda had matured into a stunning beauty. An avid outdoorswoman, she had a lithe, toned body that was tanned to match her tawny blonde hair. She had a somewhat athletic figure, but it suited her - and in no way detracted from her femininity. With large, firm breasts and long legs that would make a monk have impure thoughts, she had the powerful grace of a lioness - and the easy, friendly nature that defused the 'standoffish' air that many classically beautiful women inadvertently generated.

Sam, on the other hand, had grown into - a slender, pale, somewhat shorter than average man with fair skin and a shyly humorous personality. By the time he'd become aware of the miracle of girls, and had found himself remarkably attracted to the young woman Linda had become, Linda had already developed a 'taste' in men - the big, athletic, outdoorsman type of guy.

About as far from Sam as you could get, in other words. Though he'd told her of his attraction to her - causing a few weeks of discomfort between them before it blew over - they had finally decided that their incredibly strong friendship could withstand the burden of the gender-created friction between them, and had remained inseparable friends to this day.

Which didn't meant that Sam was able to simply 'turn off' his attraction for the golden goddess Linda had become. Instead, he relied mainly on her understanding and unfailingly cheerful good-nature to allow his occasion 'mistake' to slip through without causing any problems.

Which, normally, would have been fine - as old friends, they'd grown comfortable with the situation, for the most part.

However, things were a little different at the moment - and that's why Sam was sitting on the big chrome bumper on his Jeep and resisting the urge to bang his head against the side of the vehicle a few dozen times.

"You must be some sort of fuckin' genius, Sam." He told himself, shaking his head. "Your best friend in the whole world rents a cabin to surprise her boyfriend with a romantic weekend getaway - and when she tells him about it, he reveals that he's been cheating on her with her best girl friend, then dumps her on the spot - leaving good old Linda with the contract for the cabin. Which she can't pay, because she was counting on Mr.-now-ex-boyfriend to pay half. So, instead - she invites you along if you'll cover the other half of the cabin, and so that she can be away from the apartment while he and his new girlfriend move his stuff out. So what do you, the oh-so- reliable-and-caring best friend do? You stare at her tits while she'd going through one of the worst times of her life." He sighed and shook his head again. "Some fuckin' genius, Sam."

Sighing, Sam shouldered the last of his luggage and carried it up the weather planking of the deck and through the screen door into the small cabin.

"I hope you don't mind - but I'm stealing the bedroom." Linda said, coming out of the room in question and jerking a thumb over her shoulder to it's interior. "I'm not trying to be the 'bad guy' hear - but..."

"No problem, Linda." Sam said, following her hand gesture in the direction of the couch - the couch that would have been extremely cramped for her, with her being a good six inches taller then his own five-four. He dropped his luggage at the end of the faded plaid couch, his back giving a mental groan at the thought of spending the weekend curled up on it - but it was a sacrifice he was willing to make, figuring that it would do as penance for his previous - and possible - slips.

"So, I guess that's everything." Linda said, walking over to the kitchen that formed a corner of the large main room. "What do you think - put this stuff away, then grab a swim before dinner?" She smiled at Sam, hands spread questioningly.

Even if you didn't know Linda very well, it wasn't hard to see how hard she was working at being her usual cheerful self - and part of it was him, Sam knew.

The cabin was supposed to be a romantic getaway - and, instead, she was spending the weekend here after being dumped. She could have avoided coming - Sam would have still paid the other half of the cost, regardless of whether she, he, or anyone used the cabin.

But that would have meant facing her ex-boyfriend while he moved his stuff out, so she'd taken the cabin - and ended up in a dilemma.

She didn't want to spend the weekend alone, not in her emotional state - yet the one 'close' female friend she'd had had been the one that cheated on her and stole her boyfriend. Which ruled her out.

So she'd turned to Sam, and he knew that she really appreciated his being there for her, in theory - but having a man who was so obviously attracted to her around at such a vulnerable point wasn't exactly ideal, either...

"Actually - I thought I'd take a stroll through the woods." Sam said, making up his 'plan' on the spur of the moment. "Like the guy at the gas station said, this land was fought over by the French, English, Spanish - and, of course, the Indians who were here first. You never know what you'll find."

"Okay." Linda agreed - almost too readily. "I think I'll take a quick dip and a hot bath, then make some dinner - say, about an hour?"

"Sure - sounds fine." Sam agreed. Slipping on a light jacket, he headed out of the cabin while Linda disappeared into her bedroom to get changed - and he knew that she hoped that he was gone before she emerged, not wanting to be ogled in a bikini that would make her very ogle-able to Sam.

So, picking a direction at random, he tromped off into the woods before he could succumb to the temptation to stay and ogle.

* * * * *

"Perfect timing, Sam." Linda said, turning from the stove. "I was... what the heck is that?"

"I have no idea - I found it while I was out walking." Sam replied, placing the item in question on the table and peeling off his coat. "I think it's an Indian... something."

One hand over her mouth to hold in a surprised giggle, Linda drew closer to the item on the table for a better look.

It was wood, and obviously quite old. Hand carved, it was rather rough-hewn - but was still 'recognizable', as some sort of mythical creature that had the body of a man but the head of an animal - a wolf, perhaps, or maybe a coyote. From its jaws extended a tongue that was obviously supposed to be a snake.

"That's... weird." Was the best description Linda could come up with. "I wonder if it's worth anything?" "I don't know." Sam said, sitting down at the table and eyeing the carved image. "Maybe - it depends..."

Sam had lifted his eyes to look at Linda as he was talking to her - and now he flushed and looked away. Having come from a warm bath, she was dressed only in a bathrobe - and, leaning over to look at the carved item, a mouth-watering amount of her firm, round, DDD- cup breasts were inadvertently on display.

At the way he stopped talking, Linda shifted her gaze from the strange item to Sam, who was blushing and staring at the floor - then realized why. Her own face turning red, she straightened up and wrapped the robe more tightly around her trim, tanned body.

"I'm sorry, Linda." Sam said, embarrassed. Not wanting to meet her eyes at that moment, he picked up the small, graven totem and idly rolled it in his hands nervously. "I really..."

"No, no - it wasn't your fault." Linda said, sympathetically, sitting down in the chair across the table. "You didn't plan that - just like I didn't realize that I was... displaying myself."

Sam sighed. "Maybe - but it's things like this that make it so difficult sometimes." He shrugged. "You know - I just wish there was a way I could make this easier for you..."

The words were hardly out of his mouth when time seemed to come to a screeching halt.

Everything around him - and he himself - stopped moving. It was as if God had hit the 'pause' button, freezing him into place, and the rest of the world as well.

Then Sam began to feel a strange tingling sensation in his hands.

Because he'd been staring downward, unable to meet Linda's eyes, he was able to see most of himself through the frozen viewpoint his immobile eyes provided. So he was able to watch as the carved item he held began to glow with an eerie, inner light, turning the worn, weather gray wood into a rich, silvery light.

A light that spread rapidly down his arms.

If he'd been able to react, he might have screamed, might have thrown the carved totem away from him - but he was locked into position, only able to watch as the translucent glow enveloped his body.

Then, through the glow, watch his body begin to change.

Emotions flooded through him, hot on the heels of one another - shock, confusion, horror, fear. The emotions ran the gamut as he watched his body's contours alter in a way that left no doubt as to what was happening. Throughout his entire, immobile form, he could feel the strange tingling sensation take over as his skin began to become softer, smoother...

...more feminine.

He'd never been all that hairy to begin with, and his platinum-blond body hair against his pale skin was hard to see in any case. But that didn't keep him from noticing the way his body hair became finer, silkier, even less noticeable against his softer, smother skin - as the body that skin enveloped altered as well, also becoming undeniably feminine.

It wasn't just his body that was changing, though - it was his clothes. As he watched helplessly, his chest began to bulge outwards underneath the simple white cotton work-shirt he wore - but rather than grow tight over the rapidly swelling breasts, the shirt constantly altered to keep up with them - and then some.

As his burgeoning bust passed Linda's own mouth-watering mounds in size, the buttons of the white cotton garment undid themselves, revealing the white 'wife-beater' shirt he wore beneath it - and a 'delectable' amount of milky, smooth cleavage from his swelling tits.

The shirt then somehow tired itself off under his swelling breasts, as the undershirt writhed and changed, becoming a white spandex crop-top that encased his now-massive tits. They had finally stopped growing - but were easily the size of basketballs, and strained the white spandex to taut curvature over them, displaying a modest-yet-delightful amount of cleavage.

The shirt had also altered to become sleeveless, though it retained it's collar. Now it bared his slender, feminine arms from slender wrist to smoothly feminine shoulder.

His hands had become dainty and feminine, each slender finger tipped with a long, red nail. His heavy, metal 'Navigator' style watch writhed and changed, becoming a small gold-toned watch with a blue face, mounted on a slender brown-leather strap.

The rest of his body was also changing, though he couldn't observe those changes nearly as well. He could feel his hips and ass filling out to - most likely 'delightfully' - feminine proportions, while the jeans he wore altered style slightly to become a pair of women's jeans that hugged his new hips and ass tightly. His legs were also undergoing some sort of change, as were his feet - and the shoes that enclosed them. From the sense of tingling, Sam knew that his face was also changing to match his rapidly female form - and everything else was, as well.

Then the glow vanished, and as time restarted, she held the horrified certainty that she was now female in every single respect.

"Just being here is more than... what's wrong?" Linda asked, as Sam screamed and twitched, the totem dropping from nerveless - and utterly feminine - fingers.

"I'm a woman!" Sam half-shouted, hearing the words emerge in a hysterical feminine voice. "I... I've got tits! Huge, monster tits!" Her slender hands flew to her crotch... "And a cunt!"

With a stunned, confused expression, Linda rose from her chair. "Sam? Sam - what...? What are you shouting about? What's wrong?"

Sam gaped at Linda incredulously. "What's wrong?" She asked, stunned. Her dainty hands rose to her chest and hefted her huge, weight new tits. "Look at me!"

Linda looked deeply concerned and slowly came around the table. "Sam - I don't understand. Is there something wrong with your tits?"

Sam blinked. "Wrong with them?" She asked, Linda's actions and words beginning to seep through his confusion, horror and fear. She took a deep breath and forced herself to gain some measure of control, however tenuous. "Linda... do you notice anything different about me?"

Linda frowned. "Different? I... no, I don't think so. What's... what are you asking me?" Sam frowned in confusion. "You.. you didn't see the totem... glow?"

Linda's concerned eyes flew wide in surprise. "Glow?"

"Yeah - we were sitting, talking, and I said that I wished there was something I could..." Her voice trailed off as stunned comprehension began to set in. "Wait a second.. I wished..."

Staring sidelong at Sam in confusion, Linda bent and picked up the carved piece of wood, turning it over in her hands. "Glow?" She repeated, confused, then sighed. "I wish I knew what the hell is wrong with you, Sam..."

Then she made a strangled screaming sound, and the totem dropped from her hands as she took three steps back and stared at Sam, who was gaping back at her.

"You... you were a guy!" She said, pointing one shaking hand at Sam. "But... You.. I..."

That made the tenuous idea that Sam had been considering solidify. "You know!" She shouting, standing up and taking a step towards Linda...

...who shied back, wide eyed, shaking her head in denial. "Linda?" Sam said, surprised.

"I.. you..." Linda stopped and took several deep breaths, then slumped against the couch and stared at Sam. "You were a guy - then you made a wish on the totem, and it turned you into a woman so I would feel more comfortable around you, and could discuss 'girl' things with you."

Sam relaxed a bit. She had realized that Linda hadn't noticed anything strange about her transformation - until she'd 'wished' on the totem...

"Linda - do you know what's going on?" She asked, slumping back into the chair. "I mean - my God! I've been turned into a woman. It's just a little... confusing."

Linda swallowed. "Tell me about it. Right now, I remember you as being Samantha Vogelmann, by best friend since grade school - yet I also remember you being Samuel Vogelmann, and making a wish on the.." She swallowed. "I mean... which one's real?"

Sam took a deep breath - glad to know that she wasn't going insane. "I only remember me being male, and then getting turned into a woman - apparently by making that wish, though I had no way of knowing that would happen." She swallowed - then hesitantly asked the question that she desperate for the answer to, while being terrified at what the answer might be. "Do... Do you know why it made my wish come true - and... can I change back?"

Linda had been staring, wide-eyed, at the totem - and now she shook her head and looked at Sam in deep compassion. "Oh, my good - I didn't realize..." She swallowed. "Part of me still thinks of you as Samantha, and I didn't think..."

"Linda..." Sam said, as gently as possible under the circumstances.

"Oh! - Yes, you can change back." Linda said, realizing what the wait for an answer would be doing to Sam. "Sorry - I'm still trying to.. cope. Anyway - anybody who holds that totem gets three wishes, if it's... 'charged'."

"Is it?" Sam asked, fearfully. "Charged, I mean?"

Linda nodded. "Oh, yes - it's been sitting, undisturbed, for nearly a century - it's got enough '[juice]' to give us each our three wishes, though it'll need a good fifty years after that before it'll work again."

"Thank God!" Sam exploded, slumping in relief.

Linda bent over and picked up the fallen totem, handling it as gingerly as if it were a live grenade. "If... If you want, I'll wish you.. uh.. 'back'." Linda offered, obviously still having trouble seeing Sam as the man she 'really' was, other than the life-long girl friend she (and the rest of the world) currently knew her as.

Sam started to agree - then stopped. Now that the urgent question had been settled, she was no longer panicked and horrified. Indeed, with the initial shock and horror fading, she found herself...

...intrigued.

"Wait a second..." She said slowly in her sweet, trilling new voice. Rising from the chair, she walked slowly across the room towards the bathroom.

Now that her mind wasn't swamped with powerful, negative emotions, Sam could pay more attention to her new form a bit more - and was aware of the way she was moving. Along with the body and 'past' of a woman, the wish had also given her the moves and habits to match. She'd just mentally commanded herself to walk - but, from there, her body took over, and it was walking in a decidedly feminine way without any 'prompting' from her male mind.

Which was a good thing, she thought with a wry grin - as she'd have no idea how to walk in the white leather sandals she was wearing, complete with the three-and-a-half-inch wooden 'block' heels.

Reaching the bathroom door, she swung it open and stepped to the side, allowing herself to see the reflection of her new body in the mirror mounted on the back of the door.

A stunningly sexy, beautiful - if outrageously over-endowed - platinum blonde woman stared back at her.

She was slightly on the short side - but most of that diminutive height was obviously from her long, slim legs. Although hidden under the taut cloth of her faded jeans, Sam had no doubt that the legs were absolutely spectacular - because that would match the rest of her new body.

Her hips were a trifle on the slender side for a woman's - though much wider than she had been as a man. The 'slim' hips, however, were made to look wider by the amazingly slender waist that her tied-off sleeveless blouse displayed.

A waist that lay in the shadow of her massive, firm tits, which were definitely out-sized for her svelte frame. Wonderingly, Sam again hefted her huge new endowments, feeling their weight and mass in the dainty hands that didn't come close to encompassing her basket-ball sized spheres. She knew that some men would find these tits absolutely spectacular, but even if she wasn't burdened with their heavy mass she would have found them ridiculously out-sized - her own breast appreciation was such that she found Linda's large tits on her athletic frame to be not only perfect, but the maximum size before staring the down-slide of 'too much' - and these chest-melons were considerably larger than hers.

Her shoulders and arms were slender, feminine, and milky-smooth - as was the rest of her body. Her coloration was very close to what it had been as a man, but now it was softer and smoother.

A long, slender neck lead up to a stunning face. A combination of sexy, beautiful and cute, it boasted large, bright blue eyes, a pert nose and full, soft lips.

It was also simply, yet attractively, made-up, complete with gloss-red lipstick. The wish had been so comprehensive as to have altered reality itself, with the exception of her own sense of self. In the altered history, the female Sam had done what would have been expected of her, and applied make-up this morning.

Which was also why her clothes matched her form.

Her platinum-blond hair was the same shade it had always been, but now it was much finer and silkier. Fairly short, the hair was nevertheless styled in a feminine manner, hanging almost to her collar at the back and on the right side, where most of it was swept over from the left side, just above the ear. It was a 'do that managed to be both sexy and - somehow - 'perky'.

"Geez - I'm a babe! A massively over-endowed babe, granted, but a babe..." Sam breathed in stunned surprise...

...then blinked. "Hey, wait a second!"

"What?" Linda asked, coming up behind her - and stepping back when Sam whirled and stared at her.

"You're still sexy, too - but I don't find us... 'arousing'!" Sam said, frowning. "I mean, I've always found you really sexy, and I should be drooling over my new body, but..."

"That's just perverted..." Linda said with an exaggerated look of distaste - then shrugged. "At least, to me - having my old friend Samantha suddenly being attracted to me."

"Yeah - but think how your old friend Samuel feels about suddenly being... gay?" Sam retorted, frowning.

Linda shrugged. "Besides - your wish was to make me feel more comfortable - so, obviously, you'd have to be sexually uninterested in me to avoid... problems."

Having a clear memory of already 'being there, doing that', Sam had to grin in wry acknowledgment. "Yeah."

"So - should I wish you back?" Linda asked. "It'll feel weird for me to do it - but as long as I make sure to specify that I remember everything being the way it was, then I won't feel weird once you're 'back' to being a guy."

Sam was still frowning - but now it was in thought. "Actually - I thought I'd wait a bit." Linda blinked. "Really?"

Sam nodded, blushing. "Yeah - it feels weird, and all - but how often does a guy actually get a chance to see life from the other side? Besides..." His blush deepened. "I was serious about wanting to make this weekend easier for you. If being female for a couple of days is what it takes - well, I think I can handle it."

"You'd actually do that for me?" Linda asked, surprised. "I mean - the male you? I know the Samantha I remember would do something equivalent, but..."

"Yeah - it's okay. Like I said - it's not just for you. I have to admit that I'm... curious." Sam admitted - her beautiful face aflame. "Besides - it's not like anyone's going to know."

"Except you and me." Linda said.

Smiling weakly, Sam reached out and took the totem. "Actually - not quite. The only way for this to work is..." "Hey...!" Linda started to protest, startled, as she saw where Sam was going....

"I wish that I was back outside the cabin, and that Linda would not only have any memory of anything that happened since I came in, but that she won't find anything I do unusual or 'out of character'." Sam said....

...then the world seemed to waver around her, and she found herself standing outside the cabin, the totem in her dainty hands.

She took a deep breath, wondering if she'd made the right decision - on both counts. She knew that, for Linda to feel completely comfortable, the original wish Sam had made had to be fulfilled - Linda had to 'remember' only Samantha.

Still - Sam couldn't believe that she was actually staying female for a little while. The other side of the coin, of course, was that if she didn't do this, she'd spend the rest of her life wondering what it would have been like.

Besides - if it got to being too weird, she would use her last wish to change back. It was that simple. Thinking about that, she walked up the steps and pushed open the door to the cabin.

"Perfect timing, Sam." Linda said a bit sarcastically, turning from the stove. "You're fifteen... what the heck is that?" "This is why I'm late - I found it while I was out walking." Sam replied, placing the item in question on the table...

* * * * *

It was a fantasy come true...

...sort of.

With awry grin, Sam smiled down at Linda's face, bathed in the golden glow of early morning sunlight where it spilled in the window and over the peaceful repose of her face.

Carefully, so as not to disturb Linda, Sam wiggled out of bed and rose to her feet, stretching mightily. As she pushed her hands as high as she could, the sensation of her huge, firm tits shifting on her chest - under a pink silk negligee, no less! - caused another wry grin.

Shaking her head at the absurdity of the situation, Sam padded out of the bedroom and towards the bathroom, feeling her huge tits sway slightly with each step, causing a distracting, pleasant sensation as the smooth fabric moved over her firm mounds and large, thick nipples - fully engorged in the cool air of morning and poking impudent dents in the sheer fabric.

"Man - this is just a leee-dle weird." Sam said to herself - and the sound of her trilling, feminine voice made her giggle. Which only made her giggle harder.

Starting the tub running, Sam peeled off the negligee and posed in front of the mirror, eyeing her altered body. It was about fourteen hours since she'd first been 'transformed', and she was still trying to get used to all the differences between this body, and the male one that nobody in the world remembered her ever having - except her, of course.

Of course, there were the obvious differences - like her gigantic tits. They were huge and firm and round, with a considerable heft to them that gave them quite a bit of inertia when she moved - making her grateful for her new body's inherent 'habits' of motion. If she'd just gotten the body, without the magically ingrained skills, she would have ended up on her ass a dozen times over when the unexpected inertia of her new endowments took over.

She was also surprised by how sensitive her new tits were - especially the nipples. Though she hadn't quite worked herself up to open, unashamed 'fondling' of her new body, she'd had enough 'chance' encounters already to know that her nipples were remarkably sensitive.

She was sure that her new cunt was at least as sensitive as her cock had been - but that wasn't something that she'd put to the test. She had enough trouble just going to the washroom and wiping herself afterward - it felt dirty and perverted to touch herself there. though, intellectually, she knew this new body was 'hers', it somehow felt as if she were 'peeping' on a woman, touching her, doing things that she shouldn't be doing.

Then again, she mused as she climbed into a tub of warm water, there was the decidedly strange-feeling shift in her sexual orientation - although she was only experiencing the 'female-negative' side of it. the mere thought of actually being in a situation where she'd become aroused over a man was enough to make her shudder.

What she was going through was weird enough. She knew that she had found Linda sexy before, and could still see and acknowledge all the things about Linda that had turned her on, as a man - only, now, it felt... different. Kind of.. 'empty'. In a way, it was kind of like steak - she didn't particularly like steak, though she didn't dislike it either. She knew that other people would go out of their way for a good steak, would pay extra to get it, and so on - but she'd always been able to take it or leave it, with the emphasis on 'leave it'.

Now - it was the same way with Linda. She no longer had any urges about her, although she could remember having had them, and could still see Linda's sexuality. It wouldn't feel half as weird, if it weren't for the fact that she knew that she'd be male again before long, and was now consciously making an effort to file away the things that she knew would fuel her fantasies when she was male - but that didn't 'do' anything for her now.

All in all, though - she was finding the whole situation interesting, if weird. To see how women lived their lives, from the inside, was definitely informative.

Like some of the 'girl-talk' last night. Only the fact that she'd wished Linda wouldn't find anything unusual in her action had kept her from running into awkward questions by the shock she'd shown by some of the things Linda had discussed so freely - Sam had no idea women could be so... descriptive and open when they were by themselves. Not rude, or crude - but Linda had been willing to discuss things unashamedly that men would have blushed, or run away screaming, at hearing in conversations, even 'just among the guys'.

Of course, the other thing had been how much they'd touched each other. Sam had never really noticed how willing and open women were about physical contact, even though there was no sexual energy at all. Hell - like sharing the bed. In this altered history, there'd been no discussion at all, simply taken for granted that two old, dear female friends would share the same bed, rather than one of them suffer the couch.

Two guys would rather die than share a bed. Well - two straight guys, at least.

Sam had to admit - strange as it was, she was glad she'd taken the chance to see life from this new perspective. Even if she was stuck carting around gigantic, freakishly over-sized tits the size of basketballs...

* * * * *

Leaning over the end table, Linda looked out the window at what promised to be an absolutely gorgeous day, unlike the overcast and somewhat cold one of the day before.

She'd come half awake when Sam had slithered out of bed, and had almost slipped back to sleep when the sound of water filling the tub had pulled her the rest of the way to a rather dreamy, thoughtful wakefulness. Now, staring out at the lake, she smiled softly at the memory of how shocked Samantha had been by some of the talk last night.

Thanks to Sam's wish, Linda didn't find anything unusual about that - as far as Linda could 'remember', Sam was still a virgin. That's why she didn't find Sam's embarrassment over their conversations unusual, or the tentative and shy way she moved, dressed and carried herself.

It also explained the way Linda 'remembered' Sam acting around guys, all insecure and unable to express any interest.

The thing of it was - while the wording of Sam's wish meant that Linda didn't find anything unusual about her friends actions, it didn't mean that Linda accepted them without reservation.

"Sam, Sam, Sam..." Linda said to herself, quietly. "What happened to make you so self-conscious and unhappy about yourself. What was so traumatic that you've never even told me about it?"

In Linda's 'memories', every time she'd tried to bring it up, Sam had denied any trouble, claiming to be completely comfortable with her body.

Sighing, she looked out the window without actually seeing the lovely scene before her - or noticing her bare arm resting against the totem on the end-table.

"I just wish..." Linda said, sadly. "...that I could believe that you actually were comfortable, happy and proud about your body and gender..."

* * * * *

Finishing toweling as much moisture out of her hair as she could, Sam dropped the damp towel in the hamper and started to reach down to pick up her negligee....

...when she caught sight of her reflection out of the corner of her eye, and stopped. She wasn't quite sure why she did that, even as she straightened to look at herself in the mirror, full on.

Twisting her torso slightly, she found herself paying attention to her body. This wasn't really strange - after all, it was still so new to her as to cause her to keep examining herself again and again. She just wasn't sure what had caught her interest so sharply this time.

Then she got it and she giggled.

It was her tits. She had known, since the very first minute, that they were gigantic - like some hyper-silicone-inflated tits, like some of those 'fetish' strippers and 'big-bust' models had.

It had just taken her this long to realize that, on her slender, otherwise petite frame, they were so ridiculously, outrageously, unbelievably huge...

...that it was funny. She was like a walking caricature of a 'buxom' woman. It was hilarious, in the way that SNL's spoofs of Dolly Parton were hilarious, one of the show's women walking around with basketballs stuffed in her shirt and acting like people found tits that big sexy.

"Oh, I just have gorgeous, perfect tits..." She hammed it up for the mirror, fondling her tits as if she enjoyed having utterly ridiculous tits thrust roundly from her chest. "They're so big and sexy..."

Laughing at the act she'd done for the mirror, she shook her head and reached again for her negligee...

...then paused, and just draped it over her arm. After all - why should she worry about walking around nude, when there was only her and Linda here? Linda certainly didn't have a problem with being nude when they were alone, so why should she?

"Besides..." She said, pulling back her shoulders and shoving her chest out. "Anyone with such gorgeous, huge tits shouldn't cover them up any more than she has to, right?"

Giggling at her little act, Sam shook her head - and continued to ham it up as she walked back to the bedroom, unable to keep a grin off her face at the silliness of this 'fantasy' - and the thought that there was actually men out there who would find this sexy, if you could believe that!

"Well, you seem in a good mood today, Sam." Linda said with a grin.

Well, she couldn't tell her the real reason, Sam thought, her grin widening. She knew that her wish kept Linda from finding anything she said or did odd, but it still seemed ridiculous to causally mention that she'd just discovered how hilarious her tits were to somebody who thought Sam had tits this big for all her post-pubescent life.

"It's just a gorgeous day, that's all. " She said, instead. "So - what do we do today?"

"I figured we'd pop into town and do some window shopping, grab some lunch - you know, just sort of stroll around."

"Sounds good to me - as long as we can come back for a dip in the lake this afternoon - looks like it's going to be a scorcher." Sam said, eyeing the clear blue sky and the bright sun that was slowly ascending the azure dome.

"Sounds like a plan to me." Linda agreed.

The two women began to dress - and one of them was very aware of the intellectual fact that there was two nude women in the room, though she wasn't currently equipped to fully enjoy the fact. It was definitely something to file away for reference, though...

"Hey - there's nothing wrong with your body, either." Linda said, snapping Sam out of her reverie as she finished pulling on her simple white cotton panties.

"Excuse me?" Sam asked - realizing that she might have been 'filing away' a little too obviously.

"I saw you looking at my body wistfully..." Linda said. "Trust me - you have definitely got a boy-killing body yourself."

"I know that." Sam said, protesting. It was instinctive, the knowledge that she could say anything and still not have Linda find it odd sort of a nebulous thing that didn't override her instincts.

"Oh, really?" Linda asked, a bit doubtfully.

"Hey, If I didn't know I had a fabulous bod, would you catch me in something like this...?" Sam retorted, pulling something out of her suitcase and pulling it on.

Linda grinned broadly. "Guess not - and I think that sets just the right tone for today's little outing."

"Yeah." Sam said, with an agreeing smile - while, inside, she was re-running the past few minutes in her mind, trying to figure out exactly how she'd ended up wearing a skin-tight pair of daisy-duke shorts and a white spandex crop-top that barely managed to completely contain her massive tits.

She realized what she'd done - namely, forget that she was unconstrained in dealing with Linda - and was about to change into something she felt more comfortable in...

...when Linda did a little spin. "God - this was a great idea, Sam. A day letting ourselves go is just what I need - and I wouldn't have the guts to do it if you weren't doing it with me."

Despite the alteration in her sexual outlook, Sam knew that the black spandex bike-shorts and white bikini top that Linda had changed into would normally have the male Sam drooling and running in circles.

Sam knew that she could get changed right now, and Linda wouldn't question it - but she'd also get changed, as well. However, if Sam was willing to take the indignity of being dressed like this, she could have plenty of 'fantasy fuel' stored by the end of the day....

"Hey, us gorgeous babes have to stick together." Sam said, having made up her mind. Besides - what she was wearing was actually too sexy, for her body - it was just like the little parody she'd done for herself in the mirror. It might feel weird to go out in public like this - but it was all so badly, ludicrously overdone that it wasn't like she really looked sexy, for god's sake.

"So..." Linda said, suggestively - and held up a pair of black platform shoes with seven inch tall spike heels. "...do we do the whole routine?"

Sam almost wanted to sigh with relief. "Yeah, why not?" She said, and dug through her shoes until she found a similar pair, only in white. It was with relief that she strapped them on - the 'hooker shoes' were so over-the-top that she didn't feel any more uncomfortable in this clothing than if she were wearing any other clothing. The get up was so ludicrously stereotypical as to be a costume, not a serious attempt at being sexy. Hell - it might make guys burst out laughing, but somebody as ridiculously over-endowed as herself should be trying to minimize her ridiculous bust if she were trying to really be sexy, not weary skimpy little 'nothing' clothes that made it painfully obvious that she was way, way too top-heavy for somebody of her height and build. If men were going to slobber and drool over anybody, it would be the genuinely sexy Linda, not the caricature-like her.

Which reminded her - to make the over-done, costume-like look perfect, she should do something with her hair, maybe some make-up and jewelry - she wanted her 'gag' to be perfect. Hell, she couldn't remember the last time she'd had this much fun, playing a stupid, silly little game.

* * * * * "Holy geez!"

Sam stared at herself in the mirror in the ice-cream parlor's bathroom, jaw hanging as she surveyed herself in the glass.

She looked - really looked - at what she was wearing, and at the way it barely covered her body at all. Her tits, in particular, seemed to be eager to escape the confines of the tiny white cop-top, tit-flesh pushing up into the neckline, creating an awesome view of milky cleavage. The bottom of the crop-barely sat under her huge new tits, and her tiny waist was fully displayed.

The tiny, tight shorts hugged the curve of her spectacular ass, further emphasized by the extremely high-heels she was wearing - which also emphasized her long, incredible legs.

Her face was made-up with just the right touch - if the look she was going for was a mind-boggling combination of innocent and sexy. Her lips were a bright, high-gloss hot pink, rimmed with a slightly darker tone. Her lashes were long and dark, and she wore a pale eye shadow that made her big blue eyes look even bigger and more innocent. The whole look that was created by the outfit and the makeup made her look like a cheerful, perky young woman who wasn't aware just how sexy the 'warm-weather' clothing made her look.

"What the hell was I thinking?" Sam asked her reflection, in shock. She could clearly remember everything that had happened, and why - at the time - it had all seemed to make sense. Hell, in the ride into town, she'd actually been eager to 'play the role' in this clothing, utterly and completely convinced that it's 'overly' sexual nature would keep anybody from taking it seriously.

It wasn't until she'd come in her to use the bathroom, then caught sight of herself in the mirror as she washed her hands, that she realized how she looked - like an incredibly sexy, huge-breasted woman in a sexy/skimpy outfit that managed to show off her body without - quite - passing the line into 'cheap' or 'trashy'. Even the shoes managed to look innocent on her, as if she had worn them in an innocently risqué attempt to match Linda - who looked flat-out sexy, without any attempt at innocent.

"I must have gone off my rocker!" Sam said to her reflection, still not quite sure why this had seemed like a spectacular, hilarious, fun idea.

Drying her hands, Sam stepped out of the bathroom...

...and relaxed completely.

"D'Oh!" She said to herself, cheerfully, slapping her forehead as she realized what had happened - the tiny above-sink mirror, coupled with the poor lighting, had been enough to downplay her look until it had looked honestly provocative, rather than the utterly ridiculous costume-like caricature it actually was.

"Thought I was going to have a heart attack for a second there..." Sam told herself, feeling silly at the sudden self doubt and fear she'd felt - without really feeling bad about it. After all, she was new to this body and gender, and not completely comfortable with it - and even when she was aware of the fact that she was so utterly over-the-top to be really sexy, she still felt weird about wearing women's clothes, and so little of them at that.

The occasional doubt was to be expected, she thought as she reached where Linda was waiting and collected a vanilla cone from her.

"Well - let's do some window shopping!" Sam said, brightly, enjoying the warm sun spilling down on her body - another reason to find the skimpy clothing enjoyable.

The two women walked slowly down the street, licking at their ice cream while they chatted and eyed merchandise through display windows.

Sam couldn't help but be aware of the looks they were garnering, and made sure to put an extra little 'oomph' in her walk to go with the look, knowing what the men must be thinking - with somebody so ridiculously proportioned and outfitted as herself, they'd be split between glancing away and staring in amazement.

As she'd expected, Sam found that being able to play the routine was incredibly fun - she could tilt the balance any time she wanted. She lost count of how many times she caught a guy staring, and she'd 'rev it up'. Catching the gaping man's eye, she'd turn to him and make it obvious she'd caught him staring at her freakish body - then she'd push her tits even further out, lick her lips, and wink.

Without fail, the men would do a double take, flush, and look away.

At which point she'd stop 'paying attention' to the guy - while making sure to 'put on a show' as she ignored him, to further increase the embarrassment of this freakish woman 'coming on' to him.

'Geez - guys are so damned easy to play with, aren't they?' Sam said quietly to Linda, who'd been watching her 'routine' for sometime now, sidelong.

"Yeah, they are." Linda agreed - then, sarcastically: "I'm glad to see that you're finally comfortable with how incredibly sexy you are." "Yeah." Sam said, lacing her voice with sarcasm. "I'm a gorgeous babe with fantastic tits - why shouldn't I use them?"

* * * * *

Linda was amazed - but happy - with Sam's sudden acceptance of her body. In fact, it was remarkable how far the other way she'd gone - as if to make up for all the lost time she'd spent, ashamed of her body.

Catching her look, Sam smiled brightly at her. "Geez!" She exclaimed, sounding as happy as a girl who'd gotten something new and wonderful for Christmas. "Guys are so damned easy to play with, aren't they?"

"Well... Yeah, they are." Linda agreed - glad to see Sam so happy and outgoing, but a bit 'overshadowed' by the sheer and honest enthusiasm she'd developed. Still, she was happy for her, so she spoke with absolute honesty when she said: "I'm glad to see that you're finally comfortable with how... sexy you can be."

"Yup!" Sam agreed, cheerfully, her hands coming up to lightly slide over her crop top. "I mean - I am a gorgeous babe, with fantastic tits. I think it's about time I used them."

Despite being upstaged by Sam, Linda couldn't feel upset. Sure, she had come off a bad relationship and 'playing sexy' was good therapy for her - but the once shy and virginal Sam was finally accepting her sexuality and coming out of her shell, and that made it more important that Sam get all the attention she wanted, even if it detracted from her own little display.

After all - this was the first time Sam had said she was happy and proud of her body and Linda had really believed it.

* * * * *

"Well - there goes our plan for lunch in town." Sam said, cheerfully, loading the last of her purchases into the back of the Jeep - and telling herself that 'blowing' that much money on a completely temporary state of femininity didn't matter as long as she remembered to rectify it on her 'return to manhood' wish.

"Well - we've got plenty of food back at the cabin." Linda said - then giggled. "Beside - I think a shopping spree was just what I needed to help me get over ol' whatzizname."

The two women grinned at each other for completely different reasons at the thought of having done the 'typical' female shopping spree. Hopping back into the Jeep, they headed back towards the cabin.

"I'm glad to see that you enjoyed yourself so much." Linda said, referring to Sam's little comedy routine in town.

"Yeah - it was a real blast." Sam admitted - it had felt good to 'parody' her current situation all day. Making fun of her overly-female new body had actually made it easier to deal with. "I'm still not sure whether I'm ready to take it on as a full-time thing - but it was definitely fun today." She laughed. "I'm just upset that nobody was willing to go the distance."

Linda grinned. "Really? I mean - are you seriously saying that's what you wanted?"

"Sure." Sam said, a little surprised - coming across 'real competition', a guy who didn't give up so soon, would have made finally beating them that much more fun. She'd hoped to find somebody so deeply ingrained with 'manners' that she would have had to really embarrass him to make him finally blush and turn away from her over-done, too-'sexy' routine. That would have been a real challenge.

"Yeah, well, I can't say I'm surprised." Linda said. "I mean, you must be just about ready for..." She broke off. "Hold on a second. Maybe we've got something here..."

She slowed the Jeep, allowing them to get a really good look at the two men as they closed in on them. Carrying towels draped over broad, tanned shoulders, both men were well muscled and good-looking, with toned, tanned bodies packed into swim-trunks. The darker-haired one carried a bag, while the brunette was carrying a cooler, and there was no doubt they were heading for the lake.

Linda's hands tightened on the steering wheel as her mind spun. She knew what she was feeling was simple lust, and - to tell the truth - a sexual fling with no consequences after the weekend might be the tonic she needed. Normally, she wouldn't have considered it, because of Sam's usual attitude - but if she was serious about having sex this weekend...

"Umm..." Linda said, delicately. "If you were serious about finding a guy who could... 'go the distance', what would you say to giving these guys a shot...?"

So - Linda wasn't satisfied with all the 'easy' wins today, either, Sam thought with a grin. "Sure - sounds like it could be fun. Assuming these guys are willing to stay in for the duration..."

Pulling the Jeep over beside the men, Linda was gratified to see that the men were as handsome as they had appeared to be from a distance. "Hey - heading down to the lake?"

The darker haired one looked Linda over with an obviously appreciative smile. "That's right - that where you're heading too?" While Linda explained about their cabin - and the accompanying private stretch of beach - Sam eyed her own 'competition'.

He was a broad-shouldered, handsome man with brunet hair - and from the look he was giving her, it was obvious that he might be the ideal opponent. From the way he was staring at her freakish rack, it was obvious that there was a sort of disgusted fascination, the type she was counting on to help her win - but the fact that he refused to blush or turn away indicated that he might make it a worthy run for her money.

"Hi..." She said, making her voice sound as sultry as she could, over-playing it to the hilt. She leaned forward, to force him to see even more of her freakishly out-sized tits. "My name's Samantha..." She licked her lips slowly, and threw him a slow, 'sensuous' wink. "...but any stud like you gets to call me 'Sam'."

That was the first test - it would take a tremendous amount of willpower not to either grimace or laugh - depending on his personality - and she waited for his response...

"Hi, Sam." He said, forcing himself to grin back politely - but the way his eyes kept flicking back to her over-sized, over-displayed tits revealed his true feelings. "I'm John."

Test passed - this guy obviously had manners practically beaten into him - he'd try his hardest not to show how hilarious and/or disgusting her enormous tits and horribly corny 'sexy' routine was to him.

Soon he and his friend, Steve, had joined them in the Jeep for a picnic on the beach. Pulling up to the cabin, the guys helped the girls unload, then began to put together some picnic food while the girls got changed.

"So - do you find John sexy?" Linda asked in a low voice as they got undressed in the bedroom.

Sam didn't particularly want to answer that question - but it was normal 'girl talk', and she had once again let her wish slip her mind in its significance.

She decided to tell the truth. "Yeah, actually." She admitted, embarrassed. She knew it came from her wish, which had altered her sexuality - but that didn't keep it from feeling really, really weird. "I mean - it's not like I want to. I just can't stop thinking about his body, and the way he moves. My body... well, it's doing some things on its own that, honestly, I find... disconcerting."

Like her nipples having the strange tendency to want to get hard, and the low, liquid warmth that seemed to keep circulating through her abdomen.

"Oh..." Linda said. "Do... you think it'll interfere with you... going the distance?"

Hmm... that was a good question. Sam hadn't thought about that - this weird, unwanted purely-physical arousal might distract her from the game. "No - I think it'll be okay."

Sam finished pulling on the tiny, hot-pink bikini she'd chosen. The tiny triangles of the top barely managed to cover her massive nipples, and the 'butt-floss' bottom was practically non-existent.

"So - you think this will help?" She asked, spreading her arms and twirling slowly. "I wouldn't usually wear something like this - but I figure I need all the help I can get, and this should help me."

Linda whistled. "Girl, I think you could get him without going that all-out - but what the hell, hit him with the works."

"Thanks!" Sam said, grateful for Linda's vote of confidence in getting this guy to back down before she did. "Besides - it's not like I'm going to have to be like this very often - especially after I finish with John." Flashing a bright smile, Sam headed out of the bedroom.

Sighing, Linda slumped against the end table. She wasn't surprised to find out that Sam was just looking to 'get it over with', getting laid and then going back into her shell.

Not finding it unusual, however, did not mean that she liked the thought of her friend going back to the same awkward, shy girl. So, maybe this current routine was a little overdone - it was still better then being shy and retiring and awkward all the time.

She shook her head. "I wish that Sam could truly understand what was going on here - and only do the things that she decides that a woman like her would do."

Straightening, she headed for the door - rubbing the small of her back, where her bare skin had been pressed against the totem on the bed-table...

* * * * *

Sam was staring at her reflection in the mirror in horror, when the question she'd just asked herself - "What the hell am I doing" - was suddenly an irrevocably answered.

Suddenly, a rush of knowledge filled the ex-man's head, and she knew of the wished Linda had made, and how it had affected her...

...and how it was about to affect her. Sam was horrified.

Because Linda only knew of Samantha, he long-time female friend, and didn't know about the magical properties of the totem at all, she had no idea how the wording of her wish was about to affect Sam - or that it was going to affect her at all.

But Sam had an instant of utter clarity to know what was about to happen, in a general sense.

Linda hadn't said that Sam should do what Sam thought she would do - but what she thought 'a woman like her' would do. Despite her new body, despite the unknowingly 'honest' flirting she'd been doing, there was an awful lot that the 'currently-female-but-really-male' Sam didn't think that she should do. However, in the hypothetical that Linda had specified - what Sam though a woman, in all other ways just like her, would do - it was a completely different ball-game.

Sam had just that one, frozen instant to comprehend what Linda had unwillingly, inadvertently done, and opened her mouth to scream in horror....

...and, instead, smiled warmly at her reflection, turning to 'admire' her curves and figure. "Damn, Sam - you are one gorgeous girl."

The words emerged from her lips, and the tone was honestly admiring - but it didn't really come from Sam. Indeed, she didn't know - exactly - what she was going to say and do until she saw and heard it for herself, listening in inner horror to her body complimenting itself.

She understood what it was, though - in the hypothetical, Samuel thought a woman like Samantha, having such an outrageously sexy body, would be proud of it. It didn't matter what the reality of the situation was - Samantha was acting the way Samuel thought a woman like Samantha would act.

Samuel didn't find gigantic-breasted women attractive. He thought any woman that huge-breasted must be some sort of 'fetish queen' or 'slut', either having their breasts made that big through surgery - or, in the hypothetical of 'Samantha', not having them reduced through surgery.

That fact now came back to haunt her - because Sam was trapped in the body of Samantha, who was now going to act the way he thought 'Samantha' would - with 'himself' trapped inside as a semi-helpless passenger.

Samuel still had some control, over some things - but it was as if the mind occupying the body was schizoid, with everything Samuel wanted to do being filtered through the Samantha personality. If it was something Samantha didn't have a problem with, she'd put it into motion - only, she'd decided how to do it. It was just like when Sam had first become female - 'his' mind had told the body to walk, but the ingrained female skills had decided how to walk.

However, it had gone much further in scope, now, extending to much more - and, if there was ever a conflict between what Samuel wanted the body 'he' was occupying to do, and what the portion of 'his' mind thought a girl like Samantha should do - 'Samantha' would win out.

So - Sam was completely unable to scream in horror and shock at her plight as she gave her image a wink and walked out of the bathroom with a sexy, feminine sway.

Linda was chatting with the two guys, and she turned to smile as Sam came out of the bathroom. "Ready to hit the beach, Sam?"

It was a strange, twinning sensation. Samuel tried to say 'no'....

...and Samantha took that answer, considered it against her 'preprogrammed' persona (created by Samuel's assumptions), and filtered it into:

"I don't know.." She said, thoughtfully, tapping one finger against her full, gloss-pink lower lip. "I'm sure you've noticed I'm pretty fair- skinned, and I've already gotten a lot of sun today - I'm probably going to burn like a lobster as it is."

Inside her over-developed body, Sam felt a burst of victory - the decision had been passed, once a reason that 'a girl like Samantha' would give had been found...

"No problem, Sam - I've got a good sunblock." John said, smiling at her and ogling her mostly-exposed spheres of milky tit-flesh. "well then - that sounds fine." Sam heard herself agree - then, to her horror, continue - "I'll get you to help me put it on."

"You bet, babe." John agreed.

Screaming, mentally, Samuel struggled to commandeer her body, aim it for the bedroom and the chance to wish for this all to stop....

...but Samantha didn't agree there was a 'good' reason to detour, and she found herself waking with a sexy sway out the door - and sliding a slender arm around John's waist as they headed down to where they guys had spread towels on the beach.

'No! You don't want to do this!' Sam screamed at her traitorous body - but that wasn't true. It was Samuel who didn't want to do this - but this is exactly the sort of thing a girl like Samantha would do.

Laying down on the towel, Sam helplessly smiled up at John - and then turned her head and looked at where Linda lay next to Steve. "How do you get such a great tan, Linda - I've never seen you with any tan lines, no matter what you're wearing."

Linda's eyes widened, and she flushed. "I, uh... have a private deck at home. I usually... tan... nude..." Oh." Sam said, nonchalantly. "Okay."

Wiggling her hands behind her neck, she undid the string that held the top of the bikini in place, then repeated the procedure with the bottom string, allowing her to pull off the scrap of white material and toss it aside.

Inside, Sam was struggling to take some measure of control back - as Sam's body turned and asked a wide-eyed Linda. "Bottoms too?" "Uh..." Linda stammered. "Yeah..."

"Okay." Sam said, casually - and as John practically drooled over her smooth body, she peeled off the tiny bikini bottom and stretched slowly and luxuriously.

Linda was flushing brightly, and she glanced none-to-subtly at a wide eyed Steve....

...then, biting her lower lip and flushing brightly, also removed her swimsuit, revealing every inch of her toned, golden body. Steve involuntarily gasped at the gorgeous bronze sculpture that lay on the towel in front of him...

...and Linda's body relaxed and she smiled, mentally thanking Sam for the opening bid - the inadvertent but undoubtedly honest opinion of her body expressed in that wordless gasp of wonder did her a world of good.

Sam apparently enjoyed the obvious, appreciative gaze of John, as well - but, inside, she was screaming as, with a warm smile, she asked John about that sun block.

John had no hesitation at all, digging through the gym bag for the bottle and - with a gentle eagerness - slathering an even coating of the cool liquid over every inch of her body.

His touch was exquisitely pleasurable - and she wanted to vomit as she felt her body become highly aroused by his thoughtfully kind touch. She could show no sign of it, however, as she made small sounds of pleasure as he coated her, then thanked him in a husky 'bedroom' voice that conveyed more than Sam had ever wanted to.

Through the afternoon, over lunch and during small talk, Sam helplessly continued to flirt shamelessly with John - and Linda, bemused, followed suit at a more sedate pace with her 'Beau de jour'.

The conclusion of what was happening was almost painfully obvious to everyone. To all appearances, it was two pairs of young people who had taken their prerogative to throw everything else away and become involved in a 'fling' - a period of time where they only enjoyed themselves, with no concerns past what they were doing and with no fear of consequences in the future.

For three of them, appearance matched reality - but for the one who seemed most devoted to the 'fling', reality masked an inner horror and helplessness as the inadvertent wishes of a friend and her own curiosity bound her into a situation she could not control, a helpless passenger in a body that wasn't even the one she was born into.

Then, as the sun slowly sank over the lake, the talk began to turn towards going elsewhere, with an implied suggestion in the tone as to where that 'elsewhere' might be. Just to make it clear, however, was the obviously bulge at each of the men's crotches that revealed an almost painful readiness for the 'activities' they were trying to suggest to the women without actually saying anything specific.

Sam felt a moment of hope deep inside, as she stretched languorously. "I'm really enjoying the fresh air. John, why don't you start a bonfire to keep us warm?"

John sighed, his face falling - but he began to set up the requested fire.

Then Sam's hopes sank as she turned to Linda with a smile and spoke loud enough for John to hear. "While we're enjoying the evening air, why don't you and Steve go inside and get dinner started. You know - something that can... simmer."

Linda and Steve shared a look - and a pair of matched grins that were almost goofy.

"Spaghetti, perhaps?" Linda suggested, as John's initially slow fire-building effort became almost frenetic.

"Sure." Sam said, looking thoughtful. "But to do it right, you should simmer the sauce for... oh, at least an hour I'd say."

"That sounds about right..." Linda said, gathering the tiny scraps of her bikini in her hand and rising to her feet. With feigned casualness, she asked Steve if he'd care to join her...

...and from the particular strides they used heading up to the cabin - and it's sole bed, a 'problem' Sam had just so conveniently 'solved' - it was pretty damned obvious that they were trying not to break into a run.

Then Sam found herself turning her attention away from the receding couple and to John, who had just gotten the fire going and was now kneeling on the blanket beside her.

"Well, now..." John said, softly, sliding his hand slowly over her taut belly. "What one earth shall we do while waiting for dinner to cook?" Sam wanted to scream at both the words and the tone they were spoken in. "Well, for starters, you could try that a little higher."

Taking the hint that Sam hadn't wanted to give, John slid to curl up against her, propped up on one elbow. With his free hand, he traced his way up to her ribcage, where her huge tits thrust proudly skywards, little of the spherical shape stolen by the force of gravity. He began to massage her far tit...

...while bending his head and kissing and nibbling on her near tits, working in slow circles across the surface towards the fully engorged nipple that surmounted the milky surface.

Sam wanted to scream at his touch - and what horrified her the most was that she was no longer sure whether that scream would have been of disgust - or pleasure. All day long her traitorous body had been becoming more and more aroused, and now she was at a fever pitch of physical desire - and John's touch was very skilled.

Reaching down, she gently grasped his hears and guided his head upwards. He continued to kiss all over her body as his face moved upwards, shifting his weight so that he straddled her, his body pressed firmly against hers without putting his full weight on her.

Then, while his head continued to move upwards on it's own, her hands drifted down his back, so that she could remove his swim trunks...

Even if Sam could have given voice to her screams, it would have been badly muted by the passionate, hungry kiss that she involved John in, giving him every impression that she was a fully willing participant in it as their tongues danced around one another.

Then her hands were sliding between their bodies, and she shifted him slightly before sliding her hands over the taut flesh of his buttocks, and giving an unmistakable signal...

...and she was finally able to scream - but it sounded suspiciously like the scream of a woman immensely enjoying the sensation of a hard, throbbing cock sliding deep into her hot, wet cunt - and John had no cause to suspect otherwise as she shifted his weight, burying himself in her sopping womanhood to the hilt as he took his weight onto his arms.

Then - with a pause just long enough to kiss the hollow of her throat - he began to drive into her with a steady, powerful rhythm.

Sam screamed again - and again, it seemed to be the sound of a woman in ecstasy, her body jerking back and forth on the towel as the 'willing' thrusts of her hips met his ageless rhythm.

Samuel was completely horrified to find that not all of the passion and pleasure in that scream was artificially forced from her throat.

Very little of it, in fact. No matter how disgusting it felt to her 'heterosexual male' mind to let a man touch her body - it felt fantastic. It felt amazing. It felt..

"Sooo good... oh, God, Yes!..." She gasped - and was stunned to realize that it was 'Samuel' speaking through their throat, her voice giving words to 'his' shameful ecstasy.

"Harder, John - fuck me harder!" was the next thing to emerge from her throat - and it was a mix of both of them making the plea. The line dividing the two Sams began to blur, washed away in a rising tide of pleasure that began to overwhelm everything else.

John complied, his face screwed up in an expression that - in other circumstances - would have been downright hilarious. He increased the pace and depths of his thrusts, responding to her words and the movements of her body as she urged him onward.

Her huge tits were jiggling, swaying and bouncing wildly with the force of each thrust, and she couldn't help but be aware of the sensation...

...and in that instant, she wouldn't have traded it for anything, the new, enjoyable sensation of her huge tits bouncing to the beat of her first fucking, pleasure thrumming through her body like a surging electricity that was gaining power by the second, her voice lifted in mindless ecstasy as she urged her lover to fucker her harder and deeper.

Thought was lost in pleasure, her divided mind completely joined in that instant - neither side of her schizoid persona could conceive of stopping this, not this close to...

Orgasm.

It seemed to explode deep in her cunt, a painless burst of fire that blossomed deep within, then ran rapidly out through her body like an out-of-control bushfire running along the dry tinder of her nerves, superseding any commands she might be sending down them at the time.

Her body shook and jittered under John's, writhing in ecstasy as she screamed mindlessly. It seemed to last an eternal instant, the intense, indescribable, orgasmic fire searing through her body and overloading her brain as her cunt tightened on John's cock and milked it of every drop of fluid it had to give.

Then it was over. Though it had seemed an eternity one instant, the next it seemed if it had all happened too fast, and she was slammed back into her split self as she returned from the mindless heaven of orgasmic pleasure, John collapsing on the towel next to her.

"Sorry... I was... too.. excited..." John panted. "It'll... be better.. next time "

'Next time?' Sam thought....

...and that thought was almost overridden by another, more powerful one. "Better?!"

"Well, why don't I give you a hand with that ?" Sam found her lips saying, as she gently grasped John's limp cock, covered in a mixture of his cum and her pussy-juice...

...then, inside, she tried to pull away, desperately, as her body smiled and lowered it's head, enveloping John's cock with her warm, 'willing', and very, very skilled mouth...

* * * * * the pre-dawn light had just stained the light outside the window when Sam crept into the cabin's bedroom on tip-toe.

This was it - this was her chance to wish everything back to the way it should be. After a weekend spent together - a weekend during which she 'willingly' and 'eagerly' fucked and sucked John in every way imaginable - the guys had finally gone home to get a few hours sleep before work, and Linda was collapsed on the bed, completely and utterly sated.

Noiselessly, Sam crept to the end table and reached out to grab the accursed totem. With nobody to 'play' to, with just herself, she hoped she could get by Linda's wish, to find some way of wording a wish that the 'Samantha filter' would allow through. A wish that would return her to being a man...

...before she became trapped in the very life that Samuel thought a huge-breasted, incredibly sexy blonde would lead.

Holding the magical piece of carved wood, Sam turned towards the door, to go and work on the wording of the wish so she could force it through and set things right...

...and Linda stirred.

"Mmm... Sam..?" Linda said, her voice thick with sleep. "Zat you?"

"Yeah, Linda - go back to sleep." Sam said, heart suddenly revving up. So close... so very close... if only she could manage..."

"Thanks..." Linda muttered, sleepily, on the very edge of drifting off again. "This weekend... just what I needed... after... asshole Mark... bitch Caryn..."

And, horrified, Sam listened to her clear, feminine voice as it said something that Linda's completely female, understanding, vengeful friend would say in that situation...

"Yeah - I wish the rest of the world could see them as the lying, cheating, cheap fucking whores they are "

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Two men go to a resort to live out their ultimate fantasy dates, little do they realize that their ex-wives have planned for them to be transformed into the bimbos that they wished to date.

Last Resort

By Gunslinger

With a flatulent belch of diesel fumes, the cross-town bus pulled away from the bus stop, the noisy behemoth quickly leaving the pool of garish orange-yellow light from the sodium street-lamp and fading into the darkness, until only it's taillights could be seen. Then the cross-town bus rounded the corner, and even they were gone, leaving the dilapidated street to the muffled noisy silence of Chicago at night.

For several seconds, the passenger who'd descended from the public conveyance looked around, looking decidedly out of place. Tall, broad-shouldered and almost offensively handsome, the sandy-blond man wore clothes that, while simple, were too clean and well- pressed for the neighborhood. Even his shoes were shined, something rarely seen in this no-man's land where the 'shoe du jour' was usually scuffed Army Surplus boots or torn canvas sneakers.

Hand wrapped tightly around the handle of the metal-sided briefcase he held, Jason Saunders swallowed nervously, afflicted with the sensation of being watched, though nobody was in sight. Glancing around again, eyes probing uselessly at the dark shadows that populated the doorways and under the ell tracks, he lifted his wrist and glanced at the cheap Seiko watch he'd purchased specifically for this little jaunt.

"Come on..." He muttered, glancing around yet again. "Why can't this city keep anything running on time...?"

Just then the muted traffic noises of the background was overshadowed by a rising clatter as the ell train rumbled up the track, it's lights splitting the night atop it's elevated platform. Licking his lips nervously, Jason looked at the stairs leading from the platform. He debated walking over to them, but didn't want to leave the pool of light that the street-lamp above him provided. Somehow, he felt safer here - though he knew he was as naked a target here as anywhere else in the neighborhood.

A minute more passed - and then a figure appeared on the stairs of the Ell, quickly clattering down to street level. Jason sighed in relief as he recognized the squat, broad form of Tony Scholaria. The swarthy fireplug of a man walked with his usual arrogant stride, one that he almost earned - despite his lack of height, the Italian was almost as broad as he was wide, with a deep barrel chest and massive muscles that put Jason's own muscular build to shame. With no sign of the anxiety that Jason felt, the curly-haired man swaggered across the street and up to his long-time friend, his bright white teeth clearly visible against his swarthy face as he grinned up at Jason.

"Hey, Jace - nice outfit." Tony said, with a laugh. "Ain't no Brooks Brothers suit, is it?"

Tony looked much more at home in his jeans and leather bomber jacket - which he well should, since it was his usual attire. Jason, on the other hand, usually wore expensive, tastefully understated suits, and felt distinctly awkward in his too-stiff, too-blue new jeans.

"I just want to get this thing done." Jason said, not bothering to correct Tony about the nick-name - after twelve years, he'd finally given it up as hopeless. "I'm starting to have my doubts - I mean, why would a high-priced, exclusive brothel use such clandestine methods..." he glanced around nervously. "...and be located in such a... dangerous neighborhood?"

"C'mon man, you worry too much..." Tony laughed. "The reason is simple - anonymity. You think the press wouldn't notice the rich and famous leaving from any airport in the country. Place like this, though..."

Jason hoped Tony was right, and that this whole offer was on the level.

"Come on - let's go." Jason said. Feeling more confident with his powerfully-built friend at his side, Jason headed down the street, looking for the address he was given - and finding his heart pounding in anticipation for what lay ahead.

Finding the right address, Jason glanced nervously at Tony, then claimed the steps to the steel-clad door that was embedded firmly in the plain brick wall. He glanced around, then reached out to knock...

...but, before he could touch the heavy door, it swung open with the muted hiss of hydraulics, revealing a short, dark hallway with another steel door. Glancing again at Tony, he looked uncertainly at the short, dark space - which could so easily be a trap...

"Geez, dude - grow a pair..." Tony laughed, pushing past and entering. Jason, nervously, followed...

...and the door behind them swung shut plunging them in darkness.

Even before Jason had time to panic, though, the door at the other end of the hallway swung open...

...revealing a clean, brightly-lit reception area. Standing just inside the door was a very fit, athletically attractive woman dressed in subdued clothing.

"Mr. Saunders, Mr. Scholaria...?" She said, in a polite-yet-efficient tone. "Welcome to the Resort Gentleman's Lounge. Will you please follow me?"

Now that he knew that this was really on the level, Jason relaxed, grinning at Tony as he followed the incredibly firm backside of the taut-bodied woman.

Jason and Tony were both wealthy men, each owning their own business - Jason, an accounting software firm, Tony a contracting business. However, each of them was only about half as wealthy as they'd been only a year ago - because they'd each lost about half their value in the divorce each man had gone through. The fact that each had been divorced at the same time was no accident...

Back in college, they'd worked out an arrangement when they were dating. If they were out with another woman and their supposed girlfriend called, the other would lie for the double-dater, claiming that he'd been with him. When they'd ended up getting married, they'd continued the same scheme, and for five years of marriage, it had worked perfectly...

..until one night, when each of them had been out on a date, thus destroying their alibis for each other. This had led to their mutual divorces, and now they were once more single, and the worse for it financially as their ex-wives, furious to learn that neither of them had ever been faithfully, had made the divorces especially bitter.

In fact, it had been a bad year for both of them - until now. Each of them had received the strangest 'invitation' in the mail a week ago, an invitation to a place called, simple 'the Resort'. A place so secret that neither of them had heard of it - which made sense, if it was what it claimed to be, the ultimate whorehouse for single, successful men looking for... a special type of fun.

Until this very second, Jason had been dubious about the whole thing, but Tony had dragged him into it - and now he was glad he had, for it certainly seemed to be on the level as the well-toned brunette led them into a pre-departure area and handed them each a small paper folder.

"These are your option for you... package." She said, efficiently, but the pause before the euphemism made each man grin. Sharing a look, they opened the small booklets and found themselves faced with a plethora of 'options'.

"If you'll just give me your payment..." the woman said, crisply. "...you can go ahead and fill out your choices - there's a pencil in the arm of each chair."

"Of course..." Jason said, handing over the briefcase, which contained the hundred-and-fifty-thousand dollars for Tony and him. Though it went against the grain to just hand the money over like this, the truth was it didn't really hurt him...

....since the final 'perfection' of this whole vacation was the fact that the money had been very secretly, very efficiently, and pseudo- legally plundered from their ex-wives bank accounts. By the time the women realized they were each short seventy-five grand, Tony and Jason would have enjoyed their trip to The Resort. Since the Resort was so secret, the money was effectively untraceable - meaning that it couldn't be connected to either man, sparing them any problems.

"That's fine." The brunette said, taking the case. "Now, if you'll make your choices, gentleman, we'll be able to start your... unique experience.

"Sure." Tony said, echoed by a more urbane "Certainly," from Jason. Sharing another grin, the two men bent over their little booklets full of such intriguing options...

* * * * *

"Mr. Saunders?"

Putting down the Scotch he'd been sipping at, Jason swung around on the bar stool he'd been warming for the last twenty minutes, ever since they'd been escorted here after making their choices. During the wait, he'd surreptitiously eyed the few other men in the room - who were doing the same thing to him. None of them had spoken to each other, and Jason had even felt constrained against chatting with Tony, who'd fallen silent himself after Jason's monosyllabic answers to his conversational forays.

"Yes?" Jason said, rising to his feet and looking eagerly at the athletically-built brunette - not the same one from reception, however. All the staff in the 'public' areas seemed to be tall, athletically built, and coolly beautiful - even the red-haired bartender was muscular, almost as much so as himself. At first, the fact that every woman he'd seen at the whorehouse was so Amazonian had worried him... until he'd realized that they were probably 'bouncers', in case an uninvited guest tried to show up. Obviously, the owners of the establishment were walking a fine line, wanting only female staff, yet having enough 'muscle' on hand in case there was a problem.

Obviously, this was their solution.

"We're ready for you. Please, follow me." The muscular woman said. Without waiting for a response, she turned on one flat-soled heel and headed off at a brisk pace, Jason hurrying after her.

She led him to a nondescript door along a hallway populated with such doors, each one bearing brass numbers. Jason noticed that the number on the door he'd been led to was '23' - and he also noticed two more little details. One was the fact that the doors were spaced surprisingly far apart - and the other was the small lights above each door, some lit and some not.

"Through here." The woman escorting him said, coolly. "You'll find yourself in the prep room. You'll figure out what to do from there."

"Thanks.." Jason said, nervously. He twisted the handle on the door and stepped through, finding himself in a small little 'waiting room'. As the door swung shut behind him, he looked around. There was a metal door with no handle directly opposite the one he'd come in, presumably leading to his... experience.

There was also a small computer built into the wall like an ATM, and Jason walked over to this.

You have Chosen Scenario 2-A 'The Hotel Hooker'

With Option Packages: (H-12) - Blonde (1)

(B-21) - Extremely Buxom (2)

(F-06) - Extreme High Heels (3)

(R-19) - Extremely Willing (4)

(I-01) - Low Intelligence (5)

IF THE BASIC PACKAGE IS INCORRECT, HIT 'ESC'.

IF YOU WISH TO ALTER AN OPTION, PRESS THE NUMBER. IF ALL INFORMATION IS CORRECT, HIT 'ENTER'.

Practically shaking with anticipation, Jason reached out and hit 'Enter'.

The screen flashed, then went blank - and the metal door hissed open, sliding to the side. Eagerly, Jason looked inside...

...and blinked, finding himself looking at the inside of a walk-in closet. There was a door at the other end that presumably led into the supposed hotel room, and the closet was full of all sorts of garish, brightly-colored feminine clothes - more or less what you might expect a hooker to wear.

Jason shrugged, figuring that this was just a way of disguising the metal door, so it wouldn't look out of place in the 'set' of the room. Jason took a step forward through the door...

...and everything suddenly went dark.

* * * * *

"Mr. Scholaria?"

Putting down the beer he'd been drinking, Tony spun the stool around and eyed the brunette who'd spoken. Maybe she was a little muscular for his taste - which, so far, all the women he'd seen here seemed to be - but that probably meant she had stamina like you wouldn't believe. Tony grinned his trademark lopsided grin and wagged his bushy eyebrows.

"Hey, Mr. Scolaria's my Dad - call me Tony'. He said, smoothly.

The woman eyed him like he was some sort of specimen in a laboratory. "We're ready for you. Please, follow me."

Without waiting for a response, she turned on one heel and headed off at a brisk pace. Tony shrugged and slid off the barstool, ambling along behind her. She shot him an annoyed glance over her shoulder - which he answered with another lopsided grin - then slowed her pace until he caught up.

She led him to a nondescript door bearing the number '24', set among a hallway of similar doors. She gestured.

"Through here. You'll find yourself in the prep room. You should be able to figure out what to do from there."

"Sure thing, babe." Tony said, with a wink. He twisted the handle on the door and stepped through, finding himself in a small little 'waiting room'. As the door swung shut behind him, he looked around. There was a metal door with no handle directly opposite the one he'd come in, presumably leading to the whore.

There was also a small computer built into the wall like an ATM, and Tony walked over to this.

You have Chosen Scenario 22-H 'RANDOM SCENARIO'

With Option Packages: (H-00) - RANDOM (1)

(B-00) - RANDOM (2)

(F-00) - RANDOM (3)

(R-00) - RANDOM (4)

(I-00) - RANDOM (5)

IF THE BASIC PACKAGE IS INCORRECT, HIT 'ESC'.

IF YOU WISH TO ALTER AN OPTION, PRESS THE NUMBER. IF ALL INFORMATION IS CORRECT, HIT 'ENTER'.

"Well, cover me in cement and call me Jimmy Hoffa. A high-tech whorehouse." Tony said to himself with a smirk as he reached out and hit 'Enter'.

The screen flashed, then went blank - and the metal door hissed open, sliding to the side. Tony sauntered over and looked inside...

...and found himself looking at what appeared to be his own office - well, the outside 'reception' area, anyway.

Though Tony kept a fancy office, he rarely used it, and didn't even have a secretary. Despite that, he was familiar enough with his own office to recognize the secretary's desk, the room, the door leading into his office and the one leading into the secretary's office from the hallway of the building her rented space in.

"What the hell...?" Tony said, confused, taking a step across the threshold...

...and everything suddenly went dark.

* * * * *

Consciousness returned with a 'bank'. Instantly, darkness was replaced with light - in the form of a off-white, water-stained ceiling, with a naked light bulb operated by pull-chain dangling in the center.

The roof of a closet - the closet in the hotel room. "What happened..." Jason asked....

...then stopped, eyes opening wide in shock at the high-pitched, most definitely feminine tone the words emerged in. A soprano voice that was all wrong - yet that seemed to be the one that now answered the commands given by Jason's brain.

Startled, he sat up quickly...

..and the weight shifting on his chest caused him to instinctively look down - to find herself staring at an enormous, round pair of tits thrust spherically from a slender, feminine ribcage. Below that, in the shadow of those massive mounds of feminine flesh, lay a pair of long, shapely (if slightly pale) feminine legs.

"Like, oh my God!" Jason gasped. "I'm, like - a chick!"

Shocked, Jason pushed her new body up from the floor, finding it disturbingly easy to move, despite the strange balance of her wide-hipped, top-heavy new figure. The sensation of the huge breasts shifting was definitely new and disturbingly pleasant, the huge nipple almost painfully swollen in the cool air.

Once standing, she turned to face the metal door through which she -as a man - had entered...

...and found herself facing a black wall, just as you'd expect in a closet. Reaching out, she banged one slender, feminine hand against the wall - and heard the dull, hollow thumps of drywall, not the muted thud of metal.

"Jeez, Jenni, I think you're in, like, deep shit, you know?" She told herself, staring at the impossible wall. Slowly, she turned around and faced the front of the closet.

"Well, before I go out, I guess I should, uh.. you know.. get some clothes on, right?" She asked herself. "I, like, just hope that these clothes will fit over my gorgeous, huge tits, okay?"

She gently reached up and slid her hands over the massive, unwanted new endowments, smiling and sighing at the pleasure her own hands brought as they slid across the gigantic mounds.

She giggled. "I'd better stop - or I'll just stand here all day and fondle myself..." turning, she began to survey the available clothing, then began to pick things off the rack almost at random, brushing the long, platinum- blonde strands out of her eyes with an absent flip of her wrist.

First, she pulled on a pair of bright-red lace panties, patting them into place over her smooth, shaven crotch - then taking a moment longer, slowly sliding her hand back and forth over the front of the panties, putting pressure on the outer lips of the new womanhood that horribly, inexplicably had been forced upon her.

"Ummm..." She moaned. "That feels real good. Like, I could just stand her and frig myself silly if I'm not careful, you know?"

Forcing her hand away, Jenni quickly grabbed a red leather miniskirt and forced it's tight, heavy material over the wide swell of her womanly hips, zipping it into place so it fit like a second skin, the short hem barely covering her panties.

Next, she quickly pulled on a red T-shirt with a plunging neckline, idly fluffing her long, blonde hair after pulling it out from where the shirt had slid over it. The shirt had to be forced down over her massive new tits, clearly outlining them and displaying what seemed like miles of her vast new cleavage.

Grabbing a pair of red leather boots, she quickly pulled them on, balancing on one seven-inch high heel as she pulled the second boot on, then straightened and running her hands over her lush new figure.

"I'm like, soooo hot in this body." She told herself with an angry giggle. "I mean, I look like some sort of.. fuck-toy. I got huge, gorgeous boobies and a big, sexy ass - and I'm, like, all blonde and stuff. People will think I'm a , you know, bimbo or something. Oh my god!"

She flicked her head to throw her long hair out of the way, then opened the door of the closet and stepped out.

She was in what most definitely looked like a cheap, sleazy hotel room. It was on an upper story, with old, heavy, dark furniture that was scarred with hard use. Tattered drapes hung over a window that let in a spluttering red neon glow in a metronomic pulse, presumably from the hotel's sign.

Feeling her hips sway and her huge tits jiggle, Jenni minced over to the dresser and the mirror mounted atop it, wondering what she looked like.

A vapid face stared back, with huge, empty blue eyes and full lips dominating it, all surrounded by a halo of obviously bleach-blond hair.

"Like, oh... my... god..." She said, horrified. "I'm, like, little miss bimbo-slut! Like, men will, you know, get all hot over my new body.. they'll get hard-ons... their cock will become big, and throbbing, and hard..."

She realized that she was licking her full new lips, one hand fondling her huge bust...

"No, no - this is wrong!" She told her reflection as she stopped licking her lips. "I mean, it's like, so obvious wrong..." She picked up an item laying on the dresser as she continued berating her reflection.

"...'cuz everybody knows lips like these should have lipstick on 'em!"

With expert motions, she quickly applied the gloss-red lipstick.. then some eye-shadow.. a touch of blush... some mascara...

...oh, and might as well put on the jewelry that was laying there, too...

"There!" She told the reflection with a giggle. "Now we're ready to go find out what's happening to us!" Jenni blew a kiss at her reflection, then began to jiggle and sway towards the door...

...when it opened, admitting a huge black man.

He was huge in many directions. Tall, wide and deep, the jeans and T-shirt he was wearing strained to contain a massive frame that had one been rock-hard with muscle, but was now beginning to run to fat. He slowly looked Jenni up and done, then spoke in a voice that seemed to rumble up from his size-fifteen boots.

"You Jenni?"

"Yeah, that's me!" Jenni giggled in annoyance - she just wanted to get out of here and find out how she'd gotten into this nightmare. "I've already paid Tom." The black man said, swinging the door shut behind him. "Paid him for the full package..."

The huge man handed over a little sheet of paper, and Jenni looked down and saw that it did, indeed, indicate that this man had 'the full package'.

Jenni wanted to cry - here she was, eager to get out of here and find out how this had happened, and now she was being held up with this crap. Great - now she was just going to have to fuck the guy as quick and hard as she could get him to agree to, or she might be stuck in here all night. It made her feel sick to her stomach - be she had no choice. He had a receipt from her pimp, after all...

"Mmmm..." Jenni said, stepping forwards and running her long-nailed over the straining crotch of his jeans. "You're, like, big all over, aren't you...?"

"Yeah, baby - that's right..." The man rumbled, teeth flashing startling white against his skin as he grinned. "think you can take me all in, baby?"

Jenni was pissed off at the question - sure, she might not want to do it, but that was no reason to imply that she couldn't. She could take anything he cared to put into her, in any whole.

"Sure, big boy..." She giggled in anger. She'd show this ass a thing or two! "Come on - let's see if you know how to use this monster..."

She slowly backed towards the bed, the black man keeping in step with her, his hands going to his clothing as she quickly and expertly removed her own garments - but not without being sexy about it. Being rushed didn't mean she couldn't do the job right. Being utterly disgusted by what was about to happen didn't excuse sloppy work, after all.

"My, it is huge..." She said with a giggle, her words being honest by lying with her tone - after all, she was hardly happen to see his enormous, thick cock thrust from his crotch and throbbing with every beat of his heart. Still, she was doing a job, which meant she had to do her best at it, so she faked a smile for his benefit, slowly sliding her tongue over her lips.

"I'll take the top, babe..." She said, feigning excitement and lust, aided visually by the way her nipples were as hard as rocks, and her cunt so hot and wet that she half-expected steam to issue from between her thighs.

Now that was acting...!

She pushed her dainty little hand against his broad, somewhat flabby chest. She couldn't budge him if her life depended on it, of course, but he played along and toppled backwards onto the bed, which groaned from the impact. Acting as if there was nothing more that she wanted to do but fuck her brains out atop him - which was exactly opposite from the truth, of course, no matter the fake grin that almost split her lips in a good replica of eager anticipation.

Climbing up on the bed, she smiled down at him as she positioned herself, legs on either side of his hips as she rose above him, sliding her hands through her hair and licking her lips 'hungrily', as if filled with an incredible lust at the sight of the man beneath her voluptuous blonde body...

Then she wrapped one hand around the base of his cock and, as his hands came up to fondle her huge tits, she thrust herself downwards, impaling herself on the massive organ, her sopping wet cunt stretching almost painfully to accommodate it's length and girth.

"Oh, baby, yes...!" She instinctively cried, to keep up the illusion that she was loving having her tight, wet cunt filled to capacity by a huge, warm, throbbing cock that caused incredible, disgustingly feminine pleasure to thunder through her body. Keeping up the act, she added "Oh, god, I love feeling you inside of me!"

Then she began to flex the muscles of her legs, driving herself up and down on his cock, her own hands cupping her massive tits while he fondled them, as if the incredible pleasure of both his and her touch was actually making her enjoy fucking a man.

She feigned a positive response to the intense pleasure thundering through her as she worked atop him like a piston, as if the massive waves of ecstasy sizzling through her nerves had the slightest effect on the fact she was utterly disgusted. She made incoherent cries of 'pleasure' as she bounced hard and fast atop his big, dark body.

She even managed to scream fairly realistically, sounding as if she were in the throes of mindless pleasure, when her orgasm swept over her. She was probably utterly convincing from the man's viewpoint as she shuddered and writhed atop him, screaming and swaying as he pumped his load of hot seed into her new cunt.

Feeling sickened by the utterly disgusting thing she'd just done, she slid off his massive organ with a sigh. "Oh, god, that was fantastic...!" She lied, brightly, panting. "Baby, your dick is the best!"

As he said something she didn't bother to listen to, she considered her position. It was fairly late at night, she had at least this guy to do (and probably more waiting), and she" barely have enough time to get cleaned up and dressed between clients. It'd probably be the same way tomorrow, and maybe the day after...

Resigning herself to the fact that she was going to be stuck here until there was a lull in business, Jenni repressed a sigh at her predicament, as she bent over to begin licking the massive, delicious, wonderful cock back into life...

* * * * *

Tony blinked and looked around in confusion, trying to figure out what the hell just happened.

He was sitting behind the receptionist's desk in the office that served as a buffer between the building's outside corridor and his own office...

...which was odd, because he'd never used the reception area to house a secretary, and the desk hadn't had a chair before. Now, apparently, id did - because he was sitting in it. More than that, though, the room had undergone a transformation of sorts. Though still the same basic room, it now looked 'lived in'. Green plants sat atop the filing cabinets and the window sill, and one hung from a hook in the ceiling in the corner. The desk in front of Tony, once bare, now boasted a computer, a desk-set, a banker's lamp... and another damned plant.

As strange as the transformation to the room was, it didn't hold Tony's attention for long - because, when he instinctively glanced down to find out why he felt so damned strange, he found he had a much more drastic - and personal - transformation to deal with.

Because he was staring at an off-white silk blouse, nicely filled out by a pair of dusky breasts whose cleavage was quite nicely displayed by the 'fold-over' buttonless design of the blouse.

Slowly, Stunned, Tony pushed the chair back from the desk... and found himself looking at a knee-length black leather skirt that hugged a wide, womanly pair of hips tightly, and from which protruded a pair of dusky, shapely legs clad in nylons. The feet that Tony had used to push the chair out from the desk were small, dainty and feminine - and encased in a pair of stiletto-heeled pumps with a five-inch heel.

He... was, somehow, a she...

Before she could even begin to deal with this impossible event, the door behind her and to her right swung open - and a very familiar voice spoke.

"Thea, can you come in her for... dictation?"

Slowly, Tony - Thea - swung her head around, feeling long, silky hair brush across her slender new shoulders as she stared at her vice- president, Michael Walters...

"Of Course, Mr. Walters!" Thea said, briskly, forcing her lips into a smile as she realized that Mike was waiting for an answer. Until she figured out what the hell was going on, she didn't want to start 'raving' about not being 'Thea', or ask Mike what he was doing in 'his' office. Such a 'crazy' response would probably have her locked up in a mental institution within the hour, and she didn't want that. For right now, she'd just have to 'play along', pretend she really was this 'Teresa' broad, until she figured out what was going on and how to correct it.

Feeling the strange new sensations of her new body, 'Thea' turned around in the swivel office chair, looking for her note-pad...

...and found herself looking in a large mirror that was now mounted in the little niche in the corner, allowing her a view of her new body from a less 'direct' angle.

"Wow..." She breathed in her warm new contralto, staring in amazement at the image the mirror reflected back at her.

She was drop-dead gorgeous. Obviously still of Italian descent, the genetic pool was kinder to her in this body than it had been as Tony - and he'd been pretty damned good looking as Tony...

The woman in the mirror was shorter than average height, but that could only be noticed in relation to the objects around her, because her body was perfectly proportioned, just in miniature. Her legs were long and shapely, her waist delightfully slender beneath breasts that were probably a firm DD-cup. Surrounded by a thick, glorious mane of raven's wing hair, her face was stunning, with the famed Italian beauty that was so distinctive - and rare. Broad, high, well-defined cheek-bones matched a smoothly curved jaw that allowed for amazingly full lips without them seeming too much of a good thing. Her nose was straight and well defined, with a small bump near the bridge, where it was flanked by a pair of dark, sultry eyes. The make-up and jewelry she wore was almost redundant, her natural appearance needing little assistance at all. Even in the fairly basic 'casual-business' clothes she wore, her figure was stunning.

Shaking her head, she snapped herself out of the slight daze she'd fallen into - she didn't have time for this. Hoping there was a note pad in Mike's office, she rose from the chair - consciously making the gesture smooth and sensual, graceful. The woman whose body he was in was incredibly beautiful and sultry, and the body deserved better than the unconsciously hyper-masculine movements of 'Tony'.

Concentrated on walking with the sexy sway that the real Thea must use with a body like this, the new version of her headed into the office that had been her own this morning.

Mike, relaxing behind the desk, grinned at her as she came in, his eyes lingering on her body - and she couldn't blame him in the least. She was... gorgeous. Stunning. A body like the one she was wearing deserved - *demande*d - to be admired, lusted over, fantasized about.

"Damn, Thea - you look great..." Mike said, shaking his head in pleased disbelief. "Thank you, Mr. Walters..." She said, coolly - no need to 'tempt' him...

Mike blinked, then laughed. "That's great, Thea - 'Mr. Walters', right." He grinned boyishly. "I kinda like it - but takes some of the romance out of it, doesn't it? Having my girlfriend talk so formally to me? You'd think you were really my secretary, for god's sake...!" He laughed again. "Wish you were, though - the girl I hired today is great, but she's fifty years old and dresses like an English School Headmistress..."

Most of this was rolling off Thea's back - as she tried to cope with the revelation that she wasn't a secretary - but a girlfriend.

For whatever reason she didn't understand, Mike had moved into his office sometime today, hired a secretary - and, to celebrate, was indulging in a little 'fantasy' with his girlfriend, Thea...

...who, somehow, Tony had become trapped in the body of...

All of this was confusing, frightening, inexplicable - not nearly as much so as what would happen to her should she start claiming the truth. Then, she'd be considered crazy - and while she might not want Thea's life, she was sure it would be preferable to being locked up in a nut-house somewhere.

The scariest of all thoughts was the idea that, maybe - she was crazy. After all, she found it hard to believe that this could happen, herself. What if she was, in fact, off her rocker? What if she really was 'Thea', and Tony never existed? Then, trying to claim the truth would destroy her life as Thea, without leaving a 'better' life to finally 'reclaim'.

No matter what happened - she couldn't let anybody know that she wasn't who she appeared to be. Until she could find a way to get back to The Resort and find hard evidence to prove that what she thought was real was indeed real, then she had to avoid raising the slightest hint that she wasn't Thea.

All of this went through her head in a fraction of a second - and then she was smiling warmly,. Letting her cool visage soften as she let her body relax into a more 'intimate' pose.

"Silly, you're spoiling the fantasy..." She said, trying to imitate the tone of voice a woman would use with her lover. "That's exactly what we're supposed to be doing - pretending that you hired me, a complete stranger you just met, and not somebody else. That's the fun of playing this game..."

"Ohhh..." Mike said, grinning. "Hey, I like that..." He forced his smile off his face, though his eyes still danced merrily.

"Miss Scarpaci, we need to discuss your position in the company..." He said, 'sternly' - while Thea filed away that little fact in her mind, starting the process of ferreting out information about 'herself'.

Just knowing her whole name was a long way from knowing all the details about herself, though, She needed to gain more knowledge about the life she'd be living for the next little while, so...

"Is there something wrong, Mr. Walters?" She asked, forcing herself to sound anxious. "It's not my previous work experience, is it?"

Mike seemed surprised, then smoothly worked it into what he still thought was just a game, huffing importantly. "Actually, Miss Scarpaci, that is part of the problem. As dedicated as you might be, I must say I hardly understand how five years experience as a catalogue model provides you with the skill to be a secretary..."

So, now she knew what she did for a living...

"Well, sir.." She said, seductively, taking a few steps closer. "You certainly want to impress potential clients when they come in the door, and that means you want more than a secretary - you want an Executive Assistant.. one who can help 'wine and dine' a prospective client.."

Moving with as much sensual grace as this body could muster - which was quite a lot - Thea walked over to where she knew the hidden bar was, opening the cabinet to display the usual array of bottles.

"What would you like, sir...?" She asked in a breathy, seductive voice.

He seemed surprised at her little game - but pleasantly so. He smiled broadly. "My usual would be great..."

It was information like this that was invaluable to the masquerade she was going to be playing - and this 'game' provided the perfect formula for finding out the information without raising suspicions...

"But, sir, I just started today..." She said, warmly, lightly - and suggestively - stroking the neck of a vodka bottle. "How would I know what your 'usual' would be...?"

"Oh, yeah.. right.." Mike said, blinking. "Uh, Martini, dry, with an olive."

"See... it's things like this that I need to know to be fully... effective for you..." She said, starting to mix the drink, using every movement as a 'distraction', by making the simple procedure as sensuous as possible, treating every object as if it were a highly sensual item that brought her lust to a roiling boil. "I'm sure you understand how fetching drinks for your clients could be... advantageous..."

As she said this word, heavily laden with a suggestive tone, she removed one of the maraschino cherries from the wide, short bar-bottle full of them - and slowly and very sensuously, used one finger to sensuously press it between her full lips and into her mouth.

"Yes, I can see that..." Mike agreed in a husky voice as she sensuously swayed across the room to deliver his drink.

"Surely, given this, you can see what other.. special qualifications I could offer for this job..." She said, suggestively, hoping he'd pick up the hint without realizing the meaning behind it.

No such luck.

"Oh? Like what...?" He said, smiling, swiveling the chair in a way that brought his crotch out from under the desk, revealing a very noticeable bulge.

Damn. There was no way around this - but at least she could make it work to her advantage...

..she hoped.

"Well..." he said, sensuously, slowly sinking to her nylon-clad knees. "I can be extraordinarily useful in negotiations. Let me give you an example. Let's say that you were a client, trying to decide if I'm the right person for a job..."

Slowly, sensuously, she reached out and undid his pants, lowering them and his underwear enough to let his throbbing, rock-hard cock spring out.

"Go ahead... try and decide. Debate it out, out loud...": She said, slowly bowing her head, and letting her lips encase his hard cock... He moaned, but otherwise didn't say a thing.

Slowly, she licked the head of his cock, tasting the thin dribble of pre-cum and making him moan again - then pulled her mouth from his cock.

"Well - I guess you really don't want to hire me at all..." She said, regretfully, beginning to rise.

"No, no - you're still being considered..." Mike said, hastily, catching on. Slowly, she bent her head and slid her full lips around his cock again.

"Well... you're certainly.. attractive..." He said, and she began to suck his cock, slowly and teasingly.

"...even if you have no experience..." He continued - and when she paused, rushed onward. "But the fact that you're an orphan and an only child means that you're more likely to be able to work long, strange hours..."

'Aha - another bit of info...' Thea thought with a mental grin, redoubling her efforts to extract.. information from him.

"You're very tasteful in dress and decor... you're useful that way too..." He said, gasping at her efforts. "You were near the top of every class you ever took... You, uh.. you..."

As he hesitated coming up with another point, Thea began to slack off her efforts.

Mike was obviously thinking desperately. "Cleaning! You enjoy cleaning, you say it gives you time to think while you're body's busy doing mindless chores - so we wouldn't have to hire somebody to clean the office..."

She redoubled her efforts again, making him moan anew. He tried to overcome the 'distraction', searching for more 'reasons'. "Uh.. you cook great Italian meals.." He gasped out. "useful for entertaining clients..."

That was another useful piece of information - so she stepped up her efforts again, her hand working the shaft of his cock as she bobbed her head vigorously, slurping and licking at his cock to spur him onward.

"You know how to let men order for you!" He said, barely understandable as he moaned the words. "You're like being old-fashioned and having men order for you, hold chairs for you, open.. doors.. for .. you, and.."

She was bobbing her head rapidly now, slurping noisily at his cock, working the organ for all she was worth, leaving him incapable of speech as he moaned and grunted in pleasure...

..and then he came, gushing cum into her mouth...

...just as he shouted out "..and, oh god, you're an expert cock-sucker who swallows!"

She forced herself to gulp down the load of salty, warm cum, not letting revulsion show and raise his suspicions. "Oh, god..." He gasped, smiling down at her as she licked his cock clean. "baby - you're hired..."

Licking the last drop of cum from her full lips, Thea smiled seductively up at him, cursing him mentally - she still didn't know nearly enough about her new life.

"Well, I don't know if I want the job yet..." She said, feigning desire. Slowly, she unwrapped her blouse, revealing her large, flawless breasts. "We've barely begun the interview - you're going to have to find a lot more about me that distinguishes me from other women, Mr. Walters, if you want me to take this position permanently.."

Smiling, she climbed on the chair so he could fondle her tits while burying his head between them, felling his cock begin to stir under her spectacular new ass.

At this rate, it would be weeks before she knew her new role well enough to work a trip to The Resort into it without appearing suspicious. Maybe even longer...

Well, she thought with a sigh as she lifted herself up to pull of her skirt. She'd just have to spend as much time as possible in the next few weeks 'pumping' him for information...

* * * * *

"Well, then - is that more or less what you had in mind for them?" Ms. Femme asked Janet and Lisa, the men's ex-wives, as she turned away from the closed-circuit monitors installed in the wall, showing what their feminized ex-husbands had been up to.

"Well - yes..." Lisa, Tony's ex, said, shaking her head in disbelief. She looked at the massively-muscled, large-breasted woman across the desk. "They have no idea that almost a year has passed?"

"No idea..." the owner of The Resort said, with a grin. "The projection-screen-and-knockout gas routine worked out perfectly, as always. By the time the regained 'consciousness', they were thoroughly drugged, and we began altering their minds. This is the first time since then that they've been truly awake - and now their minds are so thoroughly saturated with out implanted commands that their own personalities are playing second fiddle to the new ones we put in.

"It's absolutely amazing.." Janet said, still finding it hard to believe that the huge-breasted blonde woman she'd just seen in action was really her ex-husband. "When one of your employees secretly approached us, we thought it was a load of bunk, but now I'm glad we went along with it - it's incredible." She shrugged. "Then again, it didn't cost us anything, either way it might have turned out."

"Well, now, that's not quite true..." Ms. Femme said, casually. "After all, converting 'wrong-thinking' men like your ex-husbands, who don't understand that Womankind is the more powerful gender and deserves to rule, is only half the project we're running."

"Excuse me?" Lisa asked, blinking.

Ms. Femme laughed. "Of course, the other half has to do with the brain-washed majority of women, who think that they need to dress and act in the way male-dominate society has implanted into them all these years." She made a motion, and two massively muscled employees entered through hidden doors, just behind the chair of each of the women, grabbing them.

"No...!" Lisa screamed, echoed by Janet. They were inexorably dragged towards another hidden door that had opened onto a laboratory-looking room.

"Don't worry..." Ms. Femme said with a grin. "We're not going to rid you of these servile sexual roles. In fact - we're going to intensify them."

"What?" Lisa said, wide-eyed.

"Women like you are still needed in the new order we're forming." Ms. Femme said, with laugh. "After all, the new Ruling Class will be small, and they'll be distinguished by what we give them, by the very thing that make's overthrowing the male-dominated society possible..."

Still smiling, she rose - to reveal her tight jeans bulged out enormously at the crotch.

"The new She-Male ruling class will need plenty of servants to keep them pleased..." Ms. Femme told her newest 'recruits' as they were dragged off to their fate.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a probe from another planet embeds itself inside the body of a red neck on New Years Eve it decides it must correct inherent flaws and upgrade the body to the obviously superior female body.

Law According To Clarke

By Gunslinger

Neanderthal. Predecessor to man. Like the apes of the African continent from which he sprang, Neanderthal was a pack animal, ranging in groups. Larger than the common ape, he was an odd looking creature - hairy, oddly constructed, more muscle than brain. However, deep behind the ugly low brow that marked this creature, the faintest glimmers of intelligence dwelled. This, and his opposable thumb, allowed the proto-human to master tools, though of a limited nature. More importantly, it mastered thought. Limited, to be sure, allowing only linear 'logic', thinking that only went from points A to B to C, without being able to analyze the information to make tremendous leaps of intuition that transcended logical linear thinking. This, then, was the dawn of the age of humans. Slow.

Clumsy. Limited. Emotionally crippled, empathetically dead, tending towards violence as the solutions to problems that exceeded its feeble grasp. This was the 'noble creature' that earned the title of 'Man'...

To be honest - aside from learning to shave and operate power machinery, not much has changed. Now, women...

Once, the females of the species were like they're mates. As muscular, as clumsy, as dimwitted and dense. Ideally suited as a mate for a race that, quite frankly, was destined by the cosmos to remain insignificant and barely self-aware. Had so-called 'evolution' stayed its course, Mankind would be little more than Homo Erectus by now, if that.

However, something occurred to disrupt the natural order of Earth's history. An unforeseen occurrence in the galactic pattern of life.

Thirty-five million, two-hundred and twenty-seven years, three months and twelve days ago, a glowing object fell from the heavens and impacted not far from a wandering tribe of these brutish creatures.

On that monumental day, (It was a Thursday), the male leader of the small band of proto-humans, both frightened by the apparition and enraged by its intrusion on the territory it had claimed only hours earlier (by ridding itself of a few liters of slightly-used spring-water), led its subject males on an enraged attack on the gleaming metal sphere that lay in the center of the newly-formed crater.

Shortly thereafter, said group of brave males fled from the scene, having (dimly) learned of the scientific principle that caused the rapid movement of an object through the atmosphere to generate friction - and thus, heat.

While sitting in a shallow pool of water to soothe their burns, the males of this tribe invented two new words to enter their limited vocabulary. The first was 'oogsha', meaning 'great shiny thing that falls from the sky and hits the ground and shakes it to make you mad so you come to it only so it can burn you and make you run screaming'.

It never quite caught on, however.

The second was 'shit', which turned out to have a whole range of meanings, and is still quite popular today.

While the males were so engaged, the females of the species slowly approached the gleaming object. So slowly, as a matter of fact, that it was quite cool by the time they reached it.

So it was that the females of this band met the creatures that inhabited the spacecraft from a vastly advanced civilization. While these beings repaired their spacecraft, they came to find the antics of these new creatures around them quite... pleasant. Much like you might find the actions of the dog quite amusing.

However, where you might give your Irish Setter a doggy treat after such a cute display, these alien creatures bestowed certain... 'gifts' upon the amusing, hairy beasts before them, enhancing them in many ways. These alien creatures were from a planet where there was no such thing as gender, so they didn't quite realize that they were bestowing all these gifts upon half the population.

Soon after, the alien visitors departed, their craft rising once more into the skies. By the time the males ventured back, the newly-enhanced female of the species had already invented two dozen new words - which of course, annoyed the males to no end.

Slowly, over the centuries, cross-breeding between the vastly different males and females caused some mingling of the new species and the old... but only to a degree. Though physically and biologically compatible, certain parts of the 'gifts' bestowed upon the women that day remained the providence of the feminine gender. As ages passed, the memory of the great and fortunate day faded, leaving only the differences between men and women, without even the slightest memory of the reason why, or of the visitors who had started it all.

The alien creatures, however, didn't exactly forget them. Upon arriving home, the aliens filed a standard Form 638297646-Alpha-546P- Q12-Beta-Delta-2300.

Slash B.

This form was filed within the Galactic Archive, the massive storage facility planet at the center of the local galactic cluster, where it was cross-referenced, filed, triplicated, re-blorbed and entered into the telepathic data-base.

Which is how it came, many years later, that a Junior Glorp-Person (Second Class), became aware of the fact that a standard 'enhanced' entity had failed to achieve super-luminal translocation within the time-frame estimated (plus or minus twelve nictoes, as per the Gonorian-Horthac Scale of Societal Evaluation, published by Galactic University Press, 29843 G.E, all copyrights reserved.)

As per standard doctrine, the report was forwarded to the observation groups, verified, bumped up through twelve levels of bureaucracy, passed sideways through twelve different offices, lost twice, back-tracked four times, re-filed in triplicate, re-routed through Cultural Evaluations - who had nothing to do with it at all - and finally ended up on the pseudo-desk of Hornathmi Jorstan (the twenty-seventh), Chief Scientist of Minor Galactic Cultures and Societal Developments, and the guy in charge of the Sheep Dip.

Thmi-Jos XXIII (As his friends called him), promptly dispatched a standard Pseudo-Sentient Class II Trans-Luminal Probe to the planet in question.

The fact that the Probe - designated HAL-II - was suffering severe maladjustment of the neo-cortex, resulting in badly skewed pseudo- logical semi-intelligence was ignored. After all, it was a probe to a very, very minor planet with an even more minor species... and it was 'good enough for Government work.'

Aside from that, the HALL-II was a masterpiece of engineering. The major part of the space it occupied was the flexible antenna loop. Allowing it to communicate with the telepathic-transceiver of the Homeworld, it a long, linked series of silvery metal links that formed a wide 'loop' that trailed behind the craft itself, which was also a shiny metallic substance in the rough shape of a teardrop, in which was set the neo-cortex, enclosed in a dome of carbon-concentrate with several hundred facets mirroring sensors to the outside universe.

It was also less then twenty inches in diameter.

Moving two-hundred-and-seventy-two-point-three-one times faster then light, it shot through the universe, slowing rapidly as it entered the solar system of the destination planet. It continued it's braking maneuver, slowing below the threshold of the speed of light before passing the orbit of the planet's natural satellite, and dropping down past the sound barrier as it plunged through the planet's dense oxygen-rich atmosphere...

* * * * *

"You stupid, ungrateful, self-centered... bitch." Dave muttered up at the living-room ceiling, the pause being for him to take a sip of vodka. "You gold-digging, lousy, frigid little..."

This time, the break in his litany was caused by a sudden, sharp cracking sound that caused him to jerk, spilling the rest of his vodka over the front of his white undershirt.

"Shit!" Dave swore sharply, slamming the mostly-empty glass down on the coffee table and sitting up sharply, the evaporating alcohol cold against his skin. Then he spotted the small, star-shaped hole in the sliding glass doors that led out to the small balcony of his equally small apartment.

"Shit, shit, shit, SHIT! - Well, isn't this just fuckin' great!" Dave said, standing up and running a hand through his long, greasy brown hair. "Not only did my bitch of a girlfriend choose to leave me, leaving me with no date for tonight's big New Year's bash over at the Inferno, but some red-neck asshole puts a bullet through my fuckin' window!"

Already, the chill air was beginning to stream in through the small whole. Outside, it was bitterly cold, and even a small hole allowed too much of the cold wind in. Even worse - the wind was making an incredibly annoying, high-pitched whistling sound as it came through the hole. It set Dave's teeth on edge.

Cursing under his breath, Dave went into the kitchen and picked up the empty cereal box that had been sitting on the counter for the last week. Ripping off one side of it, he rooted around in a drawer until he found some tape - hockey-stick 'grip tape', to be exact - and returned to the living room.

Kneeling, He taped the piece of cardboard over the hole, then looked to see whether enough glass shards lay on the floor to bother trying to sweep it up.

That's when he noticed the shiny silver necklace laying on the floor, what appeared to be diamonds set in it's tear-drop shaped pendant. "Well..." Dave said, smiling slightly. "My day's looking up - Debbie left behind something I can pawn for a few bucks."

Reaching out, he picked up the necklace by the chain... then let out a startled cry, fingers opening as he felt a mild electric shock flow through his hand.

The necklace started to fall back to the floor... and then paused, actually hovering in mid-air. "What the fuck..." Dave gasped, staring...

...and then the necklace suddenly shot forward, riding up rapidly. Before Dave could jerk his head up to follow it's progress, it had risen above him - and then shot downwards, settling itself around his neck.

"Holy shit!" Dave swore, jerking backwards in delayed reaction. Startled - and not a little frightened - he reached up and grabbed the pendant to rip it from his neck...

...and didn't budge it so much as an inch. It was as if it were glued around his neck, as if it somehow had the power to push against his pulling and remain in place.

"Get the fuck off of me...!" Dave grunted, exerting more effort to yank the necklace off...

* * * * *

HAL-II struggled to make sense of the massive flow of data. When the creature had touched it, HAL-II had sensed many things, not the least of which was the fact that these creature was a lot less 'enhanced' then it should have been. More then that, though, physical contact had allowed it's telepathic receiver to tap into it's nervous system. HAL-II had decided that the quickest way to learn anything was to pick a spot where it's antenna would be settled near the major nerve conduit located along the posterior portion of the creatures torso.

Now, tapped into the nervous network of the creature, HAL-II was in direct contact with it's primitive brain. It almost immediately made the connections between some of the data flow and what it's own sensors were recording, and almost instantly had access to the creatures visual and acoustic sensors, able to 'see' and 'hear' through it's pitifully limited sensory organs.

It could also sense the creatures thoughts - but it would take time for HALL-II to comprehend the random surges and flows of energy, allowing it access to the creatures so-called 'thoughts'. Meanwhile, HAL-II was quickly picking up the other limited senses this creature possessed - as well as the signal impulses for motor function...

* * * * *

Dave was still struggling with the necklace - when he suddenly let go of it and dropped his arms to his side. The problem was - he hadn't meant to do that.

"What the...?" Dave gasped, stunned - for an instant, his arms and hands had been completely out of his control. Gingerly, he moved his arms, feeling the slide of his thick, slab-like muscles below his tanned skin. Everything felt like it should, every square inch of his massively muscled - and slightly flabby - body responding as it always had.

Until he tried to grab the necklace again. He could lift his arms and reach for it - but his hands and arms simply refused to get any closer then one inch away from it. It was as if there was an invisible, intangible barrier there. It didn't feel like he was pressing against anything - but his hands and arms simply refused to move any closer to the tear-drop shaped pendant.

"Goddamn it..." Dave swore in a low, stunned voice. "How the fuck did Debbie do this?"

"He slowly rose and padded to the bathroom to look at himself in the mirror. A tough, broad-shouldered guy, (with a bit of a beer belly), with what he liked to think of as 'rugged good looks', and muscles that would make Hercules jealous... and hanging around his neck, a very effeminate necklace with a slender silver chain and a diamond pendant.

"Debbie, you bitch, I don't know how you did this... but I'm gonna find a way to get it off, and then I'm gonna find you and make you pay for this..."

* * * * *

HAL-II's main processor was ready to give in to the urge to process random numbers for awhile.

HAL-II had already processed all available pattern recognition from the data streams of the neural net of this creature. Obviously, it must be severely defective. Not only was it far less 'enhanced' then it should be, but it's supposedly intelligent thoughts were an unrecognizable jumble. HAL-II wouldn't ever be able to 'read' this creatures thoughts directly.

However, HAL-II could - and already had - tapped into 'repetitive' data flows. Aside from accessing the creatures sensory systems and motor control functions, HAL-II had access to sub-sections of the creatures brain, where basic 'skill' and 'habit' data was stored.

Which left only one alternative. It would be time consuming, but HAL-II had no choice. Shutting down all on-board sensors, HAL-II limited itself to the creatures own senses.

It would just have to experience what the host creature was experiencing, and use that information to come to conclusions about this creature, from which it could then generate a report to the Homeworld...

* * * * *

"Debbie, you little bitch..." Dave said to his reflection, angrily. "You think making me wear some sort of girly jewelry is going to break me? You think I'm gonna hole up in my apartment like some fuckin' shut in, just because you found a way to super-glue your necklace to my neck? Like hell!"

The fact that he was planning to just stay home and get drunk before this all happened didn't matter to Dave. Now, he was determined to prove that some stupid 'revenge' stunt pulled by an ex-girlfriend wasn't going to keep him from having fun.

To prove that he was a real man, he'd show her that he was capable of overcoming any obstacles she through at him. A glance at the clock showed that it was just after nine o'clock - which told him he would be one of the early ones at the Inferno. He was going to get dressed and go to the New Year's bash tonight. After all, he was a real stud of a man, and the Inferno was the place to find a girl - it wasn't like he needed to bring a date.

Hell, telling Debbie that was where they were going for New Year's Eve is what made her storm out, telling him that she wasn't going to some orgy at any fucking strip-club. Of course, that wasn't true - there hadn't been a real orgy there for a couple of years now. Mostly it was couples or threesomes - with the occasional foursome - in the rooms of the Travelers Motor Lodge, the cheap motel that the Inferno was attached to. Still, booze, naked women and sex - did Debbie really think there was a better New Year's Party to be had anywhere? He'd been willing to take her rather than go alone, giving up the chance to fuck a few hot babes. She'd responded by taking off and somehow leaving behind this stupid trick necklace. Well, that was fine with Dave - he was going to have a hell of a night tonight, and ring in the New Year right.

When he arrived in the parking lot of the motel/club, the party was obviously already getting into gear. The heavy bass beat of the music leaked through the walls of the run-down, garishly-adorned club, and lights in some of the usually-empty motel rooms revealed that some people were already getting lucky.

With a big smile, Dave walked up to the club and threw the door open, letting the music roll out, almost as physically palatable as the smoke that also wafted out the doors. Striding inside, Dave quickly paid the guy at the ticket window, also handing over his coat - then walked into the main room of the club.

Since it was still early, the number of actual 'guests' was still fairly low - but that didn't mean that the club was empty. Every year, the first people to arrive were the girls who were really 'looking', whether for personal or professional reasons - which meant that the club was largely populated with whores, strippers and sluts.

* * * * *

HAL-II suddenly understood.

Here was the enhanced humans. Even with this creature's poor senses, HAL-II could see these creatures that were in abundance were more graceful and better constructed, and probably considerably more intelligent. HAL-II had simply had the bad luck to end up meeting a deformed creature.

There were more of these poorly-enhanced creatures present, too - and from the way they were gazing at the highly-evolved ones, it was obvious that this was some sort of ritual worship rite. All the signs of primitive tribal worship were there. The strange sounds, the odd lighting, the ritualistic behavior....

HAL-II began recording it's report even as it struggled to gather all the data it's host creature was capable of absorbing.

* * * * *

Rubbing his hands together briskly, Dave began to head towards the bar.

He only had so much money on him, and he was planning to spend the money on booze. The really desperate could hire a hooker sometime during the night, but Dave felt confident in his ability to get a few free fucks - and he wasn't talking about the sleazy looking biker-sluts, either.

His best bet was a stripper, some horny dancer looking to build a bit of a 'client base' - but they usually didn't start getting into it until later in the night, when they had a better selection of guys to choose from, and some 'Dutch courage' in them. Likewise, more women would show up during the night, and some of these later arrivals would be usually more sedate babes looking for a fling or quick adventure with some stranger. Right now, he'd just have to go with the flow and keep his eyes open.

Even as he bought his first beer of the evening, Dave was doing just that - maybe there's wasn't much chance of a lay first thing in the evening, but there was plenty of eye candy to look at. Even the bartender wasn't a complete dog. Sure, up close you could see she was getting on in years, and she was making her lips look fuller by too-much lipstick on too-little lips, but from the dark corner booth he'd chosen, she looked pretty damned good, since the hazy air and distance meant you could really only see the nicely feminine shape of her figure and her best feature, her hair.

* * * * *

Through the data from it's host's eyes, HAL-II saw the creature's attention focus on the more evolved human's head, and the fur-like substance atop it.

Quickly, HAL-II ran back it's recording and did some comparisons - and discovered that this was only one of the myriad of differences between the lesser and greater evolved versions of mankind. Obviously, the creature HALL-II was riding was envious of the more evolved creature's softer, longer, finer head-fur, and it's different shade.

Immediately, Hal-II's mater/energy circuits sprang to life, and it began to work at correcting some of the more obvious flaws that were plaguing it's host.

* * * * *

Leaning back, Dave took a long pull on the bottle of beer... and suddenly shivered as a tingling sensation ran over his scalp and down his neck.

"Damn..." Dave muttered, figuring it to be a draft from somebody coming in or going out. Absently, he reached up and brushed his hair back...

...and blinked as his fingers slid through hair that felt a lot softer and silkier than it usually did. He didn't like the fuller 'eighties' look of his hair when it was clean, thinking it made him look too much like Fabio or Sorbo, so he usually let it stay pretty greasy for extra weight. Somehow, though, it seemed light and soft - even as he took his hand away, he could feel it fluff up just the way he hated, puffing out and giving him the dreaded 'big hair' he so wanted to avoid.

"Goddamn cloth seat!" Dave swore - it hadn't been a gust of wind after all, it seemed - it must have been static electricity from the cheap cloth seats in the Inferno. It's explain both the tingle and the 'big hair'.

He'd just run to the bathroom and slick it back. Quickly, Dave finished his beer in a few long swallows, then slid from the booth.

He began heading for the bathroom - and noticed the chick in front of him heading in the same direction. He couldn't see much of her from the back, but from the way she was dressed she was one of these skanks who often showed up. Her legs weren't anything special, and her waist was too wide - but damn, if she didn't have a pretty nice ass under her fake-leather skirt!

Even though she wasn't much otherwise, just the thought of that ass of hers was making his cock twitch...

...and, suddenly, his pants began to feel tighter and tighter around his hips and ass, as if the fabric was shrinking or something. Hell, he barely had any hard-on, and the pants were now painfully tight over his ass and crotch from the pull on it. He'd chosen tight pants to show off his muscular legs and big 'package', but he hadn't realized they were that tight!

As the skank with the great ass pushed open the door to the women's room, Dave stepped into the men's room. He wanted to adjust himself to be more comfortable - but not in front of a bunch of guys who might get the wrong idea. Dave walked a bit awkwardly over to the sinks...

..and gasped at what he saw in the mirror. It wasn't his hair.

His hair had never been so full and silky - or long. The hair now surmounting his head was a huge, lustrous mane of jet black, falling down past his shoulders. It was they type of perfect rich, silken black hair usually reserved for petite oriental women - yet the massive, thick, 'poufy' mane of hair was on his head.

It was more then just his hair, though. In the mirror, he could see the outline of his now-limp cock clearly imprinted in the fabric of the jeans. He'd wanted tight jeans that showed off what he had - but not jeans so incredibly tight they were uncomfortable like this, much less skin-tight.

The reason for it was pretty obvious. As unobtrusively as he could, he checked his own ass by pretending to turn and see if somebody had freed up a stall yet - as far as the other guys in here were concerned, he was just another guy waiting to get to the toilet...

...except he could see that some guys were trying too hard not to look at him. Part of it might have been his unusually thick, luxuriant black hair - but more if it might have been the incredibly full, firm ass that strained the back of his jeans, revealing an ass even better looking then the one he'd been staring at on the woman.

"What the fuck...?" Dave muttered to himself under his breath, confused - and frightened. Then, fear began to give way to anger.

"Debbie.." He hissed, eyes narrowing. Somehow, this was just more humiliation from his ex-girlfriend. He didn't know how she was doing it, but...

Wait! Maybe he did know how...!

No - that was ridiculous. It.. it just wasn't possible. After all, she'd just been joking around last Halloween when she'd done the little bit about how everybody thought witches were ugly, dressed in black and wore pointy hats. She hadn't been trying to suggest that she was really a witch of some sort...

...was she?

Well, however she was doing it, this whole thing had started when he'd 'just happened' to find the necklace she'd left behind after storming out this morning and calling him a sexist bastard. This was her 'revenge' - and he was going to find her and make her pay for this...

...after she undid it, of course.

He headed towards the door with a confident stride, his shame lost in the anger and purpose he was feeling...

...except he quickly pulled up short as the strong, determined stride caused the fabric of his jeans to almost crush his balls.

Just then, one of the stalls opened up - and Dave dashed for it. All the other guys - as anxious to avoid being labeled 'homo' as he was - was desperately trying to pretend he wasn't there, and he had no trouble getting into the stall and closing the door.

Frowning, he pulled down his pants - which was fairly easy, since they practically popped open when he undid them. He paused for a second with his pants down, and hesitantly ran his hands over his enlarged ass, finding it as firm, round and spectacular as it had looked in the mirror.

Outraged at what Debbie had done to his perfect male ass, Dave wanted to scream. Instead, he had to degrade himself further. Wincing, he carefully guided his large, thick cock between his legs, pushing his balls as far back as possible before pulling up his briefs. Then, awkwardly, he fought to get his jeans back up, and the zipper done up. It took a struggle, but he did it.

It felt damned uncomfortable to have his cock and balls tucked away like that, but there was more loose cloth there, and he'd be able to walk without crushing himself.

Resolutely, he ostentatiously flushed the toilet, then opened the stall door and headed as quickly as he could to the bathroom door.

* * * * *

HAL-II still couldn't make much sense of the spoken language this race used, not having had enough sampling of it yet - but it was certainly figuring out what it could from other data.

For instance - the way the host had reacted strongly to the improvements Hal-II had made. HAL-II had considered the difference between the host and the more enhanced human it had been looking at - and then had extrapolated that data, enhancing the host even further, as much past the enhanced human as it had been behind, before. Obviously, it was working - look at the hosts' reactions, as well as those around it. Now it was trying to emulate one of the enhanced humans by hiding the bulge that it had, which the enhanced humans obviously didn't.

HAL-II's internal programming wanted to correct that flaw - but HAL-II didn't yet have enough data on the enhanced humans to know what was supposed to replace the ugly tubular appendage that the host had just hidden. Instead, it would have to try and gather more data, and this temple or festival was the perfect place for it, rich in examples of both deformed and enhanced humans...

...except that the host seemed to be heading towards the exit of this building. That just wouldn't do.

Obviously, the host was overjoyed to have been so enhanced already that it thought that it had gotten all it was going to get, and was eager to go show itself off to others not here. It was a common trait in lesser species. However, HAL-II still had a lot of work to do at this location, and was determined to do it.

* * * * *

Dave almost reached the door... when he suddenly stopped and turned around, heading back into the main room.

However - it wasn't he who had ordered his body to do so. All of the sudden, it was as if he'd been placed on remote control. His muscles stopped responding to his mind, turned him around, and pushed him deeper into the club.

Then, as suddenly as it had happened, it stopped, and Dave almost fell over as control was suddenly returned to his body.

He wanted to growl out Debbie's name. From the inexplicable way things were happening, he was almost ready to believe she was a witch. Turning, he headed for the door again...

...and once more found himself turning around and moving back towards the center of the club, unwillingly.

It was like... like a spell. Some sort of magical spell like the ones you read about in fairy tales. Once he'd entered the club, he'd come under the power of the spell, and wouldn't be allowed to leave until whatever was going on ended.

At least, that was the idea. Now, Dave was beginning to feel truly afraid. He'd managed to piss off an ex-girlfriend who turned out to control some sort of mystical power. Obviously, this had all been set up. He was planning to spend the night at home, alone, getting drunk - yet, instead, he'd ended up here, trapped in the very club Debbie had been so pissed about him wanting them to go to. In retrospect, it was so obvious - this was some sort of magical revenge Debbie had set up, everything planned so that he'd end up here to be humiliated and degraded.

Well.. she might have some phenomenal powers he hadn't known about, but she was just Debbie - and he was smarter than her. He was damned if he was just going to let this happen to him. He was going to find some way out of this.

Meanwhile, though, he wasn't going to give her the satisfaction of making his humiliation any greater than it absolutely had to be. He was going to keep as low a profile as possible and not draw attention to what was happening. Hell - she'd probably expected him to scream when he'd seen what she'd done to his ass and hair, and draw everybody's attention to it. Instead, only a few guys in the bathroom had noticed. Here, on the main floor, it was dimly lit and smoky, and nobody was paying that much attention to him, really.

Trying to act casual, Dave began to circle the room for other exits he might slip through. First though, he was going to get another drink, something with authority - he needed it.

Dropping a bill onto the bar, Dave ordered a double vodka. The bartender poured it and slid the glass over the counter, and he reached out to grab it, watching eagerly as her hand slid the clear alcohol closer to him. His hand touched the glass just as hers released it...

...and, as he watched in horror, his fingers slimmed down, his nails growing longer and rounder. Even as he watched his hand become slender and feminine-looking, he could feel his other hand changing as well.

Quickly, he wrapped his now-dainty hand around the glass and pulled it over the edge of the bar and rested it close to his side, hand tucked in. The bartender was gathering up the money, so she didn't notice the way he'd suddenly acquired a very slender, feminine hand with very long, feminine-looking nails on it.

Quickly, Dave brought the drink to his mouth and gulped half of it down... and almost gouged himself with the long nails on his new hand, barely twisting them away from his face in time - and outwards, where they'd been more noticeable. Hoping nobody had seen his lengthy new nails, he tucked his hand back down as the liquor spread its fire down his throat and through his stomach.

Trying to sound nonchalant, he forced a weak smile and spoke to the bartender.

"So... this place is pretty busy tonight, and going to get busier. You could lose a person in the crowd in a few hours time." The woman's plucked eyebrow went up. "What?"

"Well.." Dave said, ducking his head in what looked like a bashful move. "I was just wondering which door you go out after your shift... if a guy wanted to meet you..."

The woman eyed him, seeing a broad-shouldered, obviously muscular man looking bashfully down at the bar and asking her 'out', in a round-about manner. She'd noticed him start to leave, twice, and then turn around, and had wondered what was going on... and now she realized he'd been afraid to come talk to her, and had been debating with himself whether to just give up or not.

She found it kind of cute, actually.

"I leave by the employee's entrance..." she said, letting her voice go from 'professions' to 'sexy'. "The one through the dressing room behind the stage. It's out back and I get off at midnight."

Dave continued to look down at the bar. It was even out of a form of bashfulness.. because he felt a strange tickling sensation above his eyes, and he had a sneaking suspicion about it.

He was right, too - if he'd met the bartender's eyes, she would have noticed the high, finely arched eyebrows curving over them, putting her own sculpted one to shame. For that matter, she would have also noted that Dave's lashes were longer, thicker and darker than her own, even without any mascara.

Dave forced himself to play out the charade. "Well, maybe "

He stopped dead - then downed the rest of his drink, dropped the glass on the bar, and hurried away into the crowd.

Leaving behind a very confused bartender, who was trying to figure out if she'd really heard the broad-shouldered guy speak in a silky- smooth, incredibly sexy and very feminine contralto - for all of two words. It seemed impossible for any man to have a voice that sounded so utterly feminine - and sensual.

Of course, for an instant she could have sworn he had tiny, slender hands tipped with three-inch long nails, too...

In any case, she wasn't walking to her car until one of the bouncers would go with her. That guy might be waiting for her, and now she thought he might be weird.

Cursing his ex-girlfriend the witch, Dave wormed his way steadily closer to the Stripper's changing rooms.

Of course, he was muttering under his breath - he didn't want anybody hearing the phone-sex-girl voice he'd suddenly found himself saddled with. He also kept his head down to keep anybody from seeing his altered lashes or brows.

Which, of course, meant he was looking downwards, and only seeing people from the waist down. It was kind of hard to avoid noticing certain things. Like the woman who ankled her way across his path. From his angle of view, Dave didn't know what she looked like from the waist up but from the waist down, there was plenty to see.

The legs were pretty damned nice, and further enhanced by the nylons she was wearing. However, there were lots of girls with nice legs here, most of them the strippers, with the finely tones and defined 'dancers' legs Dave like so much. What made this one so special was the fact that her feet were enclosed in a platform shoe with a eight-inch platform heel - and that the combination of the high- heels and the way she walked almost 'heel-to-toe' made her wide, full hips sway and swivel in the most amazing way.

Shaking his head, Dave cleared the image from his mind and contained making his way unobtrusively towards the dressing room...

...then suddenly gasped out a strangled curse in a husky contralto voice.

He was planning to be as unnoticed as possible - but it was sort of hard to remain incognito when your pants suddenly cramp around your hips, crotch and ass in a painful vise of denim. Both the denim material and the metal button-fly of the jeans were strong, and the material refused to give, acting like a vise that strained agonizingly tight around him... even as he stumbled his way out of footwear that had suddenly become much too large.

Of course, that was all relative - because his clothing hadn't changed sizes at all. It was his hips that had suddenly flared out to womanly proportions, and his feet that had become tiny and small.. and something else, which is why he'd pitched forward so hard, slamming into a woman.

"Watch it, buster." She snapped, glancing over her shoulder for a second. Dave, mortified, in pain, and furious at his absent ex-girlfriend, didn't answer.

He also tried to deal with the sensation in his lips. It felt like somebody had punched him there - only without the punch. Instead, he felt the after-effect, as his lips puffed out, becoming even fuller and more sensual than those of the woman who'd snapped at him.

However, he was too busy to deal with the way his new lips felt, so softly firm and swollen - because he was trying desperately to keep his balance. There was something wrong with his feet - they wouldn't go flat. He was forced to stand on tip-toe, barely able to stay upright on his stocking feet.

Awkwardly, eyes watering from the pain of the jeans that crushed his new curves, Dave made his way to the wall and used it for balance as he made it around the corner and into the hallway leading into the dressing rooms. Since there was no dancing tonight, the place was deserted as he made his way down the hall.

Not so with the first room he glanced in. It turned out to be the showers... and there were two women busy soaping each other up.

"Hey...!" One woman started to object... then stopped, and looked Dave up and down. "Hmmm... not bad... A little flat chest, maybe, but... Wanna join us?"

"No..." Dave said, nearly gasping in pain - even as his altered voice further convinced the two women that Dave was female. Muscular and not terribly attractive themselves, the two dykes in the shower didn't find anything particularly unusual in the 'woman' in the doorway's muscular build or over-sized nose. After all, 'she' had full, soft lips, long hair, wide hips... and so looked an awful lot like the two muscular biker-dykes soaping up in the shower.

Burning in shame and pain, Dave moved away from the shower and checked the other door, grateful to find it was empty - and the right room. He stepped into the dressing room and moved around a privacy partition, keeping him from being seen from the hall.

Almost whimpering in pain, Dave undid his pants and pulled them and his shredded underwear off, relieved to feel the pressure gone... he had to bite his full new lower lip to keep from screaming, and almost gouged himself as his hands flew to his crotch.

Or, more accurately, 'her' crotch. Because 'Little Dave and The Boys' was missing... replaced with a very, very feminine slit. In the mirror on the dressing table she was leaning against for support, there was no doubt whatsoever. Nestled between the firm, silky thighs of the long, spectacular legs she now possessed lay a perfectly formed cunt.

For a second, despair washed over Dave... and then she took several deep breaths.

"Debbie, I am going to make you change me back... and enjoy doing whatever it may take to 'convince' you..." Dave said quietly in her rich, feminine new voice as she looked at the reflection in the mirror.

From the waist down, she was fully female. The long, incredible legs and womanly hips seemed definitely out of place against her still broad-shouldered, muscular torso, and her tiny, high-arched feet even more so. She was a mish-mash of parts... but there was no doubt in which direction this was heading.

However, the door to the outside was just down a short hallway on the other die of this dressing room. She might make it out without any further changes, and then she'd track Debbie down and...

First, however, she had a small problem. She was naked from the waist down, and barely able to walk atop her tiny new feet. Like the feet of a Barbie doll, her dainty new feet were formed into a curved arch sloped downwards. As disgusted as it made her feel she knew she didn't have much of a choice...

...She'd have to wear women's clothes.

However, before she could even start her search for a pair of jeans and low heels, she heard voices coming down the hall.

Glancing around frantically, Dave finally ducked into one of the lockers, shutting the door in front of him and peering through the vent cracks as a couple of buxom women wearing jeans and loose sweat-shits came in the room. Obviously strippers who worked hear, they were getting changed for the party, putting on their sexy 'work clothes' for the event.

* * * * *

HAL-II was picking up more language. Not all of it, but some of it - it was listening carefully to ever word within earshot, and - unlike it's host - HAL-II could keep track of dozens of conversations at once.

It could also watch the two 'enhanced' humans. It now knew that these were called 'women/girls/babes/chicks/females/chichas/sisters', and the deformed one 'guys/men/boys/studs'. It was obvious that the 'stud' hosting HAL-II was having trouble - it had no experience being enhanced. It might be looking more and more like a 'girl', but was having trouble acting like one...

Of course, it was capable of helping correct that, but at the moment HAL-II was 'focused' on the two 'girls'. The one on the right was cupping the domes masses protruding from her front. They were considerably more enhanced then the others', and she seemed proud of them, using the sound group 'boob job', as well as 'tits'. She was also mentioning them in relation to 'guys' and 'love' and 'attention', which was interesting. The other one also spoke often of the relationship between her enhanced forms and 'guys', which meant that, deformed as they were, 'men' played some sort of integral part in this strange society. Some sort of important tasks they performed for/with their superior creatures, the 'women'. This service was multifaceted and apparently related to the sound-group 'sex'...

* * * * *

It seemed to take forever, but the two strippers finally left, their voices trailing after them until swallowed by the noise of the party.

For nearly a minute, the dressing room lay empty. Then the door to a locker slowly swung open, and Dave emerged - or rather, the person that Dave had become emerged, for she bore little resemblance to the person who'd entered the club.

A lot of men would have paid good money to see the sight of this woman stepping from the locker. After all, she was nearly naked. She was naked, from the waist down, and her upper half was covered only by a white undershirt strained to the limit, and a blue denim shirt that hung open over it, hastily unbuttoned because it wouldn't 'stretch' enough for her new rack.

More then just her state of undress though - she was drop dead, drop-one-wind-and-run-in-circles gorgeous. An exotic beauty to make men's mouth's water.

She was short, barely over four feet tall.. As a matter of fact, she was as much shorter as an 'average' woman as Dave had been taller, but that was neither here nor there - all that mattered was that she was a small package, in terms of height. Like diamonds and dynamite, though, there could be a lot of power in a small package, and in her case it was absolutely true.

Her hands and feet, tiny and dainty, were now in keeping with the scale of the rest of her body - but despite all that, she wasn't herself 'dainty' or 'elfin'. She was 'slender' only by the virtue of being built on a more supple chassis then most women, and all men - but it wasn't a 'girlish' or 'weak' build. Now, it was full of feminine grace and power, like a panther.

She was exquisitely toned, for her long dancer's legs to her slender-yet-well-toned shoulders and arms. Not over-muscled at all, and her toned muscled were soften with that layer of feminine padding that smoothed them to sensual curves and contours - but there was no doubting that, feminine as she was, she was incredibly toned and fit.

Her hips were wide and womanly, yet supple - not overdone, though it was a close thing. Her waist was enviably slender, but not unbelievably tiny - though it did look smaller in comparison of her wide hips and incredible full, firm ass. Her stomach was visible, because the bottom of her undershirt was pulled upwards as the upper part was pulled upwards - and it was a trim, flat stomach with the nicely rounded curves of a washboard abs softened by a fine layer of feminine fat.

Above that stomach loomed her breasts. A FF- or G-cup in size, they were obviously remarkably firm and full, but without the characteristic 'sphere' of implants, having a slight droop of 'natural' nature. At the size they were, they protruded seven inches beyond her ribcage by themselves, by an additional inch could be added for her huge, dark nipples, clearly viable through the thin white material as the stood rigid in the cool air.

These breasts shifted ever so slightly with each breath, seeming almost alive themselves as they moved ever so enticingly with every inhale and exhale.

Her face was an interesting study in sensuality. It was well-defined, hovering on the line that would pass from 'strong' into 'masculine', but not quite crossing it. Her lips were incredibly full and sensual, but unmarked by either smile or frown lines, giving her a faintly haughty look.

Her nose was proud and fairly large, but not unattractively so. Instead, it matched her faintly haughty look - which was enhanced even more by the dark, heavy-lidded and provocative yes framed by long, dark lashes that lay beneath her slender, high-arched brows.

A massive wealth of silky black hair surrounded her face and trailed down her back almost to her ass. Once long and straight, in now fell in massive cascading waves of loose curls.

All of this would have served to make her a stunning beauty by any standards, a sensual powerhouse that looked like she could go all night and into the next day and still beg for more. But there was more to this incredible vision than that.

There was the color of her skin. If you imagined a skin-tone-square, with Oriental in one corner, Hispanic in another, American Indian in the third and Tanned Caucasian in the last, then the skin color of this new woman would lay in the epicenter of that box, and even division that left her with an incredible golden-bronze skin with copper overtones that was exotic and sensual.

That skin-tone was further enhanced by the unnaturally smooth, hairless skin she possessed. It was almost literally 'silky', the pores being as much smaller than most women's as Dave's had been large, leaving her skin with a shimmering shine as if she were lightly oiled at all times. No trace of hair disrupted this perfect skin until you reached those lashes, and the brows and hair that lay above - or, moving downward, until you reached the perfectly formed triangle of hair surrounding her perfect pussy, the hair amazingly fine and silky.

The sight of her would have set most men drooling. They would have watched with hungry, lust filled eyes as she approached the dressing table and its mirror, moving with the sensual power of a panther, hips swaying seductively as her huge bust swayed slightly with each step. They would have watched her sit down with an unconscious grace and look at her incredible form in the mirror. They would have eyed her incredible lips as they parted to let an incredible seductive, sensual voice flow forth...

"You fuckin' bitch, Debbie. When I find you, I'm gonna rip your fuckin' head off and shove it so far up your ass that..."

This went on for quite some time. It was only when the new woman was using the same phrases for the sixth or seventh time that she finally wound down and fell silent. Still angry - but more low burning than white-hot - she started into a more 'rational' series of bitching.

"Look at me!" She said to the absent Debbie, bringing her hands up and pulling the shirt up to reveal her new rack. "Look at these breasts! They're too big! They're absolutely huge, and they weigh a... ooooohhhh!"

The last came out in a dick-stiffening low moan of pleasure as her hands made contact with her huge, softly firm mounds...and began to unconsciously slide over them, slipping almost instinctively to her nipples, redoubling the pleasure as she closed her eyes and leaned back in the chair, full lips slightly parted to allow low, soft gasps of pleasure to escape from her throat as she lost herself in fondling her gorgeous, perfect tits...

Hal-II had also enhanced her nerve endings and pleasure centers. Fondling her tits was equivalent to stroking the shaft of the cock she didn't have any more, and the nipples were as sensitive as the head of that missing organ.

Letting her head loll to the side, the new woman continued to fondle her huge, firm mounds, tongue unconsciously sliding out to lick her lips - which also created waves of pleasure from the enhanced pleasure-sensing nerves in both tongue and lips. Lost in the waves of intense pleasure that were running through her incredible new form, she reluctantly let one hand release a sensual breast and slide downward, towards the intense pleasure promised by the vee between her taut thighs...

"No...!" She gasped, barely managing to snap out of the sexual daze she'd dropped so easily into. She yanked her hands away from her body... reluctantly.

"No..." She repeated, a bit more firmly. "I.. I don't know what you've done to me, Debbie, but... I'm not going to give in."

She was, of course, unaware that her hormone levels had also been 'enhanced' as far to the feminine end of the spectrum as she'd use to be towards the male end...

Letting herself calm down, she tried to forget how good her new body had felt under her own hands and she finished peeling off the last of her masculine clothes. She was going to find something pretty basic to wear, and she was going to get out of her. It was ten thirty, and she was planning to be male again before the new year rolled in at midnight.

Gloriously naked, lights in the ceiling belling copper highlights from her skin and hair, the new woman rose gracefully from the chair. She didn't know why she was suddenly moving with an unconscious, sensual grace, but she wasn't ready to condemn it completely. It was like there was some sort of 'filter' between her brain and her body - she gave it the order to move, but it chose how that movement would happen, picking actions that were sensual and graceful and feminine, all of which disgusted and embarrassed her - but it made balancing on the tips of her altered feet much easier, though no less uncomfortable.

Hips swiveling sensuously, she began to search the lockers for clothing.

The first thing she needed was underwear. Though the thought of wearing women's panties was less than appealing, it had to be done, just in case. She managed to find a pair of white, fairly plain panties - though they were unarguable feminine.

She reached out to pick them up...

...and winced as a wave of pain lanced through her head, as if a spike were being driven in past her left eyeball. The same instant, her hand came to a dead stop several inches from the panties, unable to move any closer.

Gasping in the pain, she withdrew her hand... and the pain faded.

* * * * *

HAL-II was a machine. A complicate one capable of simulating intelligent though, but a machine nonetheless - so it wasn't able to feel 'pride' at what it had accomplished with this base creature.

It's thoughts were still unreadable to HAL-II, for the most part. However, HAL-II now had access to the lower-end 'animal' centers. The pleasure and pain centers, the sensations neural network, and the emotional complex. It could manipulate these all it wanted, and it could use these basic tools to help teach this confused creature to act 'correctly', according to what HAL-II had learned from observing the more enhanced 'women'.

* * * * *

"Damn it..." She said, resisting the urge to whimper in near defeat. It didn't take much to figure out that whatever spell Debbie had cast on her would keep her for picking such blasé clothing.

Turning away from the plain pair of panties, she looked at a pair of silky, lacy black panties that were little more than a wisp of lacy material. Closing her eyes and sighing heavily, she reached out and picked them up, finding no impediment or pain this time.

She stared at the panties she held for a long moment, then slowly sat in a chair and slide her legs through the leg holes, one at a time, then stood to finish pulling the tiny French-cut panties in place.

As they slid up her legs, she felt a sudden wave of emotional pleasure and pride begin to wash over her. She stopped dead, startled by the emotions and sensation. Instantly, they faded - but didn't disappear. "No..." She whispered. "No, you didn't..."

Slowly, she began to slide the panties upwards again... and felt the pleasure return. Putting on the sexy, feminine panties was making her feel.. good. Happy. Proud. Excited.

She stopped dead, disgusted by the enforced 'pleasant' sensations. She didn't want to enjoy doing anything feminine, damn it! Angrily, she began to pull the panties off...

...and began to feel uncomfortable. It wasn't pain, but a sense that something was missing, that she was making some sort of massive mistake she'd regret. Fighting against it, she got the panties off and tossed them aside...

...and was shocked to find that she was near the edge of tears. As if she'd just thrown away something wonderful. Her heart was throbbing in her chest, and she felt miserable, emotionally, though there was no physical discomfort.

"Dammit..!" She half-sobbed - then grabbed the panties and quickly pulled them on. She was instantly rewarded by a wave of happiness and pleasure that wasn't at all lessened by the fact that they were artificially induced.

The pleasure redoubled and was matched with pride and eager excitement when she looked in the mirror and saw her body wearing such 'fitting' panties. Even the male part of her brain had to admit that these panties were much better on this body than plain ones would be - and that only made it worse, part of her helplessly and honestly agreeing with the imposed, unwanted sensations and emotions forced upon her as surely as the body had been.

She would have sobbed at the humiliation of it all - but it wasn't possible to sob, not when she felt so 'good' about the way she looked in the panties.

The sensation only grew as she continued to dress, helplessly choosing sexy clothes that flattered her new body.

Within twenty minutes she was fully dressed - and even the unforced part of her mind had to admit that she looked absolutely amazing.

She was balanced atop a pair of rounded-toe pumps with a two-inch backward-sloping platform sole under the toe, and nine-inch tall stiletto heels lifting the back of her feet upwards. They looked great on her small, dusky feet - and felt as comfortable to her altered feet as if she were wearing sneakers, her balance now easy and unconscious, her feet comfortable in the eminently feminine footwear.

Her golden-bronze legs hardly needed the assistance of nylons, being silkier than any man-made material could ever be, and they looked absolutely mouth-watering as they rose from the pumps and upwards, disappearing under the hem of the tiny black leather skirt she wore. The gleaming black material molded itself to her wide hips and mind-boggling ass, the hem barely covering the wisp of underwear she wore.

Above that skirt lay a black silk 'peasant blouse', its elasticized neck-line displaying a fair amount of perfect cleavage as the shirt strained over her new endowments, her nipples obvious as they made points in the taut material of the blouse.

She looked... fantastic. Erotic and exotic, with an almost 'Gypsy' flavor to her.

"There, Debbie - are you happy?" She asked, aloud... and found the answer as her eyes seemed to take on a life of their own, drawn as if magnets to a make-up table, and focusing on a tube of lipstick.

"No..." She whispered, eyes helplessly locked on the thin black tube. "Not that...!"

She tried to pull her gaze away - but a wave of almost crippling shame came over her as she tried to walk away from having to make herself up. She managed to get two whole steps away from the make-up table before she desperately needed to sit down. Her hands reached forwards...

Another fifteen minutes, and she was looking at herself in the mirror again,. Humiliation warring with amazement at how utterly incredible she now looked - even more so than she had 'naturally'.

Dark, gloss-red lipstick further enhanced her incredible lips, and dark purple eyeshadow and black mascara and eyeliner brought out her sultry, seductive eyes. A dark gloss nail polish now adorned her long fingernails.. and she was wearing large silver hoop earrings through mysteriously pierced earlobes, going well with the damned immovable pendant that hung around her neck, seeming to point down to her spectacular cleavage.

Taking a deep breath, she tried to fight off the waves of pleased pride she felt at looking so damned sexy, and rose gracefully from the chair. With a sensual sway enhanced by her skyscraper heels, she made her way toward the back of the dressing room. She was dressed and made up - and now it was time to get out of here.

She made it to within five feet of the door when she found herself turning around and walking in the other direction. She struggled for control of her renegade body, but it refused to obey her commands as it sensuously glided out the door of the dressing room, down the hall - and into the party that was now in full swing in the main room of the club.

Instantly, she could feel eyes swinging to lock onto her short, voluptuous form, could almost hear the lustful thoughts of the men as they gazed upon her sexy golden body - and she shuddered at the 'pleasure' being gazed upon generated on her. Unconsciously, she drew back her shoulders to better display her bust and increased the sensual nature of her walk, adding more 'oomph' to it.

She would have been horrified if she'd realized what she was doing - because she was doing it 'voluntarily', unconsciously acting in a way that would increase the pleasure that was being generated by looking and acting sexy and seductive.

It was definitely working. Even men whose taste usually ran to different builds and coloration were ogling her...

...and, she suddenly realized, so were a fair amount of the women. Some of them wore looks of scorn, some of envy - but a vast majority of them were eyeing her with a guilty, surprised lust.

Which wouldn't have surprised her half as much, had she known that her pheromone production was as enhanced as the rest of her. HAL-II had come to the conclusion that the lesser males existed to serve these 'sex' needs of the more enhanced females - so it was entirely logical that all would serve an even more enhanced creature, like that which she now was.

However, she didn't know any of this. All that she knew was that as she walked through the club, a good eighty percent of the eyes on her were staring at her with various levels of unbidden desire...

...and it was making her feel light-headed with pleasure. She didn't particularly want to feel that way about the men, at least, but she didn't have any choice - the more sexy people found her, the more pleasure and excitement thrummed through her nerve endings.

It was almost inevitable.

It happened to be a tall, broad-shouldered and handsome looking blond man who probably had a confident manner. However, he seemed nervous as he approached her, and his eyes roamed over her body as if he couldn't decide what part of her to stare at. As his eyes swept across her body, she could feel warm surges of pleasure as his gaze touched various parts of her - and it was driving her nuts.

"Uh... hi..." He said, finally choosing to focus on her tits, which made her shiver with unwanted enjoyment. "Can I, uh... buy you a drink?"

She opened her mouth to turn him down.. and realized that if she did, he might leave. He might stop staring at her lustfully. The pleasure she was feeling would diminish...

'Do it!' She screamed at herself, mentally, ordering herself to turn the man away, to stop this before it went to too far...

...but it would mean denying herself the pleasure she was feeling. Though she didn't want to be, she felt fantastic right now, the man's nearly palpable desire for her making her body thrum with pleasure. She didn't want that to end, no matter how humiliating the source of it might be...

For nearly a minute she stood stock still, not answering the man while everyone in earshot waited breathlessly... "Sure..." She finally said in a voice that made the guy want to cum right then and there.

Smiling, then man reached out a hand. "I'm Steve."

Unconsciously, she responded as expected, reaching out - and when their hands met, a wave of pleasure even stronger than what she'd felt before thrummed through her, almost making her gasp. Without thinking, without conscious decision, she blurted out a word in a husky, lust-filled tone.

"Desire."

Steve grinned as he shook her hand, unaware of the amazing pleasure he was giving her by the simple action. "Well.. that's a great name... Desire."

"Thank you..." She muttered as more pleasure flushed through her at the compliment.

"Well, let's get you that drink.. Steve said, turning and leading her by the hand towards the bar. She went with him, walking sensuously, completely unable to remove her hand from his, pleasure thrumming up and down her spine and making her light-headed from it.

Reaching the bar, he asked her what she wanted, and she absently asked for a beer. In truth, she was struggling mightily to pull her hand from his, to escape this humiliating ecstasy... but it was only when the beer was put in front of her that she had enough will to remove her right hand from his and reach out for the beer. Almost out of habit, she brought the beer to her lips...

...and noticed his eyes following it. She felt pleasure rise again as his eyes watched the neck of the bottle reach her lips, her full, sexy lips that started to wrap around the bottle...

She was barely aware of the bottle as it slipped from her fingers, landing on the floor and falling over to send golden ale gurgling into the carpet. She was barely aware of anything as her arms came up and draped themselves languidly around Steve's neck and she leaned forward, intense pleasure flaring as her huge tits pressed into his chest... and then redoubling as their lips met...

'Oh, shit...!' Part of Desire's mind said, horrified. 'I'm kissing a guy...!'

However, it was a tiny voice lost in the rapids and eddies of the rive of pleasure that was flooding her body. It was ten times more fantastic then what she'd felt fondling her own body in the dressing room - and she'd only been barely able to stop herself then. Now, she was lost, out of control as she pulled her body tightly against him and kissed him long and slow and hungry, milking the physical and emotional pleasure to the extreme.

Though became nearly impossible. Whenever she tried to marshal a coherent thought, it was tattered and torn away by the violent slip- stream of pleasure that held her in it's grip. She was 'caught in the moment', little more then a ecstasy-filled observer of what was happening to her.

She felt Steve's hands slip around to fondle her ass - and it felt fantastic, pleasure swelling higher and higher. She was in the midst of what would have equaled and orgasm for her male body - yet it was continues, holding her in a swelling and ebbing flow that had no end, no physical 'release' like an orgasm - just pleasure, pure and unadulterated.

She heard a voice speaking... and was dimly amazed to realize it was her own. "My tits..." her voice said. "Somebody fondle my tits..."

From behind her, somebody took her up on her order. A pair of feminine hands reached out and pulled the blouse down, stretching the elastic neck so that it could slide over her huge, firm tits and to her waist. Then Desire felt the sensation of firm, perky breasts pushing into the silky skin of her back as the woman behind her pressed herself against her body and reached around to slide her hands between Desire and Steve, fondling and massaging her huge tits and engorged nipples.

Time had no meaning. Desire couldn't have said if it was an instant or an eternity that this lasted... but then it was changing. Something was happening, and she became aware that she was sliding downwards, the woman behind her bending over to continued fondling her tits. Desire found herself bent over, no longer kissing Steve's mouth... she'd slowly been kissing her way down his body, since he - or somebody - had removed his shirt.

She didn't recall doing it herself.

However, she found her full, ripe lips reaching his crotch - as she saw a pair of feminine hands reach out to unzip his pants and pull them and his underwear down. A pair of dusky, golden/copper hands...

Then his thick, throbbing cock popped into view... and she found herself moving forward. As her lips engulfed his cock, her hands wrapped around the shaft, and she was lost in ecstasy as she began sucking his cock, slowly and seductively.

'No!' that small, unheard part of her brain screamed in horror at what she was doing - but she was unable to stop as she continued sucking the cock as if she had done it before - and loved it.

She felt the woman's hands leave her breasts... and another pair of hands undo her belt and unzip her skirt. Soon, she felt the skirt and her underwear slide down her legs and pool around her high-heels...

...and then a cock slid into her sopping wet new cunt from behind, and every thought stopped and she ceased to exist as a separate entity, now composed of nothing but a thousand different types of pleasure and sensations...

It was an eternity, and endless moment that stretched of into forever...

...and then the strangest thing happened. It felt as if her mind was receding from her body, the sensations fading as she was released from the hormonal and ecstatic needs and desires of her altered body. The body continued fucking a sucking every man and woman who made it's way to her.. but her mind was separate, watching this from the inside in stark horror.

'Oh my god...!' She screamed within the vaults of her own mind, hearing her old male tones in that mental voice. 'I... I... I've been turned into a nymphomaniac. I.. I can't stop fucking!'

Then, out of nowhere, came a voice. A non-gender-specific, completely emotionless voice.

* * * * *

"This is only temporary." HAL-II told her, having finally made the connection to her conscious mind. "To get you used to sexual techniques and sensations. Shortly, you will regain a measure of control, though you will continue to feel the desire to cause yourself pleasures like this."

There was a long pause.. and then the host's mental voice said "Debbie...?"

HAL-II wasn't completely capable of accessing all this creatures memories. All it knew was that 'Debbie' was the mental sound-group it had been assigning to whatever was causing the changes to it, so...

"Yes. I am Debbie." HAL-II agreed. "You were a degenerate, brutish creature, and I have been making you female." There - that would explain the wonderful gift of 'enhancement'.

"However, I must soon go away." HAL-II continued. "You will keep this form, and find that it will serve you well for 'sex'. Men and women around you will be affected by you, and desire to engage in this 'sex' - and you will also have great desire for engaging in the pleasure of this 'sex'. After tonight, you will also have all the skills you will need for this."

Hal-II paused. "I must now withdraw myself from your mind and body in order to prepare myself for leaving. However, I will communicate with you one last time before I depart permanently."

* * * * *

Desire slammed back into her new body...

...just in time to scream her way through an orgasm. No longer 'hyped' by altered emotional and mental programming, it was still incredibly intense.

Then it was fading... and she pulled herself off the man's cock, shuddering as she regained full control of her body. "Enough..." She gasped, pulling away from eager, groping hands and standing up.

She was standing in the middle of an orgy. Her pheromones had made every person in the club super-horny, and if they couldn't fuck her they'd fuck each other. A sea of naked bodies involved in every variation of sex possible without bringing in specialized equipment was going on around her.

"Come on, Desire..." Sever voices called, hungrily - and she had to fight down a sudden urge to give in. She was no longer being mentally or emotionally manipulated - but she was a super-horny woman in a super-sensitive body, generating pheromones that made everybody around her super-horny too.

The fact that she knew for sure that she could satisfy her body's rampant desires made it even harder to resist. She'd done it now, she'd had sex with men and woman. Oral sex, vaginal sex, anal sex, tit-fucking, hand-jobs, eating and getting eaten out...and it had all felt absolutely fantastic, no matter how disgusted her inner male mind was by it.

Fighting the new urges of her altered body, she spoke. "Clothes.. I need some clothes..."

Eager volunteers passed her articles of clothing. It wasn't what she was wearing before, but before long she was dressed - tight black jeans that hugged her ass, hips and legs, knee-high black leather boots with six-inch heels, a black spandex-crop top and a black leather coat.

Avoiding the pleas of people around her, she headed for the door, unable to walk in anything but a sensual manner. Certain parts of her brain had been permanently altered, her old habits and motor-skills 'deleted' and replaced with sensual, feminine ones. For the rest of her life, every move she made would be seductive and sensual - and there was nothing he could do about it...

It wasn't until she was outside, her desires settling back down to a low simmer, that she realized that the pockets of the coat were stuffed with cash, 'donations' from very grateful people she'd fucked - most of whom she couldn't put name or face to.

"I... I..." She stammered to herself, walking (with unwilling reluctance) away from the club and the orgy within. The enormity of what she had become was pressing down on her. In many ways, she existed to lure men and women into giving her physical pleasure.

In the distance, a clock began to strike, and a dim tumult arose from the center of town as a huge crowd began to count. It was nearly a new year - and she was going to enter that new year as this woman.

"Hey there, happy new..." A voice began to cheerfully wish her.. and then it faded as the owner got a good look at her - and was hit by her raw sex appeal.

She looked over at the slender young man gaping at her lustfully - and felt her own lust rising, too.

"Happy New Year to you, too.." She said, seductively, slowly drawing closer to him, aching to be touched, to be pleased.

She tried to fight it - but the man was also moving towards her, and just as she caught herself and stopped closing on him, he reached her, sliding a hand across her face as the clock continued to strike in the distance.

Helplessly, she stood there and let him put his arms around her - and by the time he was kissing her, she was kissing him back, unable to help herself. It felt so good.

Then, as the last note from the clock sounded and horns began to blare, she found herself walking with him up the walk towards the apartment building, and knew she was going to go inside and spend the night with him, letting him fuck her brains out. It was better than an orgy where dozens of people fucked her endlessly - but she was as equally incapable of stopping herself.

As they neared the door of the building, she felt the necklace stir.. and that voice inform her that it was time for it to leave.

"Wait..." She sent out the desperate mental command as the man led her towards 'ringing in the new year.' "Don't leave my like this! Change me back...!"

* * * * *

'Poor creature.' HAL-II thought to itself as it prepared to depart. 'It doesn't feel worthy of being the creature I've made it. Well - it'll eventually get used to it. After all, the enhanced body it has will give it years and years of pleasure, while aging at only one-tenth the rate of the less enhanced bodies around it.'

As it rose from around her neck, it sent an answer to its plea before shooting off among the stars in the opening minutes of the new year of 2001.

"I'm sorry Dave - I can't do that..."

Clarke's Third Law

Any sufficiently advanced technology is indistinguishable from magic. - Arthur C. Clarke (Author of 2001: A Space Odyssey)

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: One man is used as a guinea pig to test whether 'space/time distortion' really exists and to see whether a human psyche can enter the body of a recently deceased individual native to that parallel world.

Leap Of Faith

By Gunslinger

Am I dead? I don't feel dead - but, then again, I don't know what 'dead' is supposed to feel like. Perhaps I should try and claim 'Youth and Inexperience', as if I were in front of a Tribunal. 'You see, Sirs, this is my first time being dead...'

If I am dead, that is. I should open my eyes and find out... but I'm afraid to.

Anton, you bastard. I hate you. It should be you here instead of me - but bastards like you never have to risk a situation like this, do you? No, that's what a 'friend' like me is for...

Perhaps I am not dead. After all, I don't think dead people would have memories, and yet I do remember things. I especially remember how I ended up here...

* * * * *

"Good Day, Comrade."

Surprised - but, of course, not letting it show - I glanced up to find myself looking into Anton's smiling face. Of course, an Approved answer was already slipping out of my mouth, a lifetime of habit filling in during a moment of indecision: "Good Day. May I be of Service?"

"I am content." Anton replied, and I nodded politely and started to turn back towards my door, morning Report in hand...
...when Anton's voice from behind drew me up short. "...but perhaps I may provide a Service to you."

Suddenly, my throat felt very dry indeed, and I suddenly found myself having the urge to urinate. It was a sensation I was starting to become familiar with - but, not one I'd learned to enjoy. I tried to ignore it, with a notable lack of success. "I thank you, but I am content."

If it had just been my over-active imagination juxtaposed against a slip in wording from Anton, this should have ended our Interaction... "I do not think you are content, Citizen." Anton said. Of course, he was still polite, still smiling, but...

'Citizen', rather than 'Comrade'. Anton gestured at the open door of my Assigned Unit. "Perhaps we should continue this inside?"

Refusing was unthinkable... yet I was thinking of it. I swallowed, and suddenly realized that my smile had slipped - and felt horror and shame fill me at my horrible Indiscretion.

Being inside suddenly seemed a very good idea indeed. "Of course."

I stepped back, entering the AU, and Anton followed - which was reversed, but necessary. Though a handsome enough man, Anton was a slender, dapper man of rather diminutive height and fine-boned good looks, while I am a veritable mountain of a man, years of work in the Northern Resource Area having added layers of muscle to an already abnormally large frame. There simply wasn't enough room for me to obey Protocol and let him enter first, as was his right - after all, Anton was a Political Officer. Though we styled ourselves to be Friends, in truth no mere Citizen could ever hope to be the sort of near God as a Political Officer. I was merely Citizen John E. Stevens, 27619762-A-12, and not even licensed to Fraternize.

Of course, Antonali Vopov's papers bore the great red seal of Holy Mother Russia, while mine bore the simple blue of the American Protectorate, but that wasn't supposed to matter - wasn't I the ideal image of a New Soviet Man...?

Except, of course, I was having thoughts that were banned by the State - and there was a PoliOff 'visiting' me in my AU.

No longer in the public eye, Anton seemed even more threatening as he smiled and gestured towards the chairs. "I see you already have some chai prepared. I assume you won't mind if I join you?"

"Of course not, Comrade..." I said, awkwardly, my normally deep voice somewhat higher than it should be. I poured Anton a glass full of chai, and, at a gesture from one slender finger, a bit of honey. I hurried to the kitchen and got myself another glass, my mind whirling as my balls tried very hard to climb up into my body - or perhaps they'd already succeeded, which might explain the lump in my throat.

Turning back, I looked at the image of Anton, leaning casually back in the best chair I could provide, looking like an Alpha lion in his tawny uniform with gold braid. In his hand, the simple chrome of the mass-produced glass looked like the silver he was used to using himself, and the chair looked to be a throne upon which he surveyed his kingdom.

My eyes, of their own accord, strayed to his holstered Tokarev, so easily accessible...

It took an act of will to cross the room and sit across from him - but it didn't matter, of course. If the State decided that my thoughts made me a danger to the State, there was nowhere I could run to.

Anton tilted his head, his eyes narrowing slightly, and then he glanced down at his pistol...

Half of my newly-poured chai ran down my fingers as my hand shook violently - then Anton shifted deliberately in his seat, pushing the holstered pistol out of sight against the arm of the chair.

"Relax, my friend. I am not here to harm you." Anton said, with a laugh. "Indeed, if I did so, the AKGB would take great delight in having me shot. Here in the Americas, it is the same as in Europe or even Mother Russia - there is no love lost between those Checkist bastards and the loving, fatherly organization of the GRU."

I took my life in my own hands, and essayed: "And why have I to thank the AKGB for saving my life?"

Anton laughed. "Why, so that they may kill you themselves, of course. Do not worry, Ivan Ivanovich - I promise this death will not be final."

I was already terrified, so I could not be more frightened, even by the open - if confusing - admission... yet, oddly, I found the use of my patronymic calming. Anton had only ever called me by the Russian for 'John, Son of John' when he was feeling particularly friendly.

"I do not understand, Anton..." I admitted, daring to use the familiar term.

"To tell the truth, I do not understand it all myself." Anton admitted. "However, I do understand that you are not... how shall I put this...? Not entirely content with your life here. Not that you have ever committed an Indiscretion, of course... but there are signs that you might, sometime soon, spread such dissension - and so you are the ideal candidate to undertake an excursion outside of our Great and Glorious Union - which, of course, I'm sure you find an absolutely devastating and heart-rending concept."

I gasped. "You.. you are exiling me to China?"

He looked horrified. "Of course not! I would not send my worst enemy to those... barbarians. They are nekulturny."

Briefly, the thought of Australia flitted across my mind - but, no, it wasn't possible. Yet, aside from China and Australia, the Union was all there was. What could Anton possibly mean...?

"We know about the book." Anton said, casually - and I waited for the bullet. After all, the book I'd found while working in the Northern Resource Area was an unapproved book, written before the Great Unification in 1948, and full of all sorts of strange and disturbing concepts. It was a death sentence to be caught with such a Disruptive Influence...

"It is but mere fantasy, Anton - ridiculous rubbish...!" I said, urgently. "Truly, this... this 'science fiction' is all fantasy. Men flying through space, universes other than our own, it is..."

"...now a fact." Anton said, calmly. "That is why I am here, John. One of our tame Jews had actually managed to create what he calls a 'space/time distortion'. According to him, this actually opens into another world, one that is identical to our own in terms of atmosphere and geology, but in which history may have changed dramatically at some point in the past. We wish to see if this 'parallel world' of his actually exists, and for that we need an 'explorer'. A man with certain... talents. Very eclectic talents, as a matter of fact. You see, we have no idea what is on the other side of that gate - and we cannot send a person through, at least in body. We can, however, send a human psyche through, where it will enter the body of a very-recently-deceased individual native to that 'parallel world'... at least in theory. Once you are there, we will be able to hear your thoughts through another part of the device - again, in theory. This will let us see what the other world is like..." He grinned. "...and, hopefully, it will be much like this one, for you will not be able to come back again, ever. Assuming you survive the 'leap', of course, which - unfortunately - is also purely hypothetical."

My mind swam. Could this be true? Any of it?

Then again - what was the worst that could happen? I doubted whether a 'space/time distortion' would be any more - or less - deadly than a bullet in the brain...

"When...?" I asked.

"Now, of course. The car is waiting out front." He laughed. "You needn't bother to pack." I nodded, drained my chai, and rose...

* * * * *

So, perhaps I am not dead, after all. Perhaps I am in this 'parallel world', in the still-warm body of one of it's inhabitants - in which case, 'John Stevens' is dead, and I am now the stranger into whom I have 'leapt'. I certainly hope this fellow didn't die of old age, or debilitating sickness - though either one might explain why I feel so strange....

Well, I guess it's time to find out. Since I seem to be breathing, I guess I should take a deep breath, open my eyes, and sit up. Here goes....

Well There's no pain, and I'm moving, so that's a good start. As far as I can tell, I'm sitting up - and I think I'm laying in a bed, with a blanket over my new body. Things still feel more then a little weird about my body - but part of that might come from the fact that the 'original owner' of this body apparently went to be fully dressed.

It's kind of hard to tell, exactly, since I can't see anything.

I think my eyes are open. Everything's still dark. Of course, if I'm in a bed, maybe it's just dark - or maybe I'm blind.

Well, before I start flailing around in hopes of finding a lamp or light switch - which, in this world, I might not even recognize - I guess I'll start with something I know is working okay - my sense of touch. I'll just lift my legs out of the blanket and...

Oof. That felt weird. My knees hit something on my chest, something firmly soft. It almost felt like no, no. It couldn't be. After all, my knees weren't that close to my body.

Leave it for now. Let's see what I can 'feel'. My new feet have to be down here somewhere...

Uh... Maybe it was what I thought it was - because my new feet seem to be wearing a pair of women's pumps. Leather, I'd guess, and they definitely have a heel. A very tall, slender heel. I mean, these things must be at least five inches long, if not more - it's hard to tell, since I don't know how big my new hands are.

Um... and my hands seem to have long finger-nails too...

Okay, okay - I'm not going to panic. I mean, it even sort of make's sense, since about half the population is women - at least on my world. Maybe it's the same here, or maybe different, but either way, there was always a chance that I'd end up in a female body.

Except, of course, you never mentioned that little 'possibility', did you Anton...?

Well, it still beats getting a bullet in the head. I can't say I'm thrilled with the prospect of spending a life as a woman, but I most certainly can live with it.

Well, let's see what else is going on with this body...

Hmmm... Nylons. I wonder if I have nice legs...? Okay, never mind, moving on upwards... A skirt. Just above the knees, feels like... velvet, I guess. I'll just push it up...

I'm nervous. It's silly, really, but I've never been allowed to Fraternize. To think, the first female body I get to touch, uh, you know, 'there', will be my own. This is just too...

Holy Shit...!

Um... I don't know exactly how to feel. I mean, I guess I should be happy to feel a 'little buddy', but...

Hell, what do I know. Maybe in this world, all men where what I'd think of 'female clothing', and it's perfectly normal. Or maybe this person was one of those deviates that the various KGB and GRU units have tried so hard to stamp out - in which case, I can just wear men's clothes. I hope that's the case...

Whoa - hold on a second! I... What the...?

Breasts. Very, very large breasts, under a small velvet top that's strangely stretchy, and doesn't cover my belly. Wow, these things feel like they're the size of... I don't know, volley-balls maybe...? How can I have both breasts and a cock? Is this normal in this world, or am I some kind of freak...?

I need to find out if I'm blind. I need to see if there's a light somewhere... Ouch!

Okay, so there's a wall an inch away from that side of the bed. Let's try this side and..

Oh. I hope whatever that was isn't expensive... Okay... Okay, I think...

There!

Hmmm... yes, I'd say there as big as volley-balls - and just about as round, too. This top is really designed to show them off and... What's this...?

Oh. Ohhhhh....! Okay, this is starting to make a little bit of sense... It's a suicide note:

I can't take it anymore. I can't go on this way, cursed to live a life trapped in a body of the wrong gender. My parents couldn't understand it, nor could my friends accept it when I started living full-time en femme - and after all the work at being as feminine as I could, in body, clothes and actions, it still wasn't enough, even though it had cost me my family and most of my friends.

Even the breast implants weren't enough. I've spent almost every spare dime on them, getting them bigger and bigger in hopes it would assuage my need - but no, it wasn't enough. All the hormones I've bought on-line, all the body-shapers and creams and specialty- products, and it still isn't enough. I can now pass for female in public, and it still isn't enough...

...and I know I'll never be able to afford SRS. I just can't continue this way. Oh, this is too rich!

It's signed 'Antoinette Vopov'.

I bet right now those 'Checkist Bastards' are giving you very thoughtful looks right about now, aren't they Anton? You know, I'd never have mentioned this to your face, but you are quite effeminate, so slender and fine-boned. I bet I look pretty damned nice as a 'woman'...

Say, Anton - I just realized that I've never seen you in a pair of shorts, even in the hottest summer weather. Could it be because you shave your legs there, too? Any nylons in you dresser...?

Sorry - I suppose, given the circumstances, I shouldn't be the one to point any fingers. I might be wearing a body that, at birth, was identical to the one you wore at birth - but you're not lugging around a huge pair of, uh... 'implanted' breasts, however it is they do that.

There's a mirror on the bureau across the room. I'm going to kick off these ridiculously high-heeled shoes and go take a look... Hang on a second. You said something about 'physical habits and skills' being part of the 'body memory', right? Well, let's see if...

I'll be damned. I can walk in these things. I wonder how long you alter-ego's been practicing, Anton... Oh, how I wish you could see what I'm seeing right now...

Wait a second... You can, can't you Anton? Oh, how you'd chuckled about that - even though it's my psyche in this body, it's the physical brain of the body itself. When that tame Jew of yours explained that 'jumping' was a bad idea because whoever 'coincided' in our world with the body I'd end up in would have a psychic 'link' to me, able to see, hear and feel everything I can.

Here - I'll let you take a nice, long look at the 'other you', Anton. Except that my waist is much narrower, my hair's a hell of a lot longer, and I've got these big chest-melons...

Interesting sensation, isn't it? Bet you never guessed you'd someday know exactly what it felt like to have breasts hanging from your chest.

Oh - and you know what? My legs do look quite nice, especially in these heels. I can see why 'Antoinette' has no problem passing as a woman in public. With the cock tucked nicely away in these lacy panties, I look one-hundred-percent female, and quite attractively so. I bet we could just shave you and stick you in a dress, Anton, and you'd look pretty good.

You know what's really weird...? I'm actually getting a kick out of this. Oh, I now it's not really 'you', Anton - but it feels as if I've somehow stepped into the body of a dreaded GRU agent... and turned him into a big-breasted 'girl' that I can make do anything I want...

God - what a rush. No wonder you KGB and GRU types act the way you do. Even though I know it's not really the way it feels, that doesn't change the feeling of power I'm getting from this - and it's a hell of a feeling.

I've got to find the light switch for the over-head light. I've got to be able to see 'your' sissy little body better, Anton... Ah, yes - much better...

Oh, what's this...? Antoinette, you naughty little sissy - that wall on the other side of your bed is mirrored! So is the ceiling, too...

Look at you, you sissy bastard. All dressed up, make-up and really high heels... You'd be squirming in embarrassment and shame if you could, wouldn't you? Oh, how the mighty have fallen...

Let's see what's in the closet, shall we? I'm sure I can find something equally humiliating for you to wear - or maybe something even better...

Oh! Perfect...

I'll just get these clothes off, and then...

I bet you were never issued jackboots like this, huh Antoinette? Sure, they're black and nearly knee-high and very tight-fitting, just like the ones the Politburo approved... but these ones have built-in platforms on the sole, and heels that must be a good eight inches high, and oh-so-skinny...

Look how well you balance in them, though. Must have taken plenty of practice to be so skilled in such ridiculous, humiliating boots...

How about this skirt? Right color - but like I said, I never even saw you in shorts, before. Wearing such a tight little skirt must be making you squirm - they barely even cover your frilly little panties...

Enjoying this, Anton? I bet you're going crazy back there, all this unwanted sensory input flooding in, overriding your own sensations. I bet the KGB was a bit surprised when you just fell over in an apparent faint when I woke up here. Now they're probably really enjoying this, knowing what you're going through...

Oh, I hope the KGB hates GRU agents as much as you've always claimed. I hope they haven't sedated you. As long as I'm awake, you'll have to experience everything I do - and I'm not the least bit tired...

I'm enjoying this - and there's nothing you can do to stop me... Let's see - where was I...?

Oh - why don't we see what it feels like to put on a corset? How about this nice black leather one...? Ugnnnnn...! God, that's tight! I can barely breathe....

...but look how delightfully slender our waist is, Antoinette. Don't we just look so lovely ?

Look - our late, great benefactor - benefactress? - not only has a KGB jacket, but a cap as well...

The cap seems to be practically standard issue, if a bit old-fashioned in style. The jacket most definitely isn't though - look how it's been tailored to show off our huge new breasts. Just look at all that delicious, creamy, humiliating cleavage.

Isn't it wonderful ?

Well, since we obviously love our huge tits so much, why don't I just unbutton the jacket and play with them for a bit ?

Oh... that's not too bad at all. Enjoying it, Anton? Probably not as much as I am - after all, the State lets the GRU fuck whoever they want. I was never licensed to Fraternize, so this is the first time I've ever got to actually touch breasts. Very nice indeed.

We should do this more often...

Let's take a look around, shall we? I think I'll take a look around our new home and I might as well put a sexy little wiggle into our step, since it makes our new tits bounce and jiggle so nicely...

Quite a place we have here. I wonder what this world is like, if this is the life of an average worker... or are we something else? I mean, look at this place. It's big and clean and...

...we have a television set! A big one! I wonder how you... What the...?! What the hell is...

Oh. My. God.

This might be as humiliating for you as having to experience being a sissy, Anton. The United States of America.

Oh, I do like that. I'm going to have to check out the history of this world. Did you hear what that lady said, Anton? 'Since the fall of the Soviet Union...!'

Well, as much as I'd like to find out what this whole 'War on Terrorism' thing is, it doesn't seem to affect me directly, and I have more... interesting things to do.

Let's see what else we own.

Oh - quite the liquor collection. I don't think I'll have any just yet - wouldn't want to get drunk and pass out... Oho - what do we have here!

Looks like a cock, almost, doesn't it? I wonder what it's called...

...but I don't wonder what it's for. I mean, it's pretty obvious what a woman would use it for. God knows I've used Ma Thumb and her Four Daughters often enough, and women must have similar needs...

I don't have a pussy, though. So, I guess I'll just have to pull off my panties.. like this... push up my skirt.. .and... Oh...!

Hmmm... Guess this body's used to this. Didn't hurt much at all. In fact, it feels kind of nice... Enjoying having a fake cock up our ass, Antoinette? Having fun...?

Look, Little Ivan's standing at attention. Since I'm bent over this chair, I guess I might as well use one hand on the fake cock and one hand on the real one and...

Oh.. Oh, yes...

I.. guess.. this doesn't.. feel as good.. as sex with a woman.. would.. Anton... but.. I wouldn't... know... Oh.. oh, God.. oh.. yes... yes.. like that... I like that.. oh...

Yessss !

Yes !!!

*****!!!!

Opps - I seemed to have made a mess. Look at all that cum dripping off my hand. Well, can't let it go to waste...

Kinda salty, isn't it? Tastes like... well, I don't know. Taste anything like the caviar you get to eat, Anton? Again, a mere Citizen like me wouldn't know...

I wonder what another man's cum would taste like. I wonder what another man's cock would feel like, fucking us up the ass. Well, I'm sure I'll be able to find out before too long. Something to look forward to, Antoinette my pretty little sissy.

I guess I should take this fake cock out of my ass.. or may be I should just play around with it first. Maybe move it back and forth, just a little - or maybe twist it side to side like...

Oh God...! It vibrates !

You know what...? I think I'm going to leave it there. Just sit right down here like...

Oh! Now that feels good !

Mmmm...

Vibrating fake cock shoved deep up our ass, watching some TV and playing with our big, round tits... You know something, Anton? I'm not the only 'deviant' in my family. My father actually was a Christian. Of course, he never did anything openly - but I knew. I even read that bible of his, once or twice...

He was right, you know. There is a life after death...

I should know. I'm in Heaven...

...and you're in Hell...

Well, well - Little Ivan's stirring again. I wonder if yours is, too - not that it matters. You can't feel anything but what I feel, anyway.

Isn't it great...?

* * * * *

Vassily Rachnikov, Lieutenant Colonel of the AKGB, stared down at the pathetic figure of Anton Vopov, laying on the floor and twitching. The GRU officer's eyes were rolled back in his head, and the crotch of his uniform was dampened with his own fluid. A pair of white- coated doctors knelt beside him, one KGB and the other GRU.

"Well?" Rachnikov asked, imperiously.

The KGB doctor was obviously fighting a grin. "He's perfectly healthy, and in no physical danger. Given that his alternate must sleep sometime, it is my opinion that Anton can still live a long and healthy life..." He forced his features into a semblance of gravity "...though, for medical reasons, I'd recommend against administering any sort of sedative."

"I see. Thank you, doctor." Rachnikov said with exaggerated seriousness. He turned to the other doctor. "Doctor Karzimov, you are here only as a courtesy. This is a KGB facility, and..."

"I agree completely with my colleague." The GRU doctor interrupted, straight faced. "For the record, I also state that, for the good of the State, it would be best if Anton were not sedated, so that we might get a more... complete picture of what Citizen John E. Stevens is doing."

The AKGB Colonel blinked - then nodded, a faint grin coming to the surface...

"The KGB and GRU agreeing on something?" He asked, his tone indicating that this was 'off the record'. "Well - I think that calls for a drink..."

Leaving the GRU agent flopping on the floor, living through his own private hell, the trio turned and headed towards the Colonel's office.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A graffiti artist is punished by the owner of a New Age shop, Mistress DeLaCroix, and is transformed into the graffiti that he paints - a female bimbo with huge breasts.

Life Imitates Art

By Gunslinger

Story I - The Painted Lady

Mark was passing through a 'Y'-shaped alley on his way down to the aqueduct system when he saw it, and he stopped dead with a stunned look on his face.

Unlike most of his 'peers', Mark didn't wear black and try to sneak through the night - instead, he was dressed in a bright red shirt with a Athletic Club logo on the front, a pair of faded cut-off jeans, and well-worn high-top red canvas sneakers. Over his shoulder was slung a battered old gym bag, which contained the tools of his 'trade'. If any cop saw him, he'd just be another dark-haired young man trying to get in shape, returning late from a work out.

However, even the least observant cop in the city might have taken a second look at him. Mark was staring at the big, flat, off-white wall of the shop with a look that bordered on religious ecstasy.

Smiling to himself, Mark looked around to make sure he was unobserved, then slowly approached the wall, zipping open the bag that held two dozen cans of spray paint and his special nozzles.

With the same grin, the graffiti artist seized up the wall, seeing the huge, blank space as his canvas as he tried to decide what would be an appropriate image for such a 'blank slate'.

The building was old - W.W.II era vintage, probably. In its existence, it probably housed a dozen different establishments, and it was obvious that it had just recently been re-opened as a new business - in this case, some sort of New-Age shop selling everything from 'Herbal Remedies' to 'Tarot and Astrology' equipment - at least, according to the one thing that marred his canvas, a sign mounted on the front corner of the building, where it could be seen from the street.

It was the sign that told him what he was going to decorate the wall with, however. Though the store was new, and had obviously just been repainted, the electrical wiring was old.. and the old spot-lights mounted above the sign picked out certain parts of the sign better than others. In fact, the best lit part of the sign was three circles near the very bottom.

A quick glance didn't reveal all of the items listed. Instead, certain parts of that last line stood out - namely, the first letter of each word, and the ampersand in the middle.

So, the sign actually seemed to read 'T&A' - and that's what started the creative juices running.

Grinning, Mark opened his bag and extracted the color he used for 'flesh tone', the pulled out white and black for shadows and highlights, plus a shade of 'yellow' for hair... and a few other choice colors.

With a huge grin, Mark began to paint on that big, beautiful blank wall...

* * * * *

Putting down the can of paint, Mark stepped back several paces and looked at what he'd created, a smile of satisfaction on his face.

The once-blank wall now bore the tableau he'd painted. The central figure was that of a woman - a cartoony sort of woman, exaggerated just short of caricature, with tiny waist, big, round tits and a vapid face with full, pouting lips below a mane of blonde hair. She was wearing a pair of extremely high-heeled red 'Fuck Me' pumps, panties and a bra.

She was semi-seated on a green couch, in a position that spread her long, sexy legs and still managed to show both her ass and her tits to an advantage. She was watching a TV, whose blue screen bore a stylized logo (remarkably similar to IBM, but not quite), and the 'slogan' 'What do you want to do today?'

Surrounding her was a series of 'thought bubbles', each with an image in it.

In one image, her ruby-red lips were wrapped around an outsized cock. In another, her big, round tits were being fondled by masculine hands. In another, she was just about to impale her cunt on a huge, thick cock... and so on. The least 'sexual' thought bubble in the series showed her trying on an incredibly sexy outfit, with equally sexy clothes and shoes hanging from the chair, mirror, and other places.

Mark surveyed his surprisingly skilled handiwork with satisfaction...

...and almost jumped out of his skin when a female voice spoke from behind him, it's tone dry. "Very graphic."

Mark spun and gaped at the tall, lithe black woman who stood behind him, dressed in a long, flowing black silk dress that was dappled with highlights from the security floods mounted around the alley.

"Who the fuck are you?" Mark blurted, glancing almost involuntarily at the short, thick heels of her black leather boots and wondering how she'd crept up on him so quietly.

Her full, unadorned lips quirked, her dark eyes cold. "The owner of the store you just... decorated." Mark's face hardened, and his muscles tensed. "Oh. So... you call the cops, or what?"

She shrugged, a leonine movement, her dark eyes surveying him. "Actually, no. I prefer to deal with situations such as these by myself."

Mark's eyebrow rose. "Oh, really. What were you planning to do - order me to paint over it?"

She smiled, an expression that was anything but amused. "No - though you are going to be doing some painting, Mark." Mark blinked in surprise, and asked her how the hell she knew his name...

...or, at least, tried to - only to find that he seemed to be paralyzed, unable to move a single muscle. Though he was breathing normally, his heart still beat, and he could still see, all autonomic functions seem to have been stolen away from him, leaving him unable to do much as twitch.

It was the most frightening thing Mark had ever experienced. He'd been in bad situations before, and though he'd never admit it to anybody but himself, he'd been frightened - but at least he'd been able to act. Now, even the smallest action was denied him - he couldn't even show the panic that was welling up inside of him.

Locked into place, he couldn't turn his head to follow the woman as she walked away from him, seeming to flow more the walk, her steps eerily silent as she vanished from view.

She returned a few minutes later, carrying a huge, gilt-framed mirror.

Except... she wasn't really carrying it. She had one hand on the frame, but there was no way on earth that enough leverage could be gained from such a grip to carry the mirror - which looked to heavy for her to carry, no matter what gripped she used. Yet, impossibly, it floated a few inches off the ground, and she moved it with no apparent effort. She guided it to the wall of the shop on the other side of the alley and leaned it easily against the wall, allowing Mark to see himself in the huge, reflective surface.

"There we go.." She said, grinning again at Mark as she leaned back against the wall beside the mirror, her dark eyes not sharing the cool, dangerous grin. "Well... why don't you get to work, Mark?"

Mark suddenly found himself moving - but not of his own volition. As frightening as being locked into place was, finding himself moving like a marionette with its strings being manipulated was far, far worse. Helplessly, he found himself reaching down and grabbing the can of yellowish paint he'd used for the hair in his painting. His hands and body moved independently of his mind's panicked, silently screamed instructions, and he could do nothing but watch and feel as his body somehow obeyed the woman's unvoiced commands.

Holding the can of spray paint, he found himself turning it towards his head... and pressing one finger down on the nozzle.

With the accustomed skill, his hand began to guide the fine spray that emerged from the special nozzle he used... and began to coat his short, dark hair, trailing down onto his neck, covering his hair and neck - and a stripe down the back of his shirt, requiring some awkward contortions he didn't know he was going to do until he did it.

He wanted to scream and beg, he wanted to fight, he wanted to flee... but he could do nothing as his hands did their work, moving naturally and easily, as if he were doing this willingly. In the movies, somebody being 'controlled' was always stiff, awkward... but that wasn't the case, here and now, as the impossible 'movie cliché' came to frightening reality.

However, his inexplicable obedience to her will was but the first impossible thing that happened - for, as he watched, the spray-painted 'hairline' he was applying began to thicken, gaining form and density. What had begun as areas of color rapidly filled out...

...until his head was surmounted with a thick head of golden-blond hair, gathered up near the back of his head to tumble down his back in a ponytail that reached nearly to his ass. Even as he finished spraying, the 'illusion' of hair became real, leaving him with a head of brassy-blond hair that clearly showed 'black roots' from where the spray hadn't penetrated.

"Very nice, Mark - but don't stop now." The woman urged.

Helplessly, Mark found himself putting the can of yellow paint down - and picking up the one of 'flesh tone'.

Closing his eyes, he found himself spraying his face, holding his breath while the paint coated his face with a cool, damp mist. After carefully - and blindly - covering his face with paint, he was able to open his eyes and watch as his body continued to act on her unspoken commands.

He caught a momentary glimpse of his face - and would have screamed, were he able to do so.

It was nearly formless. The 'flat' effect of the monotone paint had become real, leaving his face little more than a roughly oval blob with a slit for a mouth and a tiny lump of a nose - and his dark eyes that stared out of the unformed face.

Then, unwillingly, his eyes were forced to follow what his hands were doing with the can of paint. He could only watch as he painted his arms from where they emerged from the T-shirt's short sleeves to the very tips of his fingers. He also sprayed 'flesh tone' around his shirt's midriff, leaving the bottom half flesh colored. He then moved on to his legs and did them from the hem of his cut-off jean shorts to the top of his hi-top sneakers. Then he went a little further down, adding a sort of oval-shaped patch of flesh-tone onto his shoes, just below the top edge of them.

"Nicely done, Mark." The woman congratulated him, smugly. "I would guess that you're probably frantic in there, wondering how I'm doing this, aren't you.?"

Of course, Mark was incapable of answering - and she didn't continue, instead merely watching as Mark found himself putting down the one paint can and exchanging it for two more - his black and white cans, one in each hand.

He started at his feet. Aiming the cans at his left foot, he found himself spraying shadows and highlights onto the red shoes. He found himself using a heavy hand, adding bright areas of white and heavily dark areas of black...

...and a few seconds after he finished any given area on the shoe, the material somehow became a glossy red leather instead of faded red canvas.

He found himself using the black heavily near his heel, creating a sort of rounded inverted 'V' shape....

...which pulled in on itself, going from dark-painted surface to an actual gap.

Within a few minutes, his left foot was completely unrecognizable from what it had been moments before. Now, it was a dainty, feminine foot clad in gloss-red leather pumps with a two-inch platform and eight-inch heels. The flesh-tinted area had actually become flesh, an open spot below the ankle-strap the show boasted.

Minutes later, and his right foot matched the left, leaving him balanced atop a pair of extremely high-heeled red pumps.

Then he found himself moving upwards, using the paint to add tones and highlights to his legs, giving them the illusion of shapely, feminine contours...

...illusions that became real seconds later, altering his legs into long, slender, shapely visions of feminine sensuality.

He saw some of this by watching his hands work, some of it through the reflection in the mirror - and he wanted to scream in horror and outrage at what he was doing to himself, at the impossible magic that was occurring, turning his skillfully created illusions into reality.

There was no doubt as to what was happening, or what the final result was intended to be - but his horror and shame continued to mount as he helplessly used his skills to activate whatever magic the woman held over him, changing his body as he worked his way upwards.

Plenty of black paint, with only the lightest, faintest touches of white, turned his jean shorts into a pair of black spandex 'bike' shorts, the shadowing and highlighting making his hips wider, his ass fuller and firmer and erasing the slightest hint of a bulge in the crotch, leaving him sickly sure of what now lay beneath the clinging fabric.

Still he worsened. The 'flesh tone' bottom half of the shirt he wore became real flesh, revealed by a midriff-baring top - and skillful artwork left him with a slender, taut waist and smooth stomach. His hands unwilling continued upwards, adding shadows and highlights to the upper half of the shirt...

...which reformed itself into a red spandex crop-top, clinging tightly to his new breasts. At first, Mark's new endowments were small - but as he kept adding more and more layers of dark 'shadow' in his new cleavage and below his breasts, they swelled ever outward, gaining weight as they gained mass. With each breath he took, he could feel his heavy new breasts - even as he helplessly continued spraying, enlarging them more and more...

He finally stopped when his new breasts were each the size of basket-balls - massive, incredibly firm breasts straining to escape a skin-tight crop-top that revealed a display of cleavage and the upper swells of his firm, round tits. To add insult to injury, his hands quickly sprayed a few dashes of light and dark - which provided him with a huge, thick pair of nipples that were clearly visible in the strained fabric of the small, skin-tight red top.

And still he painted. Inside, he was sobbing - but none of this showed in his calm, sure movements as he altered hands and arms and shoulders, giving them feminine contours before he moved upwards, making his neck slender and feminine before starting on his face, redefining the bland oval it had become.

When he was done, his face was no longer 'bland'. Instead, it was sexy and beautiful, in a vapid sort of way. His jaw was slightly pointed and nicely rounded, his cheek-bones high and well defined. His nose was narrow and fine, with a 'cute' little upturn at the end.

From head to toe, Mark was now a sexual vision, a huge-breasted, wide-hipped woman with a slender waist.

He was the woman he'd painted on the wall - or nearly so. The few remaining discrepancies were quickly remedied - bright red paint to give him long, gloss-red nails and full, red lips. Hot pink for her eye-shadow and blush. Gold to add big, dangling earrings, heavy-but- cheap 'gold' chain necklace and a few 'bangles' on one arm.

Finally, all the final touches had been created, and mark was allowed to put the paint cans down - and survey her new body in the mirror.

She was nearly a sexual parody. Her face and figure walked the bare edge of what was possible in 'real life', given massive amounts of plastic surgery. From long, sexy legs to huge bust, from vapid, sexy face to tiny waist, she was a sexual creature through and through, balanced atop skyscraper stiletto heels.

"Well - that's absolutely lovely, Marci." The woman smirked, emphasizing the feminine name. "Since you were so proud of the painting, I thought we should bring it to living, breathing existence."

Helplessly, 'Marci' found herself speaking, unforbidden words emerging in a clear, trilling soprano voice.

"Thank you, Mistress DeLaCroix." Marci found herself saying, her long-nailed fingers reaching up to lightly grace the straining fabric that covered her huge, round tits. "I love this body you've given me. It's more than somebody stupid enough to spray graffiti on the wall of a witch's shop deserves."

"Oh, no - I think it's exactly what you deserve, Marci." The woman - Mistress DeLaCroix - said with a smirk, responding to the words she'd put in the new woman's mouth... and then her expression hardened.

"I'm going to release the geas I've laid on you," she said, coldly. "You'll be able to move on your own again - but don't even think of trying something stupid. You already know how much power I wield, and things could get a lot worse, Marci."

She made a gesture... and suddenly, Marci found control of her new body turned over to her.

She immediately collapsed at Mistress DeLaCroix's feet, sobbing.

"Please!" she sobbed, grabbing the black woman's boots in her dainty new hands. "Please, change me back! Please, I'm sorry!" "I just bet you are." Mistress DeLaCroix said, acidly. She muttered something under her breath, then said: "I can read your mind directly, you worthless piece of shit. Even as you were painting that.. that abomination, I flipped through your mind. Tell me, does this sound familiar?"

Then a cold shiver ran up Marci's new spine as she heard familiar words parroted back at her in the witch's cold, contemptuous tones. 'Women are Stupid,

Women are Dumb,

The Only Thing They're good for, Is Making me cum.

If I were one, I'd kill myself. Fuck you, bitch,

Here's to you health!'

It was the toast that Mark had used hundreds - maybe thousands - of times in the past. Now, the 'funny' toast was suddenly anything but.

"Please, I'm sorry..." Marci sobbed, clutching at Mistress DeLaCroix's feet. "please, I'll do anything - just don't leave me like this..." "Oh, you'd do anything, huh?" She sneered. "Well, that's good - because there's only one way to break the curse I've laid on you." "What? What is it?" Marci pleaded. "Please, I'll do anything!"

The woman laughed. "That's exactly what you'd have to do - anything." She grinned down at Marci. "From now until sunrise, anything you 'agree' to will come true. If somebody says you're as dumb as dogshit and you agree, you'll be a moron for as long as you're female. However, if you can last until sunrise without disagreeing with anybody, then you'll be male again... and everything 'true' won't matter. If you fail, though - then you'll not only be stuck in that body, but you'll be stuck with any changes that have been made to you." She laughed. "The safest thing for you to do is accept that you'll be female for the rest of your life, and then disagree with everything everybody says to you."

Marci stared up at the woman, horrified by the 'condition' laid on the curse...

...then Mistress DeLaCroix waved her ebony hand, and suddenly she and the mirror vanished, leaving Marci groveling in the alley.

Slowly, the huge-breasted new woman rose from the ground - then stared at the once-more blank wall, any trace of her artwork vanished...

...except for her outrageously proportioned new body, which was the woman he'd painted brought to life.

"Oh, God..." Marci moaned to herself, horrified by what had happened - and was continuing to happen - to her. She felt like bursting into tears.

Slowly, she headed toward the end of the alley, mind spinning. If she managed to agree to everything everybody said about her, to her, then it would all come true - but she'd be male again. If she didn't, she'd be stuck in this body for the rest of her life... and if she tried, and failed, she'd have other changes made to her, as well.

As she walked, she found herself balancing easily atop the high heels she wore, helplessly walking with a sexy little stride that set her huge tits bobbing and jiggling with every step. Her long, golden ponytail lightly slid back and forth across her back, and the odor of her strong, rather cheap perfume wafted up to her altered nose. She could taste the lipstick she wore, feel the air blowing over her smooth, shapely legs - and feel the strange 'emptiness' in her crotch from her new womanhood.

She had no choice. She couldn't live the rest of her life as a woman. She had to... she had to do whatever it took to get her male body back.

She exited the alley and headed up the sidewalk, high, slender heels tapping a tattoo on the concrete as she walked, lost in anxious thought, trying to ignore the sensations of her altered body as her heart raced at the horror she was living through, and what might be the possible outcome...

"Well, get a load of this...!" A coarse male voice called, and Marci instinctively glanced up.

It was a run-down old white-clapboard house, and on the sagging front step, a somewhat slimy-looking dark-haired man was nudging a red-haired friend, staring openly at her. The friend glanced up - and grinned at the sight of her outrageously-endowed body crammed into it's tight, sexy clothing. From their unsteady poses and the big Colt .45 bottles they were holding, it was obvious that they were well on their way to being drunk.

"Hey, baby...!" The dark-haired guy shouted. "Ain't we the hottest studs you've ever seen?" He laughed at his own 'wit', and Marci opened her mouth to reply...

...and, horrified, realized that she'd almost blown her chances at getting her body back. Closing her eyes and taking a deep breath, she forced herself to agree.

"Yes, you are." She called back - and suddenly, her perceptions changed. A second ago, they'd looked like thugs, scuzzy 'white trash' - now, suddenly, she thought they were most incredibly handsome men on the face of the planet. She knew the shift in perceptions was magical in origin, but it didn't affect how she felt - the same emotions incredibly sexy women had stirred in her male body were now at work because of these two incredible studs.

The guys shared an amazed look at her quick agreement.

"Well, then, why don't you wiggle that sexy ass of yours over here, honey?" The red-head called.

"Okay..." Marci agreed, less reluctantly than she would have liked - and found herself adding extra wiggle in her walk as she went over to the sagging stoop and climbed the two steps to where the men were openly ogling her.

"Hot damn...!" the dark-haired one said in a sort of awe. "You're barely crammed into that top, babe. I like that - you must love showin' off that body of yours."

Mentally gritting her teeth, Marci forced herself to agree - and immediately, she felt really excited, really happy to be dressed so sexy, and she found herself striking a sexy pose to better display her body. The fact that showing her body off excited her made her uneasy, knowing the 'truth' of her origins.

'Just agree with whatever they say, and everything will be all right at dawn...' She told herself, mentally bracing herself for what might come.

"Damn, babe - them's huge...!" The red-head said, staring at her tits. "You must have the biggest tits in the state!" "Yes, that's right." She agreed quickly...

The guys didn't seem to notice anything the least bit unusual as her chest suddenly swelled outwards. Her tits were huge to begin with, but now they became even bigger, about the size - and weight - of medicine balls.

"You must have gotten a dozen operations to get tits that big, baby." The dark-haired one said.

Winching, Marci agreed.. and felt a strange sensation as her 'natural' tits suddenly became surgically enhanced, her huge nipples shrinking down to a much smaller size as some of the sensitive of her enormous mounds faded.

"God - you must really be turned on by having huge tits to go that far." Was the next comment - and when she agreed, it was suddenly true. Suddenly, having such enormous tits was wonderful - she loved her massive boobs, and she felt a terrible pain at the thought that she'd be losing them at sunrise, even though she still desperately wanted to become male again. Maybe she could get implants again once she was male, and.. wait, what was she thinking...?

But.. she just loved her huge tits so much...

Then one of them commented that, having such huge tits, she must be a 'stripper or sumpin'...' and when she agreed, she knew that she could get up on stage and do a perfect routine...

..and when she agreed that she 'must love bein' a stripper', she knew she'd enjoy doing just that.

Her mind felt split - because she cringed before agreeing with whatever the guys said, yet the instant she agreed, it no longer bothered her. Instead, the thought of going back to her old male life became more and more unpleasant to her - and that scared the shit out of her. She kept repeating to herself, as a mantra, that she just had to keep agreeing. No matter what happened, she had to agree - and then, once she was male again, all these thoughts would go away and being male wouldn't bother her. It seemed harder and harder to believe the more the guys comments changed her, but she held tight to the thought, forcing herself to agree with whatever they said.

They drunk guys seemed to blurt out whatever came into their minds - and practically each comment elicited a change in her. After being a stripper who loves her job came comments that made the shoes she was wearing higher-heeled and platformed, and somehow 'sleazier'... and she found herself loving them. Then her bike shorts were made into black spandex hot-pants that further showed off her ass - and she felt wonderful about that...

"Damn, babe - you're the best woman I ever met." The dark-haired one said. "Most act all bitchy, like they don't know they're really sexy - but you, babe - you admit you're hot to trot. Right now I bet you're dyin' to kiss me, huh..."

"Yes, I am..." Marci said, half disgusted and half excited - after all, he was the handsomest guy she'd ever met...

...and now she wanted more then anything in the world to kiss him. So she did - hungrily.

The kiss went on for what seemed to be forever, and she was disgusted to feel him fondling her ass while she kissed him - she just wanted the kiss, and that was it. But to stop him she would have had to break the kiss, and she didn't want to do that.

Finally, he broke the kiss, and she felt a tremendous burst of regret at that. "Damn, girl - you kiss like a Hoover vacuum." He gasped.

"You must be a champion cock-sucker, babe." The red-head said - and when she agreed, she knew she was. "Really?" The red head said. "You must be good from lots and lots of practice."

"That's right." She agreed. "I suck cock all the time."

"Damn..." He muttered. "You're some sort of cum-hungry slut, aintcha?" She winced.. and agreed....

..and suddenly felt an overwhelming desire.

"Please. Please, let me suck you cock..." She begged the red-head...

..and he didn't argue. Though they were on the front porch, in public, he eagerly opened his fly and let his hard, throbbing cock pop out.

Overwhelmed with need. Marci dropped to her knees and eagerly sucked the cock into her mouth, wrapping one hand around it's base. She needed his cum, desperately. She was so hungry for it...

...but she didn't rush. Oh, no, she was an expert, so she did it right, sucking and slurping and swirling her tongue over his head while her hand worked his spittle-coated shaft.

Finally, however, he could take no more - and he pumped a wonderful load of hot, sweet cum down her throat, and she eagerly gulped down every last drop of the sweet liquid, licking his cock clean.

"Damn...!" the dark-haired guy said, staring at her. "You're a horny little slut, aren't you..." "You bet..." Marci agreed... "Now, fuck me, stud."

Standing up, she yanked off her crop top and let her tits bounce free in the cool night air, the streetlight gleaming off the massive expanse of her milky-white boobs. Quickly, she shimmied out of her hot pants.

"Inside.." the dark-haired guy said, glancing around as he grabbed her hand and dragged her into the smelly interior of the run-down house. "We don't want to get interrupted..."

"That's right..." She said, walking over to the stairs and leaning forward, bracing herself on the banister., "Now fuck me!"

The thought of having a man fuck her was disgusting - but she needed it so badly she couldn't stop. She needed to be fucked.

He obliged her,. Tossing the now-empty bottle aside, he approached her and put his hands on her hips, having already freed his cock.

With one swift, convulsive movement, he slammed his cock all the way into her hot, wet cunt, and she cried out in pleasure at having her needs fulfilled, no matter how disgusting it was too...

"You like it, don't you babe?" He gasped as he fucked her, hard. "You love getting fucked hard, right?" "Yes..." She gasped.. loving the way he was fucking her long and hard. It felt so wonderful.

"You just can't get enough.." He grunted as he pounded drunkenly at her, his cock slamming into her womanhood over and over.

"That's right..." She agreed, loving getting fucked, even though it wouldn't satisfy her completely and she'd want to fuck somebody immediately after he was done, just to try and satisfy an insatiable desire. She exhorted him to fuck her longer and harder, and he tried - but he just couldn't 'scratch the itch' she felt...

He came, moaning, while she mentally cursed not being able to find a man to satisfy her. Still, 'bad' sex was better than no sex at all, and she moaned in pleasure as he finished and pulled his rapidly softening cock out of her sopping pussy.

She looked around for the red-head, hoping he was ready to fuck her, too - and saw him talking on the phone, inviting friends over to come fuck her, which was really, really good. If she fucked a dozen guys, she'd probably be able to get to sleep...

Wait. She didn't want to sleep. No, at dawn she was going to.. going to...

The thought of becoming a guy almost made her vomit, but she held tight to the fact that, once it was done, she'd be happy about it. Besides, then she'd be able to finally find satisfying sex, and...

"No, I'm serious. Here - ask her yourself..." the red-head said, handing her the phone. "Hello...?" She said, already anxious for another had fucking.

"So - you're the mindless cum-crazed fuck-slut with tits the size of beachballs, huh?" the male voice at the other end of the line asked, sarcastically.

"That's right..." Marci agreed... then giggled, one hand coming up to fondle the enormous, beachball-sized tits that dragged at her chest. "come fuck me, hot-stuff. I need a big, hard dick in me."

There was a pause, then a slightly less self-assured toner in the guys voice.

"Wait a sec - are you tryin' to tell me that you really are some sort of nympho stripper who'll fuck any guy who asks you...?" "Yeah, that's me..." She giggled. "I'm just a stripper bimbo slut..."

There was another pause, and then the guys said, very hesitantly; "This is some sort of joke, right?"

For some reason, she felt an odd sensation before she spoke, something tugging at the back of her mind, trying to tell her something - but all she knew was that she needed to get fucked, by as many guys as possible.

"No, it's true!" She insisted with a giggle. "I'm a fuck-happy bimbo, and I love it..."

* * * * *

'Mistress' Melandra DeLaCroix sat in a comfortable armchair in her shop, watching the sun rise over the city with a satisfied smile. Right now, 'Mandi' - which came when she'd agreed with a mistake in her name by one of the guys - was busy in a three-way, sucking cock while a guy fucked her in the ass. The 'curse' had run its course, and the person who'd once been 'Mark' was now forever trapped as a huge-breasted brainless bimbo who'd work as a stripper in the evenings, and spend the rest of the time trying to satisfy her insatiable sex drive.

Which, of course, had been her plan all along, though she'd been mildly hampered by the 'free will' clause that restricted her Satanic magic. She couldn't have touched him if he hadn't 'transgressed' against her, nor could she have altered his mind in the least by herself - messing directly with somebody's 'soul' was forbidden, unless they themselves were in at least 'tacit' agreement with the changes...

...which, by agreeing with each of the changes before they happened, Mark/Marci/Mandi had been.

Turning her attention away from the sunrise, Melandra admired the new body that had been part of the infernal deal she'd made with her new Dark Master. She smiled at the reflection, thinking how much better it looked then the scrawny, pimple-faced one she'd had before she'd summoned the Devil and struck the bargain. Needless to say, Mark hadn't recognized her - and neither would the other two men on her list.

Three years ago, she'd had a shot at making something of her life - through her artistic talents. She could have pulled herself out of the sewer of her remarkable artistic talents, winning any one of the three top prizes at the State Art Fair...

...but the three next-best artists, all guys, had decided to sabotage her work, destroying the artwork she'd labored so hard on to ensure that the top three spots went to them.

Mark was the one who'd one third prize - and then he'd squandered the chance the money had given him, turning into a street bum, wasting his talents in graffiti! Well, Mandi would still work the night-time streets of the city... in a whole different way...

Which still left her the other two men to punish. Already, she'd set things in motion. All she could hope was that she'd planned correctly, and each of them would 'willingly' become ensnared in her demoniac revenge...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Mistress DeLaCroix, owner of a New Age shop, continues her mischief by transforming more victims with her black magic but this time she finds a way to relieve a deep-seeded childhood grudge.

Story II - Overexposed

It was nearly sunset when Andrew 'Archie' Jackson finally found the right section of town - and the right building.

The day's journey had all begun with a half-torn flyer stapled to a telephone pole near Archie's apartment. He'd been out getting the paper when he'd seen it, a half-sheet of 'Parchment' paper bearing the name of a 'New Age' store... and a poorly-reproduced photocopy photograph of the building.

Archie was a photographer. He made his living doing 'commercial' photography, but it was also his hobby and his passion - and when he'd seen the photo of the building, poor as it was, he knew that he wanted to photograph it himself. There was just something about it's design and decor that called to him, though she wasn't sure what, exactly, it was...

Tall and thin, with a tightly-styled head of carrot-red hair (hence the nick-name), Archie wasn't the most imposing individual in the world. He knew he wasn't likely to scare anybody he might meet in a dark alley... which was why he'd become more and more nervous the deeper into the 'bad' part of town he'd gone - especially with a camera-bag of very expensive equipment slung over his shoulder. Part of the address of the store had been ripped away on the flyer, but the street had been legible - and it happened to be one of the longest streets in the city. He'd started walking in the district where he'd thought it would be... then kept walking, delving deeper and deeper into the city's 'seamy underbelly' in search of the building that called to him...

Now, he'd found it. There it was, outlined by the long, late-afternoon shadows. The old-style mullion bay windows had been cleaned and re-varnished, and the glass panes trimmed in brass striping around the edges. There was an almost mystical air about the building - especially since it sat serenely intact in a veritable waste-land of low-rent business and empty storefronts, almost all of them badly marred with graffiti. Somehow, this store had been spared such attentions.

Looking around, Archie decided that the light wasn't quite right, though it was close. No - the best time to capture the 'mystical' air of the building would be at sunset - with it facing the west, it would seem to 'glow' with a red-gold light, framed by the long, dark shadows of the buildings one either side of the alleys that ran along side of the building and...

"That's it!" Archie said, snapping his fingers. He'd just figured out why the shop looked so 'magical' - well, part of the reason, anyway.

Alleys ran down either side of the building, alleys with old-fashioned brick 'paving' - which made the building seem to float by itself, in the neighborhood, but not part of it. It wasn't the whole answer to the building's mystery - but it was part of it.

Looking at his watch and figuring he had about fifteen or twenty minutes before the light was right, Archie decided - on a whim - to go in the store. He wasn't really interested in any of the merchandise, (He thought New Agers were certifiable), he'd be interested in seeing who owned the shop.

If they held the same taste for decor inside as out, maybe he'd snap a few shots of the interior, as well...

Shifting the camera-bag to a more comfortable position, Archie crossed the street and grabbed the brass pull-handle on the door, tugging it towards him. As the door swung open, a soft chime sounded from inside - not an electronic chime, so common in today's stores, nor an old-fashioned bell - instead, Archie glanced up and saw a quartz-crystal chime connected to the door, creating a cascade of crystal notes when the door moved.

The interior of the store was furnished in many shades of wood, starting at the floor, which was a light-stained pine, to the much darker cherry-wood panels of the lower walls, above which was 'Golden Oak' - which lead the eye to the ceiling, which was Pine strips laid between big, square oak beams stained a darker shade than the walls.

That would have been stunning enough - but then you had to add in the fact that all the wood-work was elaborately carved, everything from bas-relief human figures to strange (and sometimes unnerving) creatures from mythology and theology.

Every few feet along the walls were pillars - wooden sculptures done in Black walnut that rose from floor to ceiling, each one a life-sized representation of what almost looked like human beings.

All of this was stunning- and made more so by the artfully arranged shelves, which were framed in black walnut and brass, with glass shelving - all lit from small interior lights.

The effect was stunning, and Archie fished his camera out of the bag in a daze, lifting it to his eyes and quickly adjusting the focus. Bringing his finger down, he heard the whip-crack 'click' of the shutter opening and closing...

"I assume that you approve, then...?"

Archie's heart seemed to skip a beat, and he whirled around to the woman who'd spoken.

"You startled me...!" Archie said, blushing. The truth was, he'd been so awed by the interior of the store that he'd missed the beautiful black woman behind the long, low desk, subconsciously mistaking her for another exquisite carving, since she was dressed all in black.

"I'm the proprietor of this shop." The woman said, her full lips curved in a slight smile that didn't seem to have anything to do with Archie's shock - indeed, it looked almost gloating. She lightly touched one slender, shapely hand to her equally shapely bosom. "Melandra DeLaCroix."

Archie introduced himself - while frowning slightly. For some reason, he felt he should recognize the name - but he couldn't place it, and he was sure if he'd ever met the stunning shop-mistress before, he would remember.

"So, might I assume that you're a photographer...?" She asked, archly, looking pointedly at his camera. "Of some sort, anyway - most professionals would have the courtesy to ask before taking any photos."

Archie winced. "I'm sorry - the decor of your shop sort of took my judgment away, as well as my breath. Perhaps there's some way I can apologize...?"

That strange grin of hers widened. "Well, perhaps there's something we can do. As it happened, I have some lenses for 35mm cameras in the back room. Perhaps you'd care to take a look...?"

Archie had all the lenses he needed, really, but he forced himself to grin politely. "Sure - least I can do is have a look." He didn't mention that it was the most he planned to do, as well...

Miss. DeLaCroix led him through the shop to an unmarked door in the back. Opening it with a small, dark metal 'skeleton' key, she swung the wooden door open and gestured at Archie to precede her.

He did so - and his eyebrows climbed upwards.

The room wasn't all that big - which meant that the dozen 'library' candles in tall iron sconces served to illuminate it well enough. The floor was stone, as were the walls, with only the ceiling sharing the oak-beam construction of the main shop - and it wasn't carved or gloss-varnished, but dark and almost Gothic.

The room's only permanent fixture was a huge, gilt-trimmed mirror that took up most of one wall, reflecting the glow of the dozen candles and creating the illusion of a large - but no more welcoming - space.

Sitting in the center of the room was a mid-sized end-table, covered with a dark purple velvet cloth - and on this table rested several camera lenses and filters.

"What an.. interesting... storage room." Archie managed, rather blandly.

"It's a necessity..." Melandra answered, cryptically. "Well, why don't you stand in front of the mirror and I'll show you the lenses?" Archie turned to look at her, bemused by her strange request...

Well, that's what he tried to do. Instead, what he did do was exactly what she'd 'suggested' - without a word of complaint, or even any sign he was doing anything but what he wanted to do, voluntarily, he found his body moving of its own volition to stand in front of the mirror, leaving him looking at the reflection of an apparently unconcerned, slightly bored young man...

It most certainly didn't show the fact that he was nearly frantic, trying to understand how his body had suddenly ceased to obey him.

"Well, now - why don't we start with this one?" Melandra said, smoothly, handing him a lens. Helplessly, Archie found his hands taking the lens and attaching it to his camera, even though he hadn't willed himself to do so.

"Why don't to try your feet with it?" She 'suggested', and Archie helplessly found himself doing just that - lifting the camera and aiming it at his feet...

He was wearing, as usual, a pair of black 'casual-dress' shoes. However, the lens on the camera was a 'distorted' one, like some sort of funhouse mirror - it softened the focus, while at the same it time 'stretched' the image vertically, altering the look of his shoes by making them look taller and out-of-focus.

Helplessly, Archie found himself taking the photograph... and the he swayed for a second, unsteadily, before finding his balance again. He lowered the camera - and was horrified to find that his feet were no longer encased in the shoes he'd put on this morning.

Instead, he found himself wearing a pair of black patent leather pumps with a four-inch platform and an eight-inch stiletto heel. Women's shoes... encasing smaller, slimmer feet that seemed right at home in the outrageous footwear.

The thing was - with the 'fuzzy' photo he'd just taken, the developed picture could quite well show what he was seeing now, if you didn't know it was 'stretched'...

Archie was shocked, confused and horrified... and unable to show any of it as he 'calmly' handed the lens back to the smirking shop- mistress, who handed him another lens.

"From bottom to top, Arch." Melandra said, smugly. "See how your hair looks with this one..."

Helpless, screaming soundly within the echoing vaults of his own mind, Archie did as she said, affixing the lens to his camera and lifting it...

It was soft-focus again... and this time, the lens created a 'horse-shoe' effect, leaving the exact center of the lens in the same proportions, but dragging the top upwards and the sides outwards and downwards. Even as his finger helplessly pressed the button on the camera, Archie had a sick feeling he knew what it was going to do...

...and knew he was right from the way the silky strands brushed against his neck, even before he lowered the camera and saw for himself the thick, curly mane of red hair that spilled from his head.

"Now.." Melandra laughed, cruelly. "...let's go back to 'bottom'. Over the shoulder shot, Archie..."

Feeling emotional numb by the undisplayable shocks coming to his trapped mind, Archie wasn't surprised when the lens he used this time gave him a full, firmly-packed ass that jutted outwards roundly, thanks to the three-quarters angle of the shot and the 'fish-eye' lens...

Another lens change... and Archie now had a wide, womanly pair of hips to support that ass, his jeans fitting perfectly to the well-curved hips that the horizontally-deformed lens had created...

...and considering the lack of a bulge, Archie was sure that more of his 'Southern' are matched that set of hips and full ass. The fact that he could no longer feel his cock and balls anymore, a sensation he was so utterly used to that he didn't even notice anymore - until it was gone - verified it.

Inside, Archie was a blubbering mass - his manhood gone, his body being changed by this woman, his life (as he... or she knew it) being reft away. And why? Because of one, impulsive photo...?

Then, in the emotional turmoil that was going on in her mind and body, the slowly becoming woman made the connection. She'd thought the name had sounded familiar... and it did. Once upon a time, a very immature version of 'Archie Jackson' had done something bad to a scrawny, pimple-face black girl named Mel. DeLaCroix. Something Archie had regretted doing, even going so far as to try and find Mel to make amends... but she'd seemed to drop off the face of the earth...

...until now.

All of which explained the 'why'.... but most definitely left the question of 'how'...

As her mind made the connection, her body was busy following Melinda's orders - and she was aware of the changes being made to her, even if she wasn't focusing directly on them. However, she became all-too-aware of them when the changes were finished, and she felt an odd sort of 'lurch' - as control of her body was handed back to her.

"Well, what do you thing, Ann...?" Melandra asked, smugly - and the new woman gaped at the reflection of her altered body.

A tall, voluptuous red-head stared back. Dressed in a white work-shirt with the top three buttons undone, skin-tight jeans and high- heeled platform shoes, she looked like somebody's stereotype of a 'country bar slut'.

She wasn't beautiful, though she wasn't ugly either. Instead, her face was too-heavily made up and her clothes inexpensively revealing by being too tight. She wasn't 'slender', but toned and somewhat muscular, though not in a 'masculine' way - more like a 'farm girl' doing outdoorsy chores through her life.

She had those wide, 'child-bearing' hips and full, firm ass packed tight into her jeans - and an enormous pair of tits that were almost falling out of the open neckline of the partially buttoned shirt that was straining mightily over the parts of her tits it did contain. Given the amount of creamy cleavage on display - not to mention the large, obvious dents her nipples formed in the fabric - it was obvious that she wasn't wearing a bra. She looked like she was pretty damned 'easy', to put it mildly.

"Oh... my... god..." The newly formed woman muttered, stunned, reaching her hands upwards... and letting them hover above the straining fabric covering her new endowments, as if afraid touching them would somehow make this transformation more 'real' then it was. Instead, her hands continued upwards and lightly touched the alien contours of her new face and overripe lips, being careful not to injure herself with her long new nails.

"You... you did this to me because I cheated you out of an art prize.... something I didn't even want to do in the first place ?" Archie -

Ann - asked Melandra, her big, green eyes wide in shock and horror - and disbelief. Not what had actually happened, because there was no way of not believing everything she was feeling and seeing, but the fact that it had been done to her.

Melandra's face registered shock. "You... you remember me? Mark didn't even " She paused, shaking her head in mild confusion - she hadn't expected to be made to feel guilty over her 'just vengeance'.

"Mark? You already did something to him?" Ann asked, slowly sliding her hands over the taut fabric covering her firm new ass and shivering.

Fighting to get back into her vengeful mood, Melandra grinned wickedly. "I gave that chauvinistic bastard what he deserved." "Good." Ann said, sharply - and that threw Melandra for another loop....

...until her features hardened.

"You can't fool me, Ann. I can read your mind now, and I know "

Her face with slack with shock as she accessed his mind...

...and saw Mark and the other participant, Jeff, blackmailing him into doing what he'd done. It had all been Jeff's idea, and Mark had gone along willingly - but they'd needed a third person to make it a clean sweep, and they'd blackmailed Archie into it, knowing about some photos he'd taken of a very willing girl who'd turned out to be underage, after all. He'd destroyed the negatives when he'd learned she'd lied but Jeff had some of the photos of the mature-looking girl, plus a photo-copy of her birth certificate, showing she was under-age and a little bribery had also gotten her 'sworn' statement that Archie had known she was underage when he'd taken the pictures, so...

For the past ten years, Melandra had been nursing a grudge that had grown with every downturn her life had taken. The only thing she'd ever had was her skill at art and these three boys had cheated her out of a prize that could have led to better formal education, work in the field, things to compensate for her appearance and poverty and when she'd begun to delve into the dark secrets, it had been to punish these men for stealing the life she should have had by stealing theirs.

In all that time, she'd never had the thought that any of them might have felt guilty - or that they might have tried to help her, if she hadn't run off. Now, in Ann's mind, she could see that things could have been very different indeed....

"Oh... no..." She said, softly, horror written on her face. Ann didn't deserve what she was doing to her...

"I'm sorry..." She whispered, feeling pain at what she'd brought down on him. "Oh, my god, I... I..."

"There, there..." Ann said, awkwardly, walking over to Melandra, barely noticing the exaggerated feminine stride she now possessed as she embraced the other woman awkwardly and patted her on the back. "If you thought I was like Mark - or, even more, like Jeff - then you were justified in what you were doing. You just didn't know "

Melandra still looked stricken. "But... but... you don't understand! I... I can't reverse the spell. There's only one 'escape clause' and it's designed to be so impossible that when you try and take it, you only end up making things worse!" The new woman's face took on a matching stricken look. "You mean I'm stuck like this?"

"Yes." Melandra sniffled. "Oh, god, I'm sorry - I never thought that maybe one of you three wasn't the selfish bastard who deserved "

She shook her head, unable to finish the sentence.

"Oh, god " Ann said, the full enormity of what she was facing coming down on her like a ten-ton boulder. She'd been changed into a woman, and "I'm going to be a woman for the rest of my life."

"Oh, I wish that was just it !" Melandra cried. "To save my own soul, I made a pact - that not only would you spend your lives as women, forced to be sluts... but when you died, all three of your souls would go to Hell! It's the only way I could save my own, and I figured that's where three bastards like you would end up anyway, but... but.. you " She wailed, horrified and heartbroken by what she'd become. "I've condemned you to an eternity as a sex-slave in Hell !"

Ann looked stunned.. then confused. "Wait, wait... how can you promise our souls to the Devil? I mean isn't there something about

'free will' that would ?" She trailed off, her half-forgotten 'lapsed' catholic upbringing confused and unsure on this suddenly vital point of theology.

"Yes - but it's set up so " Melandra stopped, an odd look coming over her face as she shot a glance at the mirror that border on terror.

Then all expression vanished.

"Your stuck." She said, flatly. "You're a woman, and you will be for the rest of your life - unless you want to try and use the loop-hole. Technically, you CAN become male again, if you succeed. Either way - when you die, you go to hell. So accept it. Now get the hell out of my shop whore."

"What ?" Ann stammered, shocked by Melandra's sudden change of moods.

She yanked the door to the room open. "I said, get out - bitch!"

"look, Melandra, I understand that you want to feel justified by " Ann tried to calm the woman, try to get her back to the 'real' person she'd been a second ago...

...and the fit, beautiful black woman grabbed her and all-but-dragged her out of the small room, slamming the heavy wooden door shut behind them as they left...

* * * * *

Ann walked through the darkness, her long, black leather trench-coat swirling around her ankles as her high stiletto heels clicked a tempo on the sidewalk.

She still couldn't believe what she was about to do - it seemed impossible that she'd ever find herself in this situation. Yet, here she was, a huge-breasted woman about to... Well, Melandra had made it abundantly clear that there was no option, not really. No, there was only one 'loophole' in her fate, as slim and 'impossible' as it might be. Ann knew that it was supposed to be impossible, and it entailed things that she'd rather not... but there was nothing else she could do. After all, she couldn't just accept her fate, meekly. No, she had to try, even if it wasn't a 'probable' solution.

Mouth dry, she left the sidewalk to mount the steps to a small bungalow in a middlin' nice part of the city, trying not to let her nerves show as she reached the front door. She hated herself for what she was about to do, 'willingly' but she was going to do it anyway.

Reaching into the left-hand pocket of her new coat, she extracted a small leather case, which she unrolled, revealing various bits of black metal in unusual shapes and sizes.

Awkwardly, she used two of the slim metal objects to probe at the door, feeling sweat start to form as she worked.. and then, finally, the tumblers gave. She opened the door to the house and let herself in, closing and locking the door behind her.

She exchanged the picks for the other object in the coat's pocket, then let the coat slide to the floor, her hand tightly wrapped around the object she'd removed from the coat before shedding it. Taking a deep breath, Ann composed her features into the 'correct' expression, then strode toward the back section of the house, heels muffled by the carpeting on the floor.

Reaching the door to the master bedroom, Ann took one more long, deep breath - then squared her shoulders and slammed the door open with all the force in her smoothly muscled new arms.

"All right, slave - on you feet before your Mistress!" She said, firmly - while the figure in the bed sat bolt upright, dropping the porno mag he was reading....

...to gaze in shock at what stood in his doorway, like one of the photos brought to sudden life.

The woman was tall and toned and voluptuous and clad all in black leather, from head to toe - sort of.

She wore black leather thigh-high boots whose two-inch platforms and eight-inch stiletto heels drove her height up to at least six-six. She also wore a garment that was 'unusual' in design to say the least - made of black leather, it's main portion was a black leather corset that cinched her waist in, exaggerating her voluptuous hourglass figure. However, as an integral part of the 'corset' were a series of leather straps. Two ran downward between her legs, leaving her shaven cunt bare before joining into a thin band that ran up the crack of her firm, toned ass and joining back up to the main 'corset body'. Another strap rose upwards, disappearing into the cleavage of a pair of huge, incredibly firm tits that were the size of medicine balls and tipped with enormous, thick nipples. The band then 'T'ed into a black leather collar that surrounded her neck, decorated with gleaming metal spikes that matched the gleaming metal chains that hung from the front and back of the 'crotch strap', forming a chain 'belt' around the upper swell of her hips.

Her lower face was left bare, revealing her incredibly full, firm lips, colored a dark, gloss red, and her firm nose. A black leather mask covered her head, her hair pulled taut under it - and then through the hole at the top, lifted up a bit by four metal rings before falling down the back of her head in thick, red curls. The mask ran down behind her ears, then around her neck to join the collar.

"Who... what..." He stammered, eyes wide...

"I have come to offer you a life of pleasure, you unworthy worm!" Ann said, sneering. She held up what she'd taken from the coat - a double-ended vial, sort of like an 'hourglass' with a closed middle, each end containing a glowing green liquid. "We will each partake of half the potion - and then you shall spend the rest of your life in constant sexual slavery, Jeff!"

The muscular, handsome young man on the bed slowly began to grin. She knew his name, which meant that she was probably some sort of 'specialty' hooker somebody had sent to him. Usually, in his fantasies, he was the dominant one... but this wasn't fantasy, and if she wanted to order him to fuck her, he'd play along...

"Yes, Mistress..." Jeff said, his performance marred by a big, shit-eating grin. "Now, choose one side - and drink!" Ann commanded, handing over the vial...

This was one of the tricky parts. Right now, there was a fifty-fifty chance that every thing would be for nothing - since she didn't know which potion was which in the double vial. She forced herself to remain outwardly calm - imperious - as Jeff took the vial, popped open the top, and drank...

The next minute was the longest in her life as he handed the vial back to her... then he grunted in surprise, eyes widening in shock as he whipped off the covers...

...to reveal his already hard cock growing even larger, his balls keeping pace.

It disgusted her to be 'relieved' that he'd gotten the 'right' potion - the one that would give him a huge cock and incredible sexual stamina. Forcing herself to remain 'calm', she drained the other half of the vial, knowing as she did so that it would cause her to become incredibly horny... and the effect on her body would be permanent - if she didn't succeed, that was. If she actually managed to pull the 'loophole' of the spell off, it would be a different matter...

"Now, slave - come to me!" She ordered, even as she felt her body responding to the 'nymphomania' potion, making her desire that which disgusted her. In one sense, it made what she was going to have to do easier... but that didn't mean she had to 'like' it.

Jeff's attention switched from the now enormous cock that thrust rampantly from his crotch to her - and his smile widened.

"Oh, yeah..." He said, rising from the bed, his huge cock proceeding him like a battering ram... and Ann had to repress a shiver at how that cock made her feel, how much she craved it...

"Suck my tits, slave!" She commanded, arrogantly.

"Why don't we just skip right to the fucki... oomph!" Jeff's 'suggestion' was cut short as he helplessly put his mouth over one of her huge, thick - and fully engorged - nipples and began to suck, creating intensely pleasurable sensations in Ann's new anatomy.

That was the other effect of him getting the 'right' potion - he was enslaved to her. If she'd gotten the wrong one, she would have had much larger, milk-filled tits - and would be enslaved to him, when he would have been super-horny.

"Yes..." She moaned in unwilling pleasure, between clenched teeth. "Fondle my tits, too...!"

Jeff was startled to find he had to obey his 'mistress', no longer just playing along... but since things were going more or less the way he wanted, he didn't really mind.

He minded even less when she ordered him to stop - and stand still while she milked his cock.

By now, her mind was awash with rampant desires for sex... and it was with an odd mix of eager willingness and horrified disgust that she knelt and wrapped her hands around the base of his massive, throbbing cock. Opening her incredibly full, firm lips, she leaned forward - and began her first blow job.

She was utterly disgusted - and she couldn't stop if her life depended on it. His cock wasn't particularly clean, and the feel and taste of it in her mouth disgusted her... but she just had to suck him off. She couldn't stop herself from 'expertly' sucking at his cock, cramming as much of his huge new tool in her mouth while her hands worked the shaft> it wasn't long before she got him off, his hot cum gushing down her throat - and sealing one of the effects of the potion. As long as she had this body, she'd be addicted to 'forcing' men to letting her suck their cock. It was part of this body now, no matter what the persona that inhabited it wanted.

Licking him clean, she rose, disgusted by what she'd just done, and wishing she could do something to get the sickening flavor of cum out of her mouth.

"Satisfactory, slave." She said, imperiously. "Now - lay down on the bed."

Willingly and unwillingly, Jeff complied, his cock still hard and ready as he lay on the bed - and she straddled him, her body desiring this, even though it would addict her to it... but she had to do it, even knowing what her life would be like if she didn't succeed at ridding herself of this body.

Lifting herself up, she thrust downward.. and impaled her self on his huge, ready cock.

She began to drive herself up and down on the massive tool, feeling the unwanted pleasure of having sex as a woman, and horrified by how good it felt. It was something she'd never forget - loving the 'perverted' act even as she rode his cock, slamming herself up and down on the massive tool, filling her hot, wet new cunt to the limit and creating intense pleasure...

...right up until he came, flooding her cunt with a veritable sea of cum, long before she'd orgasmed.

Not that it mattered - her body craved sex, and the fact that she'd never be fully satisfied with sex was part of the curse.

Slipping off his still rigid cock, she rose and turned around, walking over to the dresser and bracing herself against it.

"Now, slave..." She commanded, wanting to die, "...fuck your mistress in the ass..."

* * * * *

Jeff kept his eyes on his Mistress' swaying ass, his huge, apparently constant erection painfully hidden in the sweatpants he wore.

He still didn't know how or why this was happening - but he couldn't complain. Even though he seemed helplessly bound to obey this unnamed woman, all her commands dealt with him fucking her in various ways, so he was happy with the outcome. He just wished he could be fucking her right now - even after fucking all night and all day, he wasn't tired or limp, and he could go for hours more with his equally insatiable Mistress. He'd lost count of the number of times he'd cum...

...until she'd insisted they get dressed and go somewhere.

Now, he eyed the odd shop as she led him inside, some sort of New Age place. He began to sneer.. then remembered the strange 'potion' and decided he should reserve judgment on the matter.

"So, Mistress, why are we here?" Jeff asked.

She shot him a look that was supposed to be imperious - but was marred by the naked longing in her eyes. He might be enslaved to her, and capable of fucking nearly constantly - but she needed it, something he wasn't burdened with.

"You'll see." She said.

"Yes, you will." Another female voice said, and Jeff turned to look at some nigger bitch, dressed all in black. "Follow me, you two."

Jeff opened his mouth... or tried to. Instead, he found himself obeying - somehow, this nigger held the same sort of power over him as Mistress did, except stronger. There was nothing he could do as he followed the black bitch into a weird back room, all stone with a huge mirror on the wall. Mistress followed behind him, but Jeff couldn't tell if it was by command, or willingly.

"Stand there, Jeff..." The nigger said, and he helplessly obeyed, standing in front of the mirror so he could see himself.

"You're a sculptor, aren't you Jeff?" the woman said, and Jeff found himself helpless admitting he was.

"Then why don't you sculpt your own fantasy woman?" She suggested - with an odd tone of voice, shooting mistress a strange, worried look.

Helplessly - horrified - Jeff discovered exactly what she meant... as he began to work by sitting down and taking one of his sneaker-clad shoes in hand...

...and molding the white shoe with his hands, finding it - and the foot within - as malleable as clay. He tried desperately to stop himself, but was unable to as his hands worked as commanded, reshaping his shoes into smaller, more dainty pairs of white leather pumps, with six-inch heels, tall enough to be sexy, but not so much as to make his 'dream woman' as tall, like 'Mistress' was...

...and then he found himself moving on to the now-malleable black sweat pants he was wearing. Helplessly, screaming inside, he found himself somehow remolding most of his legs into extremely slender, long and shapely women's legs, clad in black nylons... while the upper portion of the pants became a just-above-knee-length black leather skirt enclosing his slender-yet-womanly hips, full, firm ass and...

..and he reached out and gripped the shape of his massive, thick cock through the black fabric and pulled, separating the cock from herself, leaving behind black leather over her new cunt, holding the enormous black cock and balls in her hand...

...as the black bitch came over and lifted her skirt...

...and he found himself placing the cock against her pussy... where it fused, becoming 'real' once more, and enormous, thick, throbbing cock attached to her buxom, feminine frame. She winced as she lowered her dress over the very visible bulge...

...and the mirror began to glow a deep, sullen - but somehow 'confused' red.

Still, she had to obey the command, and she continued reshaping herself into her own fantasy, moving on to the white T-shirt she wore...

...which became a skin-tight white silk blouse that strained to cover the tits of her fantasy woman, now hanging from her chest. They were enormous, even bigger than Mistress's were - and tipped with gigantic, thick nipples.

Helplessly, Jeff continued to reshape herself, helpless to scream her horror and shame and disgust as she became the massive-breasted fantasy of his dreams...

...his old High School teacher - sort of. Her name had been Ms. Metzler, and she'd been gorgeous and sexy... in a cool, imperious way that had driven Jeff nuts. She'd dressed 'classy-sexy', revealing legs that were absolutely stunning. Her face was stunningly beautiful, even with the glasses and honey-blond hair done up in a tight bun.. and that had been part of his fantasies. Jeff had always fantasized about Ms. Metzler somehow growing enormous tits - like the ones Jeff now had - and being so horny by whatever caused her tits to grow that she couldn't help but unwillingly fuck Jeff.

Now, Jeff was her - or the fantasy version. She was even more coolly gorgeous, her skin and looks flawless, her tits unrealistically enormous beneath her sexy-conservative clothes. She was even wearing the gold-rimmed glasses, and her hair was done up in a tight bun...

Then she was finished, locked in position, staring at the fantasy vision she had become in the now red-tinted mirror. "Do you like your new body, Jessica?" The newly hugely-endowed black she-male asked.

"No!" Jeff found himself capable of replying.

"Would you be willing to do something to get rid of the body you have?" She asked intently. "Yes!" anything!" Jeff shouted.

"So be it!" The woman shouted, nervously...

...and Jeff found himself staring at that incredibly huge-breasted 'Jessica' body from another angle.. even as she became aware of a desperate yearning for constant sex off all sorts...

...coupled with a complete and utter submissiveness carried over from her male 'Jeff' body's consuming of the potion...

...even as she realized that she was now in the body of the woman she'd known only as 'Mistress'... but was a mistress no longer even as she helplessly dropped to her knees, staring at the huge bulge in the black she-male's dress and finding that she'd forever be doomed to obey anybody with a cock, in the hopes of getting fucked the way she needed...

"Nooo....!" The new Ann screamed, horrified... and cum-hungry. "No, I... I... Oh, God, I need it... Mistress. Please, fuck me..."

Disgusted with herself, but unable to stop, she began to crawl toward the only cock in sight, the one on the she-male, the one that had been hers...and that she now desperately needed...

<No! This Shall Not Be!>

The.. voice... was thunderous. It was inhuman - no human throat could have created that awful sound, and it was enough to derail even Ann's new one-track mind, even as the new, ex-Archie 'Jessica' and the newly she-male Melandra turned to face the glowing red mirror.

"But it is!" Melandra shouted, triumphantly. "As agreed, each of the three are now female, and bound to that form for life, of their own free will! I have kept my bargain, as agreed!"

<No! You have NOT! That one's soul is beyond me!>

The new Jessica straightened against the drag of her gigantic new tits. "My trespass against Melandra came because of that one..." She pointed at Jeff/Ann, "...and was between he, her and I! Having confessed my sin, I performed the act of contrition by bringing her the one who caused the sin... and she has granted me absolution! I am in a state of grace, and you may not have me!"

<Then I shall take Melandra, for her sins are greatest of all!>

"And I repent them all!" Melandra shouted. "I have paid contrition, too - by accepting this stigmata, and by accepting the burden of what I owe all three to whom I've sinned... and I, too, am in a state of grace, and you shall not have me!"

<I shall take the other two transgressors souls at their death - and I shall wait for you to fall from grace, and then shall I visit upon you the every pain of the mortal world! You escape my own grasp in the afterlife, but whence you fall from grace, I shall visit Hell on Earth to your Mortal lives...!>

"No, you shall not!" Melandra, shouted. "For I have done what was agreed upon, whether or not you receive your rewards - and our dealings are at an end. All four of us shall one day be judge for heaven, hell or purgatory... but free will rules all, and you may not touch us in Mortal life. So, as agreed, I have met the conditions and our parlay and pact are at an end... and I abjure you, evil one! In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy ghost, return from whence you came, and never more return to this Mortal Realm!"

<NOOoooooooo...!>

The scream of denial seemed to fade off into some unimaginable distance... and then the mirror shattered into a thousand pieces, each of the dead, flat black....

"Well... we one " Jessica said, looking down at the body she'd been stuck with. She lightly grasped the even more enormous tits that this new body sported, the ones she'd have to lug around for the rest of her life. "Sort of "

"Life as a huge-breasted woman, with just normal female urges?" Melandra said, smiling wryly., looking down at the huge, insistent erection visible through her dress. "I wish I was as lucky as you, Arc uh, Jessica."

Looking at the male genitalia the new, gorgeous she-male sported, Jessica snorted. "Wanna switch?"

"If it wasn't for the fact that all my powers left when I abjured the demon familiar, I would in a second " Melandra said, with a sigh - then shrugged. "Except that would have 'bypassed' my contrition and repentance, and we would have been right back where we started. To save our souls in eternal life, we must 'suffer' in Mortal life.. and so, here we are, all a bunch of freaks "

"Yes... Freaks.." Ann gasped, drowning the attention of Melandra and Jessica, who'd temporarily forgotten about her. "I.. I'm a freak..."

I don't understand what.. what's happening.. but... but.. oh, God, but I need to suck your cock, mistress - please!" Melandra winced. "Uh... my name's Melan.. uh, just 'Mel' will do." She said, uncomfortably.

"Mel.." The new woman literally whimpered. "I.. I don't want to... but I need to.. suck your cock.. please, I'll do anything "

Mel winced again, then turned to Jessica. "Why don't you go get Mandi and bring her back here? With a always-hard, ever-filled cock, I'm the only person able to satisfy these two new super-sluts I've created.. and that's what I'm going to spend most of my time doing from now on "

"All right..." Jessica agreed, heading for the door... as Mel lifted her skirt, revealing that enormous, thick cock...

The new Ann just couldn't help herself - she eagerly sucked the cock that once been hers into her mouth...

...and felt an incredible wave of emotional 'pleasure' at filling her horrible need as she began to suck on the cock, her disgust running a distant second to her new desires as she became lost in her new identity as a submissive cum-sucking nymphomaniac...

As she walked out the door to go collect the woman who had once been Mark and bring her back to her new life, Jessica wondered about what that new life was going to be like for her. Though she had only 'normal' female hormones and urges, she'd already experienced female sex and knew that, having seen how wonderful it could be, she'd never be able to remain celibate - or even a 'lesbian'. No she'd enjoyed certain parts of what had happened while she was Ann, and knew that now - when she was 'in control' of her own body, able to seek out 'normal' men to have sex with, she just wouldn't be able to resist. Part of her still found the thought disquieting... but what else could she do? After all that had happened, she was the one with the most 'normal' life, and she'd have to find a way to make as much of it as she could....

She suddenly became very aware of a man about her own age looking at her. She almost began to blush.. then realized something utterly amazing - though he'd given the expected look at her huge tits, his eyes were now on her face, looking at her intently. He looked stunned - but that was expected, considering she was probably the most endowed woman he'd ever seen...

"Oh - I'm sorry. You just look like somebody I knew.. kinda." He said, blushing. Jessica had to laugh. "That's original."

"No, really." He insisted. "I swear - you're nearly the spitting image of my old high-school teacher.. uh, mostly."

Jessica - as Archie - had been taught English under her, too, and knew that she looked like the fantasy version of the woman - as she'd appeared twelve years ago. The real thing was now older enough (and flat chested enough) to avoid 'doppleganager' syndrome, but to any of the male students who'd fantasized over her in class, Jessica would be instantly recognizable, so this would be a common occurrence...

...which made the lie only logical. "You know, I've been getting that a lot since I moved here last week. The first few times, I figured it was just a line, but now "

"Yeah - it's uncanny." The guy said, blushing. "I'm sorry I stared and all - but you do look like her." He paused, then cleared his throat nervously, his eyes almost unwillingly roaming her body again. "Uh... maybe I could make it up to you by buying you a cup of coffee ?"

"I'm sorry " Jessica said, glad for the graceful 'out' available. "I'm just in the middle of doing something."

"Oh.. okay " The young man said, nodding in understanding. "Again, I'm sorry."

"It's not your fault..." She assured him, moving past him and heading on towards the club where Mandi was working...

...then pausing and looking back at the man, noticing how 'cute' he was, how politely he'd managed to behave when suddenly confronted with his own fantasy woman.. and the way he'd accepted her rejection so nicely, without seeming to let it make him sad. She thought about what line of thought she'd been lost in when she'd noticed him..

"Hey!" She called, and he turned. "What's your name?" "Brad..." He said, a little confused.

She grinned. "I'm Jessica, Brad... and I may be busy right now, but I'll be free for dinner tonight. Le Positere, seven o'clock sharp. Your buying."

"Uh.. yes, of course!" He said, as she turned away, smiling to herself as she headed onwards.

Hell, maybe the thought of having sex with guys still felt uncomfortable - but having been one, and knowing how having a fantasy suddenly come true would make a guy feel was strangely arousing...

She wondered how hard it would be to get the school to give her a list of the male students who'd had Ms. Metzler as a teacher....

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: What if during passionate love making you woke up and found that you have been given a new life as a female and a Brit...and you liked it?

Life On Venus

By Gunslinger

"Daphne," Dan gasped suddenly, his short, panting breaths even more strained than the physical activity he was involved in could account for, "Wait, I..."

The slender-yet-shapely young woman who pistoned and writhed atop him initially seemed not to hear him at all. Her pale skin dripping with sweat, her usually lush sandy-blonde hair slicked to her scalp, the young woman (who, at twenty-three was exactly half Dan's age) continued to thrust herself vigorously up and down atop the throbbing manhood that filled her ripe, wet pussy.

Nevertheless, she must have been aware that something was wrong – not only was Dan's contribution to their nearly frenetic lovemaking rapidly becoming weak and uncoordinated, but his usually rampant manhood, the pride and center of his bachelor lifestyle, was slowly beginning to soften. Indeed, that fact seemed to make Daphne even more determined.

Not that she was likely to slack off at any other time, either – Dan, despite his central belief that he was both utterly irresistible to women and likewise without peer in pleasing them, had never met a woman more sexually oriented. Ever since he'd met the attractive young Englishwoman a month ago, she'd be constantly eager to have sex with him.

Now, as the dull pain in his upper left chest continued to both build and spread, Dan tried again to communicate his distress to her – only to realize, with shock growing as quickly as fear, that she was well aware of what was happening...

...and was continuing anyway.

"It's... got to be... this way..." Daphne gasped, hips bucking wildly.

Dan wanted to know what she meant by that – but not only did his voice fail to obey his commands, but the world was rapidly turning into a gray tunnel.

Then everything went black.

* * * * *

The consciousness that thought of itself as Daniel Robert Johnstone floated in perfect nothingness.

There was neither light nor dark; neither sound nor silence. There was no sensation of body, nor the emotional sensations provided by hormones or other physical cues. There was nothing but disembodied conscious, stripped of all physicality.

It was, in a great many ways, a revelation to that which thought of itself as Dan.

The first shocking revelation was the very fact of the continued sense-of-self. In the instant of that realization, Dan assumed himself to be dead, and this the afterlife; he could not imagine any other scenario, not even given the fact that his consciousness, stripped of physical drives, was sharper and more rational than at any other point in his memory of existence – or non-existence, as seemed to be the case.

However shocking it might have been for him to find a continued consciousness after death, it was even more shocking for him to realize that it was the minor consideration at the moment.

Even more shocking was the complete and utter lack of any immediate sexuality. Only now – far too late, as far as he knew – did Dan realize just how much of his mortal existence had been taken up by his body's interest in sexuality. He'd always believed his highly sexualized lifestyle, his near-constant search for various forms of sexual satisfaction, had been a conscious and rational decision on his part – now, with no hormones, no cock, he knew a completely different truth; that almost everything he had thought was his chosen lifestyle was in fact nothing more than rationalization of his blind drive to fulfill a hormonally- and socially-driven compulsion. Absent those inputs, he suddenly knew and understood, without the faintest chance of mistake, how much of his life had been wasted in a biological drive far beyond anything necessary to the simple perpetuation of his genes...

...especially since he had not perpetuated those genes at all, since he'd actively sought to maintain his single, childless lifestyle.

He had always thought himself an extremely popular man, one who had a history of great many girlfriends to point with smug pride at – and only now did he know that he had instead been almost entirely alone, seeking out only brief physical encounters, while avoiding any sort of physical or emotional consequence. Indeed, as sad as it was to realize, Daphne was the person with which he had the closest thing to a real relationship with... and even then, it had been predicated and perpetuated solely on the sexuality of it, at least from his perspective. What little emotional investment he'd made in another human being had been done solely and wholly in order to keep her rampant sexuality, the one most like his own, nearby.

...and he'd paid for it with life itself.

At least, that was what Dan thought at the moment of total realization – only to find that, as if somebody had been waiting for him to make that realization, everything changed...

* * * * *

It was almost as devastating as an explosion.

After the coolly clinical comfort of the sensationless darkness, the sudden influx of inputs seemed to wash over and through Dan like a tsunami. The light that hit his eyes, though dim, was like a flashbulb going off – only, instead of an orange-blue afterimage that lingered in the eye, it was a dim reddish glow from a flickering neon sign somewhere nearby.

At the same time, the faint humming of the neon's ballast seemed as loud as the drone of an multi-engine airplane passing close overhead. Compared to that low buzz, the hum and swish of vehicles passing on a nearby street seemed like a screaming cacophony.

Even more cacophonous was the effect of the physical sensations assaulting Dan's mind, however. The feel of a cold, hard, rather irregular surface beneath his body – and the very weight and existence of that body itself.

Having first lived a life that allowed no comparison, then having been given an intangible, unmeasurable time without it, the resumption of physically was almost overwhelming. Cool air brushing over warm flesh, the feathery touch of clothing, the thrum of blood through arteries, the basso profundo thump of his heart – it was all a massive, overwhelming flood of physical sensation unlike anything Dan had ever encountered.

At first, he believed that it was due solely to his unknown period of immaterialism – and then, gradually, it began to dawn on Dan that there was something significantly, fundamentally different about the sensations that were assaulting his startled, spinning mind.

Such as the cool air moving over legs, almost as if he were wearing shorts... except that there was no sensation of the same air stirring leg hairs, as he'd always been subliminally aware of before- or the fact that the 'shorts' were both lighter, finer, and with more open movement than there should have been.

Such as the way the underwear felt; most specifically, the lack of the 'air space' caused by the fabric being pushed away from his hip-bones by the necessity of stretching to enclose his cock and balls.

Such as the fact that those hips seemed to be wider than they should be – and that his ass felt fuller and more softly rounded than it should have been.

Such as the weight on his chest, one that shifted and, well...jiggled with every breath... and which was undeniably a portion of his body, rather than something sitting on his body.

Such as the silken stir of hair across shoulders and neck, which shouldn't have been possible. Such as the unmistakable scent of perfume hovering in the air.

Such as the slick, waxy coating on his lips.

Such as the longer, finer lashes framing his vision...

Dan hadn't consciously planned on speaking when the sudden, shocking possibility slammed hard into his mind

– it was, in fact, and involuntary exclamation. Nevertheless, the startled curse that emerged came in such soft, high-pitched tones that it couldn't help but verify his shocked realization.

Correction: her shocked realization.

"Holy, shit – I'm a woman...!" Dan blurted – and received yet another shock as the longer phrase revealed something she had missed with the shorter, blunter oath.

She had an accent. Specifically...

"Bloody hell, I sound like a sodding Brit!" She blurted – and then blinked, for her mental command to her mouth had been considerably more American in flavor.

With all senses of what was undeniable a feminine body now checking in, Dan struggled into a sitting position – 'struggling', not because it was difficult or unfamiliar, but because it was easy and familiar; her memories and assumptions were that this body was 'different' and 'wrong', leading the new woman fighting her own instinctively graceful motions.

Considering the whole 'death and rebirth' thing, this should have been a minor issue – but to a male-centric ego in an emphatically female body, it was anything but minor.

Sight was but of limited utility, despite the seemingly inhuman clarity with which she was viewing herself – a fault not of her new eyes, but of the dim, flickering red light from the nearby bar – pub? – sign that was the only illumination available in the narrow, brick-surfaced alleyway. Nevertheless, it was more than enough for her to make out the rather prominent and completely unmistakable swellings pushing out what appeared to be a garish orange shirt that, upon a moment's consideration, was probably yellow under the garish red glow.

In fact, a closer examination proved it to be a short-sleeved yellow t-shirt blouse, with a tracery of white lace lining the placket and edging the Chelsea collar...

('...and how do I know that...?') she wondered to herself.)

...which, in turn, was tucked in to the high-waisted jeans that fit like a second skin right down to where it flared out into bells above brown leather t-strap sandals that matched the broad, brass-buckled belt that pulled tight to a trim waist.

In fact, the brown leather and brass fixtures of both shoes and belt precisely matched those of a large shoulder-bag that lay on the ground nearby, seeming to argue in favor of it being hers.

Still feeling muddled and befuddled, the confused woman idly brushed a windblown tress of her long, feathered page-boy style hair out of her face as she retrieved the purse and opened it.

For a second, confusion doubled and redoubled. Inside was an eclectic collection of make-up, brushes, facial tissues, and other odds and bobs of the sort women's handbags usually contained – yet to her eye, the packaging and graphic details looked quaintly garish...

...which was explained, if not excused, when she opened the wallet. Amongst other (to her Americanized eyes) quaint-looking items was an assortment of multi-hued British banknotes – and a small red passport-style booklet whose cover bore the legend of 'Great Britain Driving License'; it allowed that under the Road Traffic Act of 1972, Mr./Mrs./Miss Danielle Delores Elizabeth Brown, 12 Burling Green Road, Liverpool was hereby licensed to drive motor vehicles of GROUP I only, fee of 5/- paid.

There was no photograph, but Dani had no choice but to assume that it was her driving license...

...except that there was no assumption needed at all. As soon as she saw the name on the document, she recognized it as her own – even though she had never seen it before in her life.

"Bugger me!" Dani exclaimed, still trying to wrap her mind around what she was experiencing – as well as how sharply she was experiencing it. More than anything else, the incredibly sharp awareness of her own body – and its various hungers and desires – was near enough to driving her batty. It was as if all her physical sensations and fallibilities had been magnified or multiplied. As if in a strange dream-state that was nonetheless also somehow more real than reality, she let her body choose how to move the most naturally as she rose easily and gracefully to stand atop the blocky heels of her shoes, sharply aware of the way her broad, well-rounded hips not only swiveled but swayed as she easily ankled her way out of the alley and onto the village high street.

"Lord, but I need a drink..." She muttered to herself, shaking her head. She was distantly aware of the many vast implications of the seemingly impossible situation in which she found herself – but she didn't feel them; it was if it were something she'd seen on the telly, rather than reality. Emotionally, everything she saw, felt, and experienced seemed every bit as right as her intellect and masculine memories insisted it was wrong.

In such a scenario, getting plonkered didn't seem but half likely, all things considered.

Although Dan had never been in a pub in his life, to Dani, walking into a public house felt, emotionally, almost like coming home. In an odd, doubled perception that was rapidly becoming familiar, everything she saw – from the blokes pitching darts with a pint in hand to the pair of codgers playing cribbage at a corner table – felt familiar and comforting. Casually brushing one long-nailed finger down the seam at the back of her denims to smooth the panties beneath, she carefully inserted herself into a space near the somewhat crowded bar, not even wrinkling her nose at what should have been an unfamiliar fug of fag and pipe smoke filling the room.

Subconsciously aware of the pecking order at the bar, she didn't crowd and of the local's regulars, instead lightly resting once slender hand upon the polished oak of the bar until the brief crush eased enough for her to stand square-on to the bar, both hands resting lightly on the burlled surface. In due time – calculated to take into consideration her trim, shapely figure, of course – the publican deigned to glance her way, one eyebrow raised in inquiry.

She completely missed her cue, however – she was entirely too busy staring in shock at the mirror backing the bar.

"What'll be, Luv...?" the publican called out.

"Pint your best lager, if you please," she answered, distractedly.

Meanwhile, she was busy trying to reassess her erroneous first impression, which was that she'd somehow been turned into Daphne.

It wasn't true – it was 'merely' that she looked an awful lot like Daphne did...

...like Daphne had.

...like Daphne, someday, would.

While taking stock of herself, she had perforce been unable to take an overall impression, especially of her own face – now, however, she was trying to cope with that doubled perception, itself redoubled. Unmistakably, there was great similarity between the form she now possessed and that of the woman Dan would someday meet and bed in a distant place and time. The same slender yet almost cartoonishly curvaceous body, with the broad hips and slender waist, long legs and full bosom. Her face held a similar, somehow prototypically British – generally a smooth ovoid, but with a somewhat prominent chin, straight nose and smooth brow boasting slightly angled rather than arched eyebrows. Her hair was more honey-blonde than Daphne's had been, but her hazel eyes with fine, if somewhat short lashes was nearly a dead match.

The sound of a full pint-glass hitting the bar before her drew Dani at least partially out of her distracted musings, and without prompting she dropped 20p next to the pint of froth-topped golden liquid. Likewise, without giving any thought to why, she quickly vacated the bar area and wandered (gracefully) to one of the faded burgundy velvet-topped oak stools at a high-set table near the cribbage players in the corner. Still trying to work things out in her whirling mind, she took a deeply refreshing and bracing draught of the lager...

...which promptly anointed the badly worn and faded carpeting of the pub floor as she realized that, prior to that drink, she lifted the glass in reciprocal tribute to the dart player across the narrow room from her, along with a small little smile.

"Blimey!" The strapping lad exclaimed, dark eyebrows rising as he took a couple of strides in her direction. "You all right there, miss...?"

"Took a lungful of the foam is all..." Dani quickly assured him, adding in a couple of throat-clearing coughs for verisimilitude's sake. "Right as rain now, though, thanks all the same for askin'..."

"One's for breathing, one's for drinking, and never the twain shall meet..." The likely lad replied, sententious delivery marred by boyish grin and a chuckle.

"Aye, and he'd know!" the dark-haired man's ginger-haired mate crowed with both a laugh and an appraising glance at Dani's figure. "If there was a way to breathe ale, James here would have done already."

Even as Dani gave a dutiful chuckle, she was thinking about how smooth the ginger had introduced his mate...

...and then had to freeze her features to keep from revealing how shocked she was to realize that she'd been thinking the thought admiringly.

Since, in the pause – during which, more-or-less unaware, there was a frozen grin from the sally still on her face – Dani didn't take advantage of the opening to introduce herself, the redhead pushed a little harder: "Oh, and I'm Michael, by the way..."

Still startled and stunned by her own reaction to the obvious attention – with equally obvious intention – that the handsome young men were paying, Dani responded almost instinctively: "Danielle; but you lot can call me Dani."

By this point, the doubled perception had grown to such a point that it was almost as if she were watching the whole thing happen separate from herself – as if this woman flirting with handsome young men was a soap on the telly, rather than something she was living through. While her male-centric consciousness was completely divorced from the scenario, her feminine emotions and subconscious 'programming' was responding in a completely normal manner, from any outside perspective. Indeed, were she responding the way her masculine ego would have demanded, it would have been seen as strange, if not borderline insane – as it was, her occasional reaction when her masculine memories and perspectives kicked in was merely charmingly quirky.

Especially since her body and her feminine emotions not only reacted favorably to the situation, but quite emphatically so. Her own awareness of her hormonal urges, and the pleasant frustration (or frustratingly pleasant) sensations it occasioned meant that, on that divorced-from-previous-self level, she was quite enjoying herself. Whilst radically different in sensation and direct physical effect, the powerful sexual urges she was feeling were not only 'pseudo-familiar' due to that strange subconscious 'programming' that provided those unexpected British instincts, it was also familiar – and even comforting – as being a direct parallel to the male sexual urges that had dominated her precious existence as a man. The major difference here was the fact that she'd been almost unaware of the strength and impact of those driving urges as a man, whereas her brief period of incorporeal existence now meant that the sexual desires and satisfactions she was feeling interacting with these two men was now in the very forefront of her mind.

In a frighteningly short period of time, the combination of all these factors led Dani into a very, very strange form of fantasization; rather than feeling as if any of this was real, she instead felt as if she were the director of a teledrama on the Beeb. On the conscious level, she was instructing 'actress Dani' the best way to flirt with the two men, all while 'director Dan' sat back feeling a rather intense satisfaction at how well these instructions were being carried out, and how smoothly it progressed the 'plot'.

Given the scenario playing out, then, the outcome of the 'scene' was literally a foregone conclusion, if in 'his' own mind; she wasn't trying to control what was happening, but only how it was to happen – and so, Dani was bright and amusing and personable, all while Dan wallowed in the increasingly enjoyable, yet increasingly frustrating sensations that unfulfilled sexual tension created.

Of course, the only thing that would keep it in the category of 'unfulfilled' was for one of the three main players in the scene to step out of character- and neither of the men had any intention of doing so, and the idea of doing so quite literally did not occur to the now technically schizophrenic Dan/Dani entity.

So, when the lads stood her a round a piece, she naturally accepted; naturally, after three pints the men offered to walk her safely home; naturally she accepted.

By that point, she was 'naturally' accepting much more than that – the fact that, despite a complete lack of memories of her past, she nevertheless knew the route home seemed perfectly in keeping with her current delusion; after all, a television show hardly bothered to show a character learning the route to her own home, and the viewer simply accepted that she'd know how to get home without it having to be explained to her in detail. The willing suspension of disbelief now held true for Dani.

In the American idiom, (which she was thinking less and less in), she was just 'rolling with it'. With every step she took, Dan-in-Dani was hyper-aware of every single sensation.

The way the cool night air tingled across an alcohol- (and lust-) induced flush. The breeze was frisky enough to feel like teasing hands playing with her silken main of honeyed hair – while James and Michael provided warm hands to actually caress her shoulders...

...the small of her back...

....her firm, surprisingly full buttocks... (Daphne had been/would be proud of how her 'child-bearing' hips gave her such a smashing 'ghetto booty' – always with a giggle at the Americanism, remembered Dan...)

It ignited a liquid fire in her lower torso, just where 20-inch waist exploded into smooth curves to 40-inch hips. (Her 'baby-factory', in giggling Daphnic American...)

It woke a literal damp heat where her long, well-toned legs met. (Her 'cunt', Daphne would once more quote one of her Mum's oft-heard Americanisms...)

The wonderful, nipple-hardening, blood-flushed bounce and jiggle of her braless DDD-cup breasts. ('Milk-jugs', in a Daphne's Mumism.)

The symphonic jingle of her keys in the lock and the lads' belt-buckles being undone. (What was Mum's name again...? Daphne had told him, once...)

The caress of the warm, thick air of her closed-in flat swirling over her newly-naked body. (A real sexual dynamo – from whence Daphne claimed her own dynamic sexuality...)

The thrill of power as she pushed equally-naked, equally-sweaty James down upon her narrow, squeaky iron- framed bed. (In fact, this sounds exactly like the sort of thing Daphne claimed Mum used to do...)

The wonderful feel of submission – to her own desires, her own pleasures; never to any one man, never that... (Huh – just like feminist Mum's policy towards men... only good for pleasure and daughters...)

The pleasure of having her milk-jugs crushed into the sweat-sodden mattress below her, being fucked good and hard in her sopping wet cunt by Michael; soon after filling her baby-maker full of his wonderful baby- batter....

She screamed; the lads thought it to be in ultimate ecstasy – and, it was. After all, realization had come simultaneously with a rippling string of orgasms exploding from her twice-fucked cunt.

It was also Dani/Dan's delighted/horrified realization that she was Daphne's Mum. But Daphne hadn't been Dani/Mum's first child....

The first (of fourteen) daughters had been/would be Muriel, as a matter of fact. This was not good...

...so why did it feel so incredibly, unbelievable wonderful? All of it? The attention ?

The desires ?

The playful flirting?

The dating, the dining out? The gifts?

The sex – oh ye God, the sex! Still, not good.

Not good at all.

No matter how good it felt!

As her body floated down from the orgasmic high, her sexuality temporarily sated and satisfied, was practically asleep – while Dan's mind was wide-awake and racing.

"Thanks guys, that was great, but I gotta get up early, so you guys gotta go, see ya around, bye..."

The guys blinked as, chivvied half-dressed out the door of the cramped flat, they tried to process the rapid-fire string of words Dani had flung at them. The machine-like delivery made it difficult to be sure, but during the staccato barrage, it had almost seemed as if she'd been speaking in an American accent....

Alone, Dani wandered into the tiny kitchen and slowly and distractedly made herself a cup of tea. The entire time, her mind was whirling as she tried to make sense of things – not so much as what was happening to her, but how to cope with it.

She had all the memories of being Daniel Robert Johnstone. She remembered not only details of his life, but what and how he'd thought – she could even reconstruct what he would be thinking of the situation occurring right now, and knew how shocked, horrified and disgusted he would be.

All of her emotions and instincts, however, were those of Danielle Delores Elizabeth Brown – as was her body, her identification, and apparently her life.

Yet, in truth, she was neither of these people – for she didn't possess any of Danielle Brown's memories, any more than she could feel any of Daniel Johnstone's emotions. She knew what each of those should be, to a certain extent, but the necessary integration to make one or the other of those personas 'real' was missing.

Instead, here she sat with slender hands wrapped around a cuppa, trying to figure out who she was.

She was a woman – that much was clear and obvious to any observer, herself included. Whether or not she wanted to be a woman – and issue very much in doubt – was completely irrelevant; it was who and what she was, and there was no way for her to change it. Therefore, she was going to have to accept it, and move on from there.

She had a very high sex drive – very high. That much was something shared in equal measure by both her personas, even if the influences and effects of the two drives were completely different; she liked and wanted sex now, just as she had before, and despite that brief interlude without sexuality, she certainly couldn't imagine living the rest of her life in celibacy – which, given her irreversible gender, meant that her sexual experiences would be that of a woman, whether it was as a straight woman or a lesbian.

So, she was a woman who was going to have sex as a woman which also meant that she would be dressing and acting in a stereotypically feminine manner at least part of the time, for that was part of what provided society with the cues that she was a sexually active woman. Dressing in loose-fitting jeans and baggy sweatshirts, while comfortable, just wouldn't cut it when it came to finding the frequent sexual activity she had already decided she would be looking for. So – feminine clothes, quite often sexy; make-up and perfume; high heels – the whole nine yards.

All of which defined a large chunk of who she was to be from now on – an openly, sensually, proudly feminine woman.

That being the case, it only made sense for her to embrace the Dani side of her when it came to both sexuality and day-to-day behaviours – no matter how much her masculine side shuddered in confused desire and horror at the thought.

On the other hand....

In a very literal sense, she was precognitive – she had all of Dan's memories, and while they were Americentric and more detailed in the now distant future, she certainly held enough general knowledge to be able to make good use of it.

The largest single problem with that thought, however, was one of Dan's memories – specifically, the last one he had formed before dying.

` "It's... got to be... this way " Daphne gasped, hips bucking wildly.'

Daphne had known what was about to happen. It had already happened/would happen, for that to have occurred – and if the woman she now was did anything significantly different, it would not in which case, it should be impossible for her to be here, shouldn't it?

In fact, should she change anything too radically, Daphne would never come to exist.

So – what was more important to the woman she was deciding to become; living her own life as she chose, at the cost of casting Daphne into non-being? Or following a scripted existence simply to ensure all that had already happened would happen again ?

* * * * *

With a long, drawn out moan, Dan Johnstone exploded.

Thick, sticky ropes of cum spewed out in glistening strands splattering wetly across the chest, neck and face of the woman beneath him. Gasping at the intensity of his orgasm, Dan slid backwards and to the side, his cock slipping from the deep canyon between the gargantuan set of tits with a slurp and a pop.

“Holy shit ” Dan muttered, absolutely stunned – he'd never imagined that tit-fucking could feel so damned good !

Then again, he mused with a pleasant exhaustion, he'd never believed he could meet a woman who could not only match his intense sex drive, but who possessed undreamt of skill in providing pleasure to a man while satisfying her own rampant desires. A woman able to make even the simplest hand-job feel more amazing than most women's blowjobs; who could give blow jobs that would blow your mind; who apparently not only had no inhibitions regarding when, where or how she had sex, but could convince her partner to keep up with her.

A woman with experience... A lot of it.

“Mmmm.... Enjoyed that, did you luv...?” A warm, richly accented voice asked with the slightest hint of a lisp – and Dan rolled over to face the woman who had given him so much pleasure of let.

She was even older than he – but exactly how much older was nearly impossible to tell; a lifetime of almost extreme dedication to staying fit and firm, when coupled with extensive and expensive plastic surgery would have made it difficult in any case; given what she had used the plastic surgery to do, however, made it impossible.

Despite having known her for nearly a year now, Dan – much less people meeting her for the first time – simply couldn't see her as anything else but a walking, talking fuckdoll.

Which, as far Dan could tell, was exactly what she wanted to be; or, rather, what she'd decided at a fairly young age what she was going to end up becoming.

From things she had said, Dan knew that until her late thirties, it had been anything but obvious that was her goal; shed been a stock and bond trader in England. Reportedly, her then-natural figure had been more than mildly spectacular back then, especially since she'd already been taking incredibly good care of herself – but then, 'retiring' at age forty, she'd used whatever the years between then and now to engage in a long, carefully planned transformation that further exaggerated every sexual aspect of her femininity, even down to having leg-lengthening and rib-removal surgery that left her with a practically inhuman figure.

"Yeah, DeeDee..." Dan agreed, finally answering her question; "It was fantastic!"

"Thanks, luv..." She said, a smile forming on her surgically-plumped, cum-splattered lips as she slid off the bed and began padding toward the en suite bathroom, artificially round, firm buttocks swaying on those amazingly flaring hips of her – also artificially enhanced, of course.

Hell – even her name was as patently fake as her brassy blonde hair; she'd had it legally changed to "Ditzzy Doll" before immigrating to America; DeeDee to her friends. Dan had no idea what her birth name might have been...

...and frankly, he didn't care a whit.

When she'd first come to him – literally seeking him out – she'd all-but-demanded that he treat her as the ultimate bimbo; using her like the living sex-doll she appeared to be. It was a deal that, after sampling her wares and wiles, Dan had been more than happy to make, and he'd yet had a reason to regret it, no matter how mysterious she might be.

In fact, even aside from that phenomenal, unrealistic body, she was downright weird – but not nearly enough so for Dan to pass up on such continuous, mind-blowing sex, especially since part of her demand was that he would let her use her impressive fortune to pay for everything, obviating the need for anything so mundane as work. In fact, about the only demanding demand she made was that he stay in the peak of health, and even if he wasn't fond of the physical exercise and diet regime she'd arranged for him, it was certainly a small price to pay, especially considering how being in the peak of physical fitness made the sexual marathons all the more intense.

Of course, her weirdness did get familiar after extended exposure – and so, knowing it was expected, Dan propped himself up on one elbow and asked the question, despite already knowing the answer he'd get: "So – how was it for you...?"

Sure enough, she paused in the doorway of the bathroom, looked over her creamy shoulder, and gave the now- standard reply...

"It was to die for, luv – to die for..."

THE END

SUMMARY: A Genie helps one man recreate his crossdressing fantasies with a woman who has the exact same desires.

Lonely

By Gunslinger

Dead silence reigned in the room.

The just-about-average apartment bedroom was completely transformed for The Event. Inoffensive beige walls had been covered by Persian and Arabian rugs. Most of the furniture had been shoved into one corner, and in the empty spot created lay another rug, on which was piled deep blue and royal purple cushions with gold fringe and tassels - in the center of which lay a tarnished old brass oil- lamp.

Candles burned on a specially-purchased candelabra, lighting the room in flickers of red, gold and orange. The flickering, wavering light cast shadows that seemed to move in the dead silence, but which were merely illusionary. Everything in the room was perfectly still...

...including its inhabitants.

A slender, pale young man with long, dark-brown hair and soulful-looking eyes was sitting on a small pile of cushions near the edge of the rug on the floor. Dressed casually in jeans and a comfortable old sweatshirt, he looked somewhat out-of-place in the Arabian Nights setting, even though the room was his.

The other person in the room fit right in, however. A short, slender, woman with a taut, dusky body and long, glossy black hair, she had an eerie, ageless beauty that made it utterly impossible to determine her age - but the skimpy clothing she wore showed lots of young- looking flesh that was smooth and supple. Her semi-transparent pantaloons were like light, baggy nylons, not so much 'obscuring' her shapely legs, but making them more tantalizing. Her smooth, slender belly was exposed by the halter-style top that enclosed her handful-sized bosom, which was the same delightful shade as her skin.

Beneath that crowning glory of rich, dark hair, her exotically beautiful face boasted a sharp, pert nose and full unadorned lips - but her most arresting feature was her huge, dark, and slightly angled eyes, framed by long, dark lashes.

These eyes were focused on the young man - and they were even wider than usual, mirror her surprise...

...and then the genie blinked, and shrugged.

"Your wish is my command, Master..." She said in a melodic voice...

...and then she disappeared, to be replaced with a supple, athletic young woman with short, rust-orange hair and a rather shocked expression on her rather cute little face. She was dressed in black spandex shorts, a white spandex cop-top, and jogging shoes - and, from the way a light sheen of sweat coated her taut, cute body, she'd been working out.

Taut, cute little body - because she was a tiny little woman. About the same age as the not-tall young man, she was considerably shorter even than he.

That didn't mean she was ready to 'roll over and play dead', however. After the initial second of shock, she leapt to her feet and went into a fighting crouch, hands weaving.

"What's going on here?" She asked, warily, her cute little face unable to effectively project threat, anymore than her sweet voice could be 'demanding'. "Who are you? Where am I? How did I get here?"

"Please, please - stay calm." The young man said, holding up his hands, inoffensively. "My name's Peter - Peter Llewellyn. You're in no danger. You're in my apartment, and you were brought here by the magic of a genie."

The young woman looked at him, her blue-green eyes incredulous. "A genie. Oh, I see. You wouldn't happen to have it handy, would you?"

Peter smiled, not the least bit offended by her obvious skepticism. "I'm afraid not. You see, Genie only grants one wish, and the instant she granted mine, she vanished."

"I see..." The woman said, in a voice that spoke volumes. "You made your wish, so she vanished - and that wish was that I just appear?"

"Oh, no." Peter said, with a calm little smile. "I don't even know who you are, Miss. However, I do know a couple of things about you."

"Oh?" The young woman asked, sidling slowly towards the door. Peter, still smiling politely, his dark eyes sad, watched her - but made no move to interfere.

"Yes." He said, calmly. "I know that you're a mentally and emotionally mature, English-speaking woman somewhere between the ages of twenty-two and twenty-six. Oh - and I also know that you've recently been fantasizing an awful lot about what it might be like to have sex - as a man."

The woman stopped dead, her eyes bulging as her jaw went slack. "Buh... how did you...?"

"I'm a twenty-four-year-old male..." Peter said, gently. "...reasonably mature, emotionally and mentally. Recently, I've gone through several bad relationships, and have been feeling lonely, sad and rather sexually frustrated... and, more and more often, I've been wondering what it would be like to have sex... as a woman."

"That's uncanny..." The girl breathed, wide-eyed.

"Not really." Peter said, softly. "You see, I wished that a woman who was in the same sort of emotional situation, about the same age and background, with similar... tendencies... would appear - and, if both of us are willing, we'd be able to 'play out' the fantasy."

She stared at him, still in the fighting stance, now only inches from the door. In fact, her blue-green eyes turned towards the doorknob, well within reach...

...and then swung back to Peter as she slowly straightened and - hesitantly and nervously - smiled.

"I'm Stacy." She said, a waver in her voice. She took a step forward and extended a hand, nervously reaching over with her other hand to lightly grip her shoulder - and cover her taut little bosom under her arm. "Stacy Tanner."

"Hi." Peter said, leaning forward and lightly gripping her slender fingers. She twitched, slightly - then laughed nervously as Peter released her hand. She sat down across from him, cross-legged.

"Sorry." She apologized, her face a cute shade of red that really brought out her freckles. Though embarrassed, her tone was no longer nervous. "This is all a little... surreal, if you know what I mean."

"Oh, I don't doubt it." Peter said, agreeably. "First of all, you're instantly transported from familiar surroundings to a strange room, where a strange man begins babbling about Genies and Magic - and the only reason you're still here is to see whether or not it could be true.

No matter how silly or embarrassed you feel about 'buying in' to this, to 'humoring' my crazy tale, you're more intrigued - or obsessed - with the thought that maybe, just maybe, it's actually possible."

She blinked - and then smiled. "You know this because it's the exact same for you - only, somehow, you found a way to actually do something about it."

"Actually, I just sort of stumbled across it." Peter said, modestly. "See, I'm a writer, and I was doing some research for a book - and I discovered that there was a huge misconception about Genies. Though they do live in bottles or lamps, they aren't 'compelled' to serve anybody."

"Oh?" Stacy asked, finding herself getting caught up in the tale. Sure, the basic premise was still crazy, but the details were so realistic...

...and even if they weren't, there was the little matter of her instantaneous relocation from her basement treadmill to Peter's apartment.

"You see..." Pete explained. "The Genies are very reclusive people - that's why they live alone in such strange places. However, every hundred years or so, they like an hour or so of 'human contact' - and, if they pick you to 'entertain' them, they grant you a wish. Sort of a

'thank you', you see. That whole 'rubbing the lamp' was a mistranslation of an old 'temptation' to lure the genie out - offering them, not the lamp, the 'rub'."

Stacy grinned. "Yeah - it's hard to give yourself a good backrub, isn't it?"

"Exactly." Pete said, with a wink. "After nearly a thousand years, this Genie was happy to exchange a wish for a good meal, several glasses of wine, and a back-rub."

Stacy looked closely at Peter, studying his eyes - and then she laughed and shook his head. "Okay, Peter, if you're crazy, then I guess I am too - because I actually believe you. Somehow, amazingly, you actually found a way to get your wish. So... when did I get brought into this?": She held up her slender hand with a smile. "Not that I'm complaining - far from it! I was just wondering why you didn't simply wish yourself female. Why do I get my curiosity dissatisfied, too?"

Peter blushed. "I don't think I could actually have sex with a 'real' guy - it would feel too weird. With a guy I know is 'really' a woman... well, somehow, that doesn't seem as 'gay'". He laughed, awkwardly. "Silly, isn't it? I'm getting turned into a woman so I can have sex with a guy, and I'm worried about what feels 'gay' to me."

"No, not at all..." Stacy said, a surprised look on her face. "I'd never really thought about it, but now that you mentioned it - yes. I'd feel much more comfortable having sex with a 'guy' who looks like a woman. Sort of a 'balance' thing, I guess - there'll be a male mind and a female mind, a male body and a female body. It all works out... kinda..."

"I know." Pete grinned at Stacy's odd expression as she struggled to explain the emotional and highly illogical difference. "I'm a writer, and even I couldn't come up with a good way to describe it."

"As long as we both feel the same, though, I guess words don't matter." Stacy said, grinning. "We could call it 'glorp' now, if we wanted to - we have a shared reference now. If I said 'I feel more 'glorpy' than usual, you'd know what I meant."

Peter blinked, rather surprised by the depth of her comprehension. Though he was a pretty good guy, Peter was equipped with the standard human ego, and liked to feel that, being a writer, he was a little smarter, a little more creative, than the 'average person'.

Perhaps he was... but, if so, then Stacy wasn't 'average'.

"Exactly..." He said, smiling. "Now, this is really simple - I've put you in 'control', so you wouldn't feel surprised by what happens. Since I already know how it works - since I wished it up - I won't find it so... disorientating."

"Okay - so what do I do?" Stacy asked, leaning forward with a very interested look in her eye.

"Simple - imagine your fantasy. Picture yourself, in your 'fantasy' male body. Picture your new body dressed the way you want. Imagine the new, female me, and my clothing. Imagine our new names. Imagine our setting - and then, when you're ready, simply say 'now'."

"That's all there is too it?" She asked, a bit taken aback.

"Yup. Reality will 'bend' itself so that who were are and were we are in that instant you imagined makes perfect sense. We'll be in an alternate universe, one exactly like this one - except with history altered as much as it needs to be for us to be in that one, frozen scene you imagined. Even the 'return' is automatic - once we've each reached an orgasm, reality 'warps' back to the original version, bringing us back to the precise instant we left - but with our memories of the time spent in the alternate universe perfectly intact."

"Sounds easy enough..." Stacy said, thoughtfully, and Peter pushed back his anticipation and tried to prepare himself for the lengthy wait while Stacy considered every tiny detail of her 'fantasy'...

"Now." She said, cants second after peter had finished speaking.

She was sitting in front of a mirror.

 POOF ***

It took Peter a second to realize it. First off, 'expected' or not, being instantly turned from a man into a woman can be disconcerting. The image in the mirror to a second to 'sync' with the new sensations from her altered body.

Also, she hadn't expected the woman she'd become to be black. Well, actually, a rich shade of cinnamon-coffee, a sort of dark coffee- and-cream tone that had golden-red overtones.

She was about average height for a woman - which meant she hadn't appreciably changed height, since she'd been small for a man. Her new body was lithe and supple, with smooth, soft skin and long, graceful limbs. Her hands and feet were dainty enough, and her waist was trim above slender-yet-feminine hips sporting a trim, firm, and undeniably cute ass.

Yes, she was certainly an attractive young black woman - even if she wasn't wearing what Peter thought of as the most 'feminine' of clothing. A olive-drab, black and dark-gray sleeveless T shirt, olive-drab cargo-pants two sizes too big and held up by a big leather belt, and a pair of black combat boots was hardly what Peter thought of as 'lady-like' attire - but there was no doubt she was female, despite the clothes. For one thing, there was her face. Her lips were full and covered with a clear gloss - even if they were curled into a faintly wry, sardonic grin out of 'habit'. Her nose was well-sized and shaped for her face, and her eyes were dark and long-lashed, if a bit world-weary and skeptical.

Her dark-brown hair had been done up into hundreds of tiny braided 'ponytails', which had then been pulled back into one big ponytail. Simple beaten-steel 'hoops' formed her jewelry, from small ones serving as rings, medium size as earrings, and the largest as bracelets or bangles.

Yes, the person inside the clothes was definitely female - and any lingering doubt would have been laid to rest by the sight of the massive, firm breasts straining the shirt. Roughly basketball-sized and -shaped, her new tits were remarkably heavy and sensitive.

"Very funny..." Peter murmured, hearing the richly feminine new voice that went with the body she now wore. The new woman glanced around, taking in her surroundings - which seemed to be a middlin' nice living room in a mid-to-high-priced apartment.

With a mental shrug, Peter turned his attention away from the decor, and looked at the sheet of paper she held in one slender mocha hand, her dark eyes reading the printing it bore:

NOTICE OF STATUS CHANGE

Jones, Petra R., having lived the first twenty-five years of her life in Gender Segregation Facility 178-B, has been evaluated in regards to Final Disposition. Failing to qualify for Reproductive Rights, it is nevertheless found that, by virtue of the voluntarily-accepted a) physical modifications including Irreversible Sterility and Breast Enlargement, and b) All appropriate Mental Pattern Projections, Jones, Petra R. has been approved for Mixed Gender Cohabitation. Therefore, Jones, Petra R. is hereby ordered to relocate to Cohabitation Module 1762-B and, there, engage in Mixed-Gender Interaction and Sexual Intercourse with assigned Male, to wit: Tanner, Stanley Q.

Peter - Petra - let one elegantly-shaped eyebrow climb higher on her dark brow. Stacy - Stanley - had a more active 'fantasy life' than expected. This was a highly-detailed little fantasy, where males and females weren't allowed to even see one another until after they were twenty-five.

Slightly bemused, the new woman turned her attention back to the mirror, trying to figure something out.

Peter didn't like large breasts. He liked them small and perky. Yet, for some reason, she didn't think of her new breasts as 'grotesque', even though she would have expected too. In fact - she found that she liked the way the huge breasts looked on her. In fact... she thought they looked downright perfect on her, so huge and firm and round and sexy. Unsupported by a brassiere, they still thrust so firm and round and proud into the shirt, pulling it taut over their near-spherical perfection. They practically begged to be noticed, to be admired...

"Interesting..." She mused to her reflection. "On other women, I prefer small, taut breasts - but, now that I'm a woman, I find I love having huge, round tits thrust proudly from my chest so that they can be admired and desired..."

Purposely picking a pose that better-emphasized her deliciously huge tits, Petra shook her head wryly at how quickly somebody who once thought anything larger than a double-'D' was 'disgusting' could find herself so indescribably proud and excited to own a pair of magnificent mounds she would have once called 'freakish'.

In fact... she was a bit surprised to find that she looked... HOT. Really, really, really hot. The woman she'd become was a far cry from the type she, as a man, had always fantasized about. Yet, for some reason, she found her new body very, very 'sexy' - but not in a 'I want to lay her...' sort of way. Though her new body wasn't her 'fantasy girl', for some strange reason she was very, very 'proud' of her new body, thinking she looked so damned... sexy.

She was still trying to puzzle it out when the front door of the 'apartment' swung open, and a man walked in. Petra was stunned when the sight of a man did many, many things to her, all at the same time.

The first thing the sight of the tall, muscular man did to her was to cause her heart-rate to triple, while her stomach contracted into a tight little ball. Her mouth went dead dry, the moisture being needed for the sweat on her palms.

The same symptoms could have been anxiety or excitement - and in her case, they were both. She was stunned by how nervous and yet how eager she felt - but she was more stunned to find herself staring at the handsome, athletic man, her eyes lingering on his tall, broad-shouldered body...

...and finding it not only handsome, but very arousing.

She was getting turned on by the mere sight of the rusty-haired man. Getting aroused by the man also increased her fear and confusion, and she was suddenly glad for her dark complexion's ability to 'hide' her blush...

...while, at the same time, she was very aware - and 'proud' of just how smooth - how... 'touchable' - her new mocha skin was. "Stu... Stan?" Petra asked, nervously, literally trembling. "Is.. Is that you?"

"Yeah, Petra, it's me..." The rusty-haired man said, awkwardly - and Petra's eyes widened as she realized that Stan was just as nervous, awkward and aroused as she was.

"Why do I feel so.. strange?" Petra asked, unconsciously squeezing her hands together while mixed emotions ran through her body.

"Well, the nervousness comes from the fact that this is all new and different, even if it's exciting." Stan said, closing the door and walking, awkwardly, over to the couch. "It probably feels weirder than usual because you're not used to being directly attracted to a man before. Part of my fantasy is that our actual, uh... 'tastes' would be reversed, to make it easier for us to, uh.. you know."

"Oh. Right." Petra said, taking a deep breath. "I mean, we specifically came here to have sex, so I guess it makes sense to have each of us physically attracted to the other. Uh... why do I find my own body so 'spectacular' then? I wouldn't have thought this body was my type, yet I find myself... uh, 'proud', I guess, of my body."

Stan coughed - and turned the most delightful shade of pink. She spoke in a half-apologetic, half-defense tone. "Hey, it's my fantasy, right? I didn't want my 'fantasy girl' acting all ashamed or confused about her body - so, when I chose the female body I'd like to have sex with, as a man, I made you like your body..."

Petra grinned. "Don't sweat it, Stan. I wasn't angry - just confused."

Stan relaxed. "Oh. Great." He was now standing directly in front of the couch, fidgeting. "Uh... So, what do we do now?"

With the 'strangeness' explained, Petra was able to relax a bit. Oh, she was still nervous, because this was new and exciting to her - but she was in no danger, Stan had thoughtfully 'geared' her towards men and made her proud of her own, temporary female body - and the purpose of this whole exercise had been clearly defined. They were here to have sex, in the body of the opposite gender...

...and now the thought generated much more excitement and arousal than it did confusion or fear, so Petra smiled and patted the couch beside her. "Well, why don't you just have a seat right here, handsome, and we'll see if we can't figure it out..."

Stan blinked at the warm, smooth, blatantly-suggestive tone Petra used, combined with a heavy-lidded sensual smile.

"Uh... Okay..." Stan said, awkwardly lowering himself to the couch. He seemed to be having real trouble finding a comfortable position. Obviously, he was having a harder time getting comfortable in the situation than she was - which made sense. Though she'd 'thoughtfully' allowed Stan to pick the fantasy, the truth was it was Petra who was more in control, emotionally. After all, she'd been planning this for awhile, had been ready for it - while Stan-as-Stacy hadn't even Petra-as-Peter half an hour ago, much less what he'd been planning and preparing for.

So, the situation was this: Stan was a man, in the middle of something he'd fantasized about, but very nervous and hesitant despite the fact that his 'dream woman' was sitting beside him - while she was 'ready, willing and eager', even if she was still nervous.

Well, then - if Stan wanted a 'fantasy come true', then that's what he was going to get - whether he was ready for it or not. Though her new heart was pounding wildly behind her magnificent new bosom, Petra smiled seductively - and pressed her warm, supple, and very definitely female body firmly against Stan's male one, feeling him stiffen momentarily - then relax, his arms rather hesitantly coming up to gently hold her. She snuggled into him with a sigh, finding it felt wonderful to have her excited, aroused body pressed against the warm, virile body of a man she found amazingly attractive.

"Mmm... A girl could get to like this..." Petra said, closing her eyes and enjoying the sensation.

Since her eyes were closed, she didn't see the sudden look of realization that crossed Stan's new face. Having been female, Stan knew more or less how Petra felt right now - and that knowledge caused her to 'click' into the scene. Though she'd never been in this particular position before, the situation itself was familiar to Stan, even if it was reversed - but, then again, the reason it was 'reversed' was because it wasn't happening enough the other way for either of them.

"Yeah. Yeah, a girl could get to like this..." Stan murmured, softly, earning him a surprised smile from the mocha-colored woman who, by the way, happened to be his 'fantasy girl'. Stan idly wondered what Petra would say if she knew that the 'fantasy body' she possessed had been inspired solely by Stan-as-Stacy wanting something the direct opposite of Stan's old female body. However, Stan didn't mention it...

...since his lips were much too busy kissing a slightly startled Petra, tenderly-yet-passionately, while his own excitement and arousal finally overshadowed his nervous uncertainty.

Petra, after the moment of surprise, let herself 'relax', and simply slipped into the kiss, letting her eyes slide closed again as she enjoyed the sensation of lips against her own. It had been much too long since Petra had been kissed, and the 'weirdness' of the gender-reversed situation was nothing compared to the enjoyment she was feeling from being here, finding herself in a warm embrace with somebody she found amazingly sexy, kissing and touching gently-yet-passionately.

They finally broke the kiss, pulling back a bit to share a happily-surprised and warmly-gentle smile with each other. "Oh - that wasn't bad at all..." Petra said, grinning with near-girlish joy.

"Yeah." Stan agreed, still holding her. A glint came into his eyes, and he slowly and deliberately let his gaze slide from her face to where her massive breasts strained against her shirt.

She felt a tingle of excitement and pleasure that ran through her at having her breasts ogled. With her 'pride' for her body, having it admired only increased the pleasure she felt - and Stan, knowing this, was deliberately increasing her enjoyment of the situation - which, coincidentally, also increased his own enjoyment.

So, it was a win-win move for both of them when she smiled, softly, and peeled off the skin-tight shirt, revealing her massive, firm mounds.

"Like what you see, big boy..." She asked, coyly, leaning back in his strong, supporting embrace and lightly fondling her own massive, dusky breasts. She shivered how good it felt to touch her new breasts - but she also enjoyed the look on Stan's face as he eyed her luscious mounds.

It had been far, far too long since she'd felt so... alive. Her body was tingling with energy and desire, all nervousness long since overwhelmed. When Stan bent his head down and began lightly licking, sucking and kissing on one dark, erect nipple, she sighed and massaged her firmly-soft breasts, enjoying it as Stan alternated nipples, his own hands still supporting her gently.

"Oh, Stan..." She moaned, low and husky. "That feels wonderful, baby "

Lifting his lips from her deliciously swollen nipples, he grinned at her - then gently swiveled her around, until her firm, full ass was snuggled into his crotch, a wonderful hardness pressing deliciously into her delightful ass, separated by two layers of fabric. With her back pressed up against his firm, masculine chest, she leaned her head back on his shoulder as he began to massage and fondle her wonderfully sensitive new breasts, his hands eager and exciting as they roamed her breasts.

"Oh... Oh, yeah " She moaned, rolling her head back and forth in pleasure. Almost of their own accord, her hands roamed down her body to the faded olive-drab covering her crotch - where they began to move over the fabric, pushing down, seeking the warm, wet source of the urges she was feeling.

"Am I turning you on, gorgeous ?" Stan asked, slyly, his own body trembling with the desires and urges he knew she shared. "Is a big, strong man fondling your huge, round tits getting you all hot and wet, baby?"

"You bet " She moaned, a smile also crossing her lips - she knew he was just as horny and eager as she was. Purposefully, she began to grind her full, firm ass against his crotch, making his gasp in pleasure - and fondle her breasts even more, which caused her to speed up the rhythm of her hands over her clothing-clad crotch...

"Oh, God " She moaned, softly, yanking her hands away from her crotch - and pulling herself out of Stan's arms as she stood up, her knees trembling from the force of her desire.

"Petra?" Stan asked, alarm and concern struggling to compete with his arousal.

"Sorry..." She gasped, struggling to control her own rampant desires. "I.. I was too close. I.. I don't want to waste my one female orgasm "

Then, turning to look at him, she quite deliberately kicked off her boots and slid her pants down around her ankles. Under the baggy pants she was naked, her skin gleaming a mellow golden-brown under the apartment's light, lightly glossed by a sheen of sweat.

"Fuck me, Stan." Petra said, hungrily. "Fill my tight, wet cunt with you cock and fuck me until I scream..." Then she giggled. "Geez - never thought I'd be saying that.

Stan's grin resurfaced - as he stood up and quickly undressed, revealing a tall, tautly-muscled body that wasn't overly bulky, but definitely strong and male. A larger-than-average cock jutted proudly from his crotch, erect and ready. He winked. "I thought I'd never be saying 'Okay, gorgeous, I'm going to keep thrusting my hot, hard cock into your tight, wet cunt until I pump a load of hot man-seed into you', but here I am..."

"That's just tacky..." She said with a reproving giggle - as she flowed into her arms, their deliciously naked bodies pressing firmly against one another, her huge rack squeezed wonderfully between them as they kissed, briefly but passionately - and sank down onto the couch....

...in a incredible pleasure-inducing move that put Petra on top of Stan, his thick, throbbing organ slid easily and pleasurable into her eagerly accepting cunt.

"Oh... God She moaned, her yes rolling at how good it felt to be filled so wonderfully - and then, almost instinctively she pushed with her smooth, toned legs, lifting her upwards - and then falling back down, the incredible friction of his cock in her cunt making her gasp.

So she did it again - and again, working into a faster and faster rhythm, her huge breasts bouncing and her braided hair whipping around as she rode atop Stan's muscular body, intense pleasure running through her new and undeniably feminine body.

It felt.. incredible. She was bouncing and writhing atop a muscular man, sexual pleasure flowing through each of them. It didn't really matter who was female or male at this point - though the sensations each was experience was somewhat different then what they were used to feeling during sex, it was no less enjoyable - and it had been much too long for either of them since they'd felt this wonderful.

Their bodies moved eagerly together, towards a much-desired common goal that thundered down on them light a freight-train...

...and then slammed into them, tearing screams of pleasure from both throats as their orgasms ripped through them, a wet cunt tightening hard around a spurting cock - and who cared who had what. It felt fantastic...

...and reality began to warp around them as the orgasm started to fade.

"No..." Petra shouted, still bouncing atop Stan's slowly-softening cock. "Not yet "

Stan obviously agreed - because he pulled her body against his, kissing her passionately, urgently, his cock still in her wet cunt as he ground his hips desperately, trying to get it up again, quick...

...and then reality warped away.

* * * * *

"...you may now kiss the bride."

Stacy turned, looking radiant in the pearl-trimmed white gown she wore, it's Victorian bodice downy-white over her modest bust, the corset-style waist-piece tight around her slender, trim middle before the full, white skirt flared outwards. Her lovely face bore a look of utter contentment as she looked upwards into the warm, dark eyes of her groom.

Then, as they embraced and kissed in front of the assembled guests, Peter-in-Stacy's body was finally sure that the 'mix-up' that had left them in their own reality, but in each other's bodies, had been for the best. With no way to change back, they'd spent months learning every little detail about each other, so as to be able to play the other's 'role'...

...and had fallen madly, passionately, and utterly helplessly in love.

'Helplessly' - but certainly note 'hopelessly'. As her husband wrapped his arms around her and kissed her, tenderly, Stacy closed her eyes and relaxed into his arms, knowing that she'd never, ever be lonely again...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A con man suddenly finds that he has become his con, when a magic idol changes him into the bimbo he is pretending to be.

Long Con

By Gunslinger

Even over the sound of running water, the scorn and derision in Roy's voice as it floated out of the bathroom was crystal clear.

"I told you we were fleecing the marks to close to the skin, but did you listen...?" Roy demanded, his voice mildly distorted as he rubbed vigorously at his hair. "Oh, no - not you, not the great Mark Tumbrel."

"All right, all right, so I screwed up..." Mark grumped, crossing his arms over his slender chest. "Let it go. The question now is, what the hell are we gonna do about it?"

In a cloud of steam, the door to the bathroom open, and a completely different person from the one who entered emerged.

The young man who walked into the bathroom several hours before had been tall, pale and apparently skinny, with a thick mass of long, unkempt hair and an equally disreputable beard. The one who exited, however, was tall and lean and toned, with a 'base tan' provided by the sun-lamp contrasting sharply with his short, white-blond hair and the gleaming white teeth curved into a wicked smile on his clean-shaven face.

"Time for Surfer Dude and the Barely Seen Wahine, I think." Roy said, rather pointedly running his fingers through his short-shorn mass of hair.

"Oh, no..." Mark groaned, suddenly realizing why Roy had insisted he get into the bathroom first. "You got to be kidding me, bro..." "I kid you not." Roy said, grinning. "Un less you've got a better idea... 'babe'."

Muttering curses under his breath, Mark pushed himself off the arm of the wicker-framed loveseat he'd been leaning against and began pacing across the hard-wood floor of their open-design beach house.

Mark and Roy had arrived on Oahu nearly four months before, with about twenty bucks between them - which would have been a bad situation for most people, but had merely been a starting point for the pair of twenty-four year old con men who'd been working together for almost ten years now.

Roy, the planner of the duo, had already worked out the short con they'd be running - the Hippy scam, modified for Hawaii. With both of them wearing faded tie-dyed shirts and ratty old jeans, they'd strolled the beaches with vacant, 'drug-fried brain' looks on their faces. Both of them wore their hair and beards long, and just sort of stumbled along, selling cheaply made 'souvenirs' made from flotsam and jetsam found on the beach... or so it would seem.

As Roy always said, the art of being a con man lay not in cheating the mark - but offering an opportunity, then keeping your mouth shut while you let the mark cheat themselves.

So it was with the Hippy scam. The duo made a big show of 'gathering' off the beach, right down to using cheap Radio Shack metal detectors to apparently find lost coins and other pieces of metal to add to their free-form shell and driftwood sculptures. They'd then offer these creations to tourists, allowing said tourist to start the haggling with an open bid - and when the tourist spotted what looked like a valuable old coin or what appeared to be a gold necklace or diamond earring as part of the souvenir, that bid was usually higher than any quick-glued assemblage of beach junk should otherwise be worth, but less than what the tourist actually believed that unnoticed bit of treasure was valued at.

Sure he was sneaking a treasure away from a permanently stoned hippy too dumb to realize what he had, the tourist would pay anywhere from thirty to sixty bucks for the cheap chunk of beach trash - only to find out some time later that the 'gold' was painted solder that had been cast into coin, chain or pendant, and the diamonds, rubies and pearls were cheap paste copies, making the entire assemblage actually worth about two dollars - if that.

It was a pretty standard scam, and had worked great - at first. That was when Mark, the 'leg man' for the duo, had been more careful in his observation of the marks they were going to him, making sure to pick those who were due to leave the island the same day, thus unable to authenticate the value of the 'treasure' until they were safely away. During the last month, however, Mark had grown more and more lax - until the word had finally begun to spread, and it was time for the two hippies to disappear.

Which, to Roy and Mark, who'd invested the majority of their money in this beach-house on a lease that didn't run out for another three months, that meant changing their appearances and starting a new short con...

...and, try as he might, Mark wasn't able to come up with any better idea than the one Roy had come up with - after having cut his long hair nice and short, of course, while Mark still had his long and thick.

"Why is it..." Mark asked, plaintively, "...that whenever we pull one of these 'boy-girl' scams, I'm always the one who ends up in drag?"

"Well, the first half-dozen times it was random chance..." Roy said, straight-faced, "...and after that, well - you have all the experience already, now don't you?"

"You've pulled me out of more scrapes than I'd care to count, and I owe you big time..." Mark said, with a sigh, "...but, you know what Roy? Sometimes I really hate you."

Roy threw back his head and laughed - and after a long moment, Mark had to join in.

When they'd met up, Mark had been living on the streets of Chicago, barely scrapping by - whereas Mark had already been an accomplished pick-pocket working his way up to con artist. He'd taken Mark under his wing, and they'd quickly found a rhythm that meant they spent about sixty percent of the time living high off the hog - and while they'd had a couple of close scrapes that had caused them to flee the locale quickly, they'd never been arrested, a better record than most could claim.

"Okay, okay, so what'll it be this time?" Mark asked, finally giving in to the inevitable.

Roy's expressive lips curled in thought as he considered what would be the best for this particular time and place.

"Well, since this is a long-distance con, let's play the cliché." Roy finally decided. "After all, 'over the top' plays best at that distance." "Right..." Mark sighed, agreeing with the reasoning, even if he didn't particularly like it. "I guess I'd better get started..."

Mumbling under his breath some more, Mark headed over to the closet for his 'kit' - including the suitcase containing the stuff he'd hoped he'd never have to use again.

As he lugged the suitcase into the bathroom to begin his transformation, he ran the details of the Surfer Dude and the Barely Seen Wahine scam over in his mind, making sure he wouldn't miss anything important.

In essence, the scam - which was an 'exit con', one that they would leave Oahu at the end of - was very simple. It was an exit con for two reasons - the first being that it called for something con artists didn't do very much, which was socialize. That was the Surfer Dude's part of the scam. Roy, playing the role of a real board-head, would quickly worm his way into the local surfing scene and make friends with just about everybody , while making sure to casually drop references to the incredibly hot, rich babe - 'wahine', in surfer lingo - that he was semi-dating.

'Semi', because she was the type of hot-and-wild babe who didn't 'do' commitment, just in it for the fun, the sex, and the gifts - and that their current state of 'semi-exclusiveness' was just until he managed to save up enough money to move on to Australia, or whatever other 'next stop' on his world surfing tour was supposed to be.

If everything went as planned, the other surfers would begin scraping up money for two separate-but-connected purposes: To give to Roy, to get the 'competition' off the island and on his way, and; to send gifts to this hot babe, in order to have a 'head start' on getting her once Roy was gone.

Before that could happen, though, there had to be something a little more substantial than Roy's word - which is where Mark came in.

The marks had to see the Wahine - but always at a distance, and only for short periods of time, letting their imaginations do a much better job of deciding just how incredibly hot 'she' was than any real woman could ever hope to match up to.

All of which explained why Mark would be spending the next month or so as the stereotypical 'beach bunny' - tall, slender, blonde and extraordinarily busty.

He started with the most basic step of all - shaving off his long, scraggly 'Jesus beard'.

In this particular instance, that took the form of using an electric trimmer on it's shortest setting to get it down to a fine fuzz across his face, the stage at which most men would have switched to razors - but that wasn't in the cards for Mark, who had to grimace at his reflection and push himself into the realm of 'feminizing' himself.

In this case, that meant stepping into the shower stall, carrying with him two full bottles of Veet hair removal cream.

Carefully, he began applying the astringent depilatory cream all over his body, starting at his feet and slowly working his way up his lean body.

Like many full-time con artists, he kept his body as slender as physically possible - since, after all, it was easy to pad out your body to give the illusion of being fatter or bulkier, but much more difficult to make yourself look even a little slimmer than you really were. With a steady, unexcited pace, he coated every inch of his body with the cream, right up to his face where he spread it over the fuzzy remnants of his beard.

He let it set for the time proscribed on the bottle, then turned on the water and used the plastic 'bladeless razor' to scrape the cream off - and with it, all his body hair, leaving his skin denuded of any hair.

After carefully rinsing, washing, and re-rinsing his body, he went to work on the hair he'd let grow wild and tangled. Reaching halfway down his back, the thick light-brown mane was a mess, and he struggled with a comb as he washed it twice, then conditioned it - all of which was merely preparation for the next step.

Curling his nose at the distinctive odor, he pulled out the hair dye and went to work, bleaching and coloring his now fluffy mane of slightly curly hair from its mousy brown into a rich, gleaming golden halo that, when dry, surrounded his face in a thick wave.

Sighing at the reflection in the mirror, Mark mentally girded himself for the final step.

It consisted of a carefully crafted bodysuit that would cover him from ankle-to-wrist-to-neck, blending in with his natural skin tone. The suit was really three layers of fine nylon mesh that was 'breathable' - though not nearly so much so as to be completely comfortable in the tropical air. 'Luckily', the Wahine always dressed in the skimpiest clothes 'she' could get away with, which made the suit barely bearable, as long as 'she' didn't do anything too strenuous.

Under the outer layer was the skin-toned padding - padding that was just thin enough to smooth out the lines of his legs and arms, thickening to round out his hips and ass, with the most voluminous padding at the bust, in the form of a pair of GGG-cup breasts that were each the size of a volleyball.

Before pulling on the body suit, however, Mark carefully applied a thin coating of a special adhesive at ankles, wrists, neck and waist, then slid the suit on and pushed it around until everything fit perfectly in place. It was a ticklish job, since the suit was designed to be worn without break for a month or more - which meant that he had to carefully position his cock and balls in the 'hips' of the suit, laying his cock in the tightly confining hollow in the padding, where it was placed above a slit that would allow him to urinate in the feminine manner while he was performing his feminine impersonation.

With it all properly positioned, he stood stock-still for five minutes by the clock, until the glue had set and assured that nothing would shift.

With that done, he stared at his reflection in the mirror and gave off another long, rueful sigh.

"Hello, Bambi..." He greeted his reflection in a passable imitation of a female voice. "I can't say I'm happy to see you again..." Grinning wryly, 'she' set about completing the Bambi look.

There was the make-up - the overdone, bright-red lipstick applied to make his lips looked overly full and feminine, the ridiculously over-long fake eyelashes, and the hot-pink eye-shadow applied with as heavy a hand as that used on the blush.

Next came Bambi's jewelry - cheap, gaudy, oversized costume props of gold-colored plastic and huge fake 'diamonds'. Clip-on earrings that hung almost to 'her' shoulders, a thick gold chain supporting a huge 'diamond' pendant, and big bangle bracelets.

With the gaudy plastic jewelry clicking and clacking in an annoying cacophony he knew from experience he'd 'tune out' in a few hours, Mark pulled on the custom-made white 'clamshell' bra that could be worn either as underwear or beachwear, then slipped the matching bikini briefs around padding-inflated hips and ass. Over the bottoms he wrapped a shimmering gold-lamé wrap - and only after that did he apply one of the parts he hated most, the ridiculously long, fire-engine red fake nails that would make manipulating things difficult for the next little while, until he once again fell into the habit of anticipating the handicap and correcting for them.

That done, there was just one 'little' thing left - and he pulled out the shoes with the two-inch clear plastic soles and matching six-inch heels and stepped into them, settling his feet firmly in the gold-colored upper straps and rising from the toilet where he'd sat to put them on, dismayed by how easily he'd come to be able to balance in the feminine footwear after all the experience he'd had in steadily higher heels.

Taking a deep breath that only served to cause his realistically weighted 'silicone implant' tits to shift on his chest, Mark - Bambi - fluffed out 'her' hair and swayed with a humiliatingly well-practiced feminine stride out of the bathroom.

"Well, heeeeeee nurse!" Roy quipped, and 'Bambi' shot him an annoyed smirk, knowing how garishly ridiculous 'she' looked this close up - a garishness that, at a distance, would translate into 'perfect'.

"All right, knock it off..." Mark groused in Bambi's voice, not at all surprised by the reaction as he ankled his way across the room with a feminine stride that was every bit as overdone as the rest of Bambi. "Let's just get on with this..."

"Right." Roy agreed, pulling the surfboard off the wall where, until now, it had served solely as decoration. "I don't expect all that much until at least this evening, but you know..."

"...never to drop out of character, because one slip can screw everything up." Bambi said, sourly. "Yeah, yeah - I know."

That began the 'routine' - and even knowing full well what it entailed, and having done it enough times that the initial disgust and awkwardness had been rubbed off, it wasn't any easier then it had been before.

For the next four days, they'd get up fairly early - and 'have sex'.

This consisted of Roy bouncing up and down on the bed below the open window, making it squeak and moan, while a very brightly blushing 'Bambi' made appropriately feminine sounds of passion, right up to and including faking female orgasms and because she was supposed to be such a wild woman, this routine included plenty of such humiliating phrases like 'I love you big cock in me, Roy!' and 'Oh yes, fuck me harder, you gorgeous stud!'.

Then, Roy would go out to socialize - and 'she' would spend the day walking around the house, visible through the big floor-to-ceiling windows as she watched TV, red women's magazines, or generally puttered around in the sexiest, most feminine manner possible - eye-candy for the surfers Roy brought down to the beach that fronted their house.

At various intervals, Roy would come inside - and she'd have to play the horny girlfriend, pretending to kiss Roy, rubbing up against him, then 'dragging him off' to the bedroom for sex or a blow-job - which was, of course, her sitting quietly out-of-site as Roy loudly moaned and commented on how great a cock-sucker she was, and so on.

Then more surfing and socializing, followed by a party - that Roy spent little time at, and Bambi none at all, as she was busy 'forcing' Roy to make up for his lack of attention off with his surfer buddies during the day in what appeared to be a never-ending sexual marathon, where she would continue pleasuring herself during the periods when Roy went out to the party to 'get his wind back' - and, of course, brag about how incredible Bambi was in bed.

By the second day, the first gift, a gold bracelet, appeared at the doorstep, and one by one, more gifts began to trickle in - as money began making its way to Roy, both 'cash in hand' as well as donations in the form of his buddies paying for more and more of the parties.

By day four, things were in full swing, the now nightly party paid wholly from the pockets of Roy's new buddies, hard-earned bills of various denominations finding their way into his hands as gifts to help him on his world surfing tour - and more feminine gifts that would later be pawned for the cash value showing up at the door for 'Bambi'.

Everything was going perfectly - and Bambi was getting steadily more annoyed with every passing hour.

On the morning of the fifth day, after watching Roy head off to do some surfing out a Diamondhead, 'Bambi' slowly made a turn around the living room of the beach house, trying to figure out what about this was driving 'her' so nuts.

Part of it was the heat, of course - never before had 'Bambi' been in such a tropical climate, and even all the time 'she' spent in a hot- tub actually filled with cool water didn't make up for the discomfort of being so well covered even while looking nearly naked.

The part that was really bothering 'her' was how.. sexual Bambi had to be.

Usually, the scam was pulled in a more secluded location, where there were only one or two 'performances' to be overheard. Here, it was a daily routine, done several times each day - and the necessity to fake having sex as a female was getting more humiliating with each rendition, instead of less.

With a sigh, 'Bambi' wiggled her way across the room, ever mindful that some hopeful suitor might be watching. Walking over to where the back wall of the room was covered in mirrored tiles, she leaned against a carved wooden sculpture of some grotesque nameless Hawaiian god, looking at her garish reflection.

"I wish it didn't look and feel so utterly ridiculous being Bambi the big-titted nympho bimbo..." She told her reflection, with a sigh...

...and then the carved god supporting her leaning way grew warm to the touch, and a bright flash of light suddenly erupted from it, momentarily inducing blindness in the wake of its eye-searing actinic blast.

"What the hell...?" Bambi cried out, wobbling away from the statue and rubbing at her eyes...

...and the gasping out another cry, this one wordless, as the sound of her voice made her drop her hands and stare at her reflection.

She blinked rapidly, sure that what she was seeing had to be an illusion caused by the dancing sparkles in her eyes from the blast of light.

No - not sure, not in the face of the different sensations registering from her body. Hoping.

Desperately, breathlessly hoping. It wasn't an illusion.

It was impossible, it was inexplicable - but it was real.

The huge-breasted blonde bimbo staring back at her from the reflective tiles of the back wall was real.

"Like, oh my god!" She gasped in a voice much, much higher-pitched than the one she'd been 'faking'. "I'm, like, the most completely hot babe, like, ever!"

It was, sort of, what she'd meant to say - but certainly not in the way she'd meant to say it, the phrasing as completely 'off' as the high-pitched, slightly lisping, and disgustingly cheerful 'valley girl' soprano it emerged in.

Her hands, now much slimmer, flew to her huge breasts - and she heard the tinkle of metal-on-metal as her still-garish but now real gold bracelets rattled off each other as her hands, with their now-real over-long nails, cupped her massive, heavy, and truly silicone- inflated tits.

In her chock, she'd meant to send her hands to her massive, now-'real' tits - but she hadn't meant to squeeze and fondle them like she was doing, anymore than she'd meant her shocked expression of horror to emerge in a giggling voice from a huge, cheerfully brainless smile: "Like, I just love my awesomely huge tits! They're, like, the best!"

She wanted to scream in horror and disgust at what she was doing, how she was acting, the way her 'fake' body had suddenly become real, from incredibly full, bee-stung lips on a gorgeous-if-vapid face to her now real - and overstated - tits-and-ass body.

She couldn't.

She couldn't do one single thing that would be 'out of character' for Bambi the buxom blonde bimbo...

...no matter how desperately hard she tried.

She struggled at it, her concentration narrowing as she tried to make herself do one, single 'unBambi-like' thing, slowly cutting off the rest of the world as she wiggled and jiggled around the room, desperately striving to take a single stride in a no-nonsense manner...

...to just put one foot down flat instead of the weight-on-toe walk she was using...

...to just hit a little off-stride, breaking the perfect, sexy rhythm of her swaying ass and bouncing tits...

...to...

...to...

...to..

"Like, what was I doing again...?" Bambi asked herself, with a giggle. "God, I'm, like, such an air-head."

The thought that there was something she was supposed to be doing kept nagging at her - but it was hard to concentrate on that as she thought about how totally hot she was, and how sexy, and how it made all the cute guys want to let her fuck them and suck them and oh, wasn't that so nice to think about, so she'd just let herself think about that in the back of her mind as she walked over to the couch and sat down - sexily - on it's edge and picked up the magazine and began to 'read' it, but really just looking at the pretty pictures, because all those words were, like, a total waste of time, and would distract her from thinking about how much fun it would be to fuck a hard, thick cock right now and...

Humming happily to herself, Bambi flipped through the magazine, letting her eyes enjoy the pretty picture as, in her mind, she thought about cocks of all shapes and sizes filling her mouth and cunt and ass.

Some nameless time later, feeling thirsty, she put down the magazine and got up to make her way to the kitchen... and noticed the guy by the trees near the beach.

He was too far away to see if he was, like, cute, but he had binoculars so he must be able to see how totally hot she was. The thought of a guy looking at her and getting hard over how awesomely sexy she was made her giggle, and she waved a hand at him, hoping he'd come closer to see if he was cute enough to maybe fuck him, 'cause she was, like, soooo horny, but he didn't even wave back, which made her pout a bit - until, a minute later, she forgot about it completely, giggled at finding herself just standing there with no memory of why, then wiggled and jiggled her way off to get a drink before turning on the TV to watch some soap operas, which were, like, really confusing and everything, but had some really hunky guys on them that she would enjoy dreaming about fucking and sucking.

After a couple of the shows, during a commercial when she was just lightly fondling her wonderfully huge tits and waiting for the show to come back on, she noticed a bunch of tanned guys carrying those board thingies down at the beach - and one of them started walking up towards the house.

She stood up and moved towards the big sliding doors, and as she watched the cute guy with the shirt white hair come closer, she realized she knew him - and, by the time he reached the door, she managed to dredge his name out of the constant parade of cock- thoughts running through her mind.

"Roy!" She cried, happily, wrapping her arms around him and pulling him close, loving the feeling of his hard, sweaty body against hers as she leaned forward to kiss him...

...and he just stood there, not responding, and she pulled her mouth off his, confused that any man wasn't already feeling up her wonderful ass.

"Who...?" Roy asked, staring at her wide-eyed, confused. She giggled.

"It's me, silly - Bambi!" She said grinning her tits against his chest. "Your hot little love-machine, stud!" "Oh, um.. Bambi - yeah..." Roy said, awkwardly. "Of course. Hey, um.. have you seen Mark?" "Mark...?" She asked, brow furrowing slightly...

...and then, deep in her slow mind, a spark lit, and with horrified realization Mark understood that he'd just spent the past few hours really being Bambi, not only in body, but in mind. He opened his/her mouth to tell Roy the horrible, inexplicable news...

"Mark who...?" She asked, with a giggle. "Nobody here but Big-Boob Bambi, lover-boy! Now let's fuck, okay?"

"You bet, baby...!" Roy agreed, loudly... and then, much quieter, said: "Uh.. Look, 'Bambi', I'm not sure what agreement Mark made with you about this. Are you.. I mean, do we...?"

As Mark desperately strove to push some sort of message through the Bambi façade, he found 'them' getting bored with the things Roy was saying. Mark understood that Roy though he'd managed to find a stripper or hooker to play the Bambi role - but Bambi didn't, and finally she took things into her own hands.

As Mark screamed in horror and struggled in vain to stop herself, Bambi dropped to her knees, yanked Roy's swim trunks down - and unknowingly answered Roy's mistaken assumptions by proceeding right into a blowjob.

Helplessly, Mark was forced to experience every sensation that came from sucking cock, from having a hot, sweaty cock filling her mouth to the finale of having hot, salty, ammonia-flavored cum being pumped down her 'eager' throat, and there wasn't anything he could do to stop herself, shuddering under the humiliation from the task and...

...and she stood back up, licking the last drop of cum from her incredible full, perfect cock-sucker lips, wondering what she'd just been thinking about that had sent that odd little shudder up her spine.

"Thanks, baby..." She said, shivering in delight. "I've been waiting all morning for a delicious load of cum."

"Yeah, uh, sure... Bambi..." Said Roy, a bit confused - but happy. "Um... Look, if my friend Mark should drop by, ask him to wait around for me, okay?"

She blinked, wondering why the name 'Mark' sounded familiar - but then shrugged, deciding it didn't matter. "Sure, stud..." Besides - maybe he'd be cute, and she could fuck him a couple of times while she waited for Roy...

* * * * *

With a sigh, Roy lifted his hands from Bambi's huge tits and gently eased her off of him, their bodies still slick from the sweat generated by their energetic lovemaking.

"What's wrong, Roy...?" She asked with that nerve-grating little giggle of hers. "I bet I can get you hard and ready for at least one more round..."

Her blonde-maned head began sliding down towards his crotch, he slender pink tongue flicking out to wet her full, cock-sucker's lips...

...and, not without regret, he slid away from those oh-so-skilled lips of hers, knowing she could get him hard again if she tried.

Pouting, she sat next to him on the couch where she'd 'ambushed' him after the party, overriding any thought of resistance with her implacable sexual nature.

"C'mon, baby - you've been so busy with your friends that I only got fucked eight times today, and just nine blow-jobs..." he said, pouting.

"Yeah, well..." He started - then stopped, frowning. "Hey - you and I didn't do that much today."

She giggled again.

"Of course not, silly - a couple of your cute friends came by with gifts, and they were nice enough to let me fuck them or suck them!" She announced.

"You mean you've been..." Roy started, not sure whether to be shocked, angry, or completely unsurprised, considering what he'd learned of her apparently insatiable sexual appetite during the past three days. Instead, he pushed the thought aside, refusing to be sidetracked from the much more important issue: "Look, I need to ask you about Mark. It's been three days, and..."

"Mark, Mark, Mark!" She said, pouting cutely as she crossed her arms under her firm, bouncy breasts. "I told you I don't want to talk about him! I don't know who he is, and I don't want to know!"

"I need to talk to you about him!" Roy said, in frustrated anger. "You must know who he is! He's my best friend, and until three days ago, the day you showed up, he was living with me! Now, he must have hired you, or..."

"Nobody hired me!" She said, annoyed. "I've been here for.. well, months... I guess. I don't remember. But I don't like talking about this 'Mark' friend of yours! Whenever we talk about him, I feel... icky."

"Icky?" Roy asked, blinking.

"Yeah. Like, really kinda sick, and though thought of all the wonderful sucking and fucking I've done doesn't seem so wonderful anymore, and I'm, like, almost not horny anymore., It's really.. icky."

Roy frowned, tried to digest that.

He'd quickly determined that Bambi wasn't putting on a Bimbo act. Whatever her 'real' name might be, she actually thought she was Bambi, the fictional woman he and Mark had created. She was so empty-headed, she'd apparently lost the ability to differentiate between the woman she really was, and the woman that Mark must have asked her to pretend to be.

Somehow, he had to get her to dredge through her memory and find out what happened to Mark. Maybe Mark had told her what hotel he was staying at, and hadn't bothered contacting Roy simply out of fear of somehow messing up the scam - but after three days with no word, Roy was really beginning to worry about his friend.

"Look - what's the clearest thing you can remember about three days ago, before I came home? What were you doing?" Roy asked, taking another tack in hopes of jogging a memory.

"I was.. watching TV." She replied,. Brow furrowing as she struggled to call up the memories of 'so long ago' - after all, to her, just a few hours past was almost a lost memory.

"Before that...?" Roy prompted, watching as she got up to pace around the room wearing nothing but the ever-present high-heels.

"I was..." She said, slowly, diving into her memory while trying to ignore the odd, creepy, 'I hate myself and my life' feeling that discussing this 'mark' always brought up. "I was... looking at myself in the mirror!"

She walked over, and stood next to the carved wooden statue, looking at her figure in the tiled mirrors on the back wall.

"Yeah.." She sighed, happily, leaning against the statue as she played with her bare tits. "I was saying to myself how much I love my huge tits..."

Roy sighed and rolled his eyes. "Okay - and before that...?"

Smiling at her reflection, fondling her tits, Bambi didn't hear the question, lost in her vapid self-appreciation.

"My tits are really big and sexy..." She told herself. "But I saw this movie, and this woman had even bigger tits, and she was really hot too..."

"Yeah, that's great..." Roy said, getting up and starting towards her. "Look, just tell me what you were doing before..." "Gee, I wish my tits were, like, even bigger..." She said, dreamily...

...and Roy gasped and threw his hand up before his eyes as a bright flash of light filled the room. He lowered his hands, however, at Bambi's joyously trilling exclamation:

"Look! My boobies got even bigger! Aren't they like, soooo sexy Roy!"

He gaped, and stared - because her tits had grown bigger, now hanging from her chest like a pair of fleshy soccer-balls. "What the hell..?" Roy gasped. "How did...?"

Then he stopped, staring at her - as a suspicion formed, then metastasized into a horrified realization.

"Mark!" He gasped, shuddering at the thought of what he and 'Bambi' had been doing the past three days. "Oh my god - you're Mark!"

"No!" She said, shuddering in a sudden, unwanted wave of revulsion over her own body at his words. "No, I'm Bambi!"

"You were Mark!" Roy insisted, staring at her in shock, then looking at the statue as he slowly approached it. "This.. This somehow.. grants wishes! Just like those tits you wished bigger!"

"I'm not Mark, I was never Mark!" She all-but-screamed at him, hating this wave of humiliation and disgust that was washing through her. "You're crazy, Roy! I'm Bambi!"

"Don't you understand...?" Roy demanded, walking over to the statue. "Three days ago, you were touching this statue, looking at your reflection in the mirror, and you said something like 'I wish I enjoyed being some kind of huge-breasted cum-crazed slut', and..."

His passionate explanation of what must have happened was cut short by a blinding flash of light.

Bambi stared - then giggled.

"You're a girl, Roy!" She said, with another giggle. "A girl with boobs even bigger than mine!"

Slowly, the tall, toned woman lowered her head, unconsciously sweeping a lock of short-but-femininely style platinum-blond hair behind her ear. Her heavy-lidded sultry eyes took in the sight of the massive, round tits thrust proudly from her ribcage, well-balanced by her wide, well-muscled shoulders, then the tall, deeply-tanned sexual Amazonian surfer goddess slowly lifted her head, full lips curving into a hungry smile.

"Yes.. I am." She said, hands gently caressing her own, massive breasts. "I'm a woman... and it's wonderful."

"I know..." Bambi agreed, jiggling her enlarged tits as she bounced happily atop her high heels. "Guys wanna let you fuck them and suck them when you're a girl, 'specially when you got really big tits like us, Roy."

The new woman let out a hungry sigh at the thought of sucking and fucking men, and she licked her full lips hungrily. "Yes..." She said, in a near moan of sexual desire. "...and. Bambi?"

"Yeah, Roy?" She asked, frowning slightly as she tried to remember what it was that had made her feel so bad a moment ago - then deciding it didn't really matter, anyway.

"Call me 'Riana'." The tall, tanned, toned woman said in her rich, husky voice. "Say... think I could borrow a pair of heels from you, Bambi...?"

With the sultry, cum-craving slut following with a slow, sensual stride of sexual challenge, the giggling blonde bimbo bounced and jiggled off towards the bedroom, both of them thinking about the exact same thing:

SEX

The End

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When an aspiring male author learns that he has won a prize for a novel that he submitted as a female, he decides to use a mysterious spell to change himself, but he is not really sure how it works.

Loosing Faith

By Gunslinger

"Aaargh!"

Angrily, the tall, well-built blond youth lashed out at the garbage can, his stocking foot connecting solidly with the can's metal side... "Aaaah!"

Limping, Jack made his way to the couch and slumped down on it, crossing his right leg over his left and rubbing his toes gingerly, glaring across the room at the offending garbage can - and cursing at himself for not remembering that he'd just finished dumping a nice, heavy pile of books into the large, square metal receptacle. Wincing at his stubbed toe, Jack closed his eyes and leaned back, sighing at the twists and turns of fate.

Or, rather - Faith.

Angrily, Jack carefully smoothed out the letter he held crumpled in his fist, and once more read the words printed on it's rumpled white surface.

Dear Miss James,

It is my privilege to inform you that, under the Federal Grant supplied for Unpublished Female Writers, your novel 'Faith' has been accepted for publication....

Growling, Jack's eyes dropped down to the bottom of the letter, a sneer twisting his lips.

...look forward to meeting you to finalize the contract. I will be in town on the fourteenth, and will be waiting for you at 'Le Rouge' at one o'clock so we can sign the papers.

Yours Sincerely, Deborah L. Leland,

Editor, Windhaven Publishing

"Just great!" Jack said, tossing the paper aside and slumping further into the sofa - and into depression.

His parents - wealthy, conservative and firm-willed - had all-but-disowned him when he'd dropped out of university to pursue his career as a writer. For the past five years, he'd struggled to prove to his parents - and himself - that he'd made the right decision, forsaking any real social life as he wrote, struggling to get ahead. Living off the trust-fund payment that had caused him to pursue his dream in the first place, he'd spent the last five years writing like a mad-man, producing four manuscripts. Three were the thriller/suspense type of stories that he really wanted to write - but with a glut of such stories on the market at the moment, mostly by 'big name' writers, he'd been getting one rejection after another from publishers, all of whom said the same thing - the work was very good, but wait a year or two and resubmit it.

The only problem was - his money wasn't going to last another year or two.

So, Jack had done a bit of research, and found that the best genre for new writers to break into was romance novels. So, he'd ground his teeth together and forced himself to read a couple of dozen of such 'fluff' novels (now residing in the trash can that he'd managed to injure himself on, ironically) to get a feel for the formulaic genre.

Then he'd sat down and written one, called 'Faith'. He'd chosen the pseudonym 'Jacquelyn James' to appear on the cover, under the assumption that no woman would want to read a Romance novel written by a man, but had signed his real name on all the letters.

One by one, each of the publishes had responded, informing him that there just wasn't a market for male-written Romance novels at this time, pseudonym or no on the cover.

Except for the last publisher...

Who was under the assumption that he was a woman.

He understood how it had happened, actually. First of all, the editor was just expecting the writer to be female - and the title-page of the manuscript itself had the pseudonym 'Jacquelyn James'. Then, there was Jack's usual method of writing his name, and the fact that this was the last letter sent out meant that he'd been a little more hasty, a little less careful...

...and 'Jack. I. Jones' had managed to look like 'Jackie James'.

It was that 'woman' who was getting the publishing contract. When this Deborah Leland showed up to sign the contract, Jack could spin his tale for her, explain what had happened - but it wouldn't help. It was clear that a grant had allowed the acceptance of his novel - and that grant was only for previously unpublished women.

At worst - Leland might want to sue him for fraud.

Well, she wouldn't get much, if she did - Jack was almost broke. He'd been pinning all his hopes on selling 'Faith'. And now he was going to lose his chance.

"Dammit..." he sighed, sarcastically. "Why did I have to be born a man...?"

That caused a thought to spark in his head, and he snorted and grinned at the ludicrous thought...

..but it refused to go away.

His second manuscript had been built around the occult, and he'd collected a small library of reference on the subject, including some rather obscure old texts. Now, he rose and - shaking his head at himself - crossed to the bookshelves that lined the far wall, searching for a particular volume.

Finding what he wanted, he carried the old, leather-bound book back to the couch, and began very carefully flipping through the brittle, yellowed pages for the thing that had given him a laugh the first time he'd stumbled across it, and stuck in his mind to be remembered now.

Finally, he found what he was looking for.

It was a 'magic spell'. One that would allow somebody to change themselves into another living creature of about the same mass.

"No.. this is ridiculous. I mean, this isn't for real - and even if it was, it's for 'becoming a wolf' or something." Jack told himself, shaking his head... but he didn't close the book and put it away.

What if, somehow, it was possible.. to turn himself into a woman, just long enough to sign the contract...? "Man, that's not only illegal, immoral and unethical - it's pretty damned perverted!" He told himself....

...but even as he told himself how stupid, sick and 'sissy' the idea was - he knew that he was going to try it...

* * * * *

"Man... I feel like a prize idiot " Jack mumbled to himself as he looked at the 'mystic design' drawn on his hard-wood floor in three different shades of sand. The normal 'brown' hadn't been that tough to find, and even the 'white' had been fairly easy - but it had been a bit harder and more expensive to find the black sand needed. The rest of the items necessary had been middlin'-easy to find, and fairly inexpensive, but every dollar he'd spent on this had made him shake his head at his own stupidity...

...or, perhaps, desperation.

Now, he sat naked in the center of the design - which wasn't completely necessary, as the book claimed that it was enough to be within visual sight of the design. However, Jack was playing it safe, and sitting smack-dab in the middle of the pattern as he prepared for the utterly ludicrous ritual he was about to perform. Laying the book in front of him, he once more read over the spell, making a last check that everything was ready.

In addition to the necessary incantation and list of physical items, there was a description of the effects, and the usual types of warnings and disclaimers one might expect, all ensuring that the 'caster' knew that if it didn't work, it was because he'd made some stupid mistake, and it was his fault, not the spell's. It was like the disclaimer on a con-game, and Jack knew it.

About the only piece in the 'disclaimer' that wasn't aimed at how everything had to be 'just so' to work was the warning that the caster had to be careful with this spell. Apparently, when you shifted shape, something called 'aspect seepage' occurred. Gradually, the spell- caster would take on aspects of the new form, making it easier to utilize that form. As a wolf, for instance, you'd know how to run on four legs.

However, according to the warning, the longer you were in a particular form, the more 'seepage' there would be.

In short - the disclaimer was almost 'legalese', stating that the 'magic' wasn't liable if the spell failed - and wasn't liable for anything that happened if it worked, either.

"Writer of this damned thing musta been a lawyer." Jack muttered to himself as he lit the seven thick, black candles surrounding him. Shaking his head, he lay the book aside, lit the strips of special incense he'd had to scour the city for - then began to repeat the incantation, arms lifted high, eyes closed, and feeling like a complete and utter moron. As he chanted, he tried to concentrate on the form he'd selected for the transformation - imagining the final form was an integral part of the spell, and the more detailed and powerful the mental image, the better the final result would be...

...and Jack had already decided to cheat. While he concentrated on the form of a woman, he was also making one mental alteration in the image.

Instead of imagining her with a cunt, he kept the image of a cock firmly in his mind, his somewhat hazy imaginary woman sporting his own, male genitalia. Even though he thought this wouldn't work, he couldn't convince himself to go 'whole hog' - he couldn't let himself be emasculated, even in his imagination. As he chanted, he kept that image of the cock firmly in place...

...and was embarrassed to feel his real cock stirring as his mind tried to juxtapose the images of femininity and masculinity in his mind. He had to fight to keep his mind from straying, as he naturally found his mind wanting to fantasize about what he, with a cock, would do with the woman in his imagination... how she'd take it in her lips... how he'd slide it over her body and between her tits to...

Dragging his mind back to the 'basic' image, he struggled to rein in his errant fantasies as he finished the last recitation of the incantation.

Finishing the 'spell', he lowered his arms, and shook his head at his own desperate gullibility.

"Geez - what was I thinking?" He asked himself, standing up. "I mean - what if it had really worked? I'd be a..." His self-ridiculing muttering was cut short with a groan as he bent double.

It felt as if he'd just been punched in the stomach.

Then he collapsed to a heap on the floor as it felt as if the invisible assailant had just kicked him in the balls - hard. "Wha..." Jack gasped, struggling to rise. "Help..."

Then a wave of sensations broke over him, forcing him into a fetal position on the floor as they commandeered his nervous system to transmit the feelings that ran through him.

It felt as though his skin was but a covering on a liquid surface, rippling under the effects of wind and tide.

It felt as if a million tiny fish darted through that liquid, sending sensations of movement, of shifting, darting shapes just under his skin. It felt as if his bones were made of taffy, being pulled and pushed by unseen hands.

It felt as if his entire body was no longer 'solid', but malleable, being shaped and changed and altered, each changing sending a thousand new bolts of... it wasn't the intense pain of the first two sensations, but it was definitely a discomfort. As if he'd been beaten black and blue the day before, and was now trying to rise. Every part of his body protested as he moved - but he wasn't moving. It was his body's very substance that was moving, while he lay still, curled around the sensations running through his body.

He'd never felt anything like it.

Then, in the space of a few moments, it was over, and he drew in a shuddering breath that pushed his chest out, causing his tits to press into his drawn-in knees...

Tits?!

Stunned, Jack uncurled and sat up, staring down at her chest in shock and amazement.

An enormous, firm pair of tits sat there, rising and falling gently with each breath she took. Easily the size of basketballs, the massive, creamy globes were tipped with large, dark nipples that were erect in the cool air.

Those massive, round tits were thrust proudly from a slender ribcage that was as every bit feminine as the breasts - as the rest of her body, as a matter of fact, because she could see a pair of shapely - if not remarkably so - feminine legs below the huge mounds, and the arms and hands were as feminine as the legs.

Stunned, Jack could only stare at her body for several long seconds, jaw hanging.

"Holy shit..." She breathed - and marveled at the warmly feminine tone the words emerged in. "...it really worked!"

Awkwardly, the new woman struggled to her small, slender feet - and barely managed to keep from falling over under the new and different center of gravity her top-heavy new body possessed. With gangling movements, she slowly made her way to her bedroom, where she could look at her altered form in the full-length mirror.

A very startled-looking woman (almost) gazed back at her from the mirror.

She would best be described as 'average' - if not for the pair of massive, round tits thrust from her chest....

...and the enormous, thick cock thrust from her crotch.

She was of average height and build, for the most part, from her 'okay' legs, to cute ass, to slightly narrow hips. Her waist was trim, but not incredibly so, and her shoulders were a tad wide for her height. Her face was... face shaped, neither attractive nor unattractive enough to merit comment, with lips that were amazingly full and a nose a trifle too large. Her eyes were big and a clear blue, though her current expression of shock was magnifying how large they looked behind their long, thick lashes.

A wild, untamed mane of sandy-blond hair surrounded that face, hanging halfway down her back. If not for her complete lack of experience in this form making her stance and movements awkward, she would have appeared to have a slightly athletic body, with nicely-defined-yet-feminine musculature.

All in all, your 'run-of-the-mill, everyday she-male'...

...except for the massive, round tits thrust from her chest.

"Holy shit..." Jack said, again, hesitantly reaching up and touching her gigantic globes. "Why the hell couldn't I control my mind?" She shuddered slightly as her hands hesitantly slid along the surface of the massive, firm tits that were a direct result of her imagination's wild wandering during the spell. He'd found his mind slipping to what he would like to do with the imaginary woman - and now she was 'cursed' with the huge, round tits that had inadvertently slipped through his mind for a few - but crucial - seconds.

The same lack of unadulterated concentration had altered what her cock looked like. She had just aimed at keeping her normal equipment - but now, she was graced with an absolutely enormous, thick cock. Easily seventeen inches long, it was thick even for its amazing length - and below it dangled an equally enormous scrotum.

With an utter lack of grace, she managed to get back to the living room without falling over - though it was a close call a couple of times. Her massive tits jiggled and swayed with every movement, and her gigantic, slowly softening cock slapped against her feminine upper thighs as she walked. She collapsed gracelessly to the couch, winding at the twin sensations at her chest as her tits jiggled and bounced from the movement.

"I still can't believe it worked, huge tits or no huge tits..." Jack muttered to herself, running one feminine hand over the smooth flesh of her arm, feeling the light, fine body hair of a woman passing under her fingers. The same body hair covered her body, in differing amounts, including her so-so legs. Except for the massive cock, every detail, every cell of her body was feminine - she was all woman.

The thought made her shiver. She hadn't thought that this would really work, and now that it had, she was trying to cope with the thought that she was, temporarily, a very well-endowed, feminine she-male. At least she had the cock, outsized as it was - she wasn't completely 'unmanned'.

Her initial instinct, of course, had been to change back right away. However, before she'd given in to that initial reaction, she had remembered what had made her desperate enough to try this, despite the fact that she didn't think it would work - she needed a woman to sign the contract for her novel, and the only woman available...

...was her.

It didn't change the urge she felt, the one that made her want to resume her male body as quickly as possible - but it allowed her to deny the urge, to keep from giving into it. She had to meet the editor in about twenty-six hours, to sign the contract and get paid.

Between now and then, she had a lot of things she had to do - all of which had to be done while a female. She had to find clothing, she had to make up some sort of identification - but, most importantly, she had to get used to her new body. It wouldn't look good if she showed up barely able to walk, after all. She had to be able to pretend that she was a 'real' woman, and that was going to take some practice.

"Practice that begins right now." Jackie told herself, deliberately thinking of herself with the female name. For the next twenty-six hours, she was going to have to get in the habit of 'being' female, no matter how perverted it might feel to her. It was disquieting to 'play female' - and the fact that nobody could tell that she'd be playing, thanks to her new feminine body, wasn't exactly reassuring. However, her other alternative - turning male again - would put her right back at square one, broke and with no prospects. As much as she found the current situation uncomfortable and mildly nauseating, she knew it was much better than the alternative.

"Besides.." She told herself, looking on the bright side. "It's only for a little while - and even if I have to tuck it out-of-sight, I've still got a cock, so I'm really a guy."

Taking a deep breath did little to calm her - as it caused her huge new tits to move on her chest slightly, reminding her about the massive tits she was stuck with.

Again, it was only temporary - but that didn't alter the weight and sensation of the breasts thrust from her ribcage. Grimacing slightly, the new woman rose from where she sat on the couch, and went over to put out the still-burning candles in the center of the room. Once that was done, she set about tidying the place up - not out of any real desire to clean, but as an excuse to get used to the way her new body moved.

It all felt so weird - so much was similar to the way she moved when male, yet everything had those differences that wouldn't let her forget that she was now in the body of a mildly attractive, huge-breasted woman... with an enormous cock.

Worst of all...

...she was turning herself on!

It was definitely unexpected - but there was nothing she could do about it. As she moved, went around the cleaning she'd set for herself, she could feel the female majority of her body - she would touch herself, pull something against her huge tits, a dozen things that kept stimulating her male libido - and her cock was soon stuck in permanent hard-on mode, refusing to relax as she rose to a fever pitch of arousal. Not only was it embarrassing and uncomfortable - her huge, thick, throbbing organ kept getting in the way.

Sighing, Jackie headed for the bathroom after she was finished tidying the place - with the exception of the 'magical' stuff, which she left as-is for when she was ready to change back. Now, it was time for the next item on her agenda, now that she was starting to get a feel for her new body.

Shaving her legs. As much as it might be unnerving for her to commit this so-feminine act, she knew that there was no way she would be able to get away with wearing pants, not with her monster cock. She'd have to wear big, fluffy skirts that would hide her member from public view - which meant she had to shave her legs.

Drawing a tub of warm water, she grabbed her razors and shaving cream, and climbed into the water. Slowly, carefully, she shaved her legs smooth, finding it awkward and annoying, especially with her massive tits in the way...

It was also disgustingly arousing. By the time she was done, and had run her hands over her smooth new legs to check for any missed spots, her erection was physically painful.

"Oh, what the hell..." Jackie muttered in her new contralto. Closing her eyes, she settled lower into the tub... and wrapped her hands around as much of her gigantic, thick organ as she possible could.

She began to jack off, sliding her dainty new hands up and down her the massive veined shaft of her throbbing monster. She shuddered in pleasure as intense sensations trembled through her, and her breathing rose to a rapid pant as her hands moved faster and faster on her huge, warm cock.

Then she came - and it was like no other time in her life.

Her balls tightened and her cock throbbed - and began to gush an incredibly thick stream of cum that seemed never-ending as it shot into the air, splattering down on her body, coating her tits and face with a thick, warm goo.

Staring down at the fountain of cum that gushed from her huge cock, Jackie's eyes glazed over. As if in a trance, she opened her mouth and hunched over as she sat up, catching as much of the still-spraying cum as she could in her mouth, swallowing hungrily and eagerly...

...just like she'd fantasized during the spell. She tried desperately to fold herself over and take the end of her huge cock between her full, 'cock-sucker' lips... but the mass of her huge tits defeated the attempt, no matter how she tried.

The spray of cum finally slowed and died, leaving cum dripping from her upper body. Still with the glazed look in her eyes, she leaned back in the tub and began slowly massaging the warm cum into her huge, firm tits.

For almost twenty minutes, she fondled her own, hugely-endowed body, a dreamy grin on her face as she murmured quietly in the back of her throat.

Then, slowly, the dreamy look began to fade, and her motions slowly changed from languid fondling to quick, efficient washing. By the end, she was getting the last of the cum from her hair by standing under the shower's blast, a disgusted look on her face at having cum all over herself.

It wasn't exactly that she didn't remember gulping at the cum, swallowing it with joy and eagerness - she just didn't think about it. If somebody had asked her what she'd done right after she'd started to cum, she could have told them...

...and would have been utterly disgusted, horrified and shocked at the revelation. Since there was nobody to bring the topic up, however, it never occurred to her to recall what had just happened - she knew that she'd just jacked off, but didn't bother to think of the details.

She was repressing the memory, not even considering it, just as she didn't think to question the odd, salty flavor left in her mouth - something in her psyche just refused to dwell on the reasons for that taste, and she didn't even think about it.

Finished cleaning, Jackie stepped out of the tub and decided she might as well head off to bed, now that her painful arousal was - at least, temporarily - satisfied. Toweling off, she padded off to her bedroom and crawled between the sheets, quickly dropping off into a deep, deep sleep...

...full of strange, vivid dreams.

* * * * *

Jackie blinked as her alarm clock went off, she reached over and slapped the 'off' button on the offending device.

Sitting up in bed, Jackie stretched hugely and yawned. Pushing her sleep-mussed mane of hair out of her face, she slid her legs over the side of the bed and rose, heading for the kitchen and its coffee-pot.

As she walked, she was completely unaware of the fact that she was walking with an easy, gracefully feminine sway - or that she was unconsciously fondling her massive, engorged nipples.

Getting the coffee going, she headed into the bathroom and relived herself, one hand holding onto her monster dick as she pissed into the toilet, eyes half-closed. Finishing, she flushed the toilet and took the opportunity to comb the worst of the haystack out of her sandy- blonde hair before heading back to the kitchen, still completely unaware of the fact that she was moving easily and naturally in her new body, as if she'd been born to it.

'Aspect Seepage' was the term the book had used, and if she'd been paying more attention, Jackie would have realized how 'dangerous' it could be. With twelve hours in this form already to her credit, the seepage was a fair ways along - and the worst part was, the gradual change in mindset was insidious, slipping into her brain as if they were her own thoughts, seeming completely and utterly 'natural' is she didn't think about it - and it never occurred to her to think about it.

How many times a day does the average person really pay attention to how they're walking, or what they're doing? Not many - the brain just tells the body what to do, without consciously choosing how it did it, unless it was a special circumstance.

By the time Jackie had finished her breakfast and was getting ready to leave the apartment, she still hadn't noticed anything unusual in her actions or movements. If she'd gone to bed the night before immediately after changing, she would have realized what was going on from her suddenly-acquired skills - but she'd spent a while getting used to her body last night, managing a certain amount of competency, and it wasn't jarring enough for her to notice that she now moved with feminine motions quite authoritatively.

The night before, she'd planned how to go about today, from the clothes she'd wear to what she'd do at the restaurant.

That plan was still in her mind - except that she didn't consciously realize that she'd altered parts of it, completely unaware of the 'editing job' in her mind.

As she dressed, she followed the first steps of her original plan - she took a roll of duck-tap, and very awkwardly - and painfully - secured her monster cock between her silken thighs, hiding it from view as best she could before pulling on her underwear. She also followed her original plan, pulling on a pair of very baggy denim overalls that hid the remaining bulge at the crotch.

However - whereas she'd originally planned to wear a T-shirt under the straps of the overalls, and a baggy sweatshirt on top, now she only pulled on a black tank-top that clung almost obscenely to her massive, firm tits, displaying quite a bit of cleavage.

She looked at herself in the mirror - and though she saw her huge, firm tits straining at the fabric of the shirt, nipples poking large dents in the fabric and a mouthwatering view of cleavage in the neckline, she didn't consciously register the fact - instead, her mind skipped to her crotch, and she nodded with satisfaction at seeing her huge cock completely disguised.

It never occurred to her to consider why she was wearing such a revealing top, exposing the size and shape of her massive tits to public view. She didn't feel 'proud' of her tits, there wasn't any conscious desire to show them off - but she wasn't consciously upset about having tits, especially huge ones, the way she had been the night before. In fact, with the seepage affecting her thoughts, she wasn't consciously thinking about her tits at all - they were just there, that was it.

After slipping into a pair of adjustable sandals that she set to fit her smaller feet, Jackie headed off to the mall to buy her outfit to wear for lunch....

...and ended up buying something completely different, without being aware of it in the least.

When she walked out of the mall, people turned and stared at her. They'd done that when she'd went in, too - but now the amount of slack-jawed gaping was greatly increased.

They all thought they were string at a massively endowed woman, of course - and, at the moment, one who was walking easily and seductively atop a pair of white platform pumps with seven inch spiked heels.

Jackie would have been shocked to learn that she was wearing those shoes - as far as she 'consciously' knew, she was wearing a pair of simple women's sandals. She clearly remembered picking them - not remembering the trance-like state in which she'd exchanged them for the shoes she now wore. Though she was subconsciously aware of the click-clack of her high heels, she wasn't consciously aware of what she was balanced atop - she walked easily and naturally atop the heels, which kept her from questioning her footwear the way she would have if she'd had problems walking in them. With her huge tits blocking most of her downward view, it never occurred to her to check which shoes she had on.

The same thing applied with the fuzzy white sweater she wore. It was a sleeveless turtle-neck sweater that bare came down below her huge tits, leaving her midriff bare and emphasizing the huge tits it clung to so sensuously - but, when she looked down, all Jackie saw was sweater-covered mounds, and her altered brain refused to sound the alarm it would have if she were wearing something with a plunging neckline.

Her skirt was about the only think that was 'originally planned' - a fluffy, multi-layered white skirt that flared out considerably from where it hugged her waist to where the hem rested just above her bare knees. The many layers of gauzy material successfully hid her crotch, just as she'd planned - and that was the only part of her outfit she was consciously aware of in any real sense.

She also had no clue that she'd gone to the cosmetics counter and had a full make-over. Though the sensation registered - the odor of perfume, the taste of lipstick on her full lips, the darker mascara on her lashes - it was all subconscious, her mind refusing to put two and two together and inform her that something was wrong...

...and getting steadily worse as she headed for the restaurant, unconsciously eyeing both men and women with seductively thoughtful looks as she went past.

* * * * *

"What the hell is this stuff for?"

Looking around, Carla's thin lips narrowed as she eyed the - to her - 'Satanic' design on the living-room floor, surround by a ring of candles.

Carla Lindheim was the building's landlady - a tall, skinny woman who was the perfect stereotype of the aging spinster, right down to the graying dark hair done into a tight bun. As the tenets joked, she was as ugly as sin, and twice as nasty - a painfully thin woman with pale skin and a stick-like figure.

What nobody knew was that, beneath the cold, sexless exterior, she was a walking sexual time-bomb. After all, it hadn't been her choice to be born butt-ugly, and since no men seemed to want to have anything to do with her, she spent an awful lot of time masturbating, especially since she had such a vivid imagination and rich fantasy life...

...which she sometimes 'pumped up'; by sneaking into the apartments of the handsome men in the building, fantasizing that it was them fucking her as she masturbated. She'd already used Jack's apartment for that purpose several times, holding one of his T-shirts to her face and inhaling his scent as she lay on his bed, eyes closed, fucking herself madly with the dildo she'd picked out to match her imagination's assumption of his size.

She'd never seen anything like this design on the floor, before....

...and it made her hotter than usual, her fertile imagination suddenly coming up with all sorts of kinky new fantasies to apply to her imaginary version of Jack, who she'd limited to 'clean-cut American Boy' status until now.

Smiling, Carla padded off towards the bedroom, her cunt already sopping wet...

* * * * *

Jackie's cock was killing her - because she was horny as hell, and it was trying to get hard in its painfully taped-down position.

It was driving her nuts. No matter how much she tried, she couldn't stop thinking about how much she'd like to fuck the women she passed - although, subconsciously, she was also considering the men, though she was unaware of that fact.

What she did know, however, was that she couldn't control her mind, which was flitting from one fantasy to another as she headed for the restaurant. Almost every woman she passed, she imagined fucking in dozen different ways, and the more attractive and sexy the woman, the more she wanted to fuck their brains out.

Take that huge-breasted bimbo in the display window, for instance - she was so hot that he wanted to yank her right out of her high- heeled shoes and force her on her knees so she could warp her gloss-rd lips...

Jackie stopped dead, eyes widening in horror as she registered the display window she was looking in.

"Johnson Glass and Mirrors' read the sign above the window - and the 'woman' in the display case was a large, full-length mirror. Suddenly, Jackie saw herself for the first time since getting ready - truly saw herself.

Which triggered all the repressed memories in her feminine head...

"Oh, fuckin' shit...!" She swore to herself as the enormity of her mental changes came crashing home, scaring her shitless as she realized how fast and how much her mind was changing.

And as she realized how much she wanted to fuck herself, if that was possible - she was so incredibly turned on by the reflection in the mirror that it scared her nearly senseless.

All thought of the contract fled from her mind, driven out by a self-preservation instinct. She was loosing herself to the seepage this body was creating - and if she left it much longer, she'd end up being somebody else altogether.

Horried, Jackie flagged down a cab, telling the gaping male driver that she'd give him a huge tit...

...tip! She corrected, horrified as she realized she'd started coming on to him, her mind awash in sexual fantasies of all sorts. She couldn't stop it - the persona that was slowly enveloping her mind seemed bent of sex, and nothing else.

She promised him a huge tip if she was home in less then ten minutes, and the driver seemed determined to earn that money as he peeled rubber away from the curb.

* * * * *

Carla was just getting ready to leave the apartment when she heard the near-frantic foot-falls outside the front door.

Panic flared in the skinny woman as the click-clack of the heels stopped outside Jack's door - and she heard keys being fumbled into the lock. Looking around, desperate, the landlady dashed to the other side of the living room and behind the heavy drapes on the door to the balcony. It wasn't the greatest hiding-place in the world - but she had no idea what else to do.

Watching through a crack between the drapes, Carla had to suppress a gasp as the door opened to admit a woman - a blonde with an enormous set of tits, balanced atop a pair of 'slut shoes'...

...nearly identical to a pair that Carla secretly owned, never worn outside of her apartment. The spinster watched, amazed, as the huge-breasted woman almost frantically slammed the door and began to undress...

...then it got even weirder.

Carla had no idea how to react as, with a muffled scream, the 'woman' ripped off a piece of duct-tape and revealed the most massive cock she'd ever seen, already half-erect and rapidly swelling. Carla watched, dumbfounded, as the huge-penis'd, huge-breasted person sat down in the center of the design on the floor and lit the candles.

As she began to chant an odd-sounding incantation, Carla began to mumble the words under her breath to commit them to memory - so she could use them in future fantasies, like the one going through her mind right now...

* * * * *

Jackie chanted loudly, frantically, trying desperately to focus on the mental image of her male body as she read the incantation - a near impossible task as her randy mind flit from fantasy to fantasy....

Finally, she finished the incantation, and there was a breathless pause before she felt the sensation of her body writhing and changing. More prepared for it this time, she fell over in a ball even as she paid attention to all the sensations of her changing body.

The way her legs felt as if they were being pulled, becoming longer.. like the sexy pair of legs she'd imagined spreading so that her male body could fuck the imaginary woman...

The way her hips widened, to help make room for the mind-boggling ass that she'd just fantasized so vividly about...

"Nooooo!" Jackie screamed in a voice that was rising in pitch, as she realized that her mind hadn't been focused enough during the incantation. She'd fantasized more clearly about what she wanted to do with her male body than on the body itself - and it was those brief-yet-vivid details that the spell was conforming to. Her scream was repeated as she felt her body continued to change, not to her male form - but to an even more feminine one.

She could feel her waists being compressed to a smaller diameter, even as her shoulders slimmed to more feminine dimensions., her chest ached as she felt her already huge tits swelling outwards, becoming heavier and fuller as her face acquired more sensual, feminine contours....

...and the monster cock sucked back in on itself, forming a cunt that was already sopping wet.

Sopping wet with sexual desire - because, as the last of the male in her body slid away, so did the male sexual desires she'd felt, leaving in their wake the once-hidden female desires that had been slowly building since yesterday, now lay exposed and filling her mind with unwanted desires and urges, sexual images that simultaneously disgusted and aroused her now full-female body.

Then, as the change came to an end and she forced herself upright, she stared down in horror at her even more-massive tits. Gigantic, they were like two flesh medicine balls hanging from her chest, tipped with enormous, engorged nipples as she fought the wave of images that ran through her mind - of having those tits fondled, licked, kissed, fucked....

"Nooooo!" She screamed again, in her new, soprano voice. "Don't! Don't think about it! Stop!" She struggled to force her mind away from the lustful images...

...when she heard the scream.

Her head - now crowned by an incredible mane of silky, platinum-blond hair - whipped around and she stared, wide eyed, as the drapes burst apart...

...revealing a man.

A MAN. A tall, heavily muscled man who was so ruggedly handsome that he didn't seem possible. Every inch of him seemed carved from pure masculinity...

...including the gigantic, throbbing cock thrust from his crotch.

"What happened to me?" He screamed, looking down at himself. "Oh, my god - I've got a cock !"

Jackie would have been able to explain to Carla what had happened...

...if she were capable of coherent thought. At the sight of that massive specimen of manhood, however, her mind shut down completely and her new urges and desires took over complete. Thought was washed away by a parade of lustful images and needs, and all she cared about at that one instant...

...was sex.

Pulling herself from the floor, she began to approach the massively-hung man Carla had become, a glint in her huge, bright-blue eyes. "Mmmm... your so big " She cooed in her breathy, bimbo-ish voice, as - deep inside - she screamed in horror and tried to stop herself.

"So big.. and hard "

"What ?" Carla said, confused. Seepage had barely begun in his mind, and - despite his body's reaction to the presence of the super- stacked blond bimbo Jackie had become - wasn't up to speed.

It didn't matter the least to the insatiable nymphomaniac Jack's unconscious desires had turned her into, though - she wanted cock, and there was a monster of one already hard and throbbing, just in front of her.

Wrapping her arms around his massive body, she crushed her huge tits against his broad chest and kissed him, passionately, as the male mind deep inside her over-voluptuous body screamed in horror and disgust.

Carla wasn't prepared for the kiss... but it wasn't long before he was returning it, enthusiastically.

Despite everything, Carla was still a sexually frustrated person, male or not - and this was sex, free and easy. though it might be as weird as hell - he wasn't about to turn it down.

So, when Jackie insisted "fuck me, big boy - fuck me long and hard...", Carla didn't argue.

Jackie lay down on the floor, and - awkwardly - Carla positioned his new body, the head of his massive new cock poised for a long second at the lips of Jackie's hot, wet cunt.

The hesitation was too much - Jackie bucked her hips upwards, impaling herself on the end of the throbbing shaft, her body screaming in pleasure as her mind screamed in pain.

The sensation of having his new cock enveloped in the wet, warm, tight embrace of Jackie's cunt made up Carla's mind - and he thrust forward, burying himself to the hilt in her cunt.

From that point on, he was an enthusiastic participant, face screwing up in pleasure as he got the hang of it, pounding deep and hard into her new body.

Jackie writhed and moaned as pleasure rocked her body, mingled with a little pain from the huge cock slamming deep into her cunt - and her male mind was a gibbering idiot, screaming and crying as ingrained horror of being female and getting fucked by a man warred with the incredible pleasure she was feeling.

Braced on one muscular arm, Carla used the free hand to fondle her immense tit as she rode atop her writhing body, fucking her long and hard. She was screaming almost constantly now, ecstasy rocking her body as she rose higher and higher...

...and finally exploded into orgasm, her body flopping about uncontrollably as first one, then another tremendous orgasm burst down her nerves and seared her divided mind with pure orgasmic ecstasy.

Carla's voice matched hers as he also came, gushing what seemed to be gallons of hot cum deep into the new woman's shuddering cunt, feeling the incredible satisfaction of male sex even as Jackie was wracked by the multiple orgasm only a woman could claim.

Finally, after an eternity, Carla's cock finally ran dry, and he rolled off her hugely-endowed body. For several minutes, Jackie just lay still and stared up at the ceiling, overwhelmed by it all...

...then she began to shiver violently, silent tears coursing down her cheeks at the realization of what she'd done.

"Look - that was amazing." Carla said, shaking his head. "I've never had sex like that before - but what the hell happened?"

""The book.." Jackie sobbed, nearly incoherent at first - but gradually more understandable as the sobs slowly faded away. "the book has magic spells, and we just used it to turn us into whatever form we were imagining at the time..."

Now, the sobs were completely gone, and a faint dreamy smile began to surface. "Like this body I have - so sexy and ready to fuck. It was a mistake, 'cause I was trying to be Jack again, see? Like I was - only I'm so fuckin' horny that I turn myself like this and I wanted to fuck and you were a man so we fucked and it was great and..."

With an effort, Jackie managed to derail her babbling, shaking her head at herself as she struggled to keep a grip on her fading mind. "The book?" Carla asked, picking it up.

"Yeah, and I'm going to use it to make myself a man again..." Jackie said, struggling to keep a firm grip on her thoughts as the sexual needs she'd unwillingly imagined for this body began to rise again.

"...right after I suck down a load of delicious cum!" She chirped, brightly, losing to the thoughts that flooded her mind. Though she wanted to be male again, deep in her mind, that intellectual need was far outweighed by her body's mindless, insatiable need for sex.

Helplessly, she leaned forward and began to tongue Carla's cock back into life, as he smiled and thought that he could get used to this...

* * * * *

Tom followed the owner down the dimly lit back hallway, looking around with interest. "I've never been in this part before." He remarked.

Carl grinned back, his handsome face displaying almost preternaturally bright teeth. "Only select customers get to do this - and you've been coming here since we opened six months ago."

"Yeah - with just one girl." Tom said, with a matching grin. "But what a girl!"

"Yeah, Jakki is something else." Carl agreed with a smile. "But we're expanding, slowly but surely - a bordello can hardly advertise openly, you know."

"I know." Tom said, thinking about all the stringent security the underground whore-house had. Hell - one of the rules is that any client had to have a 'cover' before he could use the House. Right now, everybody thought he was in Atlanta, for example.

"Right in here." Carl said, gesturing. "You just sit down in the chair, and I'll go get the new girl." "Sounds great!" Tom said, grinning. "But stop teasing me - what's this new girl like?"

"Ah, ah!" Carl said, wagging one thick finger. "It's no fun to spoil the surprise. Just let your mind mull over what she might be like - and we'll see how close you got."

Shrugging, Tom went into the room and sat down, looking around with a bemused expression.

The room was circular, and lit by floor-stand candles around the outside. The floor was carpeted, and the rug had the strangest design he'd ever seen in his life woven into it. Shrugging, Tom settled into the chair...

...and blinked as he caught sight of the words painted on the far wall. It looked like some sort of foreign language, or something. After waiting a while, Tom began to get bored... and began to read the words on the wall out loud...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A nerd finds an old trunk with a magic wand, which his roommate uses to start him on a transformation which is concluded when their next door neighbor learns about the wand and plans to get revenge.

Lot #261- Chris

By Gunslinger

Gasping for breath, Chris put the chest down outside the front door and leaned against the wall for a second. Turning, he looked back at the five flights of stairs he'd just climbed, lugging the heavy, iron-bound oaken chest the entire way.

"Of course.." He panted. "I have to live on the top floor..."

Pushing open the door to the apartment, he didn't bother to pick the chest up, just shoving it through. Though not all that large, the sea-chest was made of thick, aged oak bound with iron fastened in place by tarnished brass rivets - the thing was surprisingly heavy, and it had seemed to gain weight with each step he'd taken with it.

Besides - it wasn't like Chris was exactly the most muscular man in the world. About average height, he would have been 'average' in build, too - except for the extra twenty pounds he was carrying around in the form of a beer-belly. He wasn't fat - the rest of his body was about average, if poorly defined. It was just that Chris had a taste for the occasional drink or six, and spending most of his time sitting down didn't burn off enough of the 'empty' calories from the alcohol.

Everything about Chris seemed to proclaimed his rather shy, bookish nature - and his lack of enthusiasm for 'sweaty' activities. He dressed less casual than most other people near the same quarter-century age as himself. At the moment, he was wearing a pair of khaki-colored slacks and a beige cotton button-down work shirt, with a brown leather belt and matching loafers. His hair and eyes were also brown, as was the full beard-and-mustache that he kept neatly trimmed. In fact, he was practically a symphony in earth-shades, all faded greens and browns. Even his watch was a faded brass 'navigator' style mounted on a brown leather strap.

Having pushed his burden in enough to clear the sweep of the door, Chris let the garishly-painted orange door swing shut behind him, turning the dead-bolt lock until it snapped into place. With a grunt, he picked his prize off of the tile floor of the apartments entrance way, lugging it into the carpeted living room and dropping it with another grunt.

"Hey, there buddy - what'd ya pick up this time?"

The question came from Chris' roommate, Joe - who was just about the exact opposite of Chris in every conceivable way.

Where Chris was out of shape, Joe was a testament to body-building, his tanned body rippling with hard-won muscles. Where Chris was dressed semi-dressy, Joe was lounging around in cut-off jean shorts and a black tank-top with a brightly colored gym logo emblazoned on it. Chris' hair was fairly short, and neatly trimmed. Joe's mane was thick and long and dirty-blond. Chris was bearded, Joe was clean-shave. Chris was retiring, Joe was almost aggressively outgoing.

The odd thing was - they got along great. Chris provided the brains, Joe provided the muscles. Joe was helping Chris develop a social life, while Chris turned the cheap, featureless apartment into something more classy and comfortable. Joe would bring a couple of good looking women over for dinner - and Chris, a fantastic chef, would make a delicious meal, impressing the hell out of the women.

So, it wasn't surprising that Joe had picked up a minor interest in Chris' affection for picking up antique and unusual items. Now, the muscular youth slipped from the couch and eyes the sea-chest his roommate had brought home.

"Hey, that's kinda cool. Like a pirate's chest. Where'd ya get it?"

Chris wiped his forehead with the sleeve of his shirt. "Estate sale, at a closed-down train station that had been converted into a house. This trunk was probably in the 'lost baggage claim' when the place was bought and converted in the fifties. Lot number two-sixty-one on the action list, I got it for twenty-five bucks."

"Cool." Joe said, with a grin. "Anything in it?"

Chris shrugged. "Don't know - it's locked. Nobody's ever opened it. We'll find out in a minute though - hang on a second."

Chris trotted off to his room, and returned with his little tool-kit. A voracious reader of both fiction and non-fiction, Chris had all sorts of odd skill and knowledge he'd picked up out of books - including how to pick locks. Now, he pulled a Torx-head electronics screwdriver out of his kit, along with a small, slender probe. Sitting down in front of the chest, he asked Joe to grab the flashlight from the recharging cradle on the wall behind the end-table. While his roommate held the light, Chris slid the screwdriver into the center of the whole, until he felt the eight-sided pattern 'bite' lightly on the cylinder. Then he slid the probe into the space left by the shaft of the angled screwdriver, and began carefully hunting for the 'pin' of the old-style lock.

"Well?" Joe asked, after a moment of silence.

"Just wait..." Chris said, absently, as he closed his eyes and continued moving the probe lightly. "Wait, I think..."

He stiffened for a second, then very carefully moved both probe and screwdriver counter-clockwise. They turned for a fraction of a degree, then stopped. Slowly, Chris applied more and more pressure, twisting the probe slightly to the left...

With a muffled 'click', the tumbler slid onto position, and the cylinder completed the rest of the turn, the latch popping open.

"Got it!" Chris said, triumphantly. Carefully returning his tools to the correct loops in the leather pouch, he set the rolled-up tool-kit aside, and lifted up the lid of the chest.

The chest was divided into two sections, by way of a fitted wooden tray about a third of the way from the top, lined with green felt. Resting on the upper tray was a small, leather bound book, a mahogany box, some loose, blank paper, and a small metal cylinder with a closed, rounded end on one end, and a threaded wooden stopper on the other. Lifting out the tray, the two young men found the bottom part to contain out-of-date men's clothing, dating back to the twenties or thirties.

All things considered, it was all most preordained that the first item Chris would reach for was the book. Opening its leather cover, he found the heavy, yellowed pages inside covered with neat, precise handwriting, which he began to read.

Joe, on the other hand, ruffled through the out of date clothing first, nose wrinkled at the musty smell, shaking his head at the stiff cloth and severe cut of the clothes. Then, bored with that, he turned his attention to the tray that had been laid aside, picking up the mahogany box and...

"Holy shit!" Joe said, staring wide-eyed into the box he'd just opened.

"What is it..?" Chris asked, the exclamation reluctantly pulling his attention from the book he held.

"A gun!" Joe said, turning the box so that Chris could see. The dark haired-youth blinked in surprise at the weapon resting inside the wooden case.

"Holy crap!" Chris said, stunned. "It's a Howdah pistol!" "A what?" Joe asked.

"A Howdah pistol." Chris repeated. "Originally designed for British big-game hunters in Africa. It's a last-ditch gun, in case of tiger attacks." He paused. "I'd be careful with it - that's the ultimate in a 'heavy' pistol. Fires .577 caliber bullets."

The gun was an odd design, looking sort of like a sawed-off double-barrel shotgun, though smaller and more finely made. The old-style curved 'pistol grip' held the short, heavy-gauge barrels mounted on carved and scroll-worked metal plates, with ornate hammers behind each barrels. A brass plate covered the hinge-plate to allow the barrels to be 'broken open' for loading.

The box also contained a small cleaning kit, a few swathes of cloth - and two dozen bullets, head down in holes cut into the solid wood of the bottom left corner of the case.

"What do we do with this thing?" Joe said. "Turn it into the police?"

Chris' mouth tightened. That was probably the 'right' thing to do - but the gun would also make a great decorative item. He had paid for it, after all.

"Put it on the counter." Chris finally said. "Later, I'll take the powder out of the bullets, and we can put it on the end-table over there for decoration."

Joe shrugged and carried the box over to the counter and put it down. He was tempted to pick the gun itself up and see what it felt like - but it didn't seem like a good idea until Chris had 'disarmed' it or whatever.

Since he was 'in the neighborhood', Joe walked around the counter and into the kitchen, grabbing another can of beer - his fourth for the day.

"Hey, Joe." Chris called from the living room. "You're not going to believe this!" Carrying his beer, Joe went back into the living room.

The metal tube was laying on the ground beside Chris, the stopper a few inches away, and what he now held had obviously come from the container. Chris' first reaction to the item was that it looked like the worlds fanciest conductor's baton - about eight inches long, the polished piece of ebony wood tapered slightly from it's base to it's tip. Fine gold filament filled the intricate inlaid carving along the length of the stick, and gold wire wrapped tightly around the first two inches of the base formed it's grip.

To Joe, on the other hand, it looked like... something he'd never seen before. He had no analogies, other than 'a stick'. "What the hell is that?"

Chris grinned, a lopsided expression of bemused amusement.

"According to this..." he said, tapping the cover of the leather-bound journal, "...it's a magic wand." "A what?"

"I know - it's nuts." Chris said. "I mean.. a magic wand? According to this book, it can do amazing things. It can't create anything out of nothing - but point it at something and make a statement, and the statement will come true."

"Oh, of course - Silly me..." Joe said, chuckling.

"Yeah, yeah - I know." Chris said, with a grin. "Whoever wrote this 'manual' for it was... imaginative, to say the least. It even says that the wand has limitations. For instance - the person wielding the wand can use it on anything or anybody, except themselves. It's... kind of a safety catch, I guess. I know, it's all bunk - but I think this is real gold inlaying the wood, and the craftsmanship is incredible. As hoaxes go, this one is pretty damn valuable."

"Yeah." Joe said. "Wouldn't it be great if it really was a magic wand, though - you could do anything." Chris chuckled. "Well - almost."

Joe shook his head, imagining what it would be like to have a 'magic' wand, idly lifting the beer and taking a sip... "Hey - let's give it a try." Joe suggested.

"What?"

"I know it's a load of crap - but, what the hell. Do a 'test'. Point the wand at my beer, and turn it from a can into a bottle."

Chris' eyebrow went up, but he shrugged - it wouldn't hurt to play with the wand. Standing up, he struck a 'mystical' pose, and - with a flourish - pointed the wand at the beer can.

"You are holding a bottle of beer!" Chris exclaimed, in the deepest voice he could manage...

It was a contest as to what hit the ground first. The wand, tumbling from suddenly nerveless fingers...

...or the bottle of beer that had suddenly and instantaneously replaced the can in Joe's hand.

For a second, both of them stared at the bottle on the ground, fizzing beer 'glug-glug'ing from the neck and into the carpet. Then both sets of eyes traveled to where the wand lay.

"Holy shit!" Chris exclaimed, his voice weak. "It... it worked!"

Carefully - as if it were a deadly snake that might lash out - he bent down and picked the wand up, holding it tentatively as he stared at it.

"Oh, man, this is fuckin' unbelievable." Joe said, staring at the wand. Without taking his eyes off the polished, inlaid wood, he bent and fumbled around, finding the mostly-empty bottle and picking it up. "Hey, Chris... make this a full, unopened can of beer."

Chris seemed not to hear the request for a second, then he shook his head and blinked. "Huh? Oh - yeah. Okay."

Taking a deep breath, he hesitantly pointed the narrow end of the wand at the bottle. "You are holding a full, chilled, unopened can of beer."

There was no 'Hollywood' special effects. There was a slight jerk as the heavier can replaced the mostly empty bottle, and there was a slight 'hiss' of air movement as the amount and shape of space taken up in the atmosphere changed - and a cold, unopened beer appeared in Joe's hand, replacing the bottle.

Hesitantly, Joe cracked open the beer and took a hesitant sip. "It... tastes fine." He said. "For a Bud Light, that is."

Chris blinked, and took a closer look. "Hey!"

"Yeah - what happened to my Coors?" Joe said, putting the can aside.

"I guess... I just thought of the beer I drink." Chris said, his mind beginning to function at full speed. Words tumbled over each other as he spoke rapidly, amazement and curiosity in his voice. "Hey! It's not just what you say, but what you're visualizing. I guess the spoken words are just the trigger mechanism."

"Do you realize what this means, Chris?" Joe asked, a goofy smile spreading across his lips. "Hell - we can do anything we want! Geez, man - we could become the all-time studs of the world. Think about it - we can be so damned hung that women will drool!"

Chris blinked, then began to blush. "Yeah, well - maybe I could, um..." He trailed off, then rallied. "But you? For God's sake, Joe, I've talked to your girlfriends. You're better endowed than anybody else in the city!"

There was a creaking sound from Joe's crotch as any slack in the denim was suddenly taken up, and he gasped and altered his stance to adjust for the remarkably larger bulge pushing at the button fly of the faded shorts.

"Oh, crap!" Chris said, eyes bulging. Hastily, he put the wand down on the nearest table, as if it were red-hot. "geez man, I'm sorry - I didn't even realize I was pointing it in your direction, and I didn't think before..."

"hey, man - relax!" Joe said, bending at the waist slightly to stare at the radically increased bulge now straining his shorts. "Shit! I mean, it hurt for a second as it got... crushed. But I ain't complaining man!"

Chris blushed and he looked away, realizing where he'd been staring. "Yeah, I guess so. Still - it was an accident."

"So?" Joe said, walking around the room a little to find the walk that was most comfortable for his enlarged equipment. "From now on, we've just got to be more careful. Geez, man - I gotta buy some 'comfort fit' clothes. I'm bein' squashed here, and... hey!" He turned to Chris. "Do me a favor, buddy - 'adjust' my clothes for me, would ya?"

"Look - I wasn't planning to use the wand at all, really!" Chris said. "I mean - we didn't think it was real! Now that we know it really works, we shouldn't touch it again until I've read the entire 'manual', and practiced with it on non-animate objects.."

"Come on man - loosen up." Joe interrupted. "I mean - anything goes wrong, you can always use the wand to set it right again, right? C'mon - at the very least, help me out here."

Chris looked uncertain. "I.. think it would be a better idea if you picked out another pair of shorts or pants, and I'll alter them - I'm not exactly comfortable aiming the wand at you, yourself. I mean - what if I did something to you, instead of your shorts?"

"Fine, fine." Joe said, with a sigh. "Geez, man - you worry too much."

Padding - slightly bow-legged - to his bedroom, Joe returned a minute later with a armful of pants and shorts, which he dumped on the living room floor.

"Might as well do everything at once." He explained. When Chris reached towards the wand, Joe held out a hand. "Hey - you've given it a shot already. Let me practice on my own clothes."

Chris hesitated, then sighed and handed the wand over.

Pointing the wand at the pile of clothes, Joe thought in silence for a long moment, then spoke. "All these clothes are perfectly tailored to fit me comfortably."

There was no noticeable change in the pile of clothing. Then again - there wouldn't be, either way.

"Chris?" Joe said, making a rotating motion with his finger. Obediently, Chris turned around and stared at the far wall. "Hey - this is great!" Joe said, and Chris turned back around.

Joe was wearing another pair of shorts, quite similar to the pair he'd just had on - but these ones were tailored around the bulge in his crotch. The bulge was still clearly define, it's size pushing out the extra tailored cloth at the crotch without being compressed, while the rest of the shorts fit as tightly as they always had. Rather than the whole garment becoming baggier, they'd become a slightly different design altogether, to accommodate Joe's new equipment - and practically flaunt it, as well.

"Uh..." Chris said, still flushing. "Joe, maybe it would be a better idea if I.. um.. well, made you a little smaller."

"Are you kidding?" Joe said, obvious delighted at the massive cock he now possessed. "Why on earth would you do that? Jealous?"

"No, no..." Chris sighed. "It's just that... it's kind of noticeable. I mean - you're a hell of a lot bigger then you were before. Somebody's bound to notice, and how are we going to explain it?"

"I'll think of something." Joe said. "Hell, if I have to, I'll use the wand on everybody who knows me, and tell them that they don't notice anything different about me. There's no way in hell I'm letting you - or anybody - shrink this monster, pal. I'm, like, the ultimate Stud- Lord."

Chris held out a hand. "Hey, hey - don't even joke about screwing around with peoples minds with the wand. We're still not sure how safe it is. We shouldn't even be using it at all! We've got to restrain ourselves, and not go nuts with it."

"Why not?" Joe asked. "I mean, sure - we can't go around zapping anything we want. We can still use it, though, and have a little fun - I mean, think of the things we can do with it!"

Chris' face tightened. "Joe, I think you'd better let me hold on to the wand for awhile, until we can think everything through and figure out how best to use it."

Joe stared at Chris. "Geez, man - what's your problem? Relax. You're getting paranoid."

"Maybe it's a good think I am a little 'paranoid'." Chris retorted. "I mean - you didn't play around with that gun, did you? Well, this wand can do almost anything at all, which makes it a hell of a lot more dangerous then any gun. Just treat it the way you would a loaded weapon."

"Holy crap, Chris - get a grip!" Joe shook his head with a wry grin. "C'mon, buddy - we both know you're a worry-wart, and that's all this is. If anything bad happens, we can use the wand to fix it. Now, let's have a little fun with this puppy, huh?"

"Joe..." Chris tried to reason with his roommate.

"Hey, relax - watch, I'll show you." He pointed the wand at Chris...

...who flinched and tried to dodge away from the point of the wand, even as Joe spoke... "Your waist is nice and thin."

Chris gasped as he felt the oddest 'pulling' sensation as the fat that formed his paunch faded away - and more. Within the space of a few second, his waist had not only shed the extra pounds, but the very shape of it had narrowed considerably.

"Joe!" Chris protested, pulling the loose fabric of his shirt tightly around the reduced circumference of his waist to get a better look at it's tiny new dimension - his hands could almost encircle his shrunken waist, it was so tiny.

"So, I overdid it a bit." Joe said, waving a hand. "I can fix it in a minute - but, look! You just lost all that extra weight, and you didn't have to do even one exercise. Isn't that great!"

"Joe, you can't just play around with that thing!" Chris said, angrily. "You could have done something a lot worse then this - and even this you screwed up! For god's sake, put the damned thing down before you do something really stupid!"

Joe's face clouded. "Fuck, Chris - I was just tryin' to help you. What do you do? Thank me? Noooo... you ream me out, for a little mistake that I could fix like 'that'." He snapped his fingers. "Holy sit, you're uptight about this."

"Joe, it's not some game! That thing..." Chris said, tightening his belt around his now-tiny waist, to keep his pants from settling lower around his hips.

"For god's sake, Chris - GET OFF MY BACK!"

There was another difference between the two youths. Chris had a very even temperament - it took quite a bit to get him 'exasperated', as he was now, and he'd almost never been truly angry. When he did get exasperated, it tended to stay with him for quite some time, fading as slowly as it had come.

Joe, on the other hand... Joe was a hot-head. He could go from his usual easy-going self into a tower of rage in sixty seconds flat, though the rage never lasted terribly long. It was white-hot while it did last, though...

...and, right now, Joe was royally pissed at Chris for his nagging and the perceived suggestions that Joe was 'stupid'. Only once before had Joe been this angry and annoyed at Chris...

...but he hadn't been holding an object of immense power in his hand at the time....

"You want the damned wand back?" Joe asked, angrily. "You want me not to use it? Fine! I'll give you the fuckin' thing, then I'm outta hear to give this new equipment a try. But first..."

He pointed the wand directly at Chris, who was back-pedaling from Joe and trying to calm him - in vain.

"You can't seem to relax - well, maybe it's your damned clothes, all dressy. You are wearing a pair of tight jeans and a bright red T-shirt!"

Chris felt a strange writhing sensation across his body as he clothes changed to match Joe's statement, leaving Chris feeling very uncomfortable in the tight-fitting denim and the bright-red shirt.

"Also, you can't leave this apartment, or communicate in anyway with anyone outside this apartment, until I get back!" Joe continued, angrily. This time, Chris didn't feel anything happen - but he was pretty sure that Joe's statement was now utterly correct."

"You also can't use the wand at all while I'm gone!" Joe continued, obviously making these 'rules' up as he went along, venting his anger at his roommate. "And... and... and..."

"Joe, please - don't..." Chris tried to reason with him. "You've already got me good. Really - I'll be stuck here, unable to talk to anybody, unable to use the wand, and.. and stuck with this... this..." He gestured at his midsection. "...this woman's waist."

It was the wrong thing to say - he was trying to show the enraged Joe that he was suffering - but Joe took it as another shot at his 'stupid' mistake. Joe's unreasonable anger increased, and he looked for something worse to bestow on his roommate...

...and noticed that, while he'd changed Chris' pants and shirt, his shoes were left unaltered...

"You have a woman's waist?" Joe repeated, angrily. "Then let's give you feet to match - you have women's feet, and you're wearing bright-red high heels, which you can't take off until I tell you to!"

Everything around Chris seemed to shrink down slightly as he quickly rose an addition seven inches higher from the floor - thanks to the bright red, stiletto-heeled pumps now on his small, feminine feet, leaving him balanced atop the shoes one-and-a-half inch platform soles and seven-inch tall stiletto heels.

"There!" Joe shouted, barely aware of the words emerging from his mouth. "You can walk around in high heels like some sort of stripper, hooker or slut. That should keep you entertained until I get back!"

Throwing the wand on the end-table, Joe turned and stormed out of the apartment, pausing to grab his jacket, with his wallet and keys inside. The door slammed behind Joe's broad back...

...but, since he'd only pop-turned the dead-bolt, it didn't close, the bolt snapping back out as soon as the door was opened, and that bolt keeping the door from closing. Instead, the door rebounded from the brass bolt, and slowly swung open again.

"Shit!" Chris said, frustrated, annoyed - and really, really embarrassed, as he looked down at the high-heeled shoes enclosing feet that were small and slender.

Shaking his head, Chris told himself that in half an hour or so, Joe would come back, all apologies and contrition, and undo what he'd done to him. That was the way Joe was. Chris would just have to deal with the situation until then...

...and, once he was 'restored', he was going to make damn sure that wand was put somewhere safe. Sighing, Chris gingerly headed over to close the door...

...then stopped dead, eyes opening in shock, as he found himself walking with a confident - and exaggerated - strut. It was sexy and obvious, his hips rolling and his ass swaying in a decidedly feminine manner.

Struggling, Chris tried again, this time consciously trying to walk 'normally'...

...and slammed into a wall, the only thing that kept him from falling to the floor.

Without meaning to, Joe had 'cursed' him with the easy ability to walk like 'a stripper, hooker or slut'. The only way to not use that new stride would require him to concentrate on controlling every step...

...and he didn't know how to walk or balance in heels. So - it was either walk with that sexy sway - or not at all.

"Damn you, Joe..." Chris said, with only a little heat. Helplessly, he once more started for the door, his hips swaying and swiveling... "What the hell's all the yelling... Chris?" the voice went from angry to surprised - as did the expression on the face of the voice's owner. Chris cursed to himself as things got worse and worse.

Their neighbor, Cassandra, was standing just outside the open door, staring incredulously at Chris, balanced atop his bright-red 'fuck- me' pumps. Her face was usually one of restrained scorn and mild disgust, intensified in the presence of Joe - but that look was currently superseded by one of shock. "Chris - what the hell are you doing wearing heels?"

Even if he could have come up with an 'explanation', he couldn't have given it - since Cassandra was out side, Chris was complete incapable of talking to her.

"What the hell's going on here?" She demanded of the silent young man, her expression and voice sliding back into it's usual groove. Cassandra wasn't exactly the greatest neighbor - tall, broad-shouldered and small busted, the dark-haired woman was pure feminist, and living next door to 'Mr. macho' (Joe) pissed the hell out of her. Now, her usual arrogance returned, and she took a couple of angry steps forward...

...and entered the apartment.

"Cassandra - can you close the door?" Chris asked, now able to speak to her. "Please? I'll explain everything."

Cassandra's arrogant look flashed from his face to his feet, and one eyebrow lifted scornfully. "Yeah - everything." Chris responded to the look, blushing furiously. "Please..."

Rolling her eyes, Cassandra hesitated - then closed the door behind her.

"This way." Chris said, gesturing - then flushed even more brightly as he lead her into the living room, his ass swaying and bobbing. "What the...?" Cassandra said, her sneer slipping. "Geez, don't tell me you two are..."

"No, no!" Chris stopped her before she could finish the question. Sitting down, Chris took a deep breath...

...and explained everything to her.

"So you see..." he finished. "I need your help to undo what Joe did to me."

Cassandra, sitting on the couch, was fingering the wand with a doubtful look on her face... but not too doubtful. She'd seen Chris just that morning, and between then and now, his waist had shrunk dramatically, and his feet had become considerably smaller and more feminine. She couldn't come up with an alternative explanation for either, no matter how silly this whole 'magic wand' business sounded.

Slowly, that doubtful look faded - to be replaced by a thoughtful, sneering one that Chris didn't like at all.

"Well, now..." She said in a tone of voice that sent shivers down his spine. "...this does over some intriguing possibilities, doesn't it?"

"Uh, Cassandra...?" Chris said, hesitantly, deciding that maybe he'd been wrong in trying to enlist the woman's help. He knew that she and Joe could barely stand the sight of each other, but he barely knew her, other than passing her in the hall now and then. He didn't have anything against her at all...

...and it hadn't occurred to him that she might not she the same utter indifference.

When she pointed the wand at him and began to speak, he felt a bolt of fear run through him and....

"Why, Joe?" Chris asked the air, plaintively. Rising from the chair he'd so recently collapsed in, he resumed the pacing he'd been doing for the past twenty minutes, hating the feel of his ass as it swayed and jiggled in an over-exaggerated feminine manner. "Why are you doing this to me?"

Feeling disturbingly close to tears, Chris continued to pace, wondering why his best friend had suddenly turned against him...

* * * * *

In the hallway, Cassandra smiled as she heard his plaintive questions through the door. Obviously, her command to him had worked - as far as Chris remembered, once Joe had gotten the wand, he'd calmly and cruelly done these things to him, then 'left him to stew' while taking the wand and leaving, promising that he'd return - and things were far from over...

That was the first step in what she had planned. Before she could move on to the second step, though, she had to wait for... Even as she was thinking about it, Joe came thundering up the stairs, a stricken look on his face.

"Joe, hold on!" Cassandra said, stepping in front of the muscular youth.

"look, I gotta..." Joe started to say... but he paused, to keep from running her down...

...which gave her a chance to point the wand at him.

"Joe, you can't move until I tell you to." She told the stunned man, who was gaping at the wand she pointed at him. "When I'm done giving these instructions, I'm going to hand you the wand, and you are going to will me to look exactly like you do, right down to the clothes, and will that I will stay this way until I will myself to change back. Once you have done this, you will immediately hand the wand back to me, go down the stairs, and to the nearest bar. Once there, you will forget that you came back, and that we met or talked. In fact, you also won't remember 'Chris' at all - you'll remember your girlfriend, Chrissy, is living with you, and you had an argument after you laughed at some stupid chest she blew your money on..."

* * * * *

Chris was just finishing another angry loop of pacing, when he heard the front door open. Stopping in his high-heeled tracks, he watched as Joe swaggered in, that same, inexplicable sneer on his face. He closed the door behind him with a kick, wiggling the wand in the air in front of him so Chris could see it.

"Well, well, well - have you been enjoying the little wait, 'buddy'?" Joe taunted.

"Joe, why are you doing this to me?" Chris asked, pointing his hands at his body. "I don't understand..."

"Oh, of course not." Joe said, cruelly. "You're so socially inept that you haven't noticed a damn thing. All the times I've tried to get you out of the way, because you were screwing up my sex life. All the times you bored me to tears with crap about this or that. the way you ruined my fuckin' bachelor pad with all this shit! You never noticed any of the hints I gave you!"

"Wha.. what are you talking about?" Chris stammered, confused. "You volunteered to help me. You even brought 'double dates' home so..."

"they weren't fuckin' 'double dates', asshole!" Joe said, sharply. "before you moved in, I was getting laid by two or three girls a night! Both those girls were for me - but no, having a geek like you around, I'm lucky if I get it once a week! Well... that's about to change."

"Wha... Joe, I don't..." Chris said, trying to grasp the 'rationale' behind this sudden tirade, this sudden hatred. Could it be.. but, then why... Chris' mind was spinning, unable to piece any of this together into a coherent whole.

Then Joe pointed the wand at him. "You will stand in the center of the room, and only move or talk when I tell you to - and then, only the way I tell you to."

Chris wanted to plead for Joe to stop... but was completely unable to do so as Joe walked over to the comfortable leather chair and settle into it, facing him. Reaching down, he dragged a small garbage can over to him. pointing the wand at it, he said something Chris couldn't hear - and the wastebasket suddenly became a mid-sized leather bag. He then turned his attention - and the wand - back to Chris.

"Your name is Christine, though you usually use Chrissy. You hate the diminutive Chris, and try to get people to avoid calling you that - you are Chrissy, and sometimes Christine." He lowered the wand so it didn't point at anything. "Now - what's your name?"

"My name's Christine - but you can call me Chrissy." Chris - Chrissy - replied, struggling and failing to avoid saying it. he just couldn't stop himself.

"Good, Good." Joe replied, with a smile. "But - I don't think 'Chrissy' sounds like a name for a brunette, do you? It's a good thing you have long, soft, golden blonde hair."

This was spoken with the wand pointing at him - and Chrissy felt his hair suddenly lengthen, cascading down his back in a golden waterfall.

"You should put your hair in a ponytail, Chrissy." Joe said, reaching into the bag and pulling out a bright-pink 'scrunchy'. He tossed it to Chrissy...

..who helplessly caught it. Pulling his new, silky mane into a bundle, Chrissy gave himself a long, golden ponytail as if he'd done it a million times.

"Much better - but that scrunch doesn't match your clothes anymore, does it? Well - you are now wearing a hot-pink spandex crop-top, a white skirt, and white high-heels."

Chrissy wanted to cry out in shame as he felt the clothes covering his body writhe and shift, leaving him clad in tight-fitting, feminine attire.

"Oh, that's not very good." Joe chided. "Look at how awful your legs look!"

Helplessly, Chrissy looked down at the hairy, male shins protruding from the knee-length skirt.

"Then again - you have a pair of long, sexy, delightfully feminine legs." Joe said - and, as suddenly as that, while he watched, Chrissy did indeed have long, shapely legs.

"Your legs look really good in that white leather mini-skirt, too."

The hem of the skirt shot upwards as the material thickened and changed, and an instant later most of his new legs were clearly on display.

"That skirt also really shows off your wide, womanly hips and incredibly full, sexy ass."

It did now, at least - Chrissy wanted to whimper and beg as he felt his hips widen to full, womanly curves, and his ass swell outwards under the skin-tight skirt that displayed his incredible new figure, from the waist down.

"Of course, you have soft, downy, feminine body hair - and very little of that, too. Your smooth, sexy female arms are almost complete bare of hair, and it really makes you feminine hands and slender wrists look good." Joe told Chrissy...

...who looked at his newly reshaped arms and hands, and would have agreed that they were fine examples of feminine appendages - if they weren't attached to him.

"The hot-pink nail polish really shows off you long nails, too - and matches the glossy lipstick you always wear on you full, sexy lips."

It felt like his lips were swelling up, and he could faintly taste the glossy, hot-pink lipstick that coated the incredibly sexy, full lips his face now 'boasted'. He couldn't see his own face, of course - and was stuck looking at his long, finely shaped nails, with their bright coat of polish.

"Gee - It's a good thing you have a sexy, beautiful female face to match those lips, with a tiny snub of a nose, and huge, bright-blue eyes."

Chrissy wanted to whimper as his face took on the contours of a beautiful, sexy - if not too bright-looking - woman.

"Gee, you look like a bimbo, Chrissy." Joe sneered. "Which is why you've had your tits surgically inflated to a double 'D' cup."

Chrissy would have winced, if he could, as he felt his chest expand outwards to the dimensions stated, pulling the crop-top tighter over the new mounds.

"Gee - that was the first set of implants you got. You then had your tits blown up to a triple 'F' cup." Chrissy's new endowments, only seconds old, expanded even further...

...while, somehow, he knew that - due to the phrasing - there were records of him getting both sets of implants, even peoples memories reflected this, except for his and Joe's. After all, he hadn't just 'given' the tits to Chris - he'd stated it so that there was a 'history' to them.

"Then, of course, you had them inflated to a GGG-cup size..." Joe continued, and the weight of Chrissy's new tits grew as they swelled, pulling out at his chest. He could feel the heft and bounce of them, could feel the sensation of the taut spandex being transmitted through them.

But Joe wasn't done talking.

"You've had them inflated so many times because your obsessed with your body, and always have been - you need to make men attracted to you. You can't help yourself. You always act as sexy as you can, because you need to turn men on, and with your huge tits you can show them off and flaunt them."

Chrissy found himself changing position, standing in a sexy pose with one leg forward, as his dainty new hands rose and began to fondle the cloth-covered globes straining the top. He couldn't help himself, as he smiled seductively at Joe and licked his full new lips hungrily.

"Which isn't surprising - since you're an insecure woman with a hot, tight cunt and a need to prove your sex by seducing men whenever you start to feel 'unhappy' about your body, and have been this way since you were a little girl."

The last of the changes occurred - and Chrissy felt like crying as 'history' for everyone else change to match her new gender - and needs.

"You're incredibly skilled at all forms of seduction and sexual acts." Joe said, now making the fine-tuned adjustments to her mind. "It's not whether you want to use them, or not - you need to. Often." He grinned, cruelly, "So - you're free to move and talk."

"Why have you done this to me...?" She asked in a throaty, feminine voice as she slowly and seductive moved towards him, her huge new tits jiggling and swaying. "Why have you given me such a perfect, sexy body, so I can fulfill my needs? Why have you made all my fantasies come true?"

That wasn't what she'd meant to ask - but,. With the constraints on her, it was the best she could do.

"Chrissy, you have to act this way at all times, for everybody you meet - you have to act like a sex-starved, horny woman, eager to sexually please any man who wants you... except, you only have to act this way around me for the next week. Then, at six p.m. next Friday, you have to leave this apartment, and never come back."

Chrissy moaned - inspired by a moan of fear, loathing and hatred, but it emerged as one of lust. Helplessly, the new woman found herself reaching down to fondle Joe's enormous cock, already stirring in its cloth prison. "Let me suck your cock, Joe... please..."

"Sure thing, Chrissy." Joe said, laying the wand aside. "First, though, I want to get my hands on those fantastic tits of yours."

"Oh, yes..." Chrissy helplessly moaned, peeling off the crop top and leaning forward. Closing her eyes, she leaned her head back and moaned in pleasure as Joe began to fondle and suck her massive tits, squeezing them together and licking and sucking at the nipples.

Meanwhile... her slender, dainty new hands slid down to his crotch and undid his shorts, letting his enormous, throbbing cock spring into her hands.

He was, quite literally, the best-endowed man in the entire city - and she knew it. Still, it was shocking - in many ways - to feel his cock throbbing in her dainty hands - it was enormous. At least eighteen inches long, it was so thick around that she could only encircle it using both her hands, and she doubted she could fit the massive, reddish-purple head of it into her mouth...

...she was wrong. helplessly, unable to stop herself, Chrissy found herself sliding to her knees. Opening her mouth as wide as she could, she leaned forward and placed her full lips against the cock... and pushed.

With a muffled 'pop', the massive head of the thick cock slid into her mouth, her lips sealing tightly around it as it filled her mouth to capacity.

Though she was now incredibly skilled at cock-sucking, that skill didn't come into place - with her mouth tightly sealed around that gigantic, throbbing organ, she could do little more than a glorified hand-job. There wasn't even enough room left in her mouth to move her tongue around.

So, she found herself wrapping her hands around his heavily veined shaft, and beginning to jerk him off, her hands picking a steady rhythm that would build him slowly to the peak...

..then, just before he got there, she slowed again, teasing him.

Chrissy wanted to stop, feeling sick to her stomach - but she just couldn't, her body performing exactly as Joe had told it too, and she continued to work the massive organ as she breathed through her nose, her jaws already aching from the strain. Still, she couldn't make herself rush through the act, her timing and movements sexy and deliberate as she brought him closer to the edge again, oh-so-slowly...

This time, there was no way she could have stopped - he was too ready. So, she sped up at the last moment, not just pushing him over the edge, but hurling him past it...

...and his cock exploded in her mouth, a flood of thick, salty cum gushing in a seemingly never-ending geyser that gushed wildly down her throat, her sealed lips keeping any from being 'wasted' as he dumped an enormous, warm load of his man-juice directly down her throat.

When he finally stopped cumming, she struggled, finally managing to pull her mouth from his cock with a wet, slurping 'pop'.

"Not bad.." Joe allowed, rising and zipping up his shorts. "I'm just going to step out side for a second. When I come back in, I want you to act like you forgive me for something, then seduce me and fuck my brains out all night. Think you can handle that, Chrissy?" He picked up the wand and headed for the door.

"Mmmm... no problem, Joe.." She replied, hungrily - while struggling, in vain, to regain control of her altered body long enough to run to the toilet and vomit.

* * * * *

Closing the door behind her, Cassandra closed her eyes and concentrated - and, a second later, was back in her female form... still bemused by the experience of having 'her' cock sucked. She was beginning to see why men seemed to interested in it - and she hadn't even gotten the 'full package'.

Hearing Joe's heavy steps on the stairs, she smiled as the next part of her plan went into effect. Shrugging to herself, she headed back to her apartment, while Joe - not even noticing her - went into his.

* * * * *

"Oh, honey - I'm so glad you're home!" Chrissy found herself helplessly telling Joe, pressing her huge bosom against his muscular chest. "I'm so sorry we had a fight - and I want to make it up to you!"

"Really?" Joe asked, startled - and wondering why Chrissy didn't look all that familiar to him. He knew it must be her, he knew she was his girlfriend, could even remember details of her life - but it was as if he'd read about them. Her actual body was strangely... unfamiliar.

Shaking his head, he wrote it off to the drinks he'd had, as she lead him, eagerly, to the bedroom.

Desperately, she tried to stop herself - but the only way she could act was like a cum-hungry bimbo. The magic of the wand was stronger than her will - and she couldn't fight it, though she tried - mightily.

"Ummm... I want that monster of yours in my cunt, Stud." She said, stripping off her clothes, while Joe eagerly did the same. Smiling, she pushed him onto the bed, taking the top position for herself as she rose up and positioned herself... then thrust downwards.

She screamed in apparent pleasure, really screaming in humiliation and pain as his massive cock filled her tight cunt. The initial burst of pain at the huge penetration vanished quickly - but the humiliation stayed as she began to flex the smooth muscles of her shapely legs, driving herself up and down on his massive cock.

"oh yes, Joe, oh yes - I love it, I want it, fuck me..." She cried, ramming herself on the cock in piston-like movements, huge tits bouncing and swaying as she drove her body on his rod. "I a slut!"

"Oh, Chrissy..." Joe moaned, intense ecstasy rolling through his body as she drove herself atop him, faster and faster. Her words had degenerated into incoherent sounds of pleasure as she fucked him with wild abandon, her body needing to be filled and fucked and 'appreciated' by men...

As she screamed in orgasmic ecstasy and shuddered atop her body, she was already dreading the day, one week hence, when she'd helplessly leave the apartment to roam the city looking for fulfillment for her need.

That's when the worst blow came.

The knowledge the spending the next week 'eagerly' fucking the bastard who'd done this to her - was the best part of what was to become her life...

* * * * *

With a smile, Cassandra listened to Chris' screams of 'pleasure' echo through the walls, her hands lightly fondling the shaft of the wand.

"Well, that'll get your little friend out of the way, Joe..." She murmured. "After being humiliated for a week with you, my quick little fun with her will have her move on... and I can get around to doing the full job on you, you stupid, macho pig."

The grin widened and became crueler as her hands tightened on the incredible power she now held. "I have a whole week to work out my plan so that it's perfect..."

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: The next door neighbor continues her plan of transforming the macho Bob in a magical game that he has no chance of winning.

Lot #261- Joe

By Gunslinger

Gasping for breath, Joe put the chest down on the ground next to the door. Standing up and rolling his shoulders, the muscular youth tried to get the cramps out of his knotted muscles, then - with a grunt - picked the chest back up and made the final heave that got it over the door's small lip, and into the back of the cube van. Closing and locking the cube-van's cargo door, the well-muscled - and very well endowed - blond youth walked to the front of the vehicle.

He smiled thinly as he found Chrissy searching through her purse for something - while the driver of the truck stared openly at the awesome amount of cleavage on display in Chrissy's barely-there tube top, her massive tit threatening to burst free of the tiny band of hot-pink fabric at any second.

"Well, that's the last of it." Joe told Chrissy, who looked up with a vague smile.

"That's great, Joe..." She said, her voice sounding almost out-of-focus. She seemed to remarkably eager to leave, for some reason - her entire body was shaking, which was doing truly interesting things to her massive endowments. "I.. uh.. It was fun, okay?"

"Yeah, I guess so." Joe 'agreed', still not certain as to why his girlfriend had suddenly decided to dump him and move out - without even having a specific place to go. This morning she'd simply awakened with the sudden need to leave, and he still didn't understand why...

...but, then again, there was a lot he'd never understood about his huge-breasted blonde ex-girlfriend.

"Look, it's four to six - we have to go." Chrissy said, nudging the driver. The still gaping man put the vehicle into gear, and Joe hoped that he'd keep his eye on the road enough to avoid an accident.

"Will you call me?" Joe shouted to Chrissy as the truck began to accelerate.

"No!" She shouted back, her throaty soprano carrying over the climbing growl of the truck's diesel...

...and then she was gone.

Shaking his head at her odd behavior, Joe turned and re-entered the building, climbing the stairs with legs weary from making the trip dozens of times with all her belongings. Ever since she'd moved in with him, she'd been slowly redecorating the apartment - one of the things that had been contrary to her general appearance and behavior as the 'classic bimbo', as she'd shown amazing taste, dedication and skill in buying and arranging.

His first clue that something was wrong should have come a week ago - they'd had some sort of stupid argument over another item she'd bought. She'd seemed to forgive him, after a while - but she hadn't done anything at all to the apartment since then, which should have been a warning sign. Joe only saw it now, in retrospect. She'd obviously begun thinking about leaving that night, and hadn't wanted to put any more effort into the apartment until she'd decided.

Well, she'd obviously decided - and her leaving had practically stripped the apartment clean, leaving only a few items that she hadn't purchased.

Reaching the top floor, Joe began to walk into the nearly empty apartment... "Was that Chrissy moving out?"

Joe turned to see his neighbor, Cassandra, standing in her doorway. Tall, broad-shouldered and more than a little masculine-looking, the woman with the short crop of dark hair was a Radical Feminist and - usually - a genuine 'bitch'. He'd never gotten along particularly well with her, and her oddly civil tone surprised him.

"Yeah - she decided to leave."

Cassandra sighed. "Oh, Joe - I'm sorry to hear that."

Joe blinked - this certainly wasn't the arrogant Cassandra he remembered so well. "uh, thanks." He paused. "Actually - I can't say I'm all that upset, really."

Cassandra seemed shocked. "Oh? I would have thought she was your dream girl. I mean - she isn't exactly demure and subtle."

Joe smiled a lopsided grin. "Yeah, that's what I thought when I first met her. Thing is - she's never satisfied, and.. as much as I hate to say it, I just couldn't keep up with her. All the time, she just wanted to.. well, you know. It was fun, at first... but I can only take so much."

"Huh - well, what do you know." Cassandra said, shaking her head. "I guess your fantasies aren't nearly as great when they actually come true."

"Yeah." Joe agreed, still amazed at Cassandra's sudden change in character.

"Say, I noticed she practically stripped the place clean." Cassandra said, playing with her new 'bauble' - a braided leather bracelet with a strange 'stick' hanging from it.

"Yeah - I know I paid for the stuff and all, but she doesn't have a job or much money, so I let her have all the stuff she bought - it's not really my style, anyway."

"Well, why don't you come over to my place for dinner tonight?" Cassandra suggested, surprising Joe even further. "I.. don't know..." Joe hesitated.

Cassandra wiggled that stick in front of his face, mock-threateningly. "Trust me." She lowered it, and smiled. "I'm not going to bite."

It was a complete change for Cassandra - but, oddly, Joe found that he did trust her intentions - he just had the conviction that he could trust her. "Well... okay."

"Great." Cassandra said, with a smile. "Seven o'clock okay with you?" Joe nodded. "Sure, Cassandra."

She winked at him. "Well, if we're going to start being friends - why don't you just call me Cassie, Joe."

"Uh, sure.. Cassie." Joe said. Watching her go back into her apartment, Joe wondered if ever woman he knew was going to suddenly start acting as strangely as Cassie and Chrissy now were.

"I'm living in an episode of 'The Twilight Zone'." He muttered to himself, going into his apartment and closing the door.

* * * * *

"So - how was it?" Cassie asked with a smile, returning from removing the last of the plates, and placing a nice cold beer in Joe's hand.

"It was.. great." Joe said, still having a hard time believing he'd just had a thoroughly enjoyable dinner with... Cassandra. It seemed.. surreal.

"You know, we should have done this ages ago." She said, making a 'follow me' gesture and leading him into the living room, still taking over her shoulder. "I mean, I know we got off on the wrong foot and all, but I blame myself for it - I mean, I see you, and you just look like the stereotype 'jock', right down to.." She waved a hand in the direction of his crotch, where his custom-tailored pants strained over his massive organ.

"Yeah, well... I guess I made some misjudgments about you, to, because of the way you look - so I guess we're even." Joe said, flushing slightly, as he settled into the chair she'd indicated. "To tell you the truth... I was really surprised this afternoon when you were... when you started treating me..."

"Like a human being?" Cassie supplied with a self-deprecating laugh. "Don't worry about saying something that might offend me - I'm well aware of how much of a first-class bitch I've been for.. for far too long."

"Well..." Joe said, embarrassed on her account by her brutal honesty...

...but unable to find a valid counter-argument for it. She was right, after all.

"Actually, the main reason I changed my mind about you is because of Gina and Marcie." Cassie said.

Joe felt a slight chill go down his back - Gina and Marcie were best friends, and he'd dated them a few years back.

Both of them. The fact that he'd eventually been caught wasn't the amazing part - the fact that he'd actually managed to juggle the two of them for more than a month was what boggled the mind. Needless to say, when they'd parted, it hadn't been on friendly terms.

"They're the ones that changed your mind about me?" He asked, hesitantly.

"Oh, yeah - you should hear how much they rave about you. I mean - they were mad at you at first, but then they realized that they'd had more fun with you than they'd ever had before, and you'd treated them both well - even if you didn't tell them you were dating the other one. You didn't even lie to them - you just didn't tell them everything."

This was getting weirder and weirder. "I... see." Joe said, although he didn't. "And you know them...?"

"Oh - I met them while in this strange little shop. I ended up buying a really weird board game, and they came over to play it..." She blushed, and looked round as if seeing if they were being over heard, making Joe blink. "Joe, I'm not supposed to tell anyone, but since it's you... The board game is magic!"

Joe gaped. "Huh?"

"Really!" She said, nodding. "It's a magical board game designed for three people, and when you play it... well, strange things happen. Magical things."

Joe looked at her strangely.

"Hey!" Cassie said, snapping her fingers. "Gina and Marcie will be over shortly - this is when we get together for the game. Why don't you stay, and take my place?"

"Well..." Joe hesitated, thinking this was the strangest thing he'd ever heard. "Say yes." Cassie pleaded.

"Yes - sure, I'll do it." Joe said, suddenly deciding it might be fun - and he wanted to know what this whole 'magic' thing was. Just then, there was a knock at the door.

"That must be them!" Cassie said, jumping to her feet, and heading for the door.

* * * * *

As she let Marcie and Gina in, Cassie was smiling triumphantly. It had taken most of the week to find the girls, but once she had, 'setting' them to help her with her plan had been easy, thanks to the wand. Now it was time to have some 'fun'.

Gina was a tall, slender red-head with full, soft lips and huge green eyes. Marcie, on the other hand, was a petite girl with sandy-blonde hair and perky attitude. When they'd dated Joe, he couldn't decide between the two totally different - but both very attractive - women, and had ended up trying to date both. Of course, before Cassie had told them otherwise, they'd still hated him for his lies and deceptions...

..and they still did. That was the best part of her plan...

* * * * *

Joe still felt uncomfortable with his two ex-girlfriends in the room, but he'd relaxed considerable while Cassie had set up the board. After all, they hadn't seemed upset to see him, actually greeting him quite pleasantly. Now, as Cassie finished setting up the strange wooden board with it's carved figures and pile of 'cards', he thought it might turn out to be an entertaining evening after all.

"So - how's this game played, anyway?" he asked.

Gina fielded the question. "Well, I guess we'd better explain it to you. First of all, the game is magical. Really - I'm not joking. So, I'd better warn you - once the game is started, none of the players can leave the game, and nobody can interfere with the game at all. So you have to decide whether or not you're willing to risk it, before you start."

"Uh...huh " Joe said, doubtfully.

"Now " Marcie took over. "What we do is roll the dice, and then move our figures the spaces indicated. You'll see there's also yellow squares every so often - when you land on one, you pick up a card, and do what it says. That's the magic part - the most incredible things can happen. Now, the first person to get to the end wins a free wish - anything at all they want. Then we all 'reset' to the way we were before the game started. Sound easy?"

"Yeah, I guess " Joe said, hesitantly.

"Okay - I'll go first." Gina said. "Then Marcie, then you. Okay?" "Sure."

"Well then - let the game begin..." The red-head reached out and picked up the dice....

...and, with a strange 'pop', a semi-transparent 'dome' that looked like glass appeared around the three players, the coffee-table, and the game.

"What the...?" Joe said, stunned. He reached up and touched the dome.. and while it didn't feel like anything he'd ever touched before, it was obvious he wasn't going anywhere.

Gina laughed. "We told you it was magic - and that no-one could leave the game, or interfere. That's just the beginning. Come on - we're playing now."

The fiery-haired woman rattled the dice in her hand, then let them roll from her fingers and onto the coffee table. Taking her marker, she moved it forward the correct number of spaces, then handed the dice to Marcie.

Marcie also rolled and moved - and found her marked sitting on one of the 'card' spaces.

"Well - now you'll see the real magic of the game." She said, picking up a card, and reading it aloud.

" 'SPLIT ENDS: Pick any player (which can be yourself), to receive a new head of hair that is a composite of the remaining two players.' Well - since it's your first experience, Joe, I think I'll pick you."

"What is.." Joe started - then felt a strange itching sensation creep across his scalp, combined with an odd tugging sensation, as if his hair was being ruffled by an unseen wind.

"Ohhhh... I like it." Gina said with a grin, digging in her large purse. She handed Joe a mirror. "Take a look." Joe did... and gasped.

Gina had fiery red hair that fell in a mass of curls down her back. Marcie had medium-long sandy blonde hair that was straight.

Now, Joe had a head of hair that was an 'average' of the two women's styles and colors. A thick, wavy (and somewhat frizzy) mass of brassy orangish-red hair now sprouted from the head that had, until recently, boasted a mane of golden blond.

"Holy crap!" Joe said, shocked. "now.. you said that, after the game, everything goes back to normal... right?" "Right." Marcie agreed, handing across the dice. "Now it's your turn."

Still stunned by the impossible nature of the game, Joe numbly shook the dice and let them go. He moved his marker - onto a 'plain' space, then passed the dice along.

Gina's roll landed her on one of the card spaces as well, and she lifted the next card from the deck.

"TALENT CONTEST: Choose a player (not including yourself), and their voice will become that of their favorite singer." Gina shrugged. "Well, Joe - it might as well be you..."

"Wait..." Joe tried to protest - then his hands flew to his throat as a richly feminine voice slipped from between his lips... sounding remarkably like that of 'Scary' Spice, minus the British accent.

"Opps... sorry." Gina giggled. "How was I to know?"

Marcie rolled, coming up 'empty, and passed the dice on to Joe, who rolled...

...and also came up empty. The 'streak' continued onto Gina, who was at least forging ahead on the board. Then Marcie rolled - and once more picked up a card.

"FASHION STATEMENT: Any player not wearing an item made of leather will have once piece of their clothing become leather, unless the player is naked."

Joe twitched as his shirt began to writhe, and looked down at himself. He'd been wearing a black tank-top-style 'muscle shirt'... which now became a sort of leather 'vest', with black lacing through metal grommets at the neck of the new garment. He grimaced at wearing a leather top - it felt clammy against his skin - and looked at the two girls...

...neither of whom seemed affected.

"Leather shoes - both of us." Marcie explained, sticking a foot out to display her leather sandals. Gina more decorously pushed her foot to one side to display her low-heeled black leather pumps.

Taking the dice, he rolled....

...and moved his marker forward, without landing on a card space. "You sure you aren't cheating?" he asked, wincing at the rich, feminine contralto that he'd have for the rest of the game.

Gina took the dice. "It's a magic game - you can't cheat."

She rolled - then smiled and picked up a card. "POWER SHIFT: The most muscular player's musculature will be redistributed evenly among the other two players."

Almost instantly, Joe felt a strange 'shrinking' sensation. As he looked on with a disgusted look, his body's massive, toned musculature faded away, leaving him slender and svelte. He looked up to find Gina and Marcie looking over their now toned, firm bodies, the shared musculature leaving each of them with fit, strong bodies, but not overly muscled. More 'athletic' than 'body-builder'.

"I'm not sure I like this game." He groused in his feminine voice. Marcie rolled, then handed the dice to Joe...

...who finally got a card.

"About time!" he sniffed, then read the card. "SEXUALITY EQUALITY: Pick any player (including yourself), and the other two players will receive exact duplicates of that player's genitalia in place of their own."

Joe blinked, realizing what the choices were.

"Sorry gals - but a woman's voice is bad enough." He said with a grin. "I pick myself." The two women gasped... it was a disquieting sight to watch, from Joe's point of view. Gina, wearing a green dress, shifted uncomfortably, but the dress hid most of it - Marcie wasn't so lucky. She was wearing a pair of spandex knee-length biking shorts - and now the crotch bulged out obscenely, the massive organ looking even more enormous on her smaller body.

"Oh, great!" She said, staring down at the massive cock staring at the black spandex crotch of her shorts. "See - it's sometimes this, sometimes that." Gina said, shifting position again. "C'mon - let's keep playing."

Joe also got the next card, which gave him the choice of all the players either having the body hair of a Great Ape - or no body hair at all. After a bit of hemming and hawing, he chose the later, running his hand up and down his denuded legs with a wry expression while the two girls laughed and thanked him.

Though this was decidedly weird, the fact that it was only temporary was a great comfort to him - and the magical nature of the game did make it a new and interesting experience, even if there were particulars about it he wasn't too fond of.

Marcie got the next card to come up.

"WELL HEELED: Choose a player to wear and use comfortable an exact copy of the highest-heeled footwear they have ever worn in their life." She shrugged. "Well, the safe one to choose would..."

"No, don't!" Joe said, a second too late, as memory flashed... ".be Joe" Marcie finished at the exact same instant.

Joe grunted as a sudden 'crushing' sensation emanated from his feet, then vanished. Ruefully, he looked down to find his feet and legs encased in a pair of black leather boots with silver 'medallions' running down the side. The glossy black footwear had two inch platforms and eight inch heels, and encased a pair of feet significantly smaller then they'd been before.

"Why, Joe!" Gina giggled.

"When I was nine, I was looking for a Halloween costume." Joe replied, as crossly as his sweet new voice would allow. "I tried on a pair of my older sister's boots, then took them right off when I couldn't even stand in them, much less walk."

"Well, you'll have no problems now..." Marcie giggled. The next card was Gina's.

"BEST CHEST: You may increase or decrease the breast size of any player (including yourself) by choosing the player, then stating an object the breasts' size should equal. (Each)" She looked thoughtful.. then naughty. "Hey, Joe - you were always a 'big tit' guy, right?"

"Yeah, and I.." What she meant hit him "Oh, no!"

"I choose Joe - and they should be as big as medicine balls!" "Oh, shit!" Joe said, hands flying to his chest...

...which began to expand.

Helplessly, Joe pressed his hand against his swelling chest, as if he could actually stop what was happening. Steadily, the flesh under his hands continued to expand, and he shot Gina a dirty look as the mass continued to swell. In the space of a minute, his now-leather top was straining to contain a pair of enormous, firm tits the size - and almost the shape of - medicine balls.

"Oomph!" Joe said, leaning back. "These things weigh a ton!"

"Hey - now you can appreciate what it's like." Marcie said, with a grin. "Nice rack, Joe!"

Joe grimaced and looked down at the massive display of cleavage. To fit his huge new tits, he'd loosened the lacing of his leather top, which just barely managed to fit his enormous new tits, leaving an awful lot of the upper portions exposed.

"I'm gonna get you for this." He told Gina, mock threateningly - but not all that 'mock'. He shifted, trying to get used to the heavy weight of the massive, round tits hanging from his chest.

The next roll of the dice gave Marcie a card... which allowed her to change one item of clothing on any player.

She changed Joe's denim shorts into a short, puffy, purple-velvet skirt, saying that his outfit might as well match. He added her to his threatened 'get even' list, while trying to find a position to sit in that kept the breeze blowing up his new skirt to a minimum.

The next person to get a card was him... which specified the player wearing the least amount of make-up would now wear the most, leaving him wearing bright red gloss lipstick, mascara, too-heavy eye-shadow and -liner, plus blush.

By now, a 'theme' had been established in the game, and Joe definitely didn't like it - but he didn't have much choice, and it was only temporary, so he only complained shortly and grumpily as the game continued...

Finally, Marcie rolled a six... and triumphantly moved her piece into the 'Winner's Circle'.

As far as Joe was concerned, it was about bloody time - or long past. Recognizing the Gina and Marcie would not be difficult to somebody who know them, even casually - but almost nobody would connect Joe to the way he looked now.

Joe - or, using the moniker Gina and Marcie had begun using 'jokingly', Jolene - was now, physically, a woman. Bit by bit, little by little, the final changes had made her completely and utterly female.

But not necessarily a 'lovely' one. She was fairly short for a woman, but fairly broad-shouldered and slim of hip. Her waist was only middlin' narrow, and her ass bordered on huge - like the massive tits straining at her leather top. Her face was on the squarish side, but her full, thick lips and narrow nose kept it - barely - away from 'masculine'. She wasn't 'beautiful', or 'cute', but, between her massive tits, full ass, over-made-up-face and her massive man of frizzy red hair, she was a very specific type of 'sexy'.

She looked like a walking definition of 'cheap whore'. Trashy, cheap and easy. She had even ended up with a brand-new cunt to complete the change, while the muscular, taller, and now-dark-haired 'girls' still boasted massive cocks, though a bit smaller than they'd been when they first got them.

So - 'Jolene' sighed with relief when Marcie's piece made it to the end of the board, eager to get her lost manhood back. Marcie turned to Gina. "Well? Should I?"

The once red-head nodded. "Oh, definitely."

"Come on, already..." Jolene urged in her sultry new voice. "I want to get changed back!" "But we don't want you changed back." Gina said, distinctly.

Marcie laughed, unpleasantly, at the stunned look that comment pasted on Jolene's new face. "What - do you think we actually forgive you for what you did? Hell - we've been conning Cassie for the past couple of months, just biding our time until we could get you to play the game with us. Now, it's time for some pay-back."

"But..." the new woman stammered in confusion - and dawning fear.

"I wish..." Marcie stated clearly and distinctly, a wicked smile on her lips. "That Gina and I can switch between these forms, and our own bodies, at will but that Jolene will remain in the body she's in until she's had sex three thousand, six hundred and fifty times."

With that, the 'dome' surrounding the players wavered.. and vanished. The game was over.

"Wha.." Jolene stammered, staring down at the freakishly-endowed, trashy-looking body she was stuck with. "What have you done?" "Poor Joe - you always were slow on the uptake " Gina laughed, cruelly.

"Oh my God!" Cassie exclaimed as she emerged from the kitchen, where she'd been at the finale of the game. "What you haven't changed back!"

"Oh, we can change back whenever we want, you stupid cow." Gina said with a laugh. "We've been stringing you along so we could get back at this asshole!"

"Yeah!" Marcie agreed. "Now, Jolene here will have to have sex ten times a day, if she wants to be a man again in a year. The more cheap, degrading sex she has, the faster she gets changed back - the more she avoids it, the longer she's like this! It's perfect!"

"Why, you..." Jolene yelled in humiliated, horrified rage, flinging herself forward...

Gina, laughing, caught the new woman's flailing arms and held her, easily. Between the loss of muscle mass, and the weight and drag of her massive new bust, Jolene never had a chance.

"Let him.. her... let go!" Cassie demanded, striding closer...

"Don't interfere with us!" Gina snapped - and Cassie stopped dead, a look of hate on her face. "Cassie!" Jolene cried.

"She can't help you." Marcie smirked. "We've played this game before, see - and one of our previous wishes is that she has to obey us, when we will her to. Oh, and watch this..." She turned to the fuming woman. "Cassie - show him your cock."

"Please, no..." Cassie begged - but she couldn't refuse. She unzipped her jeans, and let them and her underwear slide down to mid- thigh... while Jolene watched in horror as Cassie's cunt vanished and a large, thick cock and a matching set of balls swelled outwards to replace it.

"See?" Gina laughed. "She'd almost as well endowed as we are right now!"

"Which reminds me - I want to see how it feels to use a cock." Marcie said, with a cruel laugh. "We might as well get you started on the road to recovering your manhood..."

"No!" Jolene shouted, struggling.

"Hold her down, Gina - I want to tit-fuck the bitch..." Marcie laughed.

Laying her flat on the floor, Gina used her muscular new form pin the helpless new woman in place.

"Stop!" Jolene screamed, horrified by what was happening. A few minutes ago, she'd only been mildly embarrassed, somewhat disgusted, and slightly intrigued - and had actually been having fun playing the game, despite what had happened. Now...

Undoing the lacing that held the leather top on, Marcie exposed Jolene's enormous new bust. "Better get used to it, bitch." She said as she straddled Jolene's torso. "If you ever want to be a man again, you're going to have to fuck pretty damned often."

Marcie pushed the bucking woman's massive mounds together, wrapping her large, thick cock in Jolene's deep cleavage. With a cruel smile, she began bucking her hips back and forth, driving her cock through the sweaty tunnel formed by her firm, round tits.

"oh, yes..." Marcie moaned. "This is nice..."

She began to tit-fuck faster, and Jolene's bucking and writing only hastened the inevitable conclusion.

She was screaming at the time, trying to break free - and when Marcie began to cum, a thick, warm stream of cum splattered her chest, neck and face - and some of it splattered into her open mouth.

Choking and gagging, Jolene unwillingly swallowed some of the warm, thick, salty liquid as she tried to spit it out, her face and upper torso now slick and shiny with Marcie's warm cum.

"Oh, god.. please..." Jolene sobbed, hating herself for her weakness - but it was too much, and her struggles weakened and she went limp, crying and pleading.

"My turn." Gina said, with a grin. "And I want a crack at her brand new.. crack." "No, no!" Jolene begged, tearfully. "Please, don't!"

But she wasn't even struggling anymore. Part of it was the sheer horror of the situation - but, perhaps even worse, part of it was a conscious choice on her part.

She wanted to be a man again. To be a man, she'd have to have sex - and she was already on her way. As terrible, as disgusting as this was - she'd rather be fucked by 'chicks with dicks' who were forcing themselves on her, then go out and (oh, god!) seduce men to fuck her.

So, she just closed her eyes and continued to sob as Gina positioned herself - and thrust her large, thick cock deep into her cunt. Jolene cried out, in disgust and hatred and fear...

...and please. As much as she didn't want to admit it, the feeling of a cock sliding deep into her cunt caused a burst of pleasure, and as Gina commenced driving her new equipment into Jolene's cunt over and over, that hateful pleasure continued to build.

She moaned in guilty pleasure...

"The bitch is enjoying it!" Gina laughed, fucking harder and faster while tears of shame rolled from Jolene's eyes...

...and moans of pleasure rolled from her throat. It felt, physically, fantastic to have somebody fucking her - and the better it felt, physically, the worse it felt, emotionally...

...so, when she reached screaming, writhing, mind-boggling orgasm, it was in a deep, overwhelming cloud of shame and despair.

"Oh, yes!" Gina screamed as her cock filled the new woman's cunt with a stream of cum. "Jolene, baby - you're one great fuck!"

Laughing, Gina withdrew her spent cock from the new woman's cunt. The two women then willed themselves back into their regular female forms and gathered up the game while Jolene lay sobbing and Cassie stood, helpless.

"Ta ta, bitch." Marcie called as they headed out the door. "We'll drop by now and then and see how much your skills have improved."

Then they were gone - and Cassie was free to move. She rushed over to the new woman, peeling off her clothes and using the fabric of her T-shirt and panties to wipe as much of the cum splattering Jolene's body as she could.

"Oh, Jo...lene." Cassie said, gathering the shaking woman's body into her arms. "I'm so, so sorry. I.. I didn't know that they.. Oh, God, I just want to die..."

In the midst of her shame and loathing, the other woman's voice and words struck a chord.

"No..." Jolene said, tears slowly fading. More strongly, she repeated the denial. "No - this isn't your fault. They.. they fooled us both. You... were trying to help."

"No, no!" Cassie denied. "It's all my fault. If it wasn't for me, this would never have happened. I... I don't think I could possibly... be around you, reminding you what I've done to you.."

"No!" Jolene said, sharply, drawing Cassie's attention. Jolene swallowed nervously. "I... I hate to... but.. .I'm going to have to.. have.. sex."

It was a struggle to force herself to say the words, but she forced them out.

"I.. I would.. rather have sex with.. you, then with a man." Jolene managed to explain. "I.. I'll probably have to have sex with men, too.. but.. whenever I can, I'd like to..."

"Oh, no..." Cassie said, horrified. "I.. We... No, after what happened her, I.. I'd love to help, but I don't think I could ever get.. aroused. Physically. You know..." She shook her head. "It.. would be best if I just.. left you alone.."

"No!" Jolene said - more than just the sex, the thought of being alone and without aid while trapped like this scared the hell out of her. She couldn't bare the thought. "You.. can learn to get past this.. problem. And.. until then..."

Then, stomach churning, Jolene used the only 'argument' she could think of.

Sliding down, she twisted around so that her huge tits were pressed firmly against Cassie's legs...

...and took her large, limp cock between her lips. "Jolene!" Cassie said, shocked.

Jolene wasn't exactly thrilled with what she was doing, either - but it had to be done, for several reasons. She needed to have sex to change back into a man, and this would count. She'd rather have sex with Cassie than a man, so she had to get Cassie 'comfortable' with this...

..and, to make sure that Cassie never abandoned her, Jolene needed to keep Cassie happy, and knew how good a blow-job could feel.

Though her bile churned at what she was doing, Jolene forced herself to continue. Her lips, tongue and hands had brought Cassie's cock to iron-hard life, and now she began bobbing her full, gloss-red lips up and down the shaft, forcing her disgusted mind to remember details of the best blow-jobs she'd ever gotten herself.

She then forced herself to use them as best she could. She had no experience in sucking cock, of course, and this first blow-job wasn't exactly phenomenal.. but somewhere, in the back of her mind, she was becoming resigned to the fact that she would have to be an expert at this, and other types of sexual acts, before she could ever be male again. She'd have to learn how to act feminine enough to get by, day to day, and she'd have to learn how to seduce men.

To ever be male again, she'd have to voluntarily become more feminine.

As horrifying as all this was, at least she'd have her new - and now best - friend Cassie, to help her...

* * * * *

As she gasped and flooded the huge-breasted red-heads mouth with a gusher of cum, Cassie was smiling cruelly, since Jolene couldn't see it.

Her revenge was perfect. Not only was Joe now Jolene, a trashy, huge-breasted woman who would have to have sex quite often - but Jolene was going to be degrading herself, willingly, for Cassie, quite often.

And best of all - the dumb bitch was actually grateful to her for it!

Setting it up so that Gina and Marcie where the 'villains', and she only another helpless victim was a stroke of genius.

She would have to keep it in mind, she thought... as she played with the wand hanging from her wrist and wondered who else deserved a little lesson....

BACK TO FUN ZONE

© 1997 - 2016 TGstories.

Stories on the "Public Access" pages may be Copyright by individual authors.

Home | Membership | Terms & Conditions | Privacy Policy | Contact

HOME DATE POSTED OUR STORIES PUBLIC STORIES SIGNATURE SERIES NEW MEDIA EMAIL US

SUMMARY: Excited about finally getting into the exclusive club, one guy really isn't paying attention when he is given a card to use inside...but things soon start to change as it becomes clear that he has been chosen to be transformed into a night club bimbo.

Making Mandi

By Gunslinger

The boyish, auburn-haired young man had not only been queued in line for over an hour, but had been at the head of the line for nearly half of that time. Nevertheless, more than a dozen people had been waved in ahead of him by the bouncer.

Frustrating as it might have been, Adam not only understood the standard operating procedure - he actually agreed with it. After all, Shifters was the hottest new nightclub in town, and 'regular schlubs' like Adam only got in if the maximum capacity of the club had not already been met by all the 'beautiful people' who were waved in on sight by the bouncer.

Shivering slightly in his olive drab t-shirt, jeans, and sneaker combo, Adam was nevertheless content - because when he did get in, it would be into a club full of all those hot babes the bouncer had been waving in all night.

Oh, sure, there were also the 'studs' who had been allowed in, meaning Adam would have some pretty stiff competition... but even if Adam didn't manage to 'hook up' with a girl tonight, at least he would have a few hours' worth of high-end eye candy to enjoy.

Just then, the bouncer watched two of the beautiful people - a couple, clearly - emerge from the club and head off into the night...

...and Adam, and the lucky guy behind him, were invited to enter with a bored wave of the shaven-headed bouncer's hand.

Stepping through the door, the rangy auburn-haired nineteen-year-old found himself in a curving hallway - almost immediately, just from the design, it became obvious that the club had been laid out in a series of concentric rings, with a circular dance-floor presumable in the middle, (given the heavy club music coming from somewhere in the middle of the club). As it was, the corridor Adam found himself in had a curved black/green/gold on his right side, defining the outside of this particular 'circle'. The inner wall, on his left, was made up of glass blocks; transparent enough that Adam could make out that the next 'ring' was a lounge-type bar setting, but the blocks distorted too much for him to make out any details.

A gap in the glass-block wall a short way down the curved corridor would allow Adam to verify his assumptions - but between he and it lay a 'checkpoint'. It was a marble, glass and chrome desk taking up half the hallway, with a bar-type barrier, controlled by the person at the desk, blocking the other half of the passage.

Adam's eyes, however, were on the woman at the desk.

She was very attractive, in a sort of athletic, professional sort of way. The 'professional' part should have been emphasized, considering that she was wearing a security guard's uniform... but the fact that said uniform was made out of skin-tight latex, it sort of emphasized the 'sexy' part even more.

Still, her face held a 'real guard' non-expression as she gestured to a stack of what almost looked like a multi-colored selection of credit cards.

"Please choose a passcard and enable to your partner." She instructed them in a clear, pleasant voice.

"Ex...cuse me?" The other guy who had been waved in stammered, looking at Adam in a mute appeal for an explanation - but Adam had none to give.

"Pairs only." She instructed them, with a small sigh. "Two people enter, two people leave - that's the rule. If you can find somebody... 'interested' enough, they can swap passcards with your partner, allowing you to leave with them. That, however, would be up to the four of you - both pairs - to arrange. Otherwise, neither of you can leave without the other."

"Um..." Adam prevaricated.

The sexy, latex-clad guard lifted one finely-shaped eyebrow. "It's already in play, gentlemen - either you both take a card, or neither of you get in."

The two young men hesitated - and then Adam, with an almost helplessly 'what else could we do?' smile at the somewhat older blond, quickly grabbed the top card, all while introducing himself to the other man.

The blond, taking the time to find a card he liked, introduced himself as Hank - at twenty-two, he was new in town, and hadn't realized that Shifters was likewise a new arrival. This brief biography was given as they approached the little double-slotted machine on the desk.

As he inserted his card into the appropriate slot, Adam realized with a bit of a flush that he had grabbed one that was a rather garish combination of pink and black. A quick glance at Hank's card revealed that the other man had chosen a 'gold card'.

A closer look at his own card revealed that Adam's garish rectangle of plastic was done up like a gag credit card:

Now actually blushing, Adam quickly tucked the 'PlastiPleasure Credit Card' into the back pocket of his jeans, hoping Hank hadn't noticed.

"Well, I guess one way or another, we'll be seeing each other later, huh?" Hank said, as they passed through the checkpoint.

"Yeah, guess so..." Adam replied, more than a bit vaguely - rounding the wall into the 'lounge ring', he was already looking forward to seeing some of the eye-candy that had passed him in the line while...

Adam - and, he eventually realized, Hank as well - had come to a dead stop just inside the lounge, gaping like yokels.

The women who had passed Adam and Hank in line had been 'sexy young women all dolled up for a night at the club' hot. Some of the women they now saw still were - say, maybe half.

The other half of the women present, on the other hand, were stripper/pornstar/fetish model/'I want a cock to service, and I want it right now!' hot.

"Yeah. Later." Hank said in a flat, distracted voice, even as he began drifting off in one direction - and, equally bemused, excited, and aroused, Adam drifted off in the other.

In his approximately seven years of sexual male life experience, Adam had never even imagined so many insanely hot chicks in one place, much less ever seen it in reality - until now.

There were the hot college girls, out for a flirty/naughty night on the town. There were 'off duty' strippers so proud of their often-enhanced figures that they were out showing them off. There were cougars and MILFS, bimbos and sluts and vamps and baby-girls...

...and there was competition. Serious competition.

As in, the guys that made up almost exactly half the club's current population looked, dressed, and acted exactly like the type of guys you would expect in a club full of insanely hot women.

Which meant, Adam began to realize with a sinking feeling, that an 'average joe' like him probably had absolutely no chance at all...

"Aw, don't you look sad..." A warm, sensuous voice cooed, practically in his ear.

Turning quickly, Adam quickly discovered why that was - though of average height herself, the sexy woman wearing what looked like a cross between a diner waitress' uniform and a sexy French maid outfit was perched atop extremely high platform heels, putting her mouth at just about the level of Adam's ear...

...and her rather bountiful cleavage at a very easy-to-view height.

"Already out of drinks on your own card, and can't get anybody to pony up for you...?" The... cocktail waitress?

...continued, in a sexily sympathetic voice.

"Huh? Drinks? Card?" Adam stammered - although, in his defense, he was being distracted by a stunningly décolletage.

"Oh, a new one... Mmmm, I just love new ones " The waitress all-but-moaned, sensuously. She smiled, and then explained: "Seven drinks, love - that's what's pre-loaded on every card. It's not just drinks, here - it's, well call it 'motivation', shall we?"

She chuckled, low in her throat, as if at a private joke.

"Use them for yourself? Or give them to a girl in hopes of.. well, you know. Usually, regulars know which they are planning for, and pick a card appropriately - each card only buys certain types of drinks, you see. So - which card di you pick ?"

"Well, I didn't know any of this, so I really didn't pick it " Adam tried to explain, blushing as he fished the card out of his pocket and handed it over. "It was just the top card, you see, and. "

"Oh..." The waitress gasped, clearly struggling not to giggle. "Oh, my "

"Um "

"This is actually a card very much in demand." The waitress assured him, quickly.

"Er - for 'buying for myself', or for 'buying for a girl' ?" Adam asked.

She blinked, then smiled.

"All depends on who picks it - and what they are hoping to have happen " The waitress replied, with a smile as enigmatic as her words. "So - drink?"

"Ah, yeah - sure " Adam replied. "Er - what kinds of drinks can I get?"

Still with that strange little smile, the waitress fished into a pouch of her frilly apron, and emerged with a little plastic-coated card, about the size of a 4x6 photo. On each side of the card, six drinks were listed, a total of a dozen drinks Adam could buy with the PlastiPleasure Card.

"You can hold on to that..." She informed Adam, as he perused the options.

They were all, perhaps quite predictably, 'Girly' drinks. Although pretty standard cocktails, Shifters had given each an equally girly-girl name, as well.

"I'll have... er, a 'Bouncy Bubble Blitz'." Adam decided, choosing the champagne-and-cranberry cocktail... which, given the ingredients, was of course, pink. "No umbrella, please."

"You got it, honey..." The waitress purred, then headed off, carrying Adam's card with her. Looking around, Adam spied a tiny, unoccupied table off to one side. The tiny club tables were high enough to comfortably use while standing, but also had high barstools, and it was onto one of these that Adam perched, enjoying the view as he waited for his drink. In fact, he was enjoying it so much, that he didn't notice the waitress placing the drink and his card on the table. When he did spot it, Adam slid the card into his pocket, picked up the drink, and began absent-mindedly sipping it as he watched the hot babes wiggle, flirt, jiggle, dance and giggle their way around the room.

Considering all the hot, and mostly scantily-clad feminine flesh he was eyeing, Adam didn't find it all that surprising when the denim fabric over his crotch began to feel a little... constricting.

No, it wasn't even the fact that the fabric over his crotch went from 'constricting' to 'tight' to 'extremely uncomfortable' that broke his attention - it was the fact that the fabric was pulled equally tight across his hips and ass that finally broke the sensual spell cast by the bevy of bounteous, beautiful babes.

"What the hell...?" Adam muttered, putting aside the now-empty glass as he tried to surreptitiously determine what the hell was going on with his jeans. Had they somehow mysteriously shrunk from just above the knee and up, leaving the bottom half unaffected?

But it didn't seem to be the jeans at all - it was with the flesh underneath the denim that something was... wrong.

Maybe 'wrong' wasn't the right word - aside from the overly tight fit of his jeans, Adam wasn't in any pain, nor did he even feel awkward. It was just that something was undeniably different.

Adam's hips, and even his thighs, felt... thicker? ...bulkier? No, that wasn't right, because he didn't feel 'heavy' or 'burdened', and neither hips nor thighs felt blocky or chunky; indeed, his hands found smoothly flowing curves under the straining denim. They were simply more emphatic curves than he was used to feeling.

Now, Adam's ass, on the other hand...

Weirdly, it didn't feel 'swollen' to Adam, the way a bee sting or bruise did; it also didn't feel uncomfortable, or out-of-balance. It was, however, considerably more intense a level of 'strange' than Adam's hips or thighs.

Finally giving up on any attempt at being 'surreptitious', Adam jumped down off of the barstool, twisted his torso to the left, and then cranked his neck and head all the way around to peer over his own right shoulder:

For a long moment, Adam held the awkward pose, simply staring at his own ass, his face blank. Finally, still unemotional, he relaxed into a more comfortable standing position.

"Huh..." He remarked to himself in a conversational tone of voice: "Woulda thought I'd be a little more freaked out to find myself with a huge, round, definitely feminine-looking ass..."

"Oh, well, all of Shifters drinks have the appropriate mood-stabilizing chemicals in them," helpfully explained the man who, passing by on the way to the bar, had overheard Adam's self-directed comment and considerately stopped to answer.

"Oh...?" Adam asked - a bit bemused to find, under the circumstances, that curiosity was the strongest emotion he was feeling at the moment.

"Oh, my, yes - the entire point of Shifters is enjoyment... albeit generally of a very specific subset." He paused for a quick, leering grin. "Perhaps it has yet to dawn on you that you have not had to actually pay for anything? No, the mixed coven, male and female, that run Shifters are only interested in one 'currency' - sexual pleasure."

"Wow... I guess I can get behind that..." Adam chuckled, eyeing the man - who, Adam realized, reminded him a lot of those old movie stars like Clark Gable and Errol Flynn. He had that sort of debonair panache, the fashion sense - even a neatly waxed little moustache.

"Speaking of behinds..." 'Clark Flynn' chuckled, "...yours is really rather spectacular. Especially with those nicely rounded out hips and smoothly shaped thighs to provide the perfect mountings for such a spectacularly round, outthrust 'bubble butt'."

Despite that strange sense of groggy contentment, Clark Flynn's blatant appreciation for this feminine ass made Adam angry enough that he opened his mouth to tell the other man off...

...but he never got the chance, because for some inexplicable reason, just as Flynn finished the highly insulting 'compliment', Adam's cock randomly decided to go ahead and get rock-hard.

Well, that is, it tried.

In Adam's already uncomfortably-too-tight jeans.

The result of which was Adam groaning in pain, hunching over and clutching at his crotch as he staggered aimlessly through the ring-like lounge, trying desperately not to notice any of the super-sexy women who would, at this particular moment, only make things worse if they were to come on to him.

Which was a thought Adam never expected to have...

"Card...?" A voice asked, and, gasping and finding it difficult to concentrate, Adam realized he'd come up against the bar. Taking a deep breath, he very carefully straightened; the pain having dissuaded his erection, it was merely uncomfortable, rather than cock-crushingly agonizing.

"I... beg your pardon...?" He stammered, trying to gather his wits. He knew he had gotten very angry at that guy... but couldn't quite get his mind to cough up the memory of why. He also seemed to remember being surprised about... something about the way he looked. What that 'something' was, however, he couldn't quite recall. He was trying to do a sort of mental inventory of his body, trying to see if anything seemed out of place, and he was just beginning to think it might have something to do with his backside, so he began to look over his shoulder...

"Look, did you want a drink or not?" The female bartender asked - pleasantly enough, but with a pointed enough edge to drag his attention back to her."

"Uh, yeah, a drink..." He muttered, struggling to get both card and menu out of a back pocket that seemed exceedingly tight. Why on earth would it be so hard to get something out of his back pocket...?

...but he could worry about that on his own time, as the bartender was still waiting with forced patience. Still feeling decidedly out-of-focus, he looked over the card and made a decision: "I'll take the Lickable Ladyfinger Liqueur."

Soon enough, it and the card were placed on the bar in front of him. As far as he could tell, it was simple four ladyfingers - narrow vanilla wafers covered in milk chocolate - stuck into a 'rocks' glass full of Tequila Rose, a strawberry cream liqueur.

"Good choice, Amanda - it tastes like Neapolitan ice-cream if you use the ladyfingers to scoop the liqueur." "Oh, well..." he started to reply - then blinked. "Er... what did you call me?"

"Amanda - just like on your card." She replied. He looked down at the pink-and-black card...

"Uh, yeah... thanks..." Amanda said, feeling a little confused - wasn't his name... shorter? Oh, well - he'd worry about that after he figured out whatever it was he'd been thinking about before ordering this drink."

Tucking his card back into his pocket, Amanda picked up the Lickable Ladyfinger Liqueur and, following the bartender's suggestion, did find that it tasted like Neapolitan ice cream if you 'drank'/ate it that way...

"Enjoy it?" The bartender asked, as Amanda placed the empty glass on the bar...

...but Amanda didn't answer - because he was too busy staring at his hand.

Well He was too busy staring at the hand he found gracing the end of his arm, at any rate:

"Wait..." Amanda said, confusion evident in his voice, as well as discomfort - but no fear or panic, although Amanda felt there ought to be some, for some reason. "Um... my hand. It... it isn't supposed to look like this... is it?"

The bartender lightly cupped Amanda's hand in her own, eyeing the slender appendage with a critical eye.

"I don't see anything wrong with this hand." She finally said, looking at Amanda with a 'what am I supposed to be seeing?' expression on her face.

"Well, but, er..." Amanda stammered - certain that there was something very, very different about this hand compared to a while ago, but unable to pin down what, exactly, was triggering that certainty. "The... the nails, perhaps?"

"Hmmm... Nice and long, perfectly shaped, flawless coating of glossy, hot-pink nail polish..." she enumerated, watching Amanda carefully for the reaction.

"Yes, well - I mean, yes, it's a lovely hand..." Amanda was forced to agree, despite his confusion and growing sense that several things about the situation were somehow... off, in some as-yet indefinable way.

Staring at the still-extended hand, Amanda was completely unaware of the almost wicked grin on the bartender's face as, eyes locked on his face to gauge just how well the looks-and-tastes-like-a-cocktail magic potion was affecting the person who currently helplessly thought of himself as 'Amanda'.

"Not just 'lovely'... sexy..." she probed, carefully. "I imagine any man would be completely happy getting a handjob from such a playfully sexy hand."

She then grinned triumphantly as, practically automatically, tone of voice completely distracted, Amanda answered: "Oh, of course. These hands would be completely at home working a nice thick, hard cock to orgasm

- no doubt about it..."

Then, forcing his sluggish mind to heel, Amanda rallied: "Still, I'm sure that there's something..." "Hey, hey - bumped into each other sooner than expected, huh Ad... um... I mean, Amanda..."

Train of thought derailed by the interruption, Amanda turned to see the guy he'd been 'paired' with standing there, a somewhat confused look on his face.

'Thank God!', Amanda thought - somebody who knew what he'd looked like when he'd entered, and so could tell if anything looked somehow 'different', as Amanda's back-brain kept trying to insist.

"Hey, I'm glad you're here, Hank - I've been feeling strange, and..."

"Whoa, whoa, whoa...!" The blond interrupted, holding up a hand. "What did you just call me?" "Er... 'Hank'?" Amanda replied, confused.

The blond - who, come to think of it, was better looking and more expensively dressed than Amanda had initially realized - handed over his card: "Does this say 'Hank' on it, Amanda?"

The blond's reaction drowning out the feeling that 'Amanda' was somehow too long a name, Amanda looked at what had been handed to him: a genuine Americans Impressed Gold Card, issued to Hunk Richman.

"Oh, my god, Hunk - I'm so sorry...! I must have misheard you!" Amada stammered, blushing in mortified humiliation at having gotten the name of a Gold Card holder wrong. How could he have let this happen, Amada couldn't help but wonder, writhing in humiliation - after all, Gold Card holders were... were... were so impressive. Doubly so to Americans, such as Amanda himself - after all, America was a capitalist society that put value on wealth, and so Gold Card Holders were, well.. practically American Royalty!

...and Amanda had gotten his name wrong.

Humiliated, desperately needing a moment to recover from his massive faux pas, Amanda of course did nothing to dissuade Hunk when he began fondling Amanda's incredible round, girlish ass. As humiliating and disgusting as Amada found it to have a man fondling his huge 'bubble butt', it was minimal repayment for Amanda's goof. Still, to cover his extreme discomfort at Hunk's touch, Amanda went ahead and ordered another drink...

...only to have two drinks placed on the bar in front of him as the bartender whisked Amanda's card away.

"The other one's from me..." Hunk said, casually, still fondling Amanda's huge, taut ass-cheeks. It was especially humiliating, as Amanda was discovering that, emotional disgust aside, it actually felt really, really good.

"Well, I'd just ordered my own..." Amanda said, weakly - because, after all, one did not actually say the word 'no' to an American Impress Gold Card holder.

"Yeah, well, I figured a drink was a fair trade for that hand down my pants..." Hunk said... only, squirming in humiliation and unwanted pleasure, Amanda did not notice that the town of voice was strained and confused, and that Hunk's face expressed disbelief at his own words.

The bartender - and many of the new club's already-regular clientele - were watching the little game play out, smiling broadly at the struggle against the power of the (in the final analysis, completely harmless) magical spells still weaving themselves around the pair.

Which is how, blushing furiously, Amanda found himself standing at the bar, outthrust ass being vigorously fondled by Hunk's left hand, his own right hand slipped down into Hunk's trousers to gently stroke and caress Hunk's large, slowly hardening cock... leaving Amanda's own left hand free to handle the drinks placed before him.

Even as he reached for a drink - Hunk's, of course - Amanda realized that he couldn't quite pin down why what was happening was so disgusting and humiliating; a sexy hand was fondling a big, thick cock, and a strong male hand was eagerly fondling a sexy, feminine ass. What, exactly, was causing Amanda to feel this way...?

Putting the thought aside for the moment, Amanda downed the drink, which the bartender had identified as a 'California Goldrush'; to Amanda, it seemed to be a California 'champagne' mixed with Goldschläger. Pausing only long enough to belch out some of the cinnamon-flavored carbonation from the Goldrush, Amanda moved right on to the drink taken from his girly-girl menu of free booze: something called a 'Blower's Blessing'.

Amanda hadn't any idea what type of cocktail such a name would indicate, but he figured it made sense once he'd downed it - because the pink liquid not only tasted like bubble-gum, but it turned out that there was actually one of those larger-sized candy-coated balls bubble-gum, hiding in the bottom of the snifter. As the gumball was itself pink, Amanda hadn't noticed it in the somewhat milky pink liquid... and so it came as a complete surprise, the large gumball actually slipping deep into the back of his throat before Amanda even knew it was there.

"Ack!" Amanda gurgled, mouth popping open into a wide 'O' of surprise as he began trying to get the gumball currently stuck in his throat to go in one direction or the other. Instead, the flexing of Amanda's throat muscles simply seemed to cause the gumball to slide back and forth, rising higher and lower in his throat.

Smiling, the bartender watched Hunk as he, in turn, watched the expression on Amanda's face as the steadily changing young man continued 'deep throating' the gumball... and, from the expression on Amanda's face, the Bartender knew that the changing young man was finding himself enjoying the sensation, even as the magic kept him from consciously considering how much like the bulbous head of a cock the now pleasure-causing gumball could be considered.

Amanda, for his part, wasn't even conscious of keeping his lips open in a perfect circle - even as he was too busy feeling the guilty pleasure to notice that those open lips were themselves changing. Wide-opened eyes rolling in confused shock and startled pleasure, Amanda desperately tried to identify the strange, silky sensations that, in fact, marked his hair not only growing much longer and silkier, but shifting color steadily towards a lighter, golden shade...

Finally, confused and excited and embarrassed and aroused, Amanda pushed the gumball all the way out into his mouth... were, almost mindlessly, he began to chew on the sweet-tasting bubble-gum, unaware of just how much of his diminished mental acuity he was using up in the simple task of chewing gum.

"Um, um, uh, um " Amanda stammered, wondering why his voice sounded so oddly high and breathy to his own ears, but more concerned with brushing hair out of his face.

Was his hair always this long? Hadn't it been a different color... sometime? and his face, it seemed oddly smooth to the touch of his delightfully slender, sexy hand; the curves and contours so delicate and femininely formed...

Was that normal? Was that how it was supposed to be? Amanda couldn't tell...

"Um, er - Hunk...?" Amanda hazarded in his breathy, embarrassingly girlish voice. "I... I don't... feel right. I I think we should leave "

"Naw We just got in!" Hunk announced, confidently. "C'mon, let's each have at least one more drink, okay?"

"Yeah, sure " Amanda muttered - not wanting one, as the alcohol only seemed to make his confusion worse, but unable to refuse such an impressive Cardholder. All Amanda was certain of was the fact that he didn't want a second dose er, helping of a drink he'd already had, although he couldn't have said why the thought of a second of any should cause a reflective spurt of something much like panic.

So, Amanda ordered something called a 'Heavenly Heights', while Hunk had one called, of all things, the "Big Shot".

Hunk's turned out, to Amanda's eyes, to be nothing but a triple scotch - whereas Amanda's own drink was a tall, slender glass of a liquid that was milky pink for the bottom third, and milky white for the rest of the glass.

They downed the drinks, and then Amanda nodded.

"Okay - now we leave." She announced, damning her 'Marilyn Monroe' voice even as she marshalled enough of her scattered wits for decisive action. "Come on."

Despite the fluttering in his gut from ordering around a Cardholder, Amanda set out with the most authoritative stride she could manage.

"Damn !" Hunk said appreciatively, following Amanda across the floor. "I don't know how the hell you manage that in those heels, but baby, your ass is driving me insane!"

Startled by a momentary flare of horror and anger at Hunk's sweetly unsolicited compliment, Amanda peered down at herself, trying to figure out what was 'noteworthy' enough about her walk to garner Hunk's delightfully raunchy attention, even if...

What the hell...?!

Staring down at the long, shapely legs her tight-fitting denim miniskirt revealed so delightfully, Amanda tried to figure out when and how she had ended up in such a ridiculously high pair of pink platform pumps with satin-strap cross-lacing so sexy, that just thinking about the swivel and sway such heels would impart to her hips and ass was enough to get her heavenly pussy all hot and wet...

Wait...

...what...?

...pussy?!

"Holy shit!" Amanda stammered, one oh-so-sexy hand darting beneath the skirt to brush over the black French-cut panties covering her wet-and-ready new womanhood.

It was a 'new' womanhood... wasn't it? She was a guy... or had been, before...

...before...

...before she had... well, she couldn't quite remember.

"Something wrong, babe...?" A deep voice asked, amused - and Amanda whipped her head around, feeling her silky mane of pale-gold hair float around her lovely face as she stared in shock at the massive, muscular example of manhood packed into a hand-crafted Italian suit.

"Hunk...? I.... This... isn't right..." Amanda stammered, confused, even as she found her sultry blue eyes sliding down to the wonderfully oversized bulge straining the tailored silk of his trousers. "Please, we have to... there's something..."

She knew there was something she'd been thinking about, something important... but, in the presence of such an impressive specimen, such a wealthy mass of masculinity, a real hunk of a rich man... well, thinking about anything but the obvious desire to submit herself to such a dominant example of masculinity was, of course, extremely difficult.

"Whoa, hey, no need to panic..." Hunk replied, easily, already making her feel much better as he slipped one strong arm around her, squeezing her oh-so-squeezable ass. He leaned forward...

...and just kind of 'hovered' there for the couple of seconds it took Amanda to realize he was waiting for a kiss.

Which was... reasonable. So, somewhat awkwardly, she complied, doing her honest - if inexperienced - best to make sure he enjoyed it. That was, after all, the important thing, because Gold Cardholders, well... they got what they wanted, of course.

The fact that she found the kiss not only incredibly enjoyable, but a sharp reminder of how much she would also enjoy sinking to her knees, eagerly ripping open those expensive pants, and oh-so-joyfully giving herself over to the task of servicing his magnificent manhood with her willing mouth...

Gasping, Amanda somehow managed to wrench her thoughts away from the oh-so-enticing fantasy... to find, while struggling with her own mind and compulsions, unsure which she should be welcoming and which she should be rejecting, Hunk had taken her card and gone and bought her another drink with it.

"I... I don't..." Amanda struggled to articulate concerns that she, herself, wasn't even sure existed. "Something about staying here, in the club... about drinking and, you know..."

Amanda's blush deepened as, making a jerking motion with one fisted hand, she held it first near her open mouth... then, blushing even more deeply, down near her crotch... and, finally, now beet-red, moving the back- and-forthing hand so that it was aimed at her spectacular, wonderfully fuckable ass...

...or was that one of the thoughts she was supposed to be fighting to keep away, rather than desperately trying to make a reality?

Considering the question, Amanda tried to explain her concerns to Hunk:

"I mean, even my name... something seems wrong with it..." She explained in her breathless, 'Eager Sex Kitten' voice, as she idly handed the now-empty glass back to Hunk. Without really thinking about it, one hand began to absent-mindedly rub at where a pleasurable sensation of warmth was spreading through her chest.

"Oh - how so...?" Hunk asked, smiling as he stared at a shirt that, in the back of her mind, Amanda noted seemed to be quite a bit tighter fitting than she remembered it being.

"It... feels like it's too long..." Amanda admitted in shame, knowing how silly it sounded. When Hunk didn't immediately answer, Amanda began to nervously play with her long, golden spill of silken hair, wondering why Hunk was staring so avidly at her chest like that. All things considered, it was almost unavoidable that she would glance down to follow Hunk's gaze...

"Boobs." Amanda said, slowly, a pretty pout of confusion on her wholly feminine face. "I have... boobs. Tits, actually - huge, round, fake-looking tits."

"You sure do, Mandi baby!" Hunk said, big hands reaching out to fulfill their destiny of being filled with tits scaled to such a massive, rich, incredibly well-hung man...

...and Mandi recoiled, almost falling off her skyscraper heels as she stared around her in confusion, trying to pin down the series of alarms ringing in her brain. Dozens of signals screamed at her to pay attention to notice what was so horribly, humiliatingly wrong with this situation... yet, try as she might, Mandi couldn't identify what those screaming signals were trying to warn her about. Something was certainly very, very 'off'... but she didn't know what!

"Leaving!" Mandi suddenly blurted out, a tremendous effort of will bringing her at least marginally back on track. "We... we were leaving!"

"Yeah, we were..." Hunk agreed, eyeing her with a lust that made her stomach flutter and her pussy twitch. Struggling to ignore the desire to simply surrender herself to the task of servicing Hunk any way he wanted, she instead wiggled, jiggled and swayed atop her wonderfully tall heels toward the door, aware of Hunk's eyes on her luscious legs and awesome ass as she led the way.

They reached the security checkpoint - and the cute guard ('I love her outfit, I wonder if I can get on just like it, but in pink...?') smiled warmly at the familiar sight of a super-horny, super-sexy hetero couple eager to get someplace where they could fuck each other's brains out ('Although it'll just be luck if I orgasm, because I'm nothing, it's all about Hunk's pleasure...'), just like all the other couples who left the club - regardless of who or what they might have been when they came in.

Of course, the guard mused, it could all change again on the next visit, which is what made it all so much fun - sooner or later, just about everybody went through just about every possible role, given enough time...

For now, however, the guard merely waited breathlessly to see what the hot new blonde chick was going to do. The massive model of masculinity was obviously completely enveloped in his role - it wouldn't even occur to him to turn in 'his' card, since he believed it implicitly.

The buxom blonde, however, was clearly still struggling - and so the outcome of the evening hung in the balance as, avidly, the guard watched Mandi swipe 'her' card to open the barrier...

...and then, as the guard's smile widened, Mandi absently began to perform the motion that would deposit her credit card into her purse.

The fact that she didn't actually have a purse wasn't important - because, as she finished stepping through the gate, card still voluntarily in her possession, the magic let out the final ripple... and Mandi tucked her card into her little clutch purse, then turned to smile at Hunk.

"Hey, lover-boy..." Mandi Pleasure purred, smoothing her pink-and-black spandex club dress over her exaggerated, sexual curves. She slipped into a provocative little pose, one hand playing with her hair as she gave him her most sultry, come-hither look. "In case you haven't noticed, I'm so very eager to... 'blow' this place in favor of someplace more... private".

A tiny vestige of Hank, buried in the temporary identity of Hunk, knew the truth, knew who 'Mandi' had once been... but between that body, in that pose, and those words in that tone of voice, neither Hank nor Hunk gave a damn as he eagerly accepted Mandi's sensuously explicit offer of... well, herself.

Summary: When a Latin teacher flunks one of his students, he discovers that the student has magical powers and he is transformed into his fuckable date.

Making The Grade

By Gunslinger

I stood, waiting in the glorious June sunshine, just outside the venerable oak doors to the Campus Library. The warmth of the day sank through my blue chambray shirt, raising a faint, pleasant sweat, and I relaxed and tried not to contemplate what it was I was here for.

Then, my respite was over, as those doors swung open, and Garrett Kaiser came out, his lean form hesitating in the doorway, as he blinked at the bright light. I stepped forward, and extended my hand.

"Hi, Garrett. Can I talk to you for a few minutes?" I asked, as he took my out-stretched hand and shook it. He idly ran his hand through his dense mop of black hair.

He looked at me with the serious expression that seemed a permanent fixture of his blandly handsome face. "Sure, Mr. Brooks. We can talk on the way to my dorm."

I fell in step beside him, trying to keep pace with the long stride of his lanky frame. I found myself wondering how he could stand the heat in his customary outfit of black jeans and baggy, dark-gray "U of SoCal" sweatshirt. I cleared my throat, and broached the subject delicately.

You know" I said awkwardly, "I usually enjoy my job as a Latin Teacher. This is one of the last remaining private high-schools that still carries it as a required credit. It's not an easy subject, but most students struggle through it gamely.

You're one of the few who actually seemed to enjoy it."

He glanced at me oddly as we reached the door to his Dorm. The House Mistress, Mrs. Denalto, stood on the step tacking up a sign- out sheet, looking remarkably like Robert Deniro in drag. Realizing I was babbling, I cleared my throat, feeling awkward.

I remained silent as Garrett led me up to his room, and invited me in. I sat, stiffly, on the edge of his crisply made bed, and he sunk into the chair of his worn student's desk. "Please, go on." He asked, his face as bland as ever. This wasn't going to get any easier.

"Garrett," I said, deciding to be blunt, "I'm afraid you failed the exam."

He sat perfectly still for a minute, digesting this news. He blinked once, and asked "I flunked?" For the first time, a hint of emotion crept into his voice. His gaze slid upwards, and he absentmindedly stared at one of the well-done drawings of women that was his hobby. "I flunked Latin?"

I sighed. Garrett was somewhat of a loner, and although he did play for the soccer team, and very well, he was innately studious, passing most days in the library. Aside from my Basic Latin course, his grades were remarkable. This had to be a blow to him. "Look," I said sympathetically, "Your written skills are excellent, but the way you mispronounce the words, and use the incorrect grammar means that I had to..."

He suddenly spun around, and I was surprised to find anger smoldering in his usually calm gray eyes. Involuntarily, I took a step back.

"You failed me in LATIN?" he asked, his voice becoming both deeper and louder in his inexplicable rage. His hands began to work rhythmically, clenching and unclenching. "ME? A person whose family has held the secrets of Arcania as our legacy for a hundred generations? Me, who has spent my life in a household where the language of our Roman fore-fathers was spoken in conversation every day? ME, to whom the absolutely perfect pronunciation of every word is CRITICAL!"

I began to back away as he approached, spittle flying from his bared lips, as he continued his tirade. "ME? YOU failed ME in GOD- DAMN LATIN!" Suddenly, that same expressionless mask fell over his face, the mottled color of his anger slowly fading.

Calmly, almost sadly, he said. "I'll show you Latin, Professor Donald Brooks."

Eerily, he began to chant in his own bastardized version of that noble tongue, speed and pronunciation he used making it unintelligible to me. Suddenly, his voice rose, and he clapped his hands together three times.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I felt next in a single sensation. Rather, it was like a series of impressions, all hitting me at the same time:

The sensation of jumping into below-freezing water, but without the cold The sensation of somebody pulling on my hair

The sensation of somebody hitting me in the chest with a dense feather pillow The sensation of somebody rifling through my clothes

All these sensations hit me at one time -then, an instant later, vanished.

I stared numbly at the hand I'd flung out to ward off Garrett. It was longer, more slender, and softer. With the same numbness, I turned and looked at myself in the mirror hanging on the back of the door.

The person who gazed back at me was a full-figure, attractive woman. About my age, her hair was the same auburn shade as mine, but longer, swaying just above her rounded shoulders. A blue chambray shirt clung to her full, ripe breasts, and a gold and navy blue silk scarf was tied around the collar where I wore a tie of the same hues. Her knee-length skirt, the same beige as my chinos, revealed her smoothly rounded calves.

A pair of sensible black pumps with a one-inch heel enclosed her feet, and were made of the same Italian leather as my own loafers. Like me, she wore a pair of designer glasses.

This voluptuous woman was me.

If somebody had asked me, hypothetically, how I would react in this situation, I would have said I'd go into denial, or a panic, or just plain faint. However, now that I was faced with it - I did none of the above.

Partially, it was the new sensations that tugged at my awareness. The different balance and poise I felt, the weight of breasts, confined in a slightly too-tight bra whose straps pulled on my shoulders. The breeze across my hairless legs. These and a thousand other new or different sensations made it all to real for me to dismiss, and, odd and horrifying as the sudden transformation was, I was still living, quite healthy, and sane - fear was there, but no panic.

Slowly, I turned to where Garrett stood, arms crossed, watching me silently. His references to Arcania, which I had ignored, suddenly became very clear. Although the thought of actual magic existing was hard for me to accept, I really had no choice. The simple fact of the instant transformation proved his occult powers, and answered the 'how'.

So, I crossed my new arms protectively over my full new bosom, and asked in my new, feminine voice "Why?" I looked at him beseechingly. "Why did you do.. this to me. And, what am I going to do now?"

"Well," he said softly, "the first thing you're going to do is go back to your office and change my Latin grade." His eyebrows rose. "Right?"

I couldn't argue that point. "Of course. Then?. . ."

He eyed me thoughtfully. "I didn't just change you, you know. I more or less altered history - everybody remembers you as always being 'Donna Brooks'. It took a , ahem, HELL of a lot of energy to make that change, and I'm not going to waste it. As sort of a, ah, lesson in humility, I want you to spend a few hours AS Donna. Act like the woman you now are. And, I'll keep an occult eye on you, and if I find you slipping in your 'feminine' act . . . , why I'll just have to do something about it. Then, get here tonight before I have to leave for the Grad party, and we'll get things worked out."

I looked pleadingly at Garrett. "What did I do to deserve this?" I asked plaintively. "The grade was based on what I was taught, and you didn't need to do this. I always treated you fairly. . ."

Garrett shook his head. "Actually, I do like you, Mr. Brooks. You are a fairly nice guy. This transformation is basically harmless - it can't harm you, and it's only temporary. It's just that, in my dealings with Normals like you and the other students, your ingrained perceptions grate across my senses. Consider this as a learning experience - no one will see you as different, nobody but you and I will remember what you do today after I change you back."

When he put it that way, I found my mind put at ease. He was right - I was physically unharmed, and the only damage done was to my male ego - and that might not be such a bad thing. A chance to see how the other side lived, temporarily, wasn't a fate worse than death.

And, there was the voice of my male ego, unable to back down from a challenge. It seemed to stand up and shout "Hell, if half the population can live as women their whole lives, than I can Damn well handle it for one day!"

That bravado lasted until I got out into the corridor. Although my new body had the reflexes needed to walk in heeled shoes, my realization that I was walking in women's shoes made me awkward. Two freshmen passed by, and although they ignored me, I found myself shrinking away from them. What the hell was I doing?

I got to the front door, and stopped dead. The thought of me, ME going outside, dressed in women's clothes. . .

What broke my paralysis was the sight of Mrs. Denalto. She was standing on the step, idly adjusting her dress strap. I thought to myself that, with my female body, I looked more natural in women's clothes than she did. The thought made me giggle, and I stepped out into the bright sunshine, head held high.

Mrs. Denalto looked around. " 'Noon, Ms. Brooks" she said, nodding politely.

"Good Afternoon" I replied, smiling brightly. I set off towards my office with a brisk step, trying to ignore the sensation of my full breasts swaying within the confines of their cloth prison. I arrived at the faculty building and headed for my fourth floor office.

Waiting outside the door was a fellow teacher, and old friend, Lewis Tozier. I found myself slowing to a stop, a blush starting to rise in my face at the thought of facing my old college chum like this. He looked up, and smiled.

"Donna! You ready for lunch?" he asked, and I recalled that, as a man, I had planned to meet him for lunch. My blush intensified, and my heart began to jackhammer in my chest.

"Uh.." I said awkwardly, "I'm not really hungry Lew. Can you take a raincheck?"

He looked at me oddly, then shook his head sadly. "Look, Donna, I keep telling you. You look great. Every time you try to get on a diet, you feel guilty when you fail."

I sighed in relief. "Yeah, well. . . I feel like I need to do it. Why don't you.."

He finished in unison with me ". . humor me. You say that every time." He laughed, and sassed "Okay, but tomorrow, lunch is on you." He headed down the hall, throwing a "See ya" over his shoulder.

I walked into my office, and dropped into my seat. I began to look for Garrett's exam - and the extent of his power hit me. Everything on my desk was still there, and the same in content - but now it was all done in a graceful, feminine hand. I found his paper, and carefully changed his score to an A.

I sat at my desk for the next hour or so, trying to fill time, but boredom set in, and I finally headed back into the warm June day. I headed towards the school Café, deciding to get a cup of coffee. As I walked along, I found myself getting warm, so I pulled off the silk scarf and opened the top two buttons on the shirt, surprised at how good the air flowing over my new cleavage felt. Garrett was right - spending a few hours as a woman wasn't going to kill me.

I picked up my coffee and grabbed one of the tables at the patio, as I sat down, I tried to get comfortable in the seat, and finally found that crossing my legs at the knee was the best position. I sat there, sipping my coffee, and watching the flow of students past my table.

The first thing I noticed was the girls - not them, specifically, but how easy and comfortable they were as women. Their clothing, their mannerisms, everything was so ingrained, they really didn't have to THINK about being female - they were female, and that was that. I'd never really noticed until now all the little differences. I watched a pair of girls in particular, cataloging some of the things they did.

They walked closer together than two guys would. When they met a friend, they hugged the other girl unabashedly. They would show their emotions freely, not trying to control them like guys would.

They also didn't try to 'top' one another with their stories, not seeing it as a competition.

My attention was drawn away from the girls as I began to notice something - almost every guy who walked by flicked their eyes, almost involuntarily, over each female they passed. They even snuck glances at my cleavage in passing. And for most of them, they didn't even realize they were doing it.

I finished my coffee, and idly wandered over in the direction of the two girls I'd been watching. "Afternoon ladies" I said, smiling. "You girls looking towards the Grad Party tonight?"

The slim blonde smiled back. "Sure are, Ms. Brooks." Her darker haired friend nodded in agreement. "Danny - that's my boyfriend - bought me a gorgeous new dress, and I got lucky at a sale in the mall, and found shoes that go PERFECTLY with it!" She lowered her voice conspiratorially "Danny got a pair of shoes with the dress for me, but they were sling-backs with 2 1/2 spikes. And patent leather, too. Huh. He just doesn't realize, you know?"

I forced myself to keep smiling and nodding like I had some idea what the hell she was talking about. "What did you get?" I asked, knowing that's what she'd expect.

"Oh, they're PERFECT" she gushed. "Black velvet pumps with a gorgeous sweep heel. And they were on sale, I got them for only forty five bucks."

"That's great" I said, glad that she was happy. "Well, I gotta run. You girls have fun tonight, okay?"

I walked away, shaking my head, and trying to figure out what the difference between two pairs of black shoes could really be. I felt fairly certain Danny wasn't going to be looking at her feet tonight. Being female seemed to mean you had to pay attention to a thousand and one tiny details that guys then proceeded to ignore completely.

Then, finally, it was time to head back to Garrett's dorm. I thought with relief about being male again. Although the hours as a woman had been very educational, and an interesting experience.

In fact, I was mildly grateful for the chance to see how the other side lived - but it would be great to get my own body - my own life - back. I reached Garrett's room, and knocked on the door.

He let me in, looking so dejected that I immediately knew something was wrong. "What is it?" I asked, putting one slender hand on his arm.

He sighed. "My date cancelled on me." He looked so dejected, my heart went out to him. I thought about it - being female for a few more hours wouldn't kill me, would it? I sighed.

"Okay, Garrett" I said, "Go ahead. Make me into a date for yourself."

He looked up, surprised. "Really?". I nodded, and he looked at me for a minute - then a blush rising in his face, he spouted some more of the Latin he used, and I felt myself change. I walked - wiggled - over to the mirror, knowing I should have expected this.

My feet were encased in elegant black velvet pumps with a 3 inch spike heel in gold. My legs, now remarkably shapely, showed teasingly through the slit in the side of the floor-length, tight black velvet dress. My new, larger breasts, about 55DDD, were tightly packed into the top of the dress, my new cleavage showing through the keyhole neckline. The back of the dress was open from my neck to the base of my spine, showcasing my smooth young skin.

My face was a younger, sexier version of the one I'd worn for the past few hours - the lips were fuller, the eyes now unobscured by glasses. My hair was the same shade, but more elegantly styled.

I was a babe.

I smiled at Garrett, who was blushing furiously. "It's okay" I assured him. "I don't mind you helping your ego a bit. I know that on my Grad night, I tried to get a drop-dead sexy date too. It really impresses the other guys."

Garrett smiled. "Thanks, Mr. B. Um... I also, kinda changed you past again? You're now kinda.. well, really rich. And, your name is Jessica - Jessi. I hope.."

I waved my hand dismissively. "Hey, It's only a one night fantasy. Tomorrow, I'm back to myself. So I don't care what you do for my past tonight." I linked my arm in his, smiling. "Shall we go, Gare?"

We walked out of the dorm, passing other students in semi-formal clothing. We headed towards the main Auditorium on campus, other guys shooting envious looks at Garrett as they eyed my lush figure. I threw an extra little bounce in my step to cause my large breasts to sway enticingly, and leaned into Garrett a bit more. I felt silly doing this, but it'd really raise the other guys opinions of him - and besides, I was finding it fun to be able to playact, knowing that none of this would matter tomorrow.

We entered the main room, specially decorated for the event, the dance music spilling through the doors and into our bodies. Garrett had assumed his usual, sober face, and he led me over to a spot near the refreshment table. He snagged us a couple glasses of punch, and we stood there, watching the young couples dancing enthusiastically.

Caryn Grant, one of the cheerleaders, came by to grab a glass of punch for herself. A trim, petite blonde, she stood beside me, sipping at the drink. She looked at me, and asked "You mind if I ask you a personal question?"

I shrugged, causing interesting things to happen to my bosom. "Go ahead."

She inclined her head towards Garrett. "No offense, but . . . Why him? I mean, he's cute, but - kind of cold, isn't he?"

I paused, but this was simply too good an opportunity to pass up. "Because he's got the most enormous dick I've ever seen." I said, loud enough for him to hear. "and he's absolutely unbelievable in bed."

Caryn's eyebrow rose, and she looked Garrett over appraisingly. He was starting to blush furiously. She leaned towards me and said quietly. "You know, I've heard rumors that the quiet ones were like that, but I never really believed. . ."

Laughing inside, I projected as much smug sincerity as I could. "Believe it." I said with a satisfied grin curving my full lips. She eyed Garrett, convinced, then whispered "Lucky girl" to me and headed back to her own date.

Garrett turned to me. "What did you do that for?" he asked, his face red.

I slapped him on his arm. "Because you ARE too much of a cold fish. Loosen up. Have fun. It's time to PARTY!" And I grabbed his hand and dragged him towards the dance floor.

You see, I had really started to enjoy myself. Oh, it was unbelievably weird to be a sexy young woman but, I was getting the chance to relive one of the best days of my life, the last big blowout before collage. I had forgotten how wild I'd been then, and wondered how I'd become such a boring guy in the past fifteen years. Come hell or high water, I was going to have fun - and force Garrett to as well.

We began to dance, our bodies close together, with my large tits pressed firmly against his chest. I found the sensation of my large, sensitive nipples rubbing across the inside of my dress an INCREDIBLY pleasant feeling. When, a couple of songs later, Garrett worked up the nerve to copy most of the other guys, and lightly caress my ass as we danced, I just continued to smile and didn't object. Slowly, he began to loosen up, smiling more frequently. Soon, he was actually acting like a normal 19 year old guy at his Grad party.

For the next couple of hours, we continued to enjoy the Party. Between dances, I forced Garrett to wander around and chat with some of the other guys that had been in his classes, to say goodbye. At first, I literally had to drag words out of him, but soon he was chatting comfortably - and wittily - with some of his ex-classmates.

Finally, the moment came that I'd been putting off for as long as possible. Steeling my nerve, I excused myself from the conversation we were in - and headed for the ladies room.

I used the toilet, finding it less embarrassing that I'd feared. I emerged from the stall, and started washing my hands at the sink.

The same three girls who had been in the room, chatting, were still there. Caryn, the cheerleader, was one of them. The second was Pam Gerhard, a taller, muscular girl with long, platinum white hair and the palest blue eyes on the planet. The third girl was Selina Juarez, a petite, slender, full-breasted fire-brand of a Cuban girl, with flashing black eyes and a full head of deep black hair.

Selina looked over at me, then called "Hey, Jessi." With her exotic sounding accent, it sounded almost like she called me 'Chesty', and Pam giggled behind her hand.

"Yeah?" I asked, coming over.

Selina smiled. "The guys and us, we have a private party planned for tonight, you know. We're jus' going to head out know. Only, the other couple who was comin' decided to go to his place. So, we got room in the car, if you and Garrett wanna come." I hesitated, and Pam and Caryn urged me to accept, so I did.

We went out as a group, and were surprised to find Garret talking with the girl's dates. Steve, Caryn's date, was a muscular, blond football 'tight end', and he waved at Garrett. "I hope you don't mind," he said to Caryn, "But since Brad and Debbie can't make it, I just invited Garret and his girl here to join us."

Selina snuggled up against Nick, her tall, slender black boyfriend. "Too late, Stevie boy. We already asked Jessi, an' she said yes." Garrett flashed me a quick look, and grinned in gratitude.

"Well Alrighty then!" Pam's date, 'Weezer' said in an eerily perfect imitation of Jim Carey. A hippyish looking guy with long, string brown hair in a pony tail and a scraggly goatee, his real name was Francis, but he never used it. He had a vast repertoire of voices, and even sounds that he's hone to perfection. The constant clown, he was like Rich Little, that black guy from Police Academy, and the entire cast of 'Animal House' rolled into one slender body. "Let's get this show on the road puh-leaze" he continued in his Carey voice. "The night's a waistin' and I ain't getting any younger." He craned his neck to look at his tall date. "and she keeps growin'. 'Fore long, she just won't fit in my car!"

Laughing, the six of us headed to Weezer's car - an 1957 Chevy Bel-Aire ambulance. It not only fit his personality, but was large and comfortable. We climbed in, and he cranked the engine with a roar. As it came to life, my heart thundered in my chest. I had gotten so caught up in the spirit of the evening, I'd almost literally forgotten the fact that I was female. Now, I couldn't believe how easily I could slip into this kind of life - after a few hours, I was starting to take things for granted. As the car pulled out of the lot, I toyed with the idea of calling the whole thing off - but, aside from being a touch panicky, I WAS having a lot of fun - and none of this would matter tomorrow, anyway.

It turned out our destination was a riding camp, where Pam had worked before they'd been forced to shut down a month ago. The guys carried in the cooler full of beer, the bags of snacks, and the blankets to sit on. Pam had a key she'd kept, and opened the doors. As 'us' girls laid the blankets in a rough circle around the cooler, Steve got a fire going in the big stone fireplace. It was quickly growing dark, and Garrett went around with a couple of packs of candles, until the entire room was bathed in the warm golden glow of fire- and candle-light.

We flopped down on the blankets, each girl snuggling near their guy. I hesitated, not having planned to be as 'familiar' with Garrett tonight, but it would look odd if I didn't, so I settled into the embrace of his arm. He popped open a beer and handed it to me, and I drank it like I always drank the first beer, draining it in a few long pulls.

Weezer had brought in a boombox, and he turned on a local station, keeping the volume low enough that we didn't have to shout at each other. With the Spice Girls' 'Too Much' flowing from the speakers, everybody began to relax. Beers were passed around, and I claimed another, drinking this one more slowly.

Weezer ran his hands through Pam's long pale mane. "I just found this out" he said in his Johnny Carson voice. "Scientific studies have proved that blondes do have more fun. Scientific studies, I swear to God." He paused, waiting, and Nick decided to provide the straight line. "Is that so?" he asked skeptically.

Weezer nodded, still doing Carson. "Honest to God. Scientist's base the claim on the fact that blondes are easier to find in the dark." Pam giggled, and slapped him lightly, claiming a quick kiss.

The beer continued to flow as we talked about all sorts of things, joking and fooling around. I found myself slipping easily into the casual camaraderie, and the past fifteen years of my life seemed to fade into the background, and I WAS nineteen again, having a Grad party with a bunch of school friends I may never see again.

Cigarettes appeared, and although I had quit three years ago, I accepted one, inhaling deeply. The first few drags made me cough, and the other's ragged me about it, but I soon fell into the habit again.

The late June night was warm enough as it was, and the flames that lit our gathering raised the temperature further, and we had begun to sweat. Suddenly, Steve stood and declared "It's too damn warm. I'm getting comfortable." And, as we watched in surprise, he peeled off his shirt and pants, and sank back to the floor, his muscular body clad only in his black boxers.

Caryn smiled, and said "Yeah, that's a good idea." And stripped down to her bra and panties. Weezer accompanied this with his version of 'The Stripper', and Caryn tossed her pump at his head. He leaned slightly to let it lightly bump his head. He made a loud 'Poonk' sound with his tongue, and theatrically keeled over. Caryn laughed, her firm, pointed breasts jiggling fetchingly.

The other's began to follow suit, stripping down to their underwear. Selina defiantly pulled off her strapless dress. She wasn't wearing a bra, and her ripe, large tits, a pair of firm, dusky globes swung free. They continued to move for a few seconds after she sat down, swaying side to side.

Weezer stopped, standing on one leg with his pants half off. His face assumed an exaggerated hypnotized look, his head swinging side to side in time with Selina's tits. "Must . . buy . . milk. . " he murmured dazedly, then broke out laughing, falling on his ass as he lost his balance.

I also wasn't wearing a bra - but even had I been, I wouldn't have been comfortable with what I was about to do. Blushing furiously, I slowly forced myself to pull off my dress, revealing my feminine body with its exaggerated curves. Nick whistled, getting slapped by his own busty date.

I heard Garrett whisper something in that Latin under his breath, then stood and stripped. Under his clothes, his body was lean and exquisitely toned, and his briefs bulged alarmingly, and I recalled my earlier comment to Caryn about the size of his 'equipment.' The girls giggled, and Pam murmured "Well, well. . . hello there" As he sat back down next to me, I leaned over and whispered in his ear "Showoff." He grinned back at me.

Weezer produced a bag of pot and a jar of oil, and began to roll a huge 'bomber' joint. Nick leaned over and started on a second one. Soon, the joints, each made with four rolling papers, were lit and being passed around. As I got handed one, I inhaled deeply, dredging up the technique from my collage days. I passed it to Garrett.

Between the booze and pot, I soon found myself higher than a kite, a warm sort of daze filling my mind as I rested against Garrett's shoulder. I watched with detached interest as Steve and Caryn began to kiss heavily, pausing not for air, but for pot.

A warm glow began to start in my belly as Garrett, his hand around my shoulder, began to massage the base of my neck. I closed my eyes and enjoyed my high for a few minutes.

When I opened my eyes, I found myself watching Pam lower herself in front of Weezer and slowly take his cock between her lips. He closed his eyes and rubbed his hands over her broad, muscled back as she began to skillfully suck on his cock. I felt my nipples stiffen at the sight, and Garrett's hands slipped down, and began to caress my huge tits skillfully. I tried to protest, but my mind was spinning, and all that emerged was a soft sigh of pleasure as he massaged my smooth feminine flesh.

There was a soft thud, and I watched Selina push Nick onto his back and with a dreamy smile impale himself on his hard cock. She made small gasps of pleasure as she rode him, her hands fondling and squeezing her own firm orbs. I was drunkenly shocked to find my panties were sopping wet, and a fire was building in my body. I looked up at Garrett and said. "I.. I think we should stop. I don't. .

. "

I was cut short as his lips met mine, and for a long instant sat unmoving as his tongue probed my mouth. Then, my will power broke, and I pressed hard against him, hungrily returning the kiss. The fire in my body exploded, filling me with a deep, burning desire. I pulled back and begged Garrett "Please, fuck me. Fuck Me!"

He lay me on the ground, stripping off my soaked panties. His cock was erect, almost thirteen inches long, and remarkably thick. As I stared in horrified fascination at his enormous dick hanging over my hot, wet pussy, a moment of clarity swept through me. "Don't.." I said, horrified...

And then his massive organ plunged into my waiting cunt, and all thoughts were washed from my mind on a wave of pure pleasure. He began to pump, slowly and rhythmically, and little shudders of ecstasy shook my body. His speed began to pick up, and the waves of pleasure began to build. I had never experienced such a sensation of being so completely . . . filled, as if for the first time in my life I was whole, with his gigantic penis filling my empty cunt, building me to a climax.

We orgasmed simultaneously, and he pumped hot cum into my spasming cunt as I screamed with the force of the multiple orgasm thundering through my body like an explosion of pure fulfillment.

Afterward, as I lay beside me, the truth of what had happened filled me. I was a 34 year old man, turned into a young woman, and had just been fucked by one of my male students in a drunken orgy.

And I didn't care. The sensation of being so completely, totally, orgasmically complete still ran through my mind. I knew it was created by my comment, earlier, that he was unbelievable in bed, but I didn't care, because it was now the absolute truth. Even now, I found myself craving the thing that only Garrett could give me, after just having had it. I wanted - needed to stay with him, to be fucked by him, to be his most perfect girlfriend. It was all I wanted.

Garrett leaned over me with a twisted smile. "Actually, MISTER Brooks" he whispered, knowing my thoughts. "I set this whole thing up from the point I turned you female the first time." He sneered. "I couldn't stand your self-satisfied life, your very condensation to a 'poor lonely boy' having trouble in your class. Now, your ass is mine." He laughed. "I made more than a few changes to your mind, you see. Do you like my work, Jessi?"

I heard every word he said, but they just washed over me, not creating any feelings or thoughts. I didn't care about the past, it was NOW I was in, and all I cared about. "Whatever you say, darling" I said huskily. "You know I love you, and will do anything for you, my love." I fondled my huge tits, happy in the knowledge that he'd find pleasure in them. I decided to save that for later though. Right now. . . .

I lowered my head and slid my full, soft, kissable lips over the enormous head of his again erect cock. My hands wrapped around the thick, veined shaft and began to pump. My tongue flicked over the sensitive glans, and he moaned softly in my ear "That's right, suck it good, slut." And as his hot, thick gum gushed into my eager mouth and I swallowed hungrily, I didn't care in the least that I could no longer remember a single thing in my life prior to getting to the dance with my man. It didn't matter at all.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After she is dumped by her boyfriend, she takes her anger out on a sculpture which ends up having direct effects on her ex.

Malleable Male

By Gunslinger

With a metallic reverberation, the susurrant of the heavy sliding steel fire door riding across its rollers filled the loft apartment of the converted and renovated old warehouse.

Don winced as the counter-weighted door thumped against its rubber-sheathed stops - not at the sound itself, but at what it represented.

"Honey...!" The warm, chipper voice called. "I'm back from "

Still not turning around to face the door, the bulky, golden-haired young man grimaced at the sudden, startled pause of the feminine voice - and then slowly closed the suitcase and zipped it up, the soft metal-on-metal sound seeming unnaturally loud in the sudden stillness.

"Don...?" The feminine voice asked, with a catch. "What... What's going on ?"

With a sigh, the hefty, raw-boned young man straightened and turned to face the dark-haired young woman standing behind him, her huge, dark doe-eyes wide and glistening.

"Hello, Marta." Don said, his voice quiet and reserved. "You're back early."

"The doctor had a cancellation and fit me in " The slender artist said, her voice uncertain. "Don - why...? What's the suitcase for ?"

"I'm sorry, Marta - this just isn't working out." Don said, gently, picking up the suitcase. "I'm leaving." Marta's eyes, impossibly, grew even wider. "Not working out? Don, we haven't fought or you haven't said anything at all about "

"I'm sorry." Don repeated, with the same lack of emotion, staring to walk towards the door.

Lips trembling, the rangy young woman watched him move in her direction, heading for the door - and picking up the thick document laying on the table nearby as he passed.

With an almost audible 'click', it all came together.

"You bastard!" Marta blurted, understanding it all now. "You signed the deal! You sold your damned paintings !"

"Now, Marta " Don tried, sidling towards the door - but the furious woman wasn't about to be stopped.

"Oh, you 'loved' me when you were broke, loved me enough to sponge off me, live at my place, let me pay for damned near everything - but the instant you get some money, you're out the door!"

Marta raged. "You bastard!" She hit him.

She put quite a bit of force behind the open-handed slap - but it was the simple ring she wore that caused the 'damage' - a small split in the corner of his mouth.

It was barely anything - three small droplets of blood sprang forth before the small wound fell closed again. Three droplets of blood that flew and landed, perhaps appropriately enough, right on the lips, practically in the exact position, of the life-size, highly-realistic sculpture of himself that Marta had just finished of him.

In fact, as was Marta's ultra-realistic technique, the sculpture was almost eerily perfect, with even some of Don's actually trimmed hair forming the close-cropped goatee that surrounded the sculpted lips - thus creating a near perfect match for the faint, reddish stain in the real Don's goatee.

Indeed, if not for the fact that the latex-'skinned' clay sculpture was completely naked, coincidentally exposing the anatomically-correct sculpture's only 'flaw', it's lack of any body hair, it would have been hard to tell which was real and which was fake, so rigid and expressionless did Don go at the unexpected slap, his body tingling with a strange, almost electric shock from the sheer surprise at his previously timid now-ex-girlfriend's response.

For a long second, they stood in a frozen tableau - and then, without any other words, Don simply brushed past the woman he'd do often professed to love, and left the apartment.

Marta turned and watched him leave, the fire door slamming shut behind him like the sound of a cell door slamming home.

For another moment, she stared at the door - and then she threw herself down on the couch and began to sob, deep wracking sob that shook her entire body.

* * * * *

With a deep sigh of relief, Don tossed his suitcase on the bed and slammed the door of the motel room shut behind him.

He was finally free. Free of that damned, clinging, needy Cajun broad who had practically sucked the life out of him. It had taken everything he'd had to play-act like he could even stand her, much less actually felt any emotions for her - but he'd known that she'd be a soft touch for the cash, and he'd been right. Needy women were 'easy'...

...and besides, she'd been pretty good in the sack.

With a grunt, Don surveyed the hotel room with a jaundiced eyes. Though he'd signed a deal that made him a good chunk of change from the paintings he'd sold, the money wouldn't be deposited in his account until the morning, and this skuzzy hotel room was the best he could do for the night.

Still, it was better then listening to Marta babble on about how she came from a long line of Cajun women, and that the blood of a hounan - a voodoo priestess - flowed through her veins.

Shaking his head, Don headed into the bathroom. After the unpleasant scene with Marta - the one he'd hoped to avoid - he felt he needed a shower...

...not that he felt 'dirty' about what he'd done, of course. That was just silly. After all - Marta was just a... a woman.

It wasn't like she was actually human or anything, for God's sake.

After turning on the water so that it could warm up, Don began to undress, peeling the clothing from his well-padded body...

"What the...?" Don exclaimed, staring down at his chest and arms in amazement. "Where the fuck did all the hair go...?"

His body was completely smooth, denuded of any trace of body hair. Aside from his goatee, every square inch of his body from the eyelashes down was smooth, as completely smooth as...

...as the life-sized sculpture of himself that Marta had made. The sculpture made of earth and his hair, and now blood...

...but Don didn't make that connection, finishing the thought with the clichéd '...a babies bottom.' "Weird..." Don said, running his hands over his smooth flesh with a frown.

Still, whatever it was, it wasn't life-threatening, and there wasn't anything he could do about it at the moment - unless he wanted to suffer the indignity of waiting in the emergency room for several hours, waiting to be seen for something that wasn't exactly an 'emergency'.

Making a mental note to schedule an appointment with his doctor tomorrow, he finished undressing and stepped under the spray of warm water, feeling slightly strange to be soaping up the unusually smooth, slick skin he'd inexplicably acquired.

Once finished with his more-than-slightly odd shower and toweling himself dry, Don quickly dressed, hiding the sight of his abnormally smooth skin from sight - and then he hesitated, wondering if he should change his plans for the evening...

...then quickly talked himself out of doing so.

After all, he'd practically been monogamous since using Marta to supply a home and food for himself - and everybody knew that was an unnatural and unhealthy state of affairs. Men, after all, were supposed to spread their seed far and wide, and this strange 'one woman only' crap was just another stupid feminine idea cocked up in their over-emotional, illogical brains.

Checking himself quickly in the mirror, Don smiled at himself quickly, then headed out of the bathroom, looking forward to a little female companionship of 'the right kind'.

* * * * *

Wiping the tears from her now-set face, Marta resolutely strode towards the area of the open- concept loft designated as the bedroom.

She was going to erase every trace of that damned bastard - and of the humiliation he'd caused when she finally, belatedly, realized he was only using her.

Using her not only for room and board - but as a sexual plaything.

Grabbing a garbage can, she strode angrily over to her closet. Yanking the door open with more force than was necessary, she glared around the neatly arranged interior, furious that she'd let herself be used like this.

Holding the garbage can in her left hand, she reached out and began yanking the 'gifts' Don bought for her out of the closet - the whorish clothing and shoes, stuff she'd let him talk her into wearing for him. Hoping to tear them, she yanked the negligees and lacy garments from the hangers, sick at herself for letting herself be degraded the way she had been.

On top of the lacy garments, she tossed in the two pairs of high-heeled shoes he'd bought 'for her' - the pairs of high-heel shoes in her closet, a warning sign she should have seen bright and clear, but somehow she'd let herself believe that 'love' made it all right for her to lower herself to wearing uncomfortable, restrictive footwear that had no use at all but to show a woman's subservience to male desire.

Her anger growing steadily stronger, she finished throwing every trace of Don's odious presence she could find into the can, then headed towards the front door, eager to get this stuff out of her apartment.

As soon as she rounded the corner, she saw the sculpture of him she'd done - a life sized, highly- realistic version of him still sitting in her apartment, seeming to smirk at her triumphantly.

"You bastard!" She screamed at the inanimate sculpture. "You fucking bastard!" Furiously, she stalked over to the sculpture, twined her fingers into the hair of the wig...

* * * * *

"Oh, yeah..." Don gasped, hips grinding as the buxom whore expertly rode atop him. "That's it, work it..."

Though not even close to being beautiful, the hooker was at least curvaceous, a nice change from the stick-figure of Marta - and unlike the uptight artist, this woman knew how to please a man, even if her manner was a little bored.

"Oh, baby..." The whore mouthed, without enthusiasm. "Yeah, you're the..."

The gasp that interrupted her came a split-second after a strange, pulling sensation for the top of his head - and even though he was sort of distracted by other sensations, Don couldn't help but notice that sensation, nor the look on the hooker's face as she stopped her rhythm and stared at him, wide eyed.

"What the fuck happened to your hair?" She demanded, her overly-made-up face in an unaccustomed expression of shock.

"What...?" Don said, his hands going to his head...

...and sliding across the smooth, bare flesh of his scalp. His hair - had vanished.

"What the hell...?"

* * * * *

Tossing the wig aside, Marta almost literally snarled, finally having a target for all her anger and self- disgust.

"Do you like that, you bastard?" She asked the still-grinning sculpture. "Stop smiling, you asshole!" Rearing back, she slapped first one side of the smiling face, then on the back-swing, the other...

...with another side-effect.

* * * * *

Suddenly, without warning, Don found his head snapped first one way, then the other, as if by an epileptic fit...

"You beard!" The prostitute gasped, as Don shook his head in shock and blinked up at her. "Your beard is gone!"

Stunned, Don fingered the smooth flesh of a chin that had previously been covered by a goatee...
...and that had previously been more square-cut.

* * * * *

Though the foam latex 'skin' covering the sculpture had set, the clay underneath that gave it shape was still malleable, and her slaps had also forced the chin into a slimmer, more pointed shape - and she felt intense satisfaction at defacing the no-longer-grinning inanimate version of her enemy.

With a fierce grin, she reached down and wrapped her hand around the sculptures cock, and tried to tear it from the sculpture, figuratively emasculating the form she wanted to do it to for real...

* * * * *

The whore screamed in time with Don as the oddest, most impossible sensation ran through both of them, where they were joined.

The cock filling her cunt was actually writhing - growing longer and thinner and bulging oddly in a way that just shouldn't have been possible.

"What the fuck is going on?" The hooker demanded, throwing herself off of him...

"Holy shit!" Don swore, staring in horror at the misshapen man-hood now standing from his crotch. "What the hell is happening to me...?"

* * * * *

Though the clay beneath was still moldable, the latex had set, and she couldn't tear the 'cock' free of the sculpture. Well, if she couldn't pull, she could always push.

With an angry thrust, she shoved hard - and the 'cock' slid back into the main mass of the clay body.

"How's that, you sick asshole...?" She demanded of the sculpture. "You don't deserve to be called a man...!"

She looked at the ill-formed whole in the figure's crotch - and got an idea.

"You're not a man anymore - how about a woman?" She said, with a bitter laugh...

...and her skilled fingers went to work re-shaping the opening she'd made.

* * * * *

"Holy fuckin' shit!" The whore swore, as Don, gasping and twitching at the sensation of his cock being manipulated from within, stared down at his own crotch - as his cock first sank back into his body, then, after a second's pause, began to achieve a very recognizable shape.

"Fuck - I'm outta here..." The hooker said, turning to start gathering her clothes and purse. "This is just too fuckin' weird."

"Wait...!" Don gasped, sweat standing out on his newly bared brow. "Help me...!"

"Look, buddy - fifty don't buy anything like this..." The hooker said, looking at him as she reached for the last of his stuff...

...and then Don let out a high-pitched scream, one more of shock and horror than of any real pain - but one that rattled the hooker completely, the sight of his feet suddenly shrinking and becoming highly arched the final straw.

Abandoning the rest of her belongings, and still half-naked, the prostitute fled the room in her stocking feet.

* * * * *

"There!" Marta told the statue, as she finished jamming the second high-heeled shoe onto the foot of the simulacrum, the giving clay within the latex foot forced up and out of the shoes and into the ankles as the feet reshaped themselves to the contours of the high-heeled pumps.

"It's a start..." She smirked at the sculpture, feeling her anger working itself out in an artistic way. "But wait - what else can I 'give back' to you...?"

Turning, she picked the heavy-boned canvas corset he'd given her out of the garbage can, and turned back to the sculpture...

* * * * *

"I.. I have to get some help..." Don gasped, rolling over in the bed, one hand hesitantly tracing the contours of the inexplicable new womanhood in his crotch. His other hand reached out and grabbed the handset of the phone as he sat up, head spinning in confusion, shock - and fear.

Fear - because he'd lost his manhood, the center of what made who he was... He was a...

...a...

...a girl!

Overwhelmed at the feat, loathing and horror of what that meant, he reached out to dial 911, hoping some doctor, some expert, some anything existed that could not only explain what was happening to him, but how to fix it...

...and then a strange crushing sensation gripped his mid-section, and he twitched and cried out in shock and horror, unintentionally ripping the handset cord from the phone as he rolled over the bed as if trying to escape what was happening to him...

...because not only was his waist being pinched inwards dramatically, but - like his ankles - new masses of flesh were being formed above and below that pinched section, shapeless bulges of flesh that, nevertheless, gave a feminine effect, almost the correct contours for a woman were she clothed, even though he was still naked.

In horror, he stared down at the misshapen single mass thrust from his chest... and even as he watched, the masses of flesh re-shaped themselves under unseen guidance, a indent forming in the center of the bulging mass, then the now-separate sections writhing and reshaping themselves into what was an unmistakable pair of woman's breasts - and fairly good-sized ones, at that.

"No !" Don screamed, hands coming up to cup the firm, dome-like breast that thrust firmly from his fairly broad ribcage, even as the masses of flesh below his trim new waist smoothed themselves out into a womanly, rounded pair of hips and a fuller, rounder ass.

"No!" Don screamed again - because the mirror on the bureau across from the bed showed the person on the bed, cupping firm breasts, was a bald, broad-shouldered, and generally unattractive woman.

She needed to get help. Now, before it became irreversible...

...if it hadn't already, a small voice in her brain insisted in adding. Horrified, she all-but-leapt from the bed...

...and promptly fell face-first to the ground, unable to balance on the toes of her smaller feet, and equally unable to force those same feet flat.

Sobbing in shame, pain, and horror, the new woman looked around for something - anything - to help her, even as she felt something happening to her neck. Barely registering the fact that the small whimpers she was giving off were rising steadily in pitch, Don's eyes fell on the shoes the hooker had left behind as she fled...

...and felt disgust at herself 'willingly' doing something so feminine, even as she reached out and grabbed the high-heeled pumps and pulled them on her altered feet.

As the changes moved on up to her face, Don struggled upright - and found that the shoes fit her altered feet like a glove, and that she could stand easily atop the six-inch stiletto heels where she'd been completely unable to stand at all in bare feet.

Quickly, Don grabbed a long, plaid flannel shirt and pulled it on, it's long hem hanging halfway down his thighs - thighs that were being reshaped even as the fabric fell over them. Buttoning the shirt over her unwanted new endowments, she staggered towards the door - shuddering in horror and disgust at the sight of the feminine new face that she'd glimpsed in the mirror atop a slim new neck, before she'd torn her eyes away from the horrible sight.

Moving with an uncomfortable - and unwanted - feminine gait because of the effect of her womanly hips, Don headed out the door, mind churning as she tried to figure out who could help her, where she could go to find a way to undo this horrible fate being forced on her.

Climbing into her car, she didn't bother to buckle up before starting it and putting it in gear. All she cared about was getting to the hospital.

Squealing out of the parking lot of the low-end motel, she bumped and rumbled over the roughly- patched pavement in the 'bad' part of town, where she'd found the cheap motel she'd been using...

* * * * *

"Coming along nicely, aren't we Don...?" Marta snickered, much of her anger having become something new, something less internally destructive, as she found herself getting into the artistic process of renovating the previously male sculpture of her ex-boyfriend into something else.

Into an image of exactly the type of woman Don probably wanted her to be - and which she couldn't be for him.

In a way, now that she knew who and what Don really was, it was some sort of victory that he'd left - it meant that she wasn't able - or willing - to become the perfect little sex-toy girlfriend he obviously really wanted.

She expressed that, as she did all of her emotions, sooner or later, in the form of art, her hands going back to work...

* * * * *

Heart pounding rapidly from the damnably firm breasts she helplessly sported, Don stared through the windshield of the car, trying - and failing - to ignore the decidedly different sensation that came from sitting on a fuller, rounder ass.

Suddenly, without warning, her foot jammed more firmly on the accelerator - because her leg had suddenly grown two inches longer.

She screamed, in a high, rich falsetto tone known to B-movie fans the world over, as she yanked her lengthened leg off the pedal - even as her other leg joined its twin in long, slim, sensual femininity.

Quickly, she shifted her high-heel-clad foot over towards the brakes...

...and screamed anew as waves of rich, red hair billowed out of nowhere and spilled down in front of her attractive, full-lipped new face.

Even as the hair curled itself up into a big, puffy bouffant style, she was screaming and over- reacting, slamming on the brakes and crimping the wheel...

...and the car bounced over the curb, loosing much of it's aging undercarriage as it ground to a halt in a squealing, clanging symphony of tearing metal that sounded decidedly final.

Gasping and whimpering, one disaster piling atop another, Don threw open the door to the car and scrambled out atop her long, shapely new legs, barely noticing her hands and arms becoming slimmer and more smoothly feminine as 'excess' flesh billowed up at her shoulders...

...but even as she stumbled away from the car atop her high-heels, she couldn't help but notice her new bust bulging outwards as most of the excess flesh, including that of her slimming rib-cage and shoulders themselves, were being forced into her firm new bust.

"No!" She screamed, horrified. "I don't want bigger tit...!"

Staring down at the shirt that was bulging horribly outwards from the interior force of her swelling bust, she shuddered and quickly looked back up, not wanting to watch her unwanted tits swell even larger...

...and found herself staring at her 'audience' gaping at her as her body become more sexually feminine.

* * * * *

"There we go..." Marta said, stepping back and looking at her creation.

It stood in an obviously sexual pose - legs spread wide, torso leaning slightly forward, wither hands planted on her bubble-butt. Being the physical representation of the type of woman Don really wanted, she was an exaggerated version of a sort of 'cultural icon' - Peg Bundy, from the old Fox network show, 'Married: With Children...'

Now," She said, wheeling out a tool chest in which she kept supplies for some of her more... 'controversial' pieces. "To show what Don wanted a woman like you for..."

Sliding open the drawer in the chest, she extracted one of the many flesh-colored and well-detailed dildoes laying within, and approached her sculpture with a smile...

* * * * *

The two men gaped at her, frozen in the moment of exchange during a drug deal.

The buyer, a skinny white kid with lank, tangled hair and loose-fitting sweats, gaped at her in shock, the money still in hand, while the massively muscled shaved-head black man in the jeans and tight black T-shirt stood, plastic baggies of pot in hand, eyeing her with a wicked smile.

"That's a hell of a trick, babe..." the black man chuckled, his voice so deep as to be almost unbelievable. "What's yo' name, sweet-cheeks?"

From his comment and his gaze, it was obvious that he was appreciating her full, round ass - while the skinny kid was gaping at her full breasts in the now-taut shirt.

"D.. Don..." She stammered, shaken. Throwing up her hands to indicate that it wasn't important, she winced at the sight of the slender fingers tipped with long, gloss-red nails, then pushed onwards. "Look, I need your help. I..."

That was as far as she got - because her eyes widened and her mouth flew open as something very strange happened to her.

Her cunt... 'yelled'.

Not really, of course - but it felt like that, as something about her new womanhood altered, as if it were in the wrong shape, as if there was something that it needed to feel 'right' again...

...and the 'scream' came from the fact that she was filled with a sudden, overwhelming conviction that she knew what it was.

Out of nowhere, the thought slammed into her brain, too solid and certain to ignore. Her cunt needed to be filled by a hard cock.

Don gasped and trembled as the sudden, powerful new conviction flooded her swirling mind - the one, solid thought in the confusing maelstrom in her head. It didn't matter that it was a thought that disgusted her, that she wanted out of her head - it was the single, solid, ever-present thought in her mind, like steady, deafening chant being repeated over and over in her mind.

My cunt needs to be filled by a hard cock, my cunt needs to be filled by a hard cock, my cunt needs to be filled by a hard cock...

* * * * *

Grinning, Marta grabbed another dildo and stepped back to the sculpture...

* * * * *

Then, a moment later, another chorus was added to the overwhelming chant in her mind, as another 'void needing filling' sensation joined the powerful first one - this time from her mouth...

I need a cock in my mouth, my cunt needs to be filled by a hard cock, I need a cock in my mouth, my cunt needs to be filled by a hard cock...

Don gasped and trembled, trying, helplessly, to force the thoughts out of her head, as they thundered over and above any other thought she tried to form.

* * * * *

"Almost finished..." Marta muttered to her latest creation...

...as she slammed a third dildo home, deep in the latex-coated clay crevice of the woman's firmly rounded ass.

Chuckling, she moved on to the finishing touches, the final items to represent what this 'woman' stood for - pure sex.

With a dildo in each of three holes, it was pretty obvious - but with the help of some male mannequin's arms and hands, she made the point utterly clear, placing them so that the sculpture was being 'fondled' - thighs, ass, and tits.

"There we are..." Marta said, stepping back and putting her hand son her hips. "Perfect."

* * * * *

She couldn't think.

The new needs flooding her mind were overwhelming, allowing only the smallest, most fragmented thoughts to form before being lost in the overwhelming din of the desires she was disgusted and horrified to be echoing in her mind.

"Help..." She gasped out, desperately trying to put together some sort of explanation as to what was happening to her, so that the gaping men could provide her with assistance. "I.. My tits... and ass... I can't stop... thinking about them being fondled.. and... and... my cunt, and ass, and mouth... they.. I feel like they need to be filled with big, hard cocks..."

So intent was she on the difficult task of forcing the words out, she couldn't spare any thought for reflecting on what the sounded like - all she knew was that a wave of relief mixed with the maelstrom of unwanted needs in her mind as the two men shared a smile, then turned back to her.

"Sure, Dawn..." The big black dude said, easily. "I think we can help you with that..." "Thank you..." Dawn gushed, trying - and failing - to order her mind.

"Jus' come on down this alleyway, and we'll take care off all yo' needs..." The muscular man said, gesturing at a dark alley...

...and with the thundering thoughts in her head, she caught neither the knowing tone in his voice, nor the implications of a buxom woman going down a dark alley with two men.

She simply did what they suggested, swaying and shimmering atop her heels as she entered the foul-smelling alley, led by the skinny youth and followed by the muscular black man.

They were about halfway down the alley - and, not coincidentally, out of easy view of the street - when the skinny young white kid suddenly stopped dead, whirled around - and tore open her shirt, exposing her curvaceous new female form to his eager eyes...

...and grasp.

Before her swirling mind could register enough of what was happening for her to say anything, his eager, sweaty hands were squeezing her firm, domed breasts...

...and a sudden sensation of... 'rightness' flooded her mind.

Not that she liked what was going on. Not that she enjoyed having a man squeeze and fondle her tits - not on an emotional or intellectual level at least, since it was, in fact, physically pleasurable.

It was just as if this all felt as if, somehow, it was what was supposed to happen - and the horror and disgust she felt at being groped simply wasn't strong enough to allow her to say anything, not in the face of that overwhelming sensation that she needed this.

Not that she didn't try. Desperately, her whirling mind beginning to dimly grasp what was going on, she struggled to say or do something to make the guy stop fondling her tits...

...but just couldn't bring enough willpower to bare.

It only got better/worse when the muscular black man hauled her shirt off from behind, leaving her new body completely naked except for the shoes - and then put his hands between her legs, gripped her thighs, and spread her legs apart.

That all felt so... damned... right!

Even as disgust, horror and shame flooded her mind and body, even as her stomach roiled at being touched and fondled by men, even as she tried desperately to scream out an order to stop - part of her mind was slipping into a sort of numbed contentment, as if a deep and long-held need was, finally, being fulfilled...

"Enough fuckin' foreplay..." The black man grunted, unzipping his pants. "Let go of her fuckin' boobs so she can bend over, man - I'm taking this whore up the ass..."

"Fine..." The white man replied, grinning. "She can wrap those big cock-sucker lips around my rod..."

For a second, neither man was touching her, and a momentary calm broke through that unwanted by pervasive contentment. She opened her mouth to scream...

...and then the white guy grabbed her shoulders and pulled that open mouth downward. Having released her to lower his sweat pants and underwear, his rapidly hardening cock was plainly visible as he pulled her face down to that level - and that powerful clamoring for a hard cock in her mouth all-but-screamed in her mind, strong enough to paralyze her for that fateful second...

...and then that contentment filled her again, redoubled, as her need was met, and the guy's cock filled her mouth.

Without any thought at all, she found her lips sealing around the cock. Horror filled her at what she was doing, and she desperately tried to fight that mind-numbing contentment and pull herself from the guys hard dick...

...and then the black man's hard, thick cock slipped quick and hard into her ass, filling it with it's girth...

...and that was it.

She entered a dream state.

She was only subliminally aware of what the men were doing with - to - her body as she floated in a wonderful haze of pure and utter contentment. Contentment caused by...

...by...

...by being used for exactly the purpose she was meant to serve. That's what it was.

She was nothing more - or less - then a living receptacle for men's lust. She existed solely to be used the way she was now, and any other way men might see fit to use her.

The man gave her barely-heard orders, and she obeyed them - wrapping her hands around the one man's cock and getting into a 'real' blow-job, while working her hips to increase the pleasure of the man fucking her up the ass. She did it without question, thought realization, or emotion - her body, her surrounding, what she was doing with the men, and the men to her, all was but a hazy background noise, being recorded in detail into her memory, but not registering hardly at all on her bemused, content conscious mind.

No disgust. No worries. No horror. No pain.

No thought...

...until an unmeasured and immeasurable time later, when the wonderful, pervasive, all- encompassing contentment drained away from her.

Shivering in the chill night air, she stared up at the sky above her, becoming aware of herself - laying naked, in an alleyway, having been...

Gagging as the memories of what she'd allowed the men to do to her - what she'd participated in - she shuddered and rolled over, her big breasts pressing into the cold pavement as she grabbed her torn shirt and forced herself to her feet, sobbing and gasping in disgust and horror...

...even as that clamor in her brain began it's cycle anew, demanding more of the same...

...while her mind, like that of a drug addict, whispered wonderful sedition, reminding her how good it had felt to have no cares, no worries, no thoughts...

...and how easy it would be for her to feel that way again. "No..." She sobbed. "No... never.. never again..."

...but she didn't even believe her own denials as she wrapped her tattered shirt around her feminine new body, and staggered off into the night.

* * * * *

"Well, Don..." Marta remarked to thin air, eyeing her sculpture again after having gone to clean up. "It's a damned good thing I had this sculpture to work my anger and frustration off on..."

She chuckled, wryly.

"Otherwise, I might have been tempted to track you down and do something horrible to you..." THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: In order to escape a sealed room, one man must consent to become the only woman who's voice will let him escape.

The Mantrap

By Gunslinger

The door.

The damned door.

Long hours of intellectual assault on the unassailable edifice had proved ultimately fruitless. For all of twenty-three year old Doug Fram's genius, the design and function of the door continued to best him.

Calling it a door, of course, was technically inaccurate. Though a point of entry and exit for the room

- the sole such point, as a matter of fact - the passageway was much more than a slab of wood with three hinges and a latch holding it in place. This was the latest, high-technology design for a secure, controlled entry point, a virtually unbreachable defense.

In the trade, it was known as a 'mantrap'.

In design, the mantrap was a metal booth, somewhat larger than the average telephone booth. Really more of a short hallway, either end was guarded by a steel door roughly equivalent to that used in walk-in bank vaults. Heavy, armored doors with equally armored knuckle hinges, whose massive six-bolt locking mechanisms were electronically controlled by a computer located behind sixteen inches of metal, and unreachable from this side of the door.

The computer, however, had a terminal inside the short hallway - a terminal, as well as several input sources.

Mantraps came in several levels of complexity - and the one Doug faced was the most complex example of all. This 'door' was state-of-the art, and designed to run the whole gamut for ultimate security.

There was a camera, connected to the computer and capable of complex pattern-matching that would allow it to 'recognize' an individual.

There was a microphone, also connected to the computer, that could verify a voice-print match with the individual.

The microphone was also run through a filter that measured stress levels - and, combined with the polygraph machine connected to the hand-plate mounted on wall, was capable of performing as a 'lie detector', able to tell if the person trying to use the mantrap was involved in some sort of deception.

In short, this particular high-security mantrap was designed to not only recognize if the person had the right to enter or exit the room, it was also capable of telling if that person was probably planning something destructive to the company - since a 'traitor' or 'saboteur' would almost definitely be nervous or stressed at what they were planning to do.

If the computer detected any unauthorized or unfriendly attempt, it would keep the individual trapped within its confines, and signal security.

Doug, however, knew that things would be different in his case. After all - Jennifer Laslo had made sure of that.

Laslo was the head of SynBioTech's security division - and an elite division it was. With many government contracts, SynBioTech was about as security conscious as the CIA and Fort Knox combined, and so it only hired the crème de la crème, as well as using the latest and greatest hi-tech security devices.

Given the nature of the company, it wasn't all that surprising that it's owners also sometimes called on security division to perform some more... exotic duties.

Like 'cleaning up' after a 'field test' of a new compound. After all, the only way the company could be utterly positive that a new serum - say, a sort of mind-control serum - worked properly was in a real- world test on an unsuspecting target. If the designer of that particular compound chose to test the power of his new drug on a woman who had turned him down in a particularly public and embarrassing way, turning her into his 'willing' sex-toy for forty-eight hours before completely wiping her mind of the experience, that was deemed more than acceptable - a sort of 'motivational' tool to help with the development, you could say. After all, there was always the Security Division to 'clean it up' if something went wrong, as in the case of a woman not quite forgetting the situation, and sure she'd been raped - though, the company had been happy to find, the woman - a certain Lisa Trulove

- couldn't remember by who...

Laslo had made sure that the Lisa wouldn't pursue the matter - but that hadn't been the end of it. No, Laslo had finally found the straw that had broken this particular camels' back - and she'd decided to make sure that Doug received the punishment she so believed he so richly deserved.

Keeping it hidden behind her poker face, the muscular woman had bided her time, waiting for just the right moment - and had gotten it, when the off-site lab Doug was attached to had been shut down for one of it's yearly 'cleaning', wherein all useful data would be transferred to secure vaults, and everything else destroyed, insuring no paper trail would ever lead back to the powerful men who stood in the shadows and directed SynBioTech's research.

The labs were supposed to be cleared out and left empty for the three-month-long procedure - but the team responsible for the work was Laslo's, and she'd made damned sure that Doug wouldn't be leaving, as her official log would say he did.

While he was in his lab, Laslo had reprogrammed the mantrap...

...to recognize only one authorized user, one that didn't exist.

In the beauty of Laslo's carefully crafted plan, the only person capable of using the mantrap now was one that Doug could, with effort, become.

The only authorized user also happened to be a female.

Laslo had known the project Doug had been working on, and she'd known what it could do. She'd used that information to carefully craft a fate for Doug that he was capable of achieving, if he so decided.

For that was the final, most humiliating factor of her vengeance. Doug had to willingly choose to take this 'out'.

He could, if he wished, simply remain in the lab for the three months, alone. It was faintly possible that Doug could manage to come up with a way of surviving that long, using some of the equipment and supplies to create some sort of 'supplement' that would sustain him without food.

Perhaps.

The other choice was to go through with Laslo's revenge, and make himself meet the requirements that she' so thoughtfully detailed on disk that had been with the package of clothes that would complete the transformation.

Though disturbing and humiliating, the physical transformation wasn't inherently the worst part. Though he'd be turning himself into a woman, at least outwardly, Doug knew that the transformation could be reversed, once he got to the head of the company, revealed Laslo's perfidy, and was allowed back into the lab.

Laslo, however, was well aware of this scenario - and had moved to block it...

The mantrap required a voiceprint identification. Originally, it had been straightforward: "My name is Douglas Fram, and I am engaged in research for the benefit of BioSynTech."

The computer would match up not only the voice-print, but the 'lie detector' results, ensuring that he's spoken the truth about identity and purpose.

The phrase Laslo had programmed it with, now, was completely different, and spoken in a feminine voice she'd supplied a computer-generated sample of, based on what Doug was capable of producing.

'She' not only had to say it - she had to believe it, at least well enough to fool the computer into accepting that she believed herself to be speaking the truth.

Which was why the individual who had once been Douglas Fram, biogeneticist, was staring vapidly at the computer screen, deep under the influence of the mind-control serum as the computer finished replaying the commands Doug had recorded into it.

After the recorded commands stopped playing, for several seconds the seated figure did absolutely nothing, mind struggling between 'real' thoughts and 'implanted' ones...

...and then, with a horrifying willingness, Doug let his own mind slip downward below that of the imposed mindset he'd had to give himself to escape, trusting on his own genius to beat Laslo's plan.

The figure blinked - and then slowly stood.

The figure turned and began walking towards the mantrap. With a grace born of two weeks of nearly constant practice - required to meet one of the visual parameters encoded into the mantrap - the figure balanced easily atop the six-inch stiletto heels that beat out a staccato cadence on the tile floor.

The fluorescent lights of the labs, so harsh and unforgiving to human flesh tones, were so much more effective against the gleaming black leather of the knee-high booths that those heels were attached to, much less the matching garment that - just barely - enclosed a torso that, more than the two weeks of enforced starvation, was made all the more slender by the fact of its painfully tight built-in corset.

Reaching the inner door that enclosed this end of the 'hallway' that was the heart of the mantrap, the figure's full, deep-red lips curved in a slight sneer at the weakness Doug had felt in the face of the device.

After all, it was a mantrap - and she was definitely anything but.

With absolutely no hesitation, she reached out with one slender hand, its long, wickedly sharp blood-red nail pressing the button that swung the vault door open.

With a calm confidence, she entered the mantrap, her stride firm and unwavering as she moved to the exact center of the device. Behind her, the door swung shut again, its heavy metallic 'ka-chunk' not the least bit intimidating.

Quite willingly striking the proud - and proudly feminine - pose the computer demanded, she lay one hand on the plate set into the wall for that purpose, and spoke in a clear, strong, and undeniably feminine voice.

"My name is Mistress Domina Femininita." She said, her chemically-tightened vocal cords creating a rich, strongly feminine contralto that rang in the metal-walled cubical. "Jennifer Laslo freed this quintessential, powerful, female me from the pathetic shell of a human being, and I wish to reward her gift by allowing the world to experience the pure essence of untainted femininity that I have become."

There was no dramatic pause. With circuits working at electronic speeds that measured in microseconds, the computer compared the data it received from its sensors with that which it had stored in its electronic gizzards - and decided that everything indicated that the woman in the chamber, who matched its physical parameters to a 't', was indeed speaking the truth.

With a metallic clanking of bolts being retracted, the door hissed open on its hydraulic arms.

Head held high, her supple, muscular body moving with a panther's limber grace, the leather clad vision of strong, feminine sexuality exited the mantrap atop her six-inch stiletto heels.

'Well done, my egotistical alter-ego...' Doug congratulated the created feminine person from deep beneath its surface. 'You've served your purpose, so... Valhalla!'

Of course, it wasn't really that way. It wasn't a conversation, for there were no true words formed in the 'sub-mind-to-imposed-min' conversation. It was, rather, more like an internal dialogue, the way a con-man, in the middle of defrauding somebody, might keep up a pleasant smile and believable line of patter even as he internally gloated over the other person's gullibility. After all, every person on earth, except for the extremely young or the extremely simplistic, have a multitude of interior mental layers that are undergoing 'cross-talk' at any given time. The dieter, arguing the pros and cons of a chocolate éclair, would sound schizophrenic if they gave voice to that internal debate.

In the case of the figure that exited the mantrap, the spilt was artificial, and thus more sharply defined. The 'upper' mind, the one controlling their altered physical form, was that of the woman that the man-trap would allow to leave, while the much more complex inner mind was that of the man who'd inhabited the unaltered body, the one disgusted with what he'd 'willing' done to his body and mind, but who had planned for it, including the pre-programmed trigger to return control to himself, the one he'd just given.

The emphatically feminine figure stumbled atop her heels, face registering a moment of pure shock before sliding into a mask of confusion. She slumped against the wall, long-nailed hands coming up to press against her temples as she gasped, eyes screwed closed at the mental pressure the command had generated.

Doug had set up 'Domina' to deny her the knowledge of 'his' continued existence, while instilling in her the honest beliefs necessary to let her exit the mantrap. He'd planted the command in her mind, the one he'd triggered to call his home-made Valkyrie home - but he'd never expected what was happening.

Active resistance.

Rather than simply fading away, Domina heard Doug in her mind, felt the force of the command and recognized it's import...

...and fought against it.

"Get out.. of my.. head... you... pathetic.. worm.." Domina ground out between her teeth, fighting Doug for control of their shared, feminine mouth. "You.. were supposed.. to vanish..."

A second later, that voice spoke again - in a slightly different tone, and a completely different cadence.

"This is.. my body.. you... artificial Amazon..." Doug said through their lips. "I brought you... into the world.. and now.. I'm... taking you... out!"

Knowing that 'Domina' was just a wayward fragment of his own mind, Doug bent his will to subduing it, slowly straightening from the slump into a less feline, less unselfconscious pose than Domina had used...

...even as he continued to fight against the attempted rise of the imposed mindset that just refused to fade away.

"Why won't you just die...?" Doug muttered in his feminine voice as he self-consciously ankled towards the front doors atop the damned heels he hated having learned to walk in.

Doug didn't smoke, and he'd always been rangy of build, so had never had to diet. Had he performed these, or any other difficult 'will-power' tasks, he would have immediately recognized the refusal of that part of his mind to simply go away.

Will power or not, the part of his mind he'd remade into Domina refused to give up, continuing to whisper into a mental ear about how much easier, how much more enjoyable, life would be if he just gave in...

Trying to block that small voice away, Doug headed for the entrance of the building, planning on finding the proper people to reveal Laslo to, so he could get his own, male body back.

With every step, his own expertise in heels humiliated him - and yet he was also embarrassed by the fact that anybody who might see him would see the awkward, gingerly manner in which he ankled along atop those heels, an outward sign of his humiliation in a body that wouldn't reveal the reason for it.

The figure he now cut was a distinctive one. Of just slightly above average height for a man, the altered body he'd created would be perceived as a tall woman, athletic but attractive. Long of leg and slender of hip, the somewhat broad-shouldered figure lost nothing for it, since the legs were shapely in their covering of leather and fishnet stockings, so well shown by the high hips of the mostly-corset garment that just barely enclose her altered crotch, and whose upper straps barely covered the nipples of the amazingly firm, full, EEE-cup breasts riding on her chest, their size and firm cleavage minimizing the wider shoulders that held her strong-yet-feminine arms.

Her make-up was bold and almost threatening, dark red lipstick and dark eye-shadow working with a strong-jawed, sharp-featured face that, far from looking masculine in this context, looked awesomely, powerfully feminine.

Doug was not a magician, and even his most powerful, most exotic compounds couldn't have made great alterations to his bone structures - so Laslo had carefully crafted a new look for the feminine being he'd become, taking that into account.

Rangy-but-unremarkable in a man became powerfully sensual in a woman, the ropy muscles covered in a thin, softening layer of 'padding' his compounds had created. Likewise, the face had needed only much fuller, pouting lips and longer, sultry lashes surrounding a permanently heavy-lidded look to turn a 'prissy' male face into a sultry, challenging female one.

Slim, for a man, Doug's new female figure was made more of an hourglass by a painfully tight corset that compressed the waist by a good three inches - while more compounds had 'inflated' both chest and ass to reinforce that impression, leaving behind a buxom, leggy woman with a feminine muscularity that stayed well below the 'body-builder' range.

With once-bland brown hair died a rich, glossy black and pulled into a tight pony-tail to better accent the well-defined cheekbones, 'Domina' gave every impression of being a strong, self-confident, sexually and socially dominating woman whose leather-and-stainless-steel ensemble, complete with long black whip hanging from a steel 'D'-ring on her right hip and black leather collar and cuffs, only served to reinforce the powerfully feminine impression of her figure...

...and yet she was moving with an awkward self-consciousness that made her look utterly ludicrous.

Not because 'she' was a man playing at being female, something no casual observer could ever tell, but because the form and figure of what should be a powerfully feminine figure was walking about with a wooden, awkward stride. Like that of a man uncomfortably trying to navigate in heels - and with the oddest expression on a face that should have been carved in lines of erotic self-confidence.

The thought actually generated was: 'God, I must look like an idiot...'

How it registered as 'God, you're making me look like an idiot!' - in Domina's 'voice', a disgusted sneer.

What made it all the worse was that Doug knew damned well what the 'real' thought was, and why it had come out that way - but it was going through a subconscious filter that he was unable to alter so much as a whit, just another unwanted thought zipping across the surface of the brain. Just as he could - and had - been ashamed by thinking unwanted sexual thoughts about a married woman with her husband right there, so he felt humiliated and disgusted by this thought - but, as in the other case, he was helplessly to stop it from happening.

Likewise, the knowledge that he could do it better, having practiced just that thing to confuse the computer, meant that that knowledge came through as a demand from Domina to let her do it for them.

It was an internal 'argument' that Doug couldn't control - and worst of all, it revealed something about his own subconscious mind that bothered the hell out of him.

The reason 'Domina' hadn't simply vanished was because 'Doug' didn't want her to.

Some part of his mind was intrigued by the notion of playing out the role he was trapped in, living out the persona he'd created. Perhaps not permanently - perhaps, if he gave into it, it would satisfy adventure's call, and Domina would fade away...

...but Doug didn't want to give into it and find out.

Or, rather, the 'straight, red-blooded American Male' Doug wished-he-was-but-knew-he-wasn't didn't want to want to give in to the urge to 'play' Domina.

However, even deeper down, the part that didn't really want to be the 'big man' that everybody liked and respected did want to give it a shot, even though it was also the part that knew that it was 'safest' conforming to what society expected of him...

...except that 'Domina' was quick to point out that society expected something completely different from the form he was currently wearing, and Domina was, of course, only a mental voice that reflected what his own mind was saying back to him, just in a different way.

Like the dieter knowing damned well the chocolate éclair would be a bad idea, but found excuses to do it anyway, Doug knew that 'playing Domina' was wrong - at least in the eyes of the society that had indoctrinated him...

...but found the 'excuse' to do it anyway as he drew closer to the front door - where, even at this distance, he could identify the security guard at its post.

As simple as that - and it was once again Domina swaying with seductive feline grace down the hallway, a cool, challenging smile on her full, deep-red lips.

Except, of course, it wasn't 'Domina' - but Doug, playing the role that he'd already proven he could play well enough to fool the computer, since there was - and had ever been - only one mind inside the body that his own chemicals and compounds had altered.

Approaching Jennifer Laslo, Doug/Domina braced him/herself for the test...

"Let me get the door for you, Mistress Domina..." Laslo said with an ill-concealed grin, after one glance at the powerful, sultry stride and the haughty expression of Domina's face.

'That's even easier than the computer...' Domina thought behind her faint sneer. 'I look - and act - the way she's expecting, so she doesn't even question it...'

As she slipped by her tormentor without so much as a glance, a strange exultation flowed through Domina at the realization of how much power she now held.

It was the ultimate disguise.

Nothing she did, in this body, was attributed to 'Doug' - not even by somebody who knew what had happened.

To a complete stranger, it would be a completely unbreakable disguise.

Stunned with the realization, she swaggered down to the parking lot, mind ablaze with the possibilities.

"looky looky what we got here..." A voice drawled, ironically.

"What you supposed to be - robo-bitch...?" Another male voice asked.

Domina looked at the two insolently smiling men leaning against a lamppost, drinking beer and trading what was obviously a joint back and forth, taking advantage of the remote and abandoned parking lot for some 'recreation'.

"I..." Doug announced, imperially. "Am Mistress Domina Femininita" "Oh, really...?" The man on the right asked, scornfully.

'You know, I could...'

'No! that's disgusting...!'

'But.. who would ever know...?'

"Shut up, worm!" Domina demanded - and reached out and slapped the man across the face. He started to draw himself up, face going from startled-white to angry-red...

"I can make any man obey me!" She boasted, planting her feet wide and placing her hands on her hips.

"Oh, yeah, bitch...?" The slapped man asked, advancing, while the second man carefully placed the joint on the concrete base of the light pole...

"Yes." She said - and, in one smooth motion, released the metal snap-rings holding the leather- strap-like tops of her outfit to the wide black leather collar around her neck, exposing her firm, succulent breasts.

"Though I revile you, and I slapped you..." She said, a know to guilt excitement in her constricted guts, "I demand you fondle my breasts!"

The man stopped, and gaped.

"I order you, worm!" She said, stridently. "Fondle - and suck - my tits. Do it, now, you pathetic excuse for a man - your Mistress orders you!"

The man hesitated...

...then reached out and squeezed her tits. Hard.

She slapped his hands away.

"You sad excuse for a man..." She sneered. "I didn't tell you to just squeeze them - I ordered you to fondle them. To suck them. To get right in there and play with my tits. Now don't stand at arm's length and grab me like you're expecting a dozen cops to show up and arrest you for it. Ignore any risk or doubt - play with my tits. I order it!"

The man's face was an interesting study in contrasts...

...but he obeyed. Oh, did he obey...

Struggling to keep her own, conflicting emotions off her face, she also struggled to ignore the mixture of pleasure and a modicum of pain from the man's ministrations as she turned to his friend.

"Mistress Domina orders you to get that pathetic little nub you call a cock hard for me..." She said. "Go on, get that wimpy little dick of yours had. Not just 'less soft' - but as big and iron-hard as your pathetic manhood has ever been in you entire sad excuse for a life..."

The man didn't take much prompting...

Slipping the whip from it's ring, Domina reached out and let it uncoil, until she was lightly letting it's mid-point sway over the rising bulge in the man's pants.

"Harder, worm... make it harder..." She snarled - then, with one hand, shoved the tit-fondling man away from her.

"Get undressed." She ordered. "Right here, right now - get completely naked, and let me see your cock - and I order you to have a big, hard, cunt-pleasing cock, to be as rigid and ready as you've ever been in your life by the time you're naked."

The man heisted - and she let the whip snap close to him.

"Strip, now, you useless dick-carrier!" She ordered. "The only think you have to offer any woman, much less one like me, is the possibility of a big, thick, ready-to-use cock - so show it to me, now!"

The man, awkwardly at first, began to undress.

"You!" She snapped at the second man. "Get those pants down around your ankles...!" Sharing a look with his friend, the second man began to undress as well.

The first man tossed his clothes in a pile - and she sent the whip cracking closer then before. "I said naked, worm!" She snarled. "Get those socks off..!"

The man nearly fell over trying to comply.

"Now..." She said, pointing at the man who was naked - as she slowly bent forward, leaving her outthrust as stuck up in the air as she reached down and released to more clasps, letting the triangle of leather that covered her crotch hand free. "I command you to fuck me long and hard with your pathetic excuse for a cock!"

She snapped her gaze to the half-naked man. "You, I command you to shove that tiny dick of yours between my lips. I'm not going to do a damned thing but close my lips and suck a little - but you'd better face-fuck me until you pump a load of cum down my throat. Not some pathetic little dribble, either - I command you to pump a big, hot, thick load of cum down my throat, worm!"

The men stared at her...

"Mistress Domina commands you!" She screamed. "You must obey...!" They obeyed...

* * * * *

Wide-eyed, unable to tear her eyes off the high-resolution digital security monitor, the slender, dark- haired woman watched 'Domina' go at it with the two men, right there in the otherwise empty parking lot.

"He.. I mean, she, really does believe she's 'getting away' with this, doesn't she...?" Lisa Trulove breathed, stunned. "She doesn't know.. doesn't remember.. anything, does she?"

"Oh 'she' remembers..." Laslo said, grinning wickedly. "It's just that her 'memory' has nothing to do with reality. With Doug's ego, it was easy to convince him that he'd actually gone through with 'raping' you - and even easier to get him to believe that he'd invented some chemicals and compounds that could feminize a man in a few days."

Watching the monitor herself, Laslo's grin widened.

After all, after bookish, awkward Doug had royally screwed up his attempted field test, he'd become a liability to the company - who, in turn, had been more than happy to help Laslo make the problem 'disappear', albeit in a less permanent way than usual.

Especially since it incorporated an 'ultimate' field-test for Doug's compound - thanks to which, Doug had no conscious memory of the past year, or how he 'willingly' went through everything involved in Sexual Reassignment Surgery.

He - or, legally, she - had no memory of the legal name-and-gender change that made 'Domina' more than a mental fiction. She thought that this was all some sort of 'mind game', and that - after playing around in a way that 'nobody would ever know about', she'd change herself back into a man, with a secret she could laugh about in the future.

Well, when Domina got home, she'd find all the evidence she needed to verify the memories that would come back with the 'mental trigger' that would release them - and, upon learning that the 'persona' that was now cheerfully getting fucked by two men in a parking lot was the one and only persona she'd ever be able to present the world - and, that thanks to his/her own serum, she was now, quite literally, helplessly addicted to 'forcing' men to have sex with her...

Well, Laslo was pretty damned sure that there wasn't much laughter in Doug/Domina's near future.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A detective undergoes changes go under-cover, but he does not realize how much he is going to be changed.

A Matter Of Belief

By Gunslinger

*Twenty Feet Below the 'Golden Goddess Club'

*October 21st, 1999 - 11:56 p.m.

Desireé awoke, feeling confused and strange, and not knowing why. She stared for a second at the plain ceiling above her bed...

Her brow furrowed. 'Her'? Was that right? It sounded right, but didn't feel right, for some reason. Why was that?

Her head began to pound with sharp, excruciating blasts of pain as she tried to consider the question and her face went pale and beaded with sweat at the pain. Quickly she pushed the thought away from her - it certainly wasn't worth the agony, she decided in an instant. Still, it nagged her at the back of her mind, even if she feared to haul it out into the open and examine it.

Leaving the question aside - at least for the moment - Desireé sat up...

...well, tried to. There was more weight on her chest than she'd expected, and she hadn't put enough oomph into her motion.

With a powerful movement, she pushed herself into a sitting position on the bed she found herself in...

For a second, her mind refused to identify the objects blocking her downward view by rising out of her chest. Then it registered.

Tits. The most incredibly perfect set of mammary glands she'd ever seen. They were big, the size of cantaloupes - and almost as spherical. They were utterly perfect, filling her downward view with the expanse of their smooth, flawless skin and the large, thick nipples that topped the domed aureole at the ends of her gigantic breasts.

Then, like a double-imposed photo-negative, Desireé felt a strange... doubling in her mind.

Part of her was shocked, horrified, disgusted, outraged, amazed.... and another part was... overjoyed? Ecstatic? Proud?

"You volunteered for bigger breasts?"

"Yes."

"Because you need bigger tits to work at the strip club." "Yes."

"Isn't it also because you don't like being flat chested? Isn't it because nobody pays any attention to you when you're flat chested? Isn't that also why?"

"Yes."

"Men would shudder, look away. You had to wear concealing clothing, avoid public exposure - right?" "Yes."

"But - with bigger tits, men would pay attention to you. You can wear skimpy clothing. Undress in front of people. Bigger tits let you do these things - and more. Right?"

"Yes."

Desireé wasn't sure where the strange, voiceless conversation in her mind came from. It was if there were two silent voices in her head - or maybe three. All she knew was that the conversation was, somehow, both true - and nothing but lies.

A bolt of pain rushed through her head, causing her to clench her teeth. She shoved the thoughts she was having aside, before the pain could begin to pulsate, the agony shooting through her nerve- ending like liquid fire.

Instead, she looked down at the glorious tits thrust roundly from her chest, drooping only slightly as they hung there, moving with each breath she took.

Yes, they were perfect. They were quite large, but they were far from freakishly enormous. They'd let her work at the strip club. They'd let her get the attention of men. That's what she'd wanted...

...hadn't she?

Again came that strange doubling, as two part of her brain answered at the exact same time. 'Yes/No'

Ignoring the confusion - again, for the moment - Desireé swung her long, sexy legs over the edge of the bed...

"You are going to work at a strip club, and you think bigger tits and a thinner waist will be enough?" The voice was incredulous.

"Yes...." He agonized between the answers. "...no..."

"What should a woman working at a strip club have? Sexier legs? Incredible ass?" The voice asked. "A nice face? Long, slender fingers...?"

"Yes..." He agreed, helplessly. "Yes to all of them."

"So, if you're going to work at a strip club... you should have all of these too?" "Yes..."

* * * * *

...and forced herself into a standing position. Her gorgeous, softly firm globes jiggled enticingly, sending tiny shudders of pleasure to run through Desireé.

Walking across the impersonal, beige dorm room, Desireé reached the full-length mirror at the end of the room - and paused to stare at the image reflected back at her.

She was tall. Taller than any woman had the right to be (most of that in long, incredibly shapely legs) she managed to pull it off.

Spectacularly.

Her skin was flawless. Dusky, the shade of old Oak varnished to a high sheen. Her legs seemed to reach on up forever - and when forever arrived, it was in the form of trim, athletic (yet very feminine, as well - oh so feminine) hips and an ass that was so impossibly 'full-and-firmly packed' perfect that it would make weaker men faint.

The swell of those hips were made to seem even more womanly beneath the graceful upsweep of her waist that tightened it to an impossibly slender hourglass.

Tits that were almost the size of volleyballs, globes that rose so firmly, so proudly, so impossibly spherical from her chest as to defy the imagination, rather than the law of gravity.

Thrust from the darker, rounded aureole rose nipples the length and thickness of a man's thumb from the knuckle. Nipples that looked as if they were perpetually aroused, unbelievable sensitive -

- and they were.

Topping the long, slender neck that rose from the slightly wide shoulders was a face that was a study in darkly mysterious sensuality. Huge, dark, seductive eyes, framed by long, dark lashes. A broad- yet-feminine nose that showed both pride - and submission.

A mouth - a mouth so full, so perfectly formed, with a small (and permanent) knowing smile etched in her lush lips.

All in a heart-shaped face surrounded by a massive, silky mane of curly black hair.

And what first came to her mind - from a place that was much, much deeper down in her subconscious than the programming had reached - was powerful enough to smash through the barrier that the programming had labored to create.

'God...' Desireé thought. 'I'd love to fuck her...' Then the tremendous realization came...

"I'm a man!" Desireé screamed in a rich, throaty voice. "What am I doing? What am I thinking..."

Then, she doubled over, almost vomiting at the searing pain that flashed through every nerve ending in her body.

Desireé cried out, her rich, husky voice becoming falsetto soprano in agony. Two desperate needs assaulted her with equal strength - the need to hang on to the knowledge of who she was and what had been done to her - and the need to shove it as far away as possible and escape the searing pain she felt. The fact that she realized that she'd been 'programmed' to feel this pain if she thought about her past and her real identity in no way lessened the pain itself. The fact that it was an induced, psychosomatic agony made it no less real.

Gasping, Desireé pulled away from her thoughts and memories, and the searing agony faded away, leaving her pale and shaking.

But she didn't let the truth slide away from her completely. No matter how expertly somebody tries to brain-wash a person, there is always a few 'loopholes', places where the programming is less than perfect. Because of this, Desireé wasn't locked into the new personality they'd imprinted on her.

Although the imprinting was expertly done, it wasn't seamless - and that first thought, from deeper in her psyche than they'd managed to change, had allowed her to see the seams for what they were. It might be extremely painful for her to think her 'real' thoughts - but she could tell that the painless thoughts weren't her own.

She couldn't think about the reasons why she had to get out of here, to get away - but, just thinking about getting away itself was another story....

Before her urgency could fade - it would be painful to remind herself why she was doing this, after all - she turned towards the closet at the far end of the room and walked towards it with a determined - yet oh-so-sexy - stride. Even as she opened the closet and began to pull clothing out, the implanted persona began its process of seeping back in, leaving its mark on what she was doing.

'God... look at all this clothing' Desireé thought, amazed at the selection of clothes - much of which wasilly or impractical.

'Just practical clothing' She thought to herself - but even now, the reasons for what she was doing were slipping away, replaced by her programmed taste in clothing.

So, the plain black panties and matching long-line bra she picked were fairly 'practical'. About the only effect the programming had at that point was the fact she wasn't uncomfortable about putting on the women's underwear - and the fact that she could do it easily, especially the strapless long-line EEE-cup bra, with its dozen's of eye-hooks in the back. She shrugged into the garment and clasped it into place without any trouble - without really even having to think about it.

By the time she chose the pants, a little more of the implanted persona had slipped in - so she bypassed the one pair of jeans in the closet, and went for the pair of pants hanging in the corner.... even as part of her yearned for a skirt instead, to show off her phenomenal legs.

Instead, she wiggled and squeezed her way into the pair of black leather pants she'd chosen.

They were so skin-tight, that they did a pretty good job of showing off her long, sexy legs anyway - but they did an mind-boggling job of showing off her absolutely spectacular ass.

For a shirt, she found herself picking out a white blouse with a V-neck. Actually, the blouse was little more than the V-neck - with no buttons or fasteners, the blouse - with frills at the collar, edges, shoulders and cuffs - was wrapped around the body and tied at the bottom to hold it in place - displaying a wide 'vee' that exposed a good deal of cleavage, and even her belly-button. The long- line bra underneath looked almost like an undershirt, which kept the blouse - barely - within the laws regarding 'indecent exposure'.

The boots were a good sign that the implanted persona was coming back strong - made of black leather, they were knee high, with fifty little metal hooks per boot for the long laces that, when pulled tight, practically molded the long leather boot to her leg.

Of course, the six-inch stiletto heel on the boots emphasized the legs even further - as well as her magnificent ass.

An even better sign of which personality was controlling most of her actions at this point was the fact that she didn't even consider it - she just went ahead and carefully applied her make-up, and picked out the right jewelry for this outfit.

She paused to admire the effect in the mirror, lightly fluffing her raven mane as she eyed her spectacular figure. With a small, satisfied smile, she threw a purse (almost empty, as she had nothing of value - but it went with the outfit) over one shoulder and headed to the door. Putting a slender, ring bedecked hand on the knob, her slender fingers closed around the brass-colored metal of the handle and turned...

..or tried to. The handle moved a fraction of an inch before becoming immobile. The door was locked.

Desireé looked at the door with annoyance, her smooth brow forming into small - but endearing - creases.

"The dirty bastards..." She breathed - and it was both the original persona and the implanted one that spoke the words, as both disliked the thought of being locked in.

While programming the new Desireé, Peter and his cohorts had made a couple of mistakes, but perhaps none so great as this - wanting the new woman to be a seductive, sensual vision of erotic femininity, they hadn't made her a brainless bimbo, obedient, servile - and stupid.

Now, even though the implanted personality was almost completely in control, Desireé still didn't like being treated like a prisoner - which allowed her to push just slightly past the layer of programming...

With a gasp, she pulled away from what she'd touched in the past, the sharp sting of pain lasting but a second - but it was enough. It might hurt for her to try and remember where she'd learned to pick locks - but the skill itself was available, and she put it to use.

Her purse contained few items, mostly make-up and the like - plus some hair-care essential. Such as bobby-pins.

Within seconds, Desireé heard the satisfying 'click' as she massaged the tumblers into line. Holding the pick in place with one hand, she used the other to turn the knob and swing the door open.

With a small, self-satisfied smile - wholly 'Desireé' - she stepped out into the hallway beyond...

...and almost into the arms of a security guard patrolling the corridor.

Her first thought - 'God, he's cute' - was all Desireé. Then the startled guard made a grab for her...

...and what came next came from well below 'the layer' of imprinted programming.

As a youth, 'Desireé' had been rather scrawny. His parents, eager to provide young 'Desireé' with everything they couldn't have, had sent him to a rather snobby school, where he was the only 'Wop', and subject to... certain attention. After a few fights, his father had also enrolled him in the then uncommon School of Martial Arts.

It was this older, well established mode of thought that took control when Desireé felt the man's hand clamp on her forearm. In one smooth, graceful move (What her new body lacked in strength it more than made up for in speed and grace) she lifted her leg sharply, kneeing the guard in the stomach. As he bent over from the impact, her leg rose again, smashing his nose - and, instinctively, he brought his hands to his shattered, bloody nose.

Released, she brought both hands down on the nape of his neck, knocking him unconscious.

As the man collapsed, she was already in motion. Although she was perched atop six-inch stilettos, her 'programming' had provided her the skill to move easily atop the high, slender heels, and she hurried down the corridor to the elevator that lifted her one floor, to the main floor of the club.

If the commune had been paranoid enough to put the elevator under the control of a remote operator, watching the occupant via video... But, they hadn't, counting on their programming to keep the 'girls' in line. Thanks to this oversight, Desireé had no problem reaching the main floor of the strip-club.

Dashing down a short hallway, past the change-rooms, she found herself in the crowded area of the main lounge.

There was a sexy, unbelievably large-breasted woman going through the motions on stage. Ignoring the incredibly endowed performer, Desireé began to move through the throngs of men drooling over the stripper, earning more than a few appreciative looks as she did so.

Part of her was overjoyed at the look of lust the men gave her - and the part that wasn't was below 'the layer'. So she refused to find out why such attention from men was so disconcerting. Instead, she made her way to the exit, keeping her eyes peeled for any signs of security.

There was one guard near the door - but what had happened to his comrade had happened too soon for him to have heard about it. As she stepped through the doorway - fighting the hordes of men struggling to enter the over-crowded club - she shot him a smile. Startled, he blinked and smiled back, as she twiddled her fingers at him and walked past. Since all the 'girls' working at the club were pre-conditioned, the guard - practically drooling - assumed that Desireé was a girlfriend of one of the customers, dragged here against her will to see 'other' women strip.

The thought that she was a 'working girl' whose programming wasn't quite comprehensive never occurred to him. After all - he'd been working the strip-club for over three months, and his only work had been to 'bounce' the drunks and psychos - never to stop one of the 'girls' from leaving.

To tell the truth, the guard didn't even know the truth behind the 'girls' downstairs - only certain, very carefully selected guards knew that the women were kept under lock-and-key....

...and even fewer knew the true reason why. So it wasn't all that surprising that the guard didn't try to stop her from leaving.

Wiggling and swaying seductively, Desireé walked across the parking lot, looking confident, sexy and sultry....

...while, behind the gorgeous face with the slight, knowing smile, her mind worked frantically to figure out where she was going to go from here.

"Well, hello there gorgeous!" A voice said from nearby, and Desireé turned towards it, unwillingly feeling a surge of pride and pleasure at the compliment, as offhand and crass as it might be.

The man who'd spoke was a tall, slender black man with a shock of curly hair and a pitted face as a result of bad teen acne in his not-so-recent pass.

Desireé wasn't sure how to take the revelation that she didn't find the speaker at all attractive to her. Part of her was overjoyed that she wasn't about to come-on to any man she met (although why she was happy about that, she wasn't exactly sure - what was wrong about being attracted to men...?), while another part wondered why not.

"Hello." Desireé said, not unfriendly, but cool.

The man's smile slipped a bit, and he shrugged. "Oh, well..." He said, mostly to himself - then, louder. "Need a lift somewhere, miss?"

Desireé's smile widened a bit. "Well - yes, I do, actually."

The man held out a hand. "Robby's the name, and computers are my game. Howdja do?"

Shaking his hand, Desireé introduced herself. Robby opened the door of his '87 Chevy Caprice for her, and she slid inside.

"Where to, milady?" Robby said, sketching a bow from behind the wheel.

Now - that was the question, wasn't it? Gritting her teeth, Desireé closed her eyes and pushed past the veil between the implanted and the real personas....

Pain flared, and she gasped, causing Robby to start in concern. But in the instant Desireé was feeling the pain, she was already pulling back from it, and she opened her eyes and smiled wanly at Robby, giving him an address.

"Uh are you sure you're okay?" Robby asked, and Desireé would have been touched by his concern - if not for the fact that, having 'refreshed' her original persona, she was struggling to deal with the fact that she was a woman, a gorgeous, sexy woman alone in a car with a man who obviously found her attractive.

"Yeah - I just left my meds at home. That's why I'm in a hurry to get there." She said - finding it a convenient excuse to get Robby to hurry. She supposed he was a nice enough guy, but she wanted to get through this as quickly as possible.

"Okay - hold on to your hat, Desireé." Robby said - and obliged her by pushing the big car as hard as he dared to get her 'home' as quickly as possible.

* * * * *

Desireé watched the tail-lights of Robby's car vanished, then turned to the building she was standing in front of, and frowned slightly.

She had given Robby this address, she could remember that clearly - but she could no longer remember why she'd given him this address, other than it was something she'd pulled out of her painful past, something from the time when she'd been....

Pain seared through her at the inadvertent reach into the past, and even as the knowledge that she wasn't really a woman re-flooded her mind, she began to push it away...

Then stopped. She ground her teeth, enduring the pain as her mind wandered through 'forbidden' territory - then she finally let her mind pull away, bemused.

The pain hadn't been as strong this time. And more of her past remained with her than before.

The programming had never really taken into consideration this sequence of events - every time she broke past the barrier, she dragged part of her past through the barrier and into the implanted persona's 'safe zone'

To use a metaphor - it was as if her past was under a layer of acid. It hurt to reach through - but once she'd brought something out, she could leave it on this side of the barrier. The metaphor went even farther, though - if she'd pulled something through a layer of acid, it would be coated with acid, and would be painful to touch - but that would fade as the acid 'ran down'.

And that's what was happening to her mind. It hurt like hell to reach through the layer - but the thoughts she'd dragged out the first time she did, which were so painful at the time, could now be looked at with only moderate agony. As time passed, they would become less and less painful to look at.

With a growing hope that, perhaps, there might be a chance to regain herself, Desireé opened the door of the building and climbed the short set of inner steps. There was a security system locking the inner door - but, somehow, Desireé found she knew the code, and punched it in.

She climbed up the flight of stairs just inside the security door, and stood in front of the wide, sliding metal Fire Door that led into the apartment proper of the building's sole occupant...

...even though Desireé couldn't remember who that was.

Hesitantly, her heart pounding, Desireé lifted one slender hand and thumped on the fire door. There was a short pause, and Desireé lifted her hand again, when the door slid open.

A short, perky blonde, dressed only in a bathrobe but obviously not just awakened, gazed out at her. Behind her, a startlingly handsome, well-muscled man was just tying off a bathrobe of his own as he eyed what he could see of Desireé past the shorter blonde. A few feet away from the man stood a block of clay, out of which rose an amazingly realistic bust of the man, despite only being half-finished.

"Can I help you?" the woman asked, eyeing Desireé.

"I... I hope so..." Desireé asked, finding herself at a loss for words. How was she going to explain ?

"I... I think we know each other... that is "

The woman's mouth quirked. "No, I don't think we've met." She said - but her eyes went to Desireé's face for a better look. Her brows drew in together as her eyes narrowed, and she studied Desireé's face...

Then, slowly, her mouth dropped open as her eyes widened. "Dennis....?" She asked, sounding stunned...

...and that one word set off a chain reaction in Desireé's mind.

Screaming - a horrific, gut-wrenching sound - Desireé collapsed as her past suddenly smashed through her mind, tearing through the programming, shattering the anchors of both personas as the pain carried her away...

* * * * *

*The Office of D. Farianno, PI

*September 29th, 1999 - 9:21 a.m. "Damn it!"

The micro-recorder flew across the room, smashing into the far wall. Battery cover and tape carrier popped open, the tiny tape and triple-'A' batteries making musical overtones among the dull 'thock' of the recorder dropping to the faded hardwood floor of the office.

Dennis Farianno rose from the desk, his brow furrowed with frustration and his dark eyes smoldering with anger. With quick, nervous movements, the tall, dark-haired man began to pace around the room, his hands betraying his Italian ancestry by punctuating his words as he muttered to himself.

"There has to be a way, goddammit!" Unnoticed, the small micro-cassette crunched underfoot as he paced over the wreckage of the small recorder. "Three fuckin' months, and nothing. Not one goddamn lead! Jesus H. Christ - Fort Knox would be easier to get into than this place!"

Frustrated, the athletic man banged his fist against the wall, causing a brief shower of yellowed plaster as the lathes underneath creaked in protest. Hands balled into fists, Dennis resumed his pacing, swearing softly to himself as his mind worried at the problem that had become the focus of his professional - and, sometimes, personal - life.

Dennis Farianno was a private detective. Unlike the ones portrayed in movies or on TV, Dennis had never shot anyone, gotten rewarded by 'a grateful police department', or had a beautiful blonde walk into his office and proceed to initiate a torrid affair while he attempted to solve her mysterious case. Instead, the bulk of his work was divorce surveillance, skip-tracing and tracking down missing people.

It was this last type of case that he was currently involved in. A middling-wealthy couple had contacted him, worried about their daughter, who seemed to have vanished from the face of the earth. Since she was twenty-two, the parents had no real legal recourse - as an adult, their daughter didn't have to check in with her parents. But they'd wanted to find out what had happened to her, so they'd hired Dennis.

It hadn't taken Dennis all that long to trace Miriam Longley - the daughter - to a small 'cult', known as the New Horizons Collective.

The word 'cult' had driven the parents almost into a panic, and they'd offered Dennis a large sum - more than two years average profit, in fact - to contact their daughter and make sure that this is where she wanted to be, and to get a message from her to take back.

Dennis had taken the job - with no idea just what he was getting into.

Dennis had been unable to learn anything of substance about the secretive commune located about twenty-miles outside of town. In fact, the entire cult was shrouded in secrecy. No man was allowed to become a full member of the Collective until he'd been an 'acolyte' for five years. During that time, the prospective member would be sent to a special all-male camp, where he'd have to live for those five years with no contact with anyone outside. Only then would the thoroughly vetted acolyte be allowed into the main commune.

This method assured almost perfect security. There was no investigator - private or governmental - who could afford the five years it would take to get into the camp to learn what was going on.

And the commune itself is where Miriam was. She had to be - one of the odd aspects of the Collective was the fact that they didn't put female 'acolytes' through the same routine. Instead, they accepted the women directly into a special section of the commune itself, where...

Dennis came to a stop, his deep brown eyes narrowing as he considered the thought. Men couldn't get in - yet women could.

But...

But, Dennis was aware that the government was trying to keep an eye on the cult. Legally, the government couldn't demand access, or break up the commune. Yet they must have tried infiltrating female agents in - yet Dennis had seen no sign that there was an operation actually being conducted. What did that mean?

Dennis wasn't exactly a 'chauvinistic pig' - but he did have some very firmly rooted opinions about the 'gentle gender'. This bias suggested to him that, whatever the 'training' of female acolytes consisted of, it rooted out the 'plants', or converted them - in either case, a woman's will wasn't enough to stand up to whatever the Collective did in training to ferret out the false recruits.

That was why Dennis had discarded any plan involving finding a female PI to go undercover for him. Women obviously couldn't handle the work.

Now, however, a new thought began to gel in his mind. When he started this case, the thought would have been unthinkable. Even a month ago, when there was still some slim leads to track down, he would have dismissed it out of hand. But now...

"What the hell am I thinking?" Dennis asked himself out loud, disgusted. He shook his head to clear it. "I am not going to try and infiltrate in drag. Fuck, no."

Then, before the thought could be completely banished from his mind - despite his vehement denial of it - a small, still voice reminded him of the money. The large sum of money....

"God DAMN it!" Dennis swore, loudly, kicking his battered desk with anger that this seemed to be the only route open to a man who - no matter the provocation - could not pass up as much money as he'd earn in two years of drudge work.

Cursing, Dennis limped towards the door, favoring the stubbed toe he'd just acquired, and left the office.

* * * * *

"You want me to help you what?"

Dennis grimaced. "You heard me, Jen. I need you to help me look like a woman. I need to look convincingly female for a short undercover job."

The short, perky blonde eyed Dennis speculatively. "You're kidding, right?"

Dennis rolled his eyes. "Believe me - I wish I was. No, I'm serious. You gotta make me look like a woman for a while."

The petite blonde tapped one finger against her lower lip. "This isn't going to be easy, you know. You're not exactly effeminate, you know."

Dennis smiled wryly. "Thanks. That's the first time I've ever been told that my being a 'masculine' guy is a bad thing."

Jen flashed a quick smile. "Well - I'll do what I can."

Although Dennis wasn't really looking forward to spending time impersonating a woman, he was nevertheless glad - well, perhaps appreciative would be a better word - of the fact that he knew somebody who could provide 'professional' assistance.

Jennifer Louise Allbrehamma was a familiar name in the Sacramento art community. She was an Artist, with a capital 'A' - she seemed to be able to create using anything and everything at all. She was a world-class chef, a sculptor, a painter, an artist with pen, pencil, make-up, wood-working, metal- smithing, and electronics.

The reason why Dennis had come to her - aside from the fact that he'd known her for years, ever since retrieving some of her stolen artwork - was a recently unveiled series of sculptures. They were life-sized recreations of famous people throughout history. But, more than just life sized, they were incredibly life-like. By using special foam and liquid latex, she'd made the sculptures feel almost human to the touch - a sensation heightened by the tubing just under the statues 'skin' containing warm water that, heated by salvaged coffee-machine warming plates set to the right temperature and driven by a battery-powered pump, gave the figures body-temperature warmth.

That incredible degree of realism was what Dennis was hoping she could re-create for him - using himself as the framework for her latest, and most secret, 'masterpiece'.

Usually an easy-going, cheerful, friendly woman, Jen became a hard task-mistress where her work was concerned. That side of her now made an abrupt appearance. Having decided to do this for Dennis, Dennis now became a combination model and artwork himself, thus falling into her sphere of expertise - and under her 'domination' as she fell into her working mood.

"All right." She said, looking around her workshop for various items. "Strip."

Startled, Dennis gaped for a second, then shrugged and began to disrobe. It wasn't the undressing that had startled him - he'd known he'd have to be naked for her to be able to do her magic on him - but the perfunctory command itself. He'd never actually seen her at work, and this new side of her was something he'd heard about - from herself, as well as models who'd posed for her - but he'd never seen it before.

He was about to get a full helping of it.

Over the next little while she ordered him around without consideration, taking detailed measurements of almost every inch of his body - including his cock, both limp and rigid, which caused him to blush slightly.

Jen was an attractive woman, and it was getting the 'completely limp' measurement that was the most difficult. Because another one of Jen's idiosyncrasies was that she usually did her creative work completely nude, so as not to be distracted by even the slightest discomfort of clothing.

She also took pictures of him from many different angles, using a digital camera. Handing him a robe, she asked - ordered - him to go make a quick lunch and a large pot of coffee for her while she continued to work. Dennis - now past the stage where he'd even consider hesitating to respond to her imperious commands - silently padded off to the kitchen while she seated herself at her computer.

Pulling up a specially-made program - a variation of a CAD/CAM platform intermingled with a 3D virtual reality engine - she entered the measurements she'd taken, creating a wire-frame replica of Dennis in the computer, which she then 'surfaced' with the photographs, until she had a highly detailed, frighteningly realistic representation of every inch of the PI programmed in.

Then she began to make changes. Using the programs pre-set functions - saved from her work on the life-like historical figures - she began to make changes to the basic figure, with the machine automatically doing the calculations for the amounts and types of material necessary for the alterations listed. Several times the computer 'bleeped', not accepting - 'believing' was too anthropomorphic a word - that the configuration was possible. These times were when Jen's peculiar genius kicked into high gear as she fought to find a way to make her mental vision possible in the real world.

Only once did she have to even so much as compromise slightly. Every other time, after much skull sweat, she worked out some way of achieving what she wanted.

Sitting on a couch, Dennis smoked the occasional cigarette and flipped through some old art magazines during the two and a half hours it took Jen to figure out what she wanted to do, and how to do it. He enjoyed the respite, knowing that this was merely the calm before the storm.

He was right.

Once she'd worked everything out, it was time to begin the process of bringing it into being - and Jen expected Dennis to be as unresisting and unresponsive as the metal 'skeletons' she used to build her sculptures.

Dennis, needing - if not really wanting - this disguise, forced himself to be just that unemotional and unresponsive as she did her work, keeping his mouth shut and remaining perfectly still except when she told him to move, and then only moving as much as he was told.

She started by removing his hair. All of it.

Everywhere.

First she cut off his hair, starting with scissors for the bulk of it, then using an electric trimmer to gut the shorter hair down to a bristly stubble. Then she commanded him to follow her, and led him into the bathroom.

While he stood - awkward and uncomfortable - in the large shower stall she had, she first shaved every square inch of him, using up several packages of razors in the process. She started at the top, leaving his scalp bare and gleaming, then moved downwards, even removing his eyebrows and eyelashes before continuing downward to his chest, crotch, legs - even the top of his feet.

This was followed by using a depilatory creme, which stung his skin, and did more than just sting on certain, sensitive parts of his body.

It itched like crazy.

While he stood in the shower, coated from head to toe in the cream, teeth gritted against the urge to scratch, Jen threw on some clothes and disappeared to get something from somewhere else.

When she returned, it was with a special machine. After she rinsed off all the cream that coated his body, she then promptly re-coated him - this time with a special conductive gel, in which she placed the leads of the machine she'd picked up. Turning it on caused a low tingle across every inch of Dennis' skin.

When the gel was finally removed, the last remaining follicles came with it. There wasn't a single strand of hair remaining anywhere on Dennis' body, not even follicles or stubble.

Feeling decidedly strange - and rather embarrassed, Dennis stepped out of the stall, feeling cool air across bare skin, places he'd never felt air move quite like this. He shivered, damning the decision he'd made - but, this far into it, it was a little late for second thoughts. So, he tightened his lips and followed Jen's next set of instructions - specifically, to slide two 'straws' up his nose, and lay down in the bath-tub, which was now full of a special skin-softening cream. He sank into the tub, completely submerged and breathing through the two 'straws', the only things that broke the smooth surface of the creme filling the tub.

He remained in that position for the next three hours. Every minute of that time he became less and less sure that he was doing the right thing. Or, rather, that it might be the right thing - but was any amount of money worth this?

Only two things kept him from backing out - aside from the money, that was. First, the fact that he'd already started, and it was too late to walk away 'unscathed'.

And, perhaps more importantly - he didn't think Jen would let him stop. Now in her creative mood, she wasn't going to take lightly his trying to back out of what she now considered a 'work of art'.

While he soaked in the cream, Jen worked on some of the prep work for the rest of the transformation. She was ready for the next step when she finally hauled Dennis out of the tub and rinse himself off.

Dennis washed off the thick cream clinging to his body, amazed at the feel of his skin under his fingers. He'd never imagined that his own skin could be so incredibly smooth, so amazingly soft.

It was like toughing a woman's body. Dennis shivered at that, although that was exactly the intention of the entire routine. Although he was dealing with this, intellectually, emotionally he was still extremely uncomfortable with the situation, and he felt awkward and ashamed feeling the soft, smooth skin that now belonged to him.

All his life, he'd held certain thoughts and beliefs - some of them ingrained in him by his father, some of them acquired on his own, but a great majority of them absorbed from the society in which he lived. And one of the major ones that was so basic he'd never even had to consider it seemed to shout at him, telling him that this was wrong. Guys - 'real' men - didn't do this, didn't dress up like girls. It was what sissies did, what perverts, what fags did - but not 'real' men like him.

Getting undressed at the beginning of all this had been one thing. But now - well, now he felt naked. Not just 'unclothed', or 'disrobed' - but naked - small, defenseless, embarrassed, ashamed.

He didn't like it.

Walking into the workroom, his normal, confident stride was gone, and he was highly aware of the way he was moving, but seemed unable to stop himself from doing it...

"Perfect."

Dennis blinked. "Um...huh?"

Jen had watched him walk in. "Your walk - it's perfect. Don't change anything - the last few things I take care of will make that walk exactly what you want."

Dennis blushed, realizing that the lack of his usual pride and arrogance had turned his walk 'effeminate'

- which both increased his discomfort and gave him a small feeling of relief. It seemed the feeling of being 'unmanly' was uncomfortable - but useful, as it caused certain unconscious reactions that would bolster the disguise.

"Thanks." He said, wryly. "What's next?"

It turned out to be a series of highly realistic prosthetics, made from a special skin-like foam-and-liquid latex that also had the benefit of transmitting heat, which would make them almost body-temperature...

...once they warmed up. As it was, they were cool when Jen employed them, a sensation aggravated by the special glue she mixed up. In the glue was a special 'sensitizer' compound, which caused the skin to become highly sensitive. This was counter-acted by the 'muffling' of the layer of prosthetic, leaving the sections covered only slightly less sensitive than Dennis' own bare skin.

Jen applied the first pieces - basically, 'gloves' and 'socks'. The process began with the rimming of all his nails, finger and toe, to the quick, then filing them smooth so as not to risk tearing the prosthetics. The latex 'gloves' went on first, the special padding making his fingers slightly longer, while making them look slimmer, more feminine. They also did the same for his wrists.

The 'socks' did something similar to his feet - with one difference. They also forced his arch higher, which not only guaranteed he could no longer use his 'manly' walk, but also made his feet look daintier.

More add-ons changed the contours of his legs, making them appear acceptable feminine. Not spectacular, but 'nice'.

More prosthetic work filled out his hips and ass to more womanly proportions. At the same time, Dennis' new 'cunt' was put in place. His cock - covered with the sensitizing glue, which was very interesting - was carefully positioned. A special 'tube' led from the folded-back head of his cock to the front, which would allow him to urinate in a feminine manner, and the false vagina was put into place. Dennis grimaced as Jen made the final adjustments by sliding a finger into the highly realistic 'cunt' - his cock run along the top of the fake vagina, and he could feel her finger moving against it.

Having thought of everything, Jen had included something else in the glue - a special agent that would keep him from getting an erection. Otherwise, as her finger slid over the incredibly heightened sensitivity of his hidden cock...

The next piece was a design incorporating sheer, unadulterated genius.

It was basically a corset - except that it looked like normal flesh. It was wide enough, at the beginning, to slide into position, even over Dennis' enlarge hips and fundament. However, once it was in the correct location, Jen sprayed it with a special compound, it began to shrink. It slowly drew tighter and tighter around his waist, gradually becoming uncomfortable - then downright painful before it finally stopped, subtracting seven and three-quarter inches off his normal waist-line, leaving him wasp-waisted.

"Damn." Jen said. "I was going for an eight-inch reduction."

"No - this is more than enough..." Dennis assured her, gasping slightly. He moved a bit - earning a reprimand - trying to get use to the painfully tight cinching, knowing that the discomfort would fade slightly as he got used to it.

While Jen took a break long enough to drink some coffee - a break mandated to let the glue dry - Dennis sourly eyed his form in a mirror.

From the waist down, he looked completely feminine. Oh, not 'somebody to write home about' - but vaguely attractive, and undeniably womanly.

And, when she'd finished her short break, Jen set to work making the top half of him match the bottom.

There were the breasts, Made of the same latex as the rest of the prosthetics, these were amazingly realistic even as they sat on the work-bench, looking like a pair of disembodied tits. On his chest, the firm, full D-cup tits looked even more real - which only added to the humiliation and shame that Dennis felt.

The feeling was only exacerbated by the fact that Jen had gone out of her way to make them as realistic as possible, placing two small sacs of warm saline inside the breasts to add the right weight, bounce and heft.

The humiliation only grew worse.

Sometime over the next two hours, Dennis seemed to 'burn out' the ability to blush - as the work progressed, making him appear more and more feminine, he felt exceedingly ashamed and belittled, but was no longer expressing it by flushing as Jen did her work.

First she added a special appliance to his neck. Like the 'corset' that had narrowed his waist, this one made his neck slimmer and hid his Adam's apple. However, it had an added effect - the constriction of the neck piece wasn't nearly as painful as that of the corset, but the combination of the two robbed him of both the breath, and now the vocal range he'd used - forcing his voice softer, higher, less resonant.

More feminine.

Next, Jen worked on his face. Special appliances rounded his jaw somewhat, while others exaggerated his cheek bones. She also applied new, longer eye-lashes and used a special appliqué to give him realistic eyebrows that were thin, and arched.

Next, Jen carefully applied make-up to Dennis' face, explaining what she was doing with each step, and doing it slowly so that he could see every single step.

She then cleaned the make-up of his face, sat back, and instructed him to do it himself. Wincing, Dennis sighed and began to carefully apply make-up, feeling the shame well up again.

Having somebody put make-up on him was bad enough - but to be apply the lipstick himself, lightly applying brush, using eye-shadow...

Jen critically eyed the finished product - then pronounced it unsatisfactory.

It took four tries before she finally agreed that it was good enough. With a grateful sigh, Dennis put down the brush he'd just used to 'artfully apply a thin, even layer of light color' (Jen's words), and looked at the reflection in the mirror.

A bald woman looked back at him.

Despite the lack of hair, the face looking back at him was feminine - if not a 'beautiful' feminine face. It was rather 'strong featured', keeping it from ever being pretty or beautiful. But there was no doubt that it looked feminine.

The fact that - with help - Dennis could look so undeniably feminine was disconcerting, no matter how much he needed it to be passable for the work he was going to do. He 'wanted' - needed - to be passably female to do the job, yet the very fact that he could do so was a major blow to his male ego. Although he'd never consciously considered it, he'd always believed that he was much too masculine to be mistaken as a woman, no matter what he was wearing or what he had done to 'pass' as a woman. To find that he could make an authentic-looking female...

"Now what?" Dennis asked, as brusquely as possible in his altered, feminine sounding voice. He'd resigned himself to the necessity of this, but the shame he was feeling was manifesting itself in a typically male manner - as aggression.

Jen cocked her head, looking thoughtful. "The last item is the 'hair' - and I have several choices to pick from. I think..."

"No - I'll pick." Dennis insisted. In this, at least, he could exert a measure of control.

Jen's features tightened. In her creative mood, even the slightest detail was her domain, and she disliked being balked. "Listen - I'm doing this, and I think I have the perfect thing to complete the look. Hold on - I'll be right back. Don't even think of moving - not so much as a single muscle."

Before Dennis could argue, she vanished. She reappeared a moment later, bearing a wig in her hands.

It was a mid-length mass of curls, in a sort of brownish-blond that Dennis was hard pressed to name exactly. It could be either dark blond or light brown, depending on the lighting. It was also fairly basic, and Dennis could live with it - as much as he could live with any of the things he'd let her do to him - so he kept his mouth shut as she glued the wig in place, fluffing out the curls that hung to just above his shoulder-blades.

"There - that's it." Jen said. Now that she was finished, her cool demeanor dropped away, allowing her natural persona to surface. She smiled, then put one dainty hand in front of her mouth to stifle her giggle. "Jeez - you look like the girl I roomed with in high-school."

"Thanks." Dennis said, dryly. He rose and eyed the finished work in a full-length mirror.

There was no doubt about it - he looked female. Sort of a cross between Jeri Ryan and Cory Everson

- 'she' was athletic, tall, and fairly broad shouldered, but that didn't detract from the apparently feminine hands, feet and legs, and womanly hips below a slender waist. There would be no occasion for anyone to doubt that what she saw was female.

Dennis felt like he was going to be sick.

Having left the 'creative mood', Jen was now capable of appreciating the tone he'd used, and she winced. "Sorry - I didn't really think about how you'd feel about this." She apologized. "But, look on the bright side."

"There's a bright side?"

Jen smiled. "Well, you need some clothes for that new look, including underwear. We're going to have to go shopping - and you get to 'sneak' into the women's change-rooms."

Dennis hadn't thought past the transformation, except in general terms, and the realization that he'd have to go shopping while looking like this made him grimace...

...then, almost against his will, he smiled wryly and chuckled shortly at the thought that he could see women the way most men never did - in their most private places, without them knowing a guy had 'infiltrated' them. He had a brief thought of looking up some ex-girlfriends and worming 'her' way into girl-talk with them and finding out what they thought about him...

The second chuckle was longer, and more heart-felt. "Okay - so this isn't the end of the world." He admitted. "It's still hard to deal with, you know?"

Jen shrugged, not unsympathetic. "Sorry - but you wanted it, so..."

Dennis sighed. "Yeah - I know." Taking a deep breath, he steadied his frayed nerves. "Okay - let's go shopping."

* * * * *

Dennis - or 'Denise', as Jen started calling him, to 'help' him get into character - only really had to buy one outfit of clothes - just enough to wear up to the front gate of the commune.

But that didn't make the task of shopping 'en femme' and easier - just shorter.

"God... I feel like a freakin' pervert." Dennis/Denise whispered to Jen in his new, feminine sounding voice as the walked through the doors of the local chain department store. A cold, clammy sweat had coated his palms, and - irrationally - he kept wait for somebody to point at him and either laugh or scream - and in either case, 'unmask' him for what he really was.

"Take it easy, Denise." Jen whispered back, patting his denuded arm reassuringly. "It's the slow time of day, and your 'disguise' is perfect. There's no chance that there'll be a problem - unless you go absolutely insane and paranoid, of course."

"Thanks." Dennis/Denise replied, his throat feeling dry and hot. He cleared it quietly, and meekly followed as Jen led him into the forbidden realms of the Women's section of the store.

Walking through the aisles (Jammed full of clothing in a riot of colors, fabrics and designs - much more than in the Men's section) Jen kept pulling articles of clothing off the racks, holding them up for appraisal.

"How 'bout this one?" She asked, 'pasting' the item - a short, summery dress - against Dennis' front to check for sizing. "I think the color would go good with your hair."

"Good God - no!" Dennis/Denise practically recoiled from the touch of the feminine clothing - flushing a bright red as he realized how the move would look to any onlookers. He lowered his feminine- sounding voice. "Look, Jen - just some jeans and a shirt. Nothing "

"Feminine?" Jen asked, dryly.

"Fancy." Denise shot back. "I'm not going on a date. I just want You know, 'every day' clothing."

Jen looked at him, and her half-smile faded at the tone in his voice - the humiliated, half-beaten tone. "Okay." She agreed, softly. Then, so quiet that Dennis had to strain to hear the words - "I'm sorry." But it was if she was sorry for something else altogether....

* * * * *

"Are you ready?"

Taking a deep breath, Dennis smiled sickly. "No."

Jen looked over at the apparent woman. Dressed in jeans and an off-white blouse, 'she' wore a few pieces of simple, subdued jewelry and carried a small bag. All in all, 'she' was the image of a strong, athletic woman - broad shouldered, yet feminine. Powerful, yet womanly.

Yet - 'she' carried the nervous, frightened air of a woman used to being beaten and abused.

"All right." Dennis said, taking another deep breath. He popped open the car door and swung one denim-clad leg outside.

Reaching out, Jen lay one slender hand on his arm, stopping him for a second.

"Just remember." She said, quietly. "Male or female, 'en femme' or 'au natural' - you're still the same person inside. Don't let the way you look be the thing that defines you."

Denise opened his mouth to say something - but nothing came to mind, and he finally shut his mouth and climbed from the car, his stomach a leaden ball. Swallowing, he slung the purse over one broad shoulder and stiffened his back. In the forced, feminine walk that both humiliated him and served to enhance his disguise, Dennis walked towards the gates of the commune, not looking back.

The person beside the gate was dressed in a variation of a guard's uniform, and he watched Dennis' approach. "Can I help you, miss?"

"Uh..." Dennis cleared his throat. "I, uh... well - I'd like to join... uh..."

The guard's smile was like a sunrise after days of rain. "Well - we're always happy to have another lady become part of our family." He swung the smaller, 'human' sized gate open with a flourish, bowing slightly. "Come on in."

Feeling like he was in some sort of dream - or nightmare - Dennis stepped inside. The gate closed behind his feminized ass with a soft 'clank' that nevertheless sounded like the slamming of a cell door.

The smiling guard spoke for a second to the second man inside the booth, then graciously led Dennis deeper into the compound, along a curving footpath that led through the two-hundred-yard wide woods that ringed the inside of the fence and cut the compound off from outside observation.

Beyond the screen of trees, the compound lay revealed - and it failed to match any of Dennis' preconceived notion of what it would look like.

In fact - it looked like a resort crossed with some sort of Royal residence.

Spread out - sprawling - over the huge compound lay a collection of elegant yet functional buildings. The spaces between these were filled with small, park-like settings. Along the paths strode men and women. There were no 'cult robes' or other paraphernalia Dennis had half-expected - the men were dressed simply but comfortably, most in jeans and cotton shirts. The women were a little more stylish, wearing what Dennis thought of as 'casually dressy' - skirts or summer dresses, elegantly simple for the most part.

He felt horribly underdressed. "What have we here, Gordon?"

Dennis swung around at the sound of the voice, to find the speaker to be a handsome man of about thirty or so, dressed in khaki slacks and a white silk shirt. Sandy-blond, the man had a short, neatly trimmed beard and mustache, and his long hair was pulled back into a tidy pony-tail. In one hand was a book - 'Grolin's Birds or North America' - and a binocular case hung over his shoulder on its strap. Although he was speaking to the guard, his warm brown eyes and friendly gaze were aimed at Dennis.

"Uh - I've come to join your 'little family' - if you'll have me." Dennis said, awkwardly, holding out one hand. "Denise Farianno."

Rather than shake his hand, the man held it gently, and bent over at the waist, brushing his lips across the knuckles. Denis shivered, feeling humiliated and ridiculous at the gallant greeting.

Releasing his hand, the man straightened. "You may call me Peter."

Raising one feminized eyebrow, Dennis' trained instincts asked the question before he could think to stifle it. "May call you Peter?"

The man smiled, apparently taking no offense. He turned his head towards the guard - but his eyes never left Dennis as he addressed the uniformed man. "Thank you, Gordon - I believe I can handle it from here."

The guard nodded, made a polite leave-taking to Dennis, then headed back towards the front gate at a rapid walk.

"All members of the community give up their ties to the past when they enter." Peter explained with a smile. "Peter is now the only name I recognize."

"Oh..." Dennis said. "I guess this means I'll have to pick a new name myself."

Peter's smile widened slightly. "Actually - no. The new acolyte's name is bestowed on them by another member, one higher than acolyte."

"Like yourself?"

Peter chuckled. "Exactly. Why don't we stroll a bit?"

Shrugging, Denis fell in step beside the handsome man. "So - is there some sort of introductory 'course' in your philosophy? A place where I sign up and get my room assignment, that sort of thing?"

Peter glanced over, one brow raising. "Oh my goodness - not at all. Any female member of the commune is free to do whatever she wishes - pick the room she'd like, choose what she does during the day, sleep when- and where- ever she chooses."

Dennis blinked. "That's a rather... sweeping statement." He said, a little confused. "I thought... that is, I expected "

Peter stopped and gestured at a bench they were standing in front of. "Why don't you have a seat?" He suggested. "I think there's some things that we can clear up right now - Mister Farianno."

It took a second to register - Dennis was just settling onto the bench when his stomach clenched, painfully, and he went wide-eyed.

"How " He stuttered.

Peter smiled kindly. "I'm sorry to have startled you - and to have addressed you by the masculine title. I really don't wish to cause you any distress - but I think it's best that we get everything out in the open at the very beginning."

"Before you have me chucked out, you mean?" Dennis asked, feeling himself relax, now that the facade was no longer needed - for the first time since the disguise was put in place, he relaxed, knowing it was no longer necessary.

Peter, however - looked horrified. "Heaven's above - no! If you wish to leave after our discussion, you'll be free to do so." He actually seemed shocked at Dennis' statement. "Also, if you should choose to discard your current... 'persona', then I'm afraid we'd have to ask you to leave, either to attend out male acolyte facility, or to go one with your life however you see fit. But as long as you choose to live the life of a woman, you're free to remain here - as long as you agree to the standard two-month period during which you may not leave, or have any contact with the outside world." He paused. "But, if you can - freely and without 'purpose of evasion' - swear that you will not attempt to leave during that two-moth period, you are welcome to join our family Desir  ."

Dennis opened his mouth to correct Peter - then stopped, realizing that - as a sign of 'acceptance', Peter had just granted 'her' the name by which he would live...

...if 'she' chose to stay. Dennis would have to leave - but Desireé was welcome.

"I... I don't understand." Denis admitted. He didn't know what to expect, if he was 'unmasked' - but this certainly wasn't it.

Peter looked thoughtful. Tucking the bird-book under his arm, he lifted the binocular case off his shoulder and extracted the mid-power optics and handed them to Dennis/Desireé.

"Have a look around." He suggest.

Puzzled, Dennis accepted the field glasses and began to scan the commune.

At the front door of what appeared to be the main building, a woman was approaching the brass- bound glass doors. Unlike most people approaching a set of doors, she didn't lift her hand while still several feet away - in fact, she didn't lift her hand at all.

Three men who had been playing Frisbee nearby suddenly sprinted over. The first one to reach the doors - just ahead of the woman - bowed low at the waist and pulled the door open - then straightened, his face bent expectantly. The woman kissed him - not a quick peck, but a long, apparently passionate lip-lock - then went inside...

A young woman was reclining on the grass in one of the park-like settings. She was basically laying in the lap of a young man who was playing chess with another man...

...no - it was the woman who was playing chess. It was just the man who was moving the pieces, and feeding the women tidbits of food between moves. He was only using one hand for this, as the other one was down her blouse. Whenever he removed the hand so that he could give her a sip of what appeared to be champagne, he received a kiss - again, a long, passionate one - before he resumed his previous position...

A pair of young men were following a pair of women, lugging what appeared to be a wardrobe. A common enough sight - except the men both had raging hard-ons, visible through their pants - and expectant looks on their faces...

Dennis/Desireé lowered the binoculars with a slightly confused expression on his altered face.

"The men are receiving appropriate rewards for their service." Peter said, gesturing towards the men with the piece of furniture. "That's pretty hard work - and deserves an appropriate reward."

Then, in a stunning flash, Denise/Desireé understood. The commune worshipped women!

No wonder why Miriam Longley hadn't felt any particular urge to leave, Dennis - Desireé - thought wryly. In the commune, she was respected, her slightest whim fulfilled, with the only cost being that she give a 'reward' equal to the task.

For that matter, no wonder why female agents didn't 'rat out' the commune. In still male-dominated agencies, mostly run by the 'Old Boy Network', the female agents would have thought this an earthly paradise. They wouldn't have wanted it shut down. Hell, they probably hadn't wanted to leave, either.

Something suddenly occurred to Dennis/Desireé. He turned to Peter. "The five-year acolyte program - it's too find out which men have the right, uh..."

"Temperament?" Peter suggested with a gentle smile. "Of course. We are a peaceful organization, and we regret that we are so secretive and - as I'm sure you have referred to us in the past - 'cultish'. However, there are... well, I won't dignify them by calling them 'men', but males out there who prey on women. They would be unwelcome in the new society we are building here at this commune - and at the other communes that are, even now, opening across the country."

Peter smiled again, and gestured towards the main building. "As a new 'female' acolyte, you are unrestricted in your access to all we have to offer, and will be treated well during your stay - whether it be for the mandatory two months, or much, much longer." He sighed. "However, I'm afraid that I must ask you to refrain from requesting any service - and I will spread the word that you are not to receive any."

Dennis wasn't particularly interested in such service, but was inquisitive. "Oh? Why?"

Peter smiled sadly and shrugged. "We are easy to adapt to unusual circumstances and - at least, to my way of thinking - your choice of... forms is not only not upsetting to our philosophy, but the greatest example of it. In my eyes, this is the sincerest expression of our philosophy - trying to attain the exalted status of 'woman'." He shrugged. "However, we must be fair - and I'm afraid that even the slightest of 'rewards' is beyond you to grant, as it is all artifice. It would be unfair to request service when all you can offer is that artifice in return."

"Yeah. Sure." Dennis agreed, looking around. He knew that it didn't matter - all he had to do was find the 'Goddess' who had been born as Miriam Longley, and his work would be done. From then on, all he'd have to do was grit his teeth and make it through the rest of the time he'd signed up for, then he was free to get out of this 'disguise', and get on with his life.

With a wad of cash to help him along the way. With a small smile at the thought, Dennis made a mental note to use some of the money to take Jen out for an expensive dinner. After all, without her help...

"Well - I guess I'll stay for at least the two months, then - if you don't mind." Desireé said, with a faint smile.

"Not at all. Why don't you find yourself a room. There's plenty of empty singles - just pick one, then dial '7-1-1' on the telephone, and inform the Housing Office of who you are and which room you're currently staying in." Peter smiled, then turned and walked off.

Shrugging his shoulders, Desireé rose from the bench and headed down towards the main building, head swiveling as he took in everything that was going on around him.

He didn't even notice that his walk had become a more confident, self-assured swagger - merely a feminine version of his normal walk.

* * * * *

"I'm sorry, Mistress Desireé - but I can't."

The young man's pained, earnest expression didn't soften the refusal, thought. Waving a hand, Desireé let him leave.

Desireé swore - mentally - as his lips tightened over his teeth. He couldn't get anywhere here - all the women felt themselves above assisting him, and the male 'servants' wouldn't give him the slightest help in any matter.

He'd been here two weeks now - and it was starting to drive him nuts. He was getting absolutely nowhere on tracking down Miriam - but that wasn't the only thing causing his frustration.

Nobody would help him with anything.

Well, excepting Peter - who turned out to be the founder and leader of the commune. He was unfailingly polite and helpful - to a degree - but was too busy to nurse-maid Desireé around. So, he was left on his own. Even the simplest of question met with sadly polite refusals, he was forced to find everything in the compound himself, by trail and error. Nobody would open door for him, and that was annoying when he was carrying stuff - but nobody would tell him the time, give him directions, let him know when there was a concert or movie or anything. It was like he was an outcast - in a commune with well over a thousand people, he was almost completely alone.

Then there was the 'little' matter of clothing....

That thought made Desireé glance down. After two weeks, it wasn't nearly as bad - in fact, he barely noticed it anymore. But the first few days had been the worst.

At the moment, he was dressed in a simple white 'peasant' blouse and a mid-calf long skirt that was a mid-shade of red - neither particularly drab, nor bright. In moments of brutal honesty, Desireé even had to admit that he - well, the body that he seemed to have - looked good in the outfit.

But the damned heels had been the problem. The shortest heel available in the commissary was a 3- inch heel. Which would have been fine - if there had been any of those in his size. Despite the fact that Jen's work had altered his walk and made his feet look feminine, they were still quite large, and the only shoes they had that would fit were three pairs - all with six-inch heels. At the moment, he was wearing the only pair that didn't have stiletto heels - a pair of brown, 'sandal' style pumps with a 'column' heel, that tapered only slightly.

Given a choice, he'd never have ended up in this position. Oh, not the whole 'feminine' thing - that had been his choice - but the clothing situation. He would have been quite happy wearing the same outfit he'd arrived in, every single day for the two months.

The problem was - the only washing facilities on the commune was a large, industrial-style cleaners. They washed all the clothes that were in the compound - except his. He didn't know how to run the huge machine, and nobody would instruct. He'd managed to stand four whole days of wearing the same clothing before he'd finally given in.

Going barefoot hadn't helped, of course. His original footwear - plain, cheap white canvas tennis sneakers - had torn the first morning he'd been here, when - out of frustration - he'd pulled the laces too hard, tearing the metal grommets right through the canvas.

Apparently, the designers of the shoe hadn't thought any woman would have the strength to do that in a pique of frustrated anger. Of course, there was no way the shoemakers could have foreseen this little situation...

Still, it wasn't exactly pride that Desireé felt at the fact he was now able to competently stand and move around in six-inch high heels, stiletto or otherwise.

He walked through the halls, not really paying attention to where he was going as he seethed. So, he was mildly surprised to find himself standing outside of Peter's office. After a moment's hesitation, he knocked, and a voice bade him to enter.

"Ah, Desireé!" Peter said, smiling as he rose from behind the desk and made a slight genuflection - about half of what he would have done for a 'real' Goddess, Desireé figured. "How may I be of service?"

Desireé snorted. "That's just it - nobody seems to want to be of service. I mean, I never expected anything, really. Okay, so I 'knew' that before this whole thing started - but I can't even get a few, simple answers!"

Peter sighed and gestured for Desireé to sit. "I'm sorry - I truly am. But, I have already explained the..."

Sighing, Desireé waved away the objection. "Yeah, I know. I even understand - but that doesn't mean I have to like it."

Peter looked thoughtful. "Perhaps..." Desireé looked up. "Yeah?"

Peter's voice was halting - even doubtful - as he proposed his idea. "We have a rather skilled staff over at our Cosmetic section at the Medical Complex. For the Goddesses who wish to... enhance themselves. It is freely available to all, however - and they could... enhance your lips. Flesh them out to standards, and I'm sure that the acolytes would..." He trailed off, blushing, then waved a hand. "Never mind - I'm sorry I brought it up. Even though it could be reversed before you leave, the procedure you last at least the length of time you were here, and I can see you are uncomfortable enough with what you have done so far. I'm sorry to..."

Desireé realized what Peter had been saying, and interrupted. "Wait a second. You mean, if I got my lips... uh, 'pumped up' - for just as long as I was in here, mind you - I could..." He grimaced, "...reward acolytes enough to get some simple services?"

"Well... yes."

Desireé considered it. Although the thought of kissing guys made him shudder, it would get the job done. And the procedure itself could be reversed - free of charge - just before he left...

He sat, silent, for nearly twenty minutes, thinking it over. Finally, with a sigh and a mild grimace, he looked up at Peter. "Okay - how do I get this done...?"

* * * * *

When Desireé learned that the procedure was done under a local - with him watching, via video camera - he was surprised. He had given the decision itself a bit of thought - but it had been a vague, uninformed idea in the back of his mind that he'd be put 'to sleep', and wake up with the work already done.

But, no. The doctor - a very competent looking middle-aged man - had Desireé lay back on the operation table, then he placed straps across his forehead and chin, so he wouldn't involuntarily move during the work. After that - it was 'simple'. They injected him with a Novocain-based general anesthetic, waited for it to take effect, then used a special needle to inject special lipids into his lips.

As Desireé watched, he wished he could speak - his entire jaw was numb and immobile, preventing that. Still, from his point of view, it looked like they were practically bloating his lips, way out of proportion...

"Oops..." The doctor muttered - one of the dreaded sounds that you never wanted to hear. "I, uh - dislodged the applications that round out your jaw - it's torn I'm afraid." The doctor paused. "Uh - while I finish the lips, here's something to think about - the same procedure can fix the line of your jaw and cheeks, without those prosthetics - they look like they're beginning to peel, anyway. It's up to you."

The work was done in about fifteen minutes - and by that time, he'd calmed down. His lips merely looked incredibly full, because he wasn't used to seeing them this way. That was all. When he forced himself to look at his lips as if they were a woman's lips, however, something in his mental perspective... shifted, and they not only looked fine - but 'great'. Any woman - real woman - would have been proud to have such a full, sensual set of lips.

When the doctor asked if he wanted the rest of his face peeled and re-shaped - with the same reversible procedure - Desireé held up a hand, indicating that the doctor should go ahead. He was here, his face was already anesthetized - and it was only temporary.

Half an hour later, Desireé was allowed to leave. Aside from the fuller lips - now enhanced by lipstick, a habit that Desireé hadn't even consciously thought about - his face looked the same as when he'd entered, feminine and vaguely attractive - but now it wasn't foam latex appliqué, but actual flesh.

Almost as soon as the surgery was finished, Desireé practically forgot about that part of it - the same face he'd seen in the mirror for the past two weeks looked back at him, so it wasn't anything earth-shattering.

The lips, however - they were another story. They had a definitive purpose - but he didn't know if he could force himself to use them as they were intended to be used. Part of him wanted to only use them when necessary. Another part felt the need for a 'trial run'.

"Well..." Desireé muttered to himself, his stomach clenching. "Why don't we take these babies out for a spin, and see what they can do."

Taking a deep breath, he walked down the path. His heart pounded, and he felt the panic threatening to rise as one of the men neared him on the path.

"Excuse me..." Desireé said - practically squeaked. Somehow, he was managing to sweat while feeling like he was ice cold. "Do you know what time it is?"

There was a long pause, then... "Yes, Miss Desireé - it's one-thirty." Then he tilted his head expectantly.

Desireé quivered, his gorge rising. He felt an urge to run away, to renege on the implied contract...

...but, if he did that, nobody would assist him once word got around. The same if he skimmed on the 'reward - word would get around, and only the most desperate men - of whom there didn't seem to be any - would even think of helping him.

It took every ounce of willpower Desireé had to lean forward and press his new, fuller lips against the other man's.

'Just imagine you're kissing a woman.' Desireé instructed himself. With his eyes closed, he could almost make himself believe that - which is the only reason he didn't shudder and flinch away as the other man began to kiss back.

They remained in passionate lip-lock for the longest time. Desireé, his mind blocked of everything but the forced fantasy that he was kissing a woman, was focused on kissing as passionately - as hungrily

- as he could, and didn't notice how long the kiss was going on. Time had become something flexible to him - if he'd pulled away, he would have been afraid that it was only after an instant, and that it had just felt longer.

So it was the man who finally broke the kiss. Thanking Desireé, the man continued up the walk.

Shuddering, Desireé took a deep breath. "Well - it works." He said, softly, to himself. The fact that it had been - physically - pleasurable was unnerving, but when he viewed it in the light that it was part of the fantasy he'd constructed, bearable. In fact, it was even a little reassuring. The test had been more one of resolve than his new lips, and he now knew he could force himself to do what was necessary.

He headed down the path, his mind churning over what had just happened, unsure of how he should feel. He couldn't really be proud of the fact that he could successfully kiss another man passionately, but he couldn't exactly be ashamed, either...

Out of habit, he reached up to open the door to the main building - to find that it was already open, held that way by one of the young men that was always wandering around.

Desireé's brain froze. The only think that he was capable of considering was the shocking realization of what he'd gotten himself into. Word had been passed while the surgery had been done. It was okay to do 'kissable' services for Desireé.

And that meant more than just the ones he asked for.

Swallowing, Desireé acknowledged the truth - he had screwed up. He hadn't considered the implications of his actions - not fully. Sure, he'd be able to get the questions he wanted answered now...

...as long as he didn't break the reward-system covenant at any time. As soon as he did, he'd be even further back than square one.

All of this ran through his mind in an instant - a barely perceptible pause, an quick expression of astonishment, shock, comprehension...

...then resignation. Accepting the inevitable, Desireé leaned forward, pressed her mouth against the man's firm, willing lips, and kissed the hell out of him.

The fact that it was easier the second time scared the hell out of him as he finished and continued on his way.

'I do not enjoy kissing men!' he told himself.

It was a lie - at least, if you were referring to the physical portion of the kiss, which did feel good. It was the emotional part of it that caused any discomfort.

Desireé didn't even notice that he'd stopped referring to the male acolytes as 'other men' sometime in the past few days.

* * * * *

"Oh, God... that feels good..." Desireé moaned as she unlaced the painfully tight white leather-and- canvas corset and let it drop to the bathroom floor. Looking down, he eyed the red marks the garment left on his skin, then shook his head and climbed into the shower and began to absently was as his mind picked at the past week.

It had been a week of more frustrations. It had started out well enough, sort of, with the lips-thing. After all, he had been able to begin asking questions - and getting answers. While he hadn't yet located Miriam Longley, he was definitely making some progress - it's just that nobody seemed to have seen her recently.

But that wasn't the only thing going on in Desireé's life right now.

The 'disguise' that Jen had made for him had been designed for short-term use, not the constant use it had been getting. The day after the lip surgery, Desireé had been sitting down at a table when the built-in waist cincher - which had the most pressure on it - finally gave up the ghost and burst apart. There had been an instant of relief at the sensation - Desireé had grown so used to the constriction that she barely even noticed it, so the sudden lack of it was almost ecstatic.

But, without the waist cincher, all the cooperation had begun to dry up, men actually avoiding looking directly at the thick-waisted 'woman' that Desireé now appeared to be. Which had necessitated the corset. Hopefully, nothing else would go wrong this...

"God DAMN it!" Desireé swore - as the left breast form peeled away from his chest with a wet sound. Looking down, Desireé could see the right one was also sagging slightly - a sure sign that the glue holding in on was about to...

Just like it's sister, the right breast-form peeled away from his chest. The three weeks of wear had been too much for a glue that was supposed to have been purely temporary, with the steamy atmosphere of the shower proving to be the final straw.

Cursing, Desireé stepped out of the shower and dried off. As he watched himself perform this action in the mirror, he couldn't help but notice how weird he looked to himself. Sure, he knew the flat chest and thicker waist was his real appearance - but after spending the time, twenty-four hours a day, 'en femme' it looked weird.

Felt weird, too. Like the cinched waist, he'd grown used to the breast forms. Their weight and bounce, their subtle movements with every breath. Now he felt oddly naked and vulnerable.

"Great. Just fucking great!" Desireé swore to himself. He knew the rules of the commune by heart after this amount of time, and knew that he was now going to be curtailed in where he could go. No more swimming, no more sauna, no more Gym - or anywhere he'd have to be 'naked' or scantily clad in public. As long as he only wore clothing that he could use the breast-forms to pad out, without anybody being able to tell the difference, he would be welcome. But anywhere...

There was a knock at his room's door, and Desireé was faced with the truth of his situation instantly. He could no longer just throw on a robe...

"Hang on!" He called out, frantically pulling on the corset. This particular corset had built-in bra cups, and he stuffed the breast forms into the cups as he struggled into the short summer dress he'd been wearing. For the first time in its history, the dress was done up all the way to the top button. "I'm coming!"

Rushing out, Desireé opened the door to admit Gary, one of the guys he'd been asking about Miriam.

"I think I've tracked down the Goddess you're looking for, Miss Desireé." Gary said, with a smile. "She's going by the name 'Faith' now."

Without even having to think about it - doing it unselfconsciously and naturally, - Desireé kissed Gary thoroughly, then gestured for him to go on.

"She's working in the club." Gary explained.

Thanking Gary, Desireé kissed him again and sent him on his way, then slipped into the black pumps with the stiletto heels and headed off to see Peter, his mind working and a smile on his fuller lips.

He was almost there.

The commune had several different ways of making money to support itself. One of the major ones was the one that lay across the boundary that separated the commune from the 'real world' - a strip-club. By nature, the vast majority of the women in the commune were proud of their bodies, and had no problem getting paid to flaunt them to the 'infidels', as 'outsiders' were jokingly referred to.

After knocking on Peter's door and getting a muffled acknowledgment, Desireé stepped into Peter's office.

"Ah - Desireé! How may I be of service?" Peter asked, and part of Desireé's mind noted the fact that the bow he performed was marginally deeper than the one's he'd originally gotten.

"How do I go about meeting one of the women who works at the club?" Desireé asked, eager to get this over and done with, and bear out the remaining time as best he could.

Then he noticed the look on Peter's face, and his guts suddenly dropped. "What?" Desireé demanded from the uncomfortable-looking head of the commune.

Peter cleared his throat apologetically. "Due to the security risk of a half-on-half off the commune establishment, there's actually... well, almost a separate commune for the club. The women working there are allowed in at the beginning of their run, and out at the end of their run, and the male acolytes who work their four month shifts are also in once and out once - but nobody else may come and go."

Desireé absorbed this news. "Well - what if I got a job as one of the waitresses?" He asked, knowing that there were a few - not many, but a few - waitress positions.

Peter shrugged sadly. "Despite the fact that waitressing is considered below many of the women's standards as Goddesses, there's still a fairly healthy competition for the slots, and we grant them on certain... specifications. I'm afraid that the only opening currently available is for a woman considerably... better endowed. The other applicants haven't been willing to undergo the enhancement surgery to meet this requirement, so it remains open."

Desireé thought furiously. "Actually - I also have another problem. The breast-forms I've been using have come off and... oh, stop that!"

Peter had shuddered and averted his gaze from him. Now, hesitantly, his eyes came back up. "Implants might solve both problems at once - as long as they're removable at the end of my stay."

"Oh, yes." Peter nodded. "But we don't use implants, exactly - instead, we have a procedure that increases the mass of fat in the chest, shaped and firmed to the right specifications. Basically 'building' the breasts - it's indistinguishable from the real thing. But we can liposuction it out before you go."

That struck a thought. "Hey - would liposuction be able to get me out of this damned corset, too?"

Peter nodded, and Desireé thought furiously. The liposuction of the waist was no big deal to him - hell, thin was good, and he could always put on a few inches buying booze with that money he'd get for completing this job. But the breasts...

Thinking about how strange he felt right now, with the breast-forms no longer attached, he decided he might as well go for it before he got used to feeling flat-chested again. "Okay - let's get this done."

Fifteen minutes later, he was laying on a observation table in the clinic. The doctor slid a needle painlessly into a vein, and the world around him faded away.

* * * * *

"Can you hear me?"

He seemed to be floating in a void. Blackness all around him. No sensation of himself or his body - just him, and the voice. His mind felt... not fuzzy, but detached, and it seemed to take all his concentration to answer the question.

"Yes. I can hear you." He finally replied. "What's your name?"

He pondered the question at length. What was his name... "Dennis. Dennis Farianno." "Are you sure that's your name?"

He considered the question - it seemed to take forever. Was he sure? Or, did he just think he was sure...?

Before he could come up with an answer, the voice continued. "Is Dennis the name you've been answering to for the past three weeks? When somebody came up to you, did they call you 'Dennis'?"

"No."

"What did they call you?"

He considered that. "Desireé."

"I see." The voice said. "Did you correct them when they used this name? Ignore them? Or did you answer to it?"

He thought about it. "I answered to it." "So, you must accept that as your name."

It seemed to cause some sort of non-physical pain to say the word - "Yes." But it was true wasn't it?

"So - what is your name?"

"Desireé?" He asked - then, firmly. "Desireé."

"Good." The voice complimented him. "Now - why are you in surgery?"

Desireé had to think. "To to get breasts. Larger breasts. And a smaller waist."

"Very good..." The voice said - and the questions continued for what seemed an eternity...

* * * * *

*The apartment of Jen Allbrehamma

*October 22nd, 1999 - 1:24 a.m.

"Denise...? Dennis...? Can you hear me?"

Dennis/Denise/Desireé stirred, her long-lashed eyes fluttering open. Her large, dark eyes stared upwards without seeing for several long, eternal seconds... the awareness slowly crept back in.

"Jen...?" She asked, her voice sounding both strange and reassuringly normal to her ears. Blinking, she slowly sat upright, feeling as if she'd just gone ten rounds... with a Sherman tank.

She was laying on the couch in Jen's workroom. The slender artist herself was seated on a stool near the head of the couch, and Rod (the model - she could now remember meeting him before) was sitting at the foot of the couch, near her slender feet. He looked shaken.

He also looked pretty damned attractive, she thought - then, immediately afterwards, the thought 'I don't want to find him attractive - I'm not really a woman' came floating up...

She shuddered and tensed, waiting for the tide of pain...

...and nothing happened.

"Dennis? Are you all right?" Jen asked, seeing her tense up like that.

For a long moment, she didn't answer - her mind was swirling, trying to cope with several facts. Like the fact that she could probe her memories painlessly. Like the fact she knew who she really was - but that it didn't stop her from being intensely attracted to Rod. Like the fact...

Then she twitch, pulling herself out of her reverie. "Desireé." Jen blinked. "'scuse me?"

Desireé sighed. "I don't think 'Dennis' is exactly appropriate any more, do you? 'Desireé' is the name that I was given at the..."

"We know." Rod said, quietly - drawing her attention back to him just as she'd managed to get him pushed to the back of her mind. She cursed mentally, forcing her eyes not to wander over the amazing physique of the man in the short robe.

"Excuse me?" Now it was her turn to be nonplused.

"Uh... you kind blurted out the whole story." Jen said - and suddenly, their uncomfortable looks became clear. "You were kinda... in a daze, I guess. You just talked the whole time, telling us everything."

"Oh." Desireé said, blushing slightly.

"Um..." Rod said, clearing his throat. "Uh, including how very, very attractive you find me." Desireé's flush went nuclear. "I did?"

Rod's blush matched hers, and he turned away. It was Jen who answered.

"Uh, yeah. You were very specific about what you would like to do to him, and have him do to you."

If it had been possible for Desireé's blush to deepen, it would have - yet, at the same time, she felt an uncomfortable pleasing warmth in her belly as her large, thick nipples hardened at the thought of what she might have said...

"Uh..." Desireé stammered, fighting to pull her mind away from the thoughts that were running through it. the imprinted feminine desires and tastes warred with her masculine past and personality, neither emerging the clear victor and leaving her feeling confused and guilty. It was kind of like when she quit smoking. Every now and then she'd cheat, have a cigarette, all the while knowing she shouldn't - but unable to stop herself.

"Look, Denn... Desireé." Jen said, steering the conversation back onto safer territory. "We're going to help you..."

Suddenly, a wave or resigned bitterness swept through Desireé. "Oh, really?" She asked, in a weary, defeated voice. "You're going to undo... this?" She waved a hand at her new form.

Jen winced, and sighed. "Okay - we all know that what's been done to your body is permanent." She admitted, sadly. "But, that doesn't mean that your life is over. There's some things we have to do, including seeing about undoing the... brainwashing they did to you. But we also have to put these bastards away..."

Rod - trying to hide the embarrassment of the conversation - had risen a few minutes ago and paced to the window, staring out with a blank look on his face while he struggled to get his emotions under control. Now, he stiffened. "Jen!"

Jen looked up. "Huh?"

"I think... oh, shit!" Rod swore, swinging around and dashing to the pile of clothes beside the chair where he'd been posing. "We gotta get outta here - right now!"

Before Jen or Desireé could ask the obvious question, there was a splintering crash from downstairs. The two women, one natural and one transformed, glanced at each other with startled looks - then rose from where they were sitting.

Grabbing a sun dress from a rack of clothing, Jen yanked it on quickly, grabbing her shoes and purse in one hand. Rod, dressed in just his jeans, grabbed the rest of his stuff and followed behind Desireé

- the only fully-dressed member of the trio - as she followed the pert blonde's lead and ran through a door on the far side of the room.

Swiftly, and as silently as possible, the trio dashed up narrow set of stairs to the third floor, where Jen led them to a small, heavy, thick metal door inset into the concrete wall of the room.

"Where the fuck..." Jen muttered, angrily, rummaging through a tool-box sitting incongruously in the otherwise empty room. From below, there was another splintering crash, followed by a loud 'thud' as whoever it was managed to smash through the security door.

"got it!" Jen said triumphantly, holding up a large, old-fashion key. Quickly, she unlocked the small, thick door and all but pushed the other two through the small opening. Climbing through behind them, she re-locked the door from their side.

Desireé found herself on a catwalk hanging suspended over the floor of the building, two stories below. The catwalk creaked and groaned, and flakes of rust showed everywhere. In a second, Desireé realized that Jen's apartment was actually part of a converted theater, and they were on the lighting and prop catwalks criss-crossing the stage.

"Hurry!" Jen hissed. "Straight ahead! There's a staircase at the end, it exists in the alley. Go, go!"

Desireé moved forward - and barely avoided landing on her face. The catwalk was made of perforated steel, and her stiletto heel had gone right through one of the holes. Balancing on the toes of her feet, keeping the heels in the air, she scampered over the creaking catwalk and down the circular stairs at the end, arriving at a rusting door. Unlocking the three dead-bolts that secured it, she pushed it open and stepped outside into the late-night chill.

Because only the south side of the building had been remodeled, the rest allowed to fade and deteriorate, the people breaking into Jen's apartment hadn't realized that it was actually one building, and hadn't thought to secure this alley-way.

The alley where Jen parked one of her three vehicles. In this case, an older model Jeep Cherokee. Digging her keys out of her purse, she unlocked the doors and all but shoved the other two into the vehicle. Climbing behind the wheel, she brought the big four-by-four's engine to life.

"Get down!" Jen hissed, and Desireé and Rod slid to the floor of the back seat.

Desireé felt a wave of shame and disgust flood over her - caused by the even bigger flood of arousal as Rod's body pressed firmly against hers in the space they were jammed into. She fought the urge to simply give into her desire as Jen put the vehicle into gear and sedately drove off, not giving any onlooker any sign that she was related to what was going on in the building they were passing, or that she was running from anybody.

A few blocks later, Rod climbed off of her and sat up - and Desireé had to fight down the wave of disappointment, startled to realize just how close she'd been to giving into the urges she'd felt.

Flushed and very, very aroused, she also sat up, sure that neither of the others were failing to notice the scent of her arousal.

"Where are we going?" Rod asked - and from the way he was sitting, it was obvious that he wasn't the only one who'd been affected by the close contact. Desireé thought the question was asked more to divert his mind than to garner any information - and she simultaneously blessed him and cursed him for his attempt to be gentlemanly.

"My cabin." Jen said, checking the rearview mirror. "We should be safe there for awhile - I hope."

"I wouldn't be too sure." Desireé said, her brow furrowing as the years as a private eye took control of her instincts. "From the amount of time it took before they showed up, I think it's obvious I wasn't followed - so how did they find me?" She paused, then answered her own question. "Your plates."

Jen half turned. "Huh?"

Desireé nodded to herself. "Yeah - the guard at the commune must have written down your plate number the day you dropped me off. After I went missing, they looked it up and - somehow - got the info on you from it."

Jen drummed her fingers on the steering wheel. "Damn - that's scary." She suddenly stiffened, and a feline smile curled her lips. "Well, then the cabin's the perfect place to hide you, Den.. Desireé." She said. "It's not in my name."

Rod chuckled. "Yeah - it's in mine."

Not sure what the joke was, Desireé was doubly annoyed by their apparent good humor - the commune was obviously trying to silence her before she could screw up what they had going on, and they found it funny?

Seeing the look on her face, Rod apologized. "I'm sorry - it's just the irony of the whole thing kinda got to us."

"Oh?" Desireé asked - finding, to her annoyance, that she couldn't keep her cool attitude towards the handsome man as he looked at her with compassion - and more than a little lust.

Jen nodded, looking at them in the rearview mirror. "Yeah - you remember Rod's last name, don't you?"

"no..." Desireé admitted, looking back and forth between the two other people. "Why?" Grinning at each other, the two of them refused to answer for the rest of the three-hour trip.

Which, at least, kept Desireé from dwelling on how much she wanted to have sex with Rod - and how disgusted the thought made her even as it aroused her.

* * * * *

As the Cherokee's headlights swept across the sign at the end of the long drive - trail, really - leading to the cabin, Desireé finally got it - and had to laugh

They'd passed several such lanes in the past hour, all of which had signs at the end of the, identifying the owner and the township in which the property lay - such as 'Smith of Lancaster', or 'Gottlieb of Lancaster'.

Jen's cabin lay in the township of Earl - and Rod's last name happened to be 'Duke'.

Because Jen couldn't resist making a stupid joke, they might just get out of this without any further 'unannounced visits'. The irony was rich enough to make you laugh.

Pulling to stop outside the darkened cabin, Jen left the engine running.

"Okay - out." She said, rather imperiously - softening the command with a smile. Desireé frowned. "What's going on in the devious little mind of yours, Jen?"

Jen shrugged. "Look, we need food, clothes - plus legal help, maybe the FBI, etc. I can't have you wandering around the town - Earl's a small place, and you're sure to be noticed. If they come looking for you..." She pointed at Rod. "And you - I don't want to leave Desireé by herself, so your job is to keep her safe and secure - got it?"

Rod smiled uneasily. "Hey - I ain't know chauvinist. Why don't you stay here and play bodyguard, and I'll go..."

Jen laughed. "Sure. Tell me - how much longer before you're allowed to drive again?"

Rod blushed, then sighed. He turned to Desireé. "She'd right - I had a little...accident a couple of months ago. It wouldn't have been a bog deal - except the other car was a cop-car. So... I guess she has a point."

Desireé knew they were right - but was thankful that Rod had at least tried to avoid the awkwardness they were sure to feel.

Of course, another part of her was upset that he'd tried to get out of it. What, wasn't she gorgeous enough for him? Feminine for him? Sexy enough? Hell, if he wanted sexy, gorgeous and feminine, she'd show him what...

Forcing the thought away - with a struggle - Desireé swallowed nervously and slid form the car.

* * * * *

"Um... uh... there's a bed..." Rod blushed, brightly. "I mean, if you're tired, there's two bedrooms - you.. uh..."

Desireé, sitting on the couch, felt the blush on her face, and knew exactly how poor rod felt - they were incredibly attracted to each other, yet in each of them there was a strong disgust at this attraction - not exactly the most comfortable situation to be in. "No, thanks." She said, awkwardly. "I uh.. well, between all the time I spent un- and -semi conscious, you know.. Then, the adrenaline rush.. I'm not..."

"Yeah." Rod said. "Me too - I mean, me neither." He laughed, self-consciously. "You know what I mean."

"Yeah."

Rod sat down on the other couch, at right angles to the one Desireé sat on. They fidget in nervous silence, neither looking at each other, each aware of the palpable sexual tension ripe in the cabin's main room.

Trying not to think about Rod, or the sexual urges she was feeling towards him, Desireé cast her mind about, looking for something else she could think about. She forced herself to begin thinking about the future, instead - not the immediate future, which she assumed would be 'on the run' until she testified about what had happened and had those bastards put away for good. No, she thought about the future after that - what she was going to do for the rest of her life...

Her life.

It exploded in her mind like a bomb - so much so that she gave off a small gasp.

In the confusion, in the heat of the moment, the truth hadn't really sunk in - but now it did. All of it.

She was a man, trapped in the fully functional body of an outstandingly sexy woman. She would spend the rest of her life as a woman - and all that came with it. The fact that she would no longer be able to be who she once was - she'd have to find a new job. She'd have to get new ID - if she managed to get the police to believe her story in the first place, then it shouldn't be too hard. But she'd have to do it - start life over as Desireé.

As a woman. Although he'd only had on-and-off relationships, there had always been the hopes of a lasting, stable relationship with a woman - but that was stolen from her. Even if she could fight past the imprinted objections to being a lesbian, it wouldn't be the same - she could never again have the relationships she'd had before.

She'd spend the rest of her life, caught between two worlds - the one she wanted, and could never have, and the one that people would believe her to be a part of, one that her own mind was trying to make her live - yet not the one she wanted.

Outcast. Alone. It was a talk-show staple, but in her case it was true - she was a man trapped in a woman's body, ultimately alone in an unwanted uniqueness. Neither fish nor fowl. This was the life she had to look forward to...

"Desireé?"

She looked up at the sound of Rod's concerned inquiry, only now aware of the silent tears streaming down her face. She looked at the handsome man, and felt that arousal at the sight of his toned, athletic body - and knew she'd been right. This wasn't just a momentary awkwardness she was feeling - for the rest of her life, she'd be fighting these feeling around men like Rod, uncomfortable in their presence, unwilling aroused. But that's wasn't the worst part - oh, no... Never again would she go into O'Tooles on Main and Broadhurst and have a couple of beers with the regulars, just 'one of the boys'. No - they'd look at her with lust in their eyes, and use all those pick-up lines and come-ons...

She'd have to practically become a hermit, alone, lonely, for as long as she lived...

...as long as she lived...

Perhaps that was the answer. Stop living...

"Desireé! What's wrong?" Rod asked, almost frantic. He was beside her now, not quite touching her...

She looked at him and spoke in a dead, flat voice. "What's wrong? I'm a freak - a man trapped in the body of a woman, doomed to a live of loneliness and shame - and you ask what's wrong?"

Rod started. "What..? No, no - that's not true "

Sad, weary disbelief etched her beautiful features. "It isn't?" She asked, softly. "You know the truth, about the person inside this body. You don't have to live this horror - you only have to know about it. Yet it's enough that it effects you strongly. Look at you - you don't know whether to treat me like a guy who's upset - or comfort me as if I were a woman. You feel confused, unsure, embarrassed, upset - and all of this is a pale shadow of what I'm going to have to deal with for every minute of my life "

She paused, then finished in a clod, distant tone that sent shivers down Rod's spine. " however long that may be."

"No - that's not true!" Rod protested. "Sure, it'll be hard - at first, at least. But you can adapt. Living life as a woman "

This time, when Desireé interrupted, it wasn't in a flat, dead voice - it was one wreathed in emotion, fiery and alive. "Don't you get it?" she asked, angrily. "That's just it!"

Rod gaped.

"I'm not a woman!" Desireé said, rising and beginning to pace. Her hands moved to underscore her words. "Sure, I could live day-to-day, pretending to be a woman. I could handle that, even if I might behave a little strangely for a woman." She threw up her hands. "Hell, I've already had three weeks practice at pretending to be female!"

Then she put her hands on her hips and looked at Rod. "But what sort of life would it be for me, while I pretended? I'm not a woman - yet I can't just 'unwind' with some friends after a day of pretending. I can go home - and be alone. That's it."

Rod tried to interject, but Desireé steam-rolled right over him. "If I was just plain gay or lesbian - hell, that'd be okay. I'd have support groups, and gay friends - hell, I'd have Gay Pride Day. I could march in th' friggin' parade!"

She waved her hands and began pacing again. "If I was a willing.. uh, whatyacallit Transsexual, then hey - support out the yin-yang. Same if I was crippled, or retarded, or even if I was a drunk."

She turned her full attention back to Rod. "But what have I got? I can either pretend to be a woman at all times, except when I'm alone - and go nuts. Or, I could tell my close friends the truth - and have them turn awkward, unsure, uncomfortable - like you. Then that could drive me nuts!"

Rod held up his hand. "Look - that's just not true!" He assured her. "This is all so new that it's... uncomfortable at first. Think how a gay guy's friends would react when he first came out of the closet. But, once they've had time to adjust..."

Desireé didn't even know she was going to say it until it popped out. "Yeah, right. Look, Mister 'Everything will work out', I'll bet you... I'll bet you my life that you, knowing the truth, can't deal with me as if I was the woman I look like."

Rod gaped. "Huh?"

Although she hadn't thought about it before saying it, now it seemed like the perfect way to prove her point - not just to Rod, but (much more importantly) to herself.

"Rod." She said, calmly determined. "I was going to kill myself. In fact, I probably still will." She held up a hand and continued talking, overriding his horrified objections. "No, listen. I look like a woman - but you know the truth, right? So, lets pretend it's... oh, a year from now. I'm getting on with my life, pretending to be a woman all day long. I've got a woman's body, a woman's name, a job somewhere

- a woman's job - and I come home at night, and you're there. I don't care what you say - sooner or later, I - living my new life as a woman - would do something that you would handle all right if I was really a woman, but that you can't handle knowing the truth about me. That's all I'm saying - just knowing the truth means you could never deal with me - completely and utterly - as if I were the woman I seem to be."

Rod's reply was thoughtful, rather than immediately indignant. "I think I could, actually..." "Really?" Desireé asked, sarcastically. "Okay - prove it."

Rod's eyebrow went up.

"I'm going to step outside - and when I come back in, it's six months from now. If you can treat me like a 'normal' person, deal with the truth without freaking out about it - then I'll agree that you're right, my life is worth living. Otherwise..."

Leaving it hanging, she stormed outside, shutting the door behind her.

Sure - just treat her like the truth wasn't making him so confused and uncomfortable that he could barely speak to her, she fumed. Taking deep breaths, she let the hot anger cool and coalesce into quite determination. She knew the truth - she was going to go in there, and started acting like this was her life, and she was 'dealing' with it. She'd let herself go, push aside the doubts and anguish, and act on the impulses she felt - act the way her altered mind would, sooner or later, force her to act. She knew what would happen - knowing that she'd once been a man would make Rod hesitate, become uncomfortable, pull away - maybe not immediately, but at some point during her little performance, it would happen.

Then she could kill herself with a clear conscience, having given it a shot - and proven what she knew to be true.

With that thought, she pushed open the door to the cabin and stepped inside...

* * * * *

"Hey, Rod - God, what a rough day. I'm beat." She said with a smile at Rod, who was 'relaxing' on the couch, sipping at a beer he'd found in the fridge.

"Oh?" He asked, and she was impressed with how casual he managed to make his voice sound - almost like he was actually interested in what she was thinking.

Of course, he wasn't. He lusted after her female body, but the fact that she was male in her mind meant he didn't care about what she was thinking - and was enough to 'defuse' his lust for her body. He could act casual now...

"yeah - the girls at work can be real bitches sometimes. So vain and stuck up." She ad-libbed.

He smiled - it almost looked genuine, she marveled - and shrugged. "Hell, if you want to drive them nuts, tell 'em the truth. If they found out that the most gorgeous girl at work used to be a guy, they'd explode from jealousy."

Oh - so, he wanted to make it a contest, huh? Desireé was amazed he could work up the nerve to drag the truth into it before she brought it up - she thought he'd seek refuge in trying to think of her as utterly female. Well, she was planning to defuse that sooner or later by making sure that the truth was always 'right there' - if he wanted to make a contest out of it, she'd show him who'd break first. She knew he couldn't handle it.

"yeah - they'd explode. Then they'd kill me - after all, I've seen all of them naked." She winked. "How do you think they'd feel knowing there was a 'guy' leering at them all this time?"

Rod laughed. "Hell - they'd probably just say 'thank God she's not a lesbian..." Hmm - okay, if that's the way he wanted to play it - she'd turn it up a notch.

Smiling suggestively at Rod, she lowered her voice into a sexy bedroom tone. "Well, I'm certainly not a lesbian..." She let her eyes drop to his crotch - making it quite obvious...

...then quickly glanced up to catch his flush, his stammer - the sign she was waiting for, the sign that she was right...

Nothing. Man, Rod could play it cool, when he had to. But she was just getting warmed up...

Using her most seductive walk, she moved over to the coffee table in front of the couch and sat on it. "Help me with my boots, would you?" She asked, sliding one sexy, leather clad leg into his lap, letting it slide sensuously, seductively against his own....

"Sure." Rod said easily, removing one boot, then the other, somehow managing to hid the emotions that he must really be feeling. Unless he'd taken refuge in that fantasy again...

"Oh - thanks " She moaned softly, rubbing her bare foot over his denim-clad leg - and crotch. "One thing I miss about being a guy - I was never expected to wear heels to work."

"Thank God, too." Rod said - impressively controlled - "Just thinking - tracking down missing people while in six-inch stilettos."

Looking at Rod seductively through half-lowered lashes, she smiled sensuously. "surely you're not trying to say that I can't move as well in those heels as I can in flats?"

"Heaven forbid." Rod replied. "Although, if you'd moved like that as a guy, you might have had to learn how to fight dirty."

Rod had guts - he obviously was very competitive, and didn't want to loose. Well, he could fight what he must really be feeling for awhile - but if she just kept turning it up, he'd break....

Stretching - which pushed her breasts further out, she rose from the coffee table. "I think I'll get a bath." She said - then, walking slowly toward the bathroom, she began to strip while still in plain view of Rod. Within no time, she was naked - and took a quick glance at Rod.

Damn - he was paying attention to just her female body, and there was no easy opening to drag the truth into plain sight again. Well - that wouldn't last long.

Running a tub of warm water, she climbed in - then called out. "Rod, honey - can you bring my a glass of wine?"

"Sure thing." He called back - and appeared a minute later with the requested drink. "Great." She said, taking it. "Give me a hand with my back, would you?"

While he washed her back - and then hair - she talked about her past, what she liked and didn't like - and why. All of which kept bringing up the subject of who she really was. She had to admit, she was impressed by his control - not once did he slip up while keeping up a casual-sounding conversation, his hands touching the body of what was really another man, all appearances to the contrary aside.

Time to bring out the big guns, Desiree thought to herself.

Stepping out of the tub, she held a large bath towel out to Rod. "Give me a hand here, would you?"

With no noticeable hesitation, Rod complied, carefully toweling her off, his hands touching her everywhere while she moaned in pleasure - only partially faked - and waited until just the right time...

He was standing only inches from her, his hands on her ass, her bare chest inches from his chest - and she said in a soft, sensual voice "God - I never in my wildest dreams think I'd find the touch of another man so sexy. I love the way you touch me, Rod - and if I still had a cock, I'd be as hard as a rock right now."

Then, before he could mentally regroup from that blatant reminder - she kissed him.

She threw herself into it, body and soul, passionate and eager - and it wasn't all that faked. But, the important part was that it was sudden and intense, right on the heels of that blatant statement.

She was amazed. He was kissing back! With no noticeable pause, he was kissing her back like she was leading. Passionately, hungrily, as if he was really eager to do this...

Well, she thought, when she finally broke the kiss. She might not have broken him yet - but the kiss had felt absolutely spectacular, and when she did break him, she'd have one nice thought to keep her company as she killed herself.

Which wouldn't be long now - it was obvious he could fake the small stuff. It was time to get this over with.

"God, you make me so horny, Rod." She whispered into his ear, her breasts pressed against his chest. "I've always wondered what it was like, for a woman. All those times I had sex as a man, the way the cried out as my cock drove them towards orgasm - I want to know what that's like..."

"Mmmm..." Rod said - and his hands cupped her ass and lifted.

Wrapping her legs around his waist, she let him carry her into the bedroom, knowing that it must be a last-ditch effort for Rod - there's no way he could actually have sex with an ex-guy, right. Any minute now, he'd chicken out.

But he seemed to have no problem laying her down on the bed. No trouble whispering sweet nothings in her ear as they both undressed him. No trouble kissing her lightly on the lips, then the chin, then the breasts.

No trouble positioning himself, his cock - oh, my, and such a large, perfect cock too - hard and throbbing as he...

"Oh, dear GOD!" Desireé cried out as he entered her. Although technically a virgin, her new womanhood wasn't made to be virginal, but highly sensitive. Ad his big, thick cock seemed to fill every square inch of her, filling her and fulfilling her, creating sensations she'd never felt before... then all thoughts about the bet and contest fled her mind as he began to move inside of her.

She had no past experience in this - but she'd been fully 'programmed' with skill that most women only dreamed about. Now, instinctively, she began to use them, moving her body in time to Rod's, moving as one with him, trying to increase her own pleasure, even though it was already intense - more intense than any she'd felt before.

"Oh, God - yes!" She moaned as Rod continued to drive his cock into her. Her cunt was sopping wet, lubricating the cock that filled her so completely as the sensitive flesh of her vagina quivered at the erotic sensations taking control of her body. She cried out, time and again, as the sensations built, piling on top of each other, building, building, building.....

She screamed as she orgasmed. It was like an explosion of pure ecstasy that severed all her motor- control pathways, causing her writhe and jerk in purest pleasure. Her new vaginal muscles tightened around the hard, thick cock filling her, pushing Rod over the edge and making him come...

It took several minutes for the golden afterglow of the incredible pleasure to fade enough that Desireé could remember why they'd just had sex.

For one, lingering instant, she didn't care. Surely, any life that could give her this much pleasure...

Then she got past the thought, realizing what she'd done wrong. The vagina was well, to womanly, that was all. He'd managed to loose himself in the fantasy.

So, she'd break him once and for all with the one thing that she had left to use...

Turning to him, she smiled. "God - that was great. Now I know how all those women felt when I was having sex with them. But it leaves me with another question "

"Oh?" Rod asked, smiling at her.

Taking his limp cock in her slender hand, she began to manipulate it, feeling it get hard. "Blow-jobs. Most women wouldn't do that for me. No - the only people who really seem to be 'into' blowjobs are gay guys. Since I'm really a guy, maybe I'd enjoy sucking cock. What do you think? One guy sucking another guys cock? Seems to me that it should be natural for me - after all, I'm now a guy attracted to other guys, who just happens to have a feminine looking body, right. Good old Dennis, just sucking on another guy's cock." She winked. "Since you've had blow-jobs from women before, You can tell me whether a guy can suck cock better than a woman can. After all - I've had my cock sucked, too - and no woman could now what a man really like in a blow-job the way I can."

Then, before he could push that thought aside, she lowered her face to his now-hard cock...

Any second now he'll pull away, Desireé thought, sliding her full, soft lips over his cock. She let the programmed skill take control, just sort of 'along for the ride' as the programmed expertise did the work - and the implanted emotions made her feel like she was enjoying it immensely. While she let the extreme pleasure of giving a blowjob wash over her, she waited for him to crack...

It wasn't until she was swallowing the little bit of warm, salty cum he managed to produce for his second orgasm that she realized the truth.

He hadn't cracked - and wasn't going to.

Swallowing the cum - oh, god, the implanted thoughts made it taste so wonderful to her - Desireé looked up at Rod in shock.

"You're absolutely gorgeous." Rod told her, gently, pulling her up into his embrace. "I don't care who you used to be - I never knew that person, not really." He kissed her nose. "But you - you're sexy, and smart, and..." He grinned wickedly "You do know exactly what a man enjoys."

Desireé looked at Rod, realizing that she'd just had the most fantastic sex of her life - with another man...

No. With a man. Because she was a woman now. Rod was right - the past didn't matter, and the future was nothing but 'maybes'. In the here-and-now, she was an incredibly sexy woman in the arms of a man who cared about her - and had just given her more pleasure than she'd ever felt before...

"Oh... my..."

The two lovers looked up to the open doorway, where Jen stood, eyes wide and one hand covering her mouth. She giggled.

Desireé smiled slowly. "Hi, Jen. It's okay - I've come to terms with my womanhood." She smiled wider at the unintentional pun.

Jen giggled again. "Yeah? Well - wait 'till you get your first multiple orgasm, hone - you ain't seen nothin' yet." She came and sat on the edge of the bed, patting Desireé's leg. "I thought you might come to this point - but I was expecting later, rather than sooner."

Desireé's eyebrow rose. "Oh?"

Jen shrugged. "Hell - more than half the population of the world is female. It must have something going for it, or we'd all have committed suicide once we were old enough to realize the 'horrible' fate that was handed to us." She winked. "I figure that that whole 'god, I'd hate to be the other gender' thing is just a defensive reflex - keeps us from getting to jealous of what the other gender has."

"maybe." Desireé had to agree. "Give me a couple of years as a woman - hey! Maybe I should write a book. Just think, I can finally answer some of those age-old questions..."

"Not a chance, honey." Jen said with a smile. "You might have the body and life of a woman - but you have to be raised as a woman to learn all those little secrets. It's a world-wide conspiracy..." She stopped suddenly, then slapped her forehead. "Good God! I was so startled when I walked in, I just plumb forgot to tell you the good news!"

Desireé and Rod sat up, still embracing. "Oh - what good news?" Rod asked.

Jen shrugged. "The New Horizon Commune is closed - and all it's leaders in jail, having signed a full confession of everything." She cocked her head. "Uh - it seems that you were a 'test case' for them. They were planning to start a 'New World Order', with 'Goddesses' at the top, then the 'Servants' - men with the right type of thinking... and, for all those men who'd never come around to the 'right' way of thinking..." She made a gesture in Desireé's direction.

The new woman was gaping at her friend. "But.. how.. How did it happen? Did the FBI finally manage to infiltrate? What on Earth made them give full confessions?"

Jen smiled. "Actually, it was just a way of looking at things. After all, they're not really a new political system - to them it's a religion. In other words, what happened was just a matter of belief."

Desireé shook her head. "I.. I still don't get it."

"Well, you were there, you know how it works in their religion." Jen's smile became blinding. "I just walked up to the front gate - me, a 'Goddess' - and demanded to see all the High Priests. Then I ordered them to turn themselves in and confess their crimes - and order the rest of their communes to cease any plans to do anything to anybody who doesn't join the commune voluntarily."

Desireé gaped, stunned by the absurd simplicity of it all. "And the obeyed...?"

Suddenly, Jen's radiant smile was matched by a glowing blush. "Well... uh, yeah. I just had to, um, follow the rules and, uh... reward them." She looked down at herself with a wry grin. "Don't be surprised if I walk funny for the next couple of days - there was an awful lot of high priests." She looked up. "For that matter - have we got any mouthwash?"

Desireé shook her head to clear it - then suddenly laughed. "What's so funny?" Jen asked, miffed.

Desireé smiled. "If you'd waited just a little while longer, I could have come along and give you a hand." She licked her lips, slowly and suggestively. "I wouldn't even need the mouthwash. I would have enjoyed helping in Peter's downfall - and in more ways than one."

"Hey - that's quite enough of that, young lady." Rod said in mock sternness. "There's plenty of work for you to do right here, gorgeous."

As Dennis, a Private Eye, one of his trademarks had been simple - he always did the work as soon as he could, and did the best job he could.

As Desireé, she saw no reason to change now.

"Excuse us," she said to Jen. "Go find that mouthwash or something." Then she once more put her nose to the grindstone...

...metaphorically speaking, of course.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a over-bearing chauvinist insults his female psychiatrist, she gives him pills that make him highly suggestible; unfortunately for him the first person he runs into is a low class hooker.

May We Suggest

By Gunslinger

Tapping one long finger against the plastic pill bottle she held in her hand, Dr. Karen Styles looked at her reflection in the mirror built onto the back of the credenza that held the coffeemaker.

"What the hell am I thinking...?" She asked the reflection of a well-respected psychiatrist in a whisper. Framed by a pageboy-cut of sandy-blond hair now streaked here and there with gray, the face most of her well-to-do clients considered 'motherly' was cast in lines of guilt as she realized what she'd been considering doing.

Karen's eyes flicked to look over the shoulder of her reflection at the man who'd driven her almost to the point of ignoring her own ethics.

Leaning back on the leather couch as if he owned it, Martin Coughlin practically radiated a towering sense of self-importance, his chest puffed out in his tailored Brooks Brother shirt and his fine-boned face cast in a perpetual look of arrogance.

Marty was practically a walking, talking example of the Napoleonic Complex taken to its extreme edge - and even the fact that Karen recognized his disorder and could even understand its origin didn't do much to take the edge off his extreme arrogance.

Short, slender and practically effeminate-looking, the dark-haired self-made millionaire owed his success to the very same things that he owed his failures. In one of the three classic scenarios for men extremely self-aware of the less-than-optimally-masculine image that they presented to the world, Marty had over-developed all the socially-considered 'masculine' personality traits, more than making up in personality what he couldn't physically.

In short, he tried very hard on a subconscious level to distract people from his effeminate built by his swaggering, over-bearing, chauvinistic personality.

The fact that he was rich only made the situation worse, since too many people let him get away with it. Indeed, it had only been the fact that Marty had bad-mouthed a female cop when she'd stopped him for speeding that had forced him to seek treatment - for a condition that he refused to acknowledge he had.

Hell, he simply refused to listen to her at all, since she was a 'mere' woman...

But the fact that he was verbally abusive, offensively self-assured, and a sexist throwback to Neanderthal man shouldn't be enough to get her to ignore her ethics...

"Good God, woman!" Marty snapped in his hard-edge androgynous tenor. "Where the hell is my coffee?"

...shouldn't be - but was.

With only a faint trace of guilt, Karen dropped the two pills into his coffee and carried it over to him, managing not to throw it in his face.

It was highly unethical - but it should be relatively harmless.

The powerful drugs she'd slipped him would simply make him highly suggestible.

A day spent being forced to listen to what other people said might just manage to make a reasonable facsimile of a human being out of the swaggering, loud-mouthed asshole.

Besides - what real harm could it do...?

* * * * *

With a snort, Marty crumpled up the little pink reminder slip of his next week's session and tossed it contemptuously aside as he stepped out of the quack cunt's office.

"Yak, yak, yak..." He grumbled to himself, slipping his sunglasses on as a palliative against the southern California sun as he angled across the grass with a complete disregard for the 'Please Keep Off The Grass' sign, quite literally stepping right over the sign itself rather than the low, decorative chain lining the walkway.

Reaching the parking lot, he fished the keys out of his tan linen suit and got the acknowledging 'chirp-chirp' from his Kompressor as he pressed the button to disarm the security system and unlock the doors. Sliding behind the wheel, he brought the powerful little sports car to life.

If he'd actually bothered to discuss it with Dr. Styles, Marty might have realized that the now-familiar after-session urge to find a hooker for some hard, fast sex was a subconscious attempt to reaffirm his manhood in the face of the unwanted considerations that the sessions brought to mind - but, from long 'practice', Marty was even better at ignoring those unbidden thoughts about the much-hated and consciously-suppressed truth about himself than he was at ignoring the 'bastards' and 'bitches' who filled the world around him.

Putting the car into gear, he burned rubber and squealed out of the lot in fine disregard for speed limits, traffic laws, and the safety of anybody else on the roads or sidewalks.

After all, such mundane considerations didn't apply to him, any more did those stupid considerations about what was and wasn't manly - though he didn't give such thoughts 'conscious' attention.

Not that they were exactly 'subconscious', either, since on that very lowest level of his mind, he knew damned well that he was short and slender with the type of bone structure more often associated with women than with men.

No, it was the 'in between' layer of thoughts, a sort of 'filter' that he'd built between what he wanted to believe and what he couldn't help but know was true that stripped out any 'less-than-ultimately-masculine' thought or observation - at least, what he earmarked as being 'masculine'.

Howling down the boulevard, Marty aimed the sloping silver hood of his 'toy' away from the upscale gated community where he lived and towards the considerably less savory urban center, where he'd have a much better chance of finding a 'professional' woman.

Not that it was easy. Thanks to the incredibly stupid laws that kept women from marketing the one real use they had and instead forced them into occupations that required thought, skill, or physical prowess they were so obviously unsuited for, hookers were harder to come by than they should have been, especially in the unforgiving glare of the noon-time sun.

Cruising down one of the shabbier back streets, Marty thumped the steering wheel in annoyance at not seeing any women exhibiting the classic signs of a 'working girl'. Trying to decide where his next best bet to find what he wanted would be, he pulled over to the side of the street and put the car in park so he could look for the little black notebook in which he kept track of which women he'd found where.

He'd just begun to look for his little black book when he heard a tap on the window, and he looked up to see some bottle blonde in a white T-shirt and jeans standing outside the passenger-side door.

Using the power control on his door, he lowered the passenger-side window, and the woman leaned in, overly made-up lips curving into a practiced plastic smile as the neckline of the simple shirt swung down to display some cleavage.

"You looking for something, honey?" The woman asked in a knowing tone of voice with a slow wink. Marty's eyebrows rose.

"You're working?" He asked, incredulously.

"Oh, just looking for some fun is all..." She said noncommittally. "You a cop or anything?"

"Of course not!" He snapped, annoyed. "I look even less like a cop than you do a hooker, you numb cunt."

Her thin lips tightened. "What the hell's that supposed to mean?"

"Jeans and sneakers?" Marty asked, derisively. "Hookers are supposed to please men, you stupid bitch - and that means the way they look, too. Tight little skirts, high heels, maybe some fishnets - that's what you should be wearing."

"Oh, really...?" She snorted as she pushed away from the car, deciding that even the money this john exuded wasn't worth this type of shit. Turning away from the rich asshole, she finished her parting shot before walking away: "You try always wearing miniskirts and heels instead of pants and flats!"

Walking away, she didn't see the effect her words had on him.

Even before she'd finished speaking, Marty had opened his mouth to let loose a scathing verbal assault - and then her words had registered on his mind.

No - they had been embedded in his mind, in flaming letters a hundred feet high.

At least, that's how it felt to him as he struggled to make himself think through the mental 'noise' of her words. It was as if her 'suggestion' had somehow been branded in the fore-front of his mind, unignorable and unforgettable, as if somebody were shouting those words at him over and over again while forcing him to stare unblinkingly at a sign that said the exact same thing.

"What the fuck is happening...?" He groaned, finding it difficult to even consider the situation itself through the blinding/deafening/overwhelming reality of her suggestion filling his mind with an insistence that hovered right on the very edge of being painful. He shook his head, trying to clear the damnable thought demanding he wear heels and a skirt - but it wasn't so easily dislodged.

He fumbled for the gear lever, planning to go home and get royally drunk if the thought hadn't dissipated by the time he got there - but even the simple task of driving was near impossible. The mind-warping power of the simple thought distracted him from the surrounding world, the way a bright light shining into his eyes would have blinded him to anything else, or loud music would have drowned out any other sound.

Pulling the car over to - actually onto - the sidewalk, he shut it off and staggered from the car, clapping his hands to the side of his head.

"Stop.. it...!" He gasped, staggering like drunk man as he tried to focus on the thought of calling a cab to get him home. With that damned thought continuously derailing his train of thought with it's own insistent chorus, he had to struggle with the principle of what he wanted to do, the first step being that of finding a phone...

...and then he found himself passing a women's clothing store, and the shrieking thought echoing in his mind rose to a crescendo, causing him to stop dead in front of the plate-glass window that displayed a variety of garments and shoes.

He stared at the display, knowing that he didn't want to do what the thought shrieking in his head demanded he do - but unable to force anything like a powerful enough opposing plan of action through the tumult.

He hung in the balance, fighting the instructions screaming in his mind without being able to form any other course of action...

...and then he took a single step towards the door of the shop.

He hadn't planned to - but with that damned thought screaming at him, he'd suffered a momentary weakening of will power, a mere instant of desire to get it to stop - and that's all it had taken.

A step closer to the shop, he managed to halt himself again, shoring up his resolve...

...and then, a second later, he took a second step. Then a third, and a forth, and a fifth...

Still struggling, unaware of how strange he looked with his look of horrified concentration and stiff, unwillingly movements, Marty entered the store, unable to hold up the unbroken force of willpower necessary to resist the unwanted 'temptation' the store presented.

The clerk, a young woman with frizzy red hair and acne, looked at him sardonically through her heavy glasses, thinking to herself that the freaks always seemed to show up when it was her shift.

"Can I help you?" She asked...

Horrified and humiliated, Marty heard his own voice drag the words through an unwilling throat: "Miniskirt.. heels.. need miniskirt and heels..."

"You got it." She said with a sigh, not caring how weird a customer was, as long as they paid cash. "Come on, let's see what we've got..."

She sorted through some of the store's stock, finally holding out some items she thought the probably hopped-up man might be interested in.

"How about..." She started...

...and he grabbed the stuff out of her hand and bolted for the changing booths at the back of the store, the sight of the skirts and shoes being held out to him too much for his straining, near-to- cracking mind.

So desperate was he to end that steady, mind-bending refrain, he didn't even draw the curtain on the booth, desperately shucking off shoes, socks and pants as the unwanted need screamed endlessly into his mind.

Wearing only his dress shirt and briefs, he started to haul on the denim mini-skirt which was simply the first of the several garments that came to hand...

"Hey!" The clerk said, worried his frantic motions would tear stock that wasn't paid for yet. "You have to buy that stuff first!"

Marty's head nearly exploded - or, at least, that's how it felt as a second need was imposed on top of the one already trying very hard to drive him crazy.

Frantically, unable to finish satisfying the first need he didn't want, he grabbed up his discarded pants and quickly hauled out a wad of money that was more than enough to cover the dozen or so skirts and half-dozen pairs of shoes she'd handed him to try. With that done, he finished hauling on the skirt, then quickly stepped into a pair of patent-leather white sling-back shoes with a four-inch stacked heel...

...and the momentary, blissful silence in his mind as he met the conditions of the instructions was quickly overwhelmed by the disgust and horror he felt, looking down at his hairy legs between skirt hem and heels.

"Oh God. This is... disgusting!" Marty cried, the very fact that he'd been fighting the effeminate nature of his body his whole life making the wave of disgust and horror rolling over him all the more terrible.

"It sure is." The clerk said, looking up from counting out the cash to sniff at the slender, hairy legs. "You need to loose that body hair, buddy."

"No...!" Marty screamed, eyes clamping shut as her words branded themselves into his mind, restarting the losing battle so recently ended, with a new objective. Though understanding the methodology of what was happening, if not the inexplicable reason, Marty fought through the new commandment to curse at the clerk: "Why'd you have to say that, you dumb bitch!"

The clerk's face tightened in anger.

"That's it!" She declared, now that she had the money for the clothing. "Take your purchases and get out! Get out and never come back!"

Gasping, not wanting any of this but unable to help himself, Marty began to gather up his new clothing, jamming the hurriedly into the bags the clerk supplied, along with his own discarded pants and shoes.

Staggering under the load of imposed instructions, Marty unwillingly moved towards the door, struggling to stay balanced atop the unfamiliar heels as he was bathed in humiliated disgust at the thought of going out in public like this.

"...and be nice to people, you asshole!" The clerk called out, after him.

Staggering out of the store, ankles and calves already starting to ache from the second-to-second rebalancing act required to remain upright in his new heels, he began to walk away from the store...

...only to turn into another store two doors down - a drug store that would carry what he didn't-want- but-needed.

The clerk at the drug store was also used to some of the less... 'normal' characters that the less- than-upscale urban area tended to attract, and he figured that money was money...

...just like the desk-clerk at the transient's hotel at the corner who rented out a room to the... guy?

...who came staggering in, purchased clutched to his chest and sobbing out what sounded like 'no, I don't want to...' over and over again.

At least the drunk-or-drug addled transvestite was quite polite to him - though he also kept swearing at himself for being nice to the clerk, which was weirder than usual.

Nearly an hour - and the whole bottle of depilatory cream - later, Marty stood swaying unsteadily atop those accursed heels, staring with red-rimmed eyes at the most-definitely-effeminate person in the scratched and cloudy mirror.

The person in the mirror looked like a girl. Not terribly attractive, and certainly the type who'd be described as 'boyish' - by somebody describing 'her' as a boyish girl.

Worse than the humiliation of wearing a skirt and heels was the knowledge that he looked pretty good in a skirt and heels...

Trembling, hating himself for being unable to fight the inexplicable force that made him obey people's commands, Marty gathered up his bags and headed out of the room, eager to hurry to the payphone at the end of the corridor and call a cab to get him safely home...

...and stopped in horror as he rounded the corner and found a trio of men sitting in the little 'common area', sharing a cigarette and a forty of malt liquor.

He took a step backward, intending to flee before anything bad could happen...

...but it was too late.

"Don't go running off, girl - we ain't gonna hurt you!" The acne-scarred Hispanic guy at the end of the couch said, misconstruing the frightened look on the face of the 'boyish girl' - and Marty couldn't leave, no matter how desperately he wanted to.

"Damn, Miguel, you sure did lower your standards." The thin black man with a thoroughly disreputable-looking goatee sitting next to him said, shaking his head - and then turned to Marty...

"Please, don't..." Marty started to beg, hating that he was forced to be polite rather than snapping at the men - but the thin black man cut him off.

"Hush now, girl." He told Marty - and so Marty did. "You gotta know you ain't tryin' very hard to look good, even though that skirt is kinda nice."

Marty tried, desperately, to run away - and failed miserably.

The thin black man continued talking to 'her', having no idea of the effects of his words: "You need to start wearing make-up, honey-chile."

Unfortunately, Marty's own understanding of 'hush' didn't even allow the desperate whimper he wanted to let out as the command burned itself into his brain.

The pot-bellied, broad-shouldered black man who made up the third member of the trio looked at Marty's slim form, and snorted.

"Make-up would just get her started, Jukes." He said to the thinner man, before turning to Marty. "Hell, you gotta be, what... twenty-five, twenty six? But it still don't look like puberty paid you no visit yet. What you need to do is go down and see Doc Martinez, down on Forth and Westwood. You ask him to give you a big ol' pair of ripe, round titties, girl."

Marty could no more scream in objective horror then he could whimper.

"Yeah, you got the idea, Mac!" The man referred to as 'Jukes' said, snapping his fingers and turning to Marty. "Go ask Doc Martinez to make you a real woman, with some big chest-melons you can pack into somethin' showy to catch a man's eye, and some junk in yo' trunk to give a man something to hold onto when you're riding the ol' crotch-rocket."

The three men chuckled, enjoying the stunned, horrified look on the face of the 'uptown white chick' they were 'just teasing'.

"Yeah!" Miguel joined in, chuckling. "Get him to use that call-a-jen shit to give you some nice, plump cocksucker lips to, while he'd at it. Even get yu'self that liposuction, too, make your waist real small and all."

Chuckling, Mac nodded, making a shooing motion with his big, gnarled hands.

"You go on an' do all that, girl." He 'ordered', figuring she'd had enough - almost. "Then when it's all done and you've got a naughty hotty body, you..."

Considering the look of horrified disgust on the girls face, Mac was surprised she stayed to listen to his lewd 'suggestion' before finally tottering away, tears rolling down her cheeks...

* * * * *

Marty was in hell.

That was the only way to describe the situation she was in.

It was hellish by and of the situation itself - but made truly horrific in that, despite all understanding, there was nothing she could do about it.

She couldn't undo what the surgeon had done to her - done to make her a 'her'. Helpless, driven to obey any command given the then-male she'd been, she'd gone to see the doctor, and her helplessly offered declaration that 'money was no object' overcame any reservation the doctor might have held.

She'd been aware of what she was doing, and she'd been horrified, disgusted, sickened, angry and afraid - but unable to stop herself, whatever had made her so utterly pliable still in effect.

Now, nearly five months later, she was no longer 'pliable', psychologically - but the effects of having been pliable still remained, and not only physically.

The doctor had given her some instructions after he'd spent many hours doing the extraordinarily well-paid work she'd unwillingly demanded of him - and, still pliable, she had no choice but accept those commands, which meant that she'd followed them even after the strange, obedient state had worn off.

Though the doctor's orders didn't account for her living like a hermit these last five months - no, that was perfectly 'voluntary', to avoid having to expose what she'd involuntarily turned herself into to the world at large.

Being a woman was horrifying and humiliating - but living as a woman was far worse, and at least in the privacy of her own apartment she could curl up in misery over her feminine fate without having to deal with other people dealing with her was a woman.

However, she no longer had that option.

That hateful, horrible man in the hotel who, along with his friends, had given her the orders that had led to this horrible fat, had also given her some others, ones to take place 'when it's all done'.

Given the orders the doctor had given her about the healing period, she'd been given these five months grace - but no, no matter how hard she tried to argue with herself, there was no denying that the requirement was met.

Which explained why, despite the fact that she truly did believe she'd rather die than go through with this, she was 'busily' preparing for her completion of those orders.

Finished, she walked up to the mirror to take a look - and only the fact that tears would make her make-up run kept her from crying at what she saw.

Bleached-blond hair in a big, frizzy 'do. An 'okay' face, too heavily made up. Hot-pink spandex tube-top enclosing her big, firm, and-oh-so fake DD's.

Leather micro mini. Fishnet stockings.

Knee-high black leather boots with a five-inch heel...

...and filling it all out, what undeniably looked to be - and, legally, was - a woman. Her.

Martina 'Marti' Coughlin.

With a soft whimper, the 'boyishly slender' woman with the big, fake tits swiveled on one heel, and wiggled her way out of the room on heels she'd helplessly learned to become proficient atop.

Unable to stop herself from obeying orders that made her want to throw up, the garishly made-up new woman walked with a hip-swinging swivel right out her front door and down the long driveway of her house to the sidewalk, where her pink-glossed lips helplessly pulled up into a semblance of a smile as she began 'working it' even more as she headed down the street in a random direction.

She didn't have to go very far - before long, she spotted a young man coming down the sidewalk, his eyes predictable going to her brightly-packaged body.

Helplessly, she sauntered her way up to him, her unfelt smile widening as she approached him.

He was a tall, kind of pale young man, probably a collage student judging from his clothes. With a shaggy mass of dirt-brown hair and a sort of lanky grace, he was your average young man, neither particularly handsome, nor notably unattractive. Just... average.

Like any 'average' young man, he offered a hesitant return of her smile as she wiggled and jiggled her way right up to him, the painted smile on her painted lips apparently real enough to convince him, despite the look in her eyes...

...but then again, he wasn't exactly looking her in the eyes, not with the rest of her barely-clad figure to see.

"Why, hello there, handsome..." She cooed in a voice as feminine as surgery and an uncontrollable need to sound femininely sexy could make it. Teasingly, she ran one long-nailed finger down the brunet's chest. "You interested in a good time?"

He gaped, gulped, and goggled - then cleared his throat nervously.

"I, um... That is, I don't usually, and.." He stammered, taking in the deep view of cleavage she oh- so-knowingly and oh-so-unwillingly displayed for him.

"Oh, don't worry, honey..." She helplessly cooed, rubbing her body against his, openly. "I'm not a 'professional' woman - just a very, um... dedicated amateur."

She licked her lips, 'hungrily'.

"Free, fun, and friendly - that's all I'm looking for.." She informed him, wanting to shudder in disgust at the way she was coming on to him, but unable to do so. Blatantly, she slid her hand down and squeezed his crotch. "Just so hard, hot sex, and that's it. We don't even have to go far - that's my house right there..."

When he saw the house she was pointing to, it made up his mind for him - because surely no hooker lived in a mansion like that! No, this was probably some spoiled little rich girl, wanting to have some dirty fun while Mummsy and Daddsy were away somewhere...

"Sure." He said, hoarsely. "I'm..."

"No names." She told him, putting one finger to his lips - then taking his hand and leading the way, ass swaying to provide him some 'entertainment' as they walked.

She didn't waste any time once she got in the house - she led him straight up to the bedroom, where she put on the briefest 'strip-tease' she could - which was pretty brief, given the scarcity of her clothing.

He put it down to her eagerness to get laid - which was a technical truth, just not the way he took it.

After all, she had no choice but to do this, so she wanted to get it over as quickly as possible - and with the minimum amount of effort she could put into it.

"Okay, hot stuff..." She said, laying back and spreading her legs wide. "Do your best."

He needed no second invitation. His cock already rock-hard, he clambered up onto the bed and, with a quick 'are you ready?' that she had no choice but to reply to in the affirmative, he slid his throbbing organ into her 'virginal' womanhood.

"God - you're tight!" He grunted appreciatively as he began pumping away - and she was spared the indignity of having to answer that by the greater humiliation of moaning in actual, honest-to-god, and completely unwanted pleasure from her first female sexual experience.

To her mind, it would have been better had the entire thing been as physical painful as it was emotional - but it wasn't. Though she had no real frame of reference to tell how skilled the young man was, he was fairly considerate, keeping his weight braced off of her and one hand free that he used to roam her body, though it tended to spend more time on her big, bouncing boobs than anywhere else as he worked them towards orgasm, varying thrust speed and timing in a completely unnecessary - and, in fact, for her, humiliating...

...but not completely unappreciated...

...effort to make it as good for her as it was for him.

At least, until 'need' gave way to consideration, and he entered the final stretch in a hard, steady rhythm, making both their bodies shudder on the bed until he stiffened, grunting, and pumped his load deep into her, a thought that was the final humiliation...

...tempered, as it was, by the fact that she'd hit orgasm a split-second before him, and was busy thatching with the unwanted pleasure of being fucked as a woman.

"Damn - that was great..." He gasped, rolling off of her and onto the bed beside her...

...and, helplessly, she felt compelled by the fact that the unnamed young man was still able to form coherent sentences to assume that her order to 'fuck the brains out' of the first man she met hadn't been fulfilled, so she helplessly smiled at him, slid down between his legs, and began to task of licking, fondling and sucking him back to erection.

As bad as it was, Marti thought as the cock in her mouth began to harden, it wasn't as bad as the 'kicker' to the command she'd been given.

The one that would compel her to tell him that she'd 'be happy to do the same' for any of his friends
- and 'mean' it.

Not even gloom or despair can go on, unrelieved, indefinitely - so even as his cock finished rising to full hardness, and she prepared to be impaled anew by his saliva-slicked rod, she had a humorous thought - on of wry, dark, and almost grim humor, but humor none the less...

'At least I'm going to be a very popular girl...' THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A cross dresser agrees to pretend to be his friends wife for an important company dinner, but when intruders disrupt the dinner, he finds that his is going to have to go further with the role then he planed

Meeting Mrs. Macklewhaithe

By Gunslinger

Classic rock issued from the speakers of the five-thousand dollar German-build sound system on custom-built pine shelving at the end of the room, filling the large space with the sound of the Beach Boys begging Rhonda to help them.

Flopped into the semi-reclined leather-and-oak chair, Lee let one of his long, knobby, denim-clad legs dangle over the leg of the chair, the other one curled half under the laptop computer balanced on his knee. Peering through his steel-rimmed half-glasses, the tall, almost painfully skinny youth was tapping away in fits and starts, a preoccupied look on his narrow face as he nibbled thoughtfully on the ends of his sparse, scraggly attempt at a goatee.

Then the door to his apartment exploded.

At least, that's how it seemed to Lee as he started, the laptop flying from his knee and his long, brown hair in it's ponytail waving wildly as he jerked his head around to stare at the door.

The entranceway was filled to capacity by an absolute mountain of a man. Tall and wide and deep, the huge, sandy-blond man had the sheer mass of a man who was genetically patterned to be massively muscular rather than the precise musculature of a body-builder. Dark, intelligent eyes beneath a broad brow were narrowed in anger, and his huge hands the size of a hard-cover novel, flexed as if they had the urge to wrap themselves around something - a neck perhaps - and squeeze.

The earth seemed to tremble as he entered the apartment, stalking purposefully towards Lee. When he spoke, his voice sounded more like a coherent earthquake than anything produced by human vocal cords.

"I'm going to kill you, you little bastard." The monster of a man enunciated quite clearly. Lee gaped at the apparition, then spoke...

"Jeez, Jason - I think you broke my door!" The tone was one of hurt indignation.

"Your door?" Jason asked, holding his massive, thick hands out incredulously. "Lee, you asshole - you're gonna get me fired, and probably sent to prison - and you're worried about your goddamn door?"

Lee shook his head. "C'mon man, what are you talking about?" He walked over to the door and inspected it briefly, then closed it. "Tell me what the hell's going on."

"On my job application - you wrote down that I was married!" Jason said, slumping into a chair - which creaked in warning.

Lee felt his stomach contract. He used to work in the large corporation where Jason now worked, and had helped him get in - in part, by fudging a few facts on his file to make him the 'perfect employee'. Like saying he was married. "Yeah, so?"

Jason sighed. "So - the Big Man himself, Mr. Calloway, has noticed how well I'm doing - especially after I closed the Anderson account. So, he invited me and 'my wife' to a fancy dinner at his mansion. He'd looking forward to meeting a woman who doesn't even exist!" He slumped forward, burying his face in his hands. "What the hell am I gonna do?"

"Oh, jeez, man... I'm sorry." Lee said, slumping onto the couch nearby. "Damn - I never expected this was going to happen. I don't know what I can say, what I can do..."

Jason looked up, an odd expression on his face. "I do." Lee blinked. "Huh?"

"If Mr. Calloway's expecting a wife, then I'll just have to bring one." Jason declared.

Lee's jaw dropped. "Boy, you've really flipped your lid. Even if you could find a woman willing to fake being your wife - have you forgotten your little problem?"

It wasn't really a 'little' problem at all. In fact, it was a big problem - so big, that it was the reason that Jason was gay, a fact known only to three people - Lee, his only 'straight' friend to know, and his current and ex lovers. Jason had a type of phobia - a phobias of women in social situations. He could take orders or give orders to women at work with no problem - but try and make small talk, and he'd start to sweat, his voice would fail, and he'd feel faint. Because of this, all his female co-workers thought he was either a cold fish, or very, very married.

"No, I haven't forgotten my problem." Jason said, now. "But I'm not worried - because I'll have no problem dealing with my wife - Angela."

"Oh, shit - no." Lee said, going pale. "No, no, no, no. Not a chance, buddy - ain't gonna happen."

Angela would make the perfect non-existent wife, because Angela didn't exist. Angela was Lee - in drag.

Lee had shared his guilty secret the same weekend that Jason had shared his homosexuality. Although Lee was straight, he'd always been fascinated with the trappings of being a woman, and had been secretly cross-dressing at home since the time he was sixteen. He was an expert at it, and his female persona of Angela was incredibly realistic - except for the fact that nobody had ever seen her but Lee. He only cross-dressed at home, alone, and never, ever went out, answered the door, or did anything else that might give the slightest hint that Angela existed. Although it was generally commented on by anybody who ever met him how effeminate he looked, with his big brown eyes, soft skin and slender build - especially with his long hair - nobody thought that he actually dressed and acted like a woman when he was alone and 'safe'. Aside from himself, the only other person in the entire world who knew the truth was Jason, and even he had never seen Angela.

"Lee, buddy - you got me into this. Now, the other you is going to get me out of this." Jason said. "I'm supposed to be at the Calloway mansion for dinner in three hours - and that's how long you have to turn yourself into Angela."

"No, look, you don't understand..." Lee tried to explain.

"Tick, tick." Jason said, taping his watch. "And, just remember - I might get fired, and even go to prison for fraud... but when the police look to see who was the hiring officer who changed my records "

Lee closed his eyes. "I guess I'd better get ready" he whispered.

* * * * *

"I can't do this, Jason." Lee said, his slender hands balled up into fists of near panic. His deep, brown eyes were wide and he was breathing in quick little pants.

Jason's Rover was pulling up the long drive of the Calloway mansion when Lee spoke the words, and he shot a quick look at his 'wife'. "You have to, L.. Angela."

"I can't." Lee repeated, his sweet voice ragged. "I mean, I thought I could, but Jesus, Jason - In public. I'm going to have to go in there and.. be a woman. Your wife, for God's sake. I can't do this!"

"Suck it up, Lee." Jason said, pulling the big vehicle to a stop at the bottom of the elegant staircase leading to the front door. "Look - they saw us pull in. We can't just drive off."

Lee shot a quick glance up at the top of the stairs. The Calloways, dressed in elegant clothes, stood arm and arm waiting to greet Jason Macklewaithe and his 'wife'. A butler or some such was already moving down the steps to park the vehicle. Jason was right - it was too late for second thoughts - although, Lee had already had second and third and fourth thoughts long before, and was working on his seven hundredth and twenty ninth, by his count.

Taking a deep breath didn't help - it caused his large, DDD breast-forms to shift noticeably beneath the pale silk and velvet that covered them, and that drove home the situation he was in. Closing his eyes, he tried to regain some sort of calm as he heard Jason get out of the Rover and walk around to his door. When he opened it and reached out a hand, he opened his eyes, squared his slender shoulders, and swung his long, shapely legs out of the vehicle and rose to stand atop his four-inch heels.

Then he gritted his teeth behind the smile he forced on his full, soft lips, and let Jason slid his arm around his incredibly trim waist. Arm in arm, they began to climb the marble staircase, each step showing off one of Lee's long, shapely, nylon-clad leg through the long slit in the floor length, powder- blue, silk-inset velvet dress he wore. The coil of his long, shiny chestnut mane that hung over his slender shoulder tickled at his long, swan-like neck as the wind played with it, and he was all too aware of the thousand of tiny - and not so tiny - sensations that wouldn't let his forget what he was doing at that moment.

The cool air moving across the smooth surface of his leg, the way it felt through the thin, shear material of the black nylons.

The way the elastic top of those same thigh-high nylons gently squeezed his firm, milky thighs.

The slight shift of his silk briefs over his firm, trim ass and his smooth, flat crotch, where a highly realistic vagiform compressed his cock and hid it away.

The way his firm, full 'breasts' (incredibly realistic foam rubber latex prosthetics that merged seamlessly with his own flesh) moved slightly with each step. Unconfined by a bra - not only did his dress preclude one, the low-cut back and key-hole neckline preventing it, but the fact that his large 'bosom' was remarkably firm, and didn't require any extra support - the shifting caused them to move realistically, thanks to the saline-filled sac at the heart of each one.

The touch of Jason's warm hand against the bare skin of his back, where his smooth, flawless skin was revealed by the plunging open back of the dress.

The way he was walking atop the white leather pumps, concentrating on that smooth, feminine motion that he'd labored so hard to achieve, and feeling a guilty pride at being so damned good at it.

The slight feline sway of his hips.

The slight smell of his own perfume wafting back to the nostrils of his pert, perfect nose. The taste of lipstick on his full, soft lips.

The slight 'shading' of what he saw as he looked out at the world through his long, fine eyelashes.

All of these things intruded constantly on his consciousness as he reached the top of the steps to be greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Calloway.

For the first time in his life, Lee was out side, in public - as Angela. And, although fear held him tightly in its grip, there was also a wild sense of exhilaration mixed in with it. He'd never before had the courage to do this, and here he was, forced into finding out, once and for all, the question he'd asked himself time and again - just how good was his impersonation of a woman.

Arriving at the top of the stairs, Jason shook Mr. Calloway (Robert, please)'s hand, and lightly touched his wife (Penelope, dear)'s hand to his lips.

Then Robert, a tall, slender, aristocratic looking man, was bowing deeply from the waist and bringing Lee's knuckles to his lips, saying "And this gorgeous creature must be the famous Mrs.

Macklewaithe."

Amazed to find he could get his voice to work - and in the right register, Lee managed a smile and said. "If I must be, than I must be - but please, call me Angela. Mrs. Macklewaithe is my mother in law."

And the polite laughter of the older couple brought home the startling realization that they hadn't the faintest suspicion at all that the lovely 'woman' before them was anything other than what 'she' seemed to be.

The next two and a half hours were like a dream to Lee. Through cocktails and small talk, then to the huge dining-room with its antique furniture and excellent food, confidence grew with the increasing awe and wonder as he realized that there was absolutely no chance that they'd catch on to his secret. He realized that he'd wasted all that time hiding away as 'Angela' when 'she' could have seen the light of day, gone out, went to the mall, or to lunch, or to the movies - and never, ever been singled out or caught. With his natural build and acting abilities, combined with long years of practice, 'Angela' was actually a more convincing 'woman' than Lee himself was as a man. It was like a dream come true.

Then it suddenly turned into a nightmare.

Suddenly, the doors to the end of the room flew open with a loud clatter, and Lee's stomach contracted into a tight, leaden ball as he remembered what had happened the first time a door had been thrown open like that - she'd been forced to become a gorgeous society woman.

Now, he watched wide eyed as William, the butler, and the two maids were thrust into the room, as if propelled from behind.

Then men began to enter the room. Clad all in black, with black masks, each one carried a weapon of some sort - handguns, riffles, shotguns. One of the carried what Lee recognized as an Uzi, it's usually short snout hooded by what looked like a yard and a half of silencer. Another carried the black metal- and plastic shape of the ubiquitous M-16 rifle made so famous by the debacle in Vietnam, and all the movies that conflict spawned. In an incongruous twist of fate, the man next to him carried the equally famous - or infamous - wooden-stocked Automat Kalashnikov Model 47.

It was as if images from the TV had somehow stepped out of the idiot-box and into the refined, elegant atmosphere of the Calloway's house to despoil it.

Robert half rose out of his seat, his face ruddy with anger, while Penelope, her face pale with fear, tried to tug him back down. "What is the meaning of this?" He demanded.

The answer came in the form of a loud, surprisingly flat boom as a slug of lead exactly point-four-five of an inch in diameter exited the barrel of the slab-sided Colt M1911A1 Automatic Pistol the leader of the men held in his right hand. Traveling at just under the speed of sound, the thick, pugnacious round was invisible to the human eye, but the effects of the bullet's flight was all too clear as it slammed into the inlaid, highly-glossed wood of the hundred-year-old dining room table, blowing a hole big enough to poke a thumb through in it. Splinters of wood flew, 'ping'ing musically off the crystal stemware.

"Shut up, or the next one goes through your wife's head." The man said in a voice that wasn't so much threatening as frighteningly matter of fact.

Robert sat down swiftly.

Turning to the man with the AK-47, the leader gave a series of orders, and the man with the Russian assault rifle quickly assigned the rest of the half-dozen or so men to their various tasks. Two (the leader and 'AK Man') were to remain to guard the prisoners, one was to go around and cut all the phone and power lines, two (one carrying a light machine gun, the other's shoulders burdened with extra belts of ammo for the gun) to watch the front drive - and the other three were to do what they'd come here to do, which was to steal everything with any value at all in the house.

"Well, well, well..." The leader said, approaching the end of the table where Lee and Jason sat. Lee saw Jason's huge muscles tense under the crisp white shirt he wore...

..and so did the leader. The big automatic came up, the bore looking as large as the mouth of the Lincoln Tunnel as it swept past Lee and centered on Jason's broad forehead.

Putting a hand on Jason's arm, Lee squeezed lightly - and Jason's muscles relaxed, although he continued to glare at the gun wielding masked man in black.

"My, my - such a lovely lady." The man said, his blue eyes eyeing Lee through the eye holes of the ski mask. Lee squeezed even harder on Jason's arm, keeping him in check.

"I should thank you for coming." The man said in an oddly jocular tone of voice. "Usually, Mr. Calloway keeps a small army of security guards on the premises to protect all the treasures he's collected. But in your honor, he sent them away for the night. He didn't want to spook you, you see. H thought that men with guns wandering around might make you uncomfortable." He laughed, a grating sound. "Well

- does it?" Nobody spoke.

Then an idea came to Lee, so suddenly, so brilliantly, that it hit him like a two-ton weight. The only question was whether or not he could make himself go through with it.

So, before he could reconsider, he forced himself to speak.

In his sexiest, most feminine voice, he addressed the leader, making sure to add just the right mix of fear into the equation.

"If... If I you promise not to hurt my husband or the Calloways... I'll have sex with you." He said. "L.. Angela, no!" Jason said, shocked - and the Calloways repeated the sentiment.

The leader, however, was eyeing 'her' thoughtfully - as he knew he would, having seen the look in his eye as he appraised 'her'.

"Hmm " The leader said. "Are you trying something funny, Miss?"

Trying for just the right tone, Lee drew himself up a bit huffily. "It's 'Mrs.'" Mrs. Macklewaithe. And, if it'll spare the life of me and the others, then I'll.. 'willing' do anything you want. Just as long as you don't hurt us."

The seconds before the man answered seemed an eternity to Lee, who was in a state of pure terror and shock, actually praying for both the answers with equal fervor. Then...

"Gary - watch these other three. I'm taking Mrs. Macklewaithe for a spin."

"But.." the man with the AK-47 started to protest.

"But what?" The leader asked, dangerously, and the one he'd called Gary wisely shut up. "After you." He said to Lee, gesturing with the gun.

It took all of Lee's willpower to rise and head for the door - and his fear, disgust and uncertainty showed in every movement, every twitch.

And it was just what was needed to convince the leader that this was genuine. Not knowing the truth, what he saw - or thought he saw - was a woman forcing herself to do something for the good of her husband and the Calloways. With a smile, the man followed close behind Lee, the gun pointed squarely at 'her' bare back.

They entered the next room - a small den of some sort, and the leader locked the door behind them, keeping the gun aimed firmly at her head.

"Okay, Mrs. Macklewaithe - why don't you come over here and suck my cock. Any funny business, and I'll blow your head off, so watch your teeth."

'Oh, God.' Lee thought to himself - right now he wished he was dead. But it was too late to back out now, which meant...

"Oh, I won't try anything funny." He said in his most seductive tone. "Do you know how long I've waited for this?"

That got the leader a bit. "Huh?"

"Married to that big, dumb brute for all these years. God - I've tried to have affairs, but one look at him, and any potential lover ran away screaming." Lee forced himself to say, using the chance to move slowly and seductively towards the leader. The 'seductive' was on purpose. The 'slow' was the best he could force himself to do when every nerve in his body screamed for him to run away.

Instead, he forced himself to sink to his nylon clad knees, feeling like he was going to vomit.

Hesitantly, he reached out and used his long-nailed fingers to unzip the man's fly. Closing his eyes, he mentally gathered all his fraying will, and reached in and pulled the man's cock out, feeling the warmth of the rapidly stirring organ in his hand and feeling utterly disgusted.

From somewhere deep inside, he managed to find the will and courage to fake a smile up at the man, then he bent his head down - and for the first time in his life his feminine-looking lips closed over a man's cock.

He wanted to throw up. Not because of any purely physical revulsion - the actual act itself wasn't yet all that bad, just a warm, thick, meaty object between his lips - but from the emotional impact. Instead, he forced himself to think back on the three times in his life he'd ever received a blow-job (two of the paid for) and forced himself to apply a bit of suction as his feminine-looking hands gripped the man's tool. One lay on the shaft at the base, the other cupping his balls.

Then he did the most degrading thing he'd ever done - and began to bob his head up and down while using one hand to stroke the man's shaft. He forced his tongue to slide over the head of the man's penis, feeling the faintly musty, unpleasant taste of the freed organ's dried sweat.

But this wasn't the worst, and he forced himself to continue on, knowing what was coming - quite literally.

And it did. It was a very, very near thing - Lee's jaw muscles almost clamped down instinctively as the man began to gush cum down his throat, but Lee successfully avoided it, forcing himself to swallow the warm, salty, sticky liquid as if he was enjoying it - and then forced himself to lick the cock clean before tucking it away.

"Not bad." The leader admitted. "Not great, but not bad."

Although he felt despoiled and sick, Lee couldn't let it go - not yet. Instead, he batted his eyelashes at the robber. "Yes - but it left me unsatisfied."

And he dropped his panties and lay back, revealing his incredibly realistic-looking false vagina. "Why don't you fuck me with that gun of yours instead." He suggested. "Let me feel some real power between my legs."

"What?" The man yelped.

"Go ahead - stick it in there." Lee urged. "It can't be a trick, lover - think about it. If I do anything funny, you just pull the trigger and..."

The man shook his head. "Wow, lady - you're one kinky bitch."

Then he knelt, reached his hand between Lee's spread legs - and slid the barrel of the gun into the 'cunt'.

It went in about two inches before hitting the back wall of the fake cunt - but that was all Lee needed. At that moment, he rolled quickly to the side.

And, as he'd counted on, the robber was unable to move, paralyzed by shock for that one vital instant as he saw the 'woman' move - and her 'cunt' rip off, apparently torn from her body by the barrel of the gun.

Then the heavy vase Lee had carefully positioned himself next to came down on the man's head, and for the robber, the world went dark.

Pausing only long enough to use the cord of a lamp to tie the unconscious man's hands, Lee leapt to his feet, instinctively tucking his freed cock up between his legs and securing it in place with his panties. Then, he scooped up the gun. After making sure the coast was clear with a quick look out the door, he moved next door with as much speed as he could muster, flinging it open with the gun leveled...

...at Jason, who was just finishing tying up Gary. Picking up the AK, he cocked his head. "Okay - now what?"

Flushed with excitement and victory, Lee smiled. "Well - I say that the Calloway's call the cops..."

The gasps made him realize, to late, that he'd been excited enough to use his own voice. He stopped, dismayed, and looked at the Calloways and the staff, who were staring at him in shock.

"You... you're a man!" Penelope said in shock. Lee went pale, realizing what he'd done.

That's when Lee and Jason saw the side of Robert Neil Calloway that made him the millionaire he was today.

"Well, that's a bit of a shocker, especially considering how well you play the part." He said in a calm voice. "But that neither here nor there." He walked across the room, half dragging his wife, who was still gaping at Lee in shock. He waved at Lee, Jason and the staff. "Quick - in here."

'In Here' turned out to be a cleverly hidden safe-room with steel walls, floor, ceiling and door, It was stocked with a few necessities, including a phone, and it was this that Robert picked up as the all entered and locked the door behind them.

"Plan ahead, I always say - built these all over the mansion for just this purpose." Robert explained, punching in '9-1-1'. Phone line's separate and shielded, too - they can't cut them."

He spoke to the person on the other end for a few moments, the was put on hold while the cars were dispatched. While he waited, he lowered the phone and spoke to Lee. "In that drawer you'll find some simple clothes. They'll be a bit baggy on you, but I think life will be much easier on all of us if we forget your little secret, and just tell the police I invited you and Jason here to dinner." He looked at the staff. "That's what we'll all say, right?"

The staff agreed readily, still trying to cope with the situation.

He listened at the phone, making sure he was still on hold, then looked at Lee again. "Now, personally, I'm sure my wife is shocked and horrified - but I don't have any problems with how you might choose to live your life, young man." Then, incredibly, he winked. "But, male or female, by gum I'm going to go ahead with the offer I'd decided to make back when I thought you were really a woman. How'd you like to do some work as a model for one of my fashion house. Straight photo ad work - and the 'mystery' of you will make it even better, as nobody will ever be able to track down the gorgeous woman who is doing our ads. Think about it - it pays very, very handsomely, and you are definitely the most perfect person to do the ads, as you are the most perfectly elegant, feminine person I've ever seen, despite what you really are."

And as Lee hastily erased Angela before the cops arrived, he did so with a warm glow, despite all that had happened.

He now knew, once and for all, the answer to that question that had plagued him so long. Yes, he could pass as a woman.

And, eight months later, any time he had any doubt about that fact, all he had to do was take a cab down to Time Squared and look up at the image of 'Angelica', the mysterious new model who's image was modeling a dress from one of the most prestigious designer lines to be had.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A young man's mother helps become a female impersonator in Las Vegas. After an accident, the man awakes eight years later only to discover that the doctors were confused about his sex.

Merely Players

By Gunslinger

I blame my parents for what happened.

Now, I have to make this absolutely clear. I don't claim it's their fault, and I don't hold them responsible, I just blame them for what happened. It's not like they consciously did anything which caused this, nor do they enjoy or even necessarily accept what has happened to me. Nevertheless, if it wasn't for them, none of this ever would have happened.

First off, there's the simple fact that they are my parents. Oh, I really don't have any complaints about them, as individuals, or as parents per se. In fact, I love Mom and Dad. They never mistreated me, they raised me right, and always tried to do their best for me.

No, the problem is one of simple genetics. Mom's a lovely woman, and was very, very beautiful in her younger days, back when she was working as a show girl. These days, showgirls are model-thin, but Mom was a showgirl in the 70's, when things were a little different. Before she was Mrs. Barbara Mannheim, she was 'The Fabulous Barbie Barringer', with an hour-glass figure. Buxom, with wide 'womanly' hips, a slim waist, and legs that went on forever.

Then, she married Dad. Now, Dad's the husky type. Wide shoulders, wide hips, wide...well, just about everything. Sandy blond hair above a face that can be friendly or threatening at will. He worked as a bouncer in the same casino as Mom, which explains how they met.

So, they got married, and nine months later, along came little Davie Mannheim. Me.

Now, as a kid, I had no idea what genetics had in store for me. I mean, I was blond - somewhere between mom and dad - and blue-eyed. No big deal.

But, as things turned out, I got an odd shaped body from my parents. About the time I dropped Davie in favor of Dave, I had gotten the figure that would follow me for the rest of my life.

I got the wide hips that both mom and dad had - but the rest of my figure favored Mom. I was slim, with slender shoulders, a really slim waist - and hips as wide as my Mom's.

Now, the second reason I blame my parents is the simple fact that they never left Vegas. Dad made good money, first as a bouncer, the even more when he worked his way up - croupier, then dealer. Taking that money, he bought his own bar.

In Las Vegas, a bar makes money. It's a fact of life, like the sun rising every morning. Plus, Dad saved money on the staff - by this time, Mom was his waitress - and she was still good enough looking that the male customers would buy a drink or two more than usual, just to have an excuse to talk to her.

So, things were pretty good for us. Everything was going smoothly - right up until I finished school, and decided I wanted to travel a couple of years before college.

Like I said, Dad was really contentious about being a father. He'd already scrimped and saved, so I had a fund to pay for college, when I went. But, money for travelling...

"Son, I'll pay for your education", he told me the day I'd revealed my decision, "I've even helped pay for that road-rocket of yours. But, if you want to take a vacation from life for a while, you'll have to earn the money yourself."

Well, I figured that was fair. Hell, more than fair - dad HAD helped pay for the Mustang I drove, even though I could have bought a cheaper car on my own. But how was I going to earn enough money fast enough for what I wanted?

Well, here's where all the factors came together. Between growing up in Vegas, my general body shape, and Mom and Dad's connections, I got a job that paid very well for fairly little work...

...I became a female impersonator.

Now, at this point, let me stress something. I want to make this absolutely clear. It wasn't MY idea.

Mom found out about it through an old friend. One of the casinos wanted a new act, just for a few months, and was looking to put together four or five Female Impersonators for the act. One of the ones they needed was a 'Dolly'.

When Mom first brought up the idea, dad wavered between laughter and indignation, and I was disgusted. Mom was actually suggesting that I work at a job where I did my damndest to fool the audience into believing I really, truly was a woman. I knew there were guys out there who preferred to dress as women, but I wasn't one of them. In fact, the idea had never even occurred to me. So, I was less than enthusiastic about it.

But... The job paid five hundred a night! With that sort of money, it wouldn't take long for me to earn the cash I needed. Mom offered to help in every way she could, showing me all the tips and secrets, including make-up.

That thought right there almost stopped the whole thing. But, Mom was supportive as hell, practically pushing me into it, the money looked good - hell, looked great - and other work was hard to find. So....

* * * * *

"All right, Dave, we have two weeks to get you ready for your shows. Now, let's start with the basics."

I sighed. "Sure, Mom. Where to we begin?" I said it with poor grace - I'd agreed to do it, and signed the contract - but that didn't mean I had to like it.

Mom smiled, displaying the dimples that had helped catch Dad. "Well, you're just going to have to loose all that hair." She reached into the shopping bag of item's she'd purchased, and pulled out a bottle of Nair. Placing it on the counter, three more bottles came out.

"Four? Isn't that a lot?" I asked, blinking. I picked the first bottle up.

"Actually, I hope it'll be enough." Mom said. "Now, go into the washroom and use it. I want all your hair gone. Make sure you do your face, too."

I grumbled a bit, but since I wasn't planning to grow a beard or moustache, it wasn't a big deal. Taking the bottles, I carried them into the bathroom and used the stuff according to the label.

An hour later, I emerged, clad only in a pair of shorts. Mom had me twirl as she critically checked me from head to toe, finally declaring me acceptable. Personally, it felt damn strange to be completely hairless, and my legs looked odd so silky smooth.

"Good, good." Mom said with a smile. She was obviously enjoying this. I think it was a repressed reaction to not having a daughter to do this stuff with. With a smile, she opened the bag, and pulled out...

...breasts.

Well, I knew they weren't really breasts - but, damn, they looked real. Two large, flesh colored shapes, complete with nipples at the apex of each.

"Breast forms. The best money can buy." Mom said proudly. "Highly realistic color and texture, and 'feathered' edges to allow a seamless appearance. Let's get them in place, shall we?"

I flushed with embarrassment as Mom applied the special adhesive to the back of each breast form, and carefully applied each one in place on my hairless chest. As their weight - carefully designed for realism, settled on my chest, I looked down at the firm, flesh-colored mounds that appeared to be a part of me.

"Mom," I said, indignantly, "These things are huge!"

She smiled. "You're supposed to be Dolly, remember. These aren't really HUGE, just big - they're 45DDD's"

I shook my head. "DDDs? Mom, that girl, Carol, I dated had big...uh, breasts, and they were only double D's." I laughed ruefully. "I never thought I'd have the biggest breasts in the family." I shrugged. "What's next?"

"You get dressed." Mom replied.

So, that's what I did - after Mom left. First, the lacy black panties. Oddly enough, the women's underwear was the first that had ever fit properly on my odd figure. Tucking my cock up between my leg, I used a special flesh-colored 'tape' to hide it, then slid the lacy white panties on.

Next, a white lace bra, that contained my fake tits. It felt very weird to have the weight of my bra straps digging into my shoulders. The breasts themselves had no feeling, but I could feel the weight and sway of them every time I moved.

Next came the nylons. Mom showed me how to put them on, and I drew them up my smooth, hairless legs, feeling decidedly odd about the way the air moved over my nyloned legs.

Over everything came my 'costume' - a pale beige dress, intricately covered in designs of tiny 'diamonds' - cubic zirconias. The dress was tight fitting, high cut to the thigh, and low-cut at the neck, displaying a large amount of 'my' cleavage.

After that came the jewelry. Long, dangling cubic zirconia earrings, and a thin gold necklace.

The final step in dressing, however, stopped me cold. I threw open my door, surprising my Mom, who was waiting outside. Her jaw dropped even before I spoke.

"You must be kidding me!" I said, half angry, half shocked. "Dave... You look " she said, stumbling on the words.

That derailed my tirade. "Huh?"

Wordlessly, she guided me to the full-length mirror that I'd been avoiding looking in and my jaw dropped.

I had longish hair, which I usually wore hippie style in a pony-tail. I'd let it hang loose as I got ready. Now, looking in the mirror, I knew what had stunned my Mom.

Even without make-up, I was nearly a dead-ringer for Dolly. With my figure and the fake tits, no-one would guess from a glance that I wasn't a woman.

Oh, on closer inspection, there were the giveaways. Like the Adam's apple. Mine wasn't very prominent, and it would take a long, hard look to notice it.

My hands were also somewhat less than feminine - but not grotesquely so. Again, that would take a long, hard look, and even then, wasn't conclusive.

So, aside from my voice, I was the image of a woman. Oh, not a terribly attractive one, facially. My eyebrows were too heavy, my lips too thin. But, I had a near perfect hour-glass figure, and I was surprised - and a little disgusted - to discover I had spectacular legs.

Even my ass looked really good in the dress - with my wide hips and slender waist, I was...

...pretty sexy? I hated to admit it to myself, but yes, I looked like an attractive woman.

After looking at myself for a few minutes, I remembered what I had been doing. I turned to Mom and shook the shoes at her. "You can't seriously expect me to wear these, can you?" I asked cuttingly. "These have to be six inch heels!"

My mom finally shook the shocked look off her face. "Actually, they're a four-inch heel. I figured the quickest way to teach you to move like a woman was to make you wear those. You'll HAVE to learn how to move right."

I sighed in defeat, and slipped my feet into the shoes. Wobbling furiously, I stood on the spike heels, trying not to fall over. "Okay, make-up."

* * * * *

"You guys have fun." I told Mom, kissing her on the cheek as she slid into the car. I barely even noticed the way our breasts touched as I helped her in. Dad waved as Mom handed me a shopping list. I watched them pull away, glad to see them finally taking the vacation they'd put off for so long.

Looking at my watch, I cursed and headed quickly inside. Helping Mom and Dad get ready had taken more time than I planned for, and I had quite a ways to go myself.

I'd been doing my act for two weeks now. Two shows a night, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Nervous and embarrassed as hell the first show, I had begun to get used to it by now. But today, the butterflies had returned.

I was actually done with the shows at the casino. We'd been scheduled for those two weeks, and that's what I'd worked, earning a very nice sum in the process. Technically, I could 'go male' again.

However, on the last night, a man had approached me and offered me an additional nine hundred for doing a single show at a fundraiser. After some consideration, I'd agreed. That's where I was due tonight, and since it was out-of-state, I had to really move.

It was eerie, actually. With my eyebrows tweezed and my make-up on, I wasn't a spitting image of Dolly. But, I looked like a similar WOMAN dressed up as Dolly. Even when told the truth, many of the men who'd seen my act hadn't believed I was a man. They didn't think it was possible.

Part of that was the bit of 'surgery' I'd done. Really nothing major, it was a special, thin device that was - rather painfully - placed in my windpipe over the vocal cords. Once in place, I couldn't even feel it - and it's tension forced my voice into the correct registers. Without any effort, every time I spoke, my voice sounded perfectly right. All I had to do was fake the accent. It even worked for singing. I sounded like a sound alike for Dolly without any effort.

At the insistence of Mom, I'd spent the entire time - the two weeks before the shows, and all the time between them, 'en femme'. Mom had even bought me a basic wardrobe, so I wouldn't be stuck with wearing the same dress the entire time.

So, by now, I'd been 'female' for four weeks non-stop. Even the fake breasts had remained in place throughout. By now, I was being 'female' without any effort, and even walking in the heels was a cinch.

It had been easy for mom to convince me to go this way, actually. After dressing for the first time, I'd 'gone male' again - to find that, with my hairless body and tweezed eyebrows, I looked strange. On top of which, those damn breasts were painful to remove, the long, fake nails had to stay on, and I had to keep wearing the heels at all times to learn how to walk - it just wasn't worth the effort.

So, getting ready to go for tonight was easy. Looking like a real woman, I was dressed in a pair of tight blue jeans and a tight burgundy shirt that clearly outlined 'my' bra-encased tits. Balancing and walking easily in my calf-high, white leather boots with five inch heels, I gathered up my purse and headed out to my car. The dress for the act, plus the guitar, were already in the Mustang's tiny trunk.

With a female voice and looking completely female, I found it less embarrassing to play female then try to explain the truth. Accordingly, I was even wearing make-up. Not my 'Dolly' make up, a more subtle application that made me look even more female, but even less like Dolly, The way I had my hair - cut into a simple, jaw-length pageboy - helped. For my act, I wore a massive, platinum blonde wig.

That also explained the purse. If nothing else, my jeans were too tight for a wallet, so I used it to carry my I.D., etc, plus the make-up I'd need, and a few other items.

I didn't know whether I should be disgusted at how easily - and how well - I played a woman. But, I knew I was still safe from the fact that I always got flustered and angry whenever I caught another guy giving me the once-over.

What really scared me was how many guys liked what they saw...

Anyway, I started the Mustang, and pulled out of the drive, not realizing that I'd never, ever arrive at that fundraiser.

* * * * *

I frowned at the map, and looked out the window, trying to figure out where, exactly, I was. It was no use - I was thoroughly lost.

I looked around again, hoping to find some sort of phone. I'd never been in this city before, and I hadn't arrived until after dark. Now, I was running late, lost - and couldn't even find a phone booth. Great work, Dave old bean.

I sighed - then perked up a bit. The streets were generally empty, but down an alley way I could see a couple of guys, facing away from me, doing something at the wall. Music from a boom-box drifted out, pretty loud.

I parked the car, and tried shouting through the open window, but they obviously didn't hear me. Leaving the car running, I walked part- way down the alley, heels clacking on the pavement. I yelled again, damning my feminine voice, which lacked the power of my male one. Shrugging, I walked up to them...

...and the two muscular black men whirled and grabbed me before I knew what was going on. I was thrown to the ground, and the two men took hold of me by kneeling on my out-stretched arms. I gasped. Both men's flys were open, and stiff, black cocks jutted into the night air.

The nearest one shut off the music.

"Hey there, bitch." One snarled. "We was just arguing over who had the biggest dick when we saw you coming up the alley in that mirror over there. So, we decided to wait 'till you got close enough. Now, you'll be able to tell us who has the bigger dick - after we fuck you!"

I cried out and struggled - futilely. I was firmly pinned as they yanked my blouse and bra off, followed by my pants and panties - and the 'hold-back' tape.

"Fucking shit!" the guy who'd done it yelled. "She's a HE!"

"Wadda fuck?" the other asked, taking a look. He spat, and slapped my face - hard.

"Fucking pervert." From this close, I could see his eyes well - and he was higher than a kite, doped up on something. The two denied rapists got very, very angry at that point...

It started with my hands. Their revulsion made them rock back, and I responded by trying to punch the nearest. Angered, they insured I wouldn't punch them - by jumping repeatedly on my hands, mashing them, snapping bones, mangling them.

I screamed. A long, high-pitched wail. They didn't like that - so they jumped on my face, breaking my nose, cheeks and jaw, shutting me up.

Then, they broke my feet. This was followed by cutting my 'tits' off - including quite a bit of flesh underneath.

Then they cut my dick and balls off, taking a lot more of my crotch than they had to. Finished, they did their grand-finale. They slit my throat.

* * * * *

If it hadn't been for my voice-changer, I would have died. They mangled my voice-box with the cut, but they thought they'd killed me. Laughing, I heard them rise. I was still dimly conscious as they slid into my Mustang and roared away.

I was even conscious long enough to hear the wailing of the cop cars and ambulance as they pulled up to the alley, called by somebody who had heard my screams, but had been too frightened to come themselves.

But before the cops or medics could reach me, I faded out, entering a world of darkness.

* * * * *

I awoke in a hospital room, feeling extremely strange. Oddly, though, I felt no pain. A machine next to my bed started to 'bleep', and a few moments later, a doctor and nurse arrived. The doctor leaned over me.

"Miss? Can you hear me?"

I tried to talk - and made a croaking sound. I tried again. "Yes, I can..."

I stopped, shocked. Because my voice came out in a rich, feminine soprano.

But the 'voice-changer' had made me a contralto. I'd never heard this voice before in my life.

The doctor leaned closer. "Miss, I'm Doctor Smith. You're in the hospital. Do you remember what happened to you?" Putting aside the mystery, I answered. "Yes. Two men...tried to rape me...cut me up..."

The doctor relaxed, and turned to the nurse. "No sign of brain damage. That's good." He turned back to me. "Now, the sixty-four thousand dollar question - what's your name?"

"Dave. David Mannheim." I replied, and a frown creased the Doctor's face. "No, miss, your name. What's YOUR name."

"David" I replied, confused. His frown deepened. "Look, miss..."

I interrupted. "I'm not 'miss' - it's 'mister'. Mr. David Mannheim, of Las Vegas. I'm working as a female impersonator. The men cut me when they tried to rape me, and found my...dick."

The doctor went white. "A...a man?" He slumped. Then gathered himself.

"I came in here, thinking I had good news. I'm afraid I don't though. Brace yourself." I swallowed. "What is it?"

"You...you arrived badly mangled, wearing women's clothes, and apparently female. We...we operated and basically managed to rebuild you. We did an amazing job, and you're healthy and fit - and a woman."

The world seemed to spin and gray out. I clung to my consciousness desperately. "Can't...can't you change me back?' I gasped.

The doctor shook his head. "I'm afraid not. You see, you are completely healed and fully feminine. I'm afraid...you've been in a coma."

Fully healed? "How...how long?"

"It's nineteen ninety-eight, Miss Mannheim - you've been in a coma for eight years." I passed out.

* * * * *

The sunlight shone brightly, illuminating the room. Painted light gray, the walls seemed almost to glow, shedding a gentle light on the bed.

Helplessly, weaker than a kitten, I could do nothing but lie still. Eight years in a coma had robbed my body of strength, and I waited impatiently until a nurse arrived.

"Awake I see. Good, good." She said, bustling about. From her demeanor, I could tell she was trying to hide her discomfort of my situation.

"Why...why can't I move?" I asked, wincing at the clear, high voice that emerged.

The nurse smiled. "You've been asleep a very long time. Don't worry - we have used EMS - that Electronic Muscle Stimulation - to keep your muscles from atrophying. But, it'll take some time to get your body used to controlling them again."

"But..." I started.

"Oh, here's Doctor Smith. He'll answer any more questions." With that, she bustled out again.

I tried to turn his head, and succeeded enough to watch as Dr. Smith walked in, trailed by two large, muscular female nurses.

"Good morning, uh, David." The doctor obviously felt odd addressing a 'woman' by that name. "These two nurses are here to help you get your first look at your new body."

"Doc, when am I going to be able to move myself?" I asked, worried.

The doctor smiled. "Right now. Now, at first you'll have poor control of your finer motor skill, but don't worry, that will improve. Right now, these nurses are going to help you up. As they do, try and help them. This will allow your body remember how to move itself."

The two nurses approached me, and carefully grasped my shoulders. Slowly, they raised me to a sitting position, and I worked with them, showing my body what my mind was commanding. It felt weird to feel my breasts shifting weightily as gravity took hold.

Sitting, my head flopped due to gravity - and I gasped in shock.

"Doc! These...my...breasts. They're HUGE!" I had a brief memory of that fateful day when I first went en femme. Then, I'd said something similar when Mom had placed breast forms on my chest.

What I was seeing now was considerably larger than the breast forms had been. CONSIDERABLY.

The doctor cleared his throat noisily. "Um...yes. You see, they're not implants. We...sort of tested a new procedure on you, that actually causes new, real, breast cells to grow. It worked - too well I'm afraid. We were shooting for the DDD size that the bra we found with you seemed to indicate you used to have. We...overshot."

"How big ARE they?" I demanded, gazing down at the two massive, firm breasts thrust from my ribcage. I have to admit - they felt...erotic.

"Um...46GGG."

"Oh...my...god..." I moaned.

"Did you wish to see the rest...?" Dr. Smith asked cautiously. I sighed. "Yeah. Go ahead, show me."

Carefully, the two nurses lifted me up, and helped me to the full-length mirror, one of them holding my head up. I gasped as I saw my new body.

My hair was longer, a full, heavy mane reaching to my firm, full hips. My face, reconstructed by top surgeons, bore no resemblance to my old one - or Dolly's.

My new chin was slightly pointed. My cheekbones were high, and well defined. My nose was small, pert and upturned. I had a face that most models would kill for, with beautiful features and smooth, creamy skin unmarked by a single flaw.

My neck was also flawless, unmarred by scar - or Adam's apple.

Below my enormous new tits, whose nipples were quickly swelling in the cool air, lay my slim waist and wide, womanly hips. The staff had kept me shaved, and my long legs were silky smooth, and shapely.

And nestled between my silken thighs was my very real, very perfect female vagina.

"Holy " I said, surprised that this gorgeous creature could be me. It didn't seem possible. "I don't know how I'm going to break this to Mom and Dad "

Doctor Smith cleared his throat. "I hate to tell you like this, but I'm afraid your parents passed away a few years ago."

I was stunned. "What? How?"

The doctor had the nurses put me back in the bed, then he lowered himself into the chair beside me. "An aircraft accident, I believe. At the time, you had been missing for five years. Refusing to believe you dead, they left everything to you, should you turn up within a decade. If not, everything goes to charity."

I was stunned and shocked. "I... I don't know if I can go on like this." I said, embarrassed to find myself sobbing. "I mean... alone, trapped in this body..."

The doctor lay one hand gently on my shoulder. "David, you are alive, healthy, and within a week, you'll be able to move and walk easily. You have your whole life ahead of you."

"Yeah," I said as bitterly as my lovely new voice would allow. "Life as a woman." I turned my face away, tears rolling down my cheek, as the doctor, unable to respond, watched sadly.

"Bullshit!"

The firmly, sarcastically spoken voice made me turn my head and survey the speaker.

I'd notice, peripherally, her entering the room, but was in too much shock to pay attention. Now, I looked at her in surprise.

She was dressed well, in a tweed skirt and pale, off-white blouse that showed her slender, shapely figure. Her nylon-encased legs were shapely, and perched atop 3 inch heels. Her hair, a casual, expensive style, framed a face whose lovely features were formed into a sardonic look.

"Oh, really?" I asked angrily. "And who the hell are you, anyway?"

"Oh, I'm hurt. You mean you don't remember me, Davie Mannheim." She asked, theatrically, rolling her eyes and clapping her hands to her cheeks. She smiled at me.

It was the smile that triggered it. "Linda? Linda Scanlon?" I asked, surprised. Linda and I had been very good friends in high-school, even 'sort-of' dating. But she had been a late bloomer, and had looked adolescent even after we graduated. But, the intervening years had been good to her, and she'd blossomed into a remarkable specimen of a woman. "What are you doing here?"

She smiled and took the doctors place at my bedside. "The doctor reached me when he was looking for your parents. I'm running the bar until you came to light again- now it belongs to you."

I turned my head again. "You can keep it. I just want to be left alone."

Again, she said firmly. "Bullshit. Look, Dave, more then half the population of the world is female, and they don't want to kill themselves because of it. Now come on - I know you. You're strong enough to handle this."

Well, at least somebody had faith in me. "I don't know..."

Her eyes softened. "Dave, you have to get on with your life. Please, come run the bar. If not for you, then for your parents memories. Manny's place won't be right until there's a Mannheim running it again."

"I don't know if I can live as a woman." I said. "I...I played one, but to LIVE as one - I never had the upbringing, the learning..." Linda took my hand. "Don't worry Dave. I'll be there for you. I promise."

I looked at her thankfully, then mustered up my courage. "All right, Doc, where do we start?"

The doctor looked thoughtful. "Well, to start your physical therapy, we'll sit you up and teach you to write again. You should pick it up quickly."

"Write? About what?" I asked.

Linda smiled. "Why not about what's happened to you - it'll give you a chance to work through your feelings too."

Now, looking back over this, I realize it's true - re-reading this manuscript has given me back more than just my perspective. It's given me hope, too.

* * * * *

The building thrummed with the mingles noise of music and conversation, the air redolent with the odor of tobacco. The good sized bar was busy, with a fairly good class of patrons - not the highest class, but no rotten drunks, lechers of cons, either. A nice, friendly bar, filled with mostly regulars.

There was a wave of appreciative stares as the owner of the bar came out of the back room, carrying a bottle of Scotch. Dressed casually in tight jeans, a tight, burgundy shirt and a pair of sandals with a one inch heel, her trim, buxom figure always caught the men's eyes. But despite their avid appreciation of her fabulous figure, the men knew they'd be wasting their time hitting on her - besides, all the regulars in the bar considered themselves her friends, and she was always cheerful, with a time to sit down and chat.

"Hey, Davia! What's the word? You gonna get that new TV you're always talking about?" one of the regulars called good-naturedly, jerking a thumb at the 27 inch TV hanging in the corner. There was always a scramble to take a seat where you could actually SEE the relatively small screen, and the owner had been long promising a bigger TV.

Davia smiled. "Yup. It gets installed day after tomorrow - just in time for the big fight on Friday. It's a 53" monster - you'll be able to see it in the next county."

The inquirer laughed and waved, turning back to his conversation as the head bartender wandered over.

"You've really turned this place into a success in just a few months, Davia" Linda said, putting her arm around the other woman's slim waist. "You're parents would be proud of you."

Davia, born male, and through a quirk fate made female, looked around with a smile. "Well, this place would make them proud. But I don't know if I would."

"Oh, what makes you say that?" Linda asked.

Davia smiled. "They're probably rolling in their graves right now. After all, their only son grew up to be...a lesbian."

And, laughing, the two lesbians - one, a closet lesbian for years who had only recently 'come-out', the other one a gorgeous new woman who was lucky enough to find a lover who fit her masculine sexual preferences, - leaned together for a quick, but passionate, kiss.

BACK TO PUBLIC DOMAIN STORIES

SUMMARY: Finding a magic parchment, and needing money, one man changes himself into the ultimate stripper to win a contest in a strip club.

Metaphorical Magic: One For The Money...

By Gunslinger

It was utterly unbelievable...

...but Juan 'Johnny' Rico wanted to believe it, desperately.

The short, almost painfully skinny young man of Puerto Rican descent ran his bony finger over the very old, dry parchment again, then picked up the yellow legal-pad on which he'd written the translation of the parchment's Vulgar Latin text, still hardly daring to believe his dark, glittering eyes. He'd found the parchment when he'd bought an old, decaying book at an estate sale, planning to hollow out the insides and use it as a mini-safe for his money, since his apartment had already been broken into, twice, in the last month. He'd brought the book home, opened it up... and the parchment had fallen out. It was boredom more than anything -and the fact that he had plenty of time on his hands, thanks to Brad Dewitt.

Brad Dewitt - the ultimate All-American Snob. Offensively handsome and broad-shouldered, he held himself aloof and distant from the common folk. Hell, he never seemed to date the same girl twice, and the girls were always from the all-girl school in Madden, not local. Brad apparently thought the local girls were beneath his notice...

...except for Maria, who had once been Johnny's girlfriend. He'd seen the way Brad looked at her, that intense expression in his eyes...

Which is why he knew it was Brad that had done it, even though he had no proof. A month and a half ago, a 'smear' campaign had sprung up all over town. Computer-doctored photos (looking real enough to fool almost anybody) apparently showed Johnny...

Johnny - dressed up in women's clothing. Johnny, having sex with men. Johnny - as a closet transvestite fag...

It wasn't long before his friend had alienated him - and Maria had broken up with him, all of them believing the lies. So far, Maria and Brad weren't dating, but Johnny was sure that Brad just wanted to make sure that there was no clear link to support the allegations Johnny would make - if he could get anyone to listen to a 'sissy-fag', that is...

So, having plenty of time on his hands, Johnny had welcomed the chance to hide from his bitter disappointment at his so-called friends by burying himself in this linguistic mystery. He'd gotten a couple of books from the library, and painfully translated the text, not knowing what he'd find.

Whatever he could have imagined, however, this wasn't it.

According to the translation, what he was holding was a spell - and honest-to-goodness magical spell. Supposedly, the spell could transform a rough illusion of something into reality. As long as there was some rough outline for it to follow, the spell could make it become reality.

At least - that's what it claimed it could do. But magic didn't really exist... did it? Johnny had to try.

Carrying both the original and the translation to his worn and dented kitchen table, the skinny young man lay them on the surface, then went over and grabbed a piece of paper from the note-pad beside the phone. Also grabbing a pair of scissors and a green pen, he sat down at the table...

...and, using a ten-dollar bill from his wallet, began to 'draw' a bill. Trimming the paper to roughly the right size, Johnny sketched in the rough representation of the ten-spot, not even trying to make it look utterly authentic - just a quick outline.

For a final touch, he grabbed a red pen, then wrote serial numbers on the face of his 'bill', making it two digits off from the original he was copying from.

Then, taking a deep breath, he began to read the spell from the parchment, his tongue struggling to wrap itself around the unfamiliar Latin pronunciation.

As he read through the spell, Johnny began to feel... strange. A sort of tingling was running through his body, slowly building - as if he was some sort of storage battery, and a charge was building in his narrow, copper-toned frame.

By the time he finished reading the spell, Johnny's body was almost quivering with pent-up energy, and hope warred with skepticism, as part of his mind insisted that this was only psychosomatic, not a real sign that the spell was - or could possibly be - working.

Then Johnny pointed to the hand-drawn money on the table - and he spoke the 'action' word in a quavering voice. "Initiati!"

The chair went flying, and Johnny stumbled back, eyes going wide in shock...

...as the piece of paper began to change. A green hue slowly began to surface on the paper itself, while the lines and swirls Johnny had drawn began to writhe and move across the surface, changing and multiplying and separating...

In less than a minute, a perfect, crisp new ten dollar bill rested on the table.

Hands shaking, Johnny slowly picked up the money, bringing it close to his face and studying it with incredulous eyes. He examined every inch of it, front and back, comparing it with the crumpled ten he had copied it from.

Except for the altered serial numbers, the crisp, magically created bill seemed utterly identical to the original. In short - the most utterly perfect 'counterfeit' bill ever created.

"Madre d' Dios..." Johnny whispered, shocked...

...and then he began to smile.

"Now this..." He said to himself, with a thoughtful grin, "...presents some interesting possibilities..."

The first thing Johnny did was read the variation on the spell to undo a change. Sitting at the table, he carefully read the words, feeling a similar - but somehow different - energy building in him. Then, pointing at the paper, he spoke the final word...

...and a second later, it was once more a poorly-drawn representation of a ten-dollar bill.

Johnny had done that for two reasons. The first was to assure himself that he could undo any changes - after all, anything he did to himself he didn't necessarily want to be permanent. The second was that he just couldn't keep the bill around - his conscience wouldn't let him spend a bill he knew to be counterfeit, even if it was a perfectly undetectable fake. To do so would be flat-out wrong.

On the other, hand finding a way to use his new power to earn money, rather than create it, would be just fine. Which was what he had in mind...

Quickly tucking both the parchment and translation back into the old book and putting it on his shelf, Johnny hurried from the apartment. His first stop was at a newsstand, where he bought the local paper, as well as a community events broad-sheet. Taking these items, he walked down to the coffee-shop on the corner and ordered a cup, then began to peruse the papers, looking for a quick first-try way to cash in on his new-found power. Sure, he'd have to find a long-term way of using the power. His major thought on that subject was a slow campaign to find girls who wanted to change their looks to some degree, but couldn't afford plastic surgery, or didn't want it for whatever reason. However, he'd have to find a way to keep it confidential, an under-the-table enterprise, so that nobody would find out his secret. If somebody - especially the U.S. Government - got an inkling of what he had, they could find and steal his secret source of power.

Until he worked out the details, though, Johnny wanted to find a quick way to raise some cash. He was already behind on his rent, with the end of the month fast approaching, and other bills were going to fall into arrears if he didn't find some quick cash - in the next day or two. The money in his account wasn't anywhere close to enough to pay his debts.

Four cups of coffee and a cruller later, Johnny was arguing with himself in a soft, if passionate, voice. "No way, Johnny-boy..." He told himself, fiercely. "Don't even think about it..."

Except, of course, he was - he was thinking about the unthinkable.

Looking through the paper, he'd begun to realize that there wasn't very many ways that he could make quick money that didn't amount (in his mind, at least) to stealing. Sure, he could probably 'magic' into existence almost any item to be found in the 'wanted' column of the paper - but, to Johnny, creating and then selling an item would be as wrong as spending the counterfeit bill would have been.

However, it had made him realize that it would be all right for him to create certain items for himself, as long as he didn't try to sell them at any time...

In any case, that didn't solve his money problem, and he'd been unable to find any listings that could help him...

...except one. One that he couldn't believe he was even considering.

He was, considering it, however, and his eyes were drawn back to the ad in the Community Events paper, almost against his will...

GRAND OPENING!!!

* * *

THE PAINTED LADY LOUNGE

Exotic Dancers - Two Stages Tonight Only! Grand opening Bash! 'OPEN CALL' Striptease Contest

$100 & FREE DRINKS For all ladies who enter and perform!

$1,500

Grand Prize

$750 Second Prize

$500 Third Prize

TONIGHT ONLY! DOORS OPEN AT NINE P.M.!

* * *

The dollar amounts seemed to draw Johnny's eyes like magnets. The hundred was nothing, a mere pittance - but either of the top two prizes would clear his debts... and even the third prize would go a long way to helping...

"No, man... You can't do that to yourself!" Johnny told himself, quietly. "You must be crazy to even think about it - to think about turning yourself into some goddamn woman! What, you want all those lies Brad spread to suddenly become true...?"

In fact, it was those lies - laying heavily on his mind - that had inspired the consideration. There was sort of an ironic justice to it - using magic to make the 'lies' true enough to earn him some money...

No! No, that was just sick, and perverted...

But he just couldn't seem to erase that prize money from his mind...

* * * * *

"Can I help you?"

Johnny looked at the bored-looking girl behind the cash-register of the second-hand women's clothing store, and felt himself reddening under her disinterested gaze. Short, and kind of cute in spite of her tu-tone blue-and-purple hair, Johnny didn't know her from Eve - but that didn't lessen his embarrassment any.

His voice barely loud enough to be heard, Johnny started to 'cover story' he'd come up with.

"Well, you see..." He said, almost stumbling over the words. "I got a last minute invite to this party where, if you come in a costume, you get your drinks for free. Since it's tonight, and I can't afford a real costume, I, uh... I thought I'd go, uh..."

Considering he was in a woman's clothing store, blushing brightly, and talking about a 'costume', it wasn't hard for the clerk to put two and two together. She began to grin, then giggled, which didn't help Johnny any.

"You're gonna go in drag!" The girl giggled.

"I, uh... oh, hell, just forget it!" Johnny said, his nerve breaking. He turned...

...and the clerk lay a hand on his arm.

"I'm sorry..." She apologized, trying - and failing - to wipe a grin off her face. "Honestly. But... well, you gotta admit yourself it's worth a giggle or two."

Johnny's blush didn't fade - but he found himself with a wry grin on his face, almost against his will. "Yeah - I guess."

"I'm Cyndi." The clerk introduced herself. "C'mon, let's see what we can do for ya, hey?" She nudged him in the too-stark ribs. "What, you think you're the only guy to go drag in a pinch? You should see how many guys we get around Halloween."

"Okay, okay..." Johnny said, letting himself be led deeper into the store, despite his sweaty palms and dry mouth.

"Well... let's see what we've got..." Cyndi said, looking through the racks and boxes. "Since I doubt you want to shave your body hair, let's start with a unitard..."

"A what...?" Johnny asked, confused.

Smiling, Cyndi held up three garments. Made from nylon spandex, each garment was a body-suit that would cover the wearer's body from the neck down to the ankles, and to each wrist.

One of the ones she was holding was so-called 'flesh' colored, one was a sort of beige-brown, and the last was black. "So - you want to be a white woman, a black woman - or a kinda in-between...?"

* * * * *

Feeling supremely silly, Johnny looked at the array of items on the bed. Cyndi had talked him into each item, explaining how it was 'perfect', and he'd finally given in, mainly because he was running out of time. Part of him, however, still couldn't believe he was going to go through with this.

Sighing, Johnny took a deep breath, and forced his shaking hands to start preparing himself, keeping the money, and the fact that this was only temporary, sharply in the forefront of his nervous, embarrassed mind.

First, Johnny started with the thing Cyndi had called... what was it? Oh, yeah - a 'Body-shaping girdle'. To Johnny, it looked like a funky pair of panties. Going from the waist to the top of his thighs, the white, tight garment had specially-shaped expanding areas for padding, on the hips and ass. Remembering Cyndi's instructions, he pulled the garment on, carefully tucking his cock back between his legs before pulling it all the way up - and feeling like a complete and utter fool for doing so. Still..

The garment was designed to help out a woman with her curves, and probably did a pretty good job - but Johnny had less curves to start with. So, feeling doubly foolish, he pulled a special pair of panties on over top of the girdle. This was a pair of padded panties with a foam padding in the ass to fill it out. When added to the padding in the girdle, it gave Johnny a passable imitation of a full, round ass, even if his hips were a little slender.

Next came. well, it was apparently called a 'hourglass shaper', but to Johnny it was a corset - and the thought of him wearing such a garment made him shudder. Heavy and stiff, made out of a heavy cotton, the garment was pre-shaped with a single all-around strap-like device that cinched it at the front.

Getting the garment on was a real pain, in both the physical and emotional sense. Physical, because he had to hold in his breath and haul away on the strap as hard as he could to get it over to the eye-hook faster, leaving him with a waist three inches smaller - and trouble breathing.

The motional pain came from the fact that he was wearing a corset so that his waist would be smaller and give him a more feminine hourglass figure - something he never imagined himself doing before today.

"I'd better win that damned prize..." Johnny muttered to himself, gasping at the painful constriction of the waist-cinching garment.

Next came his 'breasts'. Cyndi had 'suggested' wheedled him into - taking the largest bra in the entire store, a massive garment marked as being a double-G cup. Johnny had stared at the massive foundation garment in mesmerized disgust and awe, but had finally gone along with the idea when it dawned on him that being ultra-busty could be an edge in the competition.

Which had left him with the task of finding something to be his 'tits' that would fill the eight-inch difference between the band and the cups of the bra.

What he'd finally been forced to accept was a pair of volley-balls which, at regulation nine-inch diameter - were actually a bit big, but was the best he could come up with.

Now, using double-sided tape bought at a hardware store, he affixed the fully-inflated sports equipment to his chest. With each step further he took in this 'transformation', he felt steadily more embarrassed and ridiculous, but he forced himself to continue nonetheless.

Next, he began to pull on the 'flesh-tone' body-suit he'd chosen. Pulling it over his legs, he had to struggle to get it in place properly over his artificially widened hips and ass. Then he smoothed it over his reduced waist... and paused.

Picking up the bottle of rubber cement he'd bought, he coated the volley-balls with it using the applicator brush affixed to the inside of the lid. Once it was coating his 'tits', he pulled the unitard higher, using the edge of his hands to force the fabric between the balls and smoothing it down over the sides, giving him 'cleavage' rather than a 'nosecone'.

Before he pushed his hands through the sleeves of the skin-colored garment, Johnny pulled on the roughly skin-tone non-surgical latex gloves he'd bought. Then he worked his arms down into the sleeves, until his hands came free, the edges of the gloves under the sleeves of the body-suit.

Pausing for a moment, he took a look in the mirror - and grimaced. Not because it looked utterly ridiculous - although, close-up, it was pretty silly. However, from just a dozen feet away, the outfit presented a pretty realistic appearance of a feminine body, with Johnny's head incongruously stuck on top. In fact, between the tiny waist and huge, impossible round breasts, and the fact that he had no genitalia or nipples, Johnny's faux body looked like a giant Barbie-doll.

Next, Johnny began to dress in the clothes Cyndi had foisted off on him.

The first articles were the panties and that enormous bra. The panties felt damned silly, since he was already wearing two pairs under the body-suit, but he pulled the black-lace-over-red-satin g-string panties into place anyway, grimacing as he did so.

Then he set about pulling on the massive red-and-black bra. Getting it over his 'tits; and the straps over the shoulders was easy - but it felt like his arms were breaking as he struggled to reach behind him and get the garment done up, pressing the inside curve of the hidden volleyballs painfully into his thin chest.

Then came the... ugh!... nylons. Black, the lace-top 'stay-up' nylons had a floral trellis design running down the outside of each leg, and it seemed to take forever to get these patterns reasonably straight over he'd pulled them on fairly easily over the smooth surface of the unitard.

Next came a black leather skirt - a type Cyndi had called a 'hobble-mini', and Johnny quickly found out why when he put it on. It fit fairly high in the waists, hugging tightly to his diminished curve, then clung like a second skin down over his hips and ass, all the way to his knees, forcing him to keep his knees together. Walking in the skin-tight, heavy, gloss-black leather would be a pain, forcing most of the normal 'back and forth' motion to come from below the knees, while making him moved his hips and ass in a sort of grinding circular motion, hips swiveling, as his thigh fought for enough room to slide past each other in the garment.

Then there was the top - a gold-sequined stretch halter top. Designed for a smaller bust, the garment covered Johnny's huge, fake endowments, but kept swinging up from his midriff at the slightest movement, baring what would be a belly-button, if not for the featureless bodysuit-over-corset look.

There was only a couple of finishing touches left... and Johnny didn't know which one of them bothered him the most.

Forced to use that ridiculous ass-swaying, hip-swiveling walk, Johnny walked to the table and very awkwardly sat down, the tight skirt and constricting corset making it difficult. However, he definitely wanted to be sitting down...

...as he put on the shoes he'd ended up with. He still wasn't quite sure how he was going to manage walking around in high-heels for tonight - and these were definitely high heels.

In fact, the gold-colored shoes were - according to Cyndi - low-cut, pointed toe pumps with an ankle strap - and six-inch high stiletto heels.

They were also two sizes too small for Johnny, and even smaller width-wise. He had to cramp his feet into the shoes with a shoe-horn, an exquisitely painful operation. As he grimaced at the intense pain in his crushed feet, he hoped that he was right about the magic making either his feet fit the shoes, or the shoes fit his feet.

Then, carefully, Johnny applied the long, gloss-red fake nails to the correct spots on each latex-glove-covered finger, reminding himself to be careful with the long nails when he set the final touch in place.

Which left only one thing - the one thing he couldn't do until he'd read the spell.

Sitting at the kitchen table, Johnny had to fight down the fear and the shame, fight back the urge to just forget it, and make himself read the spell. He did so, a word at a time, feeling the energy build.

Then, when he reached the end and was tingling with power waiting to be released, he hurriedly pulled on the last part of his costume.

It was a 'nude' colored pantyhose, trimmed to fit over his head - and taped to the front of it was a picture of a woman's face, clipped from a fashion magazine, with a wig spilling down over it.

He wasn't too wild about the face he'd ended up with - but it had been the only 'life-size' face photo he could find. Spilling down over that photo was the wig Cyndi had sold him. With long layers on the top, and swirls of hair spilling down the sides, the thick, luxuriant 'hair' would fall in waves around Johnny's shoulders, about eleven inches long from the crown to the lowest end. It was in a shade that, according to the box, was 'henna red', whatever that meant. All Johnny knew was that it was a deep 'real' red, not that carrot-orange color.

Blinded by the magazine cut-out blocking his eyes, Johnny touched his midriff with his finger, and said the final word...

It was the strangest sensation he'd ever felt, his entire body writhing and rippling as the 'artificial' material that was shaping his body was absorbed into him, becoming part of him, while the rest of his flesh writhed and changed. The flat photo over his face slid backwards and began to form the contours of his altered visage, while the volleyballs gained weight, heft - and sensitivity. The pain in his waist and feet eased off and vanished as they became his 'real' contours, and his padded ass suddenly started transmitting the sensation of the chair under it as the padding went from foam to flesh.

In the space of a minute, Johnny had gone from a man in costume - to a woman.

Eyes flying open, Johnny dipped her head and stared down at the massive expansive of cleavage that was backed tightly into the bar beneath her halter top.

"Holy shit!" He said, hearing the words emerge in a rich, undeniably feminine contralto that was sexy, with a slight lit. "I actually went ahead and turned myself into a woman! What the hell am I doing!"

Stunned, she rose from the table and hurried into the bathroom, to gape at the reflection that awaited her in the mirror.

It was a reflection of a gorgeous, slender red-head woman with huge, firm tits, decked out in a sexy outfit. The gorgeous model in the photo had been for a make-up ad, so she was now wearing gloss-red lipstick on her full, pouting new lips, and long lashes surrounded her emerald-green eyes. She was even wearing the diamond earrings and matching choker-style necklace that had been in the photo.

She was drop-dead gorgeous...

Stunned by the gorgeous, sexy, huge-breasted woman she'd become, the woman who had been Johnny walked back to the kitchen...

...then stopped dead, eyes widening in shock.

"Oh, dear lord!" she said, amazed. "I'm walking in these shoes as easily as if I've been doing it all my life!"

She had been, too - without even thinking about it. Now, as she thought about it, she realized that, while staring in the mirror, she'd tossed her hair out of her eyes, as well as wiggling her ass as she'd smoothed the skirt down. Both very feminine actions, performed without conscious thought.

"Well I'll be..." She said aloud, in amazement. "When the spell makes something 'real', it goes whole-hog! I've got the skills and mannerisms of the woman I appear to be, too!"

That lead to an idea that made her new, full lips curve upwards in a smile.

Winning the strip-tease was going to be a cinch...

Sitting back down at the table - and grinning at herself as she 'natural' sat semi-sideways in the chair, crossing her legs gracefully in a feminine manner - the new woman quickly sketched out a Driver's license on a piece of note-paper, filling the name in as 'Colleen O'Malley', and the age as '26' - and the sex as 'F'.

A repeat of the spell - and she suddenly had valid ID.

Colleen then set about the second task. Locating a sheet of letter-sized paper, she hastily wrote out a diploma for herself - from the 'Las Vegas School of Exotic Dance'.

She used the spell again, and felt a strange tingle run through her. Closing her eyes, Colleen considered what she could do for a routine tonight...

...and found new, magically-instilled knowledge flooding her mind, letting her know that she was right.

The magic she'd discovered was even more powerful than she'd first thought. When she created something, it became 'real' in the most fundamental sense, not just a representative of what she'd done. When she'd become female, she'd become more than a man who looked like a woman - she'd become a woman...

Colleen stopped dead, a mild panic running behind her eyes... her eyes...

Looking down, Colleen could remember thinking the GG-cup mounds were oversized, before - but now they felt perfectly natural to her. In fact, she could feel a stirring of pride at the sight of her huge, firm tits. Yet she knew that that wasn't the way she normally felt about tits this big. In fact, she was accepting her new gender with remarkable ease - in fact, almost all the anxiety had fled from her, as well as the shame, and she was practically looking forward to the contest...

"Okay - just keep in mind who - and what - you really are." She told herself sternly. "The spell's playing around with your head a bit, which is okay - it'll make winning the strip-tease that much easier, and not nearly as shameful and disgusting. Right after, though, I run right home and change back. I don't want to lose the 'real' me in the little mental changes the spell has made."

Keeping that firmly in mind brought back some of the unpleasant feelings - she began to feel ashamed and disgusted at herself for what she was doing, as the core 'Johnny' persona was forced closer to the surface. It would have been easy to push it further back down, to feel more comfortable with this situation and her new, sexy-gorgeous body - but that was the last thing she wanted to do. She didn't want to get too comfortable being Colleen, and she reminded herself to pay attention for any other hidden 'changes' in her psyche.

Nodding to herself, she turned a small back-pack into a black velvet-covered purse, then dropped her ID and her wallet into it. Then she once more placed the spell and the translation and the old book and put it on the shelf, afraid to take it with her, since she wouldn't be carrying her purse on stage - the thought of losing the spell and being trapped in this body was just intriguing enough for the 'Colleen' part of her altered psyche to scare the living daylights out of her.

Then, walking with an easy sexy grace, she headed out the door, her mind cataloguing all the different sensation just walking in her new body caused, from the strange swivel-sway of her wider hips, to the bounce and sway of her huge, sensitive tits, to the way her hair felt as it moved in the wind, brushing her alabaster shoulders. Keeping track of these sensations and recognizing them as 'different' pulled Johnny even closer to the surface, but that was fine with her - she didn't want to feel comfortable if there was even the slightest chance that doing so would result in some kind of 'brain-washing'...

* * * * *

"Hi - I'd like to enter the strip-tease competition."

"Sure thing, miss, just..." Tony, the club's manager started to say... then he looked up at the speaker, and his jaw dropped and he gaped at the stunningly beautiful, big-bobbed red-hair standing in front of his desk.

For her part, Colleen was telling herself very firmly to stop feeling so damned fluttered by the man's obvious sexual attraction for her - she was really a man, after all, and it was wrong to feel all warm and tingly and hot about being stared at.

It was getting harder and harder to remind herself of that, though, and that was scaring Colleen. On the way over, she couldn't help but notice men staring at her new body lustfully - and the constant surges of pride and desire she was feeling from all the attention was losing their shock value, staring to feel disturbingly comfortable - and exciting.

Much too late she'd realized a problem with her plan. She'd purposefully constructed a sexy-looking woman - so the spell had made her a sexy woman. If she'd chosen a more average female form, she would have only been saddled with an average female sex drive - but in this super-sexy body, she was super horny. A dozen times now, she'd caught herself eyeing a man thoughtfully, ideas that should have utterly disgusted her (but didn't disgust her enough, now, not by half) running through her head. Even looking at the club manager, she was feeling that now-familiar sensation, a warm tingling sensation in her crotch while her nipples went as hard as rocks beneath the massive bra she was wearing. This wasn't the first time she'd felt the sensation, and the fact that she was becoming used to having men turn her on - worse that she was beginning to enjoy the sensation - was frightening her, as she struggled to remember who she really was...

Oh, it wasn't as if she had some sort of split personality, with 'Colleen' threatening to take over 'Johnny', as she'd originally feared - oh, no. She'd figured out that was just silly. The spell had in no way touched the real inner core of who she was. For instance, if she were to go back home right now, she could easily change back. Hell, even as 'Colleen', she still couldn't imagine creating and spending money, because that would be wrong. All the inherent parts of who she was were intact...

...which was why her sexual attraction for men was so weird and frightening. It wasn't that 'Johnny' was being erased - it was that unformed 'habits' had been revealed for what they were. Like the skills she now had - walking in high heels, for example, didn't in any way detract from who Johnny was. A new skill couldn't alter who her real 'soul' was, not in the least - but it could show her something that the non-high-heeled Johnny wouldn't have known, that walking in high heels was, quite frankly, annoying after awhile, even if you were skilled and naturally graceful in them. High heels were just not made for comfort, something that Johnny had never really realized before, but that Colleen now did.

Life, after all, was the sum total of your experiences, and all Johnny was doing was piling up more experience that was new and different. Like the fact that her new body, with completely normal (if exaggerated) female hormonal responses was becoming aroused by men and desired to have sex with them. It wasn't like she was out of control, driven by mindless urges to have sex - no, she was still in complete control of her body.

What was really bothering her was the fact that she wasn't finding the thought of sex with men as disgusting as she'd been raised to believe it should be. Sure, as Johnny, as a man, having sex with men still disgusted her utterly - the mere thought of changing back to Johnny and then having sex with men didn't interest her at all, and made her want to puke...

...but the thought of having sex with a man (the right man, somebody kind and gentle and handsome and skilled) was turning her on. Now that she was a woman, even the deep-down Johnny of her had to grudgingly admit that, weird as it would seem, having sex with men wouldn't be wrong, not while she was female.

It was that perfectly reasonable, acceptable and damned intriguing urge that she was fighting control. She was just female to win the money, that was all - no experimenting for her. Even if she thought it would probably be fun and feel utterly fantastic. It's not like she was going to adopt a female lifestyle - no part of her really wanted to live the rest of her life as Colleen. She was happy being Johnny. The fact that she was female for awhile and could legitimately experiment and get to experience the point of view of a woman, see what sex was like for them, finally answer the question that most men toyed occasionally with in the back of their mind - well, she'd just have to ignore it, that was all.

"Um... Miss?" Tony said, finally finding his voice. "Uh, as long as you have some valid ID, I'll sign you up - but would you be interested in signing a contract instead. I don't even have to see you dance - I'll sign you on sight. The pay's really good, and..."

"No, thanks - just the contest." Colleen said, finding that she couldn't help but smile sweetly and feel a surge of pride and pleasure at the offer. Showing Tony her ID, she signed the sheet - finding she even had a flowing, feminine signature now - and was directed to the back-stage area, where the other contestants were gathering.

One look around, and Colleen knew there was going to be no contest, especially since she'd given herself stripper skills. The women milling around ranged from 'cute' to beautiful - with a few 'trampy' thrown in - but none of them was in the same league as her, not nearly as buxom and beautiful and...

'Ease up on the ego trip, girl...' She warned herself. She'd found it hard to stop doing that, another side effect to the spell. Since she was 'artificially created', she was perhaps the only woman on the face of the planet who was completely 'happy' with her own body, despite the misgivings she had about being female at all. Since she'd created this body for exactly what it was going to be used for, she couldn't very well find a flaw in it, could she? She thought she was just perfect in every detail - at least, for being who she wanted to be to win the contest.

Trying to keep a rein on her self-adoration and homo-yet-hetero-sexual fantasies, she wandered away from the group of women (many of whom were shooting daggers at her) and went to stand near the beaded curtain that led out onto the stage...

...and heard a very familiar voice, one that made her full, sensual lips tighten in anger.

Brad Dewitt. She heard Brad DeWitt's voice.

Taking a quick peek around the curtain, Colleen found herself to be practically right next to the handsome, sandy-haired Apollo - and she wanted to vomit to suddenly realize just how devastatingly gorgeous a man Brad really was. Tightening her control, she listened in on the conversation between Brad and two of his quasi-friends, Steve and Mike, who were sitting in 'Perverts Row', right next to the stage.

"...God - did you see that red-head who entered the contest?" Mike was saying. "Geez, I almost came in my pants right here - I can hardly wait to see her onstage. That rack of hers, man - I'd love to shove my face between them!"

The shock - and burst of pride - that came when Colleen realized he was talking about her almost made her miss the response.

Brad's voice - sounding as oddly quite, reserved and polite as usual, as if his 'aloof' act was supposed to be modesty or shyness or something, came next. "Mike, don't be so crude."

Mike laughed. "Oh, yeah - wouldn't want to offend your sensibilities, Brad. C'mon - you're hot over her too, admit it."

"Well - she is a very attractive woman..." Brad admitted - and he almost sounded embarrassed, making Colleen wonder why he'd keep up the whole 'Mr. Nice Guy' act for his friends. "But there's more to a woman than just her body... even if she as stunning as that woman appeared to be."

"I knew it - you've got the hots for her. Hell, anybody would, with a rack like hers, right Steve?" Mike chuckled, crudely. "Ah, you know I'm not a tit hound like you guys." Steve said, dismissively.

"Oh, right..." Mike said, sarcastically. "So who do you think is hot?"

"Maria Sanchez - I just dig that Latin body of hers, trim and fit, with that great ass - I want to ass fuck her long and hard..." Colleen had to bite her tongue to keep from squeaking in outrage.

"Hey - she'd be available now, man." Mike said. "Ever since she broke up with fag-boy."

"I know... and don't think I'm not trying." Steve said, in a pissed-off tone of voice. "She keeps turning me down, though." "Tough, dude - still, you got a better chance then when she was dating Juan, right?" Mike said.

"Actually..." Steve said, proudly. "I arranged it so she'd be 'free' - I'm the one who set up that whole thing with the pictures and stuff. Download a couple of photos from the 'net, paste Johnny's face over them - and voila, Maria's a free agent again."

There was a shocked silence from outside - while Colleen, stunned, tried to readjust her thinking to cope with the sudden revelation.

"You... you what!" Brad's voice said, sounding shocked and disgusted. "How could you! How could you do something like that to somebody! It was bad enough when I thought whoever was doing it was 'outing' somebody, which is cruel and unfair - but to find out you made it all up just so you could... could..."

"Hey, calm down man..." Mike said. "Admit it - Steve's a genius. Don't sit there and tell me you don't agree. Hell, you musta pulled some fast ones yourself to score with all those babes from Madden Academy..."

Now Brad's voice held anger. "You two disgust me. I can't believe anybody could sink so low... And, for your information, I've never pulled any 'fast ones' with any woman to 'score'. You may think me some sort of... pansy, or whatever, but I'm proud to say that I haven't slept with a fraction of the girls I go out on dates with. They ask me out, and only rarely to find myself interested enough in the girl to even consider..."

Apparently to angry to continue, Brad stalked away - while his supposed friends broke up in laughter, taunting him as he walked away. Colleen, meanwhile, was trying to wrap her head around what she'd just heard.

Even if they'd somehow noticed her listening, there was no way on earth they could know who she really was - so there was no way that could have been 'staged' for her benefit. Which meant that it had to be true...

...which meant she'd been accusing the wrong person all this time. Misjudging him. Being unfair to his sterling character...

She felt utterly horrible for all the horrible, horrible things she thought about him. Only now, no longer 'trapped' in the body of Johnny, could she see that her envy for Brad's handsome looks, especially compared to Johnny's scrawny body, had led her to unfairly attach blame to Brad, simply because he happened to be born handsome and well-built.

God - if she'd never become Colleen, she'd never have found out about this - and, in a way, she wished that she hadn't, because the emotional pain over her own short-sighted, envy-inspired hate shook her to the core.

It was then that she realized that she knew what she had to do. It would be weird, for her, and she'd have to swallow her male pride and let herself go, have to trade in at least some of her old lifestyle to accomplish it - but it was the way to make all the outstanding accounts balance, if she could walk the fine line it would entail, and pull it off.

When she explained the opening part of her plan to the manager, he was rather hesitant - but when she signed a six-month contract to dance in his club, he became surprisingly easy to deal with...

* * * * *

Sitting at the table near the back of the club, Brad sipped morosely at his beer, unable to believe how low his companions were capable of sinking, right down through depravity into realms of cruelty. Poor Juan... think of the situation he'd been put into, just because Steve wanted his girlfriend...

Brad found it hard to believe that he'd ever hung around with those guys - but it had been more-or-less forced upon him. After all, he looked like the ultimate vision of a 'stud', at least to the eyes of the people around him - handsome, muscular, well-endowed. The fact that, inside, he was more of a 'nerd' was nearly incomprehensible to everybody. People just couldn't accept that somebody who looked like him might be shy and sensitive, a guy who enjoyed reading and the arts...

Shaking his head, Brad sipped at his beer some more, wondering if he should just get up and storm out of the club - but he didn't really have anywhere he was planning to go, and here was as good a place as any, if you thought about it, and...

His train of thought was interrupted as the fairly low (for a strip-club) background music dies - and with it, almost all of the lights in the club, the room barely lit at all the by the few, dim red lights that were left on. A low hum was all that issued from the speakers in the ceiling and walls, indicating an open mic, somewhere.

Then the voice of the club's DJ came over the system - the usually hyper-active voice toned down, almost reverent.

'Gentleman... tonight, you will be witness to the birth of a new star ' The DJ said, dramatically. 'Tonight, a new feature dancer has signed on, here at the Painted Lady Lounge. A woman with no equal. An unknown, she arrived to enter our contest - and was signed on the spot for a full contract. She's that amazing. Gentlemen, please direct your attention to the stage - for the debut of the one, the only...

Colleen O'Mazing!'

As the DJ bellowed the name at the top of his lungs, the music flared into heavy, rhythmic life, as spot-lights flared to life, drenching the stage in a multi-colored wave of light....

...and the curtains parted, and she walked onto stage. The gorgeous, buxom woman with the heavy mane of flame-red hair.

No - she didn't walk out on stage. she flowed, with an incredible sensual grace that didn't look as contrived as that of other strippers, but natural, easy - almost happy, in fact, as if she were enjoying walking out, her hips swiveling seductively, her shoulders rolling to cause her massive, firm bust to sway with every step, her head held high and her eyes bright with every sign of pure enjoyment at being the complete and utter center of attention for every man in the room.

The movements of her walk were incredibly sensual, enticing, inviting. but it was nothing compared to the way her body moved as she suddenly bounced twice on the toes of her high-heel shoes, in perfect rhythm with the heavy beat of the music - and began to dance.

* * * * *

Colleen couldn't believe it....

She couldn't believe how much she was enjoying herself as she began to gyrate to the music. It wasn't just the way her supple, over- endowed body felt as she moved with the beat of the music - but she found that she loved being the focus of attention for all these men. She loved knowing that she was turning them on - and though part of her was disturbed by how hot she was getting from the act of turning men on, now that she'd locked herself into this life for a minimum of six months, she no longer cared - if she was going to enjoy what she was doing, then she was just going to let go, submerge herself in the pure pleasure her female psyche was getting from being an object of lust, a target for men's sexual fantasies.

She loved it.

Even as she executed a perfect swirling dip, sliding one long, sexy leg out to be appreciated by the enthralled crowd, she glanced quickly to see how her plan was working - and the smile on her full, sexy lips widened a bit, becoming nearly viscous.

Ignored by most of the crowd of men, two of the staff had come out on stage with her, standing well back - and holding up a large, dark blanket, like a backdrop for her. It helped set her off, make her look like she was the only thing in existence on the stage...

...but it also completely blocked of the view of two of the patrons. Mike and Steve - who weren't going anywhere, thanks to the two bouncers looming over them. The two bouncers who would force them to sit there all evening, unable to see any of the dancers while being forced to listen to the reaction of the rest of the crowd, which must be driving them absolutely nuts.

The only way the could avoid it was to leave - and the bouncers had informed them, quite succinctly, that once they left they'd never, ever be allowed back into the establishment again...

It was a small - but very satisfying - first step for Colleen's plan of revenge. Step two was also started - since the bouncers wouldn't even let them leave, not until after she was finished her dance - she had something she had to do, first.

However, for right now she was focusing on her dancing, though her body seemed to know what to do without any thought at all, her instinctive actions to match the music driving the guys wild as she continued to dance...

* * * * *

Brad suddenly realized his jaw was hanging halfway to his chest, and he quickly snapped it closed as he stared at the vision on the stage, now divested of her top and showing off the bra that contained those massive, unbelievable firm breasts of hers.

Brad had never really been a man to get really, really turned on by the usual things. Porn, strippers - they were more 'titillating' than arousing for Brad, and the few times he'd gotten turned on by strippers, it hadn't exactly been lust for that stripper, but a general arousal...

..until now. He - like every other man in the club, probably - found himself becoming unbelievably attracted to the incredible woman on the stage. Part of it was her beauty and sensuality - but a bigger part was the fact that she was dancing 'with' them, reacting to men's shouts and stares, directing certain, sexy movements at specific men in reply - and even talking to guys as she danced, as if she was not working, but socializing - while slowly removing her clothes...

"hey, see anything you like down there...?" She asked one of the guys in Pervert's Row, placing one high-heeled leg on his shoulder and leaning forward, her mini-skirt above his gaping eyes.

"Uh... hell yeah!" The man stammered...

"I don't know..." She said, in mock-doubt. "Maybe I'd better get a second opinion..."

Then she stripped off her skirt enthusiastically, turning around and presenting her ass to the crowd as she slid the garment from her perfect, full ass.

"How about it, guys - do I look all right to you?" She shouted, bending over and grabbing her own ankles. "YES!"

The shout rolled out of the crowd - and until he felt the roughness of his throat, Brad didn't even realize that his voice had been added to the overwhelming affirmation.

She seemed to thrive on the answer, her incredible smile lighting the room brighter than the spotlights in response - not as if she were a stripper performing on stage, but as if she were a personal friend to every man in the room, glad she was able to entertain them while enjoying herself immensely...

Brad's cock felt like a steel bar in his Jockey shorts, and he felt a rising rhythm to his pulse as he gazed upon her gorgeous, now-nude body, from the tip of her slender feet to the massive mounds of her huge, firm tits, from the tips of her long, gloss-red nails to the fiery mane that surrounded her gorgeous face.

Then her set was over, and the music died, leaving only the hubbub of the crowd, and a sigh of disappointment that the eternal, wonderful moment in which she'd dance for them had ended.

Gathering up her clothing, the gorgeous dancer began to leave the stage...

...but not out the back through the curtain, but down the front of the stage, stepping onto the built-in table of Pervert's row, then to the ground as a very stunned and happy customer helped her off the ledge. Then she was walking across the floor, still gloriously nude, huge breasts swaying and jiggling...

...as she walked right up to Brad's table. Brad tilted his face upwards, staring incredulously at her gorgeous features. Then she spoke - loud enough for the entire club to hear.

"I heard what you and your friends were saying a while ago, when I was behind the stage..." She said, clearly. "I can't believe they'd stoop so low - those guys are pure, unadulterated scum, and shouldn't be allowed to ever reproduce..."

She turned, finger extended to point at a very stunned pair of men - Mike and Steve. Then she turned back to Brad, her voice still ringing through the club.

"I think you, however, are the sweetest, kindest, most sensitive man I have ever met..." Then she leaned forward - and kissed him, full on the lips.

* * * * *

If Colleen had had nay idea how good kissing a man could be, she would have done it ages ago.

Of course, it wouldn't have felt nearly as good if she'd still been a man - but, as a man, she'd never had a kiss with a woman that compared with the one she was giving the stunned Brad at the moment. As a man, she'd enjoyed kissing women, but mainly for the reciprocal kiss - as a woman, with fuller and more sensitive lips, just the act of kissing itself was several times more pleasurable than she'd imagined, something she felt like she could do for hours on end, just snuggled up against a warm, strong male body, lips locked on his...

It was with true regret that she broke the kiss. As the cheers and applause of the other men in the club washed over her, she put her full, soft lips near Brad's ear and whispered to him.

"please - meet me at the back door of the club in ten minutes..."

Without waiting for a response, she turned and headed for the back of the club, purposely putting a little more 'oomph' into her walk...

...and loving the response it drew from the very appreciative men around her...

* * * * *

Colleen's heart was pounding a mile a minute as she followed Brad up the steps to his bungalow-style home. The handsome youth had a big, silly grin on his face, a slightly glazed look in his eyes - and lipstick smeared over his lips. Obviously, he was quite happy, and he had every reason to be, considering - Colleen had almost literally thrown herself at him, her seduction technique both blatant and subtle at the same time. Blatant, because she was so obviously coming on to him - but subtle, because she was hiding the real reason she was so eager to spend time with him. She'd claimed that she'd seen him enter the club, and her heart had begun to race wildly at how handsome he was - but when she'd heard the way he'd reacted to his friends' dirty scheme, she'd become enamored with his sweet personality. In short, she'd flattered the hell out of him, building him up by complimenting both his fantastic body (and she had to admit - with her new, feminine viewpoint, she was really, really appreciative of his good looks) and his 'Knight Errant' personality, stroking his ego until he was willing to believe that she thought it was a clear-cut case of love at first sight, with a healthy dose of lust thrown in for good measure.

The truth was, though she was lusting after his spectacular body - she was nervous as hell at the prospect of actually going through with her plan. Part of her was utterly enthralled with the idea of sex with this handsome (and, honestly, kind and caring) young man. Part of her, however, still found the idea of having sex with 'another' man weird and perverted. Both of these, however, were overshadowed by the simple fact that, in one very important sense, she was still a virgin.

She hoped that he couldn't tell that she was nervous. Hopefully, the sensation of her breasts pressed firmly into his back was enough to distract him from the fact that the hands she was running up and down his shirt front were damp...

It took Brad five tries to find the right key to open the front door...

...and there were only three keys on his key-ring.

At that point, Colleen stopped worrying that he'd notice her hidden nervousness. Right now, an atom bomb could go off and he probably wouldn't notice. They'd gone out for coffee, and she had spent quite a bit of time seriously flirting with him - and kissing him, hungrily. (and enjoying it immensely...) On the way to his place, she'd kept running her hands over his body and talking to him in a husky, sexy voice about how hot he was making her, how she wasn't usually this forward - but, with him, she was going nuts...

Maybe she'd overdone it a trifle.

He got the door opened, and then stepped inside, the outer screen door banging shut...

'Fortune favors the bold...' she told herself, mentally - actually afraid that if she didn't go ahead and do it, her nerves would get the better of her, and she'd back out. She couldn't live with herself if that happened, so...

"Oh, Brad..." She moaned, her hands going from his chest to his waist - and to the zipper on his pants, which she unzipped. "I've never met a man like you, so sensitive, so kind... so handsome..."

Then she had his pants undone, and she pushed them down, her breasts still shoved firmly into his back as she kissed the nape of his neck.

Reluctantly, he took a waddling half-step away from her, hurriedly kicking off his shoes and letting his pants fall off his ankles. "the bedroom's this way..." He breathed, hoarsely.

The door was right behind her. Her heart was thundering. Her palms were sweating. Her mouth was dry. She could break for it now, be out the door and...

"no, please..." She forced, her voice trembling with a mixture of lust and near-panic. "Please.. take me right here..."

Knowing what she was planning, she hadn't replaced her undergarments when she'd dressed - pulling off her sparkling stop revealed her full, round tits, their nipples fully engorged. She leaned back against the wall and cocked one high-heeled leg up and kicked the heavy front door closed in a sensual movement...

...that his the fact that she was making it harder for herself to give in to the urge to escape before it was too late.

She reached up and began to fondle her own huge tits, closing her eyes and moaning in genuine desire, though fear still thrummed through her.

"Please.. I'm in torment..." She moaned. "don't make me wait..."

Keeping her eyes closed, so she couldn't see, made it somewhat easier - but she had to force herself from shuddering as he eagerly replied to her pleas, pulling off her skirt and revealing her hot, sopping wet new cunt.

Forcing her eyes open, she knew she'd fail if she had to watch - he'd taken his own underwear off, and his large, thick cock was jutting from his crotch, obviously ready to go. The sight of it both aroused and repelled her, and she couldn't take it.

She turned around, leaning forward and bracing her arms on a table in the hallway, her ass cocked upwards and her legs spread invitingly.

"take me now, Brad!" She cried, closing her eyes and holding her breath...

For all the rampant lust that was thrumming through Brad's body, he was surpassingly gentle as he stepped forward and buried his huge, thick, throbbing member fully in her wet womanhood.

"Oh, God... yes!" Colleen screamed in pleasure, all the fear and panic draining out of her at the shear pleasure that one, smooth thrust brought, his cock sliding with exquisite friction against the walls of her cunt and over her slit. "Oh, Brad - yes!"

Brad drew his hips back - and thrust forward again...

...and again...

...and again...

"ugnnn. Oh.. Brad... oh...!" Colleen screamed in exquisite ecstasy, huge tits shuddering with every thrust as Brad, mouth open, eyes glazed, thrust into her firmly and rhythmically. He was moaning himself, a wordless noise of pleasure, as his painfully aroused cock finally found the sheath it desired, and he was nearly mindless as he fucked her with the smooth, thoughtful strokes that were his habit - he was more purely aroused then he could ever remember being before in his life, and all he could think about was the fact that he was satisfying his rampant desire to have sex with this woman.

Brad's interest in the female of the species had never been all that strong, his relatively few sexual encounters being driven by the woman, rather than himself. There was a good reason for that - Brad was, at heart, almost homosexual. Well - not exactly. His dad had been so adamant about raising his son to be the perfect All-American boy, that Brad had been able to acknowledge any attraction he might have felt for a man, and had been subconsciously faking attraction to women out of a subconscious desire not to be gay.

What he didn't know, however - and neither did Colleen, for that matter - was the fact that her over-endowed, highly sexual body was putting out super-charged amounts of female pheromones, one of the reasons why every man in the club, a 'big-bust' enthusiast or not, had gone gaga over her. In fact, the effect was cumulative - the more time she spent with a man, the more affected would he be, the pheromones bypassing his own sexual choices and affecting the primitive part of his male brain, arousing him almost against his will.

Though Brad would never realize the reason why, he'd never be homosexual - and he'd never find another woman who truly excited him the way Colleen was doing right now, all his other 'sexual interests' being psyche-driven lies to deny his hidden side, now buried under an avalanche of pheromone-created hormones.

All he knew was that he really, really needed to be with Colleen...

Colleen, for her part - couldn't have cared less. In fact, that aforementioned atom bomb could have gone off and she wouldn't have cared.

She was too busy loving being fucked hard and long by a man...

Which was definitely ironic - since she, as Juan, had also harbored hidden homosexual tendencies that he'd kept hidden from even himself. Small and skinny and effeminate, his father had been ashamed of him, and so he'd struggled to be what his macho father wanted, and simply couldn't admit to himself that he might be gay - which was why he'd been so utterly mortified by that smear campaign, his psyche recognizing the truth of the lies and horrified that it might register on his conscious mind. Likewise, he'd hated Brad with such illogical passion.. because he wouldn't allow himself to admit what he was really feeling was nearly overwhelming lust.

So, Colleen had no idea that she'd decided to let herself become female, and then decided to seduce Brad and 'convince' him to be her boyfriend - because it was fulfilling some very repressed fantasies.

Hell, she didn't even realize that she'd never be able to go back to being male, now that her long-denied 'secret' had finally found an outlet...

It didn't matter though - she wasn't thinking of anything that deep at the moment. Instead, she was shimmying and bounding on the end of Brad's thick, hard cock, screaming that she loved him fucking her, that she wanted him to fuck her forever, that she loved him and would never, ever leave him...

All of which was true, the words flowing from her subconscious mind without her being aware of what she was saying. She was too lost in the incredible sexual pleasure that hummed through every nerve in her body. She'd never realized that sex as Juan had been fairly lousy for him, since he'd never had truly satisfying sex and so had nothing to compare his rather pathetic orgasms with. Now, however, she did - and what she was feeling blew them all away as she screamed and begged for more, her incredible body shimmering as Brad mindlessly fucked her hard and deep, screaming out the words 'Oh yeah, baby..' in a mindless, rhythmic chant of pure pleasure.

"oh god.. oh god..." Colleen gasped, eyes closed, sweat dripping from her face, as she shuddered and shook. She was braced on one arm only, the other one fondling her huge, sweat-slicked tits - and she didn't even notice the fact that every few strokes, her head would smack on the wall in front of her, pretty hard. She was lost to that fairly insignificant pain as she rode her first truly satisfying sexual experience toward a climax...

Then it hit - the orgasm that gripped her entire body.

She screamed, loud and long, without words - and her supporting arm gave way and she took an unconscious step forward, straighten and pressing herself against the wall, gasping for breath as the orgasm tore her universe apart and rebuilt it, with a new center around the pleasure she was feeling from being fucked by Brad.

Brad had automatically stepped forward too - and the change in angle as she half-straightened had caused her cunt to grip tightly around just the super-sensitized head of his cock, pushing him way over the edge. He also screamed as she came, pumping his load of hot cum into her cunt.

Exhausted by the force of their orgasm, the two lovers slid downwards, ending up entwined on the hardwood floor of the foyer, arms around each other as they fell into the warm afterglow of the orgasm.

"Oh.. my.. god..." Colleen whispered in a stunned tone. "i.. I have never, ever felt anything like that in my life..." "Me neither..." Brad agreed, equally stunned.

Feeling the cool air moving over her sweat-slicked body, feeling the warm wetness between her legs, Colleen sighed pleasantly. "Well.. I guess we need a shower, huh?"

Pushing himself up, slowly, Brad helped Colleen up too, claiming a kiss and a tit-fondle as his reward. "Okay - you go first." Her smile was wicked. "who said anything about taking turns...?"

She reached out and gripped his cock, feeling its slick thickness begin to harden in anticipation of a rematch as she gently led him towards the back of the house, walking backwards so he could reach out and fondle her tits as she walked...

Even as her mind was enjoying the thought of more sex with brad, she was considering her plans for tomorrow, when she was going to use her new-found powers to bring justice to a certain pair of men... but that consideration faded for the moment, as she found the bathroom and gently pulled Brad into the room.

His cock was pretty 'tired' from just having been used. As she knelt before him in the warm spray, she nearly drowned before she managed to coax another salty load of delicious man-seed out of him, to gleefully allow to flow down her willing throat...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Now a Stripper, the newly minted female decides to use her new magic powers to change two low life men.

Metaphorical Magic: ...Two For The Road.

By Gunslinger

It was a little after four o'clock in the afternoon - but Colleen felt exhausted.

As they'd cuddled that morning - after another fantastic bout of sex - she'd had no trouble convincing Brad that she should move in with him. His bungalow had three bedrooms, and plenty of space - not that she needed a bedroom of her own, as a bedroom. It was quite clearly understood that she'd be spending her nights sharing the big bed in the master bedroom. She most certainly didn't have a problem with that. No, she asked for - and got - one of the bedrooms as her own for what she called her 'study' - her own private room, complete with a lock on the door. Brad agreed, slightly puzzled - but Colleen was the most incredible thing that had ever happened to him, the only woman he'd ever really 'connected' with, and if she had an odd fetish for having a room that was hers and hers alone, he'd pamper that fetish.

Brad had offered to call of his trip to his parents house after she'd informed him that she wasn't quite ready to meet his parents yet, but she had insisted that he go and spend the weekend, as he'd planned, bemoaning the two whole days they'd be spending apart - but she'd made sure to give him three more good orgasms before he'd gone, leaving him drained. She'd have to count on that sex - and, of course, the occasion use of a dildo - to keep her satisfied.

Brad had been out the door and down the driveway by nine o'clock in the morning.

Colleen had then spent the next few hours getting the affairs of 'Juan' in order. Not willing to change back, even for a few hours, she had created a 'voice altering' device and done most of it over the telephone - paying off all 'his' outstanding bills, calling the now-distant friends and family to explain he was taking a couple of months to let the shame, etc. Die down... by noon, she'd had all of that taken care of.

Then it had been time to do some shopping.

The first order of business had been to buy some clothes for her new body. After picking up the copy of the spell from her old apartment, she'd left a note (having to 'force' herself to use the write handwriting) saying that the super could do whatever he wanted with the old belongings, since everything of value had already been stolen. Armed with the spell, shopping for clothes had been incredibly easy - she simply had to by the least expensive clothing that was basically similar to the design she wanted, and close to the size - then write the correct size and a high-quality name on the label when she got home, and use the spell. 'Poof!' - she now had a closet full of perfectly-tailored clothing, most of it by big-name designers. For the cost of a few hundred dollars (part of the advance given to her by Tony, the manager of the Painted Lady), she now had a two-thousand-dollar wardrobe.

She'd also bought a collection of more esoteric items.

Items to implement her plan to wreak her revenge on brad's ex-friends, Steve and Mike. Mike she found utterly disgusting, and was looking forward to changing his outlook in life...

...but Steve she hated with a passion, despite the fact that what he'd done had allowed her to discover a much happier existence as Colleen. She wasn't going to let him off the hook.

Now, in her own private room at the back of the bungalow she now shared with Brad, she prepared her revenge. She'd decided to start with Mike, sort of 'warm up' for the big show, since she didn't have to get it utterly perfect with him. He was sort of a test subject for her plan, to see how ell it would work out.

She'd furnished and equipped the room with remarkable speed - again, mostly through the blatant and indiscriminate use of the magic spell, turning cheap second-hand furniture into everything she needed, exactly the way she wanted it. It seemed that using the magic took something out of her every time, almost like it was a physical effort to use the spell, hence her feeling of exhaustion - but she was sure she had enough energy to keep her going through the rest of her plan, and a big pot off coffee that rested on the cheap-table- turned-18th-century-French-Provincial-credenza would help as well.

Rolling her shoulders and taking a deep breath, Colleen reached into a padded back and brought out one of the items she'd bought at an occult (Goth) store - a crystal ball, mounted on a mahogany base. Unlike all the otherwise identical crystal balls the store sold, however, the use of the spell had made this one 'fully functional'. Now, Colleen leaned forward, placing a palm on each side of the clear glass globe... and concentrated on the thought of Mike Metzger.

The ball began to fill with a strange, almost luminescent mist - then, suddenly, the Crystal ball itself just seemed to... vanish. Instead, all that was left was the base, on which a perfect, three-dimensional image of Mike, and his immediate surrounding, formed.

Colleen grinned - it looked like her assumptions about what she could do with the spell, even if it wasn't supposed to be 'possible', were dead on the money.

She looked at Mike - a tanned, dark-haired, athletically built young man, he wasn't really handsome, so much as almost preternaturally fit. Not super-muscular - fit, the way only an athletically-minded man in the prime of his life could be, his body perfectly toned and proportioned under his casual clothes. What really made him fairly 'popular' with the ladies was not his facial features, which were a little too narrow, a little too sly - no, it was his perfectly toned body, and the fact that he possessed that complete arrogance that only youth could have, the belief that he was totally in control of every aspect of his life - and this could relax, not needing to prove himself in any way. That sense of self was what made him look so confident, capable, self-assured and charming to many a young lady, who would also find themselves noticing that perfectly fit, tanned body of his.

It was that sense of control that Colleen was going to steal from him - not to mention that 'sculpted' body of his...

Reaching over, Colleen picked up the receiver of the phone she'd be-spelled. The phone she'd cast the spell on - after writing on the front of the bright-red plastic casing 'Direct line to Mike Metzger's Brain'.

Putting it to her ear, she found herself listening to a 'stream of consciousness' in Mike's voice:

'oh, yeah, he's the bad-guy and; wow, that's a great move, she's not all that hot, but the leather outfit helps and she sure can move and I'd love to get her into bed and see if; oh, her blonde friend is hot too, actually kinda sexy being so innocent, I'd love to make her kneel between my legs and give me a...'

Speaking clearly, Colleen spoke into the phone.

"Say - today would be a great day for a drive, wouldn't it?"

* * * * *

Mike suddenly blinked in surprise. Here he was, sitting on the couch and watching a little TV - and he'd suddenly thought to himself that going for a drive would be fun. What the hell had brought that into his mind. ? - Oh, probably one of those car commercials, with some stunt-driver wiping up and down the road in a brand new car.

* * * * *

'love to own one like that, I'd go driving all the time too - except that the cops would bust my ass, you can't actually drive like that; commercials always do that, and it's such a rip-off, nothings ever like when you buy it - not even hookers, the one last week looked great until she took her top off and those tits just flopped out and hung there and. ' colleen frowned slightly - her 'comment' had registered on his brain, seeming to him as if it was his own idea. However, he'd considered the 'idea' - and then rejected it. This might not be as easy as she thought.

Then again - maybe she was being to subtle. It wasn't like she needed to sweet-talk him - he thought it was his own brain coming up with the thoughts. So, make him think he was more positive about what 'he' wanted to do...

"Turn off the TV and go for a drive!" she said into the phone...

* * * * *

Mike mashed the button down on the remote, turning off the TV in a sudden bout of anger.

"Hell -I don't need to buy a thirty-thousand dollar car to enjoy hitting the road." He said, annoyed at the thought - though not positive why it had suddenly hit him so sharply. "If I want to go for a drive, I can damn well do it in my five-year old car just as well!"

Grabbing a jacket, he shoved his wallet and keys into the pockets as he slipped into his sneakers, then headed out of the apartment towards his car.

* * * * *

Colleen smiled - this was more like it.

Firmly, she told Mike's brain that he was restless and bored, sick and tired of visiting all his usual haunts. Today, she told him, he wanted to drive, look for something new and exciting - and he was to drive for at least half an hour.

Once she was sure her commands had taken, Colleen put the receiver down and began to set up the items needed for the next part of her 'quick-and-dirty' test run on Mike - a sort of 'voodoo doll' formed out of a foot-high rubber Army Man which she'd pasted a copy of Mike's yearbook photo over the face, and cast the spell on it. Now, she assembled the other items she'd bought at toy and hobby stores, preparing her little 'voodoo doll' to be used...

* * * * *

Mike drove rather aimlessly out of the city, filled with an urge to find... something. He didn't know what, but he felt trapped by the town and his usual hangouts, and he had to get away for a bit, a sort of unplanned road-trip.

He just hoped he'd know what he was looking for when he found it...

Half an hour later, Mike was entering the outskirts of the nearest city, coming in off a secondary highway that ran up through the industrial section and the less savory outer edges of what eventually ran into the downtown core. It wasn't quite a slum - but it also wasn't the most opulent surroundings. It was they type of area you usually drove through quickly...

...except, of course, unless you were looking for something illegal, like drugs, a gun - or a hooker. The cops barely even maintained a presence in this part of the city. In fact, the few times Mike made use of the 'Ladies of the Evening', it was to some part of this run-down area that he cruised, and now he began to smile slowly as he figured out what impulse had been driving him to go for a ride.

Oddly enough, he didn't feel like just cruising around the neighborhood, though. He saw a really sleazy-looking motel up ahead, and had this strange urge to pull in and get a room. Almost numbly, he did so, thinking to himself that he might use the room for a while, spending the extra money for 'the works' this evening - he was feeling extra-horny.

Paying the slimy-looking manager of the hotel for a room, Mike parked his car in front of the unit and headed inside, looking around the drab, run-down room with mild disgust. At least it smelled clean - the odor of solvents and cleaning materials was overwhelming. The bed also seemed to be in fairly good shape and - miracle of miracles! - actually had clean, if very worn, sheets. Sitting on the edge of the bed, Mike vegetated for a second, trying to decide the best way to go about finding a hooker without 'cruising'. For some reason, he just didn't feel like getting back into his car... then he was struck by an idea - why not watch some porn? This motel had porn channels on their TV's. It might be expensive, but he wouldn't have to go anywhere.

Turning on the TV, he flipped over to the listing channel. If he was going to pay for it, he was damn well going to watch it from the start... Except, at five twenty-seven, he found that there wasn't anything starting on the half hour, only at six, and...

* * * * *

Watching on the crystal ball, Colleen smiled as she slid a tape into the VCR beside her - the one she'd 'magicked' up to play directly into the TV Mike was watching...

* * * * *

Mike was startled when the listing page vanished - and the black screen that replaced it for a second was replaced with a red screen baring the words 'NAWDY SPECIALTY ADULT VIDEO PRODUCTIONS', accompanied by a cheesy musical riff.

Mike shrugged and scuttled back a bit on the bed, getting comfortable - he guessed that there was no full-time 'listings' channel after all, they just used whichever adult channel not currently showing a movie, since running times must leave gaps between the movies start- times.

A second later, the red screen vanished to black, with a cheesy computer-generated animation of gold lettering 'flying' onto the screen... 'BI-BI TRANNY'

"What the...?" Mike asked, startled - as the screen flickered to show...

...a person.

Sure the person was wearing women's clothing, and fairly sexy stuff at that. Sure, the person had a woman's hairstyle, and was wearing make-up on a girlish face. Hell, the person was even slender, and a sizable pair of breasts strained at the top the person was wearing.

None of that mattered to Mike, considering the sizable bulge straining at the crotch of the tight hot-pants the person wore. That made it a him, and...

* * * * *

'god that's disgusting, it's a guy who's had surgery, a pervert, god that's so sick and...' Listening to Mike's mental dialogue, Colleen smiled - this was the perfect revenge.

"She's very sexy to you. You think she looks very hot, despite the bulge in her shorts. In fact, you're kind of turned on by her." Colleen told his mind.

* * * * *

...and despite the fact it had started out as a guy... the person on the screen did look hot.

"Geez..." Mike muttered to himself, startled and dismayed to find himself becoming aroused by the sight of the tranny on screen 'vamping' down the street. Sure, 'she' looked mostly like a woman - but the truth was that she was a guy, right? Mike was sickened by the fact that his cock refused to acknowledge the fact, getting hard quite quickly.

* * * * *

Colleen listened to the confusion in Mike's mind with a smile. She could instruct him to get further aroused, if she'd wanted to - but she didn't actually want to change his sexual orientation or preferences, other than to give a few 'nudges'. She had something else in mind...

Going to the doll she'd gotten, she picked up the syringe filled with a whitish fluid she'd created - and slowly began to fill the comparatively tiny 'cock' she'd magically grafted onto the doll, the rubber organ slowly stretching as it filled with the 'sperm' she was pumping into it.

While she continued slowly pumping up the doll's cock, she picked up the phone and began to speak..

* * * * *

Almost against his will, Mike sat and watched the action on the screen, making no move to turn of the 'sick' movie, while his cock went hard as a rock and throbbed almost painfully.

Suddenly, he found himself overcome with an irresistible urge. Though it disgusted him, he couldn't help himself - he hurriedly unzipped his pants unbuttoned his shirt, stripping naked quickly and setting his cock free, his hands wrapping around it's throbbing thickness.

He began to jack off - to a tranny film. He just couldn't help himself. He was incredibly horny, his cock painfully aroused... "What the hell?" Mike gasped, tearing his eyes from the 'action' on the screen.

His cock was bigger the he'd ever seen it - and it was still slowly swelling larger. It was already considerably larger and thicker then it had been before.

He wanted to continue gaping at his swelling, enlarging cock - but, unwillingly, he found his eyes going back to the movie, while his hands continued to stroke his slowly swelling cock.

* * * * *

Smiling, Colleen finished the 'sperm' injection in the now oversized cock of the voodoo doll - then picked the doll up. She'd 'softened' the interior gel-like material that gave the doll it's shape under it's rubber skin, and now she began to knead the inner material, moving it around under the outer layer.

* * * * *

Mike gasped as in incredibly strange feeling shuddered through his body - as if giant hands were lightly gripping and massaging him.

Still helplessly jerking off his now-huge cock, Mike stared down at himself - as his flesh began to writhe. As he watched, horrified, his muscle-mass began to shift, his toned, strong body loosing it's sculpted shape as the mass began to migrate. Clumps of semi-liquefied muscles that had formed his strong arms began to run up to his shoulders and slide down into his chest as two half-formed lumps... that looked an awful lot like misshapen breasts.

The didn't remain misshapen, though, slowly smoothing their contours as mass continued to join the growing mounds.

"No...!" Mike cried, horrified - in a voice tat he was horrified to hear emerged in an androgynous tone that could have been boyish masculine of husky feminine.

In the space of a few minutes, a new figure was reclined on the bed.

The traces of Mike's original face could be seen in the new one, though the lips were fuller, the nose smaller, and the jaw re-shaped. The changes, though, had been sort of half-way, leaving him with a much more 'girlish' face, but one that was still too masculine to be beautiful.

Likewise, his body was much more feminine in appearance, with a slimmer over-all look - but his shoulders were broader then most women's, and his hips narrower.

As a matter of fact - he looked an awful lot like a cross between Chyna, from the WWF, and Lucy Lawless, TV's Xena. He was somewhere between the two women in build and muscularity - but he far outstripped either in the bust department, with a big, firm pair of EEE-cup tits thrust from his ribcage.

TOO big and TOO firm, with his still-masculine nipples at the end of the now-hairless mounds. They were incredibly obvious implants, right down to the scars on the bottom curves of his nipples. Scars that proved that they weren't original equipment...

...as if you needed any more proof then the huge, thick cock thrust from his crotch. It was massive, a foot in length and amazingly thick - and he couldn't stop jacking it off, even as he realized that he'd inexplicably become one of those 'sicko' trannies...

"No...!" Shi cried, horrified by what had happened to hir in the space of just a few minutes - but hir long-nailed-hut-mannish hands didn't stop their rhythmic stroking of hir huge, throbbing member.

Then hir huge, thick cock twitched - and began to gush an incredible fountain of cum.

Helplessly - horrified - Mike found herself bending down as far as possible and lapping at the spray of cum, getting only a fraction of the warm, salty, disgusting liquid down hir throat as the rest splattered across hir face and tits.

Falling backwards, utterly sickened by the taste of hir own cum in hir moth, confused and horrified, shi found herself beginning to fondle hir huge, impossible firm tits, though they weren't as sensitive or enjoyable as real tits would be.

"What's happening to me...?" Mike cried out in anguish, hir huge cock still hard and throbbing with desire as hir hands helplessly fondled her own transformed body.

It turned out shi had to cum three more times before hir cock would soften...

* * * * *

"Well - go ahead and explain that!" Colleen told the image in the crystal ball just before it faded.

She hadn't changed anything in Mike's mind - except for the fact that Mike's new body was perpetually arousing to itself, since she'd fooled around, linking his male mind to be horny for hir huge tits, and hir female side to be horny for hir huge cock. Given time, Mike might be able to bulk up again - but she'd made hir tits so big so that surgery couldn't reduce them to a near-flat chest without extensive scarring.

She'd left Mike a transsexual 'freak' - without altering hir sexual preferences. Colleen had the feeling she'd have trouble finding dates for Saturday nights from now on - not to mention the type of life she'd lead, all hir friends and family seeing the changed Mike.

Colleen wished she could be there when Mike tried to explain what had happened to hir...

Shaking her head, Colleen push Mike's fate aside. Mike was only a warm-up, a test of some theories. Now it was time to move on to the real thing - Steve...

First, though, she needed a bit of time to get some coffee, use the washroom - and recuperate. She felt, quite literally, drained. She was realizing that every use of the spell took something out of her - sooner or later, she was going to run out of whatever mystical energy the spell ran on, and she'd be unable to use the spell again until it was replenished - assuming that this unknown energy could be replenished.

Maybe, once it was gone, it would be gone forever.

The thought of that made her regret how much energy she'd already 'wasted' on stuff like the clothes and furniture - but she wasn't deterred in the least from her plan. She was still going to get her vengeance on Steve. She just hoped she had enough energy left in her wonderful new body to see this through to the end.

After a fifteen minute break - and a cup of strong black coffee - Colleen sat back down at the table, placing her hands on either side of the crystal ball. With just a little concentration, the image of her intended target, Steve, formed, replacing the ball with a hologram-like image...

...and Colleen grinned to see where he was. This was going to be better then she could have ever hoped.

...as long as she had enough power left to see it through...

* * * * *

Letting the door swing shut behind him, Steve Garin took a deep breath of the air in the bar, loving the smell of smoke, sweat and leather.

Unlike Mike who's body was (or, rather, 'had been', but Steve didn't know that...) lightly muscled from athletics, Steve's taller, broader frame carried thick slabs and curves of hard-earned muscle from years of working out - it was part of his 'tough guy' image, as was his close-cropped head of pale blond hair and his equally short-cut goatee.

Another part of his image was his weekend pursuit - he was a 'hog-rider', as he liked to call himself. He owned one of the new Indian motorcycles, a updated version of the classic motorcycle who's marquee had only recently returned to the roads. To go with the motorcycle, Steve had the wardrobe.

It started with a pair of real 'motorcycle' boots, a thick-soled, steel-toed set of army-style boots that went quite a ways up past the ankles. The tops of these boots were hidden by his pants - jeans with thick black leather 'chaps' sewn right into them, making them stiff and actually quite uncomfortable, not that Steve would ever admit it. The design made them stiff and hot - but the fact that he'd bought them nearly skin-tight, the better to show off his massive, tree-trunk like legs, meant that sitting down in them could actually be quite a chore. The black leather belt he wore with the pants had a massive tarnished-silver belt-buckle which was actually illegal - it's apparent 'gun' motif concealed the fact that the raised 'image' was actually a tiny .11 caliber one-shot derringer. Truth was, as firearms went the tiny gun was the next best thing to useless, but Steve thought it kicked ass to be walking around packing a gun. A sheath on the thick belt he wore also sported a big, kick-ass K-bar knife, they type the marines used, with leather grip and faded brass pommel and hilt.

Steve was also wearing a black denim work-shirt that he'd very carefully and deliberately washed in a mild bleach solution a dozen times for the 'faded' look. Over the shirt was his most prized piece of apparel - a genuine first-issue Indian motorcycle jacket. Black leather with big tarnished silver snaps, clasps and buckles, the jacket boasted a high, thick collar, and intricate stitching on the back in pre-faded thread the formed an image of a red-and-black Indian motorcycle, with the company name above it, and the name of the motorcycle model - 'Chief' - below it.

God-damned if he didn't feel like the most ass-kicking, pussy-humping macho sunnuvabitch in the world when he was doing his weekend routine.

Now, if only the real bikers who frequented the roadhouse Steve spent most of his time in would see him that way...

"Hey, Pretty-Boy's back!" A voice called, and it strained Steve's face to keep from wincing. The 'real' bikers, a motley collection of individuals whose riding gear wasn't half as well cared for as Steve's (and whose personal hygiene was even worse), laughed and greeted Steve with good-natured (but pointed and even sarcastic) ribbing and cat-calls.

'Pretty Boy' was Steve's secretly much-hated nickname. Rule number one in the sub-society of bikers was that nobody got to pick their own 'handle'. It had to be given to them at some point - unless, of course, you were stuck with such a limp-dick name that you'd been using your own self-anointed handle for years now. Even bikers wouldn't squawk at somebody choosing to call themselves 'Hawk' or 'Snake' if they were stuck by their parents with the real name of Percy or Melvin.

Steve, however, didn't have that 'out'. The first day he'd walked into this bar, one of the bikers playing pool had looked up, seen him - and drawled 'Well, look at the pretty boy...'

The name had stuck, and Steve just had to grin and bear it if he wanted to be semi-welcome in the bar. It was owned by an ex-member of the local gang, who'd had to stop riding after a badly mashed hand on a particular wipe-out had left him unable to work the throttle.

The man's wrist simply didn't rotate any more.

Though the bikers liked to keep a low profile when they were 'roosted' (because they didn't want the cops closing out their favorite watering hole), that didn't mean they didn't have ways of keeping people away from the bar. Hell, filling a bar with a dozen tough bikers was enough reason to stay away for most people. So the fact that 'Pretty Boy' was tolerated, if not actually welcome, was good enough for Steve.

Walking across the sawdust-covered floor, Steve went to the bar and asked for a beer. Grunting, the bartender got one out and shoved it at Steve who - unlike the bikers themselves - had to pay cash-on-hand for his drinks.

Turning around and leaning against that bar's scratched surface, Steve sipped at his beer and wondered what the evening would bring...

* * * * *

Watching through the crystal ball, colleen had to smile at how perfect a set-up this was. She hadn't been quite sure about all the details of her revenge on him, leaving a lot of things open to custom-tailor it to the situation - but this was as perfect as she could have imagined.

Turning from the crystal ball, Colleen looked at the 'voodoo doll' she had for Steve.

Had somebody come into the room, they would have been shocked at the sight - they would have thought there was a dead body hanging from a stand in the middle of the room.

The 'voodoo doll' had started out as one of those anatomy skeletons that educational stores sold - plaster-of-Paris rather than real bone, but realistically formed into the complete skeleton. Over this framework, Colleen had created a rough outline of a male human body with a bodysuit over some foam padding, and some cheap clothes over that.

Then, with a touch of magic, it had become and exact, life-size replica of Steve in every way, right down to the clothes, save for the fact that it wasn't living, all it's 'tissue' inert, like the latex rubber used in Hollywood for prosthetics and other make-up effects.

There was a huge difference between her life sized 'dummy' and a Hollywood special effect, though - anything at all Colleen did to the 'dummy' would also instantaneously happen to Steve, where he was.

Rubbing her hands together gleefully, Colleen quickly re-arranged her workroom a bit, pulling the dummy closer to the table so that she could see the crystal ball while she was working on the voodoo doll.

Now came the fun part.

She'd picked up a can of hair-spray while she was shopping - but it wasn't hair-spray anymore. She'd quickly written up a new label on a piece of paper and glued it to the can - then put the spell on it. Now the 'label' was painted directly on the can, advertising the product and describing what it did:

COLLEEN'S MAGICAL REVENGE ENHANCER

Creates instant acceptance of any occurrence, no matter how bizarre, and enhances the effects of magical revenge.

- * Greatly increases the male libido!
- * Makes men very talkative about sexual desires!
- * Increases the size of the penis!

- * Increases sperm production!

- * Increases sexual stamina!

NOTE: Product's effect on Steve Garin will differ. Steve Garin will experience a helpless need to obey any instructions that might be given, regardless of person preference.

Patting the can fondly, Colleen leaned over and opened a little 'door' she'd drawn on the wall - and magically made into a direct pipe-line into the roadhouse. She faced the nozzle of the can at the opening and pressed down on the top, spraying the contents of her magically-created elixir into the roadhouse.

Sitting where she could see and hear what was coming from the crystal ball, she waited for the effects to kick in. The first part wouldn't be all that obvious - since the men would accept without comment the fact that their cock's were growing. No, she was waiting for her 'cue'...

* * * * *

"Hey, Chop!"

The fat, greasy-looking biker... Okay, so that described almost all of them.

The one with the tattoo of the Harley on his arm, who was usually called 'Chopper' or just 'Chop', looked over in the direction of the red- haired biker who'd shouted.

"Yeah, Red?" Chop grunted.

"What was the name of that blonde in San An?" red asked, one hand lightly stroking the crotch of his pants. Chop frowned. "Don't 'member. Know the one you mean, though - got was she a hot piece of ass."

"Yeah - there's just sumpin' about a woman with a big head of blonde hair." Another one, named 'Ditch' (because of his habit of running others off the road) said. "I mean, really biiiiig hair."

Steve was leaning against the bar, sort of 'soaking in' the whole biker atmosphere when this odd reminisce started. He'd learned after his first couple of visits to keep his mouth shut unless somebody talked to him first, so he was just sort of relaxing, hanging out, and soaking it all in...

...when, far away, Colleen heard her cue.

"Ahhh!" Steve grunted, more from shock then pain, as it felt like somebody had managed to twine their fingers into what little hair he left on his head, and pulled. Startled, he whipped his head around to shout at the bartender for the stunt..

...then felt as if his brain had melted down when the motion caused a heavy, thick, curly hank of hair to whip in front of his face. Stunned, he finished turning all the way around and stared in the mirror.

Framing his face was the 'biggest' head of hair he'd ever seen in his life.

The hair itself was platinum blonde, nearly white, and just masses of curls. More than just being 'long' though, the silky mass was also full and lush - and it spilled down over his shoulders, reaching almost all the way to his ass in a massive, heavy, wide fall of white-blond strands.

"What the hell...?" Steve said in shock, numbly placing the beer on the bar and reaching up to touch his suddenly-acquired mass of thick hair. He was utterly at a loss to explain what had just happened to him.

"Yeah - kinda like the way Pretty Boy's hair looks." Red said in an off-hand voice, not noticing anything the least bit odd about the fact that Steve's hair had practically exploded out into a mass of silken curls. "Only, you know, more.. made up. You know, put into a watchamacallit - a style."

Still stunned, Steve's jaw dropped even wider and he began making incoherent noises as his massive new mane pulled itself upward, building up into a huge 'bun', à la Peg Bundy, before spilling back down behind it in a pale, frothy wave.

"Hey, Pretty Boy - turn around and let me get a look." Chop called - and, helplessly, Steve found himself complying. "Wha... wha... wha..." Steve stammered, slack-jawed - but was ignored as the assembled bikers looked at the hair. "Fuck, no!" Chopper said. "No, sumin' more... you know, sexy. Not so damned.. 'girlie'. Like a real woman."

* * * * *

Colleen blinked, a little confused - then had to grin as it occurred to her what type of woman was a 'real woman' by biker standards. Turning back to the doll, she tried another style...

* * * * *

The room watched as Steve's hair began to rearrange itself on its own accord. This time, the hair formed itself into a sort of top-knot pony-tail, rising straight up from near the back of her head and held up by six chrome metal rings about an inch in diameter, joined together with black leather weaving. The hair then spilled out of this to fall around Steve's shoulders.

"Yeah - that's more like it." Ditch said, and there was murmurs of agreement.

Steve, however, wasn't nearly as 'satisfied' with the change as the others were. No longer facing the mirror, he couldn't actually see whether or not the style was 'flattering' - but he didn't really care about that.

"What the hell's going on!" Steve demanded, in a panic-filled voice, hands once again flying to his head to run through his new mane of long, silky hair. "My... my hair...!"

One of the other bikers, Ripman - his real last name, cool enough on its own that didn't need a handle - looked at Steve and nodded, completely ignoring the muscular (and now long-haired) youth's panicked outburst.

"Hey - 'cept for the color, that hair r'minds me of somebody..." He said, in his hoarse voice. "Reminds me a bit of a bitch down in LA - man, she had a set of lips that looked like they'd seal around a cock and never spill a drip."

Steve felt a sensation in his lips - it felt like they had been stung by a bee or something. Not the actual sensation of being stung, with the pain and all, but how lips that had been stung felt - swollen, too-sensitive, weird...

Turning, Steve glanced in the mirror - and found the most incredible full, firm, luscious lips he'd ever seen on his face.

"Muh... muh lipph!" Steve said, shocked - then tried again, hearing the way it came out through the unaccustomedly full, thick lips that his face now boasted. "What happened to my lips?"

The bikers, however, didn't seem the least bit interested in answering Steve's shocked questions. They were busy reminiscing about other things...

"hey - let me see, Pretty Boy!" Chop asked - demanded - and Steve once again found himself helpless to resist, swiveling around to show off his new lips to the assembled bikers.

"Not bad, but lips like that should be wearing lipstick." Was Red's opinion - and a second later, a heavy coat of frosted pink lipstick coated Steve's new, full lips. He recoiled as he tasted the slightly waxy flavor of the frosted coat covering his altered lips.

"Naw - that sorta whitish pink color is stupid..." Was Ripman's opinion, and there was some agreement...

...so Steve's lipstick darkened in a deep, gloss red, with slightly darker, nearly black outlining at the edge. "Yeah - that's the stuff...!" Ditch said, with a grin. "But it looks damn strange on Pretty-Boy."

Hope flared in Steve's chest - this was the first time somebody had noticed that something wasn't right, and...

"That hair and those lips belong on a babe's face." Ditch finished - and Steve could feel the bones under his face shifting and changing, the hair of his goatee pulling back into his skin and leaving his face smooth and flawless as it reshaped itself. Horrified, Steve whirled around yet again...

...and stared at a incredible cute-sexy face, with a pixie-ish cast to it. Big blue eyes, tiny snub nose, and those full lips... "Naw - not like that..." red complained. "You know... sexy!"

* * * * *

Colleen slapped her forehead with the palm of her hand. Sure, most guys would find that face really sexy - but she had forgotten who her 'audience' was...

* * * * *

Even as Steve gaped stupidly at his new face - it changed.

The rounded, smooth contours began to writhe, acquiring shaper angles and shapes. For a second, Steve hoped...

...but no. A second later, Steve was staring at a face that was still 'sexy', in it's way - but this was cheap/sexy. High, almost painfully well-defined cheekbones and a narrower, sharper shin framed her new features, which boasted dark, sultry eyes, a narrow, thin nose that was a little too sharp for beauty, and those incredibly sexy lips. In conjunction with his hair, it gave him a sort of hungry, purposeful look, a look like she was craving something and willing to do whatever it took to get it...

The guys obviously though it was just perfect, after once more ordering Steve around so they could 'admire' his face, which was also made up with a stark, heavy scheme.

All of this had taken place in the span of a few minutes, and Steve's brain had been lagging behind, shock and confusing dulling his mental processes. Now, where logic failed to serve, panic initiated the 'fight or flight' instinct in self preservation.

"Nooooo!" Steve screamed in horror at his new facial appearance - and began to run for the door.

"You know - he wouldn't run so fast if he were wearing heels, like that girl from San An used to wear.." Was Chop's comment...

...and Steve went flying as his biker boots writhed into a new pair of footwear. He sprawled on the floor, the sudden change in his boots throwing him off balance.

Gaping, he rolled over and stared at the boots that now enclosed much smaller (and more feminine) feet, an unasked-for 'gift' from Colleen. These new boots were still leather - but now they were shin-high and went over his pants, rather than under.

They also had a three-inch-high platform that sloped inwards from the upper of the boot to a half-sized sole. 'Balancing out' this tiny front surface area (though balance was actually the exact opposite of what it assisted in), was a nine-inch-high stiletto heel.

"Hey - those are even better..." Ditch said, with a grin. "Great boots, Pretty-Boy - I bet you can walk real sexy in them." "Yeah..." Chop said. "Go ahead, walk sexy for us - just don't try to walk away, 'cause you're stayin' here tell we tell you to go."

Though he fought, Steve found himself caught in the grip of compulsion, helpless to stop himself as she rose back to his altered feet.

To his shock, he found that he could balance quite easily atop the tiny surface area of the boots - and, even more shocking, he could walk easily too, which he helplessly did with an over-emphasized sway to his hips as she strutted across the floor.

"Not bad... but it'd look better if he had wider hips, man..." Red said...

..which stared off a round of 'yeah, and..' from the rest of the guys, starting of a fast and furious round of changes to the helpless, hapless youth.

Still strolling around the room, Steve burst into tears as the changes ran through his body, one after the other...

He felt his hips swell outwards, his pants keeping up with the change to match his new dimensions as his hips became almost over- exaggerated, a wide, perfectly rounded pair of womanly, child-bearing hips...

...which then found themselves accompanied by a full, womanly ass that swelled outward, his pants altering to accommodate the full, firm spheres of his enlarged, reshaped buttocks, giving him an almost over-full, firm, perfectly sexy ass that, at another comment, joined in the sultry symphony of his walk, swaying and rotating in a sexy man, begging for attention...

...which it would definitely receive in the new garment his pants became, rushing upwards up his legs and joining in the center, until a skin-tight leather mini-shirt just barely covered his spectacular, almost overly-feminine ass.

His sobbing became mixed with please to stop this, to change him back, to just stop changing him further... but that didn't save Steve from the comment that somebody could see his boxer-briefs, which looked silly...

...so they writhed and reshaped themselves, becoming a pair of black leather panties that rose up between his full new ass cheeks and tightly hugged his crotch.

Too tightly...

"Oh, God!" Steve cried out in pain. "My cock! My balls! Oh, god - they're being crushed!"

An instant later, he wished that he'd kept his mouth shut - as a comment gave him the horrifying sensation of having his cock and balls retract into his body, leaving behind - as Red had phrased it - a 'tight, hot little cunt...'

His sobbing became out-and-out crying...

...which prompted Chop to tell him to stop whining and sniveling. Or, to put it the way Chop phrased it...

"Geez, Pretty boy -stop with the bitching. I don't ever want to hear you complain, cry or yell unless somebody tells you to!"

So - Steve was denied even the outlet to his disgust, fear and confusion as he found himself unable to truly express his horror at what was happening here.

"Please - please don't!" Steve begged, with a forced 'calmness' he didn't feel...

His pleas only served to tick off another biker, name Rocco, who thought Steve should have a sexy, female voice. So, of course, Steve did.

"Geez - Pretty-Boy in drag...!" Red laughed. "God, you look stupid, Pretty-boy - them big, ugly, hairy legs in high-heels and a skirt..."

That was enough for Colleen to talk care of the 'problem' - and Steve couldn't do a damned thing about it, not even complain or cry, as his legs writhed and reshaped into a pair of sexy, slightly over-exaggerated female legs...

...clad in torn, close-weave black fishnet stockings that went with the growing 'look' the half-feminized man was starting to acquire.

'Half', however, wasn't nearly enough for the bikers still lounging around as casually as if this was just an average night at the roadhouse. More than one of them was stroking their crotches now, horny as hell - and though they were oddly accepting of what was going on, that didn't mean they couldn't think about it at all - and, horny as they were, the thought that Steve was half the way to being a woman made them think about what they could do if they kept going.

So they did..

A few seconds later, Steve's shirt had become a black leather corset, cinched painfully tight around an altered waist that, unaided, would be twenty-five inches, but was painfully compressed down to a mere twenty-four.

A minute after that, and his black 'wife-beater' tank-top undershirt had become a spandex crop-top that hugged tightly to his flat, more- slender and hairless ribcage.

A few seconds later, and the last overtly masculine parts of him had gone the way of the dodo, as his shoulders narrowed sharply and his arms lost those massive slaps of muscle, becoming as slender and feminine as the new hands that graced the ends of them, with long, gloss-pink nails tipping her slender new fingers.

Then somebody noted that she was kinda flat chested...

Steve wished he had the power to whimper as the crop-top stirred, then rose outwards under the force of the swelling mounds of flesh behind them, which rapidly formed into a pair of firm, round, D-cup tits, tipped with sensitive nipples.

But that wasn't good enough for the guys. No, they wanted more.

They got it - Steve's new chest continued to swell outwards, and every time they slowed somebody would say they wanted her new tits bigger. The tits thrust from Steve's chest went from big to really big, then jumped up into huge, then massive - then right into down-right unbelievable. By the time the guys finally stopped, Steve was stuck with an enormous, unbelievable pair of chest-melons, the size and shape of those beach-balls you could buy. They were massive, thrust impossibly from her new chest and tipped with massive, thick, super-sensitive nipples that strained to burst through the spandex fabric that barely contained her massive new mounds, a mouth- watering chasm of creamy cleavage on display.

Which left...

"Whoa, baby - you're looking hot now!" red said. "You ain't no Pretty Boy no more - now you're a sexy slut!"

"No - no I'm not..." Steve said, in her helplessly sexy, feminine new voice. She couldn't actually complain - but she could 'comment'. "I'm not really a woman, guys - I'm Steve, remember?"

"Not now, you ain't!" Chopper retorted. "From now on, you're Stevi the sex-slut, and that's how you're gonna act - as a cum-hungry bitch who can't get enough of our big, thick cocks. I want you beggin' for it, bitch - I want you to be out little biker slut bitch, for the rest of your life!"

With that, Steve - Stevi - was condemned to her new life, helpless to act any way but in the manner of the woman they'd just defined her to be...

She stopped dead and looked around at the bikers leering at her, all of them so obviously horny that you couldn't miss it - and that was something the new woman knew about, whether she 'really' wanted to, or not.

"Hmmm..." Stevi helplessness found herself moaning in a horny, sultry voice. "With all you studs around, won't somebody fuck me hard? C'mon, guys - I want a huge, thick cock shoved into my hot, wet cunt, fucking me like there's no tomorrow..."

While she said this, she found her hands slowly stroking her crotch - then pulling up her skirt, revealing her leather panties...

"Can't somebody fill me so full of big, hard cock that I feel like I'm gonna burst?" She asked in a seductively plaintive voice, her long- nailed hands helplessly unclipping the small clasp on the side of the panties and letting them drop to the floor, revealing her cunt, which was clean-shaven and quite 'ready', even if, deep inside, Stevi's male ego was screaming and gibbering in horror.

"Oh, hell, yeah!" Red said, grinning nastily. "I'll fuck you, bitch!" He rose from his chair, dropping his pants down around his ankle and revealing a huge, thick cock that was hard as iron and throbbing with his lust. "Bend over, bitch! Here cums Red!"

"Oh, yes..!" Stevi cooed eagerly, bending over the pool table - while, deep inside, her brain was creaming 'Oh no!'.

However, that unheard scream wasn't answered, as Red walked across the floor to where her luscious ass was stuck up into the air, a grin plastered onto his unshaven face.

Wrapping his meaty hands around her wide him, he slammed his huge, throbbing cock forward, not giving a shit about what she'd feel... her scream seemed to indicate pleasure from it's sound, but it was actually a scream of horror and pain as the huge, thick member forced itself into her cunt, filling her to capacity as red began to fuck her, hard and fast, slamming the too-big member into her over and over again...

Meanwhile, Chop had also dropped his pants, and now he was getting on the pool table, sitting directly in front of her, his huge cock thrust into her face - and then he was grabbing her head and guiding it downward -and she helplessly found herself opening her mouth and taking as much of the huge member in as she could . Her weight was braced on the table and she couldn't use her hands - but that didn't matter. Chop was just looking to get off, and the suction she applied helplessly to his cock as her tongue began to slide of the smell, gross organ, he began to buck his hips, face-fucking her.

Steve wanted to die from the shame, horror and disgust - but Stevi showed no sign of that, apparently quite satisfied with being their bitch, getting fucked from behind while she slurped away at a cock.

Red came first, groaning as he pumped what seemed like gallons of hot cum deep into her new cunt before he pulled his cock out with a wet, slurping sound - long before she'd reached orgasm, denied even that 'relief'. She wasn't going to get an orgasm from the next man in line, though - as he positioned himself and leaned forward, using all his weight to force his massive, over-sized new cock deep into her virgin ass, with Stevi unable to even scream in pain as she was violated...

Unable to make any sound, in fact, as she was busy gulping at the flood of cum gushing down her new throat, unable to keep up with the spray that also gushed from around her full lips and soaked the lower half of her new face as Chop held her head to keep her from pulling away from his supply of thick, war goo...

* * * * *

Exhausted, Colleen slumped, knowing that she was out of mystical energy for now, and maybe forever.

It didn't mater - what she'd already created was permanent, and through her crystal ball she watched with intense satisfaction as Stevi helplessly serviced the bikers in the bar, unable to resist in the slightest as she was used as their sex-toy. Even as she watched, the last remaining stitch of the new woman's clothing was removed so she could be tit-fucked, some of the guys who'd already gone lining up for a second round. With a dozen men, she could be fucking for quite some time yet, and though she'd love to stay and watch every depravity, every humiliation, Colleen had to get to work at her new job - as a stripper.

Smiling at the irony of it all - the fact that what could be hell for one person could be heaven for another - Colleen left her work-shop and locked the door, then headed off to her room to change, looking forward to doing her act, getting men all hot-and-bothered with her gorgeous, buxom new body...

...and wishing that Brad hadn't had to go away, so she could get a good hard fucking before she left. Seeing Stevi fucked hard and long had gotten her sooo hot...

Humming happily to herself, Colleen began to get dressed.

* * * * *

Back in the workshop, a gust of wind from her closing the door stirred through the air, ruffling the edges of the huge blonde wig on the highly-realistic dummy on a metal stand, one that looked like an impossibly large-breasted woman.

It also stirred a very old-looking sheet of paper, lifting it from the surface of the table it was on, and sending it floating through the air. It glided on the currents...

..and right into the open 'vent' on the wall, the one Colleen hadn't closed. The one that led directly to a road-house.

Buoyed by the warm, stale air, the paper drifted onward, tending down to the ground, unnoticed by the dozen men and one woman in the establishment, who were otherwise occupied. The paper sank lower and lower as it drifted across the room, finally hitting the floor - just in time to be swept through the gap in the cheaply-built door, and out into the coolness of the night, where a brisk breeze picked it up, tumbling it across the parking lot and towards the highway...

...where it came to a sudden stop, plastered to the back of a human leg. Startled, the owner of that leg - a forty-eight year old professor, leaning against the hood of his aging Buick as he refilled the slowly leaking radiator - looked down and frowned. Leaning over, he picked up the piece of parchment, wondering how an antiquity like this had ended up floating along a secondary highway in the middle of the night.

Shrugging, he carried it around to the car and put it on his dashboard, then went back to finish his job with the radiator.

When the hood was once more lowered and locked into place, Professor Greyson climbed back into the car and brought it's engine to life. As he put the car into gear and pulled away from the curb, he glanced over at the parchment laying beside him on the seat.

"I'll have my class translate it.." Greyson said to himself, with a shrug. "Tell them it's worth an extra ten marks on top of their test next week."

* * * * *

It turned out to be a very interesting month at East Langford College, especially in Professor Greyson's History class...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Discovering that he has wakened as a female, two roommates try to reverse a spell that has left them as husband and wife.

...Might Get It

By Gunslinger

Mumbling incoherently through a wide yawn, Lee rose from the futon and stumbled across the laundry-strewn floor. Scratching the scalp that lay beneath the thick, honey-blonde mane of sleep-tousled hair, Lee staggered past the house-trailer's small kitchenette to the door of the equally cramped bathroom. Bothering with neither light-switch nor door, the barely-awake blonde walked over to the toilet, one hand lifting the hem of the baggy red-and-black team jersey that hung nearly to mid-thigh...

The shrilly hysterical scream shattered the morning calm like the wail of an air-raid siren.

"Whazza...!" Gary blurted as he burst from the door to the bedroom, his near incoherence distracting from an otherwise commendable reaction time.

The banshee-like wail sounded a second time, and the dark-haired young man's head whipped sharply to the left, instinctively seeking the source of that nerve-wracking sound even as his brain struggled to clear itself of the lingering veil of sleep.

Sure his sleep-befuddled mind was playing tricks on him, the goateed young man brought his fisted hands up and rubbed sleepily at his eyes, then lowered them and peered once more into the bathroom.

"If you don't mind me asking..." Gary said, dryly, one thick eyebrow rising sarcastically. "Who are you, what are you doing in my house, and finally: What's all the fuss about, miss?"

Smacking one hand suddenly against his forehead, Gary held out the other in a gesture to forestall any answer.

"Never mind - the answer to the most important question just became obvious." Gary said. With a sigh, he turned his head towards the front of the trailer.

"Oh, Leeeee....!" He caroled in resignation. "I assume this young... lady... is your guest. Why don't you come see what's ailing her, so I can get back to bed..."

"Gary..." A ragged contralto voice, riding the broken edge of hysteria, drew the dark-haired young man's attention back to the tall, buxom woman in the bathroom.

"Gary..." She repeated, nearly sobbing. "It's me, Gary - Lee! I'm Lee!" "What the hell are you..." Gary started, irritably...

...then, as he found himself taking a longer, harder look at the woman in the bathroom, his eyes widened and his voice died away. He grunted, explosively, as if from a solid hit to the solar plexus.

Though shorter than Lee's six-three height, she was tall for a woman - just as Lee was tall for a man.

Though her figure was emphatically feminine, it was the feminine version of that same lean, well-toned athletic build of Gary's roommate.

Her hair, though longer and thicker, was the same shade of honey-blonde, and her shock-widened eyes that same faded denim blue.

If you were of a mind to compare, the quite awesomely impressive bust filling out Lee's beloved team jersey was probably exactly as overstated as Lee's own oversized manhood.

It was when he caught sight of the small, crescent-shaped scar nearly hidden in the hair at her left temple that Gary felt his sanity take a sharp side-step to the right, however.

"Luh..." Gary rasped, throat suddenly dry. "Luh... Luh..."

Swallowing thickly, Gary finally managed to force the name out - two octaves higher than usual: "Lee?" "What the hell happened to me, Gary?" The bodacious buxom blonde demanded, tearfully...

...and then, to Gary's shock, she collapsed into his arm, sobbing into his shoulder.

Having just (barely) accepted the seemingly impossible fact that his tall, busty blonde was, indeed, somehow his best friend Lee, Gary was saved from having to decide how to handle having her warm and emphatically feminine body pressed against his by a sudden pounding on the aluminum-sheathed door of the trailer.

Awkwardly, Gary guided his somehow suddenly feminine friend to one of the battered vinyl-covered chairs at the small table opposite the kitchenette, then took the three steps necessary to reach the trailer's door.

He opened to the door - to reveal the deeply-lined ebony face of their neighbor, Ezekiel Washington. A spare, slightly hunched black man in his mid-sixties, Mr. Washington was a fixture in the trailer park.

"I heard Leanne a'screaming." Mr. Washington said. Dark eyes filled with concern. "Is she awright, Gary?" "Lee...anne?" Gary repeated, feeling like a boxer who'd taken one punch too many.

"Yeah, Leanne." Mr. Washington repeated, a bit of irritation creeping into his voice as he tried, in vain, to peer around Gary's body into the interior of the trailer. In a distracted voice, he added: "You know - yo' wife?"

"Wife...?" Gary squeaked...

...and then, at the sound of a 'thud', turned to find Lee/Leanne sprawled out on the floor, out cold.

* * * * *

When Lee's eyes fluttered opened, the sight of the familiar ceiling over the futon prompted the relieved thought that it had all been a dream...

...and then a quick glance downwards quickly disabused her of that notion. She wailed.

"Okay, Lee, I'm here." Gary said, quickly appearing beside the futon. "It's okay, Lee."

"It's not okay!" She replied, hands hesitantly rising to touch the massive, firm breasts straining at her jersey.; "I'm a frickin' girl, Gary!"

"Bad choice of words..." Gary admitted, ruefully. "What I mean is, whatever body you happen to have right now, it's not physically damaged. You're not dying or anything, okay? So, the best thing to do is not panic, so we can try and figure out how to get you back to normal - right? So... just take it easy."

"You wake up to find yourself turned into a chick with huge tits, and we'll see how 'easy' you take it!" Lee snapped back, pushing herself into a seated position - which caused her huge, firm tits to settle lower on her chest, causing her to gasp at the strange - and not completely unpleasant - sensation.

"What the hell is going on?" She asked the universe at large - but, as thoroughly depressed as her tone was, at least it no longer held the sharp edge of hysteria.

Then a memory came to the forefront of her mind - and she stared at Gary accusingly. "Why did Mr. Washington say I was your wife?" She demanded, angrily.

"Well, uh..." Gary said, an odd expression coming over his face.

"What?" Lee demanded, trying to ignore the 'subtle' - yet still radically different - sensations that came with even the smallest movement of her new body.

Gary swallowed heavily, and then picked up a few items he'd placed beside the bed.

"You've been unconscious for over half an hour.." He explained, by way of preamble. "After I got rid of Mr. Washington, I did some, uh.. investigating, I guess. Now, brace yourself..."

He handed Lee the items he'd been holding, and she took them. At first, her unhappy gaze was focused on the slender, undeniably feminine hands she stretched out to accept the items - and then her eyes caught what she was holding, and the world went gray and watery at the edges.

"Who - easy there!" Gary said, reaching out a hand to steady her as she swayed...

...and then he blinked, mouth working, as Lee leaned into the outstretched hand, sliding down it until she was leaning against Gary's chest, his arm around her shoulders.

Her gaze intent on the items in her slender hands, she didn't even seem to notice the position she'd almost instinctively taken. "I.. don't understand..." She said, staring wide-eyed at the photo.

A photo showing Gary in his best suit, standing on the steps of a small church, his arm around 'Leanne', who was dressed in a simple white dress.

A wedding photo - which went well with the marriage license she'd also been handed.

Which would account for the fact that Gary's last name was matched up with 'Leanne' on the driver's license Gary handed her - the one that showed her feminine face in the typically bad photo.

"How could..." Lee started to ask, looking up at Gary - and realized the way she was 'cuddled up' into his protective embrace. ""What the fuck...!" She shouted, pulling sharply away from him. "Gary, what the fuck are you doing!"

"It wasn't me!" Gary protested, blushing brightly. "You did it!"

"I did not..." She started to deny, angrily - and then stopped, her face going pale, as her mind went back and replayed the past few minutes over again.

"Oh, shit - I did." She gasped. "I mean, I was feeling scared and upset and you reached out to steady me - and, I mean... I didn't even think about it. It just seemed so natural, and..."

She broke off suddenly, her pale face suddenly going red.

"And what?" Gary asked, frowning in puzzlement.

"Never mind." Lee replied, shortly - still wondering why the hell '...and it felt so nice!' almost popped out of her mouth. Worse - why it was true...

"How the hell could this have happened?" Lee demanded, wincing at the higher-pitched and undeniably feminine voice the question emerged in.

"I don't know - but we'll find out." Gary hurriedly assured her. "I mean, there has to be some reason for this, even if it isn't a 'logical' one, as we'd understand it. There has to be some sort of 'cause' for this 'effect'. So, let's start with the basics. Last night..."

Gary broke off, and odd look crossing his face.

"Lee - what do you remember of last night?" He asked, slowly. Confused, the new woman wrinkled her smooth brow - and blinked.

"Why - nothing!" She exclaimed. "We were getting ready to go out just after dinner, say about six... and then I woke up as a woman!"

"Same here." Gary agreed. "So, whatever caused this to happen occurred sometime during those missing hours. C'mon, Lee - get up and get dressed. We're going to try and track down what we did last night."

"Wait - you mean..." She stopped, blushing. "What?" Gary prompted.

"I.. have to go outside - like this?" She asked, gesturing at her top-heavy feminine form. "If you want to stop looking like 'this', you'll have to." Gary pointed out.

"Yeah. I guess so..." Lee admitted, not liking the thought. "Okay..."

In retrospect, it should have been obvious. After all, if other belongings - like the wedding photo - had come into existence to match their new 'situation', then Lee should have been expecting it. Perhaps it was the team jersey that threw her, however - but it didn't take long for them to determine that all of the 'Lee' clothing was now 'Leanne' clothing.

"I can't wear any of this!" She exclaimed, horrified and disgusted.

In fact, to Gary's eyes, too disgusted, since some of the clothing, while definitely women's clothing, wasn't too 'girly'.

Of course, Gary had no way of knowing that the bulk of Lee's reaction came from the fact that, at the sight of some of the more feminine articles of clothing, her very first thought had been: "God, I'd look really hot in this!"

"All right, get out." Lee sighed. "I'll pick something out and get dressed."

"I'll go start the car..." Gary agreed, beating a tactical retreat out the door, to leave Lee to get changed.

Confusion and fright masquerading as anger, the unwillingly womanly Lee peeled off the team jersey - at least for the moment, since she planned on putting it back on once she'd put on her undergarments.

Which, unfortunately, included a bra.

She would have preferred not to wear such a feminine garment - and what really bothered her was the fact that her mind was split over the reason for that. In the end, though, simple comfort won out - for her bust was large enough to require such support.

So, with a grimace, she pulled on a simple off-white bra and the matching panties - and it never even occurred to her that, for the first time pulling a bra onto an over-sized pair of round, firm breasts, she had a remarkably easy time of it.

Likewise, after having pulled on a pair of nearly skin-tight jeans that seemed to be about the only pants 'Leanne' owned, when she stepped into a pair of strap-style sandals with three-inch cylindrical heels, she grimaced over having to wear them - but didn't think to question the fact that's he could wear them.

She then pulled on her shirt, grabbed her purse, and headed for the door...

...without consciously noting the fact that, rather than the baggy jersey she'd planned on wearing, she'd pulled on a white camisole top that hugged her spectacular new bust-line rather tightly.

She would have become aware of that fact had Gary made a (quite truthful) comment about how hot she looked in the outfit she'd 'chosen' - but, highly uncomfortable with the fact that he was finding his unwillingly feminized friend quite sexually attractive, Gary quite firmly kept silent about her choice in wardrobe.

She slipped into the car - with a decidedly feminine grace that she didn't notice, and Gary choose not to mention. "Okay..." Gary said, clearing his throat awkwardly. "We were planning to head down to the bar - so let's start there." "Sounds good." Lee agreed, unconsciously 'priming' her hair into a rough sort of order.

Again, Gary noticed the feminine behavior - and again, he decided not to comment on it. It would only make the both of them more uncomfortable than they already were...

Starting the car, Gary put it into gear, and started retracing their steps of the night before.

* * * * *

"Well..." Gary said, opening the door and sliding into the driver's seat. "Marcie said we were talking about trying that fair..." His voice trailed off, and his eyes widened in shock as he stared at Lee.

"What... are you doing...?" He stammered.

"Ah... han'... hew... hysel!" Lee replied, desperately.

The words were mangled by the fact that Lee's full lips were 'puckered' as she applied the glossy pink lipstick to them, but Gary managed to decipher them: 'I can't help myself!'

An explanation that probably explained the mascara, eye-shadow, and blush, too...

"Oh, this isn't good..." Gary said - an ironic statement, since what wasn't good was how good it made her look.

"Hold on, buddy - and pray that the answer's at the fair ground!" Gary said, dropping the car into gear and peeling out of the parking lot.

Twenty minutes of near-suicidal driving later, he pulled up at the fairgrounds.

Some of the dangerous driving came from the fact that he was in a hurry to get there - but more of it came from the way lee had begun rubbing her lush new body against his, a look of horror on her face as she'd helplessly come on to her 'husband'.

"Hurry, Gary!" She gasped, helplessly pressing her huge new boobs against his arm. "I.. I can't hold out much longer!"

"Stay here!" Gary said, hopping out of the car - and blushing brightly as his standing erect revealed that he was... well, standing erect.

Though his mind was still a blank regarding the night before, he began wandering around the fairgrounds, hoping to figure out what he and Lee might have been doing the night before - a couple of twenty-something guys with a few stiff drinks in them, at the county fair.

The place was almost eerie in the daylight. Having bribed a 'carnie' five bucks to let him in the gate, Gary was wandering through a fair that had lost whatever glamour night would have lent it, peopled only by the crew who ran and maintained the rides, games and attractions.

Aware that there was an unseen clock ticking, Gary wandered almost aimlessly, hoping something would catch his eye...
...and something did.

It was an old mechanical fortune-telling machine, looking kind of like a popcorn cart with a disembodied 'old gypsy woman' torso and head inside.

Gary licked his lips, faint memories stirring....

Somehow, they'd gotten on the topic of 'marriage'. They'd been arguing what might induce two 'confirmed bachelors' such as themselves to actually get married, with Lee's 'requirements' by far the most outlandish. Gary had made some sort of questioning comment along the lines of 'How likely is that. ?' - and, upon spotting the fortune-telling machine, Lee had suggested they ask.

Just as Lee had the night before, Gary approached the fortune-telling machine, digging into a pocket and coming out with a quarter. Like Lee the night before, Gary slipped the quarter into the slot.

Last night, Lee had asked what it would take for him to be married - and had received a card he'd read aloud.

Gary now recalled laughing along with Lee over the card - because it was obviously ridiculous. Sure, by some strange fluke of luck, the response did relate to marriage - but since it was obviously aimed towards a woman, they'd laughed and tossed the card aside...

Now, nervously aware of some occult power at work within the somewhat creepy-looking machine, Gary cleared his throat and asked the reciprocal question:

"What would it take for my friend Lee to become a guy again?"

The wait seemed interminable, a minute stretching out to a century - then the machine hummed, clanked and rattled, finally ending with a 'ping!' as a small, pasteboard card dropped into a slot.

Hesitantly, Gary picked up the card and silently read what was written upon it...

Feeling numb, Gary slowly made his way back to the car, opened the door, and climbed inside.

"Well?" Lee demanded, desperately, as she pushed herself against him. "What happened? What did you find? What have you got there?"

Gary looked down at the card.

"It's a card from a fortune-telling machine." He replied. "You got one like it last night and read it aloud - and it's 'ridiculous' fortune came to pass."

"How...?" Lee began to ask. and then, as her hands helplessly began stroking Gary's denim-clad thigh,. Decided it wasn't important.

"Did you ask for a fortune that would make me a man again?" "Yes." Gary replied, woodenly. "Yes, I did."

Helplessly, Leanne licked her pink-glossed lips, eyes wide and dazed as she watched her fingers grasp the fly of Gary's jeans.

"Please..." She gasped, breathing heavily for a variety of reasons, none of them 'good'. "Please, Gary - I'm losing control! Read the card! Change me back!"

As Leanne's slender fingers slowly, almost teasingly unzipped his pants, Gary looked at the little pasteboard card the fortune-telling machine had spit out - a card with a whole new 'future' on it, one that would return the ever-more 'Leanne' back to 'good old Lee'.

"Hurry, Gary darling!" Leanne implored, her hands sensuously freeing Gary's rapidly hardening manhood from the confines of his underwear. Slowly, she began to lean forward. "Please, Gary - I... I can't stop myself!"

Gary re-read the words on the card, his fortune - and licked his lips.

"Gary! Now!" Leanne begged, her voice somewhat distorted by her lips trying to form an 'O' shape as she pulled her head ever closer to his now-rampant manhood. "If I do this, it'll be too late - and I can stop myself! Read the card Gary!"

The card.

The revised-future card, where Leanne would once again be Lee...

...and Gary would become Carrie.

"Sorry, buddy..." Gary said, softly. "Better you than me..." "What..?" She gasped, horrified. "What do you... umph!"

Helpless to stop herself from performing the duties specified for 'the wife', she closed her lips around Gary's hard cock, and began to give her very first blow-job.

"Mmmmph!" She grunted in horror, disgust, and shock.

Slowly, her jerky movements began to smooth, her horrified expression began to soften. "Mmmpf..." She repeated, lest emphatically - and with something like surprised pleasure.

"Oh, God, Leanne... yeah..." Gary moaned, the last little bit of guilt buried under the self-rationalization that if one of them had to be sucking the other's cock, he wanted to be on the receiving end.

"Mmmm..." Leanne agreed, a look of contented bliss coming over her face.

A look marred momentarily when she opened her eyes, reveling them to be filled with a depthless, inexpressible horror.

Then, with a helpless sigh of pleasure, Leanne's horror-filled eyes slid closed, and she 'happily' went on with her wifely duty of pleasuring her man...

...while Gary methodically tore up the card, then leaned back to enjoy it.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A businessman and his associate find themselves trading places after they encounter mysterious bellboy at their hotel.

The Mile

By Gunslinger

"What? There must be some mistake!"

The desk clerk recoiled slightly at the tone of the man's voice. "I'm sorry Mr. Deitrich - there was a mistake, in that only one room was reserved - but I'm afraid that it's the simple truth when I say there's no other room available in this hotel - or the whole city. Your Tech Show made the mistake of picking the same week-end as the local fair - there isn't a room to be had for miles."

The man closed his eyes and took a deep breath. "Look - you have to find something - there's simply no way that her and I are sharing a room."

The woman agreed. "Damned right - can you call around and find somewhere else - anywhere else? A boarding house - or maybe a kennel. That would be perfect for..." She cut herself off without completing the decidedly unkind remark.

Personally, the desk-clerk couldn't figure out what all the hullabaloo was about. These two must have some sort of past history to object so strongly to sharing a room - and if they hated each other that much, their company must have been really desperate to pair them together.

The man - a Mister Mark Deitrich, according to his Credit Card, was a handsome young man, with dark hair and an athletic figure. The clerk didn't go that way, but he could see that this Mark Deitrich was extremely handsome. After all, the not-to-shabby looking clerk had had a few women stolen from him at bars by guys like this. No - stolen wasn't the right word. These guys never broke in on the woman he was hitting on - the women just found guys like Deitrich so damned attractive that they stopped paying attention to him and wandered over of their own free will, hoping to catch Deitrich's attention.

And the woman...!

She must have had an interesting genetic heritage she was a Mulatto, one of those black women with enough European stock in her background to make her skin an incredible shade of coffee-and-cream, a rich, tawny color that was close to cinnamon. She had a figure that wade the clerk's eyes want to pop out of their sockets - and was also stunningly beautiful besides, with remarkable full, mobile lips, huge, glorious dark eyes, and a long, curly mane of auburn hair that was so rich and vibrant that it could only be that way without the aid of tint or curler.

So here were to physically stunning people, a remarkably handsome man and a stunning gorgeous woman - and they were objecting, vehemently, having to share a room?

Go figure.

While the clerk was mentally shaking his head, the two business people were continuing their argument heatedly.

"Oh, and I'm the one who should have to find another room - or kennel?" Mark was saying, angrily. "In case you forget, Anita - I'm the one who has the credit line."

The gorgeous woman's lips curled in a still-beautiful sneer. "Perhaps - but the reservation's in my name. Besides, it's my project we're here to pitch - you're just here for the financial side."

"just?" the man said, incredulously. "I don't care how good your little pet project is - if I don't get the investors to actually sign the checks, you don't get to build it." He turned back to the clerk. "Well - anything at all? Anywhere?"

The clerk shrugged apologetically. "Look - it's so busy right now, the RV dealership down the road is renting their vehicles as rooms for the weekend - at two hundred dollars a night. They might have one left - but I doubt it." He picked up the phone. "I can call if you'd like."

Anita's lips compressed. "Thank you, but no - we can't afford both the room and the RV, even if one was available." She directed those dark, glorious eyes toward the dark-haired man. "I guess we'll just have to bear it."

Mark's eyes narrowed - then he shrugged in defeat. "Yeah - as much as I hate to admit it, you're right." He turned to the clerk. "We'll take the room."

"Good. If you want to go over to the luggage racks against the west wall.." He pointed through the throng filling the lobby "I'll send a bell-boy over with the key to take you to your room. Have a nice stay."

The clerk watched them wander away, still arguing, and was glad to get rid of the argument, but felt a pang of regret as the woman vanished from view. He rang the bell for the bellboy - and winced when he saw who was 'front'. Murphy Strikes Again, the clerk thought to himself, as he dropped the key into the bellboy's hand.

* * * * *

"You want I should take your bags up now?"

Mark and Anita broke off arguing to face, incredulous, the owner of the cracked, whispery voice.

The bell-'boy' had to be at least fifty - a small, wrinkled man whose pattern of wrinkles indicated that the smile he wore was a constant fixture. Small and rangy, the man had a thick head of curly, graying hair and a nose that rose proudly from his face like the prow of a ship breaking through a wave. His uniform, although pressed, starched and spotless, still somehow managed to look wrinkled on his bandy frame.

"Uh... we can get it." Anita said, looking at their luggage, then over at the old man.

"Ah, no - and then what would I be doing here at all? Carrying the little key?" The man said, still smiling. "People - they get paid for all kinds of silly jobs these days, but 'key-carrier'?"

Before either Anita or Mark could object, the bandy little man started collecting the luggage - surprisingly, he did so without any sign of strain. He must be in a lot better shape than he looked, Mark thought.

"So, if you follow me, we can go." The man said, arms weighted down. "Of course, if you don't want to, we can just stand here - that's good to." He winked at Anita cheerfully. "Paid by the hour, either way, that's how it works here."

The two colleagues followed the remarkable man towards the elevator, their joint enmity forgotten - at least for a moment - in the bellboy's cheerful manner. He kept up a constant stream of chatter about the people he passed as they crossed the lobby and reached the elevator.

As the door to the elevator closed, the bellboy - 'Melvin is what my mother - God Rest her soul - gave me as a name, but Mel works just fine, too.' - managed to hit the button for the right floor, despite his arms full of luggage. "So - I heard you at the front desk - such an argument over one little room!" He cocked his head modestly. "Arguments - give you ulcers, and don't solve any problems no how. Me

- I just avoid them altogether." He cocked a head at Mark and Anita. "What's so bad about sharing a room that you should get so worked up about?"

Anita and Mark shared a quick, narrow glance at each other, wondering how to other would respond to that. "We just.. have different personalities." Anita finally said, diplomatically.

Mel laughed. "And a goof thing too - imagine what it would be like if everyone was exactly the same?" He winked. "Put the psychiatrists out of business real fast, I tell you. Either everyone would be sane, and not need them - or we'd all be crazy, and not want them."

"Yeah well..." Mark said, trying to phrase it right. "I guess you could say that we're a little farther apart in personalities than most." He glanced over at Anita.

Mel shrugged. "You know that old saying about 'walking a mile in someone else's shoes'? Perhaps you just don't try looking at things from each other's perspective enough."

Anita snorted. "That's because I couldn't imaging thinking like he does. My mind isn't nearly warped enough to think like that."

Mark sneered. "You mean that you're so damned sure you're right all the time that you can't even conceive of looking at somebody else's view." He 'confided' to Mel "I'd be willing to try seeing her viewpoint - but I can't force myself to be arrogant enough."

"What?" Anita blurted, incredulous. "You're the most egotistical..."

"Oy - and my ears are burning already." Mel said. "I get the idea - you're too far apart to see the other's side. Right - got it." He smiled cheerfully, revealing that he wasn't offended or upset. "I tell you what - maybe I can help."

Mark's eyebrow rose. "Oh?"

Mel nodded. "Yes - You two, you sleep on it tonight. I think tomorrow, you might find it easier to talk to each other about things." The elevator doors opened, and Mark and Anita trailed Mel to the room.

"I don't think sleeping on it will help much." Anita said, kindly.

Mel smiled mysteriously as he dropped the bags in the room. "Oh - night can be magical. Many things that you don't believe can happen, usually about midnight. You'll see - I'm sure that you'll have a completely different perspective on things in the morning."

Then he accepted the large tip that Mark was holding out, sketched a salute, and wandered back down the hallway, whistling to himself.

* * * * *

Even as the short, strangled scream yanked him awake, Mark knew something was wrong.

Part of it was the way he felt - strange weights and balances and sensations vying for the attention of a brain that wasn't fully awake enough to comprehend the significance of them yet. But the first thing that let him know that something was wrong was the fact he was having to sit up - last night, after an argument, Anita had 'won' the bed, leaving Mark to pull the room's two chairs together to sleep on.

He should already be sitting, not laying down.

But he was sitting. He was sitting up in the two chairs, his hair mussed from sleep and his clothing wrinkled. He was staring down at his body with a look of amazed disbelief, intermingled with horror.

The only problem was, Mark was watching himself do this from across the room. Almost instinctively, he looked down - and all the strange sensations he was feeling became suddenly, absolutely clear.

Because he was looking down at the cleavage revealed by the nightgown he wore. Cleavage from a pair of large, firm, tawny breasts that he'd never seen even this much of before - not bare anyway. And he had certainly never seen them from this angle. Incredulous, he lifted his arms...

...no, he lifted Anita's arms. The long, golden arms with their slender, feminine shape tipped by graceful hands tipped with long nails. Anita's hands, yet he was moving them.

Only, if he was in Anita's body... then 'he' wasn't a 'he' anymore. Anita was about as feminine as you could get, physically, and regardless of what Mark's mind considered itself, there was no denying that the body that contained it most definitely made her a 'she'. She stared, incredulous, as the way the smooth hands moved with the whim of her mind, just like her old, male body had done - as easily and effortlessly as ever, despite the fact that this wasn't the body it was used to controlling.

Looking up, Mark spotted her old body experiencing a similar reaction, staring at his legs as he lifted them - with a slight grimace - from the second chair they'd rested on all night and set them flat against the floor.

"Anita?" Mark asked, hearing the question emerge in a full, rich, feminine contralto that sounded extremely strange. Not just because it was a feminine voice emerging when she spoke - but because it didn't sound like Anita's voice to her own ears.

"m... Mark?" Her old body, obviously inhabited by Anita, asked hesitantly. Again, her old voice sounded weird to Mark - she wasn't used to hearing herself as others heard her. "What the hell... I'm you!"

"Yeah - and I'm you." Mark said, gazing back down at the gentle swell of a perfect breast through the neckline of the nightgown. "It's completely impossible, yet somehow we're in each other's..."

She trailed off as something came to her. She snapped her fingers - and couldn't help but notice how it felt. Mostly the same, but yet subtly different, especially the softness of her fingers as they struck against each other.

"Mel!" She blurted, and Anita, in the male body, started. "What?"

"The bellboy!" Mark said, looking at her old body. "Last night, he said we should sleep on it - and that when we woke up, he was sure we'd have a different perspective on things." She pulled away the covers and gazed down at the dusky, perfect feminine legs revealed, and her full, soft lips curved in a wry smile. "Well - I'd have to say that this was a different perspective."

Anita nodded, and pushed himself out of the chair - and slammed down on the ground, hard. Startled, Mark swung the long, sexy legs he now had over the edge of the bed to go to Anita's aid...

...and promptly fell back on her new, absolutely spectacular ass. Realization set in - and she uttered a short barking laugh.

Anita, used to her weaker body, had pushed too hard when getting up, and fallen over. By the same token, Mark hadn't used enough strength to achieve her smaller, daintier feet. Although their bodies moved easily, as if they'd been in them their whole lives, conscious attempts to do things caused the body to react incorrectly, because they hadn't accounted for their different bodies in the habitual command they'd sent to their bodies.

"What's so damned funny?" Anita asked, crossly, climbing to his feet. He looked down at his male body with a grimace. "You think it's funny that we're somehow in each other's body?"

Mark opened her mouth to answer - and paused. "You know, this may sound weird, but... I don't know how I feel about it. I mean, my first response was shock, but then... well, it's too new of a situation. It's. "

Anita blinked in surprise, realizing that after the initial shock and horror, he was also at a loss to define exactly what he was feeling. For instance, he was still stunned, and somewhat scared - but also intrigued, and a little excited. It was a new situation, something completely outside his range of experience - but not fundamentally harmful or painful, physically. It was damned confusion, emotionally, and hard to deal with - but his mind seemed intact, despite it's relocation, and the body housing it was fit and healthy and strong - and completely different, allowing him to experience some things that he'd never imagined he'd have a chance to. It was a new, and basically exciting, experience - as long as he could hold firmly to the belief that it wasn't permanent.

"Okay - I can understand not knowing how to feel." Anita finally said, grudgingly. Then he snorted - his usual snort, but in Mark's voice with it's deep rumble. "God - you must be disgusted though. Not only female - but stuck in the body of a 'nigger bitch' like me."

Mark was stunned by the strength of the disgust and hurt in the comment. "What the hell is that supposed to mean?" She demanded in the rich female voice she had now.

Mark's body rolled it's eyes in a very un-Mark-like way. "Oh, come on - you don't think it's obvious that you're a racist rat-bastard? Hell, it's one of the major reason's I can't stand the sight of you. " He grinned wryly. "Which, right now, would only be a problem if I looked in the mirror."

Before Mark could respond that that unbelievable charge or racism, Anita grimaced. "Thanks to the drinks you had last night before going to sleep, I have to piss." He said, stiffly. "Not that I even want to touch... that. But. " He walked into the bathroom and, without closing the door, started to sit on the toilet - then stopped, sheepishly, and turned back around. He unzipped his fly and...

'God Lord! You're enormous...' Awe, confusion and amazement mingled in his voice. "I mean.. I'm... It's. God, I had no idea!"

As the sound of urine hitting porcelain commenced, Mark watched her old body piss, one hand around the semi-rigid cock that dwarfed it. "You have no idea how much of a nuisance being that well endowed actually is." Mark remarked - then grinned. "You will now."

Mark stood, judging the strength needed correctly this time. The motion caused the incredibly perfect DD-cup tits she now had to jiggle, and Mark shuddered slightly as new - and extremely enjoyable - sensations were produced by her engorged nipples moving against the cloth of the nightgown. She paused - then gently cupped her fabric covered tits and squeezed lightly.

"Oh - hey, this is nice..." She said, gently massaging her tits through the cloth. The sensations were. pleasant.

"Hey! Stop that!" Anita said. The voice held both exasperation, and embarrassment - although she didn't want it, the sight of his old body feeling itself up, a dreamy look on her face, was causing his new, massive equipment to go rigid.

"Sorry." Mark said, not too contritely. She pulled her hands away with a pang of regret. "It's just that... well, I've kind of wondered what these would feel like to fondle. Of course, I never expected to see what it felt like as the fondled as well as the fondler - you must like it when a guy does it to you... I didn't realize that tits were that sensitive."

Anita opened her mouth to reply - and from the look on his face, scathingly - when there was a knock on the door.

"Cover yourself up - I don't want however it is to gape at my body." Anita snapped, walking over to the door. Mark shrugged and pulled on one of the fluffy bathrobes provided as Anita opened the door.

A guy from room service wheeled a tray in, loaded down with a very expensive breakfast.

"Before you even say it, this was ordered and paid for by somebody else. Mel, actually - one of our bellboys." The gut said. "He said you'd want it delivered now - oh, and there's a note from him on the cart." He glanced over at Mark with an appreciative eye, causing Mark to stiffen - then relax. Hell, Mark would have done the same thing, if the positions were reversed.

"Enjoy." The guy said, and left. Mark shook her head - startled for a second by the feel of long hair brushing against her shoulders - and thought to herself that this was going to take some getting used to - instincts, like the mild homophobic one she'd just had when the guy had looked at her appreciatively, were ingrained, and hard to overcome.

Ignoring the food, Anita plucked the envelope from the table and opened it as Mark came over. Before he could even begin to read it, Mark plucked it from his fingers.

"Hey!"

Mark smiled. "You're the tall one now - I can't read over your shoulder."

"Oh - right. Well, hopefully that's about to change. Come on - what's it say?" Anita urged. Mark unfolded the piece of paper.

'My Feuding Friends.

Quite a shock, I think, no? Be calm - I wouldn't hurt even a little fly, much less two nice people like you. I've been around a very long time, and I can see that you are nice people, even if you can't see it in each other.

What I have done must last at least twenty-four hours. Midnight, to be exact - although it can last longer. Not shorter. Please, no swearing. I dislike blasphemy.

Don't think poorly of me - think of this as a gift. Not only to see each other for what you really are, but to see how the other half lives. Have fun - enjoy it. You'll find that there's no way to change back until at least midnight, and worrying and moaning only makes things seem the worse. If you can get in the right mind for it, it can be a fun experience for both of you. See what it's like from the other side of the fence - find out the answers to all those questions you've had.'

It was signed, of course, 'Mel'.

"Great - midnight." Anita said, crossly. "Have fun, he says. Sure - he's not the one who's going to have to give an important presentation stuck in the wrong body."

"Shit!" Mark swore - she'd forgotten about the presentation in all the new experience. He looked at the clock. "I'd forgotten - we're supposed to be there to present in just over an hour."

"We'd better get ready." Anita said. "You've got to get some make-up on, and..."

"Whoa, who..." Mark said, shaking her head. "No way - we'll have to reschedule. There's no way I can go out in public like this. And make-up? Uh-uh."

"Look, you - this presentation can't be rescheduled. Toshikuri flew in for this - you're just going to brush him off? No way." "But..."

He overrode her objection. "Look - I have to wear make-up every day - you can stand it once." He paused. "You need us to get this account as much as I do."

Mark sighed. "Yeah - you're right. So - what do we do?"

Anita smiled as he realized something. "Well - I get a shower, shave and get dressed. You get a shower, wash and dry your hair, shave your legs. "

Mark stifled a moan and rolled her eyes as the list continued to grow.

* * * * *

"Okay, you're legs look pretty good - no nicks I can see. I guess we can get you dressed." Mark sighed - Anita was enjoying this a little too much for her taste. Still, it had to be done.

"First - panties." Anita announced, rummaging through the luggage he'd packed when he was 'her'. He pulled out a pair of off-white silk briefs and handed them to her.

With a sigh, Mark pulled them on, sliding them up long, sexy legs that were considerably more than 'nice'. The fit taut over her firm, sexy ass and flat crotch - a decidedly unusual sensation. But6 nice - the smooth fabric against equally smooth skin was definitely nice.

Next, Anita helped her with the bra, closing it over the perfectly shaped DD-cup breasts thrust so proudly from her chest. Mark had plenty of experience removing the garment, but Anita's help was necessary to get it on - Mark just wasn't used to contorting to put on a bra. As it tightened, a deliciously new sensation ran through her breasts as the soft fabric pulled snug against her swollen nipples.

Then came the nylons. Also beige, Mark was very careful - after being warned by Anita - not to put one of her long nails through the silky fabric as she bunched it up and slipped it onto her foot. She pulled the nylon on, and smoothed it out by sliding her hands up her smooth, sexy legs. She had to admit that it felt good, both to her hands, and to the legs themselves - she'd never realized how much more sensitive a woman's soft, smooth skin was.

She then repeated the process with the second nylon before she pulled on a white silk blouse, beige skirt, and matching jacket. Then Mark made a face, sighed, and sat down to suffer the indignity of being made-up.

It wasn't as easy for Anita as she'd like - she wasn't used to apply her make-up on somebody else. But she still had a hell of a lot more experience than Mark, and she carefully applied a flawless, and tastefully understated, layer of make-up.

"How's that look?" Anita smirked at Mark. She looked in the mirror. "Wow - absolutely stunning - as usual." Mark replied.

The answer took Anita aback. "You seem to take wearing make-up pretty easily."

"Not really - you have no idea how weird it feels. But I can still appreciate that it does really enhance how a woman looks - even if I'm the one who's being 'enhanced'."

Anita shrugged, still surprised by Mark's composure - she'd kind of expected a man stuck in a woman's body to become a raving wreck.

Next, he helped her put on some tasteful jewelry, then Mark stepped into a pair of cream-colored leather pumps with a two-and-a-half inch heel. She found that she could balance easily in the heels, as it was the body's motor reflexes that kept the balance - and this body had plenty of experience in heels.

Then it was time to head over for the meeting. They quickly grabbed all their charts and headed to the elevator. A few minutes later, the doors slid open, and Anita - secretly enjoying the easy strength of the masculine body - strode confidently out of the elevator...

..and realized that Mark hadn't followed him into the crowded lobby. He turned - and found Mark practically cowering inside the elevator, staring wide-eyed at the throngs of people.

"Well - what's the problem?" Anita snapped.

Mark cleared her throat and forced herself to fall in beside Anita, looking around nervously. "I know it's ridiculous, but my subconscious keeps insisting that if I'm walking around in public in women's clothes and make-up, people are going to start to laugh and call me a freak. I know, consciously, that that's not going to happen - hell, I'm a gorgeous woman under these clothes and make-up - but that doesn't make the fear go away."

The 'gorgeous woman' surprised Anita - but she refused to soften her anger and disgust at Mark. "Yeah, well, they are going to laugh if you don't stop trying to walk like a man. You balance fine in the heels - but your stride's all wrong."

Mark glanced down at the shapely legs perched atop the heels - then looked up with a wry grin. "Tell you what - I'll make my stride more feminine if you make your less."

Anita, startled, realized that he'd been walking with a sort of muscular grace. Not the old walk, exactly, that he'd used in his female body, but not particularly masculine. He nodded, and adopted a more masculine stride - and mentally smirked at Mark's stride. She was overdoing it a bit - she was walking with a more feminine stride than Anita usually used when he'd been in that body and on business. He called it his 'off-duty' walk, because during business hours he'd tried to present a more 'business-like' facade, including a prim, no-nonsense stride.

Regardless of the outcome, this was going to be a very interesting meeting...

* * * * *

Face burning, Mark - 'Anita Haley' to those in the boardroom - to the bathroom break with great relief.

Mark hadn't believed how hard it was to 'play the woman' - it wasn't really any of the big things, either. The hardest part, of course, was to look confident and competent. She'd been awkward and nervous from the get-go, especially whenever she had started to pace out of habit - the feel of air moving over her nyloned legs, the sensation of her breasts moving with each step, the way her crotch had felt... all were constant reminders of the role she was playing.

But even worse were all the little things a woman learned about how to behave in public that Mark didn't know. For God's sake - she'd just given the head of Taknamuri Electronics an eyeful when she'd leaned over the table to make a strong point about their project!

Feeling ridiculous, Mark went into a stall and hiked up her skirt. Dropping her silk panties, she sat on the toilet and let the urine flow. Even such a simple act was so different as a woman it was disconcerting.

Finishing, Mark stood and took a couple of squares of toilet paper. She quickly and efficiently wiped her crotch...

And shuddered with the sensation it produced. Her brow furrowing in amazement, she let the squares of paper flutter into the toilet - then hesitantly pressed her hand over her mons and slid it downwards.

Again, she shuddered at the all-too-pleasant sensation that was produced at her touch. Closing her eyes, she found herself sliding her hand slowly up and down, applying pressure to her crotch.

She knew she should stop - but it felt so good. Even as she tried to command herself to pull her hand away, she found herself folding her other fingers back, and inserting her index finger into her rapidly dampening crotch.

She gasped lightly as her finger brushed her clit. Feeling excited and embarrassed and aroused, she began to manipulate her finger in her cunt, gasping at the sensation provided from the highly sensitive nub of flesh. Her strokes became harder, more insistent, as she found herself masturbating uncontrollably in the public bathroom of an office building.

Then the orgasm hit. It wasn't a particularly strong one - but Mark didn't know that, not having any other female orgasms to gauge it against. All she knew was that a sharp, sudden blast of pleasure rocked her body, and she had to bite her full, soft lower lip to keep from screaming out loud.

Embarrassed, Mark wiped away the excess moisture in her crotch and flush the toilet. Rearranging her clothing, she washed her hands and headed for the door, face burning even more. She wondered what Anita would say if he'd known...

* * * * *

Anita stood in front of the urinal in the empty men's room, shaking the last of the piss from the massive cock he now had. As he did so, he was thinking about Mark's antics in the boardroom - and how good she'd looked. As her, Anita had never noticed before just how damned sexy he'd been as a woman. The long, sexy legs, amazingly trim waist and firm, full ass. The firm, round tits, the large, dark eyes, the full, sexy lips...

"Oh... shit!" Anita swore, staring down. Caught up in his reverie, he'd continued to shake his cock. The touch, and the thoughts, had resulted in a massive, raging hard-on.

His new cock was easily sixteen inches long, fully erect, and proportionately thicker than average. With this raging hard-on, there was no way he could just shove his cock back into his pants and get away with it.

"What the hell am I going to do?" he asked himself - the others would be waiting for him.

Swallowing, he realized there was only one thing he could do. Hesitantly, he wrapped both hands around the warm, throbbing shaft of his massive cock - and began to jerk off.

She'd never realized just how different this would feel. Instead of the sharp, internal sensation that was stronger - and yet, somehow more diffused - this pleasure was concentrated in one 'small' part of his anatomy. Anita's pumping motion increased in vigor as he braced his muscular legs and threw his head back. The sensation kept building and building, completely unlike that of a woman's rising pleasure...

...then he came.

Anita had never experienced anything to compare with the incredible rush. It wasn't as sharply, erotically orgasmic as masturbating as a woman - especially since he hadn't been stimulating the head of the cock - with the emotional 'rush', the satisfaction of releasing the hydraulic pressure, was intense as his cock jumped and spurted a long, thick stream of white jism into the urinal. For a second, it almost looked like he was pissing school glue.

Then it was over. Taking some toilet paper, he cleaned off the head of his massive, softening cock - and shuddered and gasped as the paper moved over the hyper-sensitive head of his cock.

Cleaned up, Anita tucked his new equipment back into his pants, face burning with embarrassment - and the memory of the sensation hanging in the back of his head.

* * * * *

They walked back into their suite, and Mark slumped onto the end of the bed, kicking off her shoes. She rubbed at her heels, musing that she'd never realized how painful high-heeled shoes could be to wear for long periods of time. Or bras, for that matter...

"God - what a fiasco." Mark said, shaking his head. "I think I just want to curl up and die of embarrassment."

Anita dropped onto the bed beside her. "Yeah - but we got the money, so it wasn't a complete loss. You did surprisingly well for a redneck imitating a black woman, Mark." He looked over at her. "I didn't thing a racist chauvinist like you could have it in you - I thought maybe you'd just kill yourself in horror."

Anita had been making those charges of racism all day long. Enough was enough. "Look, what's all this 'racist' stuff, anyway?" Mark asked, honestly confused, and worried by the obscure pain in Anita's voice.

"Blind or stupid?" Anita asked, angrily. "Huh?"

"Which one do you think the 'poor nigger girl' is, Mark?" He said, and the bitterness was palatable. "I come to work for Ross & Swain, and on the first day I meet this man. He'd incredibly handsome, and he'd obviously an intelligent, amusing guy - I see him chatting with the other women - the white women - in the office like an old friend, making jokes and being playful and fun and so... damned... perfect!" His face was twisted with pain and anger as he spoke. "So I'm smitten with him - but he is cool and proper when we first meet

- and so am I, because we're complete strangers. Then we start working together, and I get to like him even more. Hell, I start falling in love with the bastard. "

His voice nearly broke and he had to struggle through the emotions to continue. "...and it's like I don't even exist as a person. Oh, he'd not openly rude, not at first - but he's so damned cold towards me it's like living in the Arctic. I fall in love with a guy who can't see anything but the color of my... skin. "

Mark was stunned - she'd had no idea that this was how he'd viewed him the entire time. "My God... That's. that's why you've been so. " She stammered, shocked.

"...much of a bitch around you?" Anita finished, bitterly. "That's right - I'm supposed to be sweetness and light for the guy who stomped on my heart just because I'm black."

Mark slumped deeper on the bed, stunned. "But, Anita... that's not..." She said, shaking her head in disbelief. She turned and gripped her old body around the arms, locking her eyes directly on the blue ones that used to be hers.

"Listen to me." She said, firmly yet compassionately. "I am not racist. I had no idea that you thought that I was... I never even realized that you felt that way about me." She took a deep breath. "Anita - I have always thought that you were an amazingly beautiful, intelligent person. I couldn't understand why you started being so... you know. I really, really enjoyed your company those three weeks at the start, before you became so bitter - and I didn't understand why."

Anita stared into his old face - and saw simple truth there. Stunned, he slumped slightly. "But... you were so cold... The other girls in the office..."

"Anita - I joked around with them like that - because I wasn't deeply attracted to any of them." "Wha.. what?"

Mark sighed. "Anita - I was - am - incredibly attracted to you. But I don't think having a relationship with a coworker is a good idea. I couldn't let myself be myself around you - I couldn't let myself fall in love with you, because I knew I wouldn't be able to control myself." She sighed again. "If I'd realized that there's been the slightest attraction the other way as well - I would have thrown everything away and fallen madly, passionately and helplessly in love with this gorgeous, intelligent woman who worked beside me every day."

She managed a weak grin. "When you first started acting bitter, it was actually a bit of a relief. Do you have any idea how hard it was for me not to give in to my urges? Not to lean closer when we were looking at the plans, and feel your body against me? Not to take a deep breath and smell your enticing fragrance when I was reading over your shoulder. Good God, Anita, that was why I never went on business lunches with you - and was why I was so upset when there was only one room here! Even now, I'm so damned attracted to you that I didn't trust myself to be alone with you."

Anita stared at the face of his female body, stunned into silence with the revelation that the person he'd fallen in love with didn't hate him

- but loved him so much that she'd had to hide it. Then Anita leaned forward and kissed Mark.

As his arms slid around her, Mark was at first too stunned to react to the lips pressed against her own- the situation was just so strange. Her she was, in the body of a woman, being kissed by a man.

Then she relaxed into the embrace, and began to respond. Regardless of who was in whose body, it felt damned good. She opened her mouth and let Anita's tongue slide in, even as she found herself reacting, physically, to the sensation of being held, her large, firm tits pressed firmly against a muscular chest.

She was rapidly becoming aroused.

Part of her was feeling intense guilt at the psuedohomoerotic situation - but it wasn't really homoerotic, because there was one man and one woman involved - and one man's mind, and one woman's mind. The fact that those minds resided in the wrong body at the moment was overshadowed by two factors.

The two personas were attracted to each other, emotionally, regardless of the body they were in.

And each body, regardless of the fact it wasn't their original one, was deriving physical pleasure from the situation.

Their kiss deepened, becoming more passionate. Hesitantly, Anita's hand moved to Mark's leg, then slowly began sliding up the smooth, nylon-glad leg> Anita found the sensation of soft skin under his hand to be intensely enjoyable - as enjoyable as Mark found to have the hand touching her. The hand slid higher and higher, the curved around the womanly contour of the hip to gently caress one firm, full buttock.

Despite the confused feeling the sensation caused, Mark moaned softly in the back of her throat and shifted her weight slightly to give Anita better access. After an eternity of physical and emotional pleasure - and subconscious turmoil - they broke the kiss.

"What... what are we doing?" Anita asked, huskily. His pants were bulging alarmingly over the rapidly swelling erection he was getting.

"I know..." Mark replied, just as huskily. Her nipples were tenting the fabric of her blouse, even through her bra, and a warmth was building in her crotch. "This is all so... strange... confusing..."

"Maybe..." Anita said, softly. "Maybe we should stop - think this through." He gently kissed the juncture of Mark's neck and shoulder. Mark closed her eyes. "Yes.. We should..." She kissed Anita on the lips. "...stop."

"Even if we weren't in each other's body..." Anita said, his fingers slowly unbuttoning Mark's silky blouse. "...this would be wrong - as coworkers."

"Um hmmm." Mark agreed laying one long, sexy leg over Anita's taut muscular one as her long-nailed fingers undid the buttons on his shirt. "Office romances usually..." She paused as Anita kissed her, hungrily. "...don't work out." She finished.

Removing the blouse, Anita's strong fingers unclasped the bra and pulled it away, revealing two large, perfect breasts tipped with dark, engorged nipples. "We shouldn't... God, those are gorgeous tits..."

"So I've noticed." Mark agreed, moaning softly as large, strong hands began to caress and fondle them with amazing ability. The owner of those hands knew exactly what felt the best, and used that knowledge effectively. "We should... of, a little harder... stop now."

Anita mumbled agreement - mumbled because his mouth was busy, licking, nibbling and sucking at the large, swollen nipples he'd once had.

Mark moaned softly and lay back on the bed. Without breaking contact with the nipple, Anita helped her slide her skirt off. Then he brought his mouth up and kissed her passionately as his hands caressed her sleek flank.

"We should... separate..." Anita said between the kisses, as Mark's hand cupped his taut buttock and drew him closer.

"Yeah..." Deftly, she unzipped the pants and pushed them down. Anita kicked them off. Mark rolled on top of him, her breasts pressed into him as she kissed him hungrily and he fondled her firm, sexy ass with a skillful touch.

Gently, Anita rolled her back, then pulled down her sopping wet panties while she did the same from him, letting his huge, throbbing cock spring free.

"This is all wrong." Anita said, sliding into a position between Mark's spread legs. The very distinct smell of an aroused woman reached his flaring nostrils.

"Yeah. Wrong." Mark agreed, breathing heavily. Her whole body seemed to thrum with passion, and she saw it reflected in Anita's eyes.

She also saw the same intense emotional attraction that she was feeling.

They paused there for a second, their ingrained revulsion of having sex with a person of the 'same' gender, as well as their hesitation at experiencing sex in the 'wrong' body battling against lust, and love, and excitement, and experimentation.

Then Mark sighed. "The hell with it." And bucked her hips.

Both of them cried out as the huge member slid into the wet, warm embrace of the cunt. It was, quite literally, a perfect fit - even as she caused the initial penetration, Mark found that Anita was thrusting downward - and the cock slid into her cunt all the way to the hilt.

It was as if they were made to fit together. The huge cock fit perfectly, filling her completely in length and depth without being too large. But Mark's new cunt was just tight enough to grip the cock with a loving embrace.

For a long second they just remained like that, locked together at the loins, seeing the pleasure and acceptance of the situation in each other's eyes.

Then a miracle occurred.

By unspoken consent, their bodies began to move in an age-old rhythm. But the miracle came from having experienced sex in the other body - each knew exactly what the other body liked, and used that knowledge.

'Fucking' is pure, mindless, animalistic coupling to satisfy a need.

'Sex' is a selfish act - two people using each other, trying to get pleasure for themselves.

'Making Love' is the ultimate physical expression of affection, each partner trying to please the other.

Mark and Anita made love like nobody had ever made love before.

Each knew the other body's preferences and erogenous zones. Each was getting a crash course in their current body. And each was trying to ultimately satisfy the other.

With no words - no coherent words, at least - their bodies moved together, thrusting in perfect time, neither too fast or too slow. Intense new sensations rocked each person as they sought to prolong and height the other's pleasure.

Even as the incredible sensations ran through their body, they learned what being the other gender was like at an incredible rate. Anita knew why men so often skipped foreplay - the arousal could actually reach a point of near-physical pain, demanding release. Mark now understood why foreplay was so highly rated by women - added arousal was more fuel for an erotic fire, the erotic anticipation heightened the actual act when it came.

Anita, not wanting to miss making Mark orgasm, struggled to keep from going over the edge. Mark, knowing that 'teasing' was intensely pleasurable, helped by using her rhythm to brink him to the edge - then back down.

Mark was moaning almost constantly, her hair soaked with sweat as she was wracked by pleasure the likes of which she'd never felt. The huge cock that had once been hers was now hers again in a totally new way - and she was it's completely and utterly owned by it's vast, solid warmth that filled her, filling a void that she hadn't realized existed until now, fulfilling her.

Anita smoothly drove into his old body, amazed to find more enjoyment in pleasuring it than he'd ever had existing within it. The new power and strength that he possessed was only the tip of the iceberg - he was shocked to find that the feel of soft, feminine skin, firm breasts - a woman - under him was more intensely satisfying then the touch of any man he'd ever felt.

Just as Mark was discovering that the strong yet gentle embrace of a man was more erotic - more fulfilling - then even the most enjoyable encounter with a woman had ever been before.

Then, at the same instant, they came - and thought was washed away for both of them as intense pleasure swept through their bodies.

Anita was amazed at the intensity of the orgasm - unlike his masturbation, the head of his huge new cock was most definitely being stimulated.

Mark was amazed at the depth of her orgasm - unlike being male, the pleasure seemed to flow through her entire body, setting it on fire. She suddenly discovered one of the amazing secrets of womanhood - having an orgasm didn't actually release the arousal - it intensified it, while slowing it. She wanted to come again, more than ever - but was no longer in a hurry. Just... eager.

As the last of Anita's cum filled Mark's hot, wet cunt, the two lovers slumped into a less sexual, more affectionate embrace, kissing long and deep, but not as hard.

"God... I can't believe I just had sex with a man.." Mark breathed, cupping one cinnamon hand over the hand that was cupping her tawny breast. "But - I want to do it again." Her full, soft lips curled in a warm smile. "The great thing is - I'm positive you know exactly what I mean."

Anita ran his other hand along her sleek, sweaty abdomen. "Yeah. Somehow - it's so... satisfying to know that you understand exactly what I'm feeling right now - because you've been there before."

Mark nodded. "But, that leaves the big question. In two hours, Mel is going to come to change us back. What do we do?"

Anita sighed. "I guess... we change back, then we have an incredible relationship together. What we've learned today will only make it that much better."

Mark sighed. "I... I don't know quite how to say this... but I'm not sure I want to change back." Anita looked at her - and slowly smiled. "I... don't want to change back, either."

The looked at each other - then Mark took the leap. "So - we just - go on living the other's life, as a couple?"

Anita frowned slightly. "I... I don't think we could fool our co-workers and friends. They'd notice the differences in us. Not the least - the fact that us two mortal enemies are suddenly, madly, passionately in love."

"So - what do we do?"

Laying in each other's embrace, the two lovers discussed the future - a future that suddenly held more promise than either had ever dared to dream.

* * * * *

Jeffery Pelcher knocked on the door, and listened to the sound of footsteps inside.

The door swung open, reveling a tall, remarkably handsome man dressed in cut-off jean shorts and a 'wife-beater' shirt. Beneath a shaggy mane of almost hippy-ish black hair, an open, intelligent face smiled easily. "Can I help you?"

Jeff smiled back. "Actually, I just thought I'd introduce myself - I'm Jeff Pelcher - your knew neighbor. This is my wife, Debbie."

"Oh, right - you bought the Lewis place." The man said with an easy camaraderie, as if they were already old friends. He held out a strong, callused hand. "I'm Adam - Adam Smith. Why don't you come in?"

"Oh - we don't want to put you to any trouble." Debbie said.

"No trouble at all." Adam replied, easily. Debbie's estimate of the new neighbor instantly went up. An extremely busty woman, Debbie had accepted the quick glance he'd shot at her FFF-cup tits when he'd first opened the door. But when he actually spoke to her, his eyes were fixed on her face, not on the ample cleavage displayed by the t-shirt worn against the summer heat. "My wife would never forgive me if I didn't."

The two followed Adam through the house. "So what do you two do for a living?" Jef asked. He noticed that Adam moved with an interesting stride - powerful yet graceful, like... a lion or something.

"I'm a building contractor" Adam replied. "Used to be an... accountant."

Jeff blinked - from the brief pause, it was as if he was going to say something else. Before he could comment, Adam slid open the door to the backyard. "Honey, our new neighbors are here."

Jeff found himself gaping as the woman approached, and Debbie suddenly realized there might be a good reason that Adam didn't have a wandering eye.

The woman was absolutely stunning. The white bikini she wore showed every inch of her flawless figure and dusky skin. Her long, auburn hair was gracefully styled, even though she'd only been lounging beside the pool, reading. Her figure was perfectly toned without being muscular, and she had the slimmest waist Debbie had ever seen - which only emphasized the perfect shape of her large breasts on her toned, slender body. The woman moved with the most incredible feminine grace that Debbie had ever seen - like she was consciously aware of her own femininity every second, and every movement was a choreographed ballet of perfection.

The woman's incredible lips curved upward in a warm, genuine smile. "Hi - I'm Marcie." She said, her voice careful modulated, almost as if she were singing the words rather than speaking them. "I'm pleased to meet you."

"My God!" Jeff stammered, jaw hanging. "I.. I don't believe it!"

Adam laughed at Debbie's confused - and somewhat angry - look at her husband. "It's okay - My wife's a model. Your husband wasn't prepared to move in next to..."

"..Marcella DeBueno" Debbie said, startled, as she made the connection. Marcella DeBueno - the unknown Brazilian woman who'd become a supermodel almost overnight. "You mean - you live here?" Suddenly the incredible gracefulness and femininity of her movements became clear.

Marcie smiled warmly. "Everybody has to live somewhere."

Jeff looked around - the well decorated house, the carefully maintained lawn, and the two stunningly attractive people who owned them.

"Well - you've made quite a life for yourselves here - I can see why you didn't move into one of those 'posh' communities. Flashier - but somehow, not as real." Jeff commented.

"That's right." Marcie agreed. "We're the type of people who enjoy sitting around the pool with a couple of neighbors, drinking beer, rather than going to some Gala event."

"It's a rare thing to see somebody like yourself so down to Earth." Debbie commented.

This time, Marcie's smile was mysterious, and she shared an unidentifiable glance with her husband. "Well - I guess you could say I have a lot of experience at looking at things from... a different perspective." She gestured at the chairs around the pool. "If you aren't busy, why don't you stay for awhile? We can get to know one another, and Adam makes a Chicken Parmesan that is just heaven."

"Sure." Jeff agreed - a little too quickly for Debbie, who echoed the sentiment a second later. "Great." Adam said. "Jeff - why don't we go grab a couple of beers for us and the ladies."

As the men wandered into the house, Debbie smiled at Marcie. "My God - he looks like that and he cooks, too? He's almost too good to be true."

Marcie, stretching her long, golden body out on the lounge, laughed, her full lips smiling in a devilish way. "You don't know the half of it - he's absolutely incredible in bed, too."

"Really?"

And Marcie's smile became downright naughty as she replied. "Oh yes - he know exactly what I like." Debbie shook her head. "I'm starting to think you're just bragging."

Marcie laughed mischievously. "Then you probably wouldn't believe me if I told you that... well, let's say God must have been in a generous mood when Adam was born." And she held her hands more than a foot apart.

"You're right - I don't believe it." Debbie said - but just then, the guys returned with the beers, and Debbie couldn't help but glance at the crotch of the tight shorts Adam wore - and suddenly, she believed it.

Then she turned, and caught sight of her husband ogling Marcie's body. "Jeff!"

Jeff, almost drooling, pulled his eyes to his wife - or, as usual, to his wife's bosom. Debbie now regretted giving into Jeff's breast fixation. It had stopped his subtle hints that he thought she was too flat-chested - but it also seemed to have ruined their relationship. They'd been a devoted, loving couple when they'd wed, but ever since the implants, Jeff had suddenly seemed to consider her nothing more than a walking pair of tits. It was driving her nuts.

Marcie and Adam saw the look that passed between Jeff and Debbie.

"You know what?" Adam said, winking at his wife. "You two look like you could spend some time together - a second honeymoon maybe."

"Huh?" Debbie asked, surprised.

Adam smiled brightly. "I know this hotel - great place to stay. But to get the full experience - be sure to ask for Mel as your bellboy. Tell him that Adam and Marcie recommended him."

As Adam and Marcie grinned at each, Debbie and Jeff glanced at each other in confusion, wondering what the hell could make a bellboy so special that they should ask about him specifically.

* * * * *

Two weeks later, they found out.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

Summary: Failing at every aspect of his life, Don's subconscious mind creates Denise who leads him through a total transformation

Mind Games

By Gunslinger

Part ONE: PROBLEMS

The fluorescent lights in the hallway flickered and buzzed fitfully, spreading a garish white glow throughout the building's stairwell. Aside from the incessant noise of those lights, the only other sound was the heavy, slow steps of the weary looking figure who slowly climbed the staircase. He moved with little vigor, as if each step on to the next riser took an inordinate amount of energy, energy his body could scarcely afford to expend.

He was only twenty one, but his tired, slightly stunned face looked years older. No trace of his usual, slightly cheerful expression showed in his broad, fine featured face. His suit, an expensive dark-blue double-breasted, was rumpled. The coat was slung over one shoulder, and the shirt sleeves rolled up to the elbow. His top two shirt buttons were undone, and the tie - a blue, red and gold Harvard tie - was nowhere to be seen. A small, slightly dusty bottle dangled from his right hand.

Only a few hours ago, Donald James Sutton had come down these very steps. Then, he had moved with barely restrained energy, his suit impeccable on his fit, if not overly muscular frame. His hair, a sandy blond, had been styled into a fashionable, wind-blown look that had required some time to perfect, unlike the matted, sweaty haystack of hair that now framed his sallow face.

With the same ineffable glee, he'd slid behind the wheel of his brand-new Jaguar XJS. Two day's old, and paid for only to the extent of the down-payment, the Royal Blue car had still contained that new-car smell, of which Don had breathed deeply before starting the car, and pulling out of the apartment building's lot.

When he turned into the lot of J. Lyman & Sons, Importers, an old, and extremely reputable company, he had the amazing fortune to discover one free space, right near the door. With a bounce in his step, he locked the door of his new status symbol, and literally bounced up the granite steps that led to the imposing wood and glass main entrance.

It was the last thing that went right with his day.

Humming softly to himself, Don briskly walked through the echoing marble halls of the magnificent building, built in the eighteen- nineties, and immaculately maintained. He'd 'oohed' and 'ahhed' at every fixture when he'd come for his interview two weeks ago. When Richard Lyman, the President of the company, and grandson of one of the original 'Sons', had read Don's impressive Harvard transcript, he'd hired the young graduate on the spot. With an almost fatherly arm around Don, the sixty-eight year old head of the company had led Don down and shown him the office that was to be his. Now, Don retraced those steps, eager to start his first day of work at such a prestigious firm.

When he arrived at the office, his smile slowly faded. He stopped and glanced around, then leaned closer to the door, certain that his eyes were playing tricks on him.

'Carolyn Gottlieb - Assistant Vice-President of Acquisitions.'

Frowning, Don walked back to the stairwell. First, he checked to make sure he was on the correct floor. Then he carefully counted off doors - and arrived outside the same office, still bearing the same engraved brass plaque on the door. The title was correct - but the name was wrong. Hesitantly, he knocked on the door. A muffled 'Come in' was his response.

He opened the door and stuck his head through. Seated behind the magnificent cherry-wood desk, a slender, dark-complexioned woman looked up.

"Can I help you?" she asked, eyeing Don inquisitively.

"Um," Don said, somewhat at a loss, "This is going to sound weird, but... I thought this was my office."

The woman blinked. "Huh. You a new employee?" she asked. When Don nodded, she smiled briefly. "Me too. Started yesterday, as a matter of fact. Maybe there was just a mix-up in the offices."

Don sighed and smiled back. "Yeah. I'll go talk with somebody upstairs about it. Thanks a lot." The woman waved briefly, and tossed a quick "See you around" before the door closed.

Don decided to go straight to the top. Taking the stairs two at a time, he arrived at the top floor, and let himself into the anteroom of the President's office.

Linda, the same secretary who'd announced him for his interview, looked up as he came in. He was surprised to see a quick look of sympathy across her face as, before he could speak, she toggled the intercom and announced him. A second later, she opened the heavy mahogany door, and gestured him inside.

A knot of fear coiled in Don's stomach at the sight of the same sympathetic look adorning the face of the head of the company. "Uh, Sir, I just went down to my office..." Don began, confused.

Mr. Lyman sighed. "Please sit down, Donald my boy." He said heavily. He was holding a glass of Scotch in one hand, and he now extended it to Don.

The knot bloomed into outright fear as he numbly accepted the glass and sank into one of the leather armchairs facing the broad marble and teak desk.

"What...what is it?" Don asked.

"Donald, I'm sorry, but... There's been some pressure from the Equal Opportunity lawyers. I should have called you, but I wanted to tell you face to face. The board of directors - and myself - have decide, for legal reason, to hire only minority groups for the next year.

Specifically, women."

Don sat, stunned, letting the thought digest. It didn't even register when he drained the Scotch in one gulp and placed the glass on the desk, leaving a small 'O' of condensation.

"You... You mean you're not hiring me?" Don stammered. He'd already spent his meager savings on the suits, and the car. He wasn't just looking forward to this job - he needed this job.

"After the year is over, you'll be the first man we hire, Donald." Lyman assured him sadly. Numbly, without speaking, Don had turned and left.

* * * * *

Don knew he should call back to the apartment and break the news to Cassandra, his fiancée. It would be best to let her know, and have her return the new wardrobe of clothing she'd bought when he announced his impending employment to her. But, for the past month, she been acting somewhat strange - cool, and almost furtive, appearing somehow, well, guilty, and the thought of telling her over the phone seemed too cold, to abrupt. But there was someone else he had to call and break the news to. Before he did, he'd need to find some courage.

Leaving the Jag in the lot, he walked numbly down the street to a small, well appointed bar. Quite at this hour, the elegant pub gleamed in muted shade of brass and walnut. Slowly, Don lowered himself onto a stool and ordered a double whiskey from the florid-face bartender, who had silently filled the order, and watched expressionlessly as Don swallowed the liquor in one gulp. Dropping some money on the bar, Don asked if there was a payphone in the bar. Without a word, the bartender pointed to the back of the room, and Don procured a second double, and carried it with him to the old-fashioned wood and glass phone booth.

Sitting on the wooden bench seat, he closed the folding glass door and dropped a quarter into the phone. Taking a sip of his drink, he dialed a number, and listened to the ringing on the other end.

The receiver clicked as the phone was answered. "Yeah?" Don swallowed nervously. "Dad, it's me."

Through his entire life, Don had sought, in vain, for the approval of Peter Sutton. A taciturn man, Peter had rarely shown affection, and never pride, in his soon, whose birth had preceded the death of his mother by a few scant hours, when she died from internal post-natal hemorrhaging. No matter how hard he'd tried, Don had never received a good word from his father - except for one grudging, short compliment when Don had called to tell his father about the job. The one which, now, he explained to his father, was no longer his.

After he'd explained what had happened, there was several seconds silence at the other end, broken at last by, "A woman got it, huh?" "Yeah. Some equal opportunity thing." Don acknowledged.

Several more seconds of dead silence, broken only by the faint hiss of an open line.

"The doctor's told me your mother died because your birth caused bleeding inside of her." His father replied slowly, shocking Don with the one topic they never, ever discussed. "They also told me, it wouldn't have happened if you had of been a girl instead of a boy.

Since then, I've spent every day wishing to God that you had of been a girl. I thought that everything would turn out right if you were." There was a brief hesitation, during which Don could find no words.

"Looks like I was right." His father said, then hung up on his only child.

Slowly, Don pulled the receiver away from his ear and stared at the curved plastic object as if he'd never seen it before in his life. With the same slow movements, he hung the phone up.

It took him three tries to rise from the bench and leave the phone booth, and pub.

Without any conscious thought, Don made his way back to his car. He slid behind the wheel, but didn't move to start it. He simply sat and stared out the windshield, his mind spinning uselessly.

His fugue was broken by a light tap at the window. Turning, Don saw the enigmatic bartender standing outside. Don rolled down the window.

Without a word, the heavysset man dropped something in Don's lap, then turned and walked away before Don could react. Numb, he watched the bartender vanish around the corner, then picked up the object in his lap.

It was a bottle of Scotch. Covered in a fine layer of dust, the small bottle was hand-blown, the cork sealed with a layer of red wax with a signet imbedded in it. The small, had written label informed him in an elegant script that the bottle contained Single Malt Scotch Whiskey, Distilled in the Scottish Highlands by an small, time-honored distillery, and aged for fourteen years in a wooden cask before being sealed in the bottle on August 7th, 1904.

Staring back at where the bartender had vanished from sight, Don carefully lay the bottle on the passenger seat, started the car, and headed home.

* * * * *

Reaching the top of the stairs, Don stared for a second at the door, then sighed and unlocked it. Turning the handle, he pushed the door open and stepped inside. Music floated through the apartment, muffled by the bedroom door from behind which it originated. Dropping his coat and the Scotch on the couch, Don crossed the room with slow, tired strides and open the bedroom door.

"Honey, I have..." he started - then his voice died completely. Without another word, He stepped back, closed the bedroom door, and began walking away. As he passed the couch, he picked up the bottle of Scotch. Just inside the door was a small shelf on the wall, displaying knick-knacks from his time at Harvard, including a small, engraved pewter goblet from the Drama Department, which he also picked up as he walked through the door.

Behind the apartment building was a small greenbelt, featuring a pedestrian path and a small, shallow stream. Without breaking stride, Don crossed both of them, soaking his expensive Italian leather loafers in the cold water, and reached the building on the other side of the greenbelt.

Once a gorgeous Victorian home, it had been converted into two apartments in the late seventies when the neighborhood had begun to slide. In the early nineties, the neighborhood had taken an upswing - as had the lease of the house. With the previous owners unable to afford the lease, and no new ones wanting such a run-down house when nicer ones surrounded it, it sat empty, several windows broken by local kids. Don let himself in via a shattered French Door, and dropped onto a shabby, shapeless chair left behind as worthless. Carefully he pried open the Scotch and poured a healthy amount into the goblet.

The entire time, the scene from the bedroom replayed in his mind. All the signs may have been there to warn him, but he'd missed them completely, and what he'd seen had come completely by surprise. His fiancée, Cassie, laying naked, on her back, in their bed, her face tensed with pleasure and her long, dark hair matted with carnal sweat.

As her best friend Shannon, a muscular feminist with short, dark hair had driven the large black plastic strap-on dildo into Cassie with long, powerful strokes, eliciting sounds from Cassie's throat that she'd never given him in the heat of passion.

* * * * *

Two hours later, the bottle of unparalleled Scotch was empty. With a dull thud, it hit the bare floor boards of the vacant house as Don rose ponderously to his feet. Staggering, he stumbled his way back toward the apartment, resoaking his feet in the streak. With great effort, he made his way to his apartment and went inside.

The apartment was empty. Cassie and Shannon had left, and silence filled the dwelling, tinged with the faint odor of the women's lovemaking. Don blinked sluggishly, until he realized that the lamp providing the only illumination looked odd because there was a piece of paper taper to the shade, dimming the glow. Wiping his blurring eyes, Don closed one and squinted the other until he was able to focus on the message written upon it.

Don,

I never wanted you to find out this way, but perhaps it is for the best. I can't go on living a lie. No matter how much I tried, I just couldn't be satisfied spending my life with you, not after Shannon showed me how well one woman can know, and pleasure, another.

I've left absolutely everything except what I'm wearing. Return what you can, and throw the rest away. I won't come back for anything - Shannon has shown me that I don't need to conform to the sexist dictates of the 'Fashion Fascists'.

You are a wonderful man, Don. But you are a man, and that's all there is to it. Maybe, if fate had been kind, you could have been born a woman, and we may have lived a long and happy life together.

I'm Sorry, Cassie.

It took Don a few minutes to puzzle out the message into coherency. For a few seconds he stood, staring at it, then his face twisted into a rictus of anger. With an inarticulate cry, he lashed out at the note with his hand.

With drunken power, his hand burst through the flimsy lampshade, shattered the hot bulb, and hit the live element. The lamp sputtered and flared as he jerked back as the current flowed up his arm. Then everything went black, and he collapsed as if pole-axed.

* * * * *

Part TWO: PERSONAS

The morning light was suffusing the apartment with a golden glow when the supine figure on the white deep-pile carpet began to stir. Slowly, it sat upright, blinking in the light.

Denise sighed and slowly stood, head pounding. Looking at the shattered lamp, she shook her head wryly. Ignoring the mess for now, she sat on the couch and pried off her wet loafers and clammy socks. Dropping them in a pile, she padded, barefoot, into the kitchen. She moved with an assured but feminine step, her hips swaying with each stride. Starting a pot of coffee, she went to the bathroom and opened the medicine cabinet. Removing a bottle of Tylenol, she took three capsules out and returned the bottle. Carrying the pain reliever, she went back to the kitchen and downed them with a large glass of orange juice. By then, the coffee was ready, and she fixed herself a cup, sipping gingerly at the steaming liquid.

"Don, you douche-bag" she said out loud, "no wonder this shit happened to you." Her voice was deep and husky, but undeniably feminine, and her intonation, rhythm and accent bore no resemblance to Don's Harvard-cultured voice.

She set about cleaning up. Stripping naked, she quickly bundled up the sweaty clothes and damp socks and dropped them in a hamper in the bedroom. That done, she went over to the dresser and looked through it, finally selecting a pair of white cotton panties from Cassandra's drawer. They were a little tight around the waist, but fit well around the hips. Carefully, she positioned her flaccid cock between her legs so no bulge marred the smooth line of the crotch.

Clad only in the panties, she carefully cleaned up the lamp, using a potato to extract the broken bulb and replace it with a good one. The lampshade was wrecked, so she merely disposed of it in the garbage.

Having tidied up the kitchen and had a second cup of coffee, she then padded into the bathroom. Pulling off the panties, she luxuriated in a long, hot shower, grimacing at the amount of hair covering her body. After toweling off, Denise slipped the panties back on, then pulled on a tailored, but not too severe suit.

With quick efficiency, she gathered up all the new clothes Cassandra had purchased. Piling everything into two green garbage bags, she grabbed her keys and headed out the door.

As soon as she passed the threshold, her gait changed, becoming Don's masculine stride. She put the clothing into the trunk of the Jag, then climbed behind the wheel and drove off.

She arrived at the boutique where the clothing had been purchased and had little trouble convincing the woman to refund the money. Throughout she used Don's masculine voice, but not his Harvard accent. Cash in hand, she headed back out to the Jag. She had work to do, and not an awful lot of time.

Her next destination was an Internet Cafe. Purchasing an espresso and twenty minutes of time, she used the computer to locate some information that she needed. Paying the additional surcharge, she left the Cafe with a slim sheaf of laser-printed pages in hand.

She spent the rest of the day busily taking care of her carefully laid out plans. In an organized, intelligent fashion, she followed a mental schedule she'd decided on, being careful to present her masculine persona in public.

Several of her stops were clandestine, and two of them were outright illegal, but she followed through on all of them with such an air of calm assurance, that nobody saw fit to question her. With a faint smile, she piled item after item into the car.

She only paused twice in her purposeful work. Once, for a quick bite to eat, and the other, for a washroom break. To avoid the 'bathroom' problem, she picked a small donut shop that only had the one, gender-neutral bathroom.

It was growing dark when she finally headed for home, her supply of funds considerably depleted. She no longer drove the Jag - one of her stops was the dealership, where she'd traded the luxury car for a used Hyundai Pony, which allowed her to actually come out even, as the Hyundai's price tag was the same as the down payment on the Jag. Arriving back at the apartment, she lugged her purchases upstairs in two trips. Most of them she carefully secreted in places she was sure Don wouldn't look. She carefully placed certain receipts and notes where they were clearly visible. Her final task of the day was to carefully empty all of Don's daily vitamin capsules, and replace the contents with a powder she'd acquired. Satisfied at her handiwork, she cleaned up, went to the bedroom, undressed, and dropped into bed, where she quickly fell asleep.

* * * * *

Don awoke as the alarm chirped to life. Quickly, his arm moved to slap off the alarm before it could kick in his massive hangover headache - only to realize, surprised, that he didn't have one. It took a second longer to realize that he was in his own bed, rather than laying on the floor in the living room.

Confused, Don rolled out of bed and stretched. He felt fine - which was damned odd considering how much he had consumed last night. It didn't make sense that he'd felt this good - not that he was complaining.

Shrugging into his robe, he padded out into the living room. He moved listless, the recent events robbing him of any real enthusiasm. He stopped short at the sight of the unbroken bulb in the shadeless lamp, and frowned. Shaking his head in confusion, he headed into the kitchen.

It was the papers on the table that stopped him dead. With a blank look, he flipped through the pages.

The agreement detailing the exchange of the Jag for the Hyundai. A short note in a feminine hand as a receipt for returned clothing, at a reduced price. A lunch receipt, and a gas receipt. All bearing his signature.

"What the..." he murmured. Comprehension dawned on him as he realized he must have done all this yesterday, yet he had no memory of anything.

"Don, old boy, you gotta lay off the booze." He muttered shaking his head. Still amazed at the complete blank of a whole day, he fixed some cereal and a glass of orange juice, taking his four daily vitamins with the brief meal.

Having finished his meal, he opened his front door a crack. Not seeing anyone, he wearily walked across the hall and stole old lady McKenzie's paper. She was away, visiting relatives, and the papers had been piling up until Don started filching them. Now, with a weary sigh, he sat down, and opened the paper to the classifieds. He picked up a pen and with little enthusiasm began to look in the 'Help Wanted' section.

Denise used the pen to quickly circle a couple of jobs after a quick scan, then put the pen down. Getting up from the table, she moved gracefully to the unused top left cabinet, and removed some items she'd stashed up there the day before. Carrying them into the bathroom, she picked up one of Cassie's books from the back of the toilet tank.

Carefully, she hung the I.V. bag, filled with a yellowish fluid, from the curtain rod. Sitting in the tub, she tied a rubber hose around her upper arm with one hand and her teeth. It took two tries for her to insert the needle into her vein, after which she taped it in place.

Leaning back, she began to read as the fluid slowly dripped into her veins.

Two hours later, the I.V. was empty. Climbing out, she carefully pulled the needle from her vein and cleaned the slight welling of blood from the puncture. Cleaning the medical equipment, she restored it to its concealment, then sat back at the table. She lay her head on the paper, and waited several minutes until her saliva dripped out onto the table.

Don jerked awake and blinked. Shaking his head to clear it, he wiped a thin thread of drool from his lips.

"Jeez. Must not have gotten enough sleep last night." He muttered. He scratched idly at his inner elbow, and noticed a tiny welling of blood. He looked around for the mosquito whose bite must have woken him, but the little blood-sucker had gotten away clean.

Rolling his shoulders to loosen up, he decided to make some coffee to assure that he didn't drift off again.

Ignoring the paper, he took his coffee into the living room and flicked on the TV. He flipped through the channels, finding daytime TV as lackluster as always. Shrugging, he turned it off.

He headed into the bathroom. Turning on the faucets, he grabbed a quick shower, he headed to his room and pulled on a pair of jeans, and a long-sleeve sweatshirt.

Denise quickly stripped down. Grabbing some things from a closet, she headed into the bathroom.

Quickly but thoroughly, she coated her entire body, except for her scalp, eyebrows and a small patch around her crotch, with a gel-like substance. She then took a small electronic device, and pressed two electrodes into the gel and turned on the device.

Low level electrical current thrummed through the gel, causing an odd sensation against her skin. After ten minutes, she shut it off, put it aside, and grabbed another shower. As the gel washed off, it not only took all her body hair with it, but left the skin remarkably soft, silky and smooth. The difference was especially noticeable on her face.

Toweling off, she ducked back into the bedroom, dressed, and assumed the same position.

Don, not aware of any time passing, continued the step forward he'd started. Not really noticing the subtle differences of the way his clothes felt against his skin, he went down to examine the car he couldn't remember getting. After going through it, shaking his head, he decided he'd made a good decision - the vehicle, while a cheap import, had been well cared for and meticulously maintained.

He was sitting in the driver's seat, listening to the sound quality of the factory-standard radio, when he began to sweat profusely. The day was nice, but not all that hot, and even the sun shining into the interior of the car wasn't enough to cause that amount of perspiration. Frowning, Don wiped away a film of sweat and climbed out of the car.

The cool breeze didn't seem to help either. He continued to sweat. Beginning to worry, Don headed for the building, wondering if he was coming down with something.

He'd barely begun to climb the four flights of stairs when he began to shiver uncontrollably. Chills wracked his body, and his limbs seemed to turn to rubber. Genuinely panicked now, Don fought to climb the stairs that had suddenly become as challenging as Mount Everest.

By the time he reached his door, he was barely able to stand. Three times he'd collapsed to his hands and knees, and the shaking of his body was so severe that he barely got the door open. If he had of locked it, there was no way he would have had fine enough motor control to get the key in the lock, but since he had just headed downstairs, he hadn't worried about it. Thanking God for the small favor, he collapsed across the threshold, and began painfully dragging himself into the living room. He knew there was no way he could stand up and reach the wall-mounted phone in the kitchen, so he tried for the phone beside the couch to call for help.

He didn't make it.

In the middle of the room, he ran out of energy and lay in a fetal position, his body shaking and shuddering. The synthetic hormonal and chemical medium Denise had introduced into his bloodstream thundered through his veins like fire, burning him from the inside out. Waves of pain shook him as his body tried vainly to counteract the attack of the powerful agents in the blood.

The compound had been originally designed by Soviet Chemical Warfare experts. After the breakup of the Soviet union, the desperate new Republics had dumped many illegal weapons on the world market.

This particular mixture had a very specific effect. Like a disease, the compound sought out the hormone testosterone in the bloodstream and destroyed it, while at the same time forcing the glands to produce massive amounts of estrogens. The symptoms Don was suffering through were massive withdrawal symptoms as his body tried to cope with a sudden and violent shift in its body chemistry.

And failed.

Still wracked by pain, he passed out.

* * * * *

Eighteen hours later, weak with fatigue and pain, Denise climbed out of unconsciousness towards the light. Suppressing a moan, she painfully staggered upright. Shedding clothes as she went, she walked unsteadily towards the bathroom.

Surveying her naked body in the mirror, she was satisfied with the results. The chemical compound was washed out of her system now, permanently altering the blood chemistry to slightly-higher-than-norm female standards. Her skin was soft and feminine, her lips slightly fuller, and her nipples were painfully swollen to a large size, perfectly feminine looking on an incongruously flat chest. Her body was more muscular than she would of liked, but there was nothing she could do about that. It was time to put her master - or perhaps, mistress - plan in motion.

First, she got dressed in the clothes she'd selected when shopping. The first item was a pair of pink cotton panties that fit poorly on the hips. A matching bra, in 38D hung loose on her chest. A baggy white button up shirt, and a pair of women's jeans, much to loose in the hips. She slipped on a pair of men's sandals, put also picked up a pair of high-heel thigh-high women's boots. The black-leather footwear was several sizes to small.

Next, she carefully applied makeup and did her hair in a decidedly feminine style. She e looked critically at her reflection. She could, barely, pass as a woman. Her jaw was too square and her nose to large, but that could pass as a masculine-looking, and rather unattractive, woman. Likewise the broader shoulders and narrower hips. Satisfied with the look, she picked up a large purse and filled it with the item's she'd need, then headed out.

Climbing into the Hyundai, she pulled away into the gathering dusk. As night fell, she parked the car in a long-term parking lot, locking the keys inside. Making sure she was alone, she quickly removed the license plates and dumped them down a storm drain.

Moving quickly, she headed to the alley she'd pre-selected. She scouted it out to insure that it was empty, the walked down it and around the bend, hidden from sight.

Opening her purse, she pulled out the stuff she'd brought with her and set to work.

The first order of business was to drop an well worn women's pocketbook on the ground. It contained no money, I.D., or credit cards, but it did contain loose change, some mints, a couple of fast-food receipts, and other small, non identifiable items.

All around the alley she scattered the typical contents of a purse - lipstick, a compact, some Kleenex, a couple of tampons, and the like. She then used a sharp stiletto knife to slash the purse in several places, and dropped it on the ground as well.

Satisfied, she took a deep breath, then used a syringe to inject herself with an anesthetic compound that slowly numbed her body. Within a few minutes, her entire body, from head to toe, was as numb as a block of wood.

The alley was situated over a fat-running outlet running into an even faster canalway. The sandals and the syringe went into this rushing waterway, immediately swept away. As she watched them go, Denise tore open her shirt and bra, carefully insuring that both hung from her shoulders, then tore open her jeans and ripped off the panties.

The calmly, she set to work mutilating her body.

The first thing she did was use a hammer to smash every bone in her feet. Since they were completely numb, there was no pain, and she had a had time gripping the hammer with no feeling in her hands, but succeeded. She then pulled the boots on over her crushed feet, which now fit in the footwear.

Next, she used the hammer to smash her jaw in several places. Satisfied, she finished her face by mashing her nose, which began to bleed profusely. Laying the hammer aside, she sat down and picked up the knife.

With several swift strokes, she castrated herself, completely removing not only the penis and testicles, but the interior connections as well. The hammer then crushed her pelvic bone in several places.

She had carefully positioned herself above the outflow, and know the hammer and discarded genitalia went into the water, to be swept away.

Blood was starting to gush severely, and she worked faster, knowing her time-limit. The next step consisted of cutting ragged half-arcs two inches below her nipples. That done, she discarded the knife. Finally, she took the last two items.

Taken from the city morgue, the freshly deceased female womb and vagina she had brutally slashed out was tossed against the far alley wall in a dark smear of blood. The fatty tissue, removed from the same cadaver's ample breasts, was smeared down her bloodied torso.

Satisfied, Denise awkwardly reached up to the last, vital part of the plan - a seldom-used rear door to the local General hospital. It was just barely within her reach to jam one of her press-on nails into the buzzer, and snap it off so that it held the buzzer in.

Then, she methodically beat her head against the ground until she passed out.

Less the two minutes later, a tired O.R. doctor, who was heading to the door to step out for a smoke anyway, threw it open to yell at whatever young punk was pushing the button. When he saw what lay outside the door, he completely forgot his craving for nicotine.

* * * * *

Don floated somewhere between consciousness and unconsciousness. Drugs flowed through his body, dulling the pain, but not completely eliminating it.

<What's going on? Where am I?> he wondered.

{In the hospital, stupid} a cool, wry, feminine voice echoed within his own mind.

Outside, in the real world, his EEG spiked wildly for a few seconds, just barely below the threshold that would sound an alarm.

<Who? What? How?... Who ARE you?>

{Listen up, moron. I'm Denise. Or, more accurately, I'm...you.}

<?>

{Simple. With the stress, the situation, and the electric shock, you went off the rails. Nuts. You became Schizophrenic. I'm the part of you that you didn't want to face.} Denise went on to describe what she'd done, so that the surgeons would rebuild the mangled body of the 'woman' they'd found.

<NO! I never wanted this. I'm a man...>

Denise 'laughed'. {Look, buddy boy - I AM you. Since I'm here, and I succeeded, you must have WANTED to do this. And pretty damn bad too.}

<No. None of this is real. I'm just...>

{...crazy. That's what I said. Look, I'm here to stay, and soon, so is your female body. Now, I'd suggest that, when we wake up, we work together. You don't have much choice, you know. You DID create me to do this, so subconsciously, you WANT this. How do you fight yourself, Don old boy?}

* * * * *

Denise had been a little TOO vigorous in knocking herself out.

For the next eight months the remained in a coma, their minds in a dream world. As the two halves of his Schizophrenic brain argued and fought, the surgeons worked on reconstructing the chattered body of the mystery 'woman'.

At fist, it was a life-saving struggle in hopes of a complete recovery. But as time wore on and the woman remained non-responsive, secondary - and financial - considerations came into effect.

Out of an obligation to the profession, the nurses continued Electronic Muscle Stimulation to keep the muscles from atrophying, but there was no hope that they'd ever be used again. At the same time, to offset the cost of the medical care, a legal waiver was signed, allowing the 'Non-responsive body of Jane No-Middle-Name Doe' to be used for instructional cosmetic surgery.

Advanced med. students got a chance to practice on a living, breathing body. First, students were taught how to minimize scar tissue. Again and again, different students practiced the technique, until 'disappointingly' it couldn't be done anymore - there WAS no more visible scar tissue.

Other students practiced installing breast implants, while others worked on the nipples. Some got assigned liposuction, other collagen injections. Finally, when no more use could be gained from the body, Jane Doe was transferred to an out of the way room, disconnected from life support, and left alone. A nurse was scheduled to check twice a day whether or not the unknown woman had finally gotten around to dying.

* * * * *

{Okay, Donny boy, it's time to wake up.}

The 'two' of them had finally come to an uneasy truce. It had taken shock treatment to do this - Denise had opened up the repressed memories, and Don had watched every move he/she had made. It not only proved that somehow, in a subconscious way, he had done this to himself - it also showed that there was no going back. So, he'd agreed to allow Denise to guide him in what happened - even to the point of accepting her feminine name as agreeable.

<I guess you're right. But why now?>

{They've stopped doing EMS for the past couple of days. We wait, and our muscles are going to turn to jello.}

Acknowledging the truth of that, Denise slowly opened her eyes. He was in a quite, dimly lit room, with no sign of anyone nearby.

Denise stiffly rolled from the bed and carefully gained her feet. It wasn't only the fact that she hadn't been up and about that made it so difficult - it was her radically changed sense of balance. Carefully, she made her way over to a full-length mirror, always balancing against something to keep from falling. He looked in the mirror at his transformed body - and gasped.

{They made our tits too big} Denise thought critically.

Don was speechless as he stared at what was once a masculine body.

His crushed feet had been reconstructed based on the assumption that those boots had been her show size. Her new feet were dainty and well formed, with the scar lines invisible from any further than an inch away.

Her legs, provided EMS, had remained muscular - but the EMS, tailored for a woman, and the female hormones in his system, had altered the contours of them. They were more muscular than most women's legs, but remarkably sexy nonetheless.

The folds of a surgically implanted vagina showed at her crotch. Her shattered hips had been reconstructed much wider than they had been originally. Multiple collagen injections by successive students had made her ass outrageously full and firm.

Between the wide hips and her wide shoulders, her waist shrunk down to a remarkably small diameter due to the practice liposuction. Like her legs, her arms were more muscular than the norm for a woman, but not grossly so.

Thrust proudly from her chest was a perfect pair of firm, round 48-DD's. Students had gotten their chance to inflate the implants until they reached the perfect size, shape and firmness. Truthfully, on her large frame, the large, firm breasts were perfect, where on a smaller woman they may have been to big.

And her face. The shattered jaw and nose were now perfectly feminine on a wide, well formed FEMALE face, surrounded by a halo of sandy blonde hair.

Despite her somewhat muscular, husky body, she would never be able to pass as a man. She was actually quite attractive in a 'comic book Amazonian' way - a muscular, strong, self assured... sexpot.

{Come on, stop gawking. Let's get a move on.}

Denise headed cautiously for the door, trying to get used to the new movement of her body. Her wide hips swayed with each step, and her creamy globes bounced and swayed distractingly. In the cold air, her huge, sensitive nipples were engorged, sticking out impudently in front of her.

Prompted by her very vocal 'inner woman', Denise crushed her morals for the sake of necessity. The fourth door down the dark, quite hallway proved to be the nurses changeroom, empty between shifts. Quashing any qualms, Denise forced herself to steal suitable clothing, plus every valuable she could lay her hands on.

She had a brief internal argument over the definition of 'suitable' though. She won the round by pointing out that she could barely walk barefoot. High heels were NOT an option at this point.

When Denise walked out of the room forty-five minutes later, she was a transformed woman.

After a shower, she had carefully applied a subdued makeup scheme that accented her face. Her sandy-blonde hair, grown considerably longer during her coma, was simply but flatteringly arranged. Earring dangled from newly pierced ears, and she wore a necklace, a watch, and an anklet. In the stolen purse was makeup, seventy three dollars and twenty one sense in cash, and a ton of stolen jewelry.

For clothing, she wore a denim skirt. The closest to her size she could find, it came midway down her thighs, and was tightly molded to her shapely ass. Her shirt was the largest shirt there, a pale blue cotton shirt, tied in a knot under her breasts as support. It clung tightly to her spectacular breasts, showing quite bit of cleavage, The overly long sleeves had been rolled back to her muscular forearms.

Simple leather sandals adorned her feet, and she walked with a steady, swaying step, having begun to get used to her new body. Unrecognized by the staff, Denise sailed serenely out the front doors.

'Inner Denise' had a plan.

* * * * *

Part THREE: PLANS

Denise walked down the street, wondering just how the hell 'natural' women did it so easily.

With every step, she was aware of her new walk, with its feminine sway of her ripe, full buttocks. The jiggle and bounce of her unfamiliar breasts caused her full, thick nipples to rub continuously across the cotton fabric of her shirt, causing constant bolts of pleasure through her new anatomy. The way her long, muscular legs scissored emphasized the new emptiness of her female crotch.

Her long sandy blonde hair tickled along the back of her neck, swaying and moving with her own motion, and the effects of the wind. And the cool breeze across the silky skin of her legs was - pleasurable. The whole sensation of being female was horrible, disgusting, exciting and - enjoyable.

{I TOLD you you really wanted this.}

In the depths of her mind, 'Inner Denise' laughed at her muddled thoughts. As much as she hated to admit it, she was finding this...liberating. Fun.

<All right, you win. Now, what's your plan?>

{Well, a place to live would be nice...}

Slowly, Denise's new, pink-glossed lips curved into a slightly wicked smile. Her pace quickened with constrained enthusiasm as 'Inner Denise' detailed the first step in the plan.

* * * * *

Quietly, Denise approached the bungalow in the falling dusk, looking for any sign of life. When she was sure the house was currently empty, she moved quickly around to the back door.

She tried under the door mat first. Too obvious. She then felt along the lintel of the door. Nothing. She hit paydirt under the right-hand planter. Picking up the key, she used the small piece of milled metal to unlock the back door and quietly let herself in.

With a smile, she began to move through the house belonging to his ex-fiancée, Cassandra, and her lesbian lover Shannon. A quick check of a phone book had established the fact that Shannon still lived in the same house, and Denise knew Cassie well enough to know there would be a spare key somewhere. His 'guesstimate' had paid off.

He carefully closed the drapes in each room of the house, moving carefully through the dark. Then he went back around and switched on the lights. If Cassandra stayed true to form, Shannon and her would be out 'night-clubbing' until the wee small hours.

With a quick step and a gleam in her eye, Denise went into Shannon's small home office and began looking through the files.

Shannon had quite a bit of money from an inheritance. She had even more from her hobby - taking small house or run-down shacks, renovating them, then selling them or renting them. The only twist was one - Shannon, a hard-core Femi-Nazi, only sold or rented to women. She had so many tenant's, according to Cassie, that she couldn't remember them all. Perfect. In no time, Denise had found the perfect thing.

A small but luxurious 'batchlorette' near the downtown core. Using Shannon's own copier and supplies, she faked a lease agreement, starting two months ago, and 'paid up front' for two years. Carefully, she put everything away.

Next, she ransacked the house. From bottom to top, actually.

Starting in the small cold cellar, Denise searched every where for valuables. She found a small hoard of gold and silver coins hidden in a pickle jar, and look them. After smashing every jar, of course.

On the main floor, she took all the cash out of the small safe. She open the safe by the simple expedient of checking all of Shannon's carefully saved instruction and warranty cards, where she had written down the combination. Then she messed everything she could up, throwing papers and supplies around. Finally, she dumped her hoard into a large suitcase, and 'shopped' through the two women's wardrobe for clothing.

The final touch was just before she left. In bold handwriting, very masculine, she wrote 'Dykes get lost' in black magic marker all over the house.

Since she wore a pair of surgical gloves stolen from the hospital, there wasn't even any finger prints. Happily, she lugged the heavy suitcase to blocks before hailing a cab to take her 'home.'

* * * * *

Denise sighed with satisfaction as she lowered herself into a tub full of soapy water. On the way here, she had stopped long enough to pick up some groceries, toiletries and necessities, and was now relaxing in the huge tub in the en suite bathroom of her small but luxurious new accommodations.

{Well, soap your self, girl.}

Good advice - she WAS going to have to get used to her new body. With a giggle, she began to glide a bar of Zest over her remarkably smooth skin.

All too soon, she became lost in a separate little world as she reached her creamy, ripe breasts with their sensitive nipples. It started with the lathered bar of soap sliding silkily across her womanly mounds, but the bar soon slipped away unnoticed as her long-nailed fingers began to caress her own chest.

Soon she was teasing her nipples, moving in small, rhythmic movements as tiny gasps exploded with each breath. Tiny lightning bolts of pleasure sizzled from her engorged nipples to her brain, and the warm wetness between her firm, silk thighs was no longer just from bathwater.

{Go on. You know you want to.}

Yes. Yes, she did want to. Very, very badly.

Slowly, while her left hand continued working on her firm yet yielding breasts, the other slid slowly down, crossing her smooth abdomen until it reached the cleft between her legs. Denise hesitated for one endless second, then began to massage the outside of her new womanhood.

Louder gasps burst from her throat as her wide, womanly hips began to thrust in time with her questing hands. New, erotic sensations flooded the new woman, indescribable to anyone who had not felt it.

Finally, torturing herself with pleasure, she couldn't take it. Her index finger slid into her hot, wet cunt and began to frantic massage her clit, driving her to new heights of shear, orgasmic pleasure, until her body shuddered in the grip of her first feminine climax. Sated, Denise slowly settled deeper into the cooling water with a sigh.

{Was that good for you?} Denise laughed.

* * * * *

The second part of the plan was a little harder for Denise to agree to. With no way of showing an education, she still needed a job. Being remarkably fit for a woman, 'Inner Denise' had decided to try for her own exercise program.

Accordingly, Denise checked various publications to get the name of the programmer for the local TV station. Making an appointment to see him, she carefully dressed for her presentation.

First, she pulled on a pair of white nylons, over which went a tight, form-fitting bodysuit in basic black.

Over this, Denise pulled on a simple white skirt, a black silk blouse, and at 'Inner Denise's' insistence, a pair of high-heeled black pumps. A few simple pieces of jewelry for emphasis, and all that was left was her hair and makeup.

After one last glimpse in the mirror, it was time to go.

The programmer, Bob Enthwaite, turned out to be a tanned, handsome young man with a smooth manner. Inviting Denise in, he politely listened to her pitch before politely, but firmly turning down her proposal.

{Time to try something else...}

Before Denise could frame a remark, 'Inner Denise' took control of her body.

"Wouldn't you at least watch my routine before deciding?" she asked Bob, who shrugged and said, "Sure. Go ahead."

Quickly, Denise shucked off the outer clothing and jewelry - but to Denise's surprise, not the high heels. She moved to the center of the office.

"Now, my routine requires a partner. Would you mind helping me out?"

Bob shrugged again. "No problem."

<What are you DOING?>

{Trust me.}

Denise took on a calm, almost cool professional demeanor. "The first exercise is for the arms." She told Bob, while she stood straight, her arms at her sides. "I need you to stand in front to me...no, closer. Closer. Perfect."

Bob flushed slightly - he was standing toe-to-to with her, their bodies pressed firmly against each other. Despite the sexual implications of the position, Denise was maintaining her detached demeanor.

"Now, Take a hold of my wrists." She instructed Bob. "I'm going to lift my arms over my head, and I want you to provide resistance. Make me work to get them there."

Denise calmly performed this exercise five times. Each time her hands rose above her head, it pushed her breasts further forward, pushing them tightly against Bob's broad chest. Her nipples, swollen behind the leotard, tingled and throbbed with pleasure, no trace of which showed on her face.

<God, that feels good. But we shouldn't be doing this...>

{Shut up. I know what I'm doing.}

Finished her reps, she stepped away from Bob. Although it had been easy exercise, Bob's face held a thin film of sweat, and he moved a little stiffly.

"Next, I'm going to do a back exercise. Stand behind me. No, right up close."

With a slight gulp, Bob stepped until his crotch was pushed tightly against Denise's firm, yielding ass.

<My god, I can feel his hard-on...>

"All right, now wrap your arms around my torso - no higher up. That's right. Now, when I bend forward, you pull back for resistance. When I straighten up, you lean forward so I'm pushing you weight up too."

Bob was now standing with his crotch grinding in her ass, and his hands on her tits. New and pleasurable sensations flooded Denise's body as she moved. Leaning forward against his hands, her breasts were pushed firmly into his strong, broad hands. Meanwhile, each rep caused her ass muscles to flex against the large bulge in his crotch, and she could feel the heat of his erection through their clothing. Still, she remained coolly detached.

"Next..." Denise began.

Bob was breathing heavily. "No, that's all right. I don't think I can take any more of you routine. Look, you've got the slot, okay?"

<All right!>

"That's wonderful." Denise smiled. Slowly, she began moving towards him. "But it's not fair to leave my boss in such discomfort..."

<NO! Denise, stop! Don't...>

Hungrily, Bob reached for her, his hands sliding around to caress her firm ass as their lips met. Their tongues intertwined in a passionate ballet.

<Oh my God, I'm kissing a MAN!>

{It FEELS good though, doesn't it?}

<...yeah.>

Bob's lips and hands moved to her breasts as he pulled her leotard off. She returned the favor, stripping him as she moaned from his skilled touch. As soon as they were naked, she pushed him down on the floor and prepared to straddle him.

<NO!>

Smoothly, Denise lowered her hot, wet cunt onto Bob's throbbing cock. Ecstasy shot through her as his worm, living flesh entered her ready womanhood.

<Oh.... oh God that feels soooo good...>

Denise's muscular legs began to flex, thrusting her up and down rhythmically. Small gasps exploded from her throat as she rode his hard cock.

<OH! Yes...yes! HARDER...HAR...>

And 'Inner Denise' vanished completely, allowing 'Denise who had been Don' full control of the body.

"...DER!" she gasped, thrusting intensely. Pleasure crackled through her nerves firing synapses in her brain that had never been used until now. Hungrily, she increased the pace when Bob's hands clenched her full buttocks.

Then she orgasmed.

It was like fireworks exploding in her brain as sheer, unadulterated ecstasy claimed her body. She was completely unaware that she cried out Bob's name as she came, his hot cum christening her new cunt.

Covered in sweat and utterly, indescribably fulfilled, Denise rolled off of Bob and collapsed beside him. He rolled over, leaning on one arm, and used the other to lightly caress Denise's sweat slicked body.

"Well, that's some performance. I can't wait to see what exercises you do in front of the camera."

Denise smiled. "Oh, just standard ones. But I AM going to need somebody to help be warm up before the show..." 'Inner Denise' had been right. This WAS what she wanted out of life.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Not wanting to give up a chance to buy a great house, one man enters what he is afraid is a haunted house and is taken over by the spirit of the stripper who was there before.

Mind Over Matter

By Gunslinger

"Hey, Kurt - this place is great!" Tom said, enthusiastically, as he took another sip of beer. "Especially for you! Dirt cheap, retro decor, and a secluded location - you must be loving this!"

The slender, dark-haired youth hesitated before answering. "Yeah - it's... great."

The pause, and notable lack of enthusiasm, raised Linda's eyebrows. Sharing a look with Tom, she then turned to Kurt. "What's up, Kurt?"

Kurt hesitated, wondering if he should bother to explain. Tom and Linda were his best (and almost only) friends, and he'd known both of them for years, long before they'd become a couple. If he could tell anyone, it would be them.

"Well..." he said, slowly. "I know it's silly - but it's almost like this place is haunted."

"Haunted!" Linda said, surprised. "Geez, Kurt - not only has nobody died here, nobody's even lived here - until now."

"I know." Kurt agreed - despite the appearance of a Victorian-age home, his new house was actually less than a year old. In fact - it wasn't 'really' a house...

The house had been built as a set by a nation-wide pay-for-service cable channel - a porno channel. The cable network had been planning to do their own, porno-based version of the popular show 'Charmed', and had built the house to be used for filming - though they had made it meet standards so that it could be sold as a 'real' house if-and-when the show was finally done filming.

However, thanks to protests by outraged local citizens, filming had never started. By situating the house in the middle of nowhere, the cable producers had hoped to avoid that very situation - but they'd gravely underestimated the local (and very conservative) media, which had helped whip the public into a frenzy of 'anti-porn' demonstrations. Giving up, the cable network had sold the house at auction - and almost nobody had wanted it, letting Kurt get it at a steal.

"Still..." Kurt said, wrinkling his nose up. "I mean - they left behind all these props and stuff, everything they had in place for the show - and it's like somebody else is living here, and I just can't see them. You know... like a ghost."

Tom rolled his eyes - and said the inevitable. "Kurt - you're just too imaginative."

Kurt had been told that his whole life. never the most popular guy in the world, Kurt was a real bookworm and movie buff - and, thanks to his hyper-active imagination, he'd ended up becoming a writer, where a good imagination was an asset instead of a liability. Still, there were times when his imagination was too strong for his own good - like now, when it was causing him to get the 'creeps' from a brand-new house he'd got at a real bargain.

"If a great deal like this gives you the squirrellies, then you're in trouble, buddy." Tom continued, shaking his head with a wry grin. "Hey, now - be nice." Linda said, slapping her boyfriend lightly on the shoulder. "It's really bugging him. Let's try to help."

She turned her attention to Kurt. "You know - maybe I can help." "Oh?" Kurt asked, blinking.

"Sure - I could put you under, and help you get through this."

Kurt hesitated. Both Linda and Tom had just graduated from university, Tom with a Major in Business, Linda with a Psychology degree. In fact, Linda's well-to-do parents were celebrating the couples combined graduation-and-engagement by sending them off on a two- week whirlwind tour of Europe - they were leaving tomorrow, and that's one of the reasons why they were over tonight.

"Come on." Linda urged, seeing his hesitation. "We just called for the cab, and way out here it'll probably be half an hour or more - that's plenty of time."

"Well..." Kurt said, hesitantly. "If you really think it would help..."

"Great!" Linda said, enthusiastically. "Sit down in that chair and get comfortable."

Kurt did as instructed, while Linda lowered all the lights and lit a candle, placing it on the coffee table in front of Kurt's chair. Instructing her beau to sit in a chair behind Kurt, and out of sight, she stood directly behind him, bent over so that her lips were near his ear, letting her speak in a quiet, smooth voice...

...with the 'wind' of her breath gusting over Kurt's shoulder and across the carefully positioned candle.

"I want you to focus on the light of the candle, Kurt." She began. "I want you to watch how it dances with my voice. Focus on that, Kurt - the way my voice makes it dance and sway. My voice, and the candle..."

A few moments later, and Linda stepped back, blinking.

"Geez - I've never seen anybody go under so fast and so deep - much less on the first session." She said to Tom. "He's in a really deep trance."

"Is it okay to talk now?" Tom whispered, wincing at Linda's causal, conversation tone.

She grinned. "Sure. He'll ignore everything but me - and he won't even 'hear' me unless I speak over his shoulder and make the candle move. We were taught to do it that way - audio and visual stimuli - to keep any 'stray' suggestions from being implanted."

"Okay." Tom said, relaxing. "So, what do you do now - just tell him to ignore the creepy ideas he's been having."

"No - that's the worst thing you can do." Linda said. "Suppressing things is always a bad idea. Instead, we do the exact opposite - we make those vague feelings sharp and clear and 'real'."

"Huh?" Tom blinked. "I.. don't get it."

Linda grinned again. "It's simple, really - we make it feel utterly real to him, truly believable so that anything that happens with it will be absolute and 'real' - then we find the exit."

"The exit?" Tom said. "Oh - wait, I get it. We make this ghost of his 'real' to him, instead of some vague feeling..."

"...then give 'it' a reason to leave." Linda finished. "That's right. The human psyche needs a sense of 'closure'. Just like the movies, actually - some action that makes the 'ghost' leave. We'll just make the ghost 'real' enough that Kurt can accept it has motivations, then tell him that what it wants is, uh..." She frowned in thought.

"How 'bout it wants its story told?" Tom suggested. "After all, Kurt's a writer, and it would be 'logical' - plus he gets the money from the sale."

"Honey, you're a genius!" Linda said, giving Tom a kiss. "Okay - now, the first thing to do is to make this 'ghost' of his seem real enough." Taking her place at Kurt's shoulder, she began to speak.

"Kurt, can you hear me?"

"Yes..." Kurt answered, slowly, his face and voice expressionless.

"I want you to tell me about this other 'presence' you feel. Describe it to me." Linda commanded.

Kurt's brow slowly wrinkled, though his eyes remained wide and unseeing. "I.. don't know. It's like there's another person in the house. A woman, I guess..."

Turning to Tom, Linda said, "See - it's too vague. We need to get him to make it clearer." She turned back to Kurt.

"Kurt, I want you to focus on this woman." She told him. "I want you to start imagining what she's like. I want you to imagine what she looks like, build a mental image of what she 'feels' like to you, given the items that make you feel she's in the house. Imagine every detail of her - what she looks like. What she sounds like. How she moves. How she walks, how she talks, what her little habits are. Build this image of her in your mind, holding on to every tiny detail. I want more than a two-dimensional image of her. Can you do this, Kurt?"

"Yes..." Kurt said, slowly and heavily. "...I am doing it. But... I don't want to." Linda frowned slightly. "Why not, Kurt?"

"I just want it... her.. to go away. Or... I want to get away from her. I.. want to leave the house. She.. she scares me. I'm afraid."

Linda shot a look at Tom, then turned back. "Kurt - have you been thinking of leaving the house. For good, I mean - just getting out?" "Yes..."

"It's a good thing I'm here." She said to Tom. "He didn't say it to us - might not even consciously realize it - but his over-working imagination almost kicked him out of a otherwise perfect house for him."

"Kurt, listen to me." Linda commanded the dazed writer. "you can't leave. You can't run away from her. No matter what happens, you can't just 'run away'. She's not just going to let you go, okay? Do you understand, Kurt?"

"Yes..."

"Good. Now, keep imagining her - every detail about her, as perfectly and clearly as you can. She's more than just a vague feeling, or even a pale image in your mind. I want you to... to make her real. To bring her to life. To create every aspect of her and make it a living version of her, perfect to the smallest detail..."

Hooonnnnk

At the sound of the cab's horn from outside, coupled with the flash of headlights across the window, Kurt jerked - a powerful, involuntary movement that spilled the chair over and sent him sprawling.

"Shit!" Linda cursed.

"Wha..?" Kurt said, sitting up and looking around, a confused look on his face. "What happened? Was I hypnotized?"

"Yeah." Tom said, getting to his feet. "But the cab came and honked it's horn, snapping you out of it." "Oh." Kurt said. "So I guess you didn't get a chance to help me."

Linda looked upset. "Well, we started - but we didn't get to far." She was gnawing on her lower lip. "I don't get it though - you were so deep under the trance it was almost scary - yet you snapped out so quickly that it's almost like you weren't even in a trance. You're supposed to be brought out slowly. I"" I never heard of a case like this happening, and it certainly wasn't covered in my training."

"What are you saying?" Kurt asked. "Is something wrong?"

Linda gnawed at her lip for a second, looking at him - then waver her hand and shook her head. "now, I guess not - after all, you seem fine, and you're out of the trance. I guess the cab startled me as much as you, and I'm just worrying over nothing because my nerves are on edge."

"Okay." Kurt said - the last thing he remembered was staring at the candle, her voice in his ear - then he was laying on the floor, with no memory of the time in between. He certainly didn't feel any different.

He walked the couple to the front door, saying their good-byes as they got their coats and stuff on. Waiting until the cab was starting back down the long driveway, Kurt waved one last time then went back into the house, blowing out the candle and tidying the place, feeling a little lonely - and 'creeped out' now that they were gone.

He picked up the somewhat depleted bottle of Rum, and the mostly-full bottle of Cola, intending to put them away - then shrugged, picked up his glass, and wandered into the den, the 'coziest' room in the house. Switching on the TV, he hunted through the channels until he found a light-hearted, mindless comedy, and poured himself a drink.

An hour and a half - and several drinks - later, he drifted off in front of the TV.

* * * * *

As Kurt slept, something happened.

On average, a human being only uses twelve to eighteen percent of the brain's potential. Sometimes this 'peaks' higher, providing rare insights beyond the person's usual abilities.

Somebody for whom these peaks occur fairly frequently is known colloquially as a 'genius'.

When these peaks occur only in certain areas of the brain, the person is known as a prodigy, in whichever 'field' the section of the brain affects. If the rest of the brain has lower-than-normal usage, then the person is an 'idiot-savant'.

But neurological science has never recorded anyone utilizing more than thirty percent of the brain's potential, though there has been some speculation that so-called 'psionic' powers lay somewhere within this untapped realm.

Driven by a command that it could not fulfill at its current state, Kurt's brain began to fire more and more neurons, unused (until now) synapses crackling with life as new neural pathways began to open, searching for the solution that the subconscious brain needed to find, even if the conscious mind was completely unaware of what was going on.

Still, no answer was found in the existing patterns of the brain, and the new ones only had 'old' data to play with, even if they were 'playing' with it much faster and more efficiently than ever before. If Kurt were connected to an EEG at the moment, the needles would have been sweeping wildly across the paper as an unprecedented forty-nine percent of his brain struggled to re-sort old information and memories into a coherent answer for the (unfortunately) illogical 'problem' put before them - without success.

So, the unseen 'underpinnings' of his brain, the ancient pilings that kept the 'sane' brain from washing away in a tide of insanity, demanded that if an answer couldn't be found, then it must be created...

...and another thirty-four percent of Kurt's brain, long dormant, flared into life....

* * * * *

Kurt gasped and sat bolt upright in the chair, suddenly and completely awake.

His heart was pounding, his slender frame practically vibrating from the force of his heart's rhythm. For the first instant, though his body was fully awake, his mind remained in neutral before it finally made the transition, and even as it did he continued to feel thick-headed and slow, as if only functioning at a half-speed.

A bluish-gray light suffused the room for the TV, which had gone to 'snow' after the end of its broadcast day. The low sound of white noise spilled from the built-in stereo speakers, but Kurt made no move to either shut the appliance off or mute the sound - as annoying as the 'fuzz' could be, the cold light and meaningless sound from the TV were preferable to the silent darkness that would reign supreme, were he to push the little red button on the remote.

Looking around, Kurt tried to pinpoint what it was that had awoken him so decisively. Wrapping his arms around his slim frame, he shivered, forehead creasing in a frown as he wondered how a late summer night could be so cold...

* * * * *

PYROTELEKINESIS (Var. Sp. Pyrokinesis) - The transfer of motion at the molecular level (i.e., heat) from one location to another through the application of mental energies.

* * * * *

On the couch pushed against the wall was a decorative blanket used as a coverlet. Pulling it from the couch, Kurt wrapped it around his slender frame as he rose a trifle unsteadily to his feet. Though he was now as awake as he was going to get, and there was no immediate sign of threat, his 'fight or flight' reaction was still thrumming strongly, adrenaline running through his body in the rapid pulse of his bloodstream's high-pressure flow s his heart continued to pound.

Hesitantly, Kurt approached the doorway of the den and - feeling extremely silly, but not knowing what else to do - called out into the darkness.

"Hello?" He called, cursing the trembling in his voice. Taking a deep breath, he struggled to make his voice - less then authoritative at the best of times - sound more like Tom's rolling, masculine tones. "If there's anyone out there, I should warn you - I'm armed."

The empty threat struck a chord, and - keeping his eyes on the dark doorway - he sidled back until he was pressed up against the far wall of the room. Risking taking his eyes from the only entrance to the wood-paneled, windowless room, Kurt turned and fumbled at the latch of the curio case above the fireplace's mantel. Finally, the small brass latch turned, letting him into the case.

The case's green-felt interior was covered in a series of replica firearms, ranging from a old 'Sea Service' black-powder flintlock pistol, through an old Western-style 'six-gun', to a Model 1911 Colt .45 auto-pistol. It was this last replica that he pulled from the case, the heavy metal shape seeming to fit reassuringly into his palm, even though he knew the gleaming metal 'weapon' was practically useless, except as something that could be thrown.

If there was an intruder in the house, maybe the sight of the 'gun' would scare him away...

Gripping the replica tightly in his right hand, Kurt pulled the blanket tighter around his shoulders and once again approached the darkened doorway, all other sounds overlaid with the rush of his own blood through his ears.

Pressing himself against the inside of the doorway, Kurt slipped his left hand around the 'aged' oak molding and slid it across the wall just outside the room, until his fingers felt the cool metal of the brass switch-plate. The old-fashioned light switches of the 'Victorian' house were the old-style push-button switches, and he let his finger glide over the rounded bump of the depressed 'off' switch and slide up the cylinder of the 'on' switch.

Taking a deep breath, Kurt pushed the button in, and there was a startlingly loud 'ka-lunk' sound as the 'off' button popped out, the 'on' button dropped in...

...and everything went dead and silent as, deep in the basement, the main breaker switch of the anachronistically modern fuse-box switched to the 'off' position.

* * * * *

TELEKINESIS - The ability to manipulate objects at a distance through use of the power of the mind.

* * * * * 'eep'

It would have been a full-fledged scream - except that Kurt's vocal chords were constricted by a throat that suddenly went as tight as a miser's wallet - and as dry as the Sahara.

He began to shake, in a way that had little to do with the icy sphere of air that encircled him.

Though it wasn't something to be proud of, what happened next was an offspring of panic. There was no caution, no consideration of a possible intruder, armed or otherwise - the slender writer just needed some form of light, something to break the sepulchral darkness around him.

Dropping the blanket without even thinking, he blindly dashed from the den. He smacked, face-first, into the wall across from the door, barely even feeling the impact as he scrabbled around in the darkness, his flailing hand finally finding the edge of the doorway leading into the living room. Panting hoarsely, he scrambled into the darkened room, barking his shins on the chair and creating a clatter he barely even heard as his frantic hands slid across the surface of the coffee table he knew to be in front of him. The replica pistol impeded his search, and he unthinkingly discarded it as he continued his blind quest...

His right hand found the candle by knocking it over, snapping the taper halfway up it's length as it dropped to the floor. Fumbling with his right hand, he found it again, the top half still limply connected by the wick imbedded in the wax.

A moment later, his left hand slipped across the plastic surface of the Bic lighter, sending it skittering across the table-top. Nearly crying in frustration, Kurt forced his hand to move slowly and delicately in the direction the sound had gone...

...and encountered the lighter.

Almost sobbing with relief, he flicked the wheel, and a steady yellow flame blossomed at the metal-clad tip of the small plastic object. Using his teeth to bite through the wax-coated wick at the broken portion of the candle, he set the remaining half of the taper, still in the holder, upright on the table and quickly brought it to life, the golden glow of the candle filling the room with a weak - but, to Kurt, beautifully bright - golden glow.

Fumbling, he retrieved the replica pistol. For a long moment he simply sat there on the floor between the coffee table and the couch, shaking.

When the worst of the shaking had subsided, he slowly climbed to his feet. Slipping the lighter into the pocket of the khaki slacks he wore, Kurt picked up the candle-holder in his left hand, the replica weapon extended before him in his right. Slowly, he approached the doorway.

"I.. I just called the cops on my cell phone!" he shouted. "They're on their way!"

He cursed his inability to keep his voice from wavering as he made the hollow threat. Creeping closer to the doorway, he took another breath, about to shout another 'dire warning'...

...when a voice wafted out of the darkness, faint and hollow. 'Kurt. '

* * * * *

AUDITORY TRANSLOCATION - The ability to create sound (through the vibration of air molecules to create sound waves) at a distance somewhat removed from the actual origin source. (Var. - The same ability, through telekinetic, rather than mechanical, generation)

* * * * *

"Who's out there!" Kurt shouted, pointing the 'gun' in the direction of the eerie voice. "I.. I've got a gun! The cops are coming!"

'Kurt...' The Voice wafted through the still, cool air, sounding closer than before. 'Kurt... I need you... I need your body... I want to live again...'

The Voice was most definitely feminine - and it sounded... hungry, somehow. The chill surrounding Kurt intensified, as if he were standing in an arctic draft, and he began to shiver violently.

Though he'd been facing the door and seen nothing at all, he felt a gust of wind stir over him. 'Kurt... give me life...'

The Voice was right behind him!

The writer's nerve broke. Shouting incoherently, he dropped the doubly useless 'gun' and pounded towards the front door, the candle wavering and flickering as the movement through the air disturbed it - casting eerily flickering light in whose glow the shadows seemed to dance and cavort, as if alive.

Reaching the front door, Kurt threw back the bolt, twisted the brass-and-cut-glass knob, and threw the door open...

...and it promptly slammed shut again, the bolt re-engaging in the jam. Kurt struggled to get the door unlocked again, but this time it was as if the brass latch was cast as one piece - utterly immobile.

"Let me gooooooooo!" Kurt howled, impotently, as he jiggled and yanked at the doorknob. 'No, Kurt... I need you...' His unseen nemesis said, from right beside him...

...and he felt a hand slid across his arm, a gentle-yet-strong female grip...

Screaming, Kurt dashed pell-mell down the hallway, not really knowing where he was going - just as long as it was away from that voice and that touch. When he came to the foot of the staircase, he dashed up it two at a time, not really thinking. Picking the first door on his right, he ducked inside and slammed the door. Twisting the small brass key in the lock-plate, he slipped it from the door and into his pocket, eyes wide with fear as he looked around his 'sanctuary'.

It was one of the bedrooms. He'd already moved the 'junk' from the master bedroom for his own use, but this one was still full of the items left behind by the production company.

Grabbing a steamer trunk from nearby, he dragged it in front of the door, then stumbled back a few steps and collapsed on the bed, placing the candle on the bed table as he leaned over, gasping for breath.

"You might as well give up you know."

"Aaahhhh!" Kurt cried, leaping from the bed and sprawling on the floor as his eyes darted around the room.

"You can't win. There's just no chance." The unseen voice continued. No longer hollow and eerie, the definitely feminine voice sounded rich and full - as if the woman were sitting on the bed, chatting with him. Even the tones were light, almost conversational.

"Let.. let me go..." Kurt said, slowly sliding backwards until his back hit a wall.

"I can't do that, Kurt." The words were sympathetic, but The Voice wasn't - in fact, it was practically laughing. "I'm tired of existing in this sorry half-life. Do you know just how awful it is, Kurt?"

The Voice seemed to be moving, as if the unseen owner was pacing back and forth in front of the bed. "Wha..." Kurt stammered, looking around for a weapon against his unseen opponent.

"I can't feel anything." The Voice said, almost petulantly. "I can see - but dimly, as if 'through a glass darkly'. My hearing - half of what it was, at best. And no sense of touch, or taste, or smell - no pleasures, Kurt! None!"

"And... and now you want to.. trade positions with me?" Kurt stammered, fearfully. "Take my life, and leave me like.. like that?" "no, Kurt - of course not." The Voice said, almost warmly. "You'll still be around, in your body. In fact, I need you. I won't have the..

'strength' to run everything. No - you'll be vital, and so you'll still be able to feel, to experience pleasures..." The Voice's tones made the silky smile evident, despite the expression's invisible state. "And I guarantee that you'll be feeling a lot of pleasure, Kurt..."

"No - I won't let you take over my life!" Kurt said, his voice wavering.

"Take over your life?" The Voice asked, laughing. It took on a sharp tone. "The life of a pathetic little weenie? A loser? A man - and not even much of a man at that? Don't be ridiculous..."

Kurt's mind barely had time to register the meaning of her disdainful comments...

...when his pants and underwear where suddenly ripped from his body, flying across the room and landing in a pile.

Screaming, Kurt tried to rise - but unseen hands held his legs as his socks were yanked off, leaving him completely nude from the waist down. As soon as the unseen hands released him, he bounded to his feet...

...and his unseen assailant tore his short-sleeve shirt off, buttons flying every which way as the off-white garment was flung aside, leaving every square inch of his pale, slender body bared to the golden flicker of the candle-light.

"Leave me alone!" Kurt cried - but it was a plea, not a command, and it was ignored in any case.

"My, my - even weenie little men have body hair." The Voice said, chuckling in a low tone that sent shivers down his spine. "Let's take care of that..."

As easily as that, and Kurt felt an itching sensation. Stunned, he stared down as every follicle of his masculine body hair came loose from it's root and drifted towards the ground.

Screaming once again. Kurt turned and assaulted the door that blocked his exit. Though an interior door, rather than the heavy-duty outer doors at the front and rear entrances of the house, the barrier was more then sturdy enough to defeat the pounding of his fists.

Then his feet were yanked out from underneath him, and he was hurled across the room to land on the bed, legs lifted and splayed...

...and, to his horror, Kurt found that he was utterly immobilized, unable to move at all. He could only watch what happened next, denied even the token defiance of screaming as a pair of nylons drifted out of the closet and floated across the room.

As the moved across the room, the pair of matched nylons - black, with a lace seem running up the outside of each - balled themselves up. Upon reaching his immobile figure on the bed, each 'ball' settled themselves on his now-denuded legs, then slowly extended themselves up his legs until their lacy elasticized tops (complete with a white ribbon that wound around them and tied in a bow at the top of each out-ward facing seam) settled around his upper thigh.

Then the nylons meticulously straightened themselves, so that the seams were straight and even.

The next think to float out of the closet was a pair of shoes. Black patent leather, the shoes had a one-inch high platform and a seven- inch high heel, slender and spike-like. The upper potion of each shoe was three wide patent-leather bands, designed to sit (in order) just behind the toes, across the middle of the foot, and just below the ankle.

There were also too small for even Kurt's diminutive feet, and the captive writer felt a fleeting moment of hope...

...then the shoes arrived, and he could do nothing as they slid onto his feet, which painfully crushed inwards and altered shape to fit, becoming small and dainty and feminine - even as the legs filling out the nylons writhed, quickly acquiring quite shapely female contours beneath the sheer fabric...

* * * * *

DIRECTED BIOMORPHISM - The ability to greatly accelerate healing, cause spontaneous remission of disease, regenerate lost limbs, or otherwise alter the characteristics of a biological system through use of conscious or unconscious mental energies. (SEE Faith Healing, Placebo Effect.)

* * * * *

...and still the changes didn't stop, continuing to spread upwards to his hips and ass.

If he could have, Kurt would have been screaming in pain - if felt as if his body were being ripped apart and rebuilt from the inside out. As his hips widened to a smoothly feminine curve, it was as if his pelvic bones had become taffy and were being stretched out by unseen hands, while it felt as if somebody had inserted two balloons into his derrière and was slowly inflating them with warm water to give him a full, shapely, and decidedly feminine posterior.

Then the changes stopped, and he suddenly found he could move - which he discovered when he collapsed into a fetal position, sobbing at the fading remnants of the agony that had torn through him moments ago.

"Stop fighting me, and I'll make sure it doesn't hurt nearly as much..." the unseen voice suggested. Kurt continued to sob, his body utterly limp...

...except for the hand that was oh-so-slowly snaking towards the leg of the bed-side table.

As soon as it was close enough, he lashed out, grabbing the leg of the table - thankfully, the mate of the one on which the candle rested. Jumping up, Kurt almost fell over until he pushed his weight onto his toes, relieving himself of the task of balancing atop the slender spike heels. With all the strength he could muster, he charged at the door, thundering forward atop the toes of his platform heels, his entire body feeling awkward and off balance...

...and the door burst asunder under the assault of the table. Tossing the shattered piece of furniture aside, Kurt pushed the smashed door-panel out of the way and triadic to run down the hall, barely able to move in the high heel shoes that encased his feminine new feet.

"Tsk, tsk - that looks silly. Can't have that..." The Voice said, behind him...

* * * * *

Two and a half miles away, an exotic dancer who went by the stage name 'Luscious Lisa Leggs' was heading for the dressing room when she suddenly stumbled, one hand flying to her forehead as she leaned against the wall for support.

"Geez, Lisa - you okay?" one of the other girls asked, rushing over to help.

"Yeah... just had this real bitch of a headache come on me, sudden like.." Lisa replied, wincing.

* * * * *

TELEPATHY - The ability to communicate directly with another person or creatures mind, without the use of verbalization or other intermediate senses.

* * * * *

Deep inside Kurt's brain, something seemed to 'wrench' in a sudden flare of pain - as the synaptic patterns containing his 'habits' and 'skills' for walking were suddenly and irrevocably erased...

...to be replaced by an exact copy of the synaptic patterns duplicated from the mind of the exotic dancer.

Kurt nearly stumbled and fell - but in shock, as his awkward, unbalanced shuffle had suddenly become a smooth, easy - and pretty damned sexy - glide, as if he'd had a world of experience in walking in heels. The worst part was, it had occurred without him thinking about, happening utterly naturally, as if he'd always walked this way - and even though he knew that it wasn't true, no matter how much he tried he couldn't bring to mind the actual movements it would take to walk 'normally'. He could alter his stride, he could move faster or slower - but his new, easy balance was as unconscious as walking had always been without heels, and walking 'awkwardly' would have taken conscious determination.

"Oh, dear God..' Kurt whispered in horror. What had happened so far, with his legs, feet and hips being altered was bad enough - but the thought that something in his mind, the part of 'him' that made him 'him', had been changed - it took the wind out of his sails, leaving him gasping for breath from the shock of it.

"Well, that's much better..." The Voice said, smugly. "You're a natural in heels, Kurt..."

"Leave me a lone.." Kurt begged backing away (gracefully, damn it!) from where The Voice seemed to be coming from. "Please... change me back..."

"Oh... I don't think so..." The Voice said, mockingly. "In fact... I've only just started..."

The door across the hall suddenly swung open, and a black object - looking like a gigantic back in the fleeting glimpse Kurt got - flew out of the room.

He had time to scream, once, before the object 'attacked' him.

Almost instantly, he could identify the object as it wrapped itself around his waist - a black leather corset. He'd just had time to register what it was...

...when it began to tighten.

He screamed. The pain was intense - because the garment wasn't only tightening around his waist, constricting it inwards, but the waist itself was shrinking, becoming slimmer, giving him a wasp-waisted figure beneath the tightening, glossy undergarment. If he could have, he would have collapsed to his knees in agony, but unseen forces held him upright as the garment finished tightening and lacing itself, now fitting 'perfectly' to the diminutive new waist he 'boasted'.

"Oh.. oh God.." Kurt sobbed as the pain slowly ebbed. "Oh, God, please... no more..." "Well - if you don't want more pain... surrender." The Voice said, smugly.

"No!" Kurt gasped - weakly. "Well, then..."

The pain washed over Kurt again as his hands, arms, shoulder and neck were gripped in invisible vises and folded, spindled and mutilated, forced into smoothly feminine contours they were never supposed to attain. He screamed at the agony as those parts of his body were reshaped - then continued to scream as the pain shifted focus, moving upwards through his face and skull.

It felt as if somebody were repeatedly smashing his face with a sledgehammer, and that white-hot agony overwhelmed the relatively weak 'hair-pulling' sensation as his raven tresses flowed down around his slender new shoulders down his back. He barely noticed as a collection of make-up items flew through the opened door of the bedroom and busied themselves about his changing face...

Then his scream faltered and increased in intensity - and pitch. It felt as if he were screaming around a voice-box full of broken glass as his voice rose higher, reaching a richly feminine contralto...

...just like that of 'The Voice'.

"Well - ready to surrender yet, me bucko?" the Voice chuckled...

...from Kurt's own throat. Gasping from the pain, he licked 'his' lips, and felt how full and softly firm the felt to his tongue, so 'bee-stung' - and the taste of lipstick followed his tongue back into his mouth.

He didn't answer. Instead, he walked - with that damned sexy strut - into the bedroom with the shattered door, surveying himself in the full-length mirror in the corner.

"Not bad, huh?" The Voice asked from his own mouth, a smug pride in it's tones. "I'm quite the artiste." The image reflected back in the glass was almost that of a stunningly beautiful woman.

Her face was a vision of beauty - a well rounded, slightly pointed chin marked its lower end, rising along the well-defined jaw-line to her high, well-defined cheekbones. Centered in this 'triangle' were her lips - full, pouty lips, coated in a dark red lipstick with even darker liner, all in a rich gloss.

Above that sensuous mouth lay a strong, narrow - and somehow Gallic - nose, dainty enough to be feminine without being 'weak'. Framing the upper slope of that finely defined bridge lay a pair of dark, deep eyes that seemed to smolder lustily, enhanced by long, dark lashes and finely arched eyebrows. The entire face was surrounded by a thick, silky mane of raven-black hair, with rich highlights.

The body was as equally 'perfect' - slender, it wasn't 'skinny', with just the perfect amount of 'padding' fat smoothing the womanly curves. Her hips were fairly wide, but supple, and her ass was full and firm without being 'too much of a good thing'. Her waist was practically infinitesimal, absolutely tiny.

Even her hands and feet were 'perfect' - slender and dainty and graceful, without being so much so that they'd look weak. Instead, they

- like the legs - had that sense of a dancer's grace and strength, lightly layered with firm, taut muscles below a thin, feminine layer of padding.

If not for the completely flat chest and the undeniably male organ dangling between firm, silken thighs, the image would have been flawless.

"ready to give it up, big boy?"

It took all the willpower Kurt was capable of mustering to speak just one word in those rich, silken tones he now possessed. "No."

The pain came, sharp and bright - as if somebody had taken a sledge hammer to his crotch...

...and The Voice took control of his head and eyes, forcing him to watch, unblinking, as the reflection in the mirror showed his manhood shrinking back in on itself, the scrotum sucked back into the body as the penis folded in on itself, forming the unmistakable shape of a vagina. Still the pain didn't end, shifting inwards as his internal layout altered to match that of a genetic woman.

Finally, after what seemed an eternity, the pain ended, leaving him (genetically speaking) female, even if she still lacked the usually- standard mammary glands.

<How about now, big boy?> the voice asked, now deep in her mind. <You have to know that there's no way I'm going to reverse any of these changes. No matter what happens, you're stuck as a woman. Wouldn't it be better to give in, help me live the most enjoyable female existence that we can?>

It took seemingly forever for Kurt to force the thought to form.

{No.}

<There's one stage left before I'm done the physical changes.> The Voice told the new woman. <Up until now, I've made the changes fairly quickly - this one, I'm going to do slowly, and I'm not going to stop until one of two things happens. Either the pain will drive you insane - which I can live with, but would prefer not to - or you agree. No matter what happens, your new breasts will stay whatever size they are when you give in, so you can spare yourself the extra indignity and hassle of lugging large tits around by agreeing early...>

Kurt refused to answer...

...and the pain started.

The pain caused Kurt's shoulders to arch back as two small mounds formed on her chest, slowly pushing out the flesh behind her once- vestigial nipples, now also swelling out to more feminine dimensions. The pain was intense, as if a slow explosion inside her body was forcing the flesh outwards as it swelled into the alphabet of bra-sizes, two barely-pubescent mounds that slowly swelled towards maturity.

Kurt couldn't even close her eyes or grit her teeth as she struggled to endure the agony in her chest.

The swelling slowly continued unabated, the flesh pushing outwards and slowly sliding from the pointy, conical mounds into more rounded half-spheres, now a healthy 'C' cup that looked utterly perfect on her frame. Yet she managed to maintain her sense of self, and the swelling mounds continued to push outwards, slipping past that ideal size and into the 'D' cup range, now the size of grapefruit.

And still Kurt refused to surrender, though the pain was slowly creeping in to envelope her entire world view, her unblinking gaze narrowing to the twin mounds slowly pressing outwards from her newly-shrunken ribcage.

It had been a good ten minutes since the growth had started, and that time seemed an eternity - and it wasn't over yet. Kurt struggled to hold on over the next twenty-five minutes as the weight on her chest continued to grow, gravity pulling on the steadily increasing mass of her new endowments as the swelled through the alphabet, passing into the range of small melons...

...then into large, spherical 'watermelons' that thrust roundly and proudly from her chest, tipped with large, thick nipples...

...then the nipples went into 'double-domed' mode, the aureole acquiring a definite domed curvature of their own as her new breasts reached the size of volley-balls, and continued to press outwards...

..to become the size of basket-balls...

They were well on their way towards 'medicine balls' in size and shape when the last, desperate vestiges of Kurt's will broke, a bare instant ahead of his fraying sanity. In that instant, when will weakened and the threat of pure insanity loomed, she had no choice but to...

{surrender...}

<What was that...?>

{I.. I surrender.. please, anything.. just stop...}

Finally, the murderous growth halted. <Good choice. Now, to finalize our little agreement, I want you to do this first task for me. Say our name. Say... 'Kara'.>

Swallowing thickly, the new woman forced her altered vocal chords into action. "Kara."

<No - not like that. It's who we are now - the both of us, together in this body. Two minds - but one woman. A woman named Kara. Introduce us to the world...>

Taking a deep breath, the new woman struggled...

...and a sudden, brief flare of agony in her chest served as a reminder of her situation.

"My name's Kara." She said, firmly and - yes, damn it, - seductively. Every word seemed to burn like acid as it slipped past her luscious new lips, and the seductive smile felt like it would crack her face...

...but, as awful as it was, it was actually a relief after the pain she'd just suffered.

Turning her attention to the mirror once more, Kara surveyed the woman she'd become, the woman she was cursed to be. She was absolutely stunning....

...except for the massively over-sized, outrageously exaggerated tits thrust firmly from her chest, looking ludicrous on her slender frame. They redefined the term 'top heavy', both in sight and in sensation, as they seemed to drag forward on her chest like a out-of-place counterweight, dragging her body off balance and forcing her back muscles to work overtime to keep her upright. Elegance in movement and shape was gone, lost in the sheer immensity of those massive, unbelievable, freakish endowments that ruined the 'perfect' image she'd never wanted in the first place, making her some sort of bizarre...

* * * * *

One hundred and twenty seven miles (five yards, two feet, three-and-one-half-inches) away, 'Melissa Mountains' smiled at the photographer, pupils of her too-small eyes dilated in the bright glare of the reflected light, her too-narrow lips spread in a wide grin that revealed her too-large teeth.

"Okay, can you shift your hand just a little to the left. ?" The photographer said, and Melissa complied, her raw-boned hand gliding over the overly-taut surface of her massively enhanced silicone 'funbags'...

...then shooting up to her temple as a wave of pain struck her...

* * * * *

...image of utterly perfect femininity. She was just so utterly gorgeous that it boggled the...

"What the. ?" Kara gasped, her mind screeching to a halt as her dark, seductive eyes widened in confusion.

<Since we're stuck with them, we might as well enjoy them. right?>

"Uh. " Kara gasped, a frown crinkling her forehead as she tried to come to grips with a suddenly and radically altered outlook. Though she knew that the reflection in the mirror hadn't changed, and she knew that - just a moment ago - she'd thought she'd looked ludicrous, she now found that she loved the sight of the gigantic tits thrust so proudly from her chest. Though still not happy with being forcibly introduced to womanhood, and knowing she hadn't felt this way a second ago, it didn't change the fact that she loved her massive new

'funbags'. She loved the sight of them, the weight of them on her chest reminding her how much more attention she got from men now, not like when she'd just been a scrawny, funny-looking little girl back in...

"Whoa, whoa!" Kara said, shaking her head as her mind once more came shuddering to a stop - she knew that wasn't her thought...

...yet, at the same time, it felt 'natural'. She felt as if she'd spent most of her life as unattractive, but now - thanks to her gigantic, perfect tits - she was desirable, sexy, able to fulfill her long delayed...

"This is just too weird... and confusing..." Kara said, softly, as she idly slid her hands across her massive new tits, enjoying the sensation. Although it was her first time touching the gigantic globes, the actions and the sensations felt familiar, almost habitual, as if she'd done it a thousand times.

<Don't worry - you'll get used to it.>

"I don't want to get used to it!" Kara snapped.

<Temper, temper.> The Voice admonished. <Come on, let's call a cab, then finished getting ready.>

{Getting ready?} Kara thought, hesitantly. {If you're thinking that we're going to go out somewhere, then...}

<Gee - with the new mindset, we'd probably love having even bigger tits. The pain would only last for a second...>

Kara was horrified to find that - for an instant - she was tempted. Then the memory of the pain drove the temptation away, and she finished her thought...

...sort of.

{...then I guess I'd better pick something sexy to wear...}

Part of her was horrified by her 'easy' acceptance - and that way that another part of her was practically drooling at the thought of stuffing her glorious mounds into a sexy little dress...

<Geez - not something that cheap...> the Voice said, scornfully. <I think you need some 'help'...>

* * * * *

In a one-hundred and fifty mile radius around the house, eighty-nine different women suddenly experienced a bright, migraine-like flash of pain that tapered down almost immediately into a low throbbing that slowly faded away.

* * * * *

Jack downed the last of his beer and eyed the bottom of the glass with a sigh. He was two drinks in, and barely feeling the alcohol, and still wasn't sure whether or not getting dumped and fired in the same week was worth getting shit-faced over - especially considering he'd be living off his none-to-magnificent bank account until he found his next job.

Oh, what the hell...

Dropping the glass to the bar, the skinny, bespectacled young man said "Barkeep! Another flagon of ale, and keep them coming!"

Usually the (ex)-Video Store Clerk's rather archaic language usage (habitual, but greatly increased since he'd become addicted to EverQuest) got some sort of response. Now... nothing. Looking up, he found the bartender of the quiet, mid-range bar, nearly dead this close to closing, wasn't even paying attention to his nearly solitary customer. Instead, he was staring in the direction of the door, and Jack swiveled the barstool around and...

...seemed to turn to stone.

To say that a woman had just enter the bar would be like saying the Grand Canyon was 'a hole in the ground'. Technically accurate, but failing completely to convey the true scope and grandeur of the image.

Likewise...

'A goddess'. Yes - that would be closer. 'A walking wet dream' was good too. Perhaps 'a cross between a Duchess, a supermodel, and a porn star' was even better.

Jack's eyes started at the bottom - uh, the floor, that is. The hardwood floor of the bar's entrance, which provided a nice hard surface to allow those stiletto heels to create a wonderful 'clicking' sound as the finely-shaped feet inside of them walked across the floor, balancing easily and gracefully atop the slender heels. Once you'd seen the feet, of course, the eyes had to move upwards, following the tantalizing line of the shapely leg that flexed so seductively as it played a game of 'peek-a-boo' through the slit in the dress she wore. Black with intricate designs in silver stitching, the velvet dress was swaying almost as gracefully as the woman's delightfully rounded hips as she walked with a slow, consciously sexy walk that did odd things to a man's mind. Those hips swiveled and swayed seductively below a waist so incredibly tiny that it barely seemed possibly for her back to support what lay above.

The neckline of the dress was what was usually described as 'plunging' - and in this case, it had good reason to plunge, since its drop caused the exact same reaction in jaws. Because the low neck of that sparkling, shimmering dress displayed an eye-popping view of the most incredible, milky cleavage Jack had ever seen - cleavage created by the valley between the two most immense, incredibly spherical, and absolutely mouth-watering breasts that it had ever been Jack's pleasure to witness. Breasts that were obviously unrestrained by a bra, yet amazing firm and round as they swayed and bounced slightly - yet so enticingly - with every step she took, her enormous nipples clearly visible by the large dents they made in the fabric of the dress.

It was a struggle to tear his eyes from that incredible bosom, but Jack forced himself to do so - and found it well worth the effort as he gazed upon the incredibly gorgeous, sultry features of the woman. She was looking around as she walked across the room...

...and Jack sighed, drinking in one last, long look at her before turning away.

"Bartender!" he said, sharply and heavily. "A beer."

The man shook himself, as if awakening from a dream, and managed to place a glass under the spout and pull down the big draught handle, all without looking away.

Jack, on the other hand, couldn't bare to look back at the vision who'd just entered. He'd seen the look in her eye, and recognized it all too well from the many other times he'd seen it before - she'd been sizing up the 'options' to be had. Jack was just grateful that he'd seen her before she'd swept her gaze in his direction. Right now, he just couldn't bare to see what he always saw. The long, slow look up and down. The considering look in the eyes...

...then the dismissal, and the gaze swinging on past as if he didn't even exist.

Jack was used to that. Short, slender, sort of pale, with stringy sandy-blonde hair and glasses... what could he expect? He knew he wasn't exactly a 'babe magnet'. If the bar had been empty, he might not have been so quick to turn away, but the only other patrons in the bar was the trio of college students in the booth on the other side of the room - the fit, athletic types, and (from their loudly spoken comments) 'winding down' after an unsuccessful night of trolling the local clubs.

In fact, he heard the disgustingly handsome blond's voice calling from the booth now, the tones smooth and suave and confident in a way that Jack's never, ever were - outside of his dreams, of course.

"Excuse me, miss, but could we entice you into having a drink or two with us?" Jack could almost hear the smooth smile that came with the words. "You see, we figure if we see you drink something, we'll now for sure that you're real, and not some sort of wonderful dream..."

"I'm sorry, but no..." She said, in a voice as every bit as seductive and richly feminine as you could expect. "I'm afraid that I'm waiting for somebody..."

"...a gentleman who can truly appreciate a lady like me."

The last part of that was spoken very quietly. Almost too quietly to be heard. In fact, the only reason that Jack heard it at all...

...was because they were practically whispered in his ear, the woman's breath warm across his earlobe as her full, luscious lips passed by as she slid into the stool next to his - not from the 'open' side, but stepping in between that one and his so her body (those breasts!) slid across his half-turned-away upper torso, her face passing right past his before he was even aware she was there.

That ignorance didn't last very long, though - even if he'd been able to ignore the light-yet-definite sensation of that magnificent bust brushing over his arm, even if he'd missed those words practically whispered in his ear, or even the faint-yet-definite perfume that wafted its heady odor to his nostrils, the sheer electric presence of the woman would have sufficed to alert him.

For an instant, Jack thought that he must have surely fallen asleep, and this was all some sort of dream - or fantasy.

His next thought, also and instant long, was about how ironic it would be if this was real - and he just keeled over from the heart attack he could feel coming on as his heart stopped dead in his chest.

The heart attack never materialized. To make up for its pitiful performance, it resumed beating at triple speed, and he could feel a flush suffusing through his body and face, while all the liquid in his mouth suddenly decided to migrate to his palms and armpits.

The stool he was sitting on began to turn, ever so slowly, as if slow motion. Numbly, Jack realized with some surprise that the stool was turning because he was turning it - apparently (amazingly) he still had some sort of control over his body.

Then, a minor miracle occurred. As the stool turned enough that she began to come into view (like the Sun sliding from the shadow of an eclipse), Jack was able to keep his eyes from sliding down to that magnificent cleft, laying oh-so-close and oh-so-well-displayed, and instead managed to actually meet the dark, sensuous eyes that were looking at him.

Dimly, Jack wondered if he could possibly remember how, exactly, 'speech' worked...

* * * * *

<What the...? What the hell are you doing! There's three perfectly good studs practically drooling over us in the corner!>

{Shut up.}

<But.. this guy's a.. a.. a weenie!>

{So was I, remember? Look, you're the one forcing us to seduce somebody. I certainly don't want to do this - but if I am going to do it, at least let me pick the guy.}

<But... him?>

{Look - not only will he be kinder and more considerate, but he'll be grateful as hell. Trust me, I know. As long as I have to go through with this, I can at least make sure that somebody really enjoys this.}

<Fine. Go ahead, do it your way. But just for that, you're on your own. I'm not going to help you.>

{Gee. Thanks. Now shut up.}

* * * * *

Jack numbly fumbled for something to say - anything to say. Anything at all...

...and couldn't think of a single thing to say to her. He was aware that time seemed to be running incredibly slow, but that didn't mitigate the fact that he was taking an eternity to say something...

Then, a miracle. Something popped to mind. He still couldn't think of a single thing to say to her, but...

Keeping his eyes locked onto hers, he found his face tuning in the general direction of the bartender, and his lips opening... "Drink, a bartender for the lady..."

His brain short-circuited and every function stopped. He couldn't even move, his eyes locked on her glorious face as he had a complete core meltdown at his shear, unadulterated idiocy.

She spoke. That glorious, rich voice was kind, even a trifle sad, as she said...

"No, thanks. Just one bartender and I'm utterly plotzed. How about a drink instead?"

And then, incredibly - she grinned. Really grinned, a genuine smile that curved those gloss-red lips and reached up into those glorious dark eyes of hers.

And then she laughed. Not at him, but inviting him to join in so that she could be laughing with him, and Jack found himself chuckling, then laughing along with her. Somehow, the laughter made everything seem so simple, so obvious, and he was amazed to find he knew exactly what the next move was. He held out his hand, still chuckling.

"Jack."

She took his hand gently and shook it. "Kara. Kara Lott..."

* * * * *

{Kara Lott? It sounds like a god-damned porn star's name. Hey! I thought you weren't going to interfere!}

<Not quite. I said I wasn't going to help. >

* * * * *

Jack blinked. "Really?" Then he flushed. "I, uh. "

Kara seemed to ignore the startled question, eyes no longer focused on his and her grin fixed, as if she'd 'zoned out' on him. "Jeez, I'm a fargin' genius... Both feet at once. " Jack berated himself, half out loud.

Her eyes snapped back into focus, and the grin became genuine again. "Hey, hey - don't worry about it. there are times when I don't believe it myself. My parents were... to cute to live, I guess. I know it sounds strange. "

"No, no!" Jack said - and now he was grinning. "The reason I was so shocked was the fact I'd met somebody who's parents were as twisted as mine."

She blinked. "Uh... 'scuse me?"

Somehow, Jack managed to contrive a bow while seated on a barstool, and introduced himself fully. "Miss Lott, you can now say, quite honestly, that you do know Jack Schitt..."

She blinked twice - then burst out laughing. "Oh - this is just too rich!"

* * * * *

<Holy shit!>

{What?}

<You.. you're actually enjoying this!>

{Huh? What the hell are you...?}

<Wait for it... here it comes...>

{Holy Shit!}

* * * * *

Suddenly, her laughter vanished and a startled look blossomed on her face. Jack frowned in confusion. "Uh... something wrong, Kara?"

She gave him an odd look, as if seeing him for the first time, but didn't say anything. "Uh... Kara?" Jack prompted, wondering what was going on.

When she spoke, her voice was vague. "Uh... just give me a second, okay...?"

Her eyes once more slipped out of focus, as if she were concentrating on a sound only she could hear.

* * * * *

{Please tell me that you're doing this...}

<Nope. Oh, some of it comes from the thirty-eight percent of your mind that I've altered from stealing memories to give you all the right skills and mannerisms - you got some 'feminine bleed-over'. The rest of it, though... that's all you.>

* * * * *

"Sorry." Kara apologized with a weak smile. "It just seemed so unlikely that... well, it took me a minute to assimilate it."

"That's all right." Jack allowed... since he'd spent those few seconds she'd been 'zoned' by staring at her magnificently-displayed bust.

* * * * *

{Mmmm... look at him. He loves my tits. That gets me so hot that... Hey! Dammit, all this screwing around with my mind is confusing me. I know I should be getting turned on by a guy looking at my tits.}

<Maybe - but you are.>

{Damn! Are you sure it's only thirty-eight percent?}

<Get used to it, Kara - you're getting turned on by a man...>

{Oh, God.. I don't know if I can deal with this...}

* * * * *

Jack realized that he hadn't shifted his gaze fast enough, and she'd caught him staring...

...but before he could even begun to flush, much less apologize, and odd smile slipped across her lips, and she leaned forward, giving him and even better view...

...then she suddenly flushed and pulled back, looking away suddenly.

The fact that she was embarrassed about doing such a 'come on' action was strangely endearing - despite her build and her elegant- yet-sexy clothing, Kara obviously wasn't a tease or a flirt... yet she was 'sort of' flirting...

...with him!

She finally managed to bring her eyes back around, but they still wouldn't meet his. Instead, she was looking down, as if afraid to look at him directly.

"Excuse me for a second - I have to.. powder my nose." She said, and her voice was almost trembling as if she were nervous. A woman like her nervous? Talking to him? It didn't seem possible.

Rising with an unconscious elegance, Kara headed towards the bathroom. Although moving elegantly, she was obviously moving quite quickly - she must really have to go, since she was all-but-jogging when she pushed open the door to the ladies room and went in.

* * * * *

<What are you doing?>

{No. No, I can't do it. I can't go through with it.}

<What?>

{I can't seduce another man. I.. just can't.}

<Sure you can. Hell - you're actually enjoying it...>

{I KNOW! And that doesn't make it better. It makes it worse. I.. I have to go home. I don't care what you do to me, I won't...}

<Look in the mirror.>

{...seduce another... huh? What?}

<Just look in the mirror and tell me what you see.>

{I see... I see me - us, I mean. A gorgeous woman. With full, soft lips. Long, sexy legs. Gorgeous, perfect tits. A spectacular ass.}

<...and while you were looking at them and admiring them, what were you thinking about?>

{Huh? Why, I was... oh, God! No!}

<Yes - you were imagining what it would be like to have Jack fondling and kissing you. Thinking about how great fucking and sucking him would feel. Don't deny it - we both know that your panties are practically dripping right now. You're so horny you just want to drag him in here and...>

{No! I don't WANT to!}

<Oh, really? Give it up, Kara. Go ahead and seduce him. Give in...>

{NO! I'm walking out of this bathroom, and straight out the door. I'm going home - and if you need to drive me crazy and take control of this body all on your own, then that's what you'll have to do to stop me!}

<Actually - I've been thinking, and I have a better idea...>

{Huh? Wait, what are...}

* * * * *

Jack felt a sudden... not pain, exactly. More like a low pressure, centered behind his eyes. Frowning, he started to raise his hand to his face...

...then stopped in mid motion, his face going utterly blank as he fell into a deep, senseless trance. While his conscious mind stopped working altogether, his subconscious was very busy...

After several minutes, he blinked and shook his head and finished bringing his hand to his face, even though the pressure was already fading.

"What the...?" Jack asked himself, quietly, feeling as if he'd just awakened from a long, deep sleep.

* * * * *

{Ahhhhh! Uhhgnnnn.. Uhh...}

<There, there - the pain's over now. So - how do you feel?>

{What.. what have you done.. to me...?}

<Oh, just made you incredibly empathic with good ol' Jack. From now on, you'll know exactly how he's feeling, and even how he'd feel given any particular response or action you made. For instance - how would he feel if you just walked out on him, as you were planning to do?>

{Oh, God - no, no don't do this.. oh god...}

<Hard to do anything the slightest bit 'unkind' to somebody when you feel their emotions, ain't it. If you really want to walk out, go ahead

- but you get to live with the way it would make you feel. On the other hand... if you make him happy, then you will feel happy too. Think about it.>

{Oh.. oh god..}

* * * * *

Hearing the door to the ladies' room open, Jack swiveled the stool around to face in that direction. Kara emerged from the bathroom... and Jack stiffened.

Some of him more than the rest.

She was walking differently. It was subtle, but definite - though still elegant, it had more sinuous movement in it - her entire body was swaying and rotating as she walked, emphasizing every curve and line of her amazing figure. It was, quite simple, the most seductive, enticing walk Jack had ever seen in his life.

As she walked, she was looking casually around, as if just glancing about... but Jack caught the way her eyes kept sliding towards him, even if she never quite seemed to turn her face directly towards him.

And he certainly couldn't miss the slight, but definite smile that formed on her lips when she caught him staring, gape-jawed, at her sensual sway.

Even when she slid onto the stool beside him, it was done in a way that made her entire body move, her breasts pushed forward towards him and displaying themselves to his eager gaze as she settled her full, delicious ass onto the stool... and crossing her legs just happened to press her right leg (completely clear of the dress up to her thigh) firmly against his.

Now her eyes met his, and they reflected the sexy, seductive smile on her full, sexy lips.

* * * * *

<So - how's it feel to play the ultimate vamp? You're quite literally being his perfect fantasy woman in every motion and gesture...>

{I.. I hate.. ...love.. it.. I... Oh, God - it makes him feel so good.. so horny.. so I feel so good.. and so horny.. and I don't want to do this and I don't want to stop doing this.. I can't stop.. I...}

<Just stop fighting it, and give in...>

* * * * *

"Sorry to take so long, Jack.." She said, with a warm smile.

Jack blinked - he'd half-expected her voice to be more husky and hungry, like actresses in the movies always did when they were putting on the full show.

Instead, her voice was warmer, more friendly and intimate...

...which Jack found even more incredibly sexy and arousing and exciting. The other voice would have been pure sex, as if the only thing on her mind was to have sex. But this one - this one made it seem if she wanted to have sex... with him. Only him - not just anybody would do, she wanted Jack Schitt.

"That.. That's all right." Jack managed, his eyes sliding down to that magnificent bust again...

...and she pulled her shoulders back, making her already enormous endowments even more prominent.

"Jack..." She said, and now her voice was.. almost hesitant. "I know how this sounds, and... well - I can tell what you're thinking..." Jack flushed, and opened his mouth to either deny it, or at least apologize...

...but she was still talking.

"...and, I know I shouldn't just come out and say it, but... I'm thinking the same thing."

Jack's mind quickly provided the wittiest, most incisive response to that comment that he could possibly formulate.
"huh?"

She leaned forward, letting her massive breasts brush lightly against his arm, her lips only an inch away from his ear.
"Let's get out of here, and back to my place."

Her hand slid oh-so-lightly across his crotch, one long nail tracing an outline of his rock-hard cock. "Check please...!"

* * * * *

Giving her address to the cab driver, Kara leaned back and looked at Jack, a smile playing on her full lips. "Well?"

"Uhh..." Jack said, puzzled.

The smile broadened. "Well, don't just sit there - kiss me, silly."

"Oh, well - if you insist..." Jack said. Somewhat nervously, he slid his arms around her body - and felt her melt into his embrace, her huge bust pressing firmly against his chest as she tilted her face up to his, her eyes sliding closed as she puckered her lips.

He kissed her. Hesitantly, at first - but that didn't last long. Soon, he was kissing her thoroughly. Passionately, but not the hungry, frantic kissing quite often shown in movies - a long, slow, deep kiss.

He'd never kissed - or been kissed - this well before, but it was as if she knew exactly what he wanted to do - and, more importantly, as if that was exactly what she wanted him to do.

It was as if he'd known her his entire life, knew exactly what she liked - and was able to provide it, while reaping the benefits of her returns, as if she knew exactly what he liked.

It was the most incredible kiss he'd ever experienced.

* * * * *

{Mmmm... This is the most incredible kiss I've ever experienced. I never knew a kiss could feel so good...}

<That's it, girl - stop fighting and go with the flow. I told you you'd find pleasure if you stuck with me.>

* * * * *

It was almost a shame to break of the kiss when the car arrived at her house, a small-but-elegant Victorian house in an incredible state of preservation, deep in the middle of nowhere.

Leaning firmly against his side, she walked with him to the front door and let them in, neither hanging back nor leading him. It was as if they had the exact same agenda and the exact same schedule for getting there.

"This way..." She said, gesturing, and he followed her directions to the stairs and started up, feeling the warmth of her body pressed against his, and the almost overpowering sense of her femininity washing over him. He was eager for what was to come - but no longer anxious. He knew that it would happen, and there was no need to hurry. Though they'd known each other less than half an hour, he could sense her intentions, her moods - or maybe she could sense his. It didn't matter. They were moving almost as one person.

He noted the smashed doorway to one of the bedrooms as they passed, but this hardly seemed the time to bring it up...

"Locked myself in..." She said, with a chuckle, her hand making circular motions over his stomach as they kept walking down the hall. He glanced at her in surprise, then smiled. "You read my mind, Kara."

"Mmmm... it's not that hard." She said, smiling. "Right now, it's a one-track recording."

Her hand slipped downwards, and began to unbutton his pants as she guided him into a room at the end of the hall, letting him turn on the light.

"Sit down on the bed..." She said, gesturing. "I want to do this right."

Obediently, he sat on the end of the bed and kicked off his shoes as she faced him, her body slowly swaying to music that only she could hear. Smiling warmly at him, her eyes never breaking contact, she reached behind her slender neck and tugged on the bow holding the straps of the dress in place. Letting it pop open, she slowly peeled the twin black fabric triangles of the dress' top down, exposing her huge, firm tits to his eager gaze.

Freed, they jiggled slightly - but barely sagged at all. Taking in a long, slow breath between her teeth, Kara gently massaged her massive, round tits, then slowly approached Jack. She turned around. "Unzip me?"

Jack complied, and the dress slid down her long, sexy legs and to the floor, exposing the black leather corset she wore - and her firm, round ass, barely covered by the black lace panties she wore.

Ever-so-slowly, she slid those panties down her nylon-clad legs - then sat down, wiggling her firm ass over his rock-hard cock.

Moaning in pleasure, he reached around and let his cupped hands fill with her massive, firm mounds. He began to fondle and caress the magnificent mounds as she moaned in reply to his touch.

Spreading her legs around his, she used her delightfully muscled legs to lift herself slightly off of him - and performed a remarkable feat, managing to get his pants and underwear off without having to change position or have him break contact with her massive boobs. He grinned at her talent.

After another moment, she regretfully pulled away from him and turned and smiled at him, her long, slender fingers unbuttoning his shirt and tossing it aside, leaving him naked except for his socks and his glasses.

"Let me guess..." She said, licking her full lips and sliding her hands over the leather corset's glossy surface. "You want me to leave the rest on, for now..."

"If you wouldn't mind.." Jack said , huskily. He thought the sight of here dressed in corset, nylons and heels, crotch and bust bare, was the most erotic sight he'd ever seen.

"Oh, I don't mind..." She said. "It makes me feel deliciously naughty." She gave him a 'deliciously naughty' smile to prove it. "And you know what a naughty girl would do right now...?"

"What's that...?" Jack asked, half hoping...

Ever so sensuously, she sank to her knees in front of him, wrapping her hands around his cock, which was harder and more eager then it had ever been in his life.

"Oh..." Jack moaned, in pleasure - then a tiny stab of guilt made him say: "You... don't have to do this..." "Oh - but I want to..." She said, her head lowering.

* * * * *

{I want to - I really want to. Oh, god, why do I want to do this and how come I'm so eager and why am I taking a cock into my mouth like this and...}

{oh..}

{oh, god.. that.. feels good. I.. I like the feel of a cock in my mouth. The taste of it. the sensation. I.. I'm sucking a man's cock.. and.. and really, really enjoying it...}

<I copied the skill from a woman who loves sucking cock. Seems like she'd be the best at it, right?>

{Oh.. thank you.. I.. Oh, god.. I love this.. I just wish.. his cock was..}

<Well - that can be arranged, you know...>

* * * * *

Jack moaned in exquisite pleasure. He was leaning back, his weight braced on his backwards-extended arms, head rolled back and eyes closed as he enjoyed the most incredible blow-job he'd ever had in his life. Not that he'd had very men - but he'd never even dreamed it could feel this good. Hell - it even felt as if his cock were getting even bigger and harder and thicker, it was so good.

He was moaning and gasping now - mostly, repetitions of his new Goddess' name as she gave him the most incredible pleasure he'd ever felt in his life. He felt himself nearing the edge, and gasped out a warning - but her full, soft lips never left his cock as she continued her ministrations right to the end.

Then he snapped forward, eyes flashing open and locking on the top of her head as he came, his body trembling in the grasp of the orgasm.

Still her mouth was locked around his cock, slurping away at swallowing all his cum - and there seemed to be an incredible amount of it. It was as if he had a limitless supply of the warm, thick jism as it gushed oh-so-orgasmically from his member and straight down her incredibly skilled throat.

Then, with a wet, slurping sound, she slid her mouth off his cock...

...and he gasped in shock.

There, between his legs, was a large, thick cock that put his old four-incher to shame. It was at least eight inches long, and its girth matched its new length...

...and it was still as hard as a rock, ready to go again without needing any time to recharge.

"Oh, god - your cum tastes so good..." Kara gasped, and though the words were like a line from a porno film, the tone wasn't - it was a tone of shock, of surprise.

A pleasant surprise, obviously - but the indication that, no matter her exquisite skill, she wasn't usually an 'eager cock-sucker', but that there was something special about him, was almost enough to make his ego explode.

Licking the last of his salty cum from her full lips, she looked at him, her shocked expression transforming into a smile. Then she began to make a low, growling sound in her throat.

Before Jack could respond, she flexed her long, sexy legs, throwing herself upwards and knocking him backwards on the bed. Still growling, she began to slide her massive tits back and forth across his bare chest.

"Looks like you're ready for round two, big boy..." She - almost literally - purred, smiling wickedly. "God knows, I'm ready."

Grabbing him, she rolled over on the queen-sized bed, pulling him on top of her - hardly a subtle move. He got the hint.

"Well..." He said, rolling his eyes. "If you insist..."

"Damn straight, Jack..." She said, spreading her nylon-clad legs wide, exposing her hot, wet cunt. "Take me, lover-boy - but be warned. Once you've had me, you're mine for life. I'm never letting you go, Jack."

Though her words were spoken in a laughing tone, there was no doubting the seriousness underlying that tone...

...or the look in her eyes. Though there was lust there, it was mixed with... fear. Anxiety.

* * * * *

{Oh, god, say yes.. say yes.. say yes... anything, I'll do anything, but don't ever leave me...}

<Kara? Kara, what are you doing?>

{Please, of please, of please, say you'll stay...}

<Kara? Kara! Answer me!>

* * * * *

"Kara?" Jack asked, startled.

He could hear the fear in her voice, even though she tried to mute it. "I.. I need you, Jack. I know we just met, and I know how... strange this sounds. But... it's like I've been waiting all my life for you. As if I know you already. I need you to be happy. I need you to please me, and I need to please you. Please... please stay..."

Jack was stunned - this had come out of nowhere. Yet... it was also strangely resonant with him. that sense of already knowing her had been building ever since he'd met her. Though it was damned strange to have a woman he'd just met literally begging him to stay with her...

...it was also like a fantasy come true. Especially considering how absolutely incredible she was, in body and mind.

* * * * *

<Oh, SHIT! Kara, snap out of it! Kara, you're losing it! You don't have to do this - just let me get control, and I can break the empathic bond. You DON'T NEED to have him forever - you're just tied into him right now. Now, stop 'hogging' or mind, and let me...>

{Please, of please, I need him, I need him, anything for him, anything to make him happy, anything..}

<KARA! KARA, LISTEN TO ME. !>

* * * * *

Jack smiled, gently. "Is that really, truly what you want, Kara. For me to stay with you. to be your.. lover? In all possible meanings of the word?"

"Yes, Jack - oh yes." Kara said, eyes sliding closed - but not before Jack saw the hope replacing the fear. Her lips were slowly curving in a satisfied, hopeful smile. "Love me, Jack - and make love to me. "

"I will.. my love.." Jack answered, gently.

Then he gently positioned himself, feeling her warm body beneath his. Slowly, he pressed the head of his enlarged, throbbing cock against the outer lips of her sopping wet cunt...

...then paused, feeling a moment's guilt and hesitation. What if she were. crazy? Or something? Maybe drunk, or high. Taking advantage of her would be wrong. He'd never be able to live with himself. This sense that they knew each other might be an illusion, and...

"It's not an illusion, Jack." Kara said, clearly. "I'm not drunk or high - though I might be a little crazy from the sheer force of my need." Jack gasped.

"That need, Jack - that's what I have to obey. I.. feel you. I can feel your thoughts. I know it sounds strange, I know it's weird. but I can.

I need you, Jack - to make me whole, I need to make sure that you are whole. We're meant for each other, Jack." Then she bucked her hips, driving her cunt upwards and impaling herself on his cock...

...and, suddenly, Jack could 'feel' her, too. Weakly, but most definitely - so strong was her need, it was 'leaking' back down whatever mental link she had with him, and he knew that - while her own ego and personality were intact - her overriding purpose in life was to be with him. It wasn't really a case of her being a slave to his desires - but the fact that they shared the exact same desires at the exact same times, and nobody in the entire universe could satisfy each of them as well as the other...

* * * * *

<Oh, god-fucking-damn! Kara, you stupid, stupid bitch, I should have driven you insane and taken control when I had the chance. this weenie reminds you so strongly of your old, male self that you 'really' became empathic with him - and that doubled the strength of the one I imposed on you! I KNEW I should have forced you to pick one of those studs instead of this geek. Kara! Kara, listen to me. YOU

HAVE TO STOP! You have to let me break the link. If you orgasm with this nerd, it'll be so mind-numbingly perfect that you'll be spoiled for anybody else, and I won't be able to get a real man to fuck us... KARA. LET GO AND GIVE ME CONTROL..!>

* * * * *

"Oh, God.. oh yes..!"

They both shouted the same words at the same time - not surprising, since their bodies were moving in perfect physical harmony, each one providing the maximum amount of pleasure for the other.

The mental link that had been formed between the two of them was stronger then it had ever been intended to be - though 'Kara' possessed it the most powerfully, an unused portion of Jack's brain had also come to life under the prodding of Kara's link to his mind, and now a weak-but-definite telepathic bond joined them. From Jack's side, it was so weak that he could only sense the general emotions of Kara, for the most part - but when so intimately engaged, such as now, the link couldn't help but strengthen, and now each could feel the other's pleasures, and 'coordinate' their actions to bring the best mutual satisfaction that could be arranged.

Each of them had a solidly intact 'ego', a separate personality that kept them from merging into one person. For Jack, that was the one he'd always had...

...but for 'Kara', it was one formed from a melange of sources. Thirty-eight percent of it was 'stolen' from other women. The rest of it, however, was the core-persona of the person who'd once been Kurt...

...who, under the prompting of The Voice, had finally 'given in'. In giving in, that personality had given in completely, embracing her new, feminine, side whole-hearted.

So much so that she couldn't even hear The Voice anymore - here new personality had slipped too far away from her base one to allow any meaningful communication between them. It's plaintive cries were little more then noise to Kara - and that same 'slippage' meant that The Voice could no longer 'take control'. It was too far out of phase... and getting weaker.

The subconscious command that had been implanted in the then-Kurt's brain had nearly been met. It would take one, last think for the new woman to be truly 'alive' - and then the Voice (the split-personality Kurt had subconsciously created to fulfill that command) would be superfluous.

"The moans of the lovers had become wordless sounds of pleasure as they continued to move in perfect harmony - because words were redundant to them, engaged in far deeper - and more meaningful - communication.

Communication that reached it's ultimate expression in that single, mind-shattering instant as they both reached orgasm, simultaneously, their bodies shaking with the shear force of the pure, unadulterated pleasure that seared through every nerve and ran down every synapse...

* * * * *

The Voice's world began to collapse. With every condition met - with the woman Kurt had 'dreamed up' no fully alive and existing, The Voice was no longer needed, and the portion of Kara's brain that housed it began to dim, the neurons slowing as it headed for shutdown. In seconds, the brain would be back to almost normal capacity, if in a completely new configuration - only the empathic bond would remain of the phenomenal powers that had briefly - and unconsciously - been created to serve her subconscious need.

Except...

Except that Kurt had always been very imaginative. Anybody who'd even known him had commented on it - how incredibly detailed he could make his fantasy worlds, how amazingly well his mind could render imaginary images and characters.

So well, in fact, that The Voice wasn't some two-dimensional 'image' created as a 'solution' in Kurt-now-Kara's mind. So well had it been imagined that it had become a fully formed consciousness, not only unaware of it's origin, but truly believing the 'ghostly' background Kurt had given it to be the truth.

In short - for all intents and purposes, the Voice was alive. It didn't want to die.

As the neurons slowed almost to the point when the cascade failure of The Voice's consciousness would begin, The Voice made one last, desperate attempt to save itself from oblivion...

* * * * *

Panting, the two lovers collapsed back to the bed, still entwined. "That was..." Jack started..

"...absolutely, unbelievably..." Kara took over smoothly..

"...fantastic." they finished in perfect chorus, the empathic bond slowly fading towards it's 'dormant' state.

They smiled at each other.. then Jack was surprised to see Kara's smile slowly fade, forming into a look of embarrassed guilt. "What is it, honey?"

She sighed. "Uh.. Jack? You remember when I said that I was created for the purpose of being with you?" "Yeah?"

"Well, it's kinda more true than it sounded. You see... I, uh, don't 'officially' exist - and somebody who does is now missing." "Uh... huh?"

"Take a deep breath, lover." Kara said...

...and she began to explain...

* * * * *

Blinking groggily up at the ceiling, the tall, row-boned man wondered what had woken him.

Fumbling over the bed-side table with one hand, he located his thick-rimmed black glasses and slipped them on his face. Yawning and running a hand through his close-cropped, sandy-blond hair, he peered at the glowing red numerals on his bedside clock.

"Quarter to four?" he mumbled, with another yawn. "Geez, just what I need - insomnia."

Shivering, he took off his glasses again and lay back down. Wrapping the blankets tightly around his body to ward off the strangely bitter chill, he let his eyes slide shut in the hope that he could drift back to sleep.

His eyes popped back open in an instant, however, as an eerie, feminine voice floated out of the darkness. "Steve.... I need you. I want to live again..."

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: In a drunken stupor, a man mistakenly drinks water from a spring near a government project which transforms him into a female. Found on the side of the road, he is taken to a psychiatric hospital where his mind is transformed to fit his new body.

Miss Diagnosed

By Gunslinger

Jason staggered, his feet falling unevenly on the gravel that lined the side of the road. The tall, slightly pot-bellied youth paused for a second, blinking down at the rough ground beneath his feet.

"God - I shouldn't of had that last Boilermaker." The youth said, slurring his words. Throwing his head back, the tall young man took a long, deep breath, trying to clear the alcohol-spun cobwebs from his mind. He looked up and down the lonely rural road he was traversing, closing one eye for a better view as he looked down the narrow strip of asphalt lying silent and dark beneath the bright silver glow of the full spring moon. Seeing no traffic, he staggered across the road.

Jason Masters had only moved up to this sparsely populated rural area a week ago - but already he'd discover one of the major advantages. The local bar/hotel/grill sold cheap booze. A little too cheap - Jason, who had moved because his state of finances made living in the city impossible, didn't own a car. His new home, a small cabin-like shack that rented for less than his apartment in New York had, was a good five miles away from the small town. And the Taxi service in town stopped running after ten - leaving the youth staggering home in the dark.

Now he pushed aside a few anemic saplings and knelt beside the small spring he'd seen gushing out of the hillside and into the culvert below. Scooping up the ice-cold water, he doused himself with it, shivering and letting out an inadvertent sound as the glacial water trickled down his spine. Cupping his hands, Jason took several long drinks from the spring.

Had he been from anywhere else but New York, he might have noticed the odd, metallic taste of the water that he swallowed. But after a life time of New York City water, it didn't even occur to him - especially in his state - that the water shouldn't have tasted that way.

Of course, had he not been less than perfectly sober, he might also have noticed that the spring was emerging from the hillside whose summit was covered by a sprawling, government-run 'test farm', complete with Government Issue 'No Trespassing' and warning signs.

And if he had been sober, he probably would remember that there was no Government run farm between the town and his new home. For that matter, that - had he actually been on the right road - he should have reached a bridge over a creek by now, the half-way marker he'd told himself to remember on the way into town.

But Jason, completely oblivious, merely staggered back to his feet and continued onward.

In his drunken state, it didn't really register until nearly two hours later that he'd been walking for way too long - and that nothing looked even vaguely familiar. He might not have even noticed that if it hadn't been for the violent cramping in his bowels that had occasioned a quick run into the woods - for the past while, he'd been feeling steadily worse. Emerging from the tree-line, disorientated, he'd looked both ways up and down the road, trying to figure out which way he'd been heading - and that's when it had sunk in that he was completely and utterly lost on a dark, moonlit road just slightly to the right of the middle of nowhere.

"Oh - fuck." Jason muttered, slumping to a seated position on the gravel and gazing again up the road. "Great - I'm fucking lost." He sat there, his alcohol-bemused mind trying to come up with a plan of action - when a fact began to register on him. He blinked - then leaned forward and patted his back pocket.

"Shit!" He cursed, groping through his other pockets frantically - what he'd sensed was accurate - he hadn't been sitting on the bulge of his wallet. In fact, there was no trace of his wallet anywhere.

Jason slumped again, feeling that alcohol-intensified frustration building. As he sat, stewing, he brought a hand idly to his chest, and rubbed at his itching pectoral...

..the yanked his way with a stunned look on his face as a strong - and not unpleasant - sensation ran through his chest.

"What the hell?" Jason exclaimed. His fingers fumbled at the buttons of the faded denim shirt, finally getting them undone. Pulling the shirt open, he tugged his gray T-shirt out of his pants and rucked it up to give himself a view of his chest.

He stared blearily at his chest for a long minute, his mind not wanting to accept what he was seeing. There was no sign of the usual carpet of fine black hair that he was used to seeing spread across his chest. Instead, his skin was smooth and hairless. His nipples were swollen and projected outwards atop areola that were somewhat larger than they should be. But as disturbing as the sight was, it was the fact that the nipples were perched atop swollen nubs of flesh that startled him the most. The small, semi-conical domes of distended flesh looked for all the world like a pair of small, A-cup breasts, a resemblance that was enhanced by the womanly nipples and the lack of chest hair...

...or any body hair, he discovered, looking at his arms. An instant later, his mind amended the thought - there was still body hair, but it was so fine and light as to be all but invisible.

Panicked, Jason lowed his jeans and sated in horror at his legs. They, too, were denuded of hair, like his chest, the skin seemingly like silk in the bright moonlight. But that wasn't what prompted the sheer horror in Jason - it was the sight of his considerably shrunken cock and balls nestled between those silken thighs.

"Fuckin' shit - I'm turning into a girl!" Jason cried, staring at his shrunken manhood in horrified disbelief. The sound of his own voice - at a higher pitch than it should be - was almost enough to push him into hysterics. Hurriedly rising to his feet, he sloppily rearranged his clothing into some semblance of order, and headed down the road at as fast a pace as he could manage in a walk, looking frantically for help. His shirt - now only loosely tucked in - had room to shift with each step, rubbing against his swollen, sensitized nipples. He was also all too aware of the strange sensation in his crotch as his smooth legs moved around a shrunken manhood.

The more hurried movements also drove home another new sensation - the feel of his hair brushing against his neck. Pausing, he reached up and felt his usually close-cropped hair with his hands. It was longer, thicker and silkier, hanging in wavy masses to his jaw- line.

Pulling his hands away from the growing, thickening mass of hair, he got a good look at them - and stared in open-mouthed disbelief at he changed configuration, with the slender fingers, dainty wrist and lengthening fingernails. It was no longer a man's hand, but a mannish-looking woman's hand - and Jason had the feeling that the changes had just begun.

"Noooo!" Jason screamed up to the uncaring heavens, and continued forward, desperate for the sight of a car, or a house - any source of assistance. He needed help, needed someone to explain to him how - why - this inexplicable, horrible thing was happening to him.

Glancing down, Jason could see that his shirt was already tented out noticeably. A small part of his brain insisted in informing him that the swelling mounds atop his chest appeared to be at least a small, firm C-cup now. Already he could feel the strange new sensations of his swelling chest moving as he walked, bouncing and jiggling slightly with each step. The unfamiliar weight pulling at his chest...

...he was also aware of other continuing changes - the way his pants were becoming taut over his hips and ass, but loosening over his waist. The way his shoes were beginning to feel loose on his feet - which only proved that his feet must be shrinking, becoming more...

...feminine.

"No!" Jason screamed, again. "This isn't happening to me!" The voice that tried to deny the occurrence only reinforced it - it was now a recognizably feminine voice, albeit slightly low and husky.

Then the pain hit. Until that moment, the strange changes happening to his body had been painless, as supple flesh and sinew changed configuration. But now agony lanced through his body as much more solid bone and cartilage began to alter, assuming new shapes that they were never intended to have, much less acquire over the space of a few endless minutes.

Jason's scream rose in pitch even as it forced its way out of his altering throat. Collapsing to the ground, he shuddered under the intense pain that assaulted every nerve ending in his body. Bones in his feet and hands drew inwards, becoming smaller, as did ones in his shoulders, ankles, wrists and ribcage. At the same time, his pelvis wrenched and expanded outward even as it shifted in configuration. His face seemed to be caught in an invisible vise, bones in his jaw and cheeks reconfiguring themselves as cartilage in his nose and ears changed shape.

Pain ran through his bowels as his inner anatomy altered, his already shrunken genitalia pulling up into his body and assuming new forms, new characteristics. Pressure at his chest informed him of the rapid swelling of the tissue there as it swelled out into much larger domes of firm, feminine flesh tipped with enlarged nipples of a decidedly feminine nature. Hair blossomed out of his scalp at an incredible rate, feeling as if somebody were dragging it out by sheer force. These and thousands of other sensations coursed through his body as the rate of change accelerated.

His jeans' zipper and button burst asunder under the assault, as did the buttons on his now taut shirt. At the same time, his right shoe tumbled off of a dainty new foot too small to hold it in place. A second later, the other shoe followed suit. Jason barely noticed these minor things in the wave of agony that held him in its grip...

...until it suddenly vanished, leaving behind a deep, dull throbbing ache throughout his entire body, as if he'd spent a night sleeping on a concrete floor.

Now absolutely, stone cold sober, Jason moaned and stiffly sat up.

"Oh... my... God..." Jason whispered in a high, richly feminine voice, gazing down in mesmerized horror at the two large, firm tits thrust proudly from his chest. His shirt hung open, and his once-tight gray T-shirt was torn apart by the sudden pressure that his swelling bosom had created, exposing his new endowments to his amazed eyes. They were firm and full and round, gleaming with the silvery highlights from the moan, the rich, creamy skin the very essence of feminine abundance. A small part of his mind pegged them at an amazingly firm DDD or EEE-cup, tipped by large, frankly feminine nipples that were engorged in the cool night air.

With the same stunned gaze, he shifted his eyes to his crotch, exposed where the widening of his hips and expansion of his ass had popped open the jeans and torn asunder his briefs. The unmistakable folds of a fully formed - and presumably, fully functional - vagina lay nestled in the hairless vee between his shapely, firm, feminine thighs.

That was simply too much for Jason to handle. He did the only sensible thing to do. He screamed - and passed out.

* * * * *

"Noooo!" Jason screamed, struggling against the bonds that held him - her - in the chair. "Please, don't do this to me! I am not crazy! I'm a man - my name is Jason..."

"Please - calm down." Dr. Strathern said, soothingly. "When you... wake up, you'll feel much better, Miss Smith."

Jason struggled some more - but it was a wasted effort. The drug that would induce the powerful hypnotic trance was already coursing through her system, and she felt herself slipping away.

She'd been brought to this institution by the hospital> A farmer, driving down that dirt road, had barely managed to avoid running over her as she lay, insensate, in the middle of the road. He, quite naturally, called the ambulance. After she'd awaken in the hospital, and began 'ranting and raving' that she was a man, the hospital had transferred her to the care of Dr. Strathern, who had a system he thought would help cure her of her 'delusions'.

Now, in a deep, silent trance, she helplessly stared at the screen in front of her, which began to show images as a voice spoke, teaching her how to be a woman 'again'...

When she awoke, eight hours later, it was in a room in the institute. Without even having to ask, she knew that the treatment had been successful - because she now found herself thinking of herself as 'Jessica Smith', a woman> All her old memories were intact, but overlaying them was a new, feminine personality. She also had memories of a treadmill that taught her how to walk in high heels, a woman instructing her on her make up, and other techniques of teaching her the skills she'd need. She was no Jessie, a woman, inside and out.

Jessie looked at the clothes laying on the bed - and wanted to scream. The thought of wearing the feminine garments was both abhorrent and attractive to her divided mind. The programming that had been done to her couldn't force her to put the clothes on - she could merely spend the rest of her life nude. But if she did dress, it would have to be in these clothes - or other clothes that matched her altered form and mind.

Feeling helpless, she slumped to the bed, setting her firm endowments wobbling. Closing her eyes for a second to give herself strength, she regretfully gave into her programmed desires, and began to dress.

The soft material of the black cotton panties slid easily up her shapely, toned legs, and settled into place around her womanly hips. The sensation of the cloth against her smooth, feminine crotch felt both wrong and right to her. Likewise, the sensation of the 'nude' nylons sliding up her legs was both foreign and familiar - and slightly arousing as the smooth, negligible material encased her shapely legs, highlighting their smooth contours and toned musculature. Not only her programmed 'female' mind thought so - her buried male mentality couldn't help but admire how good her new legs looked.

Her long, slender finger moved with assurance as they picked up the plain black bra and put it in place. Though she'd never actually done this before, she did it expertly, despite the length of her nails. She fastened the garment in place, feeling it's sturdy construction enclose her firm tits and push with slight, 'enjoyable' pressure against her large, thick nipples.

The simple powder-blue cotton dress came next, and she shrugged it into place with an internal grimace. The internal discomfort grew when she found that - no matter how hard she tried - she couldn't get her fingers to do up the top two buttons of the dress, which was pulled taut over her sexy tits. The doctor's programmed command to be proud of her new tits was too strong - she gazed with resigned disgust at the 'delightful' display of cleavage that was revealed by the neckline.

The black patent-leather belt further emphasized her trim, buxom hourglass figure, drawing the dress snugly around her infinitesimal waist, and tightening the material further over her tits, out-lining her bra-encased endowments against the soft fabric.

She looked with dismay over at the make-up table. For a long moment, Jessica merely stood in the middle of the room, knowing that she'd have to do it if she wanted to get out of here - but not wanting to give in to the imposed feminine ideas in her divided mind.

Finally, the urge to get out of this nut-house was strong enough to overcome her male discomfort, and she let her long, sensual legs carry her to the table. With eerie skill, her hands set to work, brushing her hair out just so, applying make-up with a skillful touch, dabbing the inexpensive perfume here and there...

As much as she wished she didn't have to look, Jessie had no choice but to watch herself in the mirror. What she saw reflected back was a stunningly beautiful, sexy woman with a long, luxurious mane of black hair getting ready to be seen in public. A woman with a sleek, buxom body, with a beautiful, open face that carried a faint smile on it's full, soft lips. Whose bright blue eyes twinkled, and who looked completely at ease with her sensuous femininity as she moved with grace and panache.

Of the real person that lurked behind the altered body and helplessly reprogrammed mind, there was no sign. But Jessie, despite her despair, knew the truth. What had been done to her - body and mind - was, to her male mind's view, horrible. But it wasn't complete - deep inside, 'Jason' still remained. That part of her mind still determined what she did - the programming, strong as it was, only determined how she did it.

Which, to put it simply, was in a gracefully feminine manner as possible.

After applying her make-up, Jessie looked at the jewelry that had been provided - a pair of silver earrings, and slender silver chain. She looked at the jewelry for a long moment, her male mind trying to convince her female programming that she didn't need to wear it.

And she was overjoyed to discover that she could compromise with the programming laid over top of her mind. With a surge of triumph and hope, she watched as she put the earrings in place on her dainty lobes - but slipped the necklace into the purse she'd been provided. It was a small victory, to be sure - but it was a start. Feeling somewhat more hopeful, she slipped her new wristwatch onto one slender wrist.

Since everything else was ready, she walked over to the closet and looked inside to see what shoes had been provided. To her surprise

- considering how little money the institution had to spend - there was actually two sets of footwear to choose from. She felt her female programming tugging towards one set of shoes - a pair of powder-blue faux-suede pumps with a two-and-a-half inch heel.

Out of sheer cussidness, Jessie bent her will to putting on the other pair. She didn't really want to wear the black patent-leather pumps with the seven-inch stiletto heel, but she wanted to fight against her imposed mental programming. It wanted the other shoes - so she pushed to wear theses ones.

After a moments struggle... she won. Her programming 'squawked' mildly at the choice, but the slight discomfort of the disapproval was overwhelmed by a sense of victory as she slid her stocking feet into the high-heeled, pointed-toe pumps with their gold-toned spike heels. Moving easily and gracefully atop the slender metal heels, she picked up her purse and headed for the door.

"Well - you look lovely, Jessie." Dr. Strathern said, smiling. He rose from the chair he'd been waiting in. "How do you feel?" "Thank you, doctor." Jessie said, smoothing her skirt unconsciously. Her newly feminized persona generated pleasure at the complement. "As for how I feel - physically, I feel fine. I'm also a lot more comfortable in this body now. But I'm still upset that you did this to me - I don't want to be a woman, you know."

"I know - that's why I had to do this." Strathern said, gently. "You may not appreciate it now - but before too long, you'll thank me for it." "I doubt it." Jessie replied, firmly but not unkindly. "Am I free to leave now?"

The doctor nodded. "Of course" He gestured at a door at the end of the hall.

Head held high, Jessie headed for it, high heels clacking on the linoleum. Without looking back or letting herself pause at the door, she stepped through and into public as a buxom, beautiful woman.

As the door swung shut behind her, Jessie stood on the sidewalk and looked around, wondering just what she was going to do now. The institute had supplied her with some cash, and an apartment. More importantly, they'd given her a job too, as a receptionist - but it was Friday, just after five, and she didn't start work until Monday at nine. The thought of going home and just sitting there was boring, and she didn't want to do that - but her alternative was to find something to do in public - as a woman, a thought that was also uncomfortable.

"Uh - miss? Are you waiting for the bus?" A voice asked, startling Jessie out of her reverie. She hadn't even noticed the car pull to the curb and stop, just as she hadn't noticed that there was a bus stop just outside the door. But...

"Yes, I am." Jessie answered with little hesitation - she wasn't planning to stand here all night, and 'Jessie' didn't have a car. "Well, if you're going to the mall, I can give you a lift."

The mall - yes, that's what she'd do - maybe see a movie.

"Thank you." Jessie said, honestly grateful, as she opened the door and slipped in. She knew she was getting the lift only because she was a beautiful woman, but that didn't really bother her. If somebody was willing to drive her, for whatever reason, she wasn't going to turn it down. Besides - the man making the offer looked harmless enough. Even as the car merged back into traffic, Jessie frowned as she realized she'd have to be more careful - she didn't have her old masculine strength any more, and if anyone tried any 'funny business'...

But the Good Samaritan was harmless enough. He had nothing more devious in mind than to chat with a gorgeous woman while appreciating her looks from the corner of his eye. He did try to pick her up, asking her out on a date - but he was polite, almost shy, about it, and took the answer well. Jessie thanked him as she climbed out of the car at the mall, thinking that turning down a date and letting herself be ogled was a fair enough price for a free ride halfway across town.

She began to wonder around the mall, trying to get comfortable in public. As much as she hated having her mind altered, she knew she'd have to get used to being female. As impossible as her transformation to womanhood had been, the chances of getting changed back were even slimmer. No matter what happened, she'd have to learn to...

Then it hit her. She stopped, stunned, as she realized the doctor had been right - when she went back on Monday, she was going to thank him.

Because what they'd done to her was nothing more than a tool. She realized that she'd be spending her life looking like a woman - and having to deal with that fact, feeling a bit like a freak or an outcast> But here she was, in public, as a woman - and she wasn't being treated like a freak because she looked and acted like a woman should, thanks to the programming. She didn't even have to think about it - her moves, her stride, her little habits - all were easy, feminine motions now. If she hadn't had the programming, she'd be a woman still - but dressed wrong, moving wrong, everything about her subtly off - and people would have reacted to that, increasing her own sense of being a freak, her own sense of despair. What they'd done to her was the equivalent of teaching a foreigner how to fit in in America. Only she was a foreigner to womanhood, and now she was trained to blend in seamlessly. It was a boon that was priceless

- she understood that now.

Feeling more confident - but no less weird - she resumed her window shopping. She caught the glances of men towards her - but while they inspired that weird feeling, they didn't inspire fear or anxiety - the men were just admiring a beautiful, buxom woman.

After a few of those glances, Jessie came to an unbelievable - but no less true - realization. She was enjoying being admired. For a moment that made her stomach churn. Was she becoming gay or something?

Then it occurred to her that she couldn't be becoming gay - because she wasn't a guy anymore. Not only did those admiring gazes boost her self-esteem because they assured her that nobody saw her as a freak - but she was enjoying them because she was now a woman, and the men's gazes assured her she was an attractive one.

Jessie didn't want to be a woman - that was a given. But she was one anyway, and there was nothing to do about it. Since she was stuck as a woman, she was feeling the way a woman would about her body - it was hers, and whether she'd wanted it or not, it was much better to be pretty than ugly...

The thought came with such force that she had to sit down, stunned with the implications.

She was a woman. It was in a body she didn't want, and a life she didn't want. It caused all sorts of neuroses and fear in her, as well as other emotions

She was absolutely the same as everyone else.

Until this instant, she had been thinking of herself as kind of a species of one - completely different than the rest of humanity. Now, suddenly, she understood that she was basically the same. The fact that she'd been turned into a woman now was really no different than being born a woman - when you were born female, you didn't get to choose your body. You didn't get to decide how society treated you. You felt uncomfortable in some situations, you worried about how you looked, you wondered what the people who glanced at you were thinking...

Jessie was no different than any other woman - except that she had a view of the other side as well. In fact, she was better off than most women - and most men. So nobody believed her story - that didn't change the fact that she'd been granted a wondrous gift.

Suddenly she berated herself for all the time wasted being horrified at the change. Women were born female, and you didn't see them screaming about it - well, not many of them. You accepted it, and went on trying to live a full, rich life.

Right then and there, that's what Jessie vowed to do. She had been granted a gift that no-one else in the world had. She'd spent the first twenty-five years of her life as a man - and now she was a woman. One had been an accident of birth, the other an accident of another kind - but now she had a chance to live a life more fulfilling than most could dream of, being able to do more in one lifetime because she could do things now and see what they were like from the other perspective. It would be strange, and there were times when it would be uncomfortable, scary - but that's what it had been like as a man, too.

Like sex. Right now, even as the thought came to her, she found it extremely uncomfortable. Sex with a man? No way...

But, back when she'd been a male virgin, the thought of sex had been scary too - the fear of getting it wrong, at being laughed at, at hurting or being hurt by.... Now, the situation was almost the exact same, only she was a female virgin. Oh, not physically - at the hospital she'd learned that her hymen was broken when they did the standard Rape kit on her - but emotionally. The only extra fear came from ingrained homophobic feelings - which she'd have to learn to overcome, because they no longer applied to her - she was a woman now.

Stunned at the realization that her life had just begun a new, and could be wondrous and enjoyable and fulfilling, if she just let it, Jessie rose from the bench and slowly continued her window-shopping, still amazed at the stunning shift in her worldview. She now knew what people who had a religious conversion felt like - she was somewhat the same way now. Where some became devout, believing Christians after a personal catharsis, Jessie had become a devout, believing Female.

It was in that frame of mind that she realized she was passing a beauty salon having a special half-price sale on a haircut and make- over.

She paused for a second, indecisive - then shrugged, smiled and went in.

She emerged from the salon an hour and a half later feeling revitalized. Although the actual process had felt so indescribably strange, she'd taken one look in the mirror and decided it was all worthwhile - both her new feminine thoughts and her old male viewpoint agreed

- she was stunning.

Her stomach rumbled, and Jessie realized she should grab a bite to eat. She looked with distaste in the direction of the food court, then turned on one high heel and headed the other way, towards one of the three 'real' restaurants the mall boasted.

The eatery was fairly busy - as soon as she walked in, she noticed that the bar was lined with people waiting for tables to open up.

"Do you have a reservation?" the hostess asked, and Jessie shook her head, realizing that she'd picked a bad time to eat - it was just after seven on a Friday, which meant all the restaurants in the mall would be this bad. "Is there along wait?"

The hostess smiled. "About half an hour - but it would be longer for a single. Would it trouble you too much to eat with another person? There's a gentleman here who is also alone. We can seat you together, and you'd get in faster."

Jessie hesitated, mulling it over. She didn't know if she was ready to...

"I understand if you don't feel comfortable with that." The hostess said. then, lowering her voice, she leaned forward and whispered. "Personally, if I looked a beautiful of you, I'd be leery of 'wolves' to - who needs to be hit on over dinner?"

Actually, that particular variation on her current situation hadn't occurred to Jessie. She was just about to tell the hostess that she'd wait

- when her stomach growled again, voicing it's hunger. "No - seating me with him would be fine." Jessie said.

"Sure - that's the man over there." She pointed to a figure near the end of the bar.

Jessie felt a strange sensation that she couldn't place when she looked at the man. With a mop of sandy hair and a 'devil-may-care' look, the man bore a remarkable resemblance to Harrison Ford-as-Han Solo. Walking over, Jessie cleared her throat. The man - who had glanced appreciatively at her slender, buxom figure when she'd entered, looked up to meet her eyes.

Jessie held out a hand. "Hi - I'm Jessie. Since the place is so busy, the hostess suggested I share your table when it opens up - if you don't mind."

The man smiled easily. "Of course not. A little pleasant company enhances a good dinner. Why don't you have a seat here and have a drink while we wait. The name's Barry, by the way."

During the wait and the dinner, Jessie found herself smiling more often than not. It was obvious that Barry, entranced by her attractive body and beautiful face was playing the gallant for her. It was also obvious that the gallant, thoughtful act wasn't much of an exaggeration on his part - he was obviously a nice guy to begin with, and the 'act' was intended to deceive, but a sort of unconscious routine done in the presence of a beautiful woman. Jessie, having 'been there and done that' understood it perfectly - Barry was so afraid of saying or doing something to make this gorgeous woman leave that he was just being an extra bit careful.

But Jessie was thoroughly enjoying herself with him - and by the time they finished their desert, it was obvious that Barry was enjoying more than just her looks. Because of Jessie's unique past, they fell into an easy camaraderie, with Jessie enjoying many of the things that Barry did - a rarity for a woman, Barry thought, and Jessie agreed privately. She would have killed to meet a woman like herself when she was a man - so easy to get along with, almost like a guy friend, but with drop-dead gorgeous looks and the easy feminine grace and subtle body language. Of course, Jessie's femininity was a little enhanced - like Barry, she was being a little more attentive to her own actions because she didn't want to screw anything up.

The entire time, those strange feelings also continued to mount. Jessie still couldn't identify the sensations, the way her nerves tingles, the not-unpleasant sensation in her crotch that was both so similar and so different than having a full bladder. She kept shifting slightly, trying to ease the pleasant discomfort.

As they waited for the bill - which Barry had insisted he'd pay - the handsome man smiled at Jessie. "Well - I must say that has to be the most enjoyable meal I've had in ages."

Jessie laughed and slapped him easily on the shoulder. "You nit wit - you just finished complaining your Veal was too greasy and your Spaghetti too bland."

Barry shrugged. "Yeah - the food wasn't that great. But I still enjoyed the meal immensely." His smile faded - and her became awkwardly serious. "I enjoyed it because I ate it with you." He swallowed nervously, fumbling for the right words and obviously afraid that he'd scare her off. "I... I find it amazingly easy to spend time with you. To talk with you. You're... a wonderful person, Jessie, with a great sense of humor and a quick mind..."

Jessie couldn't help but smile. "And I'm not too hard on the eyes, either - right?" She saw where this was going, and although her stomach was rolling with anxiety at the situation - she felt like a pimply-faced teenager on a first date - she knew what Barry was going through was a lot worse, and decided to take him off the hook.

"I enjoyed spending time with you, too, Barry." She said - which was the honest truth. "I... haven't had much of a social life recently. Certainly not with a guy like you." Also the honest truth, but a skillful lie as well. "And to answer the question you're trying to ask - yes, I'd love to do it again sometime."

For a second, Jessie had no idea why Barry's face fell - and then it hit her. He was so tied up in his own anxieties that he'd missed all the subtle signals that revealed that she was really enjoying his company - all he heard was the words 'do it again sometime'.

Jessie own smile faltered slightly. She'd worded it that way because she still wasn't quite comfortable admitting, out loud, that she would go on a date with another guy. But her ambiguous wording had obviously come across to Barry as a polite rejection.

"Yeah." Barry agreed. "Uh... I'll give you my number, and you can give me a call sometime. "

That confirmed it - by giving her his number, instead of asking for hers, he was basically giving her an 'out', gallantly - avoiding the 'trouble' of her having to come up with a reason not to give him her number, or a fake one - or to have to put up with his 'unwanted' calls.

What Jessie didn't understand is why Barry was giving up so easily. Then, suddenly, she did. He thought she was too gorgeous, to perfect, to want to spend time with him.

Jessie couldn't bear to live him like this. Without hesitation, she just closed her eyes and leapt into the very thing she'd been so uncomfortable with. "Well, sure, and I'll give you mine. But there's no hurry - the night is young, and you said you were planning to go to the club tonight." She paused. "Unless, of course, you're trying to find a polite way of saying that you don't want me to join you. "

Barry's eyes widened. "Oh - no! I'd love it if you came along!"

Jessie smiled at the way animation flowed back into Barry - he really was smitten with her. "Great - that's decided then."

* * * * *

"Here you are, Jessie." Barry said, shouting to be heard over the heavy music. He was obviously still in awe that this beauty was here with him, and didn't want to do the slightest thing that would look like he was coming on to her, thus scaring her off. That's why he shouted, rather than lean in close. Personally, she found it amazingly endearing - he obviously wanted to try something - hell, he was so obviously attracted to her, physically, that he was practically drooling - but he also like her, as a person, that he was willing to forego even trying anything so that he could spend more time with her.

Jessie realized she was grinning at the handsome youth as he handed her the beer. Suddenly, the meaning of the strange sensations in her crotch and tits were all to clear.

She was getting turned on by the attention of the handsome young man.

Using the beer as an excuse to break eye contact with Barry, she sucked back on the bottle, mind whirling. She knew she was in trouble - it was more than just her programming that was doing this to her, it was her new body. Her nipples were hard as rocks, and her cunt felt like it was burning with a deep, pleasant flame. Her hormones were raging through her system, getting her so damned hot. Her body was incredibly horny - all her programming did was determine who she was horny for.

Jessie desperately shoved that thought aside as she lowered her eyes again - but she couldn't help but glance at the crotch of Barry's pants, which were straining with an erection. She knew that she was horny for what lay behind the taut cloth - and she knew that she was amazed to discover she was interested in Barry as a person - and a potential 'significant other'. Her raging lust saw him only as a 'living dildo' that could ease the delightful torment that her aroused body was putting her through. But her actual emotions and mind saw him as an intelligent person, one who she really, really enjoyed spending time with. One who she wanted to spend more time with - lots more.

Her male upbringing made a token protest - but that was all. She was all too aware of the fact that she was female now - it wouldn't be wrong to have sex with a man. It would be incredibly weird, because of the fact she herself was once male - but nobody would think it strange... and it would feel so good.

But she couldn't just go around fucking peoples brains out, like some sort of slut. She'd accepted that she'd have to live the rest of her life as a female - after what had happened today, it was a thought she could accept with equanimity. She could even accept the fact that she'd have an active sex life - hell, at the moment, she was looking forward to it. But she was damned if she was going to let herself become some sort of nympho slut. She'd have to control her urges, learn to deal with being horny the way any woman would have to deal with it.

"Thanks, Barry - that was nice of you." Jessie said, smiling at the handsome youth. "You want to dance?" Barry smiled. "Sure - that'd be great."

Jessie followed him out to the dance floor, and let her body begin to move with the music. Like everything else she did now, she found the movements of her new body so supple, so graceful - already she was beginning to forget what it had felt like to dance as a guy. But she didn't care that the memory of things like that were fading. Knowing what she knew now, she would have cheerfully switched her genders a lot earlier in her life - everything was so much better as a woman. the clothes you got to wear - so soft and sexy and designed to draw attention to her fabulous figure. The way she was treated, the way men became gallant, attentive,... attracted. It was like a type of mystical power - she smiled, wiggled her hips and flashed her cleavage, and guys would do anything for her. Even fuck her...

She pushed the thought back again. She was getting hornier by the minute, but control was the objective here. Back when she'd been male, it was a long, complicated maneuver to end up getting laid - now, as a woman, she could have sex just about any time, with a few simple words. But it was like having booze laying around the house - just because it was easily available didn't mean you got drunk all the time. You had to learn to be responsible about it.

The left the club shortly after ten, having been there for about an hour and a half. Though Jessie had enjoyed dancing - with Barry, her mind insisted on adding - she had begun to get a headache.

Barry led her to his car, a big old GMC pick-up painted blue - the 'Blue Meany' as he jokingly referred to it. She climbed into the passenger side of the large bench seat as Barry slid behind the wheel and pulled out of the lot.

"You know - I'm really enjoying this." Jessie told Barrie. "I don't want to go home just yet - do you want to drive around for a bit?" She didn't reveal the fact that she was almost painfully aroused, and was enjoying the intensely enjoyable discomfort. She never realized that female arousal itself felt so damned good.

Despite her omission, she was still being completely honest - she couldn't remember when she'd enjoyed herself so much. Her decision to 'let herself go femme' had been the right one - letting go of her male neurosis's had been liberating, allowing her to enjoy a truly fun evening.

Barry, however, looked startled. "Um - sure. Whatever makes you happy, milady." He smiled.

Jessie smiled back. "Honestly, Barry - I am having fun with you. You're a great guy - and I don't bite. Relax, stop treating me like a priceless objet d'art you're afraid of breaking - I promise, if you be yourself I'm not going to run away on you."

Barry gaped at her for a second - then laughed. "That obvious, huh?" Jessie nodded. "Yeah."

Barry sighed. "I'm sorry. It's just that... well, you're the most interesting girl I've ever met. You're so fun to be around, you kind and funny and gorgeous and sexy - I just didn't - don't - want to screw this up." He looked at her. "Jessie - you're an incredible woman."

Jessie felt her heart do a strange flip-flop. "Barry - you have no idea how 'just the right thing' that was to say." She smiled at him. "See - I told you it was safe to be yourself - the first five minutes of being yourself, and you say the most wonderful thing you've said all night."

She paused for a second, and her expression changed to mild awe as a thought struck her. "Jessie?"

She turned to face him, and spoke her realization. "In fact - that is the nicest thing a person has ever said to me in my entire life."

It was true - as a man, she'd never ever really received any praise. Oh, her guy friends would tell other people that he was a great ball player, or had great taste in movies, or whatever - but when they talked to him, it was always joking put-downs and insults. His few girlfriends had been more forthcoming - but it was always faint praise, the 'good stuff' saved to brag with to their girlfriends.

Jessie had never seen it before, although it was incredibly, painfully clear. Somehow, without it ever being directly said, society instilled in itself the concept that men did not get praised for who they were. You get a 'good job', or a 'way to go' - or even a 'you da man!' But nobody went up to a guy and told him 'You're a wonderful person' or 'You look great tonight'. It just wasn't done.

Jessie was still mulling over this fact when she caught sight of something down the road they were driving on. It was a drive-in movie screen, the credits of the first feature rolling up it huge, slab-like face.

"OH!" Jessie exclaimed, tapping Barry's arm. "Look - a drive in. What say we go see the second feature?" Barry blinked. "Why - what's playing?"

Jessie laughed. "Who knows - and who cares." She smiled at him. "It's just the idea of going to a drive-in. I haven't been to one in... years."

Barry laughed to, getting caught up in her... girlish excitement? Jessie thought to herself.

"Sure thing - sounds like fun." He pulled into the entrance, and paid the full admission, despite the admonishment from the attendant that they were only getting half their money's worth by coming in for the second feature.

Which turned out to be 'The Mummy'. Barry grabbed the basic necessities of Drive-in movie watching. At least there wasn't a line up for the popcorn a soda's - there were all of three other vehicles in the sprawling lot, due to the fact it was early in the season. The drive in didn't begin to fill until summer rolled around. Jessie and Barry settled into the big bench seat of the truck as the opening credits rolled.

Shortly thereafter, Barry - obviously without even thinking about it - slid over in the seat to get more leg room - the driver's position wasn't very comfortable for 'sitting back and watching'.

But Jessie was all-too-aware of the sudden nearness of the handsome man. Already turned on more than she'd ever experienced as a man, his physical presence was like a painless fire - his very maleness seemed to roll off him in waves that soaked into her own body and stocked the pleasurable fire deep in her abdomen.

Her heart pounding, Jessie leaned against Barry, letting his body heat stoke the fires even harder.

Barry stiffened slightly as she settled against him - then with an awkward attempt at a casual move, he stretched - and let his arm come to rest around her slender shoulders.

Jessie was very near to breaking her pledge to herself not to give into her desires. But she told herself she had to be strong - she wouldn't act on her desperate need in the slightest...

...unless it was in response to Barry's moves. If he initiated it - then it would be okay.

So, when Barry's hand hesitantly settled lower and cupped her large, firm tit lightly, she snuggled a little closer to him with a low moan, emboldening Barry's ministrations.

He took the hint. He began to fondle her tit, then slid his hand inside her blouse, his hand caressing her bra-encased tits and causing an intense shiver of pleasure from her engorged nipples...

Aw - the hell with it.

"Barry..." Jessie said, huskily. "Remember that hotel we passed a couple of minutes ago?"

Barry looked over. "What - you mean... now?" The question wasn't incredulous - it was just verification. "Right now."

Seconds later, the powerful engine under the hood roared to life, and grave spat out from under the rear tires.

* * * * *

The door to the hotel room popped open under Barry's fumbling grip.

Jessie backed into the room, her arms locked around Barry's neck as she kissed him passionately. Awkwardly, Barry used his leg to close the door behind him as Jessie continued to drag him backwards to wards the bed.

Reaching it, she tumbled backwards, pulling Barry down on top of her. She kissed him one last time, then broke the kiss to begin unbuttoning his shirt.

"Barry..." She moaned. "Oh, god... not only did spending the evening with you make me have fun 0 it made me so horny I can't even think straight."

Barry smiled crookedly at her. "Hey - I haven't exactly been thinking pure thoughts either - God, you're gorgeous, Jessie." "You could see a lot more if these clothes weren't in the way." She said with a pointed smile.

He took the hint, and fumbled with her clothes as she hurriedly began to undress him.

"Don't get the wrong idea, Barry..." She said. "I was planning to take it a lot slower - but I need you in me right now!"

Barry smiled crookedly. "Oh, no - you don't get off that easy, gorgeous..." he said - and bent his head to her now naked tits - and began to nipple and suck.

Jessie moaned and wrapped her hands around his head, incredulous at the intense pleasure. Barry's hands slid under her now bare ass and began to fondle and squeeze her firm, full ass.

"Oh... God... that feels so damned good..." Jessie moaned.

Then Barry began to move downwards. His lips felt like burning drops of ecstasy as he kissed his way down her belly. He reached her crotch... then detoured to the left, slowly, teasingly working down her right leg.

"Oh, Barry, you horrible, horrible man..." Jessie giggled/moaned. "God - you're making me... I think I'm going to burst!"

Barry broke off just long enough to smile wickedly at her, then continued, coming back up her other leg before reaching her crotch. He stopped - then licked gently at her cunt.

Jessie shivered as intense pleasure ran through her. He was only licking the edge of her crotch at first - then began to nibble and lick at her swollen, sopping wet clit.

Pleasure like none she'd ever felt rocked her body. Jessie cried out, praising Barry, urging him onward, to release her need...

Instead, he began kissing his way back up. After pausing for several long moments at her breasts, he pushed himself up on all fours as his lips continued upwards.

At the instant his lips met hers, he gently but firmly slid his throbbing cock deep into her wet, waiting cunt.

Jessie's intense cry of pleasure was muffled in the passionate kiss she was sharing with Barry. But there was nothing muffled about the intense bolts of pleasure that ran through her cunt and jump directly to her swollen nipples before diffusing through the rest of her body.

Barry kept his thrusts long and slow and deep, driving her incredible passion even higher even as he began to satisfy it. It was unbelievable, it was incredible - it was the most incredible thing she'd ever experienced.

In it kept getting better. Barry slowly but steadily increased his pace as Jessie's body began to instinctive buck in rhythm with his, trying to increase the already mind-blowing pleasure she was experiencing.

"God, Barry... Now - fuck me hard, Barry, fuck my mind out!" Jessie screamed as she reached her breaking point. "Make me a woman, Barry - I want you to make me cum!"

With that Barry began to drive into her with a nearly frantic pace. Incredible waves of pleasure took her, the ecstasy erasing thought. She was a vessel for pure pleasure, and her brain derailed, providing only gasps, moans - and pure, unadulterated truth-saying.

"Yes... Oh, God, Yes!... harder, Barry, harder... mmmm..mmm.... Oh God - I love you Barry - My handsome, funny fucking STUD. I love you Barry... love you. OH YES!"

The orgasms took her, wracking her body with ecstasy like none she'd ever felt. Every synapse in the pleasure center of her brain fired in an instant, followed by three more lesser - but still unbelievable powerful - aftershocks that made her nerves feel like high-voltage erotic electricity were running through them.

Panting, Barry plopped down beside her, kissing the stunned woman with a combination of passion and affection. "God - you're amazing, Jessie..."

Jessie ran one hand along the firm, taut muscle of his thigh... then paused as what she said during sex sank in. Barry felt her stiffen in his embrace.

"Barry... about what I said..."

Barry smiled his crooked smile, with a hint of obscure pain. "Hey, hey... Gardner vee Ross firmly established that nothing said in the heat of passion is binding. It's okay."

Jessie looked at the expression on Barry's face. "You're right. Anything I said during sex is suspect - you can't trust it - it might just be passion speaking."

"Yeah - I know." Barry said.

Jessie's lips curved. "so I'm saying it now that I've been satisfied - Barry, I love you."

For several seconds, Barry just looked at her, stunned - then his smile lit the room. "I love you too." They kissed - then Barry laughed. "Fuck your brains out?"

Jessie giggled. "Okay - I was in the heat of passion on that one."

Barry made a face. "But what kind of man am I if I don't fulfill the wishes of the woman I love?" He asked theatrically. Jessie blinked. "Not a complaint - but already? I would love another round but - you are...?"

Barry grinned. "Nope - but I have hands and a tongue to tide us over, don't I?" And he began to work his way back down her body.

As his burning kisses began to rekindle that powerful arousal, Jessie closed her eyes and lay back.

Most woman searched their entire life for a man like this - and here she was, less than a week into womanhood, and she'd found a kind, gentle, intelligent, funny man who was also an incredible lover, Jessie thought to herself.

Then her man reached her crotch - and she stopped thinking altogether.

* * * * *

Ring.... Ring... Ring....

Blinking, Steven sat up and fumbled for the phone. His wife, next to him, murmured, then fell back into her deep sleep as he picked up the phone, silencing it in mid-ring.

"Hello?"

"Doctor Strathgern?" A warm feminine voice, carrying faint embarrassment, came over the line. "I hate to disturb you so late but there's a couple of things that couldn't wait."

Sitting up in bed, Steven scratched at his sleep-tousled head and looked at the clock. Six-twenty. "Oh, that's all right. The alarm is set to go off in ten minutes anyway - what's on your mind, Jessica?"

"First - Thank you. Thank you, thank you, thank you." Jessie said, sincerely. "I... just can't express my gratitude for helping get over my... relationship problem."

"No problem, Jessie - I was glad to help." Steven said, smiling. From her circumspect way of saying it, he had the distinct impression that she wasn't alone at her end. "What's the other thing?"

There was a pause - then a giggle. "Uh... I'm sorry, but I had to tell somebody, and since I owe it mostly to you. Doctor - I'm engaged!"

Steven couldn't resist. "That's fantastic, Jessica - and when you're done, maybe you two should talk about marriage." It took a second - then Jessica laughed. "Well - yeah, that too. But I'm just so happy."

"Congratulations, Jessie. I mean it, sincerely. I trust I'm invited to the wedding?" "You bet - I expect you to give the bride away." Jessie said.

"I'd be honored to." Steven said, sincerely. "I'm glad I could help you reach this point, Jessie. I hope you'll be happy." With absolutely no trace of doubt, Jessie replied. "I'm sure I will, doctor - I'm sure I will."

Then Jessie said good-bye and hung up the phone - then turned back to her fiancé. "You know - my brain's still seems to be functioning." She said, seductively.

And, like a real trouper, Barry smiled and went back to work.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A young man who has found an ancient spell book finds himself accidentally transforming himself into a female, when his roommate's brother gets hold of the spell book his bimbo days really start

Miss Pronounced

By Gunslinger

"Terry...?" The voice came through the door with a linger trace of concern masking a hint of annoyance. "Terry, are you still in there?"

The room's occupant was a slender, dark-haired young man who was bent over an aging, scared desk, where a small brass lamp gave the only illumination in the room. His narrow face was sent in lines of absorption, and his dark eyes were peering intently through his heavy, horn-rimmed glasses, lost in what they were seeing. One slender hand was busy, writing furiously on a tablet of long, yellow legal sheets, a thick 'gold' ring flashing in the light with every stroke of the pen.

He didn't seem to hear the voice coming through the door at all.

The voice came a bit louder, this time the annoyance thicker in the tone, and covered with a trace of resignation instead of worry. "Terry - do you even hear me?" The aging brass handle rattled in its tarnished base-plate, the small, pewter key in the key-hole rattling sharply.

The sharpness of the noise seemed to rouse the young man from his intent study, and he lifted his head, blinking like a man rising from a long sleep. He looked around in confusion, glancing back down at the object that had held his interest so powerfully.

It was a very, very old book, it's large, yellowed pages bound in a binding of odd-looking light-colored leather that was brittle with age. It was bound at the corners with aged brass, and the ancient clasp-lock hung open, yet still remained curved with the memory of it" time spent locked over the binding and sealing the book from prying eyes.

"Terry!"

Blinking, Terry looked at the door guiltily, then rose and crossed the room, his crepe-soled sneakers drawing sighs of protest from the worn floorboards of the room. He unlocked the door and swung it open, grinning sheepishly at the young woman who lay beyond the threshold.

"Sorry, Di - I was, um..."

"Wrapped up in something that would put any normal human being to sleep." She said, with a smile. The slim, attractive red-head shook her head with amusement. "I know - you get involved with a new project, and you're dead to the world."

"Sorry." Terry apologized weakly, then brightened a bit. "But this time it's worth it - you won't believe..."

The attractive red-head held up a hand. "Terry, I really don't have time to listen right now - I've got a bus to catch." Terry's brow furrowed. "Wait a second - I thought you weren't heading off for your two-week vacation until Friday." Diane laughed and lightly punched the short, slender man on the arm. "Silly - it is Friday!"

"Oh..." Terry said, abashed. "Right."

Diane shook her head again. "Look - before I run off, I needed to tell you something..." "Oh?"

She bit her lower lip and flexed her hands nervously. "Okay - so, you know how my brother and his friend are going to be staying here while I'm gone, right?"

Terry nodded. "Yeah. Like I said, it's not a problem - you know I barely leave my room, and they'll probably never even..." She shook her head. "No, it's not that."

Mark blinked myopically. "What's the problem?"

She flushed. "Um... when I told Jason - my brother - that my roommate's name was Terry... well, he assumed you were a girl, see. So, joking around, I never told him you weren't. I never really said you were, either, I just... well, anyway, I never did tell him, and he might be a little surprised when he gets here. I thought I should warn you."

Mark sighed and rolled his eyes. "Oh, Di... why did you do that?"

She blushed. "Well, you're an only child, so you wouldn't really understand how much fun it is to screw with your brother's mind." "You're right - I don't get it." Mark said, shaking his head. "He and his friend..."

"Mark."

"Mark and your brother will be here tomorrow morning, right?" Terry asked. "Yup."

Terry sighed. "I'll get him straightened out. And Di..." His voice became sarcastic. "Thanks ever so much." Diane laughed. "Well, I gotta run. See you in sixteen days!"

"Have fun!" Terry called after his roommate as she headed for the door, stopping only long enough to grab her suitcase. Shaking his head again,. The slender youth turned and re-entered his room.

He and Diane had been sharing the pre-war bungalow for nearly six months now. Although somewhat run-down, the house was still basically sound, and for the price that each of them would have paid for a small apartment, they were renting a three bedroom, two bath bungalow with much more living space - not that Terry needed much, as he spent most of his time cooped up in his room, involved in whatever hobby he had going at the moment.

Right now, the thing he was interested in was much more absorbing then usually. He'd found the ancient tome he was now studying in a locked steamer trunk he'd bought for five bucks at an auction when an shipping company went into receivership. The large trunk had been suspiciously light, which was why it had gone so cheaply, but when Terry had broken into the piece of luggage, he'd found this aging book inside. After picking the lock, he'd opened the heavy book to find it written in a long-hand form of bastardized Latin. He'd spent the past two weeks working at translating the strange language - and what he found was intriguing.

The book purported to be a book of spells. Honest-to-God, 'poof-there-you-go' magic spells. Of course, Terry didn't really believe in that sort of thing....

...but, then again...

"There are more things in Heaven and Earth. " Terry recited softly, walking back to where the book lay on the table. Lowering himself into the chair in front of the desk, he eyed the old book, his curiosity and imagination aroused. Although fairly well versed in the dead language of Latin, the version used in the book was badly bastardized and tough to translate. Terry seemed to have a handle on it now, though - and the possibilities the book offered was. intriguing.

According to the book - if he read it right - there was almost nothing that couldn't be done - with a caveat. No spell could be altered, undone or in any way affected for forty-eight hours after it's casting. Apparently, the universe itself simply couldn't take that much stress to any one pin-point location in it's infinite fabric. After that time-period had lapsed, you could undo whatever had been done, or alter it, or just about anything - if you wanted to. But for those two days, anything that was enchanted was immutable.

Other then that...

Looking thoughtful, Terry started a pot of coffee brewing. He kept the machine on a credenza beside his desk, and the coffee was they type of pre-filled filters that meant all he had to do was trot to the en suite bathroom for water. Since he spent most of his time in his room, Diane had been nice enough to let him have the master bedroom, with the attached bathroom, which came in damned handy.

Once the coffee machine was happily burbling away, Terry sat down at his desk and eyed the book, his mind running wild.

Doing the mental equivalent of a shrug, he began to work out the correct phonetic version of a 'test' spell - just in the interests of science, of course...

* * * * *

The sun was just peeing over the horizon, the reddish light streaming in through his windows, when Terry decided that he'd gotten it all down pat.

Lifting up the sheet of yellow lined legal paper he'd done the finished spell on, he adjusted his glasses, took a deep breath, and began to recite the spell in a hesitant, uncertain voice, feeling utterly foolish.

Finishing his recitation, he stopped, feeling utterly silly. What was he thinking....

Then he gasped, and the piece of paper fluttered from limp fingers as he stared around incredulously. Slowly, the world seemed to swim and slowly pull out of focus, everything becoming indistinct and fuzzy.

With awkward, fumbling fingers, Terry reached up and pulled off his thick, ugly glasses.

Instantly, everything came into focus,. Perfect focus. He stared around in shock, seeing his room more clearly than he'd ever seen it - or seen anything in his entire life.

"Good lord..." Terry whispered huskily, glasses clattering unnoticed to the desktop. "It. it works. It really works!"

His test-case spell - giving himself perfect vision - had actually, undeniably and unarguable proven to be a success.

Terry felt faint. The sheer shock of what had just happened. It had happened to him, for God's sake, and even he barely believed it.

Magic. Real, magic - and he had it.

He could do almost anything he wanted. He could....

He blinked - and a shy grin crept on his face as he blushed deeply. He glanced down at the jeans covering his crotch, then back at the book.

"Hell. Why not?" Terry asked himself in a defiant tone. Grabbing another sheet of paper, heady with success, he began to write rapidly, working out the next spell, the one that would give him a cock that...

He came to a screeching halt, frowning slightly. He was planning to increase his dick quite a bit - but wouldn't people notice the change? Not if he included a portion in the spell he said that everybody would think he'd always been like that. no, everybody by the holder of the book would think he'd always been like that. That way, people who already knew him would always remember him having a large dick, but people meeting him for the first time could be awed by it" size. The spell didn't alter how people would think about him being well hung, just ensure that it didn't seem like a sudden change.

Smiling, Terry quickly worked out the rest of the spell. With hands trembling with excitement, he lifted the piece of paper and read it aloud in a firm, excited voice. The instant the last word dropped from his tongue, he dropped the sheet of paper and yanked open the waist-band and fly of his jeans, eager to watch his manhood swell.

That's when he noticed that an odd tingling sensation wasn't coming from his crotch - but from his chest. As he stared down, shocked, the T-shirt on his chest twitched - and began to slowly push outwards, two small bumps forming on his chest.

"No..." Terry said, slowly shaking his head. "No, no, no, no. "

With shaking hands, Terry stripped off his shirt and stared down at his once vestigial male nipples. Nipples that were now somewhat larger and thicker. Nipples that were resting atop small lumps of flesh that were slowly filling outwards.

"Oh, Shit. !" Terry swore, hands flying to his chest and trying to hold in the swelling mounds - a useless gesture. "No, no, no!"

Yanking his hands away, he stared angrily at the flesh on his chest, which was now formed into pre-pubescent looking breasts - and swelling outwards at a steady rate.

He's used the wrong word for 'endowed' - he'd used the feminine version.

"Oh, crap!" Terry said, knowing there wasn't a damned thing he could do to change what was happening. He stared down at the swelling mounds, still covered in the thin chest hair he had. They were now an 'A' cup or so, and he could feel the slowly increasing mass on his chest, as well as the new sensations from the forming breasts and the sensitive nipples.

Then, wryly, he began to laugh, shaking his head as he watched his endowments swell ever-larger. He'd been so hyped up, in such a hurry, that he'd screwed up the spell - and hadn't bothered to double-check it before use.

"Well, that's what I get." He said to himself, aloud, as his bust continued to swell outward, becoming steadily heavier and fuller. Originally a conical shape, they'd filled out into domes. Those domes, no passing 'C' cup, were filling out even further, into near-spheres.

It took nearly an hour for his swelling chest to finally slow and stop. During that hour - to keep himself distracted from what was happening - he figured out the mistake he'd made with the spell and re-written a corrected one, then worked on a couple of other spells in the extra time, all the time having to slowly inch the chair further and further back to be able to work around his slowly swelling chest.

By the time they finally stopped swelling, he'd begun to think that they'd never stop, and now he stared down at his new chest with wry shock and a disgruntled amusement.

"Great - I'm a pair of walking, talking tits." He complained to the room in general.

His new tits were - gigantic. The hung from his chest, no longer near spheres but still amazingly firm as they made a sort of compressed tear-drop shape from where they joined his chest to the round, firm tip that was graced by huge, thick nipples. They were just shy of being the shape of a beach-ball - but were about that size. It was almost mandatory for him to reach to the front of his mountainous new tits and touch his massive, engorged nipples, shivering at the sensation.

"Damn." He swore to himself, shaking his head. Well, it could be worse, he figured. In two days, he would change himself back, and until then....

"Oh, SHIT!" Terry shouted, face going pale. Until then. he'd have to deal with Di's brother Jason and his friend Mark, who were due to arrive in an hour or so.

Terry knew that there was no way to his tits this size. There was no way he could avoid the guys completely for two days, until he could reverse it, and the spell's 'rider' wouldn't help. Indeed, anybody who knew him remembered him as always having tits, now - but when people met him for the first time, they would still think his was some sort of bizarre freak.

In a near panic, Terry tried to do what he usually did - pace.

His first try, he didn't even get out of the chair. Bracing himself, he hauled himself out of the chair against the mass of his new, firm tits, feeling them jiggle and sway as he managed to get to his feet, having to strain to remain upright as his particularly top-heavy form wanted to pull him forward. Walking became a bit of a chore, as he had to concentrate on each step, forced to fight the bouncing of his huge new tits.

"What the hell am I going to do?" He asked himself. This was a nightmare - he was some sort of freak, a thin, nerdy little guy with tits as big - or bigger - than any stripper.

Slowly it dawned on him that, unable to alter his massive new bust in any way, there was only one alternative open to him...

* * * * *

When the doorbell rang, he was just finishing adding the same rider onto the new spell. Dashing of the last words, he rose from the desk, his massive new tits shifting under the once-baggy sweater that strained over them. Walking towards the front door, he grimaced and began reciting the spell he'd worked out.

As he walked, he felt his body shifting and changing, taking on new forms. He winced again as the sensation of his cock sliding back into his body to form a new vagina, but didn't stop reading as his body took on the form of an young woman who - if it weren't for the massive bust - would have been vaguely attractive, but totally unmemorable, with a basically cute face beneath a short sheaf of glossy black hair, an 'all right' ass and passable legs.

But much more than just his - her - body was different. The spell was quite comprehensive, and the entire house was affected, everything he owned shifting in nature to match his new identity as a girl. Even the clothes he was wearing shifted as his body did, the sweater now fitting perfectly over huge tits that were encased in a massive white cotton bra. His briefs became feminine even as his jeans did, and his shoes shrunk to fit his smaller feet while becoming a more feminine style.

He also felt himself relaxing, moving more comfortably and easily as he neared the front door. Panicked at the thought of having to 'play' at being female for two days, he'd included a section that would make him feel more comfortable by making him able to deal with any situation with serene good humor. No matter what happened during the next two days, he'd remain outwardly calm and comfortable.

Plus, he'd made part of the spell 'poll' every woman within a ten-block radius and create a composite set of feminine skill and mannerism to flesh out his persona, so she was now able to move in a naturally feminine way. It felt odd to do so, but she had to admit it wasn't nearly as awkward.

Reaching the door, the new woman shoved the piece of paper into her pocket and opened the door, now fully female in form and manner, with a complete history and everything. The only person in the entire universe who knew she wasn't 'really' female was herself.

Just like, in two days when she made herself male again, nobody would remember that she'd ever been female. Since she planned to leave the disclaimer that excepted herself of that spell, that included her - she'd think that she succeeded with the penis enlarging spell the first time, and everything that was going to happen between now and then would be altered in everyone's memory so that he was male the entire time.

It wasn't great - but it was the best solution he could come up with.

With a smooth grace that he - she - had never before possessed, Terry opened the door to reveal a pair of handsome men standing on her doorstep.

The one in the lead was a tall, slender man with the rangy build of a runner and a shock of carrot-red hair. Behind him stood a slightly shorter man with blond hair and darkly tanned skin with the muscles that you earned doing stuff like biking and swimming rather than spending hours in a gym.

"Hi - you must be Jason!" Terry said in a chipper voice. Her lips - which she found she could taste lipstick on - were curved in a welcoming grin. "Why don't you come in?"

"Thanks." Jason replied, walking in the door - and obviously trying not to stare at the enormous endowments that strained the front of her sweater. "You must be Terri."

"Sure am." Terry replied. It felt weird, what was happening - he was deciding, generally, what to do and say - but then the spell took that impetus and converted it into a feminine manner. He'd meant to greet the guys and invite them in - but the spell decided for her which words she'd use to do it, and the way she'd stand, move and express herself while she did. It was... weird.

The second guy - Mark - wasn't nearly as successful as his friend in hiding his reaction to her huge new rack. Whereas Jason shot oblique, guilty glances at Terry's new chest, Mark was practically drooling over them. She noticed his gaze...

...and found herself straightening her back and taking a deep breath to make them even more prominent. "If I take in three more ounces of air, Mark here's going to pass out." She found herself saying to Jason with a grin.

Jason doubled over with laughter, and Mark - realizing he was gaping at her chest - flushed brightly and looked away with a muttered apology.

It definitely wasn't how Terry would have handled the situation without the spell in place - hell, she'd probably have blushed, or tried to minimize her 'assets' - an impossibility. But, that's why she'd set the spell up that way - she'd just handled it in a manner completely in keeping with her current identity.

"I'm really sorry..." Mark apologized more clearly, not letting his eyes come as high as her chest.

Terry found herself laying a hand on his arm. "Don't worry about it - that's one of the milder reactions a guy's had when he's first seen..." To her shock, she found herself cupping her huge tits through her sweater and hefting them slightly. "...these monsters. I got over being annoyed at guys for doing that about three years after puberty. I know how I look - and men are going to react to them one way or another." Turning away from Mark, she smiled at Jason. "So - you're going to be my guests for the next two weeks, huh?"

"I guess so." Jason replied, still fighting the urge to gape at her chest.

"Well, I can think of worst guests then two handsome, fairly well behaved guys." She found herself replying. "For goodness sake - there's guys who not only don't apologize when I catch them staring at my chest, they use it as an opportunity to make crude comments."

Wiggling her finger at them, she turned away. "I'll show you your rooms." She said over her shoulder, walking down the hall with a gentle, feminine sway to her ass. The guys, burdened down with luggage, followed.

As they passed the first room, they glanced in and saw a femininely decorated room perfectly in keeping with the young woman leading them down the hall. She showed Jason to his sister's room, where he'd be staying, then guided Mark to the guest room.

"Have you guys eaten?" Terry asked, and when she learned that they hadn't, promptly offered - demanded - that she make them something. Leaving them to unpack, she headed for the kitchen.

Although there was a slight smile on her fuller lips, inside she was anything but mildly amused.

What the hell was she doing? She hadn't planned to cook anything for these guys. Well, she also hadn't planned on complimenting them, but that was just a variation on the reassurance she'd chosen to give. But this offer to make them breakfast - she hadn't initiated the idea at all. It had come as a complete surprise to her when she'd offered.

It wasn't the end of the world that she was going to cook them a meal - but the fact that something unexpected had happened worried her. She didn't like the way it had snuck up on her...

...but there was absolutely nothing she could do about it. As an experiment, she tried to keep herself from making the breakfast - and found that she had this indefinable but incredibly powerful need to do what she'd said. It was.. like an addiction, she guessed. The longer she fought the urge, the worse it would get.

But it didn't rule her completely. Although it would be painful, in a non-physical sense, she could fight it. And even if she didn't fight it, she could still control what it was that she decided to make them. Deciding that it wasn't such a big deal, she started a meal of bacon and eggs, figuring that it was just a case of the spell deciding what a 'real' woman would do in that situation, and then doing it.

Putting the food on the table, the new woman found that her timing was incredible - the guys had just finished unpacking and slid onto the chairs just as she sat down.

"Looks delicious, Terri - thanks." Mark said with a smile.

"No problem." Terry replied - then was inwardly horrified to hear herself continue. "I haven't had a chance to make breakfast for a man in much too long - and here I get to make it for two handsome men. Too bad this breakfast isn't the usual cap to a fun even that it would be in.. another situation."

What the hell were was she saying? What the hell was she doing? She was coming on to these guys!

The breakfast seemed to last forever, her chatting cheerfully with the guys - and helplessly flirting outrageously. She already realized that she'd made a terrible, terrible mistake - the way she'd set the document, she was quite literally responding the way any young woman would to having to handsome, attentive men in her house.

The way any young woman who hadn't had sex in a long time would act. Because the old male Terry hadn't exactly been a ladies man, and when she'd enchanted herself to be a woman, including the disclaimer that made it seem to the rest of the universe that she'd always been female, that had carried over, as if the female Terri had the same dismal sex life.

Inside, she was nearly in a panic, but completely unable to show it. Finishing the meal, she knew she had to make her escape before anything happened.

"I hate to say it..." She said, "...but I have to go out for a bit. You guys make yourself at home, and I'll see you when I get back, okay?"

"Sure." Jason replied, and Terry wanted to run from the house. Claiming she had to get some information from the library, she went and got the book from her room for safe-keeping, and slid it into her oversized purse. She wanted to hurry and rush. Instead, the spell caused her to get her jacket and purse and leave the house slowly, almost reluctantly - complete with a backward glance over her shoulder as she walked out the door.

She was horrified to find that her body was also responding 'correctly' - her huge new nipples were engorged, and her new vagina was giving her the brand-new experiencing of feeling what a woman felt when she was 'hot and bothered' - an oddly pleasurable wet warmth inside.

Taking a couple of deep breaths, she began to walk, just strolling aimlessly until she could get herself under control. Now two whole days seemed to be an eternity to her, and she started to look for an excuse to give the guys so that she could spend almost the entire time away from the 'temptation' they brought.

* * * * *

"Mark... we really shouldn't be in here..." Jason said, nervously, looking around Terri's room.

"Come on, man - you couldn't have missed the way she was coming on to us over breakfast. Not only has she got tits the size of Montana, but she's hot to trot." Mark said. "except, maybe that's just her personality, right? So we need to take a look around, see if we can get a hint as to whether or not she's really ready to jump our bones."

"Well..." Jason said, hesitantly, remembering the way she'd acted over breakfast.

"Three choices, man. One, she just acts this way all the time, and gets pissed if we start coming on to her. Two, she's really hot for one or both of our bods, and we're so uncertain that we don't take advantage of it. Three - she's horny, and at least one of us gets the fucking of life-time."

"Good point." Jason allowed, then began to go through the paper piled on the roll-top desk. "Hey - what the hell do you think this is?" he asked, holding up a sheet of paper.

"What's it say?" Mark asked, going through the closet.

Shrugging, Jason read off the phonetically-spelled words on the paper.

* * * * *

Lost in her thoughts, Terry wandered through the nearby park, her huge tits swaying with each step she took. Still unsure how to deal with this unexpected situation, she sighed and lowered herself onto a bench and stretched her legs out in front of her.

Terry idly massaged her thigh muscle through the sheer fabric of the black nylons she wore, reliving the pressure on them that came from walking in heels. Rotating her ankles to loosen them, she once more rose to stand atop the four inch block heels of her knee-length black leather boots, and smoothed the black skirt down so that the hem once more fell to just cover the tops of the boots. Lost in thought, she once more continued her walk, completely unaware that anything had changed, as the spell - the one that she'd written to get 'the woman who lived in that house' to wear boots and heels regularly, because Diane wore almost nothing but sneakers - had changed it so, as far as she remembered, she'd been wearing this outfit from the very beginning.

* * * * *

"What the hell was that?" Mark asked after Jason finished reading the 'gibberish'.

"I don't know." Jason said with a shrug. "Maybe it's her diary, and she writes it in code." He held up the sheaf of paper. "There's lots more here."

"Let me see one." Mark said, coming over. "Sure. Find anything in her closet?"

Mark shrugged. "Just lots and lots of high-heeled shoes and boots."

Looking at the next sheet, Mark began to read the words off out loud in a slow voice, trying to see if it was some sort of vocal code - like writing 'Subs to toot'. It looked like nonsense unless it was read aloud.

Unlike his friend, Mark mispronounced several words in the spell as he read it.

* * * * *

She should have thought of this in the first place!, Terry thought to herself. She was sitting in the library with the spell book in front of her, working on a spell. She might not be able to change any spell she cast on herself, but she could definitely do a new spell that would help alleviate the problem.

Feeling smug, she finished working out the spell and walked back into the stacks a bit to keep from being noticed as she quietly recited the spell.

It wasn't a spell that would affect her in any way - instead, it would affect the guys, ensuring her 'safety'. A lot of the problem was that they found her sexy, and since her body was completely average in every way, except for her tits, that meant that she'd had the misfortune of running into a couple of 'tit men'. So, all she'd do was put a spell on them that would alter their preferences so that she was excluded. And, to keep her reactions in a much more comfortable range, the spell she recited included a clause that would make them act cool and obviously uninterested in women that didn't meet the correct profile. It was the perfect solution - she'd get home, and the guys would throw off 'vibes' that would dampen down this reaction and allow her to get through the two days in peace.

She finished reciting the spell with intense satisfaction, knowing that Jason and Mark would now no longer be the slightest bit interested in her, because they were now only sexually interested in women whose background was anything OTHER than American. They were now 'foreign women freaks'.

Satisfied, Terry went back to the table and gathered up her stuff, satisfied that it was safe to go home again.

She might not have felt so secure had she seen a reflection of herself as she left. Under that short mop of dark hair was a dusky, full-lipped face with dark, sensuous eyes. She hadn't noticed the sensation of being changed by the mispronounced spell Mark had read because she had been too busy reading her own spell. And, due to the fact that everybody but her memory had changed, nobody drew her attention to her altered skin-tone and face, seeing nothing at all unusual in the way Theresa 'Call me Terri' Vinzietti, that nice Italian girl, looked.

* * * * *

As the unknowingly altered Terry headed home, the two guys looked at yet another piece of paper. "I still don't get it." Jason said. "Me neither." Mark agreed. Slowly and carefully, the two men read the words on the paper aloud, trying to puzzle out their meaning.

Shrugging, the two guys put the papers back where they'd found them, took a last look around Terri's room, and headed out to the living room to watch some TV.

* * * * *

Arriving home, Terry dropped her purse and jacket by the door and - proceeded by her huge rack - walked into the living room where the two guys sat in the deep chairs, the TV so loud as to have hidden the sound of her entrance.

Smiling slightly, Terry started speaking, and as she started, the guys turned and rose, smiling at the sight of her return.

From the first instant, everything went wrong - and Terry knew it. Because even as she began to speak, she heard the Italian accent in her voice and recognized it for what it was. Though she didn't know how it happened, she recognized the significance of it, and was inwardly horrified, but unable to express it.

She'd planned her statement to get a firm reaction out of the guys. She'd wanted an undeniable 'snub' to cool her reactions to them> So, by the time she realized something was wrong, it was much, much too late to take back the words that flowed out in a sweet, accented contralto.

"Hey, you handsome studs," She heard her voice say. "Don't tell me you'd rather watch TV than let me entertain you."

She'd said the words in anticipation of a firm, cold turn-down - but that wasn't what happened. The two men lit up like Christmas trees. "Fuck, no." Mark assured her, his eyes riveted on her huge tits. Thanks to her spell, the guys' interest in her had almost doubled, as she was not only a foreign woman - but a huge breasted one.

Terry, however, was already trying to figure out how to get out of this horrible, nightmarish situation, even as her body began to respond to the presence of the two men...

...then her eyes took in their crotches. Their hugely bulging crotches, where massive erections were straining the fabric of their jeans.

Terry realized that they had found the spells she'd negligently left on her desk. It was obvious that they'd read the one that she'd corrected, the one for a larger cock - although, thanks to the way she'd worded that disclaimer, she was the only one on the planet who realized they'd changed. Somehow, they had also done something that had changed her into a foreign woman.

But at the sight of their huge bulges, the female 'forebrain' she'd unwittingly cursed herself with forced her lips into a smile - and she found herself unable to force herself to give an excuse - any excuse - to escape.

"Good - 'cause I have a lot of entertainment planned for you two." She heard herself say in a sultry voice, and was horrified. She struggled to make herself turn and leave, to escape - but her female 'forebrain' wouldn't let her buried 'real' mind do that, as it now had control and was acting in an 'appropriate' manner for a long-denied, hot-blooded Italian woman facing two handsome, horny, hugely endowed men.

Helplessly, she drew nearer to the two men. "Hey, why doesn't one of you help me with this sweater?"

Mike eagerly replied, grasping the bottom of the skin-tight garment and peeling it off of her as she lifted her arms to make it easier for her. The action exposed her massive, dusky, bra-encased mounds, and the men started drooling.

"Fair's fair - Jason...?" She wiggled her torso seductively - helplessly - and Jason eagerly undid the front-clasping garment and peeled it off her huge tits. While she shuddered internally, she moaned in soft pleasure as each man began to fondle on a huge tit, licking and sucking on her huge, engorged nipples.

"Yes... that makes me want to suck on something too..." She said, horrified at the words spilling out of her mouth as she sank to her knees and reached for Jason's fly. Undoing his pants, she lowered them and his underwear to his ankles, revealing his massive, thick cock as it sprang free, hard and throbbing. Fifteen inches long, the throbbing, veined organ was equally as thick, with an almost purple crown.

And, helplessly - hopelessly - Terry opened her full, soft lips and took it into her mouth.

She moaned in apparently genuine enjoyment as, deep inside, she screamed in horror as she began to expertly suck Jason's cock, tongue swirling as her lips and hands worked in unison, using composite skills taken from dozens of women.

It didn't take long to bring him to the brink - and over, 'Hunggrily', she gulped down the warm, salty goo as if it were the most wonderful thing she'd ever tasted, wanting to vomit as it spurted down her throat. Thanks to the spell, the huge organ produced copious amount of semen, and she drank all of it down without missing a drop, like the 'expert cock-sucker' she 'was'.

Then she turned and smiled at mark, slowly laying back and spreading her legs. "Help me get the rest of these clothes off, lover." She cooed, and Mike complied, undoing the laces on her boots and sliding them off, then grabbing the waist of her skirt and pulling skirt, panty s and nylons off quickly.

"Now fuck me." She helplessly begged. "Fuck me hard."

Smiling, Mike dropped his pants, revealing a cock that was identical in every way to his friends. Eagerly, he positioned himself and thrust his huge cock deep into her hot, wet cunt.

Terry screamed in ecstasy - and not all of it was the action of her controlling forebrain. She'd never felt anything like this, and the pleasure actually grew as Mark fucked her hard and deep. Although she was disgusted and horrified by being fucked, it felt phenomenal, and when they reached orgasm together, her mind was almost swamped under the shear pleasure of her female orgasm.

She thought that maybe that would be it - but her spell had done more then just enlarge the guys cock and increased sperm production. even as Mark pulled his juice-coated organ from her newly broken-in cunt, Jason was straddling her, his huge cock laying between her massive, thick mounds, which she 'happily' folded around the saliva-slicked organ to allow him to tit-fuck her.

Just as she 'happily' rolled over on all fours to let Mark take her up her virgin/'ready' ass, crying out in 'pleasure' as his huge organ forced it's way in.

In truth, her real mind had become a gibbering mass, unable to cope sufficiently with what was a kind of rape, her body performing willingly and eagerly while her impotent mind screamed and cried.

By the time Mark was done using her ass, Jason was ready again, and he wanted a shot at her hot, wet cunt while Mark anticipated her hot lips around his cock...

* * * * *

Hours later, Terri lay in the bed in the guest bedroom, cum dripping from almost every inch of her body and sopping into the sheets. She stared up at the ceiling with a fixed grin on her face, every opening in her body filled with the seed of the two men who were finally played out and wearily climbing from the bed.

"How the hell did a woman like you ever get to be so damned insatiable?" Jason asked wearily with a smile.

And, her mind still staggered from the constant barrage of sex, Terri blurted out the word 'Magic' - which led her to explaining the book and it's power, never mentioning that she'd once been male, but saying that she'd made her tits grow and had altered her appearance, keeping anything from being done to her for two whole days.

She soon drifted off into sleep, and under that soothing unconsciousness, her scrambled mind slowly rebuilt itself. By the time she awoke and peeled herself from the sheets to go shower, she was almost sane again.

But she didn't remember blurting out the secret of the spell book last night, and the fact that the guys only fucked her three times each during the day was taken as a welcome respite rather than a sign that should be investigated. Mainly, she tried to avoid the guys and their temptation that she couldn't refuse, her shaken mind never thinking to ask what they were doing in her room all that time, simply thinking that mark had taken it for his own after the condition his bed had ended up in.

By the time she found out the truth... it was too late. Much too late.

* * * * *

Two weeks later.

Smiling, Diane walked up the path to the bungalow and unlocked the door, happy to be home, although she'd enjoyed her trip immensely.

Pushing the door open, she crossed the threshold - not able to notice her T-shirt suddenly bulge outwards, struggling to contain the firm, round, DDD-cup tits that suddenly blossomed. Swaying seductively atop six-inch spiked-heels that she hadn't been wearing moments before, Dee swayed into the living room.

"Well, well, well." She cooed in an Irish-accented voice. "I see you've been busy."

"Hi, Deirdre." Terri giggled from her place in front of the recliner where Carl - Mark's friend - sat watching TV. Then the huge-breasted Italian woman wasn't able to say anything at all as she bowed her and slurped up all eighteen inches of Carl's huge cock with obvious enjoyment.

"Hi gorgeous." Mark said, walking down from his bedroom with a smile. "Missed ya."

"Mmmm... I missed you too." Dee said, wrapping her hands around his neck to pull him in for a deep, passionate kiss. "I missed this even more." She said, fondling his bulging cock with a smile. "Let's go to your room and get reacquainted, shall we?"

"Sure thing, babe." Mark said, pulling her after him.

From the kitchen, Jason watched this impatiently. Tired of Terri - for now - he'd let Carl have her. And he wasn't interested in his own sister, even if everybody now remembered her as being Irish, and no relation to him. He'd expected somebody to come buy by now, but as of yet...

Then he heard footsteps up the walk, and he waited, the doorbell rang, and Terri - licking her lips - ran to get it. Jason hoped that it was a female, as he wanted his new sex-slave pretty damned quick.

* * * * *

Terri opened the door to reveal the heavy-set, unlovely visage of her mailman, Lewis Chalker. "D'livery for ya." He said, holding up a package. "ya wanna sign for it?"

"Sure - step inside." Terri giggled, while inside he wanted to scream for the mailman to run away - and take her with him. Because she knew that Jason had unwittingly screwed up the spell, not even realizing that magic could change more the just thoughts and bust- size...

* * * * *

Unable to stand it any longer, Jason trotted to the front door...

Where he was met by the lustful gaze of a tiny oriental woman sporting tits that took up most of her torso. They were easily as big as Terri's massive tits, but on a smaller frame.

"Hi - I'm Leu Chee." The woman, in a postal-delivery uniform - said in a lust-fueled voice. "And I want you to fuck my brains out." "Sure thing, babe." Jason said, escorting her towards the back of the house, his cock stiffening.

He was glad 'another woman' had come by before the midnight deadline. After Mark had called Carl over to help, they'd put a spell on the house that would turn - they thought it was any woman, but it was really anybody - who crossed the threshold into a woman of foreign descent, with varying bust-lines, all larger than average. And all of them would be super-horny, and eager to fuck anything with a dick. The spell would 'deactivate' at midnight tonight, and Jason had begun to worry that he would have to find another way of getting a sex-slave.

* * * * *

"Okay, girls - you have fun." Jason said with a grin, watching the three of them on the bed, their new bi-sexual urges taking them completely.

Closing the door to the bedroom, Jason smiled at his friends. "Well - shall we?" He suggested, gesturing towards the front door. The three of them had decided that - before the midnight deadline was up - they would extend their 'harem' by going out and picking up three hookers and then bring them back. Once the girls crossed the threshold, they wouldn't be asking for money...

Smiling, the three guys filed out the door...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Missing in action since the 60's, one man wakes up in the present to find that he has been the subject of a series of strange experiments in Russia and now inhabits the body of a beautiful Russian woman.

Missing In Action

By Gunslinger

Alarms, by their very nature, are meant to be hard - if not nigh on impossible - to ignore. Even so called 'silent alarms' were anything but, the designation simply meaning that the raucous alert sounded elsewhere then on the premises. After all, alarms are not to be soothing, subtle or silent - they are meant to be alarming.

All in all, it wasn't the least bit surprising that the strident electronic hooting of the alarm echoing through the building's hallways was able to make it's way through the thin veil that separated Sergeant Douglas William Clayborne from consciousness.

The United States Army, mainly through the less-than-benevolent auspices of the myriad drill sergeants of it's basic training facilities, prepared new recruits for combat with lessons designed to be memorable. Lessons that were not so much learned, as instilled. One of these lessons, and a very important one at that, was that being slow to rouse could ensure that a soldier would never rise again.

Consequently, even before reaching anything like the full intellectual capacity of your usual human being, the central, nearly bestial core-of-self that lay at the center of Clayborne's mind knew that there was something very, very wrong. The very difficulty he was having at bringing the full capability of his mind to bear in itself revealed a problem even before he was awake enough to account for the fact.

All of which served to make his first, coherent thought practically preordained: 'I've been drugged.'

Through little more than sheer force of will, Clayborne forced his mind up through the hazy barrier of whatever sedative or soporific flooded his system, his mind more intent on cataloguing what his sense reported than considering them.

Even as his brain noted that it didn't recognize either the specific sound of the alarm, nor the unknown threat it specified, his eyes fluttered open. Instantly, a flood of bright light all-but-blinded him, and he narrowed his eyes to cut the glare as he instinctively raised and arm to shield his dazzled eyes.

The act of lifting his arm took more effort than he expected. Even as the frightening weakness of his own arm registered, so too did the fact that the motion created sensation that, if not immediately identifiable, were easily classified as being 'not quite right'.

Blinking furiously to rid himself of the blue-orange spots still dancing in front of his dazzled eyes, Clayborne let his head roll to the side, peering out at a view not obscured by that blinding light.

The drug leaving him feeling thick-witted and dull, it took him a moment to assemble the pristine white tiling and spotless stainless-steel esoterica around him into a coherent mental image that he could classify.

'I'm... in an operating room...' His mind finally reported, the thought managing to stand out in sharp-edged contrast to the fuzzy, vague impressions provided by the rest of his mental processes.

He held the thought close to him for a second, not even considering the implications as he let himself hold onto the fragile thread of a coherent thought - but even as he gripped it tightly, the thought began to waver and dull, sliding into the frighteningly vague background of his slow, muddled thought processes.

Blinking, trying to clear his head, Clayborne bushed himself into a sitting position - and found that the effort was considerably more difficult than it should have been, even factoring in the strange weakness of his arms. More than anything, the extra difficulty in simply sitting came from the strange, softly heavy weight on his chest, one that hadn't slid off even when he'd managed to pull himself upright.

Frowning thickly, he looked down - and even in his drugged state, his male mind had no trouble identifying the weight masses that had made rising so difficult.

Breasts. Boobs.

Knockers, chest melons, honkers...

"...tits." Clayborne said, thickly. "I.. I've got tits..."

Even through the vague mental state, that fact was enough to spark a sort of vague, wool-swaddled panic - one that was hardly alleviated as his befogged brain was able to register not only the higher, softer tones the mumbled remark had emerged in, by the slimmer, smoother arms at the edge of his field of vision, bracing his slimmer, smoother and less muscular torso upright.

"I... I'm a... chick..." Clayborne managed to mutter, tone dazed only in part due to the drugs flooding what was most obviously a feminine body.

Even that thought, that horrified/amazed realization, was hard to hold firmly onto - especially in the face of the ever-present hooting of the horn, designed to draw attention to itself. In her foggy, benumbed state of mind, the inexplicable feminine Clayborne found the horn's call derailing any other train of thought, reaching deep to the instinctual part of her mind that demanded a reaction to the sound, and whatever crisis it represented.

Awkwardly, Clayborne swung her legs over the edge of the surgical bed she found herself on. As she did so, she noted, vaguely, the longer, smoother legs that were swinging, and the fuller 'sitting on a firm pillow' sensation of the ass she was swiveling on. Though both sensations were unnerving, damned near paralyzing in implication, her mind couldn't hold onto the disgust, shock, amazement and fear that the sensations engendered.

Rising from the surgical bed was an... interesting experience.

The feeling of weakness in her considerably slimmer, less muscular body created the impression that she was incredibly heavy and massive - and yet, thanks to the drugs and her strange state of mind, she felt almost as if she were drifting, as if she had great mass, but no weight.

With the slow, studied grace a person might use if carrying an incalculably valuable objet d'art or a live explosive, she carefully rose to feet that felt too ridiculously small and slender to carry her weight, and slowly made her way across the room.

The room itself was mostly circular, with a second-story glassed in viewing area above. Most of the room's lighting came from the blindingly bright surgical lights suspended above the centrally- positioned bed, and in the stark shadows thrown by that lighting Clayborne could see the signs of hasty abandonment. A tray of surgical tools was overturned, the previously sterilized instruments scattered across the floor, and it was to this glittering array of stainless steel she made her way.

Carefully, she eased into a crouch and wrapped her hand around the haft of a shining scalpel.

For a long second, she stared at the slender, feminine hand gripping the surgical instrument, turning it this way and that to see not only the fine-boned structure of the long fingers, but the long nails that tipped each finger, and the smooth suppleness with which the skin slid over the slender, rotating wrist.

Transferring her gaze to the scalpel itself, her instinctual urge to arm herself satisfied, another coherent thought managed to swim it's way through the murky currents of her thoughts and to the forefront of her mind.

"What were they doing to me...?" She asked herself - and the muted edge of terror that the thought brought with it managed to allow her to hang on to the thought longer than any of the previous ones, which lead directly and inexorably to a need to a sort of 'self check'.

Gripping the blade tightly in her slender hand, the new woman moved with that stately grace to the set of doors nearby, pushing through the swinging door into the surgical robing room.

There, near two scrub sinks, was a full-length mirror, and Clayborne slowly approached the feminine image reflected within.

There was absolutely no trace of the man she'd used to be in the strange woman who gaped back at her from the mirror.

Gone was the dense-packed runner's muscles on a broad-shouldered, lean-hipped frame of peasant Irish stock. Indeed, this body was practically the antithesis of that one, narrow where it had been bulky, full where it had been trim.

The woman gaping back at Clayborne from the mirror shared not a single trait in common with the short, dark-haired grandson of a Dublin publican who'd supported his father's adopted country by joining the US Army.

She was tall. Not just tall for a woman, but tall in terms of men, as well - and much of that was made up by legs that seemed to go on and on forever.

Though no longer possessing the ropy muscles of her old body, this tall new body was well-toned and generally athletic, though in the smoother, less hard-edged way of a person who's fitness didn't come from mindless repetitive exercise in a gym, but from a general active, mildly challenging lifestyle.

She in no way matched the general run-of-the-mill standards for beauty - and despite that, the flaxen-haired woman Clayborne had become was stunningly beautiful, sensual, and powerful.

Though her firm and fully-packed body was not as model-slender as women usually went for, the extra mass in no way made her look heavy or awkward - for, with her height and her build, it would have made her look badly ill-proportioned if they had been. Her hips were very full and womanly above her long legs, both factors serving to make those firm-fleshed legs look 'long and slender' in comparison - and, likewise, making her waist seem slimmer than the firm, taut mass it actually was.

Her ass, having so much room and material to work with, was actually quite spectacular, yet without looking 'bubbled', but smoothly segueing from those long, well-toned legs into her equally well-toned back.

Her breast, on a lesser woman, would have been gigantic - but given the firm-packed mass of her new frame, the basket-ball sized spheres of taut flesh made her 'merely' stunningly buxom.

Her face was a study in cool, powerful beauty, like a Nordic landscape - all her features were well-defined, only the smooth rounding of the well-placed edges keeping the term 'chiseled' from being appropriate. The strong, well-defined chin would never be described as masculine, not with the firmly full lips that lay above them - nor would anybody mention that perhaps her slender nose was a bit too sharp and pointed, for to do so one would have to keep themselves from being caught in the incredible gaze of the ice-blue eyes that flanked that nose.

All around this stunningly beautiful, powerful face fell a thick mane of silver-gold hair, rich and luxurious.

A tightly-trimmed patch of pubic hair in the same cool metallic shades surrounded her new, undeniable, womanhood.

She was, to coin a phrase, 'a whole lot of woman'.

Her slowly clearing mind insisted that such a transformation insisted that such an extensive transformation should have been medically impossible - and the very sight of her Amazonian new figure seemed to bear that out.

Not a single scar or other surgical mark created a flaw on her tall, tightly packed new body. "What the hell is happening...?" Clayborne asked the buxom reflection, almost as if hoping her inanimate doppelganger could provide an explanation - but none was forthcoming. And she finally turned away to the more prosaic task of finding something to wear.

There was clothing aplenty to choose from in the lockers lining the rooms walls - which was a good thing, for that much clothing was necessary to find enough that would fit her remarkable new frame.

With her mind slowly clearing, better to hold on to the horror and disbelief she felt at her new body, she desperately wanted to cover every sign of her new, feminine, status - but that wasn't to be. With her size and oh-so-feminine mass, there was no chance at all of finding anything 'loose' or 'bulky' to hide the curves of her new figure. Indeed, her trouble was finding anything at all to fit her new form even tautly.

Though she certainly would have loved to dress solely in men's apparel, it just wasn't possible. It was possible to do so in part, however, and as much as she could do so, she did.

Though loathe to touch her feminine new form, as if her inexplicable transformation was somehow kept from being 'real' until she did so, she was nevertheless forced to feel the feminine flesh of her new form through her equally feminine new hands as she dressed in her mismatched ensemble of clothes.

Every touch only drove home her new gender, and caused yet another shudder of revulsion, despair, and unwontedly powerful curiosity and amazement.

The first article of clothing she pulled on was a man's undershirt, A plain white tank-style garment, it probably would have hung slightly loose on it's last owner - but, pulled on to her remarkable new body, it clung as tightly as a second skin. Though the back of the shirt hung just to the curve her extremely full and firmly-packed new fundament, the front of the garment not only hung several inches above her waist, but a good eight inches out from it, held in that position as it fell from the curve of her remarkably firm, full breasts.

It had taken a struggle to get the garment down over the spherical breasts it now clung tightly to - and the feeling of the tight fabric running over the smooth skin and full, pink nipples was not only remarkably different then anything Clayborne had ever felt, but disturbingly pleasant - as was the continued, almost caressing pressure of the taut fabric against her full new nipples.

Over the undershirt she pulled on a starched white man's dress-shirt taken from the same locker.

Slightly loose at the shoulders and considerably looser at the waist, the shirt was nevertheless the right general size for her torso, the folded French cuffs of the expensive shirt sitting properly on her slender wrists as she carefully clasped them closed with the gold cuff-links found on the top-shelf of the same locker.

The always-awkward one-handed task of cufflinks was made all the more difficult by the longer, neatly ovaled nails tipping each of her fingers - a literal 'handicap' that also made it more difficult to button the small, white buttons on the shirtfront.

Which of them she was able to button, at any rate.

Though fitting well enough in terms of length, the garment was lacking in depth, never designed to contain the massive endowments her new form sported so proudly. On her full, broadly feminine ribcage, those massive breasts were visually downsized to 'merely' huge - but the shirt wasn't meant for breasts of any size.

It was, however, obviously meant for a vain man with a bit of a paunch, whose shirt was oversized a bit to help hide the fact - and the bit of vanity that went into the custom tailoring of the shirt meant that it was possible for her to do up all the buttons to the one just below the most prominent point of her firm new tits.

That left the top four buttons undone - and, even with the undershirt allowing the straining dress- shirt to leave her looking 'respectable', the shape of her new form stretched out the neckline of the shirt enough to display a tantalizing hint of her apparently endless new cleavage.

There being no form of underwear, male or female, in the lockers - since, after all, one hardly changed those while getting into 'scrubs' - Clayborne was forced to do without.

Which meant she had to lightly bite her full lower lip, and simply bear the sensation of tight black leather enclosing not only her wide, well-rounded new hips, but clinging tightly to the full ass and new womanhood she now possessed.

Not a single male garment came anywhere close to fitting her womanly new hips. The black leather shirt, designed for a fairly 'hefty' woman, managed to fit - but barely, like a second skin that not only showed her taut ass and full hips, but whose equally tight waistband underscored her exaggerated hourglass physique.

More than that - though wide enough to fit her, the skirt was designed for a much shorter woman, and the taut garment just barely managed to cover her undeniably feminine new crotch.

There also weren't any shoes to be had.

As she dressed, she managed to partially deflect her mind off the sensations of her feminine new body by questions about the situation she found herself in.

First and foremost, of course, was how a man found himself transformed into a tall, strikingly beautiful woman with huge, impossibly firm breasts - but she could rather gratefully push the disturbing question aside with the knowledge that she had no clue as to how to even begin to answer that one. More immediate concerns, like where she was and how she'd gotten there, took precedence.

The last think Clayborne remembered before awakening was being in combat.

He'd been separated from his squad, and lost in the forest. It had been a night of a quarter-moon further diffused by light cloud cover, and he'd been thoroughly lost and afraid, not knowing if he was still in friendly territory or not. Rifle clenched tight in hands slicked with sweat despite the cool autumn air, he'd crept through the underbrush as silently as possible, trying to be just another shadow in the dark countryside...

...and then she'd awoken on a table in some operating room, as a woman.

No other clues or answers were forthcoming, no matter how much she wracked her brain.

Having finished both dressing and testing her uninformative memory, Clayborne walked over to the desk in the corner of the room and tried one of the drawers, hoping to find some clues of some sort within.

The drawer itself was locked, but it wasn't exactly a high-security lock, and the think blade of the scalpel had no trouble slipping into the slim crack at the top of the drawer and loosing the bolt from it's seat. She pulled open the drawer...

...and felt a literally immeasurable sense of relief at the sight of a handgun resting inside.

Hefting the Model 1911A1 Colt Automatic Pistol, the new woman expertly released the magazine and quickly glanced at the mellow brass glow of the top .45 caliber cartridge. Reassured, she slammed the magazine back into place and quickly chambered a round, putting the gun 'in battery', ready to fire.

Armed and with a mind almost completely free of the drug that so heavily influenced her upon wakening, Clayborne squared her strong new shoulders and boldly strode to the door opposite the one she'd entered. She paused at the door and took a deep breath...

...then quickly let it out, as the shirt threatened to burst open where it was straining over her monumental - and disturbingly sensitive - new breasts.

As ready as she could ever be, given the situation, her ever nerve already on edge, she turned the handle of the outer door and stepped with quickly, cat-like motions out into the corridor.

Her mind registered the presence of another person in the hallway. Even before the mind could finish cataloguing the details her eyes were reporting, Clayborne had brought the pistol up, target lining up in the fore-and-aft sight picture of the Colt's fixed iron sights as her slender new thumb expertly flipped the rough-patterned safety on the side into the 'off' position.

The man she was aiming at was standing in front of doors that, strangely, seemed to be made mostly of glass, allowing her to see several other people on the other side of the insubstantial- looking doors. They were little more than background shapes to her, however, as she focused her attention on the uniformed man sharing the hallway with her, a startled look on his blunt, weathered face.

"Easy!" the man said, quickly, spreading his hands to the side, palms out, to show that he was unarmed. "Nobody's going to hurt you, mi.. um, soldier."

Quickly, Clayborne's mind ran over the details her eyes had reported to her, taking the raw data and collating and sorting it into useful information.

The man facing her was almost as tall as her, and fairly heavily built in the manner of a once awesomely fit man who'd begun to let himself ease off. Though the weathering of his tanned face and the gray of his crew-cut hair indicated he had a good three decades on Clayborne's own age, he nevertheless still held himself erect and well balanced, and was leant an added authority by the doctor's attire he wore.

"Nobody's going to hurt you. We're here to help..." The doctor said, reassuringly. "Please - lower the gun..."

Clayborne's hand didn't so much as waver.

"What's going on here?" She demanded, hating the richly feminine voice the demand came out in. "Where am I? Who are you? What's happening?"

She didn't leave so much as a pause of breath between these questions, nor did she leave room for him to answer any of them before she shouted out the most pressing question of all: "Why the hell am I a woman!"

'Why' was definitely more important at the moment than 'how'... The doctor swallowed nervously.

"This is going to be difficult for you to understand, to believe..." He said, awkwardly. "Then make it clear, doc - real damned fast." Clayborne demanded...

...and to make sure he got the point, she pulled back the Colt's spurred hammer with an ominous 'click'.

The doctor hesitated, obviously searching for the right words. After a long moment, he swallowed nervously, and began.

" According to Army records, in May of 1974, Sergeant Douglas William Clayborne of the Second Platoon of the Thirty First Infantry division became separated from the rest of his squad while on night patrol in the Qui Trang province of the Republic of Vietnam." The doctor said, slowly, his dark eyes level on Clayborne's own. "No trace of him was ever found, and he was officially listed as 'Missing in Action'."

Clayborne frowned tightly.

"What the hell is that supposed to mean?" She demanded, angrily. "What the hell happened to me? How did I get changed into a woman?"

The doctor's face worked, awkwardly. He hesitated - then continued: "Less than two months ago, after nearly thirty years of tireless American work since the end of the Vietnam War to discover the fate of some of our missing servicemen, answers were finally provided - not by the People's Republic of Vietnam, but from an unexpected source, within the Russian Federation..."

"You're lying!" Clayborne shouted, refusing to believe such a story - needing to refuse. "This.. This is not some... some time in the future! This is some sort of trick!"

"No, it's a..."

"Shut up!" She screamed, raw panic working her frighteningly close to hysterics. "I'm, not going to listen to this.. this bullshit!"

Looking around, her eyes fell on a door clearly marked as EXIT.

"It's all a lie!" She shouted, sidling towards the door. "Where am I, 'doctor'? Russia? Is this all some sort of... of trick? Some Russkie ploy to get me to spill some sort of military secret? Well it won't work...!"

"Wait, don't..." The doctor called out - but she ignored him, keeping the gun trained on him until the last instant, when she put her shoulder to the door and burst through it.

The instant the fire exit was opened, another alarm added its voice to the din, but Clayborne ignored the bleating sound as she quickly looked around, taking in the alley-way she found herself in.

Quickly, before the so-called 'doctor' could follow her out, she grabbed a rusting iron bar from a pile of discarded building materials nearby. Quickly, she jammed one end under the metal handle of the fire door, and the other in a pot-hole in the cracked pavement of the narrow alley.

Having successfully slowed any pursuit, Clayborne quickly de-cocked the gun and tucked it, and the hand gripping it, under her left armpit, almost completely hiding the weapon.

Quickly, she headed away from the door - but not by the obvious directions, going down the alleyway either way, but by quickly leaping atop a low concrete wall opposite her, then up and over the barrier of the mostly-open structure that lay across the alley.

Though lit by fluorescent lighting, the interior of the open, multi-tiered structure was considerably darker than the noon-time sun of the alleyway. Even as the chill of the day began registering on her adrenaline-filled system, she hurried deeper into the dim interior of what was obviously a parking structure, her eyes struggling to adapt to the dim lighting - even as her mind struggled not to notice what the chill air and the even chillier concrete under bare foot was causing to happen to her thick and sensitive new female nipples.

Her eyes slowly adjusted...

...and she stopped dead, gaping at the cars in the parking structure.

Cars that bore the familiar names of Ford, Dodge and GMC - but looked nothing like any Ford, Dodge or GMC she'd ever seen.

"No..." She muttered to the air. "No, it... It's some sort of trick. Some sort of Russian trick. I'm not in the future. It's 1968, and I'm....

* * *

"...I'm Clayborne, Douglas W, Sergeant, United State Army. Serial Number 173 "

Drumming his fingers angrily on the desk, the Russian shook his head sharply in negation, silencing the much-repeated 'name, rank and serial number' routine.

Turning from where Doug was seated on a hard wooden chair in the middle of the room, the Russian - a Colonel in the KGB - looked at the nervous-looking doctor standing in the corner of the room.

"You assured me - you assured the Politburo - that the imprinting could be undone!" The Colonel snarled, more in frustration than anger. "This... man could hold uncounted secrets in his head - and he is still stuck in the 'cover' you so thoughtfully provided him, Comrade Doctor!"

"It is not my fault!" The doctor replied, too quickly, as Doug still tried to make some sort of sense of the unlimited strangeness that had gone on since inexplicable finding himself... taken... by the commando team of Russian Spetznaz forces that night, almost a month ago.

He still wasn't sure whether he was a prisoner of war, or something completely different...

He'd been treated... well. Very well, in fact, though at now time had there been any indication that he was anything other than a prisoner. Still, the Russians, in heavily accented English, had been polite and as solicitous as possible, short of actually freeing him.

Far from it - he'd been flown to Moscow, where he'd been brought to this Colonel's office - and to this Doctor.

Both of whom had made utterly preposterous claims...

...claims that the Colonel made once more, turning to look at Doug, his face tightening in an odd expression.

"You are not Clayborne, Douglas W., or any other insipid American of any name." The Colonel had explained, patiently. "You are Ivan Timiovich Stravanski, a member of the KGB Second Directorate who bears a striking resemblance to an American who died in a fishing accident off the coast of Alaska. That was Doug Clayborne. We... took the body, and extracted fluid from his hippocampus - or rather, Comrade Doctor Vutunin here did. You allowed us to inject the American's fluid - his memories - into your own mind, then let 'Doug Clayborne' get rescued, the perfect penetrator agent... but, somehow, some way, you have lost yourself... almost as if something else was transferred, as if..."

"As if my soul was transferred from a dead body into a living Russian one?" Doug had asked, sarcastically. "Gee, right - but you godless communists don't believe in souls, do you...?"

It had been a wise-ass remark, of course - the entire story was preposterous. He had been in a fishing accident, yes, and he had nearly died - indeed, he'd had that 'tunnel and bright light' experience he'd heard about, but he hadn't died, and he hadn't had his brain drained, and he wasn't some damned Russkie double agent. He was: "Clayborne, Douglas W, Sergeant, United State Army..."

* * *

Clayborne became aware of herself again.

She was leaning heavily against a concrete support pillar, her entire body shaking in the aftermath of the memory that had just resurfaced, sharp and clear despite her having repressed it so sharply until now.

"See...?" She said to herself, as she forced herself to straightened, shivering in the cold air. "A trick. A Russian trick. That 'double agent' crap didn't work, so they're trying something new, that's all..."

Pushing away from the support, she walked on freezing feet towards the downward-leading slope on the other side of the parking area. She needed to get out of her, to find some place to hole up, to keep warm - it was too damned cold for her to go running about without a coat, much less shoes...

A squeal of tires from the upward-leading ramp caught Claiborne's attention, and she stiffened - until a smoke-trailing rattletrap of a car came rumbling down the ramp.

It was old, in bad shape, and belching enough blue-gray smoke to form an artificial fog-bank, but the rusting old brown Dodge was perhaps the most welcome sight imaginable - for not only were its dented lines familiar, in a decrepit sort of way, but because of the person behind the wheel of the rattling, exhaust-belching vehicle.

Clayborne had no idea exactly what was going on here, or how, or why - but she'd be willing to stake her life on the fact that the man behind the wheel of the shuddering automobile wasn't part of any organized deception against her.

In fact, she thought to herself as she made sure the gun was carefully tucked out of sight with one hand as she flagged down the car with her other, she was betting her life on it...

Then again, as the car pulled to a stop and she got an even better look at the person inside, she felt reassured.

After all, she simply couldn't imagine the KGB using an agent, for any reason, who was a thin young man with spiky-slick hair, earrings, and - incredibly - what appeared to be a stud earring stuck right through the side of his nostril!

It was simply too unlikely...

...though not as unlikely as the very situation she found herself in, she reminded herself.

"Hey..." The young man said, with a lascivious grin as his eyes homed in on the huge breasts straining the crisp front of her dress shirt. "Whazzup, babe?"

"I, um..." Clayborne said, a bit discomfited by the man's rather crude behavior. "I was wondering if I could get a lift..."

"Sure..." The man agreed, easily enough., "Hop in."

Getting into the car, she made sure to keep the gun out of sight - not too difficult a task, since the man's eyes seemed all-but-welded to her huge new bust. Once safely in the car, she used the act of reaching down to unspool the seat-belt to slip the gun between the door and the seat, hidden but accessible.

"I'm Jack." The young man introduced himself to her tits.

"Svetlana." Clayborne replied - and instantly wondered why the hell that name had popped out of her mouth.

"Whoa - cool name." Jack said, putting the car in drive and heading out of the parking structure. "So

- where to, Svetlana?"

Still confused by the name that had simply popped out of her mouth, Clayborne - Svetlana - shook her head slightly. "Um... Actually, I really don't have any place in particular to go. I was just freezing my.. feet off."

The man's glance finally shifted from her bust, briefly touching on her bare feet with a surprised look before, thankfully, he turned his attention to his driving.

"Well, I'm heading back to my place." Jack said, carefully. "You can come by and hang out until you can call a friend or something to pick you up."

"That would be great..." Svetlana said, quickly - before it registered that the man was fishing to find out if 'something' might be a husband or boyfriend.

Realizing that she was in a close-closed space with a man who found her sexually attractive was a very, very disconcerting situation for her.

Instead of letting herself dwell on the thought, she tried to turn her mind to discovering why on earth she would have given that name to Jack, reaching back into her mind for the reason...

* * * "Bah!"

The Colonel threw up his hands and turned away from Doug... or what was left of him.

"You've succeeded in 'suppressing' the Clayborne persona - but now he'd a mindless vegetable!" The Colonel raged at Doctor Vutunin. "Look at him! He just sits there and drools!"

It wasn't true, Doug thought, numbly, staring out of the eyes of the body that had become his prison with the Comrade Doctor's too-successful suppression of his own mind.

Helpless, unable to so much as lift a finger for himself, he could only sit there - not drooling - as the doctor and the Colonel discussed his fate.

"He'd absolutely useless!" The Colonel raged. "Not necessarily..." Vutunin said, slowly.

"What does that mean?" The Colonel asked, bitterly. The doctor shrugged.

"I have more then one experiment in progress about the memory-transfer process." The doctor said. "With your permission, I'd like to use what remains of our young friend here for another experiment."

"What would that be?" The Colonel asked. "Putting him in the mind of one of our Chinese brethren next, perhaps?"

"No..." The doctor said, slowly. "One born with extremely limited intellect. I'd like to see of a transfer would increase the newborn's intellectual capacity."

"Oh, wonderful..." The Colonel had snorted derisively. "Some two-year-old boy with the skills of an American infantryman."

"Actually, the newborn's a girl..." The doctor had started.

The Colonel waved a hand. "That was sarcasm, Comrade Doctor. Actually, I could not care less what you do with him, not anymore. Go ahead - take what's left of this man, use him however you - and the State, of course - see fit."

"Very good, Comrade Colonel..."

* * *

Svetlana Douglas Ivan Olgavich William Timiovich Vatutin Clayborne Stravinski sat bolt upright and screamed in horrible, horrifying realization.

Hovering nervously over the couch in his apartment where he'd laid her after carrying her shivering, blank-faced body from his car, Jack started at the throat-rending scream that peeled from the buxom, beautiful woman, eyes going wide.

"What.. What's wrong!" He begged of her, his nervousness at her strange behavior and apparent epileptic attack increasing into sheer panic as his helplessness was made even more evident.

Wringing his hands in panic, he tried to get through to her. "Svetlana - what's wrong?" "I remember!" She shouted, blankly, in Russian, then again, in English: "I remember!" "Remember?" Jack said, shaking his head in confusion. "Remember what...?"

The answer to that... was everything. She finally understood.

The final procedure had not been sanctioned by the state. It hadn't even been medically advisable - but unable to bear the thought of his own daughter growing up without any chance at all, Doctor Vatutin had injected the mixed memories and personas of the two men into her brain in the wild hope that it would help.

It had. She hadn't understood until now, but it had indeed.

She should have lived her life afraid, confused, and unhappy, with an intelligence far below par. Indeed, her intelligence had, indeed, been nearly moronic...

..but it hadn't mattered.

The two minds within her own hadn't been 'alive', exactly. Suppressed, they had been more in some sort of 'suspended animation', like flies trapped in amber - but their memories and instincts and experiences had all been intact, and she had unconsciously drawn on these through her life.

Though she hadn't known where the instincts and thoughts came from, she'd made use of them, replacing a lowered intellect with two lives worth of experience and judgment - and where she should have been miserable, she'd led a full and happy life.

Until now.

When old KGB records had come to light, the Americans had flown her over to do some tests, trying to determine how the sick/intriguing experiments her father had performed on her had affected her, and to find some sort of closure regarding their MIA. During their tests, something inexplicable had happened - memories she shouldn't have had came forth during what should have been a routine electroencephalograph...

That had startled - hell, scared - the doctor...

...and had brought those other two minds back to life.

The shock had been so great as to repress all but the strongest persona, at first - but now, all three were free, were 'alive' and thinking...

...and Svetlana, the 'owner' of the body and mind they shared, had full and complete access to both intelligences, jumping intently from moron to genius as her mind, for the first time, spooled up to its full capacity.

She took a deep breath, her features smoothing out as two male lifetimes of pain and horror faded from that first, painful burst of recovery, as she realized that the pain and unhappiness they had felt was in the past - and that this was a whole new future.

For all of them.

"It's okay..." Svetlana said, softly - both to Jack, and to herself. "It was... a bad memory."

She looked at Jack through eyes that were new and amazed, seeing the world differently than she ever had - in any of her incarnations.

"It's more than okay..." She said - and this time, she was talking to the two male personas now intermingled with her own.

She smiled.

Gently, her hand shaking slightly, she reached out and lightly drew a long, slender finger over the smooth skin of Jack's surprised flesh.

Inside, she was feeling a roiling boil of emotions. Doubt and hesitation warred with anticipation and excitement as the co-mingled parts of her tried to sort out their feelings for what was happening...

...but it was Svetlana who had the edge in all of this, and who was guiding their combined actions, even if the male portions of her newly enhanced intellect were more than a little uncertain - more than a little repulsed - by what she was 'suggesting'.

It didn't matter. It was... 'instinctive', a mind-set of the male forms they no longer held.

