It was a silly thought, of course, she thought to herself as she gleefully let the man begin squeezing and groping her surgically-enhanced tits. After all, a woman with a constant - hell, almost desperate - urge to suck cock and trouble concentrating on anything else was well-suited to playing the roll of 'big-breasted blonde bimbo'. It certainly worked well enough for her, allowing her to get a whole five hundred dollars a night for her 'group rate' - sucking as many wonderful, deliciously cum-filled cocks as could be provided to her each night.

Still, there were these strange, dim memories. Though she clearly remembered being so happy taking up the Bambi routine, she knew she hadn't been 'Bambi' before - and though her vague memories included plenty of sex, she couldn't clearly recall the wonderful craving for cock she now felt.

The problem, she thought as the man finally stopped playing with her 'advertising' and let her (she giggled) 'get down' to business, was that she thought too much. She tried to drown out all this stupid thinking with the bimbo routine and plenty of sex - but still, the thoughts kept entering her mind...

...except, like now, when she had a wonderful cock in front of her, and she could lose herself completely in the overwhelming joy of taking that cock into her warm, eager mouth, and begin slurping at it hungrily, struggling to put some technique into it through her incredible desire to do it fast-and-dirty and get more of that wonderful, warm cum pumped into her...

(altered)

...body.

Horrified to find thoughts slipping through, even in her sanctuary of cock-sucking, Bambi slurped and pumped all the...

* * * * *

"...harder!" She gasped to the fat black man pumping away at her atop the make-shift 'bed' of garbage-bagged Goodwill clothes stolen from a drop-box at the end of 'her' alleyway. "Fuck me harder! Twist my nipples! Fuck me so hard it hurts...!"

The man grunted, already pumping as hard and fast as he could, the better to get his rocks off with 'Crazy Carla' and get on with his night.

Even as she urged the nameless man driving away at her to give her some pain to deride the incredible pleasure she was feeling, Carla struggled to tune out that awful, horrible voice that the near-endless string of pleasure she got from any contact with a man caused to scream and gibber at her in the vaults of her own mind.

Finally, the man gasped, dumping his load into her cunt before hastily climbing off of her and zipping up his pants. Gasping, glad the horrible mind-lashing internal screaming sank down to its lower, post-pleasure muttering, Gertie thanked the man as he contemptuously tossed her five-dollar fee down to her, and disappeared into the night.

Grasping the crumpled bill in a sweaty hand, Carla ponderously levered herself into the sitting position, loving... (hating)
...having to fight against the deliciously feminine... (disgustingly freakish)

...weight of her gloriously huge, round, saline-pumped tits. (HIS horrible, sickening, humiliating...)

"Shut up, shut up, shut... UP!" Carla screamed, clapping her hands to the side of her head, trying to drown out that hateful, evil voice inside her head that said all these things, that ridiculed the breasts she spent so much money on making so wonderfully huge, that tried to keep her from having sex with men. "I'm a woman, damn you - a woman!"

Sighing, she stretched her hands out and encompassed as much of her over-pumped, beach-ball sized breasts as she could.

"Why won't you let me enjoy my big boobies?" She asked that hateful voice, fondling her wonderful - womanly! - tits. "I'm not a man. I'm a girl, with tits and a cunt. Really, really big, wonderful tits, and a tight cunt for fucking men..."

(A man, I'm a man, I don't know why I have tits and a cunt, but I'm a man...)

Trying to ignore her unwanted, constant companion, Carla struggled up to the slender, nine-inch heels of her platform shoes, tucking her purple spandex mini-skirt down over her cunt. Working awkwardly around her beloved...

(hated)

...tits, she grabbed the fabric of the tube-top hanging around her neck where the john had pushed it up, and spent several enjoyable...

(humiliating)

...minutes working it into place over her massive, heavy bust.

Running her long, hot-pink nails through her ass-length mane of greasy, tangled, garishly orange-dyed hair, Carla began swaying and jiggling off towards the liquor store, eager to use her money to buy some booze. It was the liquor which could sometimes drown out that horrible, horrible voice, as much as needing to satisfy her incredible, constant need for any form of sex, that drove her to 'hook', and she was already looking forward to a couple of blissful hours when she could fondle and fuck herself in blessed silence - perhaps even find a man to fuck her without that voice screaming and begging her to stop, though most of the times even being drunk couldn't shut it up if she did more than masturbate frantically by herself.

She headed down the street, the cool night breeze serving to clear some of the inherent industrial odor of the commercial/industrial area. Her hands still fondling her massive, wonderful tits, she started to turn where she always did, the shortest route to the nearest liquor store...

...then quickly turned back and ducked on down the street, high heels clicking faster on the cracked and worn pavement as she prayed the cop standing halfway down the street hadn't caught sight of her. She'd somehow managed to avoid any trouble with the cops so far, and she wanted to keep it that way.

Hurrying on, Carla went down to the next block and turned up that street, her pace slowing as she looked around with a faint interest. Though definitely in 'her' neighborhood, she'd never actually been down this street, having no cause to do so. After all, one block of a commercial/industrial area was much the same as any other...

...except this one. This one had a house.

Carla's stride slowed a frown crossing her face as she looked at the house, a post-war red-brick 'box' sitting halfway down the street, its windows blank and its lawn overgrown.

It looked oddly familiar... (It's my house!)

With an almost palatable 'whoomp', full and complete memories came rushing back, every minute, every second of her/his/their life flooding through her.

She began to giggle.

The giggle turned into laughter, edged with hysteria...

...which turned into high-pitched shrieks she was still giving off when the cop came running around the corner, completely unprepared to hear the unbelievable story the 'crazy', huge-breasted woman would eventually tell him...

$1.00US
$1.25CDN

THE INTERNATIONAL QUESTIONER

BUSTED!

DUPLICITOUS DOC'S DDD-CUP DESTINY

'As much motivation for cure as punishment', DA claims.

Doctor William 'Wilma' Kurtz

EXCLUSIVE TO THE QUESTIONER

In a landmark decision, the Fulton County court has sentenced Dr. William Kurtz to femininity. After stealing top-secret government data for his own ends, Kurtz tried to cover up a crime by turning Jacob Candless, of Onogongo, Mississippi, into a woman. After accidentally receiving - and using - a product that was the result of Dr. Kurtz' theft in the mail, Candless was unwillingly transformed into a woman. Moreover, when he contacted Kurtz for help, Kurtz used the products built-in thought-altering capabilities to alter Candless' mind to that of a very sexually active woman, in an attempt to cover up his own misdeeds. Accordingly, the Fulton County Court decided it only fitting that the 'doctor' receive a dose of his own medicine. Forced to wear one of his own 'girl suits', Kurtz now has more-than-adequate reasons for finding a cure for the suit, something he hadn't bothered to develop previously. Given the horrific events occasioned by the mind-control imposed on Candless, the court saw fit to insist that 'Wilma' be forced to endure the deprivations of the same suit.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A best selling novelist finds himself at the mercy of a female who thinks his books portray women in a stereotypical fashion and has decided that he needs to learn how women really live.

The Critic

By Gunslinger

The deep, low throb in his head finally brought Adam out of the dark pit of unconsciousness, and he moaned, deep in his throat as awareness returned. For several seconds he lay absolutely still, absorbing the low, insistent pain and wondering why he went on these benders and had to put up with the hangover the next day.

Then memory came back with a flood, and his eyes popped open and he sat bolt upright.

Well - tried to, at least. Even as the glare of light bashed into the back of his dark-adapted eyes and brought the low pain into flaring life, he felt bands at his forearms, biceps and forehead making the convulsive movement a complete waste of energy. With a louder moan, he squinted his eyes against the flare of light, his head feeling like it was ready to explode as fear began to worm it's way towards panic.

"Well, well, well - it seems that the 'great' Adam Brannigan had decided to finally rejoin the world of the living." A female voice said, sarcasm dripping from the word 'great', and Adam winced at the sound of that voice. It had been the last sound he'd heard - the night before? Adam wondered, having no way to know how much time had passed - before the prick of a needle in his ass had sent him tumbling into the darkness from which he'd just returned.

"Wha..?" Adam said, his voice rusty as he forced sound through his dry throat and through his cottony mouth. "Gina? What are you doing? What's going on here?"

Anger and fear were warring within his restrained body, and his attempt to speak forcibly was doomed from the start. The fact that he could feel cool padding under his body and even cooler air moving over him - everywhere - didn't help, as it made him realize he was naked and defenseless in the most literal sense.

Adam's eyes became adjusted to the white glare of the quietly humming fluorescent lights, and he blinked and looked at Gina standing over him, and expression of distaste on her face. Dressed in jeans and a bright yellow crop-top, the darkly tanned, incredibly fit woman with the short thatch of sandy-blonde hair and strong yet beautiful features, she was the same woman who had looked so attractive when she'd come over to introduce herself to him at the bar. But gone was any trace of the gushing, slightly awed persona of an adoring fan of his books. Now, she was looking at him as one might regard a mess left by an untrained puppy, her full lips curled in a sneer.

"What's going on?" She repeated, dryly. "What's going on is that I'm... registering a complaint about your work."

"But..." Adam stammered, his mind still struggling to catch up with the situation. "But.. last night... you said you loved my books..."

Gina laughed, a decidedly unpleasant sound. "And you were all too willing to believe that, weren't you? You egotistical prick."

The worm of panic was turning tighter and tighter in his gut, and Adam made a futile effort to pull free of the straps that bound him to the padded frame-work that held him on a forty-five degree angle. It was a useless effort. Maybe a Schwarzenegger or a Sorbo could have ripped free of the straps - but not an out-of shape, slightly pot-bellied thirty-nine year old author who'd spent the last ten years of his life drinking too much and smoking too many cigarettes.

"Look, Gina - I don't know what your problem with my books are..." Adam said, ashamed at the pleading tone in his voice as he tried to reason with her. "But there must be some way we can work this out..."

"Of course you don't know what my problem with your books is." Gina snorted. "Not you - you're too damn egotistical to see your own flaws, aren't you?"

"Look... I..."

"Shut up!" Gina screamed in his face, spittle flying from her lips. Even as he winced at the roar, Adam felt panic rise and grip him - because, when she'd leaned forward to scream at him she'd come close enough for him to clearly see the look of complete and total insanity in her dark eyes. His teeth clicked together painfully as he bit back on the rest of his words, deathly afraid of provoking the unstable woman into an action that he feared to even contemplate.

After waiting a half-beat to see if he felt like adding anything, she smiled thinly. "That's better." Adam remained silent, thinking furiously as he struggled to keep from giving in to the panic.

"Now that you understand your situation, I'm going to release you - I'd suggest you don't try anything stupid." Gina told him. She walked away from him, out of his limited field of vision, and seconds later Adam heard a series of muffled 'clunks' as the obviously remote-controlled shackles that bound him released. He barely caught himself as he slid down the inclined surface of the table, and forced himself to stand upright.

Rubbing his wrists, Adam stood awkwardly and looked around at the room he was in. It was large, and made out of concrete, with a single, heavy steel door inset into one wall. The bed on which he'd been strapped lay roughly in the center of the room, a complicated piece of furnishing that could be adjusted to almost any angle or position. Surrounding the walls of the room were various pieces of equipment that looked vaguely medical in nature, although he couldn't put a name or purpose to any of them.

Gina was leaning against the wall near a control panel, watching him with a condescending look on her face. Adam immediately rejected the thought of trying to rush her - she was far enough away to eliminate any element of surprise, and she was tone and fit, whereas he was slight of build and out of shape. Even though she wore simple running shoes, she was equally as tall as he was, and much more muscular, despite her gender - and strictly physical confrontation would have an easily determine outcome.

"Now - why don't you get dressed?" Gina suggested with a smirk, pointing to a low stool nearby. "You'll find some clothing over there."

Shooting her a wary glance, Adam walked over to the stool and looked at the pile of clothing that lay upon it's black vinyl surface, confusion running across his face as he picked up the item on top - a 'poofy' summer dress, off white with little pink flowers dotted across it's thin cotton fabric.

"You gotta be kidding me!" Adam exclaimed, eyeing the rest of the equally feminine clothing. "This stuff is women's clo..."

Then his words degenerated into a scream as he collapsed to the ground, twitching. His vision faded in and out as he writhed on the floor, pain slamming through his system for an internal instant before vanishing, leaving only the fading effects that left him twitching on the floor, gasping for breath.

"That was the lowest setting." Gina said, conversationally. "The training collar has four more settings, each one progressively higher."

Still twitching slightly, Adam's hands went to his neck, and he felt a leather band encircling it, with two box-like devises mounted towards the back, one on each side. Shuddering, he rolled over and pushed himself to his knees, glaring at Gina.

"What the hell..." Was as far as his angry question got. Gina touched the surface of what he'd taken for a watch on her wrist - and the pain slammed through him again, but only for a fraction of a second

- just enough to slam him back to the floor, and demonstrate to him who was in control of the situation. "Would you like to try level two?" Gina asked, cruel enjoyment in her voice.

"No..." Adam moaned, hoarsely, as his head pounded as if a Con Ed team was working on the inside.

"Then I'd suggest you dress." Gina said, and Adam's teeth ground together as he glared at her. She raised an eyebrow, daring him to defy her, while one finger hovered above the surface of the control unit for the electric collar wrapped around his neck.

"Okay, okay..." Adam said, climbing slowly and painfully to his feet. Wincing, he bent over and picked up the dress that he'd dropped, then looked with distaste at the rest of the clothing on the stool. His face burning in shame and anger, he began to pull on the clothing with clumsy fingers, struggling to contain his emotions.

First came the white cotton panties. Although they were his size, they weren't designed to fit somebody with his figure, clinging a little too tightly to the waist, and a little baggy across the hips and ass - or would have been baggy, if the extra material wasn't used to stretch over his limp cock. Shame burned deep within him as he snugged the feminine underwear into place. That shame only deepened as he picked up the white canvas corset that was laying on the stool. He looked at the sturdy garment for a long second, then turned to look at Gina, his mouth working as he fought to either remain silent or protest - he wasn't sure which.

Gina smirked. "Don't even think about it, asshole. You'll never get the dress on unless that sucker's tightened right down - and if you don't get the dress on..." She trailed off, tapping the edge of the control unit on her wrist. Adam instinctively twitched as her finger neared the button on the unit, and his shame flared when she laughed at his fearful reaction.

Gritting his teeth, Adam struggled to get the heavy canvas corset in place around his waist.

"See that?" Gina said, pointing. "It's an auto-lacer. Just step into the two prongs and position the corset according to the guide, and it'll lace it up for you."

Adam glared at the woman, but gritted his teeth and forced himself to cross the room to the odd- looking device she'd gestured to. Stepping into place and awkwardly positioning everything correctly, he hit the button on the side of the machine.

At first, it was almost a pleasant sensation, like the embrace of a strong woman, as the machine began to tighten the laces on the corset. Then the pressure on his waist continued to mount, rapidly becoming painful, and he gasped and struggled to hit the 'off' button as the cincher compressed his waist smaller and smaller under the heavy material of the corset.

His finger never reached the button.

Pain lanced through his body as Gina pressed the button on her controller, and he writhed and flopped bonelessly, held in place by the auto-lacer as the electricity commandeered his neural pathways to conduct pain along. The crushing pain of the steadily constricting corset was lost, buried in an avalanche of agony as the electricity seared down his nerves, shorting out any attempt at coherent thought for the twenty-eight eternal seconds it took the machine to finish its job - then Gina released the button, and Adam flopped to the floor, unable to control his body as he flopped like a landed fish from the after-effects of the electrocution, barely able to draw breath into his lungs under the constriction of the corset.

"Get up." Gina commanded, halving the distance between where she'd lounged and where he lay on the floor, fighting to breathe. "Get, up, you pathetic excuse for a human being!"

Adam shook his head, not in defiance but in explanation of the impossibility of her order. He looked at her with pleading in his eyes.

"Can't..." He wheezed, somehow finding enough air to make the noise, as weak and tremulous as it was.

"Get up, or you'll feel level two, you wimp!" Gina screamed, leaning over and shaking her arm - with the wrist controller on it - in his direction. "Get up!"

Painfully, inch by agonized inch, Adam forced himself to comply, the pain of moving with the restrictions imposed by the corset much, much less painful than even level one of the 'training collar', much less what level two must be like. Using the frame of the auto-lacer to buttress him, Adam slowly managed to drag himself hand-over-hand up the machine, his breath coming in short, painful gasps as he finally managed to get himself upright.

"Muuuuch better." Gina said, eyeing the painfully trim, womanly wasp-waist the corset had forced upon Adam's figure. "You can get into the dress now."

"Why...?" Adam asked, finding that he could speak, if only in a thin, rather high voice. "Why are you doing this to me?"

Gina laughed. "You, the 'great' Adam Brannigan, have produced twelve New York Times 'Best Sellers' novels - and in every one of them, your female characters have been trite, stereo-typical weak-willed 'bimbos'. You have no idea how to write a realistic female character." She held out her hands, smiling cruelly. "Just think of this as a crash-course in womanhood. By the time we're done, I'm sure you'll have no problem writing female characters."

Then her face hardened, and she pointed towards the remaining clothes on the stool. "Now get dressed, before I get upset."

Fear-induced perspiration matting his short crop of dark hair, Adam slowly walked over to the remaining clothes. Without a word of protest - but with some difficulty - he struggled into the dress, then the slip-on white women's deck-shoes - a necessity, as with the painfully tight corset, bending at the waist was simply unthinkable.

Finished dressing, Adam looked at Gina with undisguised hatred mixed with shame. "Okay? You happy now?" He asked in his weak voice, resisting the dangerous urge to add the appellation 'bitch' to the end of the question.

Then his blood ran cold as she smiled and said "It's a good start..." She paused, maliciously. "Annie."

Adam opened his mouth to say something - then snapped his jaws shut to Gina's mocking laughter as he saw her finger move towards the control on her wrist.

Inside, the re-named man boiled with impotent rage, resentment, fear and shame - while he stood, helpless, and absorbed the laughter of the crazy woman who had the power to inflict unbearable agony with the touch of a finger.

* * * * *

"Today will be a light day for you, Annie." Gina told the physically and emotionally suffering man with a smile, leading him down the long, echoing concrete corridor the led from the room in which he'd awoken. "Today, all you have to do is a few basic 'feminine' things you have you female characters do while waiting for the 'hero' to come so they can jump into bed with him and/or be rescued by him while they scream helplessly."

Adam felt the pit of his stomach drop, and his steps slowed. "Like what?" He asked.

Gina continued walking at the same speed, mentioning - as a 'casual' aside - "Oh - the controller's set so that if you ever get farther than forty-five feet away from me, the collar kicks in at level three and stays on until I turn it off - an 'anti-escape' feature I've built in."

Adam hurried to catch up, gasping for breath at the sudden flurry of exertion. She smiled coldly at him, then - amazingly - deigned to answer his question without torturing him for bringing it up. "Now - you're the writer. I'm pretty sure you'll recognize all the 'female pastimes' that you've written into your stories. You know - 'women's work' like doing the laundry and cleaning the house."

All things considered, that was the best news Adam had heard since waking up - and if that wasn't a thoroughly disheartening thought, Adam didn't know what was...

So it was that the writer spent the day in domestic work, everything from scrubbing the kitchen floor to cooking dinner, with laundry, dusting and vacuuming in between. It was nothing that he hadn't done before - after all, he was a bachelor - but the constriction of the corset and the ever-present threat of electrical punishment made it a whole new experience.

If nothing else, Adam saw the situation he was in clearer than ever. The house he was cleaning was a

- thankfully - relatively small A-frame overlooking a high alpine meadow and surrounded by blue-gray peaks that thrust their white-tipped bulk into the sky on all sides, leading him to the conclusion that he was still somewhere near Aspen - but the location was remote enough to ensure that escape was near enough to impossible for him. Especially with that 'proximity' problem with the collar.

He also noticed that, while there was electricity and a small DBS satellite on the TV, there was no sign of a phone anywhere, although there were phone-jacks installed. Adam couldn't decide whether or not she'd just hidden the phones, or whether she didn't have any at all.

After a full day of doing 'woman's work', Adam was led into a bedroom, furnished in a vaguely feminine style with the impersonal feel that declared it to be a guest room, and told that this was to be his room. Locking the door as she left, Gina left Adam to get undressed - of everything except the corset, which was impossible for him to remove without help.

Sore, stiff and humiliated, Adam lay on the bed, staring off into the distance and trying to think of a way to escape the crazy woman and what she was doing to him.

He was still considering options when he drifted off into a fitful sleep, punctuated with sporadic, ill-formed nightmares in which he was running from a horrible, unseen menace.

* * * * *

"All right, Miss Alice Lazybones - time to get up."

Adam blinked, shuddering as nightmare segued into reality. He looked up into the coldly grinning face of Gina, who was looking down at him from where she leaned against the wall, one hand near the controller in case he tried anything stupid.

"Time to get up - the vacation's over." Gina told him, and he sighed and struggled painfully out of bed, unable to bend at the waist and simply sit up.

"All right - what do you have planned for today?" Adam asked with resignation. "More cooking and cleaning? Perhaps scrubbing a toilet or two?"

"Oh, no - the straight drudge work was yesterday." Gina said with a grin. "Today, you get to pretty yourself up."

Adam definitely didn't like the sound of that - but he kept his discomfort to himself.

Until they reached the bathroom, and Gina pointed to a stack of razors and told him to shave - everywhere.

"You've got to be kidding!" Adam said, after she made clear what she'd expected him to do. "You can't seriously... ahhhh!"

If he'd been able to think, Adam might've thought 'So this is what Level Two feels like'. But he wasn't able to think as he jerked in agony on the tile bathroom of the floor, every nerve screaming in pain as his muscles contracted him into a twitching, insensate ball.

After an eternity of agony, the pain finally vanished - and Adam snapped straight, the agony from the corset being bent almost as bad as the agony from Level One electricity had been - but buried in the sheer agony of what he'd just experienced.

"So - lose the hair, or I give you twice the jolt." Gina said, smugly.

"Ohhhh kaaaayyy" Adam rasped, tears streaming down his face as he lay on the floor. His body continued to twitch in the after affects of the voltage that had coursed through his nervous system, making any real control over his body impossible for the moment.

Gina's brow rose as she watched him lay on the floor for a long moment. "Well, I heard the agreement - why aren't you moving?" She asked. "Change your mind?" Her finger moved towards the button...

"Nooo... please..." Adam rasped, trying to explain. "Can't... move "

"Oh, really ?" Gina asked, leaning near him. She held her wrist where he could see - and, under other conditions, reach - it, and slowly brought her other finger towards the button.

"Noo... please... no " Adam begged, ashamed of his pathetic begging, but unable to stop as tears ran freely from his eyes and he twitched helplessly. He watched, mewling in fear as her finger neared the button...

...then stopped.

"Huh." Gina said, sounding surprised. "Guess you can't move, after all. Fair enough - I'll leave you here and go get my breakfast. You'd better be done - or, at least, a fair ways into it - by the time I get back."

Turning on one sneaker-clad heel, the tanned woman vanished from Adam's sight, and he was ashamed to find himself sobbing in relief. But, as soon as he was able to move at all, he dragged himself into the tub, started the water running, and picked up the can of shaving cream on the edge. He began the awkward process of lathering up...

...and watched, amazed, as all the hair beneath the area he was lathering fell easily out into the lather. He sat, stunned, until it dawned on him that the repeated electrical shocks - especially the last one - had acted much like electrolysis, killing of the roots of the hair and loosening them.

With stunned movements, he put aside the shaving cream and picked up a bar of soap and began to wash himself, watching as the hair on his body fell out, leaving behind smooth skin without even the faint stubble that shaving would have left. Everything came out, aside from his pubic hair, eyebrows and the hair on his head.

However, following Gina's instructions to the letter, he picked up an electric razor - being very careful, since he was sitting in a tub of water, and had enough electrocution already, thank you very much - and shaved his scalp down to a fine stubble, which he then removed with a razor.

By the time Gina returned, he was done, dried off, and waiting for her 'submissively', seated on the toilet. He watched her through his eyelashes, his head lowered in apparent resignation. When he noticed that she entered with her finger inches away from the button, he let tense muscles relax slightly, knowing that it wasn't yet time.

"Well - it looks like our little Annie is nice and baby smooth!" Gina laughed. "Good - know we can move onto the next step in our little program."

"Mistress Gina?" Adam asked, keeping his forced-weak voice soft and submissive. "may your humble servant ask what that program is?"

Gina blinked - then grinned widely. "Well - It's nice to see that you've decided not to suffer needlessly." She paused, cocking her head. "Mistress Gina.' I like the sound of that."

"Yes, Mistress." Adam replied, lowering his head slightly further - to disguise his hungry gaze at the way her hand had moved away from the controller - but not quite far enough...

...yet.

"Well, since you asked so nicely..." Gina said, her vanity pricked by Adam's form of address. "I'm going to have you learn to put on make-up, as well as walk in high heels. A wig, some new clothes, some glue-on falsies... Then I'm going to drop you on the side of a road somewhere without ID or glue remover for the wig or falsies. The way I see it, by the time you manage to get everything straightened out and get the glued-on appliances off, you will have learned your lesson." She leaned back against the wall. "Although, I'm glad to see that you're a fast study..."

Then Adam lunged forward, slamming the weight of his body against the arm with the controlling, pinning it against the wall. Before Gina could use her superior strength to simply push him away, his other hand came up...

...the hand with the small, sharp piece of metal razor from the disposable plastic razor's he'd been left with. He let her get a really, really good look at it - as he was holding it right near her left eyeball.

"This can't kill you, bitch..." Adam growled. "But it can blind you. So don't even think of struggling."

Gina's eyes widened and her breath began to shorten as her color faded, and Adam felt a perverse pleasure in her fear as she began to tremble slightly...

...at the fist tingle, Adam had an instant in which he realized that a control device, strapped to a wrist, could also measure pulse rate and, if the pulse rate exceeded a certain figure, automatically deliver a blast of energy. He also had an instant to realize that she'd almost literally thought of everything.

Then agony far, far worse than any he'd even known took over, and all thought was washed away in a red tide of unyielding, eternal pain.

* * * * *

Adam stirred - and the very fact that he was still alive to stir was a source of amazement.

He was sure he was alive, even before he opened his eyes - because there was no way that being dead could hurt as much as this did. He felt like he'd been hit by a Mack truck, with extra-agonizing pain in the hips, ass, waist, chest, face, hands and feet - his legs and arms were 'mere' dull throbs compared to the rest of him.

Painfully, he forced his eyelid open...

He was laying on the ground. Not on a floor - on the ground. A small brook babbled beside him, running into a culvert a few feet away, and he was surrounded by low scrub brush.

Painfully, Adam forced himself upright, feeling an odd shifting sensation in his chest as he did so...

Adam rolled his eyes as he looked down and saw what appeared to be the tops of two large, firm breasts stretching out the front of the floral-print dress he was wearing. The bitch had gone ahead and carried out her threat, it seemed - gluing falsies to his chest and dumping him somewhere. Shaking his head, he reached up to see if it was possible to tear the breast-forms off his chest, glue or no...

...and as his hand met the firm, round mound under the thin cotton, he was horrified to discover that they not only felt warm and firm and real under his hands...

...but he could feel the touch of his hands through the breasts themselves. The touch of hands that, while large and rather raw-boned, looked acceptable feminine with their long, gloss-red nails and the cheap rings that bedecked the fingers.

Adam screamed. Or, rather, tried to - but no sound emerged from his throat. He tried again - and the faintest whisper emerged from within, more the hiss of escaping air than any real sound.

Frantic, he pulled off the dress and gazed down at what of his body he could see.

It was smooth and soft, with very realistic looking breasts that were at least an E-cup in size. No corset crushed his waist, but it was nevertheless shrunken to a tiny diameter, probably through the use of liposuction. Not that the fat thus removed had been wasted - from the looks of it, it had been added to his hips and ass, giving them a fuller, more feminine appearance. A pair of white 'cowboy boots' with a four-inch block heel were on his feet - and when he struggled to remove them, discovered that they must have been glued in place, as he couldn't even budge them.

By drawing a few strands of flame-red hair in front of his eyes, Adam concluded that a long, red wig had been glued to his scalp, and from certain tastes and odors he realized he was made-up to some degree, with lipstick and mascara being the very least.

And, of course, there was the 'little' matter of what the bitch had done to rob him of his voice. But all of this was determined after a few moments had passed - because his first action had been to grab frantically at his crotch - then relax slightly as his hand encountered the familiar equipment under the thin cotton panties he wore.

Adam finally managed to figure out what all that medical-looking equipment in the room had been for - and he seethed with anger while roiling in shame, and self-flagellation for his hasty actions that had led to this more severe form of the humiliating punishment Gina had planned for him.

Furious - but unable even to swear out that frustrated anger - Adam pulled on the only clothes he had available to him - the cotton dress and the panties. The dress clung tightly to the huge, artificial (?) tits that thrust from his chest, and ended quite high on his smooth and acceptable feminine - if not terribly attractive - legs.

Stumbling up the embankment, Adam found himself on the side of a country road, looking down the patched and scarred asphalt. Seeing no vehicles in either direction, he picked on at random and set off, wondering what he was going to do - even when he got to civilization, he'd have to write down his predicament - and he had no idea of Gina's last name, or where she lived, other than in the mountains somewhere. For that matter, he didn't even know that her name was really 'Gina' - all he had to give was a physical description. They might never find the bitch and make her pay for what she'd done to him. At least he didn't have to worry about...

With that thought, a startled hand flew to his neck - and he relaxed as he realized that there was no sign of the electric 'training collar' - the first good news he'd had since this whole nightmare had started.

Adam walked for almost an hour before hearing the growl of an engine behind him. Turning, he raised his hands and began waving frantically as an older pick-up hove into view. Seeing that tall, large-breasted 'woman' waving, the heavy-set man behind the wheel slowed and pulled to a stop opposite to her.

"Need a lift, miss?" The broad, florid-faced man asked with a smile that revealed teeth stained brown by chewing tobacco. Adam nodded and popped open the door to the truck, slipping inside with a grateful smile.

The man smiled at her as well. "I'm Ted - what's your name little lady?"

Frowning, Adam tapped his throat, then made a diagonal slashing motion through the air. When Ted just gaped at her, she opened her mouth and worked it silently, then repeated the motions.

"Whoo-ee." Ted said in a low voice. "You one of them there mutes?"

Throwing up his hands, Adam nodded vigorously, figuring that it was as accurate an interpretation as he'd be able to get across to Ted, under the circumstances.

"Realllly " Ted said in a contemplative voice. Putting the rattling truck into gear, he began to cruise down the road, shooting her thoughtful glances - or rather, shooting her tits those glances.

Then, about two miles down the road, he turned the truck off onto an overgrown driveway that was shrouded with bushes and trees, and Adam shot the man a frightened look.

"Take it easy, missy - you an me just gonna have a little fun..." Ted said with a nasty smile, and Adam's eyes went wide with horror. He fumbled for the door handle - but Ted had pulled the vehicle into such a position that a large tree sat inches from the door on Adam's side, effectively locking 'her' in.

"Why don't you just pull off that dress o' yours..." Ted asked - and didn't wait for an answer, his thick hands grabbing the front of the dress and yanking, ripping the dress apart. Aside from the boots and the panties, Adam's altered body lay exposed to the other man's lavicious gaze - and the fact that Adam's cock was tucked back in the panties for comfort kept the illusion from being broken.

Then Ted's hands moved towards the panties - and Adam went cold as he contemplated the possible reactions to the truth should Ted tear off the panties.

Frantically, Adam began to struggle to keep Ted's hands at bay.

"Umph.. shit." Ted swore, batting Adam almost negligently across the face and making him see stars for an instant. In that instant, the only possible course of action became clear to Adam, and although he went first pale, then a bright red, he knew he had no choice. Feeling sick, he shoved his hands forward, ripping open Ted's jeans...

...then, fighting to hold back his rising gorge, he lowered his head closer to the man's thick, swollen cock, and looked up questioningly.

Ted looked down at Adam - and laughed. "Don't wanna risk getting pregnant, huh?" Adam slowly nodded, jaw clenched.

Ted laughed "Okay - you let me fondle those tits of yours without fighting, and I'll let you suck me off instead of giving you pussy a ride."

Swallowing painfully, Adam crossed his smooth legs and leaned back in the broad seat of the pick-up, face burning in shame as he closed his eyes and let Ted maul the tits on his chest.

It was painful, and not just emotionally - the implanted masses of tit-flesh were still tender from whatever method Gina had used to install them, and Ted's ministrations were far from gentle. Biting his rouged lower lip in shame and pain, Adam bore the fondling of his new tits in enforced silence, trying to pretend that this wasn't happening.

Then a few crude words from Ted informed Adam that he had to choose the form of humiliation he preferred - and opening his eyes, Adam forced himself to lower his head. He paused, staring at Ted's thick, throbbing cock, thickly veined with a head that was almost purple...

Then Ted grabbed the back of Adam's head and jammed it into his crotch. Before he was even really aware of what was going on, Adam had a thick, warm cock in his mouth, and Ted was forcing his head up and down, swearing at him and telling him to start sucking... or else.

Closing his eyes, Adam forced himself to comply.

Ted provided most of the work, both through his meaty hands and his driving hips. He basically mouth-raped Adam, whose only 'contribution;' was to tighten his lips around the cock and let his tongue slide over the bottom of the throbbing organ as tears of shame and humiliation ran down his cheeks. The tears redoubled as Ted stiffened and shot his load deep into Adam's mouth, forcing the man to swallow as he held Adam's head in place. Adam gagged at the salty, musty taste of the warm cum, and briefly thought of clenching his teeth together and ending it all - but his will to live was too strong to allow him to do that.

Pulling Adam's face from his crotch, Ted laughed. "Not bad, bitch. Taste good?"

Adam spat a wad of cum out the window, gagging. Then his stomach couldn't take it, and he crouched, knees on the seat, and shoved his face out the scant inches between the window and the tree, and vomited up the cum.

Then slammed head-first into the tree trunk, making the world spin. The position he'd unthinkingly chose to vomit in had clearly revealed his cock to Ted, who had gaped for a second at the organ outlined in the white cotton, then gone brick red.

"God damn faggot!" Ted screamed.

Adam didn't even have time to react before the panties were torn off in one quick motion, and a 'snick' came from where Ted had withdrawn a long, wicked-looking hunting knife from a belt holster. Adam had an instant to register the cold metal resting against the wrinkled skin of his scrotum...

...then the world was enveloped in a haze of pain.

* * * * *

"Doctor - doctor, 'Jane Doe' is waking up!"

Ever so slowly, Adam rose through the layers of fog that shrouded his mind, until he found himself gazing up at a white tile ceiling, aware of how slow and fogged his thoughts were, and of distant, throbbing aches from various parts of his body, but especially his crotch.

The a face hove into view, and an older man in a white coat was looking down at him.

"Miss? Miss, can you hear me?" The man - the doctor - asked, obviously unaware of Adam's inability to speak. "You're at the Hollitt County Medical Center. You were brought in, unconscious and badly cut... down there." he paused, waiting for a response, but only seeing the horror and despair on his patient's face, he rushed to reassure 'her'. "Don't worry - we've done reconstructive surgery, and while they'll be some sever loss of sensitivity, I'm afraid - the reconstructed vagina and clitoris we've give you will look completely natural, and will be completely functional."

And the worst horror of all was that Adam/Annie had no voice to give to the scream that signified the shattering of his mind into a million pieces as Gina's revenge reached out to twist his life into a living nightmare from which he'd never escape.

And, for the rest of 'her' life, nobody would make the connection between 'Jane Doe', the mutely compliant, 'not-all-there' woman living day-to-day in Hollitt County bars with Adam Brannigan - author of the New York Times Best-selling Children's books like 'Mommy is a Homemaker'....

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A wife gets silent revenge on her husband for his continuous cheating.

Cruel & Unusual

By Gunslinger

God, but did Tommy Kincaid love being married to a gullible woman.

Oh, his wife Carrie had other features he liked, too - like her slender, supple body, virginal before he met her and almost as young- seeming now, nearly a decade later. A perky blonde, she was cute and sexy with a great sense of humor...

...and a very trusting nature, which was why he'd been able to con her for so long. All his 'business lunches' taken at a local strip club went without question. Even his three-or-four-nights-a-week 'business meetings' with 'Debbie DeeKupps' went unsuspected - which was just the way Tommy liked it. After all, what man didn't dream of having a slender, petite 'lady' at home - and a eager-to-perform stripper with a magnificent pair of artfully artificial, full, round, DDD-cup breasts 'on the side'.

It came as no surprise that, even eight months after he'd started cheating on his wife, Tommy liked to drive home from his latest assignation with a big, shit-eating grin on his face as he listened to a much-worn copy of the Loving Spoonful asking 'Did you ever have to make up your mind...? '

In what had practically become ritual since he'd started his fling, the well-muscled, blandly-handsome thirty-two-year-old man spoke directly to the CD player, answering the hypothetical musical question:

"Nope."

Chuckling at his own 'wit', the dark-haired philanderer let scenes from his most recent romp run through his head - even as he looked forward to pulling up to his small house, where his sweet and unsuspecting wife would have a late dinner ready for him, same as always. This, he reflected happily, was living!

Each one-hundred-and-six times he'd done this had been nearly identical, except for the fact that the days were growing steadily shorter, so that he now left the motel where he met Debbie after dark - which was just fine with him. As always, he'd stopped off at a coffee-shop to 'grabba java' - and double-check to insure there was no incriminating evidence before he rushed home. Then a longish drive to his suburban 'castle', during which he'd listen to the same CD with the same 'canary-that-ate-the-cat' grin on his face as he 'wound down' before pulling into the driveway...

...except that his routine had never included a pair of flashing red-and-blue lights pulling sharp, bright reflections from the rearview mirror of his five-year-old Pontiac Grand Am.

"Oh, shit..." Tommy swore, eyes flicking instinctively to the speedometer - which was right where it should be, hovering right around the posted speed limit. "What the fuck is this about....? "

With a sigh, Tommy eased down on the brake and let the sporty red car glide onto the gravel shoulder, slush, salt and gravel crunching beneath the all-season radials. Dropping the car out of gear, Tommy reached across and pulled his papers from the glove- compartment, more out of a nervous double-check to ensure he had them than out of any sense of 'efficiency'. Glad to find them right where they should be, he rolled down the window and watched in the side mirror as a large, dark figure climbed out of the driver's seat of the cruiser, nearly featureless in the darkness.

It wasn't until the dark, formless figure stepped past the front of the cruiser and was back-lit by the headlights that Tommy's brain began to insist something was wrong.

Tommy's broad brow furrowed, a puzzled look coming into his dark eyes as he tried to figure out why his adrenaline level had just spiked. Getting pulled over was never a cause for celebration, but what he was feeling was a growing apprehension - a desire to get the hell out of there, RIGHT NOW.

The human mind is an interesting thing. Millions of years of evolution have allowed for reactions to stimuli that the conscious mind hasn't had time to perceive or correlate with the higher brain functions - which is why humanity in general is generally taught to 'ignore' most primal instinct in the interest of 'logical, civilized' thought...

...which was why the dark figure was almost at the window before Tommy finally realized what was wrong. There'd been no delay before the cop had climbed out of the cruiser.

No clipboard in the left hand.

A bulky, dimly shiny metallic object in the right hand, the muzzle of the strangely-shaped gun already coming up as the big, muscular figure came abreast of the Grand Am...

"What the fuck...? " Tommy shouted, jerking in his seat and trying to duck down out of the line-of-fire as he stomped on the accelerator...

...and the habits of 'logical, civilized' society caught up with him, the engine howling in impotent protest against the out-of-gear transmission as the three-point seat-belt defeated Tommy's instinctive survival movement.

The gun fired with a muffled pneumatic 'thud', and a sharp pain blossomed in Tommy's left shoulder, followed almost immediately by a warm numbness that spread rapidly.

"Wha...? " Tommy tried to ask, his lips and vocal cords already betraying him as he vainly tried to peer at the face lost in the shadow of the 'Smoky the Bear' hat of the State Patrol...

...and then darkness overwhelmed him, and all was black.

* * * * *

Tommy jerked awake.

The cop and the strange weapon still sharp in his memory, Tommy didn't just 'wake up' - his eyes flew open and he sat upright with a jerk, a gasp exploding from him as he wrenched himself upright by sheer dint of effort, supplemented by an adrenaline flow that surged through his awkward-feeling body as memory and consciousness returned in a sudden, sharp burst...

...which was why he was almost immediately aware of the fact that something was wrong. Very, very wrong.

It wasn't the locale that set off all the alarms in Tommy's head - though finding yourself waking up on a park bench in the dead of night could be disconcerting, even if it was a fairly well-lit bench, what with it being located directly below a wrought-iron 'Victorian'-style sodium lamp that cast a orange-tinted light across him and the bench.

It wasn't even the fact that he was cold and stiff and uncomfortable that made his heart shoot up into his throat and his jaw drop open. It was the fact that he was dressed in women's clothing - and was filling them out in a way that he should never have been able to.

The way he'd sat bolt upright had allowed him a very good, fast look at most of his body - or, rather, of the body that came in sight, because it wasn't his body. In fact, 'his' would never be applied to the body he was looking at - the forms and shapes that were both revealed and hidden by the feminine clothing most definitely fell under the category of 'hers' rather than 'his'.

The cork-soled sandal-style shoes with their leather uppers and wedge-shaped soles were undeniable a 'her' item, what with the wedge making them officially four-inch high heels, and the strap-style upper leather revealing small, well-formed feet that most definitely deserved such feminine footwear. Likewise, the ankles just above the last strap on each shoe was slender and well-shaped, leading the eye naturally upwards, to the long - and most definitely feminine - legs that disappeared under the hem of the short denim skirt, the tough, tight fabric riding high enough to expose a cute pair of female knees.

Blocking off the view of skirt's waistband was an obstruction closer to Tommy's point-of-view - a white shirt-sleeve sweater whose front was pressed outwards by a pair of breasts that seemed to be quite large and firm, perhaps a double or even triple 'D'-cup - at least, that's what the view down the fairly low neckline of the sweater seemed to suggest, at any rate. Those creamy, firm mounds were further framed by the strands of golden hair that poured over-and-around Tommy's apparently considerably narrower shoulders, the tint and tone of the hair the brassy sort of blonde that only came from fairly inexpensive bottles.

All in all, everything that could be seen suggested that 'her' was unarguably the right term to be applied to the person on the park bench

- and, worst off all, everything that Tommy's mind was receiving in the way of physical sensation also agreed with what could be seen, the sensations making utterly clear and unarguable to Tommy that 'he' was no longer a 'him' at all - but a 'her'.

Given the circumstances, the shocked scream that was ripped from the new woman's throat was quite understandable - though the sound of that scream, high-pitched and 'horror-movie-stereotypical', did little to make her feel any better about the situation.

"Holy shit - I'm a woman...!" Tommy said, weakly, having expended most of her energy in that scream - and, again, her voice was that feminine soprano that couldn't possibly be imagined as belonging to a man, yet another 'proof' to a situation that was already undeniable - no matter how much she wished it was otherwise.

Hesitantly, Tommy put trembling hands to smooth legs, verifying by external touch stimuli what the visual and internal sensations already proved - that what she was experiencing was reel. She could not only feel the smooth, shaved flesh of her moderately shapely legs through her hand, but she could also feel the sensation of her slender, long-nailed new hand through the smooth new flesh of her legs, and that proved without a doubt that...

"Is something wrong, Miss? "

Tommy gasped and spun, so absorbed in trying - in vain - to disprove to herself what she was seeing that she hadn't heard the man who'd spoken approach. She stared, wide-eyed, at the dark-haired man in jeans and a leather motorcycle jacket who was looking at her with a mixture of curiosity and sexual interest...

...and then, against her will, found her eyes drawn downward from his unshaven face to the crotch of his jeans, her eyes seeming to move of their own accord to lock onto the spot where a manhood like the one she'd once possessed was lurking.

As if from a great distance, Tommy heard a breathy, feminine voice speak in tones that could only be described as 'vapidly seductive: "Oh, I'm just so very horny. My name's Tammy, and I'm a nymphomaniac slut who just can't get enough sex. Would you fuck me, please? "

The crotch she was staring at fixedly twitched - as well it should, considering what the ditzy-sounding voice was saying.

"I.. beg your pardon...? " The man asked in a startled, lustful tone - and Tommy couldn't blame him, since that strangely familiar voice was suggesting something that didn't happen outside of porno movies, Penthouse letters or some boy's wet dream. Nevertheless, the sexy, brainless little voice made sure that she was being utterly clear.

"I need to be fucked..." It said, hungry in a mindless sort of way. "please, I really, really need to be fucked right now. Please, will you fuck my brains out, you handsome stud....? "

It was right about then that Tommy realized who was speaking in that vapid little voice, begging to be fucked:

She was.

In fact - she was continuing to stare at the man's crotch, her eyes still wide as her continued pleas to be fucked spilled uncontrollably from lips that not only felt fuller and more softly firm, but which tasted of what Tommy could only presume was lipstick - and that taste came when she helplessly licked her tongue across those lips, feeling their slick, cosmetic-coated surface slide under her probing tongue.

In the midst of her horrified realization that she was helplessly begging some strange man to make use of her newly-acquired and desperately unwanted body, the new woman also became aware of the fact that there was a rapidly rising warmth in her crotch, unlike anything she'd felt before - but nevertheless recognizable, especially from the effects it was having on her breathing, perspiration, and pulse rate.

She was, in fact, becoming aroused. Sexually aroused.

Very aroused. Painfully aroused...

...by the thought of being fucked...

...by a man!

"Please..." She heard herself beg, unable to control her traitorous tongue. "...I need it sooooo bad "

"Are... are you serious..." The man asked, nervously licking his lips as he glanced in either direction, looking for spectators, or maybe a hidden camera.

Tommy (or 'Tammy') didn't notice, her new - and, unbeknownst to her, large and blank-looking - blue eyes helplessly locked on the man's now straining crotch. She struggled within the confines of her own mind to say something to retract her unwanted statements...

...and, as if she'd not even tried, found herself reassuring the man as to what she 'wanted' from him: "Oh, yes, I'm so very horny, and I need to be fucked often, and can you fuck me please? "

"All... All right..." The man said...

...and her attempt to jump up and run screaming into the night was as useless as her earlier attempt to stop herself from asking to be fucked. Indeed, as if there were no 'out' lines from her brain to her body, her new form swung its legs over the edge of the bench and spread them lasciviously, one hand going down to lightly rub across the denim fabric covering her now sopping wet cunt, while the other lightly slid across the soft, fuzzy material covering her firm new breasts, the two hands moving slowly, almost as if unaware of what they were doing...

...and then, with one sudden movement, she gripped the edges of her sweater and pulled it off in one smooth, graceful motion, freeing her otherwise unrestrained breasts to the man's hungry gaze and to the cool air of the night.

Her nipples were good sized, a darker, pinker color than her smooth, milky flesh - and fully engorged in what well could have been rampant sexual desire, especially considering the sharp, tangy odor that was drifting from under her skirt.

"Do you like my tits...? " She found herself asking, none of her horrified disgust showing through to the surface as she lightly fondled her new bust, her fingers moving independently of her own will, to create new - and, disturbingly, quite enjoyable - sensations.

"Yes.." the man said, his voice husky.

"Maybe after you fuck me nice and hard, you can play with them for a bit..." She found herself saying in a teasing voice - despite the fact that part of her would very much rather that the man play with her tits rather than fuck her.

Of course, a much larger part of her wished she wasn't in this situation at all. That part of her brain was barely able to keep up with what was going on, the strangeness of waking up female in a park much less important to her now than the fact that the 'female' side of her seemed determined to get fucked by this stranger - and she couldn't seem to stop herself.

Which was why she could do nothing at all to prevent herself from sliding her skirt down, the elasticized waistband - practical for a nympho who wanted clothes that came off quickly - sliding down the well-rounded curve of her hips and over the smooth flesh of her legs, to wind up puddled around her new ankles as her long-nailed fingers lightly stroked the damp folds of her new cunt, her nymphomaniac history explaining the lack of any underwear.

She was finally able to tear her eyes of the man's crotch - but it wasn't an occasion for relief, since it was necessitated by her rising and turning around, spreading her fine new legs as she thrust her firm, round new ass into the cool night air, bracing her slender new arms on the back of the bench to leave herself bent over, damp pussy invitingly available.

"Fuck me..." She heard herself beg yet again, continuing the trend of 'nymphomaniac vapidness' that she'd helplessly displayed before, the words and actions fitting the image of a woman who cared - who thought - about one thing and one thing alone: Sex.

The stranger needed no further encouragement. From behind her, the new woman heard the sound of a zipper being hastily lowered, and she knew that he was pulling his now-hard cock out...

She struggled desperately within the prison of the strange new female body she found herself trapped in, trying (and failing) to do something - anything - to escape the fate that had inexplicably been thrust upon her.

She had just enough time to realize that, even with such a great incentive, she had absolutely no control over her body at the moment...

...and then she felt the brand-new sensation of having a big, hard cock slide deep and hard into her hot, ready cunt.

She cried out in pleasure - and though her body would have done that whether she'd willed it to or not, she was stunned to find that the impulse to do that had actually been generated by that trapped portion of her brain that was her old, male sense of self - because,

'disgusting' as it might have been, emotionally, having a cock slide into her tight new cunt felt utterly fantastic, physically.

"Oh, yes..." She heard her voice moan, and found herself agreeing in part with the satisfaction found in that vapid tone. "That feels good.."

It felt even better when he began to thrust into her, his sweaty hands grabbing her womanly hips for added leverage as he began to drive into her, his own 'hydraulic' need now as great as the need she'd claimed to have...

...only, as the man whose name she still didn't know continued to fuck her, she found that there was nothing 'claimed' about her nymphomaniac status - not only had she been incredibly aroused, before, but now she was experiencing sensations stronger and more physically pleasing than any she'd ever felt as a man.

"Oh... Oh... harder..." She found herself begging - and she was no longer sure what part of her mind was doing that, since part of her very much wanted the man to obey what she was telling him, because as great as it felt to be fucked, she also knew it could feel better...

The man complied, his breathing horse and rhythmic as he slammed her from behind, his own bony hips slamming into her delightfully padded posterior as he grunted and moaned in unison with her own, higher-pitched cries, pleasure building in each of their bodies - but much more rapidly and much more powerfully in the new woman's body than in the unnamed man's, a comparison she felt safe making since she knew what sex felt like for a man...

...and it wasn't anything close to as wonderful as this felt. Her whole body was trembling with the force of the man's thrusts as his cock plunged again and again into her tight, well-lubricated new womanhood - and her whole body was alive with pleasure, the intense sensations in her new crotch seeming to reverberate through her, adding intensity to the sensations generated by the rest of her body. The air moving over her now-sweat-slicked body, especially her painfully erect nipples and her full, damp lips, felt wonderful. The way her longer, silkier hair felt as it slipped over her shoulders with each shudder and bounce that came from being fucked was something else that felt good - but not as good as the way her new boobs bounced and jiggled and swayed with each fantastic thrust.

She was getting fucked by a man. Fucked hard and fast...

...and loving every second of it!

That only made it that much more humiliating for her. All the wonderful pleasure she was feeling was physical, and it was enough to override her own judgment, making her 'love' every second of what was happening even as she was still capable of knowing that if she'd been able to, she would have stopped it, despite all the pleasure she was feeling from the actions...

...but since she didn't have a choice in the matter, the pleasure she was feeling was even more horrifyingly seductive, seeming to tell her that if she had no choice, anyway, she might as well go ahead and give in, lose herself to the pleasure, accept her new role and stop trying to fight something she had no control over...

...and she was slipping. Unable to remove the wonderful sensations, and the temptations they created, she felt her will to resist weakening even as the pleasure grew and grew, driving her towards her first female orgasm.

"Oh, God... yes...!" She cried...

...while her straining, cracking mind cried out in a silent male voice, 'Oh, Go, no!'

Pleasure was now shooting through her body in rapid waves, the sharp edge to it promising an orgasm to come, a promise that served only to drive a wedge deeper into her slowly fracturing mind. Her body was now rocking with the man's rhythm, making each stroke longer and deeper - even as part of her mind was still trying to get her unresponsive body to haul itself off the man's cock, not wanting to experience the wonderfully pleasurable humiliation of a female orgasm.

Of course, she had no say in the matter. Her body continued to respond in the 'nympho' mode, her breath now sharp gasps as the pleasure continued to build and build...

...and build...

...and build...

...and...

The orgasm came hard and fast, slamming into her like a freight train of pure, unregulated pleasure, her entire body going rigid for an instant as every nerve, every neuron was put to use for the transmission of ultimate, orgasmic pleasure, the palatable force of the 'genital sneeze' magnified several times beyond that which a normal woman would feel, less like a 'mere' sensation and more like solid object that was somehow capable of slamming into her body without actually affecting it...

...but more than capable of affecting her already strained, overly-stressed mind, the sheer force of the incredible pleasure actually serving to momentarily short-circuit her entire brain, a rushing wall of white overwhelming her mind as it was hauled out of its own sense-of-self, to become a momentarily unthinking organ that existed solely to 'appreciate' the force of the orgasm still ripping through her body....

...and, vaguely, capable of registering - and, at last, recognizing - the sound that was ripped out of her throat, the primal scream of orgasmic pleasure that he'd hear before, in similar-yet-radically-different situations.

It was the recognition of that scream, more than anything, that did it. Like a pane of glass tapped just right with a hammer, the mind housed within the body shattered, fragments spewing through the landscape of the psyche even as the realization came to the new woman:

'I'm Debbie !'

'Debbie DeeKups', stripper and 'girl-on-the-side'. Blonde and eager and sexy, with firm, round DDD-cup breasts. Debbie, whose vapid face she would have recognized in an instant, if she'd had a mirror to look into. Debbie, whose soprano voice was a familiar sound, though the odd way a voice sounded to the person speaking was enough to have kept instant recognition from setting in. Debbie, who Tommy had often joked sounded like a 'Wildcat in heat' when she came...

...and who was now making that exact same sound as she shuddered and jerked at the end of a big, hard cock, doing what she loved doing best: Fucking.

"Oh, yeah, baby..." She murmured in a voice that was more musing than enthusiastic - a voice that was run by the 'real' mind, repeating a much-heard phrase that came after that wildcat scream, one that the shattered mind inside the sexy body was merely parroting rather than emoting.

The man who was just dumping his load into her tight cunt didn't seem to notice the odd tone to her voice, though, since he was barely capable of noticing anything at all, his own orgasm claiming most of his attention as he bucked his hips twice more, awkwardly, then let his cock slide free of the wetly warm embrace of her womanhood.

Suddenly aware of the fact that he'd just fucked a strange woman in the middle of the park, the man became very confused and worried, wondering what had motivated her to do something like this, and what could possibly be going on. Suddenly panicked, he mumbled something incoherent and quickly tucked his juice-slicked cock back into his pants, already moving away from her at a quick pace as he made up his mind to get tested for every sexually transmitted disease known to man.

In his rush to leave, he didn't even register the fact that the woman was still in the same position, bent over the bench with her ass stuck outwards and upwards. Even if he had noticed the fact she hadn't moved, he wouldn't have been able to see the blank, stunned look on the woman's face as she stared unseeing at the grass a few feet away, her fractured and damaged mind trying to sort itself out.

In any case, he didn't stick around, quickly vanishing into the darkness of the night as the woman continued to stand there with goosebumps forming on her skin.

"I... I'm Debbie..." She murmured to herself in a vague voice, her eyes still unfocused as her brain struggled to become coherent once again. "I.. I'm a sexy stripper with firm, round tits and a hot body... a stripper who likes having sex..."

Slowly, the new woman straightened, her face still blank as she slowly began to dress, moving like somebody deep in a trance. "I.. I'm not a man..." She murmured to herself.. and then she giggled, a bit of animation coming back into her face.

"Of course I'm not a man..." She said, with a shake of her head, as she finished getting her clothes rearranged. "What a silly thing to think. I'm a woman, and I have been one all my life - why I've been working at the same club for more than two years now, so how on earth could I 'suddenly' be a woman...? "

She paused for a moment, her face taking on a puzzled cast as she tried to recall what could have prompted her to think she was her own lover, Tommy - well, one of her many lovers, though his was the only name she was actually able to remember, oddly enough.

Perhaps she just didn't bother to get the name of most of the men she fucked, needing release so desperately that she didn't bother with such trivia...

Her puzzled look deepened as she thought of her 'nymphomania'. Why couldn't she remember being a nymphomaniac? In fact, why was she having so much trouble remembering a lot of details in her life...?

She pushed the thoughts aside, quickly, as a wave of pain and discomfort washed across her - the pain a physical sensation, in the form of a splitting headache, the discomfort emotional. Thinking about her past or her situation didn't seem to be the right thing to do at the moment, not if it caused such uncomfortable feelings. Leaving the pondering for another time, she began to walk down the path, her own movements feeling strangely awkward and unfamiliar to her as she headed towards...

She stopped dead in the middle of the path, finely arched eyebrows drawing closer together in puzzled confusion.

She had no idea where she lived. She knew where she worked, of course, and she could even remember which motel she met Tommy at for their trysts - but her own home address was a mystery to her.

"But..." She stammered, feeling the headache, which had begun to subside, swell anew. "I.. Why..? " The pain was almost at 'migraine' levels, making her wince and rub at her temples...

...and, momentarily distracted, her mind took the easy way out, leaving her wondering why she was standing in the middle of the park. Confused all over again, wondering what she'd just been thinking about, Tammy began walking again...

...then stopped dead.

"Tammy...? " She asked the night air, unconsciously wincing at the renewed rush of pain in her temples. "Why did I tell that man my name was Tammy? "

She began walking again, this time slowly and meditatively, her eyebrows still drawn together in what was now a mixture of confusion and pain, trying to work out what the hell was going on here. Something just didn't seem right - and one of the 'off' things was how hard it was for her to wonder what could be 'off' about this whole situation. It didn't make any sense...

...but she couldn't dwell on it, not with a migraine setting in that threatened to knock her flat on her ass. She'd have to leave it until she was feeling up to tackling tough questions. Right now, all she wanted to do was get home and relax.

Just stepping out of the park and onto the sidewalk of the road that fronted it, she stopped dead again, her brow furrowing as her earlier musing was once more pulled sharply to mind:

Where did she live? She had no idea.

She should know her own address. After all, if she was Tammy, then.. no, wait, she meant, if she was Debbie, then she should know what her own address was. Yet, for some reason, the only address she could come up with wasn't hers, but... Tommy's? Why would she be thinking of Tommy's address...?

Wait a second....

Tommy had been very careful not to give her his address.. yet she knew it. How...?

"Because... I'm Tommy..." She said in a voice of dawning recognition. "I.. I'm a man.. and I.. I.. I..."

Unable to take the strain of what had been done to him, Tommy's mind 'retreated', leaving behind the much-altered version of Debbie's persona that Tommy's wife, Carrie, had left behind in the now-hyper-sexual stripper's body before she'd used her friend Tonya's latest 'science project' to transfer her cheating husband's mind.

"...I love fucking!" The much-simplified part of Debbie's psyche said - the part that made her such easy prey for sleazy men such as Tommy, now magnified and simplified into unthinking sexual lust.

"Boy - I sure could use a blow-job..." Tommy/Tammy/Debbie sighed, hungrily, heading towards the downtown strip - and the bars, sure to contain men who'd want a real hottie like her to slurp on their cocks. She hoped that she could find somebody who could give her a nice, big load of hot cum, because she was really hungry for some sweetly-sour semen, so much so that it was taking almost all of her concentration, images of male organs dancing in her head...

...and serving to distract her from either of the two very deeply buried 'senses of self' deep within her mind, one of which was a stripper who, while she liked sex pretty well, was far from a 'nympho slut', and the other, which was the cheating husband who liked sex well enough as well, just not with men.

In fact, her sudden and overwhelming desire to find a nice big cock to suck was simply the first distraction her fractured, altered, mixed- up mind could come up with - and it desperately needed that distraction to keep her from listening to those two parts of her brain which were now - and forever - screaming in horrified realization of what had been done to them.

THE END

SUMMARY: After discovering an ancient stone with unusual powers, two old friends fall victim to the stone which turns one into a female and the other into her admirer.

Curiosity & The Kat

By Gunslinger

With a low creaking that was lost beneath the hum of computer equipment, the heavy oak door of what had once been a bedroom swung open, the bright light of the room spilling out into the dimly-lit hallway beyond.

The golden-white light from the room's many lamps splashed across the chiseled cheek-bones and broad, hatchet nose of the lean, rangy man who'd opened the door, picking sharp highlights from the long, blue-black mane of hair as he leaned against the old, much-varnished door frame. The native American's obsidian eyes flicked around the room, the thick, dark eyebrows above slowly rising steadily higher as his sharp gaze fell upon one disheveled pile of papers on top of another. Finally, his gaze fell upon the room's sole inhabitant - and his eyebrows finished the journey to their limit, jaw slightly slack in surprise.

"I don't believe it..." William Twofeathers said, softly, his voice surprisingly deep for a man possessing a lean, ropy frame such as his own.

Absorbed in his work, the man at the room's battered, cigarette-scored desk didn't even hear the low comment. Narrow shoulders hunched in concentration, the dark-haired man's bony back was curved in a spine-creaking position as he peered through a huge, 'Sherlock Holmes' magnifying glass at something on the desk. Almost as if operating on it's own, the scrawny young man's right hand was jotting notes in a leather-bound notebook, the pen scratching across the paper with frenetic haste completely unlike the man's usual studied pace.

Usually right at home in his friend's house, William felt decidedly out of place as he stepped into the room. Quietly laying the overnight bag he carried onto the floor, he slowly moved deeper into the room, jamming his hands into the pockets of his jeans in an awkward motion, afraid of touching any of the teetering piles of books or papers that lay scattered around the usually immaculate study that the room had been turned into.

"Uh..." William said, raising his voice uncomfortably. "Kat?"

With a jerk of surprise, Vladimir Katszilowski - 'Kat' to his few close friends - spun around on the awkward-looking stool, his pale blue eyes wide in surprise.

For a second, the two friends simply stared at each other - and then Kat smiled broadly, rising from the stool with surprising grace as he wiped his ink-smeared hands on his far-from-pressed black trousers.

"William!" Kat said warmly, hurrying to pull aside a stack of books to make room for his best friend to sit down. "Please, my friend, do not stand on ceremony - come in, come in!"

Although still a year shy of thirty, Kat spoke with a measured courtesy that seemed like something right out of movie from the fifties - which went perfectly with the Ukrainian immigrant's wardrobe. Though he'd successfully muted his accent to a faint, almost exotic underlay, Kat had no desire to fully 'Americanize' himself, choosing to take the best from both his past and his future and combine them to his own taste.

Between his exquisite - and, therefore, 'weird' - courtesy and the passion for books and dusty old museums that came from his calling as a scholar of extinct cultures, Kat was hardly the most popular man in Washington - and that's the way he liked it. Unlike the American custom of having a wide circle of friends, Kat preferred the old-world custom of having very few - but very close - friends.

William Twofeathers was one of these close friends, and Kat's enjoyment at one of William's steadily less frequent visits was obvious, despite the formality with which Kat offered coffee and cigarettes to his friends.

"I am very glad to see you again, my friend." Kat said, lighting up the cigarette William had refused only after getting his friend's permission to do so. "It has been much too long since we last visited together."

"Yeah, well, the dig's been keeping me busy as.. uh, heck." William said, curbing his language at the last second to keep from offending his host.

"Oh, I am not complaining." Kat said, quickly. "I know how important your work is to you."

A prodigy, Vladimir Katszilowski was a renowned expert on extinct peoples and cultures, already well known and respected in his field for sheer brilliance and persistence in 'forensic archeology'. William, however, was still working hard to build his reputation in his chosen study of the Native American culture. Given his heritage, it wasn't really surprising that he was ahead of the curve due to a certain sort of 'reverse racism' - and though it rankled slightly, William wasn't above using that fact, especially since it helped him obtain funding for the dig he was heading up in the Nevada Badlands.

"I was called in for an 'emergency meeting' by the boys down at the Smithsonian." William explained. "Turns out it was just a typo in the report, not an actual problem - so, I have a few days free, and thought I'd drop by."

"Of course, William, you are always welcome here." Kat said, waving hand to indicate the old Victorian brownstone he called home. "You know that."

"I wasn't sure." William replied, with a slight smile. "You seem rather, uh... involved in something."

Kat grinned shyly. "Ah, yes - you must have been somewhat taken aback by my disheveled state. I have been very intrigued with a puzzle - perhaps even 'obsessed'. However, I was just finishing up when you arrived."

"Oh?" William said, wondering what could have been so 'intriguing' to effect his usually fastidious friend so. "Do you mind if I ask...?"

"Oh, please do!" Kat replied, with a laugh. "As you might imagine, I am quite eager to share this with someone, now that I have 'cracked the case', to use the vernacular."

Rising, Kat made room for his friend in front of the desk. Gesturing at the object he'd been studying, Kat faced William with a raised eyebrow.

"Can I safely assume you are at least somewhat familiar with this object?" Kat asked, politely.

William blinked twice in surprise before answering, his voice somewhat breathless. "It looks like the Chapiquien Curiosity." "Indeed, indeed." Katszilowski chuckled. "That is exactly what it is, my friend."

William let out a low whistle as he surveyed the time-worn octagonal stone with its mysterious cursive inscriptions in fine gold filigree. Under the numerous lamps Kat had placed around the object, the beaten gold gave back a mellow gleam against the dark basaltic stone, and the fine-cut jewels placed in each corner of the stone object shot back fiery highlights in accompaniment to the breathtaking sparkle of the large pink diamond set in the center of the mysterious artifact.

"I'm amazed they gave it to you..." William confessed, knowing that the best experts in antiquities had placed its inherent material value at well over half a million dollars - and that its cultural value as an antiquity made it, quite literally, priceless.

"Oh, 'gave' is hardly the correct terminology, my friend." Kat chuckled again. "Indeed, it took quite a bit of persuasion to convince them to let me study it, especially here in an 'unsecured' environment."

William suddenly twitched, then shot an incredulous look at Kat in realization: "I just walked in here, Kat. Anybody could have simply..."

William Twofeathers had already sustained many surprises that evening - but they all paled in comparison as he broke off, wide-eyed gaze fixed on the gleaming metal object Kat had seemingly produced from nothingness.

"A Radom WZ 35." Kat identified the weapon in an apologetic tone. "A nine millimeter Polish copy of the American Colt .45..." Sliding open the desk drawer, Katy extracted another handgun.

"...such as this one." Kat finished.

William gaped at the two gleaming handguns now sitting side-by-side on the desktop.

"I have held a handgun license for some years now." Kat explained, replacing the heavier-caliber Colt in the desk, and sliding the nine-millimeter into a nearly invisible 'clip' holster just inside his waistband. "Indeed, I understand that my accuracy and ability would rate as a 'master' rating in the United States Army."

William suddenly grinned at the thought. Aside from being a renowned expert on ancient cultures, William knew Kat to be a gourmet chef and a world class pianist. Though surprised to learn that Kat owned any firearms, he wasn't surprised to learn that the meticulous man was an expert with them - anything Vladimir Katszilowski choose to do, his did well.

"All right, 'Quickdraw' - so what's the breakthrough you made on the Curiosity?" William asked, shaking his head in bemused amusement.

Grinning back, Kat gestured at the stone.

"As you are aware, the Chapiquien Curiosity was recently discovered by French Surveyors near Serro do Navio, in Brazil." Kat explained, slowly polishing his glasses with a handkerchief.

William nodded thoughtfully. "I know that much from the newspaper accounts and the subsequent publications in the journals. They were surveying a road through the Guiana Highlands, north of the Amazon, right?"

"Quite correct." Kat acknowledged. "Those highlands were once home to a tribe of indigenous people known as the Chapiqui. Though culturally similar to both the Incas and the Mayans, the Chapiqui were a very reclusive race, and little is known about them, other than details gleaned from the remarkably advanced artifacts left behind. The Chapiqui culture, you see, simply vanished sometime before the Spaniards arrival in the New world, circa 1500 A.D. Therefore, very little is known about the Chapiqui."

"Right - one of the few cases of a 'New World' culture vanishing without any help from 'Old World' explorers or invaders." William said, slyly. "Okay, I'm with you so far."

Nodding, Kat gestured again at the stone. "The reason that this is referred to as the 'Curiosity' is quite simple - though undeniably Chapiquien in workmanship and age, found among Chapiquien ruins, the 'writing' on it bears no resemblance to known examples of Chapiqui script - or, indeed, any other known form of written communication."

"Oh...?" William said, surprised. Though such 'schisms' in writing techniques had been known throughout history, eventually key discoveries between cultures - such as the renowned Rosetta Stone - had all-but-eliminated such stand-alone cultural differences. "I take it you managed to 'crack the code' and determine at least some of the writing?"

"Oh, no..." Katszilowski said with a chuckle. "You see, my breakthrough is considerably more fundamental than that. I have determined that the 'writing' is, in fact, no such thing. This stone is not, in fact, a tablet. It is, for want of a better term, an 'integrated circuit'."

William's head jerked up and he stared at his rather smugly grinning friend. "You... You're serious..." William said, amazed.

"Oh, quite." Kat assured him. Let me show you something, my friend..."

Working with the quick, sure motions of a man performing a task he'd done many times before, Katszilowski quickly slid a small, obviously home-built frame into place near one corner of the stone. Slender fingers moving with assurance, Kat quickly tightened the small pair of 'C' claps around the wooden handle of his magnifying glass, the small pads tipping each vise-like clamp settling into the indentations made by previous uses. Within seconds, Kat had secured the large lens directly over the small, convex-cut emerald in the stone.

"Now, observe..." Kat said as he flicked off the lamps arrayed around the artifact. Lit only by the light that seeped between the blinds on the window, Kat picked up a powerful MagLite flashlight and thumbed the rubber-coated switch, bringing the long four-cell flashlight to life.

Twisting the housing of the flashlight's lens, Kat tightened the bright white beam generated by the halogen bulb, then aimed the flashlight precisely through the center of the magnifying glass. The lens focused the beam tightly, a cone whose apex focused on the top of the inset jewel...

...and William gasped as the larger pink diamond set a good six inches away in the stone began to pulse with an almost eerie inner glow.

"That's amazing..." William breathed as Kat switched off the flashlight and snapped on one of the lamps. "What happened if you light more than one of the jewels at a time?"

"Actually, that I do not know." Kat admitted. Picking up a pen, he tapped the notepad he'd been scribbling in. "I was just making my notations on the effect of lighting each individual jewel, one at a time. I'll then try every combination of two jewels at a time, then three, and so on."

Pulling open another drawer in the desk, Kat gestured at the array of flashlights, magnifying glasses, and home-build frameworks that filled the large drawer. "As you can see, I have everything I need for doing everything, up to and including the illumination of all the jewels simultaneously, but I estimate it will be a good week before I get that far."

"I see..." William said, disappointment obvious in his voice.

"Ah..." Kat said, nodding in realization. "You only have a couple of days here, and are disappointed you will not be available when I, how should I say it... 'shoot the works'?"

"Yeah." William said, grinning self-consciously. "I know, I know - It's hardly a proper scientific attitude. The way you're planning to do it is the correct approach. But..."

"Ah, yes, 'but...'. " Kat acknowledged, dryly. He hesitated, his own curiosity now reinforced with a desire to satisfy a matching curiosity in his friend. "I suppose it would not hurt..."

William held up his hands quickly. "No, no - don't let me talk you into..."

"Actually, my friend - I must admit I, too, am curious." Kat said, with a grin. "However, without your limited time here, I could not provide myself with a 'good excuse' to break my normal routine. Will you do me the favor of allowing me to blame a deplorable break in scientific methodology on a desire to satisfy a good friend's curiosity?"

William hesitated a second longer - then grinned boyishly. "All right, It's all my fault - now how about seeing just what this thing can do?"

"Indeed..." Kat agreed with a matching grin. "If you would be so kind as to assist me..."

Eagerly, the two men began setting up the apparatus Kat had already designed and purchased for the 'final' experiment. Setting the stone upright in a plat-holder that held it perpendicular to the desktop, the two men quickly assembled the 'C'-clamp framework around the stone, placing a magnifying glass and a flashlight parallel to each corner stone. With his usual methodical planning, Katszilowski had even designed a series of spring-powered 'trip-hammer' devices that, when activated by a single string pull, would snap down on the on switch of each flashlight and turn them on simultaneously.

Within fifteen minutes, the two scientists had set up the apparatus, all but the center of the stone now nearly obscured by the framework and it's various clamp-mounted lenses and lights.

"Well...?" William asked, a bit breathlessly.

"I believe we are ready." Kat pronounced, double-checking the apparatus and nodding ins satisfaction. Lightly lifting the end of the string, careful not to apply any tension, he held it in William's direction. "Would you care to do the honors?"

"Oh, no..." William demurred, shaking his head as he rummaged around in the bag he'd left beside the door. After a moment, he emerged holding a digital camera. "I'll document the results, but the honor is yours."

"If you insist." Kat allowed with a slight grin. "On the count of three, then?"

"Okay..." William agreed, quickly snapping a quickly series of 'before' shots before snapping off the last remaining lamp, plunging the room again into darkness.

"One..." Katszilowski announced loudly. "Two..."

On 'Three', Kat tugged the string he held - while William began to punch the button on the camera as fast as he could, capturing frames barely a scant second apart.

Even as the shutter on the camera click-whirred into action, a flare of blinding pink-tinged light burst from the curiosity. Like a modern laser, the beam neither diffused nor dimmed as it burst arrow-straight from the diamond, forming a column of dazzling light...

...that all-but-eradicated any detail of Vladmir Katszilowski's trim figure as it washed him in the brilliant glow, leaving only a dark shape against the eye-watering back-lighting the beam provided.

Kat grunted slightly, one hand flung upwards in an effort to further shade his tightly closed eyes against the dazzling glare - but even with his arm upraised, bright orange-red light registered on his optic nerve as he helpless 'saw' the inside of his light-washed eyelids.

The incredible beam of dazzling light was accompanied by an eerie, high-pitched rhythmic pulsation of sound from the stone, one that seemed to spiral higher and higher in both volume and tone, causing the fillings in William's teeth to ache in painful sympathetic reverberation as the rising sound wound ever higher through the register...

...until it died an bare instant after the high-pitched note caused the glass in both the magnifying glasses and the flashlight's bulbs to shatter, plunging the room into sudden, shocking darkness and silence.

"Kat! You okay?" William said, unconsciously shouting into the aftermath of the high-pitched squeal as he fumbled desperately for one of the lamp's switches.

"I believe so..." Kat replied, slowly. "Careful, William - I believe the bulbs in the lamps quite probably shattered as well. My glasses, thankfully, are actually polycarbonate rather than glass, and so remain intact..."

Cursing, William fumbled in the darkened room, shoes crunching on the scattered fragments of glass littering the floor. Finally, he managed to find the doorknob and pull the door open, allowing a faint light reflected from the stairwell light down the hall to register in the room.

After futilely flipping the wall-mounted switch outside the study door, William carefully eased back into the room, hand outstretched.

"The hall light is out, too." William said. "After that blinding light, all I can see is little orange sparkles in front of my eyes. It's the blind leading the blind up here."

"I hope it's not too accurate a metaphor." Kat said, his voice surprisingly level. "I, too, was dazzled by the light, perhaps even flash- blinded."

William's breath caught in his throat at the thought that their ill-advised experiment might have cost his friend his sight. Resolutely, he forced the thought away, determined not to dwell on the possibility until he had a chance to either prove or disprove their fears.

"take my hand, and we'll try to get downstairs." William called. After a moment of blind fumbling, they managed to link hands, and William slowly and cautiously headed towards the stairs, blinking away the fading spots of light that were obstructing his vision.

"Can.. Can you see anything...?" William asked, hesitantly, as they drew closer to the light cast by the stairwell light."

"Hmmm?" Kat inquired, distracted. "Oh, yes - I believe so. Unless I am very much mistaken, we are just passing the bathroom."

"That's right..." William said, making no effort to hide his relief as they reached the top of the stairs and stated down, William in the lead. "You had me scared for a second there."

"I was rather concerned myself..." Kat admitted with a wry, somewhat distracted, chuckle. "Though still somewhat dazzled, I believe my eyesight is quite all right."

"That's good..." William said as they reached the well-lit first floor of the brown-stone townhouse. "I was worried that... Kat! Your hair...!"

"Or lack thereof." Kat agreed, dryly, mouth quirked slightly at the look on his friend's dusky face as William stared at him in shock. Reaching up, Kat slowly ran his fingers over the perfectly smooth flesh of his now-bare pate.

"Well, at least I can cut down the time it takes to perform my morning toilette." The slender archeologist suggested, ruefully. "No need to shampoo or brush my hair any longer."

"But..." William stammered, taking two steps to the side to allow the light to fall more fully on his friend. "How can you be so calm? You're bald!"

"More than that..." Kat pointed out, calmly. "As far as I can tell, I've been completely denuded of any hair whatsoever. A form of electrostatic depletion, similar to laser hair removal, I believe."

William gaped at his friend, who's appearance was radically altered by a complete lack of hair, including eyebrows and lashes. "I.. You..."

"It wasn't painful, and it's hardly life threatening." Kat pointed out, reasonably. "All things considered, the folly of performing the experiment in less-than-controlled circumstances extracted a fairly minor price. Even if it should turn out that the hair does not regrow, it's not something worth becoming overwrought about."

"You sure...?" William asked.

Kat smiled and nodded. "Indeed. If anyone should ask, I'll simply say I decided to try the 'Lex Luthor' look for awhile." With that, William couldn't help but grin. "Okay, if you aren't going to freak out over it, I guess I shouldn't."

"Quite right." Kat replied. "Indeed, I've seen very few things in life worth 'freaking out' over, as you so colorfully phrased it. Now, then

- what would you say to a bite of eat? Caught up in my studies, I neglected dinner - and, now, I find I have little urge to continue experimenting tonight, and so a bit of dinner would seem in order."

Still amazed at how well his friend could keep a curtain of calmness around him like his own personal cloak, William chuckled and agreed.

"Good." Kat said, nodding. "I think a light dinner, accompanied by a fine wine of course, followed by a cigarette and a glass of port or sherry, would be the perfect prelude to a good night's sleep. I hope that meets your approval?"

Drawing on all the reserved dignity he could muster, William cocked his head slightly and outrageously over-played and upper-crust British accent. "I say, that sounds absolutely deeee-lightful, my dear sir."

"Ah - then shall we adjourn to the kitchen for our repast, my friend?" Kat replied, a sparkle in his eyes.

"Quite." William agreed, stiffly - then, chuckling and shaking his head, William Twofeathers followed his friend into the kitchen.

* * * * *

Yawning, William rolled over on the surprisingly comfortable pull-out couch in the living room, slowly stretching tautly muscled arms up over his head as he listened to the soft, almost musical clink and clatter of breakfast being prepared in the kitchen.

Enjoying the warm, golden sunlight streaming in the tinted upper panes of the ornate windows fronting the room, William pushing his head back into the pillows and slowly smiled. Inhaling deeply, he let the rich, unmistakable fragrance of coffee filter in to his mind, tantalizing his senses.

Among the many other things Kat did expertly, preparing coffee was one of his specialties. William didn't know how the archeologist did it, but somehow Katszilowski could take everyday bulk coffee, add a pinch of this and a dash of that to the basket before brewing, and produce a cup of coffee that tasted every bit as good as it smelled. It was the type of high-caffeine treat that made climbing out of bed a more than worthwhile effort.

Swinging his legs over the side of the sofa-bed, William stretched again before tugging his somewhat threadbare bathrobe around his pajama-clad frame, slipping his feet into the slippers Kat had so thoughtfully provided. Abandoning his bed with more alacrity than usual, William padded towards the door to the kitchen, his taste-buds already anticipating the coffee whose scent tickled his olfactory sense.

"Kat, if you could just find some way to market your coffee recipe..." William said, loudly, reaching out to push open the swinging door leading to the kitchen, "...you'd soon be rolling in Holy Shit!"

"I doubt rolling in feces - even blessed feces - would prove to be enticing enough for me to give out an old family recipe." The person standing near the kitchen sink remarked with a dry chuckle. "Good morning, my friend."

"I.. Uh... You..." William stammered, his eyes bulging from their sockets. "Kat... You... You're... a woman!"

"Quite." She agreed, chuckling again. "You surprise me, old friend - I'd made myself a wager that you wouldn't even notice until after you'd had at least one cup of coffee. Speaking of which..."

Gracefully, the bathrobe-clad woman carried a steaming mug of coffee over to where William stood, still only half-way through the kitchen door, mouth agape. She held the fragrant mug in William's direction, but the bronze-skinned man made no move to take it, one hand remaining against the swinging door, the other limp at his side.

"Problem?" She inquired, he 'surprised' tone of voice at odd with the wry grin on her lips.

William simply made a few thoroughly incoherent noises as he looked the woman up and down. His slowly, stunned survey started at the crown of her head, eyes sliding across the perfectly smooth skin of her scalp in a sort of wishful denial that this was, indeed, his friend - and yet the rhythm and tone of the woman's speech, not to mention the lack of any motivation for a lie or deceit, only made the impossible situation more confusing. Slowly, William's eyes slide downwards.

As his gaze slid slowly over the familiar-yet-different features of the woman's face, William found that it was the familiarity, more than the differences, that disturbed him. Though the bone structure was slightly finer, the nose slightly smaller and more upturned, the lips fuller and more sensual, there was no denying that he was looking at the features of his friend. Though softer and feminine, they were unmistakable - as if Kat had a twin sister, the familiar features made feminine. Behind the glasses, the considerably more doe-like eyes nevertheless gleamed with the same quite good humor and startling intelligence William had come to know.

Beneath a finer, more delicately shaped jaw lay a slimmer, longer neck that no longer bore the somewhat prominent Adam's apple Kat had once boasted, perhaps making the neck more eminently feminine than some of the other parts of his body, which, in comparison, were little changed. Though somewhat finer and more subtly sloped, the shoulders beneath the terry-cloth bathrobe were much the same as before, the build of a somewhat short, slender man subtly altered to that of a slim woman of average height.

That was not to say that there was little change to be noticed in the figure William's eyes slowly glided over. For example, slender for a man or not, Vladmir Katszilowski had never boasted breasts before. There was no doubt that the woman she now was boasted the new endowments, however - the robe bulged outward over the firm, more-than-ample bust that had blossomed over night, the robe's design allowing a clear - and, for William, disconcerting - view of deep, enticing cleavage, framed by the smooth flesh of two large, firm orbs that disappeared under the thick cloth.

Kat's waist, slender for a man, had become all the more slender on a newly feminine frame, the tightly-cinched cloth belt outlining a slender, supple waist above trim hips that were little altered. Where once those hips, on the male frame, might have been considered 'girlish', now the opposite was true, defined perhaps as 'boyish' on the petite, fine-boned frame of what was now, undeniable, a woman.

Those hips, however, had never before been the support for such a full, firm derriere. Indeed, though William would have hotly denied ever having noted the fact, Kat had always been somewhat 'flat assed'. However, the newly-formed woman his friend had become sported a firm, full posterior that even a simple robe couldn't begin to hide.

Beneath the robe's hem lay a pair of the 'cutest' legs William could recall seeing in a long time - a fact that both sickened and embarrassed him, considering the circumstances he was seeing them under. Though average in comparable length to Kat's new body, and hence not 'long' enough to be considered overly sexy, they were firm and shapely, with slender ankles and well-shaped knees that were a legacy to the slender build of the male body she'd once laid claim to. The largest changes in Kat's body, in fact, were the extremities - the hands and feet, both made nearly doll like by the further refining the already slender appendages suffered under whatever inexplicable force had transformed Kat into her current gender.

Overall, the changes would have been called 'minor', for the most part - there was perhaps a ten percent difference in the over-all build of Kat's skeletal structure. However, having been short, slender and supple for a man, that 'slight' change was more than enough to define her new frame as both 'petite' and 'feminine', even with the relatively slender hips.

The same could not be said for the soft tissue changes, however. Whereas the changes to solid bone were fairly minor, the changes in muscle distribution were significant, especially in newly shapely legs and downright delectable derriere.

Those changes, however, paled in comparison to the even more extensive changes in the even more soft - and malleable - fatty deposits. The slight 'swivel-chair spread' common to many scientists had disappeared, the paunch made over into that smooth, supple layer of fatty tissue that smooth and sensualized the bone and muscle structure of women - and even more of it had been redistributed to form the pair of large, almost preternaturally firm breasts that strained at the front of the feminised archeologist's robe.

Having slowly looked his feminized friend up and down, William finally essayed a comment. As it so happened, that comment was; "Er-guh."

Kat blinked. "I beg your pardon?" "Uhgn-uh... Urg." William clarified.

Leaning forward slightly, the slightly diminished archeologist peered up into her taller friend's eyes, judging his current mental capacity.

With a sigh, the woman extended a slim, dainty finger, pointing towards the kitchen table. "Sit!" She commanded, using much the same tone as she would have to a recalcitrant dog.

Numbly, William shambled over to the table and - barely - managed to sit into one of the chairs. Kat followed him to the table, rotating the mug she held in her hand so that the handle protruded towards William. Thrusting it in his direction, she pressed the handle against his limp hand until he reflexively took a grip on it.

"Drink!" She commanded.

Though it was still hot enough to be scalding, William didn't seem to notice as he drained the coffee in one long, convulsive draught. If anything, the scalding temperature seemed to help steady him down, his gaping mouth and wide eyes slowly returning to normal as he finally lay the mug aside with an uncoordinated movement.

"Are you feeling a bit more coherent?" Kat asked.

"You..." William said, hesitantly. "You seem to be taking this rather calmly, Kat."

Glad to hear a coherent sentence, the new woman smiled thinly. "I'll admit, I was a tad flustered when I awoke and found myself... like this - but, honestly, would screaming, panicking, or curling up in a ball crying help the situation in any way?"

William blinked - then smiled weakly. "No - but it also wouldn't hurt, now would it?"

That surprised a chuckle out of her. "Well, it would have wasted time - and the coffee wouldn't have been ready when you awoke, which would have truly been a tragedy. You, my friend, are certainly not what I'd call a morning person."

"This morning's been worse than most. I mean, waking up and finding your best friend turned into a woman is a.. a bit of a shock." William admitted, wryly.

"I know..." Kat commiserated, reaching out to lightly touch William's hand...

...and he yelped and rocked back as what felt like a million volts of electricity surged through his body. "William!" Kat said, eyes widening in surprise. "What's wrong?"

"I don't know..." William said, shaking his head as the feeling passed. Whatever it had been, it hadn't exactly been painful - instead, it had been 'electrifying', leaving his muscles feeling watery. Taking a deep breath, he shrugged and raised his head. "It felt as if..."

"William...?" Kat said, confused, as William stopped talking to simply stare at her. "You..." William said, huskily. "You're... gorgeous..."

"I beg your pardon?" Kat asked, certain she must have heard incorrectly.

"You're absolutely stunning, Kat..." William said in an odd, distracted tone of voice, his gaze slowly traveling from her face to the hint of cleavage exposed by her robe, pausing there appreciatively before drooping to survey her legs. "You.. I.. God, I'd do anything for a woman as beautiful... as perfect..."

"William...?" Kat said, hesitantly, staring at her friend's glassy eyes. She paused, and when no response came from her friend, she called his name again, loudly and sharply.

William blinked. "Huh?"

"What, exactly, was that about?" Kat asked, thoroughly confused. William blinked, looking equally confused. "What was what about?"

"That little soliloquy about how gorgeous I am." Kat said, patiently. "I suppose I should be flattered, but it came as a bit of a sur..." "Wait, wait!" William said, wide eyed, his eyes locked on her full lips. "What are you talking about, sweetheart?"

"Sweetheart?" Kat asked, grinning faintly. "I appreciate the sentiment, but isn't it a bit... presumptive."

"What?" William said, frowning in confusion - and blushing in embarrassment. "What are you talking about, my love? I don't understand..."

"William!" Kat said, sharply. "Huh?"

"I'm up here." Kat said, chuckling, pointing to her face...

...and William suddenly realized that he'd had to lift his gaze to her face, because he'd been gazing into her deep, enticing cleavage, so milky-smooth and creamily perfect, practically begging for a willing, obedient man's hands to...

"Oh, Dear God!" William all-but-screamed, realizing not only what he'd been doing, but what he'd been saying. Horrified - and horribly embarrassed - he ripped his eyes from her lithe, shapely form.

"What's happened to me, honey?" He asked, wincing as he heard the unintended endearment slip from his lips - forced out by a strange, overwhelming desire - nay, need - to...

...to...

"Oh... God..." William whispered, wide eyed, as he shuddered out of the chair and scuttled backwards from his feminized friend - and a woman who'd just, literally, become overwhelmingly attractive to him. "Your touch... it did something to me.. I.. I.. I can't stop thinking... as if... as if I love you."

"What?" Kat asked, stunned.

"No.. No, that's not right..." William, struggling not to let his eyes slip to the lovely form that so called to him. "It's not love, but.. almost... almost as if I want to..."

William stopped, groping for a word to describe what he was unwillingly feeling...

...and he was stunned to hear the exact word drop from Kat's new lips in her sweet new contralto: "Worship."

William gaped. "Yes... how did you...?"

"Something just now made sense..." Kat said, struggling to regain her customary calm good humor. The effort showed, but she managed a faint smile. "I did not understand some of the runes I'd deciphered earlier, but now I know what it meant. The Curiosity... is a weapon of last resort."

"What do you mean...?" William asked, barely succeeding at repressing an endearment.

"In battle, the Chapiqui fought all-out, to the last man. Many believe that this is what caused their extension, meeting an enemy who beat them on those terms, killing every single Chapiqui male. Apparently, the Chapiqui considered this, and developed a device - the Curiosity - to make their women not only physically, uh... desirable, but to allow these women to 'conquer' the tribe by.. well..."

"Enslaving them." William finished in a miserable tone of voice, the truth made all too clear by his own confused emotions. "I know exactly how that would work. I... I'd be willing to do.. almost anything for you..."

The admission shamed William more than he cared to admit, and he shuddered at the implications. Used as intended, the Curiosity would have been devastating - but this was a situation where the 'woman' he desperately craved on so many different levels was not only 'really' a man - but his best friend.

It was a situation he couldn't handle.

"I.. I have to go..." William muttered, fighting against a very, very strong urge to stay and... 'submit' himself to the newly feminine archeologist.

Kat cleared her slender new throat rather apologetically.

"That might be problematical..." She said, delicately, her doe-like eyes flickering momentarily downwards...

...and, horrified, William suddenly realized he was sporting the longest, hardest erection of his life.

"Oh, crap!" William said, embarrassment overwhelming his desire not to offend Kat's sensibilities. Futilely, he tried to hide the rigid hard-one outlined by the bathrobe he wore.

"Perhaps it would be best if I went out for a while and gave you some time..." Kat said, kindly. "What...?" William said, agog. "No, you... I mean, how can you go out like.. like..."

"Like a woman...?" Kat asked, with a small smile on her full new lips. "I assure you, William - you're having a much harder time dealing with this situation than I am. I won't have a problem."

William stared at her - and, horrified, realized his gaze was sliding to her full lips, considering what they might feel like wrapped around his...

"Yeah, okay..." William said, huskily, tearing his eyes away. "maybe that would be for the best. I.. I need to regain my composure." "All right." Kat said, sweetly. "I'll leave you alone for a while..."

Miserably, William lowered his head and stared at the linoleum as Kat padded out of the kitchen. As he heard the new woman head upstairs to dress, William desperately tried to gain control of his spinning, whirling - and disgustingly sexual - thoughts.

Head lowered into his hands, William tried to focus on his 'really male' friend's kindness... and found his thoughts drifting to the new woman's full, firm new bust. Desperately, he forced his mind to consider Kat's calm, sharp intelligence - and , in the midst of it, found himself thinking about her smooth, cute new legs...

* * * * *

Her slender new body clothed in a baggy sweater and a pair of trousers held tight at her slender new waist by a belt, Kat padded out of her house in a pair of old shoes padded at the toe with balled up socks.

As her unfamiliar body moved with supple new grace towards her car, Kat tugged the somewhat oversized tweed cap tighter over her smooth pate, her hands performing the action automatically as he mind dwelt on the trouble her oldest and best friend - one of the very few friends she had at all - was having with this situation.

The... 'urge to worship' her was disconcerting and unexpected, of course - but it was only as bad as it was because of the trouble William was having with Kat's new gender. Oddly enough, finding herself female wasn't nearly as devastating to her as it was to her friend.

Kat had never really been particularly hung up on either her male body or the assumed male gender roles. Indeed, her life had been intellectual, rather than physical - her body had simply been a vessel for her mind, where her 'real' life went on. As far as she was concerned, she was still the same person - who she was wasn't defined by her body, at least not in her world-view. Male or female, as long as her mind remained as sharp and clear as ever, she was still capable of doing everything she cared about in life...

...or at least she believed. The problem was, one of the few 'external' things she cared about was William - and her new gender was having a devastating effect on her friend.

Well, that wasn't quite true, she mused as she pulled out onto the street. After all, William didn't have a problem with women. Indeed, unlike Kat, William had always been a 'physical' sort of guy, which helped explain why William was a 'dirty hand' archeologist, while she'd become a theorist. Likewise, William had always had a fairly active romantic life, compared to Kat's nearly non-existent one. The problem wasn't that Kat was now female - it was that Kat had once been male...

As she pointed the snout of her Audi towards the shopping district, Kat sighed and pulled her mind off of her friend. Given her own concerns, and the fact that she hated the idea of anything coming between her one and only true friendship, it wasn't an easy task - but it was a worthwhile one. Kat, like many certified geniuses, found that answers to a problem tended to come when she wasn't consciously thinking about them. Instead, she'd let them 'simmer' in the back of her mind until the answer was ready to show itself.

Driving almost on autopilot, the new woman turned her mind to a related topic - the Curiosity. More amazing - and powerful - than she'd ever believed possible, the artifact definitely had enough intriguing possibilities to allow her to focus on them, her sharp mind considering all the ramifications and exigencies of the discovery she and William had inadvertently made...

...and as she did, a cold knot began to form in the pit of her stomach.

* * * * *

William sighed and took another long, deep drink from the sherry glass he was holding.

Sitting on the sofa-bed that he hadn't bothered to fold back up, William finished the remaining ruby-red liquid, and quickly poured himself another.

Though it was still some time before noon, William had forgone his usual temperance and helped himself to Kat's liquor supply - indeed, he wished Kat stocked something with a little more authority.

He'd hoped that a couple of stiff belts would help keep something else considerably less stiff...

Nearly four hours had passed since Kat had left him alone. Thanks to her absence, and several bouts of 'manhandling' Little Willie, he'd managed to leave himself in a state that was almost limp. It was a case of physical limitations rather than a lack of prurient interest, however - his repeated masturbation had left Little Willie too tired to come to attention, not erased the desire for it to do so.

It was slowly but surely driving him crazy. How could any man handle the knowledge that he was suddenly and helplessly 'addicted' to his best friend, sexually and emotionally? It would have been bad enough if Kat were still a man, but there would have been an added 'buffer' about the whole homosexual connotations of the situation - but now those considerations were 'second hand'. Even though William was more-than-aware of the fact that Kat was really a man trapped in the form of a woman, the fact was that it was indeed a female form, and part of him didn't find wanting her at all odd...

"William...?"

Head jerking up, William bit his lower lip, finding an odd mix of emotion well up in him at the sound of Kat's warm new contralto. "In.. In the living room..."

He heard Kat approach down the hall, heels tapping on the wooden floor... Heels tapping on the floor?

Startled, William glanced up just as Kat stepped into the doorway...

...and his jaw dropped as his manhandled penis struggled valiantly to achieve an erection. "Kat...?" He gasped, desperately wanting to tear his eyes from the figure in the doorway.

"What do you think, my friend?" Kat asked, slowly spinning in a circle before striking a pose in the doorway.

"Ungh..." Was the best William could manage.

Though the woman standing in the doorway hadn't specifically gone for a 'sexy' look, there was quite a bit of that as an unintended side effect. The part that hit William the hardest, however, was how utterly, naturally feminine she looked - and though William's reaction was 'hyped' by his unwanted adoration imposed by the Curiosity, there was also the strange and stunning realization that he would have reacted much the same way to a 'natural' woman who looked the way Kat did right now.

Almost without conscious thought, his eyes dropped to the floor and began what was now his third 'once over' of his friend.

A pair of black leather pumps enclosed her slender, dainty feet. Almost a modified 'Mary Jane' style, the shoes had rounded toes and a slender strap just below the ankles - and each shoe boasted a three-inch shaped heel.

Heels that did a remarkable job of adding increased definition to already-shapely calves. 'Cute' in their own right, her legs had been further enhanced by the black nylons she now wore. Of a style William thought of as 'old fashioned', the nylons... stockings...? were smooth and silky, with a defined stitched seam running up the back of each leg, the ruler-straight 'line' of the seam only adding a defining contrast to the smooth curves of her dainty ankles, fine-boned shins and full, taut calves.

They probably did the same for the rest of her legs - but William couldn't tell, since those now delightful legs disappeared under the hem of a shaped skirt that hung to just past her knees. Also in a somewhat dated style, the pearl-gray skirt clung to the supple curves of her hips and thighs, with small, 'demure' slits near the hem to allow easier movement - and the occasional hint of more smooth, stocking-clad leg.

Coming down over the waistband of the skirt was the smooth, softly gleaming fabric of the white silk tunic-style jacket she wore. Cinched tight around her amazingly delicate waist by the matching belt, the jacket outlined - emphasized - her hourglass figure. With its broad, pearl-gray velvet lapels displaying the crisp, high-necked blouse beneath, the play of light-and-shadow against the jacket and the sharp, crisp whiteness of the shirt also 'demurely' displayed the fact that the hourglass of her figure boasted an extra half- hour up top. With her volley-ball sized breasts pulling the tailored ensemble taut, it created a startling effect that only her incredibly slender waist kept in balance despite her somewhat slender hips.

As amazing as both the outfit, and the figure that lay beneath it, were, it wasn't solely the Forties' style couture that left William stunned.

Above were the high, lace-edged collar with its cameo clasp encircled her slender neck, Kat's lovely new face had become utterly stunning in its new look. Those full, supple lips that had so hypnotized William that morning were now carefully coated in a pastel shade of pink lipstick, defined and highlighted by the slightly darker shade used to outline the lips.

Gone were the glasses Kat habitually wore, replaced by what had to be colored contacts - because those large, glorious eyes she now boasted had become a startling, arresting shade of emerald green, framed by long, fine lashes.

A startling green that, along with William's pale complexion, went perfectly with the perfectly coiffed head of rich, vibrant hair that now framed that lovely countenance in gentle waves.

Atop that vibrant mane of hair rested a hat. A wide-brimmed hat of pearl gray felt accentuated with a white silk band, hat-pinned in place slightly back on her head and not at all obscuring the perfectly - and elegantly - made-up face the new woman boasted.

As the final touch, subdued golf jewelry gleamed at each earlobe and on her wrists and fingers - finger that now boasted long fingernails painted to match the shade of lipstick now coating her full, luscious lips.

"Well...?" Kat asked, in a faintly nervous tone in her smooth new voice. Awkwardly, William cleared his throat, eyes still painfully wide.

"You... You look gorgeous..." He breathed, reverently - then, with a shake of his head, he pulled his eyes from her oh-so-feminine appearance. "I.. I don't understand. You unexpectedly become a woman, and right away you run out and... embrace your new..."

William awkwardly broke off, his discomfort with her new look warring with his dislike of saying anything even faintly hurtful or accusing to his long-time friend.

"William..." She said, uncomfortable, as she walked over and sat down beside him on the fold-out bed - something that didn't help William's state of mind, as her presence allowed the subtly, yet powerful aroma of the perfume she was wearing reach him.

"Perfume, too, my love?" William asked, desire warring with distress.

"You find all of this... unlikely?" She asked, her voice now sorrowful. "You think that, as unlikely as it is for a man to be suddenly and... 'magically' transformed into a woman, it is even more unlikely that he - she - would then run out and 'embrace' her new femininity?"

Closing his eyes, William sighed and breathed the word: "Yes." "Good."

Startled, William's head snapped up and he stared at her. "Kat...?" She grinned, sadly. "Actually, Kate. Kathryn O'Dell, to be precise." William gaped. "I.. I don't understand, sweetheart."

Kat - Kate - hesitated before speaking. When she did, her voice was heavy.

"William - I have to go away." She said, slowly. "Vladmir Katszilowski has to disappear... for good."

"But..." William said, the shock of the news so strong as to distract him from his unwanted desire for his friend's new body, at least for the moment. "Why?"

"The Curiosity." Kate explained. "Think about it, William. Think what would happen if the wrong people learned about its capabilities."

William considered it... and paled slightly.

Seeing this, Kate nodded. "Exactly. It could be a weapon. More than that - if they science that drives it was understood, it could spawn many more such weapons. Consider - a 'laser' that could turn entire battalions into women - and, perhaps, if they study the science, maybe something worse."

"But, maybe..." William said, instinctively trying to argue - then stopping dead as he realized he didn't have a single argument to make.

"Maybe nothing, my friend." Kate said, softly. "I thought it through most thoroughly... before I emptied my bank account, bought all- new clothing and personal items, and had false identification made up."

William blinked, and started to ask how and where she'd gotten fake ID - then realized that it was the least important part of the situation, and let it slide. Instead, he simply sat and stared at her, his best friend in the body of a woman he was helplessly attracted to - and realized there was only one thing he could possibly do.

"I'm coming with you." William announced, firmly.

Kate blinked. "Oh, no, William - I couldn't ask you to..."

"You didn't ask." William pointed out, resolutely. "Look, Kate - I know you, and you're intelligent, resourceful, and determined... but, face it, you're a bit of a hermit. You'll need somebody you can trust, somebody a little more worldly to help you establish a new life... and, besides, I know about the curiosity too. When you turn out to be missing, the investigation is sure to come around to me, sooner or later. It'd be much better if the only two people alive who know what the Curiosity can do vanish - with the Curiosity."

Kate stared at William for a long moment, her face cast in lines of deep thought...

...and it was that look that almost caused William to go stark, raving mad, because it was the quintessential Vladmir Katszilowski look, only cast onto features that made William's heart want to melt.

"William..." Kate said, slowly. "I appreciate what you're offering. I am even able to see the logic in having us and all the evidence simply vanish... but, my friend, how can I know that it is an offer you are making in your 'right mind', so to speak? How can I know that you are not simply blinded by the unwanted need to please me that the Curiosity has imposed on you."

William started to deny it - then paused as he realized it was a very valid point.

Slowly, William stood up and turned to face his feminized friend. For the first time since the transformation, William looked at her with the full intention of doing so, letting go of his own battle against his feelings and letting everything flow through him freely.

He let his eyes trace over the supple, feminine frame beneath the tailored clothing, feeling Little Willie respond as he took in her shapely, buxom form. He let his eyes trace over her face, feeling the urges to touch her soft, supple skin, to kiss her full, pink lips. He eyed every inch of her curvaceous, feminine body, feeling the sexual desires supplemented by the desire to 'worship' her, to do whatever it took to please her in any and every way...

...and, having finally allowed himself to feel the full force of his desires for her without fighting them, allowing the nearly-overwhelming wants and needs run through his mind and body, he was able to tell just how strong they were, how hard it would be to fight these feelings.

It was only after he'd acknowledged his feelings and urges that William could compare them to what he felt in entirety, and know what was driving him.

"Kat..." William said, slowly, having to force his friend's male name past his lips from the 'desire' to please her by using the name she'd chosen for her new identity. "Don't you think that, if you were still male and had to run for some reason, I would have helped? Don't you think that our friendship means as much to me as it does to you?"

Kate stared at her friend for a long, solemn moment... then slowly smiled.

"I am sorry for doubting you, my friend." Kate said, warmly, rising smoothly and gracefully to her feet. "Very well, then. I believe it is time for us to... how shall I put it? Ah... 'pull a Houdini'..."

* * * * *

Awkwardly, William lugged the two suitcases full of clothing at the shoulder bag containing the Curiosity down the hallway of the Las Vegas hotel room.

Kate had gone in and rented a room from the Casino/Hotel while William had, very shame-faced, stayed in the car and tried as unobtrusively as possible arrange the luggage around him to hide the raging erection spending so much time in Kate's presence had given him. Even now, with the suitcases 'casually' held to hide Little Willie from sight, he was filled with the odd thought that every person on the floor was peering through the peepholes in their door, seeing his rampant erection with x-ray vision that pierced the suitcases as if they weren't even there.

"This is us..." Kate said, gesturing at the door at the end of the hall.. and William twitched and guiltily ripped his eyes from where he'd been staring at her luscious derrière and smooth, supple legs as she'd walked.

"Thank God, Honey..." William said with a sigh, not even hearing the endearment slip from his lips, just as he'd become inured to the fact that he was unconsciously, helplessly acting like a love-stricken teenager with his first girlfriend.

Unlocking the double doors of the room with the key-card, Kate stepped inside and flicked on the lights, then stepped out of the way to let William inside.

William walked into the room, kicking out with a foot to close the door behind him...

...then, as the door snapped shut, he stopped dead in shock, the room finally registering. "Sweetheart...?" William said, his mouth dry.

Kate chuckled. "I guess I am hopelessly old-fashioned, my friend. I signed us in as Mr. And Mrs. Billy O'Dell..."

"Oh..." Was the best William could manage as he stared at the luxurious appointed Honeymoon Suite. "That.. That's fine, dear."

Shooting him a surprisingly nervous look, Kate gestured at the bathroom. "I'm just going to freshen up a bit. Why don't you put down the suitcases and turn down the bed for me?"

"Oh, sure..." William said, wincing at his own helpless desire to do just about anything that pleased her. As she took the small suitcase she carried into the bathroom and shut the door behind her, William piled the luggage near the door and went over to turn down the bed.

Once that was done, he nervously looked around the room, trying to figure out where he was going to sleep. There were a couple of love-seats that were really too small for somebody of his build - but William knew he'd unquestionably, uncomplainingly endure as many uncomfortable nights on one of them as was needed, his new needs making it unavoidable.

"William...?" Kate called through the door, instantly gaining his undivided attention. "Do me a favor? Slip into the bed and get it all nice and warm for me, would you?"

Under other circumstances, William might have thought in an odd request - but, now, anything at all Kate wanted was perfectly reasonable. Having spent so much time beside her, his hormones thundering more and more powerfully through his system, he was practically intoxicated by the exotic substances in his bloodstream, less capable of rational thought where Kate was concerned.

"Of course, honey!" He called, kicking off his shoes and clambering into the bed. Piling the pillows on one side, he sunk down in the soft mattress, helplessly worrying that he was 'warming' the wrong side of the bead, nearly sick with the concern he might be doing something for Kate that was less-than-perfect - and hating himself for it.

Laying perfectly still, practically willing his body to warm the bed and sheet, William simply passed the time until the door to the bathroom swung open...

...and his abortive move to slip out of the bed to make room for her stopped dead as his eyes widened in shock. Slowly, nervously, Kate padded out of the bathroom, approaching the bed with hesitant steps.

Wide eyed, William couldn't help but stare at her, unable to move a muscle as his entire being was taken up in absorbing the sight in front of him.

Barefoot, she was walking almost tip-toe - enhancing legs that were made all the more desirable by the white seamed stocking she wore, each one trimmed in lace, the elasticized tops sporting long silk ribbons tied into bows at the sides. A diaphanous white gown floated around her body, barely concealing the smooth, creamy flesh that lay beneath...

...flesh that was completely bare.

Aside from the gown and the stockings, Kate was naked.

Her huge, firm breasts stood proudly from her slender ribcage, her large, pink nipples jutting firmly forward. Her waist, revealed, was even more slender than William had thought, her stomach firm and flat. Between her smooth, milky thighs, her vagina was clearly exposed, pink folds unadorned by any trace of hair as she slowly drew closer to where he lay frozen.

The wig, semi-permanently affixed with a special adhesive, still framed her now-lovely face, and its natural human hair construction made it seem like her own hair as it moved softly over her slender shoulders. Framed by that silky flaming cascade, her face was cast in an expression of hopeful uncertainty as she slowly slid her supple body onto the bed next to him.

"My love...?" William said, huskily, uncertain.

"I.. wanted to discuss something with you..." She said, her voice low and musical as she slid her warm body against his shoulder, her lips nearing his ear to continue in an intimate whisper.

"I used to be.. unconcerned with my own body." She told him, softly, whispering. "Today, that changed. Today, I became steadily more aware of this body I now possess, aware of its oh-so-feminine curves... because you were aware of it. Your awareness of my femininity made me aware of it, unable to ignore it..."

"I.. I'm sorry..." He whispered, heart-broken...

...until her next words thundered through his consciousness.

"I became aware of the fact I was enjoying it." She said, softly - sensuously.

"I became aware of how smooth and enticing my new legs were..." She whispered - and, gently, she took his hand in hers and lay it on her nylon-clad leg, slowly guiding his warm hand over the contours of her thigh. "Before, my legs were simply something to support me, something to walk upon.. but your attention made me aware of them as something more..."

Gently, yet firmly, she increased the pressure of his hesitant touch.

"I became aware of them as a source of pleasure." She whispered, throatily. "I.. I've been thinking about my legs a lot today, William. How good they feel enclosed in smooth nylon, how wonderful the air feels moving over them as I walk... and how nice it would feel - does feel - when you do this."

Shifting slightly, she twisted her torso, her lips now practically touching his ear as her voice dropped even lower.

"I have been thinking about other things, as well..." She told him. "I have been thinking about my new breasts. How large they were, and how firm. How much I enjoyed the way they felt, pressed tight in the clothes I wore, moving slightly with every step, every breath I took... and how good it would feel to have a strong, gentle hand touch them..."

Her position had let the robe fall open, exposing those full, proud breasts - and now she gently lifted his other hand and lay it on one of those softly firm spheres, sighing in pleasure at the contact.

"Kate.. what..." William said, mind whirling...

Lightly, she began to nibble at his ear-lobe, supple lips closing ever so softly on the sensitive flesh.

"I've become aware of my femininity." She whispered into his ear. "Become aware of it - and the fact that just being female is more enjoyable than I could have ever imagined. This body, every inch of it, can bring me pleasure, something I never felt about my male body. Today, dressing like a woman, acting like a woman - being a woman - has been more enjoyable than any single day I can remember "

Shifting again, she pressed her breast more firmly into his hesitant touch, moaning low in the back of her throat as his hand pressed against her erect nipple.

"...and I want to share all of this wonderful pleasure - and much, much more - with my one true friend..." She said...

...then she gently gripped his chin, eased his face towards her - and kissed him.

William hesitated as her full lips pressed firmly against his, her arm going around his body to pull him tight to her firm, buxom body...

...and then he kissed her back. He couldn't have stopped himself, even if he'd wanted to - but he no longer wanted to.

In that one moment when she kissed him and pressed herself against him, William's mind had stopped, stunned - and then restarted with a single conviction based on all the young years of friendship with the mind that, regardless of what form it wore, was the same as it had always been.

This is not something Kat/Kate would do unless she meant it. this was not something she was doing for him - or, at least, solely for him.

This was something an old and dear friend truly wanted - and it was something he was now fully ready, willing and able to give her. All doubts and hesitations washed away, William kissed her back, gently at first, then with growing passion.

"Make love to me, my friend..." Kate whispered, passionately, eagerly...

...and not only was William completely incapable of refusing her this, he no longer wanted to refuse her. With all doubts pushed aside, at least for now, he let himself go, gently easing the warm, supple woman in his arms back on the bed, his hand gently sliding down her leg as, cooperatively, she spread herself for him, her slender hands quickly working to open the fabric binding his rampant erection.

Leaning forward on one elbow and kissing her hungrily, he used his other hand to remove his pants and underwear. It was an awkward, uncoordinated series of movements, one that would have seemed practically comical to any onlooker - but neither Kate nor William noticed, their full attention focused on each other as she wrapped her long, slender arms around his neck and kissed him back with her own passion.

Still clad in his shirt and sock, his breathing heavy, William remained above her. Gently, he kissed her lips, and then, shifting slightly, her chin. The next soft kiss came in the hollow of her neck, making her shiver with desire - and the next kiss, on the upper curve of one magnificent breast, made her shiver again.

The next shiver was one of pleased delight - as, gently, William took one erect nipple between gentle lips, tongue darting out to tease the firm pink nub in sexual play.

"Oh, yes..." Kate moaned, eyes wide in amazement. With all the new thoughts and feelings that she'd experienced that day, she'd found herself thinking more and more frequently - and intently - about what it would feel like if she did this - but every imagining paled in comparison to the actual sensations she was feeling. "Please, oh, please, I'm so ready..."

Gently, William slid one hand across the smooth swell of her mons, feeling the warm wetness of her vaginal folds, knowing that she was indeed ready - her gasp and shiver at even that light touch showed her more than ready, even eager.

He could not deny her.

He didn't want to deny her.

Bracing his weight, William eased himself in position, guiding the purple, throbbing head of his painfully hard cock into the lightest contact with her vaginal lips, wondering - worrying - over whether to move slowly or quickly, his need to please her making finding the perfect approach a massive concern...

...when she took the problem away by tightening her grip around his neck and thrusting upwards with her hips, impaling herself on his throbbing manhood.

"Oh, dear God, yes...!" She screamed in shocked, awe-filled surprise at the intense pleasure that came from that single thrust, her silky-smooth new womanhood forming itself tightly to encase William's iron-hard cock. "Oh, William, yes!"

When she'd - very nervously - imagined how this would play itself out, she'd assumed she'd rely on William's broader experience in sex to control the even, letting him take the lead as she responded to his direction.

All that went out the window, however. Now, she wasn't thinking so much as reacting to the sensations she felt, and the desire to increase them. Without planning or conscious direction, she let her body move in the way it wanted, rocking her hips to allow movement - for in moment lay pleasure, the unimaginable, intense, internal pleasure of having herself filled and fulfilled, more powerful and more immediate than anything she'd ever felt in her few sexual encounters while a man.

Unimaginable pleasure that only increased as William caught her rhythm and matched it, increased the length and depth of each stroke, the wonderful friction increasing the sensations tenfold.

A calm, thoughtful individual not often prone to emotional outbursts or unconsidered actions, Kate promptly abandoned rational thought and coherency for the joys of wordless, uncontrolled screams of physical pleasure as she surrendered herself to her new body, her sharp mind simply a passenger in this wonderful new vessel. A passenger who's only task was to accept and revel in the pleasure she felt as her best friend used every trick and technique he knew to give her sexual pleasure...

...with remarkable success.

Even as her body began to spasm in paroxysms of orgasmic pleasure, William matched her frenetic thrashing, keeping the sensations as intense as ever as her first female orgasm ripped through her nervous system, her vision graying out from the intensity of the pleasure that overwhelmed her. Fingers twitched and her body shook as she momentarily lost fine motor control in her new body, the nerves usually used to convey commands unable to compete with the flood of pleasure traveling into her brain. Unaware of her own voice shouting William's name again and again, Kate twitched and jerked under him, impaled on his cock as the first orgasm segued into a second, the joys of multiple orgasms making themselves obvious even as William - against his will, and yet nevertheless quite happily - pumped his seed in her new womanhood.

Spent, William felt a tremendous rush of disappointment at having finished so quickly - but Kate didn't seem to mind as she rode the post-orgasming glow down, her arms pulling a spent lover close.

"Oh, god.." She sighed, rolling against him and cuddling up to his sweat-slicked body, one hand sliding inside his shirt to play with his chest hair. "That was incredible, my love.."

Her words filled him with even more pleasure than the simple sexual release had. That had been mere, orgasmic physical pleasure - while her words created an emotional orgasm that paled in comparison.

Even as she kissed him, gently, and told him again that she loved him, William knew he was finally lost. Having experienced the pleasure that came with providing his own personal Goddess with the ultimate physical pleasure, he'd never be able to walk away from her. He was helplessly, hopelessly,. Eternally enslaved to the service of a woman who'd once been a man...

...and he no longer cared one whit about it.

"I love you to, Kate." He whispered, gently enfolding her in his arms and kissing her full lips. "My love."

Entwined in each other's embrace and in the sweat-slicked sheets, all the cares of the world momentarily forgotten, the friends and lovers gently drifted off to sleep.

The End.

SUMMARY: A high school nerd finds an old Druid spell, that he thinks will help him get revenge against all the jocks who have been taunting him, but he does know what form the spell will take.

The Dance

By Gunslinger

Sometimes, things just... happen.

That's it. No great 'Master Plan Of The Universe'. No Secret, no Deeper Meaning, no mystical reason that Defied The Understanding Of Mere Mortals.

Such was the case with Denholme Ellis Cornell.

There was no Great Reason why, on the twenty-second of May, in the Year of Our Lord Nineteen-Hundred-and-Eighty, the child born to Mr. And Mrs. William Cornell was premature by several weeks, and undersized even at that. There was no terrible Fate that decreed that their son, Denny, would stay small and weak for the opening years of his life, suffering more than the usual spate of childhood illnesses. This series of illnesses guaranteed three things.

He would develop vision problems at an early age.

He would never, ever 'fill out' into the 'strapping young son' that a not-so-secretly disappointed father imagined.

And, that an over-protective mother, with only the best intentions, would keep him close to her, denying him the freedom that youth deserved.

However, from that fateful day when a short, pale, painfully slender youth with thick glasses and braces entered 'Society', in the form of school, something did dictate what was to come from this point on.

Human nature.

Almost instantly, the young Denny was subjected to the taunts and teases of his peers, becoming the brunt of unkind jokes and jeers. This had the effect of driving him deeper into a solitary life, avoiding people out of a mixture of fear and loathing, and thus increasing his 'strangeness' in the eyes of the other children.

As the years rolled past, little changed. Young Denny grew - but not very much. His best friends became books, where he could escape into a world where his imagination mattered more than his appearance. As his age increased, so did his knowledge, at an astounding rate. But to the young man, now entering High School, this too was a curse rather than a blessing - being too smart in the odd society that was youth decreed only more scorn and derision.

So, it was no surprise that the skinny youth with the big glasses, bad skin and awkward movements would begin to nurse a growing, festering core of hate and disgust at those around him - with more than enough left over to spill over into himself, as (like many) Denny harbored the subconscious belief that, somehow, some of this was his fault, as if he had failed in his youth.

So, this confused, bitter young man entered the eighteenth year of his quietly pathetic life - with no idea of the changes that loomed in his not-too-distant future...

* * * * *

Lead. That was it - lead had somehow filled his gut, dragging down at the stomach that clenched around it painfully, and the weight of the mass was pushing down on his bladder, creating the almost unbearable urge to urinate.

It would have been a good way to explain what Denny felt at that instant - if only he could figure out the connection between the lead and the sweat on his palms, he might even believe it...

Denny swallowed. At least, he tried - but he discovered that his mouth felt as dry as the Sahara. At least now, he knew where all the water for that sweat was coming from. Fishing into the back pocket of his too-stiff, too-dark jeans, he hauled out his handkerchief.

Usually reserved for the cleaning of his horn-rimmed glasses, he now used it to wipe away the sweat the trickled from his too-bushy eyebrows and into his watery brown eyes.

Tucking the damp square of cloth away once more, Denny clenched and unclenched one fist as he shuffled his feet.

"Come on, Denny - you can do this." He whispered to himself, unaware of the odd look he garnered from a passing teacher. His chosen location had been picked mainly on it's relative desertion - not that, in his current condition, he'd have noticed a herd of enraged Rhinos stampeding down the stark, Institutional Green hallways of Middleton High.

Finally, with one last, deep breath, Denny forced himself into motion, not even aware of his hands forming into white-knuckled fists as he crossed the distance between him and his 'target'.

"Uh, hi, Becky." Denny managed, then winced - his voice was by nature rather high and weak, but to his ears he sounded like he was trying to imitate a castrated mouse.

Becky Leggett, a mousy young girl, all awkward angles and knobby joints, turned in surprise at the sound of Denny's voice - she hadn't noticed him approach.

"Oh... Hi." She looked flustered. "Uh... Denny, right? From Miss Jenkins' class?"

"Uh... yeah..." Denny said, heart plummeting at the pause before she'd dredged his name out of her mind. They'd been in the same class all year, sharing desks at the back of the class, and Becky was the person with whom he'd had the most interaction in the entire school, save for his sadistic Gym teacher, who seemed determined to 'make a man' out of him. Yet, she couldn't even remember his name right off the bat...

"Yeah?" Becky asked, looking at him, and Denny just wanted to scurry away in shame. But, having come this far, he couldn't let himself do it. No matter how embarrassing this might turn out to be, not even trying would mean he would probably spend the rest of his life wondering 'what if...?'

"Uh, well, the Prom is only two weeks away, and I was, you know, wondering if... if nobody's asked you yet, that is, if maybe..."

Becky looked startled - then sympathetically sad. "Oh, Denny - I'm sorry. Tom Greeley already asked me if I'd go with him, and I said yes." She patted him on the shoulder. "I'm sorry, but... I hope you understand."

His stomach tightened around the lead ball sitting inside. His answer was thick with many emotions. "Yeah, I understand."

Despite his feelings, his hot disappointment and sharp, bitter embarrassment, Denny had to appreciate Becky's final words, spoken kindly as he turned away.

"It was very sweet of you to ask, though."

His back to Becky, Denny hesitated a second, then began to walk - slink - away, disappointed, yet glad that he had, at least, tried... Laughter.

"Hey, look - it's Nerd Rejects Nerd."

A male voice, powerful and cheerful, with a biting edge to it. On it's heels, a lovely feminine voice, now sickly-sweet with sarcastic sympathy.

"Oh, Brad - be nice. It's not poor little Denny's fault he's too geeky to even net Becky as a date for the prom."

Denny's jaw muscles tightened, and he felt his teeth grind painfully across one another as his head came up and he glared at the originators of the mocking comments.

Brad 'The Stud' Stuckley was the prototype for every Star Quarter Back for every All-American Boy film - tanned and blond and handsome, his muscular body toned and tight beneath casual clothing that didn't hide his 'near God-like' physique. The young Adonis was grinning at Denny without any shared amusement, displaying a mouthful of perfectly white, even teeth.

Of course, the All American Boy had to be dating the All American Girl. Unlike the prototypical Hollywood cliché, Tasha Steeves wasn't the head cheerleader - in fact, she wasn't a cheerleader at all. But everything else was there - the perfect figure that mixed healthy, youthful vitality with more than a dash of sensuality, the easy beauty, and the long blonde hair. She was leaning against her boyfriend, and her deep blue eyes regarded Denny with a look so very like the one she might give an unsavory deposit left by a puppy on a new rug.

"Ha. Ha." Denny said between his teeth, turning around. He caught Becky's half-angry, half-sympathetic look, and felt his own anger supplemented by the incidental taunts that his actions were inflicting on her. He wished there was something he could say, or do - but it was a oft-expressed but never fulfilled wish, and he once more came up empty. He began to walk away, not even aware that he was hunching his shoulders forward slightly, as if to ward off blows from behind.

But even his unintentional posture couldn't ward off the verbal blows that came next.

"There's that girl who was in the accident last month," Brad called out. "I hear she's still in a coma. Maybe you should ask her - she won't say no."

"And you can get used to being stood up." Tasha added, laughing.

Long after he'd left earshot, Denny could still hear their laughter, echoing in the vaults in his mind where a lifetime of taunts and jeers amplified them until they became so loud that he could no longer think.

* * * * *

Reaching home, Denny slammed the door and stomped angrily into the living room, where he dropped onto the worn, sprung sofa.

Since turning eighteen, he'd gotten a place of his own - a tiny basement apartment in a cheap building. His father's easy agreement to pay half the rent each month only verified once again his disappointment at having fathered such a sickly son - not having to see his 'failure' every day had been enough to convince Denny's mom not to fight too hard to keep her son at home.

Denny sighed and rose once more, walking over to the shelves of books that lined his tiny living space. He began to browse through the selection, looking for something that could, at least temporarily, divert his mind from the mocking voices and laughter still echoing in the vaults of his memory.

Finally he picked a supposed copy of the 'Lecremonicon', the mythical book of the ancient druids. It wasn't exactly 'popular fiction', but Denny enjoyed the mental exercise of working through the archaic language, and he found some of the supposed 'spells' humorous in the effects they were intended to cause.

It was in his particular state of mind that he came across a 'spell' that immediately caught his attention.

According to the convoluted Olde English text, mixed with ungrammatical Celtic, it indicated that the spell was designed to transform a person into the physical representation of their hidden self - in other words, to reshape a person into what they would be most perfect as, as opposed as to what they were now.

That gave Denny pause. What would the perfect form for him be, he wondered. What 'outer form' would be the perfect housing for who he was, and allow him to be everything that he could possibly be?

According to the book, only about half the time was the change into another human form - quite often it was into an animal that housed the spirit.

Denny found himself wishing that it was actually possible - that, somehow, such a spell could truly transform him into whichever form would bring out his hidden talents and strengths. Idly, he read over the long, convoluted 'spell', wishing that the 'magic' of the ancient druids had been real...

That's when a thought struck and took hold of his mind. Frowning, Denny rose and pulled another book from the shelf and consulted it, then looked back at the book of 'spells.'

There was something wrong. The book of 'spells' was different than all the other Druidic writing ever found.

Comparing the two, Denny retrieved a piece of blank paper and a pencil and began to laboriously transcribe the 'spell', putting it into a format similar to the ones used in all other druidic writing. He was sure this had probably been done before, but somehow it seemed important to him to do so now.

After an hour of laborious work, he had the entire spell written on the paper in the correct format, and it still didn't make it any more coherent, although it looked more authentic. He read over the text of the spell, beginning to wonder if maybe he hadn't stumbled on something.

Just as the codes to nuclear weapons were closely guarded today, Druids of the past wouldn't have wanted it to be easy to find out their secrets...

Shaking his head at the ludicrous thought - he was taking this too seriously - Denny began to put the stuff away... then sat back down, drawn to the impossible lure that the spell offered.

Once more he studied what he'd written, comparing it to the original and the formatting template he'd used. What was the key (if one existed) to the code (if there was one?)

Then, on a whim, Denny began to work out anagrams on the re-formatted copy...

..and sat upright in shock.

Because, with the new layout, he had discovered something amazing. If the letters, now in the correct position to one another, were read DIAGONALLY - they actually made sense!

Stunned, the skinny youth slowly read - aloud - the words that had appeared in the new sequence.

He cut off sharply as a strange tingling began to spread through his body. Sort of a prickling sensation that started in his stomach and spread outwards in a warm, enveloping glow.

For a long second, Denny was thought that it was psychosomatic - but instead of fading, the sensation increased, now reaching every nerve ending in his slender, pale body.

Then he began getting cramps. Not terribly painful, but definitely there. Denny hunched over slightly, crossing his scrawny arms in front of his stomach as the pulsing cramps reverberated through his bowels. His glasses tumbled from his face as the sensation increased.

"Holy shit..." was the best response to the situation that Denny could come up with. It was gasped out against the pulsing sensation rippling through his body, which suddenly felt... impermanent, as if nothing in his body was firmly anchored to anything else, as if his insides were moving and sliding and shifting.

The spell was actually working.

Denny stared down at his bare arms - and for a second, it didn't register, not in the blurry view his unaugmented eyes provided. It wasn't until he lifted his arm for closer inspection that he was sure.

It was darker. No longer the stark, pale color it had always been, it was now lightly tanned, looking healthier as the flesh began to ripple and reshape it's contours. Gaping, Denny wondered at the way his once pale, pencil-thin appendage was filling out with firmer, stronger contours. This was it - he was gaining his new form.

A wrenching sensation in his hips drew his attention away from his arm. Even as his hands flew downwards, he could feel the jeans he was wearing becoming tighter across slowly spreading hips and swelling buttocks.

Startled, his thin, pale fingers (only - they weren't exactly 'pale' anymore...) flew to the fly of his jeans and he frantically undid the denim garment and yanked it down, relieving the growing pressure...

...and exposing legs that were changing, altering - and becoming smoother and softer.

His eyes flew to his crotch, a suspicion forming in his mind - one that was borne out by the way the small bulge his cock made slowly shrank in time to a strange pulling sensation.

If he needed any further verification, it came soon enough - as a growing pressure in his chest was matched by the fact that he was having a harder time seeing his altering crotch - due to the fact that the front of his white cotton shirt was being forced outwards by something.

He had a pretty good idea what that 'something' was.

"Great Scott!" Denny said, startled. "I'm... I'm I'm turning into a girl!"

Awkwardly - thanks to his shrinking feet and widening hips, as well as other things that were altering his center of balance - he headed for the bathroom, and the mirror it contained. Even as he moved, he could feel things shifting, sliding and changing, creating a cacophony of sensations unlike any he'd ever felt before.

By the time he reached the mirror, they had stopped - and the designation 'he' was no longer suitable for the person reflected in the mirror.

From the bathroom came the sound of a startled gasp. Then, several seconds of utter silence...

...followed by a laugh that slowly built and built. An unpleasant laugh....

* * * * *

THREE DAYS LATER

"Come on, where is she?" Brad asked himself angrily, tapping his foot. "God, if she really isn't coming, I'm going to kill her "

The muscular, handsome youth was standing outside the school gym, where the dance was just getting into the swing of things. He was waiting - impatiently - for Tasha to show up.

He still wasn't sure what was going on. For the past couple of days she'd begun acting a little strangely, looking him oddly once and a while, and seeming to question his every move when he wasn't with her. It took him off guard, and he wasn't sure what was going on - except for the fact that she wasn't the only girl who suddenly started acting strange towards her boyfriend. He'd heard some rumors - crazy rumors without substance - about a new woman around town. High-school aged, but not attending any high-school that anybody knew off, the rumor was that she was absolutely stunning, sexy as hell - and taking great pleasure in cutting her way through the male population of the high-school. Despite the rumors, he hadn't actually met anyone who'd stand up and say that they'd met this mystery woman, much less slept with her - but it seemed to be the root cause of the trouble.

Especially since Tasha's raving call of this afternoon, claiming she knew he'd asked this mystery girl - who Tasha seemed to think was named Denise - to go to the prom with him. Tasha had raved for a good ten minutes, finally slamming down the phone before he could get a word in edgewise. Now, he was beginning to worry he was going to look like the ultimate fool, and not have a date for the...

"Well, hello there handsome..." A voice said cooed.

Brad turned - and his jaw dropped.

The woman who stepped out of the shadows was unbelievable.

The same height as Tasha, this woman had hair the same shade and length as his girlfriends - ex-girlfriend's - hair. But that was where any similarity ended.

This woman's legs were incredibly long and sexy, a fact that was driven home by the black nylons she wore, enhancing the smooth, sensual curves of her incredible legs. Those legs naturally drew the eye upwards to the full, womanly hips and the tiny waist that rose above them.

Above that minuscule waist loomed the largest, firmest breasts Brad had ever seen. They were massive, the size of basket-balls, and an awful lot of them was exposed in the barely-there dress she wore. Black and covered with sequins, the dress covered her like a second skin from just below her crotch to just above her nipples.

Her face was a study in sensuality, her full, soft lips slightly parted and her huge blue eyes eyeing him speculatively. Balanced atop black platform shoes with six-inch heels, she was like a wet dream brought to life.

"Hi, Brad." She said, smiling at his stunned look. "My name's Denise, and I just wanted to apologize in person for the trouble I've caused."

"Huh?"

Her perfect teeth gleamed. "Your girlfriend overheard part of a conversation. I was wishing that you would ask me to the prom, and she only heard part of it and thought you had asked me. A friend of mine is over there now, explaining it to her." She took a breath, and Brad's eyes nearly popped out of his head at the sight of her massive cleavage expanding, threatening to burst the dress she wore.

"Say - since she's not going to make the prom, why don't I fulfill part of my fantasy and come in with you? She asked, as if the idea just struck her.

Gaping, Brad tried to get his thoughts up to speed. "Part of you fantasy?" He asked, stupidly.

She shrugged - nearly causing Brad's pants to exploded - and said, in an offhand tone. "Yeah - the other part of my fantasy is that after the dance we'd go somewhere and I'd fuck your brains out."

Brad had no response to that as she took his hand and dragged him, numbly, along behind her into the dance.

* * * * *

"Come on, Brad - I just can't wait. Here - we'll go in here!"

Brad, still feeling numb after three hours, followed Denise into the room that was somewhere in the maze of small, dusty halls behind the gym. They'd spent those three hours at the dance - and she'd been unable to keep her hands off of him. People had watched with a mix of shock and envy as she'd let everybody know just how horny for his body she was.

Now, here she was dragging him through the school halls to find a private place where she could fuck his brain out.

Closing the door behind them, she slipped her hands into his nice dress shirt - and ripped the shirt off.

Brad considered saying something about her ruining his best shirt - but changed his mind as her dress peeled off and was tossed into the corner - revealing the fact that she wore nothing at all underneath.

"Mmm... - what are you doing still dressed, stud?"

Brad didn't need any more urging. With fumbling haste, he hurriedly discarded the rest of his clothes as she licked her full, soft lips and eyed his naked body.

As Brad undressed, Denise was fighting to keep the two parts of her mind separate. Ever since the transformation, she'd been struggling to keep up with her new body - her perfect new body. Although a fan of TG fiction for a couple of years now, it wasn't until he'd seen her incredible new body in the mirror that she realized that the perfect form was just that - perfect. By letting herself become the cum-crazed nymphomaniac her body said she was, she finally fulfilled all those urges she'd ever had. The urge to be recognized, to have people want to be around her, to have sex. All these were answered, and if it was in a female body, who the fuck cared - she was having more fun than she'd ever dreamed of.

But that's not what this little rendezvous was about, and she had to reign in her hormones to keep from just jumping on Brad's already rock-hard cock and fucking his brains out. No, she had to play this a little cooler.

"Mmm - such a nice looking cock.." She murmured, hungrily, licking her lips. Slowly, she sank to her knees in front of him. "I think I'll just take a little taste..."

And she went down on him, and Brad's eyes shot wide open as she began to suck him off.

When she'd give her first blow-job - less than two hours after the change - it hadn't been very experienced. Since then, she'd gotten plenty of practice in - she couldn't stop sucking cock, it seemed, she enjoyed it nearly as much as getting fucked - and the one she gave Brad was simply incredible. In no time, he was shooting his load down her throat, and she was swallowing the warm, salty liquid with a look of ecstasy.

Her hands began to fondle and massage his cock, which twitched and slowly began to harden. Pushing herself up a bit, she began to rub her huge, firm tits over his cock, and it slowly reached full erection again.

"Please.." She said, laying down, spreading some of the cum and saliva from his dick into her cleavage. "Tit-fuck me, stud."

And Brad was in no condition to argue. Dropping to his knees, he slid his cock into the warm valley of her cleavage and, at her urging, began pumping away.

It seemed to take forever before he came again, and it was a smaller orgasm than the first one, leaving a dribble of cum in her valley of cleavage that she cleaned up with her finger and swallowed. She smiled at him, then moved to a new location on the floor, spreading her legs as one of her hands stretched over her head and under an old drop cloth. There was a soft 'click' sound, then she spoke, a little louder than before.

"Oh, God, Brad - I want you in me so bad, so very bad..." She moaned, her voice driving him out of his mind with the lust he heard in it. "I've wanted it ever since I saw you, all through the dance - please, fuck me now!"

"I..." Brad said. His cock twitched, but was unable to make a third erection. "I.. can't " He said.

"What? What do you mean, you can't?" She asked, sounding stunned. "Don't you want me?" "Yes - It's just "

She looked horrified. "Are you telling me you can't get it up? That a gorgeous woman who wants you to fuck her brains out isn't enough to get you hard?"

"I just need some more time!" Brad said as she rose and began to pull on her dress. "I just "

"If you're not man enough to get it up after all this, then forget it!" She said, reaching for her purse and heading for the door. Quickly yanking on his clothes, Brad ran after her, begging for more time...

...then they were walking through the door into the gym. The crowd was no longer dancing, the music silenced as a hubbub rose - then they saw Brad trailing along after an outraged Denise - and they began to laugh.

Too late, Brad figured out what happened. After draining him dry, the bitch had turned on a patch-in to the PA - and the entire school now thought he couldn't get it up.

As she vanished out the door, Brad ran after her, followed by the laughter and jeers of the whole school. He was going to kill the bitch...

"Hey, buddy - hold it!"

Brad slammed full-tilt into Gary, one of his fellow teammates. Gary looked down at Brad's enraged face, and shook his head. "She's gone, man - had a cab waiting and everything. She set you up but good for this."

"I'm gonna kill the bitch!" Brad ground out between gritted teeth.

By now, almost all the other team members had grouped around their humiliated friend and captain, and now one of the others spoke up. "I've got a better idea."

"Oh?" Brad asked.

The guy smiled. "I had one of the nerds boasting to me that if he really wanted to, he could turn any girl he wanted into a real slut - unable to stop fucking anything with a cock. What say we get one of them to call this Denise girl, saying he just has to meet her about something important - say, at the old gas station on the edge of town. Then I get my brother to grab her. He's a security guard, and he's got an old police cruiser that he drives - with the uniform, he looks like a cop. He'll drop her off at the nerds place, and they'll 'program her' - then my brother can drop her off at your place, and we'll take turns on her. That would teach her, wouldn't it...?"

slowly, brad began to smile - a wicked, evil smile.

* * * * *

Eagerly, the group of men gathered around the hooded woman, rubbing their hands and chuckling in anticipation.

"Come on, Brad - take off the hood. Let's see how 'Miss High and Mighty' acts now." One of the various muscle-bound youths urged, and Brad needed no more prodding. Quivering with eagerness, he leaned forward and removed the black hood, revealing...

...the face of Tasha Steeves. Gone was her usual slightly haughty expression. Replacing it was a look that indicated a frightening lack of intelligence.

"Oh, boy - guys!" She squealed, rocking her head back and forth. Even though it was her voice, she spoke in much higher tones, and her voice was as empty of intelligence as her big, blue eyes.

"You wanna fuck?" she asked the stunned group of men, artlessly.

"How... what...?" Brad stammered, taking a step back, even as his ex-girlfriend now reached eagerly for his zipper, a brainless smile on her lips.

Then it burst like a bomb in his head - Denise had, somehow, outsmarted them...

The horrified - and aroused - group of youths would have been startled to learn that Denise hadn't done this - not directly, that is.

Denise didn't even know what had been done - although she'd find out shortly, from some very good friends of hers. Because, after all, she had once been a nerd herself. And the memories of that time had all but guaranteed that she wouldn't scorn the lustful, longing young men who made up the schools 'nerd' population. It was a mixture of pity and lust that caused her to have sex with the 'unfortunates' as much as with the 'in-crowd' - not a plan for future assistance.

So, when they'd been 'coerced' into the 'Great Bimbo Plan', the nerds had 'leaked' enough to Tasha that she'd padded out her bust, styled her hair, and dressed in Denise-ish clothing to ambush Brad's 'rendezvous', thinking she was going to get absolute proof that Brad was cheating on her - thus insuring that it would be her, and not Denise, who was kidnapped.

Denise hadn't planned any of this - but it was, nevertheless, the perfect, most fitting, final revenge that could be. Sometimes, things just... happen.

 BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A male chauvinist is forced to go to a shrink after his six ex-wives sue him, the shrink hypnotizes him and transforms him into believing that he is his own girlfriend.

Dangerous Thoughts

By Gunslinger

"Why don't you have a seat, Mr. Jones. " Doc Llewellyn gestured at the standard dark-burgundy leather couch beside her chair. "Can I get you something? Coffee? Or perhaps something stronger?"

I smiled and shrugged as I crossed the room. "Naw - I'm fine. " Not that I wouldn't mind going out for a drink with the shrink, mind you. In less. . . formal surroundings, of course. Still, even in the rather severe outfit she wore, I could tell she had a nice figure under the stiff cloth. Maybe a little small up top, but nice and slender. And the legs that showed below the slightly longer than knee-length skirt were pretty damned nice. In the crotch of my custom made pants, the unusually large cock I'd been blessed with twitched.

I sank onto the couch and - what the hell - threw a wink in Doc's direction. "Call me Peter, by the way - 'Mr. Jones' is my dad. " I gave her my most charming smile. "And I should call you. . . ?" "Dr. Llewellyn. "

Damn. Well, nothing ventured, nothing gained, I always say.

Leaning back in her chair, she eyed me like I was a cut of beef she wasn't sure had gone bad or not. I let myself relax and let her look.

"So, what's on the agenda, Doc?" I asked as she performed her survey. "The court says you have me for the next twelve hours to decide whether or not I can keep my money, or the exs gets it. Other than that, I haven't a clue as to what to expect. So - end the suspense. "

She pursed her lips. "It's unusual for a divorce to be based on 'emotional cruelty'. Usually, 'irreconcilable differences' is the reason. If your ex wives feels strong enough that they got together and sued you. . . " She cocked her head. "How many ex-wives is it, Peter? Five?"

I shrugged. "Six, actually. "

She wrote something on her pad. "Don't you think that, perhaps, there's something to their claims? If one, or even two, of your wives made the claim, it could be coincidence, or spite. But all six. . . ?"

I snorted. "Hell - it's a load of crap. " I cocked my head apologetically. "Excuse my French. Anyway - I don't treat women like property. I gave them everything they could want. I just have bad luck - I seem to end up with really touchy woman, is all. Latent feminists or something. "

Her face pinched in a bit at that - a decidedly unlovely look. That's all right - I just dropped my eyes from that sour look and took another quick glance at those legs of her. Too bad the skirt was so long - and the heels so short. Still. . .

"Well, I believe I've decided on a course of action. " Doc finally said. "Oh?"

She nodded. "Hypnosis. I'm going to take you back, and see what you were thinking and feeling about each of your wives. "

I shrugged. "You can try. But I don't believe in that hypnosis crap. "

She smiled thinly. "Yes, well. It still can't hurt to try. Why don't you sit back, Peter?"

I did as she instructed. She pulled out a gold pen and told me to watch it as she slowly rotated it in the light of a small spot. I watched the little gold pen, feeling ridiculous. Any intelligent person knew that hypnosis was just a load of. . . .

* * * * *

. . . crap, fostered by weak-willed. . .

I came to a screeching stop, mid-thought. "What the ?" I gasped, staring at the Doc.

She was dressed in a different outfit. Just as severe - but different.

For that matter, I was dressed in a different set of clothes than I had been.

The Doc smirked slightly. "For somebody who doesn't believe in hypnosis, you are a marvelous subject. "

"How long have I been here?" I waved a hand, looking for the right word.

"Under?" She supplied. "Since yesterday. To you, it's ten in the morning, 'tomorrow'. "

I gaped. "What? Look - this was supposed to be a one day session. What the hell were you ?"

She held up a hand. "Calm down, Peter. Before you get excited, let me inform you - your ex-wives have dropped the suit against you. After I talked to them, and explained what I'd found, they backed out of it, agreeing that it wasn't in their best interests. "

Slightly mollified, I kept from cursing her out for the long 'trance'. "That's good, Doc. Glad to see you're reasonable. When I first heard that I had a female shrink, I was kind of worried. "

Her lips twitched. "Really? Well, I don't think I have a problem with being objective. After our session, I think I know exactly how you think of women. "

I shrugged. "See? I told you it was a load of crap. So, are we done?"

She cocked her head. "Well You can leave now. Your obligation is fulfilled, and there's no more legal sanction against you. "

I stood. "Well, I wish I could say it's been fun, Doc - but I don't remember. Anyway, thanks for straightening this mess out. "

"Not at all, Mr. Jones. " She replied, walking me to the door of her office. "I've never been fond of the legal system - I'm a believer in justice itself. "

"Yeah, sure. " I said, hoping she wasn't going to explain that comment. "Well, nice knowing you, Doc. "

Thankfully, she didn't try to explain her beliefs - whatever they were - to me, and I made a clean escape. Well, aside from one bobble - finding my car. Apparently, we'd driven it somewhere while I was 'zoned' - it was in a different spot. That, more than anything, kind of drove home the point that I basically had a day of my life missing, and I briefly considered suing the Doc for it - but was there any legal precedence? Hell it would be more trouble than it was worth.

Dismissing the thought, I climbed behind the wheel of my Jag, and headed home.

* * * * *

Tossing my keys on the end table, I kicked the door to my penthouse suite shut, and kicked off my shoes. Wandering across the deep pile rug, I headed for the wet bar. I couldn't help but notice the remains of a breakfast for two on the breakfast nook table - which explained where my car had gone, and how I ended up in a new set of clothes.

Although it was still morning, it felt like afternoon - yesterday afternoon - to me, and I decided a drink would be all right. I was just reaching for a bottle of Tequila when I heard the shrill shriek of a cell phone.

For a second, I felt confused - I'd left my phone upstairs this. . .

. . no, yesterday morning. Sighing, I patted my chest and wasn't surprised to feel the small bulge. Pulling it out, I flipped it open.

"Hello?"

There was a hiss of static - and then, to my surprise, I heard my own voice, obviously recorded, and sounding rather vague. Surprised, I could only listen as I. . .

. . Peter spoke for a moment. Sighing, I hung up the phone and stuck it in my pocket. As I did, I looked down at my arm, and admitted the truth - he was right. My right to 'be comfortable' had to be balanced with other things. As a matter of fact, I couldn't even come up with a good reason for not doing this before. Rebellion, perhaps - but no woman should have this much body hair - it wasn't worth 'making the point'.

Wondering why I'd ever thought differently, I walked over to the guest bedroom and shut the door behind me. Putting the cell phone on the shelf, I undressed, wondering what had possessed me to wear this outfit today - sure it was comfortable, but god, it looked terrible.

Of course, being naked wasn't much better. I couldn't believe just how hairy I was. God - how did I stand being this. . . ape-like all this time.

Shaking my head at my foolishness, I started filling the tub with warm water, and dug out a supply - a large supply - of razors, as well as some Nair.

Climbing into the tub, I began on my legs. Lathering them up, I began to draw the blade up my leg, removing that unsightly body hair.

God - what a job! Shaving every where I could reach, followed by awkward contortions to use the depilatory. It took the whole bottle, two dozen razors, and three hours, but at the end, I could look at myself in the mirror without shuddering. Smiling, I ran a hand across my now-smooth skin, glad I'd finally gotten around to. . .

. . . shaving off my body hair?!

I staring at myself in the mirror, jaw dropping. What the hell had I just done?

No - I knew what I'd just done. I even knew why, sort of. For the past three hours, I'd believed myself to be a woman. Somebody named Petra - and the present girlfriend of 'Peter'.

I had to force myself to unclench my teeth - I was grinding them so hard that it was physically painful. I was so pissed, it took three tries to get my fingers to hit one button at a time as I dialed a number.

There was a brief buzz, then. . . "Hello, Dr. LI. . . "

I cut her short. "What the fuck did you do to me, you bitch?" I snapped.

"Ah - Peter. I expected to be hearing from you. " Damn her, her voice was calm and even, with a slight hint of amusement. I wished I was talking to her face-to-face, so I could slap that humor out of her.

"Peter, I've given you some post-hypnotic suggestions. Based on your own views of women. At certain prompts, you're going to become 'Petra' again - a woman based on your thoughts of how woman think. Since you don't think there's anything wrong with your views, you should have no problem being Petra. Right?"

"Listen, you. . . " I started, angrily - and the damned bitch actually had the nerve to hang up on me. Enraged, I began to dial again. . . .

. . . but couldn't. No matter how hard I tried, my fingers refused to call her back.

I dressed quickly, feeling with shame and anger the strange way my clothes felt against my denuded skin. Stuffing my phone in my pocket, I grabbed my keys, stepped into my shoes, and headed down to my car. Each angry stride I took only enraged me more, the sensation of the clothing sliding over hairless flesh driving my anger higher and higher. My face was probably the color of a boiled lobster, but I didn't give a damn about that as I slid behind the wheel and brought the car to life. I reached to put the car into gear. . .

"God fuckin' damn!" I yelled, pounding on the steering wheel in enraged frustration - because I couldn't drive to the bitch's office. I couldn't put the car into gear as long as I was planning to go to her office, no matter how hard I tried.

Sitting in my running car, I spent a good ten minutes venting my spleen. A small part of my brain was objective enough to be impressed by just how many curses and swear words I was able to dredge up. "

" damn daughter to a camel. " I wound down, panting for the force of my invective. Taking a deep breath, I found the release of anger had one positive side - I was now able to think semi-rationally. How the hell was I going to fix this?

I was considering my options when a thought struck me, sending a chill up my spine. Eyes widening, hoping I was wrong, I opened my mouth, and tried to say, out loud, what was happening to me.

"Damn!" I slammed my fist on the seat as I was unable to give voice to my situation. If I couldn't tell myself what was happening to me, I doubted I'd be able to tell anyone else.

Still, I wasn't going to take this without a fight. I was going to have to find some way around whatever the bitch had done to me. I was a man, god damn it, and there was no way in hell some broad was going to turn me into some sort of. . .

. . . tomboy, I thought, eyeing my hair in the rear-view mirror. Sure, it was a lot easier to care for, and it dried faster - but it didn't really suit me at all.

"You silly goose. " I told myself in the mirror with a wry little smile. Dropping the car into gear, I backed out carefully and slowly, craning my head around to the left and the right to ensure that I wasn't about to whack into anybody. Putting the car into drive, I pulled out into the driveway of the building and waited for a spot to slip into the stream of traffic that I was comfortable trying to squeeze into. When Peter drove, he'd just squeeze into the first slot that opened up, and it scared the life out of me, even if we hadn't had any accidents.

Finally spotting a big enough slot, I eased down on the accelerator and moved into traffic.

As amazing as it seemed, I had never had my hair professionally done, so I didn't have a 'my' salon. Instead, I just headed down to the part of town where all the salons and boutiques were located, and picked one by the simple method of going into the closets one to the parking spot I found.

"Good morning. " The woman behind the counter asked with a smile. "Let me guess - you're here for a gift certificate. "

I blinked - it must be obvious from my haircut that I didn't have much use for stylists. That is, I didn't have much use for them before. "No, actually, I was wondering if I could get my hair done - or do I need to make an appointment. "

The woman seemed surprised, which in turn surprised me. "You? You want to get your hair done. . . here?"

"Well," I admitted, "I'm not necessarily tied down to the 'here' part if you don't have a free stylist - but I'm looking for somebody who can do something with this mop-head I call hair. " Laughing wryly, I fluffed my short hair with a hand. "I've finally decided that, hell, - a woman should have a woman's haircut. Right?"

"Right. " The woman behind the counter replied in an odd tone, and I wondered if it was her first day on the job or something - she was behaving very strangely.

"Well, I think it's wonderful. " A voice to my left said, and I turned. A Slender man dressed in all black and wearing a beret was looking at me with a little smile, one hand tapping a finger against his lips while the other held the elbow of that hand. "I think everybody should feel free to express themselves any way they wish - oh my, yes. " He made a little waving gesture towards himself. "Then again, if I didn't then I'd be a hypocrite, no wouldn't I dearie?"

I smiled back - the man was obviously gay in both the original sense and the more modern one. It turned out that his name was Guy - (Pronounced G'he, my dear. Kind of like a giggle and a laugh in one little hiccup - that's my name) and he was free, and more than ready willing and able to help me with my quest for a better 'do. I was a little afraid that my hair was such a mess that it couldn't be rescued until I let it grow out some, but Guy assured me that he could do something with it.

He sure could. He was some sort of wizard as well as just a hell of a fun guy - Guy - to talk to. We chatted about this and that while he worked, and I felt a sort of obscure shame when I realized that he could actually be more feminine than I was, despite the fact that I was actually a woman. I sighed with the thought of all the years I'd wasted until now, and was glad that I somehow managed to catch and hold Peter's attention, even looking and acting the way I did.

Or the way I had up until now. I could hardly wait until Peter got back tonight - I was going to show him a completely new side to the Petra he thought he knew. When I saw the finished product that Guy did with my hair, I knew that I'd never let myself go back to being such a slob again.

Guy had managed to make my short mass of dark hair look great - he'd combed it straight down from the new part in the middle, and just above my ears it turned into a mass of tiny, tight little curls, running longer at the back. It was just great, and I told him so at least a dozen times before I paid and left, walking with a new bounce in my step and feeling a lot better about myself. I felt even better when I noticed all the looks I was getting from the guys I passed on the street, and started smiling at them, even though I was already involved with Peter. After all - a little bit of innocent flirting never hurt anybody, right?

In fact, I felt so good about myself that I just had to go into the boutique next door.

It seemed to be my day for new employees - like the woman at the salon, the woman here seemed amazed that I'd actually want to buy some clothing here - but, then again, the clothing I wore into the store marked me as a 'K-Mart Shopper', by and large. I told the woman that I had decided to give into my nature and just dress in a more feminine manner, and she seemed to understand, becoming a lot more helpful. So much so, in fact, that she suggested I could use a make-over when I was done, and even gave me the name of somebody who she said could do wonders for somebody 'like me'. And, she seemed to think that it was a great comment on her friends skill that she was willing to come right there, to the boutique, and do the makeover in the back room with 'discretion'. It all sounded a little strange to me until I figured it out - the friend was somebody who was working 'under the table' to avoid taxes, and the boutique's saleswoman probably got a small cut of each transaction. But she had been very helpful, so I agreed, and sure enough, her friend did do a wonderful job.

Standing in front of a three-way mirror in the boutique, I could hardly believe the woman I was seeing was myself. I was wearing the outfit I like best out of the two dozen or so I'd just bought - a pair of 'nude' stockings with visible seams up the back that disappeared under the hem of the white cotton skirt that fell just above my knees. A sand-colored silk blouse caught the light and shimmered nicely above the skirt, and the gold-link belt I wore around my waist showed the magnificent job the almost painfully tight white leather corset I wore underneath was doing. About the only regret I had was that I wasn't more experienced in walking in heels - I had to make do with a pair of white pumps with a mere one-inch heel. Still, plenty of practice, and I'd soon be wearing the six inch heels I though would look so nice with this outfit.

The beautician friend of the salesclerk had done a marvelous job, and my carefully applied make-up beneath my new hair style, coupled with the out fit, almost made me look like an up and coming young female executive - dressed smartly enough to show she was serious, but with enough flair to show she wasn't yet old and staid. I liked the look, and the small gold balls in the lobes of my newly pierced ears were just perfect, elegantly understated for the look.

Even on the short walk to my car, the look proved it's worth, as people actually stopped to stare at me as I went by. Once guy was even so interested, he called out after me as I climbed into the Jag. I didn't catch the words clearly, as he was across the busy street, but it was definitely directed at me.

As I reached forward to start the car, I thought to myself that I'd never felt so. . .

. . freakish.

That was the only word for how I looked. Here I was, a fairly big, muscular, broad shouldered man with undeniable masculine features, dressed up in women's clothes, wearing make-up and everything. And, to make sure nobody could possibly miss the truth, the outline of my huge cock was visible in the tight skirt I wore.

"You bitch!" I swore into the air, my large hands with their ludicrous new press-on nails on the thick fingers tightening on the steering wheel. I seethed with anger, and the desire to kill that damned bitch. Without thinking, I brought the jag's engine to life and screamed out of the parking space, giving one last effort to aim the car towards the doctor's office - and was amazed to find I could.

Maybe it was the white-hot rage I felt, but whatever it was, I was no longer bound by the inability to go and seek her out. Various ways of killing her ran through my mind as I screamed towards her office, and as soon as I was done with the damned bitch, I was going to go home and get out of this damned outfit, shave my head and newly re-shaped eyebrows, and wait for the hair on my body to grow out before I went after my ex-wives, who must be involved in this damned. . . thing.

Reaching the doctor's building, I stormed up the steps, blew past the receptionist, and burst through the doors of her office, leveling my finger at her and saying. . .

"Dr. Llewellyn, I wanted to thank you again for everything you've done for me. " I said, sincerely. "You've helped my get past my aversion to being the woman I should be. "

"I'm glad to see that you've taken my advice, Petra. " The doctor said with a small smile. "And I'm glad you dropped in - I've got some good news. "

"Oh?" I asked.

"I know that part of your problem comes from your figure. " She said, and I had to admit that was true. "But, I have a colleague who has been working on something, and is looking for a volunteer to be the first test case. Not only would you be perfect, but it would be free of charge. "

I smiled - it looked like today was my lucky day. "Really? When could I go see him?" The doctor smiled. "There's no time like the present, don't you think?"

* * * * *

I'm beginning to worry.

I arrived home at about eight in the evening, feeling absolutely fantastic. My new tits - a beautiful pair of big, firm E-cups with nice, large, thick nipples that can be seen right through the silk of my blouse - looked spectacular, even if they were a little tender at the moment. I thought Peter would just go ga-ga over them when he saw them.

So, I planned the perfect romantic dinner and got everything ready, expecting him home any minute and praying that I'd have enough time to get everything done before I did.

Well, in a way my prayers were answered. He didn't arrive in the middle of my preparations.

In fact, he hasn't come at all. It's nearly four a. m. , and I've been sitting on the couch, playing with my tender new boobs while getting more and more concerned. At first, I figured he was just out with the guys and hadn't bothered to call - he's done that before. But now I'm getting scared.

Although I know it'll make me sound like a hysterical girlfriend, if he doesn't walk through the door in the next fifteen minutes, I'm going to start making calls. First, to his friends. Then to the hotels. Then to the hospitals - and morgue.

I'm hoping I find him at the first places. I'd even prefer that I find him at one of the hotels, shacked up with some girl - after all, he doesn't know that I've finally allowed myself to be feminine, and so I probably drove him to it. But I'm still worried.

Because I have a strangely powerful felling that something truly terrible has happened to Peter...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a college guy decides to try and infiltrate a coven of mysterious woman, he finds that he must now join them in their sexual ritual; as a girl.

Dark Of The Moon

By Gunslinger

Heart pounding a staccato beat in his chest, Jeff looked up and down the darkened hallway, holding his breath as he strained to hear over the thunder of his own pulse.

Detecting no sign that anybody else shared the deserted Performing Arts building with him, Jeff wrapped his hands around the tarnished brass door knob. Taking a deep breath, he tensed himself, the ropy muscles of his lean, wiry body going taut as he simultaneously pulled upward on the knob and leaned forward.

After a couple of seconds that seemed to last an eternity, the bolt of the locked door lifted up and out of the worn brass striker plate, the door popping open with a 'click-scrape' that sounded as loud as an atomic explosion to the young man's adrenaline-fueled senses.

Pausing for a second, Jeff listened to the near-silence of the community college, detecting no indication that anybody had noticed anything amiss. With a soft sigh, he quickly slipped inside the darkened room. Twisting the little knob in the center of the door knob's other side, he then turned the unlocked handle and gently eased the door soundlessly closed, then re-engaged the lock.

For a second, he simply stood stock still, letting his eyes adapt to what little light there was in the darkened property room, then slowly began making his way towards the marginally lighter rectangles in the darkness that denoted windows. Hands held out in front of him, feet moving a bare inch off the floor in a sweeping motion, he groped like a blind man across the nearly pitch-black room, guided by his sense of touch.

Reaching the windows, the rangy brunet carefully picked a spot on the wall to lean against, while still being able to see out of the second-story window towards the forested hills beyond.

Satisfied he was situated to see anybody who came down the dirt track that ran just on the other side of the fence that marked the limit of the college's property line, Jeff peered down at the faintly luminous hands on his watch, checking the time.

The twenty-four year old brunet knew he could get into deep shit for breaking and entering. Never scholastically inclined, he'd dropped out before even graduating high-school, never even contemplating continuing on to collage, and had no legal right to be on campus at all, much less in the locked property room - but his curiosity, and not a little jealousy, had driven him nearly to the edge.

Tonight was the night of the new moon - and the strange monthly occurrence in the woods just outside the sleepy collage town, the woods he was now overlooking.

Not that it was exactly a secret - just about everybody knew about what had come to be called 'The Ritual of the New Moon'. As far as anybody could tell, it had been going on, uninterrupted, for at least a century.

Every twenty-eight days, staring just after sundown, women would begin filtering into town. Not that it was easy to tell they were women, not at first glance - because each of them wore long, voluminous hooded black robes and masks of one sort or another. The cars many of the came in bore license plates from just about every state in the union, and some were even Canadian. Moreover, many of the out-of-state cars were rentals, and rumor had it that some of these dark-cloaked women had flown in from Europe or Asia - but that might have been just rumor.

What was stone-cold fact was that at eleven o'clock, these dark-clad women would gather on the trail Jeff was now watching over, and would disappear into the threes.

Literally.

No matter how carefully men tried to hide themselves in the wood, or follow their trail, nobody ever found the women, nor their path, after they stepped into that tree-line - at least, not then.

Some young men, however would find them - at exactly midnight.

These lucky young men, almost invariably with stunned, happy smiles on their faces, would come back down the trail at one o'clock, with the women - but this time, the women would be carrying those black robes over one arm, or slung over their shoulder...

...to reveal themselves to be some of the sexiest women anybody could wish for, clad in skimpy clothing, lingerie, or nothing at all.

The women would then leave, scattering off to all points of the compass, leaving behind happy young men who would tell the most erotic tales of what had happened during that hour between midnight and one.

The problem, for Jeff, was quite simple: Somehow, it always worked out that the men who inexplicably managed to find these women when all others failed were invariable between the ages of eighteen and twenty-four, and virgins.

Which explained what Jeff was doing, taking the risk of breaking into the college: Tonight was the last full moon before his twenty-fifth birthday, and despite the fact that he hadn't qualified as a virgin since he'd talked/blackmailed Becky Orland into having sex when he was fifteen, Jeff still intended to 'get lucky' tonight.

That is, if he could figure out a way to follow the women into the woods when a century's worth of horny young men had failed.

Biting his lower lip, Jeff peered out the window, then down at his watch again. Though any of the rooms along this side of the building would have offered a good vantage point of the trail, he'd picked this one for a specific reason, and now it was time to get to work.

The small black object he extracted from his pocket wasn't actually a flashlight, but a key ring with a little yellow-white LED used for helping you see the door lock on a car - but, with his eyes as dark-adapted as they could get, the nearly invisible glow from the tiny bulb provided plenty of light for Jeff when he squeezed the button.

Grinning a bit uncertainly, he began to survey the props and costumes stores in the room, knowing how quickly time was passing.

His plan, such as it was, was pretty simple - he was going to disguise himself as one of the women and follow them to wherever it was they went, then at the last moment slip into the woods nearby and shed his costume, to emerge at the stroke of midnight as one of the lucky few who got to perform in the pagan sexual orgy he'd heard so much about.

Hell - it was more than enough incentive to go 'in drag', especially since he'd hardly have to go 'whole hog' with the costume.

Working decidedly to his advantage was the lack of uniformity in the outfits these women wore. Though they all wore dark-colored hooded cloaks and masks, the types of masks and the cut and style of the cloaks varied widely, indicating that each person came up with their own, rather than it being a 'uniform'. Jeff was sure he'd have no trouble finding the necessary items in the prop room to pass, and quickly began searching through the available items.

On the racks of clothing lining one side of the room, he quickly found the section holding all the cloaks of various styles, and began going through them. He simply ignored any light-colored cloak, and any lacking a hood, or sleeves, and quickly found that there was only one that met the necessary criteria. Quickly, he pulled it off its hanger and slipped into it, smiling to himself smugly as he looked down at the coarse, dark-green fabric wrapped around his body...

...and then swore softly, muttering angrily to himself. The hem of the cloak barely fell past his knees.

That, in and of itself, wasn't out of line with any of the cloaks some of the women had worn on the night of the new moon - except that it revealed a pair of hairy, ropy-muscle calves and feet clad in ratty old sneakers.

Given the unexpectedly steamy heat of the unusually warm summer night, Jeff had figured that his ragged black cut-off jean shorts and black muscle shirt were perfect, especially since he'd be wearing a robe or cloak on top of that - but he'd expected the garment would fall all the way to the ground, not come up so short.

Muttering to himself, but determined not to give up, Jeff began looking around, shooting worried glances at his watch as he searched for a solution to this unexpected dilemma.

He found the solution, such as it was, in a pair of women's black leather 'biker's boots'. Though he spent a few more oh-so-precious minutes searching after he came across them, the press of time finally convinced him that he'd have to go with them. Perching himself atop a 'treasure chest', he grimaced as he forced his feet into the too-small boots, pulling the long laces through the series of silver hooks up the front of each and tying them off where the boots stopped, just below the knee - and a bare inch higher than the hem of the cloak.

Grimacing from the pain in his cramped feet, he forced himself to hurry, cursing the three-inch high black heels of the boot even while being grudgingly grateful that they weren't thinner or higher.

There'd been a pair of elbow-length black latex gloves stuffed into the boots that he'd yanked out before putting them on, and as he moved to toss them in a box of miscellaneous clothing, he hesitated. He looked at the bell-like ends of the sleeves on the cloak, and the hairy forearms and masculine hands they revealed. He'd planned simply to place each hand in the opposing sleeve, monk-style - but suddenly realized that if he stripped or stumbled, something quite possible in the damned boots, he might give himself away.

Sighing, he took off his watch and, after another worried glance at the hands that seemed to be moving at warp speed, pulled on the gloves and laced them up. It was a struggle, and not only because they were a little too small for him - each of the gloves sported 'fingernails' under the dully gleaming black sheathing, a good inch long and making things damned awkward.

Painfully aware of the time racing by, he grabbed the full-face mask he'd been able to scrounge up, some porcelain job with a feminine face painted on it's front, and put it over his face, then pulled up the hood. He quickly glanced in a nearby prop mirror...

...and cursed anew.

The mask covered the front of his face, all right - but the hood was baggy enough that you could still see the sides of his face, including the stubble on his cheeks and jaw.

He paused, looking around wildly as the last few minutes ticked away - and spotted a big, thick black wig. Yanking the hood down, he grabbed the wig and slapped it on top of his head, then pulled the hood back up.

The wig was made up of thick black 'hair that was almost straight at it's top, becoming wavier as it fell, until it was a thick mass of curls where it billowed out at the shoulders. Getting the hood back up over it was a pain - but it did the job of hiding the sides of his face.

Finally 'satisfied', and both physically and emotionally uncomfortable in the psuedo-feminine costume - he awkwardly made his way towards the stairs in the corner of the room.

He descended them carefully, feeling like he was going to fall any second, and reached the small 'T' intersection at the bottom. One side ran off towards the stage and dressing rooms of the auditorium, but just to his right lay the door to the outside that was used as the stage-door entrance. It was a big, metal exterior door, and he would never have been able to 'break in' from the other side of it - but from the inside, he merely pushed down on the metal bar across it's center, and slipped out into the muggy night air.

Just a shadow in the darkness, he struggled to achieve some sort of relatively easy-looking stride in the boots, not wanting to look like a complete idiot and draw attention to himself from the real women. Finally managing a sort of almost haughty stride that came from having to come down on the heels rather than on his painfully cramped toes, he pushed through the thin line of scrub at the edge of the property and hefted himself over the low fence that separated it from the path beyond...

...and watched as other dark-clad figures began to appear on the path, one-by-one.

Heart pounding, waiting for a cry that would indicate he'd been found out, Jeff felt fear warring with excitement inside of him as he tried to look casual, standing on the dirt pathway. Thankfully, none of the women tried talking to each other, which spared him one risk, and soon there was eight other woman gathered on the path around him.

Though nobody had said anything, and he hadn't seen any of the women checking their watches, they all suddenly turned and began heading for the tree-line - and only the fact that Jeff had already been facing that direction kept him from seemingly being 'out of the loop' as he managed to get himself into motion without seeming startled or surprised by the sudden, wordless agreement to move towards the woods.

The women fell into a line, and Jeff's feigned air of 'don't give a damn' disdain that had hid his slow start left him last in line - which meant that he was surrounded by the women, and didn't actually have any of the other women directly at him, which was a relief.

Even more of a relief was the fact that the women, despite the fact that not one word had been exchanged, all seemed to know where they were going, slipping between barely-seen trees as they entered the forest on a path that almost couldn't be seen unless you were already on it.

It was the fact that Jeff was watching the line of dark-clad figures so intently that let him catch the rippling motion down the line as the women joined hands so they were walking in a linked chain. Given that, he managed to push his hand forward quickly - and was grateful he'd thought to put the gloves on as the woman in front of him reached back and wordlessly gripped the hand that she'd obviously fully expected to be waiting for her.

A sour sweat was running down Jeff's back, and not from the sultry night, either. These women must have practiced or trained for this, to be able to know what to do without anybody saying anything - and so far, only sheer luck had kept his lack of this preparation from screwing up his plans. Silently praying that his luck would hold, he continued his 'proud' stride, struggling not to give the impression that he needed to be led by the hand as they went deeper and deeper into the woods.

It wasn't until too late that he realized the luck of being led by the hand was two-sided - as they stepped into a large, level clearing, and Jeff's heart-rate increased three-fold as, hand-in-hand, he was led away from the tree-line he'd planned to slip into unnoticed.

Even in the sudden cold rush of fear as he was led further from the woods, he was bemused to not the large clearing's attributes. He would have been willing to swear that he'd gone over every inch of the woods during previous attempts to track down the women - but he'd never seen this clearing before.

In its center, where the line of women were heading, was a large fire-pit, already laid with kindling and wood, and surrounded by fire-blackened stones that looked to have been there for centuries. Surrounding these were heavy, varnished divans with thick, velvet-covered 'mattresses' that were either a dark red or purple, and trimmed in gold. Though solid and heavy, the bed-like lounging couches couldn't simply be left out in the weather all the time, for they seemed in perfect condition, and Jeff wondered how they'd been brought here for tonight - but the thought couldn't hold his attention, not with the predicament they were in.

The line of women stopped near the fire pit, and released hands. The tall figure in an all-enveloping cloak that had led the procession turned...

...and suddenly everybody went utterly still. Though nobody had spoken at all until this point, it suddenly seemed to get even quieter, and Jeff felt a sudden chill of fear run through his as the women slowly turned to look at one another, their bodies tense.

Jeff wondered if, despite seeming to come from all over, the women planned this, and knew how many women should be there, because he seemed to sense suspicion - maybe even anger - in the air as each of the women looked over their masked companions. The tall woman at the front looked back over the line, seeming to peer at each woman for a moment before letting her gaze travel onward, and Jeff tried to give his body that same tense, watchful air as he also mimed looking around, wondering if he was about to be both figuratively and literally unmasked.

Suddenly, the women all turned as one to look at the tall figure - and Jeff was grateful that, as being the last in line, he'd already been looking in that direction. For a second, nobody moved - and then, amazingly a low, soft chuckle issued from the woman at the head of the line, to be echoed by all the other women.

Caught by surprise, Jeff didn't have time - or the inclination - to try and join in, but the chuckling was so soft that he figured that nobody would notice he hadn't added to it - though he wondered what had prompted it.

Maybe it was something expected - because the tall woman, in a strong, rich voice, began to speak, her cadence almost ritualistic - and yet still holding a slight chuckle in it's tone.

"Here, in the dark of the moon, we gather, as supplicants. We come to cast off who we once were, to become who we shall forevermore be. Here, in the sacred clearing between the worlds, under no light of moon or sun, all is formless, and anything may be."

Jeff, behind his mask, grimaced at the stupid near-chant, while relived that the women hadn't seemed to notice anything awry - yet. Still, at some point he'd have to find a way to hide until the men were supposed to be in the 'sacred clearing', so he paid close attention, hoping for a chance to slip away.

"Here will we be granted the boon of becoming. Here, Nox shall hear our voices, and our thoughts. Here, Nox, the Goddess of the Night, shall grant us her favor. Come forth, supplicants, and ask of the Goddess this boon...!"

Behind the tall woman, the bonfire within the stone circle burst into sudden life - and the brief thought Jeff had, wondering what pyrotechnic device had allowed them to do so, was lost in the rising fear that came from the added illumination that could reveal him.

"Come, suppliant, and beseech the Goddess!" The tall woman intoned, pointing to the first woman in line...

...and, heart pounding, Jeff watched as, one by one, each of the women went through 'beseeching the Goddess', only to retire to one of the divans arranged in a semi-circle.

A semi-circle behind Jeff, ensuring that he could not slip past unnoticed.

At least he had plenty of opportunity to observe the 'ritual'. When only he was left, and to avoid being caught, he was at least able to go through the stupid thing as if he knew what to do.

Like all the others, he approached the bonfire. At least, to the other women behind him, he was just a dark shape against the blazing flames.

Kneeling at the edge of the stone ring, sweating in the heat rolling off the fire, he placed his hands on the small golden plaque set into the stones, and whispered the 'incantation', glad that the low level kept his voice, though audible, from sounding too masculine.

"Nox, Goddess of the Night, grant unto me that which I have come for upon this enchanted night." Then, standing, he turned and took from the tall women a gleaming goblet.

Being this close, under the light of the fire, scared him - but, thankfully, the mask he wore had a small opening between the painted porcelain lips, so he didn't have to lift the mask to take a long sip of the sweet liquid before returning the goblet and heading over to an empty divan.

Even before he reached the reclining seat, however., he felt the effects of whatever was in the drink - and figured he better understood what was going on here, because the world began to swim around him a very pleasant fog.

Drugs - they took some sort of drugs.,

All-but-falling onto the divan, sprawling comfortably on it's soft surface, Jeff felt a warm, extremely pleasant fog fill his mind, while his body felt heavy, yet distant, almost as if it belonged to someone else. His fears about being discovered - indeed, any worry at all - began to seem very distant as a wonderful, uncritical happiness slowly took it's hold of him, leaving him feeling languid and giddy and content, as if nothing in the world could possibly be wrong.

Time seemed to slow - or rather, become non-existent, as if there was nothing but this eternal now in which he found himself. Everything seemed so distant and unimportant, nothing intruding on the calm, happy, uncritical contemplation of the universe that held him so firmly in it's grasp.

Even in his dazed state, however, Jeff couldn't miss it when a young man came over and sat on the edge of the divan.

He was about Jeff's own age, maybe a bit younger, and Jeff vaguely recognized him. Through his drug-wrapped brain, a name slowly rose to the surface, though Jeff couldn't - and didn't particularly care to - track down when or where he'd met the young man named 'Steve'.

Floating high, feeling happy and warm and uncritical, Jeff didn't offer any resistance as Steve slowly pulled him into a sitting position on the divan. Somewhere, in the back of his mind, Jeff felt that there was something wrong, but it wasn't nearly strong enough to dissipate the warm fog that swaddled him, and so he couldn't seem to bring himself to care about it, much less work out what had set the alarm off in the first place.

Gently, Steve began tugging on the hem of the cloak, obviously wanting to pull it from where it was wrapped around Jeff's legs so that it would hang free over the edge of the divan. The motion caused that warning bell in Jeff's mind to grow stronger, this time powerfully enough that his befogged mind began trying to track the reason down. Slowly, it began to register that, for some reason as yet undetermined, Jeff didn't want anybody seeing his legs - but by the time he'd gotten that far in his vague musings, Steve had already pulled the cloak's hem out from under Jeff's butt, allowing it to hang free off the edge of the divan, and exposing Jeff's legs.

Vapidly, a dreamy little smile on the lips behind the mask, Jeff watched Steve's slender hands lightly caress the smooth, silky skin of his legs, and wondered why he'd been worried about them being seen. Though they were only bare between the tops of the boots and the hem of the skin-tight black jean shorts, they were shapely enough, and Jeff sighed dreamily as the pleasure of Steve's touch on that taut, smooth flesh registered - especially since it was enhanced by the effects of the drug, making the caress more enjoyable than it would otherwise have been.

That alarm was still sounding in the back of Jeff's mind, but between the dreamy effect of the drug and the pleasure that was coming from the shapely, smooth thigh being caressed, Jeff didn't find the willpower to finish chasing the vagrant worry down.

Likewise, concern flared as Steve's roaming hands moved upwards, spreading open the cloak - but not enough to overcome either the drugs swaddling Jeff's brain, nor the pleasure of Steve's questing hands.

The cloak fell open, and Jeff gazed downwards as Steve's hands moved up over the rise of full hips straining the jeans to the maximum - and for a moment, Jeff felt - happily - confused, since there seemed to be something very wrong with the sight meeting his eyes, though he couldn't quite put his finger on what it was.

Was it the slender, well-defined waist? The full, womanly hips filling the shorts so tightly that they were practically pulled right up into the moist womanhood under the taut fabric over the crotch? Maybe even the deep cleavage between the full, firm breasts straining the black tank-top to the limit...?

There was certainly something wrong with this image, that was for sure. Something that created confusion and doubt...

...especially since something inside a drug-addled mind was now trying to fit everything together, since the whole he/she thing didn't seem to match up. After all, this body was definitely female, yet until this moment she'd been thinking of herself as male, though she was too uncritically dozey to figure out why she'd been thinking of herself as male.

As the cloak fell to the ground behind her and she thoughtlessly shook her full head of raven hair loose, feeling the wind tickling as it pulled lightly at where the roots of that rich head of hair met the scalp, she found she just couldn't bring herself to worry too much about the strange sensation of not really recognizing herself. After all, everything felt so good, so wonderful, and if she couldn't place her finger on whatever was setting off more and more warning bells in the back of her mind, well, they were still so deeply buried on the pleasure and happiness that she was feeling that they really couldn't matter, now could they?

Sighing softly, she placed her toned, smooth arms over Steve's shoulders as he pushed her shirt up and began caressing her big, round breasts, enjoying the sensations as she dreamily played with his short, sandy hair with one latex-clad finger. Everything he was doing to her body felt so nice, and she couldn't worry about the fact that she didn't seem to find any of the sensations familiar - after all, she couldn't seem to actually think about anything, or put enough coherent thought into remembering anything about her past.

None of it mattered. All that mattered was the here and now, and this here and now was feeling wonderful.

When Steve reached up and peeled off her mask, she smiled warmly at him, eyes unfocused as she stared off into space over his head, full lips curved in a mindless grin of happiness that would have been there even if Steve hadn't been giving her such wonderful pleasure.

When he leaned forward and kissed those full lips, hands sliding down to fondle the firm, full ass filling out the skin-tight jean shorts, she slowly, dreamily began kissing back, her first 'action', instead of just sitting back and letting Steve do whatever he felt like.

It felt really good to be joining in on the kiss, not just accepting the pleasure Steve was creating, but working to enhance it - so when his hands slid up around her hips and moved towards the fly of her shorts, she went ahead and lifted her firm, ripe ass, allowing him to unzip the shorts and peel them off down her long, toned legs.

As good as whatever Steve did felt, it felt even better when she helped increase the pleasure - so she no longer passively accepted what he was doing, but put what little concentration she could summon up into helping him, pushing that fuzzy sense of disquiet even further away from her drug-swaddled mind as she lay back on the couch, legs spread wide and held high as Steve quickly stripped out of his own clothing.

In short order, he was ready, his cock throbbing at attention - and this time, the sharp warning bell was just strong enough to pierce the haze of her drugged mind, and he paused...

...but that just meant that she offered no resistance as Steve smoothly and eagerly penetrated her sopping cunt with his hard, throbbing cock.

Any worry she might have had, any sense that there was something very wrong with what was happening, vanished in a wave of pleasure as Steve began thrusting into her tight, wet womanhood - and as the pleasure only continued to mount, everything faded, the only thoughts scattered in her shrouded mind concerning the best way to increase the pleasure she was feeling from having Steve fuck her.,

Almost instinctively, she began thrusting her hips, making his thrusts deeper and harder - and the increase of pleasure succeeded in wiping out the last few fragments of thought, and she began gasping and moaning as her body, practically running on autopilot., responded to Steve's actions and worked in concert with his thrusting body to make the sex she was experiencing all the more enjoyable.

The fact that the orgasm, when it hit, was quite literally like nothing else she'd felt before had some implications that might have born thinking about... if not for the fact that the power of the orgasm itself wiped all other considerations from her mind.

Gasping in pleasure, she barely noticed when Steve patted her on the cheek and left - but the afterglow had faded enough for that sense of something being very, very wrong to begin nibbling at her consciousness by the time a tall, shapely woman arrived at the side of her divan, another naked young man in tow.

"Hello, Jen." The tall woman said, gesturing at the naked man beside her. "This is Bill. He'd like a blow-job - and since I know how much you love giving blow-jobs, I immediately thought of you."

That sense of wrongness still nibbling at her mind, she frowned, wondering why 'Jen' didn't sound quite right - nor did the idea of giving a blow job, despite the fact that she was fairly certain she liked 'blow jobs', though she couldn't quite manage to make herself remember having ever given any.

"I feel.. strange." She murmured, though without worry, still wrapped in the warm haze.

"That's because of the drugs.," The tall woman said, smiling. "You like drugs, don't you Jen? You like how they make you feel." "Yeah..." Jen said, smiling dreamily. "Drugs are good."

"So is booze." The woman told her, an odd smile on her face. "You like drugs and booze, don't you? Drugs and booze and sex?" "Drugs and booze and sex..." Jen repeated, dreamily. "They're all good."

"...and blow-jobs of course. You like them, too." The tall woman prompted.

Jen frowned slightly - but that just sounded so right. Though still not sure how she knew, she was certain she did, indeed, like blow- jobs.

"yeah." She agreed, a bit hesitantly, despite the wonderfully comforting haze of the drugs. "Well, Bill here would be happy to let you give him one." The tall woman said, gesturing.

"Sure." Jen said, sliding down to her knees as Bill stepped forward. Though something still didn't feel right, she was certain what the woman had said was true, so as she wrapped her lips around Bill's soft cock and began working him to hardness, she decided that the sensations she was experiencing from doing so must be 'good', something she liked and strove to feel.

Even starting flaccid, it wasn't all that long before Bill had been brought first to full erection, then to orgasm, and Jen gulped down the load of warm, salty cum, just as the tall woman suggested she would enjoy doing - and wondered what it was about the flavor and texture she loved so much, since it didn't seem to be anything obvious...

...but she let the thought slip away as the tall woman thoughtfully brought another naked man to her to fuck her like she loved so much - and some more of that wonderful drug, so she could enjoy all this attention from men in that wonderful haze that had only just begun to fade...

* * * * *

"Man, this is weird..." Eric said, stretching in the light of dawn as he stared down the path. "No shit." Dan agreed, shaking his head.

The two twenty-six year old friends had been camped out along the path, wanting to try their luck at the hot babes as they came out of the woods. As usual, their entreaties and 'pick-up' lines had been ignored - but that was just about all that had been usual.

First off, the women hadn't been escorted by the usual group of dreamily happy men. There had only been a couple of guys with the women - and since then, guys had been slowly filtering out of the woods. As a matter of fact, the last few had come down the path with odd looks on their faces, walking gingerly as their expressions hovered somewhere between exhaustion and supreme satisfaction.

Shaking their heads, the two young men prepared to leave - and then stopped dead as one, last figure came down the path. Tall, lean, and tanned, everything about her, from her arrogant stride, to her clothes, to her big, obviously silicone-enhance tits, seemed to scream 'biker slut'. Though not nearly as beautiful as any of the women the two men had ever seen come down this path, she was definitely more 'sexy' - in a cheap, slutty way that only reinforced the whole biker-slut image...

...except for the slight, but perpetual look of mild confusion on her otherwise arrogant face, as if there was something hovering just out of the reach of her conscious mind, bothering her without letting her know why.

Stunned, the two friends watched as she drew closer, obviously intent on drying to pick that strange nagging feeling out of her mind - so that she didn't notice the two young men until she was only a few feet away.

She stopped dead, eyeing them with a slightly puzzled look on her face.

"Oh - hi, guys..." She said in a strong voice that was smoky-sexy - and a bit vague. "How's it going...?" "Pretty good... hot stuff..." Dan ventured, eyeing her bountiful breasts openly.

She barely seemed to notice.

"You looking for some fun, babe?" Eric tried.

"Always, stud..." She replied in that barroom-sexy voice - but without even seeming to think about it., as if the response was hard-wired into her. Likewise, the sexy, 'come 'n get it!' pose she struck seemed likewise thoughtless, almost instinctive.

The two friends shared a startled look, then a smile.

"Why don't you come back to our place then, baby?" Eric suggested, sidling up to her and taking the risk of fondling her denim-clad ass.

Her confused expression grew more pronounced, and she hesitated, something obviously bothering her - and just as obviously, she wasn't sure what it was.

"Yeah, we can down a few beers and.. have a good time." Dan added...

...and, though that bemused look didn't fade completely, the suggestion of a few drinks seemed to catch her attention.

"Yeah, sure, sound's like fun..." She said, coming up with a plastic-looking smile as she wiggled her wide hips against Eric's hand.

Almost without thinking about it, mind fixated on the thought of the welcoming haze booze would bring, Jen let herself be led down the path...

...but that strange sense that something was terribly, terribly wrong continued to haunt her, and would for the rest of her life, no matter how much she tried to drown it out in the nearly-desperate repetitions of drugs, sex and booze that would define the entirety of her new life.

Standing just inside the tree-line, hidden from view, the High Priestess of Nox watched the newly-minted 'biker babe' walk off down the path with her most recent male 'distractions' - and chuckled to herself.

"Well, you got exactly what you wanted..." She muttered, eyeing the new woman's exaggerated strut. "You came up here looking for sex, and sex is just what you got."

She chuckled again, then softly whispered the words of the very old cautionary quote, just before she quite simply faded from view until the next batch of supplicants appeared for the monthly ceremony:

"Be careful what you wish for - you might just get it..." THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: With an unplayable gambling debt, one man agrees to let an eccentric millionaire change him into a woman in exchange for paying off the debt.

The Debt

By Gunslinger

Outside, the semi-tropical sun bathed the grounds of the estate in almost painfully bright light, seeming to leach the color from the greenery maintained by a veritable army of gardeners, at great expense.

Little of the California sun reached into the study of the Spanish-style mansion that laid sprawled at the center of the estate, however. Following the classic design, it looked out onto an inner courtyard, the deep-set windows further shaded by wide red-tile overhangs that roofed the walkway around the center of the courtyard. The study itself - a tastefully decorated expanse of wood, stone and rich Corinthian leather - was kept cool and dry by an expensive air conditioning system, the slowly spinning hardwood fan on the desk more of an affection than a necessity, doing little more than stirring the haze from Mr. Cordova's expensive Havana.

Despite all that, Larry Sandhurst was sweating - the acrid, thick sweat of anxiety. Surrounded by the trappings of wealth and privilege only increased that anxiety, and he kept folding and unfolding his hands on his lap as he watched Ramón Cordova finishing reading through the leather-bound folder in front of him and push it aside. For a moment, the slender, darkly handsome man stared of into the distance, as if unaware of Larry's presence, then slowly those dark, unrevealing eyes turned to him, narrowing slightly.

"It would seem that I have a distinct advantage here, would it not?" Cordova asked in a polite, lightly accented voice that was consciously modulated and carefully pitched.

Larry swallowed nervously. "Yes, sir."

Tall, thin and gangly, the dark-haired youth was 'awkward' at the best of times - now he felt like a loose collection of bones rattling around in a bag of skin as he awaited the judgment from on high.

"Two hundred and forty-three thousand, nine hundred and seventy one dollars." Cordova said, thoughtfully. "Nearly a quarter or a million dollars - that is what you owe, due to your gambling debt. Is this not correct?"

Larry nodded his head again. "Yes, sir - that's right. Some of the money I owe the bank, and the rest "

Cordova smiled thinly, with appreciation for the irony. "Ah, and therein lies the dilemma, my friend. You are trying to pay back the money - but it would take years for you to come up with the cash. Meanwhile - if you give every cent you can to these 'loan sharks', you will probably go to jail, once the bank finds out about the lies you made to get the loans. On the other hand, if you attempt to pay off just the bank loan... You may not live to face trial for fraud."

Larry's hands clenched into fists at Cordova's slow, methodical examination of his problem. "That's about it, Mr. Cordova, sir." The Cuban-born millionaire leaned forward slightly, interlacing his hands on the surface of the mahogany desk. "Not, quite, Mr.

Sandhurst - the final playing piece of this little game would be; myself. As you have stated, you have heard that I might, perhaps, help you, as I have been known to help other people, from time to time."

Larry's mouth was so dry that he couldn't possibly have spoken - he just bobbed his lowered head, hoping...

...praying...

...and scared silly.

A friend had suggest that Larry go see Cordova - but Larry had already heard about the highly eccentric millionaire, mostly through rumors and second hand stories.

Ramón Cordova had a really twisted sense of humor. Having made his fortune, he indulged himself in everything he could ever want - the expansive, richly appointed mansion, the expensive cars, his own private fleet of aircraft - and the strangest 'hobby' Larry had ever heard of. Ramón Cordova enjoyed making 'wagers'.

It was the nature of those 'wagers' that made him so eccentric. Like some twisted reincarnation of Monty Hall from Let's Make A Deal, Cordova paid people to do the strangest, most bizarre, twisted things. One of the better-known stories was the man who'd been paid a small fortune to speak nothing but Classical Latin for one year straight. If the man had said so much as one word in any other language, he would have lost the money. 'Thankfully', the man had been somewhat of a scholar, educated by the Jesuits, and had managed to last the whole year - despite the obvious problems of speaking in nothing but a dead tongue, which really limited the available social interaction.

So, Larry was understandable a little nervous...

"I will tell you what I shall do." Cordova finally said, nodding his head in decision. "I will help you with your problem, and even give you a chance for more money - if you are willing to fulfill the task I set you."

Larry swallowed, then asked, hesitantly. "Wha.. what would that be?"

Cordova's smile was thin but genuine as he enjoyed a long pause to increase Larry's tension. Finally, he spoke. "Allow me to turn you into a woman."

Larry paused, then asked a decisive, insightful question... "Huh?"

Cordova laughed. "My friend, I have connections to some remarkably skilled people. When I found about some experimental work they had come up with that can do this truly amazing thing, I decided I would like to see it with my own eyes - more, I would like to be involved intimately with every step of the process. So - if you agree to this, you will stay here with me for the time it takes me to do the work. Once it is finished, I will pay you three hundred thousand dollars, then you can be changed back."

Larry was stunned - of all the humiliations he'd worried about being subjected to, this is one that never occurred to him. Without thinking, he blurted out his initial thoughts:

"You must be kidding!"

Cordova's smile dimmed. "I assure you that I am not, Mr. Sandhurst - and this is a limited time offer. So - I give you exactly ten minutes to make up your mind, and then the offer is withdrawn. I will not make you any other offer, either - this is not a negotiation. It is, as you say, a 'take it or leave it' deal."

Everything that made Larry who he was screamed for him to leave it. To be turned into a woman! It was unthinkable!

Except... he was thinking about it. As disgusting as the idea seemed, it offered a way out of his very serious problems - and, it wouldn't be for that long...

Nobody but Cordova and himself would know it was him. It could be his secret - and he'd have the money... But... a woman!

Nine of the ten minutes ticked away as Larry's mind warred between two equally unattractive scenarios. But, as the final seconds counted down, he finally decided.

"I'll do it." He said, quietly, his face flushing. He'd decided that the time spent being made a woman was certainly a far shorter term of humiliation than the pain that could come from either of the other possible outcomes - and more private.

"Good!" Cordova said, his smile blossoming again. "I give you until tomorrow morning to tidy up your affairs, then you must report to here where I will begin work on your body. Just sign this contract, and everything will be legal - and ironclad."

Taking out a document on legal paper, he slid it across the desk to Larry, who glanced at it, skimming over it quickly. He found that it stated the terms that had been agreed to, though couched in legalese, and he signed it and slid it back to Cordova.

Larry rose and headed for the door, already wondering if he'd made a horrible, horrible mistake. If nothing else, accepting the deal gave him time to think - if he changed his mind, he could just not show up in the morning, and be none the worse....

...and no better, either.

Lips compressed, Larry walked out of the house, squinting in the glaring sunlight and wondering just how he'd managed to screw up so badly that he'd come to this.

* * * * *

He was still wondering the next morning, as he entered the cool, dim foyer of the Spanish-style mansion, his body aquiver with nervous energy - and six cups of coffee. The gangling, dark-haired man had barely slept at all, his eyes bloodshot and baggy, as he'd tried to make the final decision...

Indecision, rather the decisive action, had brought back to the house - he hadn't so much decided to do this, as been unable to decide not to. Now, his heart was racing a million miles an hour in a body that was an odd mixture of lethargy from exhaustion and nervous energy.

"Ah, Larry." Cordova said, as he shut the heavy, carved door. "I was not sure whether I would see you again this morning or not." Swallowing, Larry did his best to sound indignant. "Hey, we had an agreement, and so here I am."

So, it wasn't the truth - but why let Cordova know about his failings?

"Good man." Cordova said, nodding. "Now, since we will be quite.. familiar with each other before long, I would suggest that a first- name basis would be more appropriate. You may call me Ramón, and I shall call you Larry for now."

Larry swallowed at the reminder of what was going to happen to him. "Uh... okay "

Ramón gestured. "This way, if you will."

Fighting the urge to turn and run, Larry followed his dusky-skinned host through the stone-floored hallways to the large, well-lit room that had been prepared for what was about to occur.

"This will be the work room." Ramón said, gesturing at the most modern-'decorated' room in the house, clashing with the stately, old- fashion architecture that formed the room itself. Gesturing towards another door, the Cuban expatriate continued. "Through that door is the suite that will be yours while you are staying with me - a bedroom, en-suite bathroom, and doors to both the hall and the courtyard. I trust you'll be comfortable."

"Uh, yeah - that'll be fine.." Larry mumbled. It was a sort of silver lining - the mansion was a far cry from his tiny walk-up apartment. Still, all things considered, he wished he was home right now, instead of here.

"then let us begin." Ramón said, smiling slightly. "If you would be so kind as to undress ?"

Larry did so, hesitantly and awkwardly. He'd never been completely comfortable undressing in front of another man, but that was nothing compared to the way he felt now. the actions might have been the same - but the motivating reasons for him to undress were completely different. He wasn't in a change room or a doctors office - he was getting undressed so that the handsome man watching him strip with a detached expression could change him into a woman...

When Larry was completely naked, he stood nervously, shifting his weight from foot to foot while he tried to decide what to do with his hands. Should he try to cover 'himself'? But that was ridiculous...

...considering that, before this humiliation was over, there'd be nothing there to cover. Well... not what was there now, at any rate...

Ramón ignored his subjects obvious nervousness. "Why don't we begin with the basics?" He said, gesturing to what seemed to be a shower stall. "This is a depilatory chamber. There are tanks of a special chemical blend that will remove your body hair. After that, there will be a fresh-water rinse, followed by another mix that will help soften and smooth your skin, followed by another rinse and an air-dry."

Larry followed the words closely - while struggling not to 'understand' them. he focused on each word itself, to give his mind something else to do, rather than focus on what was happening.

It didn't work very well. He was still scared spitless.

Taking a deep breath, Larry nodded, and let Ramón help him put on the special protective 'mask'. Made of clear plastic with an elasticized edge, the shaped 'bag' hooked under the nose at the front, and at the base of the skull behind, covering his nose, eyes, forehead and hair. Two thin tubes connected to the wall of the stall circulated air through the 'bag', to keep him from suffocating.

Larry felt a burst of claustrophobia as the door to the stall swung shut and sealed against it's rubber seal. The claustrophobia was merely another variation on his fear, the ever-present guest who'd taken up residence ever since he'd agreed to this insane bargain, and he had to fight to...

When the chemical spray turned on, he almost jumped out of his skin from shock. He'd been so busy trying to keep from panicking that he wasn't prepared for the deluge...

..which almost made him panic. Even in his current condition, he had to grin wryly at the irony of it.

Helplessly, he could do nothing but stand there and watch through curves in the distorting mask as the warm liquid washed over his body. That spray lasted for a good twenty minutes, and Larry could actually see his hair falling out under the chemical's effects. By the end of the rinse, there didn't seem to be a hair left on his body, though the distorting nature of the plastic in front of his eyes made it hard to get a good look.

The chemical spray shut off, then there was a short pause before the first rinse-off. After that, the next batch of chemicals rained down on his skin. This time, the experience was less 'unnerving', but more boring, as he couldn't see any changes, the effects not exactly easy to spot through the obscuring plastic.

After the second rinse, warm air gusted through the stall, quickly and efficiently drying his denuded body. As he felt the last of the moisture evaporating, Larry had to admit that careful attention had been paid to the physical comfort of the subject.

He only wished there was some way of making more comfortable for his emotions and intellect, as well.

Finally, the air stopped and Larry pulled off the hood and stepped out through the door that Ramón had opened for him.

"Ah... marvelous." Ramón said, eyeing Larry's hairless body. Larry, himself, was staring at his own arms, bemused. The middling- heavy coat of dark hair that had covered them since puberty was gone, leaving his arms smooth and bare. The second set of chemicals had also made his skin softer and smoother, and he ran his right hand over his left arm in amazement, the hand continuing down his side and over his thigh.

"Holy shit, this is weird..." Larry breathed, struggling to deal with the way his body looked and felt. It was a fairly small change in the over-all scheme of things, but he was amazed at how much of a difference it made to how he looked, felt...

...and 'felt', emotionally. Even as his hand was sliding over the silky-smooth skin, he was shuddering at the thought that the soft flesh he was touching belonged to him. He'd never in his life felt skin so soft and smooth, even on a woman - who still had body hair, though much finer and softer. His skin was even silkier than that, and it was definitely unnerving.

"How are you coping so far?" Ramón asked, politely - probably out of clinical interest rather than compassionate reasons.

"I'm... coping." Larry said, shortly, still trying to sort out the responses he was feeling. He was staring at the reflection of his body in the mirror that made up the far wall of the workroom, amazed - and disquieted - by the visual difference not having body hair made.

"Good, good." Ramón said, nodding to himself. "Then, I believe it is time to introduce you to your new daily routine."
"Daily routine?"

Ramón smiled. "But of course - you will also have to learn to dress and act as a woman does." A shiver ran down Larry's spine. "Hey - that wasn't part of the agreement!"

"Oh, but it was." Ramón protested mildly. "I said, I was going to make you a woman. I did not say I was just going to make you look like a woman."

Larry realized that his hands had rolled into fists, and he was clenching his teeth. This, he thought, was asking too much...!

"You may stop now and walk away if you wish." Ramón suggested. "I can see you did not fully understand the deal. Well, all we have done is remove your body hair - dressed, no one would notice. You can dress now and leave, if that is your wish."

And be right back where he started... With conscious effort, Larry forced himself to relax, taking several deep breaths before speaking. "no, no - I was just... surprised, that's all. I didn't understand. Now... well, 'In for a penny, in for a Pound', I guess."

Ramón's smile blossomed again. "Very well. If you will?" He gestured towards the door to Larry's new room, and Larry walked over and went in, trailed by the dusky man.

"In the closet you will find female clothes in your current size." Ramón explained. "The make-up table is fully stocked, and there is a book that should help you learn how to apply it. You will need to apply make-up every day, and touch it up or change it as required. You may only wear feminine clothing, and you must learn to walk in high heels - I have supplied some shoes with a one-inch heel to get you started."

"Great..." Larry sighed.

"I will leave you to dress." Ramón said, heading for the door to the hallway. "Once you are... presentable... you will find me in my study."

Sighing, Larry closed the door, then turned to survey the room that had been given to him for the duration.

It was definitely 'nice'. Tastefully understated elegance was the theme, running through the entire room from the cherry-wood four- poster bed to the matching make-up table with its swivel-mounted mirror and brass accents. The floor was flagstone, covered by a heavy Indian rug, with muted colors. The walls were a sort of pinkish beige, also muted, offset by the dark wood of the doors and their frames, and the heavy exposed beams overhead.

The problem was - the 'secondary' theme to that elegance was most definitely a feminine decor. The four-poster bed boasted a heavy off-white duvet with lace trimming, with very pale pink sheets below, with matching pillowcases.

Silk, of course.

Above the thick mattress, surmounting the tops of the four tall posts, was a swatch of gauzy white fabric, decidedly feminine in nature, and matching the lace-like clothes covering the cherry-wood bed tables. The entire room was a carefully orchestrated symphony of tasteful, feminine decor that showed elegance and wealth - and, before long, Larry would soon be fitting right in.

With another shudder at the vile thought, Larry steeled himself up for the ordeal that just getting 'ready' was sure to be. As he opened the big walk-in closet, he was sure of one thing...

...this whole humiliating situation had cured him of his gambling addiction for good. Never again would he be able to make a single bet, not with the knowledge that it might start him on the same road that had ended up with him where he was, doing what he was now doing.

Looking through the clothing, Larry found that it was all decidedly feminine - not only wasn't there any 'unisex' clothing in her, there were no 'masculine' inspired articles, leaving only the most feminine finery to choose from. Larry, of course, didn't really have a preference for which female clothes he would wear, but he had no choice - he had to dress like a woman, or forfeit his only way of escaping his dangerous situation. Though he had no real desire to look his 'best', he ground his teeth together and forced himself to choose an outfit that would actually go together, rather than just throwing on 'any old thing'.

As much as he hated what he was going through, he didn't want to screw this up. With a sigh, he began to dress - not enjoying this in the least.

For underwear, he'd chosen the most basic pair of panties he could find - white cotton briefs. Though picked for his measurements, they were definitely not designed for his build. They fit too loose across the hips and ass, and were definitely uncomfortable in the crotch.

Next came the bra - which really set Larry's teeth on edge. It was a simple white cotton training bra, matching the panties. The straps were adjusted for his build - but his mind wasn't adjusted for wearing a bra. Though he had some experience in removing the garment from a willing female, he had no experience in putting one on, and it took some contortions and a fair amount of under-the-breath swearing to get the garment on. Once he'd done so, he felt utterly humiliated by the tight constriction of the bands around his back and over his shoulders, the useless triangles of material at the front resting against his now-smooth chest and covering his nipples.

He felt utterly ridiculous.

With resigned anger, he pulled on the simple summer dress he'd chosen. Beigeish in basic color, its print was a mix of browns, reds and oranges in a floral pattern that definitely didn't match his mood as she pulled the stupid thing on. Like the panties, it might have been his size, but not his shape - the waist was too tight, the bust too loose, and the skirt hung oddly on his skinny hips and ass.

The final article of feminine wear was the shoes - a pair of white pumps with the promised heel. He pulled them on with a grimace, finding that they weren't that hard to stand and walk around in - but the heel altered how it felt to walk and stand, serving as yet another reminder of what he was going through, and once more making him curse himself for ever getting into this mess in the first place.

Having forced himself to dress, he was now faced with an even worse humiliation. Makeup.

With his jaw clenched in shame and self-anger, Larry walked over to the make-up table and slowly sat down, staring in disgust at the reflection in the mirror. Picking up the book on the edge of the table, he began to flip through the well-illustrated instructions, bemused at how many variations of make-up schemes there were, and how much work it could be to 'put his face on'.

Not surprisingly, he chose the 'minimal' look - a faint, nearly invisible shade of lipstick that added just a hint more of a shine to his lips while altering the color a bit to make them more prominent and large. Not that he wanted his lips to look more prominent, of course, but it was either this or face the troubles of his gambling debts.

Next came a hint of blush across his cheeks, which seemed to make them slightly more prominent. Mascara thickened and lengthened his lashes, while eye-shadow emphasized his dark eyes a bit.

Looking in the mirror, he saw... himself in makeup. Which was enough to make him want to gag. Lipstick-clad lips narrowed in shame and humiliation, he decided that it was 'good enough', and rose from the table.

Feeling like a freak of some sort, he walked out of the room and towards the study, paying attention to his stride and balance so that he wouldn't stumble on the uneven flagstones of the floor, his short new heels making that a distinct hazard.

Ramón smiled as Larry entered the room, making a twirling gesture with his finger. Jaw clenched, Larry obeyed, slowly spinning in a circle.

"Not bad for your first day, I should think - but you'll have to pick up on things quickly." Ramón said. "Like what?" Larry tried - and didn't completely succeed at - keeping his tone level and polite.

"You are not wearing jewelry." Ramón said, ticking the points off on his fingers. "You are walking like a man. You have done nothing with your hair. Your speech and mannerisms are masculine, confrontational and inelegant. Plus - you should cultivate a more... appealing persona."

Larry's lips tightened, and he said...

"I'm sorry, Ramón. I'm a little stressed at the moment. I'll try to keep my composure from now on."

The words grated on Larry's nerves as he forced them out, and he didn't quite make the polite, well-modulated tone he was trying for. Ramón, however, was delighted. "Wonderful, wonderful. I'm sure you'll pick everything up splendidly."

"Thank you." Larry said through clenched teeth. His face was burning, and he knew he must be as red as a beet - but as long as he was 'trying', Ramón seemed content to overlook the clenched teeth, humiliated flush and self-angry eyes.

"Well then - I believe it is time to move on to the next step!" Ramón said brightly, enthusiastically - and Larry had to fight down the two separate urges.

One, to wrap his hands around Ramón's neck and throttle the life out of the millionaire. The second - to have somebody do that to him, ending this humiliation.

"But first..." Ramón suggested, brightly. "A toast to the initial steps of our program!"

Larry grimaced as he accepted the champagne flute handed to him by Ramón, taken from behind the desk where it had been hidden. Sighing, Larry toasted his own humiliation and feminizing, downing the bubbly quickly and placing the slightly pinkish-hued flute down on the desk. A second later, Ramón's own, utterly clear, glass joined its slightly tinted mate.

"So.. What is the next step?" Larry asked, with real interest - since it was his being altered, he wanted to know exactly how the procedure worked, what would be done, and the possible risks and effects. He leaned forward so that he could listen closely and follow along, the posture of his body betraying his intense interest as Ramón spoke.

"What we need to do next is begin changing the shape of your body through use of the complex polymer-based synthetics that are nearly identical to human muscle and fat. With the precise use of..."

The lack of sleep, with the alcohol on top of it, must have gotten to him. Larry felt a strange lightheaded feeling for a second, and he blinked...

...to find himself sitting in one of the rich leather chairs, Ramón standing over him with some smelling salts. "Wha.. what happened?" Larry said, feeling slow and muddled.

"I do not know - you simply passed out." Ramón said.

Larry sighed. "I didn't sleep much last night - the champagne must have really hit me."

"Oh, I see." Ramón said, quickly dismissing the whole incident. "Are you ready to continue, then?"

"Yeah." Larry said, positively. "The sooner I get this whole thing over with, the better - let's just get on with it." "As you wish. Back to the workroom, then." The ex-Cuban said with a small smile.

Rising from the chair, Larry rotated his head - his neck felt oddly stiff, the muscles tense. As he followed Ramón to the door, he paused for a second.

"Something wrong, Lori?" Ramón asked, eyeing him oddly.

"Your clock's off." Larry said, pointing to the grandfather clock near the door.

Ramón stepped back a step to get a good look at the clock, then frowned at Larry. "No, Lori - that's the right time. It is twelve seventeen."

"Oh..." Larry said, bemused. "Huh... Guess 'time flies', and all that."

It certainly wasn't important enough to worry about. Making an 'after you' gesture, he followed Ramón back to the workroom. "Now, Lori, as I was explaining before you passed out, the way this works is that..." Ramón started to explain.

"Never mind the technical crap." Larry said, waving a hand dismissively. "Let's just get on with it."

Ramón nodded. "Of course. If you'll stand against the white wall, we will begin the imaging procedure, taking photos of you from all sides so that the computer can create a three-dimensional..."

Larry raised a hand and rubbed his temple - Ramón's techno-babble was giving him a headache. "Look, let's cut to the chase - tell me where to stand and what to do, so we can get on with this. The sooner this is over, the better."

Ramón blinked. "Well, the computer takes some time to 'crunch the numbers', as I believe the expression goes. We will image you now, then tomorrow we can play with the image to get the correct new form for you. The day after..."

"The day after!" Larry explained, horrified.

Literally - at the thought of this taking that long, his heart sped up and he felt weak-kneed, as if in the grip of a full-fledged panic attack. All this time spent being humiliated, degraded, femininized? It was too much. "Look, is there any way we can speed this up and get it over with?"

Ramón looked thoughtful. "Well, theoretically, we could try sculpting everything 'on the fly', as it were - without computer control. It would be incalculably faster - but, then, we run the risk of not knowing how you will turn out. You could end up looking... just about anyway at all."

Larry sighed and rolled his eyes. "Look, Ramón - you seem to forget that I don't care in the least what I'll look like, as a woman. Just being female will be freaky, no matter what I look like. So, let's just do this, without all the time-consuming techno-crap."

"I do not know..." Ramón said, hesitantly. "I am not sure that I am willing to take that risk - I think I would be too worried about making a mistake to do much of the work."

"Fine, fine - then you just tell me what to do, and I'll do the work." Larry said, the answer seemingly blindingly obvious. "Pretend that you're the manager, and I'm the actually employee doing the grunt work. Or, if you prefer, you're the master and I'm the slave."

Ramón made an odd sound and turned his head away quickly. A minute later, he turned back, his face so dead-pan that it was almost scary. "Well, if that's the way you'd like to do it..."

"Yeah, anything to get this over with." Larry said. He was almost hopping from foot to foot with the emotions that the time talking about it was wasting.

"It will also cut down on the time you have to learn feminine actions and..."

"then I'll double-up on my practicing." Larry said, very near the edge of panic at how long this useless discussion was taking - it felt like his heart was going to burst, and he couldn't remember feeling this horribly anxious, exposed and afraid - ever.

"Very well." Ramón acceded, the near panic rapidly fading at those words. "Well, then - I guess we can start right in, no?" "Yes!" Larry said, finally glad to be getting on with this - it was taking way too long. The sooner it was done, the better.

"Then, let us begin with the hair." Ramón said, gesturing towards a machine. "This machine takes a sample of your hair and creates a silk-like synthetic fiber that..."

"Yeah, yeah..." Larry muttered, his head beginning to ache again, causing him to wince at the sudden, sharp burst of pain. "I don't care about that - just tell me what to do."

"Very well." Ramón said. "First, sit down in the chair. You will find a control panel on the end of the arm on your right." Larry did what he was told, lowering himself into the odd-looking chair and looking to the right....

...and finding nothing. He frowned, then considered for a second. Sighing loudly at his own stupidity, he shifted his gaze from the left arm of the chair to the right, looking at the control panel set near his right hand. Sloped at a forty-five degree angle, the control-panel was analog - it contained a dozen or so knobs, switches and button, all different, and all labeled with cryptic notions. Looking at it, Larry's vision seemed to blur, and as he tried to figure out what they did his headache became nearly deadly.

"How do you work this damned thing?" Larry asked, angrily, the pain of his massive headache making him irritable.

"The three knobs at the end - in order from left to right - set hair color, length and diameter. Now, since you have black hair, it is easy to set the color by twisting it all the way to the left. You see, it is graduated in shades from blonde, through brunette, to "

"Yeah, yeah." Larry said, annoyed, cranking it all the way to one side.

"Lori!" Ramón said, reprovingly. "I do not like to berate you - but you did say that you would work on you feminine persona "

Larry sighed, then forced a smile to his lips, tasting the faint flavor of the lipstick he wore. "I'm so sorry. I've got it set - what do I do now, Ramón?"

Ramón nodded. "Now, the second one is for length, and is calibrated in centimeters. To convert centimeters to inches, you "

"Oh, that's all right - I know how." Larry said, sweetly - lying though his teeth. He simply picked a random spot to turn the dial to, taking the time to make it look as if he was actually carefully choosing a hair length by making several small, fine 'adjustments' around the random place on the dial. After all - he couldn't care less what hair length he ended up with, since he could always cut it.

"Very good, my dear." Ramón said. "Now, the third sets the diameter of the hair, or how fine it is. Calibrated in microns, and the average "

"Oh, no need to explain, Ramón." Larry said, hiding his annoyance at the long-winded Cuban's need to explain irrelevant information. Again, he picked a setting at random.

"Well, then - you just sit back and push the big red button." Ramón informed him. Which Larry did.

The hood that formed the top of the machine lowered down over his head. There was a sucking sound as a powerful pump sucked his hair straight on end, and tiny probe-arms grasped his hair, creating a pulling sensation. The arms then set to work, attaching artificial fibers to his short crop of real hair, coloring the fibers, and cutting them. The entire process took about fifteen minutes, while Larry forced a smile to remain on his face as he chafed over how incredibly time-consuming the process was.

Especially since he didn't really want it done in the first place. It was just something he had to put up with. Finally, it was done, and the machine lifted up...

...and an incredible mass of hair spilled down over his face and shoulders. An incredible mass of hair that was silky-fine.

A silky-fine mass of hair that was an incredible shade of bright, platinum blonde.

"Oh, my!" Ramón said, startled. "It looks like you may have made a mistake, Lori. Well... We'll just cut the hair short, and start again..."

No fucking way! Larry thought, hiding the surprise at seeing the massive mane of platinum-blonde hair. With a negligent-looking gesture that was actually very carefully 'acted' to look feminine, he threw his thick, massive mane of hair back over her shoulders and letting it stream over his back, getting it out of his face.

"Oh, no - this is exactly what I had in mind when I set the machine." He lied in (what he hoped was) a convincing way, a self-satisfied smile plastered to his face. "Something... different. From short, dark hair to long, blonde hair. Pretty good, huh?"

"Well, if that's what you want.." Ramón hedged.

"It is." Larry assured him. Of course, it wasn't, and the thought that he'd have to put up with this ridiculous, massive head of hair was humiliating and frustrating - but it was better than wasting time getting it all shorn, then doing the whole procedure over again.

For Larry, Time seemed to be a massive block of lead, tons of heavy metal slowly pressing down on him and threatening to crush him unless he could keep ahead of it. All else became secondary to that task - making this go as fast as was possible, getting it over and done with.

"So, Ramón - what's the next step?" Larry asked, forcing that same semi-smile to remain on his lips. Ramón sighed. "Nothing. We are done for the day."

That huge weight seemed to drop a few inches closer in a heartbeat, and it was a real fight to keep from screaming out an incredulous, angry question. Taking several deep breaths, Larry forced himself to sound polite...

...and 'ladylike'.

"I don't understand, Ramón - why can't we keep working?"

Ramón gestured expressively. "Lori, I did not plan to move this quickly - much of what I need has not been prepared. The next step should be working on altering your feet, but the special molds..."

Yadda yadda yadda. This need to explain everything in detail was eating up precious time.

"Ramón, dear." Larry interrupted as 'sweetly' as he could. "Isn't there some way we could do it? Any way at all?"

Ramón frowned. "We need a mold for your new feet. We could use shoes to set the shape and size of your feet, but we have no shoes that are of a feminine size. The ones in you closet all are for the size feet you know have." He half-laughed, and rummaged under the desk for a second. "Except for these, which a cleaning woman left behind."

'These' were a pair of pink leather pumps, with a six-inch high spike heel. They were small and dainty, obviously designed for a tiny, feminine foot. Larry grimaced, mentally, at the thought of wearing a shoe like that, even in 'his' size, much less using it as a template for his new feet.

Still...

"Well, I don't see why we can't use those." Larry said, 'thoughtfully'.

Ramón seemed almost too incredulous. "But, my dear Lori - they are six inch stilettos. You cannot walk in such! Besides - using them to mold your feet would give you an unnatural arch that would mean you would only be comfortable wearing shoes with similar heels."

Larry had to restrain another grimace, re-considering. No matter how he felt about it, though, it was the quickest way...

"Well, I need to learn to walk in high heels anyway, don't I?" He asked with a forced grin. "If anything, this will provide me with the right motivation."

Ramón shrugged. "Very well. Sit down, and I will inject your feet with the compound..."

Half an hour later, Larry's feet had 'set' inside the dainty, hot-pink shoes, making them fit the interior perfectly. Fighting down the urge to swear, he let Ramón help him up, needing to lean on the dark-skinned man to stay upright. For the next little while, at least, Larry wouldn't be able to walk anywhere unless he was holding tightly to the handsome ex-Cuban.

"Well - that wasn't bad at all." Larry lied, artfully, fighting to keep balance atop feet that were now smaller, and delicately arched upwards inside the shoes that had shaped them. Standing still, he was able to keep his own balance, wobbling slightly...

...for short periods of time. Every now and then, it was necessary to hold onto Ramón for support, though Larry struggled to make it as unobtrusive as possible - a light touch on Ramón's shoulder or arm now and then, occasionally leaning against the man for momentary 'rest'.

"Yes - I can see you are handling it well." Ramón answered.

"I guess we can move on to the next part, then." Larry said, brightly, while burning with shame and humiliations at standing in high heels, stripped to a silky-soft skin, with a massive head of blonde hair tickling shoulders and back.

Ramón cleared his throat, as if embarrassed. "Well, you see, I also do not have the correct items for the next step - molding your hands. Though I have the actual molds for the hands themselves, we need something cylindrical to give natural curvature to your hands, and it should be capable of being warmed to..."

"Perhaps we can find something else?" Larry said, forcing his voice to remain polite and soft. "After all, we did so well with my feet." It really burned him up to say that, but whatever it took to keep the process moving...

"Well, we could take a look around..." Ramón agreed, reluctantly. Ducking behind the worktable again, he came up with a box. "This is all the items the maid left behind when I let her go. I don't know if..."

"Let me have a look.." Larry suggested, 'politely'. Keeping a firm reign on his emotion, he extended a hand gracefully and let Ramón help him walk over to the box, teetering badly on his new heels - and the new feet they contained.

Looking into the box revealed it to be full of odds and ends of a curious nature. For a moment, Larry wondered what sort of woman would have left these behind, much less been a maid working for Ramón - but the question was a time-consuming 'diversion' he wouldn't let himself get into. Pushing aside his curiosity, he looked at the strange assortment of items in the box.

There was only one thing that would serve the purpose, and Larry shuddered. But...

"How about these?" He asked, skin crawling as he lifted the bright-pink, life-sized and realistically-molded dildos from the box. A matched set, the pink plastic phalluses were complete with 'balls', and capped by a black cap at the base.

"Well, yes - I suppose we could at that." Ramón said, sounding almost too startled at the suggestion. "They are hollowed, so we can fill them with warm water. Perhaps we could even.. no, no! I cannot believe I was even thinking it!"

"Thinking what?" Larry pounced on the half-spoken suggestion. "Something to speed up the process?" Ramón waved a hand. "No, no - it was stupid of me."

"Please, tell me. I'd really like to hear it." Larry practically begged - sweetly.

"Well, to save time we could also so your face while your hands are 'setting'. However - we require something to 'separate' your lips when we work on them. I was about to make the monumental error of suggesting..." He shuddered, gesturing at one of the dildo.

Larry shuddered as well, but kept the faint half-smile on his lips. "Yes, well... how long would it take to get the proper item?" Ramón waved a hand dismissively. "Oh, a day or two - certainly no more than three."

That massive block of lead seemed ready to drop. Three days, just for the next step? Larry wanted - needed - for this to be over by then, if not sooner.

"No, no - we'll work around it, and do my face now." He managed to force out, despite the disgusting thought of putting a dildo in his mouth.

"No, it's no good." Ramón argued. "The object used would set the new, natural spacing and curvature of your lips and tongue, and..."

"That's all right - I don't mind." Larry answered, fighting the urge to scream at the Cuban to jest get on with it. "Now, why don't we begin."

"Well, if you insist..."

They set to work, with Larry standing and half-leaning against the wall to help get used to standing with his new feet.

The first thing they did was his hands - but injecting them with the same compound used on his feet, then cramming them into a pair of leather 'gloves' that would re-shape his hands. Each hand was then wrapped around the base of a dildo, to give his hands a defined curve when 'naturally relaxed'. Ramón fretted that the phallic objects weren't quite the right size, but Larry refused to brook any delay.

Next, Ramón injected Larry's lips. Having to force the action, Larry lifted the dildo in his right hand to his face, wincing as he slid the body-temperature plastic cylinder between his lips and held it there.

Ramón went to work on the rest of his face, complaining all the while about having to work 'free-hand'. Larry could feel the changes being made to his face as Ramón pushed and shaped the now-malleable flesh and bone that the special compound had created, as well as being able to feel the odd, disturbing and shameful sensation of his lips slowly 'plumping up', filling out around the dildo in his mouth.

While he was at it, Ramón also made the modifications to Larry's vocal chords, again complaining that he didn't like doing this all so 'casually'.

When the work was finally done, there was nothing for Larry to do but stand there, and wait. Finally, after what seemed an eternity, Ramón let him know that he could remove the dildo from his mouth and could drop both phalluses, which Larry promptly did.

"Please, say something." Ramón said, standing in front of Larry."

"Of course, I..." Larry stated - then had to stop, as a high-pitched soprano slipped from lips that felt swollen and overly-sensitive. "Oh, my - I was aiming for something... not quite so high." Ramón sighed. "Why don't I just reset the voice, and..."

"No, no - this is fine." Larry quickly reassured Ramón, even though the high-pitched little voice grated against his nerves and made him shudder at how feminine and... 'ditzzy' it sounded. "I kind of like the way it sounds."

"Are you sure?" Ramón asked. "It would be easy to reset your voice while I rework your face - I'm afraid I botched it up this try." "Oh?" Larry asked, wondering. "Please, Ramón - help me over to the mirror."

Draping himself over the Cuban, Larry struggled to walk as they made their way to the mirrored wall. The face reflected was... female.

Almost too female. It was just shy of the borderline that would have pushed it over into a caricature of a female face.

The face itself was 'heart-shaped' - a finely pointed chin leading on a smooth angle to high, well-rounded cheekbones, and from there to a smooth brow.

That face supported a set of features that were so eerily 'perfect' as to be almost unbelievable. Her lips... her new lips were incredibly full and softly firm, in the classic 'bow-shape'. Above those full lips was a tiny snub of a nose, with a pert upturn at the end that was incredibly cute.

Flanking the finely curved bridge of that nose was a pair of huge, dark eyes, framed by long, dark lashes. Her eyebrows were small and curved on an upward arch, the left one partly obscured by the massive mane of platinum-blond hair that spilled from her head in thick waves.

In fact - the new face Larry boasted looked like somebody had taken a photo, of Marilyn Monroe, then morphed it to 'idealize' it.

'My god! What has he done to me!' The thought ran through Larry's head as he stared at the beautiful, sexy, cute face staring back at him in the mirror.

What he said, in the high-pitched new voice, was:

"Wow - it looks great!"

"I does?" Ramón asked.

"Sure - I love the way it looks!" Larry lied as best he could, even going so far as to blow a kiss at the reflection before him - anything, to keep Ramón from starting all over again, and wasting more precious time. "So - what's the next step...?"

* * * * *

Twelve hours later, Lori approached the mirror, shuddering inside, but playing the role of 'anxiously excited woman' for the audience of one.

For the past twelve hours, Larry had endured one humiliation after another, as a direct result of his need to keep things moving. When Ramón had warned him about doing things free-hand, Larry hadn't realized how inexperienced the Cuban expatriate really was - he seemed to have screwed up every single thing he'd done.

But - the upside of it had been that five days worth of work had been completed in one day... well, two, since it was now three-thirty in the morning, and technically the next day. Still, things had gone quickly, if not all that well.

The downside, of course, was the utter humiliation that Larry had been forced to endure, the shameful - and sometimes 'sickening' things he'd submitted to in the name of expediency. Worst of all was the simple fact of what was being done to him - weather 'poorly'; done or not, quickly or not, he was being transformed into a woman.

Or, rather - he'd been transformed into a woman. For, approaching the mirror, the person who had once been Larry Sandurst was no longer in any way the person who had once existed, physically. With the last of the work done, the person approaching the mirror was Lori Lipinski, the name they'd agreed on for the new feminine for that she was to wear until this ordeal was over.

It hadn't really been agreed, of course - Ramón had suggested that it might be easier to develop a female persona if she had a 'role' to play, and had started making hesitant suggestions - and Larry had agreed immediately to all of them, just to keep things moving. So, now, she was trying to keep things straight in her mind to get the role down pat, while having to deal with the disgust, humiliation, and inward-directed hate and anger for what she'd let Ramón do to her, with her 'permission'.

Reaching the mirror, Lori took a deep breath, and looked herself over, starting at the bottom and working her way up.

Her tiny, curved new feet were now clad in a pair of black leather pumps with a six-inch gold-tone stiletto heel and a 'cute' ankle strap with a golden buckle, purchased by Ramón while she'd been sitting for an hour and a half in one of the machine. Rising from the tops of those shoes was her legs - a pair of incredibly shapely, attractive female legs, smooth and silky, clad in the sheer black fabric of the thigh-high nylons she wore, with seams running up the back.

Those nylon-clad monuments to feminine appendages disappeared under the hem of the skirt she wore - an expensive, form-fitting skirt that clung to her wide, womanly hips and mouth-watering teardrop-shaped ass. The front of the black skirt was smooth over her crotch, now that the final step had been performed. Behind the lacy beige panties that lay under the skirt was a perfectly-formed vagina, formed into its shape by one of the dildos they'd used earlier.

The waistband of the skirt was snug around the almost ridiculously tiny waist her new figure 'boasted', thanks to another screw-up from Ramón. The tiny diameter of her wasp-waist was further emphasized by the pair of enormous tits that strained at the fabric of her gold-colored, lace-trimmed, silk blouse. Beneath the fine blouse lurked a massive beige bra, its massive GGG-cup design barely managing to contain her incredibly huge, firm tits with their large, thick nipples. The weight of her massive new endowments exacerbated the balance problem she had atop her new feet and the heels they wore, and she was leaning almost constantly against Ramón, finding 'feminine' excuses to make it look more natural for her persona.

Above the collar of her blouse was a slender, swan-like neck that led up to her stunning face, now carefully made up to emphasize features that barely needed it. A fine gold necklace lay around her slender neck, matched by gold-and-diamond earrings through her smaller, now-pierced ears. Her hair had been carefully styled and flowed around her face and shoulders in a pale golden waterfall, further emphasizing her almost unreal face.

She wanted to say something unpleasant about her new figure - but didn't dare. Instead, she concentrated on keeping 'in character' as best she could, though managing the 'perky' aspects that Lori was supposed to have would be nearly impossible, all things considered. Still, she'd try her best - so that she could get this horrifying, humiliating experience over with, collect her money, and get back to being...

"Lori?" Ramón said, breaking into the new woman's thoughts.

"Yes, Ramón?" Lori said, forcing her gloss-pink lips into what she hoped was an authentic looking smile.

"Now that we're done the physical work, I think there's something we need to discuss." Ramón said, unusually serious. "Please, let us retire to the study."

Taking the dusky man's arm, the tall new Blonde with the enormous tits let herself be led to the study and settled into one of the deep, comfortable armchairs, while Ramón sat down across the desk from her and pulled out the piece of paper she'd signed - as Larry - before this whole thing had started.

"Lori - there's something I haven't told you..." He started - and the tone of his voice sent shivers down her newly reshaped spine.

"I made all my money by gambling - wagers of the like you wouldn't believe." Ramón said. "In fact, I have recently made a bet with two other wealthy men - men much wealthier than I, in fact. The amount we wagered was enormous. For them, it represented about half of their enormous fortunes. For me, it is... everything."

He paused, and Lori - heart running wild - prompted him. "What... what does this have to do with me?" Ramón looked ashamed. "The wager was to see... who could create the most perfect 'bimbo'."

Lori's eyes widened, and her jaw dropped. "What?!"

Ramón was now blushing, and couldn't meet the new woman's eyes. "The rules of the bet were fairly simple. We would create the most perfect 'bimbo', but we were not allowed to coerce a woman in any way - she had to agree, willingly, to everything we did to them."

"And... I'm supposed to be your 'bimbo'?" Lori demanded, incredulous.

Ramón's flush deepened. "The rules assumed that we'd start with a woman - so I got around some of them by starting with you. You see... I drugged to, so you would be more 'agreeable', and so I could... 'overdo' your body."

"Why you little..." Lori snarled, her high-pitched voice robbing her tone of much of its threat.

"Wait - hear me out." Ramón pleaded. "Now that you are fully female, the rules apply to you, with no loop holes - so I cannot force you to do anything. This decision must be of your own free will. If you wish, you may take the three-hundred-thousand that we agreed upon, and leave now."

"Damn straight." Lori said, furious, humiliated and disgusted. "Give me my money, change me back, and I'm outta here." "Well..." Ramón said, eyes downcast. "You see... the agreement you signed never said anything about changing you back." "What!" Lori shouted, rising to her feet - and nearly toppling over. She grabbed the edge of the desk.

"I'm sorry - I really am." Ramón apologized. "First of all - no more work can be done on your body for at least a month - to do anything more before then would be very dangerous. As it was, I pushed the edge of the safety period to get you done this quickly. The 'test' of the wager is tomorrow night, and if I lose, then I could not afford to change you back."

Lori's big, dark eyes became as threatening as they could, all things considered. "Are you trying to tell me I'm stuck like this?" She said, dangerously.

"No, no!" Ramón protested. "That would be 'coercing' you to do this, and I'm not allowed to do that. I can give you the name of the person who developed this biomedical technology, and he can change you back, in a month but it will cost about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars."

Lori slumped back into the chair, seeing what Ramón had done.

Regardless of what she did, there would be the month that she spent as a woman - as this woman. So, that didn't count as coercion, since it was simply a medical necessity that couldn't be changed.

The money the reason Ramón had upped the offer to three-hundred grand had been so that it was exactly double the amount of getting changed back - so, that became a fifty-fifty balance, an even decision on her part, without 'weight' that could be coercion. If she accepted the money and left now, then used it to get changed back, she wouldn't be able to wipe away her debts, as she'd wanted - but she'd be better off by a hundred and fifty grand, which would go a hell of a way to doing so, and give her a running chance to get the rest of the money. She'd still be in a risky situation - but in a better one than before this had all started, so that it wasn't only 'forcing' her to do anything, but was actually improving her situation and giving her an easier reason to opt out. From a certain point of view, Ramón was being almost over-reasonable.

From the other point of view, however....

"You bastard..." Lori said, bitterly. "You lying little "

"I never lied to you!" Ramón protested, suddenly affronted. "Never, in any of my bets, have I lied or cheated. I have withheld information, true. And I have found ways around restrictions, as I did by starting with a man for this bet - but that is not cheating, merely cunning. Even the others will agree it's fair, as I found a fair, if devious, way to make the rules work in my favor. I said I would pay you to let me turn you into a woman, and that is what will happen - any way you choose, I will pay you the money I owe you. The fact that it is not as much money as you might have hoped, at the end, does not change anything. If I'd offered you half from the very beginning, and never brought up this other wager, would you have taken it?"

Ouch - he had her there. She was desperate for the money, and nobody else had helped her at all. She would have taken half over nothing.

"Okay - so I can take the money and just leave, right?" Larry said. "I can take the cash and "

Then it struck her.

What would she do for a month? As a woman, she couldn't claim to be Larry Sandhurst - nobody would believe her. She might be able to use her apartment, since she had the keys... but, if somebody where to call the cops, there could be trouble. She wouldn't dare drive, since she had no valid ID. She would be a non-person, while suffering the humiliation of being a huge-breasted woman for that one-month minimum.

"So, let me sum this up." She said, angrily. "I can spend a month as a woman, with no identification or history, then get changed back with enough money to pay off slightly more than half my debt - and hope like hell I can pay off the rest before something bad happens to me. Or, I can be your 'bimbo' for one night, spend a month as a woman in the safety of this house, then get changed back into a man and have enough money to pay off all my debts, and still have some left over."

"Yes, that's right." Ramón nodded. "A perfectly balanced choice, with only your own personal view of which is the worse scenario to guide you into deciding. No extra pressure from me to go one way or the other - in each case, there are good and bad points, the way of all decisions in life."

Lori wanted to kill the millionaire right then and there, for all that she'd already been put through, as well as for the decision she now faced. Nevertheless, she could also see that he'd been extraordinarily careful to never actually lie to her, or attempt to directly 'cheat' her - if she'd bothered to read the legal document over more carefully, she could have found out that there was no agreement in place to change her back. Her own desperate 'greed' had led her to this direct situation, just as her own gambling problem had led her to Ramón Cordova in the first place. She could hate him for putting her in this position - but the only one she could blame was herself.

"What... what would I have to do, tomorrow, for you to win the bet?" She asked, grudgingly, hating herself for even considering that option.

"The entire house used for the evening is wired with surveillance - there would be no chance for you to break character, at any time." Ramón said, haltingly. "Sooner or later, you would... we would have to.. um.."

Lori knew what he meant - and flushed, shuddering in disgust.

But... a thought had occurred to her, and she couldn't get it out of her 'pretty little head'.

"Uh..." She said, loathing herself, but unable to refrain. "You know... it's kinda... customary... I mean, with bimbos and all... to.. um.." "Yes?" Ramón asked, having no idea where this was going.

"Gifts." She blurted out. "Expensive jewelry. An expensive convertible, like a Porsche, maybe. Perhaps... even an upscale apartment in town..."

Ramón blinked. "Well, yes I suppose that's... in character for a bimbo, to get gifts like that from a rich boyfriend. And since you brought it up without me saying anything... Yes, yes that would be allowed. I couldn't make any specific guarantees, of course, since this isn't any sort of legal contract to gain your agreement - but I'd definitely be giving my 'bimbo girlfriend' some sort of gifts..."

He trailed off and waited, his face wavering between hope and despair.

If she did this... nobody but her and Ramón would know the truth. She'd walk away, debt-free, fifty grand to the good - and with some gifts she could sell for even more money. Maybe even a nice new apartment. She could live... quite well.

If she was willingly to spend one day as a complete and utter bimbo, acting just the way her body looked - and having sex with the man in front of her.

So quietly that Ramón strained to hear it, Lori said. "I.. I'll do it."

* * * * *

She slept very poorly that night, tossing and turned, moaning in her sleep as nightmares assaulted her, though she didn't have any clear recollection of the actual images that assaulted her while she slept.

* * * * *

Lori's heart - one of the few unchanged things about her - was beating a million miles a minute as she stepped out of the limo, hanging on to Ramón's arm for more then just physical support as she fought to maintain as natural-looking a smile as she could. Slowly - mainly to help her maintain her balance - they started towards the door of the house, and she had to fight the urge to turn and run.

With the setting sun reflecting off of her, she seemed to shimmer and glow like an ethereal vision. She was dressed in shades of gold and black, highlighting the slight golden tan of her skin and the platinum-gold of her hair. A pair of gold-and-black open-toed pumps with the gold-toned six-inch stiletto heel graced her tiny feet. Black nylons encased her fabulous legs, a fine filigreed pattern running up the outside of each leg, with threads of gold interwoven with the black lace. The nylons led the eye up to the dress she wore - a gold-colored backless dress made of crushed velvet, the top half little more the gradually narrowing strips of the soft fabric that crossed her breasts and tied at the nape of her swan-like neck, revealing much of her massive breasts and an awe-inspiring amount of golden cleavage. The skirt of the dress barely covered the tops of her thigh-high nylons, and her arms were bare - all in all, Lori felt as if she were naked.

The jewelry she wore was more then 'gold-colored' - it was 24-karat gold, from the necklace draped around her neck, with it's diamond pendant that seemed to pint directly to the chasm of her cleavage, to the finely detailed 'chain link' earrings dangling from her tiny lobes, the center of each 'link' holding a small, perfectly-formed diamond. A gold watch on a black leather band graced her slender wrist.

Her hair was piled high on her head, before cascading down her back in a mass of platinum-blonde curls, a style that had taken her hours to get right, and emphasized her face, and it's artfully-applied make-up. Everything was designed to draw attention to herself, and that was the last thing she wanted, no matter what she was 'supposed' to feel - she'd be happier to jump into a hole and pull it in after her, leaving her alone and unseen.

In short - as her incredible figure jiggled and swayed in a sensual stride towards the house where she was going to be acting like a perfect bimbo, she was having considerably more then 'second thoughts'.

The they stepped through the mahogany-brass-and-glass door into the tastefully decorated foyer, and it was too late to turn back. Since they were the last of the three couples to arrive, he 'butler' left the house, closing the door behind him. It sounded like a bank-vault being slammed shut as it quietly clicked closed behind Lori's delectable new ass.

She couldn't even say something to Ramón about all this - they were now under constant surveillance, and she was 'stuck' in the role...

...or risked losing Ramón's bet for him, and condemning him to poverty while she ended up in the second situation, which was what she was trying to avoid.

She just wondered if the price was too high.

Forcing herself to act the role, she pushed her lush new body more firmly against Ramón's side and looked around with simulated awe.

"Gee, honey - this place is really something!" She said, forcing her high-pitched voice to sound perky, if not overly intelligent. "It musta cost a fortune!"

Nobody except her would ever know how much it took out of her to manage that bright, dumb voice.

"Yes, I suppose it did cost quite a bit, Lori." Ramón agreed, 'indulgently'. "Come, I am sure the others are already waiting for us. You took quite a while to get ready, my dear."

Leaning on the handsome Cuban, Lori let herself be lead towards the parlor, fighting down incipient panic by focusing solely on getting her walk down right - a sexy little stride with short, 'heel-to-toe' steps that caused her hips to swivel and sway and her huge tits to jiggle and bounce.

They entered the parlor, and Lori struggled to keep a smile fixed to her face as she was introduced around.

The first 'other' millionaire was a man by the name of Robert - a tall, almost painfully thin blond with a faint German accent and steely- blue eyes that seemed to dissect her, rather than look at her. Hanging on his arm was a tall, slender blonde woman name Carrie, with a stronger Germanic accent, whose triple 'D' cup tits would have seemed big to Lori, before she'd developed the massive endowments now thrust roundly from her chest, straining at the dress.

The other man was Donald, a slightly pudgy and completely forgettable-looking man with medium brown hair and eyes. The woman hanging off his arm was also a blonde, but obviously of the 'bottle' variety - it was an incredibly brassy shade with black roots. Her eyes were a bright, sparkling blue that looked like she'd never entertained a thought in her life, and she giggled frequently. Her body was somewhere between Lori's and Carrie's, with breasts almost as big as Lori's own monsters, but her body not quite as hour-glass. Her face, while cute and definitely perky, lacked the elements of classical beauty that Lori possessed.

Her name - or at least the one she was using - was 'Bambi'.

Though Lori definitely possessed the most 'bimboish' body of the three, it was only by a small margin over 'Bambi' - and, with the girls perky, brain-dead personality, Bambi was the greatest competition for Lori.

Of course, the thought that she'd have to 'out-bimbo' Bambi was less than reassuring.

"So, what do you ladies do for a living?" Robert asked. "Carrie, hear, is a swimsuit model."

"Oh, gee..." Bambi said, with a giggle. "That's neat. I work as a... whatchamacallit. The classy name for a stripper..." "Exotic dancer?" Ramón supplied, dryly.

"yeah! That's it!" Bambi giggled. "I keep forgetting it."

"Lori?" Donald prompted, smiling down at Bambi - well, her cleavage, at any rate.

Lori put her most brain-dead expression on her face. "Me? Oh, I don't really, you know, work. I just kinda.. hang out, y'know? At nightclubs, mostly - I just love the wet-T-shirt contests." She took a deep breath and pulled her shoulders back, and her tits threatened to burst from her skimpy clothing. "these babies win a lot. I guess guys like them."

Then, she did perhaps the bravest thing she'd ever done, the thing that took more willpower than she thought she had. Smiling, she looked Donald straight in the eye - then grabbed his free hand and pulled it against her massive tit.

"Do you like them?" She asked, artlessly.

Donald coughed, withdrawing his hand - slowly. "Well, um.. they're quite nice..." "Oh..." Lori pouted. "Just 'nice'?"

"They're stupendous, my dear." Ramón 'assured' her.

Screwing up all her courage, Lori pressed herself against Ramón. "that's why I like you, honey." She breathed, perkily - then pressed her full, firm lips against his.

Trying to 'forget' that she was kissing a man, she pretended that it was Bambi she was kissing, working to put all the 'oomph' she could muster into it.

Ramón responded, enthusiastically. They kissed, deeply and passionately, in a kiss that went on...

...and on...

...and on...

Robert cleared his throat, noisily.

"Oh, jeez, sorry." Lori said, breaking the kiss, and struggling to keep her tone light and perky. "Sometimes, when I'm kissing, I just forget everything..."

It wasn't easy to keep that tone. 'Flustered' would describe how she felt - if you were the type of person who described the Grand canyon as 'a little ditch'.

Some of the emotion came from the fact she'd just kissed a man - a nine-point-five on her own personal Richter scale. Running right off the charts, though was the fact that, physically...

...she'd actually enjoyed it. It had felt good to have her full, firm lips pressed against Ramón's lips. To have his tongue and hers intertwined. Though it was utterly disgusting, emotionally, the sensation had been very, very pleasant - and it scared the hell out of her.

She'd never even considered the possibility that being female could feel good - and it opened up a whole new dimension to what was happening to her. Intellectually, she could understand it - women felt pleasure, she knew that. It had just, somehow, escaped her mind that she could also find aspects of being female physically enjoyable.

"Well, now that we're all introduced," Robert suggested. "Why don't we go into the dining room - we wouldn't want out dinners to get cold, would we?"

There was general acclamation on the subject, and the sextet headed into the wood-paneled dining room, finding seats around the table.

Ramón held Lori's seat for her, and the instant he'd seated himself next to her, she snuggled up to him - strictly for appearances, of course.

She was again amazed to discover how nice it felt to have her body pressed up against his firm, lithe body. This was definitely a new and distracting idea for her, having to deal with the disparity between physical pleasure and emotional pain - and the better something 'feminine' felt, physically, the worse it felt, emotionally.

Oddly enough, it sort of helped her. Since she was playing the role of a bimbo, the most 'feminine' type of woman (from her point of view), the less she wanted to do something, the more likely it was that it was exactly what she 'should' be doing.

So, gritting her teeth behind her smile, she forced herself to do the things that she least wanted to do. As they ate dinner and made small talk, she hardly ever had her hands off of Ramón, constantly making suggestive comments, as well as constantly posing her body to show it if, not just to Ramón, but to the other men as well.

When what she really wanted to do was wear something so bulky and unflattering that it wouldn't have been possible to determine her gender. Which, given her outrageous figure, was patently impossible.

Finally, the meal was done - and Lori was a bit surprised to realize that she couldn't recall what she'd eaten, so wrapped up as she had been in getting through the ordeal. It had taken most of her willpower to go ahead and do all those things she loathed, and she kept telling herself that she had to just keep on doing it, setting her sights on getting through dinner.

Dinner was now over, and Lori realized that it wasn't the end of anything, but merely the beginning of the next step, as they 'retired' to the parlor for after-dinner drinks...

...and some serious fondling and kissing, as each of the 'bimbos' climbed onto their man's laps and draped themselves all over them, letting the men's hands wander over their lush bodies.

Lori wanted to die as she cuddled up in Ramón's lap and felt his strong hand glide up her nylon-clad leg while she nibbled at his neck. The 'good' part of that was the fact that, her face buried in the crook of his neck, nobody could see the tortured expression in her eyes.

The worst part - was feeling Ramón's cock stir to life under her thigh as he rapidly became aroused. Created by him or not, there was a hugely-endowed and apparently very 'willing' woman on his lap, fondling and nuzzling him 'enthusiastically' and his body responded in a completely natural way...

...making Lori want to vomit. Instead, she redoubled her efforts.

She was determined - she'd already gone this far, and she wasn't going to back down. She had to win this 'Contest of the Bimbos', no matter what it cost her, emotionally.

Besides... it felt kind of... good.

It ranked her to admit it, even to herself - but the feel of Ramón's hands roaming her soft, supple flesh was pleasurable indeed, and when she pressed herself more firmly against his masculine body, huge tits thrust against his chest, it was a shameful action that was only half 'planned' - the other half of the action came for the disgusting fact that it felt better to her that way, and she'd done it to increase the awful, disgusting, wonderful pleasure she was getting from 'playing' with a man.

Lori was horrified to discover that she was rapidly becoming aroused. A low warmth was building deep inside of her, and her nipples were so fully swollen that they were almost painful.

'Oh, God!' She thought to herself as she kissed him passionately, tongues dancing. 'Why am I enjoying this so damned much? It feels really, really good - but it's sick and perverted...'

'...isn't it?'

The fact that she was no longer absolutely sure should have been terrifying for Lori...

...yet, it was only 'disquieting'. It was as if something inside her was slowly eroding, as if her resistance to her new gender was slowly fading - as if she was beginning to accept that all the things that would have been wrong as a man would now be all right - more than 'all right' - in her new form...

...she shivered slightly, even as she continued to kiss Ramón, feeling his hands cupping her full ass cheeks. Confusion was swirling with pleasure in her mind, leaving her little time to reflect on everything - all she knew is that she seemed to be falling down a steep incline, her sense of 'masculinity' slipping away at a faster and faster rate as she absorbed more and more of the pleasures that her new body could bring.

It was with genuine reluctance that she finally broke the long, passionate embrace they'd been in, and from deep inside came a pang of her masculine ego as she wondered why she regretted it so much... but it couldn't stop her from feeling what she was feeling.

Including the fact that the feel of a very large, erect cock against her thigh was driving her nut, that large, warm organ separated from her bare flesh only by thin layers of cloth. She found herself thinking about that cock, and what she could be doing with it - after all, weren't her hands, mouth and cunt all - literally - formed to embrace just that object...?

A moment of clarity rang through her, and she found herself thinking 'Oh, shit! I'm losing myself!'

That's what it felt like - as if there were two separate people inhabiting the same, luscious body. One of them was the male persona, Larry, that had lived his entire life as a man until being transformed into a woman. the other persona was Lori - who, from a certain point of view, had lived her entire life as a female, and was beginning to not only accept, but enjoy her body and gender.

Something was wrong. Lori knew, deep down, that this shouldn't be happening this way - she shouldn't be accepting things so quickly and easily. Intellectually, she knew she would be utterly disgusted by what was going on, if she were still the same person she had always been - she could remember how she'd felt, then, and knew how she should be reacting.

Her emotions, though - 'Lori' seemed to hold almost all the emotions already, as if she'd claimed them in the divorce of Larry's masculinity from his body. Now, she realized, she was slowly gaining ground on the 'intellectual' side, as well 0 though not as much, because she didn't seem to care at all about most of the intellect. She just wanted to keep doing what felt good, and stop worrying so much about things. Thinking was becoming harder and harder as she sank towards living 'in the moment', enjoying the physical pleasures without any worries about how she 'should' be feeling about them.

In any other situation, Lori would have 'backed away' from the situation, taking the time to battle out the divided thoughts and urges in her mind - but, right now, her male side was being forced to act in the exact manner her female side wanted to, and to take the battle in hand would have meant losing the best chance she'd have of returning to her male form. It was a catch twenty-two situation, leaving her in the untenable position of having to choose what to do:

She could give in to her female desires and urges, hoping she had enough strength after this was all over to pull herself back from the edge of losing her 'real' persona, or,

She could take firm control over her wayward emotions and urges, refusing to give into them - and end up spending the month as a woman with no identity or history, trying her best to make things come out once she was finally male again, with the threat of prison or death looming over her while she - who would be he - struggled to pay back his debts.

She wanted, desperately, to have time to consider, to choose what the best route for her, in the long run, would be...

...when she noticed the other couples, arm in arm, were heading for the bedrooms assigned to them for the night.

In that instant, without even thinking about it, she made her decision, by smiling at Ramón and pulling him to his feet, cuddling up against him as they headed towards their bedroom. It hadn't been a conscious action, on Lori's part - she'd just responded to what the others were doing, unwilling to lose by default while she was still trying to decide - and, in that indecision, she made her choice.

'Why am I doing this?' Lori asked herself, even as she led Ramón into the bedroom, smiling seductively - if vapidly - at him. 'Why am I so accepting of what's happening to me? Why aren't I fighting it, the way I should be?'

Somehow, the questions couldn't arouse the emotions that would have given her the fire to answer them, and she realized that the reason for that was that she was too busy feeling other things...

...like 'incredibly horny'. At that moment she wanted to do this - she wanted to embrace her new gender and just let herself go, losing herself in the pleasure of what she was doing.

So - that's what she did.

Still smiling - no longer needing to force that smile to her full lips - she kissed Ramón quickly, but passionately, shivering in pleasure as she felt his hands on her body, caressing her firm, full ass. She was still smiling as she reached behind her neck and undid the bow at the nape of her neck, letting the dress slide down her body to form a golden puddle around her high heels.

"I am sooooo horny, Ramón..." She said, in a high, breathy voice, her eyes blank and empty as her body was consumed with arousal. Her dainty hands came up and began to caress her huge, firm tits. "Please... touch me..."

Ramón didn't need any more urging. His hands came up and began to fondle her huge endowments, paying special attention to her massive, fully engorged nipples. Lori's eyes closed and her head lolled back as she moaned in pleasure... but her hands reached out and found Ramón's body, and her slender fingers began to undo buttons and zippers, eager to get at the masculine flesh behind it.

'This isn't right!' Part of Lori's mind protested as she absorbed the pleasure of Ramón's touch - but that voice was ignored by the part of her mind that was running her body, the part of her mind that was no longer thinking about anything as complex as right or wrong, focused solely on 'feeling good'.

She had Ramón's shirt off now, and she pressed her lush body against his, feeling the warmth of his flesh through her own, her huge tits crushed oh-so-wonderfully against his broad chest.

Then, slowly, she began to sink to her knees, her hands going for his pants as her vapid smile widened at the thought of filling her mouth with...

'No!' That small voice in her mind screamed. 'No, I've changed my mind! I don't want to do this!'

For a second, Lori's mile faltered and she blinked, trying to focus on that small voice. She understood the words themselves, but what the words meant just wouldn't gel...

...then she mentally shrugged, and her smile grew again as her slender finger sent Ramón's pants and underwear down to his ankles. She actually cooed in pleasure as his cock sprang free, throbbing and ready, only inches from her face.

The voice deep inside was shouting at her, but she didn't bother to listen as she slid her full, soft lips down over the warm, delicious shaft, loving the way it felt - after all, weren't her lips designed to fit just this shape?

So were her hands. Wrapping her hand around the base of Ramón's cock, she began to slurp nosily at the wonderful organ filling her mouth, licking the head of the cock as her own head bobbed back and forth, lips sliding up and down the wonderful piece of man-meat.

If it weren't for the annoying voice in the back of her mind that she was ignoring, she would have been in heaven as she licked and slurped away at the cock.

It didn't take long at all before Ramón groaned, and he came like a fire hose, gushing a jet of warm, salty, delicious cum into her mouth. She slurped down every drop, loving the taste and texture of it as if slid down her oh-so-eager throat.

"Mmmmm..." She murmured in delight as she licked the cock clean. "I just love the taste of cum..."

"Do you love getting fucked long and hard just as much?" A voice behind her asked, and Lori turned to see Robert standing behind her, naked, his own cock already hard and ready.

"You know I do, honey..." She cooed, rising to her feet and slowly, sensuously sliding her panties down, one hand caressing her hot, wet cunt. "Fuck me, stud..."

Taking his hand, she led him eagerly to the bed and lay down, spreading her legs and smiling vapidly at him. Swinging a leg over, he positioned himself at her crotch - then bucked his hips, driving his cock deep into her waiting womanhood.

"Oh, yes!" She cried. "Fuck me, honey - fuck me long and hard!"

She began to move her own hips in time to his rhythm as his cock pounded her pussy, creating waves of pleasure that resounded through her so intensely that it nearly drowned out the screaming voice in the back of her mind. It was the most wonderful thing she'd ever felt, and all Lori could think about was fucking and sucking men day and night, to feel as good as she did now, all the time.

Robert was fucking her hard and fast, and her huge tits bounced and swayed as she rocked and writhed in pleasure, shouting out words of encouragement as she rose closer and closer to orgasm...

Then Robert came, his quick, hard thrust pushing him past the edge and sending his cum deep into her sopping cunt.

Even though she hadn't orgasmed, herself, Lori cried out in intense pleasure at having sucked the cum out of his cock, looking as if she were experiencing the most intense orgasm in history despite the 'dissatisfying' feeling of being so close. She didn't care, though - just having a cock in her cunt was more enjoyable than anything she'd ever done, and the occasional orgasm would only be the icing on the cake, if she could just feel that 'fulfilled' sensation of a man's organ in her cunt, again and again..

Panting, Robert rolled off of her, and she smiled at him... then smiled even more widely at the sight of Donald standing behind Robert. "Hey, Lori..." Donald said. "Feel like getting a hard cock deep up your ass, bitch?"

"Oh, yes, please...!" Lori all-but-begged, eyes shining, as she rolled over and rose to her hands and knees to present her spectacular ass to him...

* * * * *

Ramón sipped at the Cuba Libre Robert had poured for him, and waited for Robert's verdict.

The other man made Ramón wait while he built himself a drink, then leaned against the bar and took a long sip before he spoke. "Yes - I think you've nearly got it." Robert said, slowly.

Ramón let out a sigh, half relief, half frustration. "What is it this time?"

Robert held out a hand, placating his 'employee'. "Don't get upset, Ramón - I understand that this is hardly an exact science, and you are definitely improving. When you started with Carl, it was a completely unwilling subject and untested procedures, and so Carrie is only borderline - but the best that could be expected of a prototype. Your second attempt was a good idea, too - after all, Bob was gay to begin with, so Bambi's absolutely incredible when it comes to cock-sucking, and always willing to get ass-fucked..."

"...but she won't let anyone even come near her vagina." Ramón finished, wincing. "God knows I've tried a dozen different times to reprogram her to get around that - but it never works."

"A phobia, I think - stemming from the fact that she was never interested in that as a man." Robert replied, with a shrug. "Still, she makes us good money at Donald's club."

"Obviously, Lori doesn't have that problem - I thought she would have been about perfect." Ramón replied. "So - what is it this time?"

"Actually - nothing." Robert said, with a smile. "We merely need to do one more, for two reasons. The first reason is to verify that the procedure wasn't a fluke..."

"A fluke?" Ramón said, affronted. "I tell you that it will work just as well, every time. We should go directly to the... second phase."

Now Robert's 'friendly' facade slipped, and the powerful entrepreneur showed through. "When you lost all your money in a bad gamble, Ramón, I bailed you out. Completely. I didn't come close, then suggest that it might work itself out, did I?"

Ramón's head lowered. "No. no, you didn't."

Robert nodded in satisfaction, the friendly demeanor returning. "Well then - now we have figured out the system for the actual transformation, I can have my teams start rounding up all the homeless people we can get our hands on. Nobody will miss them, the city itself will be the better for it - and, soon, our little 'entertainment centers' for our wealthy brethren will be turning quite the profit. Especially since we can tailor individual 'girls' to certain client's preferences "

" which will make us very, very rich." Donald said, still tying his bathrobe into place as he came into the room.

Ramón's lips tightened at his 'partners' jocular tone. He was nearly bankrupt again, as it was, this 'program' draining his resources quickly and painfully. He might - might - have enough money to do one more 'test case'. He'd better - he wouldn't see any more income until the girls started 'producing', and even then, he'd only be receiving a small percentage of the profits, while the other two received the lions share.

"What is the second reason for doing a second 'test case' on this 'model'?" Ramón asked, finishing the last of his drink.

"Well, it is actually a two-part reason, my old friend." Robert said with a smile. "A 'final test'. First, we have to make sure that another person can duplicate the work from all your carefully-kept records. You certainly don't want to be doing the hands-on work anymore."

"That's right." Ramón agreed.

"Secondly, we have to make sure that you are right, that it can be used effectively on a person, even if they didn't even give nominal agreement to the procedure. I know, for 'safety' reasons, you 'hoodwinked' Lori for the case - but you have assured us that it will work, no matter how willing - or unwilling - the subject is."

"That's right." Ramón agreed again feeling fuzzy and light headed. He blinked as his vision doubled, everything becoming hazy and indistinct. He tried to say something, but his lips were too thick and heavy, and they wouldn't move...

* * * * *

"Ah I think a sultry Latino will be a wonderful addition to our stable." Robert said, finishing the last of his drink and smiling down at the figure sprawled limply in the chair. "I've made it a habit to eliminate potential interference in my plans before - but this time, Ramona is not only no longer a liability - she will be an asset. A wonderful new system." He laughed. "Besides - why share the profits needlessly?"

His smile faltered, and he blinked. Slowly, comprehension began to sink into eyes that were going dull, and he tried to say something - but, like Ramón, the drug kicked in so quickly that he didn't have a chance, and he slid to the ground, unconscious.

"Why, indeed?" Donald answered, with a half-grin. Walking over to the door, he opened it and allowed his hand-picked team to enter. "That one.." He pointed to Ramón, " is to be a slender, fairly well-endowed 'common'. Mindwipe and basic programming only."

"Yes sir." The leader of the team nodded. "And the other one?"

Donald looked down at Robert's limp form. "Same basic template as Lori - it'll be in the files. Give her the 'nymphomaniac' sex-drive, and suppress her ability to talk about her 'real' past - but leave her basic person intact." His grin became cruel. "Give her one set of clothes, five hundred dollars - and turn her loose."

"Yes sir." The leader of the team replied, neutrally, and he and his men got to work, loading the limp bodies onto stretchers and hauling them away.

Smiling contentedly, Donald headed out of the room, and back to the bedroom where Lori was waiting...

 BACK TO FUN ZONE

Summary: After being shot down, two macho Cuban pilots encounter a UFO and slowly find that their bodies are being transformed..

Deep Cover

By Gunslinger

The bearded man paced up and down in the ornate office, a crumpled sheet of paper in one waving fist. Once voted as 'Cuba's best athlete', his body had softened and spread, and gray shot through his once dark hair and beard, but the revolutionary fire burned brighter than ever in Fidel Castro's dark eyes.

"How dare they?" he raged, his face darkened with anger. "Those yellow bastards DARE to question my commitment?"

His brother Raul watched with disinterest. Calmer and more methodical than his brother, he lacked the personal magnetism that had allowed Fidel to take Cuba as his own, but was Fidel's most trusted - and capable - advisor. He was used to such outbursts from his hot blooded sibling.

"You must admit," Raul said, "that to our Chinese brethren, allowing the Pope to come was a serious breach. A true Marxist denies the existence of any God."

Rather than further enflaming Fidel, it caused his tantrum to cease as a small, wry grin to surface. Both Castros had Catholic upbringing, and had secretly continued their devotions. The Papal visit had been one of the highlights of Fidel's career as 'Benevolent Dictator'.

"A dedicated Marxist also refuses to bow to capitalism" he retorted, referring to China's gross commercialism. "Still, this is an insult that can not be tolerated. We must do something."

The slimmer, clean-shaven Castro nodded. "I thought you might feel that way. I have already made some plans." He pulled a file folder from his leather briefcase.

"I knew you wouldn't let me down." Fidel said, settling into his chair. "Show me."

Raul passed a photograph to his brother. It showed a tall, slender man with crew-cut hair so pale it almost appeared white. He wore the high-tunic uniform of the PVO Strany, the now-defunct Soviet Air Defense Force, roughly equivalent to the American's Air National Guard.

Fidel raised a bushy eyebrow. "So?"

"Dmitri Aleksander Filitov. Previously a Colonel in the Soviet Air Force. He was on an exchange tour here in Cuba when the breakup of the Soviet Union occurred. Moscow immediately released him as they began a drastic downsizing of military forces. Filitov elected to remain, and now holds the same rank in our own Air Force."

Fidel accepted the second picture. This time, the person photographed was Cuban - or mostly so. Tall for a Cuban, his skin was also several shades lighter than most of his Latin countrymen. However, his close cropped hair and small, neat mustache were the lustrous black of most Cubans.

"Miguel Jesus Chavez." Raul recited from memory. "Also a Colonel. His mother was Russian. His knowledge of the language prompted us to assign him as liaison to Col. Filitov. The two have worked quite closely for some time - and quite well, by all accounts."

Fidel nodded. "Since both men are pilots, I assume your plan involves an aircraft of some kind?" he said, mildly sarcastic.

Raul smiled. "Of course. A MiG-17. An older model fighter, it can be fitted with a photographic reconnaissance package. It is also small, and it's handling characteristics are similar to an American business jet, called a... " He looked at the ceiling, dredging up the piece of information. "... Gulfstream."

Fidel's eyes lit up. "Ah, I see. A spy mission of America."

Raul nodded. "Yes. I've personally briefed the two men myself, to get their feelings. They assure me that they can do a covert mission and photograph the American naval installation at Norfolk."

"And then, we send a copy of these photos, quietly, to those old men in Beijing." Fidel smiled. "That should keep them quiet for a while" Raul agreed.

* * * * *

"Gulf One-Seven-Niner, this is ANG on guard, do you copy?"

The pilot of the Air National Guard F-16 checked his radar display as he closed on the blinking lights in the deep, moonless darkness. It was standard procedure that any aircraft entering American airspace be visually identified, and his take-off from Homestead Air Force Base had been routine.

His radio crackled. "ANG, this is One-Seven-Niner, we copy. Go ahead, over."

The reply was laced with a heavy Spanish accent - not surprising, the flight-plan for G-179 originated from Peru. The Guard pilot toggled his IFF, and got the appropriate response from the other aircraft's transponder. According to the radar, the other aircraft was also behaving the way a private jet should be.

His agile Falcon was closing quickly of the blinking nav lights of the other aircraft. In the deep darkness of the moonless night, visual identification would be difficult. But, when it came to telling the difference between a genuine aircraft and a threat, there was one sure way...

"One-Seven-Niner, activate cabin and rudder lights please."

A second later, the night was split by a row of golden light, at the tail of which upward aimed lights illuminate a white tail with the registration code G-179-PR23A. The Guard pilot checked the number off that on his sheet, verifying that it was the same on the flight plan. Satisfied, he began to bank his aircraft for a return to base.

* * * * *

"You are cleared to enter America, One-Seven-Niner. Have a nice flight."

Chavez, in the rear seat, watched the ruddy glow of the F-16 as it banked down and away. He clicked his microphone twice, 'breaking squelch, the international pilot short-form for 'roger'.

"Okay, 'mano, I think you can shut them down." Chavez said.

In the forward cockpit, Filitov clicked a switch. Along the spine of the aircraft, the row of hastily added lights, simulating cabin lights, died into blackness, along with rudder light, illuminating the freshly painted numbers.

With the most dangerous part of entry behind them, the two pilots relaxed a little. They'd decide that Chavez would handle the navigation and radios, while Filitov flew. The assumed - rightly - that a Latin voice would sound less suspicious than a Russian one over the radio.

The small, two-seat MiG - 'Fishbed', in NATO nomenclature - continued northward through the night. Aside from the continuous coverage along the borders, and the sets near commercial airports, few Radar sites dotted the interior of the States, and as they passed into Georgia, they were flying a route that kept them out of the umbrella of radar. The night grew longer and the two men chatted on the intercom - in their individually accented English - to pass the time away.

Despite their disparate backgrounds, the two men had become good friends as well as professional colleagues. Both had grown up in countries forbidding religion, yet each had been raised in a religious background, albeit furtively. Filitov's was Russian Orthodox, Chavez's Roman Catholic, the two often got into surprisingly deep theological debates. The command of the Russian's native tongue - thanks to his mother - meant they shared another bond in common.

But most of all, they were fighter pilots. Part of a select brotherhood in the world, every military aviator, regardless of what uniform they wore, possessed the same types of personalities and training as their counterparts. It had been one of the ironies that during the height Cold War, American and Russian fighter pilots had more in common with - and more respect for - each other than they did for their respective political masters who would decide if they should ever meet in combat.

It was nearing two o'clock in the morning, and the cramped fighter was flying over the Appalachian mountains that divided northern Georgia from Tennessee. It was Filitov who spotted it first - years of training had ingrained him with the habit of searching the skies around him for potential threats. The cluster of lights in the distance, slightly ahead and above their path of flight, caught his eye. The distance was so great, he would have missed it if not for the pitch-black conditions.

"We have a fellow traveler, eleven o'clock high." Filitov keyed over the intercom with a small smile. In the Fifties and Sixties, the phrase 'Fellow Traveler' in America had been a code phrase to identify fellow communists. "What do you make of her?"

Chavez searched the sky until he caught it. He frowned slightly, then fished in his survival vest, coming up with a small pair of field binoculars. He focused them on the other aircraft travelling parallel to them. He keyed the intercom.

"Sergei, something isn't right about this. " He said, concerned. "They're showing several bright lights, like landing lights, yet they're obviously not landing. Also, the nav lights are wrong. They should be red and green - these look orange and blue to me. And I can't figure out the configuration."

Filitov, unable to use his field glasses while flying, frowned, trying to make out more detail. "What do you think it could be, Miguel?"

"I don't know, but... Jesus Christo!" Chavez swore.

Both men were experienced fighter pilots. Trained in aerial combat, they knew what sort of agility and speed the highest-performance fighters in the world possessed. And what they saw now was impossible.

The other aircraft when from miles away, flying parallel, to a closing course towards them. It gave no indication of either a long, flat rudder turn, nor a faster, sharper bank. It just seemed to . . swivel ninety degrees and shoot towards them at a velocity that left both pilots in disbelief. In mere seconds it was flying in close formation, ahead and slightly behind their aircraft.

Chavez was the only one that got a good look at it. It was oblong, about twice the length of their MiG, and wreathed in strobing lights that pulsed around the lower rim. Several blindingly bright white lights shone down from the belly of the . . whatever it was. It seemed to hover behind them, matching their velocity with no noticeable propulsion. Then his view of it vanished as Filitov cranked the fighter into a punishing 5-G turn to starboard, and accelerated into afterburner.

The agile fighter twisted sharply in mid air, and began to peel away from the intruder - then stopped dead in the air. A deep blue glow filled the cockpit, as some sort of beam lanced out of the impossible aircraft, catching the Fishbed in it's grip.

The roaring Tumansky engine screeched into higher registers as systems began to short out in the cockpit. Smoke and sparks filled the air as the engine cut off and began to wind down. Inexorably, the fighter was being drawn towards the belly of the intruder, still sitting in the fifty-degree angle the bank had induced.

For the two men in the helpless fighter, the beam swept through their bodies and was felt deep within. For Chavez, it reminded him of the pins and needles of an arm that fell asleep, but through his entire body. Filitov, however, found himself thinking of the training he'd received in Russia - and a description of what a blast of radiation might feel like passing through the human body.

"Miguel, get ready to punch out!" Filitov screamed as loud as he could, not trusting the intercom. He waited a bare heartbeat, then pressed his body into the ejection seat, reached between his legs, and pulled the handle.

For an endless instant, nothing seemed to happen. Then, the twin canopies blew off in a burst of pyrotechnic glory, and the cold air filled the open cockpit. A split second later, the motors under the two seats ignited, trusting the two men from the aircraft, up and out.

Filitov felt a tremendous jerk as the parachute opened, separating him from the seat. Reaching up, he grabbed the risers, and looked for his co-pilot's chute. Spotting it below and ahead of him, he steered his own chute to follow him down.

Almost immediately, he began to worry. In the pitch black, there was no way to judge how high they were above the ground. He knew it must be rushing towards them, yet impact would come as a complete surprise. They could hit almost anywhere - including somewhere lethal. In a terrible game of Blind Man's Bluff, they were going to have to trust sheer luck.

Filitov, at least, got a second's warning, when he saw Chavez's chute collapse, indicating a landing. Filitov flared the chute, braced his legs, and prepared to perform a parachute landing roll.

Chavez groaned as he lay on the ground. Thanks to a little foresight, he'd taken off his helmet and let it hang to the extant of its air hose. When he'd heard it hit the ground, he'd performed a near text-book landing. The pain he felt was the deep, throbbing ache in his lower back. He'd been slightly out of position when they'd ejected, the thrust compressing his spine in a painful direction. The sudden yank of his chute opening had stretched his spine, creating a minor - but painful - injury. Still, he reflected, he preferred that to what would have happened had the chute NOT opened.

Painfully, he unclipped himself and rose to his feet. As he was gathering up his chute, Filitov appeared, barely visible in the blackness. Uninjured, he was faster than his companion, and had already buried his own parachute. Seeing the way his friend moved, Filitov realized what had happened - that particular injury occurred during more than half the time during ejection.

"Here, let me." he said, bundling up the chute, and dropping it in the same shallow hole under a bush that his own resided in. He piled the soft loam around it.

Chavez pulled his flashlight from his survival vest and snapped it on, turning in a circle. He gave a low whistle. "Man, I tell you, we're a couple of lucky sons of bitches." He breathed in awe.

Filitov stood up. "What do you mean?"

Chavez repeated his circle, revealing their landing site. They'd come down in a small clearing in the foothills. Behind them, sharp crags rose up into the sky, while on the other three sides, dense woods surrounded them. In a phenomenal burst of luck, they'd missed both hazards to land in the meadow, measuring about a hundred yards long, and about a quarter of that wide.

"We'd better get moving, Miguel." Filitov said. "The American's will be looking for us." Chavez blinked. "I doubt it."

"You don't think they'd let witnesses to some sort of top-secret aircraft just walk away, do you?" Filitov asked.

Chavez shook his head. "Sergei, my friend, that was no American aircraft. I got a very good look at it. It was a...UFO."

Filitov stared at his comrade for a minute, his mind churning the idea over. The odd lights, the impossible performance - and that strange beam. He found himself unable to logically dispute his friend's assertion.

"Still, we should find a place to hole up until morning." Filitov said.

Chavez nodded, and the two men, illegal spies in a foreign country, began to carefully pick their way through the woods. Using their lights, they found an odd tree. Short and wide, it was a member of the Weeping Willow family, its foliage laden branches creating a dome that hid a small, clear space near its trunk. Thankfully, they sank to the soft loam of the forest floor and, safe from prying eyes, drifted off to sleep.

* * * * *

Chavez yawned and blinked, his sleep-befogged mind trying to place the dull green illumination around him. The memory of the previous night swept back, and he realized he was seeing the late-morning light through the foliage of the tree.

Carefully, he eased himself upright - and rolled smoothly to his feet as he discovered, in a very pleasant surprise, a complete lack of pain from his back. He moved around the trunk of the tree to wake his Russian compatriot.

As he knelt to shake Filitov awake, he paused, frowning. Something wasn't quite right about his friend. It took him a few seconds to realize what it was.

Filitov's hair was too long.

Last night, his friend's pale hair had been in its usual crew-cut. Now, it was about an inch long, looking like a disreputable haystack from Filitov's 'bed-head'. Reaching up, the Cuban established a similar amount of growth on himself. Still frowning, Chavez shook him awake.

Filitov grunted and opened his eyes. "Good morning, Miguel. I trust you slept well?" he asked sarcastically, as he rubbed a sore shoulder. Some of the various survival equipment on his vest had dug into soft parts of his body while he slept.

"Tell me, Sergei. Do you notice anything odd about me?" Chavez asked.

Filitov frowned at his friend. "What do you mean, odd..." he began, then his eyes widened. "What happened with your hair?" "Our hair, you mean." Chavez replied. "Both of us have longer hair this morning."

The Russian was rubbing his jaw. "Well, more hair on our head, less on our face. Shouldn't we have stubble?" He eyed Chavez as the Latino felt his own smooth jaw. Thankfully, his short, precise mustache appeared to be unaffected.

The two men had no choice but to ignore the odd happenings for the moment - they had things to do. The first order of business was something to eat. Filitov dug a can of Sterno from his vest and lit it, while Chavez mixed water from his canteen into their only two packages of dehydrated food - beef stew for the Cuban, and Chicken Pot Pie for the Russian. It really didn't matter - both were equally unappetizing.

That unpleasant task out of the way, Filitov took out a map, and they tried to locate themselves. From the position of the sun and the mountains, it was quickly obvious they had come down in Tennessee, but the exact location remained a mystery. After discussing it, they decided to strike out north-west, and hope to come upon a road or a stream. If they were lost in the woods for several days, they'd be forced to use their .38 pistols to hunt - a task the small-frame, inaccurate weapon was poorly suited for.

It was just after noon when the two communists set out, following the now-descending sun's path. This time of year meant they had a good eight hour of daylight for movement, and with Chavez's inexplicably painless back, they should make good time.

They took a break two hours later. Not because they were physically tired - both men were in prime shape, and could have walked for hours more. They Stopped to take stock of the continuing changes that were taking place.

Chavez's moustache was gone. Both men's bodies were now completely hairless from the nose down. Their skin had softened as well, become silky smooth. Their hair had continued to grow, now laying in a tangled mass around there slimming shoulders.

But the most worrisome part was their chests - where each pilot now bore two firm, pointed breasts of roughly A-cup measurements.

"Sergei, I don't think we can pretend any longer." Chavez said in a horrified voice, his hands touching, then shying away from, his shrunken manhood.

The Russian's hands - which were becoming more slender, and whose nails were longer - were lightly touching the domes that rode incongruously on his chest.

"You're right, Miguel." He said. "Somehow, that - thing - has done something to us. We're turning into women."

Colonel Miguel Chavez, pride of the Cuban Air Force, and in his mind one of the great Latin lovers, nodded and straightened. "Colonel Filitov," he said in a formal, sober voice, "It has been an honor and a privilege serving with you."

"What..." Filitov's eyes widened in horror. Before he could make any move, Chavez calmly but swiftly removed his survival pistol from its holster, placed the muzzle against his temple - and pulled the trigger.

"NO!" Filitov yelled helplessly as the bullet tore through his friend's head, catapulting a grisly spray of blood and bone from the other side.

Impossibly, the Cuban did not fall. An agonized scream tore from his fuller lips as he dropped the pistol to the ground. Filitov rushed to his friend's side to support him.

"Madres de Dios!" The Cuban cried. "The pain..." Tears rolled down his dusky cheeks.

Filitov had no answer. He was staring in horrid fascination at the terrible wound in his comrade's head. As he watched in disbelief, the gray matter of the brain was slowly pulling itself together as new bone knit rapidly in place to cover the wound.

Within minutes, the dreadful injury had completely healed over, with no trace that it had ever occurred. Chavez slowly sank to the ground as the dreadful pain finally faded away.

"It... it's not possible. . " Filitov stammered. "You should be dead." Not knowing what to say, Filitov sat beside his friend in silence. A few minutes later, the Cuban heaved a tremendous, heart-wrenching sigh, and stood.

"We'd better be on our way." he said dully, and without waiting for a response, began to walk.

* * * * *

The hours passed, and the two men had harder and harder going, due to the changes creeping over their bodies. Chavez remained cold and unresponsive, but Filitov knew that the Cuban must be getting as uncomfortable as he. As they became more feminine, their clothing fit more and more poorly. The worst was their boots - they began to rub their shrinking feet raw, making every step an agony.

The two finally stopped as night began to close in, finding another tree to sleep under. The Cuban rolled on his side and curled up in a fetal position, and began to sob softly.

Filitov, his own arms crossed over his now C-cup breasts, understood completely. It was much the way he felt, as well. Slowly, he drifted off into a fitful slumber

* * * * * When Filitov awoke - alone - the next morning, he felt as if he were being crushed. The changes had completed themselves while he slept, and his new body fit poorly in his now straining flight suit.

He intended to get up like he always did, but for some reason out of his control, the movements he now made were smooth, graceful and elegant. Slowly, he - she - unzipped her flightsuit, and surveyed her new body.

She was tall and slender, with a remarkably slim waist. Thrusting proudly from her chest was a pair of smooth, perfect globes. Her milky breasts were DDD's, with small, nublike nipples atop nearly non-existent areolas.

Taking out the signal mirror from her vest, she surveyed her face. Surrounded by a mass of platinum blonde hair that hung half-way down her smooth back, her face was high cheek-boned and intelligent, with wide, deep blue eyes and gracefully upswept brows. Her nose was smaller, but almost patrician. Despite her large bustline, she came across as elegant, rather than sexy - or, more accurately, she came across as more elegant than sexy, for she was both.

"Miguel?" she called - then stopped at the sound of her rich contralto voice. Taking a breath, she called again. "Over here." Replied an incredibly rich, smoky, erotic voice, and the new female Chavez stepped from the bushes.

Filitov sucked in her breath. Naked, the Cuban was unconsciously standing in a sexy, feminine pose - as was Filitov - but the Cuban's new body pole-vaulted past sexy to mind-boggling.

Her dusky skin was flawless. Her legs were long and sensuously muscled, leading to wide hips and an unbelievable ass. Her waist pinched in before widening to a ribcage that supported immense GG breasts with large, dark nipples. Her face was exotically erotic, with smoldering dark eyes, a pert nose, and amazingly full, soft lips. An incredible mane of midnight black hair fell in waves to the middle of her womanly back.

"Good God!" Filitov gasped, staring. "I know" the Cuban sighed - sexily - with exasperation. "I awoke this morning looking like pure sex. And the worst part is - I'm proud of this body."

Filitov opened her mouth to ask Chavez what she meant - then snapped it closed, as she realized that she was, inexplicably, proud of her own, elegant new form.

"What the hell?" she gasped, stunned.

"I know." The Cuban said, having gone through it already. "I don't know why it is, though."

What neither of them realized was that their male brains simply regarded their new bodies as incredibly gorgeous women - and, a life time of thought patterns they'd built up as men had very specific ideas about how such woman should act, dress and so on. Now, a lifetime of unconsciously chauvinistic thoughts were coming back to haunt the new women.

"Well," Filitov sighed, "I guess we should be on our way. We're not going to make things better by standing around here."

The two women buried their excess survival gear before they left, so as not to be caught with anything to mess up their stories. They dressed only in their undershirts and briefs, which strained mightily over their new endowments, and partially unzipped flightsuits. Being barefoot wasn't a worry - any cuts they received healed immediately, and the brief pain could be ignored. Prepared, the two stacked spies set out. It took half an hour for them to get used to their new way of walking, as well as the sway and bounce of their remarkably full, firm breasts. They now knew why women wore bras - their breasts threatened to burst out and bash them in the face with every step. Other parts of their anatomy were also moving in new and intriguing ways.

"So, I've been thinking." Filitov said after awhile. "I hardly think I can call myself Sergei anymore. If you wouldn't mind, I think you should start calling me 'Alexis' "

Chavez looked at her. "What? Why should I start calling you by that?"

Filitov shrugged. "Well, we're going to have to use new names when we deal with people. I thought it would be a good idea to get used to it now, so when I need to use it, it'll be natural."

Chavez thought it over. "Good idea, Alexis. I suppose you should call me 'Maria'."

The two rechristianed women looked at each other and giggled slightly. Feeling better, they continued on their way.

Three and a half hours later, they hit on a small backroad. Picking a direction at random, they headed to their left down the gravel road, watching for vehicles.

Twenty minutes later, the two women found an access road that led into the woods. No sign of the building that the road serviced was visible - which was the first prerequisite of Alexis and Maria. Silently, they padded up the rutted dirt road to see what lay ahead.

It was a large, well maintained cabin. It looked like nobody was home, but whether the owner was gone for minutes, days or weeks was the question. Keeping alert, the two buxom woman scouted around.

Behind the main building stood a small shed with a overhanging roof that sheltered a stack of firewood and two garbage cans, both long empty. The shed was too small to house a car, so they ignored the outbuilding and continued to scout the cabin itself.

There was a small accumulation of dust and debris on the wide front porch that was undisturbed, indicating that nobody had come of gone recently. The same thing was indicated by the lack of tire tracks. Satisfied, the two women met at the front door.

Drawing her pistol, Maria prepared to shoot the lock in the hardwood door. Alexis' slim hand closed over hers before she could aim. With a small smile, she knelt, flipped back the welcome mat - and stared at the blank boards revealed.

"Well?" Maria smirked.

"Hold on, you can't always be right the first time." Alexis retorted. She felt along the door lintel, then moved to the two planters, containing long withered remains, that sat on either side of the step. Under the left planter, she found what she was looking for, and stood with a smile, brandishing a key. Dusting off her knees, she used the retrieved piece of milled metal to unlock the front door, and they went in.

The cabin had that certain musty smell all buildings acquired after about a month of sitting unused. An attempt to turn on the lights quickly informed them that the hydro had been cancelled by the owners while they were away. The cabin was so secluded, the two women felt safe in opening the shuttered windows for illumination while they explored.

The cabin was large and fully furnished. The ground floor was one continuous room that was living room, dining room, kitchen and front entrance all in one, with a bathroom and a laundry room off to one side. Since almost everything could be seen from where they stood, it quickly became obvious that the cabin had never seen a woman's touch - it was decorated in a tidy sort of disarray that indicated the young male mind at work, as further indicated by various pictures and posters of women, all in various states of undress. The 'creature comforts' were scarce, the furniture shabby and mismatched, but unbelievably comfortable. The TV, sound system and wet bar were all top of the line though.

A quick tour of the upstairs revealed five bedrooms, all similarly furnished, but each with a certain flair imparted by its inhabitant. When they had seen the building from the outside, they had assumed it to be a family retreat, but they now realized that late teen or slightly older boys used it exclusively. In the fifth bedroom, Alexis gave a little cry of surprise, and dumped the contents of the garbage pail onto the bed. Almost a carton of unopened cigarettes - Camels - poured out, all somewhat crushed, plus several lighters and packs of matches.

"Thank God." Maria said. "Cigarettes. I've been dying for one since yesterday."

"I know." Alexis agreed. "If we had of been smart, we would have stuck a pack into our survival vests."

"Hey, I don't care. Just thank you lucky stars that our friend here decided to quit. Most of these will still be smokable" She grabbed a pack and stuck it and a lighter in her (ahem) breast pocket.

"Probably college student." Opined Alexis, looking around. "For their breaks from school."

"You're probably right" Maria allowed. "Let's just hope we can find some clothes to wear. More importantly, some food."

Leaving their explorations, the two went to the upstairs bathroom. An outsider walking in would have been startled to see two sexy, buxom women staring breathlessly at the sink as the dusky, huge-breasted one turned the tap.

They sighed as they were rewarded with a stream of cold, clear water from the cabin's well. With no electricity, they'd have no hot water, but it was a price they'd have to pay.

Back in the kitchen, they found their assumption that the place was inhabited by bachelors proven true. The fridge was empty, with no power, but the cupboards were packed to the top with canned food of all varieties. As an extra bonus, the stove was propane, with two full tanks, good for a month each, under the counter. Likewise, the huge stone fireplace against the far wall had an ample supply of firewood beside it, nicely dried in it's sheltered location.

"Why don't you get a shower and dig up a change of clothes?" Alexis suggested, rooting in the drawers for a can opener. "I'll throw some stew on to heat."

"Sounds good to me" Maria replied, grimacing as she took a sniff at her armpit. "I ain't looking forward to a cold shower though."

Alexis stopped, then ducked under the counter and emerged with a huge copper pan. "So, take a bath." She said, filling the pan to capacity. "I'll heat this water to a boil. Between it and cold water from the tub's tap, you should have nice warm bath water."

"Hey, now that's the best thing I've heard all day." Maria replied with a smile. "While you boil the water, I'm going to look outside."

Receiving a nodded reply, the dusky Cuban stepped outside, the cooling air causing her considerable nipples to stiffen, and sending a pleasurable sensation through her body. She fished the crumpled pack of smokes from her pocket and used the zippo to light one, after she carefully straightened it. Inhaling deeply, she let the smoke dribble from her lungs as she walked around the side of the building.

She walked to the lone outbuilding and was surprised to find no lock on the door. It must be that kind of neighborhood, she mused, opening the latch.

Inside, the place was a veritable rat-pack of things store haphazardly in the small shed. The first box she opened contained candles and the like, and she placed it outside the door to bring inside. Idly, she began to pick through the tangle of fishing equipment, used and broken 'boom-boxes' and other assorted odds and ends.

Although she wasn't really looking for anything - in fact, she was being just plain nosy - Maria hit paydirt - one of the old liquor boxes held a mis-matched collection of women's clothing, jewelry, and personal items. She took the two boxes inside, walking awkwardly. Before, she could have carried them easily, but she was physically weaker now, and her huge globular tits tended to get in the way. She dropped the boxes beside the couch.

"What's that?" Alexis asked, looking up. Steam curled from both pans on the stove.

"Well, you help me get that tub of boiling water to the bathtub, then you can come down and root through them." Maria told her.

The two women man-handled - well, woman-handled - the steaming pot upstairs and dumped it into the bathtub. While she ran cold water in with it, Maria went out and fetched two towels and a bathrobe.

Sighing, Maria climbed into the tub, the warm water surrounding her silky body and her huge tits floating above the surface. For the first time, her new, slender hands began to explore her body as they slid across the dusky expanse of her soft, massive tits. She slowly soaped herself up, then cleaned herself off, marveling at the new sensations the simple act of bathing created in her new body. She ducked her head under, soaking her hair, then laboriously shampooed her ebony mane.

Finally, she climbed out of the tub and toweled off. Her wet mass of hair felt like it weighed a ton as she wrapped the robe around her body. A man's robe, it displayed her luscious legs, and a generous amount of her round, firm globes. She opened the door and stepped out.

Alexis was waiting outside the door, a smile on her face.

"Good news. I found the power was turned off at the fuse-box - we've got electricity. There's stew ready downstairs, and you can go through that box of clothes and see what fits." She paused, awkward. "Um, it might also be a good idea if you...ah, practice make-up. If we're going to go out in public..."

Maria nodded, seeing the logic in this. "Gotcha. Enjoy your bath."

She headed downstairs and grabbed her cooling plate of stew. She also found that Alexis had started a fire in the fireplace, and so Maria sat with her hair to it to dry as she ate her beef stew. A bottle of warmish beer from the bar chased it down.

Done her dinner, and with her hair mostly dry, she began to root around in the box of clothing.

It was an odd collection of cast-offs - retro clothing, probably from Halloween parties and the like, and formal clothes, but very little day-to-day wear. She immediately figured that while Alexis could cram her DDD breasts into most of the clothing, her own, larger tits denied her much in the way of choice.

Picking through, she found a garish orange and white zebra-patterned spandex crop-top that, as she discovered, was possible to get over her enormous globes, cramming them together as they strained the resilient fabric to the limit and displaying an awesome amount of cleavage.

Laughing, she pulled out a 'matching' skirt - silver nughyde with large metal buttons down the front. There was even silver Lame French-cut briefs. Laughing, she pulled the garish clothing on, and struck an exaggerated pose. Laughing at the look, she fished out a pair of clear- and-silver shoes with 5-inch spike heels. Strapping them on, she 'click-clacked' around, getting use to the balance of the high heels.

She was completely unaware of what had happened. Over the past hour, her brain had been slowly changing, and the simple act of dressing, which, as 'Miguel Chavez', he would have refused to even contemplate, 'Maria Chavez' now actually enjoyed. The chemical and hormonal changes in her brain had happened in such a way, she was still sure she was the same person as before, yet in truth, the new personality was being built on his old, masculine ideas of what a huge-breasted, sexy Latino woman should be.

The same went for the make-up. The colors she picked were bright and garish, and applied with a slightly heavy hand. Bluish-silver eye shadow and bright, glossy red lipstick enhanced the erotic look of her face, yet she reveled in how 'sexy' she looked, not realizing an hour ago such a look would be unthinkable. Proudly, she strutted around the room, enjoying the feel of her new wardrobe on her voluptuous body.

"Whoa, girl, you got it going on." Alexis laughed, coming down the stairs. With electricity, she had taken advantage of a blowdryer, her platinum mane brushed and gleaming.

"What's in here for me?" she asked, sorting through the box. With plenty of 'suggestions' from Maria, she was soon attired and made-up, somewhat more conservatively than her more-buxom friend.

A gorgeous deep burgundy velvet dress clung to her body like a second skin, its 'sweetheart' neckline displaying her milky cleavage. A long slit revealed glances of her legs with every step she took in the 4 inch black pumps with ankle straps. Her make-up was more subtle, enhancing the elegant lines of her face.

They were still playfully commenting on each other's appearance when light flashed through the windows as a vehicle pulled up outside. The two women looked at each other in chagrin. They stood, like deer caught in headlights, as the sounds of people climbing the front steps echoed, and the door swung open.

The four young men, loaded with luggage, entered the cabin, and stopped dead at the sight of two drop-dead gorgeous women standing in the living room.

The one in the lead, a tall, muscular man with a curly mop of red hair blinked. "What the... - Who are you?" he asked dumbly, his eyes locked firmly on Maria's enormous endowments.

Suddenly, in both the women's minds, as if the guys' appearance triggered something, a struggle emerged from their own, real personalities and the emerging female ones. The memories of their dressing and make-up flooded through them with shame as they realized how they'd acted - and how much their new, female personalities were getting turned on by the sight of four handsome young college kids. The struggle rocked through them silently, their female bodies fighting their male egos.

In Alexis' mind, the two sides circled around her core self, trying to breach the essential soul and claim it, and the body for its own. They were evenly matched - so evenly matched, that one didn't defeat the other. Instead, the two personalities merged, creating a new identity - a strong, intelligent, confident woman who was completely comfortable with her own sexuality. Alexis was reborn.

Maria wasn't so lucky. Although his old friend was gone, the new Alexis was a capable, comfortable, happy person. Inside her mind, the struggle ended differently. The fully female portion of her brain grabbed control of her body - but her old male mind was still trapped inside, like a helpless passenger in a runaway train he couldn't control.

The whole struggle took but an instant, and left no trace. With no noticeable hesitation, Alexis was stepping forward with a small, confident smile.

"You'll have to forgive my friend and I" she said warmly in her rich, Russian-accented voice. "We've run into some troubles. We're tourists, visiting your wonderful country. This morning, some men robbed us - took our rental car, our money, our clothes - everything. They left us at the side of the road. We came here hoping to call the police - but no-one was here. We found your key and let ourselves in.

"We're sorry, but we couldn't walk around naked all day." She handed the red-head the key. "I'm Alexis. Alexis Filitov. And my friend here is Maria Chavez."

"Uh... Sean. Sean Butler." The red-head replied, extending a hand and pointing in turn to his friends. "Jason Goren" - A slender, thoughtful looking youth, dressed in nattily meticulous 'yuppie'.

"Peter Cateria" - A tall, slender black youth with 'basketball player' written all over his lanky frame. He looked like a walking advertisement for Nike, from his 'Air Jordan' shoes, to his Nike-logoed trackpants, sweatshirt and ball cap.

"And Ross McDougal" - A blonde Adonis - tall, broad-shouldered and criminally handsome, with a devastating grin and muscles like Mr. Olympia wished he had.

"Helllloooo Ross" Maria literally purred as she swayed seductively over, her full hips swinging in time with the hypnotic sway of her spandex encased tits. It certainly caught Ross' attention. Inside, Miguel tried desperately to regain control of her renegade body as she appreciatively ran one red-nailed hand up and down Ross' bulging bicep.

"Oh, we don't mind you coming in, Miss Filitov" Peter said in a voice so deep and baritone, it sounded like James Earl Jones was hiding in Peter's size 12 feet. He flashed a smile with teeth so bright that Alexis felt she should be wearing sunglasses. "If you'd like, we can take you to the police. We don't have a phone installed here - we like to be cut off from the world while we're here."

Alexis frowned slightly, then leaned forward. "Can I tell you a secret?" she asked conspiratorially. Peter nodded. "Sure thing."

"Well, both Maria and I are somewhat - well, broke. The breakup of the Soviet Union cost us our State-sponsored jobs. We were planning to find a way to stay in America, using what money we had left to get a visa. Now..."

The guys looked at the two women, then at each other.

"You know," Sean said meditatively. "There's no reason you ladies can't stay with us. In fact, if you'd like, you can live here. There's plenty of room for all of us, and when we're not here, we can arrange a car for you."

"Oh, you guys are sooo sweet." Maria cooed helplessly, giving the red-head a peck on the cheek. "We accept, don't we Alexis?" "Certainly. But how do we work the arrangements?" She asked.

Jason spoke for the first time. "Well, we have one spare bedroom upstairs. Or friend, Gary, no longer lives in America - he married a Canadian and moved to a place called Kitchener. So, one of you can have that. The other one we can put in the attic. It's a loft room we used as a guest bedroom. Big, spacious and bright, it's only drawback is the low ceiling near the sides. It goes from seven feet in the center to five at the edges."

Alexis smiled. "Sounds perfect. Why don't you show it to me, Jason?" He quickly agreed, and led her upstairs.

Maria watched them leave, her male half trying to pull herself off Ross' arm. "So, guys, you like what you see?" she asked, wiggling her chest while her male side screamed.

"Huh?" was the best Sean could do. Ross and Peter's responses were more appreciative.

Maria smiled. "Look, I'll be honest, 'kay? Alexis, said we're tourists, right. Well, that's kinda half-true. I'm Cuban, and she's Russian. She was staying with my family when the Soviet Union broke up. Her old man, he was a big Soviet big-shot. Rich, powerful, the works - only, he gets killed in the deal. She can't go back, 'cause the same people do her too, y'know? So, she decides to come to America, where she'll be safe. So, that's why she's here. Me, I came to get away from my father. He's a real Catholic, right? Makes me go to Catholic school, wants me to become a nun. Because of my body, see? He thinks it's too much temptation for men. I always had to wear baggy, concealing clothes, flat shoes, stuff like that. So, I came to America so I can live a little."

The three guys smiled at her, at each other, and at everything in general. "Well, we want to help. What have you got in mind?" Ross asked.

'Oh, God, no. Don't!' Miguel cried silently in the prison his body had become.

It didn't work. "Well, I heard all 'bout how women do things with guys, and I want to try some of them. No, since I never do these before, I gotta learn on the job, so to speak, so I can't promise how good it'll be. So, whose cock am I suckin'?"

The guys looked at each other, and each waited for the other to give something. They began to discuss who owed whom what.

"Look, I bought the beers last night. I think..." Sean started. "Yeah, sure, but who paid for the food?" Ross retorted. "Hey, the beer cost more than ... " Sean said hotly. Peter was trying hard not to laugh. She took his dark arm in her slender hands.

"While they figure this out, you an' I can get started, huh?" she said, smiling seductively. As his friends watched enviously, she led him to the couch and sat his down. Slowly she pressed her full, soft lips against his and passionately kissed him. His large, sure hands peeled off her spandex top, and her huge tits bounced free. His practice at 'one-handing' basketballs paid off like he never imagined as he began to caress and fondle her huge, dusky globes.

Slowly, she slid downwards, her hands pulling his track pants and underwear down. In his case, the myth of black cock size was true, his dark, throbbing tool sprang out, huge and thick.

Smiling, she began to give her first blow-job. Her technique was nothing special, but Peter wasn't about to complain. She enveloped the head of his cock with her warm 'willing' mouth, then simply used her hands, wrapped around his dark, hot cock, and eagerly jerked him off. Within very short time, his cock twitched, sending a spray of hot, salty cum into her waiting mouth. She swallowed hungrily.

Deep inside, Colonel Miguel Chavez, Cuban Air Force, screamed helplessly as Maria stood and turned. "So, who's next?"

* * * * *

Beneath her fine, upswept brows, her sparkling blue eyes, like the depthless lakes, swept appreciatively over the spacious loft. The builder had known his business, and the four dormer windows, two to each side, sat along the sun's endless track, allowing the golden light of sunset to spill into the room and reflect from the polished pine that dominated the homey room.

As she took in the design of the loft, her eyes also secretly took in her diminutive companion. Beneath the full curve of her womanly bosom, her heart beat a little faster as she considered him in the dreamy light from the window, painting his intelligent, yet masculine face in shades of gold and ochre.

She had learned much about Jason's personality just going upstairs with him, and she approved of what she had discovered. Unlike his coarser friends, the slightly build, sober young man had the gallant soul of a true gentleman.

Many men, walking up the stairs with such an attractive woman as herself, would have either hung back and ogled the gentle sway of her backside, or walked close to her, their sweaty hands sneaking fleeting contact with the flesh beneath the rich velvet dress. Yet Jason had stayed one step behind her, his arm out-stretched, close to, but not touching, the small of her back, ready to catch her should she lose her balance on the tall slender heels she wore.

Furthermore, he neither stared obsessively at the view of her rounded breasts, nor snuck furtive glances at her décolletage when he thought her otherwise engrossed. No, his gaze had been frank and appreciative when he did look, but his eyes always returned to hers when they spoke, his dark, expressive eyes honest and thoughtful, reflecting the depths of his soul.

"I trust you find this satisfactory?" he asked, his voice neither strident nor particularly deep, but nevertheless, reassuringly masculine.

"Oh, I think this will do nicely, " she replied, turning on her slim heel and looking at him openly. She smiled softly at him, her voice dropping into a richer tone. "I want to thank you again for your help."

"That's not necessary, my dear." He replied, his eyes dropping for a second. "It's a pleasure to help a lovely lady such as yourself."

Slowly, she crossed the intervening space between him, and her slender hand slowly drew his gaze to meet hers. "No, I really do wish to thank you. Properly." She whispered, then bent her face to his.

As their lips touched, he stiffened for a moment, unsure, Then, his strong, manly hands slowly slid to encircle her slender waist as he returned her embrace.

Her lips parted as his initial hesitation gave way to blossoming passion. His probing tongue entered her waiting mouth and began the timeless dance with her own as she slowly led him towards the soft, inviting bed.

Gently breaking from his warm lips, she turned in the circle of his arms and presented the smooth sweep of her back to him. Glancing over her softly rounded shoulder, she traded a depthless glance of passion with him.

"Would you unzip this for me?" she asked sweetly, and his fingers gently grasped the metal tongue that held the taut fabric in place. Slowly, almost reverently, he drew the zipped own, exposing the soft, creamy flesh of her back. The fabric rustled as it slid from her body, and he lifted the sweep of her silken hair with his hand and lightly kissed the base of her swan-like neck.

Gently, yet with restrained urgency, she pushed him onto the soft, downy mattress, clad only in her lacy underwear, nylons, and heels. Gently, her long slender fingers flew over his body, unfastening and opening every closure until his compact body lay exposed to her appreciative gaze.

Sliding her hands through the hair that adorned his chest, she smiled dreamily as his hands found her bare, full breasts, touching and moving with erotic motions over the unblemished skin. She eased her frilly panties from her full hips and let them flutter to the floor as she moved gracefully over his supine form.

She had never before made love to a man. But her unique situation provided Alexis with a new and wonderful advantage. Having experienced the other side of the coin, she knew what it was that a man wanted, and was determined to provide Jason with the most perfect lovemaking he had ever experienced.

She bit her full, lower lip to keep from crying out as she slowly lowered her warm, wet womanhood over him, feeling, for the first time, herself completely filled, a sensation she could never accurately describe, and one which she never knew was missing from her life until she experienced it. She began to move her hips in a smooth, steady rhythm, feeling his manhood excite the sensitive flesh of her wonderful new sex.

Jason was a true gentleman. Just as she was determined to provide him with pleasure, so too was he prepared to use all his skill in pleasuring the intensely feminine woman atop of him. And, as the two each tried to outdo the other in providing pleasure, a minor miracle occurred.

Like much in life, what they achieved was more than the sum of it's parts. Her head thrown back, her golden hair streaming behind her, Alexis rode the gaining swell of her first female climax as it built to the bursting point - and beyond. Her voice cried out to the heavens that she had achieved as her body shook in the grip of the sheerest ecstasy. Jason's deeper cries met hers in an erotic counterpoint as he achieved his own climax, and the two reached a plateau where not just their bodies, but their souls lay bare to each other, intertwined.

Gently, Jason disengaged from her and lowered her to the mattress beside her.

"You were wonderful." She murmured to him, her heart swelling at the memory of their lovemaking.

He smiled down at the, then nibble lightly at her earlobe. "Were?" he whispered into her perfect, shell-like ear. "Just because a man has spent his seed, doesn't mean it has to be over. Not if he knows how to use his hands, and his tongue."

And, as he slowly kissed his way across the smooth expanse of her stomach until he came to rest between her silken thighs, she discovered that he did, indeed, know how to use them.

* * * * *

Jason led Alexis down the stairs, both of them wearing smug little smiles. Suddenly, they stopped at the bottom. "Oh, my" Alexis said, then giggled.

Maria lay on the cushions of the couches, which had been lain on the floor. Her dusky body was glistening erotically with sweat as she moaned in the throes of orgasmic delight. Sean, an intense look on his face, was pumping rhythmically into her, trying to make himself last longer than Ross, whose muscular body was perched atop Maria's body as his thick cock plumbed the depth of her cleavage.

Sean lost. He cried out as he cum, dumping his hot cum into Maria's sopping cunt. He was followed seconds later by Ross, who stiffened as his hot, cream jism gushed out between Maria's magnificent globes and splattered her face. She sat up and began to lick the salty liquid from her full, red lips.

Deep inside, Miguel had given up the fight as the power of the orgasm had swept her body. If being trapped in the prison of a buxom, nymphomaniac woman was the price he had to pay to experience such overwhelming ecstasy, then he would accept that.

The two women looked at each other, a silent communication passing between them. No matter what happened, nobody would ever learn the final fates of Sergei Filitov and Miguel Chavez, Cuban spies and fighter pilots.

The only future was For Alexis and Maria.

THE END...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Receiving a strange package in the mail, Steve puts on the garments that start to change him into a woman, his girlfriend convinces him to go along with what is happening to him, but it turns out she has other motives.

Delivered

By Gunslinger

It was a dark and stormy night...

Well - it wasn't exactly stormy, per se. More windy, actually. And, since night is usually dark, it hardly seems worth mentioning that, either. But, for God's sake, I've got to start this story somewhere, don't I?

Okay, so it was a dark and windy night. (Happy?)

In any case, the wind (well, perhaps 'light breeze' would be more accurate...) was blowing, and it was enough to move clouds over the tiny of sliver of moon in the sky, making a dark night that much darker.

It was the proverbial 'darkest' before the dawn. It was about this time - say, three-thirty or so in the morning - that out 'hero' awoke, with a throat as dry as Arizona in the summer.

Running a dry tongue over his chapped lips, the raw-boned man in his mid forties stared up at the slightly out of focus ceiling, debating whether or not to bother getting up for a glass of water, or waiting to see if he could just fall back asleep.

Finally, Steve decided that sleep would evade him, and quietly rolled out of bed, trying not to wake his girlfriend, Susie. Fumbling across the night-table, his hand found his glasses and he pulled them on as he wrapped a bathrobe around his pajamas and padded out to the kitchen for a glass of water.

He'd just completed this little task, slaking his thirst, when he noticed the security light on the front porch of his bungalow flash on. From the kitchen, the front step wasn't visible, but he could clearly see the glow the porch light created - and the dark shadow made as somebody moved around on the front porch.

Creeping slowly to the front door, Steve took a quick peep through the peep-hole mounted in the center of the door.

He couldn't see a damned thing. Whoever was out there was well below the level of the peep-hole, although Steve could clearly see the shadow of whoever it was.

Backing quietly away from the door, Steve turned and padded quickly to the side door, which was on the other side of the kitchen and led out into the carport. He opened it, striving for silence as he did so. Stepping out, he closed the door just as quietly and moved silently across the cool asphalt of the driveway and around to the front of the house, gathering speed as prepared to confront...

...and empty porch.

Well, no - not quite empty. Resting on the porch was a small package, wrapped in brown wrapping paper. Approaching it, cautiously, Steve picked up the package gingerly and looked it over. Finding nothing threatening about the package, he carried it back into the house through the carport door, trying to be quiet.

At least, that's how Steve says he found the package. Personally, I don't know if I buy that 'heroic-chasing-off-of-an-intruder' routine. But, hell - who am I to say that Steve's lying about it?

In any case...

Steve returned to the kitchen and lowered himself onto a seat at the small table nestled in the corner of the room. With a distracted slapping motion, he managed to find and flip on the switch for the light that hung over the table, never taking his eyes off the package in front of him.

It was unremarkable, to the eye - roughly the size of a shoe-box and wrapped in basic brown paper, complete with twine holding it shut. Neither his name nor a return address marred the blankness of the outer wrapping and Steve gingerly held the package near his ear and shook it slightly.

There was a soft ticking from somewhere deep inside.

He dropped the box on the table, jaw muscles working as he stared at the package. Curiosity finally managed to get the better of him, however, and he reached out and pulled on the knots holding the box closed, slowly unwrapping the package and lifting the lid off of the plain white shoe-box that was revealed.

He stared for a long second at what the box contained, his face twisting into a confused-yet-amused expression as he finally reached in and lifted out the contents of the box.

The first item, explained the ticking - it was a watch. A high-tech-yet-classy 'Navigator' style, with a black leather band, dark blue face with gold roman numerals and gold hands, and all surrounded by a bezel that was gold with silver degree marks around the edges.

He looked at the watch for a long moment, intrigued - despite the obvious expense of the watch, there was no makers name or insignia anywhere, which struck him as odd.

Not as odd as the other contents of the box, however.

A pair of ankle-high 'socks' - except he'd never seen socks made out of a fine-grain black leather before. They shone with the muted gleam of expensive, fine leather as he lifted them to the light and examined them. It was nearly impossible to see the seams in the form-fitting 'booties', as they were so perfectly matched and so finely butt-stitched that they seemed to be part of the surrounding material.

The craftsmanship of the 'simple' garments was as fine as that in the precision timepiece. Whoever had left the unattributed gift on his doorstep had exquisite - if eclectic - taste.

Of course, there was only one thing Steve could do...

Glancing around with a guilty look, Steve slid the watch onto his wrist and fumbled the clasp closed, finding that - unadjusted - the supple leather band fit his wrist as if made to go there. He admired the watch, incongruous as it looked beside the somewhat tattered sleeve of his robe, then turned his attention to the leather 'socks'.

Turning sideways in his chair to allow himself more room, he lifted one foot and began to fit the sock onto the rather rawboned, unlovely appendage. It took a bit of work, as they were tight-fitting and leather is not really known for its 'give'. But he finally managed to get the first one, then the other in place and he smoothed them down, finding that they just covered his ankles, fitting to his feet with contour-hugging perfection.

He turned his feet to the left and right, looking at the somewhat odd picture it presented, then shook his head and snorted. Pulling his leg up, he peeled off the sock...

..or, at least, tried to. He couldn't even get his fingers under the tight-fitting 'lip', much less pull the sock off.

He tried again, even padding to the drawer to 'steal' a butter-knife to aid him, but the socks refused to budge - as did the watch, when he attempted to remove it.

"Ha. Ha. Ha." Steve said aloud. "Very funny."

Now he knew why there was no return address on the package. Somebody who knew him well enough to guess he'd try the stuff on thought it would be a 'great' joke, obviously, to apply some sort of glue or something to the objects, leaving him with the problem of removing them.

Well, as that may be, Steve didn't feel up to the task, certainly not this early in the morning. Maybe later, when he was more awake and

- more importantly - Susie was up. The old saying 'two heads are better than one' was true enough, especially when it came to problem- solving, and Steve didn't feel like wasting the skull-sweat on the problem.

Annoyed - and, he had to admit, mildly amused in a ticked-off way - he padded back to the bedroom, trying to keep as quiet as possible. Dropping his robe into a pile at the side of his bed, he slid between the covers without disturbing Susie, and soon drifted off into the welcome arms of sleep, his mind still trying to decide which one of his so-called friends had decided to play the little prank.

* * * * *

Steve awoke from a dream/nightmare in which a car-crusher made out of foam was slowly pressing in against his legs.

Even as he swam out of the embrace of sleep, however, the odd 'gentle compression' sensation on his legs failed to fade away, and he blinked and hauled himself upright, flipping the sheets off of his body without consideration for Susie.

"What the...!"

Being 'deblanketed' might not have pulled Susie from the gentle arms of Morpheus, but the loud, startled exclamation from her man did. Yawning and blinking blearily, she pushed herself onto her elbows, her ocean-blue eyes fogged by sleep.

"Whazzzrong?" She muttered, bringing one hand up to push her sleep-mussed mane of wavy, ebony hair out of her face as she looked at Steve with a sleepy, puzzled expression.

Steve, however, didn't answer - he was too 'busy' gaping at his legs, his fumbling hands numbly sliding his glasses into place to better focus what he was seeing.

He was no longer wearing the leather socks... exactly. Instead, black leather stretched from his toes to a silver metallic band that encircled his legs just above his knees, unbroken by seams or imperfections. They hugged his legs perfectly...

Only, the contours they were hugging didn't look right. In fact, the shape under the black covering was slowly writhing, accompanied by that compressing sensation.

Which faded away, leaving Steve staring numbly at glossy black legs that were unlike his own unremarkable male gambs. Instead, the leather covered legs that - to Steve - appeared to be the shapeliest, most feminine legs he'd ever seen.

From the knees down, that was. Above the band of metal that ringed the top of what looked like a pair of knee-high stockings made of black leather, his own male thighs remained as 'normal' as ever, showing no relation to the shapely, dainty legs and tiny, slender feet below.

"Honey... what's going on?" Susie asked, holding one hand in front of her mouth as she yawned, a little more alert. She gazed down at his legs, brow furrowing in confusion. "What the...?"

"That's what I said." Steve replied, slowly sliding his hands over the leather encasing the shapely calves, feeling the touch - somewhat muted by the leather - transmitted through 'his' legs.

Susie blinked. "I don't get it - is this some new pair of nylons, or something...?"

Steve shook his head, sketching in the odd events of earlier that morning as they stared in bemused confusion at his altered legs. Used to Steve's cross-dressing, the 'mere' sight of something like 'stockings', no matter how unusual the material they were made of, wouldn't have fazed the petite woman. But the definitely 'un-Steve-like' contours under the leather was definitely enough to attract some notice.

Susie's comment on Steve's repetition of the events was its usual, pithy self. "Steve, sweets - I don't know what this is, but it's no practical joke. This just isn't possible." She paused. "Correction - before now, I wouldn't have thought it possible..." She slid one hand over his lower legs, shaking her head. Then - her mind as practical as it could be so soon after awakening - "So - just how upset are you?"

That gave Steve pause to think. Anybody else might be in a near panic - anybody who wasn't a cross-dresser and aficionado of TG fiction, that was.

"Actually..." Steve said, smiling thinly. "This is kind of... neat. Exciting - in a scary sort of way."

"Mmm-hmm." Susie said, stretching. "Either somebody has decided to give you a taste of your little fantasies "

She slid her legs over the side of the bed and stood, her smooth back presented to Steve's admiring gaze as she stretched on her toes, adding an inch or so to her five-foot-nil height.

"Or ?" Steve prompted.

"Did it occur to you that those could have been meant for me?" She asked, throwing him a wicked grin.

Steve's face went blank, answering her question. Laughing at his startled look, Susie padded off to the bathroom to empty her bladder, her nonchalant acceptance of even the outlandish events of the morning only reaffirming Steve's already high respect for her ability to take life in stride.

Hell - she stuck with him, and even on his 'best' days he was hardly 'Joe Average'. If she'd been the type of woman obsessed with order and 'normality', she'd have left him ages ago.

While Susie went about her morning ablutions, Steve swung his altered feet over the side of the bed and bushed himself upright....

..then caught his balance, adjusting his stance to take into effect his smaller feet. Peeking around the corner of the door frame to see Susie brushing his teeth, he gave into the temptation that had sprung into his mind and padded over to the closet, feeling the subtly different bunching and relaxing of the altered, feminine muscles beneath the black leather casings.

Sliding open the closet, he bent over and fished out a pair of shoes - Susie's shoes, as his own feminine footwear was designed for much larger feet, and he'd swim in the oversized shoes and boots.

As it was, even Susie's size seven shoes turned out to be a bit loose, surprising Steve - his feet were much, much smaller than what would be 'to scale' for a genetic woman of his height and general build. The shoes he'd picked - a pair of glossy black patent leather pumps with five inch heels - fit a lot better than any of his own would have, but remained a touch loose.

However, they definitely looked like they fit his altered feet, visually speaking. Though of a different texture than the preternatural leather stockings that enclosed his altered legs, they matched well enough to create the impression that he was wearing some sort of fancy thigh-high boots.

"Hey - très chic."

Steve whirled, then grinned guiltily at Susie. "okay, okay - I just had to give it a try."

She was looking at his legs with a grin that was slowly fading. "Um... didn't those things just come up to those metal bands before?"

"Huh?" Steve glanced down, then gasped when he realized that the leather now extended a good three inches above the metal bands, reaching mid-way up his thighs. He stared at the leather, swearing that he could see it slowly creeping upwards.

"Trés weird." Susie said, padding closer to look. "What if these things continue going - right up over your whole body?" Steve considered the question - then grinned wryly. "Well - there's only one way to find out, isn't there?"

She matched the grin, leaning forward for a quick kiss. Having something completely 'out there' happening to him was 'scary' - but the what of what was happening was a sort of a long-held 'dream' that acted as a counter-weight to the fear and confusion, leaving him in a state of frightened excitement - or maybe excited fear. He wasn't quite sure yet.

The broke the kiss, and stepped a bit apart. Susie reached up and patted him on the cheek. "So - what's the plan for work today? Short skirt and heels? Or would that be a little much?"

Steve laughed. "I think I'll play it easy today - just call in sick." She walked over to the phone...

...and stopped and turned back around when Susie gasped. It was an instinctive act, and a second later - without and 'prompting', besides the startled look on Susie's face - he glanced down.

He gasped himself.

The latex 'stockings' now reached his crotch, following a 'reverse bikini line' - a vee-shaped area that left his crotch itself bare at the front, and circled just below the bottom curve of his buttocks at the back. Another metallic band encircled his leg at the top of this new juncture.

But that wasn't what caused the gasp.

It was the fact that the shoes had 'disappeared' - now the 'boots' that the leather had become ran smoothly to a semi-pointed toe and a five inch heel that looked as if they were part of the entire 'boot', not showing any sign of having been 'absorbed' by the leather.

"Holy..." Steve started - then gasped and gave a mild grimace as the leather sheathing his legs 'flexed'. The sensation passed fairly quickly - and his upper legs had reshaped themselves to match the sensual, feminine curves of the legs below, giving him a pair of extremely shapely female legs encased in leather, and enhanced by the heels he wore.

"Wow..." Susie said, one eyebrow rising.

Swallowing, Steve picked up the phone and called in sick.

When the secretary who took the call asked him what was wrong, Steve found himself having to hold back an attack of the chuckles at the thought of trying to explain the real answer to that one. Instead, he blamed his absence on the flu, saying he hoped it was only the twenty-four hour variety, but that he might not be in all week - a nice 'escape clause', depending on what happened.

He hung up the phone - and let the chuckles escape, earning him an odd look from Susie. He explained the 'joke' to her, and she giggled at the thought.

"Okay - now what do we do? Just wait and see how much of you your new boots 'devour'?" Susie asked.

Steve looked down at his re-shaped legs with a judgmental look. "Actually - I think it's stopped. Last time, it only took a couple of minutes to extend past the metal band. These still seem to be the same length."

"All things considered, honey?" She suggested. "I wouldn't assume anything."

"Good idea." Steve admitted, while mentally reserving an 'I told you so' in case he turned out to be right. He was sure she was doing the same for the other eventuality. "Look, this is getting a little freaky for me. I mean, I'm still really curious and all - but I don't know whether or not this has a 'happy ending', you know?" He swallowed. "Lets see if we can get these things off."

He sat on the side of the bed and Susie grabbed a hold of his left 'boot'. She began to pull on the skin-tight part around his foot while he tried to find a finger hold or break around the metal band at the top.

Both attempts were met with failure.

Just as Susie was bracing herself for another go, the doorbell rang. She looked down at Steve's transformed, leather-clad legs, then jerked a thumb over her shoulder.

"Why don't I get it?" She suggested, wrinkling her nose and nodding. Picking up the bathrobe, she slipped it around her well-maintained body and tied it around the waist as she padded off towards the front of the house.

She returned a couple of minutes later, gingerly carrying a box in her hands. A box wrapped in plain brown wrapping and tied with twine.

"It was just sitting on the porch, and nobody was around." She said, laying it on the bed beside Steve. "So... do we open it?" He looked at her, then at the box. "I..."

She read the indecision on Steve's face, and understood that his conflicting emotions were holding him in a tug-of-wore. His 'sensible' side was insisting that he should be panicking, while his 'emotional' side was saying 'go for it!'.

Shrugging, she solved the perfect balance of emotions in Steve by taking the matter into her own hands - literally. She picked up the box and quickly undid the string and unwrapped the box, opening it...

"Kinky." She tilted the box to show Steve what was inside, obviously hesitant about actually touching the contents. Inside lay three pairs of 'underwear'. At least, that's what it looked like - women's briefs.

Only - they were made of what appeared to be latex, and came in gloss black, gloss 'flesh-tone', and shimmering silver.

"You do realize what will probably happen if you put one of these on, don't you?" Susie asked, searching Steve's face for a hint of what he was feeling right now. She wasn't sure whether she should be concerned, or caught up in the 'excitement' - his confused emotions were affecting her as well.

He grinned wryly. "Sure, I know - I'm just trying to figure out if that would be a bad thing or not." There was a pause.

"Well...?" Susie prompted.

Steve looked down at the 'panties'.. then, as if afraid it might leap out at him, slowly reached into the box and pulled out the black pair.

"Are you sure this is what you want to do?" Susie asked, her tone making it clear that she wasn't condemning, merely interested in knowing the answer.

"No." He replied - but didn't stop sliding his high-heeled feet into the leg holes of the 'panties' and pulling them up his sexy, female legs. He pulled it tight on his crotch, finding that the panties now covered from exactly the top of the metal bands of the 'boots' to the top of his hips.

He had stood to pull them in position, and now he leaned over to look at them while Susie began gnawing on a fingernail, waiting to see what happened.

The first thing that happened was that his cock, clearly outlined in the material, began to grow harder, quickly becoming rigid. "Steve!" Susie giggled at the sight.

"I..." Steve started to reply - then gasped.

Susie gasped as well as she watched the flesh under the panties ripple. His hips pushed outwards, becoming wider - womanly - as his ass expanded into a delectably female shape, firm and round beneath the skin-tight covering.

The covering also spread over his erect penis, no longer outlining it under itself, but allowing it to stand straight out as the material filled in and covered it completely. Then there was a rippling sensation....

...and his 'cock' dropped off, landing on the floor with a soft 'thud' and leaving only smooth latex over his smooth, feminine looking crotch.

"Steve!" Susie said - then hesitantly bent down and picked up what was quite obviously a black plastic dildo.

Steve was staring at his ex-member, stunned. "Wow..." He breathed. There's been an instant of pressure when the 'panties' had done their work - then no pain at all as the now-dildo dropped free. Instead, he could feel a subtle-but-unmistakable difference under the latex that covered his crotch, and he gently pressed his hand against the small, smoothly curved mound between his feminine thighs.

"Um... Well - I think that I'm... 'fully equipped' from the waist down." He said, trying - in vain - to pull the panties down and take a look. They were as stubbornly locked into place as the 'boots' were, causing him frustration on top of everything else. Here he had - wanted or not - what was probably a fully functional female vagina - and he couldn't even take a look at the damned thing!

"Whoa, lover..." Susie said, idly fondling the dildo that had been his penis. "You know, I have to say that this is getting interesting."

"Well, It's nice to know you're enjoying this." Steve retorted - in an exaggerated feminine tone and posture, putting his hands on his wider, feminine hips and mocking the expression she sometimes used when she was upset with him. Dropping the act, he shrugged slightly. "It is kind of... incredible. Exciting - but what if no more boxes arrive? What if I'm stuck like this, and can't get these things off?"

"Well " Susie started to say something reassuring, when she was interrupted by the shrilling of the phone. Turning atop the heels,

Steve picked up the receiver. "Hello?"

There was a strange hiss on the line - then a voice spoke, and from the first syllable it was painfully obvious that the voice was being electronically distorted, sounding unearthly and flat.

'In your mailbox you will find a key. This key fits locker 1026 at the bus terminal. Proceed there immediately and retrieve the parcel that is inside. Do not attempt to contact anybody. Do not attempt to seek 'assistance' from anyone aside from Susie. Further instructions will be forthcoming. You have twenty-five minutes.'

There was a 'click', then the ordinary hum of an empty line.

Hanging up the phone, Steve explained what the voice had said, searching for something to wear. He had absolutely no intention of disobeying the instructions, which only increased his curiosity rather than frightening him - now that he knew that there was some sort of continuing plan behind this.

Not having long to consider his options, Steve settled for pulling on a pair of loose-fitting sand-colored jeans over his lower half. They pulled taut across his new hips and ass, making it difficult to button, but hung like tents on his slimmer legs.

A comfortable-fitting khaki shirt went with the jeans, and he resorted to a pair of large, black rubber boots to cover his high-heeled feet. It was an indication of how much his feet had shrunk that he was able to jam his feet into boots that used to fit him fine, but walking with high heels hidden in clunky boots created a decidedly odd look, especially since his widened hips had a tendency to perform a feminine 'swivel and sway' that the hidden heels only exaggerated.

Hurrying outside, he checked the mailbox and was unsurprised to find the promised key, a piece of milled brass with a bright orange plastic coating the butt end, stamped with the locker number. Hurrying to the driveway, he slid behind the wheel of his Grand Am and brought the engine to life, pulling the metallic blue car out of the driveway with uncommon haste, his eyes flicking to the clock on the dashboard.

He was cutting it too close for comfort when he hurried into the terminal, all-too-aware of the strange looks his odd gate garnered. Ignoring them, he began searching the banks of lockers for the correct locked, throwing worried glances at the watch on his wrist - then cursing when he realized that the time it bore had no relation to reality, although the hands were moving.

Finding the right locker, he opened it and found - as he half-expected - another box. Larger than the previous ones, it was also a plain white box, although the plain brown wrapper had been omitted in this case.

Taking the box out, he closed the locker then glanced around curiously. He failed to spot anyone paying undue attention to him...

...or, rather, there were several 'starers', but he couldn't tell which ones were just the usual lot of Bus Terminal gapers, and which might have anything to do with his being here.

Hesitantly, he opened the box and peeked inside.

Corsets. Two of them - one a bright fire-engine red with lacy black trim, the other a more 'functional' one in flesh-tone.

Glancing around again, Steve closed the box and headed for the exit, taking the extra time to try and mute the strange gait of his stride.

Before too long, he was back in his bedroom, Susie clamoring to know what had been in the locker. He showed her, and she hesitantly lifted the two corsets out, one in each hand.

She whistled, eyeing the red-and-black number. "Wow - you know how much these things cost?" She asked. "This is a real corset, not one of those flimsy 'decorative' ones."

"Yes, I know what these things cost." Steve said, gently, while smiling.

Startled, she looked at him - then laughed at her comment. Steve already owned a couple 'real' corsets, heavy canvas and metal 'boning' designed to compress the human (supposedly female) waist.

"Well?" She asked, shaking one then the other. "The red one, right?"

Steve smiled at how well she knew him - not 'are you going to put one on', but 'you're going to put this one on, right?'

Frowning slightly, Steve shrugged and decided that - since she was right that he was going to put one on - he'd throw her a curve-ball, just to keep her on her toes.

Figuratively speaking, of course - he was literally on his toes, as demonstrated as he slipped out of his clothes, revealing his heeled 'boots'.

"The flesh-toned one, I think." He suggested, and was rewarded by a startled blink and the 'really?' that snapped out of her mouth.

"Sure." Steve smiled, taking the thick garment and pulling it over his head and down around his waist, turning his back to her and bracing himself against the wall. "Lace me up?"

Having done this before, Susie moved with efficiency, grabbing the loose laces and, working from the top, snuggling them semi-tight to his skin. Reaching the bottom, she grabbed the drawstrings, then lifted her leg and braced her right knee on his buttocks - which were much better padded than the usual - and hauling on the strings.

The corset began to slowly move inwards, slowly compressing Steve's waist. "Problem, honey?" Steve masked. "Go on-haul away."

She stopped, an odd expression on her face. "Steve - I am..."

Steve blinked and tried to get a good look at his midsection, seeing that it was, indeed, compressed an inch or two. "Holy... it just feels like you only quick-tightened the laces. I was wondering why you weren't pulling!" He paused. "Uh.. okay, keep going."

Susie drew the laces tighter down the back, then began hauling on the loose ends again.

Again, the corset moved slowly inward against that soft resistance, the inches slowly being compressed without Steve experiencing anything more than a light, almost sensual, pressure.

After three more cycles, Susie stopped and eyed the effect of the corset.

"Steve." She said, awe in her voice. "I'm tying it off - if I tighten it any more, you're going to snap in half." Suiting action to words, she tied a bow into the drawstrings, then walked around and shook her head at the image Steve presented.

Seeing her look, he walked into the bathroom for a look in the mirror.

His waist couldn't be an inch more than sixteen inches around - if that. From the top of the corset to the bottom of his feet, Steve presented the image of a woman - and then some. Tiny wasp waist, tiny feet, sexy legs, spectacular ass - he was like some idealized woman.

"Wow..." He murmured, running his hands over the fabric of the corset...

...then, on instinct, he reached around and tried to undo the draw-string that Susie had so easily tied a moment ago. The knot refused to budge.

"You're trying to take it off?" Susie asked, surprise, seeing him fumble.

"No - just verifying my theory that I can't take it off." He replied, and she nodded in understanding. "Now what?" She asked - and before Steve could answer, the phone rang.

Looking at her with a raised eyebrow, Steve went and answered it. Once more that electronically distorted voice spoke, as quick and unhesitating as before.

"You are to go to 371-B Front Street - The Anything Goes Shop. They have been well paid, and will give you any wig that you choose, free of charge. Bring it home. Do not attempt to explain what is going on. Susie is to take the key now in your mailbox and go to the bus terminal. She is to retrieve the item in the locker whose number is on the key, and follow the instructions listed.'

Again, the caller hung up immediately, and Steve hung up and explained the information he was given. They shared a look that spoke volumes, then Susie helped Steve into his clothes, the corset - while fairly comfortable in fit - making bending over a bit awkward.

Pulling out of the driveway, Steve watched Susie's Geo pull out of the driveway and head off in the direction he'd gone earlier, while he aimed the snout of his car to the more distant location he'd been given.

It took him some time to find a place to park in the downtown district to which he'd been instructed to go to, and he was glad that there was no time limit in effect this time. He went into the store, an adult 'boutique' for 'alternate lifestyle' that he'd visited a couple of times before, his eyes roaming over the items on display, everything from 'plus size' women's clothes to B&D gear, from sexy leather and latex for him and her to 'marital aids'.

Walking up to the counter, he cleared his throat. "Um... My name's Steve Zink, and..."

"Of course, Mr. Zink." The girl - with two-tone pink and baby-blue hair - said, eyeing him with a speculative look. "Everything's been arranged. Just pick out the wig you want."

Not willing or able to satisfy her obvious curiosity, he turned his attention to the selection of wigs on Styrofoam heads. He had a pretty good idea of what would happen when he lowered it into place over his own sandy crew-cut, and took his time, wanting to pick the right one.

Finally, he pointed to one that was a brassy blonde, and long enough to hang to the small of his back. The style was straight, with fluffed bangs and a gentle teardrop sweep to the back of it.

The clerk went in back and returned a moment later with a boxed wig, handing it over. "If you don't mind me asking..."

Steve shook his head. "Sorry - I'm not allowed to explain."

Her eyebrow rose at that, but she shrugged and turned away, obviously a touch miffed.

Tucking the box under an arm that was rapidly becoming incongruous when compared to the rest of him, he headed back to where he'd parked his car, heading back home.

Opening the front door, he carried the wig-box into the house calling out. "Susie, honey - you home?"

There was a sudden, sharp thump, then Susie's voice - sounding both startled and... somehow slightly odd - came from the back of the house.

"In the bedroom, honey!"

With a slightly surprised look on his face, Steve headed into the bedroom, where he found Susie just doing up the shoulder clasps on a brand new pair of denim overalls that were so baggy and large that they hung like a tent on her, an effect further emphasized by the thick, baggy sweatshirt that filled the top half, causing the bottoms to hang bagged outward from her body.

"Well.. that's a new look." Steve said, more than a little surprised. She grinned devilishly. "Look who's talking."

Steve snorted, tossing the wig box on the bed - and noticing the large white box that it landed beside. "What's that?"

"Wait until you see what's inside." She said in that odd tone of voice, earning her a bemused look from Steve. He quickly undressed, then let Susie open the box and tilt it to display its contents.

Bras. Well - sort of. Because in each white cotton bra was built-in padding, shaping the cups into the semblance of breasts themselves. And there was quite a selection...

"My god!" Steve gasped, looking at the ones at the end. "They're... huge!"

Susie laughed, then pointed to each of the bras in order. "We gotch'er B cup, D, E, HH, JJJ, and MMM." The last one she pointed out looked like a pair of beach-balls covered in white fabric, and Steve could see why such a large box was needed - even the next size down was like a pair of medicine balls. She nodded in the direction of the wig box. "So?"

tearing his eyes away from the array of falsies, he opened the box and lifted out the glossy blonde mane. "Hey, nice choice." She said, approvingly. "C'mon - let's see how it looks."

"Sure." Steve said. He carefully eased himself to his knees and held the wig out. "Just in case - you put it on, and make sure it's straight. I'd hate to put it on crooked and have it stuck like that."

"Sure thing, babe." Susie said, moving with what seemed excessive enthusiasm to take the wig. Holding it an inch or two above his own short hair, she closed one eye and carefully lined the wig up before lowering it into place.

immediately, a tingling sensation ran through his scalp, and Steve verified his assumption by reaching up and tugging at the hair, feeling

- as expected - the tugging of his new hair through his scalp.

"Okay - now for the tits, babe." Susie said, practically yanking his arm out of the socket in an effort to hurry him.

"okay, okay - geez, I think you're more into this than I am." Steve grumbled cheerfully - although, truth be told, he was definitely starting to enjoy the whole experience of slowly being made female, fulfilling a long-held fantasy. All the negative considerations were there, but they were buried under the excitement of the moment. "So - what size shall I be...?"

Susie nudged him in the ribs. "come on, honey. I've read those stories you write. Big, balloon-chested girls. Then there's Eddie - and that Gunslinger..." She rolled her eyes.

Steve grinned at the ribbing. "Okay - I get your drift." He looked over the selection, then reached for the double 'H' cup. "Oh, come on - go whole hog." Susie urged.

"Really?" Steve asked, considering. He'd had the urge, but it had faded a bit... but now he found himself coming back to the so quickly rejected idea.

"Yeah - go on. Live it up." Susie said, slapping him on the full, firm ass.

"Yeah. Yeah - I think I will." Steve said. Picking up the light (probably foam-filled) bra-encased 'tits', he slid his arms through the straps, holding the huge, round 'tits' against his chest...

...before he could suggest it - or change his mind - Susie reached around him, her face practically buried in his 'cleavage', and snapped the bra closed.

Instantly, the 'tits' fused to his chest, and Steve felt the flood of sensations transmitted through them, even as the surprising weight of the massive - and now, real - tit hauled him forward and off balance, He stumbled, his body pressing against Susie's before - with her help - he managed to catch his balance and stand upright against the drag of his massive new tits.

"Damn - these are heavy!" He said, cupping his massive new tits, and feeling the pressure transmitted through the tits themselves. It was a new and definitely interesting sensation.

Awkwardly, he reached behind him - using his previous experience of cross-dressing - to fumble for the snaps, while feeling the heavy drag of his new tits pulling at him in a new and unaccustomed manner.

To his surprise, the clasps undid easily, and the bra dropped away.

Revealing his massive, round tits in all their glory. They were firm and almost spherical, and his new nipples quickly responded to being bared to the cool air, swelling outwards. They were absolutely huge, in scale to his massive new tits. They were easily as big - erect - as three-quarters of his thumb in length, and slightly thicker around than that digit.

"Wow..." Steve said as his hands roamed over the surface of the massive boobs, his thick fingers lightly squeezing the massive, swollen nipples, causing him to shiver at the decidedly pleasurable sensation created by the motion.

"They do have their uses." Susie said, eyeing his new endowments with a strange look. Reaching out, she hefted his huge tits, grunting slightly at the weight. "Wow - they are heavy..." She said, letting her smaller hands slid up the round curve of the breast and flicked Steve's thick new nipples."

"Hey!" Steve said at the mixed sensation that made.

"Just... interested." Susie said, looking somewhat - and, somehow, somewhat theatrically - hurt. "This is kind of a new and interesting situation for me, too."

"Sorry." Steve apologized - then his mind jumped back to something. "What have you got in you pocket, anyway?" She blinked. "Huh?"

"I felt something thick and hard when I fell against you." He explained. "What was that."

She waved a hand dismissively. "Oh - the dildo. You know - the one that your dick became?"

"Oh!" Steve said in startled understanding. He blinked - he hadn't realized that his dick felt that big when pressed against a thigh... Then again, his thigh had changed dimensions, and maybe that was what was throwing off his perspective.

Shrugging the thought away, he bent down to retrieve his bra...

...and barely managed to keep from crashing face-first into the floor, slapping his hands down to stop the inertia-and-gravity aided descent that his new tits provided, making his motion much faster than he'd anticipated.

Shaking his head at his stupidity at not anticipating the effect of his massive new tits, he grasped the bra then slowly strained upright, feeling like somebody had strapped a fifty-pound bag of milk to his chest. His back muscles twinged at the strain, but he got upright all right, and he decided that - to ease some of the drag of the tits - it would be a good idea to keep the bra on. Contorting, he got the garment on and done up, finding that it took a different sequence than he was used to to get the massive underwire bra in place, especially over his huge, now engorged nipples, which were - quite pleasantly - compressed by the straining fabric.

"Well - this is certainly... interesting." Steve said, fondling his massive, bra-encased boobs and already mildly regretting choosing the most massive of the available options.

"So.." Susie started to say.

Steve held up a finger, gesturing silence. Blinking, she did as he instructed, then watched as he waved her over to the phone. Not wanting the drag of gravity to affect him unduly, he bent his knees and kept his back ramrod straight as he crouched beside the bed table. With a bemused look, Susie joined him.

Steve made a rolling motion with his hand, a 'go on' sort of thing.

Frowning, Susie said in a questioning tone. "So - I wonder what happens next?" The phone rang.

Wiggling his eyebrows up and down under his glasses, Steve made a 'be my guest' motion at the phone. Shaking her head, Susie picked up the phone. "Hello?"

She listened for a moment, then hung up, a bemused expression on her face. "How...?"

He shrugged. "Hey, it's as if there's a magical spell on us. Not only does anything I put on become part of my changing feminine body, but any time somebody says..." he paused. "...that phrase, then we get new instructions."

"Ah..." Susie said, nodding. "Okay - just chuck logic and go with the flow, huh?"

"Works for me." Steve said with a shrug - which caused an interesting expression to cross his face as he experienced the motion the movement created in his massively expanded chest, especially the way his still-swollen new nipples moves over the surface of the fabric.

"This will take some getting used to." He told Susie sheepishly. "So - what were the new instructions?"

"Well, we've got a choice. I was given two addresses to pick from - one's a tattoo parlor, the other's a... 'special' bar-slash-club."

Steve winced at having to go out in public like this. There was no way of hiding his huge new bust - another mark against it- and his face and arms weren't feminine enough to get away with playing a 'normal' woman. What might be possible if he were to 'en femme' in his normal body became hard to reconcile in his new form, which looked like a slender, huge-breasted woman from the waist down, but was bulkier and much more raw-boned up top.

"Uh..." Steve considered the question. He didn't have a clue about this bar - but he had an idea what a tattoo parlor might lead into, and he wasn't interested. "Let's try the bar."

"Okay." Susie said, agreeably. "Throw something on, and let's go."

Somewhat taken aback by the brisk command, Steve shrugged and looked for the most 'inconspicuous' outfit in the closet.

He settled on a black leather skirt that came about midway down his altered thighs and a black turtle-neck sweater that helped hide the differences between his feminized and normal body parts. He figured he'd just have to 'make-due' with his face the way it was.

They took his car, simply because it was the one that was last in the driveway. Locking the house, they headed out to the Grand Am, Susie sliding into the driver's seat. Steve slipped into the passenger's seat and began to buckle up - then grimaced and loosened the belt to accommodate his new 'frontal emplacements'. They headed off, Steve's heart slowly increasing its tempo as they drew closer and closer to the destination, wondering what he was going to encounter, and what would be the final outcome of this incredible, amazing day.

Susie drove, having received the instructions, and it was a good thing she did - he might never have found the alley that she pulled into. He winced as the car barely cleared the walls of the run-down tenements on either side, then the alley opened up into a parking lot surrounded by brick walls on all side. She parked the car and shut off the ignition.

"Here we are." She announced.

"Okay..." Steve said, looking around as he climbed out of the car, his huge new bust swaying despite the restraint the bra provided. Susie led the way to a massive black steel door embedded in a brick wall. There was no handle on the door, no sign - nothing.

Susie merely stood in front of the door, and Steve was about to suggest they knock or something when there was a series of muffled 'thuds', and the door swung open, spilling music out into the night.

Hesitantly, Steve followed Susie into the darkened interior, the door swinging shut behind them of it's own accord and the thick bolts locking shut.

"Look!" Susie said, pointing to a large sign mounted on the wall. Steve leaned closer to read it, barely remembering to counter-pull against the mass of his new tits.

THE LUCRE CLUB PHILOSOPHY

Everything is for sale. Any patron may offer to sell anything, legal or not, and anything may be purchased upon agreement of the price.

All payment is through automated debit/credit, payable in cash upon time of exit.

RULES

1. There is a hundred dollar ($100.00) per-person fee to the HOUSE upon entering that must be paid before exit is granted.
2. The SELLER always sets the price. DICKERING IS SEVERELY FROWNED UPON.
3. Once a BUYER agrees to the SELLER'S set price NEITHER PARTY MAY BACK OUT OF THE TRANSACTION.
4. Any disputes WILL be settled by the HOUSE.
5. Within these walls, the terms ILLEGAL and/or IMMORAL have no meaning. ('Fattening' may still apply, however.)
6. NO COERCION is acceptable in the initial transactions. (It may be applicable to ENFORCE a transaction - or may be an integral part of the transaction, however.)
7. Availability of refreshments, alcoholic beverages and other such consumable ARE NOT provided/regulated by the HOUSE, but the sole providence of such SELLERS who have had the foresight to establish such services. HOWEVER - the first drink is on the HOUSE.

Steve read the sign again, then turned to Susie. "I don't believe this. If nothing else, we have to pony up a hundred bucks a piece before we're allowed to leave? We didn't bring that much cash!"

Susie seemed unconcerned. "So? We'll sell something. You read the sign - we can offer anything we want for sale, and see if anybody buys."

Steve spread his hands. "What the hell are we going to sell?" Susie smiled oddly. "We'll think of something."

The continued on into the club, finding themselves at a gate that barred further progress. It looked out into a cavernous club that was part gentleman's club, part flea market and part... orgy.

To the right of the gate, a booth stood with a bored-looking man inside, dressed in a 'guard uniform' made of blue leather. "Get your Credit/Debit transceivers here and..." He began in a bored drone.

Debbie held up her arm. "We already have them, buddy-boy. Open your eyes - and open the gate." Startled by her brusque manner, it took Steve a second to realized what Susie was showing the guard...

...a watch, identical to the one he wore on his wrist. He frowned, realizing that she'd received some addition instructions, probably while getting the 'tits'.

The guard's manner changed. "Sorry, Miss - didn't know you were already a member." He glanced at Steve's wrist, then nodded to himself and hit a button that caused the gate to swing open, allowing them entrance to the club proper.

"Susie?" Steve asked, tapping her 'watch'.

"I'll explain later, love..." She said in a distracted tone, looking around. "We're supposed to mingle. I have things I have to do, and so do you."

"Oh? What do I have to do?" Steve asked, slightly miffed - then shrugged it off, figuring that she'd been instructed to keep her 'additional' information secret for some reason.

"Why..." Susie said with a mysterious grin. "Finish your 'look', of course. You can buy everything you need here, after all. Just try and keep your deals in the 'reasonable' range - you'll have to pay off your purchases before you can leave, remember?"

She gave him a quick peck on the cheek, then wandered off into the crowd.

She was gone before the fact that she'd avoided saying 'we' registered. Blinking, Steve looked around, trying to sort out the throng of humanity that moved around the club.

The place was roughly the same size and general architectural style as the main concourse of Grand Central station - but the mix of people filling it would have seemed odd even there, the dress ranging from ultra-conservative to nothing at all, and with people doing just about anything at all. Steve had never seen anything like it, and it was like an assault on his senses.

The only 'good' news was that there was absolutely nothing about his current appearance that would attract a second look from this crowd. Picking a direction at random, he began to move through the crowd, keeping his eyes open and trying to decide what he was going to do. He had a rough sense of what was expected - he was to buy things that would complete his transformation - but the specifics of the change were up to him to work out.

He almost passed the slender, elegant woman laying on the divan, smoking a long cigarette in a black holder. She was dressed in an elegantly simple sea-blue velvet dress that must have cost a fortune, and her free hand was fondling the chest of the muscular man sitting on the floor.

It was that hand that caught Steve's attention.

It was clad in a glove. An opera-length glove of black satin, to be exact, trimmed at the top end with evenly spaced rhinestones.

At least - he assumed they were rhinestones. Guestimating the worth of the dress again, he thought suddenly that they might be the actual gemstone rather than a cheap substitute.

Well - nothing ventured, nothing gained. He walked closer, clearing his throat.

Her eyes swung to look at him, dark and smoldering. They flicked up and down his body, pausing at the massive chest that strained the sweater, then the incongruous, bespectacled face that topped it all off.

"Yes?" She said in a slow, eloquent British accent that actually made it sound more like 'MMMMNnnyeESSS?"

Steve smiled. "I was just admiring your gloves..."

"Really?" She asked languidly. "I, myself, was rather unsure of them when I dressed this morn. I thought perhaps these..." She reached into a bag of some sort on the far side of the divan and produced another pair of opera gloves.

These one were a rich, dark blue, and tracing up them in entwining patterns were small rows of white stitching that formed criss- crossing diamond patterns.

"What do you think, dear? More apropos?" She asked, eyeing him with interest.

Steve considered the question. "No - I think the black ones were the right choice." He told her, slowly. "They complement your gown, rather than 'coordinate' with it - and the simplicity makes a statement that the other ones would have failed to make. They're too..." He fumbled for the correct word.

"Gauche?" She said with a slow smile.

Steve shrugged - and again felt the sensation that created. Ignoring it, he said "Actually, 'busy' is what came to mind, but the idea is the same."

"Yes, I quite agree, my dear - thank you for setting my mind at ease. Life is too long to let these rather trivial things worry one for long, is it not?"

Steve nodded - and even that caused a new sensation, his now long, silky mane brushing over his neck.

"I will tell you what, dear - for your assistance, I shall allow you to buy these gloves..." She tilted the deep-blue satin gloves in his direction. "...for a mere twenty-five dollars. Agreeable?"

Steve considered. The black ones were actually more to his interest, but....

She cocked her head, reading his expression. "Perhaps you are right - they are too 'busy' for you as well. I will sell you a pair nearly identical to the ones that I am wearing for eight hundred dollars, if you wish. The diamond chips, I'm sure you must understand, do force me to rise the price."

Steve flinched at the figure she named for the black ones. "no - I think those ones will do." He said, pointing to the blue ones - after all, he was looking to change his arms, not necessarily win the 'best dressed' award of the evening.

"Splendid." The woman said, holding out her arm, on which the watch was resting, matching her outfit beautifully. "Um " Steve looked mildly embarrassed.

"Ah, of course." the British woman said, tilting her head. "Merely 'set' the watch to the amount to be debited from you standing account. The 'second' hand is tens of dollars, the 'minute' hand hundreds, the other thousands."

Steve brought his arm up and examined the watch, only now noticing that the numerals on the face only had eleven numbers, (0-10) rather than twelve. In a few seconds, he figured out the system, and he spun the hands via the knob on the side. Pulling it out three stops moved the thousand hand, which he set on 'zero'. Pushing it in one stop allowed him to do the same with the hundred's hand, then he spun the tens hand half-past two.

He then held his writ out, and the elegant woman pressed her own watch against his, face to face.

When he looked at his watch, Steve found that all hands were now set on 'zero' - and the outside bezel had spun slightly, the arrow now pointing a touch past the first tick. It dawned on Steve that the ticks each signified thousands of dollars - and he wondered about the buy-and-sell of some things in here.

Taking a deep breath, he slid the gloves on under the sleeves of the sweater he wore...

..and felt the tingle of the change as he gained feminine arms up to his shoulder.

Twenty minutes later, thos shoulders matched his arms, as the purchase of a pair of women's shoulder pads converted the real mass of his shoulders under the sweater to an illusion that the pads provided over his slender new shoulders.

Or 'her' new shoulders. The search for the rest of the necessary items required some social interaction, and almost instinctively, Steve found himself using the name he usually did when in women's clothing - Jennifer. He began to fall into that certain 'mood' that 'playing' at being female always brought out in him - although he'd never 'played' it this well before.

A studded leather collar gave him a feminine voice - although, to late, he realized that getting one with a gold 'dog tag' bearing the legend 'Silly Silicone Slut' hadn't been the best move, as his new, feminine voice was higher pitched - and more 'brainless' sounding - then he would have liked.

However, that was a mere inconvenience compared to the 'face' he ended up with. Several 'other' women had come with masks of various styles, as if attending a masquerade ball. The vast majority of them were filigreed half-masks, some with feathers or pearls, but two of the women had incredibly detailed, realistic-looking masks.

However, the one with the 'elegantly beautiful' mask wasn't keen on giving it up, asking for two thousand dollars, while the one with the almost caricature-like mask seemed almost eager to get rid of it, letting the mask with its tiny nose, huge blue eyes and full, red lips go for a song - thirty bucks.

So - 'Jennifer' ended up with a face that more than matched the voice she had.

But it completed her change, and that was the important part, for now. Finished - and only a couple hundred in the whole - she began to search for Susie, asking people if they'd seen her by describing her.

Finally, somebody pointed her towards a slender, rather arrogant looking man resting in an armchair, saying that he'd been speaking to her until a few minutes ago,

Jennifer walked over, and opened her mouth to introduce herself.

"Ah, my dear Steve - I must say I like your final choices, although that ensemble is simply ludicrous." He paused. "Or should I call you Jennifer now?"

"How..?" Steve gasped, surprised.

The man smiled. "because I'm a wizard. A real, wave-my-hands-and-do-magic wizard. And the architect of your and Susie's little adventure."

"What?" Jennifer blurted. "Where is she? What's going on? How... Why..."

the man waved a hand. "She is fine - she'd merely off getting 'prepared' for her little part in earning her way out of here. In the meantime, let me introduce myself. I am Roland..."

"I don't care what your name is." Jennifer said in annoyance. "I want some explanations!"

"You see," Roland explained dryly. "one of the restrictions placed on my enormous power is that I can only use it on mortals who enter into it 'voluntarily' - that is, without direct magical 'force'. Technically, you 'voluntarily' proceeded along the way - through ignorance at first, then through your own personality." He grinned devilishly. "I more or less counted on that, dear fellow - it was why I chose you. Not allowed to use magic to find a suitable candidate who lived in the area, I used the Internet, and tracked you down through your stories and participation on the TG-related Internet sites. It worked out more or less as I planned, actually."

Jennifer tried her best to glare at the slender man, but her new face simply wasn't suited for the task. "So?" she asked in her new voice. "What's your plan for me then?"

Roland smiled. "Actually, I mean you no real harm. It's merely that I have to fulfill a deal I foolishly made while under the influence. You see, I agreed to supply a certain person with a chance to see a staged fantasy - or, rather, any one of the half-dozen he wished to see. Now, if you 'voluntarily' go into the change room and pick any of the costumes there to wear, you'll then find yourself locked into playing out the associated fantasy for that costume."

"And if I don't?" Jennifer asked.

Roland shrugged. "Then you are trapped here until you are able to earn enough to leave - and you will remain trapped in that body, for the rest of your life. However, should you do this 'little' favor, then I will pay you and dear, dear Suzie handsomely for it. Furthermore, you will then be able to switch between your 'real' identities and these ones quite easily - you will be able to 'remove' this body at will, as if it were a body suit, then put it back on and will it 'real' at any time. So - a handsome reward if you comply, and, if you don't..." He trailed off expressively.

Jennifer sighed angrily - not that it looked that way to anyone watching, of course - knowing that there was really no choice at all. So - she would 'volunteer'.

"That room, there?" She asked, pointing one finger at the door he'd indicated. "Yes, dear girl - that one." Roland said with a victorious smile.

Shaking her head, the huge-breasted blonde ex-man turned and jiggled and swayed over to the door and went through.

She found herself standing in a small room with two doors - the one she'd entered through, and one on the far wall. One each of the other walls, three open-fronted lockers held costumes.

Jennifer examined each of the costumes, her full, gloss-red lips curling at the 'selection' that was 'available'.

There was a 'cheerleader' outfit - but you'd never see a cheerleader dressed like this on any sports field, aside from the one Hugh Hefner had at his mansion, maybe.

Then there was the 'cop' outfit that would get you arrested in any city in the country - with the possible exception of Las Vegas, of course.

The third costume on the right-hand wall was the quintessential 'French maid' routine that fueled teenage boys fantasies throughout western 'civilization, with the possible exception of actual French teenagers, who might know better.

The ones hanging on the other wall were no better. There was a 'business' outfit that would never be seen in a Fortune 500 boardroom, a Nurse's uniform that could cause cardiac arrest in older 'patients', and...

..and...

the final costume didn't fit into any clearly define role, as the others did. Instead, it was a fantasy onto itself, and Jennifer leaned closer for a better look, afraid to actually touch any of the costumes before she'd made her choice.

Resting in the bottom of the locker was a pair of silver leather boots that rose to a height that could only end up being thigh-high on her, if she wore them. They sported three inch platforms that were made of clear plastic, and a matching nine-inch stiletto heel rose from the back of each boot. A series of chrome buckles-and-snaps rose up the outside three-quarter edge at the front of the boot to hold them on to the wearer's feet and legs.

Hanging from the hook was a pair of silver spandex shorts that were cut in the classic 'French' pattern, basically a triangle of material at the front and a slightly large one at the back, held together by a narrow join at the bottom point and by a black elastic band that ran along the top. Also hanging on the hook was a silver spandex crop-top that looked like it might - might - cover her massive tits.

Sitting on the shelf just below this hook was a corset. A black leather corset with silver 'ribs' and silver snaps and buckles on the side in place of lacing at the back.

Also resting on the shelf was a pair of silver leather 'sleeves' that had buckles and clasps up the sides, but would leave the hands themselves free. The top end flared out sharply to a rounded point, matching those at the top front of the boots. Also resting on the shelf was a pair of silver-rimmed, slanted-oval sunglasses with lenses that were alternating bands of silver-and-black tinting. There was also a silver leather choker necklace with a bright blue 'jewel' in the center of it in a silver setting.

Jennifer looked at the odd ensemble for a long moment, wondering what fantasy went along with the outfit. She was pretty sure what to expect in terms of what the others represented - but this one was a mystery.

That was the deciding factor. Not particularly interested in any of the other scenarios, this one at least offered a chance to satisfy her curiosity.

Shrugging, Jennifer quickly stripped out of the clothes she was wearing and struggled into the outfit from the locker, fumbling with all the buckles, catches and snaps on the outfit. Her final act was to pull on the bejeweled choker and clasp it into place.

That was her last voluntary action for the duration. Instantly, she snapped ram-rod upright, her hands dropping to her side as her body went into 'automatic pilot'.

With an incredibly sexy, ass-swinging sway that she'd never be able to manage atop those heels on her own, Jennifer found herself walking over to the other door and opening, stepping through...

...onto a stage that looked like a set from an old 'Flash Gordon' movie. One side of the stage was open to an audience of attentive men and women watching the well-lit stage with enraptured expressions, while the rest of the set was done up in what a director from the 'fifties would have thought of as a 'futuristic' spaceship interior.

Standing center-stage was Susie. She was dressed in a skin-tight silver spandex jumpsuit that hugged every single curve of her body...

...including her now enlarged tits, somewhere in the amazingly firm, round, EEE-cup range, even tracing her large, erect nipples...

...and hugging her crotch, and the extremely large, unmistakably phallic bulge that lay there.

Swaying closer to Susie, Jennifer threw a snappy salute while wiggling her torso, causing her tits to jiggle and sway within the skimpy top she wore.

"Crew-girl Jenni Juggs reporting for duty, Cap'n Suckmeoff!" Jennifer - Jenni - reported in her chipper, bimbo-ish voice.

"Just in time, crew-girl Jenni!" Susie replied in a fake - and incredibly sexy - Russian accent that made the words come out as 'Jshust in time, crewl-girl Jshenni!'. "We are about to spiral into Alpha Beta's atmosphere unless we can restart the fusion engine."

"I'll do anything you tell me to, Cap'n honey!" Jenni assured Susie suggestively, earning applause from the audience. "First, open valves one and two!" Susie ordered.

Jiggling and swaying, Jenni went to two large hand-wheels set into the floor of the set, in a row perpendicular to the front of the stage. She stood between the two of them, then - bending from the waist - bent over the first one.

The crowd roared its approval as she began cranking the wheel, displaying a fantastic view of her cleavage as she did so, and the motion making her tits sway back and forth. After about a dozen turns, she stood straight up, then turned in place with jiggly, brainless little steps. She then bent over at the waist, displaying her ass to advantage as she cranked the second wheel, wiggling her ass in time with each crank.

Standing again, she threw another jiggly-salute at her 'commander'. "Done, Cap'n!" "Good!" Susie complimented her. "Now - pump the primer for the reaction chamber!"

Jiggling and swaying, Jenni helplessly made her way over to a big, thick lever protruding from the floor of the stage on an angle. Making a big production of it, she 'demonstrated' that 'poor little her' wasn't strong enough to move the lever, then stood back and looked at it with an exaggerated look of pouty befuddlement on her face.

Then she broke into a sunny smile and snapped her fingers. Throwing on long, sexy leg over the lever, she straddled it and pushed her crotch firmly on it's roundness. Her weight pushed the lever down. She then flexed her legs, pushing herself back up atop the lever's return stroke.

Closing her eyes, she began to fondle her own body and toss her head around, making moaning sounds as she continued to 'pump' the lever, riding it up and down like a very erotic see-saw.

The moans, though unwilling, weren't entirely without justification - her hands were really fondling her transformed body, and it was pleasurable, especially when she fondled her huge, firm tits through the stretchy fabric that barely covered them, her fingers teasing her thick, engorged nipples through the fabric.

Finally, she stepped off the lever and, with another salute, reported that job done, as well.

Suddenly, a red light began to flash and a pipe that ran from the floor to the ceiling on the left side of the stage snapped off near it's bottom, and a thick, clear gel-like liquid began to gush from the rubber-insulator-coated pipe as the top portion of the pipe fell off to the side.

"Stem the flow until I can get the computer to shut the valves!" Susie commanded, running to the control board.

Jenni jiggled over and stared at the leak, then picked up a few obviously-unsuitable objects and consider them as stoppers before disposing of them.

Finally, looking worried, she tore off her top and dropped down beside the fifteen-inch long pipe thrust from the floor and tried to plug it with the scrap of fabric, which was immediately washed out of the way by the gushing, thick fluid.

So she knelt down and shoved her tits together and placed them atop the fountain.

The pressure of the goo forced a stream of it up through her cleavage at just enough pressure to allow it to ooze out of the top of her cleavage and down all sides of her huge, round tits, quickly coating them in a thick layer of clear ooze. She remained like that for a moment later, until Susie told her that the pressure was cut.

Rising, Jenni began to massage the thick, glistening liquid over her huge, round orbs, making wholly honest sound of pleasure as her hands worked over the slick, sensitive flesh of her huge tits.

"Now - we need to regain a vacuum in the primary system to restart the engine. Connect the house to the outer vent, Crew-girl Juggs!"

"Aye-aye, Cap'n!" Jenni replied. She opened a storage locked and remove a long black rubber hose. Walking over to a spigot that bore an overly large sign reading 'WARNING - THROUGH-HULL FITTING', she attached one end. Then she carried the other end over to the other wall and flipped open an access hatch, revealing a 'probe' that was about fourteen inches long, as thick around as her wrists, and with a decidedly phallic end. She started to connect the hose...

...and it was a couple of inches too short. Frowning, she tried again, then tossed it aside and looked at the phallic-looking connection while the audience began to laugh in anticipation.

They weren't disappointed.

Stepping up, she wrapped her hands around the base of the plastic 'fitting' and sucked the thick phallic probe into her mouth.

Sucking in until her cheeks hollowed, she made a big show of sucking as she slowly moved her head back until it was just barely enclosing the end of the 'fitting', then quickly moved forward, adding body language as she repeated the cycle.

There was a 'thrum.. thrum.. thrum... cough.' Sound from behind the wall.

She continued the cycle, faster and more 'passionately' every time, each time getting a longer, more powerful sound, like an engine just about to catch. She continued to 'blow' the fitting vigorously, now basically face-fucking it with an incredible show of sucking with stunning skill at the phallic probe...

...and the unseen engine roared into life, accompanied by mixed laughter and cheers from the audience.

Some women were given the blow-job description that they were able to 'suck-start a leaf blower'. She'd just suck-started a spaceship.

"Very good..." Susie began.. then a pipe on the far wall, about sixteen inches around and twelve inches long where it ran from the base fitting to the top fitting, suddenly burst, a hole appearing in its side as more of that thick, clear liquid gushed out.

"It couldn't take the extra pressure!" the 'captain' cried. She tore off her uniform - which came off with suspicious ease - and used it to plug the whole, getting coated in a coat of the gleaming goo that managed to cover every inch of her except her hair.

"But it'll never hold!" Susie cried. "I've exposed myself to the effect Glastinine has on my race for no purpose!"

Jenni mimed having a brilliant idea, then whipped off her corset. Now naked to the waist, she ran to the pipe, tits bouncing and swaying. Wrapping the corset around the pipe - where it fit perfectly, to the inch - she buckled it up, holding the captain's uniform in the gap.

"Sheer genius, Jenni- but it's too late for me, I'm afraid. The effects of exposure all already starting." "You don't mean...?" Jenni gasped, hands flying to her cheeks.

"Yes - hypercumiosis!" Susie said. "Even now, I can feel the pressure building..."

Her now revealed cock began to stir, the massive member swiftly becoming erect. "...and soon I shall die of the pressure!" "No, Captain!" Jenni cried. "I shall save you! I can ease the pressure!"

She found herself all but dragging Susie to a couch-like bench in the center of the stage and forcing her to lay on it, head towards the audience. The couch 'just happened' to be below a forty-five degree, highly reflective 'roofing panel' that gave a perfect 'birds eye' view of the couch as Jenni swung her leg over her captain...

...and impaled herself completely on her huge, thick cock.

Moaning, Jenni began to thrust herself up and down on the thick, hot cock, feeling the incredible friction that caused bolts of pleasure to race through her body as she drove herself up and down on the cock, her muscular, sexy legs flexing inside her boots as she rode Susie, crying out in pleasure that wasn't at all fake. Incredible sensations coursed through her as she fucked Susie hard and deep, her huge tits bouncing as she fondled and squeezed Susie's new, not-inconsiderable endowments. Soon, she was returning that favor for Jenni.

Pleasure rolled through her glistening, writhing body, building and building as she fucked Susie with abandon, not knowing if it was the spell causing her to do it, or if she was doing this of her own free will. If it had been anybody else, she would have been utterly disgusted - but this was completely different, and the pleasure... it wasn't more, really, then sex as a male, but it was so different, so new...

...so.. wonderful...

Jenni screamed in orgasmic ecstasy as the pleasure reached it's climax and rolled through her body, leaving her to slump against the slick, well-endowed body of her lover as Susie's cock gushed warm cum into her new womanhood.

The audience was applauding madly as the two women lay intertwined, their lips pressed firmly together as they kissed passionately, a wholly voluntary act...

Then the sound of the applause faded, and there was a sudden 'shifting' sensation, and they broke the kiss to stare at one another in surprise.

They were sitting, naked, on the couch in their living room, their bodies completely and utterly normal.

"wha..?" Steve said, disorientated. He glanced around, trying to adapt to the sudden jump in gender, location and situation. Then his eyes fell on what appeared to be a deflated blow-up doll - and recognized the features.

Stunned, he picked up the 'skin' of Jennifer, turning it over in his hands. A zipper ran up the body from crotch to chin, leaving no doubt how it was designed to be put on.

"That was..." Steve said, searching for adequate words - and failing. "Yeah." Susie said, gaping at her own, deflated 'alter ego'.

Steve searched for words to explain his feeling, to describe what he thought - to explain that, although he didn't want to do it right now, he was already looking forward to the next time he would be Jennifer.

Before he could begin, though, there was a muffled whirring sound, and their heads whipped around to gape at the TV, which flared to life as the tape in the VCR began to play.

The screen remained blank for a second. Then a picture flared to life...

...showing a set that looked like an escapee from a fifty's sci-fi movie, with a 'woman' in a silver jumpsuit in the middle of the set, looking at a door that had just opened on one side, to reveal an incredible vision of blonde - and bimbo-ish - femininity.

Sharing a look, the two lovers lay the skins aside for the moment and leaned against each other, hands idly roaming over each other's body as they watched their alter-egos go through the scene...

* * * * *

Well, that's the whole story, as I heard it from Steve. Not that I believe a word of it, mind you - Steve's known writer of fiction, which - after all, I should know - is only another way of saying 'Professional Liar'.

The thing is.. how I came to hear the story.

See - I went out to get my paper this morning.. and found a box on my doorstep. A plain-brown-paper wrapped box, tied with twine.

A box that contained three pairs of lady's gloves - sort of.

Now, this box sort of confused me, what with no note or return address. So, I started contacting some of my friends and acquaintances to try and track them down.. and when I reached Steve, that's when I got this whole, utterly unbelievable story.

He's pulling my leg. I'm sure if it. Maybe he sent the box, and this is all an elaborate joke, or maybe he doesn't have a clue and just spun the story out of thin air for a laugh. I don't know.

But putting on a pair of gloves.. won't do a damned thing. In fact, I'm going to prove that by putting on a pair right now.

Hmmm... But which pair? The pair of lady's elbow-length 'evening gloves', in a rather racy shade of red satin and with fringe trim up the outside?

Or maybe the women's black leather motorcycle gauntlets, with the chains over the wrists and the little gold letters on each knuckle. The ones that spell 'B-I-K-E-R' on the right glove, and 'B-I-T-C-H' on the other.

Or maybe the really strange ones. The realistic-looking flesh-toned latex ones that even have long, bright red fake nails affixed to the end of each finger.

I just can't seem to decide. Any suggestions...?

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A macho guy talks about the type of girl he likes to his over sensitive roommate and suddenly finds that a spell has transformed him, but his roommate doesn't seem to know how to treat the new bimbo.

Demonstrative

By Gunslinger

With forlorn eyes, Jeff watched from the walkout as the red glow of taillights turned the corner at the end of the street. Shoulders, held square in a sad effort, slumped, and the somewhat portly young man heaved a heavy sigh and went through the sliding glass doors...

...where he found Nick laughing his proverbial ass off.

"Oh, Jeff, you're such a sweet guy..." The swarthy Italian-American mocked, in a fair imitation of Luanne's voice. He extended his arms in a much sharper, harder version of the gentle push Luanne had so recently made on the porch when Jeff, nervously, had leaned in for a 'end of date' kiss. "It's just that... I don't think of you 'that way'. You're... more... like..."

Unlike the original conversation he was mocking, Nick couldn't complete it in one fell swoop, his laughter breaking out anew. His handsome face alight with malicious enjoyment, he struggled to get the 'punchline' to the cruel joke out between his laughs.

"...a ...a ...a brother!" He finally managed - and then went into convulsions of laughter at the look on his sandy-haired roommate's face.

"It's not very funny." Jeff said, stiffly, rather pathetically drawing himself up to his rather unimpressive full height.

"You kiddin' me, book-worm?" Nick chortled, settling back onto the couch. "It's fuckin' hilarious, is what it is. Watching you try an' score... I swear, Jeff, you'd probably have better luck hittin' on lesbians. Hell, you're practically a god-damn fuckin' chick yourself."

"I am not a woman." Jeff said, pointedly hitting the final word with an edge of emphasize.

"Well, ex-uuuuuuse me!" Nick said, slapping a hand theatrically against his forehead. He grinned, nastily. "I forgot babes don't like to be called chicks babe."

"I am not a woman!" Jeff repeated, albeit angrily and with a different emphasis. Part of him knew that he should just leave, before it got worse but Nick had an uncanny knack for 'pushing buttons', a skill honed to a fine edge by long and constant use, and the thread of anger kept Jeff from giving the arrogantly self-conscious young man the point by default.

"Really?" Jeff asked, smirking. He waved a hand around the modest, first-floor apartment they shared. "You take a good look at the place recently?"

It was one of Nick's favorite 'hot buttons'. When they'd first moved in, Nick had more or less held sway over decorating by the simple default that Jeff was flat broke after making his share of first-and-last. The original decor had been 'Early Bachelor', with more than a hint of 'Late American Depraved' tossed in.

Since then, Jeff had been fighting a slow, uphill battle to get at least the living/dining-room area 'livable'. Some of the more objectionable items of decor Jeff had managed to get Nick to move into the master bedroom with en-suite he'd taken as his own - but Nick never passed up the opportunity to rag on Jeff for what they'd been replaced with. If he'd been able to afford it, Jeff would have moved out long ago - but, barely staying afloat as it was, he could do nothing but grind his teeth when Nick went on.

"For cris'sakes, Jeff - fairies and unicorns?" Nick said, gesturing at the artwork that had replaced his original framed posters of scantily-clad, surgically-enhanced women draped suggestively over various motorcycles.

Jeff's lips tightened, but he forbade pointing out - yet again - that the prints on the wall were poster-sized reproductions of the incomparable Hildebrandt illustrations for Tolkien's books. After all, Nick hadn't even known Lord of The Rings was based on famous literature, until Jeff had told him.

Besides, he thought to himself, looking at 'The Return of Gandalf', there was nary a unicorn to be found among them...

"...and the rest of this crap!" Nick snorted, picking up one of the inexpensive 'knickknacks' Jeff had purchased at a second-hand shop to help liven up the place. Idly, he played with the battered brass curio Jeff had so painstakingly buffed back into gleaming brightness. Fingers toying with the permanently out-of-kilter scale of the statuette entitle 'Karmic Balance', he momentarily looked pensive - and the reason why the dark-haired young man who many women thought looked like an Italian version of 'Young Elvis' could charm women and men alike when he wished to became painfully clear.

Then the moment passed, and that cruel little smile returned to Nick's pouting, mobile lips.

"Unfortunately, you're completely unsalvageable, book-worm." Nick said in a heavy-handed parody of regret. "There's nothing I could do at this point to make a real man outta'ya. I mean, you're so far gone, you actually care how women feels."

Theatrically, he heaved a sigh.

"Frankly, man, you're making real men, like me, look bad." He said, gesturing with the statuette. "Puttin' funny thoughts in babe's heads, like that what they may or may not like matters, an' shit."

Ignoring - or, rather, enjoying - Jeff's white-faced look of anger, Nick turned and started to return the small curio to its place.

"I tell you, man..." Nick said, looking back over his shoulder. "I wish there was some way to make you see how great my kinda babe is to have hangin' around."

Jeff opened his mouth for an angry retort - but never got the chance.

Instead, the opened mouth sagged, and the eyes originally narrowed in anger grew wider and wider as he beheld the utterly impossible.

"What the...?" Nick gasped, staring in horror down at the glowing, golden mist that was impossibly seeping from the statuette he still held. It sparkled and shimmered as it slowly churned and swirled around him, gradually hiding him within its eerie radiance.

"What the fuck is happening?" He shouted, voice raw with the beginnings of panic as he struggled to release the glowing curio. "Stop it! Goddamn it, this isn't fucking possible!"

Now the golden glow had completely encased Nick, obscuring him behind its shimmering curtain, until he was little more than a dark shadow at its center - and as Jeff stared, frozen in position in disbelief, Nick's voice came out of that cloud, screaming a long, drawn-out denial that rose in pitch and softened even though it became sharper with utter terror.

Then the glow simply vanished - and the once-more mundane statuette tumbled from the nerveless fingers of the person sitting on the couch.

A person who's similarities to Nick Diamato only served to emphasize the vast differences.

The hair, though still a rich, glossy black, was now both much finer, individually, and much thicker, overall - and the considerably more voluminous mane was now also quite wavy, falling in a luxurious cascade almost all the way down to the couch.

The skin, though still dusky and olive-tinged, was now also smoother, almost flawlessly perfect - and the lips, still full and pouty, were much more luscious given their even fuller, more sensual shape, especially with that deep, glossy red lipstick against the flawless complexion. Dark, rich purple eye-shadow served to highlight eyes that were still dark, but now sultry behind the veil of the long, thick lashes coated the same black as the eyeliner.

Tall and toned and slender was still an operable description for the person on the couch - and yet in a completely different meaning - as was the newly-reconsidered of the phrase 'spectacularly well-endowed', a phrase Nick had always proudly used for himself.

Now, there was nothing particularly proud in the individual's demeanor as slender, long-fingered hands, each tipped with a long nail the same deep, glossy red as her lips, splayed over a truly impressive bust-line.

"Holy, shit, dude...!" The woman exclaimed in a rich, melodic voice which was smoky and seductive, even in shock. "I'm a chick!"

Jeff couldn't think of a single, 'good' way to respond to that - so, almost involuntarily, continued gaping wide-eyed at the incredible figure of a woman who'd replaced his obnoxious roommate on the couch.

More than just the physique and gender of the person on the couch had undergone a change - so had the clothing encasing that spectacular new figure. It was a change that well-displayed the new attributes the stunned woman had in spades.

In place of tight black jeans was a black leather skirt that encased wide, well-rounded hips - and displayed an awful lot of long, black- nylon encased leg, right down to where the crossed-over straps of her black platform shoes criss-crossed her smooth lower shins and shapely ankles, before terminating in the three-inch platforms and eight-inch heels.

Given that the woman was in the same half-turned, crouched-on-the-couch position Nick had been in before the golden glow, it was easy to see that those nylons featured a seam running up the back of them - and that, just barely under the hem of the skirt, they boasted black lace trim at the top.

Trim, that from his vantage point it was easy for Jeff to see, that matched the thong panties she wore under that self-same skirt.

Though her delectably full, firm ass was pointed almost directly at Jeff, her torso was twisted - giving him a good, profile view of the huge, firmly-round breasts. Since the top she wore was an interesting garment featuring an integral black leather waist-cincher below the black stretch-velvet tank-style upper portion, there was no 'overhang', the garment molding itself perfectly to those bosoms, and displaying perhaps the outer quarter of them to his view.

The she turned and dropped down in her seat - and he could see the neck-line of the garment actually meant that the inverted 'V' of each half of the garment, the broad base just above the corset narrowing to the top, where they tied behind her slender neck, was barely enough to cover perhaps a third of each magnificent mammary, with a deep display of cleavage left over.

Around her neck hung a gold chain which, in the center, bore some letters - and somehow, Jeff managed to find the willpower to raise his eyes that high and read the gleaming letters:

NIKKI

"Nuh..." Jeff said - then, clearing his throat, made a more successful attempt at meaningful communication with this gorgeous, dusky- skinned vision of pure sensuality: "Nick?"

"Of course I'm Nikki! Who else would..." She started to answer, both hotly and sensuously - and then she stumbled to a stop, a stricken look coming to her face.

"Nikki. Nikki. Nickkinikkinik - shit!" She said, hands roaming disbelievingly - and erotically - over her body as she struggled with her name. She looked up at Jeff.

"You know what name I'm trying to say, you gorgeous hunk!" She said, in exasperation - and then blinking. She hesitated a second, then pushed herself off the couch with one sensual, fluid motion.

"Jeff, you hot stud, there's something wrong!" She told him, urgently, pausing to lick her full lips seductively. "First I get changed into this hot, gorgeous babe with the huge, spectacular tits..."

She stopped dead as she leaned forward slightly and cupped her massive new endowments enticingly, as if offering them up to him for his enjoyment.

"...now I can't stop acting and talking like you make me incredibly, amazingly, sensationally hot for you." She said, pausing slightly before coming down with almost painfully intense sexual provocation on the word 'hot'. Her hands, leaving her breasts, clenched in frustrated rage for just a second - and then began slowly, sensuously, sliding over her leather-encased hips.

"I can't stop it!" She told him, tone seeming to indicate that the last thing in the world she wanted was to stop. "Jeff, you sexy thing, I'm not really unbelievably turned on by the thought of letting you fuck me any way, anywhere, any time you want. Though I can't keep myself from saying it, I don't really want to wrap my luscious lips around your big, throbbing cock and hungrily suck you off until you pump a hot, thick, delicious load of man-juice down my willing throat."

Jeff made a choking sound as, in describing what she didn't want to do, she did the impossible of making sound as if she actually wanted to do it even more than Jeff wanted to have it done.

As intense erotic and inviting as the words and accompanying motions were, the meaning behind them got through, and Jeff nodded jerkily.

"I.. understand." He said, taking a deep breath - and painfully aware of the bulge in his pants. "Whatever turned you into a woman is making you come onto me - but isn't making you feel the things you're saying, or like the way you're behaving. No matter what you say or do, you're still Nick, inside, and feel the way about doing.. uh, 'stuff'... with me the way Nick always would have felt."

"That's right, hot stuff." She breathed, sensuously, as she slipped down onto the couch. Reaching over, she patted the cushion beside her invitingly.

"Now, whatever you do. Don't sit down here. I wouldn't want to have to then drape myself all over you, fondling and caressing you until your cock was as hard as a bar of iron." She told him, licking her lips and leaning suggestively on the arm in place of where he would have been sitting, hat he taken up the offer her hand had made.

It took a second, but Jeff finally managed to get his brain to make his body understand the words - not the tone they were spoken in, and the actions that accompanied them - were what he should listen to.

Blushing brightly, Jeff instead collapsed into a chair nearby.

"God..." He said, shakily, putting a hand over his eyes. "I need a drink."

He heard a rustling sound - and looked up to find Nikki sensuously rising and moving towards the kitchen.

"Just because I seem oh-so-eager to please, and do anything you want of me..." She said, over her shoulder, "...that's only because you haven't specifically told me not to. It's not like I want to stand by, ready to fulfill your every whim, and if you just told me that I didn't have to, I could..."

The rest of her sultry 'plea' for him to tell her he'd get it himself was cut off as she passed through the kitchen door.

The apartment just wasn't big enough for her to make the plea, not when she was helplessly driven to 'dress it up' as she was. Shivering slightly, Jeff tried to get himself to focus on the situation at hand.

As strange and disturbing as this was for Jeff, it had to be a hundred times worse for Nick/Nikki - and yet the very 'curse' laid upon the new woman kept her from expressing even a fraction of what she must be feeling. Whatever force had done this to her was forcing her to 'come on' to him, playing Nick's own ideal woman in nearly every way - and so only the things that could fit into that image could be even obliquely referred to. Jeff doubted very much that there was a sexy, sensual way to have a screaming, cursing fit, or a complete emotional breakdown - because, without a doubt, had there been one, Nikki would have been doing it right now.

In fact, to some degree, she probably was, Jeff realized with a sudden shock that sent him sitting bolt upright in his chair and staring at the kitchen door thoughtfully.

She was out of sight, and as long as she kept her hysterics quite, out of earshot. Since he wasn't present, she was probably allowed a mild attempt to vent her emotions - as long as it didn't take too long.

Definitely the smarter of the two, Jeff understood that, impossible or not, Nick's wish had somehow been granted - but in a way the ex-male never would have desired. Nick's chance to teach Jeff how great 'his' kind of woman was to have around came in the form of Nikki - which limited the new woman's actions and words. After all, Nikki would hardly be great to be around if she were acting the way you'd expect a man unexpectedly transformed into an unbelievably seductive, buxom woman to act.

The thing of it was, Jeff would have found it easier to deal with the new woman if she'd still acted the way Nick had. With her blatant displays of sexuality, it was difficult for him to remind himself who she 'really' was, and how she must 'really' feel inside the imposed facade. His body, at least, certainly considered her 'all woman', that was for damned sure!

The question was - how the hell was he supposed to deal with this?

He was still considering that - and, in fact, had reached a tentative theory about it - when Nikki re-emerged, carrying a glass of whiskey.

"Please, sweet thing - tell me you don't want my full, firm ass grinding into your lap." She said, swaying seductively towards him. Jeff gulped - then reached out and accepted the glass from her with one hand, while holding the other one out.

"That depends, Nikki." He told her.

"Mmmm, when you say my female name like that, it gets me so horny." She cooed. "I hate it." Again, the disparity made Jeff pause - and then he plunged onwards.

"I want to give you my theory, Nikki - and I want you to listen carefully. Please, go sit down on the couch and pay attention."

"Of course, honey-buns." She said, graceful atop her high heels as she complied. "I'll do anything for you, and I'm glad it's this instead of something more... sexual."

The disappointment imbuing her words, and the hungry purr in 'sexual', almost managed to derail Jeff's train of thought.

"Here's the thing..." HE finally said, getting his thoughts in order - which wasn't easy until he forced his eyes away from where she was lightly fondling the fabric straining over her own massive bust. "Your wish came true, no matter how differently - or sarcastically - you might have originally meant it. Well, I've got a theory about how to undo it. Now, it's just a theory, but a good one - and you won't like it."

"I don't like anything about this..." She assured him, moaning slightly in apparent pleasure that belied her words.

"Well... For the wish, in it's entirety, to be carried out - which, if I'm right, means the job is done and you'd go back to being male - I have to... I mean, you have to... That is..."

"Spit it out, hunk..." She breathed, licking her full lips hungrily. Swallowing, Jeff took the plunge.

"Just like you wished, you have to make me see how great it'd be having your kind of babe - you, now - hanging around." He explained. He paused to lick his own lips, nervously. "It's, like, kind of a karmic irony sort of thing... in order to get back to being a man, you've got to make yourself be your own idea of a perfect woman."

"Oh, you're as smart as you are handsome, hunk, even if that sounded like complete bullshit to me." She informed him, one hand sliding under her skirt...

Pointedly, Jeff looked away and took two deep breaths. Still not looking over - and trying to ignore soft gasps of pleasure mixed with a very moist-seeming sound - he filled in the basis of his theory.

"It would fit with the idea of karmic balance - or, rather, perpetual imbalance." He explained. "In order to 'teach me a lesson' about your idea of a woman, you'd actually have to experience what it would be like to be that type of woman."

Taking a deep breath, he gunned down the drink in one swift motion - and then gave her the bad news:

"Which is why, for your own good, I'm going to stop resisting your unwillingly willingly attempts to make me enjoy having you around."

She smiled seductively at him for a moment, running her fingers sensuously through her thick mane of hair - which, as Jeff had deduced, was as close to horrified shock as she was allowed to show.

"You mean...?" She asked, rising slowly and sensuously, approaching him with a step that looked teasing, but probably revealed her entire will fighting against the imposed force upon her. "No matter how much I beg you to, you won't tell me not to run my hands over your hot, sexy body?"

'Teasingly', her hands moved slowly towards him - and, mouth suddenly dry, Jeff nodded. "That's right." He rasped.

With a soft sound that seemed like a gasp of excitement, she did just that, her hands starting at his chest and slowly working their way downwards. Soon, her slender, long-nailed fingers were lightly stroking the bulge in his pants, and only the occasional, slight tightening of her grip - erotic in and of itself - revealed the inner desire she probably held to rip his manhood out by the roots.

"This is for your own good." Jeff told her, voice thick with pleasure at her touch.

"I see..." She purred, sensuously, as one hand left off kneading his crotch, and instead rose towards her own neck. Brushing back her thick mane of hair, she began to 'play idly' with the knot holding her top up. "Would it be for my own good that you'd do nothing to stop the disgusting and hideously enjoyable shame of undoing my top so you could ignore my desperate pleas and play with my huge, firm, sexy tits?"

"Yes..."

With that one word, the fingers playing with the knot tugged - and, under the pressure pushing outwards, her top popped open, twin inverted 'V's dropping to hang from the top of her corset - and displaying her massive, round new tits.

"Oh, please..." She gasped, the hand not still lightly stroking his crotch instead stroking her own thick, fully-engorged nipple. "Please don't play with my gorgeous tits. Don't run your hands over their smooth, firm surface and make me shudder with pleasure - and whatever you do, please, please, don't lick and nibble on my huge new nipples, making me squirm with unwanted desire until my cunt's dripping with hatefully wonderful arousal!"

Jeff, body awash with a completely understandable hormonal flood, didn't know whether 'yes' or 'no' was the answer he was looking for - and so he didn't answer verbally at all.

She didn't seem to have any problem interpreting his non-verbal response, however - no matter how desperately she might have wished otherwise.

For nearly half an hour, his hands and lips roamed over a luscious body that, step by step, was gradually laid bare, while her own hands and lips played with his own body, likewise revealing more and more of it to her sensual touch. By the time their mutual fondling had segued into a long, deep kiss, she remained clad only in her nylons and heels, and he in nothing but his socks.

After the long, deep kiss, she lightly kissed the point of his chin.

"And now..." She said, moving to deposit a light-yet-burning touch of her lips to his throat.

"...for my own good..." She continued, pausing to teasingly place a kiss on his right nipple - "...no matter how hard I beg..." - and the left.

"...or plead..." The top of his stomach.

"...or get as close to hysterical, screaming tantrum while being utterly sensual for your every desire..." On to his lower stomach - and now she was kneeling between his spread legs, one huge, warm tit pressed lightly against each leg.

"...no matter that I'd rather die first, you're still going to let me lick my lips..." She licked her lips, long and slow.

"...and, still begging you to tell me I don't have to do this, eagerly bend my head..."

She 'eagerly' bent her head, peering up at him through the veil of her eyelashes, voice dropping to a husky whisper. "...and, ignoring my desperate, literally-on-my-knees begging of you..."

She cupped her hands in front of her, a familiar position for prayer - except for the throbbing warmth that separated her palms. "...let me hungrily, desperately, eagerly suck your cock?" She finished.

Somehow, she managed to make herself pause at the end of the question. The struggle, the most powerful she'd put forth yet, showed briefly in her face as she desperately strove for just a few more seconds of grace, one more chance for him to demur.

"Yes." He sighed - and she lost control, and her lips parted and her head dipped. It was... unbelievable.

Jeff didn't exactly have a long line of blow-jobs in his personal sexual history to compare it to - but that didn't matter. Even a neophyte could have told you it was nearly mind-boggling, the things Nikki did to him over the next half-hour.

The very duration itself described the skill and dedication with which she sucked cock. Somehow, she could hold him at the edge that long without quite pushing him over it, varying stroke and pressure and moisture to keep him in an apparently never-ending state of utter bliss, whose texture shifted constantly without lowering in intensity.

If perhaps, her moans of pleasure were really camouflaged gasps of horror, if the light playful nips were really desperate attempts to bite down... well, it didn't affect in the least how utterly fantastic it felt.

Nor, at the perfect moment when prolonged bliss would have begun to turn to agony and she finally pushed him over the top, did any of that keep her from gulping down every drop of the thick load she'd coaxed out of him.

After, she told him in detail how much she'd hated swallowing his load of 'delicious, creamy cum', how sickened she was to have 'loved wrapping my soft, willing lips around your gorgeous, thick cock', and how horrified she was to be 'fantasizing eagerly about he next time you'll not stop me from dropping to my knees for a long, slow, wonderful blow-job'.

All while getting him nice and comfy, providing him with a beer, lowering the lights and turning on the stereo.

As she danced, slowly and sensuously, touching her self as if her hands were the talented lover she sensuously denied she wanted him to be, she told him several times how much she didn't want the erotic dance to get him hard again so that he'd take her to bed and fuck her all... night... long.

Which, of course, was exactly what Jeff proceeded not to not do...

* * * * *

"Great show tonight, Nikki!"

"Thanks, Betty." 'Naughty' Nikki replied - knowing that only the greatest vocal expert in the world, knowing her situation, could have told that the tone she used was her 'bitterly sarcastic' one. To anybody else, it would have sounded little different than her truly appreciative one - had she ever had had reason to use it since becoming female, that was.

Unlike the other dancers, Nikki put on 'street clothes' only marginally less revealing than her 'work clothes', then let herself out into the cool air of early morning and began her walk towards the upper-end new apartment that her now six-month long career as a stripper allowed her to get for Jeff.

She could have taken a cab, of course - except for the fact that her kind of woman didn't 'waste' money on any sort of personal luxury when she could save it all for her man - a point Jeff had, as always, finally deferred to her on, 'in the negative', as she had pleaded with him not to let her be as utterly selfless as she so 'desperately' wanted to be.

The thought of which made her grind her teeth - but not because she was thinking specifically of what she'd been forced to endure over the past nine months.

No, it was because she'd figured out, about three days into this apparently unending nightmare, what exactly she had to do to get her manhood back - and hadn't found a way to get it across to Jeff.

Once again, inside the utterly sensual shell of this perfect babe, Nick's consciousness seethed and stewed, none of it reaching the surface.

Just as her occasional bouts of utter insanity had never shown up in her day-to-day life in the first couple of months. She thought Jeff might have detected it - but the 'curse' always kept jerking her back to minimal sanity in order to continue with this sick little game, denying her the final descent that might have been a comforting escape from this fuck-infested feminine hell.

All Jeff had to do, even for a minute, was STOP GIVING A GOOD GOD-DAMN ABOUT HER!

That was all.

Oh, sure, the humiliation she'd endured was part of it too. Though not nearly Jeff's intellectual equal, Nikki understood that it had been necessary, at least to a degree - but that degree had long passed, and now she was trapped in a repetition of it all as she awaited that last, crucial step.

The one Jeff couldn't see, because of the very god-damn 'blind spot' she'd been ragging him about before being changed into a woman.

Yes, part of her 'lesson' was being forced to be a woman, and yes, it was being 'her' kind of woman - but the final part was that she must be 'her' kind of woman and treated the way she, as Nick, would have treated her.

Unfortunately, just like she'd said before this whole thing had started, that damned book-worm actually cared about women as people, something Nick would never have done...

...before this all happened, of course. She was many things, but she'd definitely learned that particular lesson. The problem was, she hadn't 'made' Jeff enjoy thinking and treating her as a mere thing, and so...

"Well, well, well..." A voice said out of the darkness. "What have we here...?"

"Looks like a huge-breasted slut!" Another, equally male voice replied, with a nervous chuckle. "A slut - trolling for some cock!"

Nikki looked up - and felt hidden fear stir as she noted the two slovenly men the bouncers had been forced to eject earlier that evening for getting to 'grabby' with the girls.

"Well, I think she'd sound some..." The bigger of the two men said, rubbing his crotch suggestively. Nikki's eyes flickered side to side - but they'd chosen a good spot, and nobody was in sight...

...and...

"Oh, no..." She said, the panic in her voice sounding like sensuous invitation to the two men.

"You're not going to rape me, are you?" She asked, 'teasingly'. "Please, whatever you do, I'm begging you..."

One hand went to her skirt, and she sensuously swiveled on one high heel, bent over, and peered to the side as she pulled up her skirt to reveal her tiny panties.

"...don't stick you hard, throbbing cock deep into my hot, wet cunt and fuck me long and hard." She 'begged'. "Don't fuck me again and again until I'm screaming in pleasure. Don't fuck my slutty little brains out..."

As the two men grinned at each other, her own lips gave back a matching, though more seductive smile - even as, deep inside, she screamed out in horrified outrage and mortified disgust.

"Whatever you do..." She told them, as they approached her, "...don't fuck me so hard that it hurts."

Even as she said it, she knew it would come out sounding for all the world as if that's what she wanted more than anything else - but that was as much part of her curse as her freakishly huge tits...

...as was the irony of the fact that, never having been able to keep her mouth shut as a guy, now that everything she said was reversed in apparent meaning, she couldn't help but drive her two 'rapists' into even deeper depths of depravity.

* * * * *

Feeling a little confused - and considerable more sore - Nikki approached the door to the apartment, her usual 'come get it' sway somewhat toned down by the gingerly aspect of her stride.

In a way, she was surprised the men had been able to fuck her so hard as to cause even the generally mild discomfort she felt - considering the sheer amount of 'practice' she'd gotten from Jeff. Of course, Jeff was just one man, and couldn't 'tag team' the way her two 'rapists' could...

What really confused her, though, was the fact that Jeff hadn't come to pick her up from the hospital. Oh, not that she'd actually required anything more than a few painkillers - and even those she'd helplessly refused, sort of. Of course, she'd really been telling the nurse she'd wanted them - but in such a way as to make it sound like she enjoyed being left 'like I've finally been well-and truly fucked to complete satisfaction'. Compared to things like that, mild qualifiers like 'or beyond' barely registered.

Still, she'd gotten the feeling that Jeff had read between the lines of the phone conversation. To anybody not knowing the truth of the situation, she would have sounded like she was boasting - but Jeff almost certainly knew she'd been complaining as bitterly as she was allowed.

So - why had she had to take a cab home...?

Unlocking the door to the apartment, she let herself in...

...and found herself in darkness.

"Jeff?" She called. "Stud-muffin wonder-lover - are you in here?"

The apartment was still too new for her to instinctively know where the light switch was, so she began to feel about on the wall for it...

"I know what happened." Jeff's voice came out of the darkness - and there was something odd in its timbre, as well as its tone. "Though you couldn't tell me, I know you were raped - and it's my fault..."

"How can my getting lots of hot, heavy practice to get me all ready for fucking you silly tonight be your fault?": She asked, hand finally finding the switch...

'It'd be nice to be able to scream in shock right now...' she thought, numbly.

The blonde in the chair was tall and broad shouldered and very well muscled - and yet, somehow, still deeply, erotically feminine. An Amazonian example of womanhood, the type who could take care of herself, (and her friends), if she had to, perhaps - but equally capable of giving extraordinary ecstasy, if she chose.

"If I'd found the way to turn you back before now, this never would have happened." Jeff - or, as the small gold necklace around her neck advertised her, Jessica - said, deep-yet-feminine voice close, but not quite identical, to her old male one - and rife with sadness. "So, well.. I used the statuette. If you're going to have to go through life, temporarily or permanently, as a woman - I'm going to be right there by your side, sharing it with you."

'Oh, shit - What the hell did I ever do to deserve being cursed with somebody who's so damned... nice!' Nikki thought to herself in angry resignation, as she squealed in delight and flew across the room to greet her equally buxom but considerably bigger best friend and lesbian lover. 'With such an undying display of loyalty and affection, I'm going to be a goddamn woman forever!'

'Oh, well - guess I better make the best of it...'

"Please, Jess - whatever you do, don't let me go to get a huge, thick strap-on dildo so that I can spend all night driving you to the same indescribable heights of ecstasy I reached tonight...!"

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a young inventor tries his magic "suit" on for size, he decides that he might as well use its design flaws to gain sweet revenge.

Design Flaws

By Gunslinger

"Sarah, no - you can't do this to me!"

'I'm sorry, Mark - I just can't. I know I promised... but then Barry asked me out, and... well, you said yourself that it's not guaranteed to work. I don't want to miss going on this date because I look like a chemo patient.'

Mark slumped in the chair next to the phone. Taking off his thick glasses, he rested his head in his hand, fingers twining through his lanky, dark hair in frustration. "Sarah, the suit's all made up and ready, and..."

'Look, Mark, I'm sorry - but there's just no way. Look, I've got to go... bye...'

With a click, the line went dead. Mark stared at the phone for a minute, then swore and pounded the phone on his thigh in frustrated anger before savagely hitting the 'off' button, tossing the cordless handset onto the table with a clatter.

"What the hell am I supposed to do now?" He demanded of an uncaring universe, his voice rough with anger as he slid his glasses back on and rose from the chair. "I dumped all the money I had into this! It was gonna make me rich... and now I'm broke!"

Pausing, he looked in the direction of the phone - and his lips curled. "You stupid bitch..."

His hands curled into fists of rage... and then slowly loosened as he took several deep breaths.

It wasn't Sarah's fault, not really, though he'd never forgive her for backing out on her promise, no matter what the motivation for it had been. He knew the truth, of course - it had been Barry.

Bartholomew William Harding. Barry Harding, who at the age of twenty eight - a year younger than Mark - was one of the wealthiest people in town, as well as being obnoxiously intelligent and devastatingly handsome. He was the veritable antithesis of Mark in every way... except in intelligence. It was in that one area that Mark was superior to Barry, at least in several fields. Barry was more knowledgeable, having had access to the finest schooling money could buy, but when it came to the sciences, Mark was a verifiable genius. It was this genius that had allowed him to develop his 'claim to fame'. Working on a shoe-string budget to keep from having to give up control of his brainchild, Mark had developed his research on his own, foreseeing the day it would make him rich...

...except that Barry had found out about it, and had become determined to get his hands on the process and make himself richer and more famous.

Okay - so there was another field in which Mark was superior to Barry - Mark actually had scruples.

Barry seemed to think the entire town was his playground, and everything that went on in it related to him. Half the people in town were his cronies, including most of the supposedly 'elected officials', with the Harding bankroll behind their elections. The other half of the town he kept firmly under his thumb, and he was resolute about maintaining his control - so he'd set out on a campaign to bankrupt Mark, force him to sell his wonderful new process. Barry wanted it for himself - but he'd be almost as happy if Mark sold it to an outside corporation. Just as long as Mark remained poor and obscure, it didn't matter to Barry.

So - he'd subverted the only subject Mark had been able to find willing to perform the final 'proof test' of his process. It was masterfully done, too - by allowing Sarah to volunteer, then snatching her at the last minute, Mark had already created the suit, spending the last of his money to do so. There was no way he could dig up a suitable test subject within the next two hours, after which the suit would be useless, and Barry would have won. The suit required a human 'host' to remain viable.

With an angry sigh, Mark headed for the basement of the dilapidated bungalow he'd inherited from his parents. He'd let the maintenance on the building slip... except for his workshop in the basement. Flipping on the overhead lights, he listened to the buzz of the fluorescent tubes as they sprang to life, casting their merciless white glare across the stainless-steel surgical-quality table that held the result of his genius.

At first glance, it seemed a gruesome sight. Carefully laid out on the table, it looked like a human skin, stripped off a living body, right down to the full head of golden blonde hair. The skin looked utterly authentic, right down to 'living' tones and colorations, all several shades lighter than Mark's own Italian-Ancestry influenced coloration. The same complexion as Sarah, as a matter of fact, only flawless.

The 'body suit' was going to revolutionize the world... because it was 'plastic surgery in a can', as Mark jokingly referred to it.

The suit was actually made of a complex synthetic polymer much like human flesh. In fact, when worn it would actually transmit sensations through to the receptors in the skin beneath. If the chemical makeup of the suit was perfectly balanced, there wouldn't even be any loss of sensitivity.

The chemicals that made up the suit were part of it - as was the 'padding'. The 'skin' didn't lay flat on the table, but had some inherent contours from the special 'padding' built into the suit. Like the outer layer of the suit itself, the 'padding' was activated by the enzymes and pH level of the wearer's body. It would activate the 'condensed' padding, which would fill out and bond with the body, as would the outer skin, hair, even the 'lips' and 'mouth' of the suit - The suit's mouth was completely enclosed, including tongue, gums and tubes for the throat and airway. Where the teeth would be was a special layer of enamel emulsion that would bond with the wearer's teeth as well.

Each suit had to be created for the specific person wearing it, because of sizing factors. You couldn't make a 'generic' body suit... well, you could, but there was no guarantee that it would fit on any specific person, and you'd have to make dozens of sizes. After all, who wanted to end up with a 'wrinkled' body? That was one of the things the suit was designed to fix.

Then there was the suit's major 'design flaw', one that Mark hadn't figured a way to get around.

The suit began to react with the atmosphere around it as soon as it was created. As near as Mark had figured, five hours was the longest a 'safe' zone was around the creation time, after which the suit might or might not work. Or perhaps it would work... but not correctly, which would be a disaster.

After all... and the suit was 'activated', it became part of the body, actually giving all the help a plastic surgeon could provide, but in a fraction of the time and without scars or other side effects.

In theory, at least. The suit had never been tested on a human subject - and thanks to Barry getting Sarah to back out, the only way it ever would get tested was if Mark sold out to a corporation.

Sarah was supposed to have been over her by now, already shaved bare. The person wearing the skin had to be completely denuded of all body, facial and scapular hair before putting it on. When Sarah was late, he'd called - to find out that Barry had scuttled his last chance with the suit. Now, if a company bought it, they would insist on all the rights. Since Mark couldn't come up with the money needed for testing, he'd have to sell it at that price.. and then he'd get a little credit somewhere, while the company took all the glory.

Mark knew it would be true - they'd insist he sign a Non-Disclosure agreement, and if he broke the NDA to get the credit he so richly deserved, the company would sue him back to being broke, plus throw in some jail time.

In short - his great work had just gone down the drain. Theoretically, he could get a job, save enough money to make another suit a year or two from now, and start again... but Barry would make sure none of the companies in town would give him a high-paying enough job. Barry would also make sure that selling the house so he could move to another town wouldn't work. After all, he could buy up the house himself for next to nothing, holding off other offers until Mark had no choice.

In short - Mark was screwed, unable to do anything to break the stranglehold that Barry held over him.

"God Damn it!" Mark shouted into the air, banging his fist down on the table in fury. "I hate this fucking town, everybody in it - and the entire god-damned Universe for creating Barry Harding in the first place!"

Slumping back against the table, he took off his glasses and rubbed the bridge of his nose, ostensibly to ease the pain from where his glasses sat, but in truth to wipe away the mingled tears of rage, frustration and despair.

"Fuck it." Mark said to himself, softly. "I'm broke, my works useless, and Barry knows I've got to go crawling to a development company and take whatever shitty deal they give me so I get enough money, quickly enough, to pay off my debts and buy food and clothing. I'm fucked, well and truly fucked. Once again, the all-mighty Barry Harding wins. I'll sell him the god-damned process, take the money, and get out of this shit-hole of a town. Let him have it."

He pushed up from the table, feeling inexpressibly weary as he gave up. There was no god-damned way to beat Barry, not with the whole town under his thumb. He'd planned too well, pulling the rug out from him at the last minute, knowing there was no way he could get another girl of Sarah's basic build to volunteer to test the suit. It was a masterful stroke that left Mark totally without any...

"Wait a second..." Mark said, stopping dead as the faintest tendrils of hope began to worm their way into his spirit. "What.. what if I didn't find a girl. Barry might be expecting just about everything - but I bet he didn't plan on stopping me if I found a guy about Sarah's build to..."

He paused, shoulders slumping. "Fuck, what am I saying? I couldn't find a guy to wear a male suit in two hours, much less one willing to wear a girl's suit - 'specially since I can't guarantee that the reversal procedure will work. That's one of the things this test was going to determine."

He slumped again, dejection grinding the faint tendrils of hope that started to arise. Looking up, he felt the despair turn into frustration- fueled rage as he caught sight of the 'body-chart' he'd used to create the suit. A life-size three-view poster photo of Sarah in living color, the sight of the somewhat mannish girl who'd betrayed him enraged him beyond measure. Growling low in his throat without even realizing it, he pushed away from the table, eyes narrowed as he reached out to rip the hateful picture from the wall...

...and stopped dead, staring into the photographic Sarah's flat eyes.

He'd noticed, subconsciously, the fact that they were the same height. He'd known that since getting Sarah to volunteer the first time.. but now, his conscious mind took note of the fact that he and Sarah were also about the same build. Pouring all his money into his endeavor, Mark had lost some weight recently, becoming rangy and slimmer - while Sarah was somewhat muscular for a girl, being on the women's swim team. In fact, between the two factors, his body silhouette was nearly identical to hers...

"Wait, wait, what am I thinking...?" Mark muttered to himself. "I mean, I'm not even sure I could get the damned suit off! Even if that wasn't the problem.. what if something went wrong...?"

He turned and looked at the suit laying on the table, then glanced up at the clock on the wall. One hour and twenty-three minutes remained of his calculated 'safe zone'.

He bounced nervously, shifting weight from foot to foot as he considered the risks and the possible gains.

What decided him was scientific factors, though. No - what made the final decision for Mark was the fact that he might be the one who finally broke Barry's hold, beating him in his own game.

"Dammit - I'm going to regret this..." mark muttered to himself, but that didn't stop him from bounding energetically up the stairs, in search of what he'd need to prep himself. The time was tight... but he thought he could make it.

Once upon a time, in his younger days, Mark had tried a beard, a 'rakish' goatee... that just didn't go over. Still, he had the electric razor he'd bought at the time to trim it, and now he took off the plastic 'grate' that set the length. Sitting in the empty tub, Mark used the electric razor, starting at his head and working his way down his body, getting his body right down to the barest stubble.

After cleaning up the mess of hair that procedure left behind, he commenced filling the tub with warm water while he dug out every razor he had . Sitting himself in the tub of warm water, he used liquid hand soap as a lubricant as he carefully shaved himself as smooth as possible, including his eyebrows - a procedure that produce a few nicks, and a hell of a lot more swearing.

He slowed way down when he reached his pubic hair - and his balls. One wrong move, and he'd more then just look like a woman...

"Geez.. how do women do it...?" He mutter to himself as he finally finished up the job. It had taken him quite a while, but now his body was completely denuded of any body hair, including under the arms, which had been a hell of a lot harder then he'd given women credit for.

It took quite a few minutes to dispose of all the used razors and clean out the tub, and he kept glancing worriedly up at the clock while he did so.

The next job on the list made him cry. Literally. He had to take a pair of tweezers and pull the hair out of his nostrils, as well as pluck his eyelashes bare. He winced, whimpered and sobbed as the hairs came out, unwanted tears rolling from stinging eyes at the pain.

By the time he was finished denuding his body of every follicle, his safety window was just about up, and he rushed back to the basement naked, cursing and muttering to himself...

...and the he stopped dead before the next step, swearing loudly.

To keep the synthetic flesh from reacting while it was being pulled on, the body was covered in a fine alcohol-based coating that would evaporate in about fifteen minutes, providing a buffer zone. The problem was, he was already five minutes past the five hour limit he'd calculated...

"Ah, hell - twenty minutes won't make a big difference either way, and I've already gone this far..." Mark muttered to himself, and began applying the coating. It took him another five minutes to get the stuff on every square inch of his body - and then it was time to put on the suit.

The suit actually had quite a bit of 'stretch' in it past it's original design parameters, at least until it was activated. As odd as it might seem, the way to put the suit on was.. by the asshole.

He stepped into the legs of the suit, pulling it carefully up and working each of his toes into the correct position in the body suit. Then, bending double, he forced the top half of the suit on, working his arms down the arms of the suit and into the hands, which were already equipped with long fingernails.

Then came the pain-staking work of getting everything lined up. The mouth was as bad as he'd feared, having to hold his breath and force the throat and airway tubes in place while getting his tongue properly positioned. The 'nostril tubes' were almost as bad... but it was the eyelids that damned near defeated him. Tipped with long, dark eyelashes, they were nearly impossible to get into place without sticking his fingers into his eyes.

Cursing, he wasted more precious time waddling back upstairs, where he got a pair of contact lenses out of a case. Another attempt at a 'new look' the contacts changed the color of his eyes - but he'd stopped wearing them because they'd turned his dark eyes a pale, almost eerie shade of blue unlike what he'd hoped for. Now, he put them into place and found it much easier to get the eyelids into position.

Getting the skin puckered up into his asshole again was a humiliating experience... but not nearly as much as realizing he'd never even considered the problem of the suit's cunt. Finally, he just let the skin at the crotch sit over his cock and balls. So, for the while he was wearing the suit he'd look like some sort of she-male freak...

Finally, he had everything from lips to asshole in position, right on the very edge of his time limit with the 'buffer'. He hurried down to the living room and sat down in the armchair in front of which he'd set up a video camera attached to his VCR, since he couldn't afford a newer camcorder with integral taping capabilities. He hit the REC button.

"It's now three-forty-two in the afternoon, Wednesday February the 28th. I am self-testing my body-suit, using a design originally for somebody else. In just a moment, the body-suit should activate. If it all goes successfully, I will wear the suit for eight hours, then remove it."

Sitting back in the chair, he left the camera running to record what was going to happen as he waited for a sign that the suit was still viable.

It came within a few minutes. As the buffer evaporated, he felt a tingling sensation run across his body - then the suit began to 'contract' into it's designed final form.

"A little uncomfortable..." He said, for the camera, as the suit began to shrink into it's designed shape. "The suit was designed for somebody of my basic build, but my hands and feet are larger than the design's original parameters. I can feel it tightening rapidly there, as well as on my throat and face... now it's tightening everywhere, but not evenly. I.. oh, crap.."

the unscientific exclamation came as the suit began to tighten around his genitals, none-too-gently.

"I, uh, am experiencing some discomfort..." HE said in understatement. "Uh.. meanwhile, the padding in the hips, ass and chest are becoming active... the 'shaping' padding in the face, arms and legs also seemed to be starting to work, and.. and I.. oh, god, that hurts..."

He should keep describing what the suit was doing - but he couldn't. The pain from his cock and balls was growing more and more intense as the suit continued trying to achieve it's original shape...

He screamed. He couldn't stop himself. The pain was just too intense as his balls were forced back up into his body. That wasn't what was causing the long, undulating scream of agony, though...

...it was the 'cunt' of the suit forcing his limp cock back up into his body, a procedure it had never been designed for. There simply wasn't anywhere else for it to go as the suit continued to shrink in on itself. Compared to the agony in his crotch, the pain in his hands and feet, as well as the rest of his body, paled into insignificance.

Finally - thankfully - the pain reached the breaking point... and mark blissfully faded into unconsciousness as the suit finished constricting around his body.

* * * * *

Mark didn't 'return' to consciousness - he was dragged into it, kicking and screaming.

Well, figuratively, anyway. In the first instant that his senses were returned to him, he was only aware of strong - though not unbearable

- pain. It was bad, but not so bad as to lose consciousness again. Indeed, it felt as if he were sitting in a chair made up of dulled knives, not quite enough to break the skin, but able to press painfully into his flesh everywhere that his body sat against the chair.

There was other, odd sensations as well, including a strange sensation in his ass from the way he was sitting, an odd tightness in his hands, feet and face - and inside his nose and throat. And a heavy weight on his chest. But all of these were of secondary importance to the pain of his body resting against those 'dull points' pressing into his flesh...

...and that pain was a welcome relief from the remembered agony of his crotch. That excruciating sensation was gone, replaced by an odd, quite pleasant sensation. It felt like his cock had been stimulated into full erection... here it also felt warm, as if being held tightly-but- not-painfully by somebody's all encompassing hand.

The relief was blessed, compared to the agony - but that didn't mean he welcomed the pain he was feeling over his back, ass, and the back of his legs. Even as his eyes popped open and blinked against the light, he was levering himself out of the chair, wondering what had happened to line it with such painful barbs...

...and then he was falling forward, his feet refusing to support his weight, which felt all wrong, and he was laying face-down on the carpet, a pain thundering through an abused chest...

...while that 'dull knife' sensation now enveloped his front.

"What the hell..?" HE swore, levering himself upwards - then he stopped, hands pressing against the 'dull knife blades' that seemed invisibly embedded in the carpet, eyes wide in shock at the high-pitched breathy voice, little more than a whisper, that had emerged when he'd spoken.

Awkwardly, he tried to rise, but - pain aside - found himself hampered by the weight on his chest, so he quite naturally glanced down...

...at the most enormous, round pair of tits he'd seen in his life. They were gigantic, tipped with huge, erect nipples - and they were thrust from his chest.

Her chest, apparently - because they were transmitting sensations to the brain. The suit had bonded fully... so mark was now a 'she'.

She screamed - and it felt like her vocal chords were being torn to shreds, even though the sound barely emerged at normal speaking volume. She stopped making the sound that was clawing at her throat, and forced herself to stand...

It wasn't easy - because she couldn't force her feet flat. She had to stand on tip-toe, the 'barbs' of the floor digging into her feet. Mark wasn't stupid - she knew there were no knives in the carpet of the chair. Her mind put the clues together quickly enough.

The 'sensitivity' of the skin was off, way off, by several factors. She was feeling everything more intensely then ever before, the 'skin; amplifying the rough texture of the rug and the upholstery covering the old chair, making them painful. Wincing at the way the rough carpet seemed to be grating her toes with every step, Mark struggled against the weight of the massive, oversized tits thrust from her ribcage, tip-toeing to the linoleum floor, which was much smoother against her arched feet... but felt ice-cold.

Slowly, she made her way to the bathroom - and stared in horrified shock at what she'd become.

"Oh, shit..." She soprano-breathy whispered, even though she had projected at what would have been full volume. Her mind spun as she struggled to deal with the impact of what she was seeing.

Something - everything - had gone horribly, horribly wrong.

First there was her feet. The original feet she'd possessed had been larger then the ones the suit had been designed for - but no longer. Now, they were as dainty and feminine as you could possibly want... but the force of the constriction had done something that she'd never expected in a million years.

Somehow, the chemical activity of the suit had changed it's nature with the 'aging' past the safe time limit. More then just bonding with her original, male body, it had infused the ability of the skin itself to 'mold' throughout her system, making her body malleable - and her bones had bent, forming a high, smooth arch in her tiny new feet, making it impossible to stand flat-footed. She was forced to stand tip- toe by the new, 'natural' curvature of her feet, something that would be impossible to correct by any known methods - including her own.

Her legs were... almost too sexy. Rising from smaller, daintier ankles, the legs had been pulled by the suit, the malleable bones becoming longer, like taffy pulled at either end, leaving her legs long, slender and shapely, the 'padding' of the legs filling her new appendages out in a sensual manner.

Her hips.. her hips were flared wide and womanly, well rounded and supporting an almost over-full ass that was incredibly taut and firm and sexy. The 'padding' in the posterior of the suit had been fairly mild... but the 'aging' of the active chemicals made it several times more reactive then it was supposed to be, just as the rest of the chemicals had been 'amplified'. So, her ass was incredibly full and ripe, the suit's taut nature having translated into firm flesh over every inch of her new body, no signs of droop anywhere.

Nestled between her new, silken thighs was... a cunt. Or what looked like one, anyway. Somewhere in it's make up was her cock, remolded and distorted and stretched and shifted... and with it's sensitivity enhanced by the suit, just like over the rest of her body. A thorough physical exam - a very thorough one - would realize she wasn't genetically female, but there was no way an average person would ever know.

Her waist was slender, even slimmer then the suit had been designed to be. Like the rest of the suit, the waist had become an 'overachiever', cinching her waist in remarkably, giving her an over-stated hourglass figure.

One that was as overly exaggerated above as below. In the mirror, the breast could be seen in their entirety - and they were huge. The size of medicine balls, they were incredibly firm and round, almost perfectly spherical, and tipped wit huge nipples that would be permanently erect.

Her face... her face was an exaggerated image. The re-molding of bone and flesh by the side-effect of the chemical reaction had left her with a heart-shaped face that looked insipid in the extreme. Her nose was a tiny snub, upturned at the tip, and below this nose rested lips that were incredibly full and softly firm.. and sensitive. Her eyes, a clear, insipid blue, looked larger in comparison to her smaller, better defined face, looking big and blank. The contact lenses had become part of her eyes, her malleable physiology absorbing them into itself.

Her head was surrounded by that huge, thick mane of golden blonde hair, hanging in thick, wavy falls around her slimmer shoulders and down her resculpted back.

She looked like some sort of sexual fantasy brought to life. The tautness of the suit before it fused completely left her with a trim, taut body that was unnaturally toned and smooth, unrealistic in it's flawless perfection. The over-active chemicals had exaggerated every aspect of the suit, giving her the lush sexual body of a wet-dream brought to life, and hyper-sensitive to boot. The tubes in her throat had constricted, forcing her vocal chords into a permanent crush that cut most of their ability to vibrate, leaving her with a high-pitched, whispery little voice.

The worst thing was... none of this was reversible. Unlike the original design of the suit, the chemicals had become much more potent - the 'aging' past the safety limit was like leaving grape juice to become wine, the potency increased many times over. Instead of just bonding with the outer layer, the chemical s had affected her body right through, every bone and organ absorbing the chemical compound before setting in this new figure. If she were to use a more-potent 'releaser', like the one developed to remove the suit.. she'd just melt into a pile of biological goo. Her tissues were saturated with the chemicals.

The body she'd just given herself was hers for life. She was stuck.

All things considered, she did the most reasonable thing in the world... The new woman fainted dead away.

* * * * *

When she awoke the second time, the newly formed woman was calm, cool, composed.

She was laying on the floor of the bathroom, the linoleum tile feeling like a block of arctic ice along her back. Carefully, she levered her altered frame up on an elbow and rolled to her side, then used the support of the sink to get herself upright on her permanently arched feet. She paused to take another long look in the mirror, this time her vapid face not expressing horror or shock, but as close to cool composure as it could reveal. Then, with careful steps, she made her way to the bedroom, one dainty hand on the wall at all times to help her keep her definitely top-heavy balance.

Methodically, she began to sort through her clothing. Jeans or anything the slightest bit 'rough' in texture would feel like sandpaper on her hyper-sensitive new skin, so her choices were severely limited, but she displayed no emotions of any kind as she sorted through what she had to work with.

She started with a pair of silk boxer shorts she had. Bright red with a white elastic band, they would be baggy on her old male frame, but fit like a soft, gentle second skin as she pulled them around her womanly hips and full ass. She drew breath in between her teeth in reaction to the feel of them sliding on, it was so incredibly pleasant - and erotic. The feel of the air moving over her teeth and altered tongue was like a blast of arctic air, and she stopped the involuntary action almost immediately.

Next, she rummaged through her closet until she found what she wanted - a dark gray dress-shirt that went with the most expensive suit she - as a male - had owned, the one he'd gotten for the presentation to the board of directors of whatever company the 'body suit' would have eventually been marketed through. Now, she slipped the soft fabric around her slender new shoulders and slid it up her slim new arms. The shirt wouldn't even come close to containing her massive new tits if she were to try and button it up, so she didn't - instead, she tied it in a knot so that it supported - and caressed - her massive new breasts and huge, erect nipples, creating waves of pleasure that shuddered through her body at the fabric's every motion. Even breathing was an exercise in erotic pleasure, one she struggled to ignore.

Smoothly, she headed out to the closet in the hall, sorting through them until she found a set of sheets she'd been saving for the if-and- when eventuality of having a woman over - a thought that caused what should have been a wry smile to form on her full, soft lips. On her new face, the expression looked incredibly 'ditzzy', though she couldn't see it. In any case, the smile lasted by an instant as she took the black silk sheets back to her room.

With the use of a pair of scissors and a needle usually used for sewing lost buttons back onto shirts, she made a make-shift 'skirt'. It was nothing, really - she trimmed a trapezoid of cloth from the expensive sheets and sewed three black button on the small corner. On the side opposite, she cut three small holes, folding the fabric of the slits back and sewing them into rough eyelets that wouldn't stand the test of time, but should be useful for what she planned them for.

Buttoning the make-shift garment on over the red boxers, she found that it was actually more than serviceable - hanging nearly to her ankles, the buttons held it closed over the swell of her hips, but left a large slit down the side that exposed quite a bit of smooth, flawless leg when she moved.

Rummaging around in her closet, she came up with an old pair of boots from the very back. They were black leather 'combat' boots, still gleaming with a muted shine of polish from her once-male days in the Cadets. In the back of the closet, somewhere, was the now- too-small uniform that went with them, but the boots were all she wanted.

Loosening the laces almost to the point where they popped out of the top eyelets, she stuffed the heel of each boot with a rolled-up pair of dress-socks, and another pair went onto her feet, the fairly smooth fabric bearable, if not as pleasant as the silk that swirled around her legs.

Sliding a dainty foot into each boot, she rested her arched heels atop the socks in the back of each boot and laced the footwear tightly on. They looked normal enough from the outside, even if they clashed with her make-shift outfit's otherwise somewhat 'sophisticated' flair, but the inside supported her foot as if she were wearing four-inch heels. It was uncomfortable to force her heels down that low, but bearable.

Stepping into the bathroom again, she quickly brushed out her hair into a very loose style, then returned to her bedroom long enough to gather some stuff, which she stuck into a small belt-pouch that she fastened on her right hip.

More comfortably attired, she returned to the basement lab. She looked around, assessing what she had, then set to work.

It took her two hours before she was satisfied, slipping the product of her labors into the belt pouch as well. Then, with one last look around, she headed back up the stairs and out of the house, knowing she'd never return to it again.

It was taking some getting used to, walking on curved feet, since her base of balance was so small in relation to her top-heavy balance, but the two hours in the lab meant that she didn't look completely ridiculous as she carefully made her way towards the shopping mall. She couldn't concentrate on her walk, strictly speaking, as she was busy keeping the dopiest looking grin she could on her face, her eyes wide and as brainless as possible as she entered the mall.

She needed to hit several places in the mall, and she hoped that her credit-card would remain good for all the purchases she had to make. There weren't all that many, materially speaking, but she knew they could get pricey, if she wasn't very budget-conscious.

She made the 'easiest' stop first, a drug store that sold a full variety of goods. Keeping her vapid expression on her face, she headed towards the cosmetic aisle.

It was no surprise that she got looks from almost everybody she passed, what with her wet-dream body and her huge tits barely covered by the shirt. She ignored the stares of the women, but forced herself to acknowledge the stares of the men with an extra little 'oomph' to her walk and a wider smile, with the occasional wink thrown in. The fact that she was doing a slow-burn at 'flirting' with guys in no way registered on her face, and barely on her conscious mind, other things taking precedence.

Buying cosmetics for her new body was simple. She simply bought the brightest, glossiest, most garish shade of red lipstick they had, a hot-pink eye-shadow, and mascara. She also swung through a couple of aisles, picking up a few other odds and ends she needed, then paid for them at the front counter, leaning forward to give the pimply-faced male cashier a mouth-watering view of her seemingly endless cleavage.

Taking the bag with her purchases, she made her way to the public rest-rooms, forcing herself to walk into the women's room as if she belonged there - which, in fact, she now did, a fact that galled her to no end, but she had to force herself to ignore it. Her eyes wanted to either wander to the other women in the room, or stare blankly at the wall instead of being a 'pervert' or 'peeping tom', but she forced herself to act natural as she went up to the sink and carefully applied make-up to her feminine face for the first time. The actions disgusted her on a base level, making her feel like a 'sissy', her new body not withstanding... but she'd have to get used to it.

Finished, she ran a comb she'd purchased at the drug-store through her long, golden-blond hair, then slid a white 'scrunchy' onto her right hand and transferred it to her hair, forming a loose ponytail. Satisfied, she jiggled and swayed out the door again, heading to her next destination, a chain department store known for its low prices.

She got most of what she wanted from a very attentive male clerk that she forced herself to flirt outrageously with, even letting him cop a feel of one massive tit when their backs were turned to the surveillance camera. The touch on her incredibly sensitive tit almost made her cum - the breast itself felt as sensitive as the shaft of her cock had, and the nipple was as highly sensitive as the head of her cock. In both cases, the relationship was in regards of what her cock had felt like immediately following sex - meaning her tits were unbelievably sensitive.

It turned out that they didn't sell the type of shoes they wanted, but the salesman was happy to take his break and drive her to a place that did... while sliding his hand up and down her leg the entire time and trying to wheedle a date out of her. She didn't have to fake the moan that came out in her high-pitched new voice - having his hand on her leg felt utterly fantastic, and she actually had to fight the urge to just fuck him then and there, so utterly aroused did she get. It was incredible how sensitive her new body got to physical stimuli, and she would have found it disgusting if not for the fact that it would make having sex nice and easy, when the time came.

She had no problem making a date with him for Friday night, all things considered. She even kissed him, quite passionately, before climbing out of the car.

It was an amazing experience. With a longer, more supple, and highly sensitive tongue and highly-sensitized lips, the kiss was almost as sexually pleasurable as having sex used to be, as a man, and she had to admit that some advantages could be attached to this body, on the purely sexual level. The only problem was, having sexual contact with men disgusted her, no matter how good it felt.

Of course, she was sure that would fade over time.

The store he'd taken her too had the shoes she wanted, and even something else she hadn't planned on but that would come in handy. As soon as she'd seen it, she knew that she should 'splurge' and by the big, black-plastic multi-speed vibrator.

The owner of the shop was more than happy to lend her the employee's bathroom to change. Especially since he got to see the results when she emerged.

She was dressed all in white. White pump-style shoes with eight-inch heels graced her feet, finally allowing her to walk around comfortably atop her highly arched new feet. A pair of white 'bobby' socks with white lace edging at the top graced her feet inside the shoes.. and she also wore a pair of white nylons. She'd nearly orgasmed from just pulling on the nylons, and every move she made send incredible, erotic shivers of pleasure down her spine from the way the air felt as it moved over her nylon-clad legs.

A white spandex min-skirt encased her hips and incredibly full ass, completely covering the white silk panties beneath. She'd hoped for a micro-mini, but she'd been unable to get on.

A white silk blouse had replaced the dress-shirt, still tied 'Daisy Mae' style around her massive tits, displaying an awful lot of cleavage.

She was a sexual symphony in faux innocent white, a 'schoolgirl' that'd never be allowed near drooling teenaged boys, other than in their wildest fantasies. It was a perfect image, right down to the wad of bubble-gum she chewed with a intellect-barren vapid expression. A white purse slung over her shoulder contained all the rest of her things, with her make-shift outfit of clothing discarded in the bathroom's trash can.

She had the owner of the store call her a cab, and soon she was in the back, forcing herself to remain calm with a 'bimbo-ish' expression on her face while the male driver veered dangerously close to other traffic, his gaze often returning the incredible sight in his rearview mirror.

Using the last of her money to pay the driver for the ride, she 'tipped' him with a great view of her tits as she leaned over to pay. Then, back straight an a little extra wiggle in her hips, she walked in the door of 'the Hideout'.

She paused inside the doorway, striking a deliberately sexy pose that looked causal, looking around with as utterly vapid expression as possible.

'The Hideout' was well known, locally, since it's clientele was almost exclusively male - which might have had something to do with the fact that all the waitresses were buxom, sexy, and scantily clad. She had only been standing there a short instant when the manager of the bar came up, his eyes roaming her incredibly proportioned body.

"Well, well, well..." He said, oily, shifty eyes drinking her in. "Let me guess - you want a job."

She screwed her face up into a brainless parody of thought. "Well, like, I need money, right, 'cause I'm broke, right? Only, like, I don't wanna be a waitress or nothing." She pouted, sensuously. "It's so booooring to be a waitress, right?"

"I.. see..." he said, carefully, a slow smile spreading over his narrow features. "Well, maybe I know somebody who can help. Why don't you follow me?"

"Okay..." She agreed, cheerily, snapping her gum for good measure. She followed him as he led her to the door of a private room at the back of the club> He knocked and vanished inside, reappearing a moment later to escort her in.

The other person in the room was a big, tall, broad-shouldered man. His body layered with muscles, he was almost offensively handsome in his jeans and white polo shirt, his dirty-blond hair causally styled and a causal, easy grin on his tanned face. His eyes roamed her lush body as she entered.

"This is Barry Harding." The manager told her, pointing to the man. Then, he turned to Barry and said. "This is..."

The manager paused, but she just let the bright, brainless expression on her face sit still as she chewed her gum, playing unaware of the prompting.

"What's your name, gorgeous?" Barry asked, his voice deep and smooth.

"I'm Missy..." She said, throwing in a giggle for good measure. "Missy Mountjoy."

"Well, Missy, It's nice to see you..." Barry said, his eyes looked on her monumental chest. It was well known that he had a 'big tit' fetish, and there were women in town who willingly got breast implants, knowing he'd repay them lavishly, even if he wasn't sexually interested in them. The town had to have the largest average bust-size in America, just to give the young multimillionaire good 'eye candy' around town. "I hear you're having some financial difficulties."

She let a puzzled expression take up residence on her face. "huh?" "Jack here says you're broke." Barry said, grinning.

She let the smile resurface. "yeah. That's right."

"Well, maybe I can help..." Barry said. "Why don't you come sit over here, and we'll talk about it...?"

As Jack, the manager, left, she wiggled and giggled over to the couch where he was sitting and sat down... practically on top of him, cuddling her body up against his, her huge tits pressing into one arm while she curled her legs up under her full ass, her knees resting on his leg."

"Gee, you're so big and strong..." She said with a giggle, running one hand over his chest. "Cute, too!" "Oh, you think so...?" Brad said, with a grin, rubbing her knee... which felt absolutely fantastic.

"You don't believe me...?" She asked, forcing her eyes wider and her full, gloss-red lips into a pout, showing how 'hurt' she was. "No, I...!" Barry started to argue.

"I'll prove it!" She said, in a defiant 'little girl' voice - and wrapped her arms around his head and proceeded to kiss the hell out of him.

It wasn't hard, because it felt absolutely fantastic to be kissing him. More than that - once he got over the initial instant of shocked hesitation, he kissed back - and that doubled the pleasure as they kissed hungrily. His one hand continued to caress her leg, while the other reached around her body and pulled her tighter to him, bolts of pure pleasure running through her as her breasts were pushed tight against him.

They finally broke the kiss, and Missy's mind was spinning with the pleasure of it all. There was no need for any acting at all as she let him undo the knot in her shirt and free her enormous tits. His hands went to them and began to fondle them, and the pleasure she felt redoubled, and she bucked and moaned on the verge of orgasm just from having her massive new chest fondled.

She knew whatever happened, the rest of her life she'd be addicted to pleasure like this. There was no way she had the willpower necessary to turn away such ecstasy.

Her hands fumbling with pleasure, she quickly skinned out of her skirt and panties, her hands then going to the fly of Barry's jeans. He continued to manipulate her tits as she pulled his pants down just far enough to reveal his throbbing, ready erection. Mind swirling in pleasure, she rose up.. and impaled her new womanhood on his cock...

She almost lost herself in the purest, most raw orgasmic pleasure she'd ever felt> she was orgasming from the very instant his cock filled her, and as she instinctively rode him, each thrust caused yet another orgasm from her new sex. She was swept away in the string of orgasm after orgasm, not needing any 'prep' work to cum, just cumming and cumming and cumming and...

She might have spent the rest of her life mindlessly fucking him - but he couldn't. He didn't know - or really care - that she was already in the throes of exquisite ecstasy as she bounced atop him with abandon. All he cared about was the fact she came, quickly, pumping his seed into her cunt. His cock began to soften, even though she continued to fuck him frantically - in what he thought was an effort to reach her own orgasm.

However, with the softening of his cock, the orgasms started to fade as he pushed up on her to get her off his softening cock.. and as he was no longer fucking her or manipulating her orgasmic tits, she was capable - barely - of rational thought...

...and even as she felt tremendous regret for the end of the quick fuck (which had seemed eternal while it was happening), she was swift enough with the small syringe she'd secreted in the palm of her right hand and had managed to hold onto in her mindless bliss.

"What the fush wuzz..." Barry started to shout... but his voice faded away as his eyes crossed and he fell unconscious, the sedative in the needle taking effect. In second, he was so deeply under that the end of the world wouldn't rouse him.

Regretfully, Missy pulled herself off the soft cock of her hated enemy, disgusted with herself for desiring him awake again so he could pleasure her... but she reminded herself that there were men everywhere who'd be willing to satisfy her new addictions, and she didn't hate any of them as much as she hated Barry.

"Well, Barry, thanks to you, I ended up turning myself into a huge-breasted, cum-crazed nymphomaniac." She told the sleeping figure in her new voice. "However, thankfully, I'm not the bimbo I seemed to be. I'm even going to be able to control my addiction, to pick and choose who satisfies my rampant sexual desires. Not the life I planned, but it could be worse... especially since this has shown me something I never knew."

Opening her purse, she pulled out some of the things she'd gotten earlier.

"You see, thanks to what you forced my to do out of desperation, I've found that the body suit is unnecessary." She told the sleeping Barry, smugly. "Just the chemicals used, if aged, have the ability to make the body itself malleable... here, let me show you..."

Grinning, she set to work. It took some time, but she wanted everything just right...

When she was finished, she dressed, shivering in pleasure at the feel of her clothes on her new body. Gathering up his keys, she stuffed the large amount of money he'd had in his office into her purse. Not a fortune, but enough to get her started in her new life - she was sure she could earn a good living as a stripper, and fondling her own body on stage would feel fantastic.

Humming happily to herself, she left by the private door in the back, which opened onto the parking spot of his brand-new Jaguar. It was a bit of a risk taking the car, but she was sure that he wasn't going to report it missing any time soon, and she'd have gotten rid of it safely before something like a missing car became important.

Smiling, she slid behind the steering wheel, started the car, and peeled rubber out of the lot as she aimed the hood of the British Racing Green car down the highway, and towards the new life that awaited her.

* * * * *

Jack knocked on the door again, worried. He knew the boss didn't like to be disturbed when he was.. uh, 'entertaining', but they'd been in there for awhile, and Jack needed to get the payroll money for the employees, who were getting restless with the delay.

Maybe he'd taken the huge-breasted bimbo back to his place... but jack couldn't remember him ever leaving without letting jack know. Then again - he'd never been 'entertaining' such a purely sexual slut before, either.

Shrugging, knowing he was risking his job, jack turned the handle of the door and opened it...

...then stopped, eyes going wide as he stared in utter disbelief.

Sprawled across the couch, body shuddering repeatedly, was the most... the least... the absolutely... was...

Jack's mind couldn't come up with a descriptive word worthy of the moment, so he had to settle with the phrase 'a woman' - though that was like saying the grand Canyon was 'a ditch'.

She was short - hell, tiny. Her body was petite in almost every dimension, from her delicate, high-arched feet to her tiny little hands.

Which made her tits all the more unbelievable. They were the most utterly gigantic masses of breast-flesh jack had ever seen on anyone, much less a woman this tiny. They were huge and round, seeming to double her body mass, each one the size of one of those huge beach-balls you could buy, and tipped with nipples the size of a neck of a beer-bottle.

They were so incredibly enormous, on such a tiny body, that Jack doubted she could walk unassisted. Hell, he knew she couldn't - because the sheer weight of them pinned her to the couch. In fact, her tits were so massive, so weighty, that she couldn't lift them with her slender little arms, so she couldn't get her hands down to her crotch...

...where a big dildo... vibrator...? was whirring away busily, seemingly enormous in her tiny body. Her figure was shuddering from mindless orgasmic ecstasy, her eyes rolled up to show just the whites as her incredibly full-lipped mouth worked, an unbelievably long, supple tongue - at least six inches long - dipped out between the lips now and then.

She should have been screaming in orgasmic ecstasy bordering on pain... and from the faint 'whoofing' sounds her breath made, she seemed to be trying, but she apparently was mute, unable to speak.

Her body was writing and jerking uncontrollably in the grip of the orgasm that thundered through her again and again, only kept on the couch because she lacked enough muscle mass in her tiny body to move against the massive weight and inertia of her massive boobs. She was slicked with sweat, her shortish dirty-blond hair matted to her scalp, and jack didn't know if that much pure orgasmic pleasure was actually enjoyable after however long she'd been experiencing it. Jack thought his mind just might crumble if ever exposed to so much pure, unending pleasure in one go - she certainly didn't seem connected to the outside world at the moment, not showing any response to his intrusion.

Jack had no idea what to do. This was the bosses office, but he was nowhere to be seen - only this freakish tit-girl, locked in silent orgasmic screams on the couch. If he disturbed her, it might cost him his job, and everything he held dear. On the other hand...

Shaking his head, jack decided that discretion was the better part of valor. After all, he shouldn't be going into the bosses office without permission, and he could always claim he hadn't.

With a stunned expression, Jack closed the door, knowing that waiting was the best policy. He'd just see what happened when the batteries finally wore out...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After making his dim witted friend the butt of his jokes, one guy is cursed to have to live out his friend's desires.

The Difference A Day Makes...

By Gunslinger

"Hey, Ox." Chris said, smirking, as he slipped into the booth in the tiny road-side dinner. "Happy birthday, big guy."

"Uh, gee, Chris - thanks." The other man said, blushing slightly. He shifted uncomfortably on the bench seat - which groaned loudly in protest, as did any piece of furniture given the task of supporting the tow-headed young man's three-hundred and twenty pounds of sheer mass.

Not one ounce of which was fat. Jeff 'Ox' McConklin was one big boy.

"Here's your present..." Chris said, sliding a small, simply wrapped package across the table to his 'friend'.

"Gee, Chris - you're the bestest friend a guy could have!" Ox said, enthusiastically - and not a few of the people in ear-shot to this particular little mini-drama winced.

After all, it was hardly a secret that Chris' sole interest in the twenty-two year old mass of walking muscle was to take a perverse pleasure in Ox's reduced intelligence. Being what all the locals referred simply to as 'slow', Ox simply didn't realize that he was constantly the butt of Chris' jokes.

Which was why, when he opened the box and found an XXXL T-shirt bearing the phrase 'I'm with stupid' and an arrow point straight up at himself, he grinned broadly and quickly pulled the gift on.

"Thanks Chris!" He said, smiling his sweet, dim-witted smile. "I'se like it!"

"I knew you would." Chris snickered, a sneering smile on his lean, narrow face. It was he who had bestowed the nick-name on the massive young man - claiming him to be 'As strong as an ox, and almost as smart.' "Come on, let's get out of here."

"Sure!" Ox agreed - and, as always, unquestioningly paid for not only his own prodigious meal, but for the take-out meal and coffee Chris held, another reason he hung out with the big, trusting young man.

They headed for the door - and the owner of the small little shop stopped them.

"Why do you insist on doing this to such a sweet, young man?" She demanded of Chris, gently stroking the massive man's arm as she glared at his leaner, leather-jacketed companion.

"Hey - what are friends for?" Chris asked, knowing this particular conversation - like many - was going right past Ox.

She eyed him angrily - and then an odd little smile came to her lips as she turned to Ox, one hand wrapping around the old, odd- looking little crystal pendant she always wore.

"By all the elder gods, may you get everything you wish for on this, the anniversary of your day of birth." She said in a soft, almost chanting voice as she stood on tip-toe to lightly kiss his cheek. She then slumped, as if suddenly weary - but not too weary to shoot Chris another look, this one not only venomous, but almost gloating.

"Let's go, Ox." Chris said, a bit nervously. Old Lady Packer was a bit on the strange side, and Chris had never felt entirely comfortable around her.

"Okay." Ox said, as obliging as ever.

With the big man lumbering after him, Chris led the way out into the bright, but cool morning. Together, they began cutting cross-country, the shortest route between the road-side diner and the small community huddled close around the nearby Shepherd's Cove that gave the town its name.

"We goin' to get I-screams?" Ox asked, eagerly.

"No, we're gonna go get some pot." Chris said. "Now, come on, hurry up." "I don't like no pot." Ox said, frowning. "The smell makes me feel funny." "That's okay, I'll smoke it all for you." Chris said, impatiently.

"Well..." Ox said, slowly. "I still wish I had some I-screams."

Suddenly, an ice-cream cone appeared in one massive mitt. Moon-shaped face lighting up, Ox happily began to eat the frozen treat.

Chris hadn't noticed the sudden appearance of the cone in his 'friends' hand - so when he heard a crunching sound, and turned to find Ox eating the cone, he was rather surprised.

"Where did you get that?" Chris demanded.

"Dunno." Ox admitted, finishing the cone. "I just said I wish I had an I-scream, and..."

Another cone appeared in his hand. While Chris gaped in shock, the giant happily devoured the second treat. "You.. You just wished for it - and it happened!" Chris stammered. "My God, Ox - quick, wish for a pound of pot!" "I don't want no pot." Ox replied.

"So wish I had a pound of pot, you moron!" Chris shouted. "Don't you get it? Somehow.. whatever you wish for happens!" Ox, in fact, didn't get it - but that didn't really matter.

"Wish for the..." Chris started - then stopped, eyes lighting up. "Wish for a million dollars, Ox! Wish for a million dollars!" "Why?" Ox asked, frowning in confusion - a common expression on his broad face.

"Because whatever you wish for happens!" Chris shouted. "We can have anything we want! Money, fame - girls!"

"I likes girls..." Ox said, dreamily - and then he frowned. "Some girls are mean to me, though, and I don't likes that, no siree! Some girls are nice to me, and that's good - but other girls just pretend to like me, but then don't. Not like you, Chris, who likes me all the time."

"Yeah, yeah, I'm your best friend, I like you a lot, all the time." Chris said, with a sigh. "I wish you was a girl." Ox said, mournfully.

There was a flash of light... Chris screamed.

"Ox, you idiot!" She screamed, her voice high-pitched in a mix of anger and hysteria as her new hands traced the new lines of her altered body under her slightly changed attire. "Look what you did to me!"

Ox blinked, staring at the tall, slender woman standing where his friend had been. Like Chris, she was toned and lean, and she had a short mop of rich black hair, and she was even wearing a pair of black jeans and a black leather jacket over a white-t-shirt. In fact, just like Chris, she looked somewhat slick and a little seedy - but, despite all these similarities, there was no doubt that the person he was gaping at was female, right down to her smaller feet in smaller 'biker boots', now sporting a short heel.

"Where'd Chris go?" Ox asked.

"I am Chris!" The woman shouted, futilely banging slender new hands against his broad chest. "You wished me into a girl, you great big idiot!"

"Chris...?" Ox asked.

"Yes!" She screamed. "You remember how you wished for an ice-cream and got it? Well, then you wished I was a girl - and so now I am, you massive moron!"

"Aw, shit, Chris, I'm sorry..." Ox said, hanging his head. "I didn't mean to do that to ya. I feel, like, really bad 'bout it..."

"You feel bad?" The slim-hipped, rangy young woman demanded, hands going to her small, taut A-cup breasts under her t-shirt, then sliding down to the empty crotch of her jeans. "You're not the one turned into a.. a chick! Wish me back, you idiot! I can't believe even YOU were stupid enough to..."

"Please don't yell at me, Chris..." Ox said, the fact that his friend had suddenly become female no more 'inexplicable' to him than many facets of life other people took for granted. "I'm feeling all sad now."

"Aw, poor baby, feels so sad, just shut the fuck up and WISH ME BACK!" The new woman screamed at him, stomping one diminutive new foot in angry frustration. "Turning me into some.. some girl, you should feel bad, you stupid, dumb, moronic..."

"Aw, please don't, Chris..." Ox whined. "Gee, I wish I wouldn't have to feel bad or upset or nuthin' on my birthday..." The massive, muscular man suddenly blinked - then looked at his friend strangely.

"What's wrong, Chris?" He asked, with the grave concern he could muster.

"What's wrong?" Chris demanded, somewhat fuller lips gaping as her longer-lashed eyes opened. "You turned me into a woman, you stupid lummo!"

"That's funny!" Ox said, laughing. "That's a good joke, Chris. You bein' a guy..."

Chris stared at him - then, slowly, what her ears had registered but her brain had at first ignored slowly percolated, and her face when stark white as she realized that Ox had wished himself into some sort of state of ultimate denial.

"Ox - I used to be a guy, remember?" Chris said, forcing the words not to tumble out between her new lips in a hysterical jumble. "You wished I'd be a girl, and it happened, just like with the ice-cream.. remember?"

Ox chuckled. "You's funny, Chris."

Ox just didn't have a deceptive bone in his body. It was immediately obvious that Ox really did remember his friend as always having been female - which, of course, eliminated any possibility of him feeling bad because he was 'stupid' enough to have accidentally turned him into a girl.

Swallowing nervously, the new woman forced a smile to her lips.

"Wouldn't you like to see what it would be like to have me as a guy friend?" She asked, mind working rapidly as she struggled to find a solution to the situation before all its implications could register on her horrified mind. "Don't you wish I was a guy, Ox?"

"Oh, no - all the guys are mean to me. You're a girl, and the only one who is nice to me. I wish everybody could know how nice a girl you are to me all the time, Chris."

Chris shuddered - and, against her will, found her lips pulling up into a slight, but definite smile.

"I'm sure they all do." She said, wanted to say it bitterly, but unable to - for Ox had just wished her into being 'nice' all the time.

Not only that, but the horrified new woman was also pretty sure that everybody now remembered her as Ox did, having always been female - since that was the definition of his wish.

Though the urge to lash out and yell at Ox could no longer be fulfilled, no matter how much she wanted to do so, she still could have broken down in panic and horror. She forced herself not to give in to that urge, however - because she had more important things to do.

She had to find a way to get Ox to wish her into being a guy again. She didn't know how she was going to do that, but she was going to stay right by his side and keep trying - because the alternative, being stuck like this forever, was simply unacceptable. It didn't matter what it took, she just had to get him to say the words that would end this living nightmare.

"Let's go to your place, okay Ox?" She suggested, 'nicely' - eager to get him somewhere 'safe', where only she would have access to him. The last thing she needed was him wandering around town, spouting wishes prompted by other people's words, or by things he saw.

She knew him well, and the sight of a shiny new bike would prompt him to wish he had one, or the like - and if this strange, inexplicable wishing power of his became common knowledge, she might never get the chance she needed...

"Okay." Ox said, agreeably, and she sighed slightly in relief.

Anger, worry, humiliation and fear still boiled beneath her almost-placid surface as she walked beside him towards his house, but she didn't let any of it show, mind whirling as she tried to come up with a way to get him to say the all-important wish. Part of it was also defensive - because by concentrating on finding a solution to the problem, she could help distract herself from the problem itself. Still, she couldn't help but notice the myriad sensations that were different even for something as simple as walking - the way the jeans felt against her smooth new crotch, the slight sway that was part of her feminine new stride, the way the cool air affected her more sensitive female nipples...

...all sensations she'd never wanted to feel, hated feeling now, and wanted to stop feeling as soon as possible. Her one consolation, slim as it was, was the fact that nobody but her knew of her humiliation at being mad female, since Ox had unwittingly wished everybody remember her as always having been her new gender - yet another problem she'd have to work out, but one that took a back seat to the more important issue. She'd happily go through the rest of her life as a guy that everybody remember as having been born a woman - given the alternative.

Caught up in her own thoughts, Chris didn't notice Ox watching as Miss Longley, one of his neighbors, came out to put up her was. A former local beauty queen who had aged less-than gracefully, she was a rather pitiful sight, her once firm body badly displayed by the undeservedly tight and/or revealing clothing she desperately clung to, her sallow face layered with so much make-up that it almost appeared to be applied with a trowel. The only thing not decrepit about her appearance was her hair - and that was because it wasn't hers, but a wig she'd taken to wearing when her own thin, graying hair had become utterly impossible to 'pretty up' as she desperately attempted to do with the rest of her long-faded beauty.

The wig, however, was nevertheless as 'over-the-top' as the rest of her appearance, a massive, heavy structure of real, golden-blond human hair piled high in a thick, becurled series of waves held in place by three sets of combs before finally being allowed to spill down behind her like a thick golden cape. That much real human hair in a wig, especially at the extraordinary length, made the wig something truly expensive, and she'd practically bankrupted herself buying it, and consequently took vastly better care of it than anything else she owned, keeping it in a silky state of perfection.

To most townsfolk, especially considering the sagging figure it was perched atop, it was an eyesore - but not to Ox. "Gee, Chris..." Ox said. "I wish you had hair like that."

"Huh?" Chris asked, starting to look at whatever Ox was looking at...

...and then she barely had to finish the motion, because the heavy weight and the silky flow of hair down her back swirling in the wind more or less explained it all. Still, she winced, knowing that the massively thick - and surprisingly heavy - head of hair she was now staring at atop Miss Longley's head was identical to her own.

Except that hers wasn't a wig...

She wanted more than anything at that particular second to quite firmly kick Ox in the crotch for what he'd just done to her - but that wouldn't have been 'nice', so she just smiled wanly, and ground her teeth together as she followed Ox the few more yards that led to the relative safety of his house.

All the while, she was mentally cursing that damned old crone for not leaving her god-forsaken wash for another five minutes, when they would have been safely inside and she wouldn't have to deal with the ridiculous mass of golden-blonde hair that had replaced her short, dark mop.

Well, she reminded herself almost grimly, when she was a guy again, she wouldn't have to worry about it.

Unfortunately, that was something easier said than done. Over the next couple of hours, as she forced herself to first play Snakes and Ladders and then watch cartoons with Ox, she tried every way she could think of to get him to wish her into being male again - and failed each time. Not that Ox was upset about her repetitive attempts - he seemed to find it funny, almost like it was a game. It was, for her, horribly frustrating, and finally she took a short break, going into the kitchen to brew some coffee more as a chance to get herself - and her rising panic and despair - under control than out of any desire for coffee.

She came back out - to find Ox playing with his dolls.

She grimaced.

Piled around his feet was an odd assortment of humanoid toys. G.I. Joe, in both sizes, crowded against Star Wars figure, while a Spock figure with a missing arm lay over a pile of toy soldiers.

In Ox's broad hands, however, was a curvy Barbie doll, which he was struggling to get his thick, less-than-nimble fingers to slide a shoe onto.

"Come play Barbie, Chris!" Ox said, grinning widely - then blinking. "Hey, Chris?"

"Yeah?" She sighed, dropping down near the pile and sorting through them unenthusiastically.

"How come Barbie, and Amy, and Tammy, and other girls names are like that, but you are just 'Chris'." She rolled her eyes. "I just am."

"Why aren't you.. 'Chrissy'?" He insisted.

"Because I'm just 'Chris', that's why..." She replied - then winced, knowing even as she opened her mouth to correct herself that it was too late, and that she should have seen this coming...

"I wish you'd let me call you 'Chrissy'." Ox said.

"Of course you can." She sighed, and not even sure if it was because of the wish, or because she was kicking herself for being so argumentative on the point when she could have allowed him to call her that without magical enforcement.

"Great!" He beamed. "Let's play some dress-up, 'kay?" Inspiration struck.

"Why don't we play war, instead?" She asked, grabbing a G.I. Joe. "You like war, right?" "Sometimes." Ox said, now working on getting the second shoe on the doll he held.

"War can be real fun!" She said. "But you know what would make it more fun - if you were playing it with another guy. Two guys playing war is more fun than just about anything!"

"Really?" Ox asked, wide eyed. "Really and truly?"

"Really and truly." She assured him, hope springing anew. "If you just wished I was a guy, I could show you..."

"Okay!" He said, nodding - then turning back to the doll he held. "Just as soon as I get Barbie all dressed up. Girls can't be all naked- like, and stuff..."

He was blushing, and she knew why - though intently curious about 'girl and boy' stuff, Ox was routinely denied any sort of explanation. Even though he'd collected a selection of porn, both magazines and videos, from places who were more than willing to take his money, he didn't understand all the 'rules' that governed men and women, like why women always had to wear shirts, except in his magazines and movies, when men didn't. That was probably one of the reasons for his fascination with Barbie.

"There!" He said, proudly, holding the doll up. "Now she's all pretty! Barbie has such pretty clothes." "Yes, she does." She agreed, impatiently - but not 'un-nicely'. "Now, why don't you wish..."

"Her clothes are really pretty." Ox said, earnestly. "So much more pretty than yours, Chrissy." Uh Oh.

"Look, Ox, war is fun, just wish..." She said, words tumbling hastily out of her mouth...

...but not fast enough.

"I wish you wore pretty clothes like Barbie does." Ox said - and then his face brightened. "Hey - you are!"

"Yeah, I am." She said, sighing. She looked down, barely needing the visual confirmation to see that she was now identically attired as the doll.

Pink high-heeled pumps. A little white tennis skirt. A pink tank-top. Just like the doll. "You look really nice now, Chrissy." Ox complimented her. "All pretty, like Barbie."

Since she couldn't swear at him, she bit her tongue to keep from breaking down and crying.

"But you got no boobies." Ox said, frowning at her chest, which was almost flat beneath the shirt. "Why haven't you got boobies, Chrissy?"

'Uh Oh' went to 'Oh Shit' as Ox's gaze went from the doll's prominent, perky bust-line to her own, flat chest. "Different girls have different sized breasts!" She said, quickly.

"Why?" Ox asked.

"Because... We look different." She blurted out, mind spinning as she struggled to avoid the looming disaster. "I wouldn't look right with bigger breasts. That's just the way it is."

"Oh." Ox said, still frowning in confusion. "If you say so."

"Oh, it's true." She assured him, wondering if she dared breath a sigh of relief at his apparent capitulation on the issue. "It's like in the, uh, movies you watch. The women don't all have the same size breasts, do they?"

"No." He agreed, blushing at the mention of his 'movies'. "Some are big, and some are small, and they're all different shapes, like." "See?" She said, feeling the moment ease past. "Like I said, that's just the way it is."

He nodded again, and she finally let that sigh escape.

"Now, just go ahead and wish I was a guy, and we'll play war..."

"No - I wanna watch my movies..." He said, dropping Barbie without a second thought - and she winced. Like a child, Ox's interest could shift in an instant when a new thought struck home, and she knew it was worthless to pursue the idea of playing war, at least at the moment. She'd have to wait for him to get tired of watching his porno videos, and then he'd probably remember the 'real fun game' all on his own.

"C'mon, watch movies with me!" He said, rooting through his collection for one to put on the simple-to-operate TV/VCR combo. "Uh, I don't think that's a good idea..." She said, blanching.

"I wish you would..." He pleaded - and so, of course, she agreed.

"See?" He said, putting the tape in and starting it up. "Some girls have really big boobies, even bigger than Barbie does!"

She winced as the title screen for 'Super-Stacked Silicone Sluts' appeared on the screen. Moments later, the low-quality digital list of stars with such improbable screen names as Maggie Mountains, Jennifer Juggs and Greta Gazongas vanished, to be replaced with images of the over-inflated actresses themselves.

"See?" Ox said, unselfconsciously rubbing a hand against his crotch as the women paraded across the screen. "All these girls have really big titties. None of them have small ones."

"Don't say it!" She warned him - nicely. "What?" He asked, frowning.

"Don't you dare say you wish I had tits as big as hers..." She said, gesturing at the woman on the screen. "I wasn't going to say I wish you had tits as big as hers..." Ox protested...

...and she gasped as her massively increased breasts pressed hard against the straining fabric of her tank-top.

"Wow, Chrissy!" Ox gasped, staring at the basketball-sized breasts just barely restrained by the taut top. "Your boobies are huge!"

"I noticed!" She gasped.

Ox reached out - and squeezed her left tit. "Stop that!" She yelped.

"I just wanted to see what it was like." Ox said. "I didn't hurt you, did I?"

"No - but you can't just do that without permission!" She said, exasperated - and disgusted, though she couldn't show that and still be 'nice'.

"I sure wish you would show me all this boy-girl 'sex' stuff..." Ox sighed.

Unable to do it physically, Chrissy only screamed in the vaults of her own mind as she helplessly smiled and said: "Sure, Ox. I'll show you all the boy-girl sex stuff..."

So she did.

She didn't want to. In fact, the very thought of having any man touch her body was disgusting to her. It didn't matter that even she could admit that her altered body was the sort that she, as a man, would have wanted to touch, and wouldn't have had any problem with that, in the reversed situation. Though physically female, she still 'felt' male, and so the thought of physical contact with a man, especially in a sexual manner, was disgusting to her.

If just the thought was disgusting, the actuality of it was much, much worse - because, aside from anything else, she had no choice in the matter. Ox's wish had seen to that.

His wish that she would show him ALL that 'boy-girl sex stuff'.

It started with 'the basics' - some simple flirting leading up to some polite fondling. That, in and of itself, was bad enough - but worse was the fact that, no matter how badly Ox 'failed' at any given 'lesson', she had to move on to the next one. A 'real' woman in a similar situation could have decided that Ox was an oaf - which, in many ways, he was. Uncoordinated, with strength far beyond his own understanding, much less fine control, he could actually inadvertently cause some pain, no matter how 'careful' he was, or how apologetic afterwards. Even a 'real' woman would have called it off after a couple of full-strength grips on rather sensitive parts of the female anatomy - but 'Chrissy' didn't have that option.

As bad as the occasional physical pain was, however, the constant emotional distress was much, much worse. In fact, there was a certain sort of inverse connection between the two - the more physically pleasurable any given action was, the more humiliated and disgusted she was emotionally. The thought of enjoying anything about being female, no matter how little or how unwillingly, only made the situation worse.

Not that, in the over-all scheme of things, 'worse' had much meaning. It was a matter of degrees rather than a quantum shift. After all, here was somebody who'd been a strictly heterosexual man turned into an overly-buxom woman, one who had no choice but to perform in ever-increasingly sexual manners towards a man she'd always held in the highest contempt.

It was like some sort of 'overload' - but that didn't mean that she didn't feel increasing humiliated and disgusted with each progressively more intimate act. Oh, no, she felt it all. It simply wasn't additive - each new 'outrage' was simply powerful enough to 'wash out' the feelings from the last one.

Light fondling and kissing progressed onto more 'direct' physical contact - and humiliation only increased anew as she was forced to become 'intellectually engaged' in the process.

The wish hadn't granted her any new skills or ideas. However, it did force her to teach Ox everything she knew about sex - but from a new perspective she'd never even contemplated having. "On the fly", she had to find ways of showing him the male aspects that she already knew, while 'making up' the female aspects she now had to present, based on her previous experience as a man.

Helplessly, with no option in the matter, she found herself having to actually think about how a woman would best pleasure a man in response to what she was teaching Ox - and worst of all, the deepest humiliation yet, was how her own, male indifference towards women came back to haunt him and drive home the reality of how she'd always viewed womanhood. Since all she could teach him was what she, as a man, had done, thought and believed, so now she had to experience the feminine side of that equation, learning exactly what her old, male 'lovemaking' techniques were like for the woman on the receiving end.

One thing was for sure - none of them were really about bringing the woman pleasure. Though she'd never really thought about it while male, now the truth was unavoidable, driven home in the worst and most humiliating way possible.

She'd been incredibly selfish when it came to sex - well, when it had come to everything, as a matter of fact, but that wasn't really all that important to her at the moment,. No the matter at hand, was the fact that she'd been a real jack-ass when it had come to sex, insisting that the attention being paid was to providing the man - 'him', at the time - with pleasure, with whatever the woman felt being more or less secondary. Something, if and when it happened, that was a 'bonus' for the woman, but in no way had entered his own consideration.

Now that she was teaching the 'Chris Method of Sex' to Ox, she was forced to experience the same thing from the opposite point of view. Now, on the receiving end, she felt even more humiliated and disgusted by how she'd treated women all those years when she'd never considered the possibility that she herself might have to face the identical situation from the other side of the gender barrier.

All of this only added to the direct and immediate physical humiliations as she helplessly submitted herself to having sex with Ox - a disgust prospect that she couldn't stop herself from fulfilling.

Not just once, however - oh no, that would have been too easy.

First of all, there was the aspect of Ox's wish that she would teach him 'all' - and so she would, but that wish would have allowed her to do it over time. However, Ox still retained the ability to make wishes and have them come true - and it wasn't all that surprising that, having done something he'd just enjoyed - he might wish he could 'do it again' - or that he was able to get hard and ready again to move on to the next, 'exciting' lesson.

She had sex with him in just about every position conceivable between a single man and woman - except, of course, those ones dedicated to providing mainly the woman with pleasure.

Not once did he 'eat her out' - but she gave him four blowjobs.

Only once out of the five times they had 'vanilla' sex was she on top - and it wasn't so that she could set that pace and determine her own pleasure. No, even that one was about pleasing him.

That didn't mean that she couldn't feel strangely horrified by the fact she couldn't help realizing that, whatever the purposes behind the act, she'd physically 'enjoyed' being on top more than being on the bottom.

Which, of course, meant only more added disgust and humiliation to find herself 'willingly' thinking 'gee, I'd rather be on top' when she'd subsequently had sex on the bottom. The fact she couldn't stop herself from thinking about the ways she'd prefer Ox fuck her was somehow even more unmanly than actually being turned into a woman had been...

...and it only got steadily worse. Sexual act followed sexual act, and she couldn't stop herself from doing any of them - or thinking about them, and realizing some of them, however 'disgusting' and 'perverted' it was, actually felt pretty damned good.

She kissed and fondled on the living room couch. She fucked and sucked on the living-room floor. She fucked in the kitchen.

She sucked in the bathroom.

She fucked and sucked and rode and was ridden in every room of the house, in every position, in every situation, degradation piling atop humiliation - and it came as a horrible relief to finally 'fall back' on straight vanilla sex in the bedroom to top off a day's worth of sexually excess.

"Please, Ox..." Chrissy whispered, the exhaustion of the sexual marathon stronger than even the humiliation and horror at what she'd become. She fought against the encroaching sleep, struggling to get 'reality' restored before it was too late. "You have to wish I was a guy."

She had to pause to yawn, then continued, voice little more than a murmur.

"Just do what I say, Ox - wish I was a guy." She insisted, sleepily. "I'm smarter than you, you know that. Just do what I tell you..."

Ox, himself tired, gently stroked her smooth, soft flesh.

"I know I'm stupid..." He agreed, tiredly. "It's not my fault. I know you take care of me, do all the hard thinking for me. In fact, for all you've done for me, I wish it was the other way around, and I was the smart one so I could take care of you..."

In the one, last moment of clarity before intelligence faded away, Chrissy felt a wave of relief wash over her - for, knowing she was forever doomed to her new body, she was grateful she'd be too stupid to know how horrible her fate was.

Then her new, reduced intelligence took hold a scant second before sleep did, and Chrissy fell into the uncomplicated dreams of the big-titted blonde bimbo she'd become.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Hot on the heels of the legendary D.B. Cooper, one man thinks that he has discovered the mystery, but, instead, finds himself exposed to chemicals which lead him down a path of changes until he is a cock sucking whore.

Digging Up The Past

By Gunslinger

"Just... Fucking... Great..."

Letting the muffled curse flow out of his mouth in a swirl of cigarette smoke, Jack Scoggin's eased the already crawling Jeep to a stop, staring through narrowed eyes as the crumpled form of a long-dead spruce that blocked the overgrown road.

Taking a long, deep drag on the cigarette, Jack eyed the obstruction, getting his thoughts in order. Finally, the muscular twenty-nine year old stubbed the Marlboro out in the rented four-b-four's already overflowing ashtray. Shutting off the engine, Jack popped open the door and stepped out into the cool, crisp air, his brand-new hiking boots sinking nearly an inch into the thick loam and rotted leaves that now made up the surface of what had once been a hard-top access road.

Reaching back into the front seat, Jack grabbed the heavy, red-and-black flannel jacket he'd purchased at the same time as the boots, slipping the warm garment over his broad shoulders and quickly buttoning it with quick, decisive movements of his blunt, but surprisingly dexterous, fingers.

Grabbing the pack of Marlboros and his Zippo off the dashboard, he stuffed one in each of the two chest pockets of the jacket, then reached back inside to grab two more items: An imitation-leather folio containing some maps and pages of hand-written notations, and an old Caterpillar Tractor cap, it's once-vivid yellow now badly faded.

Brushing his long, greasy black hair back from his face, Jack settled the cap onto his head. Closing the front door, he made his way to the back of the Grand Wagoneer, pushing aside the low branches and high bushes that extended far enough into the negligible roadway to brush against the Jeep.

Popping open the Jeep's tailgate, Jack yanked out the fully-packed hiker's backpack that lay inside. Balancing it against the tailgate, held in place by one muscular, denim-clad leg, Jack pulled a map out of the folio, folding it and sticking it in the pocket with his lighter, then shoved the small case into the back-pack and buckled it shut.

Easily swinging the heavy pack over one muscular shoulder, Jack leaned back into the cargo bed, shoving aside discarded fast-food wrappers and empty soda cans until he found the army-surplus tri-fold 'entrenching' shovel he'd bought, complete with it's carrying- case. Quickly snapping the tiny folding shovel onto his belt by virtue of the two belt-clips on the case's back, Jack also grabbed the heavy-duty 'lantern' flashlight out of the cargo area, then slammed the tailgate shut.

Stepping back, Jack cocked his head and listened to the soft sounds of the forest around him as he slowly surveyed the forest through haze-gray eyes.

Though just past noon, the scene he saw was cast in an eerie twilight provided by the mixture of a thick ground-fog and low, scudding clouds that had been growing steadily darker in color all morning.

Satisfied that no other engine sounds pierced the gloomy silence, the out-of-work mechanic shrugged the back-pack into a more comfortable position on his shoulder, then began walking.

Even though born-and-bred a 'city boy', thoroughly uncomfortable in these rustic surrounding, nothing would have deterred Jack Scoggin from his quest, not when he was so sure of himself.

On November 24th, a man in his forties had and, aside from a parachute, wearing nothing but a simple suit and loafers had popped open the rear stairs of a slow-flying 727 at 10,00 feet, and stepped out of the aircraft - and into history.

Jack was damned sure he'd managed to find a trail long thought cold, and he was determined not to stop until he found what he was looking for - not the man himself, but the $200,000 ransom money that hijacker Dan 'D.B.' Cooper had been carrying with him when he'd made his jump.

The mystery of Dan Cooper was one of the all-time 'great' unsolved mysteries. Still and open FBI case file, the crime was as equally long-lasting in the mythology of modern mysteries, as people tried to figure out what had happened to the man and the money.

Jack, however, had stumbled across the story rather late in life, and purely by accident. Out of work and living on welfare, he'd been in the local library to peruse the newspapers for job listings - and somebody had left a book about the case on the table he'd chosen to sit at. Only mildly curious, he'd flipped the book over and read the back...

...and the fact that there was $200,000 in twenties still somewhere at large was all it took to hook him.

As he slogged through the lowering gloom of the woods, eyes watching the uneven footing in front of him, Jack's mind once more ran back along the mental trail that had brought him to this place and point in time, checking and rechecking all the assumptions that had finally convinced him that he could succeed where so many others had failed.

There had turned out to be tons of literature on the Dan Cooper hi-jacking case - but very little in hard facts.

On November 24th, 1971, a man bought a one-way ticket from Portland to Seattle/Tacoma under the name of Dan Cooper. Apparently unremarkable, wearing a suit and aviator-style sunglasses, the man, who would later be erroneously identified by the more famous 'D. B. Cooper' by an FBI agent, had passed a note to one of the stewardesses on the Piedmont Air 727, indicating that he had a bomb in his briefcase, and that he wanted four parachutes, and $200,000 in twenties.

He'd also shown her the inside of his briefcase, which - according to her report - contained 'red cylinders, wires, and a battery'.

When the plane had landed, the money and parachutes had been waiting. They'd refueled the plan, taken off most of the passengers, and then lifted off again upon Cooper's demand that they fly to Mexico - but with the gear and flaps down, and at 10,00 instead of the more customary 35,000 feet.

Then, at some point during the flight, Copper had opened the rear stairwell and vanished into the night... and that's where all the hypothesizing started.

Theories abounded, of every stripe, as to Cooper's disappearing act. They ranged from the analytical to the ludicrous...

...and Jack firmly believed they were all flat-out wrong.

Instead, he'd formulated his own theory, one that nobody else seemed to have ever considered...

First of all, there was Cooper's demand to be flown to Mexico. All the books had mentioned how, with the gear and flaps down as Copper had demanded, the plane simply couldn't reach Mexico on it's maximum fuel load, forcing Cooper to agree to a fuel stop in Reno.

However, all the books had also pointed out that the 727 was the only plane equipped with that rear staircase that Copper had ultimately used - which indicated that Cooper must have done some research.

That being the case, Jack had reasoned, then there was a very good chance that Copper knew full well about the plane's fuel limitations, especially with the flaps and gear down, since he was so specific about that.

What if it had been a ruse to get the aircraft to fly a specific course? Having the aircraft fly low and slow had obviously meant that Cooper had never planned to go to Mexico - jumping had been part of the plan from the beginning...

In fact, as Jack had finally theorized, maybe Cooper was smarter than anybody gave him credit for. Maybe Cooper, instead of 'simply' picking an unpopulated area to jump in, had popped open the door and been waiting for the 'marker' of his chosen drop-zone. Something visible, in the dark, at ten thousand feet...

...and a yellowing old newspaper clipping had given Jack the answer.

It had been from a small-town newspaper, in even in that venue, had been a little more than a footnote. Just a few short paragraphs describing how power had 'inexplicably' been routed back down old lines to 'the abandoned VeriChem plant' back in the woods, and how the local Fire Chief was quoted as saying that everybody was damned lucky that there hadn't been a short in the old wiring that might have ended up as a forest fire.

In the old aerial photos Jack had checked, the now-crumbled chemical plant lay a good many miles further north-by-northeast the where everybody seemed to assume Cooper had jumped - and, at the time, would have been lit-up like a Christmas tree, and easily visible against the dark woods that surrounded it.

It was to whatever remained of that old plant that Jack was now heading, positive that they'd find some clue as to what had really happened to that money. Though Jack had no theories on how Cooper had managed to successfully disappear off the face of the earth that night, and, further more, didn't particularly care, he was sure that the bulk of the money had never been spent - since, after all, each of the bill's serial numbers had been recorded, and only about six thousand of it had ever turned up, found by a boy along the banks of the Columbia river.

The very same river that, with the help of some old maps, Jack had determine that No-Name creek, the long draining creek for the old plant, ran into.

Now, as the sullen sky continued to grow lower and darker, Jack waded his way through the thickening ground-fog, carefully testing each unseen step for secure footing as he wound his way down the old, badly overgrown access road.

Thirty-seven minutes and two cigarettes later, Jack rounded a bend in the old road, and found himself looking at the crumbling remains of the plant, rising up out of the mist like some ancient castle out of time.

There were the rusting remains of a cyclone fence around the old facility, but the chain holding the gates shut was as old and badly rusted as the warning signs for hazardous chemicals, and it easily parted under one massive jerk from Jack's sinewy muscles. As an added bonus, the sharp motion also caused the left-side gate to tumble inward to the ground in a rattle of rusted chain link, and Jack simply stepped over the corroded gate and walked onto the cracked pavement of the old plant's parking lot.

Using the eroded, tumble-down remains of the guard shack near the gate as his reference point, Jack considered the old map of the facility as he puffed on another Marlborough, trying to orient himself.

Once reasonably sure where he was on the grounds, he picked a tumbled ruin of a chimney as a marker, then carefully began to pace out along the old asphalt.

Jack was pretty sure that the fire chief would have noticed - and commented on - and vehicle tracks leading to or from the facility. Therefore, Jack reasoned, Cooper must have walked out of the woods from the facility, at night, and in the clothes he was wearing - probably leaving the money behind to retrieve at a later date, with a car.

Though Jack had no clue as to why Cooper hadn't returned for the money, a careful study of the plant's layout had given him the most likely place to hide the money, given the fact that some of it eventually washed up down river.

After thirty careful paces, Jack flicked on the powerful lantern, knelt in the low fog, and began a slow, spiraling search on his hands and knees.

It took nearly ten minutes, but Jack's heart began pounding rapidly when his fingers finally came across the rusted iron of the old 'manhole' cover of the draining inspection port.

Setting the flashlight on top of the cover, its beam pointing straight into the air, Jack quickly pulled the folding entrenching tool from its case and began to unfold it. Snapping the handle into its full extension, Jack bent the head out at a ninety-degree angle.

Not the 'shovel' head of the tool, which he left folded back along the shaft, but the 'pick ax' side, which he quickly tightened into position.

Inserting the pick head into the lift hole on the cover, Jack moved the light aside and stood over the port, broad hands gripping the 'D' handle of the stubby tool.

Taking a deep breath, Jack mentally counted to three, then heaved.

With a tortured squeal, the heavy cover slowly began to move, Jack's straining muscles overcoming decades of rust and disuse. Bracing the tool with one booted foot, Jack relaxed and let his muscles loosen for a second, then renewed his attack on the cover.

With yet another hideous squeal, the cover finally gave up the battle, popping out of the concrete rim that had held it, and clattering to the side.

Lifting the flashlight, he pointed it down the access shaft of the old drainage system, his broad nose flaring at the ammonia-like smell that wafted from the hole.

Having verified the height of the shaft on the drawings of the site, Jack had already pre-measured the correct length of rope needed. Pulling the raveled length of heavy-duty climbing rope from his back-pack, Jack tied one end to a protruding metal cleat nearby, after having leaned on it to judge it's strength.

From the back-pack he also took a safety harness, which he buckled in place at chest and crotch. Attaching the rope to the harness, he quickly clipped the flashlight to a short length of cord hanging from the harness for exactly that purpose.

Taking another deep breath, Jack screwed up his not-inconsiderably courage, and began his descent in the stinking black shaft.

With each step, the rusting metal rungs creaked and groaned ominously, the metal under his hands cold and rough with rust. With slow, careful movements, Jack eased his way deeper into the shaft, listening to the sound of running water below.

He was little more than halfway down when it happened.

He was in mid-step, having already moved on foot down on the rung and gently 'bounced' on it before lifting his other foot and opposing hand of their respective rungs.

Though the rung had borne all his weight under his test bounce, the shift from 'right hand, left leg' to 'left hand, right leg' put the weight on a different axis - and the metal rung sheared off.

Unprepared, Jack gave a hoarse scream as he fell, his shoulder scraping painfully against the sandpaper-like surface of the opposing wall of the shaft...

...and then, even as his breath was hauled out of him in a brief 'whoof', Jack congratulated himself on his foresight as the safety rope yanked him to a sudden, painful stop eight feet from the shaft's bottom.

He never finished the self-congratulatory thought - as the sudden, sharp deceleration was too much for the iron spike above, and it snapped in half.

Jack resumed his plummet...

...for three more feet, that being the distance between him and the water sluggishly flowing through the pipe.

Clogged by branches and brush at the far end, forming a sort of natural dam, the tunnel was more of a reservoir, with five feet of chemical-laden water that broke Jack's fall...

...and made his surface already screaming from the flare of pain in his abraded shoulder as the chemicals hit the exposed flesh like some sort of super-iodine, burning and fuming. Standing on tip-toe, flailing cross-body for the water-tight lantern to keep from ducking his still-burning shoulder back into the stinking water, Jack whipped his head back and forth in an attempt to get his long, wet hair out of his face.

Finally, after what seemed like hours, but was mere minutes, Jack got his hair out of his face and his lantern out of the water and turned on...

...and then, despite being cold, wet and in pain, he slowly began to smile. Hanging from a hook in the ceiling was an old flight bag.

Somewhat mildewed, by mostly intact, one corner of the bulging bag had been chewed away by rats - explaining where the money had come from that had washed up downstream.

Smiling happily, Jack waded over to the bag and removed it from it's hook. Turning, he waded back to the access port and - taking even more time and care than he'd used on the trip down - slowly began making his way towards the top...

* * * * *

Feeling utterly wrung out, Jack staggered through the rain towards his motel room.

The setting sun was completely lost behind the thick, dark clouds that had finally delivered up their promised load of rain, accompanied by a thunderous barrage of lightning that split the skies at irregular intervals.

Eyes bleary from the effects of whatever chemicals he might have fallen into, his body stiff, sore and aching even more than the slow climb to the surface seemed to warrant, Jack had barely made it to the jeep before the skies had opened up. Between his own fatigue, stiffness and pain, and the storm, the drive back to his motel had been a form of torture that didn't allow much in the way of gloating. Now, as he fumbled for his keys and finally managed to get the door to the cheap motel room open, he still didn't feel very victorious as he forced his body to enter the comforting shelter of the room, the flight back in hand.

Staggering, he pushed the door shut behind him and simply dropped the bag at his feet, knowing he should be more excited by his discovery, but somehow unable to work up the energy necessary. Instead, with slow movements that should have belonged to a man twice his age, Jack stripped out of his wet clothes and stumbled, eyes fixed on an indeterminate distance as he let his hands do the work. Naked, to the chair near the room's old mirror-topped dresser.

He slumped into the chair, reaching forward to pick up the unopened pack of Marlboros he'd left sitting near the ashtray on top - and then stopped dead, staring dully at his reflection in the mirror.

"What the fuck...?" He asked himself, in a flat voice, as he stared at the reflection. He'd been 'bleached'.

Whatever chemical had been in that water, it had completely washed out the coloration in his body.

His skin, a golden tanned just that morning, was now milky-white. His hair, one greasy and dark, had been bleached out to a near white, almost a platinum-blond shade that was, however, 'ultimate clean', hanging wet but straight.

Everywhere his clothes - which a slow, heavy look also verified were bleached white - had covered, the chemical had sat longer - and that had provided a definite effect. Long streaks on his body were completely denuded of hair, just from the simple act of undressing - and a few half-hearted swipes of a hand clearly confirmed that the hair that remained was simply held in place by moisture, rather than attached.

"Shit..." Jack mumbled as he slowly managed to light up a cigarette. In the back of his mind, Jack knew he should probably be a lot more concerned about what had happened to him as a result of his dunking, but for some reason he felt... almost detached from what had happened.

Finally, almost numbly, he recalled the specification sheets on two of the chemicals he'd managed to verify that the plant had produced, among the God-only-knew how many other's he hadn't been able to discover.

Feeling thick-witted and slow, Jack managed to spread the two sheets out on the top of the long, low dresser in front of him, eyes seeming to waver in and out of focus as he tried to check the side effects of the two verified chemicals he'd discovered, Rhothane and Diethylstilbestrol.

"Oh..." Jack mumbled to himself, as he read the sheet for Rhothane. "It says 'apathy, from mild dulling of interest to profound psychotic depression'... That would explain it..."

Pausing, he wearily cocked his head, contemplating. Finally, with that strange sense of detachment, he managed to decide that he wasn't quite as bad as 'psychotic depression', and so read on.

"Hmmm... wonder what the hell 'gynocomastia' is." He muttered. "Well, I guess 'lassitude' is also kinda what I'm feeling..."

For several long moments, Jack simply stared at the sheet, unseeing, mind nearly blank - then, with a jerk, he remembered what he was doing.

Laying aside the first sheet, he took a drag on his cigarette, mildly surprised to find it burned almost down to the filter. Butting it out, he simply watched the smoke curl up from the crushed butt until it stopped, only then picking up the other sheet and trying to focus on it.

"Huh - that gynecomastia thing again..." He muttered to himself. ...

...then, reading on, alarms began going off in his mind, even through the strange, foggy layer the chemicals had caused in his brain. 'It can cause male impotence and transsexual changes'.

That phrase alone was horrifying enough to make it through, to set fear racing up and down his spine in a tingle of horror. "Doctor..." He muttered, thickly. "I hafta see a doctor "

With a tremendous amount of effort, he leaned forward and pressed hard with his muscular legs and arms...

...and only barely managed to get up out of the chair, the world spinning wildly around him as he struggled to stand erect.

"Stuff gonna make me a girl " He slurred, sounding almost drunken as he stumbled a few heavy-footed steps from the chair. "Says is gonna gimme a tiny cock n' stuff "

Desperately, he attempted to get his eyes to focus as he took two, shambling steps towards the phone, every muscle and joint in his body protesting...

...and then a wave of dizziness swept over him, and he collapsed face-up on the bed, his body twitching randomly. "Gotta get help.." He said, tongue thick and unresponsive. "Gonna be here "

Raising every ounce of energy left in his body into one, final effort, he tried to scream for help...

...and managed only a pathetic little squeal that didn't sound like any word at all.

It was like some sort of horrible nightmare, where something terrible was chasing after you, but you were unable to run away. Even though his mind was dulled and lethargic, the threat of 'transsexual effects' was so horrific to Jack that sheer force of will kept him from slipping into complete disinterest - and yet, despite that, he couldn't get his body to obey his mind, laying helpless while his body twitched and thrashed in random spasms of muscles.

Strange sensation began to thrum through his body, unidentifiable but definitely not unnoticeable. It was a series of confusing sensations unlike anything he'd ever felt before, and Jack couldn't even come close to describing them, much less giving them a name.

Laying there, naked and damp on the bed spread, Jack's body shivered violently - not a random muscle spasm, but an effect of the cold air moving across damp skin.

Damp, warm skin - because, thanks to both the cold wetness of the drive back, and the depleted immune system affected by the chemicals, Jack was running a high fever, his body wracked not only by chemical-induced side-effects, but by illness.

Jack moaned, low in the back of his throat, and unplanned, uncontrolled effect from the growing, throbbing ache in every joint in his body, supplemented by the taut, painful 'charley horse' sensation quickly taking up residence in one muscle after another, until it began to feel as if his entire body was on an old-fashioned rack, slowly being stretched out inch by painful inch. The sensation was uncomfortable, even painful - but well below the threshold of 'agony'.

Laying on the bed, eyes staring into infinity, Jack slowly - and unknowingly - slipped into a deep fever dream.

The first sign of the delirium was actually a welcome one, as the growing pain from the joints and muscles in his body faded away to a dull 'background noise', barely discernible.

Like in any standard dream, Jack's mind simply stopped discerning from reality and fantasy, so he was unaware of what was truly happening to him, and instead he was as 'caught up' in what delusions his fevered mind was spawning, as if they were not only 'real'

- but reasonable.

Therefore, there was no undue emotion of surprise when he 'sat up', blinking, and found a man sitting in an unremarkably misshapen version of the chair at the dresser.

The man in the chair appeared to be in his early forties, and was dressed in a light brown suit of unremarkable cut. With Medium- brown hair hanging somewhat unkempt over his broad forehead, and with large, protruding ears that gave him a vague resemblance to a 48 Chevy with its doors open, the man was sitting calmly in the chair and looking at Jack with dark, speculative eyes.

Neither Jack nor the stranger seemed it the least bit odd that the seated man was also wearing a parachute on his back.

"Who are you...?" Jack asked - or, at least, believed he did, though in reality the question was an incoherent shout in the empty motel room.

The man - who, come to think of it, bore a startling resemblance to a younger Ross Perot - seemed mildly surprised. "Why, Jack, I'm Dan Cooper."

"Oh. Nice to meet you, Mr. Cooper..." Jack replied, accepting the impossibility with the equanimity common to such occurrences in dreams. "Hey, you know, I found your money."

"I noticed." Cooper replied, hefting the bag which, though it hadn't been a second ago, now rested in his lap. "Good job, Jack - I always knew you were a smart boy."

"Thanks..." Jack replied, a bit awed at the praise. "Say, Mr. Cooper, why didn't you ever go back and get the money?" "Because going in there the first time, to put it there, turned me into a woman." Cooper said - and, sure enough, it wasn't a man sitting there, but a woman with protruding ears and a shock of dirty-brown hair, her body mostly swimming in the ill-fitting man's suit and the parachute. "I certainly didn't want to see what happens to a person with a second exposure."

"Maybe it would've turned you back into a man, Miss Copper..." Jack replied.

"Oh, ,no." The female Copper said, picking up the specification sheets on the chemicals Jack had brought - or, at least, what was supposed to represent them, though they were now covered with illegible scribbles. "It says here about men growing tits and becoming girls, but nothing about girls becoming men. In fact, for women, it says they only get more womanly."

"Oh - right." Jack agreed with the dream logic. "Yeah, I guess I wouldn't want to go in and become even more like a woman." "Well, I don't think you'd have to." Miss Cooper replied. "I mean, look at you, already. Once was more than enough for you." "You mean I'm a girl...?" Jack asked, trying to look at him - her...? - self, and finding that it wasn't quite possible.

"Of course." Cooper replied, as if surprised by the question. "That's why I've never been 'found' - not only are they looking for a man, when I'm now a woman, but anybody who got close enough to the money ended up a woman, too."

Jack blinked, confused. "You mean other people have found the money before?" He asked. "Why was it still there, then?"

"Oh, well, I always put it back." Miss Cooper explained, waving a hand. "At least, I always have, before - didn't want anybody tracking me down, you see. In your case, I might let you have it, though."

"Really?" Jack said, pleased. "That'd be great!"

"Yeah, well, you might need it." Cooper replied. "After all, after you've gone stark raving mad from trying to resist the urge to fuck and suck every man you meet, you'll need the money to pay for your time in the nuthouse. Maybe they'll even be able to cure you."

"Wait, what do you mean...?" Jack asked, the room growing dark around him as fear filled him.

"Well, you read what the chemicals do to a woman!" Cooper said, sounding surprised. She waved the sheets again. "Increase in size and tenderness of the breasts, increased libido, enlargement and increased sensitivity of the clitoris..."

"But those are side-effects for women!" Jack objected.

"You are a woman, now, Jasmine." Cooper said, calmly. "You're absolutely obsessed with fucking and sucking men, now, because you are a true nymphomaniac - and when you fight against your new nature, it'll drive you mad, and you'll be a raving lunatic. I'm sorry, but that's just the way it is, Jasmine."

"What...? No, no, my name's Jack... It's Jack..." Jack tried to argue...

...but his voice didn't seem to work anymore. In fact, nothing seemed to work anymore, as the room continued to darken, leaving him immobile in the blackness, blind and dumb....

...but not deaf, and Miss Cooper's words went on and on and on as she calmly described how Jasmine would become and madwoman from trying to resist her new sexuality...

* * * * *

Just after dawn, the fever broke, and the figure sprawled on the bed immediately fell into a deep sleep - a deep sleep filled with nightmare after nightmare...

* * * * *

"Let me out!" She screamed, struggling against the straight-jacket. "I'm not crazy! Please, I'm not! I know I look like a woman, but I really am a man, and so me refusing to fuck and suck all those guys is normal, see, so I'm not crazy, so please "

"...let me out !" Jack screamed, snapping awake.

The sound of the scream reverberated in the hotel room, echoing back. The high-pitched, feminine sounding scream.

Fever-dream and night mare and reality all intermingled for one second as the straight-jacket/entangling-covers of nightmare and reality both existed in a pair of wide, horrified eyes...

...which were staring down at the white fabric bulging over what certainly seemed to be a pair of breasts. A very large, round pair of breasts...

With a muffled scream, Jack threw open the sheet wrapped around him/her...

...and beheld a smooth, pale body that boasted a huge, round pair of tits in the foreground and, barely visible in the background, a tight little slit...

...with a large 'pearl' at it's apex.

Unaware that he/sort-of-she was actually suffering from a 'mild' psychotic break from reality, 'Jasmine' gave out a little squeak that was saved from being a full-fledge 'B-movie queen' scream by the fact that her lungs were already empty, as reality and perception parted.

The reality was, Jack wasn't technically female. Not by a long shot.

The thing Jack saw as a vagina with an enlarged clitoris was actually a channel formed by the retraction of now-swollen balls back up into the body, with the cock also having pulled back and in, leaving a somewhat shrunken head at the top edge of the new 'cunt' to form the 'enlarged clit'.

The two massive, spherical masses thrust so firmly from the ribcage were, indeed, breasts - that being the definition of 'gynocomastia', even the severe form Jack had suffered. They were not, however, female breasts, since they lacked milk glands, and boasted much smaller nipples than 'natural' breasts of that size would have sported on a woman - but, in Jack's mind, the nipples were perfectly sized for the breasts, since the only comparable breasts had been the surgically-inflated type on strippers and big-bust porn stars.

Everything Jack was seeing, however, fit the consciously-hazy-but-subconsciously-sharp memories of the fevered delirium, and the chemical induced psychosis provided the final, 'illogical' leap of logic.

Perhaps it was a good thing, though. By itself, the particular form of psychosis left by the chemicals should have developed into a depression so deep as to mandate suicide - but, tied into to the hysterical energy Jack had provided at the thought of being female, it became a much 'livelier' psychosis, one far removed from suicidal depression.

In that instant, unaware that 'she' was technically insane, 'she' became utterly convinced that she had, in fact, become the very woman 'Cooper' had told her she would, not realizing that it was all dredged up from her own subconscious fears about what type of woman she would become, if she became female.

To put it another way - Jack's mind had been so busy dwelling on his own 'worst nightmare' scenario of becoming a woman who felt a need to have sex with men, that when the moment came, 'she' almost automatically accepted the premise without so much as a second thought.

"Oh, God - no...!" She whispered in horror, finally having been able to draw in a breath.

Shivering in horror at what had happened to her, 'Jasmine' slid her legs over the bed and forced herself upright.

She glanced over at the corner - and the sight of the bag full of money only served to further reinforce her belief, illogical as it was, that 'Cooper' had been there, and told her what was going to happen.

Shivering even more violently, she forced herself to slowly approach the mirror, struggling not to whimper at the sensations caused by her firm, round new tits as they swayed and bobbed slightly with each hesitant step.

She stared in the mirror - and horror overwhelmed her at what she saw...

...or, rather, what she perceived.

An objective observer would have seen the long, 'platinum blonde' hair with it's dark roots.. and might have considered the fact that it looked just a tad coarse. Not so much so as to be worth mentioning, perhaps, but still, not as silky-smooth as some women's hair would be...

...but Jack's mind saw that same hair, and immediately equated it with a very certain sub-set of women's hair.

The type of over-bleached, over-styled hair that certain women wore - the type of women then Jack had always considered 'cheap'.

Likewise, said observer might have noticed a face that, while certainly far from hideous, was too masculine for true feminine beauty, with a jaw that was somewhat too strong, and a nose that was somewhat too large.

Jack's mind, however, saw these 'flaws', and compared them to what 'she' had already assumed from the hair - and the image that jumped to mind was 'cheap' women who, with a 'flawed' face, wore way too much make-up in a vain attempt to disguise the face.

In fact, almost every flaw Jack perceived in 'her' somewhat masculine new 'female' body all went into that same category, one that, in reality, wasn't all that unlikely, psychologically speaking.

Many 'real' women, if subconsciously too aware of their own 'unattractiveness', overcompensated by becoming somewhat 'sleazy' - and given Jack's nature and personality, this was the type of woman he immediately mirrored onto 'herself'.

It wasn't completely out of left field, either - and much of it came as a direct result of the tits.

'Her' new tits were huge and firm and tipped by small nipples. Not just 'big', but 'boob-job' huge, each one like a flesh-colored basketball, round and firm.

The only other breasts that even compared was that of strippers Jack had seen - many of whom had, in fact, gotten such outrageously enlarged breasts to compensate for their own perceived deficiencies. Very few women who considered themselves otherwise beautiful would bother with such over-inflated endowments - while, many such women had 'flawed' figures like Jack's.

So, comparing what 'she' saw in the mirror with the mental image of 'cheap, slutty' strippers and porn stars wasn't that big a leap, really - and all things considered, neither was the leap that led Jack to assume that such women, having voluntarily chosen their 'careers', must be very sexually driven.

With all those 'almost logical' assumptions and thoughts in Jack's head, combined with the fever-dream and her unnoticed psychosis, it took no extra push at all for 'Jack' to become 'Jasmine' - that is, to will herself into believing that her own worse nightmare had come true, and she had, indeed, been turned into a horny little nymphomaniac slut who'd go insane from trying to resist her new sexual 'needs'.

"I.. I don't want to go crazy..." She told her reflection in the mirror, consciously unaware of the fact that she was, quite willfully, pushing her only-slightly-higher voice up into a trilling falsetto that more closely matched that voice that she 'thought' such a woman would have. "I don't want to be locked away in a nut-house for the rest of my life..."

It was a truism that the insane never knew that they were insane, and such was the case with the new woman who stood staring at her reflection, telling herself that she wanted to avoid going insane. Especially since there was even a hint of 'logic' to the situation since, insane or not, Jasmine knew damned well that a 'woman' running down the street screaming that she was really a man would be considered insane.

However, it simply never occurred to Jasmine that a thorough and complete medical examination would reveal that, in her case, it was true. Instead, having accepted the premise that she was now a woman, (and, illogically, that her sexual orientation had somehow 'automatically' change to match), she also automatically assumed that even the most detailed examination would show her to now be biologically female.

Had 'Jack' been a little more tolerant before this had happened, had bothered to learn a bit more about an alternate lifestyle that he shied away with a curse of disgust, he would have understood that 'transsexual' didn't really mean 'a man becoming a woman', no matter how many transsexuals might have wished it did. No, it dealt with creating as close an approximation of womanhood as possible out of the male 'material' at hand, ,and if Jack had realized that on an instinctive level, the subconscious misinterpretation of the side-effects listed on the sheet wouldn't have occurred...

...and, likewise, if Jack had spent so much as a single second wondering about what would cause a woman over-inflate her chest and take a job as a stripper, 'she' might have realized that it wasn't some sort of 'natural law'.

Instead, Jack's narrow-minded prejudices all combined, in that one moment, to have a single effect:

Her still-and-always-would-be-male mind saw the not-terribly-attractive figure in the mirror with the massive, 'fake' tits - and immediately slapped the label that Jack would have applied to anybody who looked like that.

In other words - she voluntarily defined herself as a cheap slut.

"This.. This is bad. Very, very bad..." She told herself in that falsetto. "Don't panic, Jac.. uh, Jasmine. No, don't panic. We... I can work with this. I.. I just have to keep from going insane, because if I loose my mind, then I'll be completely out of control. I... I just have to keep my sanity, and I'll be able to figure out how to deal with this..."

It was a lost cause, of course, but she didn't know that...

...and so, it seemed utterly reasonable to her, when she looked at the male clothing she'd brought with her, to reject them out of hand.

Reasonable - but certainly not logical. After all, her body with the exception of the massive new breasts, was little changed from the way it had been before. Though a new layer of fat had been added to slightly depleted muscles, giving her a smoother, more feminine contour, her general measurements were nearly identical...

...except, mentally, she was comparing apples and oranges. Instead of a muscular man of average height, she was 'picturing' a tall, athletic woman, and so - without so much as checking - immediately assumed that 'male' clothing wouldn't fit her 'female' body. After all, ,men and women's clothes were somehow fundamentally 'different' - and so, since she was now female, no men's clothing would ever fit her...

With her mental break from reality, her mind forced the square peg neatly into the round hole, and she accepted the premise without question. As a man, 'Jack' had only worn male clothing - and so, as Jasmine, she'd only where female clothing...

...no matter how utterly disturbing she found the thought.

Swallowing heavily, heart pounding behind her massive new chest, Jasmine forced herself to go into the bathroom and grab somewhat ratty but impeccably clean bathrobe the motel provided. Tying it tightly around her waist, she trembled at the thought of having to go out in public like this - not so much 'half naked', but as a half-naked woman.

The robe, forced by her massive, ,heavy new breasts to gape open with a display of chasm-like cleavage, barely reached to the middle of her smooth, milky new thighs as she grabbed her keys, cigarettes, and some of the old, slightly mildew-scented twenties from the flight bag.

At the door, she paused, heart thudding so heart it seemed it must burst right through her chest - but she truly believed that she had to do this, and so, gathering up all her not-inconsiderable will, she forced herself to do what was 'necessary', and open the motel door.

Oddly enough, she might have been displaying more raw courage then she'd ever shown in her life was she forced herself to walk out of the motel room and to the Jeep, parked five feet away. She could have dashed that distance, then fumbled frantically with they keys to unlock the vehicle - but, instead, she walked with a certain dignity, ,head held high and a tenuous determination on her face as she faced what her new life with remarkable bravery.

Unlocking the door to the jeep, she slid behind the wheel, feeling like every eye on the planet was staring at her, as if every finger was pointing as every voice snickered about the 'new woman'.

Despite the mixed flood of shame, ,disgust, self-pity and fear that trembled through her, she did not give in to despair. With the same sort of determination she'd given in her search for Cooper's money, foregoing her job search in a 'ridiculous' quest, now she faced an 'impossible' future with a forced, tenuous - but still intact - dignity.

Putting the Jeep into gear, she pulled out of the motel and headed off in search of an out-of-the-way women's clothing store.

* * * * *

She found just what she needed on a side-street in the more run-down section of town.

It was a small, second-hand clothing store, and it hadn't even been open yet. Pulling up in front of it, She'd nervously smoked a cigarette while waiting, fighting against the urge to simply turn around, go back to the hotel, and hide out until forced to leave the room by hunger...

..or by insanity, which was what kept her from starting the Jeep and pulling away.

The fear of giving into first despair, then madness, is also what sustained her as a somewhat overweight woman, carrying a cup of coffee and a Danish, finally arrived at the shop, five minutes behind schedule. Transferring both Danish and coffee to one hand, she fumbled with some keys with the other, finally getting the door open...

...and Jasmine did the 'hundred meter dash' from the Jeep to the store.

With every step she took, her huge new tits jiggled and bounced in a very distracting manner, the robe's terry-cloth rubbing against her nipples with a disturbingly pleasant sensation, even as the robe threatened to pop open completely. The hem of the robe flipped and twirled in tree self-created breeze, and wind blew across a crotch already lacking the familiar bounce-jostle, creating even odder sensations as the chill air moved across her new womanhood.

At least the feeling of long hair stirring over ears and shoulders wasn't unfamiliar, she thought with a brief sort of wry humor....

...and then she was inside the store, the chubby proprietor staring at her wide-eyed.

"Sorry about that " Jasmine said, in that high-pitched voice she'd unconsciously decided to use. She smoothly slipped into the 'white lie' she'd rehearsed out in the Jeep: "Some pervert slipped into my hotel room last night and stole all my clothing, so "

"Oh, you poor thing " The chubby woman managed, though she was eyeing her first customer's oversized rack with a bit of a raised eyebrow. "Well, I, uh... I'll have to see what we have "

"Okay." Jasmine agreed, readily, not admitting that she didn't have the slightest clue as to anything having to do with women's fashion. "Whatever help you can give me would be fantastic "

Again eyeing her customer's 'fake' tits, so amply displayed by a robe that, with a little bit of maneuvering that any woman would know, would close over the display of cleavage, the woman began to walked through the cluttered clothing shop, pausing to consider bits and pieces of clothing.

"You're looking for something like this, perhaps ?" The shop owner hazarded a guess, holding up a blue-and-white cotton/lycra tube dress whose stretchy fabric had enough give to fit even her customer's 'oddly' proportioned body.

She actually had several other types of clothing that might fit this particular woman's body, though not that much - but still, she'd gone with her instincts, and chosen one that would not only fit, but fit like a second skin...

...and, repressing a grimace, Jasmine took the shop-keeper's somewhat wild-assed assumption as further verification of the 'obvious' nature of her new, feminine life.

"Yeah - that'll be good..." Jasmine agreed with a forced smile, hating the added evidence of her obviously slutty nature. Still, hoping that, perhaps, there might be some sort of 'out', some hidden escape clause that a real woman would know about, Jasmine forced herself to arch her back slightly and gesture with one hand to the spherical firmness of her new endowments. "I mean, what else can a woman like me wear, especially with such a big, round pair of boobs?"

It was meant to be an actual question, a request for advice - but the shopkeeper took it as a 'hypothetical' question, even somewhat of a boast. She forced an answering grin, reminding herself that the customer - even some cheap floozy of a customer - was always right.

"Yeah, when you got 'em, you got to show 'em off." She said in a forced tone of cheerful agreement, unaware that she was reinforcing Jasmine's delusions about 'women like her'. "I think I've got a couple more items suitable for a woman such as yourself. Why don't you hang on a second, and I'll go get them..."

Hating the incontrovertible evidence that proved she'd been right about her new self, Jasmine forced a smile of her own in return. She waited patiently while the hefty woman sorted through the wild variety of clothing, not realizing that there were, indeed, a few 'sedate'

- even some 'minimizing' - outfits that would have fit her figure, but that were passed over by the stout woman in the belief that her customer would have immediately rejected them.

Finally finishing up with what she thought was a suitable selection, the stout woman led Jasmine to the changing room, and left her with the pile, which included whatever undergarments she'd managed to find - and even a couple pairs of shoes.

Alone and unwatched, Jasmine finally allowed her disgusted expression to surface as she rummaged through the pile of clothing 'appropriate' to her new body.

It was every bit as bad as she'd feared. A woman like herself apparently ever wore sleazy, cheap, determinedly 'hey look at me, boys!' clothing.

Grimace deepening, she sorted through the 'representative sampling' of what 'women like her' wore. "Oh, well..." She finally sighed, gut churning at the prospect. "It's either this, or go around naked..."

She was, indeed, brave. She could have 'wimped out', could have chosen the relatively least 'offensive' outfit from the selection - but, squaring her still-broad shoulders, she forced herself to drop her robe and look at her new, naked female body in the full-length mirror.

"You are Jasmine." She told her reflection in the high new voice. "You like to wear clothes like these, just like any other slutty, big- boomed woman."

Taking a deep breath, she forced herself to reach up and grip each massive new tit, mentally forcing herself to 'savor' the heft and the sensation of the touch, rather than give in to the instinctive rush of distaste. Instead, she lightly squeezed the enormous mounds, and spoke again to her reflection.

"God, are your tits ever gorgeous." She gave her reflection a 'pep talk' she thought any woman like her might give herself. "So huge and so firm - how can any man help but drool over them? Like the woman said - with tits as big and firm as these, you owe it to people to show 'em off, let them see them and fantasize about them - and you love it when they do, right? You just love packing your big, beautiful tits in clothes that just make the guys go wild."

Her stomach was turning over at the thought - but it was the way women like her were, and it was a mindset she'd at least have to learn to imitate, if not actually enjoy, as a real woman would. After all, she didn't want to start acting 'weird', so out of character for a woman like herself - it might prompt somebody to question her sanity.

With that thought, Jasmine forced herself to smile at her reflection as he began to pull on the most 'appropriate' outfit for a big-titted tramp like herself.

She started with the hot-pink, barely-there G-string-style 'panties'. Though she felt a shiver of disgust at even touching these things, she forced herself to smile as she forced herself to 'perform' for her reflection, slowly and sensuously drawing them up her legs.

Though the touch of the silky materiel, what little of it there was, was about as unmistakably feminine as could be, she never the less drove back the immediate desire to rip them off - and instead, forced her fingers to slow their rise, and make it more of a caress that traveled up her legs, then a simple act of dressing.

"You're putting these panties on, because these panties are the type that turn men on..." She whispered to her reflection through her straining smile, reminding herself what any woman like her would be thinking at the moment. She pulled the skimpy materiel into place, the front barely covering her cunt, the back riding up between her ass-cheeks. "With every step, you'll feel these panties - and be excited by them."

Next, she slowly pulled on a black spandex skirt - a 'Spanish' design that clung like a second skin from her hips to her knees, where a ruffled back swatch of semi-transparent fabric 'exploded' outward in a vague attempt to mimic a flamenco dress.

The shopkeeper had been unable to find any brassiere in the store that would fit Jasmine basket-ball sized breasts - but Jasmine assumed the lack of a bra simply indicated that girls like her didn't wear bras, a thought that fit in with her own mental assumptions. So, she simply pulled the white, ruffle-trimmed cotton/lycra 'peasant-blouse' into place on her massive new tits, pausing to survey the effect in the mirror.

The ruffled neck of the top displayed the top third of her massive new mounds, clearly showing how incredibly round and taut each spherical breast was, while separate matching 'sleeves' gripped her biceps in a spandex embrace that minimized the muscularity of her arms. Given her massive new endowments, the bright-white blouse on her milky-white skin combined to 'balance' the look.

Finally, after three forceful repetitions of the thought that 'any woman like her' would love doing so, Jasmine managed to force herself into the shoes.

The black imitation-leather 'sandals' were pretty basic, as far as the uppers went. It was the three-inch platform and the seven-inch flared heels that bothered her - or, as she kept reminding her with a smile that was almost cemented to her face, 'excited' her.

Gathering up the rest of the clothing, Jasmine left the changing room.

Between the heels and the skirt, she was forced to take mincing, 'sissy' steps, her hips swiveling widely and her ass swaying to counter-balance the bob-and-drag of her massive new boobs.

It was a result of her outrageously top-heavy figure, an outfit poorly chosen for such a figure, and her unfamiliarity with the heels that resulted in such an exaggerated version of a 'sissy bimbo' walk - but Jasmine simply accepted it as the 'natural' stride of a woman like herself, just as she'd accepted her 'naturally' reversed sexuality in this new body.

"It's perfect!" She enthused to the stocky storekeeper, trying not to act 'out of character' for the type of woman the world had obviously decided she must be. As disgusting as it was, it beat being locked up in an insane asylum...

Paying for the clothing, she also picked out a couple of hand bags - and a cheap 'silver' jewelry set, which she put on right there with a forced show of pleased excitement for the shopkeeper's benefit.

Only after the big hoop clip-on earrings were in place and the heart-shaped pendant around her neck and pointing like an arrow at her amply displayed cleavage did Jasmine turn and wiggle, jiggle and sway her way out of the store, reminding herself that she needed to pretend to enjoy the friction of the fabric over her nipples as her tits wobbled and jiggled with each mincing step.

Depositing her new clothing in the back of the Jeep, Jasmine began to mince towards the driver's door - then stopped as she caught sight of another establishment down the street.

A beauty parlor.

Her heart almost stopped as she realized what she was contemplating... but, while a woman 'running out' to buy some clothes after being burglarized might do so without make-up and with her hair in disarray, but what sort of woman did so habitually?

She was going to have to do it. She was going to have to get her hair and make-up done, or else somebody might notice how odd she was acting, and force her to undergo psychiatric treatment for such an obvious mental imbalance - because women like her didn't just tolerate such things, but actively enjoyed them.

Her knees seemed to turn to water, and every instinct inside her urged her to turn and run - but, drawing on every ounce of will available to her, Jasmine forced herself to begin walking towards that dreaded lair of femininity.

Pushing open the door, she stepped into the somewhat run-down establishment, the strained smile on her face firmly fixed in place. "Hi." She said, striving not to sound at all like somebody struggling not to be sick to their stomach. "Any chance you can fit me in?"

Despite her somewhat desperate hope for a reprieve from the 'necessary' task, the shop wasn't at all busy, and an older woman with artificially red hair piled into a big beehive led her to a chair and sat her down.

"Okay, honey, what'll it be?" She asked in a cigarette-roughened voice.

"Hair and make-up... and I'm sure you know exactly the type of thing a girl like me is looking for." Jasmine forced out in the trilling falsetto, wondering if her pale skin had taken on a pallid cast from the way her stomach was reacting to the oh-so-definably-feminine odors the shop was redolent with.

"I can guess, honey." The woman said, with a snort. "We also got a special on appliqué nails. Lotsa you gals are buyin'em." "That'd be great." Jasmine finally managed, amazed she'd not screamed the negative that had shot up into her throat.

Frightened by how close she'd come to 'blowing her cover', Jasmine pleaded a short, busy night as an excuse to lean back, close her eyes, and try to blank her mind out completely as the older red-head went to work...

..and, in the imposed darkness behind her eyelids, heard the discussion going on between the red-head and the shop's idle other employee.

Never having been in a beauty parlor, Jasmine didn't know that the help and the customer usually chatted while the work was going on - and, barring that, the employees chatted with each other to relive the boredom.

She also didn't know that the two women were continuing the discussion that had just started before she'd entered the shop, one that concerned another woman both employees knew - and detested.

"So, what... she's a stripper?" The woman with the page-boy cut asked.

Red snorted. "As if. I mean, the clothes, the implants, I can see why you might think that, but come on - the walk, the wiggle, everything about her literally screams 'whore'."

'Oh, my god - I look like a whore to them!' Jasmine thought, fighting not to let any reaction show on her face....

"Oh, riiiight" Pageboy - a real suck-up to Red, the manager - said, nodding. "Yeah, I shoulda seen it right off, now that you mention it - but you're the expert judge of character. I mean, you're, like, never wrong."

"Well, hardly ever " Red agreed, smugly. "With this one, it was an easy call - one look, and you know she spends half her time on her knees, gobblin' cock."

"...and the other half of the time shoving those plastic boobs of hers under guy's noses." Pageboy rushed to throw in...

...and red shot her an angry glance, gesturing down at their 'inflated' client.

"Not that there's anything wrong with a good pair of implants, right miss...?" Red asked her, eager to make sure she hadn't offended.

Amazingly, Jasmine managed to keep a sob from her voice at what these women considered painfully obvious about the new life she was condemned to. Instead, she forced herself to sound as happy as could be: "Hey, the bigger your breasts, the better the guys like it, right?"

Red - assuming, as she had since Jasmine had walked in, that she was a stripper, shrugged. "I bet it's a real bonus in your line of work."

"You bet..." Jasmine managed, wanting to vomit - but that, of course, would have been so out of character as to ensure a trip to the loony bin. She fell silent, waiting to see if either women had picked up on the strained tone in her high-pitched voice...

...and, of course, didn't realize that, a second later, the two women picked up with their previous conversation.

"You know, I think she really loves being a hooker, too." Page-boy said. "Probably actually thinks it's an added bonus that she gets paid for it."

"Of course she does!" Red said with a snort of laughter. "Little tramp, she just love's gettin' the old man-meat anyway she can. Not surprising, given how she looks. Girls like this, getting a man to let her swallow down a load of come is like getting the highest form of praise..."

Since the women they were referring to was, to put it nicely, 'not exactly model materiel', both women snorted in agreement.

"Yeah, I know exactly what you mean." Pageboy was quick to agree with her boss. "Some women, they'll happily go down on a dozen men, and consider it time well spent if one of them says so much as 'thanks' afterwards."

"Ain't that the truth." Red agreed.

After another mutual snort, the two women moved on to a discussion of their respective boyfriends...

...while behind a plastic mask of repose, Jasmine's mind whirled in horror.

'This is the type of woman I have to pretend to be...?' She asked herself, horrified. 'This is the life I've got to live if I don't want to be seen as some sort of crazy woman? No, it can't be true! It can't be! Maybe... Maybe the women are just teasing me, maybe that's it. Maybe they don't really think that...'

She tried to convince herself that she'd a joking tone in the women's voices. She replayed the conversation over and over in her head, trying to hear some sort of hint of joshing...

...and didn't even realize it as her psychosis re-embellished each 're-enactment', filling the relatively short conversation out with her own dark fears and deepest worries, until the conversation she so 'clearly remembered' wasn't at all like the one that had actually occurred...

"Okay - take a look, honey." Red said, and a somewhat startled Jasmine popped her eyes open...

...and barely clenched the horrified scream behind the plastic smile fixed in her face as all her worst fears were verified.

The huge, bouffant mass of curls her platinum-blond hair had been teased into. The garish make-up that had been applied with such a heavy hand, from gloss-pink lipstick to fuchsia eye-shadow. The long, hot-pink nails applied to the tip of each finger.

It all practically screamed 'whore'...

...and the fact that it could have also been the over-done make-up of a stripper who would only be seen in a darkened room, usually from some distance away, never even occurred to Jasmine as she forced herself to look at Red with a big, simpering grin, and give effusive thanks over the 'absolutely perfect look for a girl like me!'

A big, brainless grin affixed to her face, stomach tied into knots, Jasmine wiggled and jiggled back out to the jeep, where she climbed behind the wheel and stared mindlessly into the distance.

This is what she was supposed to do with her life? Become a mindless little whore, pretending she loved it as she let - practically begged - men to do whatever they want to her?

What was the other option, though? If she didn't act out the part of the big-breasted little whore, people would know there was something wrong with her. What was she supposed to do - explain to the doctor that she couldn't act like the cum-craving little slut she obviously was because, until recently, she'd been a man? She was the one it had happened to, and it still sounded utterly nuts.

For several long minutes, sheared stared off into the distance, weighing her options...

...then, with a sigh through the vapid grin, she started the Jeep and put it into gear.

* * * * *

"Oh, baby, I want you in me..." Jasmine begged, spreading her legs wide as she lay back on the bed and fixed her eyes firmly on the smiling, muscular man. "I want your big, thick cock deep in my hot... wet... cunt..."

Keeping the 'sultry smile' fixed on her lips, Jasmine could only manage to repress the shudder or repulsion she felt as the big, smoothly rounded phallus touch against the damp, swollen pearl of her clitoris.

"Fuck me, Johnny - fuck me hard...!" Jasmine screamed, a half-beat behind Tammy Topps...

...and, as on the TV Johnny Roxx plunged his massive cock into Tammy's cunt, Jasmine drove the big plastic dildo deep into her new womanhood.

Her gasping scream of repulsed pleasure overlaid that of the big-boobed actress on screen, and Jasmine managed to maintain a shred of her composure at the awful - yet, also very wonderful - feeling of being 'impaled' as she matched her movements as closely as possible to the 'actors' starring in 'Big Boob Whores, Volume One'.

"Oh, yes, Johnny - fuck me hard!" Jasmine moaned in a bad copy of Tammy's voice as she imitated Johnny's thrust with her dildo, squirming in a mix of disgust and pleasure emanating from her cunt as she drove the plastic phallus deep into her, then drew it back out in the same 'teasing manner' as the well-hung man that she was trying to convince herself she found 'sexy'.

"Oh, God, Johnny... You're so big..." Jasmine moaned in simulated pleasure - some of which was actually real, as she picked up the pace, continuing her 'training' for the life of a whore.

"Yes, Johnny, yes...!" She cried, matching her thrusting rhythm to the hip-pump of Johnny Roxx - while also trying to match the frantic-the-slow rhythm of Tammy's hips, as well.

It wasn't easy - especially since the pleasure of being 'fucked' was continuing to grow, almost exactly the way it would have had she still been male...

...which was unsurprising, as in all actuality, the dildo was stimulating the shaft of the 'buried cock' that made up the top of her new 'cunt', itself well lubricated by the large spurt of thin 'pre cum' she'd shot from fingering herself, as in the previous scene.

"Harder, Johnny - make me cum, you big stud!" Jasmine begged the actor, as she increased the speed and power of her thrusts, trying to pretend that it was a real man looming over her, driving his cock into her cunt - and trying to also pretend that the thought didn't sicken her.

The growing pleasure from the dildo helped. With a rhythm that matched that of the actors on screen, she went from heavy pounding to a slow tease, then to a faster shorter rhythm that sent sparkles of pure pleasure flashing before her eyes, all while she mindlessly mouthed the insipid dialogue of the movie - such as it was.

Now, it was becoming a struggle not to forgo the screen and give in to her own rhythm. Trusting that porn stars would know more than her own 'instincts', she fought against the urge to simply pound the dildo into her in frantic thrusts until she came, instead trying desperately to get herself to slow down - and even teasingly pull the cock out and 'tickle' her big clit with it - just as the stars on screen did so.

It wasn't easy - not when simply plunging depths of her new womanhood felt so... damned... good...

"Maybe... this won't... be so.. bad... after all..." She gasped out, out of character, as the on-screen duo finally went back to the rapid rhythm that felt so wonderful when she matched it. "Oh, God, , yes..." She moaned...

...then realized she'd said that 'out of sync' with what was going on in the movie...

...which she couldn't even see anymore, since she'd let her head roll back, eyes half-closed as she helplessly gave in to the rising pleasure, arm-muscles beginning to shimmer in strain as she frantically pounded the big, 'flesh' colored dildo in and out of her sopping cunt with complete abandon.

"Oh... Oh..." She gasped, struggling to regain control... but it was as if her body had a mind of its own, her arm frantically whipping back and forth as her hips ground and humped on the bed-sheets, altering pitch and depth of the dildo against the walls of her cunt for maximum pleasure.

"God...! So.. good...!" She moaned, eyes tightly closed as she struggled with the enormity of the pleasure, somehow simultaneously repulsed and delighted that feminine sex could feel so good. "Yes.. yes.. oh, God, yes...!"

Then , feeling exactly as good as any other orgasm from her male life, a sharp, nerve-shaking burst of pleasure ripped through her as her 'cunt' became even hotter and wetter, and she screamed out the deity's name in one, drawn-out prayer of heartfelt thanks for the ability to feel such mind-blowing pleasure...

...and then the eternal instant receded, and she sighed and withdrew the soaked dildo from her sopping cunt, staring at it for along, speculative moment before sighing and tossing it aside.

On screen, the porn stars were still busily humping each other.

"Some whore I'm gonna be..." She said, bitterly, rising from the bed and wrapping the bathrobe around her buxom figure - except that she let one hand slide into the gaping front to slowly and gently fondle a huge tit like she'd done during the first scene of the movie, finding it just as delightfully, ,disgustingly enjoyable as it had been then. "First, you find out that it all feel really, really good - but so good that you can't help but indulge yourself, when you're supposed to be indulging the guy. My orgasm isn't supposed to matter - I'm supposed to be able to hold off until the guy cums..."

She stopped, her pale face suddenly suffused by a deep blush, as it occurred to her that all the practice she so obviously needed might just be worthwhile in and of itself... and her eyes swung back to where the dripping dildo lay on the bed...

"Geez, Louise..." Jasmine said, sitting down hard on the chair near the dresser and reaching for a cigarette. "This female libido thing is something..."

It never occurred to her that, what she took to be the libido of a 'nymphomaniac woman' was exactly the same in all respects to the one she'd considered to be 'perfectly normal' for a guy.

As good as it all felt, though, the thought of being some sort of pleasure toy for an endless stream of nameless men still caused her stomach to do flip-flops. Though, in a sort of hypothetical situation, the emotional disgust of letting one man touch her, in order to give her pleasure like that she'd just felt, managed to seem barely palatable - but as soon as she started imagining that hypothetical one man leaving, and another taking his place - that's when her gut clenched tightly.

Taking a deep drag on the cigarette, Jasmine tried to convince herself that she'd be able to handle it - that she'd be able to take it 'one john at a time', forcing her self to imagine each and every man as the hypothetical 'one', rather than 'just another...

...but what if they were ugly? Or smelly? In fact, there was a lot of men that Jasmine had met that the thought of standing anywhere near made her almost physically sick, much less letting them touch her. Could she pretend to want it - to pretend she actually enjoyed it?

Well, it wasn't exactly as if she had that many options. After all, who ever heard of a choosy who... Eyes widening in shock, Jasmine whirled to the VCR and punched the REW button...

...then let it go, letting the tape play again, to the sound of her salvation:

'Honey...' Sandra Stakked said appreciatively to Tammy Topps '...for a man that hung, nobody in their right mind would blame you for givin' up hookin'...'

Hitting the 'stop' button, ,Jasmine's stunned face slowly began taking on a slow, ,happy smile as her hypothetical 'one' acquired just a touch more detail....

* * * * *

Sipping at yet another of a now-seemingly-endless cup of coffee, Jasmine took a long drag of her cigarette before butting it out in an overflowing ashtray.

Laying the cup of coffee aside, she leaned back into the screen of the computer nestled in the darkest, most private corner of the Internet Café.

As for the past two hours, there was no reply to the message she'd posted, more then a little flush-faced, with the somewhat over- eager assistance of a young, male member of the Café's staff.

It had been with the very attentive young man's help that she'd logged on to a site called MagmaMates - and, under his suddenly lascivious smile, she'd followed his 'assistance' in setting up a profile under the 'Intimate Encounters' section of the site, right down to the digital picture of her taken by the oh-so-very-helpful young man.

To be fair, she wouldn't have been able to do it without his help. Still, she certainly didn't let him see the 'ad' she'd typed in, after specifying that it would only be available for viewing to men within a sixty mile radius of the town.

Now, for perhaps the hundredth time, she re-read the ad she'd posted on the site, still not quite positive that she wanted that response:

JASMINE JUGGS - Looking for a Big Dick to match my Big Tits.

I'm looking for a thoughtful, eager-to-please-and-be-pleased man between the ages of twenty and forty, who just happens to be utterly, amazingly, enormously endowed. Must be willing to accept a big-titted nymphomaniac with the proper appreciation for such a massive organ to become your full-time live-in girlfriend at my own expense, no questions asked. If you can treat me right, go all night, and like your girls tight, then let me know. ONLY THE TRULY MASSIVE NEED APPLY.

Reaching out for yet another cigarette, Jasmine began to sit back in the chair...

...then stopped dead when a 'Mr. Smiley' popped up on her screen, indicating a interested response. With suddenly shaking fingers, she grabbed the mouse and moved the cursor over to click on the Icon, pulling up the person's profile.

The profile for MR2BIG came up, with a note indicating that the originating location of the profile was within roughly ten miles from hers.

The photo showed a somewhat scrawny young man, with shaggy brown hair and a scraggly goatee, smiling somewhat shamefully at the camera. The stats listed showed him to be twenty-three years old, and mentioned he was 'unattached', living in 'and owned home', and looking for 'almost anything'.

It also listed the salient statistic as... Jasmine blinked.

NINETEEN inches?

She looked at the photo of the scrawny guy again, wondering if this was some sort of put-on. The profile also indicated there were 'Behind-the-Scenes' - photos only available out of the public area due to content - and that he'd already pre-approved her for access. She clicked on the link...

...and managed to get her jaw snapped shut.

Maybe.. Maybe that huge monster wasn't real, but some sort of photo-alteration. She knew some of these computer geeks could do that, and this guy looked a bit 'geeky' to her. Surely that big, heavy-balled monster wasn't really attached to the body it seemed to be. Hell, it would probably call him to fall over if he tried walking while hard, since it was almost as big as he was tall, not to mention those balls...

...but...

Jasmine hesitated, not even sure if she wanted it to be real. After all, a monster like that might tear her apart if she actually ever tried...

On the other hand, if anybody ever questioned her sanity for not being the cheap whore she was obviously supposed to be, ,who could possibly argue her sanity if she could point to that massive monster, and claim it had ruined her for any other men...?

Swallowing nervously and lighting that cigarette, she opened a message window:

Want to meet face to face.. or, rather, tit to dick...? She asked, glad that trembling fingers and nervous face couldn't be seen through a computer screen.

Hitting 'enter', she waited nervously....

...and the reply came simply in the form of an address, with the addendum, 'Whenever you'd like'.

She simply stared at the reply until she'd finished the cigarette, once more trying to convince herself of the joys of committing herself to an asylum...

...then, like a rogue comet, a thought blazed across her consciousness, wondering if a bigger cock gave more pleasure than that good-sized dildo she'd tried...

...and she was utterly shocked to look up and realize that she'd typed in another message, one that read, simply; '15 Min.' She blinked - then, quickly logging out of MagmaMates, she hurried out to her Jeep...

...and, sliding behind the wheel, suddenly realized that the thudding of her heart wasn't from fear. It was from excitement.

Was it possible? Was she really, literally, atingle with excitement at the idea of committing herself to some guy with a big, thick cock? Sure, she now knew that it was conceivable that what she'd thought was the 'disgusting' act of having sex with a man could be as pleasurable as it had been to have sex with a woman as a man, but still...

...but still, while her mind was pondering the question, she'd already started the jeep and put it into gear, and it took an act of will to ease her foot off on the accelerator.

Mouth dry, heart pounding, Jasmine hurried to the address that had been listed, the one that seemed to be burned onto the inside of her long-lashed eyelids.

Within ten minutes, she pulled up outside a small, somewhat sloppy-looking brown bungalow. The lawn was mowed, but no hint of grace adorned the landscape, no flowers or bushes - things that, only by seeing them missing, did Jasmine appreciate them and she wondered why she hadn't seemed to have picked up the sort of feminine aesthete that would have made such things obvious...

...then realized it would have hardly been much use to a whore. Indeed, now that she thought about it, her transformation hadn't included many of the feminine 'aspects' that she associated with most women, like an urge to shop - but again, ,they were all probably excess baggage to a woman whose true and obvious purpose in life was to be a living fuck-doll...

Climbing out of the jeep, Jasmine headed up the walk towards the house, finding herself more atingle with eager excitement then ever before.

Of course, she was contemplating doing just what her purpose in existence was, so perhaps that was why she was so ready for it. She was still somewhat surprised to find that her hand didn't tremble at all as she rang the doorbell.

Fixing a smile more sincere than any that had graced her face all day, she watched as the door swung open to reveal the scrawny young man from the photo, his face wearing a hesitant smile of it's own...

...and his pants supporting a bulge that, unless stuffed with athletic socks, seemed to support the photos...

...and Jasmine realized that she was standing there, staring - and felt her face go a bright, glowing red as she snapped her eyes from his crotch to his face...

...a split second before he managed to raise his own flaming face from the fixed gaze at her chest.

'I can be excited and nervous and afraid and happy at all the same time...' Jasmine thought, numbly, waiting for words to come to her, the correct thing for a horny little slut with tons of experience would say...

...and drawing a complete blank.

"Why, uh.. Why don't you come in, Miss.. uh..." The scrawny 'hippie' stammered, his eyes unable to held hers for any length of time...

...which she barely noticed, since hers kept wanted to slide away, too.

"Thanks, uh..." She said, hearing the stammer in her own voice - and suddenly, shocked silly, realized that it hadn't come out in that insipid bimbo-voice she'd almost grown used to hearing, but a sort of husky, low-feminine voice.

"Mark.." He replied, awkwardly. "Uh, it's, uh, nice to meet you..."

"Jasmine.." She supplied, again in that voice, wondering where the high-pitched one had suddenly fled to, not knowing she was simply too flustered to summon it. "Um.. nice house you have, Mark.."

"Oh, uh, thanks..." Mark replied, startled, while Jasmine, wide eyed, asked herself if she'd really just said that. "I have some wine or, maybe a beer, if you'd prefer..."

"A beer would be nice..." She replied - before she stopped to think that a wine might be more in keeping with her new life - then realized it would only make her look even more moronic if she tried to correct herself now...

If that was possible.

"Yeah, okay, a couple of beers..." Mark said, with what he obviously was trying to pass off as a smile. He looked more like he was about to toss his cookies, but Jasmine tactfully decided not to point that out...

...since she was too busy trying to fight down panic as she followed him first into the kitchen, where he tried - and failed - to look suave opening the beers, then out to the living room, where they perched awkwardly on the edge of the couch.

'He's going to know!' Jasmine's mind screamed at her, loudly. 'You're supposed to be an accomplished slut!'

Trying for an alluring smile, she leaned back in the couch, , reaching for that 'seductive lounge'...

...and ending up in 'undignified sprawl'. Quickly, she yanked herself back upright, blush as bright as ever as she wondered what the hell was wrong with her, and where were all those whore instincts she should have...

..and Mark didn't seem to notice, so maybe it's still okay, maybe it can be salvaged, just think hard, what would a slut do, and...

"Maybe.." Mark said, slowly looking up at her again, nervously fingering the beer bottle. "Maybe you should, you know, sort of, uh.. 'take the lead', and get us started. I'm sure, with all your experience, I'd like just about anything you..."

"I've never slept with a man!" She blurted out...

...then, eyes wide, slapped both long-nailed hands over her mouth and stared at him, wondering where the hell that had come from even as she waited for the anvil to fall...

...and here it came...

"You haven't...?" Mark said, disbelief heavy in his voice, and now it was all going to come crashing down as he opened his mouth and...

"That's wonderful!" He exclaimed, grinning. She blinked.

"Excuse me?"

Mistaking the stunned question, Mark flushed and held out his hands. "No, I mean - it's wonderful for me, because I'm a virgin too." "You are?"

Mark's flush deepened, but he nodded. "I, uh.. was always sort of afraid that I'd, you know, hurt a girl or something, so I've been waiting for some girl who seemed sure that she could..." His smile began to slip. "Wait, but you've never... and, like, for virgins - girl virgins - the first time is, like the most painful..."

She held up her hands quickly, surprised to feel something akin to physical pain at the hurt look and lost hope in his eyes. "Look, it's kinda the same for me, Mark..." She said, bull-shitting on the fly. "I guess I'm not technically a virgin anymore, since I've been using,

,you know, ,dildo, for years - only, I kept using bigger and bigger ones as time went by, until finally, I began to worry that, when I finally did it, for real, it'd be a disappointment..."

"Oh.." Mark said - and then, for several seconds, they simply stared roughly in each others direction, blushing furiously.

"So.. what do we do now...?" Mark finally asked, his rather pathetic attempt to appear cool having vanished with his admission of virginity...

...and Jasmine was shocked to find that most of her fear had vanished with her own not-quite-untrue claim that she'd never slept with a man, as well.

Mark had not only not freaked about it - he'd been relieved.

They were now on 'equal footing' - and neither one was in any position to call the other on any mistakes they might make...

"Well..." Jasmine said, flying on instinct, heart beating rapidly. "Why don't we just, you know, start at the top? We could, uh.. well, kiss each other, and just... see what happens from there..."

...and, stunned, was slammed so hard by a memory that she almost blacked out.

A memory of herself - or, perhaps, 'Jack', since 'he' seemed almost another person - in a darkened room much like this one, in a situation much like this one, trying very hard to lose his own virginity.

Jasmine realized that her assessment of the situation had been dead wrong. One of them did have experience.

Plenty of experience, of a sort,...

...and knowing exactly what the other was feeling at this very instant.

The last of the nervousness and hesitation slipped away, the blush fading into nothingness as she slowly, warmly smiled at the very nervous young man.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A man encounters the Great Randolpho on a back road in West Virginia and is turned into different women who exist only to give people pleasure.

Disappearing Act

A Morality Tale In the Key Of 'F' By Gunslinger

PART I - FORESHADOWING

Though the sinking sun was still, technically, above the horizon, there was already a twilight filling the hollow of the Allegheny Mountains that was home to the small, sleepy town of Hubris, West Virginia.

It was into this backwoods twilight that the stranger came a'roaming, a battered and faded olive-drab backpack slung carelessly over one soft-looking shoulder. His dark hair, ragged and untrimmed, flopped around a broad, cheerful-looking face supporting a snubbed nose and merry brown eyes. Beneath his travel-worn blue-plaid shirt and faded denim jeans, his body was as rotund as his face - not fat, exactly, but definitely pudgy, carrying an evenly-spread layer of padding that gave the young man a well-fed and somewhat clownish appearance. Though nearly twenty-three years of age, he looked days short of his eighteenth birthday, an illusion compounded by his clean-shaven face and boyish walk, faded and tattered red Hi-Top sneakers slapping an easy beat as he headed into the vale, thick lips spread in a grin that revealed not-quite-even teeth that were almost angelically white.

Trailing behind him and projecting in front of him, warbling through the cooling air of the mid-summer evening, was his voice, lifted in song, the lyrics to 'Walking to New Orleans' rolling out in a surprisingly rich, engaging voice.

Yes, indeed, Ron Dobbins did, indeed, have a very fine singing voice. He was also very well traveled, having criss-crossed the country since he'd left the foster home at the tender age of fifteen. However, this was not to say that the cherubic-looking young man didn't have a flaw or two in his personality.

He was less than enthusiastic about physical labor, and just a little too fond of the cold, foamy beer the coin of such a day's labor could bring, if he'd so engaged himself. He was fond of telling stories, but quite often forgot to indicate to the listener when he drifted into fiction - especially if said fiction would serve to further line his own, somewhat thread-bare pockets. He also seemed a bit vague about the generally accepted notions of property ownership, and occasionally located 'lost' items before they were, properly speaking, lost.

In other words, Ron was a liar, a cheat, a con-man and a thief, 'earning' his money in a variety of illegal ways. His one saving grace was that he didn't look dishonest. His somewhat short, pudgy body looked admirably innocent, especially with his most engaging, trustworthy, and apparently less-than-bright grin plastered on his cherubic features. Many a time, it was his looks alone that kept supposedly intelligent people from figuring out that pilferage and financial loss seemed to increase almost the same instant Ronald Dobbins wandered into town.

Many a time, it worked that way - but, recently, it hadn't seem to be nearly as reliable. Like it or not, he was getting older, and people were less and less trusting. The last two towns he'd visited had been left quickly, in the dead of night, and the last one had even included the indignity of having to hide while a police-cruiser went screaming down the back-road he'd chosen, 'cherry-dome' glaring blood-red and siren screaming as if in anger.

On the whole, Ron had felt that the fine citizen actually involving the Law in what was, after all, a smattering of petty matters was not only unnecessary, but insulting. Ron was very careful not to 'fleece' to much in any given town. As far as he was concerned, he was just helping keep the economy alive and healthy, redistributing modest sums of wealth that would probably have otherwise been wasted in a savings account. Certainly, no individual 'mark' has suffered enough to be more than temporarily put-out...

Still and all, it was worrying. After all, if he was loosing his edge, it might force him to start looking for - he hated to say it, even to himself - legitimate employment.

The mere thought of it made Ron wince.

When he opened his eyes again after the involuntary 'double blink; of the wince, it was to find himself just feet away from a vehicle he'd failed to notice in the rising darkness - not too remarkable, considering that the mid-70's van was painted black and dark red, with trim- work of gilt that was too faded to catch the faint light.

Likewise, the owner of the van was somewhat invisible, dressed all in dark clothes - but he was far from inaudible, though he'd been silent at first. That silence had been broken with a metallic clatter and a meaty thumb - remarkably like the sound of a tire-iron slipping off a recalcitrant lug-nut, spinning from sweaty hands, and landing directly atop a human foot.

Which, if the rather vocal and profane comments that followed were fair indication, was exactly what had happened.

"Having some trouble?" Ron asked, pleasantly, coming closer to the tall, regal-looking man dressed rather incongruously in a severe black tuxedo with a red-lined black satin cape tossed over his shoulders. At the sound of Ron's pleasant, open voice, the leonine head swung up, and Ron found himself the subject of scrutiny for a pair of dark, deep-set eyes flanking a proud beak of a nose that rose from the man's narrow face like the prow of a ship thrusting from the ocean foam.

"Why, certes, my dear lad!" The man said in a voice designed to carry - to whom, Rob couldn't begin to guess, since he was standing only a foot away, and there was nobody else to hear the man's archaic, grandiose tones, unless you counted the odd squirrel.

"I fear that these hands are not made for such mundane labors." The silver-haired man said, holding up narrow hands with long, dexterous fingers as if they were pearls beyond price. "Slight of hand and strength at arms are quite different occupations, you see."

"I'd imagine so..." Ron replied in a noncommittal tone, leaning closer to the coachwork of the aging vehicle to read the words written in golden flourishes. "The Great Randolpho, I presume?"

"Indeed!" The man replied, his teeth shining white and even in the twilit gloom. "The finest prestidigitator upon the firmament, my dear boy - though, I'll admit, the simple truth of my great and unimaginable skill fails to draw the true gelt I believed it would, despite my many years of study in the mystical arts."

Ron suppressed a snort at the man's boasting - after all, a true showman would almost have to claim great and awesome powers, despite the visual evidence to the contrary.

"You don't find many illusionists wandering the highways and byways anymore." Was the inoffensive comment that sprang to mind. Not inoffensive enough. The 'Great' Randolpho drew himself up imperiously.

"Nay, good sir, Nay! No mere dabbler in sleight of hand and illusionary visions stands before you, but one who has studied the mystical intricacies of the true Magic, now all-but-lost in the mists of fable and legend. Though I will admit that I do perform the occasional 'trick' to add a sense of flamboyant showmanship to my act, it is merely a fiscal necessity in this day and age, where every potential patron has been bombarded with the flash and fancy of Hollywood and it's ilk. Nae'the less, dear boy, I assure you - I have dominion over the fey lines of true and powerful Magic!"

'Then why can't you even change a flat tire...?' Ron thought, but didn't let the sarcastic question show on his boyish face. Instead - as always - he looked for the Main Chance.

"Well, then, there's every indication that I'll be amply and handsomely rewarded for rendering assistance, won't there?" Ron asked with a grin, aiming the tone and rhythm of his words towards the magician's own grandiose style.

"What? For a simple courtesy you would expect a reward Magical and sublime?" Randolpho asked, acting affronted. "Perhaps a token gratuity of a suitably small denomination, thrust into unwilling hands belonging to the just, for whom the act is its own reward - that, perhaps, is what is to be envisioned. To expend a great and fell power for such a task - how does it even come to mind for you to suggest?"

Great - the guy was a cheapskate on top of being a certifiable kook. Still, Ron was an expert, and the hint of a 'reward' above and beyond what this man thought was fair just begged to be won. Still grinning, Ron made his argument for a 'great and fell' reward as he bent to the task of changing the tire. Not content to merely point out the Magician's predicament in mundane terms, Ron saddled up his vocabulary and rode it out at a gallop, careening over, around and through the magician. Every step he'd taken to reach this point became an arduous trail in its own right. His tale became full of woe and despair as he 'forsooth'ed and 'verily' declaimed his bone-weary exhaustion, despite which he'd come to the magician's aid. He 'foreasmuch'ed his way around to where the Magician would be, had Ron not stopped to aid him, and even managed to work the word 'niggardly' into the soulful 'I shouldn't have expected better' conclusion of his verbal barrage, even as he finished tightening the last lug-nut on the spare tire.

The Magician might have been a showman - but Ron survived on his wits and his words, and he'd cut loose with the full broadside on this one - Randolpho's steely-gray eyes had glazed, and he was nodding his head more in acknowledgment of Ron's cessation than in any sort of agreement.

"Very well!" He said, throwing up his hands in surrender. "Since, as it seems, you have actually saved the whole of the universe from imminent destruction by aiding me in this matter, I suppose it lay upon me to grant you a just reward - if for no other reason than out of respect for your sheer verbosity!"

Turning, the old magician slid open the side-door of the van, revealing a remarkably cramped interior. Rummaging through a large steamer trunk, muttering to himself, Randolpho seemed unaware of Ron's thoughtful appraisal of the stage dressings... and shrug them away with a roll of his eyes.

"Here, then - a just reward." Randolpho said, turning and pressing a small, cool object into Ron's hand. Cocking his head, Ron lifted the item - and blinked at the sight of what appeared to be a finely-crafted silver ring, etched with fine detail carvings.

"You hold the ring of Lucrochio, my young lad." Randolpho intoned, gravely. "A talisman of limited - yet puissant - power. Indeed, I used it much for my act, before my assistant decided to seek her fortune elsewhere."

Theatrically, he peered around and lowered his voice to a 'stage whisper' that couldn't have been heard more than, say, a hundred yards away.

"When this ring is invoked, it changes the wearer, and all the wearers immediate possessions." Randolpho said, sounding utterly serious. "A fairly minor change, in the grand scheme of things, but assuredly enough to keep any individual from recognizing the altered wearer, at least immediately."

"I... See." Ron said, carefully, while mentally calculating the ring's worth.

"Beware, young sir, for this you must know!" Randolpho said, theatrically. "Once changed, the wearer must - will he or nil he! - retain that form for at least three hours. Once returned to your rightful form, you must wait at least another three-span of hours ere you invoke it once more."

Ron rolled his eyes, but played along. "What happens if you invoke it too soon, or change back too quickly?"

"The change needs last at least three hours, and naught you say or do will change that, for the ring will not respond. Should you try to invoke it whilst in an alternate form, it is that form that will be further altered - and piling one invocation atop t'other is most inadvisable, young sir, for it will have far-reaching effects and long-term consequences. I cannot say, for certain, what these will be, as every invocation is different - and I have never been foolhardy enough to break the supernatural laws that govern the ring. I suggest you treat it with as much care as I, young sir, for like fire or the sword, this talisman has the power to harm as well as help."

"I'll remember that." Ron promised - spuriously, since he was going to 'cash in' on the ring as soon as he hit a burg big enough to have a pawnshop or two.

Having the ring in his chubby little hand, Ron was no longer interested in the weird old magician. Mumbling vague assurances, Ron cut the magician short by turning his broad back to the stringy old man and resuming his interrupted walk into town.

He was surprised to find no trace of the old man of his van when he turned back, a few moments later. He hadn't heard the engine start, or even the slam of the side door closing, yet the van was gone from the side of the road - and no trace of taillights gleamed on the road from Ron to where it disappeared over the crest of the valley.

Frowning slightly, Ron mentally shrugged and continued on his way, wondering if the town was small enough to use old-fashioned paper receipt-machines for credit-card transactions. He had one or two credit-cards in his wallet that, technically speaking, were worthless, being both stolen and already reported. With an 'instant response' digital machine, they were useless - but with the older system, they very pretty rectangles of plastic might get him a hotel room...

* * * * *

PART II - FLEEING EN FEMME

With a self-satisfied grin, Ron pushed the door shut behind him and looked over the room in the town's only hotel. Sure, it wasn't a suite at the Ritz-Carlton, what with it's cheap, dark-'wood' paneling and riotous floral comforter, but it was clean and cozy, with all the basic necessities - and best of all, it was gratis, compliments of the management.

Even if the management wasn't, yet, aware of the fact. By the time the transaction was phoned in sometime tomorrow, Ron was planning to be long-gone... though he figured he might be able to hear the outraged screams of the proprietor, if the wind was blowing just right.

With a satisfied sigh, Ron slumped down on the edge of the bed and slowly undid the laces on his shoes, wrinkling his nose at the odor as he peeled his graying sweat-socks off his tender feet. Tossing socks and shoes into the corner, he peeled off his jeans and added them to the pile to 'confine' the smell. Dressed only in his black boxer-briefs and blue-and-white-checked shirt, Ron stretched out on the bed, folding his head behind him as he stared up at the ceiling.

Doing so, he could feel the ring that old kook had given him pushing into his scalp. The only finger it had fit on was his pinkie, and now he tapped it lightly on the headboard just behind him, feeling the cool curve of metal press against his scalp on the back-swing. He snorted in sarcastic humor at the old man's grandiose tale for the bit of stage-jewelry, though it certainly seemed to be silver-plated at least, and on top of pewter rather than plastic from the feel and heft of it. Ron highly doubted it was actually solid silver, though part of him hoped it was. Still, that would be as unlikely as...

...as it actually having magical abilities.

With another sarcastic chuckle, Ron pulled his hand from behind his head and held it dramatically out-thrust as he forced his chin onto his chest to help get his voice as theatrically low as he wanted for this whimsical bit of tomfoolery.

"Ring, I invoke thee!" Ron chanted in as deeply powerful a voice as he could manage...

His body jerked. It had good reason to - it felt as if he'd been hit with an electrical shock, one that thundered through his body, leaving him rigid and tense - and that was immediately followed by a sensation that was, as close as he could come to describing it, felt as if his entire body had turned to an ice sculpture, lifelike in every detail but cold and solid.

Then, an instant later, he melted - and as he did, his body flowed, painlessly since he was numb from head to toe. Still, despite the lack of physical sensation, there was definitely an emotional and intellectual discomfort, one that was only a step or two shy of full-fledged panic.

Then the series of sensations - or numbness - passed, and he slumped, stunned.

Or, rather, she slumped. It was the strangest sensation - a sort of 'realignment' in her head, as if her brain was a compass that had just swung to point to a new north, realigning itself instantly and painlessly to it's new identify, without changing the underlying memories and thoughts - well, not much. As much as she knew who she 'really' was, she was also aware that she could be, if she wished, 'Ronnie Dubbins'. Somehow, she also knew that, had she been holding her backpack at the moment of transformation, she would have had identification that matched that name. However, she hadn't been holding it, so it remained as it had always been, just as did the rest of the world. Though 'fell and puissant' as the magic was, it affected only her and that what she was touching, an immediate effect rather than an area one.

All things considered, though, Ronnie didn't exactly feel cheated, considering she hadn't expected the magic to work at all.

Despite the shock that washed over her, though, the new woman had to admit that it was a well-thought-out 'spell', as far as until-now mythical magic went. The relatively 'slight' changes in her mind didn't do anything permanent to her 'real' sense of self, but let her handle the random transformation without going into hysterics.

"Holy shit...!" She muttered, eyes wide in stunned realization that she was now female - and would remain so for at least three hours, according to the magician who'd supplied the ring. The Great Randolph's reputation suddenly got reassessed in the new woman's mind, upward - and very rapidly, too. No idle boasting, as she'd believed - the man really could work magic!

Still feeling stunned, Ronnie let her eyes slide over to the mirror mounted on the cheap-but-clean bureau across the room. Oddly enough, she already knew what she'd find - her own mental 'self-image' had shifted, along with her sense of identity, all without erasing her original world-view. Still, she wanted to see it with her own eyes, not sure how she should be dealing with the sudden and unexpected change in gender. After all, this wasn't exactly a situation that you could really prepare yourself for...

What she saw was just as she'd expected - she saw herself.

Not just 'herself' in the sense that she was now mentally realigned to her temporary new identity, but in the sense that the body she was now wearing was most decidedly the feminine version of her original male one. It was about the same height, and even the same build

- except slightly narrower at the shoulders and somewhat wider at the hips. She was no raving beauty, that was sure, though she wasn't repulsive either. Instead, she looked... decidedly average. A bit chubby and under-endowed, not that she was minded to complain. When you hadn't expected to ever have tits, you couldn't very well be upset that all you got were small ones when, in fact, you did gain them. Somehow, she just knew that they were A-cups, and a quick opening of her only-slightly-altered shirt revealed small, conical mounds tipped with large, dark nipples, looking nearly prepubescent.

In short, she looked the way a twin sister would have looked, had 'he' had one. Indeed, the 'family resemblance' was so close that if you were looking for 'Ron', you might mistake 'Rona' for him, until a second look. Not that she looked masculine, exactly - it was just that she wasn't aggressively feminine.

"Great..." She snorted, seeing little use for this 'disguise', it being so similar to her original form. Indeed, the thing most changed by the magic was her underwear, which had become a sensible pair of black cotton panties - covering a flat crotch, her new womanhood nestled behind the thin layer of fabric. Oddly enough, she was able to think about her new 'equipment' with near equanimity, her mental realignment keeping her from panic.

Of course, the fact that it was also temporary also helped. That was assuming that the magician was right about it being reversible after three hours, but Ronnie somehow knew that it was true, though it was like the other 'new' information in her mind, simply resting there without explaining anything. In the same way, she knew she was 'Rona' - yet Ronnie had no history, no background. It was an empty 'shell' of an identity, though she was also somehow sure that they 'fake' identity would have held up, had she been holding her backpack at the time of transformation. She made a mental note to always have her identification in hand if she changed.

She sighed, realizing that it was merely 'luck of the draw' that she'd had this relatively useless - and more than a little mentally uncomfortable - transformation. It could have been something else just as easily - and ending up taller, thinner and blonde would have been a great disguise. Despite the relative ineffectualness of this first transformation, Ronnie's swindler-aligned mind began to see some very useful possibilities to this unexpected and barely-believable magic she almost literally held in the palm of her hand - instinctively, she'd wrapped her hand into a fist to keep the ring from sliding off a slightly more slender finger.

Which left a question to be answered - having found herself suddenly and unexpectedly turned female and - even more unexpectedly - less than panicked about the fact, what was she to do with the next three hours of her life? Certainly, she had never given considered thought to being female, though it would have been a lie to say the thought hadn't crossed her mind once or twice. Almost every man alive wondered what being a woman was like, though most would rather die than admit it - sometimes even to themselves. Now that she was unexpectedly faced with the situation, what was she to do with it?

It was perhaps a greater indication of her personality than any other would ever be that this 'miracle' left her wondering how she could use it to her financial and personal edification, rather than any truly 'earth shattering' explorations into the differences between the gender. Having found herself female, and reasonably 'comfortable' with the gender thanks to a new mental 'overlay', she knew she could pass as a female, at least for the next three hours. There were new thoughts and ideas in her head provided by her new gender-orientation, though like her new identity they were 'hollow', with little backing them up.

For example - she was amazed to note that she could, indeed, see that the room was poorly decorated and furnished, with a blandness that was so solid as to be a style all its own. As a man, he'd never really noticed this in rooms before, other than subliminally, yet now it loomed quite large in her new world-view... yet she couldn't have explained why.

Shrugging off her newly-female instincts for interior decorating, she grabbed her jeans and began to pull them on - also ignoring the fact that her newly fashion-conscious mind was pointing out that the ensemble that had been comfortable and road-worthy for her male self was now noticeably 'unflattering' to her female mind.

Harder to ignore was the fact that, as close as she looked to her original body, she was female - while the pants were men's pants. Her shirt had altered slightly to fit her new body as well as it had fit her old one, but the pants were a little too tight across her slightly broader hips and fuller ass - and she had to repress an all-too-feminine sigh over the fact that her ass was less than spectacular. She'd never really paid that much attention to her ass before, except in the metaphysical sense that she was always 'watching her ass' - but now she was more aware than ever the fact that she was less than perfect a specimen of female pulchritude. Certainly, she was no more ugly as a woman than she had been as a man, but the outlook on her own body-image had shifted along with her gender.

However, unlike a 'real' woman she had her underlying male mind to help her cope, and her lack of 'self-esteem' over her body didn't hit as hard as it could have. Pushing the thought aside, the new woman also tried - with somewhat less success - to note what, exactly, it felt like to draw the denim over smooth feminine flesh, her newly-gained legs as smooth as if she'd just waxed them.

Through all this, her devious mind was still trying to puzzle out how best to make use of her newfound gender, financially speaking. So far, she hadn't hit on any particular plan - it was somewhat of an unanticipated situation, after all. She did have the feeling that some of her standard gambits might be more successful than usual, however, since people seemed less inclined to suspect a woman of chicanery.

Leaning over, she went to grab her back-pack - and the move put her line-of-sight onto the partially opened curtains, and the darkness beyond the second-story window. The window that overlooked the parking lot of the hotel, which was currently vacant of traveler's vehicles.

That wasn't to say it was completely empty, however - for there was a tan-and-black vehicle just pulling in, one with a dark lump atop the roof that Ronnie knew from experience to be red plastic, housing a rotating light.

Her newly feminine insides felt as if they'd turned to liquid as she realized that it was the Sheriff's car from the last town she'd visited. Which, in a way, made sense - after that little incident with the Sheriff's daughter, the lawman was likely to be slightly more 'motivated' to catch Ron than usual - and given the semi-isolated area of the mountains, it seemed only sensible to check both routes out of the last town.

With a quail of fear, Ronnie watched the Sheriff climb out of the car and stand up...

...and up...

...and up. Ronnie had been heartily glad that Missy had taken after her mother, not her huge, slab-muscle mass of a father. Now, however, he realized just how truly mountainous the living mass of legal muscle was, and she realized that the isolation of the area might mean that the Sheriff had more 'personal' means of punishment than was strictly allowed by the state criminal code...

...and, though she was currently female, the resemblance was so close that it could cause some problems, especially since the clerk at the front desk would be sure to recognize the masculine description the sheriff would give, and Ronnie was currently standing in the room rented to that particular male individual.

Suddenly, it struck Ronnie that she had a pressing engagement to be anywhere but here.

Throwing her backpack - well, Ron's backpack - over her slightly more slender shoulder she headed to the door and opened it, knowing she had but a few minutes to make good her escape - so she certainly couldn't stand around and absorb the sensations as the strap of her backpack sat tight over a remarkably more sensitive nipple, creating new and distracting sensations. Pushing the thought aside, she quickly ducked back into the room and grabbed her shoes and socks, knowing they'd be a little too large for her somewhat smaller feet, but not willing to leave them behind. Barefoot, she padded quickly towards the end of the hall farthest from the staircase leading to the lobby, where even now she could hear the deep rumble of the Sheriff's voice as he introduced himself to the clerk.

Reaching the window at the end of the hall, she looked out to spot the fire-escape that the fire-code insisted should be there - and began to curse under her breath to find it missing. Normally, she wasn't all that finicky about the finer points of law, but she must definitely felt that this particular ordinance should have been followed to the letter.

Already, she could hear the heavy tread of the sheriff's feet as he approached the stairs, and she shivered in unpleasant consideration of what would happen when the hulking man found somebody who looked like Ron's twin sister, dressed in clothes nearly identical to those last seen on Ron's rotund body - and carrying a backpack full of Ron's belongings. It could definitely get dicey.

Looking around, Ronnie spotted an inset area off to one side, where shelves held a small stack of fresh linens, It wasn't even a closet, lacking a door - but it wasn't immediately visible from the hallway. Near panic, the new woman slipped into the niche and all but held her breath as she listened to the Sheriff approach the still-open door of her room.

There was little time, and she had to do something. Biting her somewhat fuller lower lip, she could think of only one thing to do. As quickly and silently as she could, she jammed her feet into her shoes without bothering with the socks - then squeezed her fist tight around the ring, wondering whether or not fooling around with magic was a good idea.

"Garret!" the sheriff shouted, using the alias Ron had chosen in the last town. "I know you didn't leave, so you're still here somewhere. Give yourself up now, or I'll promise you'll regret it even more than you will already!"

Suddenly, fooling around with the mystical didn't seem like as much a risk as it had a second ago. Biting her lower lip, she whispered the invocation...

* * * * *

PART III - FIT AND FASHIONABLE

"Excuse me - I hate to interrupt, but I'm looking for a Donald Heywood...?"

Sheriff John Bannul, whirled, his meaty face a scowl... but it couldn't maintain that expression as he saw the owner of the warm, somewhat hesitant contralto.

She couldn't have been more than twenty. Slender and attractive, she had the vibrancy of youth that pushed her beyond her own, natural 'cuteness' to a sort of youthful beauty - and her clothes only accentuated that. Perched atop a pair of black leather open-toe pumps with a tapered heel, she wore a pair of tight jeans and a midriff-baring blue-and-white shirt with varied sizes of lines crossing it horizontally - which only served to accentuate the fullness of her firm, ripe C-cup breasts. Her cute face, with only lipstick and perhaps mascara, was hesitant, framed in a shoulder-length mane of light brown hair, and her green eyes were flicking hesitantly back and forth between the clerk and the cop. Her slender hand was wrapped tightly around the strap of her faded denim back-pack, and she looked very hesitant and uncomfortable.

"What did you want with this man, Heywood?" The sheriff asked, almost unconsciously pitching his voice to a more gentle tone, not wanting to further frighten this attractive - if nervous - young woman.

"Uh... it's more what he wanted with me, actually. Something about wanting to sell a piece of jewelry..." the girl-woman said, eyes flickering about nervously.

"Look, miss - the man you're looking for is the same one we are, and I'm after him because he's a con artist." The sheriff said, hating to break the news to her but glad he'd kept her from getting fleeced. "If you do see him, let me know immediately, all right miss...?"

She managed a smile that was less than enthusiastic. "Drummond. Tawni Drummond - and I promise to let you know if he turns up..."

'Not likely', Tawni thought to herself. Somehow she knew that the 'overlap' of magic meant a minimum time spent as a woman to be at least six hours. The same way she knew that, since the original change was to a woman, all changes after would follow a certain 'theme', enhancing the original change. She understood that it was actually a useful 'device' within the spell, allowing the user to 'expand' upon any given change if they wished - but Tawni certainly didn't wish to be more feminine. Still, between her new 'Mona' equilibrium and the fact that this slender, attractive young woman looked nothing like the Sheriff's prey helped calm her own disquiet at being made more feminine.

The way her fuller, firmer breasts felt beneath the strap of her back-pack didn't help matters any, though, nor did the fact that she felt comfortable - and, even 'attractive' - perched atop the stylish shoes.

Faking another smile. Tawni headed towards the stairs, glad that neither man had thought to ask where she'd come from. Well, at least now she had identification that matched her too-feminine-for-her-own-liking body. That was one of the things she'd checked as soon as the change was finished. Sure enough, matching ID had been nestled in her bag, along with other feminine odds and ends, like lipstick.

She still wasn't sure why she'd given in to a sudden impulse to apply the lipstick, but she was used to trusting her instincts. It probably just helped enhance her impenetrable 'disguise'. Still, it had felt strange to confidently and skillfully apply lipstick - and do so almost 'eagerly', though she was sure that it was just a good instinct from long years as a con artist. It certainly didn't have the feel of the other 'overlay' ideas of her feminine persona, feeling right and natural rather than imposed. Not that she was complaining about those 'imposed' thoughts and skills - it not only made it possible to deal with her second change, but it allowed her to walk easily, even gracefully, atop the three-inch heels on the shoes that now enclosed her feet. She winced to think what she'd look like if the magic had changed her footwear without giving her a complimenting skill to allow her to make use of them.

Not that she was actively happy to be walking around in heels, of course, no matter what her new female instincts said about the way it made her stride more gracefully feminine while accentuating her new, much nicer ass. Nor was she actually excited about being trim and attractive with a firm bust and smooth, flawless skin that would make most fashion models just die with envy if they saw it. Despite her new outlook on life from behind the Tawni persona, she was still the same person as always, and the fact that her new body was well-displayed by the fashionable outfit she was wearing barely registered, and certainly wasn't creating a trill of pride in her gut. No, that was just her nervousness at being so close to that big, manly hunk of a sheriff who was so pissed at her - or, rather, at the male version of her, who'd dallied with his daughter, Missy - who was attractive enough and all, but what had Missy been thinking, wearing that color of eye-shadow with that shade of blush, and those shoes...!

Well, that was neither here nor there. Tawni certainly had other things to worry about - like the fact that she was out of a hotel room, and now had to find something to do for at least six hours. Her immediate thought was to spend that time putting distance between her and the sheriff. She was sure that, no matter how hard Sheriff Bannul looked, no trace of 'Ron' would turn up between here and whatever points he could get to six hours from now. Being a woman wasn't her first choice, but damn - did it ever make losing the long arm of the law easy. Hell, the Sheriff had been staring right at her, and had no idea...

Of course, Tawni took it as a personal insult that she had to hide or run at all. A good con artist left the marks not even knowing they'd been fleeced. That made it easy to come back and fleece them again sometime. Second takes were always easier - you already knew the marks' little peculiarities. The fact that she had to 'run' from this cop, excellent disguise notwithstanding, annoyed her sense of professionalism.

Oh, well - everybody had these little set-backs in life. You just had to move past them - even if you moved past them in three-inch contoured heels. Tawni wasn't exactly ecstatic about that part, even with her 'mental overlay' absorbing some of the emotional shock - and ingrained 'homophobic' sensations instilled in 'his' mind from childhood.

Even worse - she was being forced to run without being prepared, something she really, really hated. No reserve of cash, no ready-to- run con for bus money so the 'starving young student' could go visit her 'poor, dying grandmother'.

Oh, well - when all else failed, you fell back on the basics. With that in mind, Tawni glanced around as she exited the hotel, looking for an ideal candidate.

She found him, standing under a streetlight and reading a newspaper, his collar pulled up to keep the wind from trickling down his neck - the summer nights up in the mountain could get quite chilly, something a vagabond like Tawni discovered quickly enough.

With a small, smug smile, she headed off in that direction, thinking to herself that she hadn't used these skills in far too long. When he'd first left home, he hadn't been ready to run any cons, and had instead cultivated the most basic skills that a 'street runner' needed.

So, it was with expert grace, further amplified by the natural grace inherent in her new form, that she slipped her fingers into the man's back pocket and removed his wallet so quickly and smoothly that he never felt a thing.

She started to perform the standard 'tuck and cover' maneuver to hid the wallet in her armpit... when she paused, staring at the wallet.

Or, rather, the hand that held the wallet. The slender, shapely young female hand, each of it's graceful fingers tipped with short, bare fingernails.

Lightly biting her lower lips, Tawni considered her nails. They looked so... plain. Almost like a... a boy's fingernails. They definitely needed some color - and having them longer wouldn't hurt, either. Perhaps an inch and a half long, filed to a smooth oval, and coated with a glistening shade of, oh, perhaps Coral Pink...

"Hey, what the...? That's my wallet!"

Tawni's head snapped up - and her eyes widened in horrible realization as the man stared at her, very temporarily at a loss for other words or reactions.

Had she just stopped, mid-pick, to consider her nails...?

However stunned her mind might have been, her body had long-ingrained responses to this situation, hard-won lessons from Ron's days as a street-runner.

She ran. She spun on one heel, crouched low and lean, and left the imaginary 'blocks' as smooth as any Olympic-caliber sprinter. Longer, leaner legs pumped as her heart pumped blood at a frantic pace - a body more limber and athletic - more feline - than his old, male body had ever been.

She ran like the Devil himself was behind her, and through it all her old instincts remained strong - the hand gripping the wallet never even loosened.

However more light and lively her body might be, especially compared to her old male one, it wasn't the whipcord-lean body of an Olympic sprinter. She didn't have the lean, taut-muscled built of a real runner.

The man behind her, however, did. Even as she dashed for all her new body was worth, she could hear him quickly eating up the slight lead she'd opened in the sudden move.

She was going to make it to the corner ahead of him - but not by much, and not for much longer.

Which means she had to round that corner - and disappear. She hated the thought of it, but there was no other choice.

Forcing her already tiring legs to give their all in one last, draining burst of speed, she rounded the corner, her lips forming the words of the invocation...

* * * * *

PART IV - FLIRTATIOUS

Transforming while moving was completely unlike the first two changes she'd experienced.

There was no jolt of electricity, no numbing blast of supernatural cold. Instead, between one step and another, her body seemed to 'melt' like a wax candle left to close to the fire - and then reform into a new shape. It was painless, though not exactly comfortable - a discomfort extended due to another side-effect of invoking the transformation while in motion. Having less time to cram her new 'persona' into her head, the spell forced her brain to work at a much faster rate, nearly ten times as fast as it had ever worked before...

...and, as a result, time seemed to slow for her. Her mind only knew how to keep track of 'time' by how fast her brain processed information - when it was accelerated, time seemed to slow, subjectively.

So, she had more than enough time to see the transformation happen, something that hadn't been possible before.

She could watch as her black shoes rippled and began to change. The top section began to shrink back in itself as the heel lengthened and narrowed, all of it shifting in color, it's black leather taking on a sooty shade, then gradually running down into the red side of the spectrum. In the subjective space of a few seconds, her foot - or, rather, feet - were enclosed in strappy red shoes with four-and-a-half inch cylindrical heels.

Then she watched, bemused, as the hem of her jeans shot upwards, the legs 'spreading' to merge in the center, forming a short, tight denim skirt that revealed long, smooth, and quite shapely legs.

She could only peripherally see her chest, so she didn't get a good look at her shirt as it writhed to form a tight, white spandex crop-top. She could see the dark chasm of her cleavage, however, as her breasts expanded out into a delightfully firm pair of D-cup beauties.

She then felt the change run through her face, altering her look completely.

Then time once more resumed its normal shape and speed, and she 'snapped' back into the real world, skidding to a smooth stop.

She wasn't even out of breath. As far as the skewed logic of magic was concerned, Tawni had been the one running - not Tammy, who'd just appeared.

Seconds later, the enraged man rounded the corner... and then skidded to a stop, finding no sign of his quarry. "Did a woman just run past?" He gasped, panting.

"That way..." Tammy said, pointing, expecting - yet still surprised at - the warm contralto the words emerged in. She felt a moment of panic as he looked at her - she was still holding his wallet!

The man didn't seem to notice, panting out a quick 'thanks' before taking up the now-useless pursuit. A moment later, he vanished into the alley Tammy had pointed to...

...at which point she spun on one bright heel and walked in the other direction, forcing herself to remain calm and look casual. The first instinct of any thief is to run - but nothing proclaims a guilty man more than a dead-out run.

Struggling to look calm and casual, Tammy glanced at the man's wallet...

...and was amazed to find it transformed into a white faux-leather 'change-purse'-style women's wallet. Blinking, she opened the clasp...

...and found herself looking at a wad of cash, plus credit cards in the name of 'Tamara Runyon'.

Frowning, Tammy slid the strap of her back-pack down her arm - only to discover it was now a white leather purse. Which made sense

- unlike the wallet she held. If the man's wallet had transformed into her identification, then what had happened to her own wallet...? It, too, had become a women's wallet, identical to the one the stolen wallet had become - externally, at least.

Inside, there was almost no cash - just the one five and three rumpled ones 'Ron' had begun with. There was also identification, with her new face on it...

...which proclaimed her to be 'Tammy-Lynn Dolan'.

Interesting - two valid identities. However, 'Tammy-Lynn' somehow felt more real, so she assumed that it was her 'real' one, in this body

- though 'real' was a relative term when discussing a person who didn't exist a few minutes before.

Tucking both wallets into her new purse, Tammy resumed walking - and found herself passing a mirrored storefront window, underneath a street-lamp. In the garish orange-white of the sodium lamp, she caught a brief glimpse of her reflection out of the corner of her eye - then stopped dead, turning to stare at her new form.

She was the All American Girl.

Her body was toned and tanned, not 'tomboyish' or 'athletic', but firm and fit and young - like a cheerleader, perhaps. Her legs were shapely under her tight, fresh-denim skirt, and her waist was trim where her midriff-baring top revealed it.

Her breasts were full, firm domes, in no way too much of a good thing, and encased within the tight white spandex, which nevertheless displayed a hint of her creamy globes and a tantalizing amount of cleavage.

Her eyes, of course, were blue, and her nose a cute little snub above full, red lips. Her sandy-blond hair was pulled back into a pony- tail, and trailed just below her shoulders, where it swayed perkily whenever she moved.

Which she found she was doing, nearly continuously. Without being aware of it, she was bouncing on the toes of her shoes, breasts jiggling invitingly and hair bobbing as she smiled brightly at her reflection. Her new body looked closer to her true age, making her anything but jail-bait, but she had an 'innocently-sexy' look that was utterly breathtaking.

"God, I'm a cutie..." She muttered to herself, grinning - then the grin faltered when she realized what she'd said.

What the hell was going on? First, that pause to examine her nails - and now this. She was sure it wasn't right - yet these thoughts felt as at home in her head as any other, making them indistinguishable from her 'real' thoughts, except in retrospect.

This definitely wasn't part of the package, at least not as it had been explained to her. Somehow, the multiple-transformations must be causing this to happen - and what seemed to be happening was that the new, imposed personas were meshing into her original one.

This wasn't good news. Sure, she'd escaped a couple of awkward situations by transforming - but the change-upon-change had its own toll, not the least of which was the fact that she couldn't become her 'real' self for another nine hours. Well, just under nine hours, since she'd already 'wasted' some time as a woman. Still, it was a long time.

Especially with odd, not particularly welcome thoughts and urges crowding into her mind. She'd have to deal with them for the next nine hours - but she swore to herself that she wasn't going to transform any more. She didn't know just how much she could handle.

The mental aspects of each change had muted her natural reactions to finding herself suddenly female - a 'safety catch' written into the spell, to keep panic or confusion overwhelming the user. It didn't isolate the shiver that ran down her spine at the thought of having her mind altered, however. The only source of comfort was the fact that her mind would (presumably) be restored when her old, male body was.

Still, it was pale comfort here-and-now, especially when she noticed the smooth, sexy glide she used, hips swaying and causing the hem of her skirt to flick pertly back and forth - and felt a burst of pride at having both such a great walk and a cute ass.

Being 'proud' of her body was built into the Tammy persona - but instead of being an 'overlay', it was partially integrated into her 'real' mind, making it as forceful as an emotion or thought generated by her 'real' persona.

She hoped that there wasn't too much more of the Tammy persona that had integrated - but there was no sure way to tell the dividing line when the thought was generated. She'd only notice it - and be able to react to it - when she caught on to the anomalous nature of her reactions to the thought.

She continued down the street, heading in the direction where she thought the bus terminal lay. It was growing late, and she hoped that bus service hadn't ceased for the night. Hubris was more than a one-horse town, but it wasn't a major metropolis by any means. It hovered on the border between 'village' and 'town' - and Tammy had no way of knowing on which side of the border 'bus service' fell.

As she walked, she found herself glancing around with a bright-eyed-and-bushy-tailed enthusiasm so unlike her original person. Sure, 'Ron' had always been amiable, the better to calm and fleece the marks - but Tammy was downright perky.

It was annoying. Extra energy was used in every movement Tammy made, plus she made extra movements as well, themselves unnecessary as far as she was concerned - but she was incapable of 'heading them off at the pass', not knowing the thought-impulse was wrong until it happened. It was nearly enough to drive her crazy, and she focused instead on her route, trying to (and not entirely succeeding at) ignoring the sensations of her new body and the thoughts of her altered mind.

She turned another corner, heading towards the center of town - when a couple of loud voice caught her attention. She glanced towards their source, just in time to see the door of a two-story brownstone apartment fly open, thrown open by the body of man who dashed through, head tucked down and hands wrapped about his head.

For good reason - just behind him came a young woman - and in her cradled arm she held a small stack of plates, and she was sailing them after the protesting man, her own voice raised in a harridan-like screech.

"For me, huh?" She screeched, sending a poorly-aimed plate sailing out to shatter on the street. "If you bought that damned dress for me, then why is it the wrong size, you lying two-timer?"

The man tried to explain - but the woman didn't seem interested in his explanations. He dodged to the left as another plate sailed in his direction. The woman followed up immediately with the last plate in her arsenal, then - out of ammunition - turned and slammed back into the building.

Tammy had watched the whole spectacle, her original cynicism warring with an implanted urge to gasp and stare, wide-eyed. Now that the show was over, she began to move on once more...

...but found her eyes straying to the man. He was tall, broad-shouldered and ruggedly handsome, a mop of dark hair framing a square-jawed face. The fight had taken him unprepared, apparently, for he had dashed out of the building dressed only in a pair of 'Kicking-around-the-house' jean shorts, leaving much of his tanned, well-muscled body exposed. Tammy's eyes began to trace over his broad, well-defined chest, sliding down past his shorts to study his toned, hard legs...

...then sliding up to linger on his crotch, and she wondered if all of him was built on the same 'heroic' scale....

Realizing what she was thinking, Tammy gasped, tearing her eyes from his crotch.

Her gasp, however, was enough to draw the man's eyes to her - and she watched as he surveyed her with almost unwilling appreciation. Though he blushed and quickly glanced away, trying to ignore her, she had caught his appreciative gaze, the slightly hungry look in his eyes before he'd turned aside - and it caused something inside of her to 'melt', spreading a warm, thick liquid through her nerve endings and centering in her abdomen, just behind her new womanhood.

She found herself drifting closer to him. She hadn't planned on it, didn't even realize she was doing it until she was already halfway there. She struggled to stop, to keep going in a straight line past him, and had just started to correct her course...

...when he almost involuntarily glanced up at her again, sensing her closeness - and she found herself turning back to him, her lips curving slightly in a smile that mirrored her inner excitement.

She didn't want to be excited - but she couldn't seem to force the rising tide of excitement down. Excitement and arousal?

Oh, God - she was getting turned on by this guy!

No - no, that wasn't quite right. Even as she closed the rest of the distance between them, a little extra wiggle in her walk, she knew that wasn't true. What was exciting her was the prospect of exciting him. She had no intention of actually having sex with him, and for that she was glad - but, somehow, her new feminine mind had 'latched' onto her old instincts, which were to find ways to manipulate people. In this body, she could manipulate men by using her new-found sexuality...

"Looks like you're having a bit of trouble, huh...?" She said, smiling winsomely. She couldn't help herself - being this man's center of attention, establishing sway over him - even sexually - seemed to be all she could think about, no matter how hard she struggled not to. The words coming from her mouth weren't a surprise to her, something that 'slipped past' her original mind-set - instead, she was saying them 'willingly' because of the rising urge she felt, forcing her to use all the skills in her mind - both old and new - to get what she needed.

Once upon a time, a street-runner named Ron had gotten ensnared in the web of drugs that sprawled through the seamy underbelly of almost any city. It had been a dalliance, a few months - but that had been enough that when Ron smartened up and stopped the 'hard stuff', he'd suffered from withdrawal. For a while, all he'd been able to think about was getting another hit.

That's what this was like - but stronger. Something inside her desperately needed this, and she simply didn't have the willpower necessary to resist. It was a strange sort of unwilling willingness, knowing that she didn't want to - but feeling that she needed to, so strongly that she was using all of her not-inconsiderable skills to achieve it, whether she wanted to or not.

"Yeah. My girlfriend thinks I've been cheating on her." The man said, awkwardly, looking everywhere but directly at her taut, well-curved body - and that made it worse for her, because she had a need to be 'appreciated', to arouse him. Though he had no idea, he was presenting a challenge to person who, quite simply, couldn't resist it.

"That's a shame..." Tammy said - and reached out and slowly, sensually, slid one long-nailed finger over his taut chest, her voice become softer, more seductive. "She obviously doesn't appreciate a good thing when she has it..."

The man took a stunned step backward, head swinging around so he could stare at her in wide-eyed confusion. She just smiled at his confusion and stepped forward, her sensual movements and predatory grin hiding the confusion and disgust that were rolling around in her mind.

"What... what are you doing...?" The man stuttered, taking another step backward.

"Surely you can figure that out for yourself, handsome..." She said, smiling, as she stepped closer again - and even closer, pressing her firm, lushly-endowed body against his, her spandex-covered breasts pressing into his chest. She didn't know how it felt to him, but the sensation was very pleasurable for her - physically, at least. Emotionally, she was evenly divided between pleasure and pain, her altered mind fighting an emotional tug-of-war over what was happening.

"Hey!" He said, stunned - but she was pressed against his body, and she knew that his body, at least, liked what it was feeling. So, almost helplessly, she moved onto the 'next step' - she dropped her purse beside her, wrapping her limber arms around his thick, muscular neck as she lifted her face and pressed her firm, sensitive lips against his, kissing him hungrily and trying to slip her disgustingly eager tongue between his lips.

He began to respond to her passionate, powerful kiss - and then yanked her arms away from where they'd enfolded her neck and stumbled back a few steps, confused, aroused and obviously feeling very guilty.

"Don't try and fight it..." She purred - and she wasn't sure whether she was talking to him, or to herself. She started to take a step forward...

...and heard a scream of outrage and betrayal from behind her. Looking back over one smoothly rounded shoulder, Tammy saw the woman who'd been pitching plates standing at a window on the second floor, screaming. Then she whirled and disappeared back into the apartment.

"See - she knows she's no match for me..." Tammy said, lifting her hands to let them slowly - invitingly - glide across the white spandex covering her firm, delightful mounds of breast-flesh. Her whole body was thrumming with the need to arouse and 'subjugate' the man, to so enthrall him with her feminine sensuality that he'd obey her slightest whim, give her anything she desired...

There are few things that can instantly quell the rising surge of warm, exciting lust that a woman can feel. However, of that short list, the unmistakable 'cha-chunk' of a round being chambered in a pump-action shotgun is definitely one of them. Horrified, Tammy's head whipped around...

"Slut!" the woman in the window screamed, hysterically - and brought up the barrel of the shotgun. She was a sturdy, athletic-looking woman, and though her awkward movements indicated she wasn't terribly familiar with firearms, she looked solid enough to be able to handle the recoil of the weapon.

She also didn't have to be all that expert with firearms to figure out how to use a gun. Hell, almost anybody who'd ever seen an action movie had learned the basics - and this woman must have seen some. Even at this distance, there was no mistaking the 'click' of the safety catch being released as the woman brought the gun to bear, the muzzle looking as big as the Lincoln Tunnel to Tammy.

The confused, disgusted, recently-aroused new woman turned and began to run.

Hollywood might have helped educate the American populace on the operation of firearms, but it certainly didn't accurately portray the sound and fury of guns. Instead of the tremendous, Dragon-like roar of a Hollywood shotgun, the report of this one was flatter, more guttural, and shorter-lived.

There was no doubt that it was, indeed, the sound of a shotgun blast, however - because Tammy screamed as she felt three or four pellets lance into the smooth muscles of her left leg. At this range, the spread of the buckshot was enough to minimize the damage - but it still felt like she'd been jabbed by red-hot needles.

The second shot sent more pain lancing through her legs, both left and right, making her stumble. Desperately, she strove to maintain her balance, and succeeded. The buckshot was painful and definitely inconvenient, but not incapacitating - not at this range. From the dozen-or-so wounds, blood ran down Tammy's shapely new legs, and pain lanced through her nerve endings - but she was still able to move.

The pump-action shotgun was quick to chamber rounds, and could hold up to eight - but the expected third blast never came. Still running - though not quite as quickly - Tammy glanced fearfully over her shoulder...

...to see the woman leaning far out the window, trying to line up a shot on the man, who had used the time his ex-girlfriend had 'wasted' on Tammy to dash towards the side of the building. It was a gutsy move, since he'd been getting closer rather than farther away - but it also put him in the shadow of the building itself, and as he ducked towards the corner the woman couldn't line up a shot from her angle, her ex-boyfriend being almost directly beneath her, and the 'overhand' of the window ledge temporarily protecting him.

Tammy mentally wished him luck, but had other priorities at the moment - like getting out of range herself. Gasping in mingled pain and exertion, she whipped around the corner - even as the lights in the houses around her began to flare to life, the occupants rather unceremoniously awakened by the roar of gunfire - even now, a third shot rang out, followed in rapid succession by two more.

"Hell... hath no fury..." Tammy gasped, slumping against a mailbox and trying to ignore the pain in her injured legs. Soon, the police would show up - and here she was, wounded by buckshot, blood trailing down her legs. Though not life-threatening, the wounds were painful - and she couldn't seek treatment for gunshot wounds without the doctor calling the cops. She didn't really want to try and explain any of this to the police.

Almost against her will, Tammy remembered how she'd felt after the last transformation. 'Tawni' had been running hard....

...but 'Tammy' hadn't been out of breath.

She winced. She really didn't want to use the ring again. She already knew that it would make certain things worse. There'd be more physical and emotional changes, and the length of time before she could change back into a man would be further extended. None of the effects were something she was looking forward to.

The rising sound of sirens, however, was a persuasive argument - and, any second now, people would be looking out their windows to see what was going on. Trying to explain the gunshot wounds was one thing - trying to explain how she'd changed from a wounded woman into another, uninjured, one was another. That was exactly what would happen if she didn't change before anybody could see her.

Wincing, Tammy sighed the words: "Ring, I invoke thee "

* * * * *

PART V - FELLATIO

The clock inside the bungalow near the edge of town chimed eleven, but the sound was mostly buried in the chatter of the five young men sitting on the porch, each holding a glass or bottle of the ethanol mixture of their choice. They were all dressed in faded jeans, although of different styles, and a variety of faded-but-comfortable shirts. Having just finished a shift at the mill just outside of town, they were kicking back at the home of one of the group's two bachelors, enjoying a couple of drinks with their buddies before wending their way home to their respective beds.

"So, I goes, 'Waddya mean I don't get overtime?', and Frank " One of the was saying - when he noticed that one of them was less-then-engrossed in the story. The short-yet-muscular young man frowned, directing his gaze angrily at the individual ignoring his story. "Hey, Billy - what's so damned interestin'?"

"That." Billy said, simply, pointing - and four other pairs of eyes followed that pointing finger.

All four pairs of eyes widened as they took in what Billy was staring at - and the story-teller mentally forgave Billy for being distracted.

She was a tall, slender blonde, dressed in a tiny, tight dark-blue denim mini-skirt and a barely-there white bikini-top that just barely covered the full, thick nipples surmounting her remarkably firm, mouth-watering DDD-cup breasts. The short, ultra-tight skirt revealed a lot of her long, sensually muscled legs as she walked - and her walk was an ass-swaying, hip-swiveling strut of sexual challenge, the six-inch spike-heels black pumps she wore further emphasizing the sexual curves of her long legs. Her face, surrounded by a mane of golden-blond hair, was a little on the narrow side - but her eyes were bright, electric blue, seductively framed with long, dark lashed, and her ruby-red lips were so incredibly full, sensual and enticing that they were nearly an incitement to riot by themselves, especially curved into a faint, challenging smile as they were.

All of this was reason enough to stare. However, she wasn't content to just 'be' a sexual enticement - she was also lightly fondling her firm, dome-like breasts as she walked, eyes narrowed slightly in pleasure - yet not vague or unfocused, since they were focused on the small group of men, sizing them up with a sensual challenge as her long, supple tongue slowly ran over her full, gloss-red lips.

She wasn't 'beautiful', or even really 'pretty' - but she was amazingly, breathtakingly, cock-stirringly sexy, and everything about her, from her clothes to the slightest move she made, proclaimed that she knew it.

"Hi, boys..." She said, in a voice that just oozed sexuality. "My, it looks like you're relaxing after a hard day's work..." there was something about the way she said the word 'hard' that worked a sympathetic magic on their male organs. "Uh... yeah..." Billy stammered, wide eyed.

Her grin grew, becoming even more provocative.

"Well, here are five handsome young men, worn out by a day earning honest wages - and here I am, penniless, but possessing certain... skills..." She slicked her lips, slowly, and lightly cupped her breasts. "Perhaps we could work out some sort of arrangement..."

+ + +

What was really odd about the whole situation was how easily she was handling it.

The most recent change had further 'damaged' her mind, and that fact scared and sickened her. She knew, in a very real sense, that she was losing herself to these overlapping personalities, all of them female - and each one more aggressively, sexually female than the last. What made it possible for her to function, however, was the fact that the three residual feminine personas jammed into her mind sort of balanced each other out. The latest persona - Sandy - was by far the strongest, but it was evenly matched by the combined personas of 'Tammy' and 'Tawni'. In fact, it was like being in a crowded room, with three constantly discussing (or arguing) every thought she had, as well as ones originating from any of the three. That had begun almost the instant she'd first changed - with 'Sandy' thinking she was unbelievably sexy, but 'Tawni' and 'Tammy' thinking she looked more 'slutty' than 'beautiful'.

All of which left her diminished 'Ron' persona in charge... sort of. Since more and more of her brain had been taken up by these new personas, certain parts of her original mind had actually been lost, the 'space' inside her head needed for these other ideas, thoughts and urges to take up residence. At the core, however, she was still a swindler, fraud and thief, looking for the Main Chance - and since she'd lost her purse before the most recent change, that meant she needed money. Her original persona was the one who'd decided to find some cash,. To make good her escape - but it was the committee of her other three personas who had decided how they'd make that money, with 'Sandy' taking the lead in the matter. Though she felt uncomfortable at what she was doing - even disgusted - her male mind could admit the necessity of what she was doing, and that was all the leverage 'Sandy', and to a lesser extent, the others, needed to force her to agree.

So, here she was, brazen suggesting she'd trade sexual favors for cold, hard cash - and meaning it. All her skills, both original and magically implanted, were being used to get the money she needed, the feminine sexual urges and the male recognition for the need to get cash overriding her innate disgust and dislike for what she was about to do.

"Come on..." She said, letting her hands slide down her bare midriff and over the womanly swell of her hips. "Don't tell me you guys don't want to feel my war, eager lips wrapped around each of your cocks, giving you the most intense blow-job you've ever experienced..."

The guys all gasped, and their wide-eyed look let her know she'd hooked them - which was more accurate a term than any other, considering she was now, technically speaking, a 'hooker'. Still, a blow-job was as far as the trio of feminine personas could force on her. All three really wanted to get laid, knowing it would bring her more pleasure than sucking cock would - but her male mind revolted at the thought, and it was enough to keep the trio at bay. Though it was odd, somehow having a man penetrate her womanhood was more 'feminine' than a blow-job. After all, a man could perform oral sex on another man, disgusting as that homosexual thought was - but no man could accept another man's cock into a vagina he didn't have. In a way, it was a hollow defiance, as if she were trying to deny the fact that she was, in fact, a woman - at least for now.

Still, she was marginally willing to suck a cock, no matter how sick it seemed to her, while she was completely unwilling to contemplate the other sexual act.

Well, at least all her 'pain' was emotional - the change had, indeed, gotten rid of the buckshot wounds. Still, she wasn't sure whether or not she'd gotten the short end of the stick on this little 'bargain'.

"Ten bucks, each..." She said, slowly and sensuously drawing closer. "Ten buck each, and I'll show you what an expert cock-sucker can do..."

the guys shared another look...

"Hell, I don't know about you, but I'm gonna do it!" The owner of the house said, digging into a pocket.

She raised a hand, forestalling him. "Sorry, all of you have to agree - or none of you can see just how good a blow-job can be..."

She needed the money - and if she was going to do this, she might as well get it all over with at one time, having to 'debase' herself to just one group of men, rather than having to find individual men, again and again. 'All or nothing' seemed the best way to go.

Her words started an argument among the guys - but a short one, as the other four were quick enough to talk the last into agreeing, his own guilty feelings about cheating on his wife notwithstanding. After all, nobody would know but them, so what could it hurt...?

It wasn't the most honorable argument she'd ever heard, but only Tawni felt any qualms over it, her being the most 'innocent' persona in the female body. The original persona, of course, wasn't the least bit put out by the guys' willingness to cheat on their spouses - as long as it made her a profit.

With a smile, she gathered up the money the guys handed over, having slowly climbed the steps to the porch while they'd debated - and she was sure her sexy, sensual ascension of the stairs, as well as her very physical presence, had been at least as persuasive as the arguments the guys had made. Now, she tucked the money into the waist-band of her skirt, knowing the very tautness of the material would hold the sweaty, crumpled bills were she'd put them.

Then, with a sexual smile that disguised her inner feeling of disgust, she knelt in front of the first man to cram a ten-dollar bill in her direction, long-nailed fingers reaching out towards his crotch. Slowly, sensuously, she unzipped his jeans and released the button, slowly peeling open his pants in what seemed to be a teasing maneuver, but was really a delaying tactic to allow her to muster her nerve - and to allow her to willingly let Sandy take the lead, handing over more of the tenuous control of her body in order to make this easier - and more effective - than it would have been otherwise.

So, it was with considerable 'implanted' skill that she leaned forward and let her full, ruby lips seal closed around the man's throbbing cock, one hand wrapping around the shaft of his ready organ while the other cupped his hairy balls.

'Ron' was disgusted at the thought of sucking cock - not enough to keep her from doing it, but disgusted nonetheless. Sandy, however, wasn't the least bit disgusted. Though she didn't actively enjoy the act of performing oral sex on a man, she didn't find it distasteful - and she had all sorts of skills at it, further bolstered by the fainter skills of the other two female personas - and by the fact that 'Ron' knew what, exactly, a man liked in a blow-job.

In short, the new, buxom blonde kneeling in front of the young man was the world's greatest cock-sucker - and the man let the others know that by the way he moaned, long and low, as she began expertly working his throbbing organ with lips, hands and tongue.

It was like an artistic performance performed in the medium of ecstasy. She varied speed and rhythm. She tightened and loosened her grip, increased and decreased the amount of suction she used, altered the swirling patterns of her tongue as she licked his head and - occasionally - up and down the shaft. Though this was in actuality her first blow-job, she was more expert than a dozen experienced hookers, her every move and action utterly perfect in every way, causing the man more pleasure than he'd even considered possible. It wasn't quick, either, since she purposefully built him up and let him down, drawing out the act, while she threw her whole self into sucking him off.

While she was doing so, she began to worry, greatly - because she was beginning to enjoy it.

Not 'physically' - the physical sensations were intriguing, and not unpleasant, but not truly enjoyable. Emotionally, however, various parts of her fragmented mind had combined to find great pleasure and pride in what she was doing. It was a form of domination, at least in her fractured personality - the fact that she was more skillful than any other woman at sucking cock meant that she could use this to get more out of men than any other women could. The more pleasure she felt - and displayed, by twitches and moans - the more warm, eager pleasure thrummed through her emotions, ecstatic at being this powerful.

When she finally let the man come, his hot seed gushing down her throat, she was stunned to feel a huge wave of disappointment roll over her. Even as she was gulping down the load of salty liquid that proved she was powerful enough to make men cum 'on her command', she was regretting the fact that it was over...

...but, then again, there were four more cocks just waiting to be milked. Even as she licked the first man clean, leaving him limp in the chair from the sheer force of his own orgasm, and moved onto the next one, she was desperately battling the powerful new feelings inside her, the ones that made her eager to suck cock, to enjoy the pleasure at being the greatest cock-sucking woman who ever lived.

Fighting, desperately - and losing.

By the time she was sucking on her fourth cock of the evening, she was lost. Her original persona was screaming and trying to regain control, but she'd given up too much of it - and all that mattered, now, was sucking cock...

...for profit, of course.

It was well after midnight when she finally finished - because she'd sucked each of the guys off at least three time, and one of them four. She couldn't help herself - she just couldn't stop sucking cock, not until she'd given the guys so much pleasure that all five of them lay in semi-comatose states from over-stimulation. She" never have believed you could knock somebody out due to pleasure overload, but she'd managed to do so to all five of them. They just hadn't been capable of handling as much pleasure as she could dish out.

With all her 'sources' dried up, she finally began to regain some semblance of sanity - though her mind still screamed for more men, to prove how much power she had. Power that derived from giving them more sexual pleasure then she'd ever experienced - and which, in turn, gave her too much pleasure overriding her mind and forcing her into an obsessive state where she was unable to control herself.

Quickly, before any of them could awake and, in turn, reawaken her new obsession, she went through their pockets and gathered up all their money. 'Ron' now had faint control over her body, and was struggling to maintain it - but it wasn't easy, the force of the other, feminine persona's nearly overriding her.

She paused after she'd stripped them of cash, considering - then quickly grabbed their wallets, keys, watches, and anything else of value she could find. A quick glance inside the door showed that the house's owner had dumped his work-bag inside the door, a tattered red gym-bag containing his work clothes. She dumped her ill-gotten loot into the bag, quickly adding a few small, but valuable items that were in the entrance was, and rounding it out with a pair of shoes and a pair of boots she found in the closet. She also took the five men's shirts, peeling them off their limp bodies. Four of them she jammed in the bag, but the fifth she pulled on over her own body - which caused her almost physical pain, 'hiding' her valuable 'assets'. As far as her divided mind was concerned, her new body - and gender - was a tool for controlling men into giving her money (and pleasure) and it 'hurt' to cover it up more then was strictly necessary.

She forced herself to do it, though, feeling near panic. Her feminine side was, temporarily, sated - but she was nearly paralyzed with horror at the thought of what would happen when she saw another man, and the need grew strong once more. She had to get out of here, put as much distance between herself and the town as she could - and avoid any male until she had time to return to her male body.

Quickly, before the trio of feminine voices could force her to stay until a man awoke, she hurried from the house, heels tapping on the sidewalk as she headed out of town. Soon the sidewalk petered away, and she took to walking on the gravel road, keeping her ears and eyes peeled for any movement or sign of life as she neared the bridge running over the narrow but fast river at the edge of town.

It happened to quickly for her to do anything. She was halfway across the bridge, stolen bag full of stolen goods over her shoulder, when she felt the force of the other three persona's combine to take control of her body. Horror, outrage and fear rose as she temporarily lost control of her altered form, and she struggled to control it - but she'd been overwhelmed so quickly that her slight hesitation put her a half-step behind the combined thoughts of the other three personas. Even as she fought for control of her body, she found herself slipping that magical ring off her finger, cupping it in the palm of her hand as she stepped to the edge of the bridge - and cocked her hand back.

"No !" Her weakened original persona screamed in horrified realization, even as the other three force that arm to whip forward.

In that last, split second before the ring left her hand, to arc out and disappear into the river with a tiny splash, she heard her voice shout, the words ripped unwillingly from her throat;

"Ring, I invoke the !

* * * * *

PART VI - FINALE

Jake eased up on the gas as the headlights of his '73 GMC pick-up splashed against the dark iron beams of the bridge spanning the Illilaway River. Older then even his antiquated, rattling dark-blue truck, the bridge narrowed the road to one lane, and Jake was alert for any sign of another vehicle.

He didn't see any headlights from the other direction - but he did see something, something that made his foot almost involuntarily ease off the gas. The truck slowed, moving barely at all by the time it pulled even with the individual who had so forcefully grabbed Jake's attention.

She was a vision in white.

White lather pumps enclosed her feet, six-inch silver spike heels adding extra height. Perhaps they weren't the most comfortable walking shoe in the world, but they certainly looked utterly perfect on feet that were dainty and perfectly formed - or at least Jake assumed they were perfect, since everything else about her was. There were certain areas that Jake usually didn't 'appreciate' about women, but even he could admire how utterly perfect her slender, well-formed ankles were - though he was drawn more to the rest of her long, shapely legs, their alabaster skin former perfect, lovely contours that defined the most utterly feminine pair of legs Jake had ever seen - at least, until they disappeared under the hem of her skirt, which started just above her perfect knees. It wasn't provocative, in and of itself, a simple white cottons skirt cinched by a silver-buckled white leather belt - but it was tight enough over her trim-yet- defiantly-feminine hips and utterly perfect ass to let Jake know her figure was utterly flawless - especially since her simple white cotton blouse was tailored to mold both to her delightfully slender waist and full, firm DD-cup bosom.

Her face was a study in feminine beauty, from it's high cheekbones and perfectly shaped chin to it's pert nose and full, soft lips, all framed by a thick, luxurious mane of silky platinum-blond hair that fell in unfettered waves past her slender shoulders - yet, oddly, his eye was drawn to her eyes, which were a warm, rich gray and framed with long lashes. A man - or a woman - could lose themselves in those deep, clear eyes....

"Uh... can I help you?" Jake managed, amazed he could find voice in front of this embodiment of feminine perfection. She was flawless, utterly lovely and graceful - and sexy, though it came from just 'being' rather than anything she was doing.

"I don't know..." The woman said, her voice rich and melodic. Faint confusion flitted across those glorious eyes of hers, and it made Jake's heart wrench to see it. "I... can't seem to recall what I'm doing here... or who I am."

Jake gasped.

She gestured with a perfect hand, whose long, perfect fingers were graced with long, perfect nails painted the faintest shade of pink. Jake had to drag his gaze away from the dainty, flawless hand to see the white leather bag she was gesturing too.

"There's five sets of identification in there, all with my picture on them - but all of them have different names, none of which I remember." The woman explained in that glorious voice of hers. She paused, an oddly hesitant look coming over her face. "I know how this might sound, but... I think maybe I'm an angel or something."

"An angel...?" Jake said, gazing adoringly at her perfect, luminous beauty. "No, I can believe that - no mortal woman could be so utterly perfect."

Her smile lit his heart with joy. "Thank you, kind sir. What I mean, though, is that I don't remember who I am, or how I got here - but I know why I'm here. Not 'here', specifically, but I know what my purpose in the universe is."

"Oh? Really?" Jake asked, devouring her with his eyes.

She nodded. "Yes. I exist to give people pleasure. To be pleasant to gaze upon. To be pleasant to be near. To be enjoyable to converse with, entertaining to sit near, exciting to all the senses - and pleasurable in the act of lovemaking."

That made Jake blink - and part of him responded rather more... enthusiastically. She blinked - then smiled, that perfect, welcoming smile.

"Would you like me to pleasure you, kind sir?" She asked, sweetly. "Man or woman, friend or stranger, it doesn't matter - if I can bring pleasure, I will. All you have to do is ask..."

Jake couldn't believe his luck. This was like every fantasy he'd ever had come true. He couldn't trust himself to speak as he leaned over and opened the door, letting this perfect woman into the truck.

Every move she made was the embodiment of perfect feminine grace and beauty. She picked up her bag and slid into the cab of the pick-up as if it were a dance, a smooth flowing motion that was graceful and stunningly attractive, and Jake felt his heart swell even more.

Then she leaned over and kissed him, slowly and lovingly, and he felt as if his heart was going to burst - or his loins. It was somehow both sweetly innocent - and the most powerfully erotic kiss he'd ever experienced.

"Perhaps you cannot wait, kind sir..." She whispered, lovingly, into his ear - and slowly sank down in the seat, perfect hands reaching out to his pants...

What followed next was, simply, perfect. He'd never had a blow-job like the one this vision in white gave him. She was attentive, skilled and loving, dedicated solely to bringing him the most physical, emotional and intellectual pleasure that a blow-job could ever provide - and she succeeded. Yet, somehow, it didn't make her any less dignified or graceful, or otherwise diminish her in Jake's eyes. Though the act she was performing was a 'dirty' one, she did it so lovingly, so sweetly, that it made it seem innocent, 'merely' a way for a woman to provide a man pleasure - as it would be in a perfect world, perhaps.

The rest of the world might be far from perfect - but this woman was perfect, in every way.

Stunned, feeling light-headed and bemused, Jake stumbled over a long, rambling speech of gratitude, a simple 'thank you' not nearly enough to express what he was feeling, while she smiled lovingly up at him and refastening his trousers. It was obvious that she neither needed nor particularly wanted any reward for pleasing somebody, the act being its own reward - but if thanking her pleased Jake, then she'd do nothing to stop it.

In a numb, adoring state, Jake somehow managed to drive the rest of the way into town without hitting anybody or anything. With a perfect vision of feminine beauty, grace and sexuality sitting next to him - cuddled up to him, in fact - it was difficult to keep his eyes on the road.

Feeling as if he were floating in a dream, Jake led this perfect woman up to his house and let them in...

...and wondered how he was going to explain all of this to his younger sister, Karen, who was watching TV. Twenty-one, Karen was a pretty young thing, with a fit body and a shock of dark hair like her brother's surrounding an impish face. Between her bright, somewhat mischievous personality and her limber, well-endowed body with its long, tanned legs and full, firm E-cup breasts, Karen was certainly no blushing virgin, and was probably more experienced than her somewhat shy older brother - but, still, this was a highly unusual situation...

Luckily, Jake didn't have to explain anything. The vision in white smiled at his sister and stepped closer to her. "Hello." She said, in that incredibly rich, vibrantly feminine voice. "May I give you pleasure?"

"Excuse me...?" Karen blinked, shooting confused looks at both the woman and her brother.

"I wish to give you pleasure, if you'll allow me to. That is my reason for existence - to bring pleasure to any who wish it." "Uh..." Karen stammered, more than a little startled by the unusual offer. "Well, um, I guess everybody wants pleasure..."

There was more to what was trying to be a very polite 'no' - but it was too polite, and the woman in white merely responded to the opening statement - as she leaned forward, enfolding Karen in a loving embrace, and began to kiss her, slowly but with great depth of feeling.

At first, Karen stiffened, and she even tried to push the woman in white away... but then her body went slack, and she merely absorbed the pleasure the woman was giving her, making no move to break away.

When the woman in white finally finished, Karen just stared at her blankly for several seconds, mind still reeling from the most utterly perfect, most utterly pleasing kiss she'd ever experienced. Jake could sympathize - not only was the woman in white's kisses sexually arousing, they were also deeply pleasurable on an emotional and intellectual level, satisfying far more than they aroused, making them complete in-and-of themselves... yet also leaving open the possibility of further pleasure by the virtue of an unspoken promise that everything she did would be as utterly perfect and pleasurable as that kiss.

"Wow..." Karen whispered, stunned. "I.. I never knew..."

"I will return, and show you how much pleasure one woman can give to another..." The woman in white whispered in promise, lightly caressing one of Karen's firm, round breasts through the black T-shirt Karen wore... then turned away from Jake's still-stunned sister to smile at him, making him melt...

...well, emotionally speaking, anyway. Certain parts of his anatomy actually went in the other direction as she took his hand and led him towards the stairs...

...where she sent him off into a semi-comatose state of pure orgasmic pleasure before coming back downstairs to grace Karen with the same gift, using somewhat different techniques, and taking somewhat longer - women, after all, have some experience in dealing with multiple orgasms, unlike Jake, for whom it had been a first. Still, the woman in white lovingly and happily outlasted Karen, leaving the woman in a state of utter bliss - and, in return, receiving a name from the stunned woman, who had coined it on the spot simply to have a name to attach all her cries of undying devotion to.

The newly named Angelica rose from Karen's now-limp body, pausing just long enough to kiss her lips one last time, softly, before walking - floating, gliding - towards the bathroom, so as to shower. She had to be utterly perfect at all times if she were going to give perfect pleasure, of course.

Not that it was so much a thought as an instinct. The last transformation had pushed almost all her personality out of the way. Instead, she existed almost solely as a collection of skills - perfect feminine skill, uncluttered by thought or habits. She was, in many ways, the ultimate woman, in body and mind - but there was very little thought going on, since she now existed simply to utilize all those utterly, ultra-feminine skills to bring pleasure to all around her.

Indeed, the only think that kept her from being a mindless automaton was the final fragments of her original, male personality. The others were wiped out completely, but a hint of the scheming, conniving little thief remained, buried deep beneath the avalanche of feminine skills, thoughts and opinions. Filtered through this mass of utter femininity, that tiny fragment of 'Ron' still existed, the core portion of the personality that had shaped his entire life.

Deep down, under everything, Ron had always desired to be 'accepted'. Though he hadn't even been consciously aware of it, his entire life had been motivated by that desire. When he ran a con, he was proving just how much people 'accepted' him by building up enough trust and friendship to be able to abuse it - a twisted concept, perhaps, but his life had been one 'test' after another, proving to his inner self that he could work his way into people's confidences, even if he didn't have the morals or trust necessary to extend this into true friendship, or even love.

Now, however, she existed solely to fulfill that core desire, with a huge supply of perfect skills housed in a perfect body to help ensure success. The thoughts that core section of the original persona were vague and poorly formed, but still present as 'Ron' finally - and for the rest of her life - found true happiness - by giving others pleasure.

Somewhere, many miles away in a direction that no physicist would ever be able to name an entity that had appeared as an aging magician smiled, and turned his eternal attention away from the eternally, internally happy woman to focus on his next duty.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: An American in Bangkok is given an amulet which he thinks makes him a babe magnet, but what he doesn't realize is that it is really going to make him a babe.

Disclaimer

By Gunslinger

No matter how much I wish it was otherwise, I have to admit it - it was my own bleedin' fault.

It all started a couple of weeks ago, when I was on a business trip. The Mega corporation I work (worked) for owns hundreds of subsidiaries all over the world, and I - as an 'Executive Liaison' - am quite often called to visit these smaller 'siblings' in a variety of countries.

Which is how I ended up, jet-lagged and a tad tipsy, stepping out of a Japan Air 707 and into the steamy, odor-laden atmosphere that passed for 'air' at the Bangkok International Airport.

Beneath the ever-present smell of jet fuel and av-gas, there was a richer, deeper, somehow more permanent smell also wafting around, mostly occluded by the odors associated with the modern jet-age. Since I was definitely feeling less than my best, the petroleum odors were rapidly giving me a headache, and I decided whatever atmosphere Thailand might boast, it couldn't be worse than the one at the airport.

Unlike the more modern facilities in the 'First World' nations, Bangkok International didn't boast jetways - the few passengers getting off the flight had to disembark down a set of stairs and onto the tarmac, braving the heat and painfully bright sunlight as we walked across to the terminal itself.

Now, don't get me wrong - it wasn't as if the airport was run-down or anything. In fact, it looked practically brand-new, as did many of the other facilities and buildings surrounding the field. The thing was... it was as if we'd stepped back in time to the sixties, or maybe early seventies, by the American cultural time-line. The same building designs, the same materials, even that awful color of orange that died a delayed death before the eighties - it was all there.

Kind of like Dorothy's house, dropped into the middle of Oz. Right down to 'the little people' - the Asian populace hurried around with determined purpose, and I was somewhat surprised to find that a good percentage of them were conversing in English, with a smattering of French-speaking 'natives' here and there.

Shaking my head, I entered the (thankfully) dimly-lit terminal, and looked around.

Again, I was somewhat struck by that odd sense of having being transported back in time - but, this time, I wasn't looking around to admire the neo-retro decor. I was looking for that item that had waited to greet me at all other airports the world over when I stepped off the plane - the ubiquitous cardboard sign held over the head of a driver.

Sometimes the sign gave my whole name - 'Martin Hunter'. Sometimes, it was merely 'M. Hunter'. Mostly, it was simply 'Hunter'. The person holding it could be anything from uniformed chauffeur to the most disreputable taxi-driver. But that sign and that driver were an omnipresent part of my job, letting me know where I was and what the next step was to be.

Except... this time there was no sign.

I looked around a second time, thinking that the driver might be extraordinarily short... but no. He (or, rarely, she) simply wasn't there.

Muttering to myself about the delay, I wandered - hesitantly, I'll admit - to the airport restaurant. I've eaten at terminal restaurants the world over, and never found one that was even a two-star - but the food was edible, if bland, the atmosphere clean, if impersonal, and the service quick, if borderline rude.

The restaurant at Bangkok International Airport looked like it had come right out of a James Bond movie's idea of an oriental restaurant - all bamboo and rice paper and chefs wandering the floor in white suits and tall hats. The smells wafting out of the glass-enclosed room were unfamiliar, but set my mouth a-watering, and before I could reach for the handle on the door, the man in the black suit (Maitre D'? In an airport restaurant?) had swept the door open and was bowing so low I'd swear he could kiss his own shoes.

"Bonjour, Monsouir, bienvenue á Maison Nygen..."

"Uh..." I stammered - I knew maybe five words of French, with 'ou á le toilet...' being four of them.

"...the finest restaurant in all of Thailand." He finished, smoothly, switching between languages so effortlessly that it took me a second to realize he had. "If you will follow me..."

So I did. I was seated promptly, at a good table, and a waitress - a cute-as-a-button woman, petite-yet-shapely, dusky in a golden- bronze sort of way - appeared as if by magic, her teeth showing in a hundred-watt grin.

She handed me a menu, printed in ...whatever the language they use in Thailand is, plus French and English.

I couldn't understand a word of it, even the English. The names of the dishes meant nothing to me. The only items I could identify were water, beer and coffee.

So... I shrugged, smiled helplessly, and asked the waitress for her suggestion...

Without speaking, she walked away - and returned with two heavily-laden servers within minutes. I think they simply brought me one of everything on the menu.

I have no idea what it was that I ate - but it was delicious. There was no way I could finish all of the food they piled at my table - but after those first few hesitant tastes, I did my damndest to put a serious dent into that mountain of consumable items.

When I could not fit one more delicious morsel into my mouth, I signaled for the check, and it arrived with amazing speed. I opened the little leather folder - and winced at the 'price' inside, before it occurred to me that it really didn't mean anything to me, since I hadn't the foggiest notion about the exchange between the Baht and the Dollar. Instead, I smiled at the waitress and whipped out good old AMEX...

...and first her smile, then she herself, disappeared. She returned a moment later with the Maitre D' in attendance... who very sadly explained that they didn't accept credit cards from foreign nationals, unless they'd been bonded by a 'fixer' - a Thai 'man Friday' most business travelers would hire first thing, who would be good for the debt if the card didn't clear.

"However, we do accept American currency, at a slight mark-up." He explained, with a smile. "It will come to..." Picking up the bill, he wrote down a number on it before I had time to explain I only had a few dollars cash on me. "Look..." I said, heavily, glancing instinctively down at the check as he placed it in front of me...

...and then I shut up, as I was too busy gaping at the new, American Dollar, total.

$4.37. Including standard gratuity.

"Something wrong, sir?" the maitre D' asked, graciously. He looked over the array of food still left at the table. "Perhaps you did not mean to order all of this, sir. If you would indicate what you did wish to order, I will subtract..."

"No, no!" I insisted, (numbly), pulling five crumpled ones from my pocket. "Everything was wonderful - my compliments to the chef..."

I walked out of the restaurant as if awakening from a dream, stuffed to the gills with good food at a price so low I was thinking of moving here...

Once in the terminal proper, my dream gave way to reality. No driver, no cardboard sign.

With a sigh, I decided the only thing to do was get a hotel room, and call the head office. By asking the immediately-helpful Traveler's Aid desk, I discovered there was a good, reasonably priced hotel just two blocks away. Since I traveled light, with only one overnight bag, I collected my single piece of luggage and decided to walk the distance to burn off some of the oh-so-delicious calories I'd consumed during dinner.

If I'd only known, I would have gladly accepted the extra two pounds....

I found myself outside the front of the terminal, the too-bright South East Asian sunlight reflecting off the light-colored pavement, the predominately light-colored clothing of the pedestrians, and from the usually light-colored paint-jobs on the hundreds of 'vintage' looking automobiles that only reinforced the 'skewed time warp' sensation.

Squinting against the glare, I managed to determine the direction that I had to go, and set off...

...and was immediately grateful that I'd eaten at the Terminal restaurant. Not only because of the delicious food, which I would eventually find normal for Thai cooking, nor for the equally predominate low price.

The major reason I was so glad I had recently stuffed myself silly is that it kept me from spending hours in the street that lead from the airport to the hotel.

Recognizing the economic values of placing themselves close to a major traffic point, hundreds of vendors had lined both sides of the broad avenue with all conceivable types of booths, shops, wagons and displays. Except for narrow 'alleys' between these street- vendors, to allow access to the semi-residential buildings behind them, the entire street was packed with a mobile, gaudy, noisy, festive....

...and incredibly delicious marketplace.

This was the source of the 'hidden' odor I'd encountered when stepping off the plane - only, here, it was the predominate odor. About half the vendors were hawking food, both prepared and 'raw', ready-for-market and ready-to-eat. All the dishes I'd tried in the restaurant, and a plethora more. If I'd had a single cubic inch of space left, I would have been tempted to sample the treats whose delightful aromas tempted my nostrils.

As it was - I couldn't have taken another bite, if I was so ordered at gun-point. Reluctantly, I began to thread my way through the hustling throng, aiming for the dimly-seen light at the end of the street where it opened onto the plaza where I would take a right to get to the 'Hotel Americana'.

So - there I was, braving the crowd, struggling to ignore the delicious odors that were making my nose try to convince my stomach there was just a leetle more room...

...when a little old guy steps in front of me and, in a high pitched voice, said...

"Big American. Girls, you like. Buy this, should you!"

Fractured English; little dark-skinned guy with just a fringe of white hair; ears too big for his head; plain, rough-spun white tunic...

Great - I was being pimped to by Yoda's older brother...

The little old guy was waving something under my nose well, actually, with our height difference, it was considerably south of that appendage. Since whatever he was waving was flashing in a metallic way, and very near something very dear to my heart, I got nervous, bending over in a half-crouch that (coincidentally) pushed my pelvic region away from the man's hand.

He was holding an incredibly cheap-looking medallion on a equally cheap 'stopper chain' necklace. "You buy!" He insisted. "For Bangkok, you buy! Many girls!"

I took a closer look at the cheap hunk of metal and... I kid you not!... found engraved words on the front that read....

(Wait for it)

'Catcher of babes, for bankock.'

No - seriously - that's what it said. Bad spelling and grammar intact.

"Won dollah!" the man shouted, practically in my ear. "Good metal, real strong!"

(If it was anything tougher then cheap tin, I'd find a place that sold hats, buy one - then eat it.) "All time you here, it last! Many girls, all want, for you! Guarantee!"

('...or your money back!' Minus, of course, the three dollar handling fee)

"You buy!" he insisted - loudly. "Americans, for here! Won dollah! Good boom-boom, give to friend. Give to me, then go home! Won dollah, and give ten-ty plus ten-ty-five cents if give before go! You buy, big American!"

it took me a couple of seconds to re-arrange his 'sort of' English. A dollar buys me a cheap tin trinket 'guarantied' to get me a lot of.. ahem, 'boom-boom', then I can sell it back to him for a quarter before I go.

The way I figured it - any 'Big American' who bought the damned thing would be 'advertising' to any whore within a twelve-block radius. Then again... 'Bangkok Whore' was a famous synonym for good, cheap sex...

"Okay!" I told Yoda's clone, fishing a dollar out of my pocket - my last, to be exact. "Here!"

He didn't hand me the 'charm' - he insisted in placing it around my neck personally, and I finally gave in, just to get away. As I turned and headed off, he shouted one more thing at my retreating back, but I didn't respond to it because:

1. I'd already bought the damned 'trinket', and he didn't have to keep 'pushing' it...

2. I didn't believe his statement, even if I had cared...

...and, most importantly...

3. I'm a complete and utter moron who is too dumb to live - but I didn't realize that at the time....

(Hindsight is always twenty-twenty)

* * * * *

The Mega corporation I work (worked) for owns hundreds of subsidiaries all over the world, and I - as an 'Executive Liaison' - am quite often called to visit these smaller 'siblings' in a variety of countries.

Which is how I ended up, jet-lagged, dead tired, and more than a little tipsy, stepping out of a American Airlines 777 and into the air- conditioned, almost unscented air of the jetway in the city that passed for Los Angeles International Airport.

LAX encompasses more 'acreage' than most Mid-west towns, and has even more people in it at any give time. So, I was less than enthusiastic as I staggered of the flight, my head whirling and my knees threatening to go their separate ways.

I had been called home to my head office after three days in Bangkok... because the office there had informed the head office that the Liaison (me) had never arrived there.

Which was true. I'd never had the chance.

I'd been too busy having sex in every conceivable position and combination - and some that weren't, strictly speaking, possible. (We certainly gave it 'the old college try', though...)

Once I'd had that medallion, it seemed that every woman who crossed my path wanted me, and wanted me in the worst (or best) possible way. At first, I thought it was just as I'd figured, as the first woman who approached me was obviously a 'working girl'. However, I definitely began to find it odd that she absolutely refused to let me pay for what she did to me...

...twice.

After that, things only got stranger. Women literally threw themselves at my feet, offering me the moon and the stars, if only....

Now, I'm no Quasimodo, but I ain't Tom Cruise, either - I'd never had women literally lining up for the chance to beg me to go to bed with them. My ego swelled so large that I'm surprised I could fit through doorways and I began to pick out the 'best of the best' of those women...

Before I knew what had happened, I'd spent three solid days in my hotel room, barely leaving the bed. By the time the Head Office called and demanded I come back to answer some questions, I was more than ready to leave. I was limp, in more ways than one, and desperately needed the break. Hell - it had been so 'powerful' that I hadn't even had to pay for my flight home. The woman behind the counter had all-but-dragged me into a closet and sank to her knees to suck me off, then had give me the seat of a 'no-show', assuring me that the indignant flyer could be soothed by the PR department over the 'mistake' with his 'used/unused' ticket.

So, I was tired, upset about the hot water I was in with Head Office, and so 'spent' that I wasn't even looking at the more beautiful of the women I passed - but I was glad to be home.

Wouldn't you know it - no driver, no cardboard sign.

At least this time I could understand it - after all, Head Office was pissed at me for 'sloughing off' an important job. I could even agree with them - it was a rotten thing to do. Hell, I felt bad about it, guilty as hell - but, on the other hand, how often does a guy get a chance to be a sexual God? I don't think anybody in my shoes would have done anything different.

The really ironic thing was - I was going to have to figure out a believable excuse for Head Office, since the truth was simply to unbelievable. Then again - I looked like something the cat dragged in, from three days of almost no food or sleep. I should have no problem claiming I contracted some seventy-two hour flu when I arrived in Bangkok. It was better than nothing.

Even as I worked out my lies, I was heading towards the car-rental counter...

...until I was near enough to hear the woman behind the counter turning away the customer with the information there were no cars to be had. She was obviously one of those 'by-the-book' types, prissy as hell, not a hair out of place, thin, gold-rimmed glasses and a mouth that could only produce thin, 'plastic' smiles.

My own lips thinned at the thought of taking a cab - not only would getting one be a hassle, but a ride from LAX to anywhere - even just around the circular drive and back to the terminal - cost a fortune. It was actually cheaper to rent a car.

That's when the thought occurred to me. Though I wasn't looking for sex, maybe the influence of the pendant would come in handy... I'd taken it off before leaving Bangkok, and it had just been a very tacky souvenir in my bag. Now, I slipped around a support column, put my bag on a bench, and extracted the cheap metal object from where it lay - handling it with near-reverence, now that I knew what it could do. I slipped it around my neck...

...then cursed and yanked it off. The damned thing had shocked me! As if it was carrying an electric charge. My first thought was that the exposure to the metal detectors had somehow charged it. In any case, I wasn't putting it back on, not until I was sure I could avoid another painful jolt like the one I'd just received.

Tucking the medallion back into my bag, I sighed and decided that using 'magic' to con somebody was something else I'd just have felt guilty about anyway. Shouldering my single bag, I headed off towards the cash machines, to withdraw enough for my cab fare home.

Only - it didn't quite work out that way....

I'd better explain. You see, I have two sets of cards. One set is my company cards, which is all I bring with me when I travel. Not only does it make my expense reports easy, but if they ever get stolen I don't have to worry about getting struck with a loss from unauthorized use - it would be the company's problem. My own, personal cards were currently stored at the in-mall branch of my bank, where I'd dropped them off when I'd gotten my short-notice advisory that I was leaving. (The mall was near my office, and I keep my travel bag in my office. It was easier to run across the street and drop my 'home' wallet and it's cards in the safety deposit box I kept there, because that's where I kept my 'away' wallet when I was at home. I just switched them.)

I found out just how pissed Head Office was with me when I found my cards had been canceled...

Which meant that I wasn't going to suffer the indignities of paying the outrageous cab-fare after all. Instead, I was forced to use 'Public Transportation' - the shuttle-buss into the city proper, then a city bus to the mall, so I could get my wallet.

This was shaping up to be a pisser of a day. I had no idea, of course...

Maybe there was a small warning or two earlier, but they couldn't have been much at all. All I know is that I first noticed something weird going on when I got off the shuttle-bus.

The shuttle-bus had been crowded with low-end passengers and cheap-ass tourists, and I'd been forced to stand as the bus made it's express-run into the city, arriving at a transfer terminus in fairly good time.

By the inevitable laws of the universe, the city bus I'd need to get to the mall had just departed a few minutes before, and I'd have to wait about twenty minutes for the next one. Sighing, I rolled my eyes and sat down on one of the benches provided....

...and found myself staring at my legs in surprise.

Oh, not the legs themselves - after all, there was nothing remarkable about the unseen legs beneath the semi-dress slacks I was wearing. No, what I was staring at was the position they were in. "I'd just sat down and crossed my legs, resting the right leg over my left knee.

It was the sudden 'scrunched' feeling from my crotch that had cause me to look down - and I was gaping stupidly at my legs arranged in such a feminine pose. Blinking and shaking my head, wondering what the hell had possessed me to sit that way, I uncrossed my legs and shuffled my butt around on the bench, trying to get comfortable...

...when I felt that discomforting pressure again. I looked down and - sure enough - I was sitting in that same, feminine manner again, without having consciously decided to do so.

"What the hell...?" I asked my self, sotto voce, and uncrossed my legs again...

A few minutes later - thanks to the snicker of a passing youth in leather-and-denim, I realized the new pose I'd unconsciously adopted wasn't appreciably better than the 'ball-cruncher'.

This time, my legs were crossed at the ankles. The 'over' foot was bobbing up and down, with my shoe loosened so that it was held on to my foot by 'fisting' my toes, the heel hanging free and swinging back and forth from my foot's motion.

Meanwhile, I'd crossed my left arm over my stomach, grasping the elbow of my right arm, which was pulled tight to my body - with my hand up to my face so I could gnaw lightly on my thumbnail.

Again, it was a position that was most definitely feminine in nature - and I'd done it as unselfconsciously as I used to sit down at my desk and lean back in my chair. I could actually recall 'assuming' this pose, yet - in retrospect - it had felt as natural at the time as that other long-standing habit. It was only now, with my conscious attention directed to it, that I was aware of how strange and out of character it was.

The rest of the wait was spent in deep concentration - concentration bent on sitting perfectly upright, legs straight, arms at my side. That earned me a few odd looks as well, but it wasn't as humiliating to me as the more feminine poses.

Meanwhile, my brain spun uselessly as I tried to figure out what the hell was going on. The best I could come up with - weak as it was - was that I'd just spent three uninterrupted days in the company of nothing but women, and had subconsciously picked up a few of their habits.

I got off the bus at the mall, pausing to look up at the office across the street, where the 'Big Guys' were waiting to hear my explanation. I'd planned to go home and get cleaned up, but I figured that a better plan was to get my wallet and cash, then go straight to the office - the worse I looked when I told my 'sick' story, the better.

So I went into the mall and was heading for the bank...

...when I was taken by an incredible bout of cramps that literally doubled me over. In the first instant, I thought it was psychosomatic, considering the lies I was preparing - but real or 'all in my head', the cramps were incredible, and I rushed off to the nearest public restroom and locked myself in the stall, dropping my pants and sitting on the toilet doubled over, wondering if some of that wonderful Thai food had given me dysentery.

So, there I was, locked in the stall in the men's room, doubled over with my pants around my ankles - when it happened.

There's no good way to explain what it felt like. It was painful and uncomfortable and horrifying - though it wasn't painful enough to be called 'agony', wasn't uncomfortable in any way that I had ever felt before, and was horrifying in an emotional context that was somewhat drowned out by shock that made me emotionally numb.

You see - I turned into a woman.

I couldn't see everything that was happening at the time, of course - but some of it was more obvious than others. Like when my short, sandy-blond hair suddenly spilled down over my face and shoulders, now a rich, lustrous black.

Or the way it felt like I was sitting on an inflatable rubber toilet-seat that somebody was inflating - but not quite, as the sensations were coming from my own ass swelling, becoming fuller and rounder. I had a hard time focusing on that, though - the pain in my hips as the bones 'stretched' themselves to make my hips wider was very distracting, to say the least. I actually 'missed' the way my waist shrunk - at the time.

However, it was hard to ignore the way my chest suddenly ballooned outwards, the buttons on my dress-shirt unable to withstand the pressure from the twin mounds of flesh that suddenly blossomed on my chest. They expanded outwards, as if they were never going to stop, becoming absolutely massive before they finally decided to cease growing. The dress-shirt hung loose and open, but the breasts themselves were (barely) hidden behind the 'wife-beater' undershirt I was wearing, now strained to the limit by a pair of massive tits whose deep cleavage was well-revealed by the out-stretched neckline.

The fact that the cleavage was a dusky shade far from my normal pale fleshtone was a minor point at the moment, as I was too busy trying - vainly - to hold onto my cock as it slid back up into my body, leaving behind a perfectly formed - and perfectly feminine - vagina.

It seemed to take an eternity, all the changes that swept my body - but it couldn't have been more than two or three minutes.

Then I guess I screamed. I don't remember doing so, but it would be perfectly understandable, what with me suddenly having changed from a man into a woman. Practically de rigueur, as a matter of fact.

I do remember staggering out of the stall, half-naked, and string in shock at my reflection in the mirror over the sinks.

A woman I'd never seen before - and who looked nothing like 'me' - stared back with the same dazed, horrified expression.

She was Hispanic, with rich, dusky skin, and a broad, high-cheek-boned face. Her lips were almost over-full, and her eyes were huge and dark, framed by long, dark lashes.

Her body....

'Voluptuous' was coined for this body, I think. She wasn't 'overweight', not even 'pudgy' - all things considered. Her legs were long and slender and shapely, and her waist admirably tiny. It was just that she had the wide, child-bearing hips, amazingly full, firm ass - and a pair of massive tits the size of volleyballs, whose enormous, dark nipples were clearly visible through the thin undershirt.

I might have stood there in shock for quite awhile - except that I heard a rising commotion outside. By sheer happenstance, the bathroom had been empty during my transformation - but, now, I could hear the attention from outside, and realized that I must have screamed.

Then I panicked. I'd stepped out of my pants in the stall - and my shoes, which were now too large for my shrunken feet. Now, scared silly at being 'caught', not thinking straight, I grabbed my carry-on bag - and ran.

The security had made an understandable mistake - when they'd heard a female scream from the directions of the bathrooms, they'd gone to the women's bathroom, which was farther down the hall, and a small crowd of on-lookers had gathered around the open door as the guards went in. When I dashed out of the men's room and ran - half naked, massive new tits bouncing and swaying wildly. - for the nearest exit, the guards were already behind me, and had to push through that group of spectators.

I made a clean get away. A half block away, past a dilapidated fence and through an empty field, I found myself behind a run-down, seedy hotel. I was about to round the corner - and then stepped back as I caught sight of a couple of cop cars, a group of police officers leading four half-naked women with blankets wrapped around them.

Panting, confused, unsure, I looked around - and spotted an open window.

Moments later, I'd managed to get through the window, cursing my massive new bustline and wide hips. Brushing myself off, I looked around...

...and some things became clear. The place reeked of sex and drugs, and laying around were piles of women's clothing. Three of them were street clothes, the fourth a maid's uniform - and I figured that it had been some sort of lesbian orgy or something, and the police had been involved mainly because one of the participants had been a hotel employee.

Now, here's the weird thing - I got changed. Clothes, I mean - my body stayed the way it was. The thing is, out of all the clothing I could have put on, I chose the maid's uniform.

It was never designed to fit a body like mine. The underwear was a complete write-off. The panties were torn and sodden, and the bra was much too small for my massive chest. But I put on the black nylons, the black skirt, and the black blouse. The skirt fit me like a second skin, and I had to tie the blouse in a bow over my massive bust to get it on.

That was bad enough. I mean - I knew that these clothes were a lousy fit, but I just couldn't seem to help myself. I had to put them on - I even put on the white apron and that stupid little white cap.

The only thing from the uniform I didn't put on was the shoes - instead, I 'picked' the pair from another pile of clothes - black patent- leather pumps with a five inch heel.

I tried to stop myself of course - I didn't want to wear high heels. I just couldn't help myself.

Grabbing my bag, I tossed it on the maid's cart in the room, opened the door and glanced around. Seeing the coast was clear, I stepped out of the room...

...and, unwillingly, pulled the cleaning cart after me. trying desperately to stop myself - and failing - I wheeled the cart to the next room, used the pass-key on the cart to open the door...

...and cleaned the room. Thoroughly. Mincing around on the high heels, my movements restricted by the super-tight, near-to-bursting uniform, I cleaned the room until it was spotless.

Then I moved on to the next room, and did the same. Then the next room...

I reached the sixth room, unlocked the door - and stepped into a room under the incredulous stare of a big, naked black man, sitting cross-legged on the bed and in the process of rolling a joint. He was tall and muscular - sort of. He'd obviously once been massively muscled, but quite a bit of it had become flab in the past few years, with a layer of 'real' muscle still viable through the softening layers. His head was shaved bald, and he had a badly-trimmed goatee, and was about as generally 'thug-like' as a Hollywood character actor.

I don't know what I - the 'real me' would have done under these circumstances - but it didn't matter. I couldn't control my own actions. I started to clean.

Recovering from his daze of surprise, the black man snapped an order.

"Get the fuck out of here, bitch!" And I answered...

"Yes, sir. I live to serve, sir."

I started to wheel the cart towards the door...

...and the man snorted. "Yeah, right - then why don't you show me those tits o' yours, bitch." The words were sarcastic...

...but the sneer on his face dropped away into a look of shock as I wordlessly, helplessly turned around, undid the strap of the apron from around my neck - then undid the bow on the blouse, letting my huge melons of tit-flesh pop free.

"Damn..." the black man breathed in shock, putting the half-rolled joint aside. "Uh... you mean to say you'll do what I tell you to? Izzat it?"

"Helplessly - horrified - I repeated my 'I live to serve' line. He smiled. It wasn't pleasant.

"Then come over here, bitch, and suck my big black cock."

I wanted to scream. To run from the room. To snap back at the man.

Instead, I walked across the room and knelt at the side of the bed. Reaching out, I took his slowly stiffening cock in hand - then bent my head and began to lick and suck at the cock, rapidly bringing it top full erection.

I wanted to throw up. This was utterly disgusting - but I seemed to be utterly emotionless as I slurped and sucked at his cock, which was indeed big and black.

I appeared as equally emotionless when he told me to stop sucking - and fuck him. And I did. Dear go - I did.

He lay back on the bed, and I stood up and finished undressing. Then I got on the bed, swung my leg over his hips...

..and without hesitation, dropped my new cunt right down onto his hard, thick cock.

I didn't make any sound, though I wanted to scream in emotional horror and physical pleasure as my cunt enveloped his cock, sending bolts of pleasure through my body. I began to rise him, thrusting my body up and down by using my long, shapely legs as he rocked his own his, his hands playing with my massive tits. I might have remained silent throughout the act, if he hadn't ordered me to 'make some noise'.

Then I started panting and gasping in 'passion', telling him he was the best I'd ever had... (Ironically true, in a way)

...and telling him how much I loved it....

(Disgustingly true, in a way)

...as I rode him to orgasm.

His orgasm, that is. I never got close. After he stiffened and shot his load deep into my new womanhood, he ordered me off of him, and spent a few minutes sucking and licking my tits, then ordered me to go get cleaned up. Helplessly, I walked into the bathroom and did as he ordered.

Once I was done that, I went back into the main room and went immediately to the cleaning cart, and my carry-on bag.

I'm not stupid. I'd finally made the connection, though I'm ashamed it took me so long. Opening the bag, the amulet was right on top, and I needed to verify my suspicions.

I looked at the small printing on the back of the 'amulet', and - sure enough - there it was. Just as the old man had tried to warn me. If only I'd paid attention, realized that, in a different culture, what I might think I'm hearing might not be what was being said.

The small, raised letters seemed to stare up at me, accusingly, and I hated myself for ignoring the words, both when spoken by the man, and when I hadn't bothered to read them on the back of the amulet.

'Maid, in America'

Then the black guy wanted another go, and I just couldn't refuse him - and when I went to put the amulet down, it fell down the ventilation grate. I would have 'done' the guy, then - after he'd left - taken the grate off and gone after it, because it's my only hope (slim) as it is, of getting changed back...

...but, halfway through our second round, you guys burst through the door and arrested us. That's the truth. Really - the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

So you see, officer - I'm not a prostitute. And I'm not an immigrant, even though you don't have a record of 'me' anywhere. And that's why I don't have a green card - so you can't deport me 'back' to Mexico...

Officer...?

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After discovering a magic amulet, one man's sense of right and wrong disappears and he changes his best friend into a sex starved bimbo for all to enjoy.

Discovery

By Gunslinger

With a gust, the early morning wind ruffled the leaves and branches of the forest, bringing the illusion of individual life to each tree and bush as the forlorn wind moaned through the dark and shadow-bejeweled halls of the heavy foliage.

Mark shuddered, his rangy body responding to the mostly-psychological chill that ran up his spine. He pulled his denim jacket tighter around his whipcord-thin body and bowed his dark, tousled mane of hair to the oncoming wind.

"Geez, Jason - can we head back now? There's nothing interesting out here."

His companion turned and smiled at him, his broad, muscular form apparently unaffected by the chill breeze, though no jacket covered the tight black T-shirt he wore to show off his massive, toned arms. "What's the matter, Mark? Scaaaaaared?" The almost offensively handsome young man laughed, showing off perfectly even, white teeth.

"Not scared..." Mark replied, without rancor. " 'Spooked'. This place isn't exactly Fun Central, you know."

Jason laughed again. "Hey, man - you're the 'smart' one. You're supposed to be 'walking in the woods' while I - Party Animal of The World - bitch about how boring it is. Hey, maybe I'm becoming smart and sensitive as well as studly and strong naaaahhh."

Mark rolled his eyes - nobody had ever accused Jason of being particularly bright or sensitive before. Not that he was an asshole or anything - the fact was, he was more 'uncomplicated' than anything. It was almost willful, his choice to not think about what he was doing. He preferred to live the 'easy' life, doing whatever he found enjoyable and refusing to do anything he didn't like. He simply refused to consider any possible consequences that might come from any of his actions - which made him a bit 'dangerous', but a hell of a lot of fun to have as a friend, even if he did have a habit of letting whatever he was thinking slip between his lips without considering whether or not it was really worth saying...

Aside from the fact that both of them were twenty-three, Mark and Jason shared very little in common. Jason, muscular and blonde, was almost offensively outgoing, easy-going, and decidedly self-centered, living to enjoy himself. Mark, however, was quieter, more introspective and studious. However, it turned out that the two of them worked out well as friends - Mark tended to keep Jason's thoughtlessness from doing much harm to other people, and Jason kept the rangy writer in the social flow of things. Despite the fact that Jason didn't specifically consider the thoughts or feelings of other people, he tended to radiate a certain charisma because when he was enjoying himself, he only wanted people around him that wouldn't 'kill his buzz' - so, out of purely selfish interests, he made sure that the people hanging out with him enjoyed themselves too. It was a pretty good arrangement, as far as Mark was concerned, even if it did have its occasional drawbacks.

Which was why Mark had accepted Jason's invitation to spend the weekend up at the cabin. It had sounded like a blast - but Jason hadn't said anything about strolling around in a dark, heavy forest, where Mark's writer's imagination was working overtime.

"So - why the hell are we out here, then, Oh Great Part Animal?" Mark asked. Jason grinned and gestured. "What do you see?"

Frowning, Mark looked in the direction Jason was pointing. "A hill. Big deal."

"That's what I thought too - but look." Jason said, leading Mark around the other side of the small rise in the forest floor...

...and Mark gaped. A recent heavy rain had eroded the soil on that side of the hill - and what was revealed was step-like terraces of stone with worn and pitted engraving on it - and what was obviously an entrance of some sort, covered by a large slab of stone.

"Holy shit!" Mark gasped.

"Yeah." Jason said, with a grin. "C'mon - give me a hand with this." He grabbed part of the slab of rock, and looked at Mark expectantly.

Part of Mark's mind was informing them that they should leave it the way it was and call the Archeology department of the nearest University that had one - but another, louder, part of him was just too damned curious....

He grabbed the other side of the slab. At the count of three, both young men heaved, and the slab tilted outward. When they felt the weight of the slab leave from their hands, they scurried backwards to get out of the way as the slab fell to the forest floor with a loud - but muffled - 'thud' that ran through their legs. Left behind was a dark entrance to the interior of the small structure.

Digging into his pocket, Jason pulled out a small penlight and turned it on, aiming the narrow beam into the darkened interior of the ancient stone structure. Both of them peered inside.

The austere interior of the pyramidal-shaped structure was empty - except for a stone pedestal in the geometric center of the building, on which rested a small, gleaming object.

"I wonder..." Mark started to ask but Jason, without saying anything, was already stepping inside.

"It's some sort of necklace, with a , uh... pendant." Jason called, picking it up. "Hey! I think it's solid gold!" "Hey!" Mark protested. "Don't touch that - we should call the authorities and have them examine this."

"Hell no!" Jason said, grinning, as he slipped the necklace around his own, thick neck. In the bobbing and weaving beam of the small flashlight, Mark could see that it was a heavy gold chain, with a torus-shaped gold object suspended from it, inset into which was a blood-red jewel that might have been a ruby.

"Finder's keepers!" Jason said, grinning.

"I really don't think..." Mark continued to protest.

"Hey - it's on my land, so it's mine." Jason said, grin fading. "Jeez - why don't you just shut up?" Mark opened his mouth to protest...

...and nothing came out. Not a sound. No matter how hard he strained, the best he could do was a 'whuffing' sound of air. It was as if his vocal cords didn't even exist.

Eyes widening in shock, Mark tried again - with the same lack of success. He simply couldn't utter a word.

Mark was a bright boy, and - inexplicable as it was - it didn't take much for him to connect his sudden and strange lack of a voice to Jason's comment. Since Jason's off-hand comments had never had any paranormal results before, it was then a short logical jump to the necklace he'd put on.

As impossible as it seemed, somehow that amulet had made Jason's whim a reality - and Mark was the victim of the discovery. Near panic, he stepped forward and slapped Jason on the arm. Jason - who hadn't noticed anything - frowned.

"What the hell's your problem?" He asked.

Pointing at his throat, Mark worked his mouth, eyes wide and pleading. "What the hell is this?" Jason asked. "Charades?"

Mark banked his fist against his upper chest, and tried screaming at the top of his lungs - which merely produced a sustained 'whoosh' of air, followed by a wheezing as he emptied his lungs.

"Geez, man - what's gotten into you?" Jason said, frowning. "If there's something you want to tell me, why don't you just..."

It would have been comical, in other circumstances - you could practically see the light bulb go on over Jason's head as he made the connection.

"Hey!" Jason said, in tones of revelation. "You're telling me that you can't talk!"

Mark nodded vigorously, tapping his nose - then pointed frantically at the pendant Jason was wearing. "Huh?" Jason said, not getting that one.

Frustrated - and scared - mark stepped forward to yank the pendant off...

...and Jason thrust out an arm to stop him. "Hey - don't ever try that again!" He said, startled.

Frantic, Mark tried to push past the arm that was restraining him and grab the pendant - but, to his horror, he found that this order had also been made real, as he couldn't get his hands near the necklace. It was as if an invisible wall was surrounding the object, keeping Mark's hands away.

Jason, however, had made the connection. "Holy shit... the necklace! Somehow, this thing's making what I say come true! I told you to shut up... so now you can't talk!"

Making an angry face - that was marred by his fear-filled eyes - Mark nodded rapidly, stepping back and crossing his arms over his chest. He jerked his head forward in a 'well?' motion - now that Jason knew what was going on, he could undo what he'd done.

Jason, however, merely grinned. "Hey - this is so cool. Think of what I can do with this!"

Mark's eyes widened, and he snapped his fingers to get Jason's attention, then jabbed a finger at Jason, emphatically, then at his throat.

Jason sighed. "Geez, man - we discover an object of amazing power - and all you can worry about is bitching me out. I mean, man - I know that's what you're planning to do as soon as you get you voice back. You're gonna whine and complain about your voice, then moralize about how I should leave this thing alone and call somebody in authority. Are you really surprised that I'm not really, really eager to give you your voice back?"

Mark frowned... then, almost against his will, smiled sheepishly.

Jason was right - that was exactly what Mark would have done the instant he got his voice back. Mark didn't have to like it - and he didn't - but he could admit that Jason's reluctance made a certain sort of sense.

"C'mon - let's head back to the cabin." Jason said, with a grin. "It'll give you a while to calm down, and me time to think about what I'm going to do with this thing. When we get back, I'll make it so that you can talk again - I promise. Fair enough?"

Mark threw up his hands - it wasn't like he had a say in the matter...

The two young men headed back towards the cabin. Mark practically wanted to sprint there, the sooner to get his voice back - but Jason strolled along, head bowed in thought as he considered what he could - and should - do with this sudden, new-found power he held.

Mark was worried about that - though neither cruel nor evil, Jason wasn't exactly a genius, and was rather single-minded in his pursuit of 'fun'. While Mark didn't think Jason would do anything truly despicable, he might do some things that were.. well, 'wrong', in the search for a good time.

When they reached the cabin, Mark waited impatiently while Jason got himself a beer, then dropped into a comfortable - if worn - armchair. Mark then pointed at his throat, insistently.

"Okay, okay..." Jason said, with a grin. "You can talk now."

"Ahem.. testing..." Mark said - and was relieved to hear his familiar old tones emerge from his throat. He paused for a second, then...

"Now, don't go stealing my voice again. Jason..." Mark said, hesitantly. "I know you don't want to hear this, but I really think it's for the best if you took that pendant off and put it away - at least, for now. I mean, we don't know anything about it, and if you're wearing it you might use it accidentally, or without thinking it through. I mean - you didn't mean to take my voice away, and just think what would happen if somebody ticked you off, and you..."

Jason rolled his eyes at the lecture... then began to grin, almost wickedly. He muttered something under his breath.

"...and could cause a lot of trouble," Mark contained trying to convince Jason. "...without meaning to, of course. It could be something that you couldn't undo, and then you'd, ahem, ahem.. you'd find yourself, ahem.."

Mark frowned and cleared his throat again - his voice was cracking and warbling. He tried to keep talking. "Um, if you.. ahem.. made a mistake and.. ahem.. I mean, uh... Holy shit, Jason, what the hell did you do!"

As he was speaking, Mark heard his voice slowly but inexorably changing in pitch and tone, rising higher through the register - and altering in nature. Even after he put two and two together and snapped at Jason, it was in tones calmer and more friendly than he'd intended.

"Well.." Jason said, with a grin. "If you're gonna bitch at me, I figured it might as well be nice to listen to." "What the hell does that mean?" Mark asked - but the question was answered by itself.

He'd asked it in a warm, sultry and quite sexy female voice. One that was sexy and almost seductive - despite the fact that he'd wanted it to be demanding and angry, it had come out as smooth as syrup, as calm and friendly and seductive as if it was a woman speaking to her lover. The tones belied the words, robbing them of rancor or anger.

"See - that's much nicer." Jason laughed. "Go ahead, yell at me all you want, lecture me forever - I won't complain." "Oh, geez, Jason..." Mark said - but had to grin as well. "You can't take anything seriously, can you?"

"Nope." Jason admitted readily, with a grin.

"Come on - this is too weird." Mark said, shaking his head as he heard the sexy, friendly, seductive female voice emerge. "Change my voice back."

"Hey, I told you I didn't want to be lectured." Jason said with a grin and a shrug. "But, when you get your voice back, what's the first thing you do? I think I'm gonna leave your voice like this for awhile, just to make sure you get the idea."

"Jason.. this isn't funny." Mark said, crossing his arms. Jason just stared at Mark for a long moment.

"Okay, okay - so it's probably damned funny." Mark admitted, with a wry grin. "I meant that I'm not enjoying it, even if you are. I sound like a phone-sex girl or something!"

"Hey - maybe you should keep the voice." Jason said, with a grin. "Think how much you could earn..."

"Ha. Ha. Very funny." Mark said, roiling his eyes. "You're not going to give me my voice back as long as I'm making this fun for you, are you?"

"Nope." Jason agreed readily, with a smirk.

Mark sighed - the more he 'bitched' about this voice, the more Jason would get a kick out of it. As galling as it was, the best Mark could do was stop bugging Jason about it, and hope that his friend tired of the game before too long.

"All right, fine." Mark said, dropping into the other chair. "You want to get a laugh out of your friend having the voice of a sexy woman, go right ahead. It might be weird, but hey - it's not actually hurting me any."

"Yeah, right." Jason grinned. "It's driving you nuts, isn't it?"

"No - not at all." Mark lied. "It was just a surprise at first, that's all. To tell you the truth... it doesn't really bother me, now." A little reverse psychology might work - after all, god knows that direct confrontation wasn't helping.

"In fact..." Mark said, with a forced grin. "It's kinda.. neat. What do you think.. big boy?"

He purposefully made the last sound as sexy and seductive as his new voice could provide - maybe having his friend 'come on' to him would be enough to creep Jason out.

No such luck.

"Yeah, sounds good." Jason said with a knowing grin, taking another pull on his beer.

Mark sighed and rolled his eyes. "Look, Jason, that's enough. Maybe you're enjoying this - but I'm not. Besides - doesn't it feel weird in the least to have a sexy voice like this coming out of somebody who looks like..." He waved his hands at his body, "...this?"

Jason sighed. "Actually - no. What does bother me is how much it bothers you. I mean, it isn't like I actually did anything bad to you - I was just having a little fun."

Mark was glad to see his friend wasn't a complete moron about this. "So - you're going to give me my voice back?"

Jason nodded, apologetically. "Yeah - I didn't mean to piss you off. I really didn't think you'd get this annoyed. I'll just give you your voice back, then..." His voice became heavy with regret. "...I'll take this off, just to be on the safe side."

Jason shook his head and sighed, looking down at the necklace with regret. "You know what, though - I wish that, for just one day, I could use this thing without having any conscience or inhibitions to bother me..."

Suddenly, Jason shook his head - and then he looked at Mark with a smile.

It wasn't his usual, open grin. It was a sly, malicious smile - and, suddenly, Mark felt a shiver run up and down his spine as he realized what Jason had, inadvertently, just done...

"Uh... Jason...?" Mark said, a quaver in his sexy new voice.

"Yeah, Mark...?" Jason asked, grinning wickedly. He took a deep breath and let it out with enjoyment. "God, I feel so... liberated..."

'Oh, shit...' Mark thought, eyes widening in alarm. "Jason, look - you just said something you didn't mean to say. Now, just give me my voice back and..."

Jason chuckled - an unpleasant sound "Oh, no - I don't think so, Mark. No... the fun's just getting started..."

Mark hesitated for a second. Basically, what Jason had just done was make himself a psychopath, with no distinction between right or wrong, with no conscience or scruples or inhibitions...

Throwing himself out of the chair, Mark sprinted for the door.

"Get back here!" Jason demanded - and, helplessly, Mark found himself skidding to a stop, turning, and walking back to stand in front of Jason.

"No!" Mark said, struggling against his own body. "Let me go! Jason, this isn't you - you don't really want to do this! Let me go, Jason!"

Jason rolled his eyes and snorted. "Mark, you simpering sissy. I haven't even done anything to you yet." His grin widened. "But I'm going to - oh yes, I am. Now, you just stand right there and don't move - or say anything - while I figure out what would be the most fun..."

Helplessly, unable to move or speak, Mark stood before Jason while his now-psychopathic friend considered his nearly limitless options.

Jason said, silent, for several minutes - then, slowly, he smiled. "Oh - that's good. That's really, really good..."

Unable to move or speak, Mark was able to sweat - and sweat he did, heavily, at the sight of the evil grin on his once-friend's face.

"Wait here..." Jason commanded, the rose from the chair and walked out of the room, heading towards the two bedrooms of the cabin. He walked into the one Mark was using, and started talking to himself - or, rather, to the necklace. Mark couldn't make out the words - but he was sure that they didn't bode well for him. He struggled mightily against the magical ennui that held him, but was unable to move at all, no matter how frantically he commanded his traitorous body to obey him.

After several eternal minutes, Jason called out, instructing Mark to come into the room. Helplessly, mark's body obeyed, while he silently screamed for help.

Stepping through the door, he found himself in a room that bore nothing in common with the bedroom that it had so recently been, except for basic physical dimensions.

Instead, it looked like a very small studio for some sort of game show. There was an opaque booth of some sort in the center of the room, a small podium, and a camera - that was connected to a very expensive-looking computer.

Hanging on the back wall was a large logo with words spelled around it. Words the sent a chill of horror through Mark. 'WIN A DATE WITH A DREAM GIRL'

Mark had a horrified idea who that 'dream girl' was - or, rather, was going to be...

"Okay - get into the booth there." Jason - now nattily dressed in a tailored Saville Row suit, ordered Mark. "Sit down on the chair and be quiet until the screen in front of you prompts you. Then read the question."

Helpless to do anything but obey, Mark walked into the booth. Inside, he found a stool, a small computer-monitor mounted on a corner brace, and a large mirror making up the front wall of the booth. Helplessly, Mark sat on the stool.

Outside, Mark heard a couple of noises - and then Jason's voice.

"Hello there! This is Jason Jovial, welcoming you to the premiere web-cast of the new Pirate Internet Game Show, 'Win A Date With A Dream Girl' - where you, the Internet audience, can win a chance to date the person inside the box behind me, if you get the questions right in the allotted time. This is the first, best, and only interactive game-show of it's kind, and I'm sure it's going to be very, very popular. Now - if you're interested in playing, and winning an all-expenses paid date with the person in the booth, then go ahead and log yourself on as a contestant."

There was a short pause, then Jason - just as artificially cheerful - said "Well, our 'hit-o-meter' shows we have enough people to start, so let's begin with contestant number one. What's your name, contestant?"

There was a short pause, then a nervous, tinny voice echoed through the room.

"Uh.. Josh."

"Okay, Josh - here's how it woks." Jason 'explained'. "Our Mystery Date will ask a question. If you guess right, you get to go on to the next question, and if you guess wrong, you're out of here. BUT... anybody else out there can jump in with their guess. If they guess right before you do, they go on - but if they guess wrong, YOU automatically advance to the next question. Ready?"

"Uh.. I guess so..." Josh said, nervously.

"Good!" Jason said. "Okay, Mystery Date - ask the first question!"

Words appeared in front of Mark, on the monitor - and, helplessly, he found himself reading the question, knowing what the 'audience' would assume from the richly feminine voice Jason had cursed him with.

"My name begins with an 'M'..." Mark said, helplessly, "... and it rhymes with a type of bird. What's my name?" There was a pause...

...and another male voice blurted out - "May! Your name is May!"

"That's right!" Jason boomed. "M-A-E, Mae, rhymes with 'Jay', and is the only name our mystery guest answers to!"

Mark - or, rather, Mae - wanted to cry, knowing that, thanks to the pendant Jason wore, his words were now the truth - the only name he'd be able to answer to now was 'Mae'.

"Okay, Josh, you're outta there. Who's our new contestant?" "Darren." The voice said.

"Okay, Darren - let's see if you can keep your one-right-answer streak on a roll. Mae, what's the next question?" Jason said. Helplessly, the newly renamed Mae read out the question on the monitor, his voice sounded sexy and seductive even to his own ears.

"My hair is like a part of the summer's solstice. What's my hair like?" Mae asked, catching on - just as 'Lark-with-an-em-is-Mark', it was, technically, possible for somebody to guess that the night of the solstice was 'short and dark'. But the more likely answer would be...

"It's long and light!" Darren said, triumphantly.

"That's right!" Jason trumpeted. "Mae has gorgeous, golden-blond hair down to her ass...!"

As Mae watched, helplessly, the image in the mirror showed that it was now quite true - his hair had suddenly grown in thick waves, golden blond tresses spilling over his shoulders and down his back.

And so it went. The newly-renamed Mae wished, desperately, that there was some way he could stop asking the questions - but the power of the pendant that the newly psychopathic Jason held was absolute, and his sweet, feminine voice continued to call out the questions whose answers invariably changed her further, each change matching the answers that were given on the assumption that the unseen Mae matched the sexy, feminine voice that asked the questions.

His body hair vanished on the next question asked, leaving his skin smooth and hairless. Helplessly, Mae shuddered as he ran a hand over his denuded, newly feminine skin - even as he helplessly asked the next question, which caused his socks to rise upwards under his pants, forming into a pair of black nylons that encased his smooth new legs with a sensation that was disgustingly pleasant.

The pants covering the nylons didn't last too long - all too soon, they were forming themselves into a skin-tight black leather miniskirt.

Another question - and suddenly Mae's face was heavily made up, covered with garishly bright make-up, including gloss-pink lipstick and pinkish eye-shadow over eyes whose lashes were long and dark. The make-up looked ridiculous - but became less so when the next question made Mae's lips plump out until they were almost obscenely full and pouting. Mae wanted to scream as he felt his lips swell to their new, erotic dimensions - but was unable to give voice to the horror and disgust that was flooding him, merely moving on to the next question...

...which caused his ass to swell, becoming fuller, firmer and rounder. Mae wiggled on the seat as his ass expanded, wanting to whimper

- his new posterior felt absolutely enormous as it supported him, lifting him higher out of the seat with its firm new contours.

That incredibly full ass was soon joined by wide, womanly hips that strained the skirt skin-tight over his boxer-briefs, which looked definitely out-of-place peaking out from beneath the skirt. The next question solved that 'problem' though, and Mae couldn't even gasp in discomfort as the black PVC panties he now wore pulled painfully tight over his cock and balls.

The next question made his feet small and dainty - and enclosed them and his lower legs in a pair of black PVC boots with a two-inch platform, ten-inch high heels, and a gaudy, large-toothed zipper. The framing of the question, and the way it was answered, left the steadily feminizing man no doubt that his walk would be easy and sexy in the new boots he'd just gained.

Then his legs altered under the boots and skirt. Though he could only see from the knees up to the hem of the skirt, Mae had no doubt that the legs were as every bit as sexy as the re-worded answer Jason gave claimed they were.

More questions - and more changes. One after the other, the changes rushed ahead, and soon his hands and arms and neck matched the feminine ideal the rest of his body was becoming. His shirt became a black-spandex tank-top that molded itself tight to his denuded flesh... and then he learned the true meaning of the word 'tight' as the shirt was joined by a black leather corset whose gleaming form, with it's big, silver buckles, clung almost painfully tight to his now-eighteen inch waist.

He acquired jewelry, garish 'silver' earrings, rings, bangles and a necklace.

His face remolded itself, the chin narrowing, the nose shrinking, until the mirror showed the face of a somehow-cheap-looking woman who was more sexy than beautiful - and it wasn't a quiet sexuality so much as a screaming challenge to men, with dark eyes, strong-yet sensual features, and permanent look of lust imbued in it's every contour.

There was very little of the original man left in the new body - and he was denied the opportunity to scream, to cry, even to beg, as the 'game show' continued inexorably towards the complete erasure of every male detail.

"I've never bought a bra at a department store or normal lingerie shop..." Mae asked, helplessly, telling the highly-biased 'truth' in that damned voice. "Why is that?"

the current contest answered with the 'obvious' answer. "Because you're too big-busted for a standard size bra!" "That's right!" Jason supplied. "Mae's tits are incredibly huge, and amazingly firm. They're absolutely gigantic!"

Though it wasn't true when he started speaking, it soon was as Mae felt his chest pressing outwards, the flesh rapidly expanding and pushing the skin-tight spandex further and further out over the growing mounds, which shot quickly through 'prepubescent', zipped right past 'average', and headed deeper and deeper into the 'buxom' category.

They didn't even slow, though, running right through and into 'freakish', remaining incredibly firm as the swelled outwards, finally stopping when they were the size of medicine balls - two gigantic, round tits straining at the skin-tight top that barely contained them, a mile of delectable, creamy cleavage exposed and her huge, thick nipples clearly visible by the dents they made in the shirt.

There was one last question and answer, and then it would be finished - he would be female. Even as he wanted to curl up and die, part of him felt almost... relieved that the torment was about to end, as he gave the final question...

...and shortly felt the pressure at her crotch ease as the PVC panties now covered her new, tight cunt.

But the questions DIDN'T stop. To her horror, Mae found herself asking another question - and this was about her skill in oral sex...

...and, seconds later, she knew that she was not only incredibly skilled at sucking cock - but that she 'loved' the taste and feel of a cock in her mouth.

More questions continued, and each one made her want to die - as she became changed more and more in her mind, too. She gained a new personality, bit by bit - one where she 'loved' displaying and flaunting her body, especially her huge, heavy new tits... a personality where she was great at fucking, and was always multi-orgasmic... one where she loved getting it-fucked.. and ass-fucked.. and doing just about anything sexual you could possibly imagine. As they changes piled up, one on top of the other, Mae wished for the comfort of insanity, something to break her away from the bizarre new reality that was being formed for her...

...but wasn't delivered from this horror, even as the winner of the show was announced, and she was asked to come out.

Moving with helpless, sexual grace, she slid off the stool and opened the door, feeling her gigantic globes of tit-flesh shifting as she balanced easily and sensually atop her heels. Then she was walking out of the booth and into the view of the camera so that all the people watching could see the prize.

A tall, slender, wasp-waisted blonde with enormous, impossibly firm tits and wide, flaring hips, dressed - and looking like - some cheap slut in every detail.

"Congratulations, harry!" Jason said. "This is your date for tonight! If you go out to the airport, you'll find a private jet standing by to whisk you here, for a night I'm sure you'll find eminently memorable!"

the he signed off and shut down the computer - and grinned at the newly-made woman.

"Wow - you are something..." He chuckled, reaching out to caress on massive, spandex-covered tit. Mae wanted to scream, to shout, to slap his hand away...

...until the very instant when his hand made contact. The she closed her eyes and moaned in pleasure, pressing her tit more firmly into the contact, feeling pleasure run through her body at have her glorious perfect, wonderful new tits touched, just the way she liked... now if he'd only start fondling them...

...then Jason pulled his hand away - and Mae's mind snapped back from the pendant's-power-induced new mindset. She felt like vomiting as she realized how.. eager she'd been a second ago...

...and at the way she was standing in as sexy a pose as she could, helpless with the need to try and be seductive in every movement and position.

"Thanks, Jason..." She said, helplessly feeling a wave of pleasurable pride at his comment, and unable to stop her. "I didn't want to be a woman, and I didn't want tits - but if I have to have tits, I'm glad you gave me such huge, sexy ones..."

Helplessly turned on by her new mindset and body, Mae helplessly massaged her own, spandex-enclosed tits, moaning again as she felt pleasure run through her.

Jason laughed, unpleasantly. "And to think... this is only the beginning!" He put his hands on his hips and arched with evil laughter. "To think I've wasted all my life actually caring about what other people might think about me. This.. this is power, almost as much power as the pendant! This is.. freedom!"

Turning to the new woman, he grinned. "Go out to the living room, Mae. We have some work to do, to get this place ready for your debut night as a... socially active woman."

"Please, Jason..." Mae tried, as she helplessly walked with a sexy stride out of the room. "Don't make me do this - I don't want to be forced to meet some guy and kiss him.. slide my tongue deep into his throat.. while I reach into his pants..." Helplessly, she began to breath heavily, voice becoming husky. "...and making sure he's hard so I can ride his hard, throbbing cock to screaming orgasm! Please, don't make me wait until to night - fuck me now!"

She was horrified to be saying it - but even more horrified by the fact that she meant it. Right now, she wanted to fuck Jason, long and hard.

Jason wagged a finger at her. "Now, now - you just save yourself for tonight, Mae. I have other things to do. You just sit here quietly."

Mae obeyed, feeling her hot, wet cunt press even tighter against her PVC panties as she settled into the chair and watched, wordlessly, and Jason began to completely re-design the cabin into a whole new building.

As he went about his work, Mae wished that he hadn't ordered her to sit quietly... because she was so horny she felt like she was about to burst, and she wanted, desperately, to masturbate frantically and loudly.

The fact that she did want to do that disgusted her to no end - but didn't change how she felt, and she cursed Jason for that. He hadn't made her just need to be a sexy, horny woman - he'd made her want all of these things, and though she knew that it was imposed, though she knew that she wouldn't want any of this if she hadn't been changed by her once-friend, it couldn't stop the feelings - the urges - from existing, and affecting her.

To distract herself from the warm, wet, annoyingly pleasant interior 'itch' she was feeling, she paid attention to Jason's work as he remade the once humble cabin into what appeared to be some sumptuous Executive retreat. It was still in the 'rustic' motif, but the type that somebody with a shitload of money would interpret it as. The log walls were varnished and wide, the two layers actually filled with heavy layers of insulation to keep the cabin as cozy-warm as any house. The interior had a gleaming, polished wood floor and heavy, dark-stained furnishings with over-stuffed, baby-bottom-soft leather. All accents were 'old brass', muted golden shades that went with the dark-stained wood that abounded. The small fireplace became a huge stone monolith that could have roasted an entire ox, and a cheerful fire blazed in it's deep recesses.

By the time Jason finished, the place was huge, and looked like a hunting lodge of royalty. He, himself, even fit in with the look, his broad, handsome frame now adorned in expensive 'casual' clothes whose only discordant note was the pendant, which he thoughtfully tucked into his shirt to keep from spoiling the image.

In fact, the most glaring thing in the room was her, her new, cheap-slutty body and clothing and attitudes, don't forget that, she told herself) very much out-of-place in the elegant surroundings.

"There, that should do it." Jason said, with a broad grin, as he collapsed into a couch. "go get me a beer, bitch."

Mae was stunned... to find herself not at all insulted. She knew she should be - but despite the fact she new it to be an insult, emotionally it felt more like a term of endearment. She found herself hurrying atop her extremely high heels, moving sensuously into the huge kitchen and opening the massive, steel-clad fridge to grab the beer and fetch it back to her new master, who had complete control over her.

He didn't thank her as he took the beer, and Mae found she didn't expect him to. In fact, she went through the ritual of acting sexy while she gave it to him, but knew he wouldn't take her up on the offer - he knew her 'history', and the pleasure he was getting from her was from his use - or misuse - of the power he now held, not from her as a woman.

Damn him.

Part of her wished he was back to normal, so he could undo this - yet and equal part of her wanted him to become even more depraved, enough so that he'd eagerly fuck her, hard. Even painfully. She knew she'd love it, and that part of her dreaded him turning her back into a pathetic, not-often-laid man.

Helpless, hopeless, Mae returned to the leather chair and sat down, lightly caressing her huge, firm tits and wondering if getting herself off would piss her new master off...

then she heard the sound of a vehicle pulling up.

"That'll be Harry." Jason said, with a grin. "Why don't you greet him at the door... properly?"

Mae was disgusted with how eagerly she rose out of the chair and hurried towards the door - part that didn't keep her from being eager, from looking forward to what she was about to do.

The fact that the guy who came through the door was twenty pounds overweight, pale, with greasy black hair and bad BO didn't deter her 'eager' side in the least, though it only added to the disgust of what little male ego remained. The fact remained though, that he was male - and that was all Mae needed to get all hot and horny over him.

He was definitely surprised when she greeted him with - "Hi, I'm Mae, and I want to fuck your brains out", but didn't object when she pressed her lush body against his, huge tits shoved against his chest as she wrapped one leg around his and pressed her full, gloss- pink lips against his and kissed him hungrily. In fact, he responded with a clarity, dropping the tattered Army-surplus backpack he was carrying so he could grope her ass as he kissed her back just as eagerly.

"now - that's a greeting..." he said when he finally broke the kiss - but couldn't say anything else, as she re-initiated the kiss, rubbing her huge tits up and down on his chest as she kissed him hungrily, one hand sliding between their bodies to grope at his crotch.

"now, now - at least close the door..." Jason said, and Mae had no choice but to stop kissing Harry and let him the rest of the way into the cabin, closing the door behind him.

She was disgusted to find that she was more upset then relieved by the 'reprieve' Jason had temporarily granted her.

"So, Harry - you think you've got a good thing here?" Jason said, with a grin, as he came over to shake the grinning young man's hand. "man, oh man..." Harry said, looking back at Mae, lustfully. "She's even better in person. Is she really as hot to trot as she seems?" "More." Jason assured him. "Especially for you - after all you have an enormous cock, and always have."

"That's right..." Harry agreed with a grin, shifting his stance slightly as his crotch bulged alarmingly (and enticingly). Thanks to Jason's choice of words, he didn't realize he'd suddenly gained a much larger 'package', thinking he'd had it all along.

"So, why don't you and Mae get... acquainted." Jason said, with a grin. "I'll just watch some TV. Why don't you take Mae to her room? It's the third one back, on the left..."

"Sure thing..." the now hugely-endowed young man said with a grin, taking Mae's hand and leading her towards the hallway. She pressed eagerly against him, huge tits pressed against his back, as she wiggled and swayed along behind him.

As they entered the hallway, she caught a momentary glance of the picture on the TV that Jason had turned on - and saw that it showed.. her and Harry, as if there were an invisible film-crew following them. Obviously, Jason wasn't planning on missing anything, though he'd chosen a more discrete method of watching.

She felt a burst of pleasure at the thought of being watched while she fucked somebody, which only made the helpless male part of her feel worse - since there was absolutely nothing she could do about it.

They barely managed to get into the room and close the door before Mae was all over Harry, her hands working the buttons and clasps of his clothes as she kissed him hungrily. It was sickening to be doing this, but she couldn't possibly stop herself - and most of her didn't want to stop, was looking forward to being used like the horny slut Jason had turned her into.

Harry was equally adept at stripping her clothes off, what little of it there was to remove. It wasn't long at all before she was dressed only in her nylons and heels, while Harry was completely naked, cock already hard and throbbing.

And what a cock it was! Easily a foot long, and amazingly thick, it looked more like some sort of sexual parody than a real organ, with its swollen, over-sized head and thick, heavy veins...

...and the sight of it almost drove Mae mad with unwanted lust. "Fuck me..." She begged, eyes fixed on that huge organ.

"Not yet, babe - I want you to blow me..." Harry said, with a grin - and, disgusted, Mae found herself sinking eagerly to her nylon-clad knees, anticipating the act she was about to perform.

Opening her full, sexy lips as wide as they would go, she leaned forward - and engulfed that massive head with her lips, leaning forward to take more and more of the massive, warm, salty organ into her mouth...

...and throat. Jason had 'considerately' made her able to deep-throat even such a massive organ as this, and she found herself positioning herself to allow a straight line from her lips to her throat, so that she could push her face forward until her nose was nudging his curly, smelly pubic hair.

There was no pain, but quite a bit of pressure, as the massive organ filled her throat, stretching the esophagus so much that her airway was blocked. She should have been gagging, but her gag reflex was missing - so she could quite easily suffocate in this position, the massive organ filling her throat until she couldn't breathe.

Instead, she began to shimmy her body back and forth, the massive organ sliding in and out of her throat. Each time it cleared her throat, she'd take a quick breath through her nose while her tongue licked the massive, swollen head - then she'd hold her breath again as she took that massive organ deep into her throat once more.

Harry moaned as he continued to deep-throat his huge cock, her silky, wet mouth and throat enclosing the organ with yielding pressure, her lips stretched around its girth. He wrapped his hands into her long, pale hair, and urged her on, bucking his hips to 'help' her, banging his crotch into her face...

...and she was loving every second of it. Though her male ego, buried and helpless, was screaming in humiliation and disgust, Mae was loving being used, being fucked - because that's why she existed. She was a fuck-slut.

Then he came - and she almost suffocated. She wanted to jerk her head back, so she could taste the wonderful flow of cum gushing from his cock - but he grabbed her head and held her all the way forward, and his cum seemed to flow forever, gushing straight into her stomach as his massive organ filled her throat. The world was beginning to gray out when he finally released her, and she fell back gasping.

"Wow - that was great, Mae."

"Mmmm.. I loved it, harry." She said, sensuously climbing to her high-heeled feet. "And, if you want, you can call me 'Slut', or 'Bitch' - anything you want..."

"Okay.. Slut." Harry said, grinning even more broadly. "Get over here - I want to get my hands on those huge tits of yours."

She obeyed, and spent the next few minutes moaning in disgustingly genuine pleasure as her roughly - almost brutally - fondled and squeezed her huge tits and massive, swollen nipples. By the time he was beginning to get bored with mauling her huge mounds, his cock was already hard again, and ready.

"Now get on your knees, bitch..." Harry said. "Time to get fucked."

"Yes..." She panted, rolling onto the bed on her hands and knees. "Fuck me, Harry - fuck me hard! Make me scream!"

harry obliged. Getting on his knees behind her, he wrapped his hands around her hips - and drove his massive tool deep into her cunt.

It was fantastically enjoyable - and painful. But Mae enjoyed the pain as much the pleasure, begging for it, crying out to be fucked like an animal. Harry began to slam his massive organ into her, over and over, not making love to her, not having sex with her, barely even fucking her - but using her to pleasure himself, the way she was intended to be used. Mae was little more than a living fuck-toy, thanks to Jason, and that's what Harry was using her as.

She was loving it. Though part of her was gibbering and screaming, the majority of her mind - that reworked by Jason - lived solely for moments like this, and she screamed in primal pleasure as she built towards orgasm...

...but she never reached it. Already 'primed' by the blow-job, he came quickly, and she faked an orgasm as his huge cock spewed it's load of cum deep into her sopping wet cunt.

With a grunt, he withdrew from her - and she eagerly turned around and cleaned off his huge cock, lapping up the mix of their juices as if it was the finest ambrosia.

"thanks, babe." He said, indifferently - and Mae suspected that Jason had been tampering with his mind, to make him more receptive to her type of sexuality, to make this more humiliating for the trapped male ego deep inside of her. It worked - the part of her that remained from her old life just wanted to die. But it no longer had any say in her new life, and she couldn't express any inkling of those inner torments she was suffering.

"Enjoy yourself?" Jason asked, from the doorway, where he was lounging against the wall. Harry, startled, turned - then grinned. "You bet. I'm gonna enjoy fucking this slut a couple more times."

"I'm sorry, but your time is up." Jason said. "No, you're not going to be the least bit interested in her anymore." "What the fuck's that supposed to mean?" Harry said, frowning.

Jason explained - in that tone of voice that told Mae that he was actually making a wish that would come true. "This is a whore-house. We just opened, but it's going to be the most private, most exclusive, most profitable whore-house in the world. I'm a Dutch Ambassador, you see, so this house is legally part of Holland, and American laws don't apply, so I can have whores, serve pot - and make a fortune."

Harry blinked. "Oh - you mean I won a fuck with a whore, and now you want me to pay for the next time?"

"Not exactly." Jason said, with an evil grin. "I want you to imagine your idea of a perfect whore. Imaging what she looks like, imagine how she acts. Imagine every possible detail about her..."

Frowning, Harry found himself, unwillingly, doing just that.

"Now... become her." Jason said, laughing - as Harry cried out, collapsing on the bed as his body writhed and changed. A minute later, the newest employee of the whorehouse sat up, looking somewhat confused.

"What.. what happened...?" She asked, her voice incredibly sweet. She looked like some high-school innocent, though Harry had been at least twenty-two, twenty-three before. The new 'whore' was a slender, petite slip of a girl, with big blue eyes, a supple body, and pert little tits.

"You're just a little confused, dear." Jason said. "Nobody here but us employees."

Instantly, the 'waif' act vanished. "No shit, boss. Nobody got a butt - I need a nic-fix." Though the voice itself was still a lovely soprano, the tone, words - and her expression - were world-weary and experienced.

"We won't be busy until tomorrow. Go ahead, go to your room.. you'll find your entire wardrobe and personal items is unpacked and set out for you."

"Good." The new woman said, rising and strolling from the woman. Mae found herself wondering if, deep inside, she remembered being Harry...

"Now, as for you, Mae..." Jason said, grinning at her. "You did a good job... but I think it wasn't humiliating enough for you. So, from now on, I want a little more of the 'real' you to show through whenever you're with a customer... but you'll only work as a 'bottom' for the BDSM clients..."

Because he wasn't a client, Mae wasn't even able to scream at him even as the 'armor' of Mae's willingness was depleted, leaving her to face fully, intellectually and emotionally, her new fate....

"Well, I hate to leave you " Jason laughed, knowing what she was feeling. "But there's some people from my past, male and female alike, that I think would be perfect new additions to our staff "

* * * * *

Jason grunted as he dumped his load into the huge-breasted, younger version of Miss Sanchez, his old Spanish teacher. He collapsed, heavily, onto her, while she thanked him profusely for fucking her...

Then suddenly he twitched and screamed as his 'one day' came to an end, and his normal mind reasserted itself. "My god!" He cried. "What have I done!"

"You've made me so very happy!" Miss Sanchez - Donita - said, in reply, from beneath him. "Oh, Jason - I wish you could know just how I feel about spending the rest of my life as a cum-crazed, huge-breasted whore !"

Jason had just enough time to realize that the pendant, dangling from it's chain, was resting between her massive boobs as she said this...

And the whorehouse gained it's final member of the staff.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A thief steals ancient worship artifacts, and suddenly find that he has awaken the gods who decide to turn him into their ideal of the female creature.

Divine Disguise

By Gunslinger

The guard's eyes narrowed as the man came through the doors. A twenty-one year veteran of the NYPD before 'retiring' to the position of a Security Guard, Brad Garret was used to making snap judgments of people - or rather, the chances that a particular person was likely to be a source of trouble.

The tall, hugely muscled man walking through the door of the Cartwright Building caused the hairs on the back of Garret's neck to shiver.

The man wore jeans and a T-shirt, both of which were straining over the man's massive musculature. His heavy, Army-surplus boots hit the marble floor of the lobby in time with his arrogant stride, and beneath the gleaming dome of the man's shaven head, his narrow-eyed face sported a large, misshapen nose that proclaimed the man's involvement in past violence.

"Can I help you, sir?" Garret asked - one finger hovering near the alarm button below the edge of the desk. Brad just didn't like the way the muscular man was carrying the large, olive-drab bag over one shoulder. The strap left the bag hanging right near the man's hand, and if there was a weapon inside....

"Yeah - I'm here to do some weight-training with Mr. Sarpin's daughter." The man answered, politely enough, even if his face kept the same, slightly threatening expression.

Garret relaxed slightly, even as he sighed in annoyance. Jessica Sarpin - eighteen-year-old 'Rich Bitch Extraordinaire' - was at the stage in her life where she automatically defied her father in everything. That included finding guys her father would never approve of to have brief flings with.

Brad cocked his head. "Got something for me?"

The man nodded, producing a card that he slid across the desk. Sure enough, it was one of Jessica's 'passes', and Garret buzzed the man through, shaking his head.

He should really stop doing this, Garret thought to himself as the man walked through. If the company ever found out he was letting anyone in without signing them in and copying down their ID info....

Then again, he thought, settling back into his chair, the company would never know. After all, each floor of the exclusive building had a private, direct-to-the-street elevator. Unmonitored - because they couldn't be summoned from the street level - it was possible to arrange entry with a tenant by calling them and having them ride the elevator down to pick them up. Which, as a matter of fact, would be Garret's explanation if anything went wrong. Besides, the extra twelve hundred a month Jessica was paying him to 'play along' was very, very nice....

* * * * *

Stepping into the elevator, Jeff let the brass-clad doors slide shut. However, instead of punching 'seven' - the floor the Sarpin's lived on - Jeff firmly pressed twelve, and waited as the large, ornate elevator carried him smoothly upwards.

When the elevator reached the indicated floor, the doors slid open and Jeff stepped into a small lobby. A quick look verified that the small red light over the security camera was out - just as advertised. Since he worked for the building's Security contractor as a maintenance technician, it had been as easy to arrange as it had been to find out about Jessica Sarpan's little clandestine love trysts. Since the person who lived in the apartment that took up this entire floor was on vacation for a month, there had been nobody to report the 'malfunction'.

Using a copy of a key he'd made, Jeff let himself inside the apartment, where he quickly disarmed the security system with the company pass code. Outside the huge widows that looked down on the park the building bordered, the sky was already fading into the darkness of night, which was all going the way it was supposed to - so far.

Now came the 'fun' part.

Quickly, Jeff began to undress, stripping off all his clothes...

...followed by his muscles.

Formed out of high-quality prosthetic latex - like that used in Hollywood - the fake musculature readily peeled off, revealing the real Jeff Witherspoon - a tall, almost frighteningly skinny young man. Peeling off the fake 'broken' nose and jaw line revealed an almost effeminate face, with a smooth jaw and small, upturned nose that had been the bane of his high-school days. It was a face that would have been recognized by Brad at the desk, even with the newly-shaven scalp, thus requiring the disguise.

Quickly, the now-naked young man emptied his bag and stuffed his clothing and disguise into the bag.

Padding through the apartment, Jeff made his way to the prize he was here to claim - a series of glass display cases that held ancient

- and priceless - Greek artifacts.

Each of them were spheres of pottery, intricately worked in precious metals and gems. About four inches across, each sphere's design represented a different Greek deity, displaying an artist's rendition of the deity and a series of associated acts and fables.

Using a lock-pick, Jeff swiftly opened the first four cases and extracted - carefully - the valuable objet's de arts. One by one, he carried them back to his bag, and the items he'd laid out beside it.

Two of the items were latex-foam object, roughly spherical in shape and about the size of medicine balls. Behind a backing of foam on each object were two shaped recesses.

Into one of the foam spheres, Jeff placed the first two 'Worship eggs' - In this case, those of Aphrodite, the Goddess of Love and Beauty, and Dionysus the God of Wine.

The sphere for the Three Graces - Aglaia, Euphrosyne, and Thalia, Goddesses of banquets, dances and Social Enjoyments, - and the one for Priapus, the God of Fertility, went into the second. The foam backings of each of the carriers was closed, leaving the valuable objects well padded.

Then Jeff began to 'dress'.

First he carefully applied spirit gum to various parts of his body, then began applying the correct pieces of latex prosthetics in a pattern he'd rehearsed a dozen times in preparation. The latex application that changed the contours of his carefully shaved legs came first, followed by the ones that altered his hips and ass, as well as containing his carefully positioned cock. More prosthetics reshapes his neck, shoulders and arms.

Then, finally, Jeff picked up the two 'carriers' of the stolen artifacts and carefully affixed the huge, detailed, amazingly realistic 'breasts' into place.

Had anyone been present, they would have seen a person who appeared to be completely and utterly female. Every detail was perfect, from the shapely legs, womanly hips and full, tear-drop-shaped ass to the tint waist, huge, round tits and feminine - if not particularly noteworthy - face.

There were a few things that would have drawn attention - aside from the massive tits, that was - and Jeff's next action was to take care of those.

The most obvious was 'her' bald head - which was quickly corrected by another application of spirit gun to the smooth scalp, which assured a good grip for the massive wig of blonde hair that 'she' carefully lowered into place.

Having practiced many times, it didn't take Jeff very long to finish 'her' preparations. With the smoothness that came from those many practice sessions, 'she' pulled on 'her' clothes - a pair of black nylons that covered 'her' shapely legs, and a short, tight hot-pink skirt that clung to wide hips and sexy ass while hiding the black panties beneath.

A massive black bra - a custom-made MMM-cup - enclosed the realistic-looking tits, making the precious cargo within all that much safer. Over the massive undergarment went a tight, midriff-baring short-sleeve shirt with an extremely low-cut neckline. This shirt was the same shade as the skirt, and was designed - as was the rest of the outfit - to make it look like 'she' had no place to hide anything like the 'Worship Eggs'.

The final touches were the selected pieces of flashy jewelry and the cheap-looking make-up Jeff carefully applied.

Jeff had spent the past six months preparing for this part, including getting used to walking in heels - so there was no hesitation when 'she' stepped into the pink-and-white platforms with the seven-inch stiletto heels. 'She' had already proved that 'she' could pass in public, having done it five times already, although in a different - less 'memorable' - feminine disguise.

Satisfied, Jeff took the bag and carried it over to the incinerator chute. Dropping it down, 'she' was certain that the last link between 'Mr. Muscles' and 'Miss Mammary' was gone.

Grabbing 'her' small clutch purse, Jeff headed out, moving with a supple, slightly exaggerated feminine stride that looked completely natural.

The new disguise was necessary for the simple reason that 'she' knew that 'she' would be caught on tape was 'she' left. With the owners on vacation, the direct-access elevator was locked off at this floor, and trying to use it would set off alarms. Likewise, 'she' couldn't exit via the front door.

Instead, Jeff entered the standard elevator and rode it down to the underground parking lot. The cavernous, single-level underground lot was shared between this building and the one across the street, and was monitored by video. As 'she' exited the elevator and began 'her' jiggle-and-sway towards the subway entrance on the far side of the structure, Jeff knew that each building's security guard would assume that the massive-breasted blonde had exited from the other building. Even when the theft was discovered, they wouldn't connect it to 'her' - the tight clothes and tiny purse left nowhere to hide the stolen items, and the mouthwatering amount of breast-flesh revealed 'proved' that it wasn't a small-busted woman with the items hidden under a shirt. It wouldn't occur to anyone that the barely- covered breasts were, themselves, fake - and the hiding place of the stolen artifacts.

Smugly, Jeff entered the subway and caught first west-bound train. Despite the discomfort of having the guys sharing the car with her ogle her, 'she' acted naturally, even smiling at one guy. Not only had 'her' previous practice session trained her to handle this in a feminine way, but the fact that some of the guys were obviously quite willing to bed 'her' merely reinforced 'her' confidence in the disguise.

Twenty-eight minutes later, 'she' entered 'her' bolt-hole - a small one-room apartment in the bowels of a now abandoned factory. Jeff's father had once worked in the building, and had once told Jeff about the small room, a fully furnished and functional apartment that was a relic from the highly paranoid owner's obsession for 'safe' places to stay when he was unable to get home to his fortress-like mansion.

Now, Jeff entered the forgotten room and looked longingly at the bed in the corner. But 'she' knew that the prosthetics wouldn't survive being peeled and reapplied, which would be necessary is 'she' wanted to go to bed. Since 'she' needed the disguise again in about six hours, when she went to deliver the 'items' to the buyer, that was out of the option.

Instead, Jeff turned on the coffee-maker he'd brought down when he'd outfitted the place, then sat in the old but comfortable armchair and turned on the TV, which he'd spliced into a cable-line running in the access shaft that lead to the concealed door to the bolt-hole.

Despite the strong, black coffee, Jeff unwittingly slipped into a deep sleep during the fourth hour of his vigil.

* * * * *

Jeff snapped instantly awake, absolutely positive that he wasn't alone.

He wasn't. Even as his eyes adjusted and his brain ran fast enough to interpret the visual stimuli, panic raced through Jeff at the danger he was in - either legal, or physical, depending on what the interlopers had in mind.

Even as Jeff's 'Fight or Flee' instincts snapped into screaming wakefulness, his churning brain was realizing many things about the unwelcome guests, and the oddities of the situation.

They were all dusky of skin, and - dressed as they were in variations of the Greek Classical style of toga - it wasn't hard to see the Mediterranean background of the people crowding the small room.

On the bed sat three women, vaguely attractive. They were near-identical, but not quite exact triplets - there was slight variations.

Nevertheless, they obviously shared a genetic background.

Sitting in the other chair, smiling slightly in the abstract way of someone who was almost always smiling, was a tall, vaguely handsome man, one hand wrapped around a pewter goblet of a deep red liquid. Seated on the arm of his chair, being lightly fondled with his free hand, was a beautiful, if somewhat imperious-looking, woman. The final member of the strange quintet was a tall, handsome and - judging from the line of the toga - amazingly endowed young man.

All five of the intruders was enveloped in a faint but noticeable golden glow.

Even as his brain finished cataloging all the impressions, Jeff was attempting to rise from the chair and demand an explanation.

Attempting, because nothing happened. No voice, no movement - aside from the ability to track with his eyes, Jeff was completely and utterly paralyzed. He could feel everything his body was reporting, but any command sent from his brain apparently never reached it's destination. In radio terms, the brain stem that linked him to the rest of his body was no longer a transceiver, capable of sending and receiving information, but a receiver, accepting only incoming nerve pulses.

"This is truly pathetic." It was the beautiful, imperious woman who spoke, looking at Jeff with disdain. "A single worshiper - and a man at that. This is intolerable."

Despite the fact that he understood every word perfectly, Jeff was filled with a certainty that she wasn't speaking English at all.

'It's a dream - I'm dreaming.' Jeff told himself - but he found, to his confused horror, that he couldn't convince himself of that fact. Despite the dream-like qualities to the situation, the actuality of the matter was that it was too detailed, too... real.

"Come, now, Aphrodite!" The man that was fondling her said, jovially. "The rest of us have no problems having worshipers of either sex. Why are you so hung up on such a small matter?"

"Dionysus is right." The three woman chorused, in one voice. "Would you turn away a worshiper after so many years?"

"I leave men to my brother, Eros." The woman - Aphrodite - snorted. "There are a great many differences in the sex lives of men and woman - even us Gods must share the load of all that work."

The well-endowed man spoke. "Consider his attire and attributes, my dear - if we did not know, we would think him female. Perhaps he wishes to appease you by appearing female for you."

The woman shook her head. "Perhaps, Priapus - but that still isn't enough." She sighed. "Well, if I must have this one as my worshipper, I suppose I shall just have to make the change. After all, he is the first to invoke us in many centuries." She looked at Jeff with reproach. "Still, to have to go from having thousands of worshipers to sharing one with all of you..."

"Let it go - we must all sacrifice in this day. Come, let us give our new worshiper our Mark, Boon and Commandment, then let it free to bring us more."

"Very well." Aphrodite acknowledged the wisdom of Dionysus' words. She rose and approached Jeff, who was unable to do anything at all.

"I grant you this Mark, proclaiming you a worshiper of Aphrodite," She said, touching Jeff's forehead.

Instantly, a thousand sensations assaulted Jeff as things changed. He suddenly felt the movement of air over nylon-clad legs, when the latex forms should have separated his true skin from the nylons. The sensation of his ass sitting on the extra padding changed, and he could now feel the seat through what should have been an inch and a half of foam. Likewise, he could now feel the tight skirt on his very flesh - and the tight feel of the black panties across a smooth crotch and it's womanhood, while the sensation of his imprisoned cock vanished.

At the same instant, his breasts suddenly acquired a new weight and transmitted the sensation of being enclosed in the bra, even as the feel of the wig 'glued' to his scalp altered. In fact, all over his body, things shifted and changed, and nowhere was the intervening sensation of padding or applications.

Jeff wanted to scream as, in that instant, it became all too clear - undeniably so, no matter how much he wished to deny it - that he no longer wore the disguise of a huge-breasted blonde woman, but had, in fact, become one.

"I grant you this boon, Mortal - that you shall have the womanly arts and actions that befit a member of the Sisterhood of Aphrodite." She continued, her words slamming home in the confused, horrified mind of the immobile ex-man. "As such, I give you this Commandment - go forth and use your Boon to acquit yourself as a member of the Sisterhood, desired by men and envied by women."

Then Dionysus stepped forward, taking her place, and placed his hand upon the new woman's head. "I grant you this Mark..." He intoned, and though Jeff couldn't see the effect, she could feel the tingle that marked her lips becoming larger, sexier, more inviting. "...and with it, the Boon that the taste of your lips shall be like the richness of wine, intoxicating to all those who partake. I Command you to share your bounty with the world, to ease the pain and bring forth the joy."

Then it was the Graces turn. As one, they moved from the bed, one taking a position at each of her shoulders while that last stood squarely in front of the horrified, terrified new woman.

"We grant you this mark," The intoned as one, and the last trace of any manliness left in her new form faded as her hands and feet became dainty, and the rest of her feminized body altered to become more than just the sensual femininity left by Aphrodite - it now was also graceful and agile.

"We grant you the boon that your moves shall be as a dance, your dance as if a fantasy, and your presence the herald of enjoyment.

We Command you to share of these with the world."

Then it was Priapus' turn, and he stepped forward with a thoughtful look on his face.

"I don't often have female worshipers." He remarked candidly to the immobile, now-stunning blonde that Jeff had become. "But, unlike dear Aphrodite, I think I can handle the situation."

Then he placed his hand upon her head. "Let this be my Mark, naming you as a worshiper of the God of Virility and Fertility." He intoned, and Jeff felt a disturbingly pleasant sensation run through her new body, emanating in her crotch, chest and mouth.

"For my Boon, I give you this - The sight of you shall arouse, the smell of you entice, and the touch of you produce new-found virility upon any man. I Command you - share this gift, so the world might know my power."

The assembled Gods and Goddesses formed a semi-circle around the transformed Jeff and spoke, their voices in a complex, powerful harmonic chorus that seemed to shake the very foundations of the world.

"We proclaim the no longer a mere Mortal, but by the power of our Boons, an Incarnation. We greet thee, Adara Erotus, Incarnation of Feminine Sensuality. Go forth, and let the world pay homage to that which you represent."

Then, their work done, they began to fade from view, as if a dimmer switch were dimming the light. But the room itself was not that which was darkening, but only the forms of the deities who had 'blessed' their unintended new worshipper. Within moments, they were nothing but shadows that blended in with those that already existed - and then they were gone completely, and Jeff - Adara - could once more move.

However, for the first few seconds of her new existence, the new Incarnation barely moved at all, merely dropping the gaze of her dark, powerfully intelligent twilight-blue eyes to the massive mounds so amply revealed by the top she wore, and the dainty, slender - feminine - hands that she numbly lifted with an unconsciously graceful, seductive motion to touch her huge tits, sending a jolt of pleasure through her massive mounds of sensitive flesh.

Stunned and horrified - among a welter of other emotions - Adara rose from her seat. Another time, it would have been a stiff, mechanical motion. However, that was no longer possible in her new form - Adara's body had been divinely endowed with the ability to move in a graceful, sensual manner, and that's how it moved. At this point, Adara wasn't thinking about how she was moving, but even if she'd tried to force herself to move differently, it wouldn't have done any good. With a gracefully seductive grace, she rose from her seat, feeling her massive, firm tits shift upon her chest as she rose, and the way her spectacular new ass moved as the muscles that formed it flexed sensuously. Rising to the top of the spike-like heels on her shoes, she moved in a helplessly sensual sway towards the mirror in the corner of the room, her long, sexy legs scissoring erotically as her taut, firm ass swiveled in a determinedly feminine way, moving her wide, womanly hips with a gentle rocking motion that cause her panties to slide every so slightly - and ever so 'enjoyably' - over her smooth-shaven new womanhood.

She approached the mirror and stopped when she was able to see as much as the small rectangle of reflective glass could show. What it showed made that male part of Adara's brain drool.

She was absolutely stunning.

No 'Dumb Blonde Bimbo', the face reflected back was intelligent and self-confident, the incredibly full, sensual lips in a small but permanent smile that was seductive, provocative and knowing. Her eyes, framed by long, dark lashes, were equally provocative and knowing, revealing an absolute sense of control and power that the owner of the eyes did not feel. Her face was classically beautiful as well as sexy, and framed by a huge mane of silky golden hair that had gone from the artificial shades of the wig to a rich golden color somewhere between 'Wheat' and 'Brass'.

Her body was as equally stunning, shapely and mildly athletic. Her huge tits were incredibly firm and round, and - incredibly - didn't look out-of-proportion on her body, balanced by her hour-glass figure with it's wide hips and spectacular ass below her slender waist, and by the wider-than-average shoulders above. Her legs - incredibly long and shapely - added a few inches of height to the 'taller than average for a man' height the now non-existent body that Jeff had possessed, making her about 6'7", not including the height her heels lifted her. However, her body was so perfectly proportioned that the height was only noticeable in relation to things around her, not detracting at all from her incredibly feminine physical presence.

In short, she was the most absolutely stunning example of sensual femininity she had ever seen.

Only now was the truth - and the consequences of it - starting to really sink in. She slumped slightly - again, a graceful move - and stared at her unbelievably seductive, provocative new self in the mirror.

"Oh... my... God..." She said - and started at the incredibly rich, seductive contralto it emerged in. She closed her incredible eyes, trying to hold on to the thin edge of sanity she possessed, and even that was a seductive move. It was rapidly becoming clear to the new woman that no matter what she was feeling, no matter what her intentions and emotions were, her physical movements would always appear seductive and provocative, displaying other emotions and intentions, one that she wasn't feeling or eager - even willing - to express.

But she no longer had a say in the matter. "Come back!" Adara cried out. "I don't want this!"

From the departed deities, there was no response, vocal or otherwise. Wanted or not, her new identity - and purpose in life - had been given to her, apparently irrevocably.

At the moment, the thing the new woman wanted to do the most was give into what she thought of as the most feminine urge - to break down and cry, give into the shock, despair and confusion. But, in the same way she was unable to show her emotions by body language or facial expression, so she was unable to bring tears to the piercing eyes in her new face.

Instead, she straightened, and forced her mind to fight through the layers of complex emotions in an attempt to begin thinking in something approaching a logical way.

To that end, she began to focus on herself and her new body, partly to see if she could somehow draw connections with her 'old' body

- despite the fact that she moved easily - gracefully, sensuously - in this new body, it's every movement felt alien and awkward, the weight and balance all wrong, and millions of new and disturbing sensations - including some that were disturbingly comfortable, like the sensitivity of her new endowments, of the way her smooth silk flesh felt, and the way her...

Adara stopped as she realized two things she didn't feel - hungry or tired. She should have felt both, but whatever alterations had been made to her, these were beneficial - she felt 'great', in the physical sense. However, finding anything 'good' about the situation only made her more awkward - being turned from a guy into the most unbelievably sexy woman in the world wasn't supposed to be enjoyable.

In any case, she also found herself thankful that that was the case - if one thing was for sure, it was the fact that she wasn't just going to curl up and go to sleep.

Like most people, especial those in 'civilized' countries, Adara's first thoughts involved getting 'help'. But, in an unbelievable situation like this, where did you go? A doctor? A Psychiatrist? A theologian?

The answer to the question, of course, was: no-one. All telling her story - to anyone - would achieve was getting her locked up in a mental ward, post haste.

Confused and unsure, scared and horrified and a thousand other things, the new woman's first reasoned course of action wasn't truly reasoned at all, but based on a simple thing - she couldn't pace in the tiny room, and she was going nuts. It was like being caged in, when she now had all sorts of nervous energy, without any fatigue to counter-act it.

So, Adara Erotus, nee Jeff Witherspoon, stuffed her little wad of 'getaway cash' into the tiny purse and headed up towards the surface and the night-time streets.

Emerging from the side door of the building, she began to walk down the sidewalk, not traveling anywhere in particular. All she knew was she needed some time to think, and some mindless, meaningless physical activity would facilitate that.

Almost immediately, she became sharply aware of the look a man in a passing car shot her, and only then did it strike home. The man in question didn't see who she had used to be, only a huge-breasted, incredibly sexy woman walking down the street in a sexy, provocative glide that made parts of her anatomy move in highly intriguing ways....

It wasn't a voice in her head. Not exactly - but it was enough to bring Adara up short as the communication from Aphrodite slid into her thoughts. In fact, it would have seemed to be one of her own thoughts, if not for the fact that it was full of a constrained power, and more focused and coherent than her own thoughts.

Adara shuddered as the thought was translated into a coherent concept. Aphrodite was, after all, the Goddess of beauty - and her... well, displeasure wasn't quite the right word. Her 'unappreciation' of the fact that her new worshiper wasn't doing anything on behalf of the Goddess of Beauty was enough that, if left unaltered, would become displeasure.

Even in her circumstance, where she was beginning to think that death might be welcome, Adara knew that angering a Goddess was a bad idea.

After all, there were fates worse than death....

As disquieting as the thought was, there was one benefit to it - she now had an aim, something to do, a 'next step' to take.

Although the activity wasn't one she actually wanted to do, the fact that she had something to draw her on, to focus on, was necessary.

The tough part would be finding what she needed at this time of night. Still, she had to try or else.

Her first step was to head for a drugstore in the area, where she - as Jeff - had purchased things like razors and shaving cream for the bolt-whole. It was still open, and she entered the brightly-lit store, intensely aware of the sudden looks that she was getting from the few male customers, the long, lingering looks, the lustful expressions.

She wasn't even able to display the discomfort she was feeling at the situation, instead seeming completely at ease - even appreciative - of the looks her incredible, massively endowed form generated. With the same sexy stride, she went up and down the aisles, collecting what she needed. The clerk - a young man of about twenty - was eager to help in any way possible, and allowed her to use the employee's bathroom.

When she emerged from the bathroom, she'd undergone a second sort of transformation, albeit of a more mundane sort.

Her hair was now done up in a stylish style that lifted it up off her face into a slight rise over a barrette before spilling back down behind her. Her face was exquisitely made up, highlighting her features to a definite advantage. Unlike the earlier style, this wasn't 'cheap', but very subtle yet seductive.

She swayed sensuously up to the clerk, her lips still locked in the small smile that she didn't feel. The look on the young man's face proved that her work had been effective.

"Thank you." She said, her voice stuck in 'low and seductive'.

She had perhaps a second's warning, as the weight of a God's presence in her mind hit like a weight - and in that instant, her mind considered the command she'd been given, considered the alternative...

Unable to give expression to the grimace she felt, Adara felt she had no choice, and gave into the divine command. Slowly, sensuously, she brought one shapely arm up and draped it over the young man's shoulder, then leaned forward - and a considerable way down - to express her gratitude in a more direct way.

As she shuddered in the depths of her psyche, Adara's soft, sexy lips pressed against the youth's. For a second, he remained stiff, too stunned by the fantasy-come-to-life to respond - but that broke quickly, and he kissed back enthusiastically.

The Boon granted to her was already in effect, and both participants of the kiss felt the effects - the flush, the slight light-headed feeling - and the intense, physical pleasure of the kiss. The youth was really cooperating now, and their tongues were slowly, sensuously dancing around each other - and Adara was disgusted to find herself so wrapped up in the physical pleasure of the kiss that she actually felt a flush of disappointment as she broke it.

"Is there a clothing store nearby that would still be open?" Adara asked, forcing her mind back on track.

"Huh?" Obviously, the same wasn't so easy for the young man. He spoke with a dreamy voice, and from the way his pants bulged, he probably had the most enormous erection he'd ever had. "Oh - yeah, three blocks up and on the right."

With regret, the few other men in the store watched as the mind-blowing woman sensuously glide from the store. The regret, however, was mitigated by the view of the tall, incredibly proportioned woman's perfect ass as she left.

* * * * *

Helplessly using that incredibly graceful, provocative walk, Adara followed the instructions given to her by the store clerk, her mind still trying to cope with the kiss. Not so much with the actual act itself - but by the disturbing fact that she had actually - physically, at least - enjoyed it. That wasn't something she was quite ready to handle, and didn't know if she ever would be.

Reaching the store, she paused at the entrance, looking at the selections in the window. The place was a higher-class boutique, and with a sinking sensation Adara knew that every single thing would be outside her price-range. She wasn't particularly upset that she couldn't by new 'girlie' clothes - but she was upset that the Deities responsible to her fate wouldn't take an excuse.

Turning away from the lit storefront, she continued down the side-street, which was mostly deserted in the pre-dawn gloom. Her glorious new eyes carefully scanned the area, then she took the first alleyway that led to the delivery doors for the row of stores and shops.

Moving carefully through the rather pungent darkness, she let her eyes adapt to what little light there was. Counting off doorways, she soon found herself at what should be the delivery door to a small shop she'd chosen. The storefront had revealed nice-looking clothes that were probably knock-off copies of designer originals, inexpensive jewelry - and no security company logo on the window. After all - who broke in to steal women's clothing?

She did. With one last look around, she slipped her lock-pick set out and quickly bypassed the lock, allowing herself access to the store-room.

Rummaging through the boxes, she soon found an outfit that she'd feel more comfortable in. Struggling with the unfamiliar clasps, she set about putting the outfit on...

...and cursed loudly, and at length, when she realized that there was no way that her chosen ensemble would fit her amazing new body.

With a grimace, Adara set herself to the task of finding clothes that would fit. She really didn't have the luxury of being choosy - she'd simply have to wear whatever she could manage to get on her tall, massively endowed body.

* * * * *

Richard pushed 'end' with more force than necessary, clipping the cell phone to the burlled walnut dash with an angry motion. His handsome face was marred by his disgruntled expression as several choice comments about his just-now-ex girlfriend ran through his mind.

Tapping his fingers on the steering wheel of the Jaguar, his fingers reached for the keys while he debated whether or not he should bother going on to the Leigh-Anne II or not. Sure, the other guys were at loose ends as well, relationship wise, but Richard had been bragging about the 'mystery girl' he was bringing, and the jeers and ribbing he'd get from showing up alone might....

Richard glanced up, his mind working on a good excuse for avoiding the party. Then the tanned blond did an almost classic double take, his jaw slowly dropping downwards.

An absolute goddess was walking down the street in the direction of his car.

Balanced atop black suede pumps with four-inch gold-toned heels, the tall, buxom goddess moved with stunning, supple sexuality.

Incredibly long, shapely, nylon-clad legs scissored back and forth, showing through the slit in her black, crushed-velvet gown with every step. The deep, plunging neckline with a mesh insert revealed an unbelievable amount of cleavage - and quite a bit of her massive, firm tits as well, as the mesh was strained to the absolute limit as it struggled to contain that massive bosom. Her face, a study in feminine sensuality, was exotically beautiful beneath her mane of glorious golden hair. Her every move seemed to be a direct challenge to every man who'd ever lived.

As she reached the front of the Jag and began to pass by, Richard finally snapped out of his lustful daze. Quickly lowering the electrically driven window, he leaned out and raised his voice.

"Excuse me, miss?"

The woman stopped and turned to look at him. Her provocative eyes took him in, and she must have liked what she saw because her full, sensual lips were curled in a slight, seductive smile.

"Yes?"

Her voice made Richard's dick twitch, it was so richly erotic and feminine. "I was just wondering - and forgive me if this seems forward

- but would you care to join me for the evening? Some friends of mine are having a little party on a yacht, and I'm sure that your presence would turn a standard get-together into something altogether wonderful."

The woman opened her incredible, ruby lips to say something - then stopped. For an instant, the glorious blonde goddess almost looked like she was listening to something in the distance...

"Yes, I think I will." She replied. With that incredible, sensual grace, she smoothly glided around to the other side of the car and opened the door. Pushing the seat all the way back to accommodate her tall frame and massive bust-line, she slid into the car. Richard had to fight to avoid losing himself in the mouth-watering view of cleavage and breast-flesh so close at hand.

"Richard Davenport."

The woman smiled slowly, seductively. "Adara."

Smiling, Richard dropped the car into gear and pulled away from the curb...

* * * * *

Adara wanted to grind her perfect new teeth, but was as unable to do so as she was when she'd been forced to leave the shop in this clothing. First the clothing set-back, not 'divine orders' to accept this... this... guy's invitation. She just wanted to scream with frustration.

Or refuse the order - but, so far, she hadn't reached a point where she was willing to tempt the God and Goddess' anger. After all, they'd done this to her when they weren't angry. Imagine what might come from their displeasure...

* * * * *

"Guys..." Richard said, leaning into the door of the main salon, "I'd like you to meet somebody."

The three young men's quick glance up become something completely different as the door slid fully open, and Adara walked in the room.

With awe-struck looks on their faces, the three men slowly rose to their feet as the tall, massively endowed blonde wiggled and swayed into the room, her eyes sweeping over them with seductive interest. Numbly, Bill, Roger and Steve introduced themselves to the woman who was taller than any of the men who surrounded her.

"Pleased to meet you..." She said in her rich voice, and more than one of them was positive there was a definite emphasis on the word 'pleased'.

"Would you like something to drink?" Bill offered. The gorgeous blonde smiled and agreed that that sounded wonderful. Soon they were ensconced in the chairs - not coincidentally, there had been quite a bit of jockeying for the two spots on the couch, one on either side of the towered monument to femininity. Richard and Steve couldn't quite keep the smug smiles from their faces as they settled in beside the massively endowed woman.

Making chit-chat, all four of the men looked for some 'civilized' way to steering the conversation in the direction they wanted, when it suddenly became completely moot...

* * * * *

When the guy with the Italian heritage... Bob...? Bill...? suggested drinks, Adara agreed enthusiastically - a couple of good stiff belts would numb her a bit to what was going on.

As they rambled on, each trying to make himself the center of her attention, Adara gunned down several Rye and Cokes in quick succession, feeling the slightly numbing warmth kick in nicely. As an added bonus, the God of Wine seemed happy with her for the 'tribute' - so she had herself a couple more. As she started to feel a little detached from what was happening, Adara wondered if, as a man, she'd been this transparently obvious when hitting on women> God, these guys were so pathetically obvious it was painful - and disgusting. Her skin crawled at the hints they were blatantly dropping, but - of course, - she was completely unable to express the utter revulsion she was feeling. Thankfully, the booze was kicking in quickly, helping dull the sharp edge of the emotions she couldn't... emote.

Then, just as she finished her eighth 'tribute' to Dionysus, another divine command intruded on her consciousness - and, if possible, she would have shuddered with disgust. For a long second she sat, the sound of the men's voices flowing around her unheard as she considered the command given to her.

Inside the transformed man, a war raged. Part of it was her... 'male ego', the part that had played such a major part in her life before - but one that was, - as much as she hated to admit it - basically 'excess baggage'. What it wanted out of life couldn't ever be.

The second part was her intellect. Itself, it would view things logically - but much of that logic was skewed by emotions, emotions rooted in the past, in her male upbringing - but also tainted by that 'excess baggage'.

Another part was her male vision of a woman such as herself. As a man, he'd had certain views on how women should be, and now that he was one, those views suddenly became stark and unyielding, a wall to batter her male ego against.

The final part of her wasn't, accurately speaking, part of her - it was the whim and will of the deities that had done this hideous thing to her. Now, as she paused, those 'voices' were becoming louder, clamoring for attention - and compliance.

The men, not even aware of the titanic struggle going on behind her sultry facade, continued to natter away as she tried to resolve the dilemma that held her in it's grip. She didn't want to obey the command - but could she - dare she - disobey it...?

Then, because she had taken too long to decide, because her delay was as good as disobedience, the question suddenly became moot....

* * * * *

In some unimaginable 'place' that didn't really 'exist' as mankind would define it, a certain entity - who, to human eyes would have appeared to be a beautiful, imperious looking woman - was in a state of anger that had no human counterpart. Her companions, while in various states of annoyance or displeasure, came nowhere close to the towering rage that engulfed this one.

"How dare she refuse us?" She 'said', eyes burning. "How dare she?"

And, with the unvoiced consent of her companions, the deity 'reached' into the creation they had wrought and made a certain series of 'corrections'.

* * * * *

Space, time and reality ripped apart.

The only person who could tell was the entity once known as Jeff Witherspoon. Deep in the recesses of his... 'soul', for want of a better word - he felt the terrible pressure as the full force of the Goddess' displeasure became action. That action was tearing him apart.

Literally.

The part that was Jeff Witherspoon now became free of all the mental restrictions placed upon it. The 'honor' that had been placed upon him was revoked, and the demi-Godhood was yanked from the part of him that was, fundamentally speaking, him.

But that was only the half of it. Because there was no a second 'person' sharing the fantastically attributed body sitting in the yacht's main Salon. This one also started out as Jeff Witherspoon - but that did not last for very long. Because for this entity, history was being rewritten. Memory unreeled in it's 'mind', and as it did so, each and every second of that past history was edited, altered so that this new entity remembered itself being born, and growing up, as a female. A female named Jessica Witherspoon, who had voluntarily sought out the gods and asked for this boon.

If Jeff/Adara was balking her will because of his masculine past, Aphrodite had decided, then she would simply get rid of that impediment - by creating Jessica/Adara.

And, in the space of a few seconds, a new personality filled that outrageously proportioned body, shoving Jeff into the background.

Still able to feel, see, hear, taste, experience, he no longer had even the slightest semblance of control. Instead, he was trapped, a helpless passenger in a body that was no longer his to command.

And the new owner of this form had no reason to hesitate or disobey. After all, Jessica/Adara was an all-too-willing participant in this, not a victim of an unwanted fate...

* * * * *

For a moment, the world seemed to waver, then it settled back down.

Whoops - a little to much to drink there, dearie, Adara thought with a mental grin to herself. Putting the empty glass down on the table in front of her, she leaned back in the couch and spread her arms, placing one over the shoulders of each of the men beside her.

Crossing her long, shapely new legs in a way to show them off better, she smiled and cut their obvious ploys short.

"So - are we just going to sit around all night talking?" She asked, enjoying the sound of her rich new voice - and the effect it had on the men around her. "I was told that this was going to be a party."

The guys gaped at her for a second, then began to smile. "I'll put some music on..." Bill said, leaping up from the chair.

"Can you put it out on the deck?" Adara asked, rising to her full and imposing height. "So that we can listen to it while we head out?"

"Out?" Roger, the yacht's owner asked, perplexed. "Uh, we weren't really planning to go anywhere. I gave the crew the night off, you see..."

Smiling seductively, Adara ran one hand down Roger's chest. "Can't you gentleman run a yacht?" She asked, lightly licking her full, rich lips. "I'd be awfully disappointed if you can't. Some things I had in mind really deserve the right setting - like a cove in a nice deserted stretch of shoreline, where we don't have to worry about shocking the neighbors..."

Roger held a Master's Certificate. One thing he'd learned was not to run a boat without an experienced crew. And especially not if all the 'crew' had had at least two drinks. And certainly not at night, without telling anyone where they were going.

The boat got underway ten minutes later.

* * * * *

Noooooo! Jeff screamed silently in the prison of his own mind. Trapped, helpless, he had listened to the words his body - Adara's body - had spoken, had watched what was going on...

Now, as the boat headed out along the coastline, looking for a perfect spot, he could feel Richard's body pressed firmly against 'hers' as they sat behind Roger at the helm. He could feel 'her' huge, firm breasts being lightly fondled by the hand draped around 'her' shoulders - and 'she' could feel 'herself' lightly sliding a slender hand across the taut fabric of Richard's crotch.

It didn't take too long to find a sheltered cove that fit their purposes, and Jeff could only watch through Adara's eyes in horror as the men quickly anchored the boat, then returned to where she waited on the back deck, stretching luxuriously - and emphasizing every curve of her tall, supple body under the black dress.

"So... uh..." Steve stammered slightly. "Did you want to dance, or something?"

Adara smiled. "That sounds wonderful." She said, rising. Steve, with a smile, stepped forward...

...and Adara pushed him lightly down into the seat. "Have a seat, gentleman - and watch..." She told the rest.

As they lowered themselves to the weather-proof seats lining the rear deck, Adara went to the sound-systems controls and turned the music up, increasing the bass slightly.

Then, she began to move.

If the guys were expecting a typical strip-tease, they were...

...well, certainly not disappointed - but certainly surprised.

With incredible, supple grace, Adara began to dance, losing herself in the rhythm of the music. Her motions were fluid and graceful - and powerful erotic as every muscle, every sinew of her body worked to display herself to incredible advantage while teasing the sense with her motions. Her hands hovered near her body, then stretched out, then returned to touch ever so lightly at breast, hip and crotch. As her body glided and moved, her legs flashed and stretched, her bountiful bosom heaved, and her mane of golden hair streamed behind her like a cape.

Jeff fought to control his emotions as Adara danced. Disgust warred with the strange pleasure that lanced through 'her' body when she touched herself, driven higher by the arousal she was feeling - and so Jeff had no choice but to feel the same arousal as well.

Desperately, the trapped male mind fought to disconnect itself from the body, to escape the unwanted pleasure that it was receiving - but it was no use.

Then, Adara's dance changed - and Jeff simply wanted to die.

Her full lips curved in a sensual smile, Adara slowed her gyrations. With a sinuous side to side swaying motion in time with the music, she approached the awe-struck men. She passed slowly in front of them, one hand lightly sliding across their legs, and then she turned to Richard.

With the same sinuous sway, and in time to the music, she slowly, teasingly sank down to her knees in front of him. Her hands went to his pants, undoing his fly - then she slowly pushed herself upwards again, leaning herself forward so that her huge, firm breasts slid across his chest. She paused at the apex of her movement long enough to kiss him, passionately, before sliding downwards again, her fingers moving with incredible speed and agility to unbutton his shirt as she moved.

At the bottom of her slow piston-like movement she paused long enough for another kiss - this time applied to the tip of his freed cock, already hard and throbbing.

The men didn't know how she did it, but when she began to rise a second time, her dress went in the opposite direction, puddling around her ankles as her now-bare tits slid across Richard's bare chest. She shuddered in delight as her huge, engorged nipples slid across his skin, and although she claimed a kiss this time, too, she didn't stop rising upwards until her breasts pressed against his face.

She hung there for a few moments, gracefully swaying, while Richard licked her engorged nipples, his hands fondling her massive, sensitive tits.

Jeff didn't know how to feel, what to do - not that there was anything he could do. His male mind was battered by the sheer pleasure of Richard's touch, and disgust was overwhelmed by unwanted pleasure.

Then Adara began to sink downwards again.

This time there would be no upward movement - because her full, soft lips found Richard's hard manhood, encircling his rigid shaft eagerly. With incredible skill, she applied herself to the task of giving him a blow-job.

She'd stopped her slow, sensual sway and now spread her legs and pushed her ass upwards and out, presenting her firm, full ass to Steve, who sat opposite of Richard. Twining her fingers in the underwear she wore, Steve yanked them down, revealing a cunt that was literally dripping, obviously ready and waiting.

He wasted no time rising to his feet and dropping his pants.

In the middle of experiencing a blow-job, Jeff thought he'd reached the pinnacle of horrified disgust as he felt 'her' lips, tongue and hands move in sequence to manipulate the organ that was filling her mouth with its warm length. But that became a mere shadow as he felt another cock enter 'her' cunt from behind.

Just as the pleasure of before became a mere shadow to what he felt now as Adara was penetrated. Waves of pleasure exploded out from her cunt as Steve began to pump into her, his hands coming forward to reach under her and find her massive, firm mounds.

Pleasure rocked the body that both minds shared, one reveling in the sensation, the other one overwhelmed by it. The pleasure only continued to increase, driving coherent thought further and further away as the ecstasy mounted, and her lips and hand were practically on automatic as he lost herself in the pleasure of being fucked.

Then the two men came - as did she.

Jeff was lost in a world of sensation, his mind unable to keep up with what was happening. He felt everything, saw everything, heard everything - but so overwhelming were the sensations that his mind couldn't process the meaning of them as quickly as they occurred.

All he knew was that an intense, mind-blowing orgasm was rocking him even as his taste buds registered a warm, salty fluid streaming past. The body swallowed automatically, taking as much as it could while the mind was occupied with the pleasure screaming through the nerve ending, including that of large, engorged nipples that were now being sucked and fondled by Bill, who lay below her.

Then, finishing, she straightened, and Jeff's mind finally caught up with the events. He'd just been fucked by a man, while giving another man a masterful blow-job.

And it had felt spectacular. Even as he was horrified and disgusted by what had happened, part of him craved that pleasure again.

And again. And again.

It would not be disappointed.

Licking the last of the jism from her lips, Adara turned and smiled at Bill and Roger. "Which one want to tit fuck me?" She slid a hand across one massive breast. "The other will have to wait to give my ass the good, hard fucking I want so bad."

There was no shortage for volunteers.

* * * * *

The sun shone down on the decks of the gently swaying boat as a figure stirred.

Jeff opened his eyes and stared up at the sky, confused. He tried to recall what had happened. Where was he? What was going on? Why did his body feel so strange? Was he still in the body suit...? / Jessica opened her eyes and stared up at the sky, contented. She'd fucked the guys into complete and utter exhaustion, but had only lightly tired out her incredible body. She enjoyed the sensations from her nude body, the sun warming it, the air moving over her bare nipple...

Jeff sat up, feeling the strange sensation increase. He glanced down - and, stunned, slowly raised a hand to touch the impossibilities thrust from his chest - massive, incredibly firm tits with gigantic nipples. Half-dried cum covered the massive globes, and he struggled to understand what his sense were telling him. Then shockingly, memory returned - and he recalled everything... / Jessica sat up, enjoying the shift of her massive bust as gravity took hold. She looked down at them with pride, lightly running a hand over one engorged, cum-covered nipple and recalling last night...

The sex. Every kind, in every combination - and all of it producing mind-blowing, incredible amounts of pleasure. The men, falling under her spell, promising her money and cars and jewels. Fighting to offer her the most pleasure, in and out of bed. Agreeing to introduce her to more men - and women - to fulfill her - and the God's - desires.

Both minds shuddered under the memories. One reveled in them - the other, amazed - did the same. The sheer pleasure, the intense sensations - and the wealth and life that lay before them - overrode the remnants of objections that lay in their path.

In that instant, a split mind recombined, becoming neither Jeff nor Jessica - but Adara, a woman with the memories of both, but a personality all her own.

Looking down at the men surrounding her, Adara began to smile...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After discovering a Genie, one makes a wish that he can change into other shapes, what he doesn't know is that his body changes are triggered by others desires.

Djinn And Tonic

By Gunslinger

"Jeez, Steve - you little booze-hound..."

With a snort of resigned humor, Brian gathered up the empty bottles and carried them over to the recycling bin under the kitchen sink.

The tall, vaguely handsome young man had just finished a hard 'day' at work, working the night-shift at a vinyl siding factory. The schedule he worked was a little odd - three days on days, three days off, then three days on nights before another three days off and the repeat of the cycle. He'd just finished his last night shift, and thought a drink or two was called for.

His roommate, Steve, however, had apparently beat him to it. Brian wasn't sure what he found more annoying - the fact that Steve had finished off the booze, or the fact he'd left the empty bottles in the cupboard, giving the illusion that there was some booze still around. If Brian had seen the empty bottles in the recycling container, he would have picked up some more.

Not that Steve did it out of cruelty or anything - in fact, Steve was one of the nicest guys Brian knew. He was just a little... vague, that was all. Not stupid, by any means - he just didn't seem to think things all the way through. He did and said things without realizing what the end result might be.

If it weren't for the fact that he was almost disgustingly handsome, athletically built and good natured, Steve might have had some problems. As it was, almost anyone who met him was willing to cut him some slack, based on his amiable nature and Adonis-like physique.

Especially the women - which annoyed Brian to no end. Which is why Brian sometimes referred to Steve, only partly in jest, as a 'himbo'

- the male equivalent of a bimbo.

So, being well experienced in living with a somewhat vague 'Surf God', Brian wasn't exactly angry, but he was frustrated.

He really wanted a drink. He'd had his heart set on it ever since mid-shift at work. Now he was faced with a terrible dilemma - as much as he wanted that drink, he really didn't want to go out to the store to buy so more liquid. He'd come home and had a long, hot shower and was dressed only in a tattered plaid bathrobe, and getting dressed and driving somewhere seemed much, much too complicated.

Suddenly, a thought struck him, and he headed to the unused bedroom at the back of the post-war bungalow he and Steve shared. The three-bedroom house had been a great deal - mainly because the previous tenant had simply disappeared one day, leaving behind a house full of useless junk. Rather than go to any real effort, the landlord had simply shoved everything into the smallest bedroom and rented the place out as a 'two bedroom and storage room' - if the new tenants wanted to go to the trouble of sorting through the junk and disposing of it, more power to them.

Brian and Steve hadn't. Now, however, it occurred to Brian - considering what he'd heard about the hippyish, constantly stoned previous tenant - that there might be some booze in the boxes. Cheap booze, to be sure - but it would beat all the effort of going out to buy some.

Flipping on the light in the back room, he looked over the pile of boxes, garbage bags and stacks of cheap books and clothing that filled all the available space, wondering if he might have made a mistake in assuming that this would be easier than going out. Shrugging, he picked a box at random and pulled open the flaps, rummaging through the odds and ends that filled the box.

Not finding what he wanted - or anything of the slightest interest or value - he set the box aside and opened the next one, pushing through cheap Bic disposable razors, half-full packages of incense, a garish plastic bong, some Henrix 8-Traks...

...then stopped dead with a beatific smile on his face. Gingerly - almost reverently - he reached out and picked up the dark bottle and turned it to read the label.

"Dark Horse Gin?" Brian asked the empty room, mouth quirking in a wry smile. "Not exactly Gordons' or Gibney's - but I'll take what I can get."

The bottle appeared to be full right to the bottom of the unusual ceramic stopper - it didn't make a sloshing sound when he shook it, but it was too heavy to be empty. Detouring to the kitchen for a glass and a can of Club Soda from the fridge, he carried his prize into the living room and all-but-collapsed on the comfortable, if worn, Lay-Z-Boy.

Setting the glass and soda down on the table beside the chair, he hefted the bottle again, then set about opening it.

Instead of twist-cap or even a cork, it had a ceramic stopper that was vaguely mushroom-shaped. A hole through the 'head' of the stopper acted as a hinge for a metal 'brace' that was curved down and around, the bottom half clipping around the neck of the bottle.

Bracing the palms of both hands on the side of the bottle itself, Brian placed his thumbs on the half-open reverse side of the 'clip', then pushed forward. The metal bent slightly, allowing it to slide around the neck of the bottle and pop free - allowing the metal 'U' to be used as a handle to pull on the stopper itself, which Brian promptly did.

With a 'screeeech-pop', the stopper came free...

...and a dense smoke began to pour from the neck of the bottle.

"What the fuck...?" Brian exclaimed, instinctively pushing the smoking bottle away. It dropped from his lap and - against all physical laws or odds - managed to land upright on its base.

The smoke continued to billow out - but, oddly, instead of dissipating into the air, it formed a dense column directly over the bottle. As Brian watched, jaw hanging limply, the smoke continued to thicken, way past the point that it could rightfully be called smoke any more.

It was like watching a Polaroid photo develop. The smoke continued to become denser and denser, acquiring solidity, texture and color...

...in the shape of a human being. To be exact, a short, pot-bellied man in a gray suit.

Then the smoke stopped pouring from the bottle, leaving the short, gray-toned man 'hovering' over the neck of the bottle for an instant...

...then he dropped to the ground, stumbling over the bottle and barely managing to keep his footing.

"Oh, dear me - I keep forgetting that the first step is a doozy." The man murmured, apparently to himself, as he brushed fastidiously at a rumpled gray suit that was badly in need of a pressing.

For a long instant, Brian merely stared at the man, dumbly. The man was short and balding, and seemed to be made up of shades of gray, from head to toe. Under the gray suit was flesh that looked pale, if not in an ill way - more the pale skin of somebody who spent all their time indoors.

The man's hair - what little of it there was - was a light gray, and even the eyes under the silver-rimmed spectacles were a smoky gray. Finally, Brian managed to snap partially out of the shocked daze that held him.

"Who... what... how...?"

The man jumped back with a squeak, hand flying to his chest in shock.

"Oh, me oh my!" The man said in a high pitched, faintly British voice. "You did give me a turn for the worse there, Master. I thought the old ticker was going to give out for sure, that time."

"M... Master?" Brian stammered, a light finally dawning through his stunned confusion. "Wait a second... are you trying to tell me that you.. you're a...?"

"Genie?" The man asked with a slight, self-deprecating grin. "Yes, I do fear that I am. Not what you would expect, I'm sure - but not all of us can be the swarthy muscular type, or the gorgeous, scantily clad lass."

Somehow - that's what convinced Brian that this was really happening. If he'd just gone off his noggin, he'd be hallucinating a genie of just that type - but a pot-bellied genie with a weak heart dressed in a cheap suit? Brian's imagination just wouldn't be up to creating something that ludicrous.

"Although..." the man said, pedantically. "The correct term for us, both singular and plural, is 'Djinn' - 'Genie' is a bastardization based on phonetic similarities."

Definitely not a hallucination, Brian decided - he couldn't imagine someone this...

...well, boring.

Brian waved his hands in the air. "Wait, wait - let me see if I understand this." He leaned forward and stared at the little gray man. "You're a genie? Like in the stories? I get to make three wishes, and you have to grant them?"

"Why, yes, Master." The man seemed surprised that Brian even needed to ask. "I haven't been a Djinn for all that long - a hundred years or so, give or take - but everybody knows how it works."

"You're a... new genie?" Brian asked, brow furrowing - then, catching the long-suffering look, corrected himself. "Djinn, I mean?"

"Oh, my - yes." The Djinn said, removing his glasses to polish them with a hanky. "You see, I am - or was - a scholar in mythology at the University of Edinburgh. I managed to track down a Djinn, and was given the standard three wishes. However..." He sighed. "...I made the mistake of wishing I knew everything about being a Djinn - and the only way I could possible know everything..."

"...was to become one." Brian finished, earning another suffering look. "So - you're stuck like this?"

"Oh, no." The man assured him. "Actually, it was the standard Djin 'three by three' routine. After three masters each make three wishes, I am free once again - and you happen to be my third Master. So, as you can understand, I am rather anxious for you to make your wishes. I'm sure the world has changed considerably since my... incarceration in that bottle, and I'm eager to get a new start in life." He sighed. "As best I can, being a hundred years out of date, and with no ready source of money or papers."

Brian couldn't help but feel sorry for the little man - and the words slipped from between his lips almost before he knew he was going to say them.

"I wish that, after you have granted my remaining two wishes, you will have a complete set of identification, a bank account with fifty thousand dollars in it, and impeccable, believable, verifiable references from the University of Edinburgh stating that you have worked there for the past twenty-five years."

"Granted - and, thank you master." The Djinn said, a startled - but pleased - look on his face.

"Glad to help.." Brian replied, absently, as his eyes narrowed and he forced himself to think. Out of pity, he'd let himself 'waste' his first wish - though he guessed that he didn't really mind, and the poor guy needed all the help he could get. Brian wasn't going to lose any sleep over having instinctively used his first wish so unselfishly.

Now - he just had to come up with two more wishes - really good ones.

Now, Brian had read all the same 'Genie' stories that everybody else had, he'd seen the movies, and he knew that you had to be really, really careful when making your wishes - or something would go wrong.

The more Brian thought about it, the more he thought that all he really needed was one wish. One really good wish, that would take care of everything he might want. So, that meant that his other wish could be used to make sure that he was 'safe' from any mistakes or side- effects of his 'real wish'.

Taking a deep breath, Brian made his second wish.

"I wish that nobody but me will be able to notice the effects of any wish that I make, that I will be the only one aware of any changes, while the rest of the world will think that the changes I make have always been that way."

"Granted." The Djinn said, mild surprise showing in his face. Which left...

"I wish..." Brian said, slowly and clearly. "...that for the next twenty-four hours I will have the power to alter reality in any way at all, without being limited in the number of times I can do this during that time period, and that at the end of that time, any changes I have made will remain, unless I had already nullified them by another change, and, in addition, the use - or non-use - of my power cannot be coerced by anyone or anything, nor will my power ever be obvious to anyone, remaining completely inconspicuous while I have it."

"Granted!" The Djinn said, happily. "Witness that our dealings are done, and I am now free of my obligations!"

Brian grinned and stretched in self-satisfaction - he'd really pulled it this time - for the next twenty-four hours, he could make whatever changes he liked to his life, or what he owned, and then it would become permanent.

So... he might as well start putting his power to use.

"I wish..." Brian said, with great satisfaction, "...that I had a cold bottle of beer." Nothing happened.

"What the ?" Brian said, blinking.

The Djinn... ex-Djinn was heading for the door, obviously eager to begin his new life. Now he stopped and turned back to face Brian.

"Oh, my - I'm afraid that I should mention that power doesn't work like that, my boy - I thought you realized what you were doing." Brian slowly rose to his feet. "What do you mean?" he asked, worried. "You mean that nothing at all happened?"

"Oh, no." The little man assured him. "It's just that there's a sort of 'safety catch' built into the universe to keep powerful creatures - such as the Djinn - from using the power for their own benefit. You see, while you might have the power - you cannot 'activate' it. Somebody else must make the wishes, which you will then grant."

"What!" Brian said, outraged and disappointed - this isn't what he'd wanted, not by a long shot.

He sighed. Obviously, it made sense - otherwise less scrupulous people would use this incredible power to make themselves a god. Well, if he couldn't use it, then he'd just ask the ex-Djinn to wish that beer into being...

...only, he couldn't. No matter how much he tried, he couldn't get himself to ask the man to make the wish.

The little gray man obviously knew what was going on, from the look on Brian's face. "You wished that the power couldn't be coerced - and trying to talk me into making wishes for you would qualify, you see."

Oh, that was great! Brian shook his head in frustration.

"However, as you have been so kind to me..." The ex-Djinn said, kindly. "I wish you had a bottle of very fine scotch."

Suddenly, Brian felt a powerful compulsion come over him. He couldn't fight it, as the powerful need drove him to walk away from the gray man and into the kitchen, right up to the cabinet. He opened it...

...and took down a full bottle of scotch, which he carried back into the living room.

"Having it appear in your hands would have been 'conspicuous', and you wished that wouldn't happen." The ex-Djinn explained, patiently. Then, tipping an imaginary hat, he said, "I wish that I owned a small, but nicely furnished, home near a major university, and that I was there now."

With that, the little man turned and walked down the hallway leading to the bedrooms, turned into the spare bedroom...

...and, Brian assumed, vanished off to his new home.

"Dammit!" Brian swore, upset by the mess of his plans. Then, shrugging, he settled into the recliner and poured a glass of scotch. As upsetting as having screwed-up his wishes might have been, he at least managed to get the drink he'd wanted.

Brian was such taking a sip of the scotch (and making a face, Scotch wasn't his favorite drink) when the phone rang. Without thinking, Brian reached out and picked it up.

"Hello?"

"Hi, Honey - how's my little man getting along?"

Closing his eyes, Brian repressed a sigh. "Hi, Mom - I'm fine. How are you?"

"Oh, I'll live." His mother said in that certain, long-suffering tone she had. "I just thought I'd give you a call because I haven't talked to you in awhile - and I thought maybe something had happened to you. I was watching the news this afternoon and saw that there's been a string of break-ins in your area. I thought I would just call and make sure that nothing bad had happened to you."

Brian rolled his eyes - 'in the area' meant that these burglaries had happened somewhere in the same state. His mother was a little overprotective, at times.

"I'm fine, mom - nobody's broken into the house."

His mother used her prerogative to make a wild jump in topics, as if they were directly connected. "Of course not - what self-respecting burglar would want to break into a house and steal second-hand furniture and out-dated appliances?"

"Mom - I know that this place isn't exactly the Ritz, but there's nothing wrong with the house or my belongings." Brian said. "Don't get defensive with me, young man. I just wish you lived in a nice, well furnished house, that's all "

Brian gasped as the a strange rippling sensation seemed to swim through the air...

...then passed through the walls of the house and everything inside of it, causing them to ripple as if they were nothing more than reflections on the surface of a pond.

Then, suddenly, everything snapped back into focus...

...only - everything was different.

Gaping, Brian slowly rose to his feet and stared.

The room he was standing in was easily twice the size it had been a moment before, and probably more. Directly in front of Brian was a theater-width big-screen TV, completely accessorized with a full set of expensive stereo and video components.

The room itself was a different design altogether - the entire house appeared to be a Spanish-style ranch bungalow, with off-white stucco walls, dark, exposed beams along the ceiling, and ornate carving in the trim and lintels.

Brian became aware of his mother's voice still issuing from the phone he held - now an expensive cordless model - and he slowly sank into the expensive Italian-leather chair that had replaced the recliner, listing to his mother complain about how she worried with him living with a house full of such nice stuff, and always having his parties there, where unsavory types could see all the expensive and 'burglar-worthy' things he owned.

Slowly, Brian began to smile as he realized that his mother - his mother - had inadvertently called upon his new-found power - and given him a new and very expensive house, complete with all the extras.

Apparently, more than that had happened, though, Brian thought - from the sound of it, his life-style was a little more flamboyant, now that he had money to be more social. The wish had tried to be as 'inconspicuous' as possible, by making all the details match - obviously, the only way he could afford a house like this was if he was better off, financially, than he had been before the wish.

He could get to like this.

However... his mother, completely unaware, was still babbling - and, Brian was amused to note, now she was complaining that he was too well off. It would have been downright funny - if it wasn't for the fact that his mother had the power to alter his reality with a few words, and - the way she babbled on - she was sure to say something else...

"Look, I'm the last person in the world to say that you're not the nicest, friendliest person I know, and that's not just because you're my son, either." She paused, and Brian winced, knowing that something bad was coming - and he was magically unable to 'coerce' her into not saying it.

Then it came: "It's just that, with all the weirdos out in the world today, I just wish you were a little less outgoing."

This magic wasn't anything visual, so it wasn't nearly as impressive - but Brian knew that it had happened, and winced in emotional pain as he felt a strange, wrenching sensation deep inside. It wasn't a physical sensation, although it was as real and as strong as if it had been. That instant, Brian knew that, now, he would be less outgoing. He could tell, already, that he was more nervous, less sure of himself - and even though he knew that it was magically inherited, and not 'really' him, that didn't make the slightest bit of difference - from now on, he'd always feel more frightened and nervous than he had before, a little less outgoing and a lot less self-assured.

He had to end this conversation before his mom said anything else that might have an unexpected effect. Of all the people who could have the power to alter his universe by their words, his mother probably tied with his worst enemy.

"Mom..?" Brian said - and cursed silently again. Instead of interrupting her firmly, he had said the word hesitantly, and his pulse was racing and his heart fluttering in nervous anxiety. "Mom... I've got something on the stove. I've got to run."

His mother sighed.

"All right, I'll let you go - God knows I understand that young men have more important things to do than talk to their doddering old mothers..."

"Mom, you're not..." Brian tried to reassure her - uselessly. She continued speaking as if he hadn't even tried.

"...and God knows that I wouldn't try to interfere with that social life of yours." She continued, inexorably. "I'm sure that God will forgive me for my 'lapse' if I were simply to wish that you'd call me more often."

Brian sighed. "I will, Mom - I promise."

It was an 'easy' promise to make - since there was a magical power backing it up, whether he'd promised or not. By using that dread word, she'd promised for him.

Then again, Brian thought as he said his good-byes and hung up the phone, that hadn't been so bad after all. The 'calling home more often' was no big deal. Even being forced to be less outgoing wasn't a huge loss, really - and in exchange for these relatively minor concessions, he'd managed to get part of what his original plan for the power had been - a much nicer place to live. Hell, damn near a mini-mansion, from what he could see from where he was.

The logical thing to do, of course, was to familiarize himself with his 'new/old' home.

Rising from the comfort of the new leather chair, Brian began to stroll through the Mission-style bungalow, opening gazing with appreciation at the detail of the decor, of the cost of the understated-but-comfortable furnishings.

From the large living room, he strolled into the spacious 'peasant' style kitchen - though no peasant ever had it so good. Stained red- wood cabinets. Stone flooring. A center island, with a rack of brass-bottomed copper pots above it. Big 'county' style dinette set. Indirect lighting.

The house also boasted a formal dining room, large enough for ten - a big, old-looking table. 14th century Spanish sideboard and china cabinet - or very good replicas.

Next to that - the 'games room', a large, completely interior room that was dimly but adequately lit, with extra lights over the pool table, card table, and wet-bar.

Smiling, Brian grabbed himself a cold beer from the bar fridge, the continued strolling along.

The bungalow now boasted four bedrooms, two of which were obviously guest-rooms. His bedroom was fairly easy to find, even though it now looked completely different - he and Steve had considerably different interests, and he just looked at the surf-board propped up in the corner of the one bedroom to know that it was Steve's, leaving the other non-guest-room as his.

He was just sorting through some of the items in his room, amazed at the stuff 'he' had accumulated over the years, when he heard the front-door slam shut and Steve's voice.

"Honey, I'm home!" Steve shouted in a bad impersonation of Ricky Ricardo - one of his standard ways of coming in. Steve seemed completely unable to enter a room without making some sort of announcement of his presence.

Subtle, he wasn't.

Smiling, Brian headed out to the living room, part of him still feeling - despite what he 'knew' - that Steve would be shocked by the 'change' in the house.

Of course, Steve was completely oblivious, unaware that he'd ever lived differently. However, Brian was exempt from the 'blindness' of everyone else to the effects of the magic...

...so he had to hide an expression of surprise when he saw Steve.

Steve, himself, still looked basically the same, though he was a little more tanned and a little more muscular.

His clothing, however, had changed considerable. Though still causal - almost excessively so - it was of much more fashionable and expensive cut, and the few accessories he wore - watch, single gold chain, the earring in his right ear - were of high-quality, and expensive.

"Hey there, buddy!" Steve said in a boisterous voice, dropping into an armchair.

"Hey, Brian - how's it hanging?" Another voice said - and Brian had to hide another expression of shock at the sight of Mark Gaines coming out of the washroom new the foyer, a smile on his dark face.

"Hi, Mark..." Brian managed - and mentally cursed at his nervousness and awkwardness, even around his 'old' friends.

It felt especially weird feeling so 'shy' around Steve, who he'd known for a long time - but that weirdness was doubled by the obvious new reality that Mark was also a long-time friend. In the 'original' reality that Brian knew, the short, tautly muscled black man was a quasi-enemy, after a fight between him and Steve awhile back, over the damage to Mark's jeep on the beach. He'd always claimed that it had been Steve's fault, and Steve had always refused to pony up the cost of the repair.

Apparently, in this altered reality, the better-off Steve had paid the repair bill, and they'd ended up as friends.

In fact - Brian was almost thankful for his mother's inadvertent wish that he be more shy and retiring. Neither Steve nor Mark seemed to notice anything strange about his startled reactions, assuming that they were his 'normal' nervousness around people. Brian was beginning to see that it would take awhile to get used to just how much the magic was altering reality with each wish.

Hell, Brian realized with a start, he didn't even know where - or if - he worked in this new reality. Obviously, he couldn't still be working at the siding plant, and be able to afford to live here.

"This is just too weird..." Brian whispered to himself, realizing that - among other changes - he should have wished that he 'remembered' both realities after a wish, so he would know what was going on.

Then again - hindsight is always twenty-twenty. Brian decided he'd have to pay close attention and try to pick up clues to his new life, while asking as subtle questions as he could.

Which meant sitting down and 'chumming around' so that he could troll for information.

If only he didn't feel so damned nervous and awkward! He knew it wasn't 'real', in a sense - but the wish had erased any distinction between the two, and he felt those emotions, 'real' or not.

Sighing, Brian settled into an empty chair, feeling nervous and antsy at being around other people - although, thankfully, it wasn't too bad, not to the point where it was a phobia or something.

Steve picked up the remote to the TV, and flipped the big-screen device into life.

"We thought we'd just kick-back for the evening and veg out." Steve said to Brian. "Sound okay to you, roomie?" "Sounds fine." Brian agreed.

"My idea of a perfect end to a day of surfing... almost." Mike said, with a grin. "Though I wish we had a couple of tall, frosty beers and some snacks."

A tingle ran through Brian - and he found himself opening his mouth and saying 'I'll go get some.'

Control of his body stolen from him, Brian jumped up as the other two guys thanked him, and went into the kitchen.

The instant the door to the kitchen swung shut behind him, a tray appeared in his hands, with two large, cold can's of Foster's lager, and a bowl of chips. Turning right around, Brian pushed back through the door and carried the snacks and drinks back out to the guys.

"Wow, that was fast." Mike said, with a grin, while control of his body returned and Brian sat down, cursing his damned power - although it had gotten this house.

Mike, however, was still talking. "Great house, kick-as TV - and fast, efficient service. Man, I tell you - I wish I lived in a place like this." Brian felt the tingle run through him, although nothing seemed to happen.

However, he was pretty sure that if he were to get up and check out the bedrooms again, one of the guest-rooms was now Mike's room.

Brian sighed, with a mental shrug. He guessed that Mike wasn't such a bad guy, and having another roommate sharing the sprawling bungalow wasn't such a big deal.

Hell - there was plenty of room for him. As annoying as being a living 'wish-generator' might be, he couldn't forget that it had given him one major 'plus' for all the little 'minuses' he was having to put up with.

Steve had been flipping through all the channels that the TV - hooked up to a DBS system - could provide. Now, he sighed and shrugged, hitting the 'mute' on the remote. "Geez, this is nuts. Not one damned thing worth watching. I wish that I'd picked up some videos on the way home..."

Brian felt that odd tingle that announced the use of his power, even as Steve continued talking, without missing a beat. "...and they're still in the car. I'll just run out and get them."

Rising from his chair, Steve headed out to get the videos that both he and Mike now remembered stopping to get on their way back. Brian was willing to be that there was also a record of that transaction in the video store's computer - as he'd noted earlier, the power he held seemed determined (thanks to his 'inconspicuous' and 'nobody notices' clauses) to alter whatever it took to make the effects of any given wish as minimal and natural as possible.

When he thought about the thousands of tiny changes and the sheer amount of power used on such a simple wish as having picked up videos, Brian's brain wanted to ache.

"So, Brian..." Mike said, conversationally...

...and Brian felt a flush of extra nervous 'fear' rush through him, as he unconsciously lowered his eyes and drew his bathrobe tighter around his body in shy embarrassment.

'Damn.' Brian thought, with annoyance, finding it difficult - and obviously 'awkward' - to force his eyes to meet Mike's, and smile. "Yeah?"

Mike's eyebrow rose. "Geez, buddy - I'm not gonna bite!" He shook his head. "Two years - we've been living together for two years, almost, and you're still a nervous Nelly. No wonder you made your money from on-line trading..."

'Well, that answers the question of what I do for a living, and how I got the money...' Brian thought, with a sigh. 'I just wish I knew how to trade the way 'I' am supposed to..'

"...when you're too nervous to deal with other people." Mike continued. "I wish that you'd at least be able to open up and be cheerful and outgoing when you're at home."

Brian couldn't help but feel a wave of gratitude at Mike for his inadvertent comment, as he felt the wave of anxiety lift from him, the nervous fear fading away to nothing....

...as he began grinning. In the back of his mind, a small alarm began to sound as he realized that he felt great - happy, relaxed, comfortable, chipper.

To happy, chipper and comfortable for what was going on. Mike's words had swung the magic pendulum of emotions in the other direction. Now, whether or not he 'really' wanted to, he would be 'cheerful and outgoing' while at home with his roommates. Even now, he just couldn't stop himself from grinning brightly.

Not that it felt bad, or anything - but, Brian would have preferred to have 'real' emotions, rather than these magically imposed one.

Needless to say, neither Mike - nor Steve, when he came back in with the movies - noticed anything strange about Brian's sudden 'change'. The both remembered Brian as being shy in public, but surprisingly up-beat, out-going and cheerful at home.

In fact - Brian found he couldn't help himself. As Steve came back from the car, Brian was cheerfully chatting with Mike about insignificant things, with an enthusiasm that bordered on zeal, a big smile on his lips as he spoke quickly and cheerfully, using his hands extensively to help express what he was saying.

Even as he ran off at the mouth, Brian was mildly amused by the buoyant feeling of good cheer that had enveloped him. It might be as magically motivated as the anxiety had been. But it was 'real', in that he really did feel happy and excited, even though there was no 'good reason' for it.

Besides - being cheerful was better than being nervous, wasn't it? Although - it did have a few side-effects that were less than stellar.

"These chips could use some dip..." Was all Mike said, as Steve prepared to put the first movie on...

...and Brian found himself 'cheerfully' volunteering to get some. Unlike earlier, when it was a wish that motivated him, helplessly, to get the chips and beer, now it was the fact that he felt so damned good that moved him to be helpful - and expend some of the energy that had him practically bouncing off the walls. It was 'willful', in a way, a conscious decision - but a decision based on the magically- motivated emotions. The magic gave him all the perky, peppy, perpetually cheerful energy - which is the sole reason that he felt 'constrained' while just sitting there, and would 'eagerly' run the slightest errand.

God knows - the movie wasn't enough to capture his attention and keep him enthralled.

Steve - and, apparently, Mike - was the sort of guy who enjoyed the rather brain-dead movies usually churned out on a low budget for the dubious benefit of a collage-age audience. The particular film they were watching was supposedly a mystery, but the biggest mystery of the film, as far as Brian could figure out, was how the female characters' clothing stayed on. The women were all attractive in that sort of you, fit, not-too-bright way, right down to the supposedly 'plain, brainy' one who - Brian was sure - would eventually whip off her glasses, let down her hair, and turn out to be a real hottie.

Of course, there was quite a few scenes where the women's clothing didn't stay on - which, of course, was the main raison d'être of the film in the first place.

Which brought around the next crisis in Brian's steadily more complicated life....

"Geez " Steve said, watching the film with a boyish smile and nudging Mike in the ribs. "I wish that we could have somebody 'fetch and carry' who had legs like that."

What Steve was referring to was the unavoidable 'French maid' that was de rigueur in any Mystery film - this one a brunette with a severely abbreviated uniform that displayed almost all of her long, spectacular legs.

The problem was right now, their 'fetch and carry' person was Brian. With the wish trying to be as 'unobtrusive' as possible, creating a whole new person to fit that definition would have been more 'obvious' than the other solution.

Brian, just heading into the kitchen with an empty pair of beer cans, almost ignored the comment, it was so typically 'Steve' - except that he felt that tingle again, and his body was taken over by magical motivation to finish carrying him into the kitchen, and out of sight, even as he realized what Steve had said.

"Oh, Steve " Brian said, with amused exasperation, even as his viewpoint shifted upwards an inch or so. Putting down the beer cans, he leaned against the counter and bent over, string down at the long, smooth, sexy - and definitely feminine-looking legs - that not protruded from below the hem of his bathrobe. For a sense of 'completeness', his feet had also become smaller and feminine, to match his legs.

"Steve, you little... look what you've done..." She muttered in good-humor. "Just be glad that I'm unavoidably cheerful now - otherwise, I would kick your ass with the new legs your wish gave me."

It felt really, really weird - Brian knew that he didn't want this to happen, he knew that he hated having these feminine legs 'thrust' upon him, he knew that he would normally be worried, upset and angry - but he just couldn't summon those emotions. Though he knew that this was wrong and that he didn't like it, the intellectual knowledge didn't put a dent in his unbreakable cheerfulness and perky good humor.

The most he could manage, emotion-wise, was a sort of good-natured exasperation and amused wonder of what might happen to him next.

To say that the guys didn't notice the change in Brian would have been untrue - they knew that he had long, sexy legs. They just thought he'd always had long, sexy legs - and they felt free to joke about it, as they 'always did' - when women appeared on screen, they'd judge

- with mock solemnity - the actresses' legs against Brian's shapely new legs, then tease Brian about having sexier legs than the women.

Brian could do nothing except accept the ribbing in good-natured annoyance, even though he knew that he should be scared and disgusted by his altered limbs. He did, however, find out that Steve and Mark now 'remembered' him as having some sort of condition that meant he couldn't grow body hair, and that his legs were just naturally 'shapely' in a way that the condition exaggerated.

Next chance he got, Brian ducked into the bathroom, and found that he was indeed short on body hair. Where most men - or women, for that matter - had reasonably light body hair, he had none. The 'thicker' body hair of the pubic area, the armpits and the eyebrows was still there, but it was finer and thinner.

Brian wished he had the capacity to be as upset about this turn of events as he knew he would be, otherwise - but he just couldn't summon up the emotions required to be truly worried or upset.

Again, the wish had tried to patch things together as 'logically' as possible - this condition of his was one of the reasons he was so shy in public, and he never wore shorts or T-shirts that would reveal his condition. With his friends and roommates, however, he'd gotten used to it, allowing his 'natural perky nature' to show while he was at home.

The magically unassailable good-cheer he felt allowed him to appreciate the comprehensive nature of the wish, trying to make everything fit together logically - but he still was able to wish that this wasn't happening, evening if he wasn't able to tie any strong, negative emotions into that intellectual process.

It more or less guaranteed that, sooner or later, something else would come from the situation that he was in - a guy with legs that looked like spectacularly sexy female legs, in the same room as two emotionally immature guys watching an equally immature movie simply invited problems.

Brian knew it was coming... He knew he should be worried... he knew, intellectually, that this was a bad situation, about to get worse...

...and, not only was he unable to feel truly upset or worried - he knew for a fact, that he couldn't do a damned thing about it. the damned 'safety clause' he'd put on his power meant that no-one - not even him - could 'coerce' anybody into not making a wish. He knew, because he just couldn't bring himself to do anything specifically designed to avoid any future wishes.

God knows - he tried. He tried to leave - but, since he wouldn't have left if he wasn't trying to avoid the use of his now-unwanted power, that would have breached the clause, and he couldn't do it. He couldn't bring himself to ask them to turn off the movie, or do it himself. He couldn't force himself to ask them to make any other wish that might rectify what had already happened...

...and he was completely unable to be anything but perky and cheerful as the inevitable drew steadily closer. He couldn't even contain his own 'cheerful banter' as the movie went on. He'd try - and succeed - for a few minutes, then somebody, real or on-screen, would say or do something that would cause him to make a comment or amusing observation before he could remember that he was trying to keep silent.

That's how it happened. On-screen, the sexy female cop was in a fight with the murderess - and both were wearing high-heels while they 'fought'.

Without thinking, Brian - laughing and not realizing what the consequences would be - said, "Oh, yeah - now this is real talent..."

He laid the sarcasm on so thick that you could have cut it with a knife - and, without looking up from the screen, Steve rather absently defended the cheesy movie.

"Yeah? Well, I wish you had to walk around in high heels all the time and manage to make it look easy."

Even as that tingle occurred, Brian knew that he'd goofed and invited this on himself, and he knew that - if not for the imposed cheerfulness - he should be panicking right now.

Instead, he could only sigh as he glanced down at his feet, now sporting a pair of white-and-pink 'mules' with big fluffy bows on the toes...

...and slender, five-and-a-half inch heels.

Of course, when he rose to go to the bathroom, he managed an easy - even sexy - glide that got the 'usual' cat-calls from the other guys, making it clear that this was something they remembered being common, and worth good-natured, easy joking.

However, making it look easy didn't make it easy - Brian now knew what it felt like for a woman to walk around in high heels. It was as if he had been doing it for years - he could do it without much conscious thought, but could still feel the discomfort, recognize what he was doing and how utterly strange it felt, and be intellectually aware of how mortifying and frightening this whole 'wish' thing was getting, now that it was rapidly getting out of hand.

But, damn it, he couldn't actually be upset about it! He knew he should be, he even wanted it to be - but it was like somebody who was depressed and 'satisfied' to be depressed suddenly coming across something so funny that it made them smile. they might not want to feel happy right then, they might try to fight it - but that smile would surface whether you wanted it to or not, and it would break the bad mood.

The thing was - it happened to Brian constantly, without any 'outside force' providing the 'funny' moment. It was just that, second to second, a wave of cheerfulness would wash away any negative emotions as they started to form, defeating any possibility of him feeling the emotions that he would... should... wanted to be feeling.

He also had a limited ability to alter his plans to fit the changing circumstances - for instance, he would have stayed longer in the bathroom, killing time and avoiding trouble. However, since that would have qualified as an attempt to 'coerce' the non-use of his power, by effectively 'kidnapping' himself, he was completely unable to do so.

Instead, he found himself forced to return (with a sexy little strut atop his high-heels) to the living room as Steve started the second movie - an equally mindless film, this one was a 'college caper' type of movie, with no real attempt at a plot.

Again, it wasn't long at all before somebody said something...

"Jeez, look how tiny her waist is!" Mike commented, regarding a 'cheerleader' on the screen. "I wish I knew somebody whose waist was that small..."

Beneath the bathrobe, Brian felt his waist suddenly constrict inward, reaching a wasp-like diameter that he had no doubt exactly matched that of the girl in the film. The tie on his bathrobe also drew tighter around that reduced waist, emphasizing the tiny diameter.

At the same instant, everybody else's memory of how Brian had always looked changed, and in mid-stream Mike continued with the comment he would have/was making...

"...as yours, Brian." Mike finished.

"Yeah - I'd say we're almost exactly the same size." Brian agreed with just a hint of wry humor in his voice. He surreptitiously ran his hands around his now-tiny waist, sighing with annoyance at the new change in his body - and knowing that the farther down the path that had inadvertently been started by the first wish they went, the more likely it was to draw the next comment...

Then, Brian discovered something... something that added true, honest, un-magically-created hope. The movie was bad. It was really, really bad, so utterly clichéd and hackneyed....

...that he wouldn't have watched it, even if he hadn't had the magic power and the urge to 'run for cover'.

So - he was allowed to leave - and, grateful in a cheerful, perky sort of way, he made his excuses and -high heels tapping against the hardwood floor - fled to the sanctuary of his room...

...which had changed.

Startled, Brian walked around 'his' room. He'd only given it a quick look when he'd first explored the house, sort of browsing through the new, larger room. However, he'd seen enough to know that it was different now than it had been then, with the decor, knickknacks and personal items having changed to fit the new life he apparently led. In short, the room now matched the life of a publicly-shy man who was 'cursed' with a pair of legs that looked like just about the sexiest women's legs anybody had ever seen, and who wore high-heeled shoes whenever he could.

In fact, that was one of the most noticeable changes - his closet was considerably larger, and much of that space was for his shoe collection - which included more than just shoes. There were boots of every description, pumps, sandals, sling-backs, mules - even 'sneakers'.

Not one of the pairs of footwear had a heel less than four inches.

With an amused snort - which would have been something completely different, had Brian been able to feel 'natural' emotions - he picked up a pair of black leather 'ballet' boots, with nine-inch heels and a sloped sole that angled sharply to the small friction-pad at the toe which was the other point-of-balance on the incredible - ridiculously - high-heeled shoe.

"You've got to be kidding!" Brian said, shaking his head. "No way anybody could walk in shoes like this!"

With a queasy fascination, Brian put the odd-looking shoe back into the closet, then looked around and wondered what he should do. Here, alone in his room, he figured he was fairly safe, so he just had to entertain himself until as late as he possibly could, then get a good, long sleep. As best he could tell, his power - 'curse', as he now thought of it - had started about noon or so, as best he could figure. It was now about three o'clock, and, if Mike was anything like Steve, the two of them would finish watching their cheesy movie, thus taking them safely past the dreaded 'daytime television' period, then head back out to the beach for the late afternoon tides, and some 'bitchin' surfing - and babe-cruising.

Which would leave him alone in the house for at least four hours - and, if the guys 'got lucky' and went to the girls' places, maybe longer.

Though he no longer worked at the siding factory in this reality, and had a magically-induced amount of cheerful energy, apparently he had stayed up late last night in this version of life, as well. So... if he stretched staying awake while alone as long as he could, then turned in, he figured he could sleep almost to the end of the twenty-four hours that he'd be cursed with this.

Maybe he'd manage to escape any further changes. Maybe...

...he hoped.

Browsing through the books that lined the two shelves that had come with his 'new' room, Brian picked one and flopped down on the large bed, leaning over and bringing the small-yet-pricey stereo beside the bed to life. There was a CD already in the player, and Brian assumed that it would be one that he would have bought, had he the money - and he was right. After a second's delay, the sound of a woman's smoky, rich voice, singing the opening bars a capella - issued from the high-fidelity surround-sound speakers that were spread around the room. A jazz combo Brian liked, the lead singer was a black woman who had the deep, husky, sensual voice that only black women ever managed to be blessed with.

Leaning back against the headboard and flipping the book open, Brian settled in for what he fervently - yet, cheerfully - hoped would be an uneventful afternoon.

Not having the slightest clue, of course, that he'd made two very basic - and very wrong - assumptions. One of which was about to turn around and bite him.

* * * * *

As the sound of a rich, sensual female voice came from the direction of Brian's room, Mike blinked and looked over at Steve, fooled by the incredible fidelity of the sound-system and the chance happening that the volume was set almost perfectly for what a 'live' performance would be.

"That's not Brian singing, is it?" Mike asked Steve, hesitantly.

'Engrossed' in the movie - or, rather, the trio of scantily-clad beach-bunnies currently on screen - Steve snorted and answered absently. "Yeah, right - I wish Brian did have a voice like that. It's just his stereo, man."

A second later, the rest of the jazz combo came in, verifying Steve's assertion....

...except that neither of them remembered the conversation at all - because, for them, it had never happened.

* * * * *

Brian, just starting the first page of the book, blinked in confusion as he thought he felt that faint tingling sensation that heralded the use of his power.

Of course, he couldn't see anything at all that looked different - and nothing could be different. After all, he was alone in his room, and there was nobody there to make a wish that could affect him.

Shaking his head, Brian went back to reading - blissfully unaware of the fact that he had heard Mike and Steve's conversation through the wall - he just hadn't consciously paid attention to it.

* * * * *

At the sound of the front-door closing, Brian put his book down and shut off the stereo, listening closely. A moment later, the sound of the Jeep starting came weakly to his ears, and he relaxed with the knowledge that he would be alone in the house for a few hours.

Rolling off the bed, Brian sighed as his high-heeled shoes hit the floor, and he rose to his full height - plus the added height from his now longer legs and the heels themselves. He knew that, really, he wanted to take the shoes off and walk around barefoot - but he just couldn't bring himself to do that. he couldn't even make himself feel the annoyance, frustration, anger and disgust he should be feeling over having sexy, feminine legs and feet, all atop high-heeled shoes. He could do nothing at all except walk out of his room with the sexy, graceful sway that was now his stride - at least while in heels.

Heading into the living room, Brian looked around and assured himself that both of them had left. Reassured, he grabbed another beer and collapsed into the comfortable chair, taking the weight off his feet - despite his ease and apparent long-time practice in walking in heels, he wasn't immune to the uncomfortable sensation that it created in his altered calves when he walked - though, with a sigh, he knew that if he couldn't find a way to correct what had been done to him, he'd eventually get as used to the sensation as women who walked in high-heels all the time were.

It should have been a depressing thought - if only he was still capable of feeling depressed.

Picking up the remote, Brian flipped through the channels, looking for something worth watching. Finding something that looked vaguely interesting, he settled back into the chair and let the images on the screen parade past his eyes, only partially interested with the show itself, and tuning out the commercials altogether...

...until he sat bolt upright as a tingle ran through him - and he found himself rising from the chair and heading towards the bathroom, with no choice in the matter.

Even as he walked, Brian felt the decidedly odd sensation of his hair growing longer, fuller, and more silky-soft, spilling down over his shoulders in great waves.

Racking his brain for an explanation of what was happening, it took the sight of the shampoo in the shower as he peeled off his bathrobe and reached in to turn the water on to trigger the realization.

It had been a commercial. A commercial in which the spokes-woman had said - not to an on-screen character, but directly at the TV itself - "I wish you could see how soft and beautiful your hair becomes..."

Which was exactly what he was experiencing.

As he showered - and used the new shampoo - Brian knew that he should be panicking right now, if he was able to. Things were much worse than he'd thought.

Finally, finished with his shower, he had no choice but to return to the living room and plop himself back down in front of the TV - now all-too-aware of what was happening...

...right up until he said to himself, "This could be bad..."

Then he blinked at the sound of the rich, sultry voice that emerged from his throat. The rich, sexy, female voice that emerged from his throat.

"How did that happen?" He asked himself, confused - he couldn't figure out what would cause him to have this female voice, so rich and husky. He didn't realize what had happened - just that he now had a completely different voice, as well as long, silky hair.

Things weren't exactly looking up, and if he could have he would have turned off the TV and retreated to the 'safety' of his room. But that would have been a direct response to what had just occurred, and an obvious attempt to avoid having his power used anymore - a 'no-no' under the 'oh-so-smart' terms of his wish, as he'd defined them.

He was beginning to realize why the Genie stories turned out the way they always did - the smarter you thought you were when making a wish, the more likely you were to screw something up in the details. He now realized that he should have made two wishes, each as painfully simple as they could be, so that there could be no chance of conflict, misunderstandings of mishaps like there had been in this case.

But it was much, much too late for that now - and, although he couldn't feel panic or fear right now, Brian waited for the other shoe to drop as he helplessly watched TV. He was allowed to change channels to find shows he would watch anyway - but he couldn't avoid the fact that, sooner or later, somebody was sure to be addressing the unseen audience beyond the lens when they used that fateful 'W' word...

Sure enough, it came to pass - and there was - by definition - nothing that Brian could possibly do to stop it.

It was exactly the type of show he'd be watching, on a 'normal' day - and one that he definitely didn't want to be watching now, given the effect it was sure - and did - have.

It was one of those 'helpful' type of shows, that did various segments. How to do this in the home, how to cook that type of special desert, that sort of thing. Definitely not his usual fare - except that he was flipping channels and came across it just as the 'fashion' segment started - and the sight of attractive women in attractive clothes made him pause, unwillingly, as he would have willingly done on a normal day.

They were showcasing clothing that was functional, comfortable, and flattering - and the woman who was hosting the segment did the worst thing she could do to Brian, all without knowing it.

She smiled at the camera and said: "Now, I know that most people think clothes that look this good must be uncomfortable, but that isn't true. I wish you, at home, could feel how comfortable this clothing is to wear..."

With that, Brian felt that now-familiar tingling - and his bathrobe writhed and reformed into the exact copy of one of the outfits the models was wearing.

Now, instead of a bathrobe, Brian found himself wearing decidedly feminine garments. Though hidden from sight, he could feel the pair of women's cotton briefs that had replaced his usual underwear. Over those briefs was a skirt. Coming to about mid-thigh, the skirt was made of dark-brown denim with big brass buttons for accent, and had two suspender-style straps that went up over his shoulders. With the skirt was his new top - a medium-dark pinkish-beige color turtle-neck shirt that clung tightly to his torso.

But it was more than that - because he had all the accessories that the model had been wearing, too. Specifically, a slender watch with a dark-brown leather band that rested on his right wrist, a matching leather purse that was now sitting on the table beside the chair...

...and a pair of 'brass' earrings hanging in his now-pierced ears.

The only difference between the outfit he wore and the one the model was wearing was the footwear. Like her, he now wore a pair of knee-high suede boots with brass clasps holding the soft, dark-beige material together. But, unlike the model's boots, these conformed with an earlier wish and had a pair of five-inch heels.

"Oh, great..." Brian muttered, with a helplessly wry grin - and a helpless shrug. "Well... it is comfortable, I have to admit..."

However - he knew that, given a choice, he'd be wearing the most hideously uncomfortable male clothing they made rather than this comfortable - and feminine - ensemble.

Which sparked a thought.

Rising to his feet, Brian hurried into his bedroom - bemused to find that he could even hurry easily and gracefully atop high heels. Inside, he flung open the closet...

..and found it three-quarters-full of women's clothes, all in the same general style as the outfit he had on. However, the closet was actually bulging with clothing, the smaller percentage of it being men's clothing - which made Brian blink.

Looking around the room, Brian noticed several other differences in the room, including a few minor changes in the decor that gave the room a faintly feminine look. One of the new changes was a book resting on the desk in the corner, and going over to it, Brian discovered it was 'his' journal.

Or, rather, Diary - because that's what the golden letters on the cover declaimed it to be.

Picking up the book, Brian started to open it - and found himself helplessly walking back to the living room while he did so. He didn't want to, but he would usually read something like this while in the living room, with the TV providing background noise - so that's what he did.

Settling in the chair, Brian began to read through the diary - with a decidedly odd sensation. Though he hadn't actually written this, the handwriting, the phrasing, everything about it was so perfectly 'his'.

Except for the content.

In this version of reality - Brian was a cross-dresser.

It all tied in to the weird dichotomy created by the past wishes, and his power trying to tie them together. In this reality, the reason he was so shy and nervous in public was because he was 'forced' to act and dress male, while he was happy and chipper at home when he could wear the clothing he 'preferred' to wear - right down to the heels, which, apparently, he enjoyed. In this new version of his life, his legs and lack of body hair was what had gotten him started as a transvestite, and he considered them a blessing rather than a nuisance.

This was definitely getting out-of-hand, Brian thought - even though the wishes of before made sure that the thought was accompanied by an annoyed grin.

"Great - now I'm a cross-dressing on-line investor." He muttered to himself, putting the diary down and mulling over what he was going to do now - and if there was any way he could possibly reverse the progression of wishes that were pushing him steadily - helplessly - deeper into a territory he didn't like.

By the time he finished reading the diary, it was six o'clock - and all that was on TV was news, which - thankfully - allowed Brian to shut it off. Rising from the chair, he returned the diary to his bedroom, then wondered what to do with himself for the next little while.

The answer came about ten minutes later...

...and it definitely wasn't the one he was hoping for. The phone rang.

Brian definitely didn't want to answer it - but, since he would have answered it if this wasn't happening, and no other 'overriding' magical change in his supposed persona and lifestyle would allow him to change his habits, he had to answer. He almost wished it could have been somebody at the door, instead - though, before, he would have answered it, the fact that he was a semi-secret cross-dresser in this new life would have allowed him to avoid answering the door. However, answering the phone didn't depend in the least on how you looked, so he couldn't help himself. He picked up the handset with a cherry "Y'ello?"

"Brian, it's Steve." The familiar voice came over the line, the sound of music coming from the background. "Me and Steve ran into a couple of guys we know who went down to Hawaii for a while to ride the big waves. Just got back, and they're having a nifty little beach party - and, when we got here, we thought we'd have to call and invite you, buddy."

Thank God for his mother's wish that he be less outgoing - he could refuse this one easily...

But Steve wasn't done. "It's a real wild gig, pal - we've got people dressed - and undressed - in the weirdest bits. 'Fact, there's already a couple of guys dressed up in women's clothing - because my buddies are giving free drinks to everybody who dresses or acts weird in some way." Dropping his voice for privacy, Steve pointed out: "You show up in your... comfortable clothes, nobody here'll know that you do that all the time. This is your chance to go in public, buddy."

That was something he'd read in 'his' diary - in this life, Brian was mildly upset that he couldn't work up the nerve to go out in public dressed 'en femme', where he'd be mocked, stared at, made fun of....

So, with this perfect excuse presented at hand - he, quite simple, couldn't refuse. "Give me the address." Brian said, helplessly. "I'll be there in a bit."

He knew for a fact that this was a really, really bad situation for him to be in - he'd be exposing himself to great risk. But that couldn't affect him, with his wish's clause that nothing could coerce the use - or non-use - of his power. He'd put that in, to ensure that nobody could threaten him into not using his power, but it had really been a redundant that he'd thrown in just to make sure that there was no possible loop-holes.

However - the problem was there was no loopholes, and he was the one caught in the snare of the power.

So, though he really didn't want to, he finished jotting down the instruction, then picked up 'his' purse and headed out to the garage, high-heeled suede boots tapping on the floor and the hem of his skirt flipping pertly back and forth from his gracefully feminine stride.

Climbing behind the wheel of the only car in the garage, he was still slightly surprised when the key in 'his' purse slid into the ignition and brought the car roaring to life. Before this whole thing had started he'd owned a rather decrepit-looking Cavalier that was getting on in years.

Despite the knowledge of what his power was capable of doing, it still felt weird to think that this fire-engine-red AC Cobra with white racing stripes was his. With the big-block Ford 427 making the aluminum body vibrate with power, Brian popped the car into gear and felt the neck-snapping acceleration of Shelby's most famous roadster as the nearly thirty-year-old car pulled out of the driveway with a sprint acceleration that few cars built today could equal.

Despite everything that was happening to him, and everything that was probably yet to come, nothing could dim Brian's genuine joy as he drove towards the beach, and the house the party was being held at. The joy differed from the helpless feeling of cheer he'd felt at home - and which had fled as soon as he'd left the property - because both his emotions and his intellect agreed that he was happy right now, instead of him being intellectually confused, upset and afraid while his emotions insisted that he be cheerful and perky.

Even the anxiety that he'd feel shortly was gone, because there was nobody around to trigger the 'shy' set of emotions. For the first time since his mother's comment, he was feeling his own emotions again, and he felt joyful as he threw the car around tight bends as the sun slowly sank towards the Pacific Ocean that was his destination.

The joy didn't last long - as everything began to slowly pile on top of each other, his real emotions finally allowed reign in the few moments of solitude he had before he'd arrive at the party.

It started when he rotated his ankle when he pulled it off the clutch, trying to ease the discomfort that came from working the gears in high-heels. That was enough to bring him out of the momentary 'high', as he realized that he was, indeed, clad in high-heeled boots. Clad in women's clothes from head to foot, actually - and those feet were small, feminine looking things attached to spectacularly feminine-looking legs.

Then there was the wind streaming through his long, chestnut hair - and flicking his earrings around in the slip-stream.

Fear, anger, confusion, disgust - these emotions began to creep in, growing stronger and stronger as he was finally allowed the full impact of what was happening to him....

...then he was pulling to a stop outside of the brightly-lit beach house from which music streamed loudly, and the true emotions were submerged in the anxiety and shy nature that his mother inflicted on him, and he was once more engulfed in the controlled emotions - though this one was 'unhappy' enough that it didn't completely occlude his true emotions, like being cheerful had. Under the enforced anxiety and discomfort was real anxiety and discomfort, as well as fear and anger - but these were all eclipsed by the nervous, awkward, unsure feeling that was his mother's legacy.

However - as strange as it sounded, these enforced feelings were perfect for the 'role' he was playing at the moment. Even as he awkwardly, uncomfortable and hesitantly climbed from the car, he knew he looked the part of a guy dressed up as a woman on a dare or something, uncomfortable and awkward. Even as he headed for the front door, he could see another guy - this one a husky guy with a pot-belly and a goatee - dressed in a summery dress that strained to encompass his unlikely figure, something the dresses designer had never planned it to fit over.

That guy had the same shy, nervous attitude, and the same way of refusing to meet other people's eyes...

...except Brian's. With Brian, he met his eye - and shared a look of commiseration, with a wry grin. "The things we do for free booze, hey?" He said, self-consciously.

Brian laughed, nervously, without saying anything - the last thing he wanted to do was reveal his new, richly feminine voice. Following the cross-dressed biker-wannabe into the house, his 'usually' graceful stride somewhat muted - but not completely erased - by his nervousness.

That nervousness was justified - by more than just because he was in 'public' dressed in women's clothing. Unlike the other half-dozen 'temporary' transvestites, he was in a precarious situation where the wrong comment, said innocently enough, could have dire consequences.

Which, before long, it did.

He didn't see the speaker, and barely heard the voice over the music - in fact, all things considered, it was just the fact that the speaker was inebriated that made him hear it at all, as it was the comment that wouldn't usually be made loud enough for the person being referred to to hear. Nevertheless, Brian had no doubts whatsoever that he was the person the unseen speaker was referring to.

"Only drag-queen here that looks half-good inna dress." The voice said, slightly slurred. "Hell, better legs than half the girls here - I just wish he'd tried a bit harder to find something to fill out the shirt."

That's when Brian found himself helplessly going into the bathroom, after waiting a few minutes for it to be vacant. Ducking inside, he could do absolutely nothing but watch in the mirror as that familiar tingling ran through him.

Slowly, the shirt he was wearing began to bulge outwards. It was subtle, at first - a small rise centered over each nipple, barely noticeable. However, that didn't last for long as the shirt continued to be pressed outwards by the swelling mounds of flesh behind it.

It not only looked weird to see it happen - it felt weird, to. Brian could feel his nipples becoming large and more sensitive, the fabric of the shirt sliding over the sensitizing nubs of flesh as the breasts behind them continued to gain a mass that he could feel from the inside

- a new and disturbing sensation.

In the space of a few minutes, a pair of breasts filled out the shirt, the nipples pressing smaller dents in the fabric atop the smooth curve of the skin-tight fabric over his new endowments.

Swearing under his breath, Brian hesitantly reached up and - through the shirt - cupped the new tits that thrust from his hairless chest. From one point of view, it felt nice to cup his hands around a pair of firm tits that he judged to be a healthy 'C' cup, but the sensation of having hands cup those breasts, from the inside, was...

...pleasant. the fact that it felt good, physically, however, only made the emotional feeling of having tits that much worse.

"Great - now I'm some sort of bi-gender freak." Brian muttered to himself in that rich, feminine voice he was cursed with. Right now, he either wanted to go home or hide out in the bathroom all night - but neither one was a choice at the moment, so he found himself unlocking the door and rejoining the party, painfully aware of the new endowments that he 'boasted'.

Then it came - the dreaded tingle....

Nothing happened.

A long second passed, during which Brian was sure that he was mistaken - either he hadn't felt the tingle or he had, and something must have happened.

Then he spotted her. He might not have, except he was standing just outside the hallway that lead to the bathroom.

She was just one of the girls at the party, dressed in 'beach-sexy' chic, a bikini bathing suit with frayed 'Daisy Duke' jeans over the lower half of the bikini, and a pair of old canvas sneakers.

At least, that's what she'd been wearing when she went into the bathroom. When she came out, she was wearing the same bikini, the same shorts - but now, she was walking out in a pair of white platform shoes with six inch heels.

Nobody else noticed the change, and it was pure chance that Brian did - but he realized what had happened.

Nobody else would notice the change, except him - because somebody had made a wish on him, and the shoes were the result. The girl wasn't carrying a bag, had no way of changing her shoes like that - except that somebody had wished she was wearing high-heels, and the wisher had been close enough that Brian had heard the words, even if he hadn't been paying attention to them.

That told him what he could expect from the evening. Every day, people used that phrase - "I wish " Without thinking, never ever expecting that these 'wishes' would come true, they used the words to express a half-formed desire that was usually nothing more than a spur-of-the-moment comment. Only, right here and now, anybody who was within range of Brian's hearing was going to effect reality, when that simple wish came true.

Brian began to worry very, very seriously at that point... "I wish a guy would try being honest with me for once." Tingle.

"I wish my girlfriend would dress like that..." Tingle.

"I wish I could find a good job..." Tingle.

"I wish the Indians would get a chance at the playoffs this year." BIG tingle.

"I wish you'd go away and leave me alone!"

Tingle

"I wish..."

Tingle. Tingle. TINGLE.

Brian walked through it all, nervous, shy, not talking - and throwing off wishes left and right. By both natural inclination and imposed emotions, he sought out the least crowded areas of the party - but there was already somebody nearby, ready to use those same, careless, harmless words.

Slowly, the nature of the party began to change - and he was the only one that would notice. As girls talked to their girlfriends, as guys talked to their buddies, those words kept coming up again and again, and the effects were spreading - magically unnoticed - through the party.

It had been a pretty typical beach-party when Brian had arrived - loud, fun, and a little out-of-hand, with the added twist of about a third of the party-goers dressed in outlandish clothing to take advantage of the free booze.

Slowly, the clothing women were wearing tended to become more and more 'sexy' and revealing, and their manners tended to be sexier, more accommodating. Several of the girls had noticeably different figures or faces than when they'd arrived, though nobody - not even them - knew it.

Except Brian.

The guys were tending to change, to, though it wasn't always as obvious. Quite a few of the changes were girl's comments about how guys acted, and several of the guys had complete 'face-lifts' to their personalities, becoming attentive, sincere and sensitive.

The changes kept coming - averaging about one every ten minutes or so, with surges and lulls. Then....

"Whoa - that chick's got great legs, but I wish her ass was at least as nice."

That was him - somebody seeing him from behind had made the not-unbelievable mistake, taking him for a girl. From behind, with the great legs, high-heels and long hair, it was an understandable mistake, especially when you added booze-dulled senses to the mix.

Understanding it didn't make it any easier for Brian to except, however. He found himself filled with the sudden desire to take a seat in a deep arm-chair...

...and when he rose a few minutes later, his skirt was pulled taut across the firm, round cheeks of his full, spectacular new ass. That was the turning point for Brian.

There was nothing he could do to stop this from happening - so he decided to just numb himself to it. Going up to the bar, he used a simple method of pointing at what he wanted, and thus set his new plan into motion.

He was going to get roaring, stinking, pass-out-blind drunk.

This time - his plan met with no unforeseen obstacles. It was almost gratifying in and of itself, a sense of stability and order in a suddenly chaotic universe - you consumed alcohol, you felt 'fuzzy'. You consumed more - and you felt even more 'fuzzy'. Cause-and- effect. Basic science and biological processes, ethanol being absorbed into the bloodstream and having a measurable, logical, scientific effect on the human body.

The tingles didn't stop coming - but the more he drank, the less he was able to notice them, the mild sensation lost in the alcoholic haze that was slowly filling the world as he downed drink after drink with a steady, determined pace.

That didn't mean he was drunk enough not to notice when things happened to him, though. Tingle...

Suddenly, Brian found himself moving, heading for the bathroom again. By this time, he was fairly well swozled, so it took him a second to realize why he was walking to the bathroom.

Hell - it took him a second to realize that he was walking to the bathroom, without actually making himself walk to the bathroom.

Once in the privacy of the white-and-blue tiled room, he just stood and waited, the actual words that were causing this having 'zoomed' past him in his state, he had no idea what was about to happen - but it didn't take him long to find out.

He grunted once, softly, in his new voice - as his waist slowly pulled in on itself, becoming slimmer, more... womanly.

Not long after that trip to the bathroom, he found himself opening his purse, and extracting a cigarette. Before that very instant, he'd never smoked in his life - now, he lit one up and took a drag...

...just before somebody came over and asked if he could spare a cigarette. Oddly enough, it was exactly the other person's brand, which was a Canadian cigarette, and not easy to find somebody smoking in a party like this. What were the odds on that one ?

A while later, Brian found himself staring out a window at the darkness beyond, his back to the party...

...so he was the only one who saw his face change, in the faint reflection of the glass. His average-looking face writhed and reshaped itself into a cute, if somewhat understated feminine face. It looked like just the face a shy-but-sweet girl might have, in every detail.

The most outstanding feature of his new face was the eyes - huge, dark, 'doe-eyes', framed by long, dark lashes. The lips were quite full, but that fact was somewhat downplayed by the very pastel lipstick that appeared on them. the nose was slightly large for her face, but looked quite cute, as it wasn't a 'fleshy-large' nose, but one that just rose a bit to far out from the surrounding face, with a slight bump at the bridge, and a fine ridge down the center before the up-turned point of the nose.

"Just great " Brian told his reflection. Now, from an observers point of view, it would be nearly impossible to tell that he was actually male. He looked like a woman, mostly, although his shoulders were broad for a woman and his hips narrow - plus his masculine hands definitely looked out of place. but it wasn't enough to make him stand out as a male in drag....

...which meant that was the end of the free booze, and he hadn't brought a bottle of his own. Then it suddenly dawned on him - with the free-booze no longer an incentive, he could now leave!

Turning, he began to wend his way through the party, long, sexy legs scissoring as he anxiously headed for the door, weaving slightly in a state of mild inebriation...

...when he found himself stopping when a voice nearby said that cursed word, the one he'd so come to hate. "I wish we could find ourselves a smaller, more private little place - with free booze."

Helplessly, unwillingly, cursing mentally, Brian turned and walked over to where three guys were sitting.

"Hi - I couldn't help but overhear what you said." Brian said, nervously, in his richly smooth feminine voice. "I, uh.. thought you might like to... um.. come back to my place. It's pretty big, and quiet - and I have a fully stocked bar."

"Sure, sounds great!" the guy in the middle said with a slightly drunken smile. He was of medium height, with the rangy body of long- distance runner. "I'm Jason, by the way. This..." He gestured to a beefy-looking guy with a crewcut and goatee of a dark shade, "...is Biff, and this...(a tall, slender black man) ...is Marcus."

"Hi, I'm Brian."

Jason blinked. "Excuse me - did you say 'Brian?'?" he asked - after all, Brian now looked feminine, if not stunningly gorgeous. "Yeah." Brian agreed.

Jason shrugged, and started following 'her' towards the door, his friends following behind. "I've never understood some of the names Californian parents gave their kids in the seventies. It must be awful being stuck with a name. I wish you'd have a name that fit you better - like, say, Brianna."

Brian... Brianna winced. He didn't even have to check the ID in his purse to know that his name was now - and, to everybody else, had always been - 'Brianna'.

The newly christened Brianna knew that she was too drunk to drive, as was Jason. So, Biff slid behind the wheel of John's car, while Marcus smiled brilliantly at the sight of the car he was going to be driving.

"Man, oh man - now there's a car." He said, slipping behind the wheel with a kind of loose-jointed awkwardness. Brianna had the feeling that Marcus was the type of guy who only stopped talking when he was asleep - and maybe not even then. "I love these muscles cars. Now this - this is power." He brought the engine roaring to life, and asked for directions as he pulled out of the spot. Obviously, he wanted to open the car up and see what she could do - and was frustrated that he couldn't, as his friends had to follow them.

Brianna wished that Marcus would just shut up. Not only was his unending monologue annoying - it was 'dangerous'.

By the time they finally got to the house, Brianna was looking ruefully at the slender, feminine hands that now graced his equally slender, feminine arms - which, in turn, were connected to slender shoulders. She looked almost utterly female now, a slender, somewhat pale young woman who was cute and shy. The only thing masculine left about her body was the ultimate part of his masculinity, his cock - which, hidden inside his panties and skirt, had never become a topic of conversation, and was safe from change...

...so far. The possibilities that lay ahead frightened him badly.

That in no way interfered with his magical 'need' to lead the three friends into the house, seat them in the living room, and hurried off to grab drinks for them.

He was just turning from the bar to head back to the living room when he heard the front door open and shut, and muffled voices. Hurrying back down the hallway...

...he suddenly wished he paused just a little longer when he heard Biff's comment. "Yeah, well - I wish he was a female roommate, instead."

'Oh - shit!' Ran through Brianna's mind in that instant, and he went cold as the tingle ran through him.

As bad as what was happening to him was, the thought of this affecting Mike or Steve - Steve especially - was worse. And the knowledge that the affected person wouldn't even realize anything had changes didn't make it better - somehow, it made it worse for him, knowing that the person who thought themselves to be... whoever, was really somebody else.

Faking a nervous smile, Brianna handed out the drinks and 'innocently' asked "I heard voices. Did one of my roommates come home?" "Yeah - Michelle did." Marcus said, with a shrug.

Again, a chill ran through Brianna - a chill that intensified as a warmly feminine voice said "Did I hear somebody talking 'bout me?", and 'Michelle' walked out of the hallway into the living room.

The woman that had been Mike still shared some things in common with her male body - but it was obvious that several things had changed to match her new history as always having been female.

She was short - shorter then she'd been as a man, but compared to the average height of a woman, probably the right ratio - and still well-muscled. Her taut, athletically supple body gleamed ebony under the lights of the living room - and there was a lot to gleam, as she wasn't wearing very much clothing.

A skin-tight, pale-pink PVC skirt hugger her womanly hips and came mid-way down her firm thighs, and a matching PVC crop-top encased her small, firm tits. Her shoes were of a style that Brianna had always thought an odd fashion statement - 'sneakers', with inch- high soles and two-inch heels. Her hair was long and curly, and pulled back from her face by a black band around her forehead. Her almost obscenely full lips were covered in a gloss-red lipstick, and those lips were in a bright, cheerful smile.

"You'd better be sayin' nice things 'bout me, Brianna honey." Michelle laughed, moving with a supple-yet-powerful grace to settle onto the couch - not very far at all from Marcus, as a matter of fact.

"Just wondering who came in..." Brianna mumbled, distressed at seeing the woman Mike had become - and the way Michelle was not- so-subtly flirting with Marcus.

"Just me, sweets." Michelle smiled broadly. "How 'bout you grab me a beer?"

"Actually - can you give me a hand rustling up some munchies?" Brianna asked, not wanting to watch the now-female roommate flirt with Marcus. "You can grab a beer out of the fridge at the same time."

Michelle sighed, she smiled a promise at Marcus before joining Brianna as they headed into the kitchen.

As they rustled up some snacks, Brianna hesitantly asked "Do... do you find Marcus... attractive?"

Michelle grinned. "Sure do, honey. He's a tall drink 'a water, sure - but he's cute 'nuff. I figure he'd be fun to have a roll in the hay with, seein' as I struck out at the party at the beach."

Brianna repressed a shudder.

"I just wish..." Michelle continued, and Brianna stiffened at the dread words. "...that Marcus here would be proof of that old fable about how my type of man is endowed, if you know what I mean."

"I have a funny feeling that he will." Brianna said, dully.

"I hope so." Michelle said, with a grin. "Say - these boys don't know that you're a she-male, do they?" "No..." Brianna answered, mouth suddenly - painfully - dry.

Michelle winked. "Well, don't worry - I won't tell. If any of 'em started comin' on to you too much, I'll give you a hand, 'kay?"

"Yeah - thanks." Brianna mumbled as they headed back out to the living room. Surreptitiously, Brianna threw a glance at Marcus' crotch, and wasn't surprised to find a noticeable bulge in his fairly baggy pants.

Brianna was just sitting down - when she went absolutely rigid as Steve walked in from the direction of the garage, obviously having struck out as well. Stopping in surprise at the sight of the three strangers in the living room, he shrugged. "Okay - guess I didn't need to pick up a video to watch after all."

Steve was introduced around, and Jason asked Steve what he'd rented.

"It's kind of a comedy." Steve said, his face flushing slightly - he hadn't expected to defend his taste in movies to strangers. "It's called 'TEXAS T&A, and it's about this university..."

"Oh, one of those movies." Marcus said, rolling his eyes.

"Hey - they can be fun, too!" Michelle slapped Marcus lightly on the chest, and the two of them got into a quiet argument over film genres as Steve went off to grab a drink from the wet-bar.

Then Brianna went ice-cold as the almost inevitable occurred.

Marcus, watching the handsome, bronzed Steve disappear down the hall with a faintly jealous look, turned to Michelle. "He's not Brianna's boyfriend... or anything, is he?"

Michelle giggled. "No, silly. Why - does having a handsome hunk in the house make you feel... inadequate?"

"Hell no!" Marcus denied, vehemently. "Still - I wish all three of you roomies were girls." Brianna winced at the double pulse of tingling that tore through him...

...her. Because she felt her cock withdraw up into her body, making the transformation from male to female complete - she was now fully female, internally and externally.

As scary and horrifying as that was for her - the thought that both Mike and Steve had paid the same price for her mistakes hurt almost as bad.

Absently crossing her legs in the feminine manner - then realizing what she'd just done by the new and unusual sensation it produced - Brianna felt like bursting into tears as she heard the click-clack of the high-heels shoes coming from the hallway Steve had gone down a moment before.

As a woman, she was as stunningly beautiful as she'd been handsome as a man. Her body was tanned and toned and slender, with firm breasts that had to be at least a D-cup. Her long, golden-blond hair framed a cheerful, sexy face, and she was dressed to show off her spectacular body in a white spandex mini-dress and white pumps with six-inch heels.

Walking over to the love seat Biff was seated in, she smiled down at him. "Hey, did either Bree or Mikki show you the pool out back?" Biff blinked. "Nope."

"Well, why don't we go for a swim, then?" She suggested, leaning over the chair so that her body was displayed to the best advantage.

Part of it made sense - as men, both Steve and Mike had 'struck out', and in the revised history, the same thing had happened to both women - so, coming home and finding men waiting was like a gift from heaven.

Biff, of course, jumped at the chance - and Michelle - 'Mikki' to her friends, apparently, just as Brianna was 'Bree' - also thought it was a wonderful idea, and Marcus agreed. From the name Mikki used to reply - 'Stacy' or maybe 'Staci' - Brianna learned Steve's new name in this new version of history.

"Bree?" Stacy/Staci asked, lifting one sculpted eyebrow questioningly. "Uh.. the guys don't have any swimsuits, you know..." Brianna stammered.

The two 'other women' and three guys shared a tolerant look among themselves. "Okay - that's fine." Mikki said, and she, Staci, Biff and Marcus headed out to the pool.

"Um..." Jason said, hesitantly. "If you don't mind, I think I'll just hang here with you, keep you company." "You don't have to." Brianna replied, quickly. "I mean, if you want to go swimming, go right ahead."

Jason smothered a snort of laughter. "Um, you are a little naive, aren't you?" He asked, not unkindly. "I would definitely be a fifth wheel out there."

Brianna knew what he was talking about - but didn't want to admit that the 'new' women had just made a blatantly obvious move of seduction. Although, intellectually, Brianna understood that everyone, including the 'girls', though they'd been female their entire life. to her, however, it was hard to accept - just minutes ago, they'd been guys.

Jason, misinterpreting Brianna's look, felt the need to 'explain'.

"They want to be.. romantic." He said, gently. "They're hoping that " He searched for a diplomatic way of saying it to the 'shy, naive woman' he was talking to - and gave up with a shrug. "Anyway - I just wish they'd get everything they wish for tonight."

'Oh, crap!' Brianna thought - as a strange, pulsing tingling took up residence in her body. She knew that it was the power, holding itself ready to make real whatever the four people outside might wish, even though she wouldn't hear them.

Then:

"I don't mean to be rude..." Jason said, a little hesitantly. "But I wish you were as willing with me as your friends are with my friends."

That was definitely another 'oh crap' thought - but it was much too late to do anything about it. Not that she could have done anything, anyway.

"Actually..." Came, unbidden, from her lips as she blushed brightly. "I am... I'm just not as experienced as they are."

"Oh." Jason said, nonplused. Then, with comprehension. "Oh! Well, then - why don't you come over here and sit on my lap and.. we'll see what happens?"

Whimpering inside, Brianna hesitantly rose and walked over to where Jason sat, and gently lowered herself - awkwardly - to his lap, her pulse racing and her face flushed.

Gently, Jason pressed his lips against hers and she hesitantly responded. Slowly, the kiss deepened, with Jason taking the lead, and she following. Their tongues intertwined as the kiss became more and more passionate, and Brianna was ashamed at her inability to stop what she was doing - and even more ashamed by how good it felt to be kissed by a man, and how her body was responding to his touch, his kiss...

Jason's hand had been slowly inching up her thigh, and was now under her skirt and gliding towards...

She pulled away, and Jason stopped, a startled look on his face. "What?" He asked.

Blushing furiously, Brianna answered - and listened with relief and gratitude at the words emerged from her mouth.

"I.. I, not quite.. ready for anything else yet." She told Jason. "I'm not a virgin - but I've only done it once before, and I... need to take this slowly."

Jason sighed, frustrated - but accepting. "Oh... of course. Sorry." "It's not your fault. "Brianna found herself reassuring him. "It's me..."

"Well then..." Jason said, still holding her on his lap. "Why don't you get us a couple of drinks each, then we'll get... comfortable, and we'll watch the movie?"

"Okay.." Brianna replied, shyly. Running to the bar, she grabbed a large bottle of pre-mixed vodka and orange-juice and a couple of glasses, and carried them back to the living room. turning off the lights, she put the bottle and glasses on the coffee-table...then helplessly found herself snuggling up against Jason. Using the remote, she started the movie running - then reached for the drinks.

As the cheesy movie, heavy into innuendo and risqué scenes, played on the TV, the two of them finished the bottle in record time. Jason drank out of frustration, and Brianna out of a mix of confusion, disgust and fear. Considering that both of them had been mildly squiffed when they'd arrived here, from the party, by the time the movie was half-over, the bottle was empty and both of them were fairly well drunk.

Brianna found herself kissing Jason for no apparent reason, time and again. They'd be watching the movie, then her mind would wander... then, with a start, she'd realize that she was passionately - if drunkenly - kissing Jason, who was kissing back just as eagerly, his hands stroking her thighs, ass, belly and breasts - but carefully not trying to push too far.

She'd break the kiss - though she couldn't seem to bring herself to ask him to stop the (extremely pleasant) caressing - and try to watch some more of the movie. Then her mind would wander... and the whole cycle would start again.

It was during one of these times, when she was trying to pay attention to the movie, that she giggled. "What?" Jason asked, blearily, paying more attention to the warm, supple woman in his lap.

"Her!" Brianna answered, just as fuzzily, pointing at the screen. "Isn't that the most ridiculous thing you've ever seen?"

'That' was the woman on-screen - an obvious bottle-blond woman, pretending to be a 'prim-and-proper' teacher who moonlit as a stripper, and was in the process of trying to keep a group of students from recognizing her.

In real life, there was no way she could succeed like she was in the movie - her tits would have been a dead giveaway. In the illogical premise of such movies, none of the randy boys noticed that the stripper's huge, silicone-inflated tits were the same size as - get this - 'Miz Heftichester', the 'English teacher'.

Jason looked....

"I don't know." He said, "I wish you had a rack like that, actually."

Brianna was suddenly sobered by the realization of what had just happened. Weaving only slightly, she helplessly found herself rising - with an excuse about going to the washroom - and heading for the bathroom.

Her heart pounding, and she fought to stop herself, to find a way out of what was about to happen...

...but there was no way of avoiding it.

Once in the bathroom, she got a few minutes 'reprieve' as she actually did use the can - but it didn't help. Not only was the knowledge of what was about to happen driving her nuts, she had to endure the new sensations of her first time urinating as a woman.

Then, with the suspender-straps of her skirt still hanging down, she stood in front of the mirror and lifted her shirt, watching helplessly as Jason's drunken wish came to pass.

Her already firm tits began to expand, rapidly. She watched in numb horror as they swelled outward, the mass of the swelling boobs getting heavier and heavier on her chest as her tits became more spherical...

...and larger. They quickly passed the size of grapefruit, entering the realm of small melons - about the limit of readily available bras. Like the EEE-cup maternity bras.

They didn't stop there. Now they were into the realm of custom-made bras, her breast the size of Volleyballs...

...basketballs...

...and, finally, the huge, Medicine-ball-sized monster tits - freakishly huge tits - the 'actress' had boasted. If a bra was custom-made to fit them, it would have to be an MMM-cup, and Brianna - with a sinking feeling - guessed she'd find such monster-sized lingerie in her drawer.

More than that, though - these tits were nearly identical to that of the woman in the movie - including the fact that they were obviously the result of surgery. Although Brianna didn't know all the details, she knew that her personal 'history' had been revised, complete with whatever reason 'she had' for getting so unbelievable, freakishly huge implants. Tits this big couldn't be done all at one - 'Brianna', in the past, had consciously gone to a lot of trouble to end up with tits the size of medicine balls, and almost as heavy.

Helplessly, Brianna pulled her shirt back down over her massive, round tits, finding that the shirt was now specially-tailored to accept her massive bust-line - while hugging to them like a second skin.

Helplessly, she turned on the heels of her boots and headed back for the living room. Her walk was somewhat different then it had been before - and her huge, unrestrained tits swayed with every step she took, as if they wanted to remind her of their presence on her chest, two incredibly huge, spherical, pumped-up silicone tits thrust from her slender body.

Re-entering the living-room, she discovered that, somehow, her having 'had' huge tits 'the entire time' had made a difference, somehow

- Jason was no longer drunk, just mildly tipsy, like her.

"hey.." He said, a little awkwardly, as she returned. "I... didn't mean to upset you. It's just that, when you leaned over to get the remote, I thought you were... and I..." He was now blushing brightly. "Anyway... I'm sorry I kissed you like that."

'Huh?' Brianna thought, confused - her having these massive, monster tits had changed it so that she was more shy?

Then she found herself speaking, as she slowly approached Jason. "No, I... I'm not upset..." She said, shyly and almost inaudibly. "In fact, I... I.. like it. A lot."

'Oh, this is just great' she thought with a mental sigh.

"You.. did?" Jason asked, hesitantly.

She found herself nodding. "Jason... I heard Staci tell you how the three of us made the money for this " She waved a hand around at the house. " by her and Mikki stripping, and me investing the money."

"uh - yeah." Jason agreed, slightly confused.

"And.. I bet that made you wonder why, if I was never a dancer, I " She waved a hand at her massive, out-thrust chest.

"Well " Jason said, blushing in agreement.

She found herself taking a deep breath. "I I've always been really shy, and since I'm not as good-looking as Mikki or Staci, guys have never gone to any effort to get past my shyness - except once, and it... wasn't any good. So, I thought if I.. did this.. then maybe some guy would be willing to... try and "

She was blushing furiously now - and, inside, she listened with mounting horror to herself, realizing these massive, gigantic tits were a result of a severe lack of self-confidence. She'd gotten these huge, outrageous tits...

...in the sole hope that it would convince men to seduce her, since she couldn't bring herself to seduce them. Jason caught on just as quickly, slowly rising to his feet. "You mean.. you really want me to.. I mean, want us to..?" She was now blushing brightly, and couldn't speak or meet Jason's eyes...

..but, very hesitantly, she nodded just a little.

It was enough.

Smiling, Jason wrapped his arms around her, and kissed her - passionately.

She kissed him back, hesitating a second - then joining in with just as much 'passion', feeling her huge, round tit pressed firmly against Jason's chest.

Breaking the kiss, Jason took her hand and led her back towards the bedrooms. She followed - hesitantly, shyly, eyes locked on the heels of his feet and her face a bright red...

...but she followed.

Reaching her bedroom, Jason shut the door behind her, then smiled at her. Quickly, efficiently, he stripped out of his clothing while her already bright blush deepened - but she found herself staring with a fascination that frightened her at his average-sized cock, already hard and throbbing.

Then, slowly, sensuously, he undressed her. He took his time, his hands wandering over her body, his lips tracing kissing over her smooth skin. He let her shirt drop to the floor, sliding his hands over her thighs and ass with firm, slow motions, pausing to squeeze her ass as he kissed her jaw.

Then he peeled off her top, and his hands and lips went to her gigantic, round tits.

Helplessly, she moaned softly, her rich, smoky 'singers' voice making the sound incredibly erotic as he fondled and licked her tits and nipples - and the worst part of it was just how much she was enjoying his touch.

Gently, he led her over to the bed and sat her on the edge, undoing the clasps that held on her boots. Pulling them off and dropping them, he caressed slowly up her left leg, while his lips slowly made their way up her right.

They met at the juncture of her smooth, silken thighs - and, gently, he pulled off her panties to reveal a cunt that was already wet and ready, no matter what the 'real' person inside Brianna's body might have wanted.

Then, gently, he began to lick at her cunt - and she moaned again, this time louder and with more feeling as the sensations of pleasure thrummed through her body.

Then he was easing himself onto the bed and rolling over, his hands gently guiding her.

Kneeling on the bed, she found herself straddling him, her hot, wet cunt positioned over his hard, throbbing cock. She hesitated there for along minute, his hands gently kneading her huge tits...

Then, gently, he slid his hands to her waist and pulled lightly downward...

..and she 'surrendered', dropping down and impaling herself on his cock with a scream of pleasure that mirrored the burst of ecstasy as he filled her cunt.

He slid his hands to her hips, and she helplessly took the queues he gave her, using her long, sexy legs to lift herself up- then drop back down. Hesitantly at first, then with more conviction, she began to rise atop his cock, moaning in pleasure as she began to establish a rhythm to give her the most pleasure.

Closing her eyes, she let her head loll as she pounded her cunt up and down the length of his war, fulfilling shaft. Moans and gasps and inarticulate words tumbled from her throat, and her hands found her own tits and began to fondle them, also cutting down on the mildly unpleasant bouncing from her piston-like motion as she bounced up and down, pleasure thrumming through her like she was a live wire and ecstasy the current flowing through her.

Then she turned up the juice, increasing her pace as the pleasure mounted to an inevitable conclusion.

Droplets of sweat ran down her body, rolling over the awesome curve of her breasts and dripping from her engorged nipples as he twiddled and squeezed them. She was screaming now, wordless sounds of ecstasy, as she drove herself up and down on his cock like a woman possessed, the slick, silken interior of her cunt wrapped around Jason's cock and proving the orgasmic friction that was making her body writhe and shake.

Then she came - like a painless explosion of pure pleasure, the orgasm ripped through her body, stealing breath and thought alike as she was filled with utter ecstasy, her cunt sucking hungrily at the load of cum that Jason had to give her.

Then, gasping, she slowed her frantic motions and opened her eyes, riding the orgasmic afterglow down from the heights.

It had felt... spectacular. The power of her first female orgasm frightened Brianna. It would have been better, to her, if she'd just been forced to live as a female and be celibate.

Now.. now, she would be constantly tempted. Tempted to feel this again. Tempted to fuck men.

She didn't know whether she wanted to run, screaming, from the room - or thank Jason profusely for the intense pleasure he'd just given her.

What she wanted to do, however, was completely irrelevant - as she found herself pulling herself off his slowly softening cock. She was moving under the influence of the magic, and she wondered what the hell was going on as she took a towel from the dirty-laundry hamper and wiped herself off, then walked over to the closet.

Her confusion only grew as she got dressed.

Plain white panties. A massive white cotton bra with a front-hook closure. A pair of white thigh-high-socks, with light-pink lacy trim at the top. A plaid pleated skirt that barely made it to the tops of those socks. A white blouse that would have been plain, if it wasn't stretched taut over her massive bust.

And, the final touch, a pair of black 'Mary-Jane' style shoes with a six-inch carved heel.

The confusion she was feeling only grew - as she threw a smile at Jason as she walked to the door and left the room.

Walking through the house, she found herself going into the kitchen...

...and opening a door that hadn't been there before. She found herself descending the staircase that was revealed...

...into a dungeon?

That's what it seemed to be. The new basement was made of stone blocks and carved stone pillars, and various items, chains and whips gave it a decidedly medieval look.

But she could barely spare a look at her surroundings - because her eyes went to the room's occupants.

Handcuffed to a bed was a tall, massively-muscled black man who Brianna could vaguely recognize as Marcus from the facial features. It was hard to look at his face, though - as the eye seemed naturally drawn to the absolutely enormous, thick cock that rose from between his legs, looking like a black battering ram that throbbed in time with the beat of his heart.

However, that sight was matched by the black woman who stood beside the bed.

Her muscular ebony legs were encased in black leather boots with wicked-looking metal heels that were a good seven inches tall - and the boots didn't have platforms. A black leather body-suit enclosed her torso, molded - literally - around each of her firm, triple-D-cup breasts, leaving them completely bare and allowing her surprisingly large, dark nipples to stand proudly unrestrained.

Her muscular arms were bare to her wrists, which were encircled with a dark metal band. However, her head was covered by a black latex mask with opening for her eyes, nostrils and amazingly full lips. The mask rose to a metal-ringed top-knot of hair, which then spilled in a massive, thick mane of curls down her leather-clad back.

And, as the high-cut crotch-line of her suit, a massive black strap-on dildo thrust proudly outward, every bit the equal of the living phallus Marcus sported.

"Mi... Mikki?" A very confused Brianna asked.

The woman smiled briefly, the genuine warmth momentarily destroying her awesomely threatening look.

"Glad you agreed to play, Bree." Mikki whispered - then was once more the silent, brooding figure that was so foreboding. Then Brianna understood.

Jason had wished that the other four people would have their wishes granted - and this was what had happened. Not only had each of them changed...

...but, apparently, either Marcus or Mikki had wished for a threesome in a B&D scenario. With her as the third party.

And she couldn't stop herself from fulfilling that wish.

"Bitch!" Mikki snarled, striding towards Brianna. "Did you really think that you could graduate this college without learning the proper discipline!"

"Please, Mistress Michelle..." Brianna found herself pleading. "I'm doing well in my studies, and..."

"Silence!" Mikki shouted - and Brianna fell silent. "You must learn obedience, bitch. So - I command you to suck that cock!" She gestured at Marcus.

"But...!" Brianna started - and Mikki slapped her.

It wasn't all that hard, but Brianna 'acted' as if she'd been given the full force of Mikki's muscular arm.

Then, Mikki reached out and tore open Brianna's blouse, tearing of the bra underneath and setting her huge, inflated tits free.

"You dare disobey me?" Mikki thundered, grabbing Brianna and pushing her against a column, lifting Brianna's hands over her head and tying them to an 'O' ring in the stone with a length of leather strapping. "You shall learn the price for disobedience at the Academy, bitch!"

Turning, 'Mistress Michelle' picked up something from a table...

...and Brianna screamed in horror - both the forced act, and real emotion - at the threatening looking syringe-like device she held.

"First, we will give you something that can be put to good use, once you are properly trained... slut!" Mikki hissed, stepping forward. She held the device close to Brianna's right tit...

..then shoved the long needle through the center of Brianna's relatively small nipple, while three clamp-like objects tightened around the base of the nipple.

Brianna screamed in sheer agony....

...but it was an act. There was no pain, just a pressure and a mild discomfort.

A second later, Mikki pulled the device away from a sobbing Brianna - and revealed a huge, thick, engorged nipple. She then repeated the procedure - and Brianna repeated the act - leaving Brianna with a matched set of enormous, thick, presently-erect nipples.

"Now... will you obey me ?" Mikki asked, threateningly. "Or will you take the penalty?"

And she held up a pair of large golden nipple-rings and gestured with them at the rack with it's chains and weights, all designed to clip on to rings just like the ones Mikki help.

"I'll obey.." Brianna sobbed.

Mikki released the leather binding. "Then... suck!"

Helplessly, Brianna walked over to the bed where Marcus lay, watching. Keeping her legs straight, Brianna bent over the bed, her huge tits pressing against Marcus' bare legs as her lips drew closer and closer to the throbbing monster of a cock....

...then she screamed as Mikki ripped off her panties and slammed the entire length of the massive dildo deep into her cunt.

The scream of pain was fake - but it could have been a scream of intense pleasure as the massive phallus filled her cunt, intense pleasure thrumming through her.

"Suck!" Mikki commanded.. and Brianna's head lowered and she took as much of Marcus' massive, throbbing cock into her mouth as she could.

As she began to slurp noisily at the massive, warm cock between her lips, hands working feverishly on his shaft, Mikki began to fuck her - hard.

Brianna wanted to scam in shame, disgust - and mind-blowing ecstasy. Instead, she helpless slurped and sucked on Marcus' new cock as Mikki continued to pound into her cunt from behind.

Brianna and Marcus came at the exact same time, the flood of cum gushing down her throat keeping the scream of orgasmic pleasure from emerging as she sucked and swallowed 'eagerly' taking the entire load of jism that Marcus had to give.

Then 'Mistress Michelle' instructed her to 'begone', and she fled, crying....

...to the top of the stair, where her tears stopped.

She cleaned herself up, wiping the overflow of cum from her tits with paper towel - a process that took much longer then it would have if she wasn't constantly playing with her huge and highly sensitive new nipples.

While, inside, she was trying desperately to deal with the conflict between how she felt, emotionally, about being a suddenly extremely sexual active, huge breasted woman - and the physical pleasure that it brought.

Helplessly, she found herself walking back to her bedroom.

"you like ?" She asked Jason, seductively, indicating her new nipples.

Jason proved his enthusiastic answer by spending a good twenty minutes fondling her tits and suckling and licking her new nipples...

which led directly to Brianna's first tit-fuck.

Wiping the cum from her face and hair with a towel, Brianna then found herself padding, still naked, off to the bathroom...

Where she found Staci and Biff waiting for her.

Aside from the massive new cock and soft-ball-sized balls Biff was now sporting, he remained little changed, and Staci was exactly the same as he'd been before - unlike Mikki, Biff must find Staci just perfect the way she was.

However, he did have a fantasy, too - and it involved him sitting in a chair just outside the shower stall as Staci and Brianna stepped inside, and began to fondly and kiss each other under the spray coming from the shower-head.

Only - the stuff coming out of the shower wasn't water. It was semen. Warm, fresh cum, drenching down on the two women as the fondled and kissed each other, hands and mouths and tongues roaming over each other's cum-slicked bodies.

The kissed, passionately - and Brianna didn't know whether to be surprised or not as her tongue grew longer and more supple, as did Staci's. however, it wasn't something to complain about - as each of the girls put their new tongues to good use when their turn came to eat each other out, lapping hungrily at each other's cunt and gulping at the cum that ran down each other's body.

When Biff had finally added a spray of his own cum to the shower, with a moan, Brianna found herself actually reluctant as the scene ended, and the shower reverted to spraying water, allowing them to wash off.

Then, toweling herself dry, she padded back to her bedroom, and a ready and waiting Jason.

With his wish having stated 'all night', fantasy after fantasy, interspersed with 'normal' sex with Jason, was played out, every conceivable mixture of one, two and three girls meeting Biff and Marcus's every whim. It wasn't until dawn brightened the east that the six people where finally able to fall into a deep, dreamless sleep, utterly exhausted.

* * * * *

Dressed in just a bathrobe, Brianna staggered into the kitchen and started the coffee brewing.

As the pot burbled happily, she looked up at the clock with a hopeful eye, and her hands clenched in hope.

It was nearly noon. Any time now, the twenty-four hours would be up, and the curse she unknowingly placed on herself would be lifted.

"Too little, too late." She told herself sadly. She still didn't know how she should feel, with everything that had happened - and she certainly didn't know how to deal with the fact that she found sex as a woman so incredible. More than just the sexual act, this body was more sensitive, with more erogenous zones - despite everything, she'd felt more pleasure and more intense pleasure - in the past twenty four hours than she had in the rest of her twenty-four years of life.

Oh - except that, as far as the world knew, she could only claim twenty-one years of life now, somebody having shaved a couple of years off her age during the night's 'festivities'.

There had been a few more changes to her life-style - and body. Like the fact that her hair was now much longer, and curly. Like the fact that her hands were even smaller and more dainty. Like the fact that she was skilled at her now 'ex-job' as a stripper, just like her roommates.

The pot had finished brewing, and Brianna poured a cup, hoping that this might be the end - even now, her power might be gone, and nothing more would be added to her altered life...

Well, she figured she was about to find out - as she heard Marcus and Mikki coming down the hall, talking.

They looked more or less the way they had last night, except for the fact that Mikki now had startlingly bright-blue eyes, and was taller. "...great as a stripper. It's too bad you gave it up." Marcus was saying as they came in the kitchen. "Hey, Brianna - is that coffee?"

As he grabbed a cup, Mikki gave Brianna a kiss - no simple peck, it was a deep, passionate kiss.

Though no magic now bound her actions, Brianna returned it with passion - Mikki really knew how to kiss. "Anyway," Marcus continued. "You should have kept with it - you're spectacular."

"oh, so dozens of men a night can drool at the sight of me?" Mikki asked, getting her own coffee. "I prefer having one man a night who can do considerably more than drool."

"Hey - you can't tell me that being a stripper didn't get you laid every night." Marcus retorted. "Especially since you enjoy fucking so much."

"Hey, now..!" Mikki replied, an edge of anger in her rising voice as she continued a 'friendly' bicker. "They still at it?" Jason asked as he entered the room, trailed by Staci and Biff.

"Yeah..." Brianna replied, absently, her mind barely noticing what was going on in the kitchen as her attention was focused on the second-hand of the clock. It had to be over, or almost so - it was exactly noon, and there couldn't be more than three minutes, tops - and it was probably already gone.

She was just starting to relax, and wonder how she was going to deal with her new life, when the argument behind her reached a climax, and at the same instant both of the spoke, their respective sentences each starting with... "Yeah, well I wish..."

* * * * *

ONE WEEK LATER...

"Oh, baby... I gotta get a lap-dance from you!"

Brianna smiled at the man waving the money at her. "Sorry, but I've got something I've got to do, first. Ten minutes?" "Sure thing, honey!" The man said, eyes fixed on her huge tits where they strained the front of her negligee.

Smile still on her lips, Brianna continued on her way, swaying seductively in her six-inch heels.

Since Marcus' wish, she'd found a sort of peace within herself, now that a portion of her day was 'pre-decided' for her. With that last wish, Marcus had brought into being the 'Kit-Kat Klub', a strip-club owned and operated by the three roommates....

..who, per Marcus' wish, would spend a minimum of a year being the feature performers before they could retire. Brianna, of course, was the only one who knew that - the other girls thought it was their own decision to spend that first year as the features to ensure the club's success.

Be that as it may, Brianna and the others each did a minimum of two shows a night, plus floor work. This was 'mandatory', and Brianna didn't have a choice - but once she'd gotten over the initial shock, she'd found that she didn't mind it at all - she actually enjoyed being a stripper - and it showed in her work.

The fact that she was rich and getting richer didn't hurt, either.

The rest of her time was her own, with no magic controlling her - aside from the occasional residual 'flare up' from a wish that was still functioning. Mostly, she relaxed alone, reading or watching TV....

..and, if she sometimes found herself going out with a guy, what of it? It wasn't as if she was a slut or a bimbo...

...though she'd already had sex twice in the week since this had happened - and had given one of them a blow-job, as well, after he'd been especially attentive.

The sound of the DJ's amplified voice, Brianna glanced up, and smiled - a trifle wistfully. '*Guys, let's hear it for Black Magic!'

A heavy driving beat began as the duo act strutted out on stage, accompanied by cheering and hooting that almost drowned out the amplified voice.

'That's right - it's twin sisters Michelle and Marcie, ready to whip you into a frenzy!'

Brianna sighed softly as she watched the two of them on the stage, starting their gyrations and mutual fondling. Marcie - once Marcus - was now indistinguishable from Mikki, aside from the fact that her leather Dominatrix outfit was black-on-blue, while Mikki's was blue-on-black.

That was the one thing that bothered her - reminding herself that all the other transformed men were truly happy with their 'new' lives, never realizing that they had ever been anything else. Mikki's wish - 'I wish you guys had to live lives like ours' - had been simple, but 'effective'.

Instinctively, Brianna's eyes flicked over the crowd. She smiled briefly as she passed over Staci, in her highly effective - and highly abbreviated - cheerleader costume, then she spotted Jessica, in the corner giving a guy a lap dance, a huge and sincere smile on her face.

The woman who had once been John was quite the looker. Tall and slender and supple, she moved like a cat in heat, and her moves were enough to turn almost any man on. The fact that she was also amazingly sexy didn't hurt, either, what with her full, pouting lips, dark, smoldering eyes and high, firm breasts. She could give the Pope a hard-on, if she'd wanted to.

No client would believe that Jessica was actually a lesbian who got off on teasing men. In her new history, she lived with a 'bull-dyke' type in a house near the coast, and was a radical feminist. Not a Radical Feminist, the organized group - their views were completely different. Jessica didn't think women working in strip clubs were degraded - she thought that men paying money to stare at a naked woman he couldn't touch was the most incredible, wonderful thing she'd ever heard, and working her gave her the most incredible power-trip - the more aroused she could make the men around her, the more money they would pay her just because she was a woman, the better it felt - hence the big, shit-eating grin.

Then, of course, Brianna's eyes had to seek out Jessica's direct opposite...

...Buffy.

Buffy looked like the stereotypical blonde bimbo brought to life - and the only woman in the club whose bust rivaled Brianna's own. However, those monster melons were on a body that was unlike Brianna in a dozen different ways.

Buffy's legs, while longer, weren't quite as sexy as Brianna's gorgeous pair. However, Buffy had tiny little feet that she loved to cram into the highest heels she could find. In fact, that was one of the drawing points of the club - men coming to see if a woman with a chest as big as Buffy's massive melons could actually dance atop shoes with a two-inch platform - and twelve-inch heels.

She could - very, very well as a matter of fact.

Buffy's ass was almost as good as Brianna's - and it was attached to a wider, more womanly pair of hips that made her incredibly tiny waist seem even smaller. Above that tiny waist her massive tits loomed - and, unlike Brianna's, these huge tits were 'all natural', which meant that, though still amazingly firm and spherical - they had noticeably more 'droop' than Brianna's, and a hell of a lot more movement when she danced.

Her face was pure, mindless sensuality, with full, bow-shaped lips, a tint nose, and huge, bright-blue eyes that looked like they couldn't hold two thoughts at once, all surrounded by a mane of golden curls.

Truth was, Buffy wasn't a bimbo at all, and was quite intelligent - she just like to play the bimbo in public.

It made her hobby - getting fucked ,long and hard - that much easier. Buffy was the first to admit that she was a raging nymphomaniac - she just loved sex, in all it's forms, and the fact that men would buy her anything, do anything she 'stupidly' asked them to do (with a giggle), and give her all the sex she wanted gave her her thrills.

Of course, like Jessica's secret, her clients - both sets of them - would have been shocked if they'd found out what she 'really' did for a living. The club patrons would have been shocked and amazed to discover that their Buffy was the Miss Bennett, whose insightful finical commentary was distributed nation-wide, along with her soaring personal portfolio, which she used to show how investment should be done.

And all her readers would have been shocked to find out the financial genius was a huge-breasted stripper.

So, Buffy used her 'bimbo' routine to keep anybody but her close friends from knowing the whole truth about her life.

The funny thing was - Brianna was one of the ones who wasn't 'supposed' to know. It was simply the fact that her memories were never 'altered' that allowed her to track Buffy's daily - and supposedly secret - trades, and adjust her own rapidly soaring portfolio.

That, more than anything, was perhaps the final reason that Brianna had managed to come to terms with what had happened. Even as she resumed walking, she couldn't help musing - she had a fantastic house, and a job she enjoyed. Steve - now Staci - was still her best friend, and both of them were already 'well off', and heading rapidly towards 'filthy rich'. Sex was better now than it had ever been before

- and, if she wanted, more plentiful, too. So, she'd had to be turned into a huge-breasted stripper to achieve it. though that still 'hit' her sometimes, and still caused her confusion and a few troubled nights, she figured that she was still better off than she had been as Brian. About the only constant thorn in her side was...

Reaching her office, she closed the sound-proof door, dropped into her comfortable chair, and pressed a button. From a hidden speaker, a muffled buzzing sound, followed by a click, emerged.

'Hello?'

"Hi, Mom - It's me..." Brianna said, with a sigh.

A long pause, then. "I'm going to call the police, you know that! God knows, I'll probably rot in hell for all eternity, but I told you when you wanted to get those horrible implants and take up that dirty, dirty job that - if you did - I would disown you until you gave it up and put your body back the way God intended it..."

Shaking her head, Brianna waited until her mother ran out of steam and hung up.

"Call you next week, mom..." She said to the hum of the disconnected line, then pushed the 'kill' switch and headed out to the floor, a smile slowly reclaiming her features.

She had a lap-dance waiting.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Two high school boys decide to use hypnosis and drugs to make tom-boy girl more feminine; however their plan backfires when the tape they send her is listened to by her brother, and she enacts her revenge. CONTEST WINNING STORY!!!

Do Onto Others....

By Gunslinger

Ah - you've been here before, Gentle Reader. I may not be able to put a name to your face - for the moment, at least - but I am sure I have related a tale or two to you before.

Perhaps you'd care for another one? I'm sure I could be persuaded to spin a tale. Merely to help fill the time, of course.

If you're interested, that is.

Please, make yourself comfortable - we might be here for a while. But I assure you, the tale is worth the time. It is more than mere entertainment, a yarn spun to fill the time. In fact, I think you might find this tale edifying, and, like all good tales, it has a deeper meaning, a lesson to be learned.

Ready to begin, oh Gentle Reader? Very well...

There's an old, old rhyme that begins 'For the want of a nail, the shoe was lost.' This particular rhyme comes to a rather morbid close with an entire kingdom toppled, '..and all for the want of a nail', as they say. It's an interesting statement whose lesson is both profound, and obvious. The largest thing can be set in motion with the smallest beginning.

For Brad Detweiller and Jeffery Lawford, that 'nail' was a simple, off-hand comment in the cafeteria.

* * * * *

"You know, she'd be hot - if she was a girl."

Jeffery choked on the 'slider' he was in the middle of swallowing, spraying bits of cheeseburger over the table. Frantically, he reached for his Coke, half-laughing, half-choking.

"God " Jeff said when he was finally able to speak. "Don't do that when I'm eating. I could have choked, you know." The short, dark-haired youth shook his head, and looked at the door Mikki Kelso had just exited, unaware of the amusement she'd inspired. "You're right though. Nice figure, kinda, nice face, again, kinda - but she walks, talks and dresses like ninety percent of the guys on campus. Never any make-up, no skirts or dresses, and that butch hair-cut "

His slender, blonde-haired friend grinned at Jeff through his 'John Lennon' glasses. "Yeah - how much you want to bet she shows up for graduation wearing Army boots under her robe."

The two freshmen shook their heads at the absurdities of campus life. Of course, only half a year into the college experience, they weren't exactly experts - but, like young men all over the world, they thought they knew everything.

In fact, the two youths did know more than most people would expect of two young men like them.

On the standardized IQ tests, they both scored high - Brad rating a 162, Jeff slightly lower with a 161 - making them both certified 'geniuses'.

Not that you'd know it by looking at them. Based on visual appearance, you'd wonder how the hell the two boys managed to get into a Ivy-league college, much less managed to become best friends. The two of them looked and dressed nothing alike.

Brad, a slender, slightly devilish looking youth, was the nineties reincarnation of every hippie at Woodstock. His wardrobe consisted almost solely of faded, almost white jeans, shirts that were either garishly bright or amazingly subdued, and sandals.

He wore a hemp necklace with a cast-pewter marijuana leaf dangling from it, kept his long, sandy blond hair in a long ponytail held by another hemp band, and peered at the world through an area of non-proscription glasses - currently, round, rose-colored glasses covered his eyes, but his collection included the octagonal wire-frames, half-lens 'Granny glasses', and the small, round sunglasses, all of them made famous - or infamous - during the sixties. His ultimate goal in life was to ride across America on a motor-cycle, living life free and unencumbered.

Jeff, on the other hand...

Jeff apparently had never worn denim in his life - or anything other than a pastel color, for that matter. Jef was the ultimate button-downed yuppie, with pastel-colored polo shirts over neatly-creased trousers. His belts and shoes always matched his current attire, and his middle-brown hair was always neat and trimmed. His goal in life was to be successful, wealthy and admired.

But despite the two youth's differing tastes in clothing, music, and life's goals, a stronger bond kept them best friends. As certified geniuses, everyone and everything was boring to them - school was amazingly easy, and the two youth's social life was almost nil - it was a real pain to deal with people who seemed - to them, at least - amazingly dense. They quickly found out, not only were they the only company the other could stand...

Of course, being the two smartest people around, there was also a sort of rivalry between the two youths - a constant contest to see who could do something better than the other. Even though the contest was 'friendly', it was also very intense, each seeking to prove that they, and only they, were the smartest, the best. It could have been enough to break them apart, if it weren't for the odd fact that their biggest source of contention required the other...

They were constantly trying to come up with the 'ultimate' prank.

You needed somebody who could appreciate your genius at pranks. Before they had met, each boy had been a holy terror - although they rarely got caught or blamed for their pranks. Being so much smarter than the average person, they could also cover their tracks well. But there wasn't much fun in pranks that nobody could appreciate - so the two's friendship was perhaps destined to happen, if for no other reason than each boy needed the other for a properly appreciative audience.

Which is probably why Jeff caught the look on Brad's face almost immediately, and began to smile tightly.

"You've got something in mind - what is it? Come on, give." Jeff said, leaning forward.

"Not here.." Brad whispered, which let Jeff know just how juicy this idea was. "Let's get back to our apartment."

Jeff nodded, and the two youths slid from the booth and headed for their off-campus apartment. Thanks to their intellects, each boy had gotten a Scholarship to attend the University - which was important for Brad, but not so much Jeff, who's parents were 'well-off', as he put it, and 'loaded', as Brad put it.

"Okay, the door's locked and the cone of silence had descended." Jeff said as they entered their apartment, using one of their in-jokes. "Now, give with the idea."

Brad flopped on the couch and pulled a Bud from the beer-fridge on the coffee-table. "You remember that rig I hooked up into the CD-burner in your computer. The one we used to make those 'stop smoking' CD's?"

Jeff nodded. "Sure I remember - you must have earned a good three hundred with that subliminal hypnosis recorder."

Brad nodded. "Yeah, well - what if we sent a very 'special' CD to Mikki - one that convinced her that acting like a girl might be a good idea?"

Slowly, Jeff's smile grew to match the wolfish one on Brad's. "I like it." He said, simply - which meant that all his formidable skills would be behind Brad's own on this project.

Which was a very, very scary proposition indeed.

* * * * *

Now, Dear Reader, it may be that you do not know much about the strange, half-scientific/half mystical subject of Hypnosis - and I shall certainly not bore you here with the complete history of this art. However, I will touch upon the single greatest truth of Hypnotism - which, oddly enough, is also the single greatest lie.

It is the most basic fact of hypnosis that you can not hypnotize a person into doing something he - or she - would not do willingly. So, if a certain person, whom I will call 'Mr. X', had a brother, you could not merely hypnotize this person and say 'You will kill your brother'. Unless our fictional Mr. X was pre-disposed to murdering his brother, he would not carry out this command. That is why this is the single greatest truth of hypnotism.

The reason it is the single greatest lie is equally as simple - because you can make Mr. X kill his brother, if you go about it the right way. The first trick is to use hypnosis to determine whom Mr. X would kill. For example, our Mr. X may be of the Jewish persuasion, and have relatives who suffered under the yolk of Nazi Germany. Understandably, Mr. X may have wished that he could change history, killing Hitler before he could rise to power.

Next, using hypnosis, you would convince Mr. X that you have sent him back in time, by 'acting out' a time-machine. Under hypnosis, Mr. X might well believe that he is, indeed, in the past. Then, you convince him that his brother is, in fact, Adolph Hitler, only a few hours away from assuming power. If you were to provide Mr. X with a gun, it is indeed quite possible that he would kill his brother, believing he was ridding the world of a great monster.

Now, suffice it to say that both of our young geniuses were familiar with these facts, and as they set about their little project, they argued at length about what emotional 'triggers' they could use to convince Mikki that she did, indeed, wish to be more feminine. Finally, the two young men reached a compromise, and set about creating the CD containing the hypnotic commands.

It took another day, but at last the innocent appearing Disc was completed, and that night the two of them snuck to the house where their target resided and left the CD in the mail-box before vanishing back to their apartment, rather mischievous grins on their faces.

However, despite their high intelligence, they were far from omniscient, and they did not foresee the events that were about to transpire...

* * * * *

"You sure that you'll do everything on the list, right?" Michelle Kelso admonished gently as she watched the cab pull into the driveway. "I don't want to get back and find every dish in the house dirty and piled in the sink. If I do, you're going to be in some real trouble, Terrence Grant Kelso."

"I've got it, Mikki." Her eighteen year old brother said in exasperation. "Don't worry, everything will be fine..." He paused, then smiled at his older-by-two-years sibling. "You make sure you have fun."

Mikki smiled and hugged her almost painfully thin, pale brother. "I will. And please, Terry - try to drag yourself away from the TV once in a while. You're withering away."

Terry laughed. "Hey, blame yourself, sis - you're the one who ordered satellite TV." The horn of the cab bleated, and Terry followed his sister out the door. Standing on the step, he waved to his sister who, since their parents death, had practically been his mother, too. It was nice to see her taking some time for herself - since she'd rather abruptly become responsible for him two years ago, she'd lost her once-active social life.

Sighing, Terry grabbed the mail and went inside. He sorted through the stack, then stopped when he came to the small, clear-cellophane enclosed CD case.

"Huh... Sis ordered some music?" Terry mused, looking at the CD. It seemed to be some sort of 'relaxation' music, judging from the insert.

Shrugging, Terry unwrapped the CD. Mikki and he shared everything, and neither worried about opening each other's mail, or borrowing things.

Popping the CD into the stereo, Terry let it run, the gently, rolling strains of the soft chamber music filling the house as he set about tidying up around the house.

About two hours later, Terry was cleaning up in the living room when the phone rang. Since he was, by nature, somewhat of a loner, the chances were it wasn't for him. So, he merely cocked an ear and listened as the answering machine clicked on.

"Hi, John - this is Steve " an unfamiliar male voice said. "I'm calling about that play you wrote - you know, 'Being Harry'?" Then there was a brief pause. "Being Harry is awful. Being Harry is annoying. It's irritating. Being Harry is the worst thing in the world, and you should do something about it immediately." Then the machine clicked off.

Terry shrugged - obviously, a wrong number. He had no idea what that whole thing had been about.

Twenty minutes later, Terry was wondering if there was something wrong with him. His entire body seemed to be crawling and he had to force himself not to scratch his skin right off. It felt like every square inch of his body was itching like mad.

Finally, desperate for some release, Terry went upstairs and ran a tub of warm water, planning to see if soaking would help. He was waiting for the tub to fill when he caught sight of a razor on the edge of the sink. Then, it sank in, so obvious that he should have seen it before. It was his hair that was making him so itchy!

It took two and a half hours and a dozen razors, but when Terry emerged from the tub, it was with a satisfied sigh. Every square inch of his body from the eyebrows down was now completely smooth and hairless - and that terrible, annoying itching was gone.

Feeling great, Terry began whistling a tune as he went back to his cleaning, enjoying the flow of air over his denuded skin, and wondering how he could have lived so long with so much body hair all over him...

About twenty minutes later, Terry was in the middle of cleaning the kitchen. He'd had to turn the stereo up, to be able to hear the music clearly - it was just so relaxing and enjoyable, he'd put it on 'repeat' so that it'd just keep looping. He'd looked on the package for a return address - he'd wanted to order his own copy - and he'd been mildly annoyed not to find one. He'd just have to wait until Mikki got home, and find out where she ordered it from.

He was just drying the dishes when the phone rang. Again, Terry cocked an ear, listening as the machine picked up.

"Hey, Caryn, it's Steve - I just got back from the mall, and I saw something you have to buy. They're a pair of high-heeled shoes. I know you don't usually wear heels - but just think how great they would feel, encasing your feet. How nice it would be to get a couple of inches of extra height. And they'll do wonders for your balance and co-ordination. Once you're able to walk gracefully in heels, you know that you're not clumsy or awkward. You really, really should wear heels - you'll enjoy the feeling of control and agility. You really, really will. 'Bye."

Terry shook his head - another wrong number. People these days just didn't pay attention to what they were doing.

Ten minutes later, he was putting away the dishes, and found himself constantly annoyed by having to go on tip-toe to place the glasses on the top shelf. He'd done this job hundreds of times, yet he'd never really noticed just how damned annoying those extra two inches could be.

Then a thought occurred to him. Leaving the glasses on the counter, he went up to the attic, and soon located what he was looking for - a box of clothes from his sister's younger days. Lugging the box down to the living room, he opened it up, and sorted through until he found what he was looking for - Mikki's old 'formal' shoes, black suede pumps with a two inch heel. He tried them on and found that they fit tolerably well. Awkwardly, he wobbled and swayed back into the kitchen, and discovered that he was right - it was much, much easier to put the dishes away with the extra height of the heels.

It was awkward walking in them, but Terry figured he could learn how if he wore them constantly for the next little while - besides, the extra height would be useful in all sorts of situations. He should have thought of this ages ago - it was so blindingly simple.

Finishing the dishes, Terry teetered out to the dining room to begin dusting. Already, the heels were proving themselves invaluable - the extra height let him see the spots he'd always missed before because he was too short to see them.

Humming happily, Terry went about his cleaning, only half-listening as the machine once more picked up.

"Hi, this is Carlos. I noticed you haven't been looking all that well recently, and a friend of mine had a great suggestion. A little make-up would cover the little flaws and signs "

* * * * *

And so, all unawares, our 'heroes' continued making their 'wrong number' phone calls, believing that they were triggering changes in Mikki, and completely unawares that Mikki had a brother, much less that he was the one on the receiving end of the programming. Over the course of the weekend, the two young men made numerous calls with the triggers, under many a different guise. Messages from 'the hairdresser', confirming an appointment to get 'a very feminine style' that 'will make you feel happy and energetic. From the 'Goodwill', asking for old clothing 'but not the real feminine clothing - that should be saved so that you can wear it and feel it's soft, comforting texture next to your skin'.

From 'friends', 'professionals', and all sorts of other pretexts, these calls each set to trigger a certain phase of Mikki's transformation, an being 'intercepted' by a thoroughly programmed Terry.

But even Brad and Jeff had no idea just how powerful, how overwhelming - how utterly complete - their programming had been...

* * * * *

Terry signed for the package with glee. The delivery man, eyeing the young, short-haired, flat-chested girl came to the silent conclusion that she was probably a lesbo - she was too thin, too flat-chested, and her hair was too butch to be much else, besides the frilly dress she wore, complete with nylons and two-inch pumps. Still, you never knew - look at what he was delivering to her.

Mentally shaking his head, the driver helped bring the three large boxes from Frederick's of Hollywood into the living room, and set them down. He politely nodded to the young woman - then decided to indulge himself. "These for you, Miss - or a present for a friend?" He asked, trying to sound like he was just making polite conversation as they headed for the door.

"Oh - they're for me." The young woman replied in a husky sort of voice. "It's about time I treated myself right - even if I am the only one who gets to appreciate the look..." She sighed, almost wistfully, and that decided the delivery driver. She wasn't a lesbo - just didn't have that great of a figure, and was understandably depressed.

The driver smiled sympathetically. "Miss, I think you'll look wonderful in this stuff." He said, trying to boost her ego. Tipping his cap, he climbed into his van and pulled away.

Terry was ecstatic. He couldn't believe it had taken him so long to realize the root of his problem. He wasn't athletically inclined, he wasn't muscular, he wasn't a charmer - he'd been a flop as a guy, and that had been so depressing. But now - he'd just successfully passed as a woman - and gotten a complement, something he'd never gotten while being masculine. Yes, this was a wonderful idea.

And it was only going to get better.

Quickly, Terry stripped down, frowning as he surveyed his nude body. He was slender, and now hairless, which was good - but he wasn't female. The cock, he kept hidden in the panties by tucking it under, which was good. But still, he looked like a boyish girl - and that wasn't good enough. Well, until he could do something more permanent, the short-term solution was in these boxes. Eagerly, Terry opened them, and had to decide where to start.

Eagerly, he pulled out the breast forms. Called 'Silicone enhancers' in the catalogue, they'd been expensive, - in fact, everything had been expensive. Thank God he'd inherited not only quite a bit of cash, but he'd been able to get a credit card with a high limit. As it was, he'd almost maxed it out.

Still, it was well worth it.

For a few seconds, he just held 'breasts' in his hand, marveling at how real the weight and texture was, as was the color. Of course, they weren't perfect - he wouldn't be able to show 'cleavage' with these - but they were good enough until he could get implants done.

Regretfully, he put these aside for the moment to do things in necessary order. His first step was the 4-pad nylon/spandex girdle. It was 'nude' in color, and had padding in the hips and ass, which was precisely what he wanted to help fill out his figure. As an added bonus, it helped hide his cock, when he tucked it between his legs before settling the garment firmly in place.

Next came a pair of special 'nude' pantyhose. Instead of regular nylon, these were a form of spandex, nearly opaque and coming up to the waist. Designed to hide veins and other imperfections, they were a struggle to get on, but when he finally managed to do so, and smooth out the wrinkles, the look was amazing - aside from the lace trim around the waist, it looked like Terry was a nude neuter. The semi-gloss finish of the garment and the precise coloration completely blended in with his skin, and also hid the padded girdle, making it look like it was his own body that was curved that way. Aside from the lack of anything at his crotch, it was a wonderfully feminine look, from the waist down.

The next step helped solve the problems with it. A white leather corset with lacy, built in bra cups was cinched tightly in place, neatly hiding the dividing line of the leggings and making it look completely natural, while compressing his waist for even more of an hour-glass figure. The C-cup built in bra accepted the breast forms, their lacy fabric showing the breast-forms colored, molded 'nipples', making it appear that he did, indeed, possess firm, C-cup breasts. The matching white lace panties hid his lack of feminine genitalia as well. And the white lace stocking he pulled into place and clipped to the corset's garters made his legs look completely feminine, and hid the artificial nature of the garment under them. Unfortunately, it meant Terry couldn't enjoy the feel of the lacy nylons, but he was willing to accept that single draw-back.

Next came the shoes. But there Terry bogged down for nearly half an hour, trying to decide which pair to go with. He'd worn the pumps he'd had day and night over the weekend, and was able to move easily in them, but now he wanted something more fashionable. He just wasn't sure he was ready to try the higher heels of some of the footwear he'd purchased.

Finally, he settled on a pair of low-cut, pointed-two pumps in white patent, with the four-inch heels. He was much rewarded to find that he could move easily in them after a few minutes of getting used to the higher heel.

Looking in the mirror, Terry was ecstatic - he looked completely feminine. Although, the short hair was rather 'butch' - which was solved simply enough, as he'd bought all of the wigs that the catalogue had to offer.

Deciding on which one was easy - he took the longest one, a long, flowing mane of hair that hung two feet from the nape of the neck. He'd bought three of these, and easily decided to use the one that was 'champagne blonde', to match his all-white motif. He admired the look, so glad he'd spent all those hours last night practicing applying make-up. The look was perfect.

As much fun as it would be to spend the day wearing nothing but the lingerie, enjoying how perfectly feminine he looked even in such apparently skimpy clothing, he was also eager to try on some of the multitude of clothing he'd purchased. Smiling happily, he sorted through the different garments, trying to settle on the first thing he'd wear. Finally, after hemming and hawing, he forced himself to make a decision.

A pale beige silk blouse with 'pearl' buttons, white lace trim, and short sleeves was a great choice, because it was slightly transparent, revealing his lacy under things, and making his darker 'nipples'. Once the blouse was chosen, the medium-gray skirt that came to just above the knees was a logical choice to go with it. And that, of course, led to the elegant gold jewelry - which, unfortunately, included 'clip-on' earrings, a shortfall he would remedy soon, he promised himself.

Thoroughly pleased with the final result, Terry took the remainder of the stuff up to his room, where he carefully put it away, along with the make-up he'd purchased yesterday through Avon. Feeling delightfully feminine, he decided to 'treat' himself to a salad and a glass of white wine, despite the fact he was on a new diet.

He had to watch his girlish figure, after all.

* * * * *

"So... Should we?" Jeff asked, drumming his fingers against the edge of the desk.

Brad was frowning. "I think we may have rushed it - what if we didn't allow enough time for the programming to take hold before we made the first call?" He gnawed at a fingernail.

"Well - there's only one sure way to find out." Jeff urged. "Come on - let's go over and see what's up."

Brad was still worried that their eagerness had caused them to rush - but there was nothing they could do if that was, indeed, the case. "All right, let's go." He said, letting the chair he was leaning back in tilt forward, depositing his feet on the floor. Rising, he grabbed a faded brown denim jacket and headed for the door, followed closely by Jeff.

Twenty minutes later, butterflies in their stomachs, the two young men stood on the door-step of Mikki's house. Taking a deep breath, Brad reached forward and rang the doorbell.

Seconds later, the door swung open, and for a second, each of the young men were positive they'd succeeded in their plan, because standing there before them was a lovely young woman with long flowing blonde hair...

Then it registered, with a wave of disappointment, that while there were many similarities between this lovely young later and Mikki, there were also too many discrepancies - such as the fact that this young woman looked younger.

"Yes...?" the comely blonde asked in a husky voice, smiling at the two young men on her doorstep.

"Is Mikki in?" Brad asked, taking in the young woman's trim figure and - in his opinion - tasteful-yet- showy choice in clothing.

The young woman shook her head. "I'm sorry, my sister went away for the weekend. She won't be back until later tonight." She held out a slender hand tipped with long, red nails. "By the way, I'm Terri."

Brad and Jeff mechanically introduced themselves, sharing a look with each other. "When did your sister leave?" Brad asked.

Terri smiled quizzically. "Friday Morning - why, is there some sort of problem?"

"Uh, Terri, this is going to sound weird but... did a CD arrive in the mail for your sister?" Jeff asked hesitantly.

Terri nodded. "Yes, as a matter of fact, it did - right about the same time she left. Why, is there something wrong...?"

Brad hastened to reassure the lovely girl. "No, no... we were just wondering. We're sorry to have bothered you."

Terri smiled fetchingly, and rather obviously eyed each of them slowly. "Oh, no bother - I'll never complain when fate drops a couple of good-looking guys on my doorstep." She let her gaze linger on their crotches for several endless seconds, then looked them in the faces again, smiling brightly. "Would you like to come in for a bit, guys?"

It wasn't exactly the sort of invitation that Brad and Jeff were used to turning down. "Sure."

Sharing a quick smile, the two guys followed Terri's pertly swinging ass as she lead them into the living room.

"At least one of the girls in this family knows how to dress..." Jeff whispered to Brad, who nodded in agreement.

"Why don't you guys get comfortable, and I'll grab a couple of drinks." Terri said, gesturing at the couch. "Beer okay?"

Both guys agreed, and Terri headed for the kitchen.

As Terry got the beer, he couldn't believe his good luck. Here he was, all dolled up and so very eager to test his new look out on some guys - and fate drops them right at his doorstep. He was going to see just how well he could pass - with any luck, he could see these guys every day for years and never get found out - and, he'd be treated better, with more attention, than he'd ever gotten before going 'en femme'. It was great.

"Here you go, guys..." Terri said, handing each of the guys a beer as she settled gracefully into the couch - directly between the two men, wrapping an arm around each of their shoulders. "Why don't we see what's on the tube?"

"Sure..." They guys agreed, unanimously. Brad took a deep breath, letting Terri's mild, feminine fragrance envelop him as Jeff picked up the remote and flipped through the channels. Soon, they were sitting on the couch, half-watching a movies as they chatted about inconsequential things, merely enjoying each-others company.

A couple of hours later, the guys regretfully cleared their throats. "Terri, it's been really fun tonight - but we have to get going."

Terri smiled wistfully. "I hate to let two such great guys out of my sight, but all right. But..." She put her hands on her hips, mock-threateningly, "I'm not letting you out that door until I get your phone number!"

Laughing the guys willing agreed, then headed out.

Wrapped in a fog of joy, Terry looked down at the simple slip of paper with the phone number on it. Instead of a boring night at home, like he'd always spent, he'd just had an enjoyable time with two attentive, obviously interested guys - and he'd pulled it off so successfully, they'd left their number. Life was good.

Terry was still smiling happily when he heard the front door open, and decided to share his good news with Mikki. High-heels, clicking on the floor, she went to greet her sister.

Terry was just shutting the door. When she turned back, she suddenly started, seeing another girl in the shadow of the hall.. "Oh - you startled me, miss." She was in the act of shrugging of her overcoat as she continued. "Are you..."

Then the 'young woman' stepped into the light of the foyer, and Mikki's voice died in her throat. "T... Terry?"

Terry grinned at the surprise in his sister's voice. "Yeah, it's me. Don't I look great?" She said, slowing spinning to reveal all her beauty.

"My.... God!" Mikki whispered, stunned. "Terry - what the hell...?"

Terry look shocked - it had never occurred to him that his sister might be this surprised. "What? Is something wrong?"

Mikki gaped at Terry. She'd left him, a somewhat of a loner but otherwise normal younger brother, Friday morning, and come back Sunday night to... this.

Fighting to keep her emotions in check, Mikki smiled gently. "No - I just was a little surprised at... how good you look, Terry." Lightly gripping her brother's arm, she guided the amazingly feminine youth towards the living room. "I want you to sit down and tell me every detail of your weekend. Every single, tiny detail..."

* * * * *

Brrrr..innnngg.....Brrr..innnng....

"Whazza?" Jeff said fuzzily, running a hand over the stubble of his chin. The hem of his shirt hung out of his jeans and his hair stuck out in all directions.

Brad snorted - Jeff was absolutely useless before his first cup of coffee, a monumental task that the youth was now attempting. "I'll get it." Brad said with a grin - already working on his second cup, and feeling much more human. Taking a last sip off coffee, he crossed to the wall mounted phone and picked up the receiver.

"City Morgue - you stab 'em, we slab em." He said airily.

He was rewarded with a giggle. "Nice" Terri's voice said mockingly. "Just what I wanted to hear first thing in the morning Speaking of which, I didn't wake you, did I?"

"No, no, we were already up " Brad assured her. Covering the mouthpiece with his hand, he jerked his chin at Jeff. "Psst it's Terri." He turned his attention to the voice coming out of the phone.

" had such a good time last night, I though we should get together again." Terri said. "How about lunch with me and my sister? She want's to meet you."

Brad's eyebrows rose. He didn't even have to consult Jeff on this one. "Yeah, that'd be great." "Oh, good " Terri said. "We're going to cook for you guys. Why don't you come over for, say - noon?"

"We'll be there." Brad promised. "We're looking forward to it."

* * * * *

"So are we." Terri said cheerfully. "No, that's all right, we've got plenty of beer and wine. Just bring yourselves." He listened for a few seconds longer. "Okay, bye."

As soon as he hung up the phone, Terry's face when utterly blank, and he stood still, staring mindlessly at the wall.

"That was great, Terry." Mikki said. "Why don't you go start preparing something for lunch."

"Okay, Mikki." Terry replied woodenly, making Mikki's heart ache. She'd tried to 'deprogram' Terry, but soon realized that the CD programming had hit Terry hard in his weak self-image. Tearing that away so soon after he was sure he'd found the answer would be devastating. She'd had to hypnotize him to keep him from making an appointment with the hospital for SRS.

However, she wasn't going to let this whole thing go idly by...

With an intense look on her face, Mikki looked down at the bottle of hypnotic drug in her hand, gently hefting the weight of the powerful hypnotic.

The powerful hypnotic that, when mixed with alcohol - such as beer - was completely tasteless and odorless.

"Yeah, Brad and Jeff..." She hissed to herself. "Come on over, have a couple of drinks - then you and I are going to have a long talk. A very long talk."

* * * * *

Diiiiinnng..Dong..... Diiiiinnng..Dong.....

"Whazza?" Jeff said fuzzily, running a hand over the stubble of his chin. The hem of his shirt hung out of his jeans and his hair stuck out in all directions.

Brad snorted - Jeff was absolutely useless before his first cup of coffee, a monumental task that the youth was now attempting. "I'll get it." Brad said with a grin - already working on his second cup, and feeling much more human. Rising, Brad crossed the kitchen, went down the short hallway, and opened the door to reveal the smiling face of Terri.

"Hi, Brad." She chirped, giving him a brief hug. With a smile, Brad returned it, leading the young woman into the kitchen.

Jeff was slumped at the table, sipping at the coffee. When Terry came in, he muttered something unintelligible, then went back to his caffeine.

"So, thanks for the invite yesterday." Brad said, seeing that all the conversational burden would fall on him. "It was "

He trailed off, frowning slightly. It had been what? For some reason, he couldn't dredge up any clear memory of the visit, although it had lasted until long in the evening...

Dismissing it as having a few too many beers, Brad let his smile resurface. "So, what brings you by our humble abode?"

Terri sighed. "It's Mikki. I'm worried about her." Brad look startled. "Oh? How so?"

"Well " Terri said, slowly. "She seemed okay last night - in fact she was in a real good mood. Then, she went off to read for a while before bed. She put on that CD we got in the mail, and must have drifted off while reading, because it was still going when I got up this morning."

Brad shared a glance with the more awake Jeff. "Yeah?"

Terri nodded. "Then she came down - and she was nearly crying. She says she feels so unattractive, so useless - so unfeminine."

Another quick glance shot over the table. "Well... if she feels that way, why doesn't she just... do something about it?" Jeff asked.

Terri sighed. "She doesn't think there's anything worthwhile to do. She thinks she'd to far gone. Like the fact she'd kinda... hairy, for a woman. She'd tried shaving, she'd tried the stuff at the store... none of it's good enough." Terri sighed deeply. "She says it would take the smartest person in the whole world to come up with something that works."

The guys shared a look. "Well, Terri - maybe we can help. Why don't you go home and keep an eye on your sister, and we'll give you a call if we come up with something."

"Oh, would you?" Terri said, smiling brightly. Giving them each a kiss on the cheek, she all-but- danced from the apartment.

The two guys eyed each other over the table. "I think I'll go see what I can do... It'd probably be best if you didn't disturb me while I'm working." Jeff said, the words 'World's smartest person' dancing before him.

"Sounds fair - I thought I'd take a crack at it too..." Brad said, slowly.

Giving each other a slightly distrustful look, the two men headed off in opposite directions.

* * * * *

Now, Dear Reader, I should point out that Brad and Jeff, being who they were, were not content with an average apartment. Oh, no - they apartment they had originally started out life as two separate apartments. But a five-year lease and a liberal application of Jeff's money had made it possible to combine the two apartments. One of the amenities this arrangements provided was a separate workroom for each of them. As I have said elsewhere in this narrative, the only real point of contention between the two friends was their competitiveness in their geniuses. So, the separate 'labs' were a necessary device for our lads continued friendship.

It was into these labs that the two youths disappeared, to set about solving the problem. They worked for many hours, emerging only occasionally to run out and purchase some unusual item or another for their work.

Now, you may doubt the veracity of this. Two young men, no matter how smart, working to produce an item that corporations that exist to produce such an item don't market? It does seem ludicrous. But you must remember, my friend, that these youths didn't have to meet FDA regulations, or make a product that was cost efficient or marketable. In fact, these two lads had no other limitations on what they created, other than the most basic.

That it work.

* * * * *

"There..." Brad said, removing his gloves and dropping them on the work bench. "That should do it."

With pride, he looked at the device he'd created. To the untrained eye, it was nothing special - a small pad of metallic material, attached to a black plastic box with a few unmarked knobs and switches, from which extended two electrodes.

But to Brad, it was a thing of beauty. If it worked, that was. All he had to do was test it.

Now, he might have hesitated to test it on himself, despite his own belief in his superiority. But, thanks to a little tampering, that ego was over-inflated, and his ability to worry about future consequences - in fact, to consider them at all - were greatly reduced. His only goal was to prove himself better than Jeff, at least intellectually, and that was like a wall that saw him from considering anything else.

So, without a second thought, he quickly undressed. Stepping up onto the platform, he attached the two electrodes to his face, just below his eyebrows. With his big toe, he nudged the large red button on the side of the box.

There was a brief, unpleasant tingle through his entire body - then his body hair, every single follicle, drifted slowly down to create a pile at his feet.

"There!" Brad crowed, unhooking himself from the machine. He looked down at his denuded body with pride - that should prove that he was, without a doubt, the smarter of the two. Every time he looked at his now permanently hairless body, he'd know he was the smartest and the best.

* * * * *

Twenty-eight feet away, Jeff was standing in the shower with his special bar of soap, admiring his own, hairless body, and thinking thoughts very much in the same vein.

Quickly, Jeff dressed, and headed towards the phone - only to meet Brad in the hallway.

Warily, each youth eyed the others suspiciously smooth face, neck and hands, then silently continued into the kitchen, each still convinced that their solution was the best.

Reaching the phone first, Brad began to dial, while Jeff quickly hopped on the extension to keep track of the conversation.

"Hi, Terri? I think we might have found a solution to... what? She is? Well, what is the new crisis?" Brad listened for a moment. "She doesn't think she can learn to walk in heels? Maybe there's something I can do..."

On the extension, Jeff hung up, and headed for his lab, eager to get the jump on the problem...

* * * * *

Three hours later, Brad broke for some coffee. He strode out into the kitchen, feeling proud of his accomplishment, the sound of his high-heels clicking on the floor proof that no problem was beyond him. His particular method had the drawback that his altered feet were smaller, and needed to be supported by at least six-inch heels, but he was sure that his solution was...

He stopped as he saw Jeff grabbing a quick bite to eat at the counter - standing in a pair of black pumps with a four-inch heel.

"Hey." Brad said, pouring some cold coffee into a cup and sticking it in the microwave.

"How it going?" Jeff asked, eyeing the white platform shoes with the seven-inch heel that graced Brad's smaller feet.

"Not bad..." Brad said, and to rub it in, he walked across the room for no good reason, just to show off the sexy, feminine stride that he was forced to use thanks to the modifications to his feet. He didn't even have to think about it, or try - the sexy wiggle and jiggle walk was now done naturally.

Jeff grinned. "Great. Glad to hear it." And he strode across the room and out the door in a different, but equally feminine stride.

"Damn..." Brad muttered. It was another tie. Of course, he still felt proud of his solution, and from now on every time he walked it would be a reminder of how smart he was. But he wanted - needed - another chance to break this stalemate.

As if in answer to his silent wish, the phone rang, and Brad grabbed it as Jeff lunged for the extension.

After they hung up, both young men were surprised and gratified that their programs even allowed them to run in high heels.

* * * * *

Brrrr..innnnngg.....Brrr..innnng....

"Want me to get that?" Jeff asked in his new, chipper contralto. He was pouring her coffee slowly, admiring the way his new, firm C-cup tits pushed out the front of his polo-shirt.

Brad sighed - Jeff was absolutely considerate since the 'accident'. "No, I'll get it." Brad replied in his own breathy, feminine voice, and heaved himself out of his chair against the massive weight of his enormous GGG-cup tits. "I need to get used to lugging these things around." He said, mentally swearing for the hundredth time that next time a situation like this came up, he'd quadruple check his figures...

"Hello?" Brad said, picking up the phone.

Mikki's voice came through the receiver. "I am the key."

Instantly, Brad's face went blank. "Yes, Mistress?" He asked in a dull voice, and Jeff looked up in surprise.

"Put me on the speaker, would you?" Mikki's voice said, and Brad immediately obeyed.

"I am the key." She said again, and this time, both the youths, wooden-faced, replied "Yes, mistress?"

Inside, their minds were whirling in confusion and horror. As their bodies mindlessly obeyed the programming put into them more than a week ago, the two youths were finally allowed to realize what they'd done to themselves. Last night they'd finished the process, finding a way to give themselves a reasonable facsimile of a vagina, and, for all intents and purposes, turning themselves completely female. They'd been unable to see that fact, however, until a certain phrase had been spoke by a certain voice - which had just happened.

"Listen up, you worthless pieces of shit " Mikki said, and the two boys - girls - helplessly replied.

"Yes, Mistress," in unison.

Then Mikki's voice, so vindictive to be barely recognizable, activated the last program in their minds. "Girl's day out." Mikki snarled, then hung up.

Instantly, animation flooded back into the transformed men's faces - but, to their horror, they found it wasn't their own personalities controlling that animation.

"So, Brenda - what should we do today?" Jeff found herself asking helplessly, with a grin. She'd been completely unaware of what she was going to say until she'd heard her own words.

"Well, Jessica, I'll tell you this - shopping is first on our agenda!" Brad - Brenda, now, she supposed - answered, just as unwillingly. Then, as if an idea had just struck her, she said "Hey - why don't we see if Mikki wants to come?"

Jessica helplessly smiled. "That's a great idea! Poor girl - she hasn't got any female friends to hang around with, just that sister of hers, and she'd too busy with her boyfriends to spend time with her sister."

Helplessly, Brenda picked up the phone and dialed.

"Hello?" Mikki's voice came over the phone, sounding absolutely normal - a far cry from the viscous snarl of moments before...

...which Brenda proceeded to pretend never happened. "Hi, Mikki! It's Brenda. Jessie and I were thinking of spending the day indulging ourselves - a Girl's Day out, I guess. Want to join us?"

"Sounds great!" Mikki said, with what was obviously unfeigned enthusiasm. "I'm ready to go whenever you are."

"We'll pick you up in a couple of minutes." Brenda promised, then hung up. Helplessly, the two ex-men looked at each other.

Brenda saw Jessica, an elegant, somewhat cool-looking brunette with long, dark-brown hair, dressed simply in a pastel yellow polo shirt and beige tapered slacks that fit her trim hips and tiny waist. The tapered legs drew the eyes down to the white strap pumps with their three-inch heels. Jessica was a vision of innocent-looking loveliness.

What Jessica saw when she looked at Brenda was something else. The massively endowed woman had a massive mane of gold-blonde hair framing a face of pure sensuality. A tight black T-shirt strained to contain her massive endowments, and a pair of tight black jeans hugged her full hips and firm, full ass like a second skin. She gained an extra seven inches from the heels of her black platform shoes, making the already tall woman tower.

Helplessly, the two 'girls' headed down to their car, to pick up their friend, Mikki.

The slender, athletic woman with the short, platinum blonde hair was waiting at the curb for them, dressed in a pair of jeans and a simple white crop-top. She squeezed into the front seat of the car, between the two women, who greeted her cheerfully while wishing they could kill her.

"Oh, by the way - you forgot these last time you were here..." She said, handing them each a purse. "Thanks - we were looking for these." Brenda helplessly said, taking the purse. Jessica did likewise.

"So - onto the mall!" Brenda said as Jeff dropped the car into gear, and headed off towards the largest mall in the city.

Half an hour later, they were walking along, window shopping, when Mikki suddenly came to a stop, looking into a shoe store.

"You know..." She said, contemplatively, "Perhaps some new shoes would help cheer us up..."

Soon after, the specifics of their new punishment was made all too clear to Brenda and Jessica. They stopped into store after store, and they got their 'wish' of seeing Mikki more feminine, as she slowly bought clothing, always wearing something new leaving the store.

And every time, Brenda and Jessica were compelled to go a little bit further. Mikki had turned their plan back on them - as she became more feminine, they were forced to outdo her, to be that much more feminine than she was, to top her at every turn. And that was exacerbated by their own rivalry - they also felt compelled to try and 'one-up' each other, above and beyond what they had to do to be more feminine than Mikki.

By the time they broke for lunch at the food court, all three women were completely made over - and Brenda and Jessica were the most changed.

Mikki wore a knee-length black leather skirt, nylons, and black four-inch heels, with a white blouse and understated jewelry.

Jessica, however, was fully decked out, dressed to emphasize her elegant look, while still keeping her sensuality intact.

Perched atop white leather pumps with gold trim and five inch stiletto heels, her long, shapely legs, clad in white nylons, disappeared up under a gauzy, voluminous skirt that half-concealed, half-tantalized. An off-white corset that pinched her waist even tighter and covered her firm breasts was faintly visible under the pale pink satin jacket she wore, and her long, silky hair was elegantly styled under the pink satin hat, bedecked with feathers, that graced her head. She was a vision of loveliness, of elegant sensuality.

Brenda, however, was all-out sensual. A tight, black crushed-velvet dress clung tightly to every curve, its plunging neckline revealing an amazing amount of mouth-watering cleavage. Silk black nylons encased shapely legs atop black pumps with an incredible arch caused by the seven and a half inch heels, emphasizing the graceful curve of her firm, full ass. Her blond hair hung in a massive wave of curls around a face made up to emphasize her full, sexy lips and dark, sensuous eyes.

Men's eyes followed the trio of lovely ladies as they took a table at the food court to grab a bite to eat. "So - did you ladies have fun?" Mikki asked, looking at her watch.

Brenda and Jessica helplessly agreed that they had.

Mikki looked up - and Brenda and Jessica were shocked to see the snarl on Mikki's face. "Good - 'cause that's the last nice day you two are going to have. It's now noon - which means that Terry's new gender is official - he went over to your place while we were out and used your stuff to finish what you started. You see, Terry isn't my sister - he was my brother, until your damned little prank gave him the unbreakable need to be feminine."

Brenda and Jessica were horrified, and tried to protest - but were unable.

"Since she must live a new life, so must you two. Brad and Jeffery - even Brenda and Jessica - no longer exist. Once I say the magic word, you two get to live out your new lives. In your purses, you'll find your new identification. You will be compelled to be the person you feel that somebody who has a body like yours, and that name, would be. You will have no choice but to be that person." Mikki explained with an evil grin. Then, slowly, she leaned forward, and whispered into each of their ears.

* * * * *

Now, Dear reader, I must break of this narrative from it's linear path. From this point on, what occurs happens concurrently - but since I am able to tell but one story at a time, we must follow the new experiences of the ladies separately.

Let us begin with the lady once known as Jeffery, shall we...?

* * * * *

Jessica felt Mikki's gentle breath on her ear as she spoke two simple words. "Rich Bitch."

Immediately, without saying a word, the new woman rose and walked away, heading towards the bathroom - the women's bathroom. Once inside, she opened the purse to find out who she was. Extracting the identification, she read the name.

'Ivana Manslaivta Zuckov'.

Instantly, Ivana felt her perspective on everything change. Although she remembered who she had been, and she now had control of her body once more, there were sudden shifts in her mind. She couldn't identify what they were, just that they'd happened.

Ivana shook her head, horrified at what had been done with her. She'd have to teach that Mikki a lesson, she'd show that damned ignorant bitch who was boss...

Then Ivana caught sight of herself in the mirror, and amended her thought to 'later'. She felt her skin crawling at the sight of what she was wearing, and was overcome with the need to change into other clothing. She didn't know what clothing, but she had to find out - fast. Before this crawling, disgusted feeling drove her absolutely nuts.

Ivana strode out of the bathroom, finding that she felt most comfortable keeping her back iron straight and walking firmly and purposefully. She walked past store after store, not knowing what she was even searching for, but somehow certain she'd recognize it when she saw it.

And she did.

She emerged from the store feeling much more comfortable, especially since she'd used the time in the changing room to change her hair and make-up.

Black leather pumps with a four-inch heel encased her feet, out of which rose black nylons with a seam down the back. These disappeared up under the skin-tight knee-length beige skirt she wore. The skirt, belted tightly around her slender waist, was the holder of the tucked-in portion of the crisp white blouse done up to the top button, over which hung a matching jacket. She'd put her hair up in an almost painfully tight bun, and put on much more subdued make-up and jewelry. Behind her trailed one of the store employees, lugging the other purchases she'd made.

Felling much better, physically, she was feeling an odd nagging sensation, like there was something she had to do before she could put that cheap bitch Mikki in her place. Finally, Ivana decided she needed to find a place to stay so she could plan things out. For some reason, the thought of returning to that pig-sty of an apartment greatly distressed her, so she decided to check into one of the upscale hotels. She had little trouble catching a cab, and after the cabby had loaded the bags into the trunk, the curt command - "take me to the best hotel in the city" produced an adequate response from the slovenly foreigner driving the poorly maintained - and smelly - vehicle. Ivana wrinkled her nose and put up with the stench for the duration of the ride. Having the man bring the bags to the front counter for her, she paid the man exactly what read on the fare, and not a cent more. If he wanted a tip, he should have damned well done something to deserve it.

Striding firmly up to the counter, she looked down at the young man sitting at the computer.

He glanced up with the perfunctory smile. "I'll be right with you miss." He said, turning back to the computer.

Ivana felt a cold rage descend over her. She tried to shrug it off, but was unable to. How dare this pathetic little worm make her wait? Angrily she leaned forward.

"Yes, you'll be right with me. Right now - or I shall be right with the manager of this hostel, demanding to know why I - the only customer standing at the desk - was being ignored." Ivana said coldly, fixing the pathetic man with a steely glare. She felt an intense, almost sensual burst of satisfaction as the chastised underling scurried to correct his mistake.

"Very well..." Ivana said, as the cowering clerk handed the key to a bell-hop who hefted her bags and deferentially led her to the elevator.

At the elevator rose upwards, Ivana noticed the bell-hop was not only properly deferential - but fairly attractive. She didn't know why she was noticing this, but she couldn't stop herself. And she had the strangest feeling that there was something about the man that she wanted - although she couldn't figure out what some lowly hotel employee could have that she'd possibly be craving so intently.

Then, when the bellboy dropped off her bags in the room and waited expectantly for a tip, she realized just what it was she was craving so madly from the handsome young man.

Ivana tried to deny the craving, to simply pay the young man off so he'd leave - but she couldn't. She very desperately needed that one thing that only he could supply for her right now...

"Very well - disrobe." Ivana said curtly, shutting the door. The bell-boy looked startled. "Um... 'scuse me?"

Ivana frowned at him. "Undress. Remove your clothing, young man." The bell-boy half-laughed. "I... uh..."

Ivana crossed her arms over her taut, proud bust. "look, young man - either you do as I say, and let me perform oral sex on you - or you do not do as I say, in which case I shall accuse you of trying to sexually harass me. It is your decision."

The guy blinked. "Let me get this right - I let you, um - suck me off, and it's okay, I don't get in trouble - or I don't do it, and get blasted for sexual harassment." Ivana smiled tightly. "You have a fine grasp of the obvious."

The bell boy quickly began undressing. "By the way, miss, my name is..."

Ivana snorted. "I couldn't care less what your name is, young man. If I should find the experience better than the average, then I may care - but right now, you matter very little to me."

The guy paused for a second, then resumed undressing. "You're the boss, miss." "Yes - I am." Ivan agreed tartly. "Finish undressing and... Good Lord!"

The bellboy smiled as the boxers he had been wearing dropped to the floor. "I hope I'm not scaring you with 'old Betsy', miss."

Ivana eyed the enormous cock that was rapidly rising from the man's crotch. It was easily sixteen inches long and remarkably thick. "Perhaps I may want your name after all." Ivana said, a tight, small smile curving her lips. "Sit on the bed."

The bell-boy complied, and Ivana knelt between his legs. Rapping her long fingers of her right hand around the base of the massive member, she opened her mouth, bent forward - and let them slide down over the rock-hard cock.

Ivana was repulsed by the fact she was going to give this man a blow-job - but that repulsion was greatly overshadowed by her rampaging need for the man's cum. Like a coke addict craving a fix, she desperately needed the man's cum, so she began sucking on his cock, her lips compressed around his throbbing, monstrous shaft as her fingers stroked and fondled his cock and balls.

She began sliding her mouth up and down his enormous cock, her tongue dancing across the massive head filling her mouth as her other hand went to her blouse and began unbuttoning it. As she increased the rhythm and intensity of her actions, she removed her bra and began to fondle her taut mounds. Her slim hands fondled and stroked his manhood while her tongue swirled over his sensitive head. Ivana continued to piston her mouth back and forth on the enormous cock and was 'rewarded' with a flood of cum that she gulped at eagerly. With her desperate, helpless need, the flavor and texture of the warm cum was the most intense thing she'd ever swallowed, and she gulped down every drop before pulling away.

"Oh, yes..." she moaned, wiping the last of the cum off her lips and sucking it from her fingers. She suddenly felt warm and wonderfully relaxed, the tenseness flowing from her body like water down a drain.

"Mmmm... that was wonderful." Ivana moaned, smiling up at the bell-boy. Her hands, almost of their own volition, rose to her head and undid the bun, letting her silky brunette hair fall down her graceful neck. "How long do you think before that huge cock of yours will be ready again...?"

The bell-boy blinked, amazed at the woman's sudden, and to him, inexplicable - transformation from ball-busting bitch to sweet, horny slut. Already, his dick was beginning to harden. "Uh Look, miss, as fun as this might be, I have to get back "

Instantly, the bitch returned - kind of. Ivana's long-nailed hands gripped his semi-rigid cock, and she squeezed in warning. "Look, buster - you were good enough to buy some leeway - but you're not off the hook. I'm going to get pleased, and if you know what's good for you, you'll do it right."

Ivana felt so stupid - it was obvious. Men thought with their dicks. Control that, and you controlled the man. Why, look at this one - he knew he should be going back to work, yet he was doing what she told him, because his cock commanded it.

And, as she let him do his best to please her - which was a very credible effort - she realized that the procedure had one or two 'fringe benefits' as well...

* * * * *

Now, let us return through time and space to where we last left the person once known as Brad, sitting in the mall's food court with Mikki, who had just begun to lean towards him...

* * * * *

"Biker Slut" Mikki's gentle voice whispered in her ear, and the outrageously endowed blond found herself looking in her purse and extracting an ID.

"Anita Reilly Bigmann"

With a smirk, Anita rose from the food court and headed for the door - these 'femme' clothes were bugging the hell out of her, and what she wanted wouldn't be sold here.

Forty-five minutes later, she emerged from the dressing room at the shop the cab had dropped her off at.

Knee-high black leather boots with a six inch heel encased legs clad in a pair of skintight black denim. A black t-shirt, low-cut, was straining over her massive melons, and a leather vest hung loosely from her shoulders. Her massive mane of blonde hair was tucked up and back into a long, flowing ponytail, so that it would be less trouble in the motorcycle helmet she held. A black leather knapsack was slung over one shoulder.

"So - where'd you say this bar is?" Anita asked the almost-drooling shop-keeper, who pointed out the door. "Two blocks down - you can't miss it."

"Thanks." Anita said, tossing some bills down on the desk. With a provocative stride, she strode out the door and in the direction pointed out to her.

Reaching the bar in question, she lingered outside for several minutes, looking over the bikes lined up outside the establishment, then finally went inside.

The one-room bar was like a dark, smoky netherworld, the dim lighting making her all-but-blind for several seconds as her eyes adjusted. But she could still hear the sudden cessation of conversation, and the creaking of leather jackets as the male patrons turned to stare at the huge-breasted blonde who'd unexpectedly entered their midst.

"Who's riding the blue Low-Rider?" Anita called out into the silence.

"I am - who's askin'" A voice from near the rear called, and Anita's eyes had adjusted enough to make out the speaker - a big, muscular man with a burgeoning belly and a long, tangled beard on a round face beneath a bald dome of a head.

Anita provocatively strode through the crowd until she reached his table and, uninvited, sat down. "I am - name's Anita."

"So?"

Anita smiled. "I like your ride. So, I'm going to let you gimme a lift out of town, plus pay for food, lodging and booze."

The man smiled without humor. "You are, huh? And why am I going to take you up on this offer?"

Anita leaned forward. "Because a big, powerful piece of machinery between my legs gets me hot. The farther and faster we go, the hotter I get - and at the end of the day, I need something to satisfy that heat."

The man spluttered, spilling the beer he'd just begun to take a sip of. He eyed Anita's outrageously sexy figure, then stood.

"Come on guys, let's ride. We have to cover a lot of distance."

There was some grumbling. "Hey Pitbull- you may want to get some of that, but we just got off the road - give us a coupla hours." One of the near-by bikers said. The room had been so silent that all of them had heard Anita's rather loudly stated offer, so they all knew why Pitbull was so eager to get going.

Anita stood, letting them get a good look at her. "It usually takes three or four guys to satisfy me." She stated, loudly. "However I ride with that day gets first dibs - after that, whoever treats me best "

Instantly, chairs all over the room scraped back as a general stampede for the door started.

* * * * *

Anita was amazed to discover that she'd been[speaking the truth. As the miles unrolled under the wheels of the Harley, she felt herself becoming more and more aroused, her crotch becoming damp as her hormones began to boil.

They finally stopped for the night out of sheer necessity - Anita was so aroused, she was pressing her enormous tits into Pitbull's back, and her hands around his waist had a tendency to drop just a little bit lower. The muscular leader quickly found a hotel and paid for just enough rooms, and lead Anita towards the one he'd gotten for her.

By the time they reached the door to the room, she all-but-dragged him inside, kicking the door shut behind them, Her hands flew to his clothing, and she began to strip him in a sexual frenzy, while he struggled to do the same to her.

"Fuck me - fuck me hard" she was amazed to hear herself begging, and Pitbull eagerly complied. Guiding her back to the bed, he all but collapsed on her.

There was no tenderness, no gentle foreplay - just pure, animal lust as Pitbull rammed his hard, throbbing cock into her sopping cunt. Anita screamed in primal pleasure as his tool entered her, thrusting. She gasped and screamed, her huge tits bouncing, as he pounded into her, seeking release for the pressure.

He got it. Within minutes, he grunted as a load of hot cum filled her hot wet cunt, well before she'd reached orgasm. His cock already softening, Pitbull rolled off of her, despite her clutching hands.

"Please... I need it " She begged, her hands flying to her cunt and frantically plunging into her pussy.

"No problem " Pitbull said with a smile. Crossing the room, he opened the door, revealing all twelve of his bikers lined up in order of strength. One or two knock-down fights had been necessary to determine the line-up, but despite many contusions and one broken bone, none of the injured had left.

"Next..." Pitbull said airily as he walked out of the room...

* * * * *

And so, Dear Reader, our narrative comes to an end. We shall leave our players there, and once more return to the more mundane aspects of our own existence.

But in parting, I am sure that you have seen the raison d'être for this little morality tale, one of the oldest and best known morals, found in story after story of this nature...

The fastest way to become a woman is to piss off a Feminist. What? You were expecting something else maybe?

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a wife discovers her husband's desire to wear her clothes, he thinks that she is helping him out by using a magic amulet to change him for a short period of time, but she has other plans.

Dolly

By Gunslinger

"So that's what she meant!"

At the sound of his girlfriend's voice, Douglas Sataouchuk was so startled that he fell off his heels, landing in an undignified sprawl, skirt hiked up around his knobby knees and wig askew.

"Mary!" Doug squeaked, muddy brown eyes bulging comically behind the thick lenses of his horn-rimmed glasses. "Wha.. what are you doing home!"

"Catching you wearing my clothes, apparently." Mary said, with a giggle.

Actually, Doug had his own wardrobe, bought to fit - it just so happened that he thought Mary looked so cute in her version of this outfit that he'd bought an identical one for himself.

It hardly seemed the time to correct her, though.

"You were supposed to be in Atlantic city until tomorrow night!" Doug said, face florescent crimson in utter shame as he struggled off the floor and onto the couch. Pulling off the long, dark wig he was wearing, he ran his fingers through his crew-cut, lusterless brown hair. "You... I mean..."

Mary was struggling not to break out into full-fledged laughter, her boyishly-slender frame shaking as she wrapped one arm around her slim waist and held the other hand firmly against her lips. She glanced away, struggling to maintain control.

When she thought she was once more able to speak coherently, she turned back to face her boyfriend of more than two years...

...and the sight of his pale, slender body dressed up in a brightly-colored wrap-around summer skirt and short-sleeved yellow blouse, narrow face fully made-up, was too much. She began to laugh, hard.

"You... you look..." She tried to get out as her body shook with the force of her laughter. "...redic.. rid... icul..." Failing completely to get the last word out, she fell onto the floor of their apartment, howling hysterically.

Doug had often wondered (feared) what might happen if Mary ever found out his 'little secret'. The possible reactions had kept him from revealing the truth, fear of shame, of rejection, of recriminations and exposure making him limit his 'dressing' to supposedly safe times. Now, there was no more hiding, no more secrets...

...and, despite the shame and fear he felt at having been found out, the relief of no longer having to keep his secret relaxed him enough that he could see what Mary must see. Could understand what she had seen when she'd walked into the apartment, unexpectedly - and seen her usually reserved, shy, practically 'boring' boyfriend dressed in what appeared to be one of her own outfits, walking around balanced (perfectly) atop five-inch heels.

It started as a twitching, deep in his gut. His breath began to waver, and an odd tickling sensation ran through the base of his throat...

...then Doug couldn't hold it in anymore, and he howled with laughter too.

"I.. do... look.. red.. redic.." He lost it on the same word Mary had, and fell over on the couch, tears of relieved laughter making his mascara run.

After a few minutes, the laughter began to taper off... then the two lovers looked at each other, and that set them off again. It took nearly fifteen minutes before they were able to look at each other with nothing more than grins and the occasional chuckle and/or giggle.

"So.. now you know." Doug said, removing his thick glasses and wiping at his eyes with the back of his hand. "I know you must have a bunch of questions, but I kind of have to know... why are you home so early?"

Mary's grin became bemused. "You know, you probably aren't going to believe this... but I was told to." Doug blinked in surprise. "Uh... huh? Once more, with clarity."

His tomboyish girlfriend dug into her blouse and pulled out a pendant on the end of a black leather thong, where it had been hanging in her (too small, she always moaned) cleavage. Without taking it off, she leaned forward so that he could get a better look at it. Putting his glasses back on, Doug leaned closer and hefted the surprisingly heavy 'pendant' in his palm.

It seemed to be cheap pewter, rather badly tarnished, and inset with colored-paste 'gems', mostly 'rubies', with an 'emerald' set in the center of the strange, interwoven design. Doug grunted, letting her take the ornament back as he leaned back on the couch. "So, what's this got to do with it?"

"Carla and I were walking the boardwalk - just killing time, you know? Anyway, there was this fortune-telling booth set up at the end of the midway. Little booth, draped all in purple silk, the works. Inside was the most... stereotypical 'gypsy' you could ever hope to see.

About a hundred years older than God, with this big nose, died-black hair, wearing this...gypsy outfit and turban-like hat. Called herself 'Madame Zatana'."

"So...?" Doug prompted, while using some tissue paper to remove the pastel pink lipstick he had on.

"Well... since we were just killing time, I let this 'Gypsy' woman tell my fortune. She stares in this crystal ball for a while - then starts chuckling."

"Chuckling?"

"Well... more like cackling. Then she tells me that my boyfriend has a secret. Something he'd been keeping from me, and if I were to go home right now, without any warning, I'd catch him at it."

Doug blinked in surprise. "You're kidding, right?" She shook her head. "I shit you not, kemosabe."

Doug's eyes narrowed in confused, willing disbelief - he'd never believed in 'psychics' or fortune-tellers of any stripe. On the other hand...

"So what about that pendant?" Doug asked, lifting an eyebrow.

Mary looked down at it. "She gave it to me, after I pestered her a bit to know what your 'secret' was. She said..." She screwed up her face, and did her best to imitate the other woman's cracked, accented voice. "This talizman haz great powrez, my dear. Wiv diz, it would be pozzible for you to grant your beloved'z greatezt fant-azie - but be warned! Do not uze this unlezz your inte'shuns are az pure az de d'hiven znw, for it may alzo cause great havoc, if used unwizely."

"Oh, come on!" Doug snorted, seeing the look on Mary's lightly made-up face. "Surely you don't believe that... that... load of dung!"

Mary's eyes held contemplation as they rose to meet his. "Well... I mean, what if she's telling the truth. I mean.. she was right about your secret. If I hadn't followed her advise, I might never have found out that you like to " She waved a hand at his current attire.

The situation was still so new that Doug wasn't sure whether he would have preferred it that way or not - Mary hadn't had a chance to get used to the idea and figure out how to respond to it on an on-going basis.

"I mean, what is your fantasy ?" Mary trailed off as a horrible uncertainty flared in her eyes. She looked down at her slender, boyish body, eyes widening. When they returned to Doug, she held a mixture of uncertainty, horror - and fledgling anger. "You.. you didn't start dating me because.. I mean.... you don't.. you are pretending that I.. I'm a man are you?"

Doug recoiled. "Hell, no! I'm not gay!" He took a second to calm himself, to keep from lashing out at her sudden insecurity. "Mary, my dressing up doesn't have anything to do with my sexuality - after two years, I would hope you'd know that."

"I... I'm not sure what to think, right now." Mary said, slowly, the fear and uncertainty fading - but not the anger. "I thought I knew you..."

and now I find out you've been lying to me. How am I supposed to know what to think?"

"I didn't lie to you!" Doug retorted - then, sheepishly. "I... just didn't tell you everything."

"Oh. Of course." Mary signed, looking at him firmly, causing his blush to begin to resurface. "So, you don't like men? You didn't start dating me because I'm... boyish?"

"No!" Doug denied, with a shudder. "Geez, Mary - keep it up, and I might not be able to look at you without that thought in my head - and that wouldn't help. Trust me - men do nothing for me, and I find the idea... disgusting!"

"Oh, well - it would only be fair." She said, with a slight edge in her voice. "After all, from now on I'm going to have that..." She gestured at him, "...stuck in my mind." She paused. "So... what is your 'fantasy', then? Finding perfectly matched accessories for your new pair of shoes?"

Doug winced - this wasn't going well at all. "Look, Mary, I know that this is all a little sudden - and very weird. I'm sorry about not telling you... but I didn't know how you'd react if I just came out and told you that I'm a part-time cross-dresser. You see, the truth is..." He paused, trying to find the best words.

Finally he looked down at himself and grimaced. "You might have noticed that I'm not the most... 'studly' guy around, even without the dress. I've always been thin and kinda... well, 'wimpy'. Girls just sorta ignored me when I was going through puberty, and after, too. I... didn't stop noticing them, of course." He grinned, wryly. "For a couple of years, there, they were my main focus of interest."

Mary didn't respond to his thin smile, just continuing to give him 'the look', arms crossed over her small bosom, head tilted down, eyes fixed on him from beneath raised eyebrows.

"Well, you see - that's when this all started." Doug said, sighing. "I mean - I spent so much time watching girls, that I started to think that they.. had it easier, somehow. Not easier, overall - I'm not saying that. I'm talking about the way they act in public, the way they form relationships. I mean - when's the last time you saw two guys hug when they met? Guys just don't seem to be as.. open, I guess. And if a guy is, then he gets funny looks, where it's completely normal for a woman. After a while, I... I began to wonder. To wonder what life is like, for a woman..."

'The Look' went from full-blast to about half throttle, faint compassion seeping in.

"See..." Doug said, slowly, not meeting her gaze. "I've never really been 'one of the guys'. I just... don't fit in with most 'guy'-type groups. But... I'm not a woman, either. Not that I want to live life as a woman - I enjoy being a guy, even a 'weenie' guy. Plus - as I said - I'm not gay. But... well, that fantasy? It would be to live as a woman, for just a little while. Just.. just to see what it was like. Like now, I only dress up occasionally. I wish.. that instead of just 'dressing up', every now and then I could actually be a woman. For awhile, at least."

Mary bit her lower lip in thought. "Lemme see if I've got this straight - you're a guy. You like being a guy. You just don't feel like you're a very 'manly' guy... so you began to wonder what kind of woman you'd make, if you had the chance?"

Doug blinked. "Well... something like that."

"I don't suppose it occurred to you to 'fantasize' about being more of a man, huh?"

Doug winced at the sarcasm. "Look, turn it around. I've been a man all my life, and know what it's like. If I suddenly woke up in the body of Arnold Schwarzenegger - well, you know me better than anyone else. Go ahead and imagine it..."

Mary frowned at him side-long, then her eyes went out-of-focus as she began to imagine it...

...when she giggled, it was the most welcome sound Doug could ever remember hearing.

"My god - his body, but your personality. A walking hunk of masculine muscle - with the personality of Jerry Lewis!" She giggled again. "hey!" Doug protested the analogy - weakly.

"So, what you're trying to say is that you like the personality you have, and don't really want to be more 'manly' in who you are, inside." Mary said, head cocked. "So... it would be easier for you to be more feminine."

"Well... something like that." Doug said with a slight frown - that wasn't quite the way he'd phrase it....

Mary didn't catch the tone he'd used, however - she'd shifted her attention to the pendant she now cradled in on hand, a thoughtful look on her face. "You don't suppose "

"Oh, come on, Mary!" Doug said, throwing up his hands (with their Lee Press-On nails painted a lovely Coral Pink), and shaking his head in disbelief. "That whole 'gypsy' thing was pure luck. That's it. There's no such thing as "

Suddenly, Mary leaned forward and tapped Doug on a knobby knee with her free hand, the other clutching the 'amulet' tightly. "...magic!" Doug finished, twitching in surprise at Mary's sudden touch....

...then twitching even more strongly as an odd sensation ran through his body, as if his entire body had been 'asleep', and had suddenly awoken to pins and needles. He felt as if he was being turned inside out - painlessly. Not without sensation, of course, but it was mild enough to be called 'discomfort' - a strange, tickling sensation that occurred just under the top layer of flesh.

Then it was over.

"What the hell was...?" Doug started to ask, confused....

...then his jaw dropped open at the sound of the feminine voice that emerged. It was completely nondescript, as women's voices go - but it was most definitely produced by female vocal chords, and different then even his best attempts while 'en femme'.

"Oh... My... God..!" Mary breathed, shocked then, slowly, she began to smile. "It worked!"

It took a second to register - then Doug's hands flew to his crotch, sliding up under...

...under her skirt - for what her fingers slid across was smooth, slightly rounded flesh covered in the white cotton of the panties she wore. He'd been tucking 'Little Doug' away long enough to know what it felt like, and this wasn't it.

"Holy shit!" Doug - who never, ever really swore - swore loudly. "I.. I... I'm a woman...!"

She bolted to her feet - and nearly went sprawling, as she discovered that her shoes no longer fit her smaller feet. Kicking them off, the newly-formed woman dashed for the bedroom's full-length mirror, not even hearing Mary's voice as she called out.

Screeching to a stop in front of the mirror, she stared at the reflected image of...

...himself.

For a second, it was as if nothing at all had changed. She was seeing exactly what she expected to see. The same features, the same body, the same...

...almost the same. Slowly, she began to notice the differences as her mind stopped assuming and really started to look. It was her - as a woman.

She looked much the same - but all the 'subtle' differences added up into somebody who was most definitely a woman, if not the most attractive one in the world. Her nose was still too large for her face, and crooked at the bridge - but it was slimmer, and somehow more dainty. Her jaw was still receding - but it was also more smoothly rounded under that recession, not as masculine. Her lips were slightly fuller, and her slightly slimmer neck now lacked the tell-tale Adam's apple.

Her body was the same mix of old and new as her face. She was the same height as she'd always been, and her build was about the same - but her hands and feet were smaller, matching the feminine dimensions for somebody of her size. Hastily undoing her blouse and removing her lightly padded bra revealed a small, conical pair of A-cup breasts riding high on her chest, with larger and more... reactive nipples gracing the larger, darker aureole.

Then, of course, there was the most defining change, revealed when she hesitantly finished stripping off her clothes - centered between somewhat rangy thighs lay a perfectly formed vagina, nestled in an unremarkable patch of pubic hair.

"Geez - a woman less than ten minutes, and you're already doing a striptease." Doug whirled and stared at Mary, leaning in the doorway. "What.. how...?"

Mary smiled. "I... didn't know if it was real or not. I was.. 'playing around', almost. I just touched you, and wished you were a woman - and so you are." She cocked an eyebrow and looked the stunned new woman over, critically. "The 'wish' was really literal, though - it made the minimum amount of changes possible to make you female."

"Change me back!" Doug demanded, shrilly.

Mary looked utterly floored. "Huh? I... I thought you'd be overjoyed!"

Doug looked down at her practically flat, but feminine chest. "Yeah - if it's temporary!" She said, gasping breaths as she hovered on the edge of panic. "What.. what if this is permanent? How... how would I explain it? How would I go into work on Monday? I.. I'd be a laughing stock! A freak! A..."

"...a woman?" Mary asked, pointedly. She threw her hands into the air. "Fer Christsakes, Doug - you get your 'fondest fantasy', and all you can do is bitch and whine? I mean - I can do anything at all with this amulet to make your fantasy come true, do you really think I can't change you back to a man at the end?"

"I..." Doug stammered, taken aback by her outburst. "I'd like to be sure..."

"Fine!" Mary said, stamping forward. She held the amulet with one hand, and touched Doug with the other.

She felt that strange, tingling sensation again, and watched with awe as the reflection in the mirror rapidly regained its usual male configuration...

...then continued right on back to the female. "Uh..."

"Don't worry, Doug - that's how I wanted it to do it. Just a quick round-trip so you can see that it can be done. After all - you are planning to take advantage of this, aren't you? You don't have to be anywhere until Monday morning - so we have this evening, and then all day tomorrow to let you 'play out' your fantasy."

"Yeah..." Doug said, as the truth finally began to sink in. A hesitant smile began to form on her narrow, feminine face. "Yeah - yeah, I guess we do..."

"So, Doug, the question is..." Mary frowned. "Huh - I guess we can't go around calling you 'Doug' all weekend, can we?" "Well..." Doug said, hesitantly. "Usually, I call myself 'Donna' when..."

It was as if Mary didn't even hear her. "Dolly! That's a perfect name!" The new woman blinked. "Huh? 'Dolly'? Look, I don't think..."

"No, it's perfect!" Mary said, smiling. "we're going to be playing 'dress up' with you, after all - yeah, Dolly is just perfect!"

The new woman opened her mouth to argue... then sighed, shrugging her narrow shoulders. It wasn't as if it really mattered, after all, and considering the surprise this whole 'secret' must have given Mary, it was the least she could do.

"Okay, Dolly it is." She said with a weak smile.

"Great!" Mary exclaimed, clapping her hands together in glee. "Then let's go get my Dolly all dressed up!"

Dou... Dolly wasn't sure how to take everything that was going on - it was too new and strange. In many ways, this was a fantasy come true - Mary not only held the amazing power to transform him into a woman at will, but she was eagerly excited about his 'hobby' of cross-dressing, now brought to a brand-new level by the power of the amulet she held.

However, deep down, she felt uneasy. Was it because somebody else held that power, not her - leaving her at Mary's mercy? But -she trusted Mary...

...right?

That was another thing that was bothering her - Mary's odd mood-swings between anger, bitterness and gleeful excitement. It was hard to tell what Mary really felt about Doug's long-held secret. It seemed that she was pissed at Doug/Dolly for lying to her... yet she seemed overjoyed at the prospect of 'helping' Dolly with her feminine life.

Shaking her head, Dolly pushed all these doubts aside - what Mary had said was true. She was getting to live out her fantasy, and there was no reason to waste valuable 'wonder and awe' time worrying about things that were, really, nothing - just vague misgivings, probably meaningless.

"Oh, Dolly!" Mary called from the closet, where she'd been rooting through piles of clothing. "Why don't you try these on!"

She turned and held up her 'prize' - a pair of black fishnet stocking, complete with black leather-and-lace garter belt, with a matching set of panties, all packaged in a clear plastic bag.

Dolly blanched, but smiled weakly and took the package. "Yeah, sure - sounds great..."

Fishnet stockings weren't really her style - but she had two very good reasons for not arguing. The first was that she didn't want Mary losing her enthusiasm and swinging back to anger. The second, however, was even more important, at the moment.

She'd bought these nylons and the accessories, as part of a 'French Maid' costume she'd gotten for Mary last Halloween. She'd been upset, not wanting to wear the costume at all, and Doug had wheedled her into wearing the rest of the uniform, though she drew the line at the stockings.

Dolly knew if she said one word about the stockings, they'd be rehashing that argument all over again. So, she merely smiled weakly, kept her mouth shut - and opened the plastic bag to get the items out.

Dolly was used to putting on women's clothes, of course - but, somehow, this wasn't the same thing. Part of it was the fact that she was doing it openly, right in front of Mary, and the part of her that had been keeping the secret for so long felt very strange about that.

Secondly, there was the fact that she was now, in fact, a woman - which made the simple act of dressing both familiar and brand-new, all at the same time. The final factor was what she was putting on - she'd never worn this particular type of clothing while 'en femme', preferring the simpler, more 'demure' fashions.

Now, she slid the lacy black panties up her unremarkable - yet feminine - legs and settled them into place around her boyish hips...

...and, like a light dawning, began to understand some of Mary's objections, as well as what it felt like to really be a woman.

The pre-packaged set had come in a variety of sizes, and he'd picked the one that should have been right for Mary - and, since her new figure was remarkably similar to Mary's, it should have fit her, too.

The problem was, neither Mary nor her fit the mythical 'average' for women. While the waistband of the panties fit well enough, the underwear was baggy around her slender hips and less-than-fully-packed derrière. Dolly grimaced at the rather uncomfortable fit... then caught Mary looking at her with a sparkle in her eyes.

"All right, all right." Dolly agreed, unwilling grinning her capitulation. "I'm sorry, all right? I was just... well, too dense, I guess."

"Don't think that means you're getting out of this." Mary said, her grin widening as she let her own little secret loose. "You know why I'm having so much fun? Because your 'fantasy' is absolutely perfect for me to show you what a real woman goes through. You've got this idealized image of what womanhood is like. Let's see how it stacks up to the real thing."

Dolly sighed and rolled her eyes - but she was grinning anyway. After all, it was a fair enough 'threat' - since her fantasy was just that. to find out what being a woman was really like.

Feeling a little less put out - but less then ecstatic - Dolly pulled on the garter belt, then carefully unrolled the fishnet stocking up her legs, clipping them in place to the garter's clips. Standing up, Dolly eyed herself in the mirror, a wry grin on her face at the sight of cheap-looking lingerie that enclose her lower body.

"All right, Mary - it's your show." Dolly told the other woman, letting her own 'taste' in women's clothe slide away for awhile to allow her girlfriend some (hopefully) good-natured retribution. "What's next?"

Mary ginned, holding up a black leather skirt....

Thirty-seven minutes later, Dolly was fully dressed and accessorized - and squirming uncomfortably under Mary's grinning gaze. "Yahoo, little lady." Mary said, with a giggle.

"Yeah, yeah " Dolly sighed, eyeing herself in the mirror with a critical eyes.

Mary had used the 'opportunity' to dress her up in the tackiest clothing she could find in her closet. Now, the new woman though to herself that she was dressed like a hooker - and, with her boyish figure, a cheap whore at that...

To start with, she was wearing a pair of knee-high black leather boots with a two-inch platform - and seven-inch high stiletto heels. Despite having considerable experience in walking in heels, Dolly still felt like a stiff wind would send her sprawling.

The short distance from the top of the boots to the bottom of the skirt revealed her fishnet-stocking clad legs, before the disappeared under the glossy black leather of the mid-thigh-length skirt, which was tolerably well fitting. 'Accenting' the black leather skirt was a wide white-leather belt with a garish silver buckle. The belt was a refuge from the eighties, and it's design showed it - it flared considerable at both the buckle and the tongue end, and fastened off center, almost looking like a big, white-leather bow sitting over her right hip.

Another refugee form the eighties was the top Dolly now wore - a leopard-skin-print spandex blouse, it's colors 'emphasized' by being metallic-gold with flat-black spots rimmed with metallic silver trim. Black faux fur lined the cuffs and neckline, further emphasizing the sheer and unadulterated tackiness of the garment.

To go with the tacky ensemble, Mary had cajoled Dolly into an equally 'eighties' make-up scheme. Bright, gloss-red lipstick with darker liner, obvious amounts and shade of blush, too much mascara... In short, the works - eighties style.

In keeping with the 'theme', Dolly was now wearing all the tacky, cheep jewelry that Mary could put her hands on. Big, garish black-and- hot-pink earrings dangled from her lobes, while silver bracelets 'graced' her wrists. Two cheap, plastic 'gold' rings adorned her hands.

"You're enjoying this, aren't you?" Dolly asked, wryly, practically blinded from the light reflecting from the metallic blouse and cheap jewelry.

"Yeah - very much so." Mary said, with a smirk. "I know, I know - it's not very mature. But, hey - you dressed as well as I did, when you were a guy wearing women's clothes. I think it's only fair that you get the experience of being 'tacky' as woman. Us 'real' woman make fashion faux pas now then, you know."

"Well, whatever makes you happy..." Dolly grumbled.. but with a smile. Despite the outfit not being her own 'style', the fact that the body it was encasing was fully and completely female (if not 'overly' so) was enough to take the sting out of it. It had begun to truly sink in that she was finally getting to see life from the other side of the gender barrier, as she had so often dreamed. Next to that, letting Mary have her 'fun' was a minor point.

"Well, now that you're all..." Mary grinned, broadly, "...dressed' up, what say we go grab a bite of dinner? Say... at Giordano's?" Dolly's jaw dropped. "What... you mean, go out in public like this?"

Mary blinked. "What's wrong? You were planning to be female in private? that would sort of be... counterproductive, wouldn't it?" "Well..." Dolly hesitated. "yeah - but, somehow, in my fantasy I didn't look like this."

"Look like a 'refuge from the eighties', you mean?" Mary asked, pointedly using Dolly's own phrase. "Perhaps, in your fantasy, you're always perfectly dressed, accessorized and coifed."

"No, not that... exactly." Dolly said, with a sigh. "It's just that, usually, you dress to emphasize your figure - I don't have much to begin with, and this outfit certainly doesn't help."

Mary looked thoughtful. "Well, if that's all it is, I can certainly fix that."

Dolly blinked - then began to grin. "Would you?" Mary smiled. "Sure."

Stepping up to the garishly-clad new woman, she removed Dolly's horn-rimmed glasses, throwing the world out of focus. Dolly felt Mary's hands touch her temples....

...and the world suddenly came back into focus. For the first time in her life, Dolly was able to see without the aid of thick lenses. "Holy shit!" Dolly breathed, amazed.

"Hey - we're just getting started." Mary said, grinning. Dolly continued to feel the odd sensation running through her new body, starting at the top and working it's way down - and, with now perfect eyesight, she could watch in the mirror as her new body was slowly altered.

The first thing her newly-reshaped corneal lenses focused on where.. her eyes.

Her incredibly rich, electric-blue new eyes, clear and deep like a mountain lake, seeming so large and clear beneath the finely arched eyebrows Mary had also provided.

"Whoa !" Dolly said, in amazement - even as the tingling continued downwards on her face, and she watched her nose shrink inwards, loosing mass and height. Once large and too 'obvious', it quickly reshaped itself into a more feminine shape that looked a hundred percent better than it had.

Below that, her gloss-red lips puffed outwards slightly, becoming somewhat fuller and firmer as her chin became better defined, a gracefully feminine curve.

The tingling sensation continued to slip downwards, narrowing her shoulders slightly even as it gave her softly rounded feminine musculature slightly more definition. Then the tingling reached her chest - and the new woman gasped as that garish blouse began to push outwards, driven by the force of her once-nominal breasts filling out, acquiring firm mass and a more gracefully rounded shape, until a firm pair of C-cup breasts, unencumbered by a bra, pushed the blouse firmly outward in a most delightfully feminine manner.

And the changes continued. Her waist shrunk slightly, but the change seemed more dramatic as her hips flared out to more womanly dimensions, her ass becoming firmer and fuller. Though mostly concealed, her legs also took on more defined contours, become less nondescript and more feminine.

Then, almost as an after thought, the last change occurred, jumping from her now dainty ankles all the way back to the top - as her hair rapidly grew, spilling down to just above her collar in a silky page-boy cut, the hair going from muddy brown to a light, glossy shade of brunette.

"Oh, My God " Dolly said - then her glorious new eyes opened even wider as a more richly feminine contralto rolled out of her slightly thinner throat. "Mary, I could kiss you!"

In the space of a few minutes, Dolly had gone from a mousy-looking stick-figure of a woman, to a fairly attractive, nicely contoured vision of 'above average' femininity, with just the right touches. She wouldn't stand out in a crowd for being either too unattractive nor startlingly beautiful - but her new figure was now crammed into an outfit that (with her enhanced curves) had become skin-tight, guaranteeing that her otherwise average figure would draw more than the average amount of attention - giving her both the elation of being visibly female in public, tied tightly to the nervousness of... being visibly feminine in public.

Talk about your mixed feelings...

"There you go, Dolly." Mary said, with a grin. "A nice, normal feminine body so you don't feel ashamed - in an outfit that seems to show that you don't even know how to be ashamed. You wanted to be female in public, and that's exactly what you're going to get."

"Yeah..." Dolly said with a bright, if slightly nervous, smile. "The funny thing is... I feel just as excited as I do in my fantasies, but I've never felt this queasy before..."

"then I'd suggest a very light lunch." Mary said, then giggled. "Besides - you've got to watch your girlish figure."

That made Dolly laugh - then laugh harder as a thought struck her, and she shared it with Mary. "Actually - I could eat like a pig> I've got you to give me a 'girlish' figure anytime we want."

Mary waved a finger. "Ah, ah, ah! no cheating, Dolly. I expect you to act just the way any woman would. Remember - most of us don't have access to magical talismans that can make us look any way we want!"

"Most of you weren't male an hour ago, either." Dolly retorted. Picking up her big white leather purse, she struck an exaggerated feminine pose and pushed her voice into it's highest ranges. "We ready to do lunch, girlfriend?"

"Sure." Mary said, with a grin. "oh - I'd better drive. If you were pulled over and the cop asked for ID..." "Yeah..." Dolly said, blinking in surprise - the thought hadn't even occurred to her before now.

As far as the 'official' world was concerned, she didn't even exist....

* * * * *

"Mary.... I want to go home "

The plea was spoken in a low voice, a look of near-anguish across Dolly's garishly made-up features. Mary looked surprised. "You mean you're not enjoying yourself?"

The sarcasm was so thick you could have cut it with a knife, and Dolly winced - practically from the first instant they'd walked into the restaurant, Dolly had figured out that Mary wasn't as forgiving as she'd originally seemed - instead, she was so 'cheerful' because she was enjoying paying Dolly back for the deception and other grievances, real or imagined.

Giordano's was a reasonably up-scale restaurant and bar - and Dolly stood out like a sore thumb. That would have been bad enough - but Giordano's was also popular with the more upscale college crowd, and between her 'fair-to-middling' new body, and the outrageous packaging that contained it, Dolly had received an awful lot of male attention - which had been aggravated by Mary's endless supply of suggestive comments.

What had finally caused Dolly to make her plea had been Mary's loud observation about a handsome-looking man looking like Dolly's 'type'. It was the fifth such blatant action in the last fifteen minutes, and Dolly had been hit on more times since they'd gotten to the restaurant then should could conveniently count.

"Please, Mary..." Dolly all-but-begged, now. "I know that you're not happy with me, and I can understand... but you know I don't like men, and in this outfit I feel like a cheap whore. Please, don't..."

"No - you don't understand how I feel." Mary interrupted, quietly but with an edge of anger. "Damn it, I come home from my vacation to find that my ex-boyfriend has been lying to me all these years. Even worse - he'd not even half the man he seemed to be, and he wasn't very manly to begin with."

Dolly's jaw dropped at the venom with which the words were spoken. "I.."

"Shut up!" Mary continued. "I know I'm not exactly a pageant-queen, but I figured that I couldn't be that bad, because I did finally manage to land a 'serious' man... only to find out that he's some sissy-boy who's more interested in my wardrobe than in me!"

"That's not...!" Dolly started to deny the accusation - but the look Mary gave her made her jaw snap shut.

"What's more - this sissy-thing I've been dating is so... blessed that I'm given a magic amulet that can make his fantasy come true - but won't do anything for me! It only works on you, you God! I mean - I can give you the body you've always dreamed about, which is really the body I've always dreamed about - and I'm stuck with this barely-female body that's only good enough to attract a pansy-boy like you! And you you get the fantasy body I've always wanted, and you haven't even got the guts to be female enough to use it the way it deserves to be used!"

'Oh, shit ' Dolly thought, a chill running up and down her spine as she realized that Mary wasn't just angry - she was, quite literally, insane with a strange form of jealousy. Her apparent 'acceptance', at the beginning, had been a sort of 'displacement'. She'd been doing what Doug had done all those years - projected herself on the life of somebody else.

The fact that Dolly wasn't willing to 'fulfill' the fantasy had finally pushed Mary to the edge - and right over. The fact that Dolly now had Mary's own fantasy body was bad enough - but the fact that Dolly had the gall not to 'enjoy' the attention it generated was worse. Mary had dressed Dolly up in this garish outfit precisely because it was the type of thing that Mary wouldn't dare wear with her own, less 'feminine' body - and all Dolly, with her now-perfect body, could do was complain.

Dolly realized that she'd, unwillingly and unwittingly, managed to push all the wrong buttons, bringing to life all the insecurities and self hatred Mary had ever felt about her own 'tomboy' life....

"Mary, I'm sorry - I didn't mean " Dolly said, sincerely - and scared out of her wits. She'd never, ever seen Mary so absolutely volcanic.

"Shut up!" Mary hissed. "You don't want to be here? Fine! Let's go!"

Mary threw a wad of cash down on the table for the food that they'd barely touched, and Dolly had to struggle to keep up with Mary, hampered by her tight skirt and incredibly high, slender heels.

By the time Dolly had caught up with her, Mary was already in the car. Because Dolly had never actually left the apartment 'en femme', she'd had no skill in getting in and out of a vehicle in a tight skirt, so they'd parked in a dark corner to allow Dolly to practice a couple of times, something she'd been unwilling to do in the brightly-lit parking lot of their apartment building. Now, Dolly cursed the darkness, almost falling flat on her face as she stumbled over some uneven pavement and landed against the driver's side door of the car...

...just as the engine roared to life, and the headlights snapped into existence. The car revved a couple of times, but moving would have risked crushing one of Dolly's feet...

...and, staring in the window, Dolly was horrified to see a look of consideration on Mary's face. "Mary! What are you doing!" Dolly cried, and Marry frowned in anger and rolled down the window.

"Going home." She said, shortly. "I don't want to deal with you right now - I'm too damned mad. Maybe by the time you get back, I'll have calmed down a bit. Maybe even enough to turn you back into a man before I kick you out of the apartment."

A chill ran down Dolly's new spine - this fantasy had quickly turned into a nightmare, and the thought of being stuck in this new form for the rest of her life was horrifying. "Mary, please... let's talk this over! Please!"

"Get away from the car, Dolly - or I'll just run you over." Mary said, coldly, revving the engine again."

"Please! I.. I don't even have any money. Not for a bus, much less a cab - and I can't walk around town dressed like... this!"

Mary looked Dolly up and down very slowly. "Oh, I see - you don't think those clothes fit your 'image', huh? I guess you're right. Here, let me help."

She held out her hand, and Dolly moved back slightly and extended her own hand, expecting Mary to drop some bus-fare into her palm...

Instead, Mary's empty hand just gripped Dolly's for a second, then let go.

"Have fun, bitch." Marry said, stepping down on the accelerator and pulling away.

"No...!" Dolly screamed at the receding taillights... as she felt that strange tingling take control of her body again.

For an instant, she thought Mary had started her transformation back into a man, to leave her to walk home dressed in an outfit even less suited to that form than this.

Instead, she'd done the exact opposite...

The first sensation was almost as if somebody was tugging lightly on her hair.. and strands of brassy gold hair tumbled in front of her eyes even as she felt it spill down her back in thick, silky waves.

Even as she pushed the hair back from her face in anguish, she could feel her face changing. She couldn't see the changes, of course, but the sensations themselves gave her some clue as to what was happening - the way her lips felt as if they'd been bee-stung, swelling out into a fuller, firmer-yet-soft bow-shape. At the same time, she could feel the bones of her jaw and cheeks writhing into new shapes while her nose also altered.

Then the tingling continued downwards, There seemed to be little change in her throat, shoulders or arms...

...but that was more than made up for when it reached her chest. As she looked downwards in helpless horror, she watched her spandex blouse begin to push outwards, the fabric stretched by the swelling mounds beneath.

"No! No, this is too big!" Dolly cried out, hands flying to her chest. The new, higher-pitched soprano of her voice barely registered as she vainly - and somewhat stupidly - tried to restrain her swelling mounds by pressing against them with her hands while they continued to swell outwards, becoming fuller and firmer, almost perfectly spherical.

"No, stop!" She shouted at her chest, in vain, as her new endowments continued to swell. They were already the size of prize cantaloupes, and showed no signs of slowing. At the same time, the hands struggling against the expanding masses of breast-flesh were becoming smaller and slimmer, the nails growing much longer. The pressure of her hands across her new endowments made her all-too-aware of her swelling, thickening nipples as they pressed through the thin fabric and against her slimming palms.

"Please, Mary - make it stop!" the new woman called, helplessly, as her breasts passed the size of volley-balls and continued onwards. Though quite stretchy, the material of the blouse had its limits, and those were being met - rather than continuing to stretch just over the expanding mounds, the material now had to take up extra 'stretch' from other parts of the garment. The neckline began to expand outwards, the actual size of the opening growing, as the bottom of the blouse pulled upward, molding itself to the bottom of her swelling breasts.

Just when it seemed there was no more slack to be taken up,... her massive new tits finally stopped growing.

"Oh.. my... god..." Dolly said, stunned, her hands now cradling her huge tits from underneath for support. Her massive new mounds were the size of basket-balls, and literally packed into the now-skintight blouse, whose tail-end just barely rested under the bottom curve of her massive tits, and whose neck-line was stretched so far outward that the garment displayed an amazing amount of creamy cleavage. Her nipples were equally large, and in the cool evening air they were fully engorged, clearly visible through the molded fabric. "I... I'm.. enormous..."

So... absorbed was Dolly in her massive new endowments, she barely noticed the sensations as her waist shrunk inwards to a delectably tiny diameter.

She did notice, however, when her hips and ass expanded considerably, because her skirt suddenly became skin-tight over her wider hips and fuller, firmer buttocks, the hem of the skirt sliding up slightly as the slack was taken out of it.

Dolly gasped, one hand flying from her massive new 'rack' to her swollen derriere...

...just as a strange sensation trembled through her, seeming to slide through her body's innards in a way fundamentally different then the tingling that had heralded the changes in her outwards appearance. It felt as if the blood running through her veins had somehow... changed. As if it was running faster, and hotter - it was almost as if she suddenly had a fever... but it wasn't quite the same sensation.

"Mary... what have you done to me?" She wailed into the darkness of the night, hands sliding across her altered form. She shivered in the cooling night air, her hands sliding over her almost painfully engorged, enlarged nipples. She shivered, wondering how she could feel both cold and hot at the same time, as if there was a liquid fire running through her veins. She also felt 'on edge', alive with a form of nervous energy that was derived from a source far distant then the fear and anger she was feeling at the moment.

Then Dolly hear running footsteps coming in her direction - at least two sets of solid, masculine treads thundering over the pavement. Gasping, her altered form's importance pushed back slightly by a more immediate fear, she shrank back into the shadows...

...as a pair of young men burst into the alley. Dressed semi-casually in trousers and collarless shirts, the young men were about twenty- five or so, both of them obviously fit and athletically built. The one on the right, in the black trousers and shirt, had short-cropped dark hair and a dark goatee, making him look more threatening then his sandy-haired companion, dressed in beige trousers and a white shirt

- but both of them possessed trim, well-muscled figures that could easily overpower a woman like her, and Dolly found herself shivering at the sight of those strong, masculine bodies...

...then forgot to breath for a long second as she was stunned to realize that the sensation coursing through her at the moment wasn't fear - at least, not all of it was. She was huddled against the wall, eyes wide as she stared at the young men...

...but her lips had unconsciously formed a strange half-smile, while her hands were sliding across her own altered body as if they had a mind of their own.

In that instant, Dolly realized what Mary had done to her, and what the odd sensations were. To make the punishment even worse, Mary had vastly increased Dolly's production of hormones...

In short, Dolly was really damned horny, no matter how disgusting she found the thought.

And she did find the though disgusting. Though she'd long wished to experience life as a woman, it had always been a 'platonic' fantasy

- she had never had any sexual attraction towards men...

...until now. No matter what her mind might think of the idea, her body was definitely having a reaction to the presence to fine specimens of masculinity. Though she had no way of knowing it (other than by the effect), Mary had also boosted Dolly's ability to perceive - and respond to - male pheromones.

So when the two young men saw the huge-breasted blonde woman in tight clothing and their bodies began to respond, Dolly's own body began to respond to that, as well.

As well as one other little 'surprise' Mary had left her....

"Are... you all right, uh miss?" The blond asked, pupils dilating at the sight of the woman before him, his tone of voice somewhat vague. "We, uh.. heard shouting "

Now - how did she answer that one, Dolly wondered numbly, even as she tried to deal with the sudden - and very distracting - sensations her altered body was providing her. It wasn't easy - she found she was having a hard time marshaling her thoughts - her mind kept slipping away from her coherent trains of thought, as if her attention span had shortened dramatically.

Which it had. Mary couldn't actually 'brainwash' Dolly into anything - but she had complete control over every aspect of Dolly's physical self, and it was relatively easy to give Dolly 'brain-damage', lowering her overall ability to think, while ramming her hormone levels up so high that when Dolly did think, it was almost guaranteed to be about one thing.

Which is why...

"I, uh, was just " Dolly said in her breathy new soprano, her brow wrinkling in confusion and frustration as her mind refused to provide a viable 'excuse'. "Uh I was just a little upset."

"But are you okay?" the dark-haired one asked, taking a couple of steps closer - and Dolly was unconsciously fondling her own, massive tits through the spandex as the proximity increased the effect of his pheromones.

It slipped out before she could stop herself. "Uh, no - I'm just really horny, and can't concentrate because of it "

The men's jaw's dropped as she realized what she'd said, instinctively answering their questions with an honesty that she knew was highly inappropriate, especially for her.

"Oh, god - I mean !" Dolly stammered, flushing brightly. "I can't believe I just said that!"

"Neither can I..." the blond muttered, also stepping closer. "Look, uh "

"Dolly.." She supplied, vacantly, just having noticed that she was fondling her tits with one hand, while the other was sliding up and down the front of her skirt. Blushing, she yanked her hands away from her body and tucked them behind her, gripping her left wrist with her right hand.

"John and Steve." The blond supplied, pointing to himself and his friend. "Uh... you seem "

Steve noticed his friends search for the proper word - which was nigh well amazing, considering that he was staring at Dolly's well- displayed body with a certain interest that was more then obvious by the bulge in his pants. "Um do you need some help?"

Dolly's head was spinning, and she struggled to maintain her sense of self in the face of her body's sensations. She literally felt her body crying out for attention, and her hands kept wanting to...

"My friend - she left me here." Dolly said, almost absently telling the truth. "Without even cab fare." "Oh!" John said, surprised. "That's... a lousy thing to do. Why don't you let us give you a ride, then?" Dolly beamed. "Yeah, that would be wonderful!"

In her current state, it didn't occur to her that it might not be such a good idea - not until it was too late. Steve owned a new minivan, and he pulled it around and Dolly and John climbed into the back seat, the vehicle already in motion before she realized that locking herself in an enclosed space with two aroused men was not the answer to her current predicament...

She moaned as her body's already 'painful' arousal shot through the roof, and her hands helplessly returned to massaging her huge new tits through the spandex as she closed her eyes and began to writhe in her seat.

"Dolly...?" John asked, surprised.

She knew what she was saying, and she hated herself for having to say it. She couldn't stop herself though - it was like a crack addict trying to quit cold-turkey. What she was 'addicted' to was 'normality', and the rampaging desires through her body were driving her crazy, the way a junkie might go through the DT's.

So, it wasn't surprising that she found herself saying the simple - if hideous - truth.

"oh, god.. I'm so horny..." She moaned, one hand sliding down her body and under her skirt. "I'm so horny I can't think straight. My whole body's just crying out to be touched and fondled!"

Of course, all things considered - John took that as an invitation, of sorts. Leaning over, he slid one hand over the taut fabric covering her massive right tit - hesitantly.

"like this...?" He asked, uncertain if this was really happening the way it seemed to be.

The touch of John's hand made Dolly shudder - and while it was emotionally disgusting, the instant his hand touched her tit she was lost.

"Oh..." She moaned, grasping John's wrist - and sliding his hand down inside the neck-line of her blouse. "Touch me.. touch me everywhere..."

Dolly found herself thrusting her body against his, letting him slide his other hand around to fondle her firm, leather-encased ass while she moaned in frustrated pleasure.

Deep inside, She was horrified by how easily she'd let go - yet she also couldn't seem to care. It didn't matter what she wanted - this is what she needed.

"Jesus!" Steve swore from the front seat, staring in shock in the rearview mirror...

"Take me!" Dolly moaned in helpless need, pulling her top off over her head and setting her huge, firm mounds free. "Take me now! This time Steve's head swiveled all the way around and he gaped in shock at the half-naked woman in the back seat...

...then whipped his head to face forward at the blare of a horn, and barely managed to keep from plowing into oncoming traffic. Hurriedly, he pulled off into a darkened parking lot for a closed store.

Dolly didn't notice. Her sense were inflamed with the lust she was feeling, and her hands were working on the fasteners of John's clothes as the blond youth returned the favor.

The van was never designed for what happened next - but where there's a will....

The seat they were sitting on was one of the 'flip and fold' style seats, and by awkwardly crunching themselves into the space between the bench seat and the two 'captains chairs' seats up front, John managed to get the seat flipped up and folded out of the way. They'd only disrobed to the point where 'access' was available, with Dolly's skirt rucked up around her waist and her sodden panties literally torn off and tossed aside. John positioned her so that she was on her hands and knees, her torso was in the space between the front seats, her ass sticking into the back and 'available'. With his pants down around his knees, his head bent and shoulders pressed against the roof of the van, John looked more then a little ludicrous - but that didn't stop him from plunging his throbbing cock deep into Dolly's sopping cunt.

She cried out in pleasure as she was penetrated, then moaned in continued pleasure as John began awkwardly thrusting in and out, his ass slamming into the folded-up back seat with every thrust.

Dolly's body shook with the force of the fucking she was receiving, huge, dangling tits wobbling and shaking. Steve, wide-eyed in the diver's seat, looked at the ecstatic face of the woman only inches away from him, her body shaking as his best friend fucked her - and he unzipped his own pants and began to jerk off, feeling incredibly ridiculous even as he did so.

catching sight of this out of the corner of her half-closed eyes, Dolly turned her head and began licking and kissing Steve's cock as the forward movement of each thrust pressed her face toward Steve's cock. Steve's hand speeded up and most of the shame and embarrassment was washed away by the added pleasure Dolly's brief oral caresses brought.

John groaned and stiffened as he came - and, in the same instant, Dolly screamed as her own body writhed and twitched in the grasp of her first female orgasm. An instant later, Steve's self-manipulation pushed him over the edge and he also came, a jet of warm, thick cum gushing from his cock and splattering over Dolly's face, some of it landing in her open mouth.

The three of them slumped as the trio of orgasms faded, the smell of sex filling the air of the vehicle.

As Dolly came out of the orgasmic haze, she felt John's slowly softening cock still buried in her wet snatch, tasted Steve's cum on her lips and in her throat...

...and gagged as she realized what she'd done, the post-orgasmic afterglow muting her hormonal 'high' enough for her to regain some semblance of control.

"oh.. God.." She gasped, horrified. With a wet 'slurping' sound, she pulled herself off of John's cock, feeling sick...

...and disgustingly 'happy'. Sex with a man had felt fantastic...

"I.. I have to get out of here.." She stammered, yanking her skirt down over her bare pussy and grabbing her blouse.

"Wait..!" John called, but she ignored him and slid the door open, all-but-falling out of the van and onto the grassy verge of the road.

Spitting and gagging, Dolly used a handful of tissue from her purse to wipe her face, then stood and struggled into her skin-tight blouse, ignoring the guys' shouts as they struggled to get themselves cleaned up and 'rearranged'.

Getting her blouse in place, Dolly - nearly crying - hurried off before the guys could chase after her, hurrying towards the apartment and 'safety'.

* * * * *

Mary answered the pounding on the door - and grinned wickedly at the sight of a thoroughly mussed Dolly, needing no other confirmation of what had happened.

"So, how was it?" Mary smirked. "Enjoy being a 'real' woman?"

"Mary, please..." Dolly begged, her over-endowed body already trembling in the grip of her rising desires. She tried to enter the apartment...

Mary stuck out her hand, placing it against Dolly's over-inflated chest and stopping her in her tracks. "No way, Jose - I've had enough of you. You're on your own now. You wanted to be a woman? Well, now you are - so have a good life."

"Mary, don't do this to me!" Dolly pleaded, near tears. "This is what I wanted - to be some huge-breasted bimbo! Even if I had to be a woman for the rest of my life, I could have managed that... if it was more like your life, instead of this... hell!"

Mary laughed without humor. "oh, you'd like my life, would you? I'd like to see you live my life, bit..."

The flash of light was so blinding that it blanked out all senses, not just sight. For an instant, both women's brains were completely overloaded as the amulet around Mary's neck flared into cool, painless incandescence.

"...ch" Doug/Dolly hear Mary's voice finish - from between her own lips. As she felt the amulet turn to ash and disintegrate from around her neck, 'Mary' stared at the over-exaggerated body that, seconds before, she had inhabited.

It took the new Dolly a second longer to get it, as the huge-breasted blonde gaped at her own body. "Wha...?!"

'Mary' laughed with delight. "You were touching me!" She crowed. "You were touching me, and you 'willed' something that was part of my fantasy - and it came true."

"Nooo!" Dolly screamed in horror as she realized that she was now trapped in the very hell she'd crafted for her once-boyfriend. "No, change me back!"

"I can't." Mary said, grinning at the irony of it all. "And even if I could - I wouldn't. You were about to condemn me to the life of a huge-breasted bimbo slut. Well.. you can enjoy it yourself."

"no! No, I won't let..." Dolly started to say...

The new Mary's hand was still on the huge chest of the blonde in the doorway - and now she pushed. Unprepared, Dolly stumbled back into the hallway and Mary quickly slammed the door and locked it.

Ignoring the pounding and shouting from the other side of the barrier, the new Mary grinned at her reflection in the mirror, then headed over to the phone, willing herself into the right 'mood' as she picked up the receiver and punched three digits on the keypad.

A second later, a voice came on the line - and Mary went into her act.

"I.. I don't know what to do..." She 'sobbed' to the emergency dispatcher. "My boyfriend and I had an argument earlier today, and he left. He hasn't come back - and now there's some crazy woman pounding on my door and saying all sorts of weird things and I think she might have hurt poor Doug and..."

the voice on the other end urged her to calm down and start over, with her name and address.

It was hard to keep a self-satisfied smile off her face as she stated, for the first time, the new, female identity that she was now more than happy to carry for the rest of her life....

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Walking into a store, one man is shocked to see his exact double, before he can react, he is mistakenly captured and slowly turned into a nymphomaniac bimbo.

Doppelganger

By Gunslinger

Doppelganger - (German - 'Double-goer') A double, a look-alike. It is said that if anyone ever meets their doppelganger, it is a sure sign that bad luck will soon befall them.

DAY ZERO

"Boom de boom-ba-boom... Didi-da boom ba boom bi-boom..."

The fact that he was completely off key and lacking in rhythm didn't diminish the joyful attitude of Rob Carsten's vocal rendition of the song running through his mind. Fingers drumming in time with his mental soundtrack, feet bopping along to the same off-beat as his vocals, the tall, muscular youth made his way down the sidewalk, his sneakers squeaking against the concrete as he performed an occasional 'dance step' in time with the music.

Obviously in no hurry, the sandy-haired young man in his mid twenties bopped along, his blandly handsome face reflecting his good mood as he headed down to the corner store for a bag of milk and loaf of bread. The muted sounds of traffic ran through the cool night air, diminished from the usual day-time cacophony to the somehow distant, almost musical mutter of a mid-sized city in the wee small hours of the morning.

Rob was just about to head home after having been to the local night-club - but his good-mood was only slightly exaggerated by the intake of alcohol, not caused by it. He'd only had a couple of beers.

No - the reason he was in such a good mood was the slip of paper resting in his pocket, on which was written the name and number of the cute red-head he'd hit it off with so well at the bar. She'd been truly sad to have to leave with the female friend who was visiting her for the weekend - but had left Rob with the promise of a second meeting that might extend into something even more. That was the reason a slightly silly grin was pasted on his face, and why he was in such a care-free mood.

Reaching the store, Rob reached for the front door...

Several thoughts chased through his head in an instant. The first was the question 'When did they cover the door in mirrored Mylar?', followed by the thought, 'Damn I look good'.

Then it registered that his 'reflection' in the door was holding a jug of orange juice, and with that came the realization that he wasn't looking at a mirror image of himself - but at another young man who bore an incredible resemblance to himself.

In that stunned instant, Rob's numbed brain went into autopilot and began cataloging the tiny differences between himself and his double on the other side of the door.

They were both the same height and weight, to within a small percentage. Both had sandy-blond hair of about the same length and minimal 'style'. The facial features were almost identical, though his duplicate's were a little paler, a trifle more strained.

Even their clothes were almost - but not quite - identical. Both wore black jeans that could have come from the same rack at the same store, and both wore blue denim shirts. But Rob's shirt was a slightly heavier grade of denim, and it was over a gray T-shirt, while the other's open collar revealed a white one. They both wore sneakers, although Rob's weren't as cleanly new as his counterparts, and his white laces where his duplicate's shoes had black ones.

Then his counterpart - looking as equally stunned as Rob felt - spun and disappeared into the store, breaking the instant of immobility that held them locked into the tableau.

"Hey!" Rob called, startled, yanking open the door and dashing inside. He wasn't quite sure why he was chasing the frighteningly similar young man - it was instinct rather than logic that was making the call. Somehow, though, he felt it was important to meet this twin of himself, find out how somebody could look so much like himself, yet be a complete and utter stranger who just happened to cross his path.

Catching the flash of black-and-blue disappearing through a door at the back of the store, Rob hurried down an aisle as the Oriental store-keeper watched in confusion. Ignoring the sing-song shouts of the owner's fractured English, Rob ducked through the door and into the back storeroom, looking around in the glaring, fluorescent-lit room. Boxes and containers lined the room on shelves and stood in piles on the floor, vying for space in the cramped, dingy room. At the far end was a door leading into a bathroom, and halfway down the length of the room a heavier, metal door looked to lead to the alley behind the store.

Hurrying down the length of the room, Rob through open the heavy door and stepped into the alley, lit only by the garish orange glow of the sodium lamp directly above the door.

Rob looked around, looking for a sign of his twin, but saw nothing. By the time he turned to look inside, the heavy door had swung shut with a final-sounding 'thunk' revealing a slab of black-painted metal that lacked an outside handle, to discourage breaking-and-entering from the relative sanctuary of the alley.

Taking another look around, Rob shook his head, realizing that his look-alike was either considerable faster than him, or hadn't come through the door into the alley at all. Shaking his head in bemused wonderment, Rob headed down the alley to walk around to the front entrance.

He was just reaching the juncture where the alley spilled onto the semi-residential street when his heart jumped into his throat and he instinctively leapt back. It was a socially-programmed response to the sudden, high-pitched screeching of rubber on asphalt as a late-model Ford Econovan, painted in a dark color, screamed to a stop at the end of the alley, mere feet from where Rob stood.

Even as the boxy vehicle was shuddering to a stop, the slide door was thrown open and three men, dressed in dark clothes and wearing black ski-masks, bust from the van with speed and purpose. Rob barely had time to register what was happening before they were on him, two of them grabbing his upper arms while the third grabbed his ankles.

Rob began to writhe and shout in stunned defiance as they tossed him into the lightly padded cargo bed of the van like a sack of potatoes. The dark-clad men ignored his protests as they scrambled into the vehicle with him, hauling the door shut even as one of their number slammed Rob - who'd begun to push himself up - back down to the floor.

"Go, go, go!" The man at the side door shout, and the unseen driver of the vehicle responded with a heavy foot on the accelerator, causing the back end of the vehicle to slew around as smoke poured from the tires. The sound of the engine was unusually - suspiciously - powerful for the boxy vehicle, and the nearly whiplash-inducing acceleration that occurred when the tires found their grip backed up the assumption that there was more to the vehicle than met the eye.

"What the hell is..." Rob started to demand, his heart pounding in fear and anger.

One of the men grabbed him by the shoulders and slammed him flat against the floor while another pushed a damp, foul-smelling rag across his mouth and nose.

His shouts muffled by the rag, Rob struggled vainly against the man pressing on his shoulders with his full weight, and the third man who'd sat down on his feet. Even attempting to whip his head back and forth under the rag did no good, as the hands holding the rag in place followed every movement, allowing Rob no respite.

He'd instinctively held his breath when the chemical-tinged odor of the rag had reached his nostrils - but his struggles only burned up the oxygen in his lungs that much faster, and his chest began to feel as if it were being compressed as his lungs cried out for air. Unable to stop himself, Rob sucked in a deep breath...

...and began to cough, sucking in more and more of the pungent fumes as the darkened interior of the van seemed to swim in and out of focus, until the dark blanket of unconsciousness lifted and swallowed him whole.

* * * * *

He seemed to float in a void, surrounded by nothing. No light, no sensation of distance or enclosure, no sense of falling yet no sense of remaining still. There was just the void, all around.

Then.. voices, coming through the void as if traveling light-years. "Dammit, what do you mean it's not him?"

An older voice, strong and confident, yet tinged with anger and a hint of uncertainty. The one that responded was more then just tinged, and almost fawning in it's tone.

"We asked him a dozen times under pentathol, under hypnosis - under every treatment available, Director. He stuck to his claims of being a..." A pause, a rifling of papers. "A Robert Carsten. The thing is - it all checks out. Fingerprints in the apartment that he gave us the address to, checks with his employer, family, friends - secretly of course. It all checked out. His story, as incredible as it seems, is true."

"You mean that this.. person who just happens to look exactly like Moran also just happened to cross paths with him on the night we decide to make the grab?"

"Yes sir."

Silence followed, and Rob didn't know whether or not he had slid deeper into the void again. Then: "There's no doubt at all?"

"No, Director - none at all."

"Well, we certainly can't have it come out that we're running a domestic op - that bastard in the White House would have our heads. Do what you have to do to clean this mess up."

"Sir? The boys over in STI have been working on a little something, and need a... 'volunteer'. This might be the perfect way to kill two birds with one stone, sir."

A pause, then in a tone that indicated that it was the end of the discussion, the older voice replied coldly. "I don't care how it's done - just as long as he can't tell anybody."

Then the darkness surged around him, and Rob was once more swirled away in it's eddies.

* * * * *

DAY ONE

Rob moaned and rolled over....

memory flooded back, and the sandy-haired youth sat up with a jerk, eyes wide and frantic as he lifted his smoothly muscled arms to ward off an impending attack...

...that never came.

He sat, panting, his wide, dark-brown eyes taking in his surroundings as it slowly got through to him that he was in no immediate threat. Shaking slightly from the adrenaline rushing through his system, he pushed the thin white 'hospital' blanket off of his naked body and - shivering slightly in the mildly chill air - slowly rose from the bed, body still tensed for any surprises.

He was in a small, impersonal looking room. Small, of course, was a relative term - the room was about the size of his bedroom in his apartment, although not as 'nice'. Instead, the walls were a neutral off-white color, unadorned by any decor, and didn't look to be made of drywall. There was a pair of plain, functional metal wardrobes on one wall, a large, floor-to-ceiling mirror on the opposite wall beside a doorless opening that obviously led to a bathroom, and the bed he'd just risen from along the third. The final wall of the chamber was taken up by a metal door with no handle, lock or other protrusion.

The floor was beige, industrial-grade carpeting, and the light that filled the room came from inset fluorescent tubes behind metal grills, like the type of fixtures he remembered from school. The room looked like a cross between a cheap hotel room and a prison cell.

In fact, it looked more-or-less like Rob imagined a room in a mental asylum might look.

Rob shivered again, his breathing slowly resuming its normal rhythm as his pulse subsided to a slightly elevated beat. Although it was obvious he was in no immediate danger, it was equally obvious that he was in a situation far from normal, and he definitely didn't like it.

Keeping one eye aimed towards the door, he padded over to the wardrobes along the one wall and swung them both open, peering inside.

The first was completely empty. The second, however, held one garment on the rail section, and one set of underwear and socks on the racks along the side. A single pair of footwear rested on the floor of the metal wardrobe.

Gathering the clothing together, he carried it back to the bed and dressed quickly, pulling on the white cotton briefs, pale blue jumpsuit and white socks with nervous movements. It took him three tries to lace up the black leather 'combat boots' that came with the outfit.

Taking a deep breath, Rob squared his shoulders. Striding towards the forbidding metal door, he raised his fist to pound on the surface and demand to be let out....

...and he burst into flames.

He didn't actually, catch fire - but for all the world, that was what his nerve ending insisted he was feeling as he screamed and crumpled to the floor, writhing in agony. It lasted but an instant, but it seemed an eternity before the sensation vanished, only leaving the memory of it searing his mind.

'Now, now, Bobbi - you shouldn't do things that might upset or anger people.' A voice floated through hidden speakers in the room, its owner's gender and age hidden by electronic distortion.

Gasping, sheathed in a cold sweat, Rob pushed himself into a sitting position, mind spinning. "My name isn't..." he began dully...

...then gave a strangled scream, hands flying to his throat as it felt as if broken glass was being force-fed to him. An instant later, the sensation vanished.

'Correcting me might upset me, Bobbi - and when you upset, anger, or otherwise create negative emotions in other people, you'll find that it can be very, very painful.' The voice said. 'Perhaps you should strive to be more pleasant. Agreeable, even. Don't you think?'

Swallowing and blinking back the tears the pain had caused, Rob fought down the immediate response that leapt to his lips. Forcing himself to take a deep breath and keep his tone even, he replied, subconsciously raising his voice to address the unseen microphones.

"I I'm sorry." He said, feeling shame and anger at the subservient tone he was forced to use.

"Could would somebody please let me out of here?"

'For somebody who asked so nicely?' the voice replied. 'Of course, Bobbi.'

As 'easy' as that, the door slid aside with the sound of powerful hydraulics dragging the five-inch-thick door aside on its tracks.

Rising, Rob looked outside the door, hesitant. Despite his urge to leave the room, it was also the only semi-familiar thing in this bizarre, horrible situation, and he was hesitant to leave its dubious sanctuary...

Bolts of pain thrummed through his legs, and Rob stumbled out into the corridor. The instant he cleared the door, the pain vanished.

'Now Bobbi - the way you hesitated there made me think you didn't trust me - very upsetting, I must say.'

Closing his eyes, Rob ground his teeth together, forcing his reasonably level-toned answer through them. "Of course I trust you." He lied - literally through his teeth - to the unseen voice. "I just don't know where I am."

'Of course - you must be looking for the dining room. Straight down the hall, turn right, first door way on the right.'

Straightening, Rob started to follow the directions.. then felt a throbbing in his throat that began to rapidly head towards pain. Before it quite reached that level, however, the voice spoke again.

'What do you say, Bobbi?'

As the sensation began to burn, Rob forced the words through the growing pain in his throat. "Thank you."

Instantly, the pain vanished. Hands clenched into fists of anger and humiliation, Rob began walking. As he numbly followed the directions, he took a deep breath and hazarded a question.

"Who are you?" He asked, fighting to keep bitterness of fear from his voice. "Why are you doing this to me?"

'You may refer to me as 'Mistress', Bobbi - and this is for your own good.' The voice replied. 'A less... empathic person who had seen what you have might have to be... terminated.'

A chill ran down Rob's spine. Though the electronic distortion robbed the... Mistress' voice of all inflection, there was no doubting the threat in the final word.

Stepping through the doorway indicated, Rob found himself in a small but fairly nice corporate-style dining room, with a few round oak tables scattered around the room, and one wall taken up by a serving line presided over by two men in whites. A few other people - about an even mix of genders - sat at the various tables, showing no interest in the new arrival.

Rob knew better than try and ask any of them for help - he was sure that they were part of whatever was happening to him. Instead, he kept from making eye contact with any of the other diners as he walked up to the serving line.

The first man smiled at Rob as he walked up and picked up a tray - and the warning tingle in his lips gave Rob just enough time to force a return smile before the pain rose to unbearable levels.

"Well, I don't think I've seen you here before." The man said, nodding. "My name's Steve."

"R.." Ron started... then gasped thickly as it felt as if he was being choked by a pair of unseen hands. "...Bobbi."

Even as he shamefully forced the feminine name from his lips, the pain subsided.

Steve's brow rose. "Really? That's funny - I never thought I'd meet a 'Bobbi' with such a deep, masculine voice. I always thought a 'Bobbi' would have a sweet, lovely, feminine voice."

"Well, I..." Rob started.

Terrible, terrible pain lanced through Rob's throat. The tray he'd picked up clattered to the ground as he sank to his knees, hands grappling at his throat in a vain attempt to find and end the source of the terrible, burning agony that lanced through his vocal cords....

Then it was gone.

"Oh well. I guess I - and everyone else - will just have to get used to being disappointed every time I hear you speak." Steve continued, as if nothing unusual had happened. Fear lanced through Rob as he realized what was happening.

Anytime he tried to speak in his 'masculine' voice, it would be 'disappointing' - and cause the intense agony he had just felt.

"Of course, you could go two doors down, on the left." Steve continued, picking up another tray and laying atop the serving table as if merely carrying on a 'normal' conversation. "I hear that Doctor Markson can give you just about any voice you could possibly want eggs?"

Having hauled himself to his feet, it took Rob a second to mentally switch gears from the 'obvious' solution that had been 'causally' mentioned to the offer of food. Trying to deal with the chill that ran down his spine at the realization of what was planned for him, Rob shook his head, his lips forced into a grotesque rendition of a smile by a warning tingle.

"Sorry - was that a yes or no?" Steve asked, 'innocently', and a warning sensation let Rob know that he'd better answer damned fast.

The flush of embarrassment vied with the paling of fear in his face as he struggled to force his voice into a higher register. "No, tha "

The false word of gratitude trailed off into a gurgle as pain gripped his throat - but it was 'merely' intense, not unbearably agonizing. Even as the pain faded and Rob gasped in mingled relief and anger, he realized that he'd gotten 'partial marks' for the attempt to force his voice into a less 'disappointing' tone. Say - pain equal to his poor ability.

"Sausage?" Steve said, still acting as if nothing untoward was going on.

Taking a deep breath and fighting the fear and anger he was feeling, Rob forced the words through his grotesque smile. "Just "

A gasp, the strong-but-not-unbearable pain of his pseudo-feminine attempt fading. "...coffee "

Pain subsiding again but another warning pain reminding him of his 'manners'.

"...please "

Head spinning with the sharp, rhythmic bursts of pain, Rob forced out the 'personalized' word of the sentence, the tingle informing him that it wasn't option.

" Steve."

"Sure thing, Bobbi - I admire you trying to watch your figure." Steve said, pouring a cup of steaming black brew from an urn.

Rob gasped and swooned - but not because of a burst of pain.

Because, when Steve gave the 'compliment', a quick, yet powerful, burst of pleasure had suffused Rob's body.

Then... "Cream and sugar ?"

A life-long 'three-cream-two-sugar' man, Rob grit his teeth behind the false smile. "Black...is...fine thanks."

Taking his coffee, Ron headed towards an empty table...

"Oh, why don't you join us here?" A voice called to his left, dragging his eyes to a table with two men and a woman, the later one waving at him.

A hint of agony told him what he should do.

Face starting to ached from the insincere smile pasted on it, Rob lowered himself into a chair...

...and painfully introduced himself as 'Bobbi' to a trio who obviously wanted to 'chat'....

* * * * *

Rob reeled through the corridor, struggling to maintain the smile on his face as he moved, lost in a haze of pain.

It wasn't the sharp, short agony created by uncorrected disappointment - in was the throbbing, on- going pain of a headache and sore throat caused by forty-five minutes of agonizing 'polite' conversation.

Staggering slightly in time with the beating throbs of pain behind his right eye, Rob pushed open the door marked with a red cross and the name plate that read 'John L. Markson, MD'.

A older, dignified gentleman in a traditional white coat was talking to a woman in a nurse's uniform. He looked up as Rob came through the door, then smiled and stepped forward, hand outstretched.

"You must be Bobbi!" He said as Rob forced himself to shake the man's hand. "I'm Doctor Markson, and this is nurse Denevue."

"Pleased.. to... meet.. you... both " Rob forced out, his throat fighting the words as if knowing the burst of agony each syllable would inflict. "So - what can I do for you today?"

"I... have... a... headache " Rob fought through the pain to explain in as 'reasonable' a tone as possible, each burst of agony more intense as his raw throat forced his voice to be less and less feminine. "...and... a... sore throat."

"We'll see what we can do to fix that for you, Bobbi." Doctor Markson said agreeably.

Drops began to leak from the side of his eyes, and each one felt like a drop of acid scalding his cheeks - but Rob couldn't stop the tears of shame and anger from flowing as he continued. "...and...

can... you... change... my... voice please?"

The Doctor's smile widened. "Of course, Bobbi - we'll have you sounding like yourself in no time "

* * * * *

"There you go, Bobbi - and please, feel free to drop by any time."

Rob barely even felt his lips curving back into the smile that was now an instinctive reaction to the prickles of pain he felt when it started to slip. Even the rest of his face now matched the smile, warning prickles having taught him to make the smile look almost completely authentic. Since the four-hour procedure had been under local anesthetic only, it had given him plenty of time to learn, when the Doctor wasn't busy with something down his throat.

"Of course, Doctor Markson." Rob 'assured' him, wincing internally at the sweet, almost bubbly soprano that flowed from his 'smiling' lips. "Thank you for all your help."

A warning burst of pain made her extend additional thanks to the nurse before being able to escape into the hallway, shame burning deep inside at what he'd 'willingly' done to himself, 'merely' to escape the pain.

But something else warred in him as well - for now, every time he used his new voice, a quick burst of mild pleasure matched every syllable that emerged in the feminine tone he now possessed.

A man walking down the hallway in the other direction smiled as he passed. "Good morning." "Good morning." Rob replied in a chipper tone...

...and found himself having to fight the urge to broaden the brief greeting into a conversation to extend the amount of pleasure that talking in his new voice brought.

None of the internal turmoil showed on his grinning face as he obeyed his stomach's rumbling and headed back to the dining room...

...with a half-formed hope that somebody would want to chat, and hating himself for it.

Crossing the room, Rob found Steve was still on duty behind the serving table as he picked up a tray. "Hey there, Bobbi - how's it going?"

"Pretty good, Steve," Rob replied in a passably cheerful voice. "How 'bout you?"

"No complaints." He said, agreeably - then a faintly puzzled look crossed his face and he leaned forward. "Say, I don't mean to be insulting - but is that 'five o'clock shadow' I see?"

Wincing almost unnoticeably, Rob forced his lips into the 'apologetic smile' the warning pains demanded. "I'll be right back "

* * * * *

DAY TWO

Rob opened his eyes and stared up at the ceiling of his room. He lay, unmoving, his mind trying to cope with the situation he'd found himself in, and the half-formed hope that the events of the day before - and his 'willing' surrender of his male voice - had been some sort of twisted nightmare.

'Rise and shine, Bobbi.' Rob winced.

'People will be upset if you hide out in your room all day, Bobbi - you need to be more social'

He almost hurtled out of bed, just ahead of the gathering pain. Since he was 'alone', no need to smile at his predicament was given, but he certainly couldn't give voice - bubble, feminine voice as it was - to his thoughts as he padded into the bathroom and used the toilet, then brushed his teeth and - after a glance in the mirror that caused a flash of intense itching - shaved.

Walking over to the wardrobe, he found that the outfit he'd worn the day before had been removed, and another left in its place - a pair of gray track shorts, a white T-shirt, and a pair of sneakers.

Mentally shrugging, Rob pulled on the clothing provided, finding it a trifle chilly given the air temperature, but - all things considered - not the worst thing he'd had to face so far.

Again, he politely asked for the door to be opened, the sound of his altered voice and its subservient words grating on his nerves as he forced himself to debase himself for egress. When the door slid open, he thanked the unseen Mistress, then headed off to breakfast.

Once more, Steve was standing behind the serving table when Rob arrived. "Morning, Bobbi." He said, affably. "Just coffee again?"

Since it no longer hurt to speak, (Physically, that was - emotionally, it was another story), Bobbi 'smiled' and asked for a full breakfast.

"Sure thing." Steve said, agreeably - but made no move to start serving the food. Instead, he continued speaking. "Now, I hope I'm not being insulting here Bobbi - but do realize you've got the hairiest legs I've ever seen?"

Instantly, every follicle on his legs began to itch uncontrollably.

Rob's teeth ground together behind the false smile he wore. "No offense taken, Steve - thanks for pointing that out." He waited a beat. "So - bacon and eggs, toast and home fries?"

Steve blinked. "Of course - coming right up."

Steve served the food, one eye on Rob, who was fighting the urge to scratch his legs, knowing it would do no good. Accepting the tray, he quickly headed for a table, being drawn to one already partly tenanted by an 'impossible to refuse' offer to join the couple already there.

the instant he slid his legs under the table - hiding his 'unsightly' leg hair - the intense itching dropped to a lower, bearable level.

Eating a full breakfast before it went cold was a chore - Rob was constrained to chat sociably as he ate, and with two people chatting with him, he only managed a bite half as often as either of them. Leaving the last, cold portion on his plate, Rob swallowed the dregs of his coffee and headed for the door...

...and the instant his legs cleared the table, the itching returned to full force.

Forcing himself to show none of the discomfort he was experiencing, Rob headed out the door, turning towards the recreation room he'd that had been 'suggested' as the place to spend a few hours during the day...

"Say - you must be Bobbi." A new voice called, and Rob 'cheerfully' acknowledged the new moniker to the slender woman who'd spoken.

She eyed him with a wry expression. "My - you're a hairy one, aren't you?"

Instantly, every follicle on his body joined in that chorus, not just the ones on his legs.

"Excuse me..." Rob ground 'politely' through his teeth - then reversed direction and headed for his room.

After asking the favor of having the door opened, Rob walked into the bathroom. Having seen them before - and somewhat anticipating their use, no matter how much he dreaded it - he knew where the two bottles of depilatory gel were under the sink, and now he pulled them out and re-read the instructions.

He stood there, the bottles sitting on the edge of the sink, jaw clenched as he tried to fight the urge to use them. Though the sensations of terrible itching he was feeling were 'artificially' created, the urge he was feeling to put an end to them was his own - he wanted to stop itching. He just wasn't sure what the 'lesser of two evils' was in this case. The thought of using the depilatory gel disgusted him, and the idea of having a smooth - feminine - body was shameful. The idea of giving in to these unspoken but obvious 'demands' was just as bad...

...but the terrible, mind-crushing itching over every inch of his body was just as bad, and he knew that

- sooner or later - he'd have to give in. He could hold out a while longer yet - but what would it gain him? A few more hours of having body hair? He couldn't withstand this itching forever, and he knew that he'd break at some point if he fought it, and the simple truth was that his body hair was just what he was used to, couple with a sociological taboo against guys doing something so 'feminine'. He'd already traded in his voice, and he'd thought that the previous weakness - and it's constant reminder - would stiffen his resolve.

He was wrong.

Acid-like tears of shame and hatred rolling down his cheeks, Rob undressed and stepped into the shower stall. Slowly, hating himself for it, he began to slather on the thick, aqua-tinted gel...

...and immediately felt the itching sensation fade to nearly nothing. When his entire body was coated in the goo, with the exception of his eyebrows and scalp, it was almost as if he felt normal - with only his shame and anger roiling within.

Half an hour of standing in a goo-coated position in the shower stall, and then it was time. With one slick hand, he reached out and turned on the water.

As the -at first - ice cold water sluiced down his body, he shivered and began to wash off the gel. With the goo went the loosened hair, falling down his body and through the drain, leaving behind growing swatches of smooth, feminine-looking skin.

And a complete lack of itching.

Within minutes, Rob had washed off all of the coating, taking with it all of his body hair. Head bowed in shame, the sandy-haired youth shut off the water and stepped out of the shower. Toweling himself off only further increased the realization of what he'd done - the very feel of the towel against his skin felt subtly different now that he lacked his usual thin coating of body hair.

Once dry, he padded out of the bathroom, jaw working. Part of him hated the unseen Mistress and all her confederates for what they were forcing him to do - but there was plenty of bitterness left over for himself, as well, for being such a 'agreeable' target, giving in so easily.

Tossing the pile of clothes he'd carried for the bathroom onto the bed, he prepared to get dressed - and he caught a look at himself in the full-length mirror on the wall, his head instinctively turning to give himself a better view of his denuded body.

A shiver of pleasure ran through him at the sight of his smooth, hairless body. Blushing, he tore his eyes away from the reflection... then let them creep back.

Just as using his new, feminine voice caused small bursts of pleasure for being 'agreeable', so did the sight of his now smooth skin cause bolt of pleasure to run through his body. Though they were fairly weak, they were nevertheless tangible, and the realization that seeing his body so smooth and feminine made him 'feel good' was shaming, regardless of the fact that the sensation was artificially induced.

It also didn't help that, like any 'normal' person, Rob would rather feel pleasure than pain. He knew it was a set-up, but it didn't help. It was still true, no matter how artificially created it was - defiance would bring pain, compliance would bring pleasure.

Tearing his eyes away for a second time, Rob dressed quickly, trying not to look at his smooth flesh any more than necessary, as if denying himself those fleeting bursts of pleasure was a sort of penance for giving in so easily.

Once clothed, he strode to the door and lifted his voice to the air, feeling those jolts of pleasure as the feminine tones sounded from his lips.

"Mistress, would you please open the door?"

'Certainly, Bobbi - and I just want to say how nice you look without all that body hair.'

"Thank you, Mistress." Rob said, shuddering at the sudden, powerful burst of pleasure that the compliment caused him to experience.

Stepping out into the corridor, Rob headed for the rec. room...

...and half the people he passed mentioned how much better he looked, causing more of the unwanted/welcome bursts of pleasure.

* * * * *

DAY THREE

Rob's eyes blinked open, and he slid the sheets off his denuded body and swung his legs over the side before the electronically distorted voice of the Mistress could send even warning shots of pains through his body with her morning 'wake-up' call.

'Good Morning, Bobbi - I see you're up bright and early.'

"Yes, Mistress." Rob replied, forcing himself to not snap something angrily - first thing in the morning, it was tough to keep a tight rein on his emotions.

'Good for you.' Mistress said - causing a shiver of pleasure at the accolade. 'Why don't you shower and get dressed, then head down to breakfast?'

"Sounds good to me, Mistress." Rob replied, partially truthful. He didn't have any feelings about it one way or the other - but at least it wasn't a comment that would cause another bout of pain.

He showered quickly, finding hard not to linger over his smooth, soft skin - not because he 'really' enjoyed the skin itself, but because of the induced tremors of pleasure he felt from his new skin.

Toweling off, he headed over to the wardrobe...

...and stared in disbelief at it's contents. Subconsciously, he knew the direction this horrifying situation was pulling him in - but the sight of the plain white cotton panties, long, flowing skirt and lacy pink blouse only drove it home.

Hands trembling, Rob closed the doors of the wardrobe, the clothing still inside. 'Something wrong, Bobbi?' Mistress asked, and Rob braced himself...

...but no pain came. He had closed his eyes tightly in anticipation of the agony, and now he slowly opened them, hands still clenched in fists of anticipation.

'Bobbi?'

Rob cleared his throat. "Uh... Mistress. I... I don't particularly like the clothing provided today." He said, carefully. In truth, he wanted to scream and rant and rave, spill out his anger and shame and horror - but this feeble show of defiance was all he could summon up, fearing the blast of pain that was sure to follow...

'Perhaps there is something else you'd prefer to wear?' Rob's mind was spinning - then he got it.

So far, Mistress hadn't said anything that would have caused the bolt of pain, because she hadn't told him he'd look good in the clothes, or otherwise hinted that she'd be 'disappointed' if he didn't wear them. Instead, she seemed to be waiting for something.

This was some sort of a test.

Rob thought of the clothes sitting in the wardrobe... then summoned up his courage and took a bit of a plunge.

"I... I really prefer jeans, Mistress. And shirts that are less " He blushed, cleared his throat, then continued on in his new soprano voice. " frilly."

There was a couple of seconds of silence...

Then a series of strange rattling noise from the two wardrobes.

'Why not pick out something you'd think you'd look good in, then?' Mistress said. Hesitantly, Rob opened the wardrobe...
...and found it stuffed full of an array of clothing, as was the second one.

It explained how his new outfits appeared each morning - the back 'walls' of the wardrobes were really doors. Now, he looked at the selection of clothing, and hesitantly picked out some clothing and began to dress, fearing a blast of pain at any second for making the 'wrong' decision.

First, he pulled on a pair of simple white cotton briefs. Although women's briefs, they were the least feminine available. Over these he pulled on a pair of women's jeans that looked nearly the same as the ones he'd always worn, but were tight in the waists and loose in the hips and back, if tolerable. A simple black T-shirt was next, its only 'feminine' concessions being the way it fit too taut across the shoulders and waist, and the tiny black sating bow at the 'vee' of the neckline. The final touch was a pair of almost unisex sandals that had a thick once-inch high cork heel.

As soon as he put each piece of clothing on, he felt a mild discomfort that was obviously induced. It wasn't a constant, all-over discomfort, but a nagging sensation everywhere that the clothing didn't fit the way it was 'supposed' to. It was annoying - but not unbearable.

'I suppose that'll do.' Mistress said - causing neither pain nor pleasure.

"Thank you for the choice, mistress." Rob replied. "Can you please open the door?" 'If you'd like.'

The door slid open, and Rob stepped out, his face automatically slipping into that sort of 'cheerful' mask at the first waning twinges. He headed off towards the dining room, wondering whether or not he'd passed the test, and what, exactly, the test was testing.

Breakfast passed without anything really new - just the usual chatting in his new voice, the usual this- and-that. the only 'new' addition with the constant, low-level irritation of his ill-fitting clothes. Annoying

- but tolerable.

After breakfast, Rob headed to the Recreation Room, where he played cards with a couple of people, then watched a little TV before lunch, the entire time trying to ignore the steady sensation the clothing was creating. It wasn't getting any worse in terms of actual levels, but - like the ancient Chinese Water Torture - the longer it went on, the more annoying it was, grating endlessly on his nerves.

After lunch, he excused himself and headed back to his room and reassessed his clothing.

He emerged an hour later, feeling better physically, more ashamed emotionally - and more understanding, intellectually.

He had first dressed in a pair of knee-length black spandex 'bike shorts' that had a green stripe up the side of each leg. Since the material was form fitting, it eliminated most of the discomfort - although he'd had a brief blast of pain before he'd thought to tuck his 'unsightly' bulge back between his legs.

Now, the compressed feeling from his cock and balls inside the white cotton briefs was purely physical, not induced.

He'd tried a loose-fitting white peasant blouse at first, trading the obviously feminine appearance of it for the loose fit - but a sudden burst of discomfort had arrived when Mistress had pointed out that the outfit really didn't 'go well together', so instead he'd ended up with a black spandex crop-top. Only that had caused a burst of discomfort too, until he'd 'padded' it out with a couple of pairs of socks to create a rough illusion of breasts, his face red with shame.

That had caused the pain to vanish, so he'd pulled on a pair of socks and sneakers, deciding that he could live with the outfit...

...until he'd looked in the mirror.

He'd looked utterly ridiculous like that - and the knowledge of how stupid the outfit looked on him had left him in even worse discomfort than the original outfit he'd put on that morning, although it had still been well short of actual pain.

Grimacing, he'd undressed and reassessed his option.

He had to pick clothing that wasn't 'tailored' to a female form, but that would look acceptable on him as if he were a female.

With a sigh, he'd sorted through the clothing and ended up with a compromise that he could live with on all fronts.

He'd kept the same briefs, sandals and shirt from his original outfit - but with the 'modification' of also pulling on a simple white cotton bra and padding its 'C' cups out with socks, face flushed with shame. Unlike the crop-top, the shirt - especially over the bra - didn't make it obvious that his bust was padded rather than real.

However, instead of the jeans - whose tailored denim couldn't be 'faked' around with - he grit his teeth and pulled on a simple knee-length skirt. It was flowing rather than form-fitting, and was done in shades of black and gray.

The outfit, while definitely not his 'thing' made him look 'acceptable' enough that there was only a mild physical discomfort in his shoulders and waist - which was almost exactly offset by the pleasure that came from 'showing off' his arms, lower legs and 'chest'.

Which was more-or-less the point of the whole exercise, he understood now. He was being taught that he did, indeed, have all the choice in the world as to what he would and wouldn't do - he just had to decide how much pain he wanted to withstand, or - conversely - how much pleasure he wanted to feel.

That might have been the worst part of all. They weren't 'simply' trying to brain-wash him. That would have meant simply instilling their own ideas into him, giving him a single new 'train of thought' in the areas they wanted to change. Instead, they were forcing him to 'voluntarily' remake his own mind, choosing for himself his new 'tastes' and preferences.

What frightened him the most, though, was the knowledge that it extended to everything - not just his clothing.

Sooner or later, they were going to make him make similar decisions - but on how he 'wanted' his own body to look. And it scared the hell out of him to think what he might do to himself to avoid pain and feel pleasure.

* * * * *

DAY TWELVE

Hesitating, Rob stood outside the door - then, clenching his hands into fists of self-disgust, pushed it opened and stepped inside.

Nurse Denevue looked up and grinned. "Well, Bobbi - it's nice to see you again."

"It's nice to see you too." Rob lied, the smile on his face looking utterly sincere for the almost two weeks of constant practice. "Is the doctor in?"

Nurse Denevue nodded. "Of course - is there something wrong?"

Biting back his emotions, Rob forced his tone to stay level as he spoke. "Well, I was just wondering if there was some way we could shave a couple of inches off my waist so that I could fit into some of my clothes better. I've tried a corset for the past two days - but that's not really comfortable."

"Of course... why don't you follow me..."

Six hours later, Rob stood in front of the mirror in his room and lifted the blouse he wore, sliding his hands gently over the still-tender flesh of his now nineteen inch waist.

Hating himself for giving in to the constant discomfort of his 'thick' waist - but shuddering in pleasure at how 'wonderful' his new wasp waist looked - Rob tucked the blouse back into the skirt he was wearing. Instead of blousing it out, though, he drew it tight and cinched the belt around it, 'showing off' his hour-glass figure from the slender waist and the padded bra. A constant thrum of pleasure ran through his body at having such a 'delightfully' slender waist, and he hated himself again for going that small - he'd originally planned to shave only a couple of inches off, not compress it down to such dainty dimensions...

...but it felt so good to be this small, physically, despite his disgust.

Stepping out into the hall, he headed towards the elevators at the far end. He'd been shown the elevator - which only went up two levels and was run by Mistress via remote control - three days before, when he'd been directed up to 'The Club'.

'The Club' was a large room that was dimly lit and filled with heavy music, where alcohol and gambling was available, as well as a stage where women danced - not strippers, but scantily clad women who did numbers that seemed like a cross between a strip-tease and a Vegas revue act. Although Rob had the occasional drink now, he wasn't going to The Club to relax - but to work. because, for the past three days, he'd been working there, running the 'concession' stand. No money traded hands and he didn't earn any money - instead, he sat behind the counter for six hours a day, providing cigarettes, cigars, pipe tobacco and various candy bars to any who asked for them, and restocked the shelves. He didn't really have a choice in the matter - but it beat the hell out of sitting around all day in the Recreation Room, which - after a steady week of it - had paled considerably.

Reaching The Club, he went to the booth and removed the 'closed' sign before settling into the comfortable chair.

"Hey - glad you're back, Bobbi - I've been dying for a smoke." A slender man who hung out all day at The Club said, obviously waiting for her return.

"Sorry about that." Bobbi apologized - another one of her 'duties' seemed to be 'conversationalist', and she actually 'enjoyed' that part, as each word she spoke provoked that same burst of pleasure at the sound of her 'lovely' voice. "Camels, right?"

"You got it." The man said, accepting the pack of cigarettes. "Oh, and hey - you're looking great today - nice and trim. I never knew you had such a slim waist."

Shuddering under the burst of pleasure at the compliment, Rob thanked the man.

He didn't even notice himself unconsciously sliding his hands over his slim waist as the pleasure trembled through him.

* * * * *

DAY TWENTY-NINE

Bored out of his gourd, Robby flipped down the mirror he'd installed on the wall of the booth and checked his face, running his fingers through the curls of the recently styled hair and shivering in pleasure. Rummaging through his purse, he pulled out the tube of Coral Pink lipstick and began to touch up her lipstick while trying to ignore the annoyance of seeing his too-masculine nose and jaw-line amidst the 'pleasurable' sight of his long-lashed eyes and carefully made-up face. Even the lips were a 'break-even', the lipstick just barely matching the pale of his thin, masculine lips.

"Bobbi?"

Putting away the lipstick, Robby turned to face Mr. Shaw, the man in charge of The Club. "Yes, sir?"

"You seem to be bored in your current job." Shaw said, holding up a hand to stop the inevitable denial. "So, I thought I'd offer you a promotion."

"A promotion, sir?" Robby asked.

"Yup - how'd you like to be a waitress? Only four hours a day instead of six, and you get three drinks a night after your shift is done, plus thirty bucks in chips."

Robby considered the offer - and pain trembled through his body. He knew that - compared to the other waitresses - he was 'ugly', with thick hands and big feet, and unlovely facial features.

"Um... can I give you my answer in a bit...?" Robby asked, the thought of not being bored silly every day just so tempting. "I.. want to think about it."

"Sure - take some time off, give it some thought." Mr. Shaw said with a smile.

His four-inch heels tapping on the floor, Robby headed over to the elevator, his 'cheerful' expression masking the thoughts and emotions swirling behind it.

Three hours later, mind still in turmoil, he hesitantly pushed open the door to the doctor's office....

* * * * *

DAY SEVENTY-THREE

"Hey, Bobbi Long-Legs!" A voice called. "Another Gin and Tonic!"

Shivering in pleasure, Robby waved at the owner of the voice to indicate he'd heard, then headed towards the bar - which gave the speaker another chance to ogle the long, incredible legs protruding from the tiny, fluffy black miniskirt that Robby - and all the waitresses - wore.

Of course, those legs, by themselves, were incredible enough - but with the black seamed nylons that encased them and the six-inch stiletto heels of his black pumps emphasizing the curves of the calves and buttocks, they became simply mind-boggling. Robby had no idea how incredible his new legs would be when he went in to see the doctor about getting them reshaped.

Of course, he wasn't exactly proud of his new legs, per se, although the incredible pleasure he got at the sight of them was amazing, as was the pleasure from the frequent compliments. For Robby, the greatest benefit of having his legs reshaped was the three weeks he'd gotten 'off' while they healed, when no demands had been made on him and he'd felt no pain at all - even the pain from his healing legs had been missing, thanks to the pain-killers Doc Markson had put him on.

Getting the drink, he carried it over to the man, hating himself for hoping he'd make another compliment that would cause another burst of pleasure.

Laying the drink on the table, he let the smile on his full, soft lips grow wider, slightly crinkling his pert, upturned nose.

"Here you go handsome." Robby said, disgusted at giving in to the urge to compliment the man, despite the quick burst of pleasure that he felt. It had taken him forever to learn of this new 'effect', simply because he hadn't complimented men before - but now he was finding it hard to keep from falling into the habit of doing so, knowing that a burst of pleasure would come each time he gave in.

"Thanks, Bobbi." The guy said, causing a burst of pleasure...

...then he reached up and squeezed one of her 'tits' through the black ilk short-sleeve blouse he wore. The man blinked. "hey - you're padded!"

Pain zapped through Robby's chest, making him gasp - it had been more than a week since he'd felt such intense agony, and he'd begun to hope...

"Excuse me.." He managed, having ample experience at disguising his discomfort. All but running atop the slender heels, he dashed for the elevator...

...and Doctor Markson's 'tender' care.

* * * * *

DAY NINETY-SIX

"Baby, you're just too damned good to us poor folk, you know that?" Steve said with a grin.

Laughing, Bobbi slapped him on the arm playfully, unconsciously pulling his shoulders back so that his firm, round C-cups pushed up and out, a hint of milky cleavage showing through the top two buttons, which he'd recently taken to leaving undone.

"Thanks, hot stuff." Bobbi replied cheerful, straightened. "I'd love to keep chatting with you, but I've got to get back to work - these drinks don't serve themselves, you know."

"Yeah - and that's a damn shame." Steve said with a grin, letting one finger lightly trace down her nylon-clad leg. Bobbi shivered in delight at the sensation - and in disgust at the emotions it caused, but he didn't try pulling away from Steve's - or any man's - touch, knowing the burst of pain it would bring about.

When Steve finally let his hand fall away from his leg, Bobbi turned and headed to the bar, 'working' his fuller, heart-shaped ass in the unconscious desire for another compliment. Reaching the bar, he put his tray down and leaned against bar, one high-heeled foot propped on the brass rail around the base, unconsciously posing his body for the maximum effect to increase the almost constant if rather weak current of pleasure that thrummed through his body at looking so damned 'good'. Whenever he caught himself 'femme'ing it up, Bobbi felt the now familiar burst of shame and disgust at himself, but it was happening less and less frequently now.

Him catching himself at it, that was, not the actual act of doing it - in fact, he was acting nearly utterly - almost overly - feminine all the time now, to match his almost completely feminine new look. It was just that he was so 'used' to the changes - even if he didn't want to admit it consciously - that it took more and more for him to notice the changes. He was even 'used' to the new sensation that his body created when he moved and walked, and spent an awful lot of time 'instinctively' searching for the most pleasurable way of doing things, when he only consciously thought he was searching for ways to avoid the jolts of pain.

"Hey, Bobbi - looking good!" A man on the barstool next to her said with a smile that Bobbi returned out of habit.

"Thanks." He replied, again mostly out of habit, although there was some real gratitude in it for the burst of pleasure that came from the compliment.

"Say - why's a hot little number like you working as a waitress?" The guy asked - and Bobbi's smile became forced as a slowly gathering pain began to fill his body.

"Excuse me?" He asked, wondering what was disappointing the man, and what he could do to stop 'upsetting' the guy.

"Well, a woman as sexy as you should be up there, dancing." He pointed at the stage. "Oh..." Bobbi said, gritting his teeth against the steadily increasing pain.

"Then again - I guess you're not really the dancing type." The man said, musingly - and the pain began to ease....

...but the man continued. "You're a little under-endowed for the job, and you probably don't have that certain sexual 'air' about you for it."

Instantly, the pain redoubled, then doubled again, thrumming all through his body but focused more at his chest.

Grimacing through his smile, Bobbi shot a glance up at the dancer on stage, a slender woman who was - undeniable - dancing with a sensual flair that Bobbi had never even attempted to duplicate, her tiny sequined 'bra' cupping her firm double-D breasts.

There was no way he was going to end up on that stage, Bobbi swore to himself. Chatting with the man a few minutes longer, he went back to work, jaw muscles begin to strain against the hidden grinding of his teeth.

* * * * *

DAY ONE HUNDRED AND THREE

"You ready, Bobbi?"

'Hell no', he thought - but it was no longer even an effort to avoid saying 'upsetting' things, it having become a survival instinct by now.

"Sure thing, Mr. Shaw." Was what he said instead, lying his ass off to his boss as he looked at the beaded curtain that led out to the stage.

"Well then - go show them what you've got." Mr. Shaw said, patting Bobbi on the ass.

Taking a deep breath, Bobbi started forward, swaying seductively atop his seven-inch spiked-hell platform shoes.

Pushing his way through the curtain, he thrust back his shoulders, lifting his 'gorgeous' DDD-cup tits up and out, thrusting the round masses in their tiny white, rhinestone-studded bra out for the world to see as he placed his dainty, long-nailed hands on the womanly swell of his wide hips and sashayed down the stage, working his full, sexy ass in the confines of the white hot-pants.

He almost collapsed to the stage.

Not from the fear, disgust, hatred, - self- and otherwise - or shame.

From the incredible thrum of pleasure that shook his body as the audience applauded, hooted and shouted compliments.

Fighting to continue the act he'd practiced in the privacy of his own room, Bobbi soaked up the steady, rich thrum of pleasure that invaded every inch of his body at being ogled by appreciative men, eyeing his altered form with obvious enjoyment. He found himself slowly altering his act, pushing it further and further in an attempt to increase pleasure in certain parts of his body at certain times - sometimes emphasizing his legs, sometimes his ass, sometimes his tits.

When he finally swayed and jiggled off the stage, it was with a bigger-then-normal grin on his full lips, and an intense pleasure filling him that seemed to push aside other considerations as he tried to catch his breath and force himself to remember that this was all horrible and disgusting, that the pleasure was 'fake' and he shouldn't let it affect how he felt about his altered body...

* * * * *

DAY ONE HUNDRED AN THIRTY-FOUR

Pleasure whiled and swirled though his mind, pushing aside everything else as he let his body move almost instinctively, not needing to think about it so much as merely react, letting the ebb and flow of the pleasure let him know how to move.

A subconsciously understood shoot caused him to lean forward a bit, shoulders pushed back, and jiggle his torso, causing his newly-inflated GGG-cuppers to bounce invitingly, his surgically enhanced nipples pressing out against the pale blue sequined bra with vigor, their high level of sensitivity only adding to the pleasure. Pulling back upright, he placed his hand on his now-sixteen-inch waist and swayed down the stage, fuller lips in a wide, almost mindless grin as he worked his hips and ass to the music.

Raising his hands over his head, Bobbi pulled his long, wavy - and now, thanks to a 'suggestion', richly golden-blond - hair up, then let it tumble back down so it once more hung to mid-back.

Spinning at the end of the stage, he wiggled his incredible ass at the crowd, barely aware of what he was doing in his haze of constant pleasure.

Lost in that ecstatic glow, Bobbi failed to register the form of a half-drunk man standing up unsteadily and reaching out... but register the increase of pleasure as his finger slid down the smooth, soft curve of his hip...

...and under the edge of the fabric of the baby-blue briefs he was wearing.

Then the man staggered - and fell backwards. His grip on the material didn't loosen as he tumbled over - and with a susurrantion, the fabric parted, following the man's short voyage to the hard floor below the stage.

Dead silence flowed out from the crowd and the haze vanished in an instant...

...as Bobbi's long-hidden cock once more saw the light of day, dropping from between his soft, smooth legs, where the taut fabric had held it out-of sight.

"Ewww..."

"That's disgusting..." "That blew the mood." "Get off the stage..."

"God - somebody put something over that..."

As the mood of the group swung to the other end of the spectrum, so did the sensations Bobbi was feeling.

Pleasure was replaced with pain. Pain worse than any he'd ever felt - and all of it centered between his legs.

Screaming in sheer agony, he collapsed to the stage, curling up in a ball as the white-hot agony seared through him, blanking out thought and reason and leaving him lost in a world of agony that didn't release him into the arms of unconsciousness. Unaware that his screams had words - coherent words, begging and pleading for a specific remedy - Bobbi was also unaware that somebody responded to the screams. The fifteen minutes it took Doc Markson to arrive were an eternity spent in hellish agony, and when the doctor asked him if he really wanted what he was screaming for, he didn't register the question consciously but began to scream an undeniable affirmative to the question...

Screams that ended with a needle entering his left buttock and bringing blissful darkness to Bobbi's universe.

* * * * *

DAY...?

With an unladylike grunt in a very feminine voice, Bobbi came awake suddenly, blinking in confusion at the sight that greeted his eyes.

Trees.

Brow furrowing in confusion, Bobbi shifted his head, slowly realizing that he was looking through the windshield of a car, and that he was seeing trees in the near distance, bathed in the glow of an early morning sun - a sight he hadn't seen since he'd...

Memory came flooding back, and he gasped as if punched in the stomach. His hands - his slender, feminine hands - flew downwards, past the yellow sweatshirt straining over the monumental tits on his chest (did they seem even bigger then before... yeah, they were huge...) to the crotch of the jeans he turned out to be wearing.

Fumbling, he undid the fly of the jeans, and pushed his hand down the waistband of the lacy white briefs....

...to have her fingers slide over what was undeniable a fully-formed - and fully female - vagina.

Bobbi gasped, eyes sliding shut and a slow, sensuous smile curving her lips as her fingers began to stroke the outer lisp of her rapidly dampening cunt. She moaned softly, low in the back of her throat, as a sudden, stark image flashed through her mind it wasn't her finger at the edge of penetrating her wonderful, wet new pussy, but a huge, thick, throbbing cock that would pound into her, fucking her long and hard until...

"What the hell!"

Bobbi yanked her hand way from her crotch, gasping, her eyes flying open as she tried to drive the sudden and vivid image from her mind. The distinctive, musky scent of an aroused woman began to seep through the car as she shuddered at the sudden, powerful set of urges and thoughts - totally alien to her - that had suddenly filled her.

"Wha where the hell did that come from?" She gasped, stunned and horrified at how easily it had slipped into her mind how naturally.

Yanking her mind away from the thought, she looked around again, forcing herself to focus on other things.

Like the car she was in - a Volvo, according to the insignia on the steering wheel. Behind her, in the bed of the station wagon, were boxes and bags, some with clothes overflowing them - looking like the car of a person (woman) in the process of relocating. On the seat beside her rested a black leather purse, which she eased open and began to look through.

A wad of cash, rolled up and surrounded by an elastic band. A quick rifle through the roll gave her an estimate of more than ten thousand dollars.

A woman's wallet, with another forty bucks in the money compartment, plus loose change in the change purse. Three credit cards, a driver's license with 'her' picture on it, birth certificate, etc. - all in the name of 'Roberta Mae Jepson'.

A cashier's check from a bank in Las Vegas, made out to her - for fifty-three thousand, seven hundred and twenty-one dollars.

"Well - I won't be hurting for money for awhile." The new woman said to herself, mind trying to catch up with the sudden changes in her life. She continued to paw through the debris in the purse, a completely normal collection of belongings for any woman, she supposed.

Keys, rather obviously hung on a Volvo key-chain - but no house key. A few photos of 'herself' in Las Vegas, including one of her on stage below a garish neon sign announcing 'Big Bust Week at The Top-Hat Club'. Although the background was unfamiliar, the actual picture of her was one from her doing her routine at The Club - obviously all the photos were doctored to give 'Bobbi Mae Jepson' a history.

An envelope, containing 'her' resumes - which, incidentally, filled her in on her own history, in a shallow sort of way. According to the resumes, she was born in Glensward, Tennessee, had her high-school diploma (but no more), and had worked for a few years in a variety of waitress and cashier jobs before becoming a stripper, then working at various clubs.

Pushing aside a drift of Kleenex tissues and loose cosmetics, she reached the bottom of the purse, and...

"Ummm.... yeah..." Bobbi moaned with a slow smile, pulling the large, thick, 'flesh' colored dildo from the purse with her left hand and lightly stroking the rounded tip of the phallus with the fingers of her right. "Come here, big boy... you'll do 'till mama Bobbi can get the real thing."

Her voice had taken on a faint accent as she spoke in that sensual, dreamy voice, and her full lips were in a dreamy smile as images of hard, throbbing, gushing cocks claimed her mind. She licked her lips slowly - lewdly - as she stroked the thick dildo. Bringing the big, thick dildo up to her lips, she began to lick and suck at the cool plastic end, one hand dipping down to duck under the sweatshirt and slide up to her massive, bra-encased tits. She began to fondle her massive, sexy globes as she thought how much she wanted a real cock in her mouth, so she could suck down a delicious load of hot, wonderful...

"Oh God...!"

The dildo described a short arc, clipping of the windshield and rebounding onto the passenger's seat as Bobbi, shuddering, yanked her hand from under the straining sweatshirt, panting. Lewd images by the dozen screamed through her head as she shook it, trying to clear the disgusting...ly attractive images from her mind.

"What... What have they done to me...?" Bobbi gasped to herself, her face flushed as her mind and body were wracked with unbidden thoughts and desires that nauseated and excited her at the same time.

But it was a rhetorical question, for she understood the horrifying truth all too well - they'd used her as a guinea pig, testing to see how far a human being would 'voluntarily' go, if presented the choice between pleasure and pain. It was an effective technique - bit by bit, Bobbi had given up her masculinity to avoid the pain and to feel the pleasure that waited for the 'willing' victim of the test. But once the final limit had been determined, she was just so much excess baggage. They could have killed her, if they'd wished.

And Bobbi almost wished that they had - for what they'd done was much more insidious, more cunningly cruel.

They'd taken what they'd started and pushed it ever further - they'd turned her into a freakishly endowed woman, biological indistinguishable from the genuine article as they used her as a test bed for their secret - and all too effective - medical tests. Then they'd used her mind as a similar test bed, warping her perceptions and her thoughts, turning her into some sort of sex-crazed nymphomaniac.

Then they'd given her some money, a new name - and dumped her, in her new form and with her implanted desires, out in the 'real world' to face life trapped in the body of a slut - with a mind-washed persona that would force her to play the part.

"No..." Bobbi whispered, horrified. "No.. they can't do this to me..." But they already had.

"I... I need to fight this..." She whispered to herself, building up the conviction, gathering strength. She fought to banish the disturbingly attractive thoughts from her head as she struggled against the powerful ideas implanted deep in her psyche.

Unnoticed, her hand - as if with a mind of its own - slid across the seat.

"I.. have to stop thinking about this..." She told herself in a hoarse voice - hoarse with a mixture of disgust and lust. "I.. have to stop thinking about huge, thick cocks... filling me... satisfying me..."

Gripping the thick plastic phallus, her hand began the return trip, her other hand moving down to push down her pants and now sodden panties.

"I can't let myself... think about being satisfied by a man... any man..." She said, her voice husky and thick. "Of taking him, again and again, of sucking... fondling..."

The dildo reached her crotch, and at the sensation of the cool plastic sliding across her thigh, she looked down, staring past the freakish/beautiful tits straining her sweatshirt to the hand that gripped the dildo by its base.

"No.. no.. this is so wrong..." She said...

...and stood the dildo upright, the rounded head pressing against the outer lips of her hot, wet cunt, sending shivers down her spine.

"I... shouldn't "

She slowly slid the length of the thick, rigid dildo deep into her cunt, burying it to it's hilt as she let out a mixed moan of despair and satisfaction.

"This... is.. wrong..." She panted as she slowly withdrew the dildo most of the way... then rammed it back in.

"So wrong... so very wrong..." She panted, repeating the motion, faster and with more vigor.

"All wrong... very wrong... fucking wrong..." She gasped, tossing her head back and forth as she cried out at the pleasure that flooded her body as she began to drive the fake cock in and out of her sopping pussy with powerful, rhythmic motions.

"No... don't..." She told herself, moaning between the slurring words. "Don't.. drive it in.. hard.. and deep... hard and deep... harder... deeper... harder..."

Her hair was becoming matted with the sweat poring from her brow, and her other hand had returned to it's task of fondling her tits as she began to buck her hips in time with her strong, rapid thrusts.

"Don't duck me like that... not like that... like that.. uhnnn. Like that.. yes, like that!... just like that!... I love it like that...!" She gasped and moan, her train of thought derailing in mindless lust as she slumped lower in the seat, spreading her legs as far as her half-mast pants would allow and bracing her knees on the dashboard.

"yesss... uhnn.. oh God... yessss!" She hissed, fucking herself hard with the fake phallus, her head whipping her sweat-sodden mane of golden hair back and forth as her face contorted in ecstasy.

"Oh God... I'm cumming... cumming!" She shouted to the roof as her motions became less coordinated, more frantic.

Then coherent words were lost in a scream of primal pleasure as she orgasmed, her body shaking with the sheer force of the pleasure that tore through her like an explosion, originating in her cunt and blasting outward along her nerve endings.

She gave a final series of twitches then - with the dildo still embedded in her cunt - slumped back in the seat, gasping with the force of her release. Her huge tits heaved with her rapid breathing, and sweat poured from her brow as she slowly returned from the shattering orgasmic high.

"oh, yeah " She whispered huskily, opening her eyes and grinning dreamily up at the ceiling.

The smile faded slightly as a puzzled look crossed her face....

She barely got the door open before she to dry-heave, gagging heavily as realization set in. Even as she gasped and gagged over the sill of the door, spitting up nothing but thin dribbles of saliva, her other hand blindly fumbled at her crotch, extracting the slick, wet dildo from her cunt and tossing it on the cracked and worn pavement.

Pulling herself back into the car, she slammed the door and slumped sideways in the seat, mind spinning at the realization of what she'd just done...

...and how good it had felt...

..and how much she wanted to do it again, soon...

...and how good it would feel to give in to all the other lewd erotic visions running through her mind, promising all sorts of pleasure. And endless supply of sexual pleasure, easily available, needing only a man, any man to make her whole and satisfy her every carnal...

"Nooo!" She shouted, clapping her hands to her head. "No! Stop it!"

Sitting up, she tore her mind away from those erotic vision flooding her mind by sheer force of will, all too aware of them looming in the background as she forced herself away from the lure of the thoughts. She'd made the mistake of thinking about not thinking about them, earlier - which, of course, had only led to her thinking about them more. Now she forced herself to put her mind on a completely different topic completely.

As odd as it sounded, her safest course wasn't to continuously caution herself against the urges - which would only lead her to think about the urges - but to force herself to forget that there was anything in the least bit worth thinking about herself or situation. She had to avoid thinking about what had been done to her, to stop dwelling on her condition and predicament, stop thinking about herself at all, in terms of 'outside' thoughts. Instead of looking at herself as 'Rob' looking in on the 'Bobbi' she'd become, (which would trigger thoughts of how she'd gotten that way, which would lead to thoughts of what had been done to her body, which would lead to the thoughts that matched her new body, which would lead to...) She'd have to push that aside and try to live each moment in the moment, dealing with them as 'a rational person', basing decisions on those current thoughts ONLY and not 'what I would do as Rob' or - especially not - 'try not to think about what my Bobbi mind wants to do now.'

It was a case of forcing herself to not see the forest for the trees - rather than stand back and view it from a distant perspective, she had to submerge herself into her current situation, live 'instinctively' rather than thinking about everything.

So...

First things first - her pants were down around her ankles, and her panties were soaking wet and torn... (because of what I just did, but that's okay - it happened, I'm moving on without dwelling on how I feel about it)... so she needed to change.

Rummaging through a bag in the back seat, Bobbi pulled out a bundle of clothing. Retrieving her keys, she pulled her sodden pants back up and stepped out of the car, not looking at the pinkish object she could see out of the corner of her eyes as she locked the car...

...then sighed. Stooping, she picked up the dildo and hid it under the pile of clothing, considering it only as an object and not dwelling on its purpose - or previous usage. Instead, she trotted over to the bathroom in the rest-area that the car turned out to be parked in.

Shutting and locking the door of the rather odorific bathroom, she kicked off the high-heeled white pumps she turned out to be wearing and quickly undressed and - without second thoughts - stuffed the torn panties and damp-crotched jeans into the garbage, not wanting to deal with the odor the pants would give off in the enclosed space of the car. Quickly and efficiently washing herself in the sink - and very carefully and unemotionally as possible drying herself with paper towels - she looked through the bundle of clothing she'd picked up.

She sighed, then peeled off the big yellow sweatshirt she was wearing - and paused as she saw her nearly nude body in the mirror.

Her tits were... massive. The size of volley-balls, they were stuffed into a frilly white bra that was more decorative than anything, the massive globes thrust from her chest being remarkable firm and spherical on their own. Huge, thick nipples dented the fabric of the bra where they pressed against it...

Cocking her head, Bobbi - moving almost in slow motion - lay the clothing she was holding aside and slowly brought her hands up to her bra-encased bust. Cupping them, she hefted slightly, feeling the weight of her massive globes and feeling a warm sensation in her chest that seemed to center around her slowly swelling nipples.

Her tits were... fantastic. Massive and huge and round and perfect.

"Hmmm..." She said, softly. "How many women can boast a pair like these babies...?" A warning bell went off in the back of her mind.

"Well, I don't have time to stand here and admire my gorgeous tits all day, girl." She told herself in the mirror - and it was a semi-truthful lie to herself. She was running a ragged edge, knowing that she should let herself get into this lustful mode - yet knowing equally well that she couldn't think about the reasons why she shouldn't, which would make things worse. Instead, she forced her hands away from her tits by thinking of a 'safe' reason - she couldn't 'waste' the time.

If she'd thought about the true reason - that she was disgusted by the implanted thoughts about her gratifyingly/grotesquely huge tits - things would only spiral out of control.

Quickly, Bobbi pulled on a pair of lacy white panties, then pulled on the only full outfit in the bundle she'd grabbed - a white dress with a peasant neckline and a tight, brightly-colored sash sewn to the tailored waist before the flare of the knee-length skirt. She tied the sash tight, emphasizing her narrow waist, while the carefully tailored upper half of the dress hugged her bust like a second skin, not only curving tight along the under curve of her mountainous tits, but even pulling in slightly at the cleavage, outlining each breast in perfect form...

..well, the lower two-thirds of each breast, that was. For the neckline of the dress - which wasn't really a 'neck' line at all, since it ran across her upper chest and to the attached sleeves, leaving her shoulders bare - showed off a fair amount of milky curve and dark cleavage. The dress stayed in place by virtue of it's tight-fitting tailoring and the fact that the top actually went over the apex of her breasts and fit snugly on the upper slope when it was zipped in place at the back, the form-fitting design holding itself up.

Stepping back into the shoes... ('Luckily they match the outfit' was her first thought, then she had to shy away from thinking about why that thought should be disturbing and/or natural to her) ...she gathered up the rest of her belongings and headed back out to her car - which turned out to be bright red on the outside, she found.

Sliding back into the car, she deposited the rest of the clothes back into the back seat... then, flushing slightly and not 'thinking' about it, she slid the dildo back into her purse.

Starting her car, Bobbi pulled out of the rest area and on to the highway - with no idea where she was. Not that it was terribly important, really - she didn't know where she was going, either.

Instead, she just drove along, concentrating on nothing but paying attention to the road, keeping her mind away from dangerous thoughts by concentrating on figuring out where she was.

When she'd finally pinpointed her location, that 'brain-busying' task dwindled, so she let herself turn to the question of where she should go...

The answer popped into her head, unbidden - a sudden, sharp image of not just a city, but a specific place - her home, where she'd lived before...

...before. She stopped her mind there, before it could get dangerous - and pulled off at the next exit, driving over a state highway for two score miles before pulling onto the interstate and pointing the nose of her car towards the city that had jumped into her mind.

She drove with a near-mechanical precision, keeping her mind occupied by little things as she steered the car on it's journey. Keeping the needle pegged on the speed limit. Keeping the wheels a set distance from the lines on the highway. Reading each and every sign she passed, doing math between distance and time - then back again. She let herself think only about the tasks she was performing, not letting herself be distracted by such things as the feel of the seat-belt in the cleavage of her massive tits and across her womanly hips. The way it felt to press the pedal while wearing shoes with six inch stiletto heels. The way her golden-blond hair would slip in front of her face, and she'd flick it back with an oh-so-feminine gesture.

She drove with mindless concentration, her face set in an small, unknowing grin as she drove, not even keeping track of herself enough to notice as her bladder began to signal - thankfully, not urgently. The rumble of her stomach growling went unheard until she was forced to pull over for gas when the little red light flickered on.

When the warning light came to life, she snapped out of the daze she was in, the various signals from her body finally reaching her mind. Having read every single sign she passed, she knew exactly what was available at the next exit, and she guided the bright red 'sport wagon' down the curved incline and to the crossroads below, passing under the interstate and traveling a mile to the small community that lived off agriculture and the passing travelers.

She pulled the car into the lot of a diner/restaurant/gas station that served as the bulk of the towns facility for travelers, only then registering the fact that it was after dark. She'd realized that it was getting late, having turned on her headlights miles back, but it had been a 'reaction' rather than a 'realization', and only now did she realize that it was mid-summer, and the darkening twilight indicated that she'd been driving for more then twelve hours straight.

A fact quickly verified by her back when she climbed out of the car. Wincing at the twinges and stiffness she felt, Bobbi slid a credit card into the pump, unlocked the hose and turned to fill the tank...

...then, blinking, hung the hose on the pump without locking it, climbed back into the car, started it, and pulled out of the islands before swinging around so that the filling cap was close to the pump.

She climbed out and proceeded to fill the car's tank, blushing slightly at the faux pas - she hadn't known what side the filling cap was located on her 'own' car.

Finishing, she screwed the gas cap back on and closed the little door over it, then started the car and drove it across the lot to a parking spot before shutting it off again for the last time for the next little while. Grabbing her purse, she headed into the diner.

The place was almost decorated in an almost determined county motif, right down to the country music drifting from the speakers in the ceiling - not 'New country' and not 'Country and Western' - country.

It was also mostly deserted, the few people bearing the look of locals who lacked the 'life' to eat at home, either being single and unattached, or older married couple who didn't want to bother driving to the next largest town for their night out.

Picking a booth in the back, Bobbi walked over to it as quickly as she could without actually breaking into a run, all too aware of the looks that she was getting - and all too aware of the reasons why, which lead to a problem - since she wasn't willing to think about the 'why' of how she looked' she had to dwell instead on what they were seeing as mere 'datum' - but that datum was that she was a huge- breasted woman with a massive mane of blonde hair, long, sexy legs and a tiny waist, with a face that seemed designed to express sensuality.

And, if she wasn't going to think about it, she had to 'feel' it instead - and the thought that she looked so damned sexy was making her 'proud' - and although there was a reason why that thought might be very wrong - or even very right - she couldn't think about it. Instead, she just had to let herself 'go' with the feeling, reacting rather than thinking.

Since one of the things that she was trying very hard not to think about was the fact she'd spent the last hundred-and-some days practicing being as sensually feminine as possible, her 'instinctive' actions involved letting herself fall into an undeniably feminine stride, her face falling into a pleasant smile, her motions become smooth, graceful and feminine. Even the way she sat down - slowly, back straight, one hand sweeping her skirt to the side to keep it from bunching up - was utterly feminine and 'natural'.

The waitress wandered over, and older woman in a shapeless brown dress and an apron, with lanky brown hair and too-much make-up.

"Hi, honey - howsyadoin'?"

"Not bad." Bobbi allowed, not noticing that faint 'backwoods' accent that had seeped into her speech.

"Well, here's the deal honey - if you're stayin' the night, I can register you and get ya a key with your dinner, and it's thirty-five bucks a night, plus we'll add your dinner on and you can pay it all when your done eatin'. Or, you can pay forty bucks now, an' ya get the room, plus the special tonight and coffee and Danish in the mornin'."

Bobbi blinked. "Well - how's the special tonight."

The waitress grinned. "Smart girl ta ask - most nights, it's fish, and I wouldn't recommend that to my ex-husband, and most travelers don't ask. But tonight it's the meat loaf, and Murray - he's the cook - does wonders with some ground round and bread-crumbs. The only thing we got that's better'n the meat loaf is our roast beef - and we're outta that 'till Tuesday."

Bobbi had to grin at the way the waitress loosened up at having her opinion asked. "Sure - sounds great. I'll take the room and the special." Digging into her wallet, Bobbi handed over forty dollars.

She ate her meal slowly, finding that the simple fare was as tasty as advertised - although her enjoyment of the food was slightly marred by her emotional state, which itself was a result of the rather obvious ogling of a pair of big-boned youths sitting at the counter, talking to each other and eyeing her body.

The problem was - their ogling was creating two diametrically opposed emotions in her, and she wasn't 'safe' trying to track down the reasons for the different emotions to sort them out. She knew, of course, what the generalities of the problem was, but she didn't dare let herself dwell on it.

Finishing the meal, she stood and headed for the door, the key that the waitress had provided ('room 12, honey, right down at the end and the one I use when I'm too damned lazy to go home on Friday nights, so it's pretty nice) in hand.

She found herself shooting a speculative look at the two raw-boned youths as she passed them - and refused to allow herself to think too hard about what she was speculating on with the look.

Heels clicking on the concrete, she walked out to her car and grabbed a suitcase from the back seat, deciding that she'd leave the car where it was - on the advice of the waitress, who'd suggested that not only would it be safer from local joy-riders in front of the brightly-lit, twenty-four hour diner, but when a girl was traveling alone it was better not to advertise which room she was staying in.

Sliding the suitcase out, she locked and closed the door... "Need a hand, miss?"

With a gasp, Bobbi spun, the suitcase tumbling from one hand while the other flew to her monumental chest, behind which her heart 'hiccoughed', then resumed beating at twice it's precious rate.

The two muscular, broad-shouldered youths were standing behind her, looking sheepish.

"Sorry, Miss - didn't mean ta startle ya." The one on the right said, looking down at the big boots enclosing his equally big feet...

(big feet mean big...)

...looking as embarrassed as the other brunet youth, obviously a slightly younger sibling. "Tate, Johnny - you ain't bugging the lady, are you?"

At the annoyed-yet-affectionate shout, Bobbi's eyes went to the door of the diner and the waitress who was standing there, hands on her hips...

...and the connection 'clicked' so strongly that she could have sworn that it was a physical sound.

"Your sons are just being thoughtful." Bobbi called - for 'some reason', she was very, very anxious to avoid upsetting anybody. "They're offering to carry my luggage for me."

"You sure they ain't being a nuisance?" the waitress asked. "It's fine." Bobbi assured her.

The waitress hesitate, as if to continue the conversation - but a muffled shout of 'Dotty! The MacLindles!' from inside drew her back inside.

"Thanks, Miss - Mom's a little... uh..." The one on the right said, obviously searching for a diplomatic term.

The younger one - about eighteen or nineteen, Bobbi judged - was more forthright. "A little bit of busy- body." He finished with a grin that did odd things to Bobbi's insides that she didn't want to think about. He scooped up her suitcase, and she found herself watching the easy flex and bend of his powerful muscles as he did so. "Room twelve, right?"

"Yeah.." Bobbi replied, wondering when her throat had gotten so dry. She headed off, the two youths following behind - and she was sure they were watching the way her legs, ass and hips moved as she walked.

She found herself putting a little extra 'oomph' in her stride, and couldn't seem to stop it.

She also couldn't seem to stop being intensely aware of the two broad-shouldered, virile youths right behind her.

Reaching the end unit, she unlocked the door and stepped in, flicking on the light switch.

She turned to watch the younger brother perform a neat trick - the depositing of the suitcase inside the room, without any part of his body crossing the threshold.

She found herself grinning at the obviously 'gentlemanly' move - their mother obviously drilled them in some of the older forms of etiquette, including the fact that a 'man simply didn't enter a room occupied by just a woman - or women - without being asked.'

Even as that thought ran through her mind, she found herself doing just that.

"Thank you. "S he said, not realizing until she did it that she was going to say more than the gratitude. "Why don't you boys come inside for a minute?"

The two young men shared a look, and Bobbi found herself realizing that - although she was 'really' a couple of years older than them, she looked - and, according to her new ID, was - probably smack- dab between their apparent ages of nineteen and twenty-one.

"We wouldn't want to be a nuisance, miss." The older one said, despite some rather... argumentative eyebrow motions from his younger sibling.

That was an easy enough out, then...

...but part of Bobbi didn't want to take the easy out.

She swallowed, realizing that somewhere in the past ten minutes she'd begun a slide down a very slippery slope - but she couldn't find a way to put on the breaks. She was very aware that her body was responding in a very certain way to these two young men, and thinking too hard about that would only speed up the process.

"Well, I usually don't have to ask twice..." She found herself saying - and fought to redirect her mind, partially succeeding. "...but I won't hold it against you."

With a tremendous amount of will-power, she managed to get herself into a slightly safer frame of mind. "You see - I've been driving all day, and am sort of stiff." She said - and a sudden image flashed through her mind at other things that could be 'stiff'...

She pushed on. "But I was raised that if a lady's sitting alone and drinking, she's got a problem - so I was wondering if one of you boys would know where I could buy a bottle of Southern Comfort, and have you lads join me in a nightcap."

The two youths shared a look that both excited and worried Bobbi - so, with an effort, she pushed harder against the growing urges she was feeling.

"Tell you what - you go tell your Mama that I invited you in, and explain why - and if she gives you the okay and the keys to her car, then you can buy the bottle and join me. if she says 'no' - well, you're mama was nice to me, and I don't want to do anything that would upset her."

"Okay, Miss..."

She held out her hand. "The name's Bobbi Mae."

The older one shook it. "I'm Tate, and this here's Johnny."

"Nice to meet you both." She said with a broad smile - and trying not to think about what she was thinking about what she'd like to do with them both.

"Well - we'll go see what Mom says, 'kay?" Johnny said, and with Bobbi's nod, they took off. Bobbi closed the door and slumped against it.

"God - hold it together, Bobbi." She told herself, huskily. Her nipples were swollen and her crotch was warm and slippery - and she refused to think too hard about either of these facts, instead hoping that 'Mom' would say 'no'..."

* * * * *

"Yer shittin' me, right?" Dotty Lourdes asked Tate with a raised eyebrow. "I love you two dearly and all

- but you ain't no movie stars, and she's a /ot a woman. Even got class, too - hell, I used to have a pretty good body too, and I flaunted it - but she does it with style. You sure she don't mind associatin' with a couple a' local yokels like my boys?"

"No, Ma." Johnny assured his mother - known as the easiest woman in the county, and famous in her youth as the best one, too. "She said if you say it's okay, then it's fine by her."

Dotty smiled - she knew her own kind when she saw it, and had no problems with a woman who like to live life to the fullest while she had the youth and looks for it - but to give a go to her boys made her proud. Despite her comment to the contrary, she did think they were a couple a handsome boys, and having a class woman like that blonde pick them out only proved it - plus, the blonde even had the style to have her boys okay it with her. Dotty would have felt a little put out with some 'out of towners' just having a fling - but since she 'asked', it made everything okey-dokey by her.

That's exactly what she told her boys - and, telling Murray to take it out of her paycheck, proved her pride by taking one of the bottles of Southern Comfort from under the bar to save the boys the time a trip to the local store would take.

* * * * *

The knock on the door startled Bobbi...

...and excited her.

Her breath quickened as she went to the door, telling herself that it was too soon for the boys to have made a run to the store, that they must be coming to tell her that they couldn't join her.

She relaxed at the thought - though she felt disappointment at the feeling. She opened the door, a commiserate smile already starting to form...

...that stopped as she saw Tate holding up a bottle of Southern Comfort in one hand, a couple of glasses in the other. Johnny carried the third glass, and a bucket of ice.

"Mom said it's fine with her..." Tate started, with a smile.

He was cut short by the honking of a horn and light flooded the scene as a car pulled up in front of the room.

"Hey, Tate, Johnny - you boys ready to paaarrrr-tee?" A voice shouted.

The two youths shared a startled look, then turned away from the open door, giving Bobbi a clear view outside.

An older convertible was pulled to a stop, a slender, dark-haired young man standing in the driver's seat and waving a bottle of something in the air. A more 'gym'-muscular blond youth sat beside him.

As Tate and Johnny stepped aside, allowing Bobbi a view out, it also allowed the youths in that car to see her - and the big shit-eating grin on the dark-haired youth's face turned into an almost comical look of surprise at the sight of the tall, leggy, huge-breasted blonde in a white dress who stood in the door of the room.

The blond in the car grinned sardonically. "I'd say that was a big effin' Yes!, Luke - but I think they just plum forgot 'bout us tonight."

"Oh, shit - yeah." Tate said, no real regret in his voice as he nudged his brother at the look on his friend's face. "I guess you could say we got a better offer."

"Uh.. well - I ain't gonna blame you." The lean youth said. "Sure Mark here don't mind if we cruise by ourselves tonight, right?"

The blond youth shrugged. "No skin off my nose." He inclined his head at Bobbi. "Sorry to have disturbed you, Miss."

Bobbi's pulse was pounding so hard that she was amazed that she was still able to hear anything. Four hormonally super-charged youths were eyeing her, and her body was doing all sorts of 'interesting' things to her, things that disturbed and excited her.

"Oh, I wouldn't dream of breaking up your little group..." She forced out...

...and the almost comical looks of disappointment on the brother's faces did something to her.

Although she no longer felt the 'real' pain of upsetting somebody, it was an ingrained habit - and, to her surprise, more flowed forth from her lips in her sexy voice.

"...so why don't you boys join me for a drink, too." She heard herself say, as if in a dream. "The more the merrier, I always say."

She turned and walked into the room with an incredibly sexy sway to her ass.

'What the hell are you doing?' Bobbi screamed at herself. 'They're guys for god sakes! Horny young guys who are looking at you and thinking about how much they'd like to...'

Images of what 'they'd like to' suddenly leapt to life in her mind - and that instant of letting her guard down broke the barrier, and she was lost.

"Well ?" She asked in a seductive, suggestive tone as she looked slowly, sensually over her shoulders. "You boy's coming in or what?"

The one named Luke had to run back to his car and shut it off, being in such a hurry that he forgot the first time he leapt from the car.

The boys crowded into the room, shutting the door behind them, and Bobbi turned to smile at them, her mind awlirl behind the sensual facade she presented.

"So, you boys ever go out to a strip-club?" She asked, slowly.

"Uh.. yeah." Mark nodded, and Luke repeated the motion, adding, "But the nearest one's an hour an a half away, so we don't go often."

"Well - for tonight only, a new one just opened in town - and you're just in time for the feature performer "

* * * * *

Across the road, parked in the darkened lot of a used-car lot and hidden among the other vehicles, the late-model black van attracted no undue interest.

Behind the tinted rear window, the man with the binoculars lay them aside, nudging his partner with a grin before picking up a microphone.

"Base, this is mobile-twelve." He said into the encrypted radio unit. "I think the programming took hold and we have nothing to worry about - she's stopped at a nothing motel for the night, and she just invited for young men into the room with her."

"Copy that, -12." The voice at the other end replied, its tone hidden by the electronic distortion that Bobbi would have found familiar. "Still, maintain surveillance for another forty-eight hours and make sure."

"Will do, Base. Mobile twelve, out." Racking the microphone, he grinned at his older partner. "Too bad we couldn't have volunteered for 'under-cover' work, huh, Steve?"

Steve looked at him with a raised brow. "Geez, Julio - get a life. She's a test-bed convert, man - you know that."

Julio shrugged. "Doc says that she's now as biologically female as if she'd been born that way, right? And that's good enough for me."

Steve snorted and turned away. "Inflatable rubber's good enough for you.." he muttered under his breath.

* * * * *

Flicking on the radio that rested on the table, she spun the dial through the band until she found a station that was playing something with a heavy, driving beat. Twisting the 'treble' knob to zero and cranking up the bass, she winced slightly at the sound coming from the old mono radio - but it didn't seem to bother the guys at all.

Turning back to them, she began to sway sensuously, slowly moving towards them. As she moved, she let her hands slowly roam over her own body, varying between short, bold stares at the youths and coy, seductive glances away from them.

'Fluffing' her hair over her head, she let her hands drop, then slid them under her tits and hefted them, pushing them up and out.

"Ever seen a pair like these, boys?" She asked in a husky tone,, something deep inside of her screaming for them to say something that would break the mood...

...but none of the drooling youths did, merely adding to her emotional states with varied signals of appreciation.

Slowly, Bobbi slid her hands behind her back, unzipping the dress. Teasingly, she held the top of it up, pulling it back slightly before crossing her arms in a sudden gesture of 'hesitation' - then letting it drop forward to expose the huge white bra straining to contain her massive mounds.

She danced around a bit, fondling her huge tits, then slowly closed on Mark, fingering the end of the sash around her waist.

"Bite on this, handsome.." She told him, handing him the end of the sash. He did as instructed, and she slowly spun away, the motion causing the bow in the sash to untie. When it did, the last thing holding her dress vanished, and the garment slid down her legs and she stepped out of the pile it made around her shoes, continuing her rhythmic, swaying motions.

Walking up to Johnny, she leaned forward, exposing her huge tits to him.

"Help a girl?" She asked, jiggling her torso. Johnny didn't need to be asked twice, his fingers fumbling at the front clasp of the bra until it popped free, allowing the strapless under-garment to fall away.

Slinging her hands behind his head, she buried his face in her cleavage. Pulling away, she backed up and slowly turned around while still swaying.

Crossing her legs at the ankles, she slowly eased her panties down, slowly bending at the waist to emphasize her ass as she slid her panties down to her ankles, then stepped out of them before turning around and standing with her legs spread.

Slowly, sensuously, she moved closer to the youth on the far right, Tate.

"Do I get you hard, Tate?" She asked, hungrily. "Do I make your cock go all big and hard?" Swallowing, Tate nodded rapidly.

"Show me..." She said - moaned. "Show Bobbi baby your big, hard cock." Flushing, Tate shot an embarrassed, shocked look at his brother and friends....

Then, slowly, he undid his jeans and slid them and his underwear down to his ankles. "Mmmmm... you are big and hard " Bobbi said in a low voice.

Slowly, she sank to her knees, wrapping one hand around the base of Tate's throbbing, thick cock. 'Stop!' Part of Bobbi's mind screamed in horror - but it was much, much too late for that, now.

Instead, she lowered her head, slowly engulfing Tate's throbbing erection with her mouth. Moaning low in her throat, she began to bob her head up and down as her tongue swirled over the warm, purple-tinted head of his thick, veined cock. The taste of man-meat filled her mouth, and his musky scent filled her nose - enflaming and disgusting her at the same time, though she only displayed the first as she continued to slurp and suck at Tate's cock as if it were the world's tastiest popsicle.

It turned out to have a 'cream filling'. Under her ministrations, it didn't take long at all before he was gushing into her mouth, and she swallowed furiously, managing to gulp down the entire warm, thick load of cum before licking his cock clean.

Slowly, Bobbi straightened and smiled at the other guys with an artful look of surprise. "What you're still dressed?" She asked.

There was no hesitation as the other three disrobed - indeed, their motions were so frantic that they almost tied themselves into knots trying to take everything off at once.

The first one to succeed was Mark - so she sauntered to him next, taking his hand and leading him towards the bed.

"We don't want anyone getting 'sloppy seconds' - but luckily, I'm versatile." She said, smiling at him. "So - do we fuck, or do you want the tits or mouth?"

Mark smiled, hand's running over her firm, round ass. "Oh, baby - I'll take the fucki'."

"Good." She said, pushing him onto the bed and swinging herself up. Not even giving him a chance to speak, she straddled him and drove herself down on his hard, ready cock.

She rode him like a cowboy trying to break a colt, throwing herself up and down on his shaft with powerful motions of her sexy legs and firm butt, her huge tits bounding and swaying as she moaned and gasped, thrusting herself up and down in a sexual frenzy that had Mark gasping himself as she fucked him silly.

When she came, it was known clear down the strip as she lifted her voice in a scream of passion, shuddering atop the youth's body. He cunt clenched around his cock, milking every drop of cum from his balls as he gasped in mingled ecstasy and exhaustion.

Rolling off his limp body, Bobbi looked at the other two with a feral look and licked her lips...

* * * * *

Three and a half hours later, the door to room twelve slowly swung open.

Clothes only partially on, disheveled and looking as if they'd gone twelve rounds with the champ, four youths staggered out of the room, an odd look in their eyes and silly grins on their faces. Closing the door behind them, they stood and talked in a low voice, then the youngest of them padded off towards the front of the end of the building, moving with a slight limp.

He returned a few minutes later with four keys, and each of the youths took one, opened a door, and slipped into a motel room where they dropped quickly off to sleep, utterly drained.

In room twelve, Bobby lay on the sweat - and other liquid - soaked bed, a smile on her face and a wild look in her eye as she fondled her breasts with one hand, and with the other reached for her purse...

* * * * *

Mind spinning, Bobbi stared at the building across the street, one hand unconsciously stroking her outer thigh under the thin fabric of the gauzy white skirt she was wearing.

"Come on, Gary... it's after five. You hate everybody at the store - I was the only one you could stand..." She whispered. "Leave, damn you!"

She was staring at the door of the video store where she'd worked.. before. Where, hopefully, her best friend Gary still worked.

Bobbi had decided on Gary as being the only person she could turn to for help - and she needed help. Any time she was near men, she became an insatiable cock-craving slut. She just couldn't stop herself, not after discovering how utterly pleasing sex with a man was last night with the four guys - physically, she'd loved every second of the acts that had disgusted her emotionally, and she couldn't stand the strain the two separate emotions were creating. Even on the drive here she'd ended up proving her new body's unstoppable desires - she'd picked up a hitchhiker and sucked him off every half an hour until he'd finally all but begged to be let out of the car. Even now she could taste his cum in her mouth - and it was like ambrosia to her taste buds, and it wanted to make her vomit in shame, horror and disgust.

"Come on.." She whispered. She had it all figured out. There was no way Gary would turn her down if she invited him for a drink - and that would give her a chance to prove who she really was, by revealing things that only he and 'Rob' knew. Once he knew who she was, she'd be safe - even if she lost it, he'd refuse to have sex with a woman who used to be a guy. And he'd help her, forcing the authorities to listen to her story, and believe.

Finally, the door to the store swung open, and Gary stepped out, his head turned as he talked to somebody inside. Bobbi started to step forward...

...then stopped dead, eyes widening in shock and confusion as 'he' stepped out of the store.

Chatting with his best friend, Rob patted Gary on the shoulder as they headed toward the parking lot - and Rob's car.

"No.. I..." Bobbi stuttered, mind quivering. "I'm Rob... I mean, I was Rob..."

Finally seeing a way out of the dilemma it was in, Bobbi's over-strained mind solved it's problems...

...by snapping.

Bobbi blinked - then giggled. The giggle was rather high-pitched and ragged, but she didn't notice as she turned away, eyes wide and rather vapid.

Moving with a sexy - but still almost.. mechanical - gait, she walked to a phone booth and flipped through the yellow pages before picking up the phone and dialing the number of the psychiatrist she'd picked out.

"Hi - I'd like to make an appointment - I need help." She said in a cheerful tone into the phone.

"Of course, Miss." the voice at the other end said. "Now, if you're not comfortable answering this over the phone to a receptionist, I'll understand, but if you can it'll make things a bit easier - what's your name, and why do you need to see the doctor.

Bobbi giggled. "My name's Bobbi Mae Jepson, and I need to see the doctor because I'm a nymphomaniac."

A pause, then... "Is this a joke?"

"No - but I can see why you might think that!" Bobbi said with an agreeable giggle. "You see, I'm attracted to all men, all the time - but I was so ashamed of this that - until recently - I dealt with it by deluding myself into thinking I wasn't really a woman at all, but a man who'd been 'forced' to become the woman I am, and 'brainwashed' to be this horny all the time."

"I... see." The receptionist said.

"So, I need help - I need the doctor to help me come to grips with who I am, and make me comfortable with my urges - and able to deal with them social, without screwing the brains out of every man I meet - just some of them."

There was a long pause.

"Miss Jepson - I just talked to the doctor, and if you'll tell me where you're calling from, I'll come down and pick you up right now and he'll see you right away."

Giggling mindlessly, Bobbi gave the street corner she was on....

* * * * *

DAY ONE

Darien Moran moaned and rolled over....

Memory flooded back, and the sandy-haired youth sat up with a jerk, eyes wide and frantic as he lifted his smoothly muscled arms to ward off an impending attack...

...that never came.

He sat, panting, his wide, dark-brown eyes taking in his surroundings as it slowly got through to him that he was in no immediate threat. Shaking slightly from the adrenaline rushing through his system, he pushed the thin white 'hospital' blanket off of his naked body and - shivering slightly in the mildly chill air - slowly rose from the bed, body still tensed for any surprises.

He was in a small, impersonal looking room. Small, of course, was a relative term - the room was about the size of his bedroom in his apartment, although not as 'nice'. Instead, the wall were a neutral off-white color, unadorned by any decor, and didn't look to be made of drywall. There was a pair of plain, functional metal wardrobes on one wall, a large, floor-to-ceiling mirror on the opposite wall beside a doorless opening that obviously led to a bathroom, and the bed he'd just risen from along the third. The final wall of the chamber was taken up by a metal door with no handle, lock or other protrusion.

There was a brief crackle, then an electronically distorted voice came over hidden speakers in the ceiling.

'Well, well, well - welcome back, Darien.'

The young man looked up at the ceiling, eyes narrowing in anger, but he refused to say anything at all.

'I must say - I'm impressed. Waiting a week, then letting yourself be found 'wandering' around town with amnesia was a wonderful idea - in no time, you were identified as your look-alike and all 'your' friends and acquaintances were only too eager to help you relearn about 'your' life so that you could go back to being the same old 'Rob Carstens' they knew and loved.'

"Yeah - but it didn't exactly work perfectly, now did it?" Darien asked, dryly.

'Actually, if it hadn't been for the real Rob returning 'home', we might never have caught you.'

Darien blinked at that - after he'd realized that they'd grabbed the wrong 'him', he figured they'd probably killed him - it had never occurred to him that Rob might be alive to try and reclaim that life. Taking a deep breath, Darien gave a show of indifference.

"I guess it doesn't matter - the knowledge you wanted from me is long out of date by now - so, since there's no use torturing me, you might as well kill me and get it over with."

'Kill you?' Laughter crackled through the speaker. 'Oh, no - I've found something much, much more fun to do with my 'useless' prisoners...'

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Caught cheating with another man's wife, one guy runs into the basement of three nerdy friends, only to find himself covered in mysterious chemicals which cause him to transform into the nerds dream girl.

Down And Out

By Gunslinger

'Maybe sleeping with other men's wives isn't a good idea.'

It was a brand-new thought for Brian. One completely unlike any thought that had passed through his mind during his twenty-six years on the planet. New, and completely unprecedented...

...but, then again, he'd never found himself running-leaping-fleeing through backyards and over fences, buck-naked, in the middle of the night before, either.

Saying the thought was 'unprecedented' wasn't hyperbole, either. It certainly wasn't that, until that moment, he'd thought it was a good idea to sleep with other men's wives - he, quite literally, had given it no thought whatsoever.

If, for some reason, he had given it any thought at all, he would have assumed it was a fantastic idea. After all, wasn't he a 'real' man, the most manliest of men? Wasn't he tall and strong and handsome? Women, of course, should beg for the honor of being allowed to pleasure him, and any man should feel equally honored if their wives were chosen to satisfy Brian's equally manly sexual needs.

Unfortunately, the man somewhere behind him, carrying what Brian certainly had to assume was a loaded shotgun, didn't seem to share this particular conclusion with Brian. As obvious as the situation might have been for the well-toned young man, the undeniably peeved husband seemed a little less inclined to accept the obvious.

Which was exactly why Brian was running for his life.

Brian, of course, was in utterly excellent shape. His six-foot, three-inch tall body had a lean, lithe build well suited for running, and his well-toned muscles, not the ridiculous mass body-builders lugged around, provided speed without assessing an undue weight penalty. He ran like the wind itself, unhampered by clothing laying scattered on the floor of the irate husband's bedroom, his longish sandy-blond hair fluttering in the wind...

...but the man's wife had been doing her level best to 'wear him out' before her husband had unexpectedly arrived home, and she'd been quite good at it. Brian's breathing was already labored, and his muscles were beginning to cramp.

Clearing the hurdle of the knee-high brick wall surrounding 'Nerd Central' was much, much harder then it would have been if he'd been even half as fresh as he'd liked - so when Brian saw the pale yellow light streaming through the open door of the root cellar, he felt a brief flash of gratitude and swerved towards it.

He might not like the three young men who shared the house, and he was damned sure they didn't like him - but it was an 'inactive' dislike, not open anger, and Brian was damned sure he'd rather deal with Jeff, Frank and Harry than the gun-toting man somewhere behind him. Though he didn't consider it consciously, Brian was nevertheless sure that their reactions to his decade-old teasing of their 'nerdish' natures was a lot less inclined to open violence than the irate husband.

Loping now, rather than running full out, Brian reached the pair of wide wooden doors inset on an angle against the side of the old, wood-frame farmhouse. He started down the wooden stairs that lead to the stone-walled basement inside the old home.

The stairs were the ones originally installed, nearly a century before. Painted over and over again, their dry, ancient wood had warped and cracked and buckled over time. The stairs saw active use, nearly on a daily basis...

...but one of the things 'manly' Brian had used to tease the three young men who used those stairs was their considerably less muscled bodies and shorter statures.

The third step up from the bottom, more than sturdy enough to bear up under any one of the house's owners weight, cracked and snapped like a dry twig under Brian's taller, more tightly-packed muscular body, and with a sharp, short cry of dismay, he helplessly pitched forward into the basement.

He was 'lucky' - he didn't land on the concrete floor.

Instead, he landed on a long, battered table of the type that indicated it was surplus from some public school's cafeteria - a table that was covered in array of scientific equipment.

Beakers, bottles, retorts and stands went flying, and if there'd been so much as an ounce of air left in Brian's lungs, he could have cried out as he rolled and bounced along the table. The table was set up so that it was parallel to the stairs, so he went skidding across the entire length of it, trailing a line of debris that seemed drawn to him by his liquid-slicked movement provided by the sweat coating his skin.

The 'glassware' was real, laboratory grade stuff, not cheap knock-off copies. Sure, probably school supply-house stuff, but still Pyrex rather than softer 'pure' glass, and none of the beakers, test-tubes or decanters broke. Though spared the risk of shattered glass, Brian nevertheless picked up a fair number of scrapes, scratches and other indignities from the stands, retorts and Bunsen burners - none of which were lit at the time, thank god.

Reaching the end of the long table, he went over the edge and then ended up on the concrete floor - quite literally dripping in a foul-smelling mix of just about every chemical, compound and liquid that glassware had contained, causing the various cuts in his skin to cry out in sharp pain from the introduction of such liquids into the openings.

All in all, it was hardly a 'quite' entrance, and as he lay there, struggling for breath, he heard cries of consternation from upstairs. About the time he a door at the top of the steep stairs being thrown open, he managed to figure out how his lungs were supposed to work and took a deep breath...

...and instantly regretted it,. tears springing to his eyes as he began to cough and wheeze.

The reasoning behind leaving the big doors at the top of the cellar steps open was made instantly apparent as he hacked and burbled at the sharp, chemical odor that filled the basement, and he began to thrash and skid on the debris-strewn floor as he tried to get his aching and complaining body to pull him away from the foul-smelling stench.

It was a futile exercise - since that smell rose primarily from the mix of chemicals liberally coating his body.

As Brian struggled to get up off the floor, Harry appeared at the bottom of the steps leading up to the main floor of the two-story wood frame structure he shared with his two roommates. Clad, as always, in a pair of denim bib overalls, the short brunet grasped the railing with one hand and stared in shock at the scene before him, nose wrinkling in unconscious reaction to the smell.

"What the hell...?" Harry demanded, looking at the mess. "Who..? What...? Brian - Brian Vela? What happened?"

Gasping, Brain shook his head wordlessly and staggered towards Harry - who immediately pushed aside his shock and amazement, and hurried over to help the soaking blond.

The three young men who shared the house had been friends practically since the day they were born - a situation that worked out well for all involved. All three were intelligent, but had widely differing interests, which actually allowed them to compliment one another's endeavors.

Out of the three, Harry was the 'mechanical genius' of the bunch, and as such he was the most physically fit of the trio. Though quite a bit shorter than Brian, he was fairly well muscled for his height, and though his face revealed distaste that could've come from more than just the stench of chemicals, he braced himself under Brian's arms and helped him up the steps, where the other two young men who shared the house were waiting.

"What the heck is going on?" Jeff Quan demanded. The 'computer nerd' of the bunch, the second-generation Vietnamese-American looked at Brian with obvious displeasure, since his 'foreign' heritage had made him a particular target for Brain's attention in their high-school days. "What the hell is he doing here - and naked and, god, the smell!"

"That's my chemicals!" Frank blurted out. The shortest of the three, the 'science nerd' was running his hands through his close-cropped platinum hair in distress. "My god - you've ruined all my experiments!"

"Never mind that now..." Harry grunted. "Help me get him into the bathroom "

Brian was more than a little ashamed as the trio of 'nerds' guided him towards the ground-floor bathroom, stuck him in the shower stall, and washed him down - but as humiliated as he might have been, especially when they took hand clothes and began scrubbing his naked body down, he had no choice but to yield to their less-than-tender ministrations...

...because he wasn't able to do a damned thing to help himself. There was something very seriously wrong with him.

He heard the three nerds discussing it as they hastily washed him off, comparing notes on what effects the various chemicals would be having on him, but Brian didn't understand half the terms and words they used. All he knew was that his body was twitching and jerking almost at random, denying him any control over his own movements and making the highly humiliating help utterly necessary

- and that was only the beginning.

Even twitching spasmodically, he could tell something strange was happening to his body. The random movements kept him from taking good, hard looks at himself, but his flesh itself seemed to be 'bubbling' - rippling and swaying as if there were tiny creatures burrowing around under his flesh, which was also a fairly good description for what it felt like. Not only that, but as they 'hosed him down', he could see his body hair sloughing off and washing down the drain - and the initial concern and fear he'd felt as he'd begun realizing something was wrong was now so much closer to panic that the humiliation of being man-handled definitely came in as a second-place concern as they finished washing him off and pulled his twitching-rippling-warping body out of the shower and toweled him down.

With his jaw, tongue and larynx muscles in spasm, he couldn't even form the words to demand to know what the hell was happening to him...

...but it didn't take too long to find out.

It wasn't a smooth, orderly transition. Parts of his body changed at different rates. Nevertheless, all the changes, disparate and spasmodic as they were, trended towards one definite end - and in less than an hour, as Brian twitched in the bed in the guest room they'd laid him in, he was far enough along to make the direction obvious. Even with the bulges on his chest of different sizes, even with fingers that didn't even come close to matching each other, even with a face that was frighteningly similar to the ones in that famous Twilight Zone episode 'Eye of the beholder', there was no mistaking the direction the changes were taking him.

Brian's twitching muscles denied him coherent speech - but he could scream, and he did a lot of that during the next half hour as he completed his transition into womanhood.

The entire time, the trio of certifiable geniuses stood around him, taking notes and discussing what was happening to him in tones that would have almost been described as 'clinical' - if not for the edge of bitter enjoyment they obviously held as they watched the person who'd tormented them during their formative years, who'd been so proudly of being so 'manly' and laughed at their lesser statures, lost the very things that gave him his own highly-exaggerated sense of self-worth and endured a fate as bad as any he could have ever dreaded.

All of which seemed to be just about what the three young geniuses figured he deserved. At the time when Brian's transformation was just ending, Harry was holding a rear-guard action for the argument of serendipity, while getting hammered at on either side by a pair of variations on 'directed design', though there was also a cross-argument between Jeff and Frank on who, exactly, the 'designer' might be in this case, with both of them being extremely careful never to actually use the word 'God' - it was too 'unscientific'.

Brian, however, was busy having none-to-quite hysterics. It wasn't until he - or, rather, she - finally managed to get around to regaining coherency that the trio paid any real attention to her as other than an interesting scientific phenomenon. It was her screeched 'Oh, god - I'm a chick!' that seemed to remind them that she was also a conscious entity in her own right.

"Now, now, Brian - broads don't like to be called 'chicks'." Frank corrected her with a grin, while his roommates chuckled at what was obviously some sort of inside joke.

Brian didn't find it at all funny. In fact, she didn't see anything the least bit humor about anything at all as her newly re-shaped hands fluttered awkwardly over her radically altered body.

"Do something!" She shrieked at them, hearing the edge of panic drive an already high and undeniably feminine voice even higher. "Get me to a hospital! Call somebody! Change me back...!"

"How exactly do you propose we do that?" Jeff asked. "...and why on earth would we want to?" Harry inquired.

"Yeah!" Frank agreed, making no attempt to his a lascivious leer as he eyed her new form. "You're quite the babe now, Brian - or, perhaps Brianna would be more fitting for you, now."

"Oh - 'Brianna'..." Jeff echoed, pronouncing it the same way Frank had - 'Bree-anna'. "I like it!"

Somewhat diffidently, Harry suggested that perhaps 'Titiana' - emphasis on the 'Titty' - would be more appropriate, all things considered, but eventually allowed himself to be argued around to 'Brianna'.

Meanwhile, the incredulous, nearly hysterical subject of the discussion rolled off the bed and, awkward with the radically redistributed mass and new center-of-gravity of her new form - staggered to the bathroom to look into the mirror.

"Oh, god!" She sobbed, staring at her reflection in horror. "I.. I.. I'm a hot babe!"

Nobody who hadn't been there to see the transformation was ever going to believe that the woman gazing at herself in the mirror had once been Brian Vela.

The metamorphosis had been totally complete - and the new woman was even more emphatically feminine than her old one had been masculine.

The chemicals had done more than just make her 'female'. After all, she could have been technically female, and been a feminine version of her old body - but more had happened than just the complete reshaping of her body into emphatically feminine contours. The chemicals had also caused her coloration to change, as well as her gender.

The soft, smooth skin that now covered her changed body was not only silky, it was 'milky' - pale and perfect. Not the unhealthy shade of somebody who didn't get enough light, but the incredibly light, creamy shade of milky skin so beloved and desired by women throughout the ages.

On the other hand, the coloration of her hair had become darker - an incredibly rich, thick, luxurious fall of raven's wing hair that tumbled down her back in a much longer, thicker mane than her old male head of hair...

No, that wasn't true, any more than it was true that her nails were 'longer'. Both were exactly the same absolute length they'd been - but, she'd become shorter and slimmer, and so they were comparatively longer than they'd been before.

She was now, at most, five feet tall - but she would have looked taller without anything around her to compare her too, because she had such a perfect, slender build that was in ideal scale, no matter the height. Not so fine as to give that delicate, doll-like impression common to many truly petite women, but neither the long, ungainly build sometimes common to tall women. Instead, it was... perfect.

Much of her new height seemed to be taken up in long, shapely legs that lead to well-rounded hips that were neither 'boyish' nor 'broad'. Her waist was narrow without becoming a caricature, and her arms were perfectly formed - slender but well rounded, not the 'pipe stems' more common to women trying to achieve a slenderness through sheer diet that genetics had denied them.

In fact, the woman gaping back at her from the mirror reminded then new woman of a young Audrey Hepburn.

Oh, not that she actually looked anything like her, so much as the general 'feel' presented by the all-over appearance she now bore...

...excepting, of course, the breasts.

They weren't 'stripper tits', unbelievably huge and ridiculously round - but they were still somewhat more than simply 'large and firm'. Altogether, the package formed that rarest of things - the woman who could be 'all things to all people'.

With no make-up and in jeans and a sweatshirt, she'd be that girl that everybody agreed was pretty, but no guy could hit on without feeling like they were trying to seduce their own sister.

In a basic black dress, she'd be that woman that only movie stars and millionaires ever seemed to marry - gorgeous, but unobtainable to the average man.

In an evening gown, she could walk into a formal state dinner without anybody bothering to ask to see her invitation - and in lingerie, lipstick and high heels, she could give a hard on to a corpse.

A homosexual corpse. Naked...

Naked, she was somehow all these things at once, and more - professional businesswoman and cool librarian, yet sultry seductress and playful lover. Duchess and whore. Lady and tramp - all rolled up into one, but with her very nudity leaning the average male mind more towards sexual thoughts than otherwise...

...and that was even with her shocked, horrified and humiliated.

"No..." She moaned in horror, staggering away from her damning reflection and back into the guest bedroom. "I.. I don't want to be a woman..."

"Well, you are, Brianna" Jeff pointed out, with a viscous sort of glee. "Don't call me that!" She shrieked at him.

"We'll call you anything we want to call you." Harry pointed out - not cruelly, just very 'matter of fact'. "As it happens, it's probably better for us to call you that - rather than constantly reminding ourselves that you're 'really' the Brian who always made fun of us in high-school."

The new woman's blood ran a little colder at the thought. She looked around in horror and fear, feeling the need to find somebody to help her...

...then stopped dead, eyes widening as she realized that she had no idea where she could possibly go, who she could possibly turn to in search of help in the bizarre and unexpected situation.

"Oh my god..." She moaned. "What am I going to do? Where am I going to go...?" "Not our problem." Jeff pointed out with a brutal lack of cruelty.

She gaped at them.

"Now, let's be fair." Harry said, not unkindly. "We can't just shove her out into the street, stark naked. After all, even assuming she doesn't get raped before the cops pick her up for indecent exposure, they're just going to come back and interview us."

"Hmm... unless they don't buy her 'crazy' story enough even for that, before locking her up in the loony bin." Frank pointed out, clinically. "I guess we'd better call them ourselves and explain everything to them before we turn her over. They can decide where to take her after that."

"Not that any hospital will now how to deal with her." Jeff said, with a shrug.

"Well, as I said - not our problem." Jeff repeated - and the other two men nodded in agreement. Jeff headed over towards the phone on the night stand...

...and something 'snapped' inside the new woman.

It wasn't that she went insane - it was just that, in one, searing instant, a certain barrier broke within her. Indeed, you might have almost put it down to her suddenly 'going sane', if you wanted to - because that barrier had been her own, monumental male ego letting go when she was finally forced to admit to herself that it no longer applied.

As it happened, once that occurred, she was also forced to face the fact that it had never really applied, anyway - and, in that searing instant, she saw the possible host of futures that might come about from this situation...

...and every damned one of them was a nightmare.

She was a woman - and likely to remain one for the rest of her life.

She was a gorgeous woman right now, and maybe extensive surgery could make her a fake man - but that would really just be making her an 'ugly woman' who would pretend to be a man. Besides - how was she going to pay for that surgery? Get a job, as she was now? Go to work every day, in this body, and deal with people effectively?

In fact - just dealing with people in general. Going outside. Having to tell her friends and family that this woman they saw before then was the Brian they knew - assuming she could convince anybody of the truth of that in the first place.

She didn't want to be a woman, didn't know how to be a woman, hated being a woman - but she suddenly also realized that being seen as a 'real' woman might actually be more preferable than being seen as a 'real' man who was now a woman - in other words, a freak.

Which was what she really was.

This, and a thousand more permutations of a possible future, each one worse than the last - and not one of the possible outcomes being anything even closely resembling her old life. Even if, somehow, in time they found a 'cure' for what had happened to her tonight, she'd still be known as the man who'd been a woman.

All this passed through her mind as Jeff reached the phone and started to pick it up - and she threw herself across the room, barely noticing her naked and emphatically female body pressing against his as she sobbed at him, hating her own weakness but unable to control the incredible panic at the thought of having to deal with the knowledge of anybody else knowing about her 'humiliation'.

"No! Don't tell anybody!" She sobbed, unable to stop herself. "Please, I can barely stand the thought of this as it is. The thought the anybody else would find out.. please, don't do this to me! I don't want anybody else to know I'm a freak!"

"What...?" Frank demanded, confused.

"I'd rather have 'Brian' just vanish, here, tonight, and never be heard from again, rather than have anybody ever know about... this!" She declared, stepping back from Jeff and waving a hand at her own body. "I.. I just realized something about myself, saw myself 'from the outside' for the first time... and I can't knowingly tear apart 'Brian'. I... just can't! It would be like... like committing suicide! Please - I'll do anything, if you just promise not to let anybody else find out about this!"

It took a few seconds, but then the guys got it - and the expressions on each of their faces as the truth registered was something truly interesting to see.

'Brian' was all about being manly - in fact, the most manly of men. That was the core and the sum of who 'Brian' was...

...which meant, to the person standing before them, she couldn't possibly be Brian, because she was the very antithesis of all that. If she admitted to - accepted - the idea of being Brian, she would diminish that perfectly manly ideal of Brian... and it was that 'unflawed manly perfection' that defined Brian.

Oh, not that she'd gone insane, or that she thought she was somebody else other than who she really was - it was just that, in being that person, the very notion of her own assumed 'perfection' had refused to let her look outside herself to understand anybody else. As the old Brian, she'd been the only 'real' person in existence, and everybody else just 'lesser creatures'. Sure, they may have had a purpose for existing, outside of serving Brian in some way - but none of them mattered.

Since she was who she was, (and who she had been), that image was still all that mattered - and she could no more voluntarily provide a situation that would allow it to be diminished then, as then then-male Brian, she could have considered 'going gay'. She needed a sharp, unequivocal dividing line between that 'perfect man' and her own, current 'fallen state'...

...or she might as well commit suicide.

It was that important to her ability to remain even nominally sane - and that meant that it was incredibly powerful leverage on her.

It was the realization of this power over her that caused the odd expressions on their faces - because she'd just willingly turned this power over to them.

* * * * *

Neither the Brian she had been, nor the Brianna she'd become, would ever have been described as a 'genius'. She certainly didn't understand the actual psychological stresses in her own mind even one tenth as well as Frank, Jeff and Harry did, and she couldn't have explained exactly why the thought of anybody else finding out who she 'really' was scared and horrified her so much that she actually believed she'd rather die than face such a thing.

Then again, a claustrophobe probably couldn't tell you exactly 'why' small spaces affected them that way, any more than a acrophobe could explain their unreasoning fear of heights. It certainly didn't make what they felt any less 'real' - or any less powerful.

Thanks to the unprecedented new situation, Brianna was getting to experience a whole new psychological disorder - transgenderphobia.

All of which meant that she hated the thought of accepting the role of being female - but couldn't bring herself to not accept her new 'identity'...

...as defined by her new roommates.

That had been their condition. Oh, not of 'keeping her secret' - but in adding and abetting her in defining a new identity for her new form. They'd help create a new identity for her - but they got to decide what that identity was.

It wasn't quite extortion. Not the way it would have been if they'd used her helpless need to hide the truth as their bargaining point. After all, she could still keep that secret and not accept their 'help'...

...and had to leave, and try to make it on her own. With no money. No identification. No help...

...and, most decisively no damned idea how to 'play female'.

All of which served to explain why she didn't actually give in to the urge to simply flatly refuse to even consider wearing the clothes they bought for her the next morning.

After reaching their agreement, she'd curled up in the bed in the guest room and fallen into a fitful, nightmare-filled sleep that had lasted well into mid-morning. That had allowed plenty of time for the guys to go shopping for her first few outfits of clothing - and left her the luxury of waking up alone, and considering what she'd let herself in for.

As part of the agreement to stay with the guys, she was going to be doing 'light housework', to not only earn her keep, but to help 'balance out' the cost of getting her everything she was going to need to 'play female'. She was, of course, less than excited by the thought of doing 'women's work' around the house, and even more unhappy at the fact that the term now applied fully to her new gender...

...but she was decidedly even more unhappy with the clothing they were... 'suggesting' she do that house-work in.

"But... I don't want to wear a maid's uniform!" She protested, unhappily, looking at the array of items spread out on the bed. She was dressed, at the moment, in one of Harry's old bathrobes - and even in the tattered old garment, with no make-up and sleep-tousled hair, she looked pretty damned good. She knew, in the sexy, adult-novelty-store version of a maid's uniform, she'd look downright hot - and that was hardly something she felt comfortable knowing.

Perhaps the oddest thing about it though, was that she understood it. She didn't like it - downright hated it - but, being who she was, the thought of her new body done up all sexy was something she knew a guy would like.

"So don't wear it." Frank said, with a shrug. "Nobody's forcing you to."

"Yeah." Harry agreed. "If you'd rather walk around nude all the time, that's completely up to you."

Brianna sighed - because it was true. She didn't have to obey their every single whim, and she wasn't a mindless slave - but in defining her new identity, they got to pick out the type of clothes she 'preferred'. She could choose among those clothes at will, or wear none of them at all, for that matter. She just couldn't 'insist' on baggy jeans and an oversized sweatshirt, like she would much rather wear.

At the moment, however, her wardrobe choice was extremely limited - because it consisted of just three outfits, as much as the guys were willing to spend on her at the moment. It wasn't even something she could really complain about, even if she'd wanted to. After all, they weren't exactly rich, and she knew that this arrangement added the burden of everything about her new life on them, which was one of the 'sacrifices' that made it more equitable than her emotions wanted to let her believe it was.

"All right, fine..." She sighed.

The guys left and, grimacing, she began to dress.

It's wasn't a flow-blown 'sex games' version of the French Maid outfit - which was why it was the one outfit out of the three most sensible to wear. After all, she really had to do housework, such as cleaning, and the other two outfits were her 'good' clothes. Still, it was designed to show off a woman's physique - and that was something she was all too aware of as she pulled it on.

Worse, the agreement was that 'Brianna' would want to 'look nice', which meant that she also had to do her hair and, ugh, make-up - which, given her inexperience, meant it was nearly an hour and a half later when she finally emerged from 'her' room, walking carefully atop the three-inch heels of her ankle-strap black pumps.

Jeff gave a wolf-whistle.

The tight-weave fishnet stockings disappearing under the short, wide petticoated skirt made her already long legs look even more delectable, and the neckline of the dress displayed more than just a hint of her creamy cleavage. With her hair combed out around a face wearing the minimal amount of make-up she thought she could get away with, she presented an all-too-attractive picture to the male eye.

Something she knew damned well - because she'd shocked herself when she'd looked at the final effect in her mirror, and found her new nipples going rock-hard and an entirely too pleasant moist warmth growing in her abdomen at the sight.

In short, she'd gotten incredibly turned on at the sight of her sexy new body in the French-maid get-up - and she was still feeling that arousal, because she couldn't get the thought of how incredibly sexy she looked out of her head, with predictable results.

Even the fact that all three of the guys shared her assessment of her appearance couldn't put a damper on her 'straight male' appreciation of her new body, and the fact that the feminine clothes constantly drew her mind back to her new body didn't help at all.

As she set about her appointed tasks of cleaning, dusting and vacuuming, every careful step in her high-heeled shoes reminded her how long and sexy her legs were. Every movement that caused her tits to jiggle or sway recalled their delightful, sexy firmness to mind. The hair stirring around her face brought back the memory of just how damned good it looked made-up, and watching her pale-pink painted nails all day as she worked drove home her gorgeous, sexy femininity...

...all of which meant that she spent the entire day in a constant, low-grade state of arousal, helplessly thinking about her sexy female body - and hating the fact that she couldn't make herself stop, or keep herself from being horny over something she'd never wanted.

That, in and of itself, was bad enough - but there was something much, much worse.

The guys made no bones about how sexy she looked, either. They made comments among themselves, and even gave her direct, obviously sincere compliments over how good she looked...

...and these forced her to consider her sexy new body even more strongly than her own, internal musings, and that resulted in her 'male' mind to get her new body even more aroused at the thought of the 'hot babe' she couldn't stop thinking about - even if that 'hot babe' was her!

Which, basically, added up to the fact that she was getting 'turned on' by guys.

Actually, she was getting turned on 'as a guy' by the mental memory of the totally hot babe from the mirror that was brought to mind by the guys - but it felt as if she were 'simply' getting turned on by knowing guys found her sexy.

So, all in all, it was quite a relief when she finished her list of daily chores and headed off to her room to get changed into one of her other outfits.

Closing the door behind her, Brianna sighed with relief and quickly began getting undressed...

...and caught sight of herself in the full-length mirror that had been one of the other purchases for her.

To put it another way - she caught sight of an incredibly sexy woman undressing right in front of 'his' eyes...

...and then next thing she knew, there was a finger deep in her tight, sopping wet new womanhood, almost frantically thrusting back and forth against its yielding softness.

She certainly hadn't planned on masturbating - but six hours spent in a steady state of arousal, culminating in the incredible peak of lust at the sight of the stripping woman in the mirror meant that it wasn't even a conscious choice. Not really.

Without meaning to - without even particularly 'wanting' to - she found herself slumped back against the wall, wearing only the nylons and heels, fingering herself towards and orgasm her female new body needed to release all that sexual tension.

She dimly heard her own panting, sexual moans as she squeezed and toyed with her magnificent breasts with her free hand, but the sound and fondling sensations were purely secondary to those coming from her new cunt, and her hips began bucking rhythmically to increase the depth and power of her penetrations as a second finger joined the first in working her new womanhood. Her moans became loader and longer - and then, as she reached her first female orgasm, they became screams of pleasure as intense ecstasy rolled through her.

With her sexual release came a return to her pre-lust 'sanity' - and she blushed brightly as she realized what she'd just done, somewhat disgusted and horrified by it, but unable to complete banish the memory of just how damned good it had felt.

"oh, god - I can't believe I just did that...!" She muttered to herself, shocked. "What the hell was I thinking! I just jacked off like.. like a woman!"

She shuddered at her own actions...

...and then, helplessly, found her mind's eye turning to the thought of what it must have looked like, from a hypothetical 'outside view'...

She tried to banish the thought the instant it formed - but it was much to late. Nobody could command themselves NOT to think of something, for the very attempt made you think of just that.

So, it was like having her own little porno theater playing in her mind, showing an incredibly hot babe finger-fucking herself against the wall, looking unbelievably sexy in her heels and hose and...

With a stifled scream of shock, Brianna dashed across the room as best she could in the heels and, without bothering to finish undressing, threw herself into the shower and cranked the cold water on full-blast...

...and found herself thinking about how sexy it must look, water gleaming on her perfect skin, it's chill causing her nipples to stand at attention as her hand slid downwards, long pink nails arrowing to a center of warmth that grew despite the cold water and...

"Shit!"

Taking two deep breaths, Brianna forced herself to keep her hand away from her cunt until the water could do it's think, leaving her to cold, shivering and miserable to possible think about anything the least bit sexy...

* * * * *

The next two weeks were a course in applied human nature.

Had she told the guys what was going on in her head, they would have actively tried to help her. Though they were enjoying the chance to have their old tormentor 'play female', it was something they were quite literally doing at her own behest. If she described what she was going through, they would have slacked off on their requirements and rummaged through their closet for 'unsexy' clothes she could have worn.

However, she didn't even want to admit she was getting 'turned on' to herself, much less to anybody else, and so she kept it a secret

- or thought she did, unaware that her screaming orgasms were quite audible throughout the thin-walled house. However, she didn't notice the uncomfortable looks she sometimes got from the guys as they wondered how to deal with the evidence that she was obviously 'enjoying' her new body - frequently. Instead, she was too busy concentrating on 'catching herself' in unattractive moments, so she could point out to herself how 'not sexy' she could be. Every awkward position, every less-than-flattering moment was ruthlessly dissected as something to hold in her mind as a 'shield' against the sexy moments...

...and only served to accentuate those 'sexy moments' when they came.

Which meant, on a level far below the conscious mind that refused to even consider it, she was forcing herself to become more and more aware of how 'good' it felt when she was being sexy, and how 'bad' she felt when she was being unattractive. After all, she was consciously using those moments of awkwardness or gracelessness to 'whip' herself, while unguarded moments of 'sexiness' caused physically pleasurable arousal - which often lead to even more physically pleasurable fondling or masturbation.

Brianna, however - like the Brian she'd been before - was no masochist. In fact, as Brian, a huge portion of her life had been devoted to finding pleasure...

...and so it was almost inevitable that she began making 'excuses' to herself.

So caught up in this internal situation was she, she never even noticed how poorly she was hiding all of this - or at least, the outward symptoms. Not knowing what was going on in their new roommate's head, the three guys could only form conclusions based on the evidence on hand. She never even realized the 'show' she was putting on - or the conclusions the guys were drawing from it.

Her first line of defense was her 'secret'. Not knowing that they guys were well aware that she was masturbating frequently, she thought she was hiding her 'disgusting problem' when she vanished into her room - and so she didn't even pause to consider the all-too-inevitable conclusions.

After all, one of the major sources for her getting 'hot and bothered' was when the guys forced her to realize how sexy she was by how they reacted to her. So, from the point of view of Frank, Jeff and Harry, they saw the situation where they'd say or do something that was openly appreciative of her new female form - and she'd soon be in her room, masturbating.

Understandably, the guys found themselves thinking that she was enjoying being found sexy. After all, she'd given no hint that she disliked masturbating frequently, and they certainly didn't know she did it 'unwillingly'. They thought it was a conscious choice - and, though a bit confused at how quickly she'd decided to find 'getting men hot' sexy, and not a little uncomfortable at the gender-bending nature of the situation, the fact that a gorgeous woman was getting turned on by 'them' wasn't something they could just shrug off.

Of course, their own awareness of Brianna's recently male status made them somewhat uncomfortable with the whole thing, if not enough for them to come out and openly comment on it to bring it to an end - and so, understandably, they thought that was the self- same reason why she didn't openly mention her 'obvious new sexual orientation' to them, either.

By another quirk of human nature, Brianna 'convinced' herself that if she was going to be helplessly falling prey to this horrible new situation, anyway, she should 'maximize' the times when she was forced to accept the consequences, under the (badly flawed) theory that the more thoroughly she indulged her 'curse' when she couldn't avoid giving into anyway, the more 'sated' she be.

Which is why, day after day, she 'reluctantly' let the porno theater in her mind become more and more erotic. Locked 'safely' in her room where she thought nobody could possibly know what she was doing, she'd purposefully dress as sexily as possible and 'act out', letting the female star of her own little mental porno movie become even more and more sexual in order to maximize the effect.

She had no idea that the guys knew damned well what was going on, to a large degree. As she had 'the actress' play out the steadily more sexually open roles, the guys could hear her 'role playing'...

...and, still unaware of how much they knew, the fact that they were buying steadily more sexy clothes and accessories for her didn't register on her with full regard for the implications. Indeed, she was mildly - and shamefully - grateful for the added 'props' they were providing for her sexual playacting, not realizing that it wasn't their idea, so much as something they were doing because they thought she wanted it...

...and because she never said anything against it, they thought it was what she wanted - even though she continued wearing the most 'demure' of the clothing whenever she was out of her room.

She actually thought the guys were trying to 'force' her to wear sexier clothing, and believed she was 'fooling' them, as if she simply left the more sexual outfits untouched in her closet as she employed her prerogative to choose what she wore. The fact that anybody could tell that wasn't the case simply from the evidence of what ended up in the laundry completely escaped her...

...as did the obvious consequences to not ever letting the guys seeing her in the sexiest of clothing, which they damned well knew she was wearing in the privacy of her room, leaving them only able to imagine what she looked like in it.

All of which summed up nicely why three horny, rarely-laid young men with active imaginations helplessly run up to full rev by her actions would resort to pressing their ears to the wall every time she disappeared into her room.

They were rarely disappointed. Especially when they heard her cry out things like 'I want your big, thick cock to fuck me harder, stud!'.

They couldn't possibly know that, in her mind, she was imagining herself in the role of that man, fucking the gorgeous woman who was saying those things to 'him' - while, in reality, frantically masturbating to all of this to 'get rid off' the unwanted sexual urges.

By the end of that two week period, the guys thought she'd completely accepted her new sexual identity as a man-loving 'straight woman' who 'obviously' got turned on by them, but was either too unsure or too shy to take that final step to make her obvious fantasies reality. Considering that understandable assumption, driven more then raging hormones than intellect, what happened was almost inevitable...

* * * * *

It had taken twenty-four rounds of 'paper, rock, scissors', twelve high-card draws and seven drawn straws, each proceeded and followed by an argument, but Harry was finally - and grudgingly - declared the winner.

Which was why, short on breath and with a pounding heart, he approached the door to Brianna's room. Hardly a 'real ladies man', he paused in front of the door she'd gone through after doing her daily chores, and spent several seconds nervously shifting his weight back and forth before he actually managed to work up the nerve to knock.

Even incredibly excited by what he thought-and-hoped was going to happen, his natural discomfort and lack of experience when it came to all things sexual showed itself in the hesitancy and instinctive 'easy out' in what he called through the door: "Uh, Brianna, can I come in? Unless you're doing something important, of course..."

That question, however, didn't show the 'easy out' to Brianna, whose heart had seemed to stop at the knock and called question, and she stared at the door in utter consternation.

She still thought that what she did in her room was a secret - and, at the moment, she was afraid of making Harry wonder what she might be doing in here if she didn't open the door as if 'nothing was up'.

Which was why, highly uncomfortable and trying desperately to hide it lest it raise suspicions, she quickly walked over and opened the door.

"No big deal." She said, 'casually' bright and chipper. "Come on in."

"Thanks..." Harry replied - and she was too wrapped up to notice his nervousness. Still dressed in her 'French Maid' uniform, she was much too busy concentrating on appearing 'normal' to realize she was overdoing it, actually acting more 'comfortable and casual' than usual. Which was why she suggested they 'have a seat' - even though the only place to perch was on the edge of the bed, side by side.

"You... look great." Harry said, trying to ease into the 'right direction' - poorly. Brianna, however, smiled brightly at the compliment.

"Why, thank you Harry!" She said, trying desperately to hide the 'mental movie' that was trying to start in her head. "I'm glad you think so!"

They were sitting side-by-side on the bed, torsos swiveled towards one another - and Harry reached over and put his hand on her outside thigh.

He had come in to the room, planning to 'help' Brianna get past her awkwardness and live out what she was 'obviously' wanting from the three guys she was living with... but she hadn't been expecting anything at all, and was so wrapped up in her own situation that her mind didn't immediately realize what the motivation of his action was. Instead, mildly confused, she pursed her lips in surprise...

...and Harry, 'primed' with preconceptions, took it as invitation, and kissed her.

As his lips pressed against hers, and his tongue invaded her mouth, she was too shocked and surprised to offer any initial objection, or attempt to pull away - and Harry's hand eagerly rose to cup one full, firm breast.

What was happening finally fully registered on her mind...

...and two weeks of 'training' herself to disassociate herself from her feminine sexual side kicked in.

It was suddenly as if 'he' were floating, disembodied, in the corner of the room, watching the scene as if it were an incredibly realistic 3D porn movie - and 'he' was the director...

...or, in this case, the 'second unit' director, because - unlike the fantasies played out for masturbation, Harry was running this little 'scene', and 'Brian' could only direct the 'lead actress'...

...while feeling everything she experienced, something 'he'/she had also trained herself to not only accept, but to actually strive greatly for.

So, it was with a sort of helpless willingness that Brianna replied with submissive enthusiasm. With the male part of her fully disassociated with what she was doing, the 'porn actress' part of her was what Harry was dealing with now...

...which he found out very quickly as she kissed him back hungrily with a sensual moan.

Meanwhile, 'Brian' was floating around in her mind, enjoying the developing plot of this 'porn movie' even more than usual, since it was the first one that he didn't know exactly what was going to happen, yet still had a large 'say' in making sure his 'actress' made it as sexy and sexually enjoyable as possible.

"God, I want you..." She moaned, pressing her body against his. "I want you to fuck me, stud - fuck me long and hard!" It wasn't exactly an idea he was adverse to, and despite his relative lack of experience, Harry knew the basics.

Not that it mattered - Brianna was more than happy to supply any assistance he needed, and in no time at all, she had him naked, on her bed, while she rode atop him like a tigress in heat.

"God, yes!" She screamed, thrusting herself atop him in languid waves. "I love your cock filling my tight pussy, Harry! God, I love it!"

Harry made some strangled, gasping sounds that were definitely conveying agreement with sentiment as she went into as faster, harder rhythm.

It felt utterly fantastic to both of them - but that was almost secondary, opposed to what it would have looked like. Every move was utterly choreographed for maximum visual sexual impact.

Even as she writhed and rippled atop him, crying out his name and various sexual clichés, every head-toss, every hair flip was carefully planned and executed to look as sexy as possible. Even the apparently nerveless twitching as she reached orgasm was done with a consideration to making it as sexy as possible - as with every motion as she licked her way down her new lover's body to his softening cock.

The blow-job that followed, had it been caught on video, would have won an award from even the most prudish individual, purely on the basis of its status as a sheer work of art.

An artistic integrity that became part and parcel with every single action she made - all in a highly sexual context, of course.

From then on, she was always 'on stage'. Never again would she simply undress for bed - it would always be a sexy strip-tease, even if she were completely alone. Every shower would become an excuse to masturbate, unless she was sharing it with one of the guys, when it would be pure bliss for him while she acted out her own 'pure sexual satisfaction' - which was completely secondary, of course.

Every article of clothing she would ever wear would be carefully chosen for effect, and every expression and every pose would be carefully planned out, no matter how 'spontaneous' it would seem to be...

...and, of course, there was the fact that she was forever planning to be ready for the next 'sex scene', taking every advantage and every opportunity to get past the boring plot-development parts she had to put up with to get to the real 'meat and gravy' portion of it all.

It was also so engaging, keeping one step ahead and always prepared, that she only rarely even noticed that odd little male voice echoing in the back of her head, forever screaming out one word over and over again in a sobbing, pleading tone...

'CUT!'

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Two young slackers enjoy the run down house that one of them has bought, until, after dropping a strange liquid in the basement, one of them turns into a babe and falls for the other.

Down On The Farm

By Gunslinger

The muscular youth moved carefully across the wooden floor, bringing his sneaker-clad feet down softly and silently. The worn wooden stock of the rifle nestled into the crook of his taut, tanned arm, the long black barrel pointed aimed at the back of the man crouched, unaware, near the far wall. The late afternoon sun streaming in one of the small windows glinted off the dark metal of the barrel as the dark-haired man lifted the weapon...

A single misstep caused one of the floor-boards to creak. Startled, the crouched figure whirled as he half-rose, dust stirring under his feet...

Luke let his breath out with an explosive 'whuff'. "Jeez, James - what are you trying to do, give me a heart attack?"

His more muscular friend lowered the 'weapon', smiling. "Naw - just bored. Cool find, though, huh?" He hefted the old musket. "Look cool over the fireplace downstairs."

Carefully, Luke walked over to his friend. Under his feet, the floorboards creaked ominously, and Luke winced each time an anguished groan rose from the dry old attic floorboards. "I keep expecting to fall through." Luke said, looking at the warped, graying boards. "Let's leave the rest of this junk for now - I want to get back onto terra firma."

James smiled. Handing over the old musket, he slapped his friend on the shoulder. "No problem, buddy - I could use a cold brewski." He headed to the trapdoor that led to the attic and clattered down the ladder, followed by his friend.

As they headed down to the big 'peasant' kitchen, Luke look around, once more feeling the odd, hard-to-define sensation that came from knowing all of this was his. To many people, the old farm-house was somewhat run-down, badly decorated, and isolated. But to Luke, who'd bought the place for a song, it was beautiful - and it was his, free and clear. The slightly heavy-set youth shook his head again, still amazed by the fact he had joined the rank of 'homeowners'.

The two twenty-four year old friends entered the stone-floored kitchen. James dropped into one of the straight-backed wooden chairs, which creaked ominously under the weight of his tall, broad, muscular frame. Taking off his ball-cap, he brushed a hand over the short black stubble that coated his skull. "Man - it's hot up there." He complained, tossing the hat on the table.

Grabbing a couple of cold beers from the fridge, Luke tossed one to his friend with a laugh. "Let's see - black jeans, black T-shirt, black hat... in a sunny attic. Smart move, pal." Luke was dressed in faded jeans and a light beige tank-top that showed off his tanned arms - and, unfortunately, the slowly growing gut that was forming. Luke hoped that the work of getting his new/old home into shape would help loose the gut - working all day long at a computer didn't exactly help the situation.

Brushing his overly long wheat-blond hair out of his eyes, Luke collapsed into the other chair at the table. Until a few months ago, he'd been a struggling writer who worked as a mover to pay his bills, supplemented by the occasional story sold. Then, thanks to a fair- sized inheritance, he'd been able to give up his 'day job' and turn all his attention to writing. Since then, he'd started a goatee and let his hair grow, since - as his own boss - he didn't need to worry about his looks. Now he scratched absently at the facial hair, wondering when he'd actually get used to the somewhat scraggly whiskers.

Taking a long pull on the beer, James sighed with satisfaction. "Ah... I needed that." He raised an eyebrow humorously. "That's the other great thing about you letting me stay here..."

Luke laughed. "Yeah - I keep you in good beer." Luke's taste ran to micro-brews, which were usually as better than the national brands

- but less known. Luke was one of the few who took the time to find the good ones. "So - I don't feel like braving the attic again today - what say we hit the mess in the basement?"

James looked out the big window over the sink and eyed the late-afternoon sun hanging low over the trees. "Hmm... getting late, and we'll barely make a dent in that crap."

"A journey of a thousand miles starts with a single step." Luke said, cocking his head. " 'Sides - the satellite wont be activated 'till the morning, and the antenna only pulls in one station. You got something better to do?"

Giving into the logic of boredom, James shrugged. "Sure - maybe we'll find something cool down there, too." He waved his beer bottle in the direction of the musket - then cursed, bringing the bottle to his lips to suck down the sudden spurt of foam from the motion.

Letting go with a belch, James continued. "At least it'll be cool down there."

Quickly the two friends finished their beers, then, with Luke in the lead, clattered down the steep stairs that led off the kitchen. Pulling the chain that turned on the three bare bulbs in the basement, Luke looked with distaste at the disorganized pile of boxes, crates, and other containers that filled the large, dank, stone-walled basement. With his muscular friend's help, Luke pulled one of the boxes into the clear space near the stairs and began to sort through it, making a large pile of stuff to throw away, and a much smaller pile of things worth keeping.

"Hey, Luke - what about this stuff? Garbage?" James asked, tipping the battered metal chest so that Luke could see that it was full of women's clothing.

"Yeah, just..." Luke paused, reconsidering. "No - leave it by the stairs. Next time I'm in town I'll take it into the Sally Ann - they might want it."

James nodded, sliding the chest under the stairs. "Sure."

Finishing the box he was working on, Luke rose and dusted off his hands. He began to tug at a crate, surprised at its weight, and the faint sloshing sound from inside.

Suddenly, the aged wood of the crate gave way, and Luke - suddenly pulling fiercely on nothing but a handle - flew backwards as the crate disintegrated, spilling out it's cargo of what appeared to be sealed test-tubes. Several of them bounced past the flailing Luke, scattering over the floor.

Luke, arms wind milling, did an internationally-known ballet known as 'keeping you balance' - only to fail in the final act. He sat town hard - and swore, loudly, as two of the test-tubes shattered under his ass. The shards, coated with the cloudy liquid inside, easily went through the khaki's thin material, and into the most padded area of the human body.

"Shit, shit, shit, shit!" Luke chanted, bouncing back to his feet. Awkwardly, he craned his torso around and removed the long splinters from his posterior. "Goddamn it!"

"Are you okay?" James asked, looking at the punctured pants, which were slowly darkening with the thin trickle of blood. "Yeah - I think so." Luke said, dropping the shards. "It just stings like a mother-fucker."

Once assured of his friend's well-being, James began to chuckle - then laugh. "Man - you should have seen yourself." Luke frowned at his friend. "Hey - it isn't funny."

James laughed harder. "Yes, it was."

Luke considered what the whole thing must have looked like to James - then smiled wryly. "Yeah... maybe." He looked back down at his punctured posterior. "I hope to god that whatever was in those wasn't dangerous."

James' smile faded at the thought. "Tell you what - you go clean yourself up, and I'll take care of this mess." He waved a hand towards the roof. "Look in my green back - the one with the broken zipper? - you should find some antiseptic in there."

"Got my own - but it's a good idea." Luke said, heading for the stairs. The cuts really did sting - a lot - but Luke was damned if he'd let it show in front of James.

As soon as he was out of sight, though, he let his face go tight with the pain, and limped the rest of the way to the bathroom.

* * * * *

James had to grin as his friend lowered himself - gingerly - into a chair at the table in front of a 'Nuke Dog' and a beer. As Luke began to slather mustard on the hot dog, James leaned forward. "Feeling better?"

"Eh..." Luke replied, wiggling a hand in a 'so-so' motion. "My butt's sore - but I think I might be having an allergic reaction to whatever was in that tube - I'm itchy all over, just like being near a cat." What Luke didn't mention was the way his chest felt, or his throat. It seemed irrelevant.

"Want to go see a doc?"

Luke considered it, then shook his head. "Nope. I'll just get a good night's sleep tonight and see how I feel in the morning." He wolfed down the rest of the dog, wondering why he was so damned hungry. He quickly zapped a second and gobbled it down too, despite his attempt at dieting. "In fact..." Luke said, wiping his face with a napkin as he finished the second, ungarnished hot-dog. "...I think I'll turn in early - there's nothing better to do around here anyway."

"Yeah - you're probably right." James agreed, looking at the clock. "Still - it feels weird going to bed at seven."

Luke shrugged. "So? We'll get up earlier tomorrow - and we'll have the satellite to entertain us. " He smiled. "Ah - TV, the great American God."

Chuckling, the two friends headed off to separate bathrooms for their nightly ablutions, then turned in.

Left behind, sitting on the table beside the dirty dishes, was the napkin that Luke had used. Unnoticed, inside of the napkin, was many of Luke's stringy facial hairs.

* * * * *

Luke had a restless night's sleep. It never got deep enough for true relaxation, and his dreams were ill-formed and mildly disturbing, although he couldn't quite recall what they'd been.

His first thought the next morning, as he opened his eyes and stared at the ceiling, was that he might go and see the doctor after all. The itching was gone, but he felt stiff and awkward, his body feeling almost alien to him.

Yawning, he brought his hand to his face...

...well, tried to, anyway. His hand got as far as his chest before it stopped dead, impeded by a large, soft mass that he felt through his fore-arm...

...and through his chest. Shocked, Luke sat bolt upright, fighting against the weight on his chest, that shifted as he rose. He looked down....

* * * * *

The scream literally catapulted James from his peaceful sleep. His brain barely registered the fact that he was in the air, and he landed poorly as he leapt instinctively from the bed. The scream had wakened him, but hadn't really impacted on his conscious mind - his brain insisted it had heard the scream, although he couldn't actually remember it. Still, considering that there was just Luke and him in the house, he rushed down the hallway between their rooms, struggling to get his bathrobe on. He threw open the door to his friend's room and rushed inside - then stopped dead, staring.

Sitting in the bed, the covers over her legs, was a slim young woman. She was fairly attractive, if you allowed for the lack of make-up and sleep-mussed mane of platinum blonde hair. Her face was... face shaped, and her features were regular and symmetrical, with big blue eyes and remarkably full lips. All in all, she was relatively cute, if a little on the thin side...

But that's only if you ignored the two massive, incredibly firm and spherical breasts standing out-thrust from her slender ribcage. The massive - hell, monumental - breasts that she was cupping in her dainty hands, staring down at them in amazement.

"What the...? Who the hell are you? Where's Luke..." James started demanding, confusion mixed with anger and worry - and not a little arousal.

His questions died in the back of his throat at the enormously endowed woman looked up with a shocked look on her face. Her pale blue eyes met James...

"Luke...?" James managed to get out of a throat that had gone bone dry. "Is... is that..."

"I... I'm a woman, James!" The figure on the bed said in a clear, high-pitched voice. "I'm a woman!" Then the huge-breasted woman - Luke - did the most sensible thing under the circumstances.

She fainted.

James didn't feel too steady on his feet either - his jaw had apparently come unhinged, as it hung loosely below eyes roughly the size of saucers. Desperately, he wanted to believe that this was a gag or something - but he couldn't. They say 'The eyes are the windows of the soul'. And when his and the woman's eyes had met. James had seen his best friend in them.

"Holy fucking shit..." James said, in a breathless monotone. Slowly - as if scared shitless - he approached the slim, huge breasted woman on the bed. "Luke...?"

There was no response from the massively-endowed woman on the bed - she was out cold. Hesitantly, James reached out towards Luke's overly feminine form, intending to shake her on the shoulder - then he drew back.

Before he could work up the nerve to try again, the long-lashed eyes fluttered, then opened, the pale blue eyes staring up at the ceiling. Slowly, the head rotated towards James.

"James...." Luke asked slowly, "am... am I awake?" James blinked at the question. "Uh... yeah."

Luke swallowed. "So... this is really happening? I'm really... really a huge-breasted woman?"

James nodded. "Yeah. I don't know how, but..."

"I do." Luke interrupted in her higher-pitched voice. Very slowly, fighting against the weight of her massive new tits, Luke struggled to the sitting position. Awkwardly, Luke swung her coltish new legs over the edge of the bed, staring down at their smooth length as she continued. "It was whatever was in those test-tubes."

James slowly nodded. "Yeah - it must be..." He paused. "you seem to be handling it, um, pretty well..." Luke waved a hand. "Well, once I figured out it was the stuff in the test tubes, I realized something else." "Oh?"

Luke smiled thinly. "We know what caused it - some sort of... serum. Well, that means it was just scientific. So, there must be some way to undo it - all we have to do is see some specialists. Maybe they don't know, right now, how to correct it, but they can analyze the stuff and come up with an antidote. If somebody figured out how to do it one way...

James bobbed his head. "Yeah - make's sense, I guess." He cocked his head. "Are you okay...?"

Luke's head came up, and she snorted, which caused James' face to slowly redden. "No - I wouldn't say I'm 'okay'. I seem to be healthy, and surprisingly enough, I haven't gone insane - but I'm not okay." Luke shook her head - she stopped immediately, wincing at the sensation of her long hair brushing against her shoulders. "This isn't easy to deal with - you know?" Looking away, she gestured with a hand. "That doesn't help either."

Looking down, James blushed at the sight of his hard-on poking from his robe. Quickly, he retied the robe to hide his erection. "Sorry - all it knows is that I'm in a room with a naked, huge " He cut himself short.

Luke's mind was racing a thousand miles a minute. The situation was so new, so unheard of, that panic wasn't really an option - she was too busy trying to cope with all the new sensations she was feeling, the odd way her body felt and moved, the strange emotions and random thoughts that flashed through her mind... like the sudden image she'd had when she'd seen James' extraordinarily large....

Luke clamped down on that thought - viscously. She didn't have time to deal with that now, either. She prepared to stand up. "We need to find something I can get on, so we can go see a doctor."

"Why don't we just call " James started, then realized that nobody would believe a phone call like that.

Besides - the phone wouldn't be installed for another week.

Luke nodded when she saw that James understood. Cursing her suddenly slender, weak arms - hell, her whole altered body for that matter - Luke pushed herself off the bed...

...and, quite literally, fell right into James' arms. Instinctively, he caught her, leaving them in an embrace, her huge tits pressed into his muscular chest, their lips, one set so firm, the other so soft, only inches away from each other...

Flushing, both of them broke the long gaze they'd fallen into.

"Damned tits..." Luke swore, half-angry, half something else. "James - you're going to have to help me. Until I get used to this body's balance, I " She waved one slender hand angrily.

"Uh sure." James said. Hesitantly, he put an arm around her slim waist, while she put her arm around him. Carefully, the began heading towards the kitchen.

As she walked, Luke kept her thoughts clamped in tight control. Her mind kept wanting to wander to the fact that she had a handsome, muscular, spectacularly well-endowed man practically in her arms, and...

Damn. She was doing it again. It was almost a relief when they reached the kitchen, and James deposited her in a chair and went to find something for her to wear.

Almost a relief, because part of her didn't want James to let go - ever.

"What the fuck's wrong with me!" Luke screamed at the top of her lungs, as unbidden tears poured from her eyes. Her emotions shot through the pendulum arc, and she was crying heavily. Ever since she'd awoken and seen James, disgusting, sexual thoughts had been filling her mind, and she couldn't close them out.

The floodgates broke. Everything she'd been struggling to contain broke free in a flood of emotion - fear, horror, rage, lust, disgust, attraction...

Luke tried to run from the house, but, overbalanced, tumbled to the floor. James, hearing the commotion, came flying into the room. "Luke - what is it?"

"What is it?" Luke screamed. "I'm a woman, James! A huge breasted woman who can't stop thinking about fucking your brains "

Realizing what was pouring from her mouth, Luke clamped her lips shut. James was staring at her, wide-eyed. "Wha ? What?"

Luke looked away in self-disgust. "I... I try to stop myself, but I keep thinking of you. Like I want to "

James gaped at the huge-breasted woman his friend had become then began to chuckle, then laugh.

Luke whirled on James. "What the fuck are you laughing at, you bastard! It's not funny!"

James managed to get back down to a chuckle. "Hormones " He gasped. "It's your female hormones - you've never had female hormones, so you don't know how to handle them." "Huh?"

It was too much - James broke up again. Between gales of laughter, he managed to force out the punch-line. "You... 've got... super PMS."

Luke's jaw dropped as the truth hit home, and she too, began to chuckle. "Mood Swings! Oh, thank God - I thought " She levered herself into the chair without finishing the sentence, because James wasn't listening. Instead, she turned her attention to the stuff James had dropped on the table.

She grimaced, then sighed. James' appeared to be done, so she held up the clothing. "I'm going to need a hand."

It was distinctly uncomfortable for the two friends - because it was so enticingly pleasant. Knowing the root of these strange feelings didn't eliminate them, and having James help her put on the blue-and-white gingham dress was disgustingly nice, especially when his strong, capable hands...

She pushed the thought away. Instead, she concentrated on the clothing. The dress fit fairly well - except in the chest. She had to leave the top buttons open, exposing entirely too much of her enormous bust. Likewise, the flared skirt was way too short for her taste - but she'd have to live with it. While she adjusted the clothing, James quickly pulled on his clothing from the day before.

"Okay - this'll have to do." Luke said, smoothing the wrinkled, slightly musty fabric. "Now let's go find somebody who can help me."

"Right!" James agreed, helping Luke up. Again awkward to be arm-in-arm - and arousing each other, unwillingly - they headed for the car.

Five minutes later, James was helping Luke back into the house - and apologizing profusely for leaving the headlights on.

"Great! Now what do we do?" Luke asked, upset. She sat back down at the kitchen table, protectively crossing her arms over her massive chest - well, as well as she could, anyway. She was fighting back a panic attack. Like many people, she placed a lot of stock in modern medicine. Sure, what had happened was inexplicable, and unbelievable - but you could get some expert to help right?

But if she couldn't get to anyone....

"I could walk " James started to offer.

"It'd take you at least eight hours - then what? You're going to get a doctor to do a house call?" Luke said, angrily, then instantly softened. "I... I'm sorry. I'm a little tense."

James nodded. "No problem." He looked around. "Well - I suppose the thing to do right now is get some breakfast."

To her surprise, Luke found that she was, indeed, hungry - it seemed like a good idea to her. While James whipped up some bacon and eggs, Luke sat in the chair, basically sulking - she was trying to cope with the idea that she was female for at least a while, and it wasn't easy.

As James leaned over her to put her breakfast down, he wrinkled his nose. "Uh - no offense, but you're kind of... rank, you know?"

Luke sighed. "Yeah - tell you the truth, it's been bothering me, too." She managed a thin smile. "I guess being turned into a woman is sweaty work." She dug into her breakfast with gusto, and James followed suit.

"So, now what?" James asked, pushing away the now-empty plate.

"I guess I get a shower..." Luke replied, hesitantly. Her face slowly began to redden. James didn't get it. "What's wrong?"

Luke cleared her throat. "Well, the shower is the only thing working right now - not the bathtub up stairs. Since I can't stand by myself..." She looked up at James, then a way again.

James began to blush as well. "No... No way. That would just be... too weird."

Luke looked up. "Yeah, it will be weird - but I'm gonna have to shower sometime. Besides... it's not as bad as it seems." "Oh, really?" James retorted.

Luke's blush deepened. "Um... later on, when I need to use the washroom..." James was startled - but it was also obvious. "Oh, crap..." he replied, without thinking. Luke giggled. "Exactly."

With a sigh, James gave in gracefully to necessity. "Okay - let's get you cleaned up."

James helped Luke upstairs. The two friends didn't even notice that they were starting to get used to having their arms around each other when they walked - it was just something that was done. If they'd thought about it, they would have been shocked to discover that they were actually enjoying it... but they didn't think about it.

Reaching the bathroom, James slowly helped Luke undress, then sat her on the toilet as he self-consciously undressed. It was made worse by the fact that, once again, his cock was becoming hard at the sight of his naked, transformed friend.

It wasn't easy on Luke either. Still not used to dealing with her altered hormones, she was both disgusted and pleased by the feminine arousal that James' naked body produced. Again, trying to block the thoughts from her mind proved ineffective, and she bore the strange - and to her way of thinking, homosexual - thoughts in silence, as James started the shower running. Helping Luke up, he led her into the fairly roomy shower stall, closing the clear plastic door behind them.

It was awkward, but they finally figured out how this would have to work. Closing her eyes and taking a deep breath, Luke tried to think neutral thoughts as she braced herself against the stall with her arms - and James began to wash her.

He started at her feet. Taking the soap, he began to wash her long, slender legs, his strong hands gliding over her soft, supple flesh. Gradually, he worked his way up, his capable hands moving over her widened hips and cute new ass. Then, after a brief hesitation, he continued, washing her back, then sliding his hands around to begin soaping up her huge, amazingly firm tits and large, engorged nipples.

Neither spoke of the arousal they were experiencing. Luke had to clench down on the soft moans that wanted to escape as James' strong, large hand caressed the silken surface of her tits, and the highly sensitive nubs of her large nipples.

James also remained silent as his cock went rock-hard. His hands were filled with the largest, firmest - and to his way of thinking, sexiest - tits he'd ever seen, and it was damned hard to remember that it was his beast friend inside that body.

They were both enjoying it immensely, although guiltily. Yet neither was going to actually say anything - which explained why James washed her enormous tits for quite a long time, each of them guiltily wanting to continue, but ready to stop as soon as the other complained.

Finally, James - his cock almost painfully hard, pulled his hands away from the enticing bust of his best friend. He was breathing slightly hard - but failed to notice that Luke was too.

"Turn around - I'll do you're hair." James said, somewhat huskily.

Luke complied - and ended up with her body pressed tightly against James' muscular figure. Her huge tits were pressed firmly against his muscled chest, and she could feel his hard, throbbing cock against her leg. Both tried to pretend they didn't feel anything as James began to soap up her mane of blonde hair, then rinse it off. As he rinsed it, the shampoo ran down her back and under her feet - and she slipped.

Instinctively, James caught her, pulling her tightly against him. One arm was around her waist, the other was lower, cupping her ass. Her arms had been thrown around his neck in an instinctive move.

Both of their bodies thrummed with arousal as they stared in each others eyes.

"We... should probably..." Luke said, weakly. Her arms, however, remained locked around James' neck.

"Yeah..." James agreed, his arms still around her. His voice was low and husky. His hand on her ass slowly slid a little bit, the lightly tightened.

Luke gasped at the pleasurable sensation. "This... isn't a good idea..." She said, as began oh-so-slowly grinding her shoulders, dragging her breasts and highly charged nipples back and forth over James' chest, producing incredible sensations.

"This is wrong..." James agreed... then kissed her. And she kissed back, passionately.

It happens all the time, all over the world - two people, who know that they shouldn't, are overwhelmed by their passions. And so it was as the two friends kissed hungrily, their tongues entwining erotically around each other.

Still kissing hungrily, James lifted Luke and carried her from the shower. Water pattered from their wet bodies as James brought her to the large master bedroom, and lay her on the bed.

Breaking from the kiss, James' hands and lips went to her tits. Luke, caught up in the incredible sensation, closed her eyes and moaned in pleasure as James skillfully fondled, kissed, caressed and sucked her huge tits.

Then James slid one muscular leg over her slender ones, pulling himself up. Instinctively, Luke shifted her hips, pulling her legs up and open, as James hard cock hovered between her silken thighs...

...then slid deep into her hot, wet cunt.

Luke moaned intently as James' large cock filled her utterly and completely. It was like nothing she'd ever experienced, a complete sensation of fulfillment... and it only grew as James began to rhythmically slide in and out, slowly building in speed.

As his pace increased, so did the incredible sensations rocking her body. She began to moan louder, her eyes sliding close as she tossed her head side to side, lost in the erotic sensations sweeping over her body in waves.

"Uhhnnnn... harder..." Luke moaned. She began to thrust her hips in time with James' thrusts, instinctively trying to maximize the sensations she was experiencing.

James complied. His rhythm became more primal, harder and faster as he drove his cock into her. He gasped at the sensations he was feeling as well, but the sound was overridden by Luke's increasing moans as she neared the edge...

..and tumbled over.

She screamed as the first orgasm took her. It was more intense than any she'd ever felt as a man - and also more satisfying, internal rather than external. It was followed in quick sensation by three lesser 'aftershocks as she cunt tightened on his cock, increasing the friction.

Which was enough to make James cum. He too cried out as his cock spurted hot cum into Luke's new womanhood, and he strained forward against her silken tightness, penetrating her to the limit as he shot his load deep into her.

Finally, spent, James slumped to the bed beside Luke. Slowly, their minds cleared as they lay beside each other. Luke was slowly caressing her enormous tits, enjoying the lingering warmth of the incredible orgasms.

James blinked and looked over at the woman he'd just had sex with... then his eyes began to widen. "Oh.. my.. Hod.." James stammered, slowly sliding away.

Luke looked over at the sound of his voice. She, too, was beginning to realize - truly realize - what had just happened. Guilt and mild disgust tried to rise in her still-male mind - but the sheer pleasure of the experience was still too new, overriding the other feelings.

James, however, had ample experience in dealing with what his own orgasm felt like. Now that the lust was fading, the other emotions that replaced were a lot more disturbing.

"James..." Luke started to say - and the sound was enough to snap James all the way, to drive home what had just happened. "I... I fucked you..." James stammered, backing away from the bed. "I just raped my best friend!"

And before Luke could say anything else, James turned and fled the room.

Luke pushed herself up on her elbows, staring after him. She opened her mouth to call after him, but the sound of him bashing down the stairs told her it would be useless. Instead, she slumped back in the bed and stared up at the ceiling, trying to work out what she herself was feeling.

There were the emotions she'd expected to feel - the feeling that it had been wrong, so very wrong. But they were amazingly weak - overridden by the feeling that it had been oh-so-right.

Not just physically - it had been fantastic physically - but emotionally as well. James and her had been friends for years, sharing that bond - but that was as far as it had gone, as they were both male, and neither one was gay.

But now she was female. And although her male mind was insisting that what had just happened made her gay, her body - the very existence of the cunt that she'd just had filled - argued against it. Even more, all her hormones insisted that this was right. Emotionally, she liked - had always liked - James. A lot. But with her new body and hormones, she also found him amazingly attractive.

She hadn't planned for this to happen. In fact, if it had come up before, she would have argued strenuously against it. But that had been an ingrained response - like a child refusing to try a new food. And, like that child, once she'd experienced it, she came to the startling realization that she'd enjoyed, utterly and completely. She like the way she felt when James kissed her, held her....

In fact, she also realized something else.

She couldn't go back again. Not after this - it would be like a blind person who had learned to see. Everything might be new, and confusing, and a little scary - but there was no way that she would go back to being 'blind' again.

She was a woman - and she was madly, passionately in love with James. In fact, you could probably say she had always been in love with James, in a non-sexual manner when she'd been male. But the culture she lived in refused to admit that - you could call it all sorts of things, including 'they were like brothers', which implied the love - but unless you were drunk or comforting them after a death, you never said the truth - I love you.

Only, now she could. And it was no longer a platonic love - it was very definitely sexual.

Now, all she had to do was make James understand that things had changed. After all - wasn't doing things you wouldn't do at other times, with other people, one of the definitions of love?

Laying back in the bed, Luke waited for her friend.

* * * * *

"What have I done?" James whispered for perhaps the hundredth time as he paced in short, jerky steps in the basement. His hands were running idly through his close cropped hair as he tried to come to grips with what had happened.

But he couldn't. He'd had sex with Luke. There was no denying that fact. That fact that Luke was a woman made it worse - not better. He'd be disgusted with himself if he'd indulged in sex with another guy - but this was worse. Not only had he taken advantage of his friend's condition - he wanted to do it again. He was attracted - very attracted - to the female Luke. He wanted to make love to Luke - he wanted things to stay like this

He was sick. His friend was in misfortune, and he couldn't stop dwelling on how much he was attracted - emotionally and physically - to her. Not only had he done it - he'd do it again. He was the worst human on the face of the planet, ruled by his baser urges, unable to control himself.

Doing things to somebody that you shouldn't do at any time, with anybody - wasn't that sort of a definition for 'psychotic?' Finally, James came to a decision. Looking down, he knew what he had to do, what the penance for his crime was.

Pulling the penknife from his jeans, James opened the small but sharp blade. Bracing himself, he braced the blade against his wrist - and cut....

* * * * *

Luke cursed as she maneuvered down the narrow staircase to the basement. "James?" She called again, and once more received no reply.

After waiting for two hours, she'd become extremely worried. Laboriously, she'd hauled herself out of the bed and, using the walls for support, had slowly and laboriously made her way around, the house, looking for James. Now, fear burned deep in the pit of her stomach. She would have heard the door if he'd left, yet there was no response, and this was the last place in the house...

Suddenly, Luke caught her breath, and her hand flew to her mouth. "James!"

She tried to rush to the unmoving figure that lay on the floor in a pool of liquid - but stumbled. She ignored the pain as her knees contacted the cement floor, and grabbed James' hand with her own. "Oh.. why?"

James' eyes blinked open. "Luke?"

Slowly, the tall, muscular woman with the huge breasts - although not as big as Luke's - sat upright, her torn clothing soaked with the serum she'd poured over the cut in her wrist. She looked down at her new, smoothly muscled feminine body. "I guess it worked..." She said inanely, trying to cope with the new sensations.

Luke was holding back tears. "James - why did you do this? I... it didn't..."

James leaned forward and embraced Luke, their huge bosoms pressing together. "It's okay, Luke - I had to do this." She looked Luke in the eye. "I... I know that you might not be as attracted to me as much like this..."

Luke, with a start, realized that wasn't true, exactly. She was still attracted to James - but in a... different way. Her male mind found the female James sexually attractive, where her female hormones found men attractive. But she didn't interrupt James to tell her this.

"...but I still find you attractive." James continued. "And..." she cast her eyes downward. "Luke - whatever you go through, I'm going to go through. You're... the most important person in the world to me. I know that we don't tell each other this - but it's true." She looked up again, meeting Luke's eyes. "I don't know what happens now, where we go from here. But whatever happened - we go through it together."

The tears began to run down Luke's cheeks as she lost control. "James - that's the most perfect description of Love that I've ever heard." She hesitated, then said it. "James - I love you."

James tightened her embrace. "I love you too..." She paused. "You know - we're going to have to pick some new names for ourselves."

Luke blinked. "Yeah. We're going to have to do a lot more than that though. How do we explain this? What do we do now?" She began to worry as the truth impacted on her. "I mean, we can't claim to be ourselves - and 'we' are now missing "

Gently, James kissed her - a kiss that soon deepened into passion. "It'll be all right." James said. "We'll work it out - somehow."

Pushing herself off the floor, the well-muscled new woman helped Luke off the floor, and began to assist her up the stairs. "But you're going to have to learn how to balance with those tits of yours."

Looking over at the person who voluntarily gave up manhood for her, Luke smiled. "I think I can make that sacrifice." James smiled back at her. "Great. Now - how about some lunch?"

And Luke had to laugh - no matter what gender, James was - and always would be - the same person deep inside. Which made her realize, with a warm glow - she was too.

Maybe - just maybe - everything would work out, after all.

 BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Using a "dream walking" chant that he learned from an old Indian, one man goes into a dream state only to find that he didn't really understand how to control his new world and ends up female.

Dreamwalker

By Gunslinger

Working his mouth at the bitter taste of the tworoot tea, Dave settled his lean, naked body onto the sofa cushion he'd placed in front of the low, faux-oak coffee table in the center of the living room.

He'd adjusted the temperature so that, even naked, he didn't feel uncomfortable being as baby-naked as the day he was born. Physically speaking, of course - proud of his lean, well-muscled body, Dave was never ashamed to show off how trim he was. With his dark hair worn somewhat long and loose, framing a hawk-like face with dark, intense eyes, he knew there was a sort of animal attraction many women found nigh irresistible.

It was more than the appearance of intensity, as well - Dave, as anybody who'd ever met him could attest to, was every bit as intense a young man as he appeared. Everything he did, no matter what it might be, was done with that same intensity. Some of the women initially attracted to him by that look of single-minded attention he gave any task he set his mind to sometime hurried away, frightened by the dark passion he invested. Others, however, found being at the center of that dark flame even more exciting...until he tired of them, and turned his intense passion onto the next topic.

Which, at the moment, was the golden glow of a fat, black wax candle sitting on a saucer in the middle of the coffee table.

The saucer was black, as was the cloth draping the table. With the lights off and night pressing hard against the windows, the steady flame of the fat candle seemed to float in mid air, as if nothing in the universe existed but that one, tapering flame.

Just as Marcus Loonfeather had taught him.

For the briefest of instants, a touch of guilt brushed at Dave's consciousness. After all, the old Indian had made Dave swear never, ever to attempt a Walk by himself.

Dave banished the momentary guilt easily. Regret for his actions were not part of Dave's personality - everything he did, he did in the utter surety that he was in the right, his intensity allowing no doubt of his own decisions or actions. When he'd first heard of Dreamwalking from the 'crazy old Indian' who claimed to be a shaman, Dave had dedicated himself to learning whether or not it was true, or merely some crazy old man's delusion. For the past three weeks, he'd been paying Marcus to teach him the basics, barely restraining himself as he listened to the doddering old fools repeated warnings about the dangers of Walking. Marcus, stringing him along with painfully slow lessons that were clearly a bid to earn more money over a longer period of time, had been giving away more than he'd thought - and now, Dave was sure, he now knew enough to try it himself, without having to put up with the gray-haired old fool any longer. If nothing happened tonight, then Marcus was a senile madman - and if it did work, then obviously Dave needed no more instruction. Either way, Marcus had seen the last dollar he'd ever get from Dave.

Taking a deep breath, Dave focused all of his intense concentration on the flame that appeared to float alone in a sea of darkness. "I am dreaming." Dave chanted, softly. "This is a dream, and I am the dreamer..."

His voice low and steady, he repeated the words over and over again, as Marcus had taught. Gradually, the words felt so familiar in his mouth that he stopped having to consciously think of them. Unbidden, they continued to emerge, while the last bit of his conscious attention was freed to focus on the flame, and nothing but the flame...

"I am dreaming." Dave chanted, focusing. "This is a dream, and I am the dreamer." "I am dreaming. This is a dream, and I am the dreamer."

"I am dreaming." "This is a dream..."

'...and I am the dreamer.'

With a start, Dave's eyes popped open.

He was still sitting, naked and cross-legged, on the sofa cushion. Before him, the table, draped in black, sat, and with it the black saucer....

...but the candle, flame fluttering ever so slightly, was now a gleaming fat cylinder of white wax.

The golden glow of that flame seemed no brighter - and yet, somehow, the room itself was better lit, that same light somehow seeming to reach further, to stay nearly as bright as it splashed off the walls and furnishings of Dave's living room.

'I did it', Dave thought, not without a certain amount of surprise - surprise that redoubled when he heard his own voice say those very words even as he thought them.

"Why did I say that out loud?" Dave wondered - and again heard the words emerge from his mouth...

...and then, slowly, he began to grin.

"Because I'm in the Dream World." He told himself, still bemused that this half-crazy notion had actually worked.

To Dave, it seemed as if he were 'really' here - but this was not a place of body, but of mind. That was why his thoughts emerged as words, because here his body was merely a remembered reflection of what his mind expected to feel, and so words thought here were also spoken simultaneous with the thought.

He looked around the familiar room with a small smile. It was nothing impressive, just the living room of an affordable two-bedroom apartment, but that wasn't why he was smiling - he was smiling at the fact he'd successfully done something he wasn't even sure was possible.

"I am dreaming." Dave suddenly found himself saying. "This is a dream, and I am the dreamer." Of course - the chant. The one he'd repeated over and over until it was practically second nature.

As it had to be - not only because you had to be able to stop thinking about what you were saying in order to focus all your attention on the flame to enter the Dream World - but also because, without the chant, you could quite easily stop Walking.

Not that it was any big thing, in the great scheme of things - but Dave didn't want it to happen, anyway. After all, if he forgot, even for a moment, that this was really a dream and he was the dreamer, then he would stop Walking the dream, and merely be in it - asleep, and dreaming as normally as anybody else.

No, he liked Walking the dream, of having control over the world of the collective unconscious where the dream resided... Speaking of which...

Taking a deep breath, Dave concentrated, turning his attention to one of the aspects of Walking he'd been told about - and, once again, Marcus' words proved to be more than the insanity so many took them for, because a comfortable pair of track pants and a white t-shirt formed themselves around Dave's body.

Here, conscious and Walking the dream, he had control over so many things.

The clothes were chosen almost subconsciously - but that was a moot point, because here in the world of the dream, subconscious and conscious were mostly one and the same. When he'd thought of clothing, he'd found himself wearing the same thing he might have 'thrown on' when rolling out of bed. A second later, the clothing writhed and changed - this time, to an expensive, dark-gray tailored suit that showed off his lean body to perfection.

"Much better..." He thought/said, running a hand across the smooth, soft material.

Yes - he liked this. Here, things were - by definition - exactly as he thought they should be.

Smiling a tight, intense little smile, Dave once again muttered the Dream Chant without really thinking about it, then decided it was time to explore a world that did his bidding.

Crossing the living room in that strangely-bright golden candlelight, he moved into the shadowed hallway that led past the kitchen to the door of his apartment. Here, the wall of the kitchen blocked the direct glow of the candle - and yet, even here it wasn't as dark as it should have been, would have been, in the waking world. Though dim, there seemed to be a strange, direction less gray light that kept it from being pitch black.

Yet another oddity of the dream world for him to not, Dave thought/said to himself as he reached out for the door handle...

...and, startled, found himself instead walking straight through the closed door.

It took a second for him to catch his breath on the other side of the door, as he stood in the middle of a hallway lit by the fluorescent tubes above. Obviously, the rules for interacting with the dream world were considerably stranger than he'd assumed. For a moment, he felt a sense of unease, the thought that maybe he should have allowed Marcus time for a few more lessons about what to expect - but then, as always, Dave put aside any doubts, and squared his shoulders under the fabric of the fine suit. Head held high, he strode off down the hallway, wondering where he should go, what he should do in the strange new world of the Walk.

The thought and action occurred simultaneously, as it must in this world where thought was action. Even as it occurred to him, he simply turned and walked through the door to the nearest apartment.

Even as he stepped through what would have been a solid, and undoubtedly locked, door in the real world, he realized he needn't necessarily use the door - had it occurred to him before he'd done it, he could have easily as stepped through a wall as a door.

Nevertheless, it mattered little - 'real' objects, in the dream world, couldn't be interacted with. Pushing the thought aside, he almost unconsciously repeated the chant as he looked around.

The layout of this apartment was almost identical to Dave's own, though mirror reversed - the hallway from the front door, rather than running down the left side of the kitchen, ran down the right. The walls were painted the same off-white color, however, and the same industrial-grade carpeting lay on the floor.

Amused at how easy it was to 'break and enter', Dave momentarily considered heading out to a bank or two as he wandered down the short hallway. It was nothing more than a moment's idle speculation, though, for it would do no good. He could not only not take the money back into the waking world with him, he wouldn't even be able to move the 'real' money. On the other hand...

A thick, banded stack of hundred dollar bills appeared in his hand - and then, just as quickly, vanished. It was both as real and as 'fake' as anything in the dreaming world, and had as little value in the waking one, which was to say, none at all. Sighing slightly, Dave stepped into the apartment's living room.

It wasn't nearly as neat nor as nice as his own. A bachelor himself, Dave wasn't as fussy about housekeeping as women seemed to be, but his intensity in all things applied to how he kept his house, as well - when he cleaned, he cleaned.

By comparison, this place was a pigsty.

Oh, it wasn't really filthy. There was no foul odor to speak of true filth, just the slight mustiness that said the place hadn't been aired out recently. Clutter, more than dirt. Nevertheless, the place had a slovenly air to it, unkempt, without any real sense of order imposed upon the items scattered about the mismatched furnishings.

With a wry twist to his lips and a grunt of distaste, Dave eyed the slovenly room, already planning to leave - but not quite enough for it to have become action, because he hadn't quite made the decision. Instead, he idly moved around the room, peeking here and peering there. There was a strange sort of voyeuristic thrill to look around another person's home, uninvited, with no chance of being found out.

The couch, a somewhat tattered thing upholstered in brown velour, was pushed up against the western wall, and was, for this room, fairly uncluttered. Indeed, aside from a plump cushion at one end and a worn old blanket half-off the other, the only other item on the couch cushions was a cheap-looking paperback book. It lay open but face-down near the plump cushion, its blue-edged newsprint pages dog-eared and well-thumbed.

Curiosity slightly pricked, Dave once more found thought becoming action as he leaned forward to peer at the cover - and his eyebrows climbed high on his forehead as he ogled the lurid illustration gracing the front.

'Big' was the first thought that came to mind on spotting the water-colored woman illustrating the front cover of that novel.

Oh, the drawn-and-painted woman wasn't even slightly fat. Nor was she 'sturdy', 'husky', or 'plump'. The adjective 'big' didn't not apply to any of these concepts at all.

No, it was 'merely' that every thing about the illustration was over-the-top.

The hair, colored an improbable shade of yellow, was even more improbably in its shear, bouffant mass - it rose high above her head, held in place by an equally 'big' pink bow, before finally spilling down in a big golden flow more like a thick cape than a hairstyle.

The eyes painted on that face were also big - huge, bright-blue eyes drawn in such a way as to suggest that not so much as a single thought had ever floated through the woman's head.

Her lips, the same shade of pink as the massive bow, were bow-like themselves.. and of course, full to the point of caricature, as over-the-top 'big' as the huge, chandelier-like diamond earrings she sported, or the equally tacky necklace.

The dress she wore was supposed to be the type of cocktail dress popular in the forties and fifties. The bodice-style top was illustrated with little gleams to show glittering sequins, while the skirt - short, but 'big' in it's puffy way - was layers of what was supposed to be alternating strips of white and pink, gauze-like fabric.

The skirt was barely long enough to reach the fancy, decorative tops of her garter-supported white-lace nylons. At the other end of those long legs, she wore 'big' pink platform shoes with ridiculously high, slender heels.

Her hips and ass were likewise exaggerated to almost outlandishly round, shapely proportions - but above and an equally improbably waist of wasp-like slenderness lay the biggest thing about her, the massive breasts barely restrained by the skin-tight top, the edge of each utterly massive pink nipple clearly shown.

Dave shook his head in disbelief and grunted softly to himself. He recognized the artist even before spotting the signature - Will Board, known for such outlandishly-proportioned women in his illustrations.

"Ridiculous!" Dave snorted - then paused, voicing his thoughts as they formed: "I wonder if a woman with tits that big could even stand upright, much less in heels that high..."

He swayed slightly.

Confused, he straightened and looked down at himself...

...and full, gloss-pink lips opened into a perfect 'O' of shock as he gaped down at the massive flesh spheres thrust defiantly forward from his chest, the glittering white-sequined neckline of the bodice-top almost lost under the horizon of the spheres of tit-flesh.

"Holy shit - I turned myself into a chick!" He thought/squealed in a high-pitched breathy voice completely unlike his own, but completely fitting the massive bust-line before his huge blue eyes.

He started to form the thought of his own body again - but before it coalesced, he found himself voicing the first thought that zipped through his mind: "I wonder what this looks like as a living woman..."

He whirled, feeling decidedly strange as he did so, for it was a tight little whirl done on what felt like eight-foot-stilts, and was accompanied by an even stranger feeling that could only be the cool breeze motion created ghosting over smooth, nylon-encased legs... and then he was gaping at the reflection presented by the three-way mirror thought had formed.

In something very near disbelief, he stared at himself...

...or, rather, herself.

It was the woman on the cover of the book - and yet, at the same time, it wasn't.

"It's as if an actual woman had spent a fortune on plastic surgery to get as close to the illustration as humanly possible." She said in that ridiculous, slightly lisping soprano, staring in wide-eyed amazement at the almost impossibly proportioned woman gaping back from the mirrors.

Withy liposuction and collagen injections, cheek and chin implants, eyelid surgery and colored contacts, a couple years of hair growth and a dye-job, and many rounds of breast-enlargement surgery, it was just barely possible that a 'real' woman could be turned into the reflection in the mirror. If the woman in question had been tall and leggy, broad of hip and full of bust to begin with, then perhaps...

...but, even then, just barely - and Dave couldn't imagine any woman willingly transforming themselves into the cartoon-like woman his/her own vagrant thoughts had just transformed her into. That face, with its broad, high cheekbones and huge blue eyes, gaped foolishly at the reflection, full pink lips still hanging open to expose almost impossibly white, regular teeth. Gaped in shock at the over- all impression of the leggy woman with the head of hair so thick and massive that it seemed to weigh a ton... but mainly, stared at the unbelievable massive breasts, each easily as large as a medicine ball, and feeling almost as heavy.

Slender fingers tipped with hot-pink nails that had to be at least three inches long started to rise towards those massive, fleshy spheres, thought made action, even before the thought of changing herself back could fully form...

...and once more she was distracted, this time by something she saw in the mirror. A strange oblong haze forming on the couch behind her.

She whirled anew, barely aware of the mirror vanishing behind her as she spun- in this strange world, where thought and reality intertwined so closely, she couldn't think/do multiple things at one, and the struggling attempt to regain her own form was doomed even as what thought she could spare was used for motion, turning her and bringing her gaze to bear on the thickening mist on the couch.

A mist that was rapidly coalescing into something recognizable...

"What the hell...?" The spoken thought popping from her full lips unbidden, and once more cutting short her attempt to transform, even as realization pushed the next attempt aside with more words: "It's somebody who fell asleep entering a dream!"

The thought that followed immediately on the heels of one that was both obvious and upsetting: "I have to get out of here!"

She would have much preferred to return to her own, male body first, then leave - but as bad as the thought of being seen in this ridiculous form was, the thought of being seen at all was worse, because she knew she had no real right to be in somebody else's apartment, dream or not. That was the thought that formed first, and hence, the one she obeyed first, her body moving with an impossible skill in the ridiculously high heels, a skill as 'real' as the money she'd momentarily created.

Her feet refused to move in anything but short little 'sissy steps', and she almost managed to fully-form the thought of her own body - but was helplessly distracted, instead, by the strange sensations of the new body, which prompted her to think/voice something: "Geez, this huge boobs feel really weird! A real woman's tits can't possibly be this sensitive - every step I take cause them to jiggle and bounce, and it feels so... good!"

She didn't want to admit that last, but the thought had formed, and so the words emerged - and, again, thought becoming action, she found her hands rising up to cup her massive tits and give them a light, testing squeeze.

"Oh, shit, that feels great!" She gasped, as helpless to stop herself from voicing that unwilling truth as she'd been to keep her hands from her massive new tits in the first place. Shocked and worried, concerned about the dreamed entering the dream, she helplessly found her head swiveling to look over one shoulder, unable to take her hands down from her massive and unbelievably sensitive tits as another thought/action was in play.

She felt the massive cape of silken hair brush over her slender, milky shoulder as her head turned, followed an instant later by the cool touch of the huge earring moving over warm flesh - then her huge blue eyes were able to focus on the figure laying on the couch.

It was a young man or perhaps twenty. Pale, with a thick shock of medium-brown hair, with a stocky build that, given his beer-belly, would move on into 'fat' before he saw thirty. He was laying sprawled on the couch, the novel now resting on his chest, wearing only a pair of white boxer shorts...

...and his brown eyes were open, and looking right at her.

Right at the huge-breasted blonde in high heels, turned three-quarters of the way from him, her bubble-but thrust in her direction and her hands cupping her over-sized tits as she looked back over her shoulder at him.

As he stretched and sat up on the couch, he didn't even seem the slightest bit surprised to see her standing there.

Which, in a way, made perfect sense - after all, he wasn't Walking - he was just a guy having a dream, and in dreams many things could happen that, waking, would be strange or downright impossible, and yet taken as completely normal while in a dream.

So, that made immediate sense - what didn't, however, was the fact that she hadn't voice the sudden realization, as she had been voicing all other thoughts until just that second.

In fact, she wasn't saying - or doing - anything, even though she was now desperately trying to leave. Failing at that, she tried to remake herself a man to face the stout young man's long, obviously well-enjoyed look at her ridiculous figure - and failed.

Struggling to do or say anything, Dave wondered what the hell was happening, why she couldn't seem to control the motions of the body she was now in, much less transform it into the one she wanted...

"Wow..." The brunet said, eying her. "You look.. incredible..." Annoyance, anger and distaste flared in Dave...

...which made it all the more shocking when her full lips parted, and she spoke: "Gee, (tee hee), you really think so...?"

'What the...?' Dave thought, shocked - and, even more shocked, realized it was the first thought, separate from his conscious mind, that he - or, as it now was, she - had had since starting the Chant.

Then a cold chill ran through her mind as she realized she hadn't repeated the chant recently.

Too caught up in what had been going on, too busy moving and reacting to allow anything but the current thought/action or thought/words, she'd missed the grounding chant.

She was still alert and aware, still in the world of Dreams...

...but she was no longer the Dreamer. The brunet was.

'Oh, shit...!' This was... bad. Very bad.

Very, very bad...

...and about to get a whole lot worse.

"You're kinda cute, too!" She helplessly heard herself say, with a giggle - and, inside, her mind screamed briefly as she gave a metaphysical shudder.

In that instant, he'd become cute.

Oh, not a single thing about him had changed - but her perception of him had, for just as she spoken each thought before, it now worked in reverse, and as this man's dreams made her voice a thought, the thought itself formed in her mind - unbidden, unwanted, but there, and as real as any 'real' thought she'd ever had for herself.

'God, no- I don't want to find a man, any man, 'cute!' She screamed at herself inside her mind - but that didn't change the fact that, now, she did think him exactly that.

It was as strong and as real as any other thought she'd ever had - as real and as valid as any time Dave had looked at a girl and found her 'cute'.

The thought, flaring briefly through her mind like a meteor through the night, faded, as any other thought might have, and his 'cuteness' began to diminish even as she smiled at him... but the memory of the thought remained, and with it overtones and implications that would keep a certain amount of his 'cuteness' apparent to her, even if he didn't dream her into saying or doing anything that caused a recurrence of the thought.

She was trapped in a dream of his weaving, and it was more than just her body obeying his desires like a puppet on a string - what he wanted from her, she had to give, and that extended itself to what she felt, as well as what she did.

Helpless to stop herself, she found herself moving towards the couch in a slow, hip-swaying walk. The smile on her full, firm lips was warm and welcoming, and unbidden shivers of anticipated pleasure raced up and down her spine...

...and all of it drove home the difference between this unknown man smiling at her from the couch, and the man she'd so recently been.

'He cares...!' She thought to herself in shock, feeling unwanted excitement racing through her body. 'He actually wants me to enjoy this. Not to be 'forced', but to actually... want to do these things.'

It was, of course, 'just a dream' - but awake or asleep, a person's mind was a person's mind. In her male fantasies, the unreal woman was just a playing, a shade to bring him pleasure - and that was a reflection of real life, where he cared less about a woman than his own immediate pleasures. Whoever this man was, he wanted a woman to enjoy what they were doing together as much as he did - and in his dreams, that fantasy became real.

A fantasy she was now trapped in the middle of.

The worst was that she knew what was coming - and that she was unable to do a single thing to stop herself. She was utterly helpless, cast into a role she must play, and she couldn't even control what it was that she felt, much less what it was that she did.

With absolutely no choice in the matter, she walked over to sit beside him on the couch, lowering her firm, full ass to the cushions right beside the man, until she had all-but-draped herself around him. It was almost literal, her slender new arms going around his neck as she pressed her overly lush, ripe body firmly against his.

'This is just a dream!' She tried to tell herself. 'It isn't real!' It didn't help.

Intellectually, she knew it was true - she wasn't 'really' feeling any of this. In fact, she wasn't even 'unreally' feeling any of this, either - after all, she wasn't really a woman, and didn't know what anything a woman might experience would feel like. The closest thing to describe what she was going through is what her own imagination thought a woman might feel as these things happened.

Not that it mattered - when he began caressing one long, nylon-clad leg, it certainly felt real enough to any sense she'd care to name.

"Wow.. you really are gorgeous..." He told her - and, as for one brief moment, she actually did believe this ridiculously top-heavy form was 'gorgeous'.

Even as that momentary conviction filled her, he pulled her mouth closer - and kissed her.

She'd kissed enough women in her time to give her mind plenty to work with. The way their lips pressed together, a soft moan of unfeigned pleasure coming from her throat. The slow, moist dance of their tongues. The warmth of their bodies pressed tightly to one another, with but thin cloth separating them, and in some places not even that.

Physically, it felt... just like a real kiss.

Inside, she shuddered in disgust over the fact she was kissing a man - until, after what seemed an eternity, they broke apart and she helplessly fulfilled his desires by saying, "That was wonderful."

As she spoke the words, memory momentarily changed, and she herself actually believed she had thoroughly enjoyed the kiss - and even as that unwanted conviction faded, the taint of it remained, leaving her with two memories of the same kiss, one that thoroughly disgusted her even as she was forced to enjoy the physical aspects of it... and the other, where she loved it from beginning to end.

"Well, then..." He said, grinning, "You'll love a second kiss just as much..." Since it was his fantasy, she did. Every damned second of the long, deep kiss. Not that 'kiss' was the only thing he did. Oh, no...

Given the cover of the novel the guy had fallen asleep reading, it was no surprise when his hand moved upwards from her leg to her massive, round breasts. Lightly, almost teasingly, he played with her massive mounds, sending unwanted pleasure through her new body - and when his other hand slipped down behind her back to unzip the dress to bare her silky smooth flesh to his hand, the pleasure only increased.

Then, a moment later, it redoubled.

It turned out there was nothing under that dress but a garter belt and a whole hell of a lot of her. Now naked but for garters, stockings, heels, and jewelry, she helplessly let herself be pulled around until she was straddling him, allowing hands and mouth full access to more of her body. At first, it was just his hands roaming over her massive breasts as he continued kissing her, but then his lips sank down to nuzzle her breasts, to lick and suck on her massive and now fully engorged pink nipples, while his hands once more roamed over her nylon-clad legs, working their way up over her thighs and past the garter, until they were cupping her fully firm ass.

All through this, his fantasy had her murmuring words of encouragement, small sounds of pleasure - sounds and words that, moment by moment, described what, willing or not, she was feeling and thinking.

So, when he 'made' her cry out that she wanted him inside of her hot, wet pussy, she was actually happy when he obliged her. His hands tightened on her buttocks as she rose, and he helped her position herself over him - and then she sank down, impaling herself fully on his hard, throbbing cock.

"Oh, God, Yes!" She cried out as pleasure ran through her at being filled - and fulfilled - by his manhood, and even she couldn't tell whether it was the words causing the pleasure, or the pleasure causing the words.

As intense as that first moment was, it only grew as they began to rock together on the couch, his fantasy allowing him to match her moves as if he was perfectly synchronized with her. His hands roamed all over the warm, smooth flesh of her incredible body, whispering to her, praising her, encouraging her, while she murmured back like words of pleasure and enjoyment, no longer able to tell where her own desires and the ones imposed on her intermingled. Pleasure flooded through her, tingled down every nerve ending, as she rode at an increasing pace atop him, the moistness of her womanhood seeming to embrace the rigidity of his intensely pleasurable manhood.

Somewhere, in the back of her mind, she knew that she was 'merely' feeling her own imaginary conception of what sex like a woman must feel like, and it was probably nothing like what a real woman would feel - but that made it now less intense, no less real for her.

Sex, for a man, consisted mainly of sensations from one portion of the body - while this was ebbing and waning, flowing and throbbing, through every fiber of her imaginary body.

As unbelievably intense as all that might have been, it was nothing at all compared to what happened to her when the man she was busy having sex with decided it was time for them both reach simultaneous orgasm.

This time, she knew the scream of pleasure torn from her throat was voluntary. There could be no way to hold in the pleasure she felt as her entire body convulsed around the burning moist center of her pleasure, tossing her atop him like a wet sack as the orgasm overrode nerve endings, tearing through her body with a force she couldn't imagine, much less control. She thrashed and writhed, burying his head in the seemingly endless cleavage of her massive breasts, until the last, flaring echo of orgasm made its way through her and left her sagging and gasping with the intensity - the immensity - of it all.

"God..." he muttered into that massive chasm of cleavage. "that was... amazing."

She agreed, without reservation... but there was something strange about his words - not just muffled, but somehow... weak. Watery.

Just like he, himself, as he seemed to soften under her in more than the expected way. He was leaving the dream.

Since, at the moment, she was merely part of his dream, no longer a Walker, so too did she find herself departing the world of dreams. It wasn't just the man upon whom she was mounted who seemed hazy, indistinct - everything around her was growing dim, hazy, unreal....

* * * * *

With a gasp, Dave sat bolt upright, heart pounding.

For a moment, he simply stared around him, his eyes wild and with no sign of recognition for his surroundings. His hands, as if separate entities, fluttered around his body and face, touching, feeling, judging, as if something unfamiliar.

Slowly, the pounding heart slowed, and the sweaty body stilled. The smell of hot wax registered, and eyes regaining some semblance of control turned to look at the thick, eight-hour black candle, burned less than one-quarter of its way down.

His rapid panting was slowing to something near normal, but his hand lightly rose again to lightly touch the flat, slightly hairy flesh of his chest.

"A woman.. I was a woman with huge tits " He gasped to himself, frowning slightly at the voice that emerged, then relaxing anew.

"I'm me again " Dave sighed.

It was over. He was awake, and back in the body that, in reality, he'd never left. As real and intense as the whole thing had seemed it had been, after all, 'just a dream'.

Just a dream. Harmless...

...and intensely pleasurable.

More so than any 'real', male experience he'd ever had.

Hands still lightly roaming his chest, as if looking for something that should be there, he turned to look at the candle, licking dry lips nervously.

"I... am dreaming." Dave said, hoarsely nervous voice growing stronger, more certain - even eager - with each syllable. "This is a dream, and I am the dreamer "

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A drug addicted young med. student, steals a drug that he thinks will feed his habit, only to discover that he has taken a drug which turns him into a sex starved bimbo with huge tits who loves to suck cock.

The Drug

By Gunslinger

The buzzing fluorescent lights still kept the institutional-green hallways as brightly lit as daylight. The soft whirring of ventilators and air- conditioning units continued their ceaseless humming. The electrical and mechanical systems, with no concept of day and night, hummed, clicked and whirred along as efficiently as if the building was humming with activity.

But the building lay silent in the small, quiet hours of the morning, it's rooms empty except for the occasional member of the custodial staff going about their duties, or the few remaining doctors or interns burning the midnight oil.

The hospital was a teaching a research hospital, endowed with a grant by the local medical school. Lacking an ER, the hospital only performed scheduled operations, for the benefit of students or researchers. Unlike a 'real' hospital, the building became silent and deserted as the staff worked regular eight-to-eight shifts.

Through the silent hallways moved a slender young man, dressed in the white uniform of a medical student. Clipped to the pocket of his shirt was an identification card allowing him access to the hospital. It was a real card, and in fact was even the young man's card, with the usually poor photo of his intense face topped with a careless mass of blond hair, and his name - 'Thomas Bedsloe - on it. But a closer inspection of the card would have revealed that it had expired the week before.

Thankfully, the bored security guard hadn't looked that closely at it, waving the 'med student' through languidly. If the over-weight guard lounging at his desk had actually read his weekly bulletins, he would have learned that one T. Bedsloe was to be refused access to the entire campus, having been expelled for drug use - drugs that he had stolen from the hospital's supply room, as a matter of fact.

That is where Tom was heading now. With one last look around, he ducked into the darkened storage room, closing and locking the door behind him. He even went so far as to stuff a couple of surgical gowns along the bottom of the door, so that when he turned on the light, none would show through the crack.

With a sigh, Tom relaxed and leaned against a convenient wall, his heart pounding as the adrenaline surged through his system.

He was taking a big risk coming in one last time. Before, he'd only ever pilfered a little at a time, just enough for his immediate needs. Now, he had to take a large enough supply to last him for some time - he simply couldn't afford the street price of the drugs he needed.

And need them he did. It hadn't ever been his intention to become a drug addict. In fact, he was one of the very few drug users in the world who could honestly claim that his addiction wasn't his fault. The reason why he was a drug addict all stemmed from an unscrupulous med student at the same school, eager to make as much cash as possible before his low marks flunked him out at the end of the semester. So, he'd thrown a big party, with free booze - using up the last of his cash to do so.

At the end of the evening, when everyone else had staggered off, the student had been left with a half a dozen students passed out in his rented house.

It was these ones that he'd injected with a highly potent - and addictive - neo-morphate. The half dozen students had awakened the next morning helplessly addicted to the high the drug provided. They were also shown some extremely shocking photos of themselves that the student had 'staged', making it appear that they were all involved in a homosexual orgy. One word about this, he warned, and a friend of his at the newspaper would print the photos.

Now, a month later, Tom was disgraced, expelled and addicted. So, he figured he really had nothing to lose by this one last raid. Of course, he really knew better than that, but the drug's hold on him forced him to ignore common sense in search of his next fix.

Now, he looked around the small storeroom, looking for the cardboard boxes containing his drug. When, on the first search, he couldn't locate them, he searched again, becoming desperate.

They weren't there.

Sometime in the past week, the drugs he was looking for had been moved - and he didn't have time to search through the building to find them.

Which meant he'd have to take a substitute. He once more went through the boxes, finding that all of them were from the research division of the hospital, without trade names. Only the chemical prefix system and the compound names were listed, none of which he knew. Tom sat back, trying to dredge up the inorganic and organic medical chemistry classes he'd taken.

Finally, he thought he had it. If he had interpreted the complex chemical code right, the one he wanted was... that one.

Picking up the cardboard box, Tom read the hand-written notation on the top, written in by the researcher, giving the experimental name, the lab code, and the researcher doing the work. HE squinted and read the spiky, tightly-spaced handwriting.

'Series 12 - Neogenestrogenic morphologic biogenaccelerant - compound B - Produced by B. E. Rasputin, Lab 8B, 11/08/98'

Most of the designation was gibberish to Tom, but he sighed in relief at the second word - Morphologic. Although he wasn't familiar with that word, itself, he figured that it was a derivative of 'morphine', verifying that he had the right compound.

He placed the box of vials in his text book bag, along with a more than adequate supply of hypodermic syringes. Shutting off the light in the storeroom, he opened the door a crack to ensure the coast was clear. Satisfied, he left the room, closing it behind him - then walked boldly and swiftly through the halls, looking as if he belonged there. Since he seemed so competent and assured, completely at ease, no one noticed the slightest thing odd about him, and dismissed them from their minds. To many criminals never learned the simple fact that Tom understood instinctively - if you skulked around like a criminal, you got noticed. If you took it easy, looking like you were supposed to be doing whatever it was you were doing, few - if any - people questioned you.

So, heart pounding a mile a minute, Tom feigned casual calmness as he walked right past the security guard and out to the parking lot. Climbing into his aging, rusting Toyota, he slumped for a second in relief, then started the engine and headed for home.

He arrived there half an hour later, feeling exhausted. It wasn't only the fact that it had been twenty-four hours since he last slept - it was also the physical exhaustion that came after the initial rush of adrenaline wore off. The more adrenaline the body produced, the worse the fatigue afterward - and Tom's body had been swimming in the hormonal energy.

Barely able to function, he staggered inside, stumbled to his bedroom, and collapsed onto the bed, sound asleep before his head hit the pillow.

Tom didn't dream often - or, more accurately, he dreamed as much as any other person, but remembered none of them in the morning. So it was this time - he awoke at noon, feeling refreshed and alert, with no memory of having dreamed.

He also felt antsy and irritable - a warning sign of withdrawal. Enforcing what little of his self-discipline that remained, he forced himself to shower and shave, and put on a fresh set of clothing - his ever-present pair of jeans, white athletic sock, and baggy sweatshirt. In this case, a dark green one, emblazoned with the garish yellow logo of a local bar.

Then, refusing even to look at the tempting cardboard container laying on his night table, he went to the kitchen, fixed himself a cholesterol-rich breakfast of bacon and eggs, and washed it all down with two cups of coffee, black and sweet.

Only then did he give into his need. Walking back to his bedroom, he sat on his bed. Rolling up the baggy sleeve of his sweatshirt, he eyed the needle marks on the inside of his elbow with distaste. At least, as a medical student, he knew how to do it right. The needle tracks were small and unobtrusive, having done the least amount of damage possible.

Hating himself, he prepared a syringe with twenty CC's of the drug. Swabbing his arms with an alcohol pad, he slid the needle expertly into a vein and depressed the plunger, injecting the fluid into his bloodstream. He swabbed the area again, then the needle. Laying the hypo aside, he leaned back against the headboard and waited for the drug to kick in.

KICK in it did - like a mule. One instant, Tom was sitting there, waiting for whatever effect the new drug was going to have - the next, the entire universe changed.

Time seemed to slow down, everything happening in slow motion while Tom continued to function at normal speed. In the same, never-ending instant, all his senses reached peak sensitivity - and hurtled past that barrier as if it never existed. Sounds became shaper, crisper than the ever had. Colors that he never new existed filled in the shades between the spectrum he knew, allowing him instantly and obviously see the difference in color between beige, cream, off-white, egg-shell and desert sand - whereas before they had been the same shade to him, now each one had it's own subtle texture and shading.

His sense of smell but any bloodhound to shame. The odor from the breakfast he'd made tantalized his nose, and he could tell, by smell alone, what items of food were in his house, and where.

But it was much, much more than that. He became excruciatingly aware of his own body - it's slow, plodding, awkward shape and movements, it's unpleasant yet bearable masculine musk, the annoying sensations from every single hair on his body... everything.

He rose from the bed, feeling oafish and uncoordinated, his heavy denim jeans like mild sandpaper on his legs. He walked into the living room, feeling the currents of air across his body, seeing everything around him with hyper-acute senses.

Then everything doubled, and he pushed through to a whole new level of awareness.

Everything, inanimate and animate, that surrounded him had emotions - and he could feel those emotions like waves in his head. The fluorescent light streaming from the kitchen was painful, harsh. He quickly shut it off, sighing in the gentle glow of sunlight coming in the window.

The walls around him emoted stability and strength - except for the one that held a large poster of a almost nude woman. The poster felt weak, pitiful - and it was weakening the whole wall, Hurriedly, before disaster could strike and the wall come tumbling down, he removed the poster, allowing the wall to gratefully regain it's strength and permanence. It was better, but not perfect the walls were painted light desert tan with shadings to beige and highlights of egg-shell. The color was inoffensive, but by the same token it was unappealing, bland. Tom decided he'd have to repaint in a color with stronger emotions sometime soon.

Floating, Tom moved his heavy, graceless body to the leather recliner, which was begging to enfold him in it's warm, soft embrace. He let it do so, basking in it's love of him. Gently, so as not to startle it, he lifted the remote to his CD player, and kindly asked it to put on some music. The remote discussed it with the CD player, and they agreed that some nice classical music, not too loud, would be appropriate. The CD player located a song it felt would serve, and sent the electrical impulses to the speakers, who were kind enough to let the gentle strains of 'Pachelbel's Canon in D' fill the room.

With a smile, Tom watched the dust motes dance to the soothing music that contained notes and nuances like none he'd ever heard, ethereal in it's beauty.

* * * * *

Tom blinked at the late afternoon sunlight streaming in through his window, his eyes feeling gritty and sore, as if somebody had blown sand in them. He stretched slowly, marveling at the strength and duration of the 'trip' - and the way he had dropped down like a rock at the end, going from high to straight in about seven seconds.

He stood up slowly, feeling stiff from sitting eight hours in one place. His body tingled with pins and needles as the circulation picked up, and Tom began to feel a little more like himself again.

Which was pretty damn depressing. After having the world shown to you in perfect, utter clarity, the letdown of having to see the world like everyone else is pretty big. To Tom, the entire world looked gray and bland, everything muted and out of focus.

Sighing, Tom headed to the bathroom, his bladder signaling that those two cups of coffee from this morning were ready to be set free. Standing in front of the toilet, he unzipped and lowered his jeans...

"Fuckin' SHIT! My dick!" Tom yelled in horror, staring down at his cock.

It was tiny. Only about one-eighth the size it had been this morning, it was a tiny little nub hanging forlornly from his crotch. Of his balls, there was no sign, except for a small bit of flesh below the withered cock that was slightly baggy. Horrified, he touched the tiny cock - and drew his hand back, surprised by the sensitivity of the tiny organ.

He was so horrified and shocked by the inexplicable shrinking of his cock, it took him several seconds to register the fact that there were more things wrong than that - although that was the one that worried him the most.

There was no hair on the thighs that framed the tiny dick. In fact, as he soon found out, there was no body hair anywhere on his body - his skin was completely smooth from the eyebrows down.

Horrified, he tore off his clothes and checked over the rest of his body, mind whirling in confusion and fear.

Although he was never very bulky, he'd had a sort of lean muscularity - no longer. He seemed to have lost some muscle mass, his body slender and less... masculine.

In fact, his nipples were swollen, with small domes of flesh, barely visible but definitely there, pushing out behind the enlarged nipples. Also, his hair seemed to have grown several inches, now hanging midway to his jaw.

There was no denying what the image in the mirror showed - Tom looked almost completely androgynous.

Heart pounding a mile a minute, Tom dashed naked from the bathroom into his bedroom, grabbing the box of the drug he'd taken, and re-reading the label on the experimental serum.

'Neogenestrogenic morphologic biogenaccelerant'.

Grabbing the Oxford English Dictionary from the shelf beside his bed table, Tom flipped through it, confirming his worst fears. Neo - New, or recent

Gen - Short form for Genetic

Estrogenic - Having to do with any or all of three hormones that induce a series of physiological changes in females, especially in the primary and secondary sexual characteristics.

Morphologic - relating to form, structure. Bio - Short form of biological Accelerant - an enzyme or chemical for the speeding up of a reaction.

'Neogenestrogenic morphologic biogenaccelerant' = 'New genetic female hormones to greatly accelerate the formation of primary and secondary female sexual characteristics.'

"Dear God..." Tom whispered, stunned. The OED tumbled from his numb hands onto the floor. "It's a god-damned sex change drug!"

Frantic, Tom raced to the kitchen. In his emotional state, it took two tries to grab the phone from its place on the wall, and three more to dial the number.

"Hello, University Medical Research Hospital - how may I direct your call?" the bored female voice at the end of the phone asked, in a bored voice.

Tom had to calm himself with a deep breath before he could speak. "I need to speak to a Dr. Rasputin, immediately. It's an emergency."

The bored tone never left the woman's voice. "Please hold, I'll transfer your call." Then her voice was gone, replaced by the annoyingly gentle sound of Muzak.

Tom, held on to the phone tightly, waiting for the doctor to answer the phone. There had to be some sort of antidote, or something - there had to be.

Then he felt a strange sensation. It began in his jaw, where a muscle began to twitch spasmodically. It soon ran through his whole body, and he began to shake and twitch uncontrollably, as if having an epileptic seizure. Helplessly, he fell backwards as his legs refused to support him - and his death-grip on the phone caused it to pull off the wall, snapping the phone line and disconnecting the call.

Pain roared through Tom's body as he lay on the floor, shaking and twitching. He realized he was having a tremendous reaction to the drug he'd taken. Having taken a powerful female hormone supplement, his body had begun to adapt to the feminine hormones. Now, it was clearing out of his system - causing a massive, instantaneous withdrawal seizure.

As a medical student, Tom knew that a case this bad would lead shortly to massive, system wide shock - which would probably kill him. His body was now completely reliant on the female hormones, without which it would shut down and die.

Dredging up every once of willpower he possessed, he began to painfully, excruciatingly move towards the bedroom, his body twitching and wracked with pain. It took him nearly a half hour to traverse the distance, an eternity of suffering.

Right now, all thought of what taking more of the drug would do to him were wiped out of his mind. His instinct for self preservation demanded that he try to save himself, whatever the cost.

He was in no shape to inject himself - he couldn't even grip a needle, much less fill it, find a vein, insert the needle, and depress the plunger.

So, he forcefully knocked a bottle off of the night table. It flew through the air and smashed against the floor, leaving jagged shards around a small amount in the shattered bottom half of the bottle.

Tom lifted his arm - and brought it down, hard, on the shattered bottle. The wound began to bleed - but the drug was also being absorbed into the open wound, although Tom had no way of knowing how much, or how effectively.

Then, the pain, agony and withdrawal finally caught up with him, and he slipped into unconsciousness, not knowing if he'd ever awake.

* * * * *

HE never awoke again. But SHE awoke about three hours later.

She drifted in and out of an odd, drugged state, aware of what had to have happened with the new dose of the drug, but not really caring at the moment. As a matter of fact, someone could have come in the room and beat on her with razor-tipped baseball bats dipped in vinegar, and she wouldn't have particularly cared. She lay on the floor, eyes closed, savoring the incredible sensations she was experiencing in her high.

She let her hands travel over her body, the sensation incredibly pleasurable to her vastly heightened senses.

She could feel the soft, silky texture of her new body, it's skin smooth and unblemished. The slenderness of her new waist above the swell of her altered hips. When her altered hands reached the weighty mounds on her narrowed ribcage, she shuddered in delight, letting her hands travel up the creamy smooth skin of her new breasts, and letting her elongated nails play with her engorged nipples. Finally, the hand slid down between her firm-yet-soft thighs and lightly toughed the mound of her new womanhood- then slipped a finger inside.

She shuddered in ecstasy, biting her lower lip and moaning as her finger began to stroke her new clit, until she reached an orgasm so powerful that she blacked out, carried into the depths by a tidal wave of the most intense pleasure she'd ever experienced.

* * * * *

The second time the new woman awoke, she was considerable less sanguine about the situation.

The darkness parted, and she stirred slowly, the morning sunlight streaming in the window, and bathing her in a golden glow. For several seconds, she lay there, wondering why she felt so odd, so light-headed and awkward and upset and...

...then she remembered, and sat up with a jerk, eyes bulging.

"I'M A WOMAN!" Tom yelled as memory returned, hearing her unremarkable, but definitely feminine, new voice. She gaped down at the firm, round tits rising from her chest. Horrified, she lightly touched her new endowments, verifying that it wasn't just some horrible nightmare, but reality. The bolt of pleasure from her incredibly sensitive body verified that it was, indeed, real.

With a grace that she was disgusted to possess, she rose to her feet and numbly walked to the bathroom, her unbelievably sensitive body feeling strange to her, it's balance and motions foreign and unwanted.

She braced herself, took a deep breath, and looked in the mirror.

If Tom had a sister, she might have looked like this. She was shorter than she had been, by about five inches or so. Her hair, thicker and softer, now hung down to her reshaped jaw in a golden wave. Her body was slender and athletic, with firm breasts - about a C-cup, she estimated numbly - and somewhat slender hips above cute, hairless legs. Her face was more feminine, but unremarkable in any way.

Then, of course, there was her newly formed vagina. Remembering the intense sensation, she had to consciously will herself not to repeat the action - she was shamed and disgusted that she'd done so once - even if it had felt so good...

She couldn't think about that - if she did, she wouldn't be able to stop herself from repeating the sensation. Instead, she cast her mind about for something else to focus on - and found it.

It was morning. Too many hours had passed for the last dose to still be in effect. Then why was she still high, instead of on the floor, going into withdrawal shock?

The answer that came was startling and depressing - she was fully female now - including her hormonal system. Her body was now producing the hormones by itself. She'd never have to worry about going into withdrawal ever again - and she'd never have to worry about finding a drug supply, either. If her body was producing the hormones naturally, she'd always maintain this same low-level high - the heightened sensitivity of all her senses, the hyper-emotional responses - a permanent high.

She looked at her athletic, unremarkable feminine body, and her fuller lips tightened resolutely. She didn't intend to be stuck this way. If there was a way to do this, then there was a way to undo it, too.

She started for the kitchen before remembering that her phone was out of service. She'd have to go out to contact the doctor who'd synthesized the serum - and if she had to go out, she might as well drive over in person, rather than just go to the nearest payphone.

Which meant her first order of business was getting dressed.

She walked to her bedroom, trying to ignore the way the air felt moving over her swaying tits and engorged nipples. This was no time for distraction - no matter how good it felt.

She pulled out a pair of silk boxers, a pair of blue jeans, and a baggy gray sweatshirt, and quickly began to dress...

...then cursed. First of all, the clothes fit poorly, too loose and large almost everywhere but her chest. The pants, especially, were very loose around her slender new waist.

Even worse - due to the mild high she was stuck with, the coarse fabric felt like sandpaper on her highly sensitive body. She simply couldn't stand the sensation - it would drive her nuts in minutes, like an all-over itch that she couldn't scratch. Swearing loudly, she threw the clothes aside, and looked for something she could bear, if only for a while.

Finally she managed to find clothes she could stand. Her 'funeral-and-wedding' outfit, kept around to wear on those occasions. A soft, white dress-shirt and black slacks. They fit as poorly as all her clothes would, and she definitely didn't like the way her nipples were clearly visible through the thin white shirt, but it was better than nothing. She dug up a black velvet vest that solved the problem, even if it did fit so tightly over her new tits that it seemed molded to them, clearly displaying their size and shape. The clothes were better than the jeans and sweatshirt, but still felt rough to her heightened senses, and she knew that she couldn't wear them for all that long until sheer annoyance would force her to strip.

The black dress socks fit her feet well enough, but none of her shoes would fit her smaller feet. Finally giving up, she grabbed her keys and padded out to her car, sliding behind the wheel and preparing to start the car...

...then stopped and re-adjusted the seat, mirror and steering wheel to her new height, cursing the delay and inconvenience. Finally ready, she started the car and pulled out of the driveway, heading for the clinic.

* * * * *

"Son of a BITCH!" Tom said angrily, banging her practically dainty hand against the locked door. She looked up at the mass of clouds quickly rolling in, and swore again as she banged on the door, feeling stupid.

One of the reasons she picked the day of her raid was the fact that the clinic was shutting down for a week. The staff and students were attending a medical seminar in Boston, and since it wasn't a functioning public hospital, there was no reason for it to be open during their absence. In the horror and panic of what was occurring, she'd forgotten that very significant fact. At this very moment, the man she needed to see was probably boarding the plane at the airport - along with the rest of the staff.

Swearing again, Tom tugged absently at the vest she wore, finally unbuttoning it in annoyance. The clothes were starting to drive her nuts, but the vest worst of all - it seemed to be drawing tighter and tighter around her tits, crushing them.

Looking around, Tom wondered what the hell she was going to do. On impulse, more out of desperation than hope, she turned to the security pad on the side of the wall near the door and punched in the code she'd had as a student...

...and gaped in disbelief as the doors slid open. She sagged against the wall, the rough texture of the brick causing her to jerk upright again. As she entered the empty building, her mind whirled at the enormity of the fact.

They hadn't changed the code. She could have waited until today, and still gotten in. With the building to herself, she could have searched until she'd found the neo-morphate she'd wanted - and none of this would have happened.

But how could she have known that they'd be so sloppy with security, damn it?

She hurried through the silent halls, searching for Lab 8B, which is where the serum had been developed. Locating it, she opened the door and slipped inside, shutting the door behind her and switching on the light. The first thing she did was sink gratefully into a chair.

She had to find some shoes soon. Her super sensitive feet felt like pieces of raw meat, and ice cold. IT was like walking on shards of broke, ice-cold glass.

She shifted uncomfortably in the chair. The clothes were not only driving her nuts, but they seemed to be fitting worse and worse the longer she wore them. Irritably, she ran her hands thorough her heavy mane of shoulder long blonde hair...

...shoulder long?

Ignoring the discomfort of her body, Tom rose and all but ran to the bathroom adjacent to the lab, and gaped at herself. She was still changing.

She'd gone from average-looking to cute, facially. Her nose was smaller, her lips fuller, her jaw-line smoother and less square. Her mass of hair hung to shoulders even slimmer than before.

Above a waist that was becoming more wasp-like, her tits strained impudently at the dress-shirt, at least a D-cup, and probably larger. The seat of her pants were tighter over an ass that was becoming firmer, fuller and sexier.

With horror, Tom made the connection he'd missed earlier.

His transformed body wasn't producing natural female hormones - it was producing the hormones she'd injected, unknowingly, into herself. And she would keep changing, unless she could find an antidote. Or, at least, something to keep her like she was now.

Unchecked, her new hormonal system would continue feminizing her.

Tom was now very, very desperate. It was a nightmare to be transformed unwillingly into a woman - but to keep changing...!

As desperate as she was to go through Dr. Rasputin's files, the first thing she needed to do was find some clothes - it was impossible for her to concentrate while wearing what she had on - the constant irritation of the too-rough fabric kept her from focusing. Hurriedly, she dashed down to the female staff-member's lounge, wincing at the agony of her super-sensitive feet.

She cursed at her diminished strength as she pried open the lockers with a fire axe taken from the wall. Even though the lockers were more for privacy than security, her loss of muscle made it a chore to open the lockers - and it wasn't a terribly rewarding effort, either. Not many staff members left clothes behind, and she had to wear what there was, personal feelings be damned.

Like the 'flesh-tone' pantyhose. Given a choice, she would quite happily spend her life without once wearing pantyhose. This pair had been left by a female staff member, in the case of a run in her other pair. Now, Tom grimaced and fiddled with the sheer fabric until she figured out how to get them on her now-sexier legs - then she shuddered. She'd had no idea how good it could feel to wear sheer fabric on silk-smooth skin....

Pushing the thought aside, she pulled on the black silk blouse she found. It fit too tightly across her now DD-cup tits, but she didn't have a choice. From the same locker came the gray tweed skirt, which also fit a little too tight across her firm new ass - but loose at her diminishing waist. A white leather belt took care of that problem, however. Also in the locker was a bra - but Tom took one look at the B-cup undergarment, and tossed it aside in disgust.

The last thing she did was step into the only pair of shoes she had found - a pair of black velvet pumps with a three-inch heel. Again, not her first choice - but infinitely better than nothing.

Turning on the heels, she began to leave, helplessly walking with a feminine sway imparted by her new shoes - then stopped and returned to the locker, grabbing the black leather purse. If she needed to smuggle something out of the lab, she could put it in the hand- bag.

She returned to the lab, having to bite her lower lip - which was considerably sexier than before - to keep from moaning as the silk fabric of the blouse rubbed against her nipples with every step she took.

Once in the lab, she sat down at the desk and began to search through the files, looking for the notes - and hopefully an antidote - regarding the serum she'd unwittingly taken.

At last she found them, and began to read through them.

She discovered that the serum wasn't designed as a sex-change serum - it had been meant to help women who had glandular problems. Since a woman's body already produced hormones - albeit too little, in the case of the women who would be taking the drug

- there was no problem with long-term continuation of the changes. Over about two weeks, the woman's characteristics would be enhanced - and then her natural hormones would take the enhanced hormones out of her system. Tom, however, wasn't producing natural female hormones - instead, the enhanced hormones were taking his male hormones out of her system.

Then Tom reached the clinical notes - and her blood ran cold as she re-read the paragraph, hoping against hope that she'd read it wrong.

' the patient should refrain from any sexual contact, as human seminal fluid entering the body vaginally, orally or anally, will temporarily block the serum's effectiveness '

It was there, in black and white. She read the rest of the documents, hoping for something else buried in the technical details, but there wasn't any other such instructions or clues.

The only way was to stop - or even slow - the changes occurring in her body was to have sex with a guy.

Numbly, Tom dropped the file, mind spinning. In the same dazed, hopeless way, she stood and walked - well, swayed femininely - to a counter top. Slowly, she picked up a scalpel and lay it against her wrist...

.then cried out. Instinctively, her hand flew open, dropping the sharp instrument, and she cursed, loud and long. With her hyper-acute senses, even the slightest pressure on the blade had caused overwhelming pain. The thought of enduring the indescribable agony that actually making the cut would have caused made her realize that suicide was out of the question - unless she found an instantaneous and painless way to do it.

Besides, she wasn't really the suicidal type. The attempt she'd just made had been impulsive, based on the blackest depression that had settled over her at the realization of what she'd have to do to stop her body's changes.

But there had to be another answer. Just because it wasn't in the file didn't mean that it didn't exist. She just had to find it. Gathering up her things, Tom headed out to her car, determined to find some way to set things right.

She hurried across the parking lot, glancing up at the darkened sky, expecting the downpour any second. It was with relief that she got the car door unlocked and open without the heavens opening up to drench her.

She settled behind the wheel - then sighed and re-adjusted everything again. She'd lost even more height - she figured she was now only about five-four or -three. It was getting to be more than just a nuisance, as her clothing was becoming more and more ill-fitting as time passed. Being female was bad enough, but going from six foot even to this height was making things worse.

Cursing, she did up her belt, having to fuss with it. Her still-swelling bust was straining the blouse to the limit, and adding the safety belt to that strain caused a button to go flying as she adjusted the belt to sit between her DDD-cup 'assets'. Finally ready, she started the car and put it into gear, heading for the exit as the first fat drops of rain splattered the windshield.

She'd just turned onto the road when the car began to splutter. Swearing - in a voice steadily becoming higher pitched - she pulled off onto the shoulder as the old, poorly maintained engine seized for good.

She climbed out of the car - and instantly winced. The rain felt like tiny hammers as the drops pounded her intensely sensitive body, and she felt like it was three-hundred degrees below zero - Kelvin.

She was about to head back to the lab when a vehicle coming down the road slowed to a stop beside her. It was a big motor-home, of an early eighties vintage, and Tom prepared to turn away the help of the occupants - until the door opened, revealing to women.

"Need a lift, honey?" The driver, a black woman in a tight pair of blue-jean shorts and a black crop-top that outlined her large, firm tits, asked with a grin. The other passenger, a blowsy looking blonde, smiled as well. Her somewhat over-padded body strained at the tight black spandex dress she wore - and her own breasts were at least as big as Tom's new endowments.

But it was a lift, and she didn't have to worry about dealing with some guy, so Tom hopped in gratefully. "Thanks." She said sincerely, wincing at the richly feminine contralto she'd developed.

"No problem." The black woman nodded. "I'm Latisha, and that's Sindi."

Tom opened his mouth - and thought damned fast. "Hi, I'm Tonya.." she said, after a very slight pause, hoping that ta drive 'The Beast'," Latisha said, waving a hand at the vehicle, "But Sindi'll find you men giggled, and Tom realized that he wasn't the only person in the vehicle who was high, more conventional 'mind-altering' substance, considering the 'burnt-rope' smell of pot.

ya said, honestly. The wet clothes felt awful to her highly sensitized body, and she needed e her nuts.

e towed off quickly, hissing as the towel brushed her large, engorged nipples. Sindi, dug through the closet and dropped a pile of clothes on the couch.

this, Tonya" She said with a dreamy smile. That wasn't exactly what Tonya was going for, Tonya's face turned red with embarrassment as she looked over the 'ensemble' Sindi had collected. "You wouldn't have anything a little less... um..." Tonya asked hesitantly.

Sindi laughed. "Fraid not, girl. Tish and me are strippers, see? We're wearing our least 'um' outfits now - and all our other stuff is for the act, or worse than this. So, it's this or nothing, Tonya."

Tonya sighed and began to dress, feeling ridiculous.

First, the black pantyhose with the seams running up the back. Over this went the sleeveless silver spandex bodysuit with the low neck-line and extremely high hips. The 'butt-flosser' bottom slid between her firmer, fuller ass cheeks, stretching the black nylon tight over each shapely globe of her ass.

Thankfully, that wouldn't be seen - as the black leather corset with the attached mini-skirt, in silver, covered her ass with its taut, shiny material. Sindi giggled, and tightened the buckles on the corset, drawing it tight around Tonya's slender waist.

For shoes, Sindi had supplied knee-high silver boots with six-inch spiked heels. Tonya slid them on, then rose to stand on them, balancing easy with her new body's heightened sense of balance.

She was disgusted by wearing such sexy, feminine clothes - and aroused by how sensuous it felt. The nylon on her legs, the taut silver material across her tits, the caress of the corset - it felt indescribably good, and she hated herself for enjoying it.

"Looking good, babe." Sindi said. "Now lets do somethin' with your hair and face."

Tonya protested, but Sindi refused to give up, and Tonya was disgusted to find herself giving in. Sindi set to work on her mane of golden hair - now hanging half-way down her back - and doing her make-up.

When the motor-home pulled into the parking lot of a hotel a half-hour later, the door opened, and Tonya stepped out into the fresh air that remained from the rain that had passed by.

She looked stunningly sexy. The high, spike heels of the silver boots lifted her height, and the silver foot-wear clung to her long, shapely legs. The silver skirt was drawn taut over her firm, sexy ass, rising to join the corset that hugged her deliciously slender waist. Above that, her huge, unbelievably firm and round FFF-cup tits, the swollen nipples pushing the fabric out.

Her face had been made-up to enhance her sensual eyes, high cheek-bones and full, sexy lips. Her face was surrounded by a huge mass of golden hair that trailed down her back in waves. Faux-silver bracelets hung from her wrists, and a silver and black choker drew the eye to her long, slender neck. She was a sexual vision.

And she hated every second of it. Slinging 'her' purse over one shoulder, she waved goodbye to the two stoned strippers, and headed towards the nearest main road, to catch a bus the rest of the way. She walked with a helplessly sensual sway, and her huge tits swayed invitingly in their spandex prison.

Tonya was close to panic. Everything was spiraling out of control, and she wasn't sure how to deal with it. In the space of forty-eight hours, she'd gone from a reasonably tall, if average-looking man, to a five-foot-two blonde bombshell whose appearance practically exuded sex. Worse, with her hyper-acute senses and slowly building levels of hormones, not only was she continuing to change, but it was getting harder and harder to concentrate on anything other than the sensual sensations she was feeling - the supple, feminine sensuality of her own body, her highly sensitive nipples and breasts, the caress of the soft, smooth clothes over silky soft skin...

She forced her mind away from these thoughts - but it was getting harder and harder to do so. As a matter of fact, it was getting harder and harder to think coherently at all - she had to fight off a growing urge to just let herself go with the growing high, riding it in mindless ecstasy - especially since her mind kept turning and returning to the memory of her orgasm...

She reached the bus stop, grateful for something to distract her from these foreign thoughts and urges, It took tremendous willpower to concentrate long enough to read the sign, sex, gloss-red lips moving as she had to puzzle out the meaning of the words.

"Damn!" She swore in her rising voice. "No buses after six."

It was six-twelve - which meant that she'd have to find another way home.

She stopped, frowning. There was something very wrong with that idea. What was it? It was so very hard to concentrate, but she finally managed to latch onto the idea.

She didn't have any money - and if she walked, by the time she got home, she'd have changed a hell of a lot more.

She was still standing by the side of the road when a car pulled up, and a furtive-looking man looked out. "Hi there." He said, glancing about. "You, um, looking to earn a few bucks?"

"Yeah." Tonya said without thinking about it - then a ray of light broke through her clouded thoughts, and she realized that the guy thought she was a hooker.

She was about to send him on his way with an angry retort - but stopped.

She needed cash for a cab. An cum would slow or stop the changes for a while - and allow her to think clearly.

She was disgusted and horrified at what she was considering - but in just a short while, she wouldn't be able to think straight at all, and there's simply no telling what she might do in that condition.

But she couldn't bring herself to take the initiative. She just couldn't - she might have the body of a drop-dead sexy babe, but she still thought of sex with a man as a homosexual encounter, no matter how it might look.

The man, seeing the gorgeous - and not too bright - woman gnaw thoughtfully on her full, sexy lower lip, suddenly had a hunch. "This is your first time... uh,... selling, isn't it?" He asked abruptly.

Tonya's face flared bright red - but not exactly for the reasons the man thought. "Yeah." She admitted in a small voice.

The man nodded. "Tell you what - I'll be a nice first customer. Meet me over at that hotel." He pulled the car around into the lot, having enough time to pay for a room and get to the door of the unit before Tonya, jiggling and wiggling in her high heels, reached him. He escorted her in.

"Look, I paid for the room for the night, so that you have a place to work out of. And, I'll pay you twenty for a blow-job, to get you started."

Tonya just wanted to curl up and die. She couldn't suck some guys cock...

...could she? The guy was going out of his way to be helpful and nice, and Tonya needed both the cash and the... uh... well, cum, to be honest.

Tonya couldn't bring herself to agree verbally - so she forced herself to sink to her knees and unzip the guy's pants, setting his rapidly swelling cock free...

...and Tonya went insane.

Temporarily, at least. What she hadn't counted on was her extremely heightened sense of smell. The man's clothing, after-shave and deodorant had hidden it before, but he was giving off pheromones, little sexual signals in chemical strings that the body picked up as scent.

But opening his pants and setting free his cock released them, and they flowed directly into Tonya's pert nose, only inches away, triggering a sexual response - which, with her hormones, was many times stronger than a 'real' woman's would be.

Tonya had no way of knowing any of this. All she knew is that at the sight of the man's average-sized cock, she was overwhelmed with lust and need. Helplessly eager, she took his now-hard cock in her dainty, long-nailed hands, and began licking the underside of it - which released even more pheromones.

Hungrily, she enclosed his cock with her eager mouth. She used her hands, lips and tongue to savor his hardness. She'd never given a blow-job before, and had no experience - but the man couldn't know that, and her actions were incredible. Her slim hands fondled and stroked his manhood while her tongue swirled over his sensitive head. Tonya began to piston her mouth back and forth on the cock...

...and was 'rewarded' with a flood of cum that she gulped at eagerly. To her heightened sense of taste, the flavor and texture of the warm cum was the most intense thing she'd ever swallowed, and she gulped down every drop before pulling away.

"Oh, yes..." she moaned, wiping the last of the cum off her lips and sucking it from her fingers.

The man moaned and zipped up his pants. "Miss, that was the best blow-job I ever had. I'm glad I splurged on you - it was fantastic." Dropping a twenty on the bed-table, he left the room.

Slowly, as the cum worked its magic, Tonya's head cleared - and she almost vomited as she realized what she'd done. But she didn't - doing so would make what she'd done pointless. With the cum in her body, it would hold off further changes for a while - but she had no idea how long.

Her plan had been to take the money and catch a cab. But it didn't work out that way.

Her body was in a state of flux, strange hormones battling it out, while her emotional state was one of fear, disgust, confusion and despair.

Tonya began to cry. Helplessly, she sobbed in great, tearing gasps. No actual tears came to her eyes, but she curled up on the floor and sobbed painfully, unable to accept what she'd become, and what she'd done...

...and sometime in the middle of this, she unwillingly slipped over the edge, and into a deep sleep. She awoke, hours later, in extreme pain.

Gasping she jerked awake, realizing that she'd drifted off, and what that meant.

The pain was direct result of that. The 'dose' of cum she'd taken had worn off while she slept, and the changes continued. The pain came from the fact that her clothes didn't fit at all right. Hurriedly, she began to strip, she rose to her feet and went into the bathroom, bleakly surveying her altered body.

She was about four-eleven - maybe five feet if she was lucky. And most of that height came from long, impossibly sexy legs that led up to the sexiest ass she'd ever seen.

Her hips were somewhat narrow for a woman - but that wasn't very noticeable, because the difference was more than made up for by an unbelievably slim waist.

Her face was an erotic dream - dark, seductive eyes framed by long, dark lashes. A pert nose above full, sensual lips. A slightly pointed chin whose jaw-line brought the eyes up to her sharply defined cheek bones, giving her face an impishly seductive cast, as if daring any one man to try and please the petite sex goddess she'd become. The face was surrounded by a huge, tumbling mass of golden blonde hair that hung to her perfect ass in a tangled, wild mane.

But the most startling change was the enormous tits that thrust unbelievably round and firm from her chest. They would be huge on a normal-sized woman - on Tonya, they were immense.

They were the size and shape of medicine balls - and almost as firm. But they were also soft and smooth, the skin creamy and unblemished.

Thrust from the apex where her nipples. They were centered in small areola that were light pink, and that domes outward to the base of nipples that were as long and thick as her thumbs had been when she was male.

What's more, her huge tits felt so full and heavy - more so than just the sheer weight of them could account for. A fact that was explained when she lightly squeezed her nipples - and a thin stream of white liquid shot out.

"Just fucking great!" she muttered. "I'm lactating."

She looked over her impossible body with loathing - mostly directed at herself, for falling asleep. Now, she was stuck with this form, at least for now - and if she didn't do the unthinkable, it would only get worse.

She knew that she was beyond the point where she could spend time looking for a solution unimpeded. She'd need to keep her form from becoming any more extreme... and there was only one way to do that.

She'd have to have sex.

At least she was able to think reasonably well. The mind-numbing stage would come some hours later - assuming she didn't do anything to head it off.

Able to think clearly, she could do some necessary math. It was twelve-thirty at night, meaning that she'd been asleep for six hours or so.

Taking in account the rate of feminization that she'd experienced while awake, she was about four hours further along than she'd been before falling asleep. Which meant that a single dose of cum was good for about two hours.

Tonya shuddered and slumped on the bed. At that rate, she'd have to have sex of some sort a dozen times a day. Most of it all at once

- before she fell asleep, she'd need enough cum to keep her from further changes for the eight hours or so of sleep.

A sickening as the thought was, the idea of what she'd look like in another twelve hours, without the cum, was enough to motivate her. Twelve hours of changes, at the current rate, would turn her into a pair of tits - that's it.

No matter how disgusting the alternative was - it was better than being a living pair of tits.

Tonya's first problem was clothing - the outfit she'd worn wouldn't fit. The corset was too loose for her tiny waist, and the spandex bodysuit too long in length, but too tight in the bust - even with the extra material available by her lack of height, it fit much too tightly over her enormous tits.

The skirt no longer fit her full, firm ass - and the boots were too big for her now tiny feet. In fact, the only thing she could still wear would be the nylons - since her legs had become proportionally longer on her frame, they'd fit fairly well. But just pantyhose wasn't an acceptable outfit.

She went to the window of the room and glanced outside, well aware of the fact that she was playing against a clock. Having very limited time, she'd have to take the direct approach...

* * * * *

Tonya finally managed to get the window open, and she rolled over the sill and into the darkened building - losing the bed sheet she'd wrapped around her in the process. But it didn't matter - she'd made it into the second hand clothing store she'd spotted near the hotel.

Her tiny body shook with the adrenaline rush from her furtive walk down the back alley to the window at the back of the store. At least her assumption that the store - which sold goods with a very low value - would lack a security alarm had paid off.

Now, she began searching through the second hand clothing, looking for anything that would fit.

Twenty minutes later, the back door to the store swung open and disgorged a figure before swinging closed and locking with a soft 'click'. The figure moved quickly down the dark alley, finally emerging into the light of a street-light along the main road, revealing the figure in its white glare.

Tonya was a teenaged boy's wet dream brought to living, breathing life.

She stood perched atop a pair of black platform shoes with a eight-inch stiletto heels and an ankle strap. The black shoes were buckled into place over black nylons that clung to every erotic curve of her impossibly long, sexy legs. The nylons were held in place by garters, which were just barely hidden by the extremely short, tight navy-blue skirt that clung to her sexy ass.

A white blouse barely covered her enormous tits, displaying an awesome amount of mouth-watering cleavage. Not big enough to actually contain such massive endowments, it had been tied into place in a big bow below the enormous tits, exposing an amazingly slender waist.

High-heels clicking on the pavement, the erotic vision began walking with a sensual, cock-hardening sway that did enticing things to her tits. Her long, luxurious mane of blonde hair followed behind like a cape, fluttering slightly in the wind created by her movement. Over one shoulder was slung a small black leather purse with a long strap.

Tonya had absolutely no trouble flagging down a cab. She merely waited until she saw one, then lifted a hand - which caused her shirt to open even wider. The driver stopped almost too quickly.

Climbing in the front seat, she had to take a deep breath before giving her directions in her breathy soprano voice. Her heart thudded in her chest, and she couldn't believe she was actually going to go through with this. But she had to - and the longer she left it, the worse things would get.

Finally, the cab pulled up in front of the turn-of-the-century brownstone house. Tonya tried to pay the man, but the cabby insisted that it was on him - which, Tonya figured, was fair enough, considering the free show the man had gotten, unable to keep his eyes off the petite sex goddess in his car.

For several long seconds after the cab left, Tonya just stared at the house, trying to work up enough nerve. It was nearly impossible - she knew exactly what she'd have to do to keep this from getting any worse. She'd have to have sex, with men. Often.

Finally, she took a long, deep breath, then climbed the steps to the porch, and knocked on the door.

The house was jointly owned by six students at the medical school. In fact, in it's way, the house was infamous. The six that owned it could have each afforded a place of their own, but they preferred to stick together. In fact, the six of them were nearly inseparable, in class, at parties, or at the nightclubs and strip clubs. Somehow, with a group of wealthy, handsome and very horny young men, six seemed appropriate - after all, that made them a sextuplet of people.

The door was opened by Jim, a tall, darkly handsome man who carried muscle without being bulky - a runner's build. He took one look at what was waiting for him beyond the door, and his normally imperturbable good-cheer turned to an open-mouthed gape.

"Hi, Jim. My name's Tonya - Mind if I come in?" Tonya asked, face flaming red in embarrassment. She had to resist the urge to pull her blouse shut over her enormous tits - which is where Jim's gaze was focused.

"Uh.. no problem, uh... Tonya" he stammered, coming back to an even keel. He held the door, and Tonya entered. "Do... Do I know you?" Jim asked, sure that he'd remember if he'd met her.

"Not really. But I know you through some friends at the medical school." Tonya answered. She looked around. "Um... is every one here. I kind of, uh, wanted to talk to you - all of you."

"Sure." Jim said, mildly confused but more than willing to accommodate. He led her into the rec. room, where the other five guys were sitting, drinking beer.

Instantly, silence descended as they all stopped to gape at her, conspicuous bulges forming in the crotch of their pants. Jim awkwardly introduced her, and vice versa.

"What can we do for you, Tonya?" Ron a very muscular young man asked, his eyes drinking in her outrageous figure.

Tonya was feeling light-headed and very, very horny as she realized something. She hadn't planned on how to deal with the effect of six very horny young men's pheromones filling a fairly small room. Already, concentration was slipping away, and thought was becoming very difficult. Before she could lose her train of thought, she outlined the plan she'd come up with.

"I need a place I can stay for as long as I need, no questions asked. I need food, clothing, a room of my own - and some spending money every week. Also, I need to be smuggled into one of the labs at the medical center as many times a week as you can."

The guys looked at her dumbly, then at each other. "Um "

She closed her eyes, braced herself - then undid her top, letting it fall to the floor, revealing her massive tits in all their glory. The guys almost came in their pants.

"In return for this, I'll fuck you each at least twice a day."

The men spared a split second to share an incredulous gaze with one another - then agreed, unanimously.

"You're serious? You'll fuck us, in exchange for room, board, spending money and the occasion lab trip?" Ron exclaimed. "You'll be our own private hoo "

Tonya held up a hand quickly, face crimson. "Um Let's get something straight. I'm not a slut, hooker or bimbo. I'll want to be treated... right. Not like a toy, or a thing or "

Jim smiled reassuringly. "Of course. Not a problem, Tonya. We'll make sure that everything is satisfactory." Several of the other guys looked at Jim askance. She was obviously desperate, and they had what she wanted...

Then they realized - treating a woman like this right was a small price to pay. And if they screwed up and lost this chance, they'd never forgive themselves. One at a time, they each pledged to treat her right.

Tonya nodded. "I don't suppose there's anything to eat?" She asked hesitantly. "I'm starved." She paused, and blushed a deep red.

"Also, um..... I... uh, am.... uh... lactating " she trailed off, too embarrassed to continue.

Jim and Ron looked at each other. "Why don't we show you to your room?" Jim asked smoothly, picking up her blouse and handing it to her. She nodded and followed him, with Rob close behind her.

Smiling, Jim led her into a large, well decorated guest bedroom. Ron stepped in behind her, softly closing and latching the door.

"Why don't we take care of that little, uh, 'pressure problem' you're having?" Jim suggested, leading her to the bed.

Horribly embarrassed and disgusted, Tonya let them take the initiative as the two of them knelt before her and each began fondling her enormous tits.

Tonya shuddered in disgusted pleasure as they began to suck on her thick, engorged nipples, hating herself for enjoying it so much. She couldn't help but let out a small moan as the two of them drained some of the pressure from her over-flowing endowments.

She began to become incredibly aroused from it. Which she was hoping for, in a way. The thought of sex with them was utterly disgusted - but if she got aroused enough, it wouldn't matter.

Then she reached critical hormonal mass. She couldn't restrain herself any longer. Tilting her head down, she lured Jim's mouth away from her nipple with her own soft, inviting lips. They kissed hungrily as Ron faded back, to give them room.

Within seconds, the two of them were naked, and Jim was easing her back on the bed.

"Fuck me..." she moaned, unbelievably aroused. Jim smiled - and slid his rock-hard cock into her wet, ready cunt.

Tonya moaned loudly as intense pleasure wracked her body. Her moans intensified as Jim began to slowly fuck her, getting the most pleasure he could from it - and causing her mind-blowing ecstasy. Her moans hovered on the edge of screams as Jim slowly fucked her.

Then she fell silent - as Ron's large cock filled her hot, ready mouth. She numbly, instinctively gave him a rather distracted blow-job while she concentrated on the unbelievable sensations of being fucked...

She orgasmed not once, but a dozen times, a rolling wave of multiple orgasms that hit like a string of fire-crackers and caused her to writhe in indescribable ecstasy. At the same time, cum gushed to fill to of her opening, and she swallowed hungrily at the cum flooding her mouth.

Spent, the two young men moved back, breathing hard. Slowly, Tonya returned from where the pure pleasure had taken her, her mind clearing as the double-dose of cum kicked in.

She was utterly disgusted by what she'd done - and wanted to do it again. She hated herself for enjoying it - and wanted to enjoy it as often as possible. She was a heterosexual man who was also a cum-loving nymphomaniac with tits the size of melons.

Unable to deal with the conflicting emotions, she settled for merely replacing her top and asking Jim, "So, about dinner..."

* * * * *

TWO MONTHS LATER

Humming softly to himself, Jim opened the door to the house and walked inside. He could hear Tonya's dancercise tape playing in the other room, and smiled to himself.

Before going into the living room, he walked over to the kitchen fridge and pulled it open. Reaching in, he pulled out one of a dozen half-gallon jugs of milk, and drank deeply from it before returning it to the fridge.

The milk tasted good - if different. That was because it was Tonya's milk. Most of the guys had shuddered at the thought of drinking human breast-milk when it had been first offered to them - that is, until they saw the effect it had.

Unknown to anyone, Tonya's milk contained all the male hormones that her body was trying to get rid of. And that male-hormone-laden milk had a very definite effect on the guys...

Smiling at the thought, Jim headed into the living room, glad to see he was the first one home this afternoon. Some rescheduling of classes had allowed them to set up a rotation, but even so, there was a two hour period in the afternoon where Tonya was alone - arranged that way at her request. It wasn't often that Jim got home first though.

Tonya was in the living room, keeping her spectacular body in shape with her exercise tape, and Jim had to smile at the sight as his cock stirred.

Tonya was the only woman Jim knew who exercised in high heels. In her case, they were red pumps with a 'mere' three-inch heel. Today she was wearing her white leggings, pink leotard and pink ankle warmers. Her massive tits were constrained inside the leotard by a massive, custom made bra - size 34 MMM to the awe of the guys. A pink headband kept her massive mane of hair out of her face as she exercised vigorously.

Tonya caught sight of Jim as he entered the room. "Hi, Jim." She said with a quick smile. "Just give me a couple of minutes, will you. I want to finish this, and..."

With a wicked smile, Jim began to move toward her. "Come here, gorgeous." He said, licking his lips. Tonya said "Jim " in a warning tone.

Jim ignored her, closing in. She looked at him with a strange half-grin/half-frown. "Jim would it really hurt you to... um, wait... a "

she frowned, then smiled. "Can't you wait, you <giggle> big.. boy "

Jim reached her - and she looked at him with a seductive, but somewhat brainless grin. "Since you're here " she said with a giggle, and Jim had to laugh as well.

They'd discovered Tonya's oddity within the first week. She was an intelligent, independent woman - as long as no guy was within five feet of her. But the closer a guy got, the dumber and hornier she got.

Taking her in his arms, he felt her massive tits pressing against his chest as he kissed her long and hard. Then he released her, and backed out of range.

Tonya had closed her eyes while enjoying the kiss, and now let them slide open. "God, Jim, I wish you wouldn't do that." Tonya said, one hand rubbing her crotch. "Now I'm all worked up..." She forced her hand away and plopped on the couch with a sigh.

Jim was instantly apologetic. When not 'influenced' by a man's presence, Tonya was obviously not interested in sex - or rather, she seemed ashamed and disgusted, but helplessly interested by sex. When 'uninfluenced', she never brought the subject up or tried to seduce any of them - but sometimes she'd look at a clock with a strangely worried look - and then move into range. It was all a mystery to the guys - but they weren't going to complain.

"Look, I'm sorry Tonya. It's just that I don't often get home first, and..." Jim tried to explain.

Tonya sighed and looked at him. Then she flushed bright red and looked away. "Why... um.. don't you, uh... come sit beside me..." she said awkwardly.

Jim's brow rose - that was the closest she'd ever gotten to actually asking - since she had to know what would happen.

He walked over and sat beside her - and instantly her flush faded, and she looked at him with a smile. Slowly, she swung around until she straddled him, lowering her leotard to reveal her massive bra.

"Why don't you <giggle> help me with this?" She asked, and Jim gladly undid the front closures of the bra and peeled them off her massive tits. He fondled and caressed them as Tonya kissed him deeply and passionately.

Then she slid off him to the floor and undid his pants, setting free his massive, thick cock. Jim leaned back and closed his eyes as she gave one of her unbelievably expert blow-jobs, somehow managing to swallow every drop of his hormone-increased load.

Then the last strange thing about Tonya occurred. Immediately after sex, and for about three hours afterward, her 'range' shrunk to zero - even touching a guy wouldn't 'bimbo-ize' her. Immediately after sex, she returned to her normal, intelligent self - and was obviously embarrassed about what she'd done, and would cover it by pretending it never happened.

Tonya, as usual, immediately got up and rearranged her clothes. "Um.. well, that enough exercise for today." She announced, awkwardly, then headed for her room, where she threw herself down on the bed, mind spinning.

Over the past two months, she'd been trying to deal with her new needs - and not exactly succeeding.

Thanks to her hormone-enhanced milk, the guys average cum production had quadrupled - meaning that she could get by on a mere 3 sexual encounters a day.

But she didn't. She had, at minimum, a dozen.

And she had to face the fact - she loved it. Two months of daily fuckfests had driven any real objection from her mind. No matter how embarrassed she was by the fact - she loved fucking and sucking cock. She loved kissing men and feeling their arms around her, their hands on her tits and ass. She loved the clothes she could wear, so soft and silky and sexy.

She loved being a woman.

It was time to face the facts - she was stuck in this body for the rest of her life. And, due to her hyper-acute senses, it was the most pleasurable life she could imagine. If she ignored the EMOTIONAL problems she had with it, she had to admit that she could never have wished for a life full of more pure, physical pleasure. Plus, her every want, need and whim were met by a dozen attentive, caring, oh-so-eager-to-please young men - all of whom had cocks that were absolutely enormous.

* * * * *

Jim was flipping through the channels for something to watch when he heard Tonya's voice.

'Oh, Jim, darling " she said - in a tone he'd never heard. It wasn't her 'bimbo' voice - yet it was seductive, full of sensual promise.

Jim looked up - and his jaw dropped.

Tonya was dressed in black six-inch heels, black nylons and garters, and a custom made lace breiflette that concealed nothing. Her hair was elegantly coifed, and she was smiling at him enticingly. Slowly, Jim rose.

"Tonya?" he asked, incredulous. They were more than five feet away, she'd had sex less than an hour ago - and yet...

Tonya shrugged - causing her huge tits to jiggle invitingly. "I've finally decided to give into my nature " she said. "I don't like being the 'bimbo' - I like to be able to think for myself." She smiled again. "So, if I just have sex at least once every three hours, I'll be fine." And Jim smiled too as she swayed towards him, arms outstretched to embrace, not just him, but a whole new life....

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: When a self styled militiaman tries to take apart an old chemical weapon which explodes he finds that it was designed to transform men into docile women.

Easy As 'A-B-C'

By Gunslinger

With a low, creaking moan, the warped floor-board under the right wheel of the dolly began to sag. Bobby Joe instantly stopped moving - completely.

He held so perfectly, tensely still that he didn't even release the half-breath he'd had in his lungs. He simply froze in position, the only movement in any way directly related to him being the slow trickle of sweat breaking rolling slowly down his forehead until balked by the thick dike of his dark, heavy eyebrow.

Only after his lungs had begun to burn with the desperate need for oxygen did Bobby Joe finally move - and it wasn't to breathe, not yet.

Oh-so-very-carefully, he eased the dolly backwards - not so much pulling on it as willing it back.

Only when the big, knobby 'heavy-duty' sealed tires were back on solid flooring did the tall, gangly young man finally release the stale air in his lungs and gulp in a fresh supply. Very gently, he eased the front of the dolly the short distance to the floor, letting it stand freely, and reached up to pull off his faded olive-drab cloth fatigue cap and use it to mop his sweat-streaked forehead.

Leaving the heavily-laden dolly where it was for the moment, he carefully crept across the warped planking of the abandoned old house and stepped out onto a badly sagging porch in even worse repair.

Sitting on the slowly rotting remains of a wicker chair were his cigarettes and lighter - kept outside to keep him from absent-mindedly lighting up while inside. Now, trembling slightly, he extracted an unfiltered Camel from the pack and brought it to life with the battered USMC Zippo inherited from his father.

"God-damn." Billy Joe muttered to himself, shaking his head. "I think I done gone left skid-marks in my BVDs."

Pushing away from the wall he'd been leaning against, Billy Joe hopped off the porch and into the badly overgrown, weed-infested yard of the old one-story farmhouse.

Though the sun shone brightly out of the flawless blue bowl of the West Virginia sky, it was a spring sunshine, moderated by the still cool wind that ruffled the long grass that spread out around the old cabin-like home and out to the tree-line.

Dressed in a pair of jean shorts and a tank-top, both in mottled 'woodland' camouflage pattern, the lanky, dark-haired man had plenty of skin exposed the brisk, clean breeze - and he welcomed the cooling sensation as it swirled the sweat-slicked hair of his bare arms and legs.

Though the late-spring air was alive with the sounds of nature, not a single man-made sound intruded on Booby Joe's solitude - and he thought again just how perfect this place was for today's work.

Not only was the old, over-grown farmstead so remote as to practically be on the back-side of the moon, but it couldn't in any way be tied to him by the Nazi FBI, if and when it should come to that...

...at least, Bobby Joe didn't think it could. After all, the last time the place had been 'inhabited', it had been by three women using it as a whore-house before the state pigs had come around and rounded them up, and that had been five or six years ago - and they, themselves, had simply been squatters, using the house after it had been abandoned by it's rightful owners years before that.

Still, Bobby Joe had an almost superstitious dread of the FBI - or, rather, the various different federal law-enforcement entities that the gangly young man lumped under that dreaded acronym. At twenty-two, the rather horse-faced young man had a certain sort of animal cunning, but his schooling had ended when he'd dropped out after flunking the seventh grade for a third time running.

The young, self-proclaimed 'militiaman' wasn't exactly what anybody would call a 'nuclear physicist'...

...which made it seem even more ironic that he was out here fiddling around with a nuclear bomb.

Finishing his cigarette with one long last inhale, he dropped it and ground it out under the heel of one of his army-surplus black leather combat boots. Hitching the wide, olive-drab canvas belt of his shorts up higher, Bobby Joe turned and swaggered back towards the weather-beaten old cabin, one hand resting lightly on the but of his Daddy's old service .45 in it's black leather holster.

Stepping lightly, he crossed the creaking old floor of the cabin, until he once more stood in front of the dolly that bore the 'prize' that had cost every last cent of what little money he'd had to begin with.

Technically speaking, it wasn't really a 'nuclear bomb' - it was, in fact, an old Soviet 203-mm artillery shell. As a matter of fact, given it's age, it wasn't even properly referred to as 'nuclear' - in it's hey-day, the terminology had been 'atomic'.

He had no idea how 'a friend of a friend of a friend' had somehow laid hands on a forty-year old Russkie artillery shell - and he didn't care. It was his, now - and he knew exactly what he was going to do with it.

At nearly ten inches in diameter, and nearly two hundred pounds in weight, the tall projectile was carefully cocooned in several old blankets, and carefully strapped to the dolly. Still, handling the device made Bobby Joe - as he thought of it - 'As nervous as a long- tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs'.

Given that fact, it wasn't surprising that it took him nearly a full hour to move it the last four feet to what had once been the kitchen counter, and very carefully hoist it up to rest on the wooden blocks he'd cut to hold its cylindrical shape.

Once it was in place, Bobby Joe ducked out for another smoke, washing it down with a cup of instant coffee made on the camp stove he'd brought along - and then it was back inside, where he picked up the Craftsman screwdriver from the set he'd bought the day before.

His plan was simple - he was going to figure out some way to rig the alarm-clock he'd also bought to the bomb's firing circuits, then drive the thing down to Washington and park it as close to the White House as possible, then get the 'hell out of Dodge'.

It's perhaps a telling measure of Bobby Joe's intelligence that he thought his general handiness with repairing household appliances qualified him for the task of modifying an atomic bomb...

Holding the screwdriver, he closed his eyes, unconsciously making a twisting motion in the air with his hand. "Righty - tighty, lefty -loosey." He chanted to himself, softly.

Nodding, he opened his eyes. Leaning forward, he slotted the head of the screwdriver into one of the three flush-mounted screws securing the nose of the shell to the body - and twisted clockwise.

He frowned when the screw refused to move - and then looked at the hand holding the screwdriver. His right hand.

"Oh, right." He told himself, then rotated the screw in the correct direction.

Soon, he had all three screws removed and laid aside. Grinning in triumph, he reached out, grabbed the nose-cone in both hands, and twisted it to the left.

After a moment's hesitation, it gave in to his grasp and spun a half-turn, until the interrupted thread met the matching gap in the seating, and he pulled the nose-cone off...

...and the short length of thin, braided metal cable connecting the nose-cone to the anti-tamper device inside yanked free, the 'grenade pin' at the end popping out onto the countertop.

"What in tarnation...?" Bobby Joe muttered, no more conscious of an anti-tamper device than he would have been working on a Kenmore dryer. Leaning over, he peered into the darkened interior of the shell.

The shell went off.

Thankfully for the surrounding countryside and all those downwind, it wasn't a 'nuke' after all, though it was an 'ABC' weapon.

The acronym 'ABC', (since replaced by first NBC, then WMD), stood for 'Atomic-Biological-Chemical', and this particular shell was a psychological operations - psy-ops - weapon, containing both the 'B' and 'C' elements to create a very specific effect that its designers thought would be highly effective in demoralizing enemy troops.

There are various types of 'agents' used in both biological and chemical warfare. Some are nerve agents, which can be absorbed through the skin. As it happened, the mixture in the old Russian shell was an aerosol - an inhaled agent...

...and Bobby Joe got a whole lungful of it as it sprayed directly into his face - at several times the concentration expected by the designers.

"Holy shit, what'n'hell was that!" Bobby Joe gasped, coughing and back pedaling as he wiped at the thick moisture on his face. "Goddamn bomb just fuckin' blew it's load all over me!"

He staggered around a minute, hacking and wheezing as he tried to clear the metallic-tasting liquid from both his throat and airways...

...and then, suddenly, he felt very dizzy, and had to lean against the wall for support.

"What the fuck is goin' on...?" He asked, thickly, having a hard time getting his lips and tongue to work in coordination. "Ain't no damned nuke, that's shor'nuff."

His body had begun to itch horribly - all over, meaning that there was no possible way he could scratch that particular itch. Not that it mattered - because his fine motor control seemed shot, and he could only make jerky, ill-timed motions with his wooden-feeling hands.

"God... fell like I'm a-burning' up!" He gasped, shivering despite his internal heat.

In addition to the terrible itching sensation, there were also various types of low, dull aches and pains at various locations throughout his body, especially at the joints - but also at both his crotch and his chest. Given the many sensations trying to overwhelm his nervous system, it took him a moment to register an odd sensation of weight and movement on his chest, causing him to look down.

His shirt was slowly tenting outwards from his chest.

The reasonably loose-fitting camouflage tank-top was moving slowly but steadily away from his chest, as if there were balloon underneath being slowly inflated - yet he could still feel the fabric rubbing against his itching nipples - and through the outward-and- upward rising neckline, he could see what looked suspiciously like...

"Holy livin' hell - I'm growin' myself a set o' knockers!" Bobby Joe cried.

He was still staring down at his still-swelling cleavage when his cloth hat popped off his head - and even before he could really begin to wonder why it had happened, the explanation became clear as hanks of hair flopped down in front of his face.

His hair - which, moments ago, had been nearly crew-cut.. and was now not only still inching down in front of his face as it continued to grow, but was growing lighter in color.

Even to somebody who wasn't the brightest bulb in the box, the lengthening hair, swelling bust-line, tightening sensation of his shorts across hips and buttocks, and throbbing ache in a crotch that wasn't being compressed by the shorts as it should have been - it all added up to one horrifying, yet inescapable conclusion:

"Holy crow - I'm turning into a gurl!" Bobby Joe screamed in a cracking, rising voice that verified the self-diagnosis. He was, indeed, turning into a girl...

...and what a girl!

Designed for 'maximum demoralization' of enemy troops, the Soviet designers of the compound had included certain interesting effects - and Bobby Joe got to experience these for himself as he staggered away from the wall, slimming hands grasping frantically - and usefully - at his still-swelling breasts and buttocks.

The breasts still bulging steadily - and now, quite heavily - out from his chest were not only remarkably firm - but remarkably sensitive, as well, since the compound added a certain 'nerve stripping' agent specifically targeted for the nerves ending up in the brain's pleasure center.

Of course, the dosage Bobby Joe had gotten was considerably greater than anticipated - and so the effects were magnified, as he tits grew ever bigger, and ever more sensitive...

...and all the other effects were equally exaggerated.

After only a few staggering steps, Bobby Joe came right out of his boots - not at all surprising, as not only were his feet getting steadily smaller, and even more proportionally slimmer, but they were also arching higher and higher in the air as the ligaments and tendons shortened, pushing them three... four.. five inches into the air - and still going.

His hips were widening and his ass was filling out - and the only reason why it hadn't passed the point where his shorts could no longer enclose his previously thin, bony hips was the fact that he was 'supposedly' shrinking.

'Supposedly', because the compound was supposed to shrink an average male to the height of an average female - but also increase the length of the legs, proportionately. Well, Bobby Joe was a long, tall drink of water to begin with, with long, lanky legs - which, even as the rest of him became smaller (and more dainty), continued to lengthen, with the unforeseen side-effect that he was remaining at about the exact same six-foot-six height he'd been before.

So, the shorts, through now quite loose around his inward-pinching waist, remained 'merely' skin-tight against his proportionately wider hip and fuller ass.

Approximately nine minutes later, the final changes tapered off - and, gasping in horror, the new woman - who bore little resemblance to the man she'd once been - gaped down at herself in shock.

Her feet were, to put it simply, tiny - and pushed up so high that she was bracing on slender, long-fingered hand against the wall as she balance on tip-toe. Above those tiny feet and well-turned ankles, her legs seemed to rise up damned near forever before ending up in hip that - given her over-all appearance - were trim, yet womanly, and supporting a very fine, round, not-to-much-of-a-good- thing ass made all the more delectable for being tightly packed into what were now 'short-shorts', pulled tight against her obviously feminine crotch, and loose around a tiny little twenty-one inch waist.

Her breasts, filling her shirt spectacularly, were firm, round spheres of creamy tit-flesh the size of volley-balls - and only kept from being utterly ludicrous on her slender frame by the fact of her extreme height.

Her neck was incredibly long and slender - and led up to a lovely, fine-boned face that looked very young, surrounded by a thick mass of silky, golden-blond hair.

Her arms were also long and slender, and her wrists incredibly dainty.

She was tall, and slender, and willowy - with incredibly fine, almost doll-like joints that made her seem (and feel!) too delicate to do anything useful.

She had the body of a fashion model - with the breasts and ass of a world-class porn-star, and baby-face look suitable for a decidedly naughty, bawdy angel.

Of course, that was just the physical changes - the effects of the mind-altering portion of the chemicals weren't nearly as obvious, and the person who'd been Bobby Joe Rudnick remained, for the moment, unaware of them.

Still, the weapon's designers would probably have been happy to learn that the new 'she' was, indeed, most thoroughly demoralized.

Her new feet - so high arched - were already beginning to ache with the strain of trying to support all her weight on her tiny new toes, and she staggered around the room, wide-eyed and horrified, feeling her altered new body sway, bounce and jiggle in a whole host of new ways.

"I'se a gurl!" She blurted out in his high, breathy new voice. "I'se a chick - with big ol' titties!"

All of which was, of course, utterly true, and even what she happened to be thinking at the moment. What the new woman simply couldn't understand was why she was saying it all out-loud.

Of course, that was because she had absolutely no idea that the chemical/biological compound had 'short circuited' her inhibitions. Now, any thought that zoomed through her pretty little head was either spoken - or acted on.

Which made it a damned good thing that she didn't, even momentarily, think of killing herself with the heavy Colt pistol still hanging on her womanly hip.

"God, my feets hurt!" She bemoaned to thin air - following it, with confusion at her vocal state, with: "But my big ol' boobies bouncing around sure do feel good."

Now why the hell had she said that?, she wondered.

She spotted, in the corner, a dusty pair of boots left by one of the previous occupants of the shack...

...and found herself saying: "Maybe my new feets will feel better in high heels"...

...and, worse - and to her much greater confusion - acting on the idea.

She found herself walking over and bending down - and almost falling right over, unused as she was to the weight of her new tits making her decided top heavy. She caught herself by bracing a slender hand on the wall - and the other hand reached down to the boot, even as she was still trying to figure out why she was doing this.

It would have been exceedingly strange for somebody to watch - because the entire thing went on in a series of fits and starts, almost in some sort of 'strobe' effect, as one conflicting thought was counter-acted by another - only to be overridden by a third, and so on.

In the end, the pain in trying to stand on her altered feet was just enough to generate the 'try the boots' thoughts more often than the 'I don't want to wear the boots' thought - and, eventually, she found herself, somewhat... well, 'shell-shocked' - as she balanced easily and comfortable in the nearly knee-high black leather boots with three-inch platforms and nine-inch skyscraper heels.

"Well, I'll be doggone. It feels much better." She heard herself tell thin air. "I guess I'll be wearin' high heels from now on." Hearing herself admit such a thing - even if only to herself - made her feel sick to her stomach...

...and of course, she said so, going on for some time about how disgusted, horrified and mortified she was - even as she pranced around in her new heels, throwing in comments about how amazed she was at how easy it was to walk in such high, slender heels.

Then, on one confused, bemused circuit of the room, she caught sight of her new body in a cracked and dusty old full-length mirror in a badly tarnished brass frame - and she came to a dead stop.

"Holy shit!" She exclaimed. "I'm incredibly hot! Lookit them legs... and that ass! An', of course, those tits! They're so big and round and firm. God, I'm getting so turned on somethin' fierce just lookin' at my new self. If I still had a cock, I might just try and go fuck myself!"

THAT wasn't something she was comfortable with saying - but she really had no choice.

"I cain't deal with - not all by my lonesome." She fretted. "I gots to go gets some help - a doctor or somethin', somebody who can help make me a guy again', cause I don't want to enjoy being a woman much longer."

The particular phrasing of that admission scared the living shit out of her - because she'd been trying, rather unsuccessfully, to ignore how damned good every single move she made was, now that she had ended the annoying ache of her feet.

She headed out of the house - and she was using her regular old male stride when she did so...

...or so she thought. Between the heels, her new hips, and the necessary motion to keep her jiggling, bouncing tits under control, she unknowingly ended up producing a strut that would have looked right at home on the stage of any strip-club in the world.

Something, thankfully, she didn't realize - realizing she was 'strutting her stuff' so blatantly as she headed towards her beat-up pick-up might have been enough to trigger that fatal thought.

Instead, blissfully unaware, she walked up to the front of her old, jury-rigged truck. Built out of spare parts from a half-a-dozen makes and model years on a Ford chassis, it didn't even have a battery - it had a hand crank connected to a generator inside, like an old Model T. She grasped the greasy metal in one slender hand...

...and groaned as she struggled to get it to make one full turn.

"Oh, shit, this new body ain't nearly strong 'nuff for me to crank'er!" She said, letting go of the started and pouting - prettily, though she didn't realize that. "I guess I'se just gonna have to walk myself back to town."

Almost immediately, she found herself unclipping her Colt and putting it on the seat of her truck. With her belt so loose, it was banging annoyingly on her hip - and so, of course, she'd thought about leaving it behind...

...and, of course, she did.

Still confused, the tall, leggy new top-heavy blonde strode out down the rutted drive towards the distant road - still walking with that sexy stripper-strut that did such amazing things for her long legs and full ass, completely unaware of the sexy image she presented as she walked along.

She was much too busy talking to herself about something she'd rather not even think about....

"Boy, my titties feel real good as they jiggle all over the place." She said. "An' the way my shorts feel over my new cunt - why, it's gettin' me all horny, it is."

It was true - with every step she took, the fabric over her sensitive new woman not only tightened and loosened slightly, but also moved back and forth slightly. It was a disturbingly pleasant feeling, and she found herself thinking that it would probably be even more disturbingly pleasant if she...

...and so, she found herself rubbing a hand over the front of her shorts. "Damn, do that feel nice!" She gasped, hand grinding the fabric over her cunt.

A moment later, her other hand rose up to her bouncing boobs...

"Oh, and that feels damned goo, too!" She moaned, squeezing and fondling one fabric-encased tit.

Again, she kept stopping and starting the two motions, disgust at feeling up her new body warring with the amazingly pleasant sensations it produced...

...and by the time she reached the main road, she was fondling herself constantly, the scope of her hands having expanded until they were roaming all over her new body, generating pleasure wherever they went. From tit to leg, from ass to cunt, over and around the slid, cupping here and squeezing there - and all of it felt really, really good.

"I just can't bring myself to stop!" She gasped, still jiggling and bouncing along. "It all feels so damned good!"

So wrapped up was she in the sensations from her new body, she didn't notice the pick-up truck approaching her from behind...

...but the young man in the truck sure as hell noticed her, and so it wasn't at all surprising that he pulled up along side her - and there discovered what she boasted 'up front' to go along with the incredible legs and fantastic ass he'd been ogling as he closed on her.

"Well, who do we have hear...?" The tanned, handsome young blond man said, truck crawling at a walking pace as he ogled her out the window.

"I'm Bobby Joe" She replied - without planning to.

"Well, Bobbi Jo, I'm Travis. Y'all want a lift into town?" The blond man suggested.

"Yes, I would." Bobby Joe - or, as Travis heard it, 'Bobbi Jo' - replied, to honestly for her own taste.

"Well, then, hop on in, honey." Travis said, slowing to a complete stop and letting her climb into the truck - while getting a good look at the deep cleavage displayed as she clambered in.

She caught him looking...

...and was horrified to hear herself say:

"I bet you don't see many chicks as hot as me - 'specially with this big ol' boobies of mine." She blushed - and went right on vocalizing her thoughts:

"Oh, damn, I hadn't a oughta said that - even if it is true. I really shouldn't be telling a complete stranger about how all hot and sexy a babe I am - or how good it feel to play with myself, for that matter. Oh, shit, there I go again, unable to jus' shut my mouth about everything. For some reason, I cain't help but say anything at all that pops into my head, Travis - no matter what it is. An' I jus' cain't help myself. If I could, I wouldn't be tellin' you how good it feel to have my boobies squeezed, an' stuff."

Her blush was even deeper now - especially since, talking about it, she had begun to fondle her new, sensitive breasts.

"Oh, this feels real good." She moaned. "I could just play with my titties all day long, it feels that nice. I just wish I had bigger hands, 'cause I'm sure it would feel even better - hands like yours, now that I notice it, and, hey, that give's me an idea - why don't we see what it would feel like if you played with my big new boobies with your big, strong hands?"

As she said it, she found herself - on an impulse she couldn't stop - peeling the tank-top over her head. She missed the priceless expression on Travis' face as he took this all in.

He took 'new boobies' to mean she'd gotten them recently enlarged, which might serve to explain a lot - and since he was a 'big tit' man, it was almost literally and offer he couldn't refuse.

At this point, horrified at what she'd just said to him, much less her resulting action, she got the instinct to take it back, and she immediately began to do so - but she wasn't nearly fast enough, as Travis reached out and cupped her new rack in his 'big, strong hands'.

She moaned.

"You like that...?" Travis asked, grinning maniacally as he continued fondling her huge tits. From just a few seconds acquaintance, it was obvious this Bobbi Jo didn't have much going on in that pretty little head of hers - but she had a hell of a lot else going for her, and if she was going to offer, he wasn't going to refuse, not with a stone-cold fox like this one.

She answered his question more honestly than she wanted:

"Oh, yeah - your hands squeezing and playing with my tits is much nicer than doing it myself." She admitted, not wanting to. "Oh, shit, I didn't mean to actually tell you that. Damn, I wish I could stop myself from telling you things like how much I'm loving having you play with my tits, and how horny I am right now, and how I'm thinking about how you gots a cock, and I gots a cunt that so hot and wet that I feel like I'm goon just explode, and I'm thinking maybe I'd really enjoy having that cock of your pumping into..."

She clapped both hands firmly over her mouth, muting the stream of words that continued to pour out.

Travis, for his part, was staring at her in utter shock, wondering what the hell the story with this ditzy, busty, talkative chick was...

...and his cock, now painfully hard in his jeans, not giving a damned.

"I live just up the road a spell." He said, slowly and very carefully. "Would you like to come to my place, Bobbi Jo? No pressure, or nuthin'... but, you know, just to see how it goes, sorta."

She actually fell dead silent, for the first time since her transformation...

...because she couldn't make up her mind, and so couldn't blurt out the 'answer'.

Her mind was spinning, overwhelmed by a cascade of thoughts, none of them fully formed enough to make words - just impressions and concepts and considerations, tumbling through her mind.

She was a woman who was 'really' a man, and she didn't want to do anything 'gay' - but her new body was most definitely signaling that it was ready for the type of satisfaction that would come from the incredibly NOT-gay action of a penis filling a pussy, a cock satisfying a cunt. She didn't want to be enjoying her new, feminine body - and yet she was, very much so, and damned near anything she did felt really, really good - and when Travis had touched her, it had felt even better.

She didn't want to be a woman - and yet she was one. She didn't want to be thinking about satisfying the burning, liquid warmth in her abdomen by having sex with a man - and yet she was. She didn't want to enjoy having a man touch her new body - and yet she did...

...and if, at that very instant, Travis' question had been if she wanted to have sex with him, she might have 'locked up', unable to say either yes or no, like the donkey that starved to death exactly between two piles of hay.

Instead, as he carefully tried to 'CYA' with his careful question to this crazy - but damned hot - babe, it allowed a 'possible' to win out...

...and, still unable to speak, she found herself very slowly nodding her head. The ride to Travis' house was done in dead silence.

The entire time, she was wrestling within her own mind, trying to overcome the physical desires of her highly pleasurable new female body with the ingrained desires of her masculine psyche... and yet she couldn't. Though had never been her forte, and this new body's sensations were much stronger than her old one's.

She was caught between the two - and it left her, literally, speechless.

She didn't even get out as they arrived at his house - well, double-wide house trailer, actually. She simply considered sitting in the passenger's seat, staring blankly out the window, perfectly motionless as she fought to go one way or the other, in a tug of war between mind and body.

In this strange state, she didn't resist - or help - as Travis opened the door, took her hand, and gently eased her out of the truck and towards the trailer, his eyes devouring her bare breasts and long legs as he led her, silent and unresisting, inside.

Travis was beginning to get a little freaked out by this new 'silent drone' routine of hers.. but 'getting a little' was a far cry from 'already incredibly', which would describe his state of arousal. He guided the tall, topless blonde beauty into his home and gently eased her down into a sitting position on his couch - and then immediately sat down beside her, hip pressed against hers.

Locked in that perfect state of balance, she didn't say or do anything, practically zombie-like...

...and still incredibly sexy.

Several minutes passed, with Travis getting steadily more uncomfortable with this strange woman - and with Bobbi Jo still precisely caught between a desire to satisfy her almost painful sexual arousal and an equally strong urge to just get up and run like hell.

Finally, just to instigate something, Travis slowly reached out until his right hand was resting n her thigh, watching for any reaction, positive or negative.

She didn't speak, didn't move, didn't react in any way, caught between liking and hating it equally. He began to stroke her leg.

Still no reaction.

"Do you like this?" Travis finally asked, out of frustrated arousal.

Almost immediately, she answered, the 'truth' bypassing her conflicted mind and popping out of her lips in a soft, dreamy tone Travis had to strain to hear:

"Yes."

"You like this?" Travis prompted again.

"Very much. It feels good." She half-whispered, dreamily, still staring straight a head - but with the faintest, dreamy smile on her lips.

Travis, bemused - and aroused - traded off, now stroking her thigh with his left hand - while his right reached behind her back and under her armpit to cup her breasts.

No reaction.

"How's this?" He finally asked, still fondling her thigh, but now lightly squeezing her tit as well. "Even nicer." She sighed dreamily.

That was about enough 'consent' for Travis to continue, though there was something decidedly eerie about all of this, as well as arousing.

"Would you like me to kiss you?" Travis asked her. Her answer surprised him:

"I don't know."

"Well, there's one way to find out..." He said - and he kissed her. She let him.

In a way, you could even say she responded - second by second, directly to each and everything his lips and tongue did, never initiating anything herself, just 'playing along', neither heating it up or cooling it down.

That was just fine with Travis, as it meant he got to kiss her exactly as he wanted to, for just as long as he wanted to. "Did you like that?" He asked, after ending the kiss.

"Yes." She admitted in that same, dreamy tone. "I like how it feels when you kiss me, Travis."

More than she'd given him before - yet still 'responsive' only to what had just happened, not urging him on to the next level - nor indication he should back off, either.

In fact, Travis was finding himself getting more and more turned on by this odd state she was in.

She was so... compliant. Willing to let him do whatever he wanted, never complaining, never seeking for him to specifically address her own needs or wants. Just... letting him do what he did, at his own pace and to his own rhythm.

Eventually - inevitable - he carried her into the bedroom, part of him still waiting for her to suddenly 'wake up' and scream that she was raping him... but the rest of him not caring.

He lay her on the bed and played with her unresisting, docile body for awhile longer - then parted her legs, and slid his rock-hard, eager cock deep into her cunt...

..and she reacted. She sighed.

He thrust again...

...and she gasped.

A third time, harder and faster...

...and her eyes flared to life, and she said, clearly and not at all dreamily, "God, this feels fantastic!"

Several rapid thrusts later - and some steadily more 'involved' statements about how good it felt, how wonderful his cock was, and assorted related comments... and somehow Travis found himself on his back as she energetically rode atop him like a wildcat in heat, screaming about how much she was enjoying fucking him.

The last remaining doubts he might have had faded completely when, during orgasm, she screamed out that she loved fucking him, and wanted him to fuck her again, and again, and again...!

Afterwards, she once more retreated into that same dreamy, utterly docile state. So he kept her.

There was no other way to describe it. Except in the middle of the act of sex, when she was oh-so-energetically involved, she was utterly compliant, doing whatever he wanted, wearing whatever he gave her to wear. He didn't have to 'baby-sit' her, like a child or an idiot - when she wanted something she could get for herself, she did so, dreamily but competently. When she couldn't do it for herself, she'd dreamily inform him that she would 'like' this or 'enjoy' that - and he took care of it for her.

Life settled into a steady routine - and slowly, those sparks of life began to increase in frequency and duration. She began mentioning, to no-one in particular, how 'hot' or 'sexy' she looked in a particular garment when she spotted her reflection in the mirror. She began to dreamily opine when a song she particularly liked came on the radio, or a show on the TV - though, she never complained if he changed the channel, either.

Step by step, she gained more 'life' towards anything that pleased any of her senses - but to anything unpleasant, she remained utterly oblivious, 'alive' only when there was something to be enjoyed.

Eventually, as the pleasure that had become the center of her life slowly expanded to fill every nook and cranny of her existence, that which had been the not-to-bright freedom fighter was forced out for good.

Not one single, solitary person mourned the passing of Bobby Joe Rudnick...

...not even Bobbi Jo Rudnick.

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A friend agree to pose as a female so that his buddy can collect an all expense paid vacation to Las Vegas, but things go awry when they are stopped in a small town run by feminists.

Effects

By Gunslinger

"Just fuckin' great!"

Unless folded in a specific manner, paper has extremely poor aerodynamic properties - so Jason's attempt to hurl the letter across the room met with dismal failure. Despite the fact that he should have known that the paper would do little more than flutter to the ground, the fact that everything seemed to be against him - even the laws of physics - only pushed Jason deeper into angered despair.

Muttering under his breath, the athletic youth slumped down into the worn, overstuffed armchair.

The shout attracted the attention of the apartment's other occupant. The door to the kitchen swung open, disgorging a short, slender youth who looked like he'd just stepped out of the seventies. Dressed in faded, tattered Levi's and a tie-dye shirt, the young man wore his long, dark-auburn hair in a pony-tail. Thin, scruffy hair of a slightly darker shade formed what the owner termed a goatee.

"Hey, man - somethin' up?" The slender youth asked, taking a bite out of the enormous sandwich he carried. With a loose-jointed walk, he sauntered over to the couch, his Birkenstocks slapping on the hard-wood floor. Taking another enormous bite, he flopped down, peering over at his roommate and long-time friend.

Jason waved a hand dismissively. "It's nothing, Sandy - you know me, just blowing off some steam." The dark haired youth settled farther back in the chair and crossed his arms, staring angrily at the black screen of the TV.

The temporally misplaced hippie laughed.

"Mr. Emotional strikes again." Sanford Golden Carden said, sarcastically. "Man, usually you're so cool ice wouldn't melt on you. Only one thing gets you so riled - so what did the ex-perfect-girlfriend do this time?"

Jason looked over at Sandy - and cracked a thin smile. From anyone else, that question would have caused anger. But the two had been friends since kindergarten, and Jason knew his friend was just trying to pull him out of his mood. "Well - it is related. I just got a confirmation letter from 'Millennial' Magazine. Me 'and a female companion of my choice' have just won a two-week, all-expense paid vacation in Las Vegas."

"Ah..." Sandy nodded. Back when Jason had been dating Linda, they'd entered a contest. A huge, luxurious suite for two, and all expenses, including admission to all Hotel and Casino events. But...

"...No girlfriend to go with, no prize, right?" Sandy mused, aloud. "How 'bout Debbie? Sure, it wouldn't be all that romantic - but you could use the time away."

Jason shook his head. "Nope - she took Linda's side on the matter, and she's pissed at me."

"Hmmm... Well, maybe she's not pissed at me. Can I see if she wants to go with me? I could use some time away, too." Jason shook his head. "Nope - the prize is in my name. I have to go, so..."

Sandy rubbed the scruffy hair on his chin, thinking. "So - we have a prize here. It's two weeks in a Vegas hotel that has all the luxuries. Plus, free food - and a cash prize too, right?"

Jason nodded. "Yeah - ten thou. But you can't claim just the money."

Still considering it, Sandy cocked his head. "Do the 'winning couple' have to gamble the money at the casino?"

Jason shook his head. "Nope. It's free, if they want to - but they don't have to. They can spend the entire time in the suite, if they want. It is supposed to be a romantic getaway."

Sandy nodded. "Cool. Well, I can guarantee it won't be a romantic - but what say you take me?" Jason blinked and frowned at his friend. "Huh?"

Sandy shrugged. "So, it's a little embarrassing - I'll put on a dress, shave the whiskers... As long as nobody has to get too close, I could pass. And it'd only be for two weeks."

Jason gaped at his slender friend. Sure, it might work - but Jason was shocked that Sandy would be willing to dress in drag. "You're serious?"

Sandy smiled and buffed his fingernails on his shirt. "Six and a half thousand dollars serious, my friend."

Jason stared at Sandy - then laughed. "Well, if you're willing to go through with it - sure, I'll give you six and a half thou to do it. Two weeks vacation does sound good."

"Great!" Sandy rose and headed for the hallway that led to the bedrooms. Just as he reached it, he stopped and turned. "Oh, by the way..."

Jason looked up. "Yeah?"

Sandy smiled. "Since I'm a little strapped for cash..." - he was always strapped for cash - "...you get to buy everything I need for my little charade." Cocking his hips, Sandy tapped one finger against his lips. "Thoming in thatin, I think," he lisped in an outrageous falsetto. "I jutht adore thatin." And he minced off down the hallway.

Behind him, his best friend in the world doubled over with laughter.

* * * * *

"Jason - I'm gonna get you for this. You know that, don't you man?"

Jason glanced at Sandy. "Hey - you volunteered, remember?" He asked, tightly, as he guided the car towards the shoulder, easing it to a stop.

"Yeah - but I didn't volunteer you to do seventy in a fifty-five zone." Sandy said, shifting uncomfortably in the passenger seat. He fingered the purse that Jason had purchased for the occasion, his heart pounding.

It was eerie how well he could pass for a girl. After shaving - including much more of his body than he'd originally planned - and doing his hair and make-up, Sandy had been amazed - and abashed - to discover he was one of those people who made a very passable girl. Oh, to be sure, 'she' was hardly gorgeous - but nobody would assume 'she' was anything but female.

Jason had, indeed, paid for the 'disguise'. In doing so, he'd also taken the opportunity to get a practical joke in there.

All the clothes he'd purchased for Sandy, including what he was wearing now - a simple denim dress and a pair of sandals - were too tight in the waist...

...which was why he'd also bought the corset. Sandy had no choice but to strap the 'torture device' on, so tight that it was mildly painful.

But even worse, from Sandy's point of view, was the two enormous fake tits that looked amazingly real through the low neckline of the dress. Made of latex, the edges of the beach-ball sized tits 'feathered' to an incredibly fine layer that blended into his natural skin, making the humongous tits look absolutely authentic - for surgically inflated 'stripper tits'. Jason had had a friend who was studying to do prosthetics work in Hollywood make them up for the 'occasion'.

All in all, Sandy was an amazingly realistic representation of a mildly attractive girl with massive implants - except for when he spoke. Sandy simply could not imitate a girl's voice effectively.

It had been a perfect disguise for its purpose - but that was cold comfort now as the car came to a stop, the flashing lights of the cop-car behind them filling the interior with strobes of crimson.

The friends watched, apprehensively, as the door to the cruiser behind them swung open and the officer stepped out. It was a woman officer - but Jason and Sandy were hard-pressed to make the distinction. Dressed in uniform, the woman was tall, broad-shouldered, and heavily muscled. Her squarish face beneath its 'Smoky Bear' hat bore no make-up, and it was the fair-sized breasts that pulled the uniform blouse taut that allowed the two friends to make the determination of gender.

Not that that was an absolute, Sandy thought with glum humor, looking down at the realistic cleavage of 'his' own pair of KKK-cup 'breasts.'

Rolling down the window as the muscular woman leaned down beside the door, Jason said, unimaginatively, "Is there something wrong, officer?"

The woman's cold blue eyes swept the interior of the car. "Can I see your license and registration please, sir?" She asked, coolly....

...then Sandy's heart leapt to his throat as she continued "And I'll need to see your identification too, ma'am."

Numbly, Sandy dug around in his purse, extracting his own driver's license. He handed it to Jason, who passed all the identification over to the cop, shooting Sandy an apologetic glance.

The woman looked over the documents without expression. Sandy, watching her nervously, found his eyes wandering away from the wooden, unchanging face, flicking here and there in nervous tension. Idly, he noted the small brass name-plate on her ample chest -R. Keswick. Then his eyes flicked over to the other side, reading the embroidered crest on the shoulder - Estrona Police Dept.

Sandy frowned slightly - as the passenger, he'd been doing the navigating for them, and he couldn't recall seeing a town named Estrona on the map...

"Will you please shut off you vehicle and step out?" Officer Keswick asked, abruptly - and Sandy felt his stomach drop as she clipped the ID to the clipboard she carried, rather than returning it.

"Wha ?" Jason started to ask, confused.

Then Officer Keswick stepped back, her hand dropping to the butt of her holstered pistol. "Please step out of the vehicle and place your hands on the roof." She snapped, coldly.

Numbly, Jason shut off the car and climbed out, while Sandy did the same on the other side, wondering what the hell was going on. "Officer, I don't " Jason tried to protest.

The cop's voice overrode his as she pulled his hands behind his back and snapped on a pair of cuffs. "You have the right to remain silent. Anything you do say may be used against you in a court of law "

* * * * *

"Hey! What about our phone calls? Or a lawyer?" Jason shouted from the cell. There was no answer.

"What the hell is going on around here?" Sandy asked, in frustration. He was sitting on the bunk in the cell, tapping his sandaled foot against the floor in a nervous rhythm.

After being Mirandized, the two friends had been put into the back of the cruiser and driven quite some distance off the main route. For a good twenty-five minutes, they'd seen nothing at all, until the dusty cruiser arrived in a small, but modern-looking town. As a matter of fact, nothing at all in the small town looked to be older than a year or two.

The tiny community had been mostly deserted. Their uncommunicative driver had lead them into the small police station, where another cop - also a woman, and even more massively muscular than Officer Keswick, but considerably shorter - was manning the front desk. The two female cops had wordlessly logged Jason and Sandy in, then led them down a corridor, and into a room with five cells. After locking the confused, frightened young men into one of them, they'd left - and no-one had spoken to them or checked on them in the hour since that had happened.

Jason banged the brand-new cell bars and then dejectedly slumped onto the bunk next to Sandy. "I just wish somebody would tell us why we're under arrest." He said, confused. "I mean - don't they have to tell you the charge when they arrest you?"

"I thought so." Sandy said, shrugging. "But all I know about arrests is what I see on TV, so..."

"Hello? Hello, are you back there?" A thin, hesitant voice called, and the two friends looked at each other. "Hello?" Jason called back. A second later, the door to the cell was slowly swung open.

The man who entered was short, and pudgy. Wearing a rumpled brown suit, the tiny little man had dark hair that had balded into a crescent-shaped fringe around his pale face. Wide, watery dark eyes were magnified by a thick pair of glasses atop a tiny nose, and the man clutched a worn brown briefcase in a death-grip.

"Mr. Detweiler? Miss Carden?" His voice was so thin and weak, the poor man sounded like he was going to pass out from fright. "I... That is, My name is Peter Lender. Attorney-at-Law." He smiled weakly. "I'm afraid that I'm the Public Defender who'll be representing you in court."

Sandy stood up. "First off - I'm not Miss... despite how it looks." He grinned thinly. "And just what the hell are we going to court for?" Lender cleared his throat nervously. "Um... well, I'm afraid that's exactly why you are going to court Miss."

Jason blinked, and came to stand beside Sandy. "Excuse me?"

The attorney looked around furtively. "I'm afraid you made a mistake, taking a short-cut through Estrona County." He said, in a low voice that the two friends had to strain to hear. "The town, and the surrounding county, were founded fifteen months ago by a group of feminists who want their own enclave." Straightening a bit, the diminutive lawyer continued in a louder voice. "Under Estrona County laws, a man posing as a woman falls under two separate charges - Criminal Fraud, and Carrying a Concealed Weapon."

"What?!" Sandy asked, stunned. "You're kidding - right?"

Lender shook his head. "I'm afraid not. Under the laws, your... genitalia is considered a weapon. If you were dressed in normal clothes, women would have ample warning that you were a male. But, by posing as a female, they might let down their guard, not knowing that you were packing heat."

Jason and Sandy looked at each other incredulously.

"Look - you have to help us." Jason said, quickly. "I mean, we had no way of knowing "

Lender held up a pale hand, stopping Jason. "I'm going to do whatever I can to help. Unfortunately, the case is pretty clear-cut. He's dressed, quite convincingly, as a woman, and you were aiding and abetting him. And, unfortunately, ignorance is no excuse in a court of law."

Stunned, the two friends slumped slightly. It was incredible, it was ridiculous - but it was also happening to them, right here and now.

Hearing the sound of boot heels ringing on the concrete floor, all three men looked up as officer Keswick came into the room, carrying a ring of keys. She unlocked the cell door.

Peter shrugged helplessly. "I'm afraid it's time for your trial. You'd better follow Officer Keswick - I've convinced her that she doesn't need to handcuff you for the ride to the courthouse."

Stunned, the two young men let themselves be led to the awaiting cruiser for the short ride to the courthouse.

* * * * *

Much to Jason and Sandy's astonishment, the mouse-like Lender became a veritable legal tiger in the court-room.

Oh, he was still small, soft-spoken and inoffensive. But he was also obviously well-experienced, and he had the tenacity of a bull-dog.

His opponent, a tall, striking woman named DeVries, was viscous, using of venom in her rhetoric and piling as much legal abuse on the hapless friends as possible...

...and at every turn, Lender had an objection, a precedent, or a legal qualification in the boys defense. He argued the lack of criminal intent, of the boys lack of criminal history, of the lack of a victim in the crime.

Yet despite Lender's surprising legal acumen, it was obvious that the boys were in trouble - there was no denying the basics of the case

- not with Sandy standing there in front of the all-female jury, still in his female costume.

Now, only three hours after the court was called to order, Lender was pacing back and forth in front of the jury box as Madame Fore- person read the verdict.

"On the charge of Criminal Fraud, we find the defendant, Sanford Carden - not guilty. On the charge of Carrying a concealed weapon, we find the defendant, Sanford Carden - Guilty. On the charge of Aiding and Abetting, we find the defendant, Jason Detweiler - not guilty. On the charge of Conspiracy in the Second Degree, we find the defendant, Jason Detweiler - Guilty."

The friends looked at each other, with mixed emotions. It could have been worse - they'd only been found guilty on half of the charges against him.

The judge - a woman of course - leaned forward. "The Court will now hear sentencing recommendations. Ms. DeVries?"

The prosecutor frowned, obviously unhappy with the overturning of two of the charges. "Your honor, I request the maximum penalty - twelve years or three years, sexual reassignment surgery, and re-education for Mr. Carden, six years plus gender-sensitivity re- education for Mr. Detweiller."

"Mr. Lender?"

Peter drew himself up. "Your honor, I beg leniency for my clients. Neither has a previous record. There was no criminal intent, only ignorance. They never even had any intention of stopping in this county at all."

"Your Honor!" DeVries interrupted. "It doesn't matter whether or not they were planning to stop - they were traversing through this county, and thus subject to its laws. Moreover, Defendant Carden isn't just posing as a woman - but he's objectifying them ! Look at the size of the artificial breasts that he is wearing - more than just a disguise, this is a veritable insult!"

"As is the choice of jury." Lender said, after DeVries harangue was finished. "A jury of their peers - yet not a single male impaneled." He shrugged. "Moreover, the size of Mr. Carden's falsies is more in the nature of embarrassment than insult - he is the one who is being forced to deal with having them."

The judge looked thoughtful. "Since this is the first trial in which these laws are affected, I am, by nature, predisposed to impose the maximum penalty, as to set a precedent for future cases. However, this is not just the makings of a dusty law book - this is a case involving real people, and I cannot let my decision forget their rights, or I forget true justice. Therefore, I will offer the defendants a choice."

"Your honor..!" DeVries said. An angry glare from the bench silenced her.

"Mr. Carden, you may choose. Since you were actually planning to commit fraud claiming that prize in Vegas, I will allow you to avoid breaking the law. You may spend two weeks as a woman, with Mr. Detweiller as your male companion - or you may each serve a six- year term of incarceration. I'll give you five minutes to choose."

"What's going on?" Sandy asked the attorney, confused. "What are our choices?"

Lender sighed. "I'm sorry I couldn't do more for you." He shrugged. "Your choices basically boil down like this. Serve prison time. Or, you can choose to voluntarily undergo a sex-change operation, reversible after two weeks. If you choose the sex change, Mr.

Detweiller will undergo some changes that would basically make him forget you were ever male - he'll 'remember' you as always being female. Plus, he would not remember what happened here for those two weeks, nor could you tell him during the two weeks. After that time, you will be returned to how you are now."

Sandy gaped. "What? You mean - actually be turned into a woman?"

"And I'd think she was my girlfriend? That's... sick!" Jason interjected. "What about an appeal?"

"Actually..." Lender said to Jason. "The training would make it so that you recall Mr. Carden, who will be, for all practical purposes, female, as being female all along. Your current relationship will be unchanged... although you may find yourself being physically attracted to 'her'. Whether or not you act on that attraction would be up to you. As for an appeal - I'm afraid there's no valid grounds to apply for one. As much as it pains me to admit, this has been a fair trial on a law that, while I don't like it, is constitutional. Furthermore, the punishments are fitting, from a legal point of view, forcing to live what you were pretending to be - so we can't appeal under 'cruel and unusual'. It's a fact of law that an appeal must be based on both aspects, because the constitution doesn't read 'cruel or unusual' - and while this is unusual, it doesn't classify as cruel."

"Taking away my dick isn't cruel?" Sandy asked, incredulously.

Lender shrugged. "Legally - no. Being female isn't considered cruel under the law - more than half the population is born that way. Furthermore, it's a voluntary choice. If it's really that abhorrent to you, you can take the prison time instead."

They debated in quiet but emotional voices until the time limit ran out. But the choices were basically two weeks of discomfort in a 'gilded cage' - or hard time in prison.

"Your honor," Lender said. "My clients will accept your generous offer."

* * * * *

"wow - quite the setup, huh?" Jason asked, dumping their luggage inside the hotel suite. He looked around with an awed look in his eyes.

"Yeah." Sandy said, a trifle sourly. She stood just inside the door, shifting from foot to foot awkwardly - her feet were killing her. They'd been reduced in size, and with the extra weight of her massive tits, she was forced to keep herself balanced constantly - there was no easy stance where that happened by itself, like when she'd been male. So, the muscles in her feet ached from all the work.

"Come on - lighten up." Jason said, nudging her in such a way that his hand slid across one of her massive tits. "Geez - I let you come for a free weekend, and you get all moody."

Sandy grunted uncommittedly. She was beginning to worry about Jason - she thought that they'd done something else other than make him forget that he'd once been male. Ever since they'd left that damned town, he'd been acting... strange. Aggressive and chauvinistic. It wasn't like him to be this way.

"Aw - the hell with it. Let's celebrate." Jason announced. He went to the bar and mixed up a couple of drinks, bringing one back to her. "I don't..." Sandy started to refuse.

"Come on - just one. For a toast." Sandy sighed. "Okay."

Jason lifted his glass. "Here's to the sexiest girl to ever enter this room!" He winked at her.

Sandy grimaced and downed the drink quickly. Putting the glass down, she excused herself and went into the washroom to 'freshen up'.

Really, it was a chance to be alone. She didn't know if she could take this sentence for the full term. As bad as being a huge-breasted woman for two weeks was, spending it with the prick Jason had become was worse. What the hell could be wrong with him? She'd known him since kindergarten, and...

That's when it struck her, like a physical blow.

The two of them had been friends for most of their lives. So much of who they were was based on that friendship, the shared lessons and experiences.

But with all trace of that past erased in Jason's mind, he just remembered her as a female friend. Since he obviously found her sexy, in his mind it was a female friend he'd been trying to lay since... well, whenever. In Jason's mind, the fact she'd agreed to a romantic weekend would just be another chance to get into her pants.

This was the Jason that would have been, if they'd never been friends.

Sandy was amazed to realize just how much influence that friendship had had on Jason. without that male friend Sandy to grow up with, he was a real bastard, an arrogant, chauvinist prick.

It was enough to make her head spin. And her nipples hard.

And her crotch wet...

Sandy gasped in horror, nearly falling over. She felt the world seemed to retreat a bit as she realized that she was becoming unbelievably horny, in next to no time at all.

Then she knew - that bastard Jason had become had drugged her. Slipped some sort of sex drug into the drink when he'd made it. This was what a guy like the 'new' Jason did.

Horried, Sandy turned towards the door, intending to lock it. She'd just spend the next while in here, until the drug wore off, then get out...

But before she could lock the door, it swung open, revealing Jason's face, with it's cruel smile. "Hey, babe - how ya feeling?'

"You... you drugged me, you bastard!" Sandy exclaimed, finding it hard to believe.

He snorted. "You bet your ass I did - bitch." He leaned closer. "Ten years. For ten years, you've been teasing me with your body, with those tits of yours. Coming over in the summer, dressed in next to nothing bathing suits. Inviting me to go clubbing, with you in some sexy little number - just so you could go home with another guy. And every time I bring up you and me having some fun - you laugh."

Sandy, becoming confused and light-headed, was horrified to hear what his mind had done with the actual events that had happened. They gone clubbing together, and swimming, and other things - and of course, both of them being guys, never had sex. But since he remembered all those with her being female, they changed, took on new significance.

"No..." She moaned.

"Oh, yes - you're going to fuck me tonight. You're going to make up for ten years of teasing - you're going to fuck my brains out!" His nasty smile widened. "And with that drug in you, in just a few minutes you're going to WANT it that way."

"No! You can't do this Jason... You can't. I'm not really a woman, I'm a guy - you can't do this to me!" "What the fuck are you babbling on about, bitch?" Jason asked, annoyed.

It took a second to register on Sandy's befuddled brain. She'd just told him! But she wasn't supposed to be able to, due to hypnotic programming.

The drug. Whatever he had given her, it must have short-circuited the hypnotic commands. It was like a truth serum...

"Take the drug. The one you gave me!" Sandy cried, trying hard to hold on to the thought. It wasn't easy - though wanted to skitter away from her.

"What?" Jason asked.

"I'll fuck you!" Sandy said, needing to say whatever it took. "I'll fuck you right after you take the drug!" Jason looked at her funny, then shrugged. "Sure, why not - It'll help me keep going."

She followed him into the other room. Already, she was feeling a powerful need, a desire to give in to her imposed lust, and satisfy her cravings...

Jason swallowed a couple of pills, washed down by a blast of scotch. "Okay baby..." "Wait - who am I?" Sandy cried, even as she yearned for his cock to fill her....

"You're the dumb bitch who's been teasing me too long." Jason said, grabbing her arm and dragging her towards the bed.

For a second, she almost went, 'willingly', but was able to hang onto that thought she'd latched earlier. "No - I mean, what relationship have we had. What sex am I.... how "

Jason glared at her. "What the fuck are you talking about, Sandy? You're the same huge-titted, bitchy little slut you've always been. Always showing off those huge tits and tight little cock of yours..." He blinked. "Cunt. I meant, tight little cunt " He stopped, becoming confused. His grip loosened as memory - real memory - flooded in.

"Oh... God " Jason said, stunned, as the truth settled in. What had happened, what he'd been 'programmed' to believe - and what he'd almost done...

Sandy, by now, was massaging her own crotch with one hand, blind lust in her eyes, so horny she felt she was going to burst. "Jason..." She moaned. "Help " Already feeling the arousing properties of the drug, Jason looked at her with lust and grabbed her arm.....

...and dragged her back into the bathroom. "Stay in here. Two hours - we have to last two hours "

She closed and locked the door - then slid to the floor and began ripping off her clothes. She'd done it - she'd brought Jason back, and kept him from raping her.

But she was so horny!

Sitting, naked, with her back to the door, she began to masturbate, frantically, trying to relieve the uncontrollable lust deep inside. But it wasn't enough.

Outside, she could hear Jason talking to himself as he, too, was caught in the grip of uncontrollable, drug induced lust. Sandy stood, absently licking her own juices from her fingers, and began to open the door.

"No!" Jason's voice came from outside, and he slammed his weight into holding the door shut. His voice was husky with lust. "Jason.. I need it... please " She begged her friend, her body suffused with need.

"We... we have to... fight it..." Jason grated. "We... can't give in, Sandy. Remember who you are. We're best friends. We don't... can't..."

Sandy closed her eyes, and fought to concentrate on the past. the two of them, friends. Always there for one another. Going through thick and thin. Laughing and joking...

...discussing what was good and bad in sex....

...trading skin mags...

"Jason... please... help me..." She begged. "I don't care - I know I was a man. But I need it, Jason - I need it, please I'm so horny it hurts....." She sobbed. "Hurts... so bad "

She began to cry. Long, loud racking sobs, even as her hand slid back into her sopping wet cunt.

The sound of her crying was too much. He was strong enough to fight the lust - but the emotion that he felt when he heard his feminized best friend crying, begging him for help it was too much.

He'd done this to her. He had to make it right...

* * * * *

"I can't believe you did that."

The morning sun streamed in the window, highlighting her where she stood in the bathroom door, a robe barely covering her body. She stood a trifle awkwardly, due to the tenderness of her cunt after all the pounding of last night.

Jason, who had been trying to silently pack up while she was having her shower, straightened - painfully, like his cock and balls were made of glass.

"I "

She shook her head, and spoke in the same tone of stunned amazement as she slowly closed the distance between them. "I mean - I just can't believe it." She said. "There I was, horny as hell, actually begging you to fuck me. And you obviously thought - think - I'm incredibly sexy as a woman. Yet you find me a dildo to keep me satisfied - then leave."

She looked down at his crotch. "And you didn't find relief - did you?"

Then, to Jason's shock, she dropped her robe, letting it puddle on the floor, as she knelt in front of him, her hands reaching for his fly. He jerked backwards. "Sandy! What the hell are you doing!" He cried out, shocked.

Then she looked up at him, and he saw something in her eyes he'd never expected.

"I'm going to ease the pain of the man I love." She answered firmly. The light of sheer insanity blazed in her eyes as she continued. "I've learned my lesson, Jason - from now on, I'll do whatever I need to do to please you. You don't have to run, anymore."

Jason shuddered. She sounded rational, if infatuated - but that look in her eyes revealed that she'd lost complete touch with reality. What the hell had happened to her?

"When you left, I tried the dildo - but it wasn't enough. I needed you..." She said, rising and slowly approaching him. "Then I called for room service, and when it was delivered, I fucked him, too - but it wasn't him, either, I needed> It wasn't any of the other guys I tried, either."

Jason gasped in horror. Driven by lust, she'd searched for satisfaction. Of course, with the drug in her blood stream, she'd NEVER be satisfied - but she was so doped up, she hadn't known that. Somewhere in the orgy that had been her night, she had snapped - had decided that the only person who could satisfy her was him, and he'd left to prove that to her.

"come on, Jason - you don't have to worry. I'm going to stay female and make sure that your every whim is fulfilled" His best friend said, her face sad around her mad, mad eyes. "Don't punish me anymore - I beg you. Let me suck your cock."

Jason knew what he had to do. Her whole insane fantasy world now revolved around him. She literally needed him, to satisfy him - or she could never be satisfied. For the rest of her life, all she would desire is to please him in every way a woman could please a man.

Disgusted, horrified and self-loathing, Jason could do only one thing. He could ease her pain, no matter what the cost.

So, he let his best friend in the world, the one he'd unwittingly driven insane, drop to her knees in front of him and begin giving him a blowjob.

He didn't know what was worse - the fact that he'd done this to his best friend...

...or the fact that, no matter how hard he tried to fight it, a day would come when he'd actually be so used to it that he'd no longer be disgusted by having this huge-breasted ex-male-best-friend as his willing sex slave.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A messy border get his comeuppance when his landlord, who is also a scientist, attaches him to a machines that adjusts his attitude making him both more feminine, and afraid that people will think that he is a sissy.

Emotional Response

By Gunslinger

'...so, then John says that he can't make it because...' Mark rambled on, deep in the middle of the story he was recounting.

At this end of the phone Jan Johansson was half asleep, listening to the rambling story - nearly comatose, really.

Just then, Fate intervened - in the eerily controlled, British-accented voice of Gregory Tannelworth, emerging from the intercom system he'd installed himself.

"Whoa, whoa, Mark - hold up." Jan said into the phone. "My 'boyfriend' is calling me, and I have to run."

Mark's laughter crackled over the rough connection. "Jeez, man - how long are you going to keep this 'boyfriend' shit up, anyway?"

The muscular, pale-blond young man laughed in response. "For as long as I still get a kick out of it. The look on Greg's face when he saw who his roommate was going to be was just hilarious - every time I remember it, I have to keep myself from laughing. Anyway, man - I gotta run. I'll see you on Monday, 'kay?"

"Sure thing, man." Mark said. Shaking his head, Jan hung up the phone, his heavily muscled body uncurling from the worn couch in the den, muscles bunching and flexing under the tight jeans and black T-shirt that were stretched over them.

Heading towards the basement - where Gregory's voice had originated - the muscular youth was grinning to himself at the memory of his first introduction to the creepy guy who owned the rambling, remotely located farmhouse. A mutual friend had managed to get Gregory to let Jan rent out half the house at a real good price... without ever mentioning the fact that 'Jan' was quite a common man's name in Iceland, where Jan's parents had come from.

Well, at least the freak hadn't backed out of the agreement - though incredibly handsome, skilled at athletics of all sorts, and a real babe-magnet, Jan was less than financially secure, the money of his job being spent mostly on booze and women.

So, the low monthly rent for this place was just the ticket for his strained finances, and he was glad Mark had finagled Greg into renting it to him - false pretenses notwithstanding.

That was 'Good Old Mark', though. Studying to become a lawyer, the guy was slipperier than an eel - and able to talk forever without actually saying anything. His careful finagling had made Gregory think (without ever actually saying it) that he was getting a athletic Nordic Goddess as a roommate - hence the very low rent offered. Looking and acting as he did, Gregory wasn't exactly prime dating material, and had obviously been hoping to 'score' with a roommate... and the look on his face had been priceless when a sculpted Norse God had shown up at his door, instead.

Reaching the stairwell entrance in the kitchen, the twenty-seven year old clattered down the stair energetically...
...and right into a set from a Fifties sci-fi movie.

At least, that's how the transformed basement always looked to Jan. Part of it was the field-stone walls of the subterranean chamber, creating that 'medieval' feel. Part of it was the array of sputtering, crackling, whining machines built out of surplus material that was from the 'right' time-frame for such a set. The bubbling, smoking retorts, racks of test-tubes and the eldritch blue glow from the Bunsen burners didn't hurt the image either.

But the major contributing factor to the whole 'cheesy sci-fi' feel of the room was it's owner and creator, Gregory.

The tall, almost painfully thin young man stood in the center of the room, tinkering with some arcane piece of antiquated machinery, his spare frame rapped in a white lab coat. Hearing the clatter of his roommate's steps, he straightened and turned... and completed the illusion.

His face was thin and allow, having rarely seen the light of day. Beneath a Hawk's beak of a nose, and above thin, humorless lips, an almost obsessively neat mustache rode, it's sandy coloring matching the shade of his hair, which was already prematurely exhibiting 'male pattern baldness', revealing a high, bare forehead above his round, rimless glasses.

"Ah, Jan - so good of you to respond so quickly." Gregory said, lips curling in a faint, humorless smile. "I do believe it's time that we had a little sit-down."

Gregory gestured with one slender hand at a chair that looked like a rejected 'Captain's Chair' from the original 'Star Trek' series. "Please - have a seat."

Rolling his eyes, Jan crossed the floor and lowered himself into the stiff, uncomfortable chair, resting his arms on the wide, metal arms of the furnishing. "Okay, Greg - I'm listening."

The self-proclaimed 'scientist' winced at the diminutive form of his name, then pulled up a lab stool and perched on it like a vulture, his narrow back ram-rod straight.

"Jan, when I agreed to rent out the use of the house to you, it was mostly as an additional source of revenue to fund my research." Gregory started out. "Since I own the house, free and clear, as an inheritance, there is no real financial burden on me for it's upkeep, aside from maintenance costs, land taxes, and other such unavoidable expenses. This is the reason why your own financial contribution is so reasonable."

"Yeah, right." Jan said, with a knowing grin. "That's the reason."

Gregory paused and frowned, making sure Jan's interruption had run its course. Then he picked up, pointedly ignoring the comment. "However, the monetary compensation you are making does not make up for your negligence as a secondary inhabitant of this house. When I lived alone, I had only my own interests and affairs to keep in order - and I am an orderly person to begin with, so it was hardly an arduous task. Of course, I did not assume that a tenant would be so inclined, but I did expect..." He stopped himself, holding up a hand and closing his eyes as he searched for the right phrasing. "No - I demanded, and still do, that a tenant try their level best to maintain the general living conditions of the house, leaving things as they find them."

"Which means..." Jan asked, annoyed - as always - with Gregory's pedantic nature.

"Not only do you not tidy up after yourself, which would be bad enough..." Gregory said, rather sharply. "...but you entertain a constant stream of... 'ladies', who add to the problem - without attempting, in any way, to alleviate the condition."

"Yeah, so I have a lot of girls over, and we have a little fun." Jan said, with a sigh. "What's your point?"

"My point is, I require you to keep this house as neat and orderly as I did when I lived sans compagnon." Gregory explained, exasperation creeping into his usually carefully modulated tones.

Jan snorted and rolled his eyes. "Geez, lighten up! This place was like a museum when I moved in. Now I'm giving it that 'lived-in' look. Besides, if you don't like the occasional pile of crap, then go ahead and clean it up."

"It is considerably more than the 'occasional' pile of clutter." Gregory retorted. "And it is not my job to clean up after you. If you wish to remain my lodger, I require you to keep the house tidy, the dishes clean, and the laundry either freshly washed, or out of sight."

"Like hell." Jan said, shaking his head. "I signed the one-year lease mark drew up for us, remember? It didn't say anything about me doing that sort of thing. For God's sake, Greg - that's woman's work, and no matter what you thought before you met me, I ain't a fuckin' broad. No way."

Despite Jan's tirade, Gregory didn't seem upset - in fact, a faint grin crossed his lips. "Actually - I thought you might make an objection along those lines."

"Yeah, so? Whatcha gonna do about it? Evict me?"

"No." Gregory said, the grin flitting across his lips again. "I'm going to do... this." He pressed a red button mounted on the work-bench beside him.

With an audible 'snap', metal restraints popped out of the arms and legs of the chair, locking in place around Jan's wrists, biceps, knees and ankles.

"What the fuck?" The muscular man exclaimed, trying - and failing - to break from the metal restraints' unyielding grip. "What the fuck you doing, ass-wipe!"

"Why..." Gregory said, feigning surprise. "...I'm merely making you more... amenable to my... suggestions."

"Look, shit-head!" Jan said, in his most threatening tone. "You'd better let me up right now, or you're going to regret it!"

"Oh, I think not." Gregory said, with a smile, as he rose from his stool and walked over to a bench and began to gather some items. "If there's nay regrets involved, they will be yours - and you will regret that you ever had your friend trick me - and that you didn't accede to my very reasonable requests."

He approached the chair Jan was locked into, holding some odd - and definitely 'medical-looking' - items.

"What the fuck are you doing!" Jan all-but-screamed, trying vainly to watch as Gregory walked around the chair, to stand behind him. The shaped neck-and-head brace of the chair kept him from being able to move his head more than a few inches...

...a freedom that was immediately denied as Gregory snapped another clamp in place, securing Jan's head in a straight-forward position.

"Well..." Gregory said, in an abstract, clinical tone. "First I am going to inject you with a local anesthetic, as well as a paralytic agent."

"What!" Jan screamed - as he felt the pin-prick of the needle entering his neck, right at the point it joined the back of his skull. "What the hell do oo hink er oi.. oooo.. oo..."

As he spoke, it was as if his muscles were becoming detached from his brain, and before he could finish the sentence, he found himself locked in position, unable to move, as his upper back and the rear of his skull slowly went numb.

"After waiting for full effect..." Gregory said after a few minutes. "...we're ready for the next step - the insertion of the bio-chip."

There was no pain, only the faintest sensation of pressure, as Gregory made a small incision in the back of Jan's head and began to work.

"This is a device of my own devising." Gregory said, not without some pride. "Designed to operate off the natural electrical current of the human nervous system, this chip allows a crude - but effective - interface was the nerve bundle at the base of the brain - the place where all the primal sensations and emotions are routed. As well as many of the hormonal systems' controls, I might add."

Falling silent, Gregory very carefully implanted and positioned the small, dark chip into Jan, waiting until he was suturing the wound closed before speaking again.

"To put it simply," He explained. "This device allows me to access - and, if necessary, activate - all your basic emotions, major sensory responses, and even you hormonal system. I should think it will be most effective in... keeping you in line."

Tying the last stitch, Gregory snapped the excess chromic and stood back, surveying his handwork. "Ah... perfecto. Now, I'll leave you while the drugs clear your system. Once you are capable of it, simply give a shout, and we shall see how well my little friend performs."

Undoing the now-unnecessary head-strap, Gregory turned and began to walk towards the stairs.

Jan wanted to curse and scream at Gregory's retreating back as the slender young man headed for the stairs - but was unable to do anything at all except sit there...

...as the first shivers of fear began to work their way down his spine.

* * * * *

"Gregory! You son of a bitch! You'd better get down here and let me go, or I'll..."

"Well..." Gregory said with an urbane smile, reaching the bottom step and crossing his arms dramatically. "I see you've recovered the use of your vocal chords."

"Damn right, you worthless piece of shit!" Jan said, lip curling in a sneer. "You'd better get these damn things off and let me go, or I'm going to..."

"Oh, do calm down." Gregory said, reaching for a red switch mounted on the wall. "I have every intention of letting you go."

He flipped the switch, and - with a pneumatic hiss - the metal restraints retracted into the chair.

Slowly rising to his feet, Jan stood with a loose posture as he rubbed his arms where he'd been restrained....

...then without any warning, broke into a sprint, heading directly for where Gregory stood, at the far end of the room.

He made it about half the distance before the slender 'scientist' casually pushed a button on his 'wristwatch'...

...and all the hatred and anger suddenly drained from Jan, to be replaced with awe, dread...

...and stark, ravening terror at the thought of harming Gregory in any way.

Crying out, Jan skidded to a stop and dropped to his knees, flinging his arms up defensively. Despite the intellectual knowledge that he could pound Gregory into a paste, physically, he found himself screaming at the top of his lungs, begging for forgiveness and mercy.

Despite his intellectual knowledge of how he should feel, Jan felt as if he was in the very presence of God Himself - and, in that instant, the thought of physically attacking Gregory became as impossible as the thought of attacking God would have been for a devout Catholic.

Gasping for breath, Jan felt the stark terror slowly subsiding as all thoughts of violence slid from his mind but that sense of dreadful awe remained as he knelt on the cool concrete floor, a few feet in front of Gregory.

It took an amazing amount of sheer will for Jan to speak to Gregory.

"What what have you done to me?" He asked hating the fawning tone in his own voice - but unable to stop from cringing at the thought of talking to Gregory like a 'mere mortal'.

Gregory's grin widened. "Contrary to standard doctrine on the subject, I've never believed that tampering directly with a man's mind is the best way to control his will. Instead, I've theorized that stimulating a man's emotions can be more effective, since there are numerous instances in history where somebody didn't do something that, intellectually, they knew they should - or, conversely, who did something completely ill-advised. All because of emotions. So, I've decided to test my theory - on you."

"But..." Jan wanted desperately to argue but couldn't quite bring himself to do so. no matter how much he wanted to, he just couldn't find enough force-of-will to overcome the emotional certainty that doing so would be so completely, utterly wrong that the universe would rain unimaginable wrath down on him. Licking his suddenly dry lips, Jan struggled for control of his rampant emotions...

..and lost.

Bowing his head, Jan began to whimper, ashamed of his weakness - and helplessly 'worshipful' to Gregory.

"I do believe that the first test is a rousing success " Gregory said, with (for him) an unusually wide smile. "Rise, Jan - we have much work to do."

Thanks to the implant, the mere thought of disobeying brought wild, rampaging terror. Hating himself, but unable to stop, Jan slowly rose, finding himself unable to meet Gregory's eyes.

"Yes, sir."

* * * * *

Jan looked at the pile of dishes beside the sink, chewing nervously on his lower lip. Closing his eyes, Jan took several deep breaths, trying to force down the artificially-induced, yet utterly 'real', panic that was trying to claw at his throat.

"I... I don't... want to do the dishes." Jan said, hating the fearful, whining tone of his own voice. "Please, Gregory, I'm so sorry for everything I said and did, and I'll make it up to you, but please don't do this to me, I feel all scared and weak and..."

"Jan." Gregory said, softly - and that quiet tone was enough to stop Jan dead in his tracks. The muscular youth literally cringed, as if that soft word had been a powerful blow to the face.

"Yes?" Jan said, his voice helplessly small and scared. "Just wash one glass, for now."

Hesitantly, Jan turned to the sink. Turning on the water, he waited for it to get hot. Then, squirting a small amount of dish-soap into a glass, he added a quarter-cup's worth of hot water and picked up the wash-cloth. He began to wash the glass...

...and an incredible sense of relief, peace, and happiness washed through him, making him sigh in utter bliss.

"Both the carrot and the stick." Gregory said from behind Jan - and Jan nearly dropped the glass as the dread and awe stole away the pleasant feelings. Quaking, the muscular youth turned to face his new master.

"Excuse... excuse me?" Jan asked, fearfully.

Gregory smiled. "When you are doing any task I ask you to do, you will feel very, very good - warm, pleasurable emotions will wash over you. Try to disobey me, though..."

Jan felt another wave of sheer panic at the very thought. Though he was intellectually disgusted with himself, he shook his head violently. "No! No, I'll do what you say!"

Gregory smiled - and the fear slowly faded. "Good - now, go ahead and wash the dishes. Then come see me when you're done. Oh - and from now on, you may address me as... 'Master'."

"Yes... Master." Jan said, tears of shame sliding down his cheeks. Hating himself, Jan turned to the sink...

...and the tears continued to flow as a faint, dreamy smile spread across his lips and he began to perform his assigned task. A dreamy sort of pleasant lassitude spread through Jan - but it was coupled with a deep and abiding shame that made the experience bitter-sweet, a shameful pleasure that he was ashamed to find himself feeling, but completely unable to stop.

* * * * *

Drying and putting away the last glass on the drying rack, Jan found his eyes once more sliding towards the door at the back of the kitchen - the one that led out onto a porch, and then to the garage, his car... and freedom.

No matter how much he longed to walk through that door, though, Jan found he could not force himself to do so. Three times, he'd taken a hesitant step in that direction - and dread and panic and horror had kept him from taking another. He was as unable to walk through the simple screen door as he would have been if it were twelve inches of steel-reinforced concrete.

Whimpering softly to himself, Jan turned away from the door and headed into the living room, where Gregory was sitting with his feet up, watching TV.

"Ah, I see you have finished..." The British-born young man began... then stopped, sandy eyebrows climbing. "I say... have you been crying?"

"Yes, Master..." Jan admitted, miserably. Gregory frowned. "Why?"

"Because I'm so ashamed." Jan admitted in a tiny voice, eyes downcast. "I.. I'm a man, but I'm doing women's work. I'm just so... ashamed."

"Astonishing...!" Gregory mused, aloud. "The chip should completely override any natural emotions. For you to be able to feel anything but a programmed emotion "

Since Gregory wasn't speaking directly to him Jan remained silent, barely even registering the words as he stood, sunk in shameful apathy.

"Good Lord!" Gregory muttered, squeezing his lower lip between thumb and fore-finger. "That particular... mindset must run so incredibly deep and strong "

He fell silent for several minutes, then looked at Jan and raised his voice.

"Jan?" He said, with real interest. "How do you feel about women? Be completely - even brutally - honest."

Jan looked up - and said the words that he'd always believed, but had never uttered to another living soul. "Oh - women aren't 'really' people. They're just things. Put on earth for the purpose of making a man's life easier. You know, to cook and clean, and to be sexual playthings."

Gregory was taken aback. "I see - and that's why you feel so ashamed. You're ashamed to be doing women's work."

Since it was spoken to him, Jan felt the helpless need to correct the slight misinterpretation. "Sort of. I'm ashamed that somebody will see me - a man - doing woman's work. Of doing something feminine. When I lived alone, I sometimes had to do this stuff - but I'd do it alone, with the shades drawn, so nobody would see me. I didn't like doing it, but I wasn't ashamed - just annoyed."

"Hmmm " Gregory said, pinching his lower lips again, thinking hard. Minutes passed, with Jan standing silently, eyes downcast, as Gregory thought. Then, slowly, Gregory began to smile.

It wasn't a pleasant smile. Not pleasant at all.

* * * * *

"Jan, I want you to pay attention." Gregory said, drawing Jan's eyes to him. Ordering Jan to remain in the living room, the skinny youth had vanished off to the basement for a couple of hours, and now he was back, carrying something in his hand. "From now on, you'll be in charge of answering the phone. When it rings, I will never answer it - you will. Do you understand?"

"Yes, Master." Jan said, after a second's hesitation. That second cost him - the wave of sheer, mindless fear at the thought of disobedience nearly sent him to his knees."

"Good. However - when you answer, you will answer by saying; 'Master Gregory's residence, Slave Jan speaking. How may I serve you?'. Do you understand?"

The hesitation was longer then a second this time - and when Jan said 'Yes, Master' this time, it was in a voice of misery, with tears of shame rolling down his cheeks.

"You're crying again, Jan. Why?" Gregory asked.

"Because it's shameful. For a man to sound so... so... well, like a slave." Jan said, hating his own weakness in the face of Gregory's emotional hold on him.

Gregory smiled. "What if they don't realize it's a man speaking?" Jan blinked. "Huh?"

Gregory's smile became devilish. "Oh, it's up to you - you can use any voice you want to. But, if you didn't sound like 'you', nobody would know it was you - a man - debasing yourself..."

Gregory held up the item he carried - what appeared to be one of those small, pressurized 'breath spray' tubes.

"This compound will raise the pitch of your voice." Gregory explained. "The more you spray, the higher and more feminine your voice will become. I warn you, though - the effects are permanent, and irreversible."

"You... want me to use that?" Jan said, hesitantly.

Gregory shrugged. "I don't care if you use it, or - if you do - how much. It's completely up to you." He handed the tube to Jan, who took it, looked at it hesitantly, then dropped it into his pocket.

"Now..." Gregory said, rising. "I'm going to take a nap. By the time I wake up, I want this room spotless. Do you understand... Slave Jan?"

"Yes, Master." Jan answered, miserably, as Gregory headed away. Helpless, he began to clean the room...

...and the shame was mingled with the pleasure of obeying Master Gregory's orders.

* * * * *

Reaching his bedroom, Gregory picked up the phone beside his bed, and tapped out a phone number.

"This is Gregory Tannelworth. I buy a large amount of equipment from... yes, that's right. Can you do me a favor? Check my current bill balance ? No, I can't hold, but you can call me back. Yes, twenty minutes would be fine. Yes, thank you."

* * * * *

Jan was just 'getting into' the rhythm of cleaning - when the phone rang.

Horrified, the hapless male looked at the phone, then hesitantly approached it as it rang a second time.

He started to reach out a hand then yanked it back.

"I.. I can't do it..." Jan said in a pitiful whimper, hyperventilating. "But.. I can't not do it, either..."

As the phone rang for the forth time, the panic was nearly enough to drive him to his knees. Two conflicting - but equal - emotions demanded diametrically opposed options.

Whimpering, Jan dug frantically into his pocket and yanked out the small metal tube. Fumbling with haste, he brought it to his mouth and sprayed it while inhaling deeply, holding the valve down for a long, deep blast.

Tossing the mostly empty tube aside, Jan grabbed the phone, struggling for composure as he spoke.

"Master Gregory..." Jan started - then stopped in utter shock, as an almost unbelievable voice emerged from between his lips - high pitched and breathy with his panic, it sounded more like a 'Cartoon Bimbo' voice then anything a real human being would have.

Fighting down shame and panic, Jan swallowed, then forced himself to start again. "Master Gregory's residence, Slave Jan speaking. How may I serve you?"

There was a very, very long pause at the other end of the line, then:

"Uh... Is Mr. Tannelworth there, uh... miss?"

Despite the shame of hearing that ridiculous, overly feminine voice emerging from his throat, Jan was suddenly overwhelmed by intense sensation of relief. The man at the other end of the phone thought he was a woman! His terrible secret was still safe!

"I'm afraid Master Gregory isn't available at the moment." Jan said with more confidence, even as he winced at that ridiculous voice. "Can I take a message?"

"Uh... just tell him he has no outstanding balance at Roy's Electronic Surplus, 'kay?" "Certainly." Jan said, then said his good-byes and hung up.

"Hello, testing, testing..." Jan said, trying to get used to the sound emerging from his throat. Shaking his head in shame - but less shame than answering the phone like that as a man would have created - he went back to his cleaning, muttering to himself in his altered voice.

* * * * *

"Please, master... I don't want to do this..."

It obviously took a lot out of Jan to make the argument, and Gregory feigned shock. "Why not? Hanging clothes out to dry is an integral part of doing laundry."

Jan bit his lower lip, then found enough nerve to continue his mild defiance - in that cartoonish soprano. "But... somebody driving by might see me doing it..."

Gregory shrugged. "Well, it's not all that likely - and the clothes do have to be hung out."

Jan nervously shifted his weight from leg to leg. "When... when I cleaned the attic earlier.." He stuttered, hesitantly. "...I noticed some women's clothes and stuff. Can I put on a big, flowing dress and a wig, so that if somebody did see me from the road, they'd think I was a woman doing the laundry."

Gregory looked thoughtful - while fighting to keep from smiling. "Well, I don't know - you'd look pretty silly, big hairy you in a dress..."

"What if I shave off all my hair? Can I do it then?" Jan's high-pitched voice held hope.

Gregory sighed, 'regretfully'. "That would use up to many razors. Now, I do have a depilatory cream that would take all your body hair away, but it's permanent, and would also leave your skin really soft and smooth, so I don't think you'd want to..."

"Oh, I do!" Jan begged. "Please, let me use that depil... dipla... anti-hair stuff, and then wear the dress and wig! Please!"

Gregory's face felt like it was going to break from the effort not to smile as he 'gave in'. "Well... all right..."

"Thank you!" Jan said - feeling relieved that he wasn't going to get caught out doing women's work. Eagerly, he accepted the bottle of depilatory, then ran upstairs. Grabbing a large, flowing, floral-print dress and a long, blonde wig from the attic, he went into the bathroom and started a shower.

Climbing in, he began to use the depilatory according to the instructions. He felt ashamed as he began to remove his body hair, but he made sure to do a good job of it. If there was a chance somebody would 'catch' him doing women's work, he wouldn't be able to go out and hang the laundry... but the mere thought of not doing what he was ordered to made him so scared and horrified that he was almost sick to his stomach. This way, he could do what needed to be done without anyone knowing it was really a man doing the woman's work...

Finishing, Jan stepped out of the shower. For speed and efficiency, he'd used the gel everywhere, except for certain parts of his eyebrows, and his eyes themselves. Now his body gleamed as he toweled off, denuded of hair, except for his lashes and his slender, arched eyebrows.

Done drying off, he awkwardly shrugged into the dress, feeling silly - but also calm, and almost 'happy', now that he was able to obey Master Gregory's commands. He'd been under the influence of the chip for only six hours or so, but the emotions it caused were so strong that Jan could barely remember the anger, disgust and hatred he'd once felt for his new master. Instead, it almost felt as if he'd always worshipped the God-like figure who was looming steadily large in his mind's eye with every passing hour.

Carefully positioning the slightly musty blonde wig on his bald pate, Jan stuck his tongue out at his ridiculous-looking reflection, then padded barefoot out of the bathroom and towards the waiting pile of wet laundry...

...completely unaware that he was humming happily to himself in his new voice.

* * * * *

"Please, Master - you have to help me..." Jan said, near tears.

"Why, what's wrong?" Gregory asked, 'surprised'. "When I decided we were going to leave the shades up all the time, you decided that wearing a dress all the time would keep you safe from being seen through a window while doing woman's work. What could be wrong now?"

"I was cleaning up the kitchen after making you your dinner," Jan explained. "...and the little TV on the counter was on. It was this show about how people can make all sorts of snap judgments, and I just happened..."

Gregory struggled to keep from grinning - for that show to 'just happen' to be on had taken him half- an-hour of splicing a VCR into the cable where it came into the house.

"...to hear that some men can make accurate guesses as to a woman's measurements from quite a long distance away." She was actually crying, now. "If one of these types of guys sees me, even from the road, he might be able to tell I'm a man doing women's work!"

"Oh, I don't think it's likely." Gregory said, playing it up. While he was supposedly napping, he'd further increased the chip's output to make Jan downright obsessive about this topic - Jan was now incapable of ignoring even the smallest 'threat' of being found out.

"Please, Master - please, help me!" Jan begged. "You.. you have to give me a woman's figure. Please!"

Gregory sighed. "Well, if that's what you want..." "Yes, please!" Jan said, eagerly.

"Follow me, then..." Gregory said, heading towards the lab in the basement.

He still couldn't believe how powerful emotional control was. Though he'd set up certain 'traps', Gregory hadn't touched Jan's mind itself, just his emotions - so that all of these ideas were coming from Jan. He was 'willingly' choosing to do this to himself, and that made it more powerful than any externally implanted 'mind-control' could ever be.

"So - what do you need me to do?" Gregory asked, as they reached the bottom of the stairs.

Jan had been considering the question for the past few hours. Of course, he had no way of knowing that the sheer, literally 'mind-bending' force of the emotions he was being subjected to had made him a raging 'mascuphobic' - scared unto death of being identified as a male.

In his 'right mind', he would have realized what this meant, and been horrified - but with his mind twisted by its own preconceived notions and fears, all he could focus on was not being caught looking like a man while he was doing women's work, and he needed to do the women's work Gregory ordered him to do. So, his mind, of its own accord, began to construct a 'better disguise' for him...

"I've got too much muscle for a woman, Master." Jan told Gregory, sincerely. "Women as slender, weak little things. Can you get rid of all this masculine muscle?"

Gregory nodded. "Sure - there's a machine over here that can convert and redistribute soft-tissue masses. It's really designed to go the other way - convert fat to muscle - but it can be used this way. The problem is... it doesn't get rid of the mass, just moves it around."

"Oh, that's okay, Master." Jan 'assured' him. "You can use the machine to give me a slender body - and the extra mass can go to my tits and ass."

"I don't know..." Gregory 'hesitated'. "That's a lot of extra mass. Perhaps you should wait until tomorrow, think this through..."

"Please, Master - do it now!" Jan begged, horrified at the extra 'risk' delaying would entail. "Please, I don't care how big my tits end up - I'll be happy with them. In fact - make them as big as you can. The bigger my tits are, the harder it will be for people to know I'm a man!"

The sight of the muscular youth earnestly begging for a huge pair of tits strained Gregory's control to the limit - but he 'solemnly' agreed to help Jan, having him strip naked and then leading him over to the machine and strapping him in. A series of tiny, sub-cellular pressure-injectors then went to work, destabilizing the material of Jan's muscle and beginning to redistribute it.

"This will take awhile." Gregory said. "I'm going to go upstairs, rather than wait. In any case, this button here will stop it - you'll have complete control over how far you want the process to go. Okay?"

"Yes, Master." Jan said, staring up at the full-length mirror above the device, watching as the slow process began. "Thank you, Master."

"No problem." Gregory said, heading for the stairs...

...and grinning broadly. When he'd installed the chip, it was to bring Jan to his knees and make him a slave - this was all just an 'extra'...

* * * * *

"Gotta fool them all..." Jan mumbled to himself, not really noticing his new voice anymore - after just a few hours, it (emotionally) felt natural to him - and comfortable. 'Safe', in fact - with a voice like that, nobody would know it was 'big, manly' him doing woman's work.

What Gregory hadn't counted on - and what Jan didn't even consciously realize - was that the very things that had driven Jan to become a muscular 'stud' were what was effectively making him 'insane' under the influence of the emotion chip.

Jan's parents were Icelandic, and very 'conservative' - his father had worked, and his mother had kept the home, 'submissive' by the standards of the American 'liberated' woman. With this as a background, Jan had received a lot of ribbing and jokes about his name when he was young, and as an unconscious defense, had started over-compensating by being 'ultra-masculine', never realizing that it all stemmed from a deep-rooted sense of inadequacy. Now, all that came together, and the only thing Jan could think about was avoiding being seen as the 'girly-man' he'd been teased so much about being when he was younger.

The fact that he was making himself more feminine by the hour didn't truly register on his consciousness, other than being a 'benefit' - the more he looked like a woman, the less people would tease him about being a man who was acting like a girl. Though illogical in the absolute sense, it made complete sense to Jan's twisted emotional outlook on life, and he lay in the machine and was comforted by the thought that he was 'hiding' his shame...

...beneath the 'disguise' of a woman.

"More... gotta stop looking like a man..." Jan muttered, oblivious. "Gotta keep anyone from knowing it's me..."

* * * * *

"Master Gregory...?"

Gregory blinked, then sat more upright in the sofa, realizing he'd drifted off. It was nearly midnight, and the day had been a long one for him, what with him getting up early to finish the work on the bio- chip.

"Master? Where are you?" Jan's improbable voice called from the kitchen, as he'd obviously just finished climbing the stairs.

Gregory frowned - what had Jan been doing downstairs. It's not like Jan could have spent all that time in the...

"Oh... ye... Gods..." Gregory said, slowly rising to his feet as his jaw dropped.

The reaction was caused by the fact that the person who had been Jan the muscle-man had just walked into the room.

"Master Gregory!" Jan said, happily, awkwardly turning full circle. "Isn't it great! Nobody looking in the window will ever realize I'm a man!"

"Uh..." Was the best Gregory could do as he gaped at the reshaped Jan.

Almost all the massive musculature Jan had possessed had been converted. Gregory assumed that Jan would stop when he'd reached the stage of 'athletic-but-feminine' - but Jan had gone further than that...

...much further.

The new Jan looked almost like a flesh-coated skeleton, so scrawny was his body. The skin was drawn almost painfully tight over his wide, and now very visible, shoulders, and his legs looked like pipe-cleaners. His waist couldn't be more than thirteen inches around. His face was a grotesque parody of a skull, the thin lips stretched in a gruesome smile of joy.

Against this sere, bony back-drop rested the new, swollen attributes of Jan's body.

His ass, especially on his now-bony, slender hips, was almost unreal in its huge, firm, round shape. Composed of denaturalized muscle, it was firmer than it would be naturally, and incredible round and fully-packed.

But even that obscenely huge, round, heart-shaped ass couldn't begin to compare with Jan's chest. For, sprouting from a too-visible ribcage was the most enormous, unrealistically firm pair of spherical tits that Gregory had ever seen. They were unbelievably, unrealistically, unimaginably huge, the size and shape of those inflatable beach-balls, and each one was tipped by a huge, thick nipple bigger than Jan's once-masculine thumbs had been.

Jan was leaning against the wall, barely able to remain upright, the massive endowments, weighing enormously on his weakened frame.

"Aren't they fantastic?" Jan asked, too brightly, bright-blue eyes shining as he fondled the enormous mounds of tit-flesh. "Nobody will know that somebody with tits like these is really a man!"

"My God, Jan!" Gregory, stunned completely out of the 'game' he'd been playing with the transformed man. "You... you're nothing but skin and bones! We have to get you back downstairs and change you back!"

Then the most shocking thing happened. Despite all the emotional programming... Jan defied him.

"No!" Jan screamed, hand reaching out to grasp his huge new tits possessively., "No, I need these tits! I have to have them! You can't make them smaller!"

Of all the possible outcomes to 'playing' with Jan's emotions, this was one that Gregory could never have foreseen. When he'd enacted his plan, it wasn't as 'evil' as it had seemed - after all, it was Friday night, and (despite what he'd told Jan), everything he'd done was reversible. He'd simply planned to spend the weekend humiliating Jan, bringing him down a notch or two - then setting everything right before Jan's friend Mark came over Monday> After all, it wasn't like this could all be kept a secret.

Sure, in books and movies you could 'enslave' somebody and get away with it, but this was real life. It certainly wasn't supposed to get this far out of hand.

Lifting his arm, Gregory looked at the watch-like control unit on his wrist - and pushed the button marked 'reset', followed by the one marked 'Off'.

* * * * *

Leaning against the wall, cradling his huge, wonderful new chest possessively, Jan shuddered as he felt the strangest 'sensation' run through him. There was no physical aspect to the 'feeling', but it felt as if he'd been picked up, spun around a dozen times, and then put back in the exact same place and position, all in an instant.

It was the sensation of all his emotional responses being reset, just as Gregory had planned to do Monday morning - and then the chip being deactivated.

There was just one problem - though the chip erased all emotional programming, it couldn't erase the experiences and thoughts Jan had had during the past fifteen hours...

* * * * *

Still shuddering at the thought of what his fooling around had unexpectedly done, Gregory adopted a conciliatory tone.

"Oh, Jan - I'm so sorry - I didn't mean for any of this to happen." Gregory said, shaken and truly apologetic. "Come on, let's get you back to normal and..."

"No!" Jan shouted, more forcefully this time - released from 'worshipping' Gregory, there was nothing to restrain him. "maybe I don't have the muscles anymore - but if you try to take away my tits, I'm going to kill you!"

Gregory's jaw dropped again. "Buh... Buh... but... You can't really want to have those tits!"

"Yes I want theme!" Jan shouted, shrilly. "I need them. I'm not Jan the Girlie-man! I'm not! I won't be! I can't let anybody know I'm really a man! I need these tits, I need them so people won't think I'm a girlie-man! No, you can't take them away, they're mine..."

"Jan!" Gregory shouted, trying to interrupt the shrill, wild rant, shaken to his core as he realized what he'd inadvertently done.

Faced with two choices that he couldn't accept, Jan had found a 'third' choice - by going completely and utterly insane. He was completely irrational, his mind having detached from logical reality to live in a fantasy-land where being a look-alike woman was 'better' than being a man who did womanly things.

People made fun of effeminate men - but not of effeminate woman. It was on this one 'logical' piece of information that Jan's new, badly skewed, outlook on life formed its foundation.

"Jan!" Gregory shouted, to break through to the ranting man - this 'new' side of Jan scared the hell out of him...

...or, rather, the fact that he'd done this, inadvertent as it might be.

"You're not taking my tits away!" Jan said, emphatically - but it wasn't mindless ranting, showing that he had heard Gregory.

Gregory bit his lower lip, and (like many people) tried to be placating to the 'crazy man'. "Okay, Jan. I won't. But I want you to look at yourself. You're much too thin. You're just skin and bones. Do you think that's healthy?"

Jan's breathing was slowing, and he seemed to be regaining some composure as he considered the question. "I.. guess not. I am feeling really weak..."

Gregory sighed in relief at reaching Jan. "Okay. Then why don't we go downstairs and transfer just some of the muscle back..."

"They're mighty tits!" Jan screamed, eyes going flat and dangerous. "you can't make them smaller! They're mine I need them!"

Badly overbalanced and weakened, Jan held on to the wall as he staggered towards the small chest he'd brought with him when he'd moved in.

"Look, Jan!" Gregory shouted, trying not to 'loose' him. "I understand - you love your tits. It's okay! But you just said that you're really weak, and..."

Jan had reached the chest, and had opened a drawer and dug around in it...

...and now he turned, a small, nickel-plated revolver grasped in his emaciated fist. It was probably a

.38, small as caliber's go - but the muzzle looked as large as the Lincoln tunnel as it lined up on Gregory's forehead.

"You're one of them!" Jan's high-pitched voice screeched madly. "You've been trying to make me a girlie-man! You're one of the ones laughing at me! Now you're trying to take away my huge, gorgeous tits!"

"No!" Gregory screamed as Jan thumbed the hammer back. In a state of utter panic, he tried to say anything that would keep him alive. "I'm on your side! I... I'm the one that showed you how to get those huge tits!"

Gregory shuddered, waiting for the shot that would kill him...

...then Jan giggled.

"Gee - you're right!" He said in a too-bright voice, swinging from murderous rage to perky cheerfulness in a heartbeat. "Silly me - I'd forgotten about that."

Then he began to frown. "But... if you're on my side... Why are you trying to get me to make my tits smaller?"

The gun, which Jan had begun to lower, slowly came back up.

"I'm not!" Gregory lied hastily, thinking quickly. "It's just that you're too thin and weak. I.. I can transfer some of the mass - but still leave your tits so big and firm by using a different method! You'll be stronger and 'fuller', with tits just as big!"

"Really?" Jan asked, brightly, the gun lowering again. "I'm so glad you're on my side, Gregory! You can help me look less like a man! You can make me look just like a woman, so nobody will know, right?"

"Uh..." Gregory hesitated.. then, as he r eyes began to go flat again, quickly said: "Yes, of course! I've helped you so far, haven't I? That's my plan - to help you do whatever you want!"

"Good!" Jan said, smiling again. "Come on, let's go downstairs and finish the job!"

Since it was obvious Jan was now madly paranoid, Gregory had no choice but to play along until some sort of opportunity presented itself. Forcing a smile to his lips, he feigned enthusiasm. "Yeah, sure! Let's do it!"

* * * * *

"Okay... we're done.." Gregory said, his voice horse with absolute exhaustion. "Come.. come take a look..."

"Oh, boy..." Jan said, eagerly, as she rose from the chair she'd been sitting in for the 'final touches'. An eager look on her face, she approached the full-length mirror...

...with the gun still clamped firmly in her fist, the barrel aimed unwaveringly at Gregory's head.

They'd been up all night, Gregory working like crazy to fulfill Jan's insane demands - and the threat of dying had been motivation enough for the scientist to find the means necessary from his equipment to make Jan over into something nearly indistinguishable from a biological woman.

Jan was a raving lunatic, and paranoid to boot. A couple of attempts to dissuade Jan from going all the way female - which was irreversible - had made Jan untrusting, and all the work had been done at gun-point. Gregory was many things, but he wasn't that much of a risk-taker. Swallowing his guilt at what he'd done, swallowing his own objections, he'd gone ahead and done everything Jan had insisted, despite his growing exhaustion.

Now, he watched with limp self-hatred as the new woman he'd created approached the mirror for a look at her new body.

With a smile on her new lips, the insane new woman surveyed her new body.

She was balancing on tip-toe, a necessity since her dainty, feminine new feet had been specially modified to make wearing high-heels easy and comfortable for her - since 'A man would never wear high-heels, so if I can wear them and look like I'm used to it, nobody will know I'm really a guy.'

Above her nicely-formed new ankles, a pair of sexy, smoothly muscled legs seemed to rise on up forever, looking unnaturally, eerily 'perfect' in the most sexual way - the result of hard work by Gregory to accede to Jan's demand that they be that way, a pair of sexy, ultimately feminine legs that could never be mistaken for men's legs.

Those legs gracefully merged into a wide, womanly set of hips that supported the incredibly full, firm ass, before they narrowed to a waist with that same, incredible, thirteen-inch diameter. Above that tiny waist, those massive, gravity- and imagination-defying globes hung on a slenderized ribcage below much narrower shoulders.

Those shoulders led to a long, swan-like neck - which in turn lead upwards to a face out of a wet dream.

It wasn't 'cute', it wasn't 'pretty', and it definitely wasn't 'beautiful', in the classic sense. Instead, the face was carved out of pure, utter feminine sensuality.

It was fairly wide, with a strong-yet-feminine jaw and well-defined cheeks. That face boasted an incredibly full, luscious, eerily sensual mouth that would have been 'too much of a good thing' on a more 'heart-shaped' face, but was well-balanced on her new face. Above that was a almost haughty nose.

Her eyes had been darkened, and her lids made 'heavier', with much longer lashes framing them - giving her a challenging, sensual gaze that was sultry and seductive in a way that 'a man would never be'. It made her very gaze a sexual challenge to every man she might glance at - and if she tried to make a sexy 'come hither' gaze, the effect became mind-blowing.

The face was surrounded by a thick, silky mane of dark-brown 'hair' with reddish highlights, the curvy mass spilling sown over her narrow but well-yet-femininely muscled shoulders. Of artificial origin, the strands were actually in the follicles of her head, and attached to the tiny stands of stubble in the scalp, which would allow it to grow out and eventually be replaced by real hair, though Jan's naturally blonde, straight hair would have to be dyed and curled to match the mane she'd requested.

In fact, most of her new figure was 'artificial' in one way or another, giving her an unrealistic appearance, as if she were a sexual fantasy brought to life, rather than a real woman...

...which, in many ways, was nothing but the truth. However, the 'unrealistic' effect was just subtle enough that people would be able to notice it, but not put their finger on the precise nature of it...

...except for her unrealistically massive bust line, of course, and that would be accepted as the result of saline or silicone.

In short, Jan never had to worry about being 'discovered' as being male. By her insane sense of logic, she'd 'defused' that threat...

...by becoming completely female, right down to the realistic-looking and fully-functional pussy between her taut, silken thighs. A full medical exam would reveal that she wasn't 'really' female, and she was, of course, sterile - but to any other test, she was indeed female.

She'd even had Gregory alter her vocal chords - permanently. Now she spoke in an incredibly sexy, throaty voice that was pure, feminine sensuality.

"Oh... that's perfect..." Jan said, using her free hand to fondle one huge, firm, tit. Her large, thick nipples were erect. "Oh, nobody will ever guess who I really am. Finally... I'm almost safe..."

"Almost?" Gregory asked, groggily.

She turned and eyed him distrustfully. "Of course - to be perfectly safe, I also have to act like a woman, all the time. I can't let anybody have the slightest hint of the truth, or the might figure it out." She cocked her head, tapping the barrel of the revolver against her full, sensual lips. "In fact - I'd better make sure I can pass in discussions with women, about everything. Learning how to dress and wear make-up like a woman shouldn't take that long - but it'll take years for me to catch up on all the sexual techniques a real woman would know."

Gregory's jaw dropped. Slowly, Jan began to approach Gregory, trying to mimic a sexy, female walk. "Drop your pants, Gregory..." She said in her sultry voice. "I need to start practicing sucking men off."

She was a picture of pure, carnal sensuality - but knowing the truth was the ultimate turn off for the slender scientist.

"I.. I can't..." He stammered, eyes fixed on the gun. "I'm sorry.. but I.. I just don't feel that way..." Slowly, the new, purely sexual creature let her hear loll to the other side...

...then her hand suddenly lashed out, and the metal of the gun slammed into the point of Gregory's chin. He reeled back, taken by surprise...

..and Jan slammed the gun down on the back of his head, sending him into darkness.

* * * * *

"Rise and shine, big boy..."

The incredibly sexy voice pulled Gregory out of a deep sleep, and he opened his eyes...

...to find himself staring at a pair of incredibly sexy legs, encased in black nylons. At the lower edge of his vision, Gregory could see a pair of black platform shoes, with six-inch high stiletto heels and a one-inch platform.

Slowly, Gregory's eyes slid upwards, over those incredible, mind-boggling legs - to a black leather skirt that fit like a second skin, starting just above the perfectly shaped knees and hugging the full hips before being pulled tight around the tiny waist by a black leather belt.

Above the skin-tight skirt, a very dark red leather bustier-style top started. With black leather 'lacing' running up the front, the bodice-style top was quite adjustable - the lacing was pulled tight to have the garment conform to the tiny waist and small ribcage, but was looser over where the garment struggled to contain the massive, mouth-watering globes of her tits, cleavage visible through the lacing that held the wide-spread halves of the upper garment in place. The wide straps of the sleeveless garment framed the upper curves of those massive globes, drawing the eye up to a face that was carefully and artistically made up.

"I went shopping this morning..." Jan said, licking her dark, gloss-red lips in an overtly sensual manner. "What do you thing?"

"Oh.. God... You're... hot, Jan!" Gregory moaned, helplessly, his hard-on almost painful under the bathrobe he wore...

"You...!" Gregory said, eyes widening as realization hit. "You implanted a chip in me!"

"Yes - I read your notes..." Jan confirmed smugly. "By the way - I've decided to go by 'Shanelle' now..."

Gregory nodded, mutely - while trying to deal with the almost painful level of pure sexual desire he was feeling for the transformed Jan/Shanelle. Despite the fact that he knew the feelings were 'artificial', it didn't lessen the impact.

He was more incredibly, painfully aroused by this 'woman' then he'd ever been in his life.

"So.. how about letting me give you that blow-job now?" Shanelle said, hungrily, as she used her slender, long-nailed fingers to start undoing his bathrobe.

"Please... don't..." Gregory said, weakly - but he made no move to stop her as she knelt beside him. Despite the intellectual disgust he was feeling, knowing her origins, his pure, painful sexual desire for her kept him from being able to resist, physically.

"Don't?" Shanelle asked, running one dark-red painted nail ever-so-lightly over his raging hard-on. "Don't what? Don't do... this?"

She lowered her head... and slowly pushed her tightly puckered lips down his shaft...

Gregory shuddered in disgusted ecstasy - or ecstatic disgust. The two feeling were so equally matched as to be almost indistinguishable, locking him into a state of paralysis...

Then again - he didn't have to do anything as the new woman wrapped on dainty hand around the base of his cock - and began to piston her head up and down, tightly sealed lips massaging the highly sensitive shaft of his rigid cock, while her long, supple tongue danced over the crown.

Gregory moaned in pleasure.

Shanelle moaned in the back of her throat in response, making it sound as if she were thoroughly enjoying herself - when, in fact, she was completely oblivious to any of the physical sensations, other than as information. Her only goal was to suck cock as well as a 'real' woman could.

It didn't take long at all before Gregory came, dumping a load of cum into the new woman's mouth, which she swallowed - without really tasting it.

"Oh, that was wonderful." She lied, convincingly. "Now, why don't you play with my tits until you're hard again."

Gregory looked at the transformed woman, hating himself...

...as he reached out and began to unlace her top.

Even as Gregory began to fondle her tits, Shanelle decided she didn't really trust him, even with the chip. She'd wait until she found a couple of other men to help her train, then she'd find a way to ensure he wouldn't cause any more trouble...

..while keeping him around. He might become useful in the future, though not as a sexual partner. As far as that went, Gregory was definitely 'under-equipped'...

* * * * *

Mark sighed and rang the doorbell again.

"Come on, Jan.." the vaguely handsome black man muttered, looking at his watch.

Then the door swung open - and all thoughts of being late for the game flew from his mind as Mark found himself gazing at the most immense pair of tits he'd ever seen, thrust half-out of the bathrobe loosely tied around the most completely sultry woman he'd ever seen.

"Uh..." Mark gaped - then shook his head. 'Is Jan here?'

"You must be mark..." the woman purred in a voice that sped up his already rapidly-forming hard-on. "Please, come in..."

It didn't take much to convince Mark to follow her delicious ass as it swayed back and forth from the high-heels she wore.

"I noticed you staring at my tits " She purred as she lead him into the living room.

"Oh, uh... sorry " mark stammered, blushing.

"Don't be - I love having men admire my tits." The woman said, pulling her robe open and openly fondling her monstrous bust.

Mark's jaw dropped as he gazed at her nude body.

"By the way..." the woman said, causally, still fondling her huge endowments. "My name's Shanelle...

would you like something to drink?"

it took as second for the question to register. "uh.. sure "

"Have a seat." She told him, then wiggled and swayed into the kitchen, returning a minute later with a glass of wine. She handed it to him.

"Drink up." She instructed, and Mark numbly downed the glass of liquid - while in the kitchen, she'd disposed of the robe completely.

A moment later, Mark's eyes took on a glassy appearance as the hypnotic drug Shanelle had Gregory develop took effect.

Shanelle's sensual smile faded. "Mark, I want you to listen closely." She told her friend. "It's me - Jan. Except I want you to forget I was ever a man named Jan. I am Shanelle, a woman, and always have been. In fact, you've been seeing me for quite some time now. I'm the sexiest woman you've ever met, and you'll do anything for me, just so I'll fuck you - which I do, all the time. Do you understand?"

"Yes.." mark agreed, numbly.

"good." Shanelle said "Now, if I ever say 'Mark, critical', you will fall back into a trance. You will not remember anything at all that happens when you're in that trance." - then snapped her fingers.

Mark blinked - then smiled. He reached out and pulled Shanelle's luscious body tightly to his. This kissed, hungrily.

"I've been so horny all morning, just thinking about you, babe." Mark said, utterly convinced that he was basically her willing sex-slave. He'd do anything to touch her luscious body.

"Hmmm... I'm glad to hear it..." Shanelle said, fondling his hard cock through his pants. She began to unbutton his pants, and he hurriedly kicked off his shoes and stripped out of his shirt.

With a smile, Shanelle swung one luscious leg over - and sat down facing him, impaling herself on his hard cock and moaning in 'pleasure'.

'Fuck me, stud!' She commanded - and began to drive herself up and down on his cock with flexes of her shapely legs.

Moaning, Mark fondled her huge, bouncing tits as she rode him, hard and fast, her lips fixed in a fairly authentic-looking smile as she emulated all the sound of passion.

When she felt mark tense up and begin to cum, Shanelle quickly faked a spectacular orgasm, making sure it lasted until well after Mark was finished.

Then, still impaled on his slowly softening cock, Shanelle said "Mark, critical." Instantly, Mark fell back into that daze.

"Now..." Shanelle instructed, avidly. "Tell me how the sex could have been better..."

* * * * *

Officer John Mahoney knocked on the door of the old farmhouse with a sigh, wondering what sort of wild goose-chase he was on now.

It had all started when some company had called, saying that one of their employees, a man named Jan Johansson, hadn't been in to work in over a week, and they couldn't get a hold of him.

Suspecting it was some sort of wild-goose chase, he'd done a little look-see, and found that a man named Jan Johansson did live in the area, and had two parking tickets.

But - when he'd gone to the complaining company, the entire staff had claimed, with apparent sincerity, that no Jan Johansson had ever worked there, and they'd never heard of the person.

Now, Mahoney had gone to the listed address, to get some answers to this.

He was just reaching up to knock again, when the door swung open, revealing...

...the most incredible-looking woman he'd ever seen. Dressed in a skin-tight black leather dress that must have been custom-made to fit her outrageous proportions, she stood framed in the doorway with her enormous tits rising and falling hypnotically.

"Uh..." Mahoney said. "I.. I'm looking for a Jan Johansson..."

If he'd been looking at her face, he would have been surprised to see her smile slip, replaced by a look of hatred and panic - but his gaze was further south than that, and when he did manage to haul his eyes upward, the smile was back in place.

"Oh, well - why don't you come in?" She said in an utterly sexy voice. "Can I get you something to drink, officer...?"

* * * * *

"Damn...!" Shanelle cursed, as she awkwardly made her way down the stairs, her tight skirt and high- heels impeding her progress. "This is getting complicated!"

In the living-room, Mahoney sat rigidly, a glazed look in his eyes as Shanelle went for some advice on what to do.

Reaching the bottom of the stairs, Shanelle began to stalk towards the figure in the center of the room. "There's a cop upstairs asking awkward questions. You have to help me figure out how to handle this!"

Slowly, the figure turned atop the computer chair.

The person who had once been Gregory licked her incredibly full, soft lips, her huge, blue eyes unable to reflect the intelligence inside the re-shaped head.

"Gee, Shanelle..." 'Gina' said with a giggle, both the high-pitched voice and 'brainless' speech-patterns a 'gift' from Shanelle. "...why should I, like, help you?"

Shanelle sighed - with the 'lust' gone since the conversion, Gina was much harder to control, even if the severe phobia she'd had implanted kept her from ever telling anyone the truth. However, she'd made sure to 'instill' another emotional control to use as a 'bartering chip'.

"I'll tell you what - you help me with this... and I'll let you go out and spend a whole weekend seducing and fucking as many men as you can in forty-eight hours."

"Like, okay!" Gina said, with a big smile at the thought of getting the sex she now so desired. She rose to her sky-scraper heels. "Let's go, like, see what I can, like, do - you know?"

Shanelle grinned. "I know."

Following the buxom, leggy blonde 'ditz' Gregory had become, Shanelle had to smile at her own stroke of genius. After all, she was trying to learn how to act just like a woman, and that included things that any woman would have experienced, growing up female.

Which is why she'd 'given' herself a Barbie Doll to play with - even if it was a living, breathing, sex- crazed life-sized one...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: While two male scientists play with their new mutation machines, one of them is mistakenly turned into a woman... but luck has it that they fall in love with each other and continue their experiments together.

Eve-Ita

By Gunslinger

As the curvature of the spheroid planet's own mass blocked the lowering rays of the primary star, the shadows merged together in the gathering gloom of twilight, the brilliant blue sky of late afternoon giving way to the velvety navy-blue of evening, the first glimmering diamonds of light appearing in the calm, dark sky.

As the light faded from the sky, sensors mounted within the Stress-Crete posts that supported the metal-and-glass atop them registered the gathering darkness, and sent a signal through to the central switching system. Power flowed from the generating station, miles away, and into the switching system's main bus, to be distributed from there to the strategically-placed lights throughout the compound. In the sparsely populated parking lot, eight-head lamps flared to life, bringing to life the orange-yellow glow of Sodium Arc-Lights to bathe the lot in man-made brilliance. On the carefully landscaped lot, hidden by shrubbery or stonework, pure white flood-lights also came to life, bathing the building in a halo of angelic light that gleamed from the white marble, gleaming chrome, and mirror-tinted windows that made up the determinedly high-tech building. Out past the guard-shack on the main access road, other lights flared to life, the beams drawing golden highlights from the brass letters that spelled out the name of the corporation within: GENETECH, INC.

It was a artfully constructed effect of light and shadow, a beautiful display that was further enhanced by the building's location atop a small rise on the east side of the small city, it's reflective windows staring down upon the small valley which contained the city.

Deep within this Temple of Science, behind the extravagantly decorated offices, lay the heart of the company - the modern, well- equipped labs in which dedicated teams of men and women worked on sciences barely heard of by the general populace. It was one of these teams, working long and hard, that were on the trail of a new serum, one which would change the very face of humanity as we know it...

Unfortunately, they are still at least five years away from the break-through that will make the theories reality. Since we, quite simply, don't have that much time to follow their progress, let us, instead, turn our attention elsewhere - to a crumbling red brick building some forty miles to the south, nestled within the slowly decaying outskirts of a once-vital downtown section now given mostly to pimps, prostitutes and pushers.

In the dim light of twilight, the two-story building rose from the surrounding decay like an aging empress, its once elaborate facade stained by age and whether, its turn-of-the-century brickwork slowly crumbling. Just below the peak of the somewhat sagging roof, the green-tarnished brass letters spelled out: THIST EWAIT E COM UNI Y T EATERE.

It was in the shadow of this aging theater that a tall, rangy figure slipped down the alley, moving nervously in the fading light. Clad in worn Levi's and a patched denim jacket, the dusky figure reached the heavy metal door at the rear of the building, its once-black paint scared and peeling from neglect.

Compared to the rest of the building, the Electronic Surplus keypad next to the door looked newer the next week, even if its dull stainless finish and white 'touch-tone' keypad were second-generation technology. With sure fingers, the figure punched in a eight-digit code, and a muted buzz sounded from behind the panel as the red LED winked out and the green one blinked on, a muffled thud of locks being released coming through the still-solid door.

With a quick yank, the figure heaved the door open, slipping into the building as the door closed and locked behind him.

Shivering slightly in the cool air inside the building, Ricardo Jose Dina - RJ, to his friends - started to walk towards the bright white light that glowed from around the corner...

...and promptly tripped over a garbage can, sending various bits of useless electronic components flying as he slammed against the far wall, reeled backwards, and tripped over a empty case of beer, creating a loud clatter as the dark-brown bottles tumbled from the overturned case and rolled around on the concrete floor.

Cursing - loudly - in a mixture of English and Spanish, RJ extracted himself from the litter of failed electronic components and beer bottles, shaking one fist at the burned-out bulb in the ceiling fixture. Still muttering, he carefully picked his way across the obstacle course the short hallway had become and rounded the corner, climbing three groaning metal steps up to the back-stage area of the old theater, where his friend Eric was sitting in front of a computer, the blue-white glow of the monitor bathing his skinny, pale body and reflecting off the wire-rimmed glasses that sat in front of his dark, intent eyes. Dressed in dark gray slacks and a white, button-down short-sleeve shirt, Eric's dark hair was cropped close to the scalp, and his skinny, short body was tense with attention as he gazed at the computations scrolling up on the monitor of his second-hand P-100 computer.

"God-damn it, Eric!" RJ swore, loudly, stalking over to the coffee-maker on a folding table set up in the corner of the large, mostly open room. "I damn near broke my neck coming in here! You gotta get that light-bulb replaced."

"Uh-huh..." Eric murmured, fingers flying over the keyboard. "I mean it!" RJ insisted. "I've been telling you that for a week."

"Yeah..." Eric agreed in a preoccupied voice, watching the computer simulation his typing had started running.

RJ sighed, then spoke to his friend in a calmer voice. "Hey, you want some of this god-awful coffee?" "Huh...?" Eric muttered. "Oh, yeah - sure. Double-double..."

"I know how you take your coffee, idiot." RJ said, in good natured ribbing. He fixed the coffee the way his best friend liked it, then added a couple of packets to his own steaming cup after a tentative sip of the bitter liquid. Satisfied, he picked up a Styrofoam cup in each hand and walked towards the work-station. As he did so, he passed several tall, complicated looking devices standing against the back wall. The main component of each was a steel cylinder with glass view ports, which had once been Navy-Issue Decompression Chambers, long since phased out for more modern ones. Each of the five cylinders was heavily modified with added on electronic and chemical components. They were in various states of reconstruction, with the two chambers at either end almost complete, lacking only cover plates over exposed electronic 'guts', showing IC boards, bread-bored hookups and snarls of soldered wires looking like multicolored spaghetti.

"Looks like 'Eve' is almost ready..." RJ remarked, handing Eric his coffee. Eric jerked a bit, taking the cup and looking up at RJ, blinking in surprise. "Oh, hey RJ." Eric said, grinning. "I didn't hear you come in..."

RJ rolled his eyes and sighed. "Geez, man - dedication and concentration are good things... but there's such a thing as taking it too far."

Eric blinked in confusion. "Huh?"

RJ waved a hand. "Never mind. Anyway... I was saying that 'Eve' looks about ready to go."

Grinning fondly, Eric pushed the office-surplus chair back from the desk and rested a hand against the burnished brass metal of the chamber nearest to him. Above the Plexiglas shield that replaced the heavy air-tight hatch that had been the original 'door', a hand-painted sign read 'EVE', and - below that - 'ITA CHAMBER'

These chambers were Eric's brainstorm. ITA - Isolinear Transformative Array - was something he'd come up with one night after watching a cheesy B-movie, in which a mixture of radiation and chemicals had caused a person to 'mutate' into some horrible monster, a sort of ironic twist on the then little-feared cancer that such things did, in fact, cause.

However, that cheesy movie had left him thoughtful. What if you could actually control the effects of radiation and chemical exposure to cause beneficial mutations? That is - to heal?

That was where the chambers had come from. There were five of them, since each chamber had to be hard-wired for specific uses. The 'Eve' chamber was for women of Caucasian descent, with 'Adam' serving the function for men. There was also two chambers - 'Malcolm X' and 'Marsha Y' - for men and women of Negroid descent.

The fifth chamber was a specially-wired 'recording' one, designed for any gender or genetic background. Simply, it did the diagnostic scanning, which was then fed into the computer, where the 'flaws' would be corrected for, then transmitted to the correct chamber. If this worked, there would be chambers for Asians, Hispanics, etc... but budget restraints limited Eric to the five he had now.

"Yes - she'd almost ready to go." Eric said, cheerfully. "In fact, her hardware's already finished. I'm just working on the software, especially the link between the Diagnostic Chamber to Eve."

The Diagnostic chamber had been ready for a few weeks now, even though the software wasn't quite ready yet. The next easiest to finish was Eve, and soon it'd be ready for testing - once all the software was in place. RJ had wondered if Eric had finally flipped his lid when the skinny scientist had first explained the concept of the ITA system... but now he was a firm believer in Eric's genius.

The scrawny scientist patted the metal hide of the chamber again... and, from inside, came a most definitely metallic 'clank' followed by a short, angry buzzing sound.

"Damn!" Eric swore, pushing up from the chair and looking inside the darkened chamber. A small cover plate rested on the floor of the chamber, a circuit board dangling from the exposed opening, several of the 'alligator clip' connections swinging free as the shorter wires pulled free when the board dropped to the extent of the longer wires.

Grabbing the flashlight from the drawer of the battered metal desk on which his computer rested, he swung open the Plexiglas door and stepped inside the dim interior, thumbing the switch of the flashlight...

...and cursing again when nothing happened. He hefted the flashlight, realizing it felt much too light. Gripping the knurled end, he twisted the cap free and looked in the hollow body of the flashlight...

...at the slip of paper inside. Frowning, the dark-haired young man pulled the paper out and looked at what was written on it: Buy more batteries.

(P.S. - Replace the bulb in the entrance way, too...)

Eric blinked... then remembered the batteries in this flashlight died about a week ago, and he'd written himself a note to remind him to buy new ones.

What was this about the bulb in the entrance, though...?

Well, that wasn't important now. Sighing, Eric tossed the useless flashlight aside as he stepped out of the booth. Walking around the back of it, he flipped the large, red switch at the back upward... and there was a low hum as the machine began to draw power from the high-voltage lines originally designed for the theater lighting, one of the main reasons he was renting the dilapidated building.

The fact that the rent was also dirt-cheap didn't hurt, either...

Walking back to the front of the unit, Eric hit the button that swung the door back open. Electronically controlled the door had automatically closed when the power had come on... and now it closed again behind him as he stepped inside, as it was designed to do. Muttering to himself, Eric re-connected the wires in the bright fluorescent light from the fixture built into the roof of the cylinder, then put the circuit board back into place and began to tighten the thumb-screws on the cover plate...

...when the computer, outside the cylinder, 'bleeped'.

Eric had half a second to realize his error... then the software version he was running, 'safe' while the unit was off, send the command signals to circuits that would have been dormant if not for his mistake in turning on the unit.

Eric screamed as the devices within the walls of the ITA unit came to life. Scavenged microwave, TV and X-Ray electron guns came to life, on carefully modulated power settings and frequencies, while chemicals were added to the slightly compressed air the valves were pumping into the chamber.

Outside the chamber, RJ froze for an instant as a blinding light filled the chamber with Eric inside, the unit's hum rising in volume and pitch as it worked... and then RJ realized what was happening, looking around frantically for a way to shut the system off. The computer was too busy performing calculations and operations to accept input - the safety feature to shut down the system in case of a problem had been deactivated by Eric, since he was 'only' running a 'safe' test on a supposedly inactive pod.

By the time RJ realized that Eric had gone behind the pod to turn it on, it was too late - he'd just begun to walk around the pod when the humming died, the garish blue-white light that had filled the pod fading as the system cycled down.

RJ hurried back around the front of the pod... then stopped dead at what he saw through the Plexiglas shield. The blinding light had prevented him from seeing Eric while the machine was running, and now he gaped at his friend, standing in the pod with a stunned look on his face.

There was a lot to see - since his clothing had apparently disintegrated, forming a mildly steaming pile of ashes around his feet. That wasn't all that pile of ashes was made of, either - because it appeared that every single strand of hair on Eric's body and head had also disintegrated, leaving him completely denuded of hair, as well as stark naked. Even his glasses were missing.

"Well, are you just going to stand there, staring, or are you going to open the door?" Eric asked, his peevish voice muffled by the Plexiglas.

RJ considered that for a second, then decided that Eric might get a little pissed off he left him in there long enough to ruin and grab a camera. Sighing at the missed opportunity (but filing the image away, mentally, for a good 'embarrassing Story' later on down the road), RJ hit the button that swung the door open, letting his naked friend escape the pod.

"Are you all right?" RJ asked him.

Eric looked at him incredulously. "Are you kidding? I mean - really!" he huffed, angrily. "Do you have any idea how much a new pair of glasses costs these days?"

"I know..." RJ confessed, abashed. "I just figured you had a spare pair." Eric blushed and cleared his throat. "Uh... I kinda sat on them..."

RJ chuckled.

"Hey!" Eric said, defensively. "It's not funny. Now I'm gonna be as blind as a..."

The short, completely bare young man paused, an expression of surprise crossing his face. "Hey! I can see you!" RJ blinked. "Huh?"

Eric looked around, a broad grin crossing his features. "I don't believe it - I can see everything perfectly!"

"Well - then you don't need your glasses after all." RJ said, thoughtfully. "All in all, I think this means that it was a good thing the accident happened. Right?"

"Well, let's see..." Eric said, as he looked around for some clothes to put on. "I've proved that the machine works, that it can correct something as inherent as a congenital eyesight flaw, and that, while mildly uncomfortable, the treatment isn't painful. " He paused. "On the other hand, I'm as bald as a new-born baby. Hell, balder."

RJ frowned. "Is 'balder' even a word?"

"If it wasn't before, it is now." Eric explained, with a grin. "After all, I just used it, didn't I? All in all, I think things went well, I guess." "But they could have gone weller." RJ pointed out.

Eric, mumbling, sorted through a rack of costumes left over when the building was abandoned. "Weller? You can't say that. 'Well' is an absolute. There's no such thing as 'weller'."

"Oh. I see." RJ said, nonplused. "Then I guess everything is the wellest we can expect."

Eric opened his mouth to argue... then shook his head and went back to rooting through the costumes. There was some rattling of hangers, some shifting of clothing, then Eric stepped from behind the racks...

...and RJ burst out laughing.

"Cut it out!" Eric complained, blushing furiously. "It was the only thing on the rack that fit!"

"You jutht look tho thpectacular...!" RJ managed between laughs, lith... lisping outrageously as he rolled his eyes and made a limp- wristed motion with is right hand. "It'th jutht tho you, dahhh-ling!"

Then he collapsed in fits of helpless laughter, leaving his friend to glower at him resentfully.

Eric was short, skinny and pale - hardly the most threatening looking person on the face of the planet. However, his 'angry stare' lost any power it might have had when you added in the fact that he was dressed in a short-sleeve red-with-white-polka-dot 'Farmer's Daughter' dress that hung on his skinny frame, flaring out into a short, full skirt that came to mid-thigh and revealed white lacy 'petticoats' inside.

"Stop it, RJ - it's not that funny...!" Eric commanded, blush deepening.

"It... It is..." RJ gasped, rolling on the floor, face red as he gasped for air to both laugh and speak. "...with... with the... shoes...!" And then he was into gales of full-fledged laughter again, unable to speak.

"Shoes?" Eric said, frowning. "What the hell are you talking about?"

Unable to speak, RJ jabbed a finger in the direction of Eric's feet, and he leaned forward to get a look past the frilly, puffy skirt of the dress...

Eric stared in wide-eyed disbelief at the pair of shoes enclosing his feet. White patent-leather pumps with a two-inch platform and seven-inch high stiletto heels.

"What the hell...?" Eric said, stunned... and, like a Polaroid photo developing, suddenly remembered putting the shoes on. He'd been thinking that his feet were cold, and he'd tried on a pair of rubber boots marked as being his size... but they'd been way to big. Then he'd caught sight of the high-heeled shoes and pulled them on, finding that they fit his feet perfectly, even though they should have been too small...

...and then he'd 'forgotten' about it, teetering atop the heels as he tottered out from behind the rack of clothing without noticing the fact he was struggling to balance on the slender heels.

Now he remembered it as clear as day.

"I don't see what's so damned funny." He told RJ, confused. "I still think they look fantastic."

"Yeah... Right..." RJ gasped... then got a good look at Eric's serious, annoyed face, and the urge to laugh suddenly died. "Wait a second - you're serious, aren't you?"

Eric blinked in confusion. "Of course I am. Sure, they're a little awkward, but they make my calves look fantastic." Slowly, RJ climbed up off the floor. "Eric... what are you talking about?"

Eric's face was as wreathed in confusion as RJ's was. "Huh? What do you mean? I just said that these shoes look my legs look better."

RJ instinctively glanced down at Eric's smooth, bare legs... then quickly glanced away, flushing, as he realized that, smooth and perched atop high heels, Eric's legs did look surprisingly feminine - even pretty nice, which was pretty damned disturbing.

"What are you... a closet homo, or transvestite, or something?" RJ asked, shuddering at the fact he'd found another guys' legs kinda cute.

"Huh? What's that supposed to mean?" Eric asked, shaking his head.

"What do you think it means, dumbass?" RJ asked, glancing up at his friend. "Do you hear yourself? You're wearing women's shoes and saying how nice they make your... holy shit!"

"What now?" Eric demanded, confused and angry and upset. "Your eyes!" RJ said, pointing. "They're... they're blue!"

"So?" Eric asked in an annoyed, higher-pitched tone. "What the hell is wrong with blue eyes?" "But... But... Your eyes are brown!" RJ stammered.

Eric snorted. "That's redic..."

Suddenly, his annoyed expression began to fade into one of sheer amazement as he realized - RJ was right. When RJ had said that his eyes were blue, it hadn't struck Eric as the least bit odd. Nothing about that comment had seemed at all wrong... but when RJ had pointed out that Eric's eyes had been brown... that had felt just as right - and had memories to back it up, too.

Spinning, Eric hurried over to the mirror in the corner of the room where his cot was laid out. He stared at his reflection in the mirror, mind spinning.

His eyes were, indeed, a rich, clear blue - and the strange thing was, that looked perfectly right to Eric. Seeing his blue-eyed reflection evoked a sense of 'everything is right with the world' sort of thing... yet he could also clearly remember having brown eyes, which made him feel decidedly strange - especially since, when he pictured himself with brown eyes, he felt 'weird', as he might if he'd suddenly put colored contacts in his eyes and then kept catching sight of himself before getting used to seeing himself that way...

"Fuck, dude - how the hell did you do that!" RJ gasped, causing Eric to turn around, a questioning look on his face.

"You practically jogged to the mirror - yet you didn't have any problem at all with the heels. Like you've practiced walking in heels or something!"

"Again with the heels!" Eric sighed in annoyance. "What is it with you and my shoes? Of course I can walk in high heels! I've been doing it ever since I was.."

His annoyed expression faded as it dawned on him that, even though walking in heels felt right, he'd been only doing it for the past five minutes or so, not for the 'years and years' that it felt like, emotionally.

"Holy shit - and your legs are sexy, too!" RJ gasped, pointing.

"Thanks." Eric said, with a grin, twisting slightly to look down at his smooth, sensuously contoured legs with pride. They were long and smooth and shapely, and...

..and they hadn't been that way ten minutes ago. The easy smile of pride vanished as confusion set in.

"Your voice!" RJ said, slumping into a chair as his legs went like rubber on him. "There's something happening to your voice! It's getting higher! What the fuck is happening to you, man?"

the first answer that sprang to Eric's mind was 'nothing' - he felt fine. Everything seemed to be just the way it should be...

..except that when RJ pointed stuff out to him, Eric's memories indicated that he was different then he'd been a few minutes ago. For some reason, his... his 'intellect' and emotions were changing in such a way that at any given instant, everything seemed completely normal - it was just his memories, spurred by an outside, impartial observer, that pointed out that this wasn't the case...

...and that was enough to make the connection in Eric's brain.

"The 'Eva'-ITA!" Eric said, snapping fingers that he didn't notice were slimmer than a few minutes before. "It's designed to 'heal' women, and with the system set on a default 'generic' female template, it's altering my physiology to 'correct' what it sees as defects - my masculinity!" He blinked. "Huh... I guess I underestimated the power of the system. It's not only re-writing my genetic codes to correct the mistakes, but it's altering the synapse patterns in my brain to match. It's not effected long-term 'stored' memory because it's not being constantly activated... but the more I remember, the more my brain-wave patterns with be changed. Basically, every single time I think about anything, there's an automatic, subconscious 'shift' to the 'correct' point of view."

"Uh... Huh?" Eric said. "I.. I think I understood the part about your body... but what do you mean it's subconsciously changing you mind?"

"Changing my mind...?" Eric asked, confused - then remembered that he'd just been discussing that, even though it felt all wrong. He frowned and tried to recapture the train of thought, which made him feel as if he.. well, as if he were deliberately lying or something. Even though it sounded 'logical', it felt so very wrong as he tried to explain it. "Uh.. well, it's sort of like I've been.. well, I hate to use the word 'brainwashed', but I can't think of a better one. Anyway, every time I have a..., uh, a 'wrong' thought, I guess I have to call it, then my subconscious makes me change it to one that I can accept as being 'right'. So, I'm constantly making myself.. making myself think like a woman. No, wait - that's not quite right. I mean I'm making myself think the way I think a woman thinks, if that makes any sense..."

he trailed off, his mind ties up in a logical knot that left him feeling dirty.. then blinked and shook his head.

"What was I just saying?" He asked RJ, in a confused, but chipper, tone. "I swear, if my head weren't attached, I'd lose it."

"You.. you were talking about how you're being turned into a woman..." RJ said, staring at him. Erica laughed. "What's that supposed to mean, you silly goose..."

Then she.. no, wait, he.. trailed off in confusion, as he realized that RJ was right...

...or was he? It was hard to keep in mind. What felt right warred with what memories seemed to say was right, leaving her feeling confused, uneasy, anxious.

RJ, for his part, was staring at his slowly changing friend. In addition to dainty little feet in high heels and absolutely spectacular, sexy legs, Eric now sported slender, feminine hands. His face was somewhat different, too, but it was a bunch of little changes that was hard to put a finger on any specific one - but his face definitely looked more feminine. In addition, there was now a light fuzz of honey-colored hair on his scalp, and RJ could literally see it slowly growing longer.

"Holy shit,. Man..." RJ said in a hoarse voice that sounded distant to his own ears. "You.. you're becoming a friggin' woman!"

"And what's wrong with women, of Mr. High-And-Mighty Chauvinist?" Eric asked, archly, in a voice that was most definitely feminine. "Bu.. But you're a guy!" RJ insisted. "Or, at least - you were a guy!"

"Oh, don't be..." Eric started.. then, again, looked stunned. "Yeah. That's right. Damn, RJ - I keep forgetting that."

Shaking his head in confusion, Erica put his dainty new hands on his hips... and the way the moment pushed the dress down, it was obvious that the hips were definitely wider then they'd been a few minutes before. Idly, without even realizing it, Erica tightened the attached white, patent-leather belt of the dress, drawing it tighter around a waist that was slimmer and more supple then before. Then he blinked.

"I'm sorry - what were we talking about?" Erica asked in a warmly feminine voice.. then blinked. "Oh, yeah - I'm turning into a woman. Shit. Guess I'd better keep repeating that to myself, so I don't forget."

"I'm turning into a woman..." She said, mostly to herself, as she walked from the mirror towards RJ - in a smooth, sexy, feminine stride that caused her long, smooth, sexy legs to scissor deliciously, and made her wide, well-rounded hips sway and swivel in a definitive, feminine manner that made RJ shudder at the lust it induced for his best friend.

"I'm turning into a woman..." Erica repeated, running long, slender fingers tipped with long, feminine nails through wheat-blond hair that now hung to the slender new collarbone of slimmer, more feminine shoulders.

"I... I'm..." she murmured in a sensual voice, her lips full and sexy as she tapped one finger against them thoughtfully, confusion in the blue eyes that were framed with link, dark lashes and topped with finely arched eyebrows. "RJ, what's happening to me, again...?"

RJ licked lips that were suddenly more dry than the Sahara. He wanted, desperately, to tear his eyes from the gorgeous woman Eric was becoming, but he couldn't - even with the rising horror he felt as his cock stirred and began to stiffen.

"You're becoming a woman.." He said in a weak, hoarse voice, feeling warm and edgy, but unable to move.

"Yes.. a woman..." She moaned in a sensual voice that increased the pace at which his cock was hardening. Turning, she bent at the waist and braced herself against the wall, legs spread and her back to him... showing him all of her long, sexy legs atop the high, sensual heels, her skirt lifted to reveal the fact that she wasn't wearing any panties. Of her male genitalia, there was no sign, indicating that, ongoing changes or not, she was most definitely female at this point.

"Oh... I can feel my ass growing, RJ..." She moaned, sensuously... and RJ, eyes wide, couldn't tear his eyes from her ass as it slowly inflated, filling outwards as if her flesh were balloons being inflated. Within a minute, her ass was incredibly full and round and firm, forming a perfect inverted heart-shape that made his mouth water - which didn't help his emotional state.

"Oh... that felt good..." She moaned, her voice - incredibly - even more smoky and sensual. "I can't see, RJ - is my ass sexy? Is it full and round and firm?"

"yes..!" RJ admitted, barely able to whisper through a very tight throat. His hands were gripping the arms of the chair with enough force that his fingers were white... and his jeans were straining at the crotch, his male ego unable to accept the 'logical' proposition that the incredibly sexy woman in front of him was 'really' a guy, and his best friend to boot.

Erica straightened, her hands reaching behind her to fondle her new ass.

"Mmm... it feels so very good..." She moaned as she turned to face him. "Having my ass fondled feels so good, RJ..." "Eric, no..." RJ protested, his voice hoarse.

"Eric...?" She asked, her incredibly sensual lips curving into a teasing smile. "What's gotten into you, RJ - can't you say my name anymore...?"

She walked towards him with an incredibly slow, feline stride that just exuded sensuality, her eyes roaming his body hungrily, pausing often at his crotch.

"Tray it, RJ..." She said, in a hungry, sensual voice. "Say my name. Say 'Erica'... and I'll be yours..."

She continued to draw slowly, sensuously closer, and RJ tried to say something - anything - to make her stop.. but his voice refused to work as he watched, wide eyed, as the front of her dress began to ripple... then push outwards.

"Mmmm..." She moaned, pausing and closing her eyes. She flicked her head back, an innately feminine gesture, throwing her long, honey-gold hair back from her shoulders to trail nearly to her ass as she cocked her head back and to the side, eyes closed, as her feminine hands rose to her chest, where her dress was continuing to push outwards.

"My tits..." She moaned, softly. "Getting bigger... fuller... heavier... Oh, god, they're getting more sensitive. Oh.. it feels so good, RJ - having my tits grow makes me so very horny..."

Her chest continued to expand, pressing the fabric outwards as the breasts beneath it grew ever larger. She was already 'buxom' by the time she finished telling him how good her tits growing felt - and still they continued to grow. As the material of the dress grew taut over her swelling mounds, the bulges her enlarging nipples made were clearly visible.

And still her tits grew. They grew until the material of the dress was straining, nearly to the bursting point over huge, round tits the size of basket-balls, barely contained within the fabric of the dress, her huge, swollen nipples clearly visible through the red-and-white fabric.

She opened her eyes and looked at him, giving him the type of smile that made his blood burn. "RJ..." She said, hungrily. "It's time. After all these years, I'm not going to take any excuses..." She began to draw closer to him, eyes fixed on his.

"I've loved you for years, RJ.." She said, hungrily. "And, now, you and I are finally both unattached at the same time, and I don't have any pesky experiments going on. Now.. now you and I can make hot, passionate love to each other all... night... long..."

...and she swung her leg up, sliding her high-heel-clad foot between his leg and the bar of the armrest, pushing her other knee beside his other leg, straddling him on the chair.

She was the most incredibly gorgeous woman he'd ever seen. Her face was intelligent, yet sultry - and her eyes burned with a hunger for him. Beneath a strong-yet-feminine nose, her lips were incredibly full and inviting, slightly parted to reveal perfect, white teeth and a long, supple tongue. She was breathing heavily, her huge, firm tits only a few inches away from his face, moving hypnotically with every breath. Her long, incredibly sexy legs straddled him, her incredible ass close to his hands, the faint but undeniable odor of an aroused female rising to his nose...

He gasped out a choked scream of frustration and horror and pushed her away. She tumbled to the floor - and the stunned, hurt look she gave him nearly ripped his heart in two.

"You're a guy...!" RJ screamed.. and threw himself off the chair and dashed across the room.

There was a huge clatter as he stumbled and staggered through the debris field in the back hall - then the heavy sound of the door being opened and closed.

Erica stared after him, confuse, hurt, near tears...

...and then, what he said registered... and she gasped in horrified realization.

She was - or had been - a man, and RJ had been her best friend. Though she still burned with passion for him, her 'best friend' emotions having become something considerably more, she could remember what it had like to be a man, and how she would have felt, if the situations were reversed. Though everything still felt very, very right to her, though she still burned with desire for RJ's rangy, lean body... she was once more aware of her past as a man, and understood.

"Oh... My... God..." She gasped in her rich, sexy new voice.. then rose gracefully to her feet and hurried after her friend.

She had to find him. She had to talk to him. She had to make him understand that, whatever she might have been before, she was female now - and she didn't even want to imagine going back to being male, much less actually do it. She wanted to stay female.. and spend the rest of her life with him...

She shoved the door open...

"God-damn, watch what the fuck you're... wellllll, hello there...!"

"Oh, uh... Sorry..." Erica muttered to the tall, broad-shoulder man she'd nearly slammed the door into. Tall, with greasy sandy-blond hair and a pock-marked face sporting a much-broken nose, the guy was grinning in a slick, cool manner while his eyes roamed over her spectacular body, which made her feel very dirty, somehow. However, she tried to ignore it - and him - as she scanned the alley for any sign of RJ...

"Hey, babe - what's your name...?" The guy said, his eyes finally settling on her chest. Just a minute ago, she'd felt unbelievably happy, proud of her huge, firm tits - now she wished she could suck them back into her chest, just to keep the guy from staring at them like that.

"Get lost, creep..." She said, hotly, starting to step out of the door to try and catch up with RJ...

"No fucking way.. bitch..' the guy snarled - and one of his almost grotesquely muscled arms wrapped around her slender new waist, lifting her clear of the floor, while his other covered her mouth, muffling her screams as he hauled her back into the building and let the door swung shut behind them...

* * * * *

Heart pounding, lungs burning, RJ slowed to a walk, gasping for breath.

Eric... Erica... had tried to have sex with him. She wanted to fuck him, long and hard...

...and she was the most incredibly sexy woman he'd ever laid eyes on, and he 'liked' her, to boot. She was his best friend, and given half a chance, she'd be his ideal girlfriend...

...but she was 'really' a guy, damn it!

RJ felt more confused then he'd ever felt in his life, trying to straighten out what he was feeling about - and for - Eric/Erica. Part of him desperately wanted to go back and take her up on her offer... and part of his was horrified by the fact he was even thinking about it.

What the hell was he going to do...?

* * * * *

Erica moaned slightly and looked around, brow furrowing in thought as she tried to remember why she felt so... so calm. So peaceful. So.. so giddy.

She spotted a big, muscular guy almost right away - he was looking around her lab, hands behind his back as if afraid his massive musculature might cause him to inadvertently cause him to break anything he touched.

"Where's RJ...?" She asked, with a soft sigh... she really did feel good, though she also felt kinda out of it - like she was slightly drunk or something.

The big guy turned around and smiled at her. It wasn't a very nice smile, especially with his off-white teeth and his narrow eyes - it made his grin look feral, but she smiled back, anyway - she just felt too damned good not too.

"He had to go out for a bit." The big guy said, in a rumbling voice, and her smile faded for a second.

"Oh, yeah..." She said, sadly - but without much true emotion. More.. more petulant than anything. "I remember. He was upset because... because..."

She frowned as the memory remained hazy, then smiled and dismissed it - she felt too good to worry about it.

Then a thought struck her. "Hey... you gave me a needle of something, didn't you...?" She remembered that, hazy as it was, and... "No, I didn't." The guy said, calmly. "You're just imagining that."

"But..." Erica said, brow furrowing in confusion. "But.. my arm hurts, and..."

"You tripped." He said, clearly and distinctly. "When you were inviting me in, you tripped on the junk in the hallway, and I caught you. That's why your arm hurts."

She blinked, and her smile resurfaced. "Oh, yeah, right - I remember now..."

"Good." The man said, drawing up a chair and sitting across from her. "Now, My name's Rock... and just before you fell, you told me your name, but I didn't catch it..."

"But you caught me..." She said, with a lazy smile and a small giggle. She really did feel good. "I'm Erica, silly." "That's right - Erica. That's what you said when you invited me in."

"Yeah... that's right..." She murmured, happily.

Rock grinned at her again. "you're a very sexy woman, Erica. You know that, don't you?" she giggled lazily again. "yeah. I'm really sexy..."

"You feel really happy that you're so sexy, don't you, Erica?" He asked. "Yeah - I do..." She admitted. "I'm sexy, and that makes me feel good..."

"Well, being sexy means that guys like the way you look, and want to have sex with you. That's why it's called 'sexy', right?" She blinked, then laughed. "Yeah... I guess so..."

HE grinned. "Well, then - if you're happy and proud to be sexy, that must mean you're happy and proud that men want to have sex with you, right?"

Her brow narrowed as he frowned in concentration... but it all made sense. "Yeah. Yeah, that's right."

"Then you must love dressing and acting sexy." Rock pointed out. "After all, tight clothes, high heels... they make men want to have sex with you even more, and having men want to have sex with you makes you feel good, right...?"

She frowned again.. then it converted into another slow, lazy smile.

"Gee, I guess that's right..." She murmured, feeling warm and happy knowing Rock understood her so well. "I like to be and dress sexy so that men want to have sex with me..."

"Good, good..." He murmured. "Wow, Erica.. you have really, really big tits. You must love having such big, huge tits." "Yeah..." She sighed. "they're so big and sexy. I love having big, sexy tits..."

"You must love having guys look at them, lust after them." Rock said. "You must love wearing clothes that show them off, if you're so proud of them..."

"That's right... I love to show off my tits so guys can see them..." She agreed, happily. "That means you must love to have them fondled and sucked and stuff, right?"

"Yeah.." She giggled. "My huge tits feel so good when they're fondled and sucked..." She blinked at Rock, a sudden thought coming to her. Happily, she slowly stood up, which seemed to surprise Rock. He quickly reached into the pocket of his rather dirty overcoat and came out holding a syringe, like the one she'd imagined he'd used on her, only he hadn't because he'd just caught her when she'd fallen, that's all.

Giggling, Erica peeled off her dress, leaving her wonderful, sexy, making-men-want-to-have-sex-with-her body naked. "You must want to fondle my tits. I want my tits fondled, please..." She said, happily, walking over to Rock.

He seemed surprised.. then he grinned, and gestured to her. She sat down on his knees and let her head roll back.

She felt good - but she felt even better when Rock began to fondle her tits. Maybe he was squeezing them a little hard, but she had big, huge sexy tits, and tits like that should be shown off, so that she could get them squeezed and fondled. That's why she had such big tits, and she was happy she did - she loved making men want to have sex with her...

She frowned slightly as her mind seemed to find something wrong with that. It was hard to concentrate on it while she was enjoying having her huge, round tits fondled and squeezed, and her huge nipples sucked and nibbled on, so finally she gave up trying to figure it out.

Rock eventually stopped, which made her feel less good - but still really happy, still.

"Hmmm... a sexy girl with big tits, like you, is a real woman." HE told her, making her grin happily. "Not like the flat-chested ugly woman. You're all woman, right?"

"Yeah.. all woman.." she agreed, easily.

"So - you like everything women do." He said. "You must love.. well, giving blow jobs." She frowned. "I.. I don't know. I mean..."

He gripped her upper arms, startling her. His voice was very slow and strong.

"You like giving blow jobs. It makes you more sexy, and you love feeling sexy. It's what a real woman does, and you're a real woman." He told her, firmly. "You love sucking cock, and you love drinking cum. It makes you very, very happy, and you love the taste of cum."

She frowned for a moment, and he released her arm and began to reach for something... then whatever was troubling her slipped away before she could latch onto it.

"Yes. Yes, I love sucking cock and drinking cum..." She said, woodenly. For some reason, she wasn't feeling nearly so good... "Damn - One shot's all I ever need for my other whores..." Rock muttered, looking at her oddly.

"Huh...?" She asked, feeling uncertain and a little scared.. though she was having trouble figuring out why...

He was looking at her with a cold, thoughtful look. "Nothing. Look, Erica... do you want to suck my cock? I'm all hard from fondling your great, big tits..."

She grinned, uncertainly, feeling very confused now.

"I... I really, really want to suck your cock. I love sucking cock...." She paused, confused. "But I don't know why I love sucking cock. I just know I want to..."

He was still looking at her oddly... and then he pushed her off his lap, his hand going to his fly and slowly unzipping it. He pulled his fly open and his discolored underwear down, to reveal a large, throbbing erection.

Erica stared at his cock, suddenly feeling sort of sick to her stomach, as well as uncertain and confused... but she had a sudden feeling - certainty - that sucking his cock would make all the bad feelings go away, and she'd be happy again.

Full lips curving into a smile, she bent down and gripped the base of his cock with her right hand, letting her lips slid over the dark- purple head of his cock. She pushed her head down, slowly, licking his cock all over to lubricate it... then she began to slide her lips back and forth, up and down his hard, warm, throbbing shaft as her tongue licked at his head.

It felt fantastic.. she guessed. She didn't really know whether it was feeling really good, physically - but she felt fantastic to be sucking a cock. Sucking a cock made her feel more like a woman.

"Oh, yeah, baby..." Rock moaned. "God, you're a super cock-sucker. You must be a cum-hungry little nympho, ready to fuck and suck all the time..."

Still frantically slurping at the cock, she felt a moments revulsion and confusion at his words.. then it passed. After all, her she was on her knees, naked in front of a man, slurping away at his cock. She must love having sex with a man. After all, she was a sexy woman, and nothing proved that she was all woman, and all sexy, then actually having sex with a man... She'd love to have sex lots and lots and lots...

..with RJ. She loved RJ, and she loved being a woman, so it made sense that she'd love fucking and sucking RJ as much as she could. That's what made her feel sexy, and like a woman. Dressing sexy for RJ. Sucking RJ's cock. Fucking RJ. Being a sexy woman for RJ made her feel really good...

..so why was she sucking Rock's cock? Sure, he'd asked her too... but why had she agreed? She didn't want to have sex with him. She didn't know him - hell , she didn't even like him...

Just about then, he came in her mouth... and it tasted wonderful, and she gulped every drop of his sweet, delicious cum down... even as she felt utterly disgusted for letting her nymphomania get the better of her and make her end up fucking this.. this creep.

She wanted to fuck RJ - except he'd seemed upset about it...

Why...? Even as she almost helplessly licked Rock's cock clean, she tried to figure out what had happened. Her memories were getting shaper.. a side effect of the fact that her brain was still 're-writing' itself, which was a two-edged sword, since it let her think more clearly, even as it set into stone the 'suggestions' that Rock was implanting into her to make her a willing whore for...

"Oh, God..!" Erica screamed throwing herself backwards and gagging. "oh, God - you're a pimp! And you're trying to brainwash me into being a whore for you!"

"Shit!" Rock swore, fumbling to get his cock back in his pants and his fly done up. "Fuckin' shit - how the hell didja throw off the drug before I was fucking' done? The other bitches were under for nearly an hour..."

then he grinned and rose to his full height, holding the syringe in his meaty hand.

"Still.." He laughed, gutturally. "I got enough 'wonder juice' to hit you three, four more times - that'll be enough..."

He began to stalk towards her, grinning evilly. "Oh, by the time I'm done with you, bitch, you'll be begging me to let you be my whore, to let dozens of men fuck you every day... and they will, cause you'll be very popular..."

Erica, scared, sickened and horrified by the drug-toting pimp, nevertheless made no move to escape his steady advance, just laying sprawled on the floor and watching...

..as RJ slammed the beer bottle down on Rock's head with as much force as his rangy, tautly-musclcd baseball-pitcher's arm had to give.

Rock roared in pain, dropping the needle as he turned, hand going to his head...

...and RJ let him have it over the head with the chair. Rock went down, hard.

"Oh, RJ..." Erica said, finding herself sobbing as she threw herself into his arms.

She'd seen him come in while she was sucking on Rock's throbbing cock - and it had saved her from being completely mind-wiped into a cum-hungry cock-sucker, because (even in her haze) she'd known what she felt for RJ, and all her newly implanted desires had been transferred solely onto him. Now, the thought of having sex with any other man made her feel torn, disgusted and aroused... but for RJ she felt only sweet, warm desire - and love.

"I love you, RJ." She told him, pressing her naked body against his rangy form. "I love you, and I want to spend the rest of my life with you, pleasing..." She stopped, and smiled sweetly at him. "No - pleasuring you. I'm still 'me', still the same person inside, not a slave or a slut or a whore... but now I'm a woman, with very strong female desires, and I want you - and only you - to be the one to satisfy them..."

RJ stiffened - in more ways than one - and slowly disengaged himself from her.

"When.. when I came in, and saw you..." He blushed, and made a gesture to indicate what he'd seen, "I didn't know what to think. Then you explained it by what you shouted... and I had to act. You're still my best friend, Eric..a. But.. but I can't..." He took a deep breath. "Look - you have to finish 'Adam'. Then you can become a man again. Maybe you won't look the same, but..."

"No..." Erica said, shaking her head and taking RJ's hand. "No - I can never be a man again, even if I get 'Adam' working." "Look, I know how you feel, now, but you know once you're male again..." RJ started to protest.

"No - not anymore." She said, gesturing at Rock's limp form. "After what he did, I'll always have the urge to wear high-heels and sexy clothes, to have - and be proud of - huge tits and a sexy body I'll always want to have sex with men.. with you. Becoming a man again won't fix that... and do you want me to live that life?" She paused, eyes downcast. "I.. I love you, RJ - and that means I love you enough to walk away from you... if you really can never feel for me what I feel for you "

RJ's face twisted up. "That's just it, damn it! - I do love you.. and that's what's driving me crazy. I'm in love with - and incredibly attracted to - another guy!"

She looked at him, a faint smile forming on her lips. "Do I look like a guy to you, RJ?" "Well, I mean..." RJ floundered...

She stepped closer, wrapping her arms around his neck, lightly.

"Are these the arms of a guy, RJ ?" She asked, coyly, and then used her right hand to start unbuttoning his shirt. "Are these the hands of a guy ?"

"No.. I mean..." RJ said, blushing furiously.

Opening his shirt, Erica smiled at him - then pulled herself tight against him, her huge, firm tits pressing into his dusky chest. "Are these the breasts of a man, RJ - or a woman?" She asked, throatily.

He was incapable of an answer.

"Are these the lips of a man...?" She asked.. and kissed him. Hungrily.

He tensed up but couldn't help himself. He began to kiss her back, his hands reaching around to first hold, then fondle, her incredible ass as they kissed.

Her hands were busy.. and by the time they broke the kiss, his pants were down around his ankles, revealing his hard, throbbing cock. "Am I a man, RJ ?" She asked, lowering herself into the other chair, the one she'd started in - and arching her back and spreading her legs. "Do I have a cock, RJ - or a hot, wet cunt, begging to be filled by the hard, throbbing cock of the man I love?"

There was only one possible answer to the question Erica had just made all too clear to the once confused man. It was a non-verbal answer, one that not only didn't detract from his manhood or heterosexuality but proved it.

It was the answer he gave, leaning forward to brace his hands on the arm-rests of the chair.. and buck his hips forward, driving his hard, male cock deep into her hot, sopping wet - and completely female - cunt.

They cried out together, in physical and emotional pleasure, and began to move their hips rhythmically.

Both of them were supremely fit - RJ from his baseball playing, Erica from having a newly-minted, flawless body. Their muscle control was amazing.. and their innate, unspoken bonds as 'friends' fully alive for the first time as all the hours of semi-exaggerated discussions about doing this with that woman or that with the other girl paid off in a way unexpected - and fantastic. Each knew the other, intimately - and they began to know each other even more intimately as they matched rhythms, bodies flexing as one, separating without ever completely separating, coming together again in rising waves and rolls of pure, ecstatic pleasure.

"Yes, RJ, yes - Oh, God.. YES!..." Erica cried, urging him on, her pleasure doubling and redoubling. "Oh, god, I love this.. I love you...!"

"Oh, Erica..!" RJ cried, without any forethought. "I love you, too!" Then, at the same instant.. they came...

The world was lost in a white, soundless explosion as pleasure thrummed through their joined bodies.. then slowly began to fade...

RJ looked down at Erica, who was smiling happily, eyes closed, moaning softly.. and he bent down and gently kissed her full lips, even as his face flared bright red with remnants of shame and guilt that he couldn't - yet - avoid. He extracted himself from her, feeling dirty and ashamed.. and extremely guilty about how warm and happy he felt, despite that.

Turning away from the new woman whose very presence was like a powerful magnet to him, body and soul, he began to dress. Erica looked at RJ's back, and sighed sadly.. but also began to dress, knowing RJ would have to work through this.

She found that the hypo Rock had been holding had fallen on her dress, unbroken, and she put it on the desk - then pulled the dress over her body,. Feeling a pang of dismay at covering it up so much, but feeling 'happy' that it was so tight over her spectacular, wonderful tits. She knew she was going to have to deal with the constant urge to look and be sexy - but her own mind was basically unaltered, and 'sexy' could be elegant, too, despite the fact that Rock had been thinking of 'sleazy' at the time...

"So.. what do we do with him...?" RJ asked, obviously very happy to have something else to talk about while he tried to sort out his confused feelings. "I didn't kill him - though I wouldn't have been heartbroken if I had..."

Erica slowly grinned. "I know just what to do with him..." She looked around at her lab. "First, though - we've got to synthesize up several batches of this stuff..." She tapped the syringe. "Then we have to get 'Adam' working..."

* * * * *

As the darkness slowly cleared, Rock became aware of familiar voices.

He expected a sharp pain in his head where that bastard had hit him - but he didn't instead, he felt really strange, instead...

...then he opened his eyes and found himself staring at something that made all his thoughts stop dead.

Sitting across from him was the most outrageous woman he'd ever seen.

She was sitting in a chair, arms on the arm-rests. Her feet were on the floor.. well, the soles of her shoes were on the floor, her toes sitting about five inches higher, thanks to the platforms of the black ankle boots she was wearing. Her heels were six inches higher up than that, her dainty feet on a forty-five degree angle to make it possible - which was, after all, exactly what 'ballet' shoes were designed to do, especially the 'fetish' style ones she wore, with ankle-straps with little golden locks and a golden chain stretched between the shoes.

Fishnet stockings covered her long, luscious legs, leading upwards to the high-hipped, low-cut bodysuit she wore. The bodysuit with fetish design so that the bottom half was little more than a specially-arranged set of straps that left her cunt and ass bare.

There was very little upper portion, too - since it left her tits bare.

And what a set of tits! They were enormous, like a pair of flesh-colored beach-balls.. and tipped with enormous, thick nipples with had golden rings clamped to the base of them, with another gold chain running between them.

Her face was a vision of pure sexuality, heavily made up from her huge, cock-sucking lips to her brainless bimbo eyes,. Her face was surrounded by an incredible wealth of platinum-blonde hair that spread down her back like a waterfall.

All of this in a tiny, slender little package. She was tiny, making her tits look that more incredibly enormous, and she was obviously pure sexual dynamite.

After Rock surveyed this incredible vision, he became aware of other women sitting in the room. In fact, there was a double line of them, one on either side between where he sat and where the woman was sitting.

They were all naked - and he recognized all of them. They were the dozen women he'd converted into his 'willing' whores.. and it was their voices he was hearing.

"Blow jobs..." one of them was saying. "I love blow-jobs..."

Another was saying. "Big tits. Big tits are for fondling and sucking and fucking..."

yet another was saying. "Cunt and Ass.. Fucking is what a cunt or an ass is good for..."

All of them were reciting their 'needs', their 'lessons', and it made Rock smile. The incredible vision at the other end of the line seemed to find it amusing, to, he cock-sucker lips spreading in a mindless grin...

...then rock's attention was diverted as he noticed something. His whores...

..were changing.

Their breasts were shrinking in on themselves as their bodies became heavier, bulkier.. and something was happening between their legs...

"Blow jobs..." the one was saying - in a much deeper voice, larger hand now stroking a steadily growing cock between her.. no, his legs. "I love blow jobs..."

Horried, Rock watched as his whores finished turning into men - men with enormous, muscular bodies and gigantic, throbbing cocks with huge, round, hairy balls. They continued a mantra that now had completely different meanings... as they all turned to look at him, and slowly began to rise, a terrible hunger on their faces...

Rock opened his mouth to speak... and was shocked and horrified to hear what came out of his mount, in a high, brainless soprano.

"Hi!" he found himself saying. "I'm Rocki Mountains, the cum-sucking bimbo slut slave. I love fucking and sucking, and I'll do anything anybody asks me!"

"Suck my dick, bitch!" One of the ex-whores commanded...

...and Rock found himself moving...

..and, as per the 'programming', motion allowed the suppressed sensations of her body come through, from the ballet boots enclosing her tiny, dainty feet, to the huge, chained tits on her chest...

...and she got to watch in the mirror across from her, seeing that incredible body made for sex that was her own, as she helplessly knelt to service her new masters...

* * * * *

As the end credits to 'Armageddon' began to roll, Erica snuggled closer to RJ, enjoying the way he was almost idly fondling her massive, firm tit.

"Great movie." She said, warmly, feeling utterly fantastic. "though it was a lot better when we saw it on the big screen." RJ stiffened slightly, his hand stopping it's very pleasurable movements.

"God.." HE sighed. "I'm sorry, Erica - I'm getting better at this, but sometimes it just smacks me in the face all over again - the fact that you used to be a guy, and my best friend to boot." He looked down at her, fondly. "I love you, and I love having sex with you - but there's times when I still feel like crying over what happened to a certain guy I used to know..."

Erica smiled and began to fondle his crotch, causing his most definitely unconfused cock to begin to harden. She slowly began to lower her face to his crotch, having discovered the best way to push him out of these 'funks' when they happened, with less and less frequency.

Just before she enveloped his throbbing, delicious tool with her so-very-willing lips, she paused to look up at him and say... "Don't cry for me, RJ Dina. You never really knew me..."

+ + + + FINI

AUTHOR'S NOTE: Okay, Okay, so I wrote the whole frickin' story just for that punch line. You got a problem with that? (Grin)

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: "MY STORY IDEA IS: A confirmed bachelor having strung his fiancée through years of waiting, announces that he's bisexual and would like to experiment a little before settling down. His girlfriend doesn't take the news well and uses some very strong hormones and attachments to solve his bisexual problem. When she's through he only craves men." CONTEST WINNING STORY!!!

Excused

By Gunslinger

"Damn it, Matt - I'm not going to keep waiting forever."

I sighed and put down the paper. Looking at Carrie with exasperation, I took a long drink of coffee to make sure she understood I'd heard her, but was making her wait. I regretted, again, letting her move in - I like my morning paper and coffee uninterrupted - but it's one of those things that was expected when you were engaged.

Besides - having her make the coffee was night. So was the sex.

"Look, Carrie." I said, putting the mug down. "When we started going out, we'd agreed - the wedding would be as soon as we felt we could be true to each other. We both agreed - it's a better idea to get out wandering urges out of the way first, so that our marriage would be strong.

Carrie tossed her head and snorted. She ran her fingers through her short blonde hair in frustration. "Your wandering urges, Matt. I'm ready - have been ready - for a committed, monogamous relationship. Three years, Matt, three years."

I winced at the terms 'Monogamous' and 'Relationship'. Internally, of course - I never let Carrie catch on to the fact that this wasn't going anywhere at all.

Look, Carrie was a hell of a catch. One of those slim, energetic girls from a 'good' family in the suburbs, she wanted to be rebellious - not enough to jeopardize her run at a Medical Degree, of course - and I was it. I could live like that - these suburb girls were incredible - they had some class, and weren't sluts, but if you got them to believe your line, you had it made. Ladies in the office and living room, they were first-class ass in bed. Hell, Carrie could suck-start a leaf blower. Besides, she could actually cook without canned food or a microwave, and she was the cheapest maid service around. It'd be a shame to lose her.

So, I proposed. No intention of actually marrying her, of course - nobody is that valuable. But I wanted to hang onto her for as long as possible - especially now that she had a job at a medical lab, and was pulling down major buck.

"Look, Carrie - you know I love you." I said, lying as sincerely as possible. "But if this is going to work, I have to get these... interests out of my system. Burn them up in experimentation - I know my weaknesses, and if I don't fulfill my urges to experiment before the wedding, I'd be driven to do it after the wedding. It's for our good."

"Really?" Carrie asked - and the doubt in her voice worried me. "I believed that for the longest time - I truly did. While you experimented with Asians, and African Americans. With women tall and short.

Big-busted, small busted, svelte and heavy - every type of woman in existence. Once you'd had them, your curiosity would be gone. But now you've done every type of woman available. If you start repeating, then I'll know that it's just a scam - and what have you got left to experiment with that you haven't already done?"

I tried to keep the near panic from my face - because she was right. I had 'experimented' with just about every variety, milking each group for all it was worth - and every variation and combination there was. She was looking at me with a suspicious eye, and I had to come up with my next round of 'experiments' - but what was left?

"Men." I blurted. I feigned embarrassment when disgust was my true feeling - but it was the only thing I could come up with on the spur of the moment.

Her finely arched eyebrows rose. "What? You... with a man? I don't believe it."

Great. Now that I'd blurted it out, I'd have to defend it, believably, despite the fact that the thought of sex with men utterly disgusted me.

"Look, Carrie - like you said, I've had experience with a lot of women over the years." I said, making it up as I went along. "And all of them seemed to enjoy having sex with me. I mean - you enjoy sex with men, don't you?"

"Well... yeah." Carrie admitted grudgingly, still giving me a funny look.

"Well, " I said. "That got me thinking - there must be something to men - something that makes sex with them enjoyable, something to make them attractive. And once I started thinking about it, I couldn't get it out of my mind. At first, I tried to deny my feelings - I was a man, and I shouldn't be feeling these things. Then I found myself looking at men - and wondering what they'd be like in bed. How muscular they were, how tight and tone and strong their bodies were... how big their cocks were..."

I felt like I was about to vomit - but lying is a necessary skill, and I was sure I could pull this off. It wasn't like I'd actually have to do any of the things I said.

"I found myself obsessing on what women liked in men. If they enjoyed sucking cock, there must be a reason. I even picked up a few copies of Playgirl, and looked at the men inside, these enormously endowed hunks - and I began to understand why women would find it attractive." I repressed a shudder of disgust with a feigned embarrassed shrug. "So - I really can't commit to a relationship yet, because I haven't experimented with other men, to see what it is in guys like me that make me attractive."

Then I played my trump card. "By learning about sex where I'm taking it from a man, I'll probably become a much better lover to you - I'll see what it is that you like and don't like."

Translation - I'd claim to be going off to find a gay lover for my experiment - and once safely away from Carrie's scrutiny, find a hot little number at a bar on the outskirts. Carrie would never know.

She was still looking at me - but her face had become completely unreadable. I couldn't tell what she was thinking - whether she'd bought it or not. Then:

"Well - I have to get to work. "She said, rising. "But if you think that you really, really have to experience sex with men - to see it from a completely new viewpoint - then I should support that, like I've supported every other urge that has delayed this wedding over the years."

Despite the concession of the words, her emotionless tone and inscrutable look worried me. But she'd acquiesced, and hadn't said anything about leaving, so I figured I was off the hook, for a while at least - hopefully, long enough to come up with my next excuse for a delay in matrimonial hell.

"I'm glad you see it that way, Carrie." I said, standing and giving her a peck on the cheek. "I'll see you after work."

As Carrie headed out to the car, I sank back in my seat and picked up the paper - but my mind was already turning to the days activities, wondering which type of woman I'd give the privilege of mounting my cock.

* * * * *

The mind can play funny tricks on you. I was at 'Giordinos', the local nudie bar, hitting on one of the feature girls - a ridiculously buxom bottle blonde name - well, billed as - 'Becky Boobies' when I glanced over - and my heart stopped for an instant.

I thought I saw Carrie.

Then Becky said something. I replied to her without any real interest - I wasn't really interested in her and her over-inflated bust anyway, I just hit on any woman I can to keep in top form - and when I looked back, the woman I thought I'd seen was gone. For several long minutes, my heart pounded as I was nearly positive I'd gotten a fleeting glimpse of Carrie, dressed in blue jeans and a blue short-sleeved blouse.

Then I caught sight of one of the working girls - a slender blonde with short hair, dressed in tight, light-blue jogging pants and a darker blue crop top. I relaxed, realizing that my mind, still worried that Carrie might see through my act and leave, had taken a brief glimpse of this woman and made it into a brief illusion of Carrie actually having skipped work to catch me 'in the act', so to speak.

Still, I felt unsettled all day long, off my stride. I barely managed to fuck the brains out of the three different women I'd picked up during the course of the day, that fleeting false image in my mind.

So when I heard the lock to the front door click open, my heart swung into a faster tempo.

But Carrie came in with a bright smile, and I relaxed - this wasn't the face of a woman about to dump me after discovering my lies - in fact she looked cheerfully mischievous.

"Hey, Matt - I've been thinking about our discussion this morning - and you're right. You should experiment with men, get a feel for what a woman sees in guys." She said, dropping onto the couch beside me. "Look what I got."

I grimaced as she pulled out a pile of women's nudie mags. They weren't even the semi high class stuff either - the sole defining factor in picking models seemed to be the size of their equipment. So I was forced to spend the next hour sitting there, feigning enthusiasm as we 'honestly' discussed which guys were handsome, which turned me on, and other things that just wanted to make me vomit. Of course, I don't find men at all attractive, so when she asked for my opinion of which guys in each mag

I found the most 'exciting', I copped out by simply picking the best endowed guy from each mag - while trying really hard not to actually see the pictures.

"Wow - we should have done this before." Carrie said, snuggling up against my shoulder. "Seeing all those guys has gotten me all hot. You must be pretty turned on, to - but since you're looking at being a practicing bi-sexual, I suppose I could probably convince you to turn your attentions to me, for now."

"Sure babe - if I have to." I feigned mild indifference, while smiling. Despite the definitely uninspiring magazines we'd just gone through, the thought of Carrie's taut ass and skilled lips and hands were already getting me hard. "Let's go."

She trailed me into the bedroom, each of us shedding clothes as we went.

"You know..." She said, and I was surprised to notice that she was naked, but still carrying the oversized monstrosity she called a purse. "I've been thinking - your eagerness to experiment has gotten my own creative juices flowing. Would you mind indulging me in a little fantasy game?"

Hey - this was a rare thing. Carrie was a great lay, but usually stuck to the pure vanilla sex. "Sure babe - whatever you want."

"Great." She said, enthusiastically. Reaching into her purse she pulled out...

...a pair of purple velvet-lined handcuffs, and a matching set of ankle cuffs? For her first try, she went right to the big kinks - I'd been expecting leather or something.

"Hey - I'm up for it." I said, gesturing to Big Willie, standing at attention. "You just lay down and..."

"No, no..." Carrie said, running a hand sensuously down my taut abdomen. Her firm, pert tits lightly grazed my chest. "I want to do you first - you don't object to me being on top, do you?"

Well, I wasn't a big fan of being cuffed - but if a woman wanted to do all the work of getting me off, I say let her. "No prob, gorgeous," I said, laying down on the bed and spreading my arms and legs apart. "Chain me up and do your worst."

Smiling she clicked the padded cuffs into place, tightly securing my wrists and ankles to the stout wooden posts of the bed.

Then she stepped back, and her smile faded as she stared at me like a piece of meat.

"You stupid, stupid bastard." She said, clearly and distinctly. "You actually thought I bought your act? You, Mr. Macho straight man himself, being interested in guys? Give me a break. Then you head straight to a strip bar..."

Shit.

"Look, Carrie - it isn't what you think..." I said, feeling panic beginning to rise. I'd thought that if I screwed up, she'd leave and take a bunch of good things with her. Now, naked and helpless, I was beginning to understand that there could be worse complications to being caught. My mind spun for an excuse.

Before I could come up with one, she smiled unpleasantly. "That's okay, dear - you don't need to explain. I'm going to forgive you completely." She said, and I felt a chill run down my spine as my cock wilted. She saw it and moved forward, speaking with a biting edge. "Oh - look, you aren't turned on by a naked woman - It must be because of your lust for men. Don't worry, Matt - since I forgive you, I'm going to do what any good friend would do - I'm going to help you get what you want."

I gaped at her. "What the hell do you mean..." I trailed off as the word's meaning impacted. "No - no way I'm having sex with any guy. I ain't no goddamned faggot!"

She cocked a brow. "Really - you were going on and on about how much you wanted to learn what a woman saw in a man - very sincerely too. I think you're just getting cold feet - you don't want to be seen as a faggot in public. You're incredibly interested in sex with a man, it's just your fear of being branded gay that's stopping you. Don't worry - I have every intention of helping you."

Then she reached into her purse and pulled out a long, liquid-filled hypodermic needle.

"Hey!" I said, alarmed. "What the hell is that! What do you think you're doing! Get away from me with that!"

She just grinned. Since I was completely chained, barely able to move, she had little trouble injecting me with the fluid in the needle.

"Just something to make you a little more... tractable." She said with a nasty smile.

A few minutes later, I began to feel strange - a sort of light-headed, disconnected floating feeling, like this wasn't reality. Although I knew things were wrong, that I was in deep trouble, I couldn't seem to worry about it. Instead I just relaxed, staring up at the ceiling without any true emotions, my unguarded psyche open to Carrie.

"Can you hear me, Matt?" She asked. "Yes." I replied, somewhat dreamily.

"Tell me - did you have any intention of ever marrying me?" She asked.

In the condition the drug had put me in, lying wasn't even an option. "No. I intended to string you as long as possible, then dump you if you became more pain than you were worth."

Carrie's eyes narrowed as she received all the verification she needed. "Okay, Matt, I want you to listen to me carefully. Now - do you have any desire to have sex with men?"

"No."

She smirked. "Do you remember what you said earlier, about wanting to have sex with men, to understand what woman enjoyed in men?"

"Yes."

"You said that, didn't you? You weren't reading it from somewhere, or being forced to say it - it was your own words, spoken voluntarily - right?"

I paused for a moment, trying to work it out. "Right."

"So - it must be true - you want to understand what women like about men."

There seemed to be something wrong with that premise - but her logic drilled into my brain. "That's right."

She smiled. "You've been engaged to me for three years. Engagement means trust - you must trust me - right?"

Another long pause. "Right."

"We're no longer engaged - but the fact we were means that trust is unbroken. Now - have you ever been engaged to anyone else?"

"No."

"So, you must trust me more than you have ever trusted anyone else - right?" "Right."

"So - you trust me, utterly and completely. If I say something, or tell you to do something - well, I must be right. You'd have to do it - because you trust me."

I had to think about it for a long time - there seemed to be something wrong with that - but I couldn't figure it out. "Right."

She smiled. "Good. Now, you're going to sleep for a half hour or so, then awake feeling refreshed. We'll talk more then."

* * * * *

I yawned and sat up in the bed, then looked over at where Carrie sat - then my eyes widened slightly as memory flooded back to me. Most of it was hazy, but I definitely remembered Carrie discovering I'd been lying to her.

She didn't seem upset, though. "Sleep well?" I nodded, warily. "Yeah - what happened?"

She smiled in a way that made me uncomfortable. "Nothing much. So - let's get you ready to find a man to get fucked by."

I recoiled. "What? No - I don't want..."

She smiled that smile again. "You're going to let me get you ready - aren't you?"

To my horror, I felt the ability to resist drain away. I still wanted to - desperately - but somehow, I couldn't summon up the willpower necessary. "All right." I agreed, in horrified helplessness.

"Great. Now - do you want to have homosexual sex?" "No!" I said, emphatically.

"But - if you're going to have sex with a man, that would be homosexual, because you're a man too. Is there anyway for you to have sex with a man without it being homosexual?"

Although I didn't want to, I helplessly considered the question.

"If I had sex with a man - but I wasn't a man - then it wouldn't be homosexual." I said, trying to stop myself but helpless to resist.

She grinned. "Well then - you need to become a woman before you can have sex, don't you?" "Yes."

She smiled, and gestured towards her make-up table, the one I'd had to force myself to let her bring. Now I wished I'd refused. "Come sit over here."

It was the last thing in the world I wanted to do right now - but I helplessly rose to my feet and went over, none the less.

"Look in the mirror." I did.

"Is the image you see somebody who should have sex with men?"

"No." I said - knowing, somehow, that this apparent escape clause wasn't true. I was right.

"Well - let's take care of that, then. You wanted to discover what made men attractive - so I'm going to teach you."

To my horror, I thanked her for that.

"the first thing women like about men is the way their hands feel on our soft, supple skin." Carrie said. "But you can't understand that - you have that hairy body with it's harsh skin. To know what we like about men, we'll have to change that. Here's a package of razors, and some cream..."

Following her instructions - no matter how much I wished it was otherwise, I went into the bathroom and drew a tub of warm water. I settled down into it, and picked up the first razor.

I started at my ankles. I was under instructions not to nick myself, so I was extremely careful as I began to shave off the hair that covered my body. Humiliation burned within my, magnified by the stupid pink Bic razors I was using to remove all my body hair, with Carrie's help on the hard to reach places. She also cropped my hair short with scissors, the used clippers on it, followed by the razor. By the time we finished, the only hair I had left was my eyebrows and lashes.

She then assisted me with the cream as the water drained away. She slathered it over every inch of my body, including my now-shaved scalp, avoiding only my eyebrows. I stood, motionless, for half an hour with the cream coating my body, then Carrie helped me rinse it off - and with it, the last of the hair follicles.

Burning with shame and hate, but unable to express it, I ran my hands along my body, feeling my skin. Not only was I completely hairless, but ingredients in the cream had added elasticity to my skin, leaving every inch of me silky smooth - and femininity textured to the touch and eye.

"Much better." Carrie said, smiling at my predicament. My body language and vocal abilities kept me from expressing what I truly felt, but she had no problem reading the tortured hate deep in my eyes.

She pulled a small, rounded box from her purse. Following her instructions, I strapped it in place on one bicep, the prongs imbedded in it's bottom sinking directly into my vein.

"What's this?" I asked - I was able to hold calm, civilized conversations with Carrie - I just couldn't express anger, hate or shame, or refute or argue anything she said - no matter how much I wanted to.

"Concentrated synthetic Estrogen, and a few other goodies. Get dressed - we have places to go, and things to do."

Though I didn't want to go out in public like this, I had no choice. I drew on my clothing, feeling the subtle difference as the clothing slid over denuded skin, the soft smooth whisper of the cloth against silky derma.

Helplessly, I followed my ex-fiancée and torturer out to the car, wondering what, precisely, was in store for me - but from what she'd said about the box running into my vein, I had a bad feeling that I knew exactly what was coming.

My fears were confirmed when we pulled up to a salon.

"Something else we like about men - the way they appreciate the effort we go to look good. So - you need to look your best, a complete makeover. We're going to go in, and you are going to ask - beg, if you have to - for a make over."

And I did. I didn't want to, but I had no choice. No trace of my shame and hate showed as I asked for a complete make-over from the startled desk clerk - but I was a paying customer, and that's all that mattered to them.

Besides - this is California. I wasn't the strangest thing to happen in their salon, I'd bet.

I helplessly acted enthusiastic as I was made over. But it wasn't an affair where I was just a hapless victim - no, Carrie demanded I input, by asking what colors, what types of make-up I'd like best on a woman like myself. I was helplessly compelled to try and explain to the make-over artist what lipstick I thought was the sexiest, what eye shadow. I sat and - under instructions - watched with 'interest' as the work was done, learning all I could about the correct way to apply make-up.

Then Carrie had them bring out a selection of wigs, and forced me to purchase the four I thought were the best, the sexiest, the most feminine.

By the time we walked out, I'd had my eyebrows plucked into a narrow, curving arch. My face was flawlessly made-up, and I wore a long, large, curly wig of flame-red hair. Other purchase - the wigs, make-up, etcetera - resided in a bag 'for later'.

"Good - but not great." Carrie said as we got into the car. "Look at me."

I did - and she pulled out a bunch of tiny needles. I couldn't even flinch as she applied them to my face, especially the lips.

It was a strange sensation to feel that serum she'd injected go to work. In some places on my face, it caused the cells to deflate, tightening my flesh and changing the configuration of my face. My lips, on the other hand, felt tight as the swelled, becoming firm and sexy and feminine. The lady in the salon had used extra lipstick to simulate full, sexy lips - now my lips inflated behind the illusion, making it real. I could taste the lipstick on my lips, and smell the feminine scent of makeup hanging about me, intermingled with the perfume Carrie had me apply - I just wanted to curl up and die.

Instead, Carrie took me shopping.

It started at a shoe store. The clerk was amazed when we walked in - and I asked to see the sexiest shoes they sold. Rage burned deep inside as I looked at style after style.

Before we made a purchase, we ducked back into the car. After a few more painful injections, my feet were much smaller, daintier. The tautness of the skin had caused my feet to arch excessively - something that would fade over time, Carrie told me, but until then, walking without high heels would be extremely painful. A fact I learned as I tip-toed back to the store.

I left with more purchases - and wearing a pair of white platform shoes with a seven inch stiletto heel and ankle straps. I wobbled clumsily atop them, barely able to keep my balance - but in no pain from my high-arched feet.

After placing the other shoes and boots I'd bought in the car, I hobbled after Carrie into the mall. Under her orders, I was struggling to learn a new stride in the heels - Carrie had commanded my to try an imitate the sexiest walk I'd ever seen a woman do, and although I'd rather cut my tongue out then comply, I did so without a word of protest.

Our next stop was a place where they sold jewelry - and did ear piercing. When I left, I wore a gold necklace, a bracelet, and large black plastic earrings that dangled. These earrings and my long wig brushed my shoulders every time I turned my head, a constant reminder of what I was undergoing at Carrie's slender hands.

She had me practice walking up and down the halls as she did some shopping for my. I was forced to endure the amused and/or disgusted stares of other shoppers as I tried to learn a sexy feminine stride in my new heels. I longed to call out to them and beg for help - but all I could do was politely answer the jeers of some of the people with polite answers.

After Carrie had completed her shopping for me, we returned home. I was beginning to feel the effects of that stuff in my bloodstream - my emotions, which I could not express, were to rapid, wild swings, and I was having strange, hot sensations up and down my spine. As Carrie had me strip, I could also see some other changes - my nipples were swollen and - when Carrie commanded me to feel them - sensitive to the touch.

But worse - much worse - was the shrunken, shriveled look of my cock and balls. They looked nearly pre-pubescent.

Through all of this, I had thought I was suffering the most intense humiliation of my life - my punishment for betraying Carrie.

Then I discovered it was but a prelude to her real revenge.

"Okay, Matt, I'm going to release all mental conditioning in a few seconds - with a few exceptions." She said. "First - you are unable to lie to me, or attempt to harm or restrain me in any way. Second - you cannot masturbate until I give your permission. Lastly, you will now refer to yourself in the feminine, using the name Mandy Smith. Now - all other restrictions are lifted."

"You bitch!" I screamed, wishing I could wrap my hands around her slender little neck. "Just what the hell do you think you're doing, bitch!"

She grinned. "Giving you what you deserve." She said with a grin. "Now, here's what's happening. The hormones I introduced are self-replicating - until I give you the antidote, the amount of female hormones in your system will keep increasing. Further more, they cause brain damage - until I give you the antidote that will cause the level to stabilize, you will also slowly get less and less intelligent."

I was stunned. "What! Give me that antidote!"

"Oh - not yet. You can't lie, so I'll know if you've earned the antidote." "How!" I demanded, angrily. "How do I get the antidote?"

She smiled cruelly. "When you get a straight man - no gays or bisexuals - to make you reach orgasm."

"What! I won't do it!" I yelled.

She shrugged. "Then by morning you'll be a helplessly horny moron - and you'll do it then." I swallowed - I had no choice.

"Everything you should need is here." She said, tossing me a bundle. "Get dressed and get out - you can come back when you've fulfilled the obligation."

For several long minutes I simply stared at the clothing at the strange items in the large purse I'd been given, debating. But as terrible as it was, it beat the alternative - I began to dress.

I tucked my shrunken cock up between my legs and grimaced as I pulled on the lacy black panties she'd provided. Next, I pulled on the bar, having to struggle for some time to get it on. I slipped the B- cup breast-forms into the cups, rather than hurl them across the room like I wanted.

Then the black leather corset. Grimacing, I pulled it on as tightly as I could, giving me a semblance of a female figure, despite the pain.

Then I pulled on the black nylons, which made my legs look - okay. Nothing special, but definitely feminine.

Next, the blue spandex dress. The final touch was the shoes I'd learned to manage a passable female stride in - not that I was going to use that excessively sexy one. My sole goal was to get a man to make me orgasm, then get the antidote, before I became a mindless feminized slut-boy.

Wishing I could kill Carrie, I left.

* * * * *

I walked into the bar and looked around, just wanting to get it over with as quick as possible. From long experience, I picked a guy who looked alone and desperate, and headed over, walking with a strong stride in the heels I was forced to wear.

"Hi, there." I said, trying to imitate a female voice, as I approached. "Feel like some fun?" The man recoiled from me. "Get lost, faggot - I only like real woman."

Several men around me were giving me looks that were threatening. I beat a hasty retreat.

* * * * *

Sitting in the car outside a second bar, I grimaced - but didn't have a choice. Rage and shame burning inside me, I used the spray that was in my purse - the one that would alter my voice.

I approached my target in this bar. "Hey - feel like some fun?" I asked in a voice that was a feminine sounded contralto.

He gave a once-over, then shrugged. "Maybe. Why don't you have a seat?"

I did so, and let him buy me a beer. I sat stiffly, answering in monosyllables. He looked at me oddly, but he was definitely desperate - he slid closer.

I stiffened, but didn't try to stop him as his hand slid around me and...

"Get the hell away from me, you... fagot." He growled as he felt the fake tits under the dress. I beat another hasty retreat.

* * * * *

In my car again, I looked at my chest, with it's swollen nipples. Closing my eyes, I injected the needles into each nipple, wincing at the pain.

The pain was followed by a strange sensation as two small forms appeared on my chest. They began to swell outward, pushing the nipples outward as mass increased. There was something definitely off about feeling masses of flesh there as I gazed down at a pair of perfectly formed B-Cup tits. Feeling like I wanted to die, I headed for the bar.

* * * * *

Two hours later, I was getting desperate - and it showed on my changed body.

I was getting desperate because it was getting harder and harder to concentrate, and things kept slipping from my mind. I could actually feel myself getting dumber. Even worse, I was experience increased sexual need, coupled with strange mood swings.

By now, my legs had been resculpted by my own hand in sexier curves, while I'd decreased the muscle mass in my arms. My ass was fuller and sexier, and my waist trimmer. I'd abandoned the bra, which was useless now that a pair of firm round - and sexy, damnit - D-cup tits thrust from my chest.

I looked around the bar as I entered, moving with a sexy, feminine stride. I'd learned many lessons so far, and was eager to get this over and done with.

I sauntered down the bar, making myself make sly eye contact with the occasional man who looked like he was alone. Picking an 'accessible' bar stool, I sat down - and waited.

It wasn't long before a guy approached. "Hi miss - care for a drink?"

"I forced my full, feminine lips to smile, and crossed my legs to draw attention to their shapely configuration. "I'd love one - I'll have a..."

for the life of me, I couldn't remember the name of the bran I liked.

"...Beer." I finished, worried. He introduced himself - and I worried more when I replied easily with 'Mandy' -and realized I couldn't remember my real name.

Pushing the gathering panic aside, I forced myself to come onto him as we chatted about inconsequentials. It took some convincing, but after feeling me up for a bit, we headed toward the alley beside the building.

I hated the fact that I'd enjoyed getting felt up. The first time, the experience had been too new - but to my horror, I found that with each successive time a guy fondled my expanded tits, I was enjoying the physical sensation, even if I was disgusted by it. Likewise, the two other times I did what I was going to do now...

I kissed him. The first time I'd forced myself, I'd let him do all the work - and that's what had cut that attempt short. But I'd been aghast to find that I'd enjoyed it. The second time I'd participated a bit, and enjoyed/hated it even more- but that guy hadn't trusted me enough to leave the building.

This time, I'd gotten him outside - and now I kissed him passionately, throwing myself into it while I built up the nerve needed...

Then I unzipped his pants and knelt.

Fighting the urge to vomit, I extracted his cock and fondled it as it became rock-hard. Forcing myself, I leaned forward - and slid my lips around it.

I wanted to die as I began to use every technique I enjoyed in a blowjob. My hands worked his shaft while my head bobbed up and down. My tongue danced over the head of his cock as I had one goal - make this blowjob end as fast as possible.

I succeeded - my aggressive actions brought him off quickly. As his cum gushed down my throat, I fought the gag reflex and swallowed it all. Not because I really wanted to - it was just the fastest and easiest way.

Then I stood - and was horrified to gape at him for a second, not remembering what was so important - then the fact that I was acting so stupid triggered the memory.

"How about a return job?" I asked. I lifted my skirt and pulled down my panties - and let my cock pop out.

He hit me. I saw it coming, and moved enough that it wasn't hard, but murder was in his eyes, and I fled.

It took me twenty minutes to find the car, in a panic - I was rapidly losing necessary brain cells. Memories were fading, and I was becoming lost in enforced feminine emotions from the hormones.

I climbed into the car in a panic. I'd wasted hours getting this far - and I wasn't close to orgasm yet. I needed to do something - something drastic.

So the first thing I did was make this recording on a micro-cassette tape-thingee in my purse. It's for me - so if I forget anything important, I can play it back. Now it's time for me too do whatever I need to end up as a sex-starved vegetable of a she-male.

I'm going to keep this running so I can have a record of everything. Here goes.

First of all - I'm now... um.. unrecognizable as me. I look like a kinda,, um.. mannish looking woman - which is okay. I'd think I was kinda sexy, if I could do myself. But I'm going to have to make myself a little sexier if I want to make it.

First - my cock scares off the guys, so I'll have to get rid of it, at least for now. There's a ... vagina mold in the purse. I push my cock and balls back up into my body like... ouch! That and... damnit.. that. That hurt.

Okay, now I stick the mold in place. It'll shape my vagina - the reason I haven't used it before, even though it's reversible is because it'll also increase my female hormones - but I have no choice.

Here goes.

Oww...ohhh.. Weird - sharp pain, then it felt good - looks just like a real cunt. Hang on a second - I'm going to let the burst of hormones kick in.

giggle

That was weird. So neat - kinda felt good, too. 'Kay, now I gotta make my boobs bigger, a bit - guys like big boobs.

I outta know.

Okay, got the needles. Going to stick my right boob now - then the other one....

oh - there they grow! Giggle The nipples are starting to get bigger. There's getting more sensitive too - the cold air make'em feel sooo good....

oh!

Opps - I musta injected all the stuff, not just some - these babies are still growing. I didn't want them too... but they feel good growing. So soft and firm, big and round... god, they look sexy Geez - I must be a GGG cup. Um... they feel sooo good... I could just sit here and play with them all night...

ohhh...

no! I gotta go get a man. I gotta cum Why?

Oh, yeah - don't wanna get dumb and stuff. Better get ready.

Off - this dress don't fit so well any more. Gotta pull really hard to there. Giggle - my tits stick out, like, a mile. I can see my nipples through the spen.. spund stretchy cloth. God - look at my cleavage - I could just drool.

I mean... I could have drooled? What Oh! Guys'll drool. That's what such big, sexy tits are for - so I can get fucked and be a guy again. That's right.

Giggle Silly me.

Okay - I'm going to go now.....

Opps - forgot my purse.

Oh - this bar is crowded and what? Oh - hi! I'm Mandy.

Hi, there - you look a little lost.

No - just.. waiting for my tits to stop moving. They jiggle a long time after I stop, you know? I guess they would - they're kinda big.

Yeah, they are kinda big, Jeff. Do you like them this big? Uh - yeah. They're...

Gorgeous. Giggle Oh - they feel so good....

Um... you .. uh.. probably shouldn't fondle them in public like that. You're right - you wanna do it for me?

Huh!?

Come on - we can go in the alley. You can fondle them all you want I like having them fondled. It's important to get 'em fondled - oh! And to kiss guys, too. Because.... uh...

Mandy?

I can't remember - but it's something important. Wanna help me? All ya gotta do is come outside.

Uh... yeah. Great! Come on. Here - this is fine.

An alley?

Yeah. Come on John, let's... Jeff.

Huh?

My name's Jeff.

Giggle Sorry. Here - let me make it up to you. Well I d...umph.

Mmmm....

Wow - now that's a kiss.

That was fun. Here- why don't you take my dress off? Okay God - they're huge.

Thank y... oh! Mmmmm yes.... now lick the other one.... yess...

God - you're sexy. I am ?

Something wrong?

I... no - nothing. Here, why don't I get that zipper...

I...

Oh God! You're enormous! Yeah - I know...

No! I can't... I have to...

What?

Please wait... oh..... yes.. you can do that while I think... mmmm.. squeeze the left one a little harder...

So - what was it you have to do?

Uh... oh, yeah! I have to orgasm. Jeff - can you make me cum? Please?

Oh... I think I could do that. Just turn around and... yes, like that so I can still fondle your tits. You ready?

I.. I don't.. OH GOD! You're too big... I can't take it...

Yes.. here - it's in...

God! Oh... okay.. yes.. I can do this... Mmm... you're so tight, baby...

OH! Oh yes! Give it all to me, John.. harder... harder! Oh good, yes.. .mmm.. more... more... Take it all, baby. Take it all..

YES! Oh God.. don't stop... ughn... ughn... yes "

Ughn.. god... you're... tight.. for ... a whore...

Mmm..mmm..mmm HARDER! I'm... ughn, ugn.. coming... OH GOD, YES! YES!...

YEEEESSSSSSS!

Shit that was good, babe. Here's fifty. Huh?

Dollars. Geez, you're tight and you got tits like fuckin' beach-balls - but you should be blonde. Oh. Money - okay. Thanks - you were great. But I gotta go.

Sure thing.

Oh, God - that was great. I came - I finally came. Now I gotta...

Gotta...

Damn. What did I have to do?

Lessee - I'm really, really horny. I came, and I got paid...

I.. gotta see.... Carrie? Yeah! Carrie.... because....

uh...

Huh. Lemme think. I had to cum. When I did, I got paid, now I gotta go see Carrie....

Oh! Carrie must be my pimp! Yeah - gotta give her my money so I can go out an come again. That's right. I trust Carrie - she'd the one who showed my what to look for in a John. Right.

Giggle

Oh! Hi Carrie - I was just coming to look for you...

* * * * *

Carrie smiled at the woman standing across from her. She smelled of recent sex, and her huge tits were clearly viable to all who cared to look - she'd forgotten to pull the dress over them. She was smiling brainlessly at Carrie.

"I did it - I came. Here's the money." She said in a bimboish voice, then giggled. "It was fun."

"I bet it was, Mandy." Carrie supplied. "You can keep the money - I just have to give you a shot." Mandy blinked. "Is it gonna hurt, Carrie?"

"Just a little" Carrie expertly injected the huge-breasted bimbo. "So - what now?"

Mandy looked a little hurt, and confused. Then she smiled. "I made a tape. It'll tell me what I was going to do - there was something important." She pulled a recorder from her purse...

Carrie easily took it from her. "You don't need this - I'll tell you what to do." Mandy smiled. "Will you? Oh - thank you, Carrie."

Carrie smiled. "You shouldn't take anymore money from men. You just want to fuck them - and suck them, and have sex with them all the time. If you don't ask for money, more of them will fuck you."

Mandy beamed and bounced up and down. "Oh! Goody!" "Come on - I'll drive you to a place with lots of guys to fuck."

As they climbed into the car, Carrie looked at the massive-breasted slut her ex fiancée had become.

A week. She'd let 'Mandy' be a cum-slut for a week. Then she'd undo the hypnotic suggestion that had made her think she was getting dumber - and all the memories of what she'd spent the week doing would come flooding back in a rush.

That would be the final straw - right before she told the new woman that she'd lied. None of the things that she'd done to herself was the least bit reversible.

Including the new hyperactive sex drive she'd possess.

Carrie could hardly wait to see the look on her face when it hit home.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: One girlfriend, tired of her boyfriend's crude behavior, has a spell whipped up by Madame Zoleski, and swaps bodies with her boyfriend changing him into a mindless, sex-slave, without name or identity.

Executive Toy

By Gunslinger

Running up the stone-banister-lined steps to his converted brownstone townhouse, Bradley R. Winthrop glanced at his gold Rolex and muttered under his breath.

Hastily ducking through the outer and inner doors of the polished-wood 'cloakroom', Brad stepped into the marble and polished-light-oak foyer of his expansive townhouse, glancing around with frustrated anger on his face.

"Candace! Where the hell are you?" Brad muttered, too 'polished' to shout such a thing out loud as he paced back and forth, his Italian leather pumps 'tocking' softly off the marble tile floor.

Pausing at the end of a pace, Brad pushed up the sleeve of his tuxedo jacket, and the French-cuff dress-shirt beneath. Seeing it was now seven after nine, Brad rolled his eyes and muttered to himself, figuring it was going to be another one of those night - Candace was 'in a mood' again...

Then Brad's eye fell on a photo mounted on the wall, one showing Candace and him at a charity event. Brad's expression softened as he looked at the two of them, so obviously meant to be together - Candace, tall, leggy and stunningly beautiful, with soft platinum- blonde curls framing an angelic face with blue eyes and full, soft lips. She had a supple, slender frame with long, shapely dancer's legs, and she looked great in the simple, deep-blue gown she was wearing - even if it did sort of 'highlight' her disappointingly small breasts.

Brad grimaced slightly. That was the only flaw in Candace's body - and it was obviously tied into some of her 'mental' flaws as well. Brad had quite reasonably offered to pay for breast implants, bringing her A-cup chest up to a nice, firm D or DD.

Candace had flown off the handle. It had been one of the first times, but definitely not the last. She had a tendency to get furious at him over all sorts of trivial things - like tonight. They'd been having breakfast, and he'd quite reasonably told her what they were doing tonight - and she'd gone off on him again about how he always wanted her to play the 'Vapid, sexy Girlfriend' at all the social events they went to. She'd submitted - barely - to that, she'd yelled, but this - this was going too far. He'd had to remind her, quite forcefully, that she was a nothing little girl from Kansas, NB from some one-horse farmer's college in a hayfield not withstanding. He, on the other hand, was rich, powerful, stunningly handsome, and amazingly well-endowed. As long as she remembered her place and played her part, she was welcome to all the perks that came from being Bradley Winthrop's girlfriend - but, fail to keep him happy, and out she'd go. Oh - and don't even think the word marriage. As soon as she was no longer 'stunning', she was out of there, with a nice little 'settlement package' and a cozy job in another company.

She'd muttered something about herself being Brad's 'Brainless bimbo whore', but had finally - if bitterly - admitted that she had no other choice.

So - where the hell was she? They were supposed to be at a very exclusive yacht party. One that was very, very exclusive. Some of the biggest movers and shakers in the business would be there - and they were all male, all between thirty and thirty-seven, the fast- track millionaires who liked the rich life and all the perks it brought...

...like the sexy, willing 'girlfriends' it brought. Brad was to bring Candace so that he and the other four men could 'share and compare'. Considering the 'private' nature of such an affair, it was an obvious sign of trust... and that boded very well for Brad's financial future.

Assuming they didn't set sail without him. He was in danger of quite literally 'missing the boat' - and all because of his bitch of a babe. If he could find a more willing girl who was as beautiful as Candace, he's drop her in a second - but so far, he hadn't been that lucky.

Brad was starting to get really frustrated - and enraged - when the doorbell rang. Forcibly calming himself, ever-mindful of his public image, Brad opened the door.

The delivery man outside looked into the house with obvious interest. "Hi. I'm looking for a 'Candace Higgins'? She rush-ordered a custom-sewn gown and some ancillary items..."

"I'll take it..." Brad said, quickly, signing for the package before the man could object, then over-tipping him generously to get rid of him quickly, practically slamming the outer door of the townhouse in the man's face. He closed the inner sets more gently, relieved to know that Candace hadn't forgotten their little talk - obviously, she'd been so forcibly reminded that she'd wanted to look extra-sexy tonight, and the delivery had simply been late.

"Candace, your dress is here..." Brad called out, warmly, as he put the box down on a hall table and opened it.

Inside lay a black sequined dress. Though ankle-length, the shimmering skirt had a high slit up the side, and the dress boasted both a cutaway back and a plunging neckline. Also in the box were a pair of black leather pumps with six-inch heels, a small black sequined purse with a pearl strap, and a tiny, lacy pair of black panties.

"What do you think?" Candace asked from the staircase, where she was completely naked, her lean, trim - and very sexy - body leaning casually against the railing. She was looking at Brad with a very, very strange smile on her full lips that almost transformed her face from 'Angelic' to 'wicked'.

Brad blinked, mentally shrugging at her strange look. Perhaps she thought it was 'sexy'.

"Isn't it sort of low-cut in the front? Especially considering how loose the bodice is?" Brad asked, holding up the dress and playing with the front laces. "Even tightened up as far as it'll go, it'll probably sag right off your chest."

"Oh, I don't think it'll be a problem..." Candace said, with the same eerie grin. "By then, it'll be your chest - and it'll fit fine." Brad blinked. "I beg your pardon?"

Her grin widened, became more feral. "I called Madame Zoleski, that old Polish astrologer I use. Told her I was going to leave this intolerable situation, even if I ended up broke and homeless. She, however, had a much more... fitting way for me to solve the problem."

"What the hell are you talking about..." Brad started to demand...

...and then the world spun around him, and he almost fell down. He steadied one slender, dainty hand against the polished oak banister and shook his head, the platinum blonde curls just lightly tickling the nape of his swan-like neck as he tried desperately to stay upright atop his dainty little feet....

"Holy shit!" Brad exclaimed, wide eyed, in a sweet feminine voice. He stared across the room at his own body, grinning wickedly at him...

...or, rather, at her - for Brad was now in the body of Candace.

"What the fuck...?" the new woman exclaimed, long-nailed hands flying in stunned shock to her crotch.

"It's a nifty little spell Madame Zoleski whipped up." The new man said, wickedly. "We've swapped bodies. Oh - but there's still more to come, Candi, so don't worry. First things first, though- you'd better get dressed."

Brad-in-Candace's-body was about to refuse, indignantly - so she was rather surprised to find herself gliding elegantly and sexily down the steps and across the floor.

"What's happening to me, Brad...?" The new woman asked, plaintively - and was stunned all over. She'd meant to say 'Candace' - but it had come out as 'Brad'. Worse than that - she had no control over her body, which was moving in a sensuously feminine way as it disobeyed her transplanted mind and started to dress.

"Oh, that's one of the 'perks' of the spell, Candi." Brad grinned, running his hands happily over his strong, virile new body. "You're now helplessly 'programmed' to act exactly the way you'd want me to act in any given situation. Quite simply - you're going to be your own idea of a perfect 'girlfriend'.

Brad was stunned - but unable to express her horror and outrage as she dressed. Candace had already put make-up on the face 'Candi' now possessed, and had also put on a few pieces of jewelry. It didn't take long for the new woman to unwillingly dress - and she'd been absolutely right about how loose the top of the black sequined dress would be.

"Don't worry - it's self correcting..." Brad told the new woman with a grin...

...and Candi gasped as her breasts began to grow. It was definitely an odd sensation, the weight and mass of her breasts steadily increasing as the flesh swelled larger.

"No!" She shouted, vainly trying to stem the rapid growth by pressing her hands against them - which created an interesting and not- unpleasant sensation. "Stop!"

"Oh, I wouldn't think of it." Brad chuckled. "After all, I know how you feel about that 'flat chest'. Soon you'll have no reason to complain."

"No...!" Candi cried again, staring down in horror as her already melon-sized breasts began to draw the fabric tight. The dress' top continued to move as her tits continued to swell, becoming bigger and heavier with each passing second. In next to no time, a pair of massive, medicine-ball-sized breasts were straining the dress to the limit, the massive mounds of firm flesh not only showing a chasm- imitating cleavage from the plunging neckline, but the draw-strings on the front were drawn so far apart that the cleavage ran practically down to her slender, supple waist. Her new rack was incredibly huge, impossibly firm, and remarkably heavy.

"Please, Brad..." Candi begged, horrified. "Change me back!"

"Oh, no - not a chance..." The new millionaire grinned. "Now, come on - we're late as it is."

"Yes, dear..." Candi said with a sweet, submissive smile, wrapping a black mink coat around her slender shoulders to ward off the autumn chill. It was an odd sensation - because 'Brad-soul' didn't want to do it - but 'Brad-mind' wanted the Candi-body to do it, it being the correct thing for her to do in response to Brad's comment.

Even as she sensuously ankled her way out to the Mercedes, her high, slender heels tapping lightly on the stairs, Candi realized that she was trapped in a hell of her own making. She'd never seen the dichotomy between her own 'freedom' and the 'slavery' she'd wanted from women, simply believing it was his right as a rich, handsome, successful man. Now, trapped in a huge-breasted version of his girlfriend's body, condemned to act the part of what she'd considered a 'perfect woman' for such a man, she understood what she'd been trying to subject Candace to...

...but the realization came too late. Much too late. Helplessly, Candi gracefully slid her firm, full ass into the car and slowly lifted her high-heel-pump-clad feet into the car, showing a lot of shapely, creamy leg in the process.

Brad grinned and slid into the other side, giving the driver directions.

Alone, Candi had been able to 'talk' to Brad, to complain and question - but, with the driver present, she was 'in public' - and so, she couldn't reveal even the slightest hint of dissatisfaction with Brad, herself, or the situation. Brad had always believed women should be sexy and sweetly submissive when in public, smiling and uncomplaining - so, as Candi, that was the way she had to act. Helplessly, she grinned warmly at her tormentor - and snuggled up against him, pressing her huge new tits into his arm as she brightly made vapid 'small talk' during the trip.

What really disturbed her was how good it felt to have warm, masculine flesh pressed firmly against her over-endowed new body. Of course, that physical 'joy' was more than eclipsed by the emotional trauma and horror at what was happening to her, and what was yet to happen.

The new Brad had no such compunctions. As the car pulled up to a pier, he grinned over at the new woman and smiled.

"I'm going to enjoy tonight..." He whispered - and he had no choice but to smile back 'lovingly', her real personality submerged by the one she was unwillingly playing out to her own damnable specifications.

With a sexy little mince in her step, she followed her new 'boyfriend' down the pier and onto a small-yet-luxurious yacht that was preparing to get underway. A simpering smile was fixed to her vapid-looking face, and her huge new tits jiggled and swayed under the straining sequined material of the dress as she sashayed up the boarding-plank. Still grinning insipidly, wishing she could just curl up and die, Candi followed Brad to the main salon of the yacht.

Four men she recognized quite well sat there, though she'd never met them as 'Brad' before, much less as Candi. She still knew who they were, though, and could identify each of the powerful, fairly young men sitting comfortably in the lounge, each accompanied by an attractive young woman.

"Well, brad - didn't think you were going to make it." Carl Dithers said, grinning. A dusky-skinned young man with dark, close-cropped hair, he openly eyed Candi's lush figure.

For her part, Candi found herself answering the implied criticism, 'protecting' her man's reputation.

"That was my fault." She said, with the same vapid grin. "My new dress is a little too small in the chest, and it took forever for me to cram these lovelies into it." Her grin helplessly widened, and she took a deep breath as she arched her shoulders, causing the dress to audibly groan as more stress was placed on the material covering her tits.

Too much stress. With a muffled 'pop', the lacing tore free of the grommets, a chain-reaction type of rip that didn't stop until the front of the dress was torn from neckline to waist.

Since the dress was also low-cut in the back, the result of this ripping was that her dress slid down her shapely, top-heavy body, pooling around her ankles and leaving her nude body gleaming under the golden-yellow cabin lights.

"Oops..." Candi found herself saying, mildly, making no move to cover her sexy, huge-breasted body.

"Well - quite the woman you have there, brad..." Stephan Dorfman, head of Dorfman Industries, said approvingly, eyeing Candi with undisguised lust. "Since your date has 'broken the ice', so to speak, why don't we just get right into it? We've already drawn lots for the swap-sets, and the list is right here..."

Brad picked up the leather-bound folder that was laying on the table. Opening it, he glanced at the table inside - then singled out a tall, slender red-head and gave her an appraising look. The woman, seated beside Michael Flating the Bio-Tech King, grinned back with sensuous wink.

One by one, the men paired off with the women, leading them off to separate staterooms - and, helpless to resist, Candi found herself following David Mannon, the sandy-haired Dot-Com millionaire. Though a little thin and pasty, David was still handsome enough, as well as young, wealthy and powerful - and Candi was stunned to find herself reflecting on these facts, thoughtfully, as she led David towards a stateroom with an extra little 'oomph' in her walk for his enjoyment.

'I've turned into the gold-digging little slut I really wanted Candace to be!' Candi thought with growing horror. 'Oh, God, I didn't realize what that meant until now! I.. I actually wished Candace would be a 'willing' slut... and so, now, I actually like acting the part of a gold- digging slut. My God - I... I'm actually going to find this immensely pleasurable...!'

Helplessly, she found herself pausing at the doorway of the stateroom, opening it and gesturing David through - and positioning herself in the doorway so that he had to press his body against hers, hard, to get by.

'Oh, God...' Candi thought in horror, 'I.. I did that! I planned it and did it, not as a 'programmed' action, but as a willful, planned sexual technique!'

What had been done to her had unwillingly harnessed her conscious, intelligent mind to the person he'd wanted Candace to have - so he was consciously and deliberately planning and executing these actions, even though she didn't want to do it at all...

No, that wasn't true. Only a small part of her didn't want this. That's what made it so horrible - most of her was already 'into' this persona, a twisted part of her actually wanting her to act this way. After all, this is the woman he'd always wanted to exist, and now she could make sure that such a woman acted exactly the way he wanted her too. It was this 'bait' that the rest of the spell was linked to, making her directly responsible for everything she did. It wasn't 'mindless' obedience, but planned and executed ideas in the service of her own subconscious fantasies.

Unable to stop herself, she smiled and wiggled into the room, clad only in heels and underwear,. She closed the door behind her and struck a sexy pose, smiling eagerly at the man who was reclining on the bed.

"So, David - what is it you'd like me to do...?" She asked suggestively, sucking lightly on the tip of one long-nailed finger and looking at him through provocatively lowered lashes.

"Get over her, baby,. And let me get my hands on those monster melons of yours..." David demanded, imperiously.

"You're the boss, honey..." Candi said - and it wasn't exactly 'unwillingly'. After all, she really believed that huge-breasted women like the one she'd become existed to please and obey men like David, so she had no choice but to live that way. She padded towards David, to all appearances eager to satisfy his slightest whim.

She climbed up on the bed - and damned herself for the rising surge of excitement and pleasure she felt at 'fulfilling her role'. After all, she'd always imagined such a woman as the one he'd become somehow being defined by the man she was with - as if, away from men, she was sort of a non-entity, a creature merely waiting in the wings for her cue to come out and be some powerful, wealthy man's sex toy. Since that was what she honestly believed her new role was, that was the only way she could behave - and the only way he could feel.

It was with excited deliberation that she pressed her breasts against David's face, letting him bury his head in her cleavage as he began to massage and squeeze her massive, round tits.

"Oh, yes..." she moaned, softly. "That feels really, really good..."

The most horrible thing was - it was the truth. Her body was responding to his touch, as was most of her mind. She was feeling indescribable emotional pleasure right now, more than even the physical pleasure his somewhat rough touch gave her. She was a huge-breasted sexual plaything, and she was being played with, sexually. The 'satisfaction' of being used as she believed she was supposed to be was overwhelming her, making it hard for her to think, to accept, to see what it was she was doing 'objectively', and be properly horrified and mortified by her helpless actions. Instead.. instead, her mind just wanted to shut itself down and go on subliminal 'autopilot', responding as she thought such a woman would respond, and simply absorbing the wonderful sensations of it all.

'No...' She thought as she had her massive, huge tits licked, sucked and fondled. 'No, please God, don't let me loose myself in the role...'

The problem was - the more 'intellectually' satisfied she felt from resisting the temptation to just gave in was more than counter-matched by the flood of negative emotions that occurred as she tried to hold on to her old, male life. The more she struggled, the more painful it became - and the more painful it became, the more her subconscious personality took over, to keep her from actually stopping.

In other words - it was a no-win situation, the harder she fought, the faster she lost.

Before she was even one-hundred-percent-aware of what she was doing, she was lost completely in the new Candi persona, eagerly and willingly sliding into the 'haven' of mindless bliss that came from being the submissive, eager-to-please little bimbo he'd always wanted Candace to be.

"Oh, you're so good, David..." She built up the man's ego as she enjoyed the immense pleasure doing so caused. "You're cock must be so big and hard by now. Please, won't you tit-fuck me?"

"You bet, babe.." David grinned, slipping out of his clothes while she eagerly dug through the end-table for some lubricant. She found a bottle of sun-tan oil, and she handed the coconut-scented oil to David with a happy smile, tons of pleasure thundering through her at being so submissively helpful to such a handsome, powerful man. She was horrified to find herself hot and ready, eager to do anything at all for this man. She tried, desperately, to rein herself in, to remember who she'd been - but it was impossible. While she could feel the excruciating shame and horror at her actions and persona, she couldn't do anything to change the way she was acting, actually eager to feel the pleasure that came from serving a man like this.

"Fuck my huge melons, baby..." She begged as her oiled up her hug, round tits and deep, chasm-like cleavage. "Fuck them and gush your sweet seed all over my face."

"Anything for a lady.." David leered - and then she was laying back and eagerly pushing her tits together around his hard, throbbing cock, feeling immense emotional joy at just the touch of his organ against her skin, knowing she was going to use this wonderful new body of hers to give such a wonderful, important man pleasure. That was what such a wonderfully bimbo-like body like hers was for - for pleasing men. That's why she existed, after all...

The thoughts running through her head horrified her with how 'natural' they felt, and she tried to eradicate them - but before she could, David began to pump his body, pounding his cock back and forth in her oily cleavage - and she squealed in ecstatic delight, happily moving her torso to enhance the sensations the wonderful man atop her was feeling as he tit-fucked her awesome cleavage, her own hands and his entwined on her magnificent rack.

"Yes, baby - cum for mama...!" She exhorted as he shuddered - and he obeyed, gushing a spray of warm, salty cum all over her smiling face.

"Mmm..." She said, wiping her face off with a towel that was kept handy for such situations - after all, everybody had known the idea behind this cruise, and the ship had been prepared for it. She was grinning giddily at David, feeling wonderful about getting him off and wondering why there was an odd, nagging feeling in her mind...

...and then, the immediate rush over with, memory and personality came flooding back - and though her outward demeanor changed not one whit, Candi desperately wished she could curl up and die.

Instead, she answered the light tap on the door.

"Ready to switch?" the cute brunette standing outside the door said with a grin.

"You bet..." Candi told her, helplessly - and she gave the woman a quick-but-eager kiss that the woman returned eagerly. As the cute brunette disappeared into the cabin with David, Candi padded down to the next 'assignment'.

"Hi ya, hunk.." She said, sensuously, as she stepped into the cabin where Steve was waiting for her.

"Hey, yourself, gorgeous..." Steve said, eyeing her magnificent rack. Candi felt the eagerness-to-please rising again...

...and this time, there was even less of a mental struggle before she was lost in her role, sashaying sensuously to where the naked man waited for her.

"Suck me off, Candi..." Steve whispered, and she was all willing smiles as she climbed up on the bed and began to lick his partially- erect cock, getting him ready after his last fling with the brunette.

Soon she was eagerly slurping and sucking away at his cock, not terribly expert in her technique, but showing lots of enthusiasm and native talent.

'God, this feels so good...!' Candi thought with a mental giggle as she slurped hungrily away at Steven's cock. Actually, physically, the sensations were neutral-to-mildly-unpleasant, but her rather shallow persona was unable to see the difference between physical pleasure and emotional pleasure anymore, actually enjoying what she was doing immensely. 'Boy, I should suck cock much more often...'

Despite the fact that this was his second round in a short period, Steve managed to cum fairly quickly - and most of that was from Candi's eager enthusiasm. As his flood of hot cum gushed down her willing throat, she had a 'mental orgasm' at the amount of pleasure she was giving the millionaire, and she was lost in a daze as she slurped him clean and bid him goodbye.

With a blank look on her face and a sexy wiggle in her walk, Candi went to the next door on her list. She knocked, and when there was no answer, she rather blankly began to fondle her massive, wonderful tits, glad she had such massively magnified mounds of mammary magnificence - after all, one could hardly be a proper bimbo without a huge pair of tits.

Still grinning blankly, Candi waited patiently for her turn to go in. It took some time, but the passage of time was barely noticed by the dazed mix of persona hovering within the rapidly dividing mind of the ex-man.

When the door finally opened, a sexy blonde came out, and Candi grinned at her before going in.

She walked to the end of the bed - and then knelt, submissively, her long-nailed hands still absently massaging her wonderful new bust.

"How may this worthless bimbo slave serve you, master..." She asked the millionaire on the bed. She couldn't exactly remember his name at the moment, but she didn't care - his was rich and powerful and male, and so he was so far above her in the 'social strata' that she was a mere nothing, ecstatically happy just to be in his presence. She waited, patiently, ready and willing to do anything to please him, but just was willing to do nothing at all for hours on end - if that's what he wanted from her.

"Oh - that, I like..." The man on the bed said, massaging his own limp cock. It was very slowly stirring to life, having already been 'serviced' twice tonight.

"Would you like me to get your wonderful cock all hard again, master?" She asked, eyes lowered. "this humble bimbo is far from deserving of such an honor, but if you so wish, I could get you hard enough to fuck me, master."

"I'd like that..." the man said, grinning, and she grinned back, wiggling like a puppy that was being rewarded for something good.

"Thank you master...!" She bubbled, before burying her face in his crotch and working eagerly to get him hard again. She was tempted to just keep going, getting another delicious load of cum all to herself - but he wanted to fuck her, so once he was hard she lay on her back and readied herself for the Master, eager to please him in any way he desired.

It turned out that what he desired was some pretty rough sex, fucking her and fast. She didn't mind, even though it was mildly painful and very degrading, what with her calling her 'slut' and 'bitch' and 'whore' - but they were all true, or would be if that's what he wanted from her, and she smiled through the whole thing as she tried to anticipate his hard, angry thrusts and match them to increase his pleasure. Meanwhile, she begged and pleaded with him to stop fucking her so hard with his 'huge, thick' cock, telling him that he was 'too much man' for her...

...and loving every second of it. Of course, she would have loved just as much if he'd been taking whacks at her with a machete while fucking her, but she didn't care - if that was what he wanted, that's what she'd do. That's what huge-breasted brainless bimbo-sluts like her were for, wasn't it?

Soon, he was finished with her, and she padded with a blank smile to her next appointment, high-heels tapping an uneven rhythm on the deck as she blankly fondled her massive mounds with one hand, and frantically masturbated with the other.

When she reached the next stateroom door, she knelt at the foot of it and knocked timorously, her whole body shaking with the force of the pleasure she felt at the thought of satisfying the whims of yet another wonderful powerful man.

The door finally opened, and a man she vaguely recognized glanced out. She might have recognized him better if she looked up, but a stupid, useful-for-sex-only bimbo slut slave like her didn't deserve to see her master's face.

"This pathetic-but-willing bimbo slave wishes to serve your every whim, master." She breasted, submissively. "What the...?" A vaguely family voice exclaimed. "Boy, if this is what you had planned for me..."

Since it wasn't an order or question, Candi remained properly silent while she waited for instructions.

"What are you doing?" The man finally asked, his limp cock hanging invitingly close to her mouth - but she'd never even dream of pleasuring herself by sucking a man's cock uninvited. "I'm waiting for your instructions, master."

There was a long pause. "Tell me your name." The man said, urgently. "Tell me your full, real name."

"What would you like my name to be, master?" She asked, submissively, her own identity not mattering a whit to her as long as it pleased her master.

"What the... Look, I demand you tell me who you are!"

She felt fear, and she struggled to find the 'right' answer. "I.. I am whoever you want me to be, Master. Being a bimbo slut, I'm not a real person. I have only the identity my masters give me."

The man looked stunned. "What? Oh, shit... Look, this isn't fun if you don't know who the hell you are!"

"I'm sorry master..." She whimpered, lowering her face. "tell me who I am to be, and I'll be that person, Master." The familiar-looking man stared at her, open-mouthed. "Shit. Now I don't even want to..."

Bimbo-Slut waited, contentedly, for her master to instruct her. Finally, the man sighed and gestured. "Oh - go down to the crew- quarters and tell the men there that you've come to fuck them."

"Yes master!" Bimbo-Slut said, ecstatic to be granted such a wonderful gift. "Thank you, Master! Oh, thank-you, thank you, thank you thank you thank..."

"Just go!" The man said, burying his face in his arms in an oddly defeated manner.

"Yes master!" She said - and, happily, traipsing off to fuck her brains out, what little of them remained after the complete and total breakdown that left her a mindless sex-slave, without name or identity...

..while the new millionaire sat in his cabin and tried to figure out how, exactly, he'd still managed to lose...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: After a terrible accident, the doctors decide that life as a woman would be better than a disfigured life as a man, but it takes a friend to help the new female enjoy her fate.

Eye Of The Beholder

By Gunslinger

It was forty-two days after being released from the hospital that Don Williams first began considering leaving the house.

It wasn't the fact that food was running short that prompted the unthinkable action. Nor was it the shortage of clean clothes, cigarettes, or toilet paper.

No - it was the fact that the booze was gone that prompted the consideration of leaving the womb-like safety of the darkened sanctuary and once more brave the world at large.

Gingerly, Don pushed out of the arm-chair where it's become habitual to spend most of the day, and began to painfully head towards the kitchen, keeping most of the body-weight forward, on the toes. Despite the deep depression Don had fallen into, merely rotting in bed was unthinkable, and Don was actually clean, and dressed in reasonably clean clothes that actually matched one another, an oddity considering the complete and utter lack of pride in self-image Don felt since The Accident.

That's how Don thought of it, capital letters and all - and it was thought of it often, and bitterly. Until The Accident, the twenty-two year old had been one of the best-known stunt-men in the business, an odd combination of panache and almost paranoid caution making Don the most-wanted stunt-man for any big-budget movie. The amounts studios were willing to pay for the trademark skill and daring had steadily increased...

...until Don had actually become something of a 'Status Symbol'. Even if the stunt wasn't too difficult, each production wanted to have Don doing them.

Which had lead to the worst mistake of Don's professional (and personal) life. One production company had wanted Don to perform the stunt - but they already had a long-term contract with another stunt coordinator and team. They'd wanted Don to work under that team, performing a stunt devised and rigged by another man. The one thing that any 'good' stunt-man refused to do. Unless you were part of that team, had worked with them for years and knew each member as well as you knew yourself, you didn't allow yourself to trust that they'd do the 'prep' right...

Except the company had shoved a large enough check in Don's direction to make him momentarily forget the personally-held code of conduct. One of the 'Mega-productions', the Prima Donna producers insisted on 'the best', whether they were actually needed or not. Every actor was a 'Name', the director was a 'Somebody', and ILM was doing the SFX - so they'd wanted Don, and shoved enough money at him until Don had accepted....

..and almost died as a result.

Oh, it was a great stunt. A classic 'burning man' fall-scene, with the extra 'visuals' of falling through the center of an open-shaft construction elevator. A great stunt, carefully planned from the initial explosion that would 'hurl' Don into the shaft, to the high-power fan blowing up the open shaft, slowing the fall, keeping Don centered, and making the flames 'billow' more, right until the so-called 'soft' landing in the Nomex airbag at the bottom...

The fan was a standard model, mostly used for 'weather' effects in movies, capable of generating everything from a 'summer breeze' to near-tornado velocities. The actual fan itself was mounted on Gimbals mounts to allow it to be directed...

...and the large restraining vise that held the fan locked in position had given way when Don was halfway down the shaft. Rather than blowing nearly straight up, and acting as a brake, it had blown Don sidewise, slamming him into the girders...

...off of which he'd rebounded, slamming into the girders on the other side, and so on, for another three stories.

Which would have been bad enough - except that, on the last set of girders, he'd gotten hung up... and by the time they'd been able to get to him and extinguish the flames, the special protective jelly that covered every square inch of his body had overheated.

Now, the person who had once been considered Hollywood's greatest living stunt-man approached the kitchen of the expensive, now-filthy house... and stopped, jaw tightening as the most-hated act of his new life was forced upon Don.

Don turned and looked full on into the large, floor-to-ceiling mirror that Don had vainly had installed in the house when it was purchased.

"Hello, freak-boy..." Don greeted the reflection bitterly, voice high and husky from the vocal-chord damage from one of the girders.

The image in the mirror was the most utterly hideous thing Don had ever seen...

Not that it was grotesque, in a fundamental way. Now, Don was pretty well healed, physically - except for the fact that the person in the mirror in no way resembled the man who'd once been.

Don had been of average height and built, one of the things that had helped create demand - with the right padding and clothing, Don could pass, in a 'long shot', for any of the big-name actors who was supposed to be doing the stunt. The person who now looked back at Don was completely unlike that 'generic male' that Don had once been.

Don was now thin - and only part of that was the weight lost from a long convalescence followed by bad eating habits. More of it was from the numerous broken bones that surgeons had painstakingly reassembled - but, with such fragmented breaks, there'd been considerable loss of bone material.

Don's shoulders were narrower, hands and feet more slender - and, with the two bottom ribs removed completely, plus the lack of solid food intake, Don's waist was damned near non-existent.

Despite the near-miraculous work done by the surgeons, even the jig-saw work they'd done on Don's bones wasn't anything near what they'd once been. Don's hips, for example, were actually wider, due to the steel pins that braced them, spreading them slightly. Then there was the problem with Don's feet, which forced a severe case of 'tip-toeing' around everywhere.

They'd done a pretty good job with the jaw and nose, even if both were smaller than they'd been before.

On top of the effects all the bone reconstruction, there was Don's hair... or lack of it. Though the actual burns had been minor, and were now fully healed, the heat had been enough to burn off every square inch of hair, leaving Don's skin completely smooth.

The doctors still weren't sure whether or not any of the hair would regrow again - and, as yet, none had.

Though it had been of medical necessity, and in no way planned, there was no denying the final effect of the work.

Don now looked more like a woman than the man he'd once been. And that was what made Don's reflection appear so utterly 'grotesque', that was what caused the fall into a deep depression that verged on suicidal... if only Don had the emotional strength to end it all, something Don just couldn't bring himself to do.

Because the very sight of his feminine-appearing body served as a constant reminder of the worst part of the tragedy. The edge of the beam that had performed sudden, complete and radical castration, forever unmanning Don, leaving behind this grotesque parody of a human being, neither male nor female....

...except for the fact that, while Don was still under for the surgery, the doctor had used his own medical judgment and decided that the best thing for the 'unfortunate' was the creation of a 'vagina', using the latest in medical techniques, creating a very realist, quite serviceable, and authentic-looking vagina for Don.

Who didn't want one. Which couldn't be 'corrected'. That had done more than leave him a castrated male, making him a pseudo-woman Don had never wanted to be.

"Goddamn it..." Don nearly sobbed, her slender left hand balling into a fist...

...and then she shouted incoherently, hurling her empty scotch-glass at the mirror.

The projectile slammed into the Plexiglas layer that protected the huge mirror, leaving a small scratch in to tough surface as the Scotch glass shattered into pieces and dropped to the floor...

...among the shattered remains of the dozens of other glasses she'd hurled at her own, hateful image.

"Why!" Don screamed at the ceiling, her damaged vocal apparatus making the sound high and very feminine. "Why did you do this to me!"

Oh, she knew 'why' the doctor had performed the procedure - he'd been under the mistaken impression that, given Don's new body-shape and lack of external male genitalia, Don would rather live life as a woman than a freak. No, the question was directed at fate itself, for the cruel trick it had played upon Don.

Sobbing, the unwillingly feminine Don turned away from the hateful image and staggered, tip-toe, into the kitchen. Slumping against the counter, she waited for the fit of anger and despair to pass.

When it did, Don slowly straightened, looking at the empty bottle of Scotch that sat on the counter. Her last bottle, she'd been rationing it for the last two days, rather than 'drinking like a fish', as she had been ever since she'd gotten home. She was more sober now than she'd been since The Accident, and the time had come.

Picking up the phone, Don slowly reached up and hit the auto-dial number on the phone. The one she'd promised herself she'd never use...

"Matt?" Don said, dully. "Don. Come on over... and bring your kit."

Without waiting for a response, the new woman hung up the phone, then awkwardly tip-toed back to her easy chair, collapsing bonelessly into its leather embrace and staring blindly into the distance, tears slowly cutting tracks down her cheeks.

* * * * *

"Okay, thank you, that'll do it..." Matt Stein said, showing the workmen who'd carried in the large collections of items to the door. "Have a nice day."

Sharing a 'Can you believe this guy?' look the two men left the house, and Matt locked the door.

"Okay, Don - it's safe!" Matt called out, and Don slowly teetered out of the bedroom where she'd been hiding while the workmen carried in Matt's 'kit'.

Matt was one of the best make-up effects man in Hollywood, and a long-time acquaintance of Don's, though the ex-stunt-ex-man was still unwilling to call the somewhat bisexual make-up artist a 'friend'.

"I'm so glad you finally decided to do this." Matt said to the bathrobe-clad ex-male. "I'm not." Don said, bitterly. "But I really don't have a choice, do I?"

Matt had volunteered his services before Don had even left the hospital. Rather than undergo 'final' surgery, Don could 'get by' with the help of Matt's creations, whether it was for a one-day excursion in public, or as a 'test run' before having surgery to complete the outward transition to womanhood. Don still had no desire to take that surgery, but had to admit - bitterly - that looking the part of a 'real' woman would make her less conspicuous in public than her current appearance.

"Oh, don't be that way." Matt scolded. "Sure, life's thrown you a curve - but it's not the end of the world. You have to learn to enjoy what you've got, rather than long for what you haven't."

That was the other reason Don didn't like Matt - the slender, dark-haired man was always this upbeat and chipper, no matter what the circumstances. In fact, it was one of the reasons he was so 'openly' gay - after experimenting in his late twenties and finding he enjoyed the company of men more than women, it had never even occurred to Matt to feel 'ashamed' about it, and he'd gone on living his life as openly and determinedly cheerful as ever. It was that near-overwhelming ability to find the 'joy' in any circumstance that drove Don nearly to distraction.

"Let's just get this over with..." Don said, grumpily. She waved a slender hand at the pile of stuff Matt had brought. "Why the hell is there so much stuff?"

"Well, I needed to bring just about one of everything, so you'd have a wide range to choose from for your 'look'." Matt said, sounding surprised.

"Geez..." Don said, shaking her head. "You could have saved yourself a lot of trouble, and just picked one set to bring. After all, I don't give a damn about what I'll look like, as long as I can walk into a liquor store without being stared at."

"Nonsense." Matt said, more firmly than Don had ever heard him. "You're going to have to start making some conscious choices about your life. The accident didn't kill you, and now you're going to have to start choosing what the rest of your life will be."

'I wish The Accident had killed me...' Don thought, but kept silent as she waved at Matt to get started.

"Okay, I thought we'd start at the top, and go from there." Matt said, opening up a huge case that folded out into five tiers - revealing a selection of twenty-five high-quality wigs. "Go ahead, and pick a hair style."

"What do I care?" Don said, turning her face away from the collection of feminine hairstyles.

"Hey, the color and style of hair will have a lot to do with how you're perceived. This isn't a 'whatever' choice. Now - pick one to try on."

Don sighed, looking over the collection briefly before picking one out, more or less at random. "That one..." She said, pointing to wig that was a brassy shade of golden-blond. It went from relatively straight at the part, just to the left of the crown, to wavy for most of its length, to large curls at the bottom of its collar-length stands.

"Ah, yes - the 'Suicide Blond' style." Matt said, picking it up as if it were a delicate vase rather than a wig.

" 'Suicide Blond'?" Don asked with little real interest as Matt carefully positioned the wig on her bald scalp.

"Dyed by her own hand." Matt explained with a grin, fussing with the wig. "There you go - have a look."

Sighing, Don turned her head to look in the mirror...

...and gasped.

"Geez... I look like Marilyn Monroe..." She said, without thinking, as she stared in the mirror. The observation slipped out while she was busy being stunned.

The simple addition of the wig had suddenly changed the entire way her face looked. It had gone from looking extremely strange to bearing a passing resemblance to the once-Goddess of the Silver Screen, even if the lack of eyebrows and eyelashes made her look like a doll rather than a real person.

"My word - indeed it does." Matt agreed. "The question is - is that a good thing, or a bad thing, in your view."

The initial shock fading, Don was able to slip back towards her apathy. "It's fine."

Matt sighed. "Does that mean I should use the glue to hold it in place - or would you like to try other ones on?"

"no, no - just glue it down." Don said, crossly. She just wanted to get this humiliating procedure over as quickly as possible, so she could go out and buy what she needed.

Lifting the wig, Matt began to carefully apply an adhesive to the inside of the flesh colored-and-toned underside.

"Now, this is a top-of-the-line wig, undetectable even at the closet range, once it's glued down." Matt informed Don, carefully positioning the wig and pressing it down. "The glue will make it as 'tough' to pull out as real hair, and it won't come off until I use a special solvent on it. - go ahead, play around with it a bit."

To make Matt happy, Don tossed her head around a couple of times, then 'fluffed' it with her fingers - and was bemused to not how 'real' it looked in the mirror, like one of the shampoo models in a television commercial.

"Yeah, it's fine." Don lied, eager to get this over with.

"Now, let's consider the choices for your make-up and facial 'touch up' " Matt said, staring to open a half-dozen cases.

Wincing, Don decided to speed the process up. "Look, Matt - since we've got a 'Marilyn' sort of thing going, why don't we stick with it." She said. "With my 'breathy' voice, I even sound like her - so go ahead and make me 'Marilyn'."

"I thought you didn't want to be stared at." Matt said, with a grin.

Don didn't care less, but tried to make it sound like this was actually a decision she'd made, and wanted to do. "Hey, it's Hollywood. People will assume I'm trying to land a role as her - and won't notice and slight 'imperfections' from me being a.. you know."

Matt smiled. "Good thinking, Don! I'm glad to see you're starting to get into this."

'Yeah, right.' Don thought, sarcastically, as he followed Matt's instruction to sit in the recliner and tilt it back.

For the next hour and a half, Don remained silent and morose, not really paying attention as Matt performed his 'magic', starting with realistic-looking latex prosthetics for Don's nose, chin and lips. On the last one, Don thought of complaining, since the procedure was a bit uncomfortable, and tasted bad but at the first comment, Matt was quick to 'reassure' Don.

"This is a special formulation of the adhesive." Matt said. "It increases the sensitivity of the flesh about the same amount that the latex dulls it. It's not quite as if you weren't wearing anything at all - we can't be that perfectly accurate on the mix - but it's pretty good. You get used to the taste in fifteen and twenty minutes, and won't even notice it, except when you're eating something - it skews the flavor of things slightly. You'll need this for fuller lips if you want the 'Marilyn' look. Now - should I finish, or should we try a different look?"

"No, no - I was just worried about the taste." Don said, hastily. "If it won't bother me, then go ahead."

Matt did so, finishing with the prosthetic lips, then going to work on the make-up for Don's altered visage. While Matt was fitting her with eyebrows, Don licked the lips, finding that they not only felt 'puffy' from the inside, but that the sensations through them were actually stronger than before, if not as 'clear'. Mentally shrugging, Don didn't say anything.

"Okay - that should do it." Matt said, proudly, pushing the chair upright. "Have a look." "Holy shit " Was the best Don could do, at the first sight of Matt's handwork.

Her face wasn't an exact replica of the deceased film star - but it was so damned close it was eerie. If there was a movie being made with a role for a Marilyn look-alike, she'd win the part, hands down. It was that perfect, from the bee-stung lips to the heavy-lidded eyes, from the straight-bridged nose to the tiny mole - nearly every detail was perfect.

"Thank you." Matt said, taking the startled exclamation as a compliment.

Despite the fact that she didn't really care how she looked, Don had to admit that Matt's artistry was amazing - and it wouldn't hurt her to admit it.

"It's.. incredible, Matt. Absolutely amazing." She said, sincerely - on the basis of artistic appreciation rather than personal preference.

"Well - for you, Don, I'll do my utter best to reach perfection."

Despite her own self-absorption at her own situation, Don couldn't help but feel a twinge of guilt at Don's unflagging helpfulness. Though this isn't what she really wanted, Don had to admit that Matt was putting a lot of time and effort into this, and doing his very best for her.

"Now..." Matt said, looking her up and down. "The rest of you looks pretty good, as it. really, all we have to do, for the physical work, is pick a set of 'boobs' for you to wear. Then comes the really time- consuming part - picking out your clothing."

"Time consuming?" Don said, with a mental groan - having just realized the self-sacrifice in time and attention Matt was making, she no longer had the option of telling him to just 'go to hell'.

Despite everything that had happened to her, Don was, at heart, a friendly, kind, witty person. The depression she'd slid into had made some changes in her behavior - but she couldn't bring herself to be deliberately cruel to Matt, not even now.

"Of course!" Matt said, with a grin. "I've brought a pretty extensive wardrobe for you to choose from. Now, actually, the size of your new endowments will have some say in your options. Since I knew your new measurements, from when you were in the hospital, I brought just the stuff that would fit you, with various choices based on your new 'cup size'. For a woman like you, a 'C' cup would be about average, and that's what most of the clothing is for, but I realize you might want to be more 'flat-chested', and that's fine, too - the clothes will still fit well enough..."

Don mentally groaned again - Matt had obviously put a lot of thought into this, and wouldn't be satisfied if she just choose at random.

Matt opened up the case in which he'd brought the prosthetic latex breasts. Unlike commercial breast-forms, these ones were incredibly realistic and detailed, and once the tissue-paper-thin feathered edge were glued onto Don's skin, would be completely 'real' to the eye and touch.

"Now, this is the 'A' cup set..." Matt said, pointing to the ones on the far right, then slowly sweeping his finger to the left. "...and then we have the 'B', the 'C' - and, just in case, the 'D' and double 'D' sets, mostly because I had them around from another project that they weren't needed on. Of course - if you really want a 'Marilyn' look, the 'D' set would be closest, though larger than the 'C' and we start limiting the clothing that will fit..."

That perked Don's ears up, and she looked with a sort of queasy fascination at the slightly large 'DD'- cup breast-forms, which were sure to limit the clothing choices even more. She wasn't really keen on the idea of having 'tits', even fake ones, but if she had to, it might as well be a pair that would...

"What's under there?" Don asked, pointing to a cloth that covered the inset compartment all the way to the left.

Matt coughed, and blushed slightly. "oh, those - they're something for another project that didn't work out at all. Forget about it - they're... big."

"Oh?" Matt said, suddenly intrigued. "Well, let me see them." "Oh, no - you don't want them. trust me." Matt said.

"Oh." Don said, deciding not to push the matter - and, inadvertently, winning the argument by giving up, when she said, off hand. "You're the expert - you know what's best for me..."

Matt looked startled, then abashed. "Oh, no - I'm so sorry. Here I am, struggling to get you interested in this, and just when you're really coming out of your funk, I start telling you what you should look like. I'm so sorry. Just because I think you won't want them, I shouldn't deny you a chance to make that decision yourself. Here... these are them..."

Matt lifted the cover...

...and Don giggled. It was a girlish sound that caused an almost physical ache at hearing it emerge from her throat - but she couldn't help it.

Not at the sight of a single 'boob', the size of a volley-ball, sitting in the inset. "That's it? A single boob?" Don said, trying to get the giggling under control.

"no - the other one's in the next shelf down." Matt said. "They're too big for both of them to fit in one." He paused. "Uh.. I'm glad I showed you them, even if they're utterly ridiculous - it's good to hear you laugh."

Don blinked... then her slender new jaw sagged a bit. "Actually... it feels good to laugh again." She admitted, somberly, the moment of levity taking her by surprise.

Until that instant, she hadn't believed that she'd ever laugh again in her life...

The combination of the unexpected mirth, the way it would speed up the process of clothing selection, and a touch of sheer perversity, made Don blurt out...

"Those - I'll take those."

"What?" Matt said, stunned. "You mean... the monster tits? You're.. you're joking, right?"

"Actually.. I am..." Don said, finding the very thought of what she was saying so ludicrous that it spawned another of those wonder-feeling giggles. She couldn't believe that she was doing this...

..but the heady feeling she was getting as the sheer... outrageousness of what she was doing was more intoxicating than any of the booze she'd sucked down since leaving the hospital. That liquor had only made her depression 'fuzzier' - now, for the first time, she'd found something that was crazy enough that the sheer shock of it could push through her depression, if even for a few minutes.

Despite how she felt about the whole 'feminine' thing, the giddy, 'guilty pleasure' type of feeling she was getting was worth it. It reminded her of sneaking cigarettes when she was young, of the gut- wrenching, fear-inducing, yet somehow exhilarating feeling that came with every stunt she'd ever done. That sudden rush was the whole reason she'd been a stunt-man, and she'd never expected to feel it again.. yet here it was....

"I am joking - joking with myself." Don told Matt, still giggling helplessly. "But that doesn't mean I'm not serious about this - I'm going to wear those.. those "

She couldn't find a word capable of accurately describing the outrageously oversized 'tits'.

Matt was torn. On one hand, it was hard to believe this near-perfect Marilyn look-alike, laughing in such a cheerful manner, could be the same depressed ex-male he'd started work on a couple of hours ago. Matt didn't want to say or do anything that would send her back into that morose depression.

On the other hand, her sudden shift in attitude was so bizarre...

"Uh, Don?" Matt said, hesitantly. "I.. don't get it."

"don't you see?" Don giggled. "It's so ironic, it's... deliciously perfect! I didn't want to do any of these, except that I'd rather look like a full female, rather than let people see what a freak I'd become. But, if I wear those, nobody would notice. They'd all be to.. damned... busy.... sta... staring.. at... at..."

She couldn't finish - the mere mental image was enough to have her in howls of laughter.

She'd spent the last forty-two days hating her 'freakish' appearance, and dreading 'enhancing' it by trying to pass as a 'natural' woman.

Until the instant she'd seen those huge, fake, unreal tits - and realized she'd overlooked the classic 'purloined letter' method of ultimate misdirection.

With tits like that, nobody could look at 'her' and see the man she'd used to be. With those tits - all anybody would ever be able to see is those tits. Some women complained that when men looked at them, all they saw was 'tits, ass and pussy' - well, Don was going to go one better, and become a walking, talking pair of tits.

When you're a freak, and ashamed of it...

...hide yourself as another type of freak you couldn't care less about.

When she'd caught enough breath to explain this to Matt, he too began to laugh at the delicious irony of it. It was, too literally, perfect - the ex-man who hated the fact he was 'a little bit' of a woman had found the hidden out...

...become too much of a woman.

"Put them on!" Don almost begged, and Matt set to work.

Applying the surgical glue - with the added 'enhancer' - he carefully placed the tit on her chest...

..which wasn't easy, because she was still giggling. Finally, Matt got them in place. "There you go." Matt said, stepping back - and laughing.

Don was the spitting image of the Screen Legend - except for the outrageously out-sized butt. Marilyn Monroe had passed into popular culture enough that the image of her was more real than the real woman who'd lived - she was almost a fantasy of her own.

With those massive tits attached to that famous face.. Don instantly ceased to be a real person in any sense of the word. Even the fact that she wasn't a 'real' woman only added to the illusion.

Don had gone from being a freak - to a parody. Not one person who saw this new 'woman' could possibly really see her as a person - no, the image projected by the total look was stronger than whatever reality that lay behind it. Surgically 'real' tits or latex 'fake' one, 'real' woman or ersatz, original face or not - none of that mattered under the all-enveloping, totally unbelievable image the look created.

Anybody seeing Don would know she wasn't 'for real' - and that very assumption meant that they could never see her as she truly was - an ex-male, trapped in a body given her by a horrific twist of fate.

This body was the ultimate escape from her hell.

Laughing, Don rose to her feet and looked at her reflection, seeing...

..the image. It was so overwhelming, she couldn't see 'herself' though it. Even though she was inside, it was as if the real her was inside a tiny control room in her head, looking out of her eyes. The body that she hated had somehow... distanced itself from the mental her. With such an overwhelming, unreal image, she just couldn't 'feel' the hateful body that so disgusted her. This was something else entirely.

If Don had been an 'Internet junkie', she could have better understood what she was feeling, how she was acting - just as a computer 'nerd' could create a whole new persona in the anonymous safety of a chatroom, and play out the most ludicrous fantasies without any inhibitions, so Don now had a 'virtual' identity complete separate from her real one.

"Yes!" She cried. "I'm free!"

Where she'd once dreaded it, she now found herself throwing open Matt's wardrobe chest with glee. "We have to find the perfect outfit..." She said, eagerly.

"Wait! Wait!" Matt said, smacking his forehead. "I have to have packed it! It... here it is!" Matt pulled out the prize...

...a white dress almost identical to the one from the famous 'sewer-grate' shot. "Oh - perfect!" Don said, grabbing it.

She had to have Matt's help getting it on - since the strings of the upper part tied at the back, they had to take a shoe-lace to make them long enough to enclose her massive tits, and it displayed an outrageous amount of 'tit-flesh', even so - but that was just fine.

She decided to forego the underwear altogether.

Then she stepped into a pair of white pumps with five-inch heels - and found she could move easily in them. indeed, after more than a month walking on tip-toe, the heels were actually easier than walking barefoot.

Don laughed, twirling in front of the mirror - then laughed harder as the skirt flared out, revealing her bare pussy. She was also laughing at the weight and bounce of the fake tits, which had small 'water balloons' inside to create authentic movement, more or less.

"Oh, this is wonderful!" Don cried. "I'm not me, anymore. I'm..." She stopped, with a startled, thoughtful look on her face.

"I'm.. part Marilyn Monroe, part Don Williams... and part walking tits..."

then, she laughed out loud. "Good God! I'm Madonna Mountains!" She smiled at Matt. "What do you think - does it suit me?"

"i.. guess " Matt stammered, with a confused grin, as he tried to keep up with Don's sudden transformation in spirit.

She laughed at his expression. "Don't you see? I was making the mistake of trying to.. carry the baggage of 'Don' around with me. A male, who'd been made female. What I needed to do - what I'm doing - is starting from scratch. I wished that accident had killed me? Well - it did. Don William's died in that accident, and - sad as it is - he's gone for good. Once I realized that, I realized that this person, right here, had to.. start from a dead stop. From zero. And this..." She waved a hand at her self. "Is what I - we - invented."

Slowly, Matt began to smile gain, realizing that Don... Madonna meant what she was saying. She hadn't just accepted what had happened to her.. but embraced it.

"I'm going to keep this for awhile, see if this look is really what I want..." Madonna said, hefting her new tits with a grin. "But, whatever look I finally choose, I'm going to make an appointment with the doctors to make it permanent."

"That's great, Do.. Madonna. I'm glad to see.."

"Kiss me!" Madonna interrupted, thrusting her huge-breasted figure up against Matt's. "Huh?"

"I want to see what it's like to be kissed by a man" She said, grinning. "god... I have a whole new life to live, Matt - I have to start 'learning' things as if I were.. were a girl just growing up.. which remind me, you'll have to teach me how to do make-up.. but, that's later. Kiss me. If I don't like it... I might become a lesbian..."

She giggled at the thought. "if I do.. hell, who knows."

Matt shrugged - then decided to do it right.

grabbing her, he swept her down over his knee, dramatically, and pressed his lips against hers...

...which was spoiled by her giggling.

"Sorry, sorry." She apologized, grinning. "The 'swoop' took me by surprise. Try it again." They did... and both thought it went very well indeed.

"Oh.. I liked that..." Madonna said as they straightened up. "To think.. I've been missing kisses that good all these years because of my... 'tunnel vision', Imagine what else I've..." She broke off as a thought occurred to her. "Hey, how are blow-jobs. Giving, I mean."

"Uh..." Matt said, startled anew.

"Mind if I find out?" She asked brightly - and, before Matt could answer, she was on her knees in front of him, eagerly hauling down his pants like...

...like a girl just finding her sexuality, and eager to try new things. "Gee... you're not even a little hard." She said, pouting theatrically. Matt didn't know how to answer the charge.

"Let's see if I can fix that!" Madonna said - and began eagerly licking his cock as if it were a popsicle. "Um... salty." She said between lick, now using her hand to help matters.

It didn't take long for his cock to... 'rise to the occasion.'

With no hesitation, Madonna sucked his rigid rod into her mouth and began slurping away.

She got no points at all for style or skill - but definitely got an 'A' for effort, and it didn't take long at all before Matt was moaning, and gushing a load of cum down her until-now virgin throat.

Licking her lips, Madonna stood up.

"Hmmm..." She said, with a thoughtful look. "Tastes kind of like caviar."

She suddenly grinned a naughty grin. "And I /ooooove caviar! See - I can't believe I've been denying myself this all these years. Kissing men, sucking cock - geez, what a doofus I've been."

"Well, uh..."

"Hey!" She said, snapping her fingers. "Come in the bedroom - I wanna see what having sex is like as..."

"Sorry!" Matt interrupted. "I would like to help, but.. well, you just don't so anything..." Then, suddenly, he realized what he was saying, and began laughing.

"What? What?" Madonna asked.

"It's just that - for years I've fantasized about having sex with you.. Don, I mean.. and now..."

Madonna laughed, too. "Ah, the ways of the world. Oh, well - I guess I can learn about sex the 'natural' way - tomorrow I'll have to start learning how to 'flirt'. Maybe hit a nightclub or two.

Meanwhile... how soon can I get another load of man-caviar from you?" Matt blinked. "Well, I'm not as young as I used to be. It'll be a bit..."

"Maybe I can speed things up." Madonna said, dropping to her knees again... As it turned out, she could - and she was a very fast learner, too...

* * * * *

ONE YEAR LATER

"Geez, Rick - get a load of her!" Tom said, nudging his buddy.

Turning, the second young man looked at the door leading into the bar - and blinked.

"Geez... She looks almost exactly like... uh, what's her name... The counselor in 'The Next Generation'."

"Maria, or Mariana." Tom supplied. "Something like that - but she never had a rack like that!" "Yeah! Oh, shit - she's look right at us!"

Blushing, the two young men looked away, ashamed to have been caught staring.

A moment later, they heard the click of high-heels, then a feminine throat-clearing. Abashed, they looked up at the beautiful, dark-haired woman, struggling not to stare at the enormous tits straining her blouse. Close up, the resemblance was even more eerie - she looked almost exactly the way

'Deanna' looked in the show... and both of them had the occasional masturbatory fantasy about her when they were a couple of years younger.

Or even more recently, on a particularly good re-run.

"I noticed you guys staring at me when I walked in - and from the look on your faces, it's because I look 'familiar'." She said - in a voice that was also eerily close to that of the actress. "I seem to get a lot of it... and it's great. Makes striking up a conversation with a couple of cute guys really, really easy."

Tom and Rick gaped.

"Mind if I sit down? She asked - while doing so. "I'm Madonna, but the way - Madonna Montagne." Tom and Rick introduced themselves, numbly.

"oh - stop that." Madonna said, crossly.

"Uh.. stop what?" Rick said. "We're not.. doing anything."

"That's what I mean!" Madonna said, feigning anger. "You're practically breaking your necks trying not to stare at my tits! Honestly - if you're not even brave enough to stare at a pair of huge, firm tits when they're a short distance away and covered by clothing, how on earth are you guys going to work up the nerve to ask me back to your place so you can fondle and suck them... among other things?"

Reaching hand in either direction. Madonna placed them firmly - and without any possible mistake as to intention - on the young men's crotches, smiling brightly. Leaving her hands there for a second, she removed them and smiled at the two stunned young men.

"Oh - don't get me wrong." Madonna said. "I'm not 'easy'. I'm just saying that if a couple of handsome guys were to treat me nice, buy me some drinks, hold some intelligent, amusing conversation - and 'complement' me often by both words and obviously appreciative staring, - then, if they could work up the nerve to ask me, I'd be quite happy to spend some more intimate time with them doing things I'm sure you'd enjoy as much as I do - like me sucking on your cocks."

Then Madonna had to lean over start patting Tom vigorously on the back - because, after she'd released his cock, he'd picked up his beer and taken a long swig to cover his shock - and at the end of her little spiel, had begun to chock on the amber liquid as it went down the wrong way.

Though she'd been female for slightly over a year now, Madonna had never quite managed to break the male mindset about being direct...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

Search for ^13([a-z]) and replace it with a space and \1

The \1 tells it to use what is inside the () as part of the replacement. If you have multiple () in the search string, you would use \1 \2 etc.

New dialog in parenthesis with capital letter, space before "([A-Z])

"([A-Z])

^p"\1

Summary: A nerd bookkeeper goes to investigate a strange factory owned by his employer, litte does he know that he is about to stumble over new process where people are transferred into custom made forms.

The Factory

By Gunslinger

The small man sat in the deep gloom of the office, his balding head bent low over the stacks of papers he was reading. The only illumination came from an overly bright desk lamp, whose glare reflected back from his severe silver-rimmed glasses, turning the lenses into tiny white spotlights that hid his watery blue eyes from view.

Harrison Robert Nebbish was the penultimate stereotype of an accountant - which, unsurprisingly, had led him into that field, his passionless, calculating nature meshing neatly with that of the job, producing somebody who was so perfectly defined by his work that he was practically a living zero - a small, insignificant man who moved through life making no impact on anything other than the figures he checked and rechecked day after day.

Harry paused in his work, the slender index finger of his left hand resting on the column of figures, as not to lose his place in the myriad lines of fine, close-spaced type. With his free hand, he removed his glasses and gently massaged the bridge of his small, unassuming nose. Replacing the spectacles, he ran his hand through the ring of salt-and-pepper hair ringing his bald pate, and once more bent to his mind-numbing task.

It was Harry's first day as Chief Accountant at a new company. He was dressed conservatively and painstakingly in a brown three piece suit, complete with a gold pocket watch with a chain that spanned the distance between the two pockets in the vest. His tie was neatly tied and lay almost mathematically centered between the lapels of his jacket.

The fact that it was his first day didn't account for Harry's precise, conservative dress - Harry Nebbish, accountant extraordinaire, (if those terms could be used together in any meaningful way) always dressed impeccably.

Likewise, the lateness of the hour, and the fact that he declined to remove the jacket didn't stem from an urge to impress his superiors. No true accountant ever impressed anybody - any accountant feared being noticed, as the only time such people were noticed was if they made a mistake of some sort. Perfection guaranteed perfect anonymity and a thankless lifetime of unrecognized work.

No, Harry stayed late because he had no particular urge to return to his small, fanatically tidy efficiency apartment, there to partake of a frozen microwave dinner - cooked exactly to the instructions on the box - while previewing the evening news before a quick shower and an early bed.

The thought that some social life might intrude on this routine would be laughable, if it were ever imagined.

However, imagination was not Harry's long suit. A great many things outside the realm of numbers and figures were not Harry's long suit.

Suddenly, the short figure straightened, a slight frown marring his high brow.

"My, what do we have here?" He asked himself in a quiet, monotonous voice, his long, tapered finger tapping the paper. "This certainly is unusual."

Harry used a pencil to lightly circle the entry in question - the easier to erase any evidence if it should turn out to be the Dread Mistake that would Destroy His Reputation, (which is exactly how he thought of it, capital letters and all.) - and started cross-checking references to the item in question.

Some time later Harry carefully folded his hands and leaned forward, resting his poorly defined chin on the interlaced fingers. His methodical mind considered the question.

The item he'd found seemed to refer to an expenditure that didn't show up anywhere else, other than one brief reference - the mailing address where the monthly checks for a fairly large sum were sent. Yet, the company directory listed no authorized division at that address. It would appear that somebody was siphoning money off, and very cleverly indeed.

Yet, it could also be some sort of legitimate division, which the company had a valid reason to keep at arm's length. Harry, as a new employee, simply could not be sure. However, asking someone else might get him noticed - and, if it turned out to be completely legitimate, noticed unfavorably at that.

Finally, he nodded his head slowly, reaching a decision. Tomorrow, which was Friday, he would leave work at five, rather than staying late. Then he would go to this address, and look for himself. He would then decide what to do with the information he'd acquired.

It was a cautious, conservative decision. Which made sense, as Harry was a very conservative, cautious man.

With that decision made, Harry's watery blue eyes once more turned to the column of figures, the small discrepancy pigeon holed into one of the many spaces in his meticulous, precise mind.

* * * * *

"So, Harry, enjoying your new job?"

Derailed from his determined move towards the exit, the accountant blinked in mild annoyance, and turned to face the speaker. "I'm getting along splendidly, sir." He replied. The fact that he'd avoided admitting - or denying - any enjoyment in his work was done completely subconsciously.

The handsome, well-formed young man laughed. "Sir? I don't think I've ever been called that outside of a restaurant before." The tanned man's white teeth flashed again, as he held out a large, manicured hand. "Name's Rob Delameco, Public Relations. Call me Rob."

Harry shook Rob's hand - or rather, held out his own hand and let Rob shake it. He was mildly surprised - he'd met many 'hail-fellow- well-met' types in his life, but this was the first time he'd ever run into an honest, natural incarnation of it. This man was simply the most cheerful, friendly person that it had ever been Harry's misfortune to meet. Harry cordially detested anyone whose own emotions intruded on his sedate little existence - such as this man holding him up.

"Excuse me, Mr. Delameco, but I must really be going." Harry said quietly. Without waiting for a reply, he began once more for the door."

"Sure thing, Harry. Be seeing you around. Have a good weekend, and don't forget...just call me Rob." Harry ignored him with aplomb.

Harry stepped through the building's mahogany and glass doors, and exited into a gorgeous late spring day. Like always, Harry's methodical mind recorded the warm temperature and the gentle breeze, the clear blue sky and the smell of growing things wafting upon the breeze. Yet, if someone were to greet him with the phrase 'Nice day, isn't it?' he'd reply in the affirmative out of polite habit only - although he saw, catalogued and remembered every detail of the day, he applied absolutely no aesthetic judgements whatsoever. The day just...was.

Harry crossed the parking lot to his car. A Volvo sedan, (the company had a wonderful safety record and the car was a good value for it's price.) it was neither old nor new, neither big nor small, and painted a simple brown. A completely, utterly unremarkable car - just like it's owner.

Sliding behind the wheel, Harry carefully adjusted the seat, mirror and sun visor. He fastened his safety belt and tugged it to ensure it was correctly latched before inserting the key in the ignition and bringing the car to life. Unlike most drivers, he actually checked every single gauge on the dashboard, especially engine temperature and oil level, and insured they were within the driver's manual specified parameters. Only when he was satisfied did the accountant put the car into gear and pull away.

Driving to the address specified in the records, Harry, as always, adhered rigorously to every driving law that existed. He kept the speedometer pegged with unerring accuracy on exactly five miles per hour less than the posted speed limit, and he never failed to signal a single turn. He drove with an eerie economy - his foot never touched the brake or gas pedals unnecessarily, and he was aware at all times of every other vehicle around him, moving or parked. The sheer precision of the driving was a miracle unnoticed and unappreciated by his fellow motorists.

Finally, Harry pulled to a stop outside the address shown in the records. As the Volvo halted in the lane, surrounded by a decaying industrial section long out of date, a thoughtful look creased Harry's face.

To most passerby's, the large, rambling brick building would have looked just like the other turn-of-the-century factories around it, long past their glory days and, to paraphrase General Douglas MacArthur 'slowly fading away.'

Although Harry's eyes were weak, his glasses approximated perfect vision for him - and there was nothing slow or weak about his analytical mind.

He noticed the fact the building, despite its discoloration and age stains, was still remarkably intact. Moreover, the many windows, high in the building, were all intact - not a single broken pane. And while many of the other factories' windows were painted black, Harry was pretty sure that this one's windows were not - what appeared to be black paint actually looked like polarization film to Harry, blocking any view in, but allowing people inside to look out.

And then there was the security system.

It was fairly unobtrusive, but Harry picked out the hidden cameras, and the cipher locks on the doors. As well, there were fine silver wires on every window he could see.

Satisfied he'd found the place he wanted, Harry climbed from the Volvo. Carrying his briefcase in on hand, he walked towards the pseudo-abandoned factory, climbing the short flight of metal stairs to the door - noting, as he did so, that the apparent rust was a very convincing paint job. The steps were as sound and sturdy as the day they were installed.

Looking at the heavy, steel door, Harry could see no way of announcing himself - aside from the camera mounted above the door, staring down at him. Whoever was in the building must know he was there. However, Harry always did everything methodically, so now he reached out and knocked three times on the steel door, then lowered his arm, simply standing absolutely, stock still.

Five, then ten minutes passed - and Harry refused to move a single muscle. It was quickly apparent that the balding accountant wasn't going to move until he got a response - if necessary, Harry was willing to stand there for hours.

It wasn't necessary. There was a brief electronic crackle, then a voice from a cleverly hidden speaker spoke shortly and to the point. "Yes?"

Harry assumed that there must also be an audio pickup accompanying the speaker. Unlike most people, who would look up at the camera, or raise his voice, Harry kept his myopic gaze on the door and spoke in the same quiet monotone.

"Sir, my name is Harry Nebbish. I am the new Chief Accountant for the firm of Abercrombie and Sons, Incorporated. The same firm, I believe, that signs the checks you receive. I wish to find out why, exactly, those checks are being sent, and what the money is being used for." He paused for a beat. "I should inform you that I am now the person who signs said checks - something that will not happen unless I am satisfied."

There was a brief pause. There was no verbal response, but there was a faint click from within the door, which swung open half an inch or so. Grasping the handle, Harry opened the door and stepped inside, hearing the door close and lock behind him, as he gazed out onto the factory floor.

The large room was brightly and evenly lit, and was meticulously clean. The room appeared to be a cross between a factory, a medical lab, and the set of a big-budget Hollywood science-fiction movie. Machines of obscure purposes hummed, beeped and clicked softly and efficiently, and several powerful computer terminals were situated in glass-enclosed offices at the far end of the floor.

Despite the profusion of equipment, the spacious building held only two other men. Both of them tall, clean cut and broad-shouldered. They wore their pristine white lab coats more like uniforms than everyday clothing, and while they also moved with quiet efficiency, it was of a more...military bearing. Disciplined and directed, rather than Harry's own self-directed and prissy attitude. The stood at the bottom of the short staircase, arms crossed, looking up at Harry with expressionless face.

"Mr. Nebbish, I presume?" The one with the dark hair and dusky skin asked. "Quite correct. And you gentleman are?" Harry asked, descending the stairs.

The lighter complexioned one fielded the question. "I am Dr. Jonathan Tyler, and my companion is Dr. Jerold Mahout."

Reaching their level, Harry nodded politely at the two men. None of the trio made any effort to shake hands, and despite the civility, it was obvious that each faction was sizing up the other.

"Doctors, I have come here because I believe that the firm is unaware that it is providing monies to you." Harry informed them gravely. "Oh?" Jerold asked, one eyebrow rising. "We've never had any problem before regarding this."

Harry noted that the man had neatly side-stepped the implied question, neither confirming nor denying the allegation. Harry smiled thinly.

"Perhaps you can explain to me what exactly it is you do here, gentleman."

Dr. Tyler nodded. "Certainly." Gesturing with an outstretched hand, he said "Please, come this way."

Harry obliged, noticing how he was now sandwiched between the two men, one in front and one trailing. Tyler led Harry to a glass- enclosed work bench, and stepped aside to allow Harry a view inside.

If either of the two men were expecting a shocked outburst, they were disappointed. Harry merely removed his glasses, polished them with his handkerchief, and replaced them before leaning closer for a better look.

"It appears to be a human leg." He stated. "Of the feminine persuasion, if I am not mistaken."

"Close." Dr. Mahout admitted, with a hint of pride. "It is a female leg - but it isn't exactly human. It's completely synthetic, created here."

"Oh? For what purpose?" Harry asked, straightening.

"Imagine, if you will," Dr. Tyler began, with the air of a man about to sell something. "A workforce of...drones, I suppose. Humanoids, appearing completely human, but programmed to perform their tasks - and that's all. Performing every function of a human being - but for less money, as they need no social life, no clothes other than for work, the basic foods with no regard to taste. Imagine, also, an unlimited, inexpensive supply of artificial organs for medical uses. Do you see the possibilities?"

Harry frowned. "I see that the 'drones' will never come to pass, blocked by legislation. I see the medical uses withheld for years - maybe decades - before federal approval. I see tremendous startup costs, with no immediate income, and risky chances in the future."

Dr. Mahout cleared his throat. "Um, yes. But what if we told you the immediate applications in the field of, um, 'Adult Novelties', in which much can be earned quickly, and start the basis of supportive public opinion as they become generally accepted."

"Some sort of living, moronic sex toy? A man's fantasy slave, created to specification. That is what you are producing?" Harry asked, then switched tracks. "Have you actually began producing a finished product at all?"

"Not quite" Tyler admitted easily. "We're still having problems synthesizing a viable brain, as well as a few other organs and other systems."

"I see." Harry sniffed. "Well, I think it will no longer be a concern for you. I cannot agree to the usefulness of this endeavor, gentleman. It's simply not a financial sound endeavor. I'm afraid that the flow of cash will cease immediately. Good day." Harry began to walk away.

The two men grabbed him easily. He struggled vainly as they lifted and carried him, his briefcase falling to the floor with a clatter.

"What? Put me down immediately! I demand to know the meaning of this!" Harry exclaimed indignantly. There was no fear in his voice - this was all to far out of his purview to be immediately accepted and handled.

"I'm afraid not, Harry." Tyler said mockingly. "The money is nothing - yours is only one of over three dozen companies we, ahem, 'borrow' from. However, Jerrold and I have this aversion to leaving witnesses to our work."

As Harry spluttered, the two men quickly stripped him. His pocket watch became airborne as they roughly tore his vest off, to land on the floor. Before it finished spinning and fell on its side, the two muscular men had strapped the nude accountant onto a stainless steel table, the metal ice-cold along his back and legs.

"I demand you let me up!" Harry said. For the first time, a trace of fear was beginning to show in his voice, actually adding a spark of life to his usually flat speech.

That first icy trickle of fear promptly became raging terror as the blond picked up a gleaming, stainless steel scalpel from an instrument tray and approached Harry, his face impassive. He brought the razor sharp knife up and gently placed the tip of it against Harry's right shoulder.

"You can't do this!" Harry screamed, his voice cracking. For some reason, an image of his father slicing the Christmas turkey flashed through the accountant's head, then was gone.

Now, a faint, ironic smile touched the lips of the Doctor. (Harry suddenly realized he had no idea what Tyler was a doctor of, if anything, but that didn't matter now, did it?)

"Actually," Tyler said conversationally, "yes, I can."

And he began to cut.

Harry's screams echoed and re-echoed in the large, cavernous room. Methodically, Tyler made a shallow, diagonal incision, starting at the right shoulder blade and moving down to the center of Harry's torso, stopping at the place where the ribcage ended. Blood welled up along the clean, straight cut and began to roll down Harry's side.

Tyler repeated the cut in reverse, starting at the left shoulder, and joining it to the bottom end of the first incision. From that point, he drew the scalpel straight down to end at Harry's crotch, just above Harry's withered penis. A bloody 'Y' now adorned Harry's slight torso, bright red blood quickly blurring the smooth, even lines of the incisions.

Then, Tyler grabbed the head of Harry's dick. Holding it between forefinger and thumb, he pulled it out and away from Harry's body, and placed the scalpel at the base.

And then the scalpel bit into the penis, cutting upwards and opening the flesh like a peeled banana.

The agony went from throbbing red to white hot and Harry's scream hit a pitch that seemed impossible to produce with the human vocal cords.

Then, Harry's scream started to fade in his own ears. He was sure his lungs were still pushing air through his straining vocal cords, but the sound seemed to be fading, the same way that his vision...was...going...darker...

* * * * *

Harry regained consciousness quickly, as if a switch had been flipped. One instant, nothing but blackness, a complete lack of awareness - the next instant, he was perfectly aware. One of the things he was completely aware of was the complete lack of pain. From what had been his last conscious memory, he should be feeling something - but there was nothing. Physically and emotionally. Somehow, the utter panic he should be feeling was gone. He was intellectually aware of his predicament - but emotionally, he felt nothing.

There was something wrong with his vision - everything was perfectly clear and focused - too focused. The colors and images were sharper and clearer than he'd ever seen. His view of the lab was slightly obscured by a clear liquid that he seemed to be immersed in, and slightly distorted from the glass that contained the liquid, but it was still too sharp.

Even worse, he seemed to be completely deaf. There was absolutely no sound - not even his own pulse beating in his ears. Only complete and utter silence.

The blond - Doctor Tyler - came into view, a small smile creasing his face. He carried a small Motorola walkie-talkie, which he lifted to his lips.

<Good Morning, Harry.>

Tyler's voice was sharp and clear. Harry assumed that he was wearing utterly soundproof headphones, and that explained his 'deafness'.

<Would you like to see what we're doing, Harry?>

It seemed to be a rhetorical question - which was fortunate, because Harry found he was completely unable to make any noise, at least as far as he could determine. In the same emotionless state, he watched as a large mirror slid into place from unseen scaffolding.

For a second, Harry couldn't tell what was being reflected - and then, suddenly, it crystallized, and he realized exactly what they were doing, and why he felt - or didn't feel - the way he did.

Reflected in the mirror was a large tank of liquid. Floating inside was a mass of grayish-pink material, beneath which dangle a thick tendril of fibrous material that branched out into thousands of smaller fibers. Also suspended were various masses of biological material.

The gray-pink mass was his brain. And the rest of it was his nerves, veins and internal organs. Of his actual body, nothing remained. A small series of fine wires connected to an electronic circuit imbedded into his lower left hemisphere, presumable funneling the communications to his auditory nerve.

Without the necessary glands, strong emotional responses were impossible - which is why Harry didn't go immediately, helplessly insane at the image of his disembodied organs floating in the nutrient solution. Nevertheless, he was completely aware of the situation, and able to think clearly.

<Don't worry, Harry - you're not going to be like this for long. We thought you'd like to watch as we rebuilt you.> Tyler smirked as his colleague moved behind a computerized console. Dr. Mahout pushed something - and Harry watched as computerized arms inside the tank began to rebuild his body, supplemented by Tyler's running commentary.

<As you can see, we are now putting together your 'skeleton' around your internal organs, complete with a skull. The reason that the 'bones' are an odd silver/gray color is because they are actually a carbon/titanium composite. Half the weight of real bone structure - and nearly thirty times stronger.>

Harry watched as the four-piece lock-together skull was fitted around his exposed brain, the robotic arms carefully positioning it so that his new, electric blue eyes fit perfectly into the socket. Below that, a vertebrae was built around the spinal cord, followed by the ribcage, hip-bone, and finally extremity bones. Soon, a complete skeletal structure was in place. From his unnatural calm, Harry noticed the skeleton was smaller than his original.

<Next, we put in the 'muscles'. Again, they are synthetic. About the same weight as the original, they are about twice as powerful.> Tyler said. The arms placed the fibrous material quickly, connecting it to Harry's own circulatory system and nerves.

<Followed, of course, by glands, missing organs, and subcutaneous fat. Don't worry - we're not going to activate your glands just yet. We don't want you panicking - yet.>

Harry watched the machines go to work. The mass of organic material positioned at his crotch and abdomen didn't clue him, as the distortion of the liquid made identification impossible - but there was no missing the large amounts of fat being applied to his chest in large, twin mounds.

'They're turning me into a woman.' Harry thought with trepidation - the strongest emotion he could summon. 'Those breasts look remarkably large - especially considering how little mass they've put in the waist.' In his dispassionate state, Harry could even think just how impressive the technology was to be able to reconstruct an entire human body so quickly.

After everything else had been positioned, a synthetic skin was pulled into place, complete with pre-attached living hair and nails. Harry, still completely immobile, got his first true look at his - no, her - new body as the liquid around her drained away, and the reflection became crisp and clean.

Her slender new body stood about five feet tall, much of which seemed to be leg. Not constrained to true human proportions, her legs were proportionally longer than usual, and remarkably shapely.

As was the derriere they connected to. A perfect tear-drop shape, her new ass was remarkably firm and shapely. Her hips were slender, but still womanly. Nestled between her new thighs was her new womanhood, surrounded by a small, neat patch of reddish- brown hair.

Her waist was unrealistically slender, a fantasy women have dreamed of achieving given to her by science. Above that, her chest blossomed out into a pair of firm, round breasts which Harry judged to be DDD's. Remarkably firm and round, the perfect breasts were surmounted by perfect pink nipples.

Her new hair was an impossibly rich, luxurious shade of auburn. Fairly short, the fine mass of hair was nevertheless feminine above an open, beautiful face. Surprisingly, it was beautiful and friendly, as opposed to unrealistically sexy - although there was definitely sexuality present in her new, high cheek-boned visage.

She was absolutely stunning.

"So, what do you think of your new body, Harry?" Tyler asked, and this time Harry heard it with her new, perfectly formed ears.

Without the glands active, Harry couldn't feel the horror, fear and anger to any degree, although she was intellectually aware of them. So, it was in the tone of the mildest indignation when she spoke, her voice a rich, elegant contralto.

"You can't get away with this, you know. Although you've turned me into a woman, I can still report you - in fact, now I have more reason than ever to want to."

Tyler laughed." True enough - now. But we aren't quite done. My only regret is I won't be able to watch the results of my little transformation. Good-bye, Harry."

The robotic arm injected a syringe into Harry's slender, feminine arm, and blackness reclaimed her.

* * * * *

The golden, morning sunlight spilled into the hotel room through the opened drapes, painting the bed and it's occupant in pastel shades of red, orange and gold. One long, shapely calf extended from the rumpled covers.

The delectable leg shifted slightly as a low, feminine yawn sounded from beneath the sheets. Slowly, the figure on the bed stirred to life, awaking from her slumber slowly.

The transformed accountant blinked blearily at the beige ceiling, unsure where she was - and then memory came back in a flash, and she sat bolt upright, the rumpled bedclothes spilling onto the floor as she gazed in shocked horror down at her large, firm breasts, their nipples crinkled and erect in the cool air.

"My god!" she gasped in her rich, feminine new voice. Her first thought - that it had all been some sort of horrible nightmare - was quickly disabused as her slender hands, tipped with long nails, rose and lightly touched her full new bosom, verifying it's reality. New sensations emanated from her chest at even the light caress of her new hands.

Forcing her attention away from the sensitive mounds of flesh, she surveyed the room. It was luxurious, the bedroom coming off of a well-appointed sitting room, visible through the open door. A second door obviously led to an en suite bathroom. Despite the expensive decor, there was an impersonal feeling to the decor that immediately pegged it as a hotel room, expensive to be sure, but a hotel room. Slowly, she slid from the bed, finding, remarkably, that she had perfect balance and moved with a supple grace that should have taken weeks - months - to acquire.

The shapely, buxom frowned at the sight of a small, black leather purse on the night table. Her first inclination - to look through it - was delayed by something more prosaic. Her bladder. She had to pee, and now.

With the same inexplicable, ultra-feminine grace, she made her way to the bathroom and lowered herself onto the toilet, cataloguing the way her fuller, firmer ass felt with her weight upon it. With a feeling of shame, she urinated, finding the experience fundamentally similar, but at the same time, unavoidably alien. Finished, she carefully wiped herself, trying to ignore the sensations it created, then flushed the toilet. That taken care of, she returned to the main room and sat cross legged on the bed, pulling the purse to herself and methodically taking each item out.

"Hmm... make-up...tissues...a pen. A wallet " she opened the last item, a lady's black leather wallet with gold accents. Carefully she scrutinized the contents.

"Well...more than two thousand in cash, plus five seventy-three in change. A Connecticut driver's license - in the name of Anita Mann. Apparently me, from the photo... Credit cards, checks, bank-book, all in the Mann name... Hmm, balance of "

Flipping through the bank book, she stopped, one slim, finely arched eyebrow climbing higher.

"Seven hundred and forty-eight thousand dollars?" She said, surprise evident in her new voice. She shook her head, forcing the cash from her mind. If it were some sort of bribe, it was certainly considerably less than it would take. They'd taken her body, her manhood, her life away - and they thought a miserable three-quarters of a million would keep her quiet?

That's when Anita made a shocking discovery. She couldn't remember the two men's names.

In fact, she couldn't remember, really, what they had looked like. Or where the...lab? For some reason, lab wasn't quite right, but in any case, she couldn't remember that either. It was like the information was just...gone. She knew she should know it, but it wasn't there.

What was more frightening was the fact that she couldn't remember her name. Her original name, that was. She could still remember that she'd been a man, and must have had a male name - but she couldn't think of it, no matter how hard she tried.

Or where she'd worked as a man. Where she'd lived. Her parent's names. Her friends names. She could remember her life as a man quite a bit, could mentally see the business where she'd worked - but the address, telephone number or name of the company were blanks. Just the nameless image of the building itself.

For Anita, who'd always had a perfect, flawless memory, it was staggering. She dropped her purse and wrapped her arms around herself, suddenly chilled.

"What have they done to me?" she whispered to herself, staring into the distance. Then, her eye caught the calendar on the wall, and she started. More than four months had passed since this whole thing had started.

Slowly, her expression strengthened. Anita vowed that she wouldn't let them destroy her 'self'. If she was condemned to life as a woman - well, come hell or high water, she'd make the best of it. There was no way she was going to let those bastards win.

In the oddness of the situation, it never occurred to her that she - who had been a cold, emotionless man - had never before felt anger, or any emotion, as strongly as she did now.

Gathering up her purse, she meticulously placed the items in it, then with that damnably easy stride, swayed across the room, her full, firm breasts jiggling slightly with each step. Reaching the closet, she opened it and frowned at the decidedly feminine selection stored inside. Sighing, she picked an outfit at random, and carried back to the bed to change.

The lacy white briefs were easy to put on, despite the odd way they felt fitting snugly around her flat, feminine crotch and remarkably full, firm ass. The bra - a DDD - was a little harder, and she struggled with it for several moments before finally managing to contain her full, sensual bosom.

Next came the sheer black pantyhose. She considered them for a moment before carefully balling them up, inserting her dainty feet, and carefully drawing them up her long, smooth legs. She tried to ignore the new sensation as the silky nylon encased her legs.

Over the inner garments she pulled on a simple beige skirt that fell to just above her knees, and clung tightly to the curve of her ass and hips. Tucked into the skirt was a white silk blouse that buttoned taut over her full bust and was tailored to make the sudden transition from the fullness of her chest to the startling slenderness of her waist, emphasizing both to an advantage. The final touch was the shoes - a pair of white pumps with a two-inch flared heel. She carefully stepped into the unfamiliar footwear - and didn't know whether or not she should be surprised by the fact that she balanced and moved easily in them, emphasizing her feminine gait.

She walked over to the full length mirror, feeling the air moving across her nyloned legs in a pleasant breeze unlike anything she'd ever felt before. Critically, she eyed herself in the mirror, and grudgingly admitted that she looked pretty damned good...

<...except you need to do your jewelry and make-up...>

...for a woman who hasn't finished. Humming to herself, Anita walked over to the dresser. Looking in her jewelry box, she selected a pair of short diamond and gold earrings and expertly inserted them in her pierced lobes. For her neck, she chose a simple gold chain, which she put on after undoing the top two buttons of her blouse for a more casual look. A slender gold watch on a leather strap was the final piece of jewelry.

Still humming contentedly, with a small smile, she walked into the bathroom and sat down at the mirror. Quickly, she applied a faint hint of blush with a light touch, her smooth, flawless skin needing little help. Next, she used mascara on her full, long lashes, and a touch of eye shadow. Thankfully, she used the new 'one-minute' fast drying nail polish, which simplified things. Finally, she applied her lipstick, a pastel shade of coral. She looked in the mirror and checked her final look...

...and a frown creased her perfect brow as a puzzled look crossed her face. She looked down at the lipstick she still held - then dropped it with a gasp.

"What the hell....?" Anita gasped, shocked. "How the hell...?"

She hadn't even thought about it. It had seemed perfectly natural, at the time, to apply the make-up. Which she'd done easily and efficiently, as if she'd been doing it for years. What on her had possessed her to put on make-up at all? She didn't want to be a woman, she didn't want to be feminine...

<...it looks perfect...>

...but still, it did look good on her. Having put it on, it didn't make any sense to take it off now, did it?

Nodding to herself, she gathered her purse and left the room, her hips swaying with every step as she walked to the elevator. Inside, she found herself looking at her reflection with...pride? Grudgingly, she had to admit she did look real good.

Stepping out into the parking garage, she stopped dead as she realized something. She had no idea which was her car.

She solved that problem with the remote on the keychain. She followed the sound of the car's security system arming and disarming until she was sliding behind the wheel of a brand new BMW. She carefully positioned the seats and mirrors and brought the car to life, letting it idle as she checked the Driver's Manual to ensure the gauges all read correctly. Finally, she slipped the car into gear and pulled out of the underground garage.

She spent the next few hours driving around in a sort of search pattern, trying to find something that looked familiar, that would jog her recollections of her past life. She finally decided to take a break from her search when her stomach announced it's continued existence. She chose a small cafe and pulled to the curb.

Without really considering it, she ate on the patio, a light lunch of salad and breadstick, with a glass of white wine. It never occurred to her to question her choice of lunch. She was too busy studiously ignoring the admiring glances of patrons and passing men.

Finishing her small lunch and paying for it, she rose easily to her feet. Looking at the car and contemplating another few hours in it, Anita grimaced and decide to 'window shop' along the stores lining the street, a chance to stretch her...

<...long, luscious...>

...legs before another extended bout of driving. She began to walk along the sidewalk, idly viewing the wares on display in the various windows.

She was passing an up-scale shoe store, and glanced disinterestedly at the display of footwear crowding the window...

<...THOSE! YOU HAVE TO BUY THOSE!...>

...when she inexplicably found her eyes drawn to a pair of white shoes with a five-inch stiletto heel. She frowned and dragged her eyes away - only to inexorably return to them.

"What the hell am I thinking?" she muttered to her self. "I don't want those."

Nevertheless, when she returned the car, it was perched atop the high-heeled shoes, which did wondrous things to her legs and ass. Puzzled and slightly scared, she also found herself...enjoying? the looks that she got in the spike-heeled shoes. She knew how good her legs and ass must look...

Squelching the thought, she started the car and pulled away from the curb.

* * * * *

"Amazing." The slender man shook his head as he watched the BMW pull away. The driver - a reasonably attractive woman, not stunning but nice - excepting, of course, her absolutely magnificent set of tits. "And he - she, I mean - really doesn't know?..."

The second man in the van glanced out of the tinted windows with a smile as the taillights of the BMW vanished from sight. "Not for the next year, until she's settled into her new life. Then everything will come back - as specified."

The slender man shook his head again and repeated. "Amazing. Mr. Delameco, when I was, um, referred to you by..." Rob held up a hand. "No names please. We ensure complete confidentiality, Mr... Smith."

The slender man smiled at the use of the pseudonym. "Of course. Still, I can't believe that hypnosis could be that powerful. She really doesn't remember?"

Rob shook his head. "He was bored with his life, and had a secret - very secret - fantasy. But, he didn't want to experience a man living as a fake woman - he wanted to see what being a real woman would be like. So, first we hypnotized him to forget his transgender tendencies, and set him up in a fake 'job'. Then, leaving the 'clue', we played out the script. We drugged him, sent him off to Switzerland for the surgery - a marvelous job, as you can see - then implanted the fake memories of his complete transformation. For the next year, she'll live exactly as a woman. Then, on the programmed date, everything will come back, and she'll get to savor the past year before going on in the new life she'll have defined for herself."

'Smith' smiled. "But you can custom tailor my own scenario, right?" Rob nodded benignly. "Of course. We'll be ready next week."

The slender man looked thoughtfully in the direction the car had vanished. "I only want to make one change to my scenario." Rob's eyebrow rose. "Oh?"

The man smiled, flushing. "Well, those are really great looking tits she had..."

Rob laughed. "No problem, Mr. Smith. No problem. Here at the Fantasy Factory, we aim to please." THE END...

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A nerd lures his next door neighbor over, drugs him, and proceeds to use a new drug to turn him into a buxom bimbo.

Fail-Safe

By Gunslinger

Holding the door open with one hand, Jeff used the other to wave towards the interior of the house.

"Come in, Brad, come in!" The slender, bespectacled young man said, smiling brightly. "I'm glad you agreed to come!"

"Uh, yeah..." His guest said, looking at the russet-haired young man askance. Practically looming over Jeff, the hard-bodied, deeply tanned young blond walked - strutted, really - into the low, sprawling building that served as both Jeff's home and his own personal laboratory.

"What's this all about?" Brad wanted to know - with good reason. Though they were neighbors, it could hardly be said they 'got along'. Being invited over was unusual - to put it mildly.

"I'll explain it over a drink." Jeff said, shutting the front door and leading his guest to the study. As Brad settled his tall, tautly-muscled body into a comfortable chair, Jeff walked over to the small cabinet that served as his 'bar'.

"I've got whiskey and sherry. What'll you have?" The young scientist inquired.

"Whiskey." Brad said, the expression on his face making it clear what he thought about men who drank sherry...

...which was exactly what Jeff had planned. Smiling to himself, he poured a glass of each libation, having already liberally laced the whiskey with his powerful hypnotic drug before calling Brad over.

Carrying the drinks over to the desk, he sat down behind it and slid Brad's drink across the polished oak surface.

With great satisfaction, he watched his muscle-bound neighbor finish off the drink in one shot - and when Brad asked if he could pour himself a refill, Jeff was only too glad to agree, knowing the more laced whiskey Brad drank, the more highly suggestible he'd become.

As Brad poured and downed a second drink - and, in fact, a third, Jeff watched with a predatory gleam in his eye. Usually dressed in rather 'formal' clothing, Jeff was wearing a loose-fitting pair of sweatpants today, held up by the tightly-drawn string built in to the waist band.

His usual clothes wouldn't fit him very well - not any more...

...and, as he looked at his neighbor, whose hard-muscled body was displayed by only the cut-off jean shorts he wore, Jeff found great satisfaction in the thought that Brad's entire wardrobe would soon be obsolete, as well.

"So, what the hell is this all about?" Brad asked, carrying yet another drink over with him as he slumped back into his seat. This drink he began sipping.

"I have something I want to show you..." Jeff said, standing. He reached down, and began yanking at the draw string of his track pants.

"Whoa, what the fuck are you doing?" Brad demanded, half-rising from his seat. "I always just assumed you were a fagot, but that doesn't... HOLY SHIT!"

"Quite impressive, isn't it?" Jeff agreed, smugly. He looked down at the massive cock hanging limp between his thighs, and smiled to himself before pulling up his pants.

Brad had an odd expression on his face - half awed, half disgusted.

"Man, I can see why you'd be proud - but what the hell are you showing me for? I don't swing that way!"

"Neither do I." Jeff said, calmly. "Despite the fact I'm short, slender and smart, or that I don't like sports, and I drink sherry instead of beer or whiskey, I'm very much heterosexual. I'm geeky, not gay."

"Sure, whatever." Brad said, dismissively. "So why the peep show bit?"

"Because, until three hours ago, I was only average." Jeff said - overstating it slightly, actually. "That cock you saw? It's the result of a new drug I've developed."

"You came up with a cock-growth drug?" Brad blurted in shock.

"Oh, much more than that." Jeff assured him. "Actually, while the drug's in your system and active, you can change your body in any way you desire - just by thinking about it."

"You're shitting me!" Brad said, shaking his head.

"Not at all - and, in fact, you can prove it to yourself. That's why I asked you to come over - I'd like you to be test subject number two." Brad gaped at him.

"I need several test subjects to see if it's equally effective on all people." Jeff 'explained', glibly. "Think about it - one little injection, and you can alter your body in any way you see fit - like I did."

Jeff waved a hand in the direction of his own crotch. It was, of course, 'bait' - Brad already thought he was God's Gift To Women, and about the only part of himself he'd be really willing to change was the size of his package. One of the reasons Jeff had chosen to (radically) enlarge his own cock was to help plant that idea in Brad's head.

Not that it was the only reason, of course - or even the most important one.

"You want me to take this stuff, too?" Brad said, his face displaying his unfamiliarity with considering consequences - as he was trying to do now.

Of course, the solidly-built 'stud' had no way of knowing that the incredibly fact-acting drug already in his system was also degrading his ability to do so.

If he'd wanted to, Jeff could have just slipped the body-altering drug into Brad's drink, as well - but that would have taken most of the ['fun' out of what he had planned. After all, one of the great things about the hypnotic drug was the fact that the person didn't know they were under its influence. Though they'd be highly suggestible, they'd think they were doing everything 'themselves', never realizing their thoughts were being tampered with.

"Are you sure it's safe?" Brad asked, finally.

"Of course it is - I already used it on myself, didn't I?" Jeff asked, reasonably enough.

"I dunno..." Brad said, gnawing on a knuckle. "I mean.. it still sounds like something bad can happen. I mean, what if I turn into, like, a mutant or something?"

"Can't happen." Jeff said, blithely. "After all, you control your changes yourself. The drug only changes you in ways you will it too - so you can't become anything other than what you willing decide to be. Come on - say 'yes'..."

With Brad already 'naturally' half-decided, that little push on his wide-open brain was all it took:

"Well, okay..." Brad agreed, still somewhat hesitantly - but his doubts and, though he wouldn't have admitted it even to himself, fears, weren't nearly enough to stand up to the combined weight of his own interest and the drug flowing through his system.

"Great!" Jeff agreed, opening up the desk drawer and removing an already-prepared syringe.

Brad winced briefly when the needle punctured his skin, but it was all over in a minute, and the new drug was rapidly flowing through his system, soaking into each and every cell in his body - and the tiny nanobots that were the heart of the 'drug' tapped into the nervous system, 'networking' all the way up to their new CPU - his brain.

A CPU that, all unknown to Brad, was easily reprogrammable...

"So, that's it?" Brad asked, looking down at himself as expecting something to happen - like maybe a bright glowing light to surround him, maybe, letting him know he could change.

"It should be." Jeff said - then pitched his voice differently and spoke a little more firmly, pressing his words into the soft putty of Brad's mind: "All we have to do is start with something small, a simple little test change."

"Well, why don't I just...?" Brad asked, gesturing at his own crotch.

"We need to do a test, first." Jeff said, firmly. "To make sure it's working right." Brad blinked.

"Yeah, you're right." He finally 'agreed', even though he really wanted to just go ahead and give himself a package every bit as impressive as Jeff's new equipment. "Uh... what sort of test?"

"Well..." Jeff said 'thoughtfully', pretending to mull it over as he 'casually' wandered across the room - to come and stand, 'coincidentally', right beside a nearly life-sized poster framed and mounted on the wall.

"I've got it!" He said, snapping his fingers. "Nice and simple - we'll make your hair grow. It's perfect!" Jeff's 'enthusiasm' for the idea was, of course, infectious - and Brad quickly agreed.

"So - what do I do?" The toned blond asked, looking at Jeff - and, unaware of just how easily suggestible he was, at the poster behind the red-head.

"Simple." Jeff said, grinning. "Close your eyes and concentrate on the mental image of a full, lush head of golden-blond hair." "That's it?" Brad asked.

"Yup." Jeff replied, firmly. "Just focus on what comes to mind when I say 'thick, glorious mane of golden-blond hair'."

"Well... okay." Brad said. He had the funny feeling that he was missing something - but he couldn't pin it down, and it didn't seem to matter, anyway.

Closing his eyes, Brad took a deep breath and tried to call up a mental image to go along with a full head of golden-blond hair... After a moment, Brad's hair began to push out of his scalp, rapidly growing longer and lusher...

...and silkier, and wavier - and a more brassy-golden shade.

In fact, were one to bother to look closely, one might even say that the full, lush head of hair rapidly piling up on Brad's brawny shoulders and spilling down his back bore a startling resemblance to the massively thick head of hair sported by the woman in the poster.

When it was done, Brad's eyes popped open, and he stared at Jeff in amazement.

"It worked!" He said, slowly shaking his head from side to side - and feeling the silky, wavy mass of hair brush over his shoulders. "It really worked."

"Whoa..." Jeff said, feigning surprised amazement. "You don't do things by halves, do you Brad? I mean - that's quite the head of hair. In fact - it almost looks like women's hair."

"Yeah, uh, well " Brad tried to explain, blushing. "For some reason, when I tried to concentrate, this was the only thing that would come to mind."

He was a little embarrassed by that, the fact that he'd been trying to picture more of a 'Fabio' head of hair but had been unable to keep his mind from forming the massive mane he now sported - but, then again, he didn't know that he was so incredibly suggestible that the poster behind Jeff had practically burned itself into his mind.

"Yeah, right " Jeff scoffed. "You know the drug is fail safe. It can only change you in a way you're willing to be changed. You know that."

"Yeah, I know." Brad agreed - honestly believing, (as of that moment), that it was true. "If you got that hair, it means you must have wanted that hair, right?"

"Yeah... I guess so " Brad said, uncertainly. He didn't think he wanted an incredibly thick - and, now that he thought about it, rather heavy - head of silky-soft hair...

"You can only get whatever it is you really want." Jeff said, forcefully. "That means you really wanted that hair - even if you don't want to admit to anybody, including yourself "

"Yeah, that's what it is..." Brad agreed with a blush. "I I guess I just didn't want to admit that I wanted a head of hair like this."

"Why, Brad!" Jeff exclaimed in mock astonishment. "You're secretly wondering what it would be like to turn yourself into a woman... aren't you?"

"That's ridiculous." Brad said. The last thing he wanted to do was... was to turn himself into a chick !

...so why had his denial sounded so weak, even to himself - and why, now, was he thinking about it? Oh, not 'happily' or 'eagerly' - but he was most definitely thinking about it, nonetheless.

"You are!" Jeff reiterated. "You're thinking about turning yourself into a woman. After all you bragging about how many women you've fucked - and hot chicks, too, no dogs - you're wondering what it's like from the other side. You're seriously thinking about turning yourself into a woman!"

"No, I..." Brad tried to deny it...

...even as his body betrayed him and began to 'flex', in a state of flux and on the very edge of transformation - but always pulling itself back before actually doing it.

"Look at you - you're trying to fight it, but you can't..." Jeff said, quickly. "You're going to turn yourself into a woman - right here and now!"

"Oh, shit...!" Brad gasped - as his body began to change.

His body hair began retracting into his body - even as the skin it was pulling back into became smoother, softer, and of a lighter, creamy color. Masses of muscle quickly melted away into the smooth, softer lines of a feminine figure, as his bones, flesh and sinew reshaped itself...

...and, a minute later, gasping and yanking open shorts never designed for hips that wide, she looked down at herself in shock.

"I can't believe I just did that!" She said in a higher, sweeter new voice, utterly convinced she'd 'willingly' done this to herself. "I mean, I guess I've always wondered what it must feel like to be a woman, even if I didn't want to admit it to myself - but I can't believe I actually went ahead and did it!"

Jeff, not answering, merely looked the new woman up and down as, self-consciously, she crossed her arms over her firm, C-cup breasts.

She was, in a word, gorgeous. Tall and lean and nicely toned, she had dark brown eyes in a strong, well-defined and yet eminently feminine face. Her hips were trim, as was her waist, and her dome-like breasts were perfectly firm. She could have been a movie star or a fashion model...

...and that wasn't good enough for Jeff.

Oh, sure, he was enjoying this, seeing Brad turned into a woman - and, especially, the fact that Brad thought he was doing this to himself, 'guiltily if willingly', unaware he was being played.

Jeff, however, wanted more - much more.

He wanted utter humiliation - and capitulation.

Jeff had a certain fetish - or, more accurately, an obsession. Tits.

The bigger, the better...

...and it was a fetish Brad had derided on numerous occasions, which was going to make what he was about to do all the more sweeter.

"Jeez, you actually turned yourself into a girl, after all that talk about how 'manly' you are!" Jeff said in feigned astonishment. "Hell, next I practically expect you to keep on going, making yourself even more feminine - and giving yourself a huge, round pair of tits, to boot."

"No, I..." Brad said, brushing brightly as she continued trying to cover the breasts she still wasn't quite sure why he'd given herself. She must have wanted to, because here they were - but how could she have let herself do this, and in front of a witness, at that.

She'd been hiding this longing so well, for so long, refusing even to admit it to herself... so how could she let herself do this in such a humiliating situation, with JEFF, of all people, to see her do it. "I wouldn't..."

"You are!" Jeff exclaimed, as if stunned. "You're going to make yourself even more feminine! Being just 'female' isn't good enough - you need to push it to the extreme, to be 'ultra feminine'. You're going to make your hips wider, your ass bigger, your tits huge....

You're going to turn yourself into what even you consider a sexual parody of a woman, something 'designed' solely for sex, and nothing else.

"No, I'm not " Brad claimed - even as her new body began to seethe and writhe.

"Yes you are!" Jeff said, loudly. "You're on the edge of doing it right now! You're going to go ahead and turn yourself into the 'ridiculously over-exaggerated' women you keep knocking me about."

"I " She said - and that was as far as she got before her body once more began to change.

Once more, it was over in a minute - and the new woman stared down at herself in shock, unable to believe what she'd done, and no longer even attempting the impossible task of covering up her new bust-line.

Traces of her original beauty were still there, especially in the face - but it had changed, becoming something else as she'd changed into what she knew, herself, she considered an over-exaggerated woman, good only for sex.

She looked...

Easy.

Not 'cheap', though that could have applied, too, because you got the feeling that this woman would give head for the price of a cup of coffee - but not because that was the highest price she could command.

She was a whole lot of woman.

Certainly not 'fat' - no, not that at all. It's just that there was a hell of a lot of total area covered by her now creamy skin - because all her dimensions were exaggerated, and only one of them - her waist - was exaggerated in the 'smaller' direction.

Everything else was BIGGER.

Her hips, broad and well-rounded below that tiny waist, and supporting a full, round pair of buttocks - a true 'bubble butt'.

Her legs, proportionally longer for her body than a 'normal' woman would have, keeping them long and shapely with well-toned leg muscles beneath a smoothing layer of feminine flesh.

Her boobs...

Her boobs were massive. Gigantic.

Enormous...

...and obviously 'fake'.

The huge, basket-ball sized masses of flesh were pulled into taut spheres of unnatural perfection, and tipped with nipples that were still the same size as they'd been on her earlier, much smaller endowments. Though even the closest of searches would have revealed no scars from breast enlargement surgery, nobody looking at the massive, proudly-jutting orbs of tit-flesh would think them anything other than an example of a plastic surgeon's scalpel.

"Oh, God..." She moaned in a voice that was higher pitched, and carried the faintest lisp. "What did I do to myself...?"

"You turned yourself into the woman you've secretly been fantasizing about being!" Jeff 'exclaimed', setting the hook deeper in the new woman's unguarded mind. "You've had so much sex as a man that it was beginning to get.. well, boring, and so you've been wanting more and more to see what it would be like to be a woman - and offered the change, you took it! You turned yourself into a.. well, a slut!"

"I know..." The new woman moaned, in shame. "By why did I have to do it here, and now, and with you watching...?" It was an unexpected gift, an opening in the right direction offered up spontaneously - and Jeff took it.

"I don't know... unless..." He said, looking thoughtful. "Unless what?"

"Unless... you did it because I'm the person you want to try having sex as a woman with!" Jeff said, snapping his fingers.

"God, no!" Brad exclaimed in genuine shock. "I mean.. I have fucked so many babes that they run together in my mind, and maybe I've been doing some more.. 'creative' thinks with babes lately, like a little light bondage and shit, just to spice things up... but I'm not planning on having sex with any man - much less you!"

"Oh - but that must be what you were thinking!" Jeff insisted, no longer bothering to try and be subtle - he didn't have to be. With her already convinced she'd done this much to herself, she'd be willing to 'buy' any thought he planted into her mind.

"You saw my huge, thick new cock - and you turned yourself into this woman who's built for only one thing - sex!" He told her, slowly walking closer to her with his super-sized equipment already hardening. "You saw your chance and you took it! You thought to yourself 'here I am, now able to become a woman, and get laid by a huge, thick cock, just like I've always secretly fantasized about!'"

"No, that's not true..." She said, weakly, backing away from him as her mind - which, deep down, knew the truth - struggled against the 'wrong' ideas 'she' was having. "i.. I liked being a man..."

"It was all a lie!" Jeff told her, as she bumped up against the desk and came to a stop.

"You've always wanted to be a woman - a real slut, too!" He told her, reaching out to grab her huge tits. She twisted away, breaking contact.

"You have always thought women had it better and easier and nicer!" Jeff screamed, spittle flying from his mouth, his face red. "You've thought about how women can get fucked whenever they want, when you can't get laid to save your life!"

"But..." She stammered, now very confused as her mind tried to assimilate too many different thoughts.

"You've always secretly dreamed about it - but couldn't bring yourself to do anything about it! No, your daddy, a big, strapping guy disappointed since day one by having such a pathetic little wimp of a son, drove that whole 'faggot' thing so deep into your brain that you couldn't admit to anybody that you had always wished you'd been born female and could have sex with men!"

Tearing at his clothes, wild-eyed and panting, Jeff looked like a mad-man - which, in truth, he was, as he went on screaming out a confession in the form of an accusation, something any reputable psychiatrist would have recognized as 'transference'.

"You've tried your whole life to find a way to get what you've always wanted, what you thought the universe was supposed to have given you and fucked up - and female life!" Jeff bellowed, pushing her back on the desk and grabbing at her already-unbuttoned shorts. "You've done everything you could to find a way to make yourself a woman, and when you finally found it - you couldn't bring yourself to use it, no matter how desperately you wanted to!"

Pushing her legs apart, Jeff climbed up on the desk and penetrated the new woman's cunt, still screaming at her as he commenced fucking her hard - almost viciously.

"This is what you've always wanted!" He screamed down at her as he fucked her. "You've always wanted to just lay back and be fucked by a man. To not have to do the 'chasing', but just to let them catch you and fuck.. your.. brains... OUT!"

She writhed under him, gasping and moaning almost against her will as even his thoughtless fucking drove her into a state of extreme ecstasy - but not enough for her to lose track of what he was saying, now in quick pants, as he slammed into her again and again, almost as if he were trying to punish her...

...or himself.

"You get.. to feel.. what it's like.. to get fucked.. as a woman!" He gasped, tears now running down his cheeks. "It's better.. than you ever.. dreamed.. and.. you want.. more of it! You love it! It's wonderful...!"

He picked up speed, 'nearing the finish line' - but the new woman who writhed and thrashed below him, huge tits bouncing and jiggling, beat him to it, screaming out helplessly as she was wrapped in the grip of her first female orgasm.

Jeff finished the job - but it was almost as if it were an afterthought. Still impaling her with his slowly softening cock, he shouted down at her:

"I've just forced you to turn yourself into a huge-breasted slut!" He screamed, reaching down to grab the huge tits in question. "You can realize that now! You can look back and see everything I did to you!"

Pulling out of her, he turned and stalked towards the bar, huge cock swinging and swaying between his knees.

"I drugged this!" He shouted at her, grabbing the whiskey. "Anybody who drinks it becomes very suggestible! They listened to whatever anybody says!"

Upending the bottle, he drank from it frantically, golden liquid overflowing his mouth and spilling down his chest as his throat worked convulsively.

Throwing the bottle aside, he turned back to her.

"I've just fucked you! I've turned you into a huge-breasted woman and all-but-raped you, and now I've taken the drug that makes me easily manipulated too - now WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT, BITCH?"

Still shivering from the force of her first female orgasm, mind suddenly 'cleared' by Jeff's 'suggestions' that it be, she pushed herself up on one elbow and stared across the room at him in shock, suddenly understanding:

He'd done all of this to her for no other reason than to get her to 'revenge herself' upon him and wish the same fate onto him - which was the fate that he actually wanted, but couldn't overcome an upbringing and give himself.

Anger boiled up in her as her mind cleared, as realization set in, as memory was 'unaltered' and she could see and understand everything that had been done to her since the first second she'd walked into the room.

Face contorting into lines of rage, she pushed herself up from the desk and began stalking towards Jeff, who's eyes had begun to sparkle in long-wanted hope...

"I'll tell you what I'm going to do to you..." Brad promised in a high-pitched voice particularly unsuited for the sheer rage it was struggling to contain...

* * * * *

As the lights dimmed and the music rose, Brad reached out and grabbed his beer, pulling a long pull from the cold bottle just as The Bobby Traps' feature dancer walked out onto stage.

No - not 'walked' - STRUTTED.

Long, shapely legs scissored sensuously atop the six-inch heels of her classic white 'fuck-me' pumps as the stunning, super-buxom red-head swayed to the music.

A massively full, rich mane of red hair - surmounted by the little white cap of her highly abbreviated 'nurse' costume - surrounded a face of stunning beauty... and sexuality. Her full, gloss-red lips and emerald green eyes both gleamed in the spotlight as her outrageously proportioned body began to sway and swivel in time with the heavy, driving beat of the music.

Men began to cheer, whistle, stomp and applaud as the huge-breasted, utterly stunning woman began her strip-tease, one snowy- white article of clothing after another teasingly removed to display milky-white flesh of extraordinary smoothness. Long, shapely legs in white nylons continuing to propel her around the stage, she started with the little white PVC skirt, teasingly slipping it down to display the thong pulled tight between the perfect globes of her mouth-watering ass.

After the skirt was finally flung aside, her busy fingers went to work on the little PVC top with it's gleaming red cross, opening and closing it for repeated glimpses of the huge, custom-made bra encasing her volley-ball sized breasts. Finally, it too was flung aside, leaving her dancing around in only her white lace lingerie - what little of it there was.

Bit by bit, she slowly worked herself down, until finally she pranced around on stage in nothing but the cap and the shoes she'd pulled back on after teasingly removing her nylons...

...and then it was over, and the huge-breasted red-head sauntered off stage to get ready to 'work the crowd' "Wow..." The man beside Brad in 'pervert row' said, shaking his head. "That was something!"

"It sure was." Brad agreed.

A gleam came into the man's eyes.

"You know, I hear a lot of these women have a.. 'side line'..." HE said, thoughtfully. "Yeah?" Brad inquired.

"I wonder what the chances are I could pay her for a little action?" The man mused. "It's be pricey, I'm sure... but well worth it." "I wouldn't bother." Brad advised, shifting position to allow his massive cock to find a more comfortable position in his pants. "Why?" The man asked, clearly annoyed. "What, you her 'boyfriend' or something?"

"Nope." Brad said.

"Then why wouldn't I have a chance to get me a piece of that?" The guy demanded. "She doesn't ever have sex with men." Brad explained. "She's strictly lesbian..."

Then, smiling an obscure little smile, he reached for his beer and contemplated his ultimate revenge...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: Discovering an alien being who has landed, one man becomes the test subject as the alien steals his body and proceeds to transform him into different types of woman to see how human gender works.

The Fallen One

By Gunslinger

The low hum of the fluorescent tubes built into the bottom of the oak cupboards kept a vigil with Gary as he sat at the table, sipping at a glass of lemon tea. The small tubes of fluorescing gas cast stark white light and deep shadows, enhancing the strange feel that seemed to exist late at night, the low hum emphasizing the silence rather than breaking it.

Wearily, the dark-haired man at the table lifted the mug to his lips for another sip of the hot, fragrant liquid within. Of medium height and build - if you ignored the slowly expanding pot-belly he'd been fighting for the past year or so - the dark-haired man would have been blandly handsome if not for the dark circles under his blood-shot eyes. Even his posture, slumped and dejected, revealed depths of weariness best left unplumbed.

Gary Douglas would have been happy if he'd never known such exhaustion. With a sigh, he lowered the mug to the table and slowly wiped a hand across his face, staring at the pale blue-green numerals on the front of the microwave. Hitching a deeper sigh, he rose - slowly, he seemed to do everything slowly - from the table and padded over to the counter to retrieve his cigarettes. He lit one of the cigarettes and took a deep drag of the smoke, enjoying the sensation. Exhaling a blue-gray cloud into the air, he slid open the door next to him and stepped out onto the deck, the cool, early autumn air ruffling the dark pajamas he wore and sending a small shiver up his spine. For the thousandth time, he cursed the sudden and inexplicable insomnia that had descended three days before, robbing him of all but a few hours sleep since then.

Then, without warning, that sense of utter exhaustion was washed away - unpleasantly.

The streak came from the left, and even before Gary's eyes could focus on the bright orange-white light, it plummeted down into the maze of scrub-covered canyons and ridges that formed the sere landscape below the cul-de-sac on which he lived. The impact, when it came, was curiously quiet, made up more of the vibration transmitted through the ground than actual sound.

Even before his brain had fully registered everything, the adrenaline rushing through his system had him moving, his bare feet crossing the cool, dew-covered lawn of his yard. When he stepped from the carefully maintained lawn onto the hardpan of the landscape beyond, he was forced to slow. As the rocks and pebbles dug into his tender feet, slowing his forward progress to an awkward walk, his brain finally managed to catch up with his body.

"God damn..." Gary whispered, awkwardly making his way to where the last fading glow of the crash was located. His mind raced, and he wondered what - exactly - he had seen. It had seemed to be moving awfully fast for a civilian aircraft, and was obviously too small for a commercial airliner. But there had been no tremendous explosion, as if gallons of av-fuel going up. A military jet, it's tanks drained?

Well, whatever it was, Gary would find out soon enough - he was almost to the site of the crash.

Then the low brush at the edge of the ravine that hid the wreckage stirred, and a figure, indistinct in the dark, rose from the draw. "Hey! Are you okay?" Gary called. If it were military, then maybe this was the pilot, blown clear by the ejection seat.

Then all thought stopped. He had closed the distance, and was able to make out some details of the figure. His stunned brain barely managed to catalogue the strange physiognomy of the creature, the gray-green skin, the huge, dark eyes...

...and then, suddenly, it... rippled, changing shape and texture until Gary was staring at a whole new figure. Himself. He was facing an exact duplicate of himself, right down to the dark-green-plaid pajamas.

"Do not be afraid." The other said, in Gary's own voice. "I mean you no harm."

Gary attempted a startled step back. His brain and body, however, were not quite in sync, and he ended up falling back, landing with a firm impact on his ass - one that would usually be quite painful, but at the moment was completely ignored by his stunned senses.

"Who... who are you?" Gary asked, deep blue eyes wide with shock. A second later, he amended his question to something much more accurate. "What are you?"

"A visitor. From far away." The doppelganger answered. Although the voice was Gary's, the rhythm and cadence was different - cool, almost inflectionless. At the last instant, Gary's mind corrected itself - it wasn't that the voice was cool, so much, as completely expressionless. No emotion, merely information.

Of course, Gary's brain was nit-picking it's own judgment of vocal inflections as a way of avoiding what it should really be thinking about. Like many people in time of complete emotion stress, Gary was turning to the mundane - or inane, as the case may be - to maintain a mental equilibrium.

It wasn't helping much.

The... clone...? took a step forward, and Gary let out an undignified 'yelp' and scrabbled backwards, stones digging to the soft palms of his hands. He ignored the pain, his heart pumping out enough adrenaline to keep him 'hyped' for quite some time.

"Stay.. stay back!" It was more of plea then a demand.

The creature stopped, Gary's own face looking back at him with an emotionless calm. "I will not harm you. I have studied your..." For the first time an expression crossed the other's face - the look of a person groping for the word he wanted.

"..television broadcasts." The... alien said, finding the right term. "I am not a 'little green man'. You need not fear me. I am a... a 'student' of your planet and culture, and am on a 'field trip'."

Gary swallowed nervously. "Why... why do you look like... me?"

The alien cocked it's head. "I have taken a human form so as not to cause any undo concern."

Gary's heart started to slow. The situation was way too strange, but there was no sense of threat in this other think. Although part of Gary wanted to deny that it was even happening, and another part wanted to run away and forget he'd ever seen any of this, the largest part of Gary's personality was becoming intrigued. An avid reader of science fiction, he was well aware of the three 'camps' or writers.

The first were of the 'aliens are evil, even the ones that seem nice' variety. The second group was the 'aliens are benevolent, superior species here to lift Man from his own folly' proponents. The last group was the 'no matter what they look like, or what their technology is like, sentient creatures the galaxy over are basically the same'.

From this, Gary could draw a simple assumption - he had two-to-one odds this wasn't an alien bent on world domination. And with that rather flimsy premise, Gary's sense of awe and amazement made a tremulous appearance. Already, Gary's mind was beginning to whirl with the that that he, Gary Robert Douglas, was making Mankind's first contact with a Extra-Terrestrial Intelligence.

In dark-green pajamas.

Slowly, one eye warily fixed on his duplicate, Gary rose to his feet and rubbed his hands on his pants. "Uh, 'we come in peace' kinda deal?" Gary asked, a wry smile touching his trembling lips.

"It seemed more appropriate than 'take me to your leader'."

The straight-faced, emotionless reply was enough to leave Gary gaping at his opposite - then break into laughter. A short-lived chuckle rather than a belly laugh, but it was enough to turn the tide.

"So, if you look like me are you, um, human now? Inside, I mean?" Gary asked, unsure how to phrase the question.

"I am exactly like you in every way, right down to the cellular level, with the exception of my brain." Gary-Two answered.

Gary nodded. "Then you must be freezing your butt off, too." He waved a hand towards his house, faintly visible in the pre-dawn gloom. "Come on, I'll serve you up a cup of coffee."

The alien nodded, and trailed after his template for humanity. "Thank you. I wish to learn about your culture, and this... 'coffee' is quite prevalent. I look forward to the experience."

* * * * *

Gary awoke, feeling refreshed for the first time in days.

Sliding out of bed with a soft, satisfied sigh, Gary quickly pulled on some clothes, mentally thanking his doppelganger once more. After arriving home, Gary had poured some coffee and explained the 'benefits' of caffeine to the intrigued alien, using his own current case of insomnia as an example. Upon hearing that, Gary-2 had made the most amazing offer - he could make Gary get a full, restful sleep in only three hours.

As good as his word, the alien had followed Gary into the bedroom and waited for him to lie down. With a touch of one hand, he'd sent Gary into a deep, comforting sleep...

...and more. Gary paused in the act of pulling on his T-shirt, once more sliding a hand across his smooth, flat stomach. As a gesture of goodwill, the alien had revealed it's ability to alter forms other than it's own by restoring to Gary an amazingly slim waistline, removing the slowly spreading paunch that had been Gary's bane.

Still amazed at what was transpiring in his own home - First Contact with an alien race! - Gary padded out into the living room, where the alien sat, 'absorbing' western 'culture' from the 31" Sony Gary had connected to a satellite receiver, offering a wide range of programming.

"Good Morning, Gary." His guest said, in that same emotionless tone he used. However, the alien no longer looked exactly like Gary. Although extremely similar, this version of Gary was slightly taller, much more muscular and tanned, and somehow - although Gary couldn't put his finger on the little differences that made it so - a lot more handsome.

"Geez..." Gary stopped, eyeing the alien. The being cocked it's head inquisitively, then figured out Gary's response.

"I assume you are startled by my altered appearance, Gary." Gary-2 said. "I have been watching your television, and have altered myself to meet with what I believe is considered an ideal physique."

"Yeah, I'll say." Gary commented. Having taken a few steps closer, Gary registered two other things.

The first was the alien's clothing. Apparently having seen the outfit on TV, the alien had created for itself a pair of khaki pants and an off- white cotton shirt, whose rolled-up sleeves showed off his tanned, muscular arms.

The tight pants also revealed that the pseudo-Gary was also considerably better endowed than the original, judging from the large bulge in his pants.

Gary wasn't upset at Gary-2 - he was mildly envious. The alien looked like an idealized version of Gary, the way he'd sort of wished he looked like.

However, before Gary could ask his idealized clone for similar treatment, the alien gestured at the TV screen.

"I am intrigued." Gary-2 said. "I have been watching your television, and I notice that your culture can put emphasis on differences in the genders that seem relatively minor to me. My race has no separate genders, as we do not reproduce the way you do - at least, not in our own forms." The alien looked down at itself. "In this form, I am biologically human, complete with standard male hormonal responses. However, much of what I see seems to be a cultural or intellectual bias, and since my mind is my own, without a Human upbringing, there is much I do not understand."

"Oh?" Gary asked, interested. He'd never realized that much of his own views on what was 'feminine' or 'attractive' were subliminal cultural installations, rather than 'natural' responses. "Like what?"

Gary too cocked his head. "For instance - the human eye. Although all human eyes - except defective ones - work on the same principals and manner, does the color of the eye really make much difference? I have seen several instances where a character in these tele-dramas made specific note of eye color, as if it were significant."

Gary's brow wrinkled in thought. "You know, I don't know why, but yes... somehow, different eyes cause different reactions. I'm sorry - I can't really explain it."

The alien looked at Gary thoughtfully. Suddenly, Gary felt an odd sensation, as if somebody had very lightly blown on his eyeballs - and then his vision changed.

It was subtle. No major changes, no loss - or increase - in overall vision. But colors shifted slightly, everything looking slightly 'warmer'. Also, his vision seemed to brighten a bit, as if there was more light - or, perhaps, as if his eyes were processing what light there was more efficiently.

"Yes - I do see." Gary-2 stated. "Interesting."

"What did you do?" Gary asked, blinking his eyes rapidly, looking around at the slightly different spectrum he was perceiving.

"I have altered your eyes, so that I may experience, first hand, the effect. I now note that your altered eyes are more intriguing than your old ones - although I, too, am at a loss to explain exactly why."

Startled, Gary quickly moved to a nearby mirror mounted on a sideboard. Leaning close, he stared at his face, amazed.

His once unremarkable brown eyes were an incredible, rich shade of green. Small flecks of gold ran through the iris, and the pupil seemed slightly larger. In fact, his eyes themselves seemed somewhat larger, and subtly different in shape. They were, he had to admit, startling, intriguing eyes.

For a second, Gary considered complaining about the sudden transformation. However, no real harm was done - in fact, it was interesting to see what he looked like with these eyes - so everything would be all right if...

"You can change these back, right?" Gary asked the alien, who looked... well, not 'abashed', exactly, but suddenly aware that he might have done something wrong, without actually being emotional in any way about his error.

"Of course. Do you wish me to do so, Gary?" Gary-2 asked. "However, I would prefer not to, as I have not yet had time to fully understand how - and why - eyes effect me differently."

Gary considered that for a minute. "No - you can leave them." He finally said, relaxing. "It doesn't hurt anything - just as long as I know you can undo it, then I'm not worried about it."

The alien attempted a smile - but it wasn't based on emotion, merely a conscious effort to duplicate human social expressions. It showed.

"Well - what would you say to some breakfast?" Gary asked.

The alien blinked. "I did not realize it was necessary to address meals before consuming them."

"Ah... no..." Gary stifled a smile and explained the meaning of the expression as he led his idealized doppelganger into the kitchen.

* * * * *

Gary was sipping at the last of his coffee, enjoying the feeling that a large breakfast of bacon, eggs, hash-browns and toast could engender when Gary-2 pushed his now-empty plate away with a small burp and asked a question.

"Have you any close female acquaintances, Gary?" Gary was slightly startled by the question. "Why?"

"I wish to ask a female about the differences in feminine hair, and the styling and products used by women. I assume that a female could explain the difference, and why it is culturally aggravated."

Gary worked that one out before answering. "Well, I certainly don't know any women that I'd trust enough to reveal your existence too." He said, then shook his head. "Besides, I don't think a woman could help explain."

"Oh?"

Gary shrugged. "Men have men's hair all their lives, and women have women's hair. Neither could explain the difference, not really, because we only have experience with our own hair. It would be like a sighted man trying to explain a rainbow to somebody blind since birth. Since the blind man has never seen, they don't have the necessary... common ground to use for the description."

Gary-2 looked thoughtful. "I see. Then the best way to find out, I suppose, would be to alter your hair to that of a woman's, so you could describe the differences."

Gary was startled. "What? Me? Why not just do your own hair, and find out for yourself?"

"As you have explained, I have not 'lived' with the culture and mindset of a human male. I would not truly know the differences." The alien explained, sipping at a glass of orange juice appreciatively.

Gary frowned, uncomfortable with the thought - but Gary-2 had a point.

"All right - if it's only going to be temporary." Gary finally agreed. "But, before you do that, I guess I should go out and buy some... feminine hair products. Otherwise, I might not understand it all myself."

Gary-2 nodded. "Your assistance is truly appreciated, Gary. I shall watch some more of the television until you return."

"Good idea." Gary said, grabbing his wallet and pulling on his shoes. "And, for God's sake - if anybody calls or drops by, pretend you're not here!"

With that warning, Gary headed off to the nearest store.

* * * * *

"Are you ready, Gary?"

Gary took a deep breath. "As ready as I'll ever be."

There was a low tugging sensation in his scalp - then an odd, ticklish sensation as Gary felt his hair sliding down his neck, growing longer at an astonishing rate.

At the same time, it was also becoming finer, softer, more feminine. Within seconds, a massive, thick main of glossy, silky hair ran from Gary's scalp and part way down his back.

They were sitting in the bathroom, so Gary had been able to watch as his hair had practically exploded out from his scalp. Now, he eyed the thick, wild mass of glossy raven hair with a critical eye, trying to ignore the way the silky strands felt as they brushed over his shoulders and neck.

"Okay - I guess you'd better get to work." he told Gary-2.

The alien had read over the instructions on the bottles Gary had brought home, as well as a book on hair styling that Gary had picked up. Now, with amazing skill, the alien began to do Gary's hair, starting with a shampoo.

Gary mentally gritted his teeth and endured the 'fussing'. After the shampoo - with a product with a vaguely 'fruity' odor - Gary-2 conditioned Gary's new mane with a similar-smelling product. Following that, the alien quickly and skillfully began to cut and shape Gary's hair, finishing with a blow-dry.

"I believe that is it. How does it look, and feel?"

Gary tilted his head and forced himself to dispassionately assess his new head of hair. Although he was rather uncomfortable with it, on him, he could admit that it was well styled in and of itself.

It was a simple cut. The hair was left full and slightly shaggy, and hung to his shoulders. Kept off his face by the style, the hair was nevertheless full at the top and sides, flaring out slightly at his shoulders.

Hesitantly, Gary ran his fingers through the thick mass of hair, feeling it's new texture and weight.

"Well - female hair feels nicer to the hand." He admitted - then, grudgingly - "It also feels nicer on my neck and shoulders. If I'd let my old hair grow like this, it would have itched on my neck. This hair is softer and nicer."

He ran his fingers through the cut a couple of times, and reported the differences. For instance, he'd never realized that the lighter, finer hair was one reason that it took more time to care for a woman's appearance - the light strands tended to shift more easily. However, it was partially compensated by the fact that the hair did move more... 'naturally' when he turned his hair, flowing rather than 'flopping about' like his old hair did."

"I will leave you with that hair for a while so you may get used to it, and see if there is anything else to report. I am sure that there are many little things that you will notice as you 'live' with your new hair for a while." Gary-2 said.

Gary shrugged - which definitely felt weird, as it caused his shoulders to move the hair resting on them. Weird - but... nice. "Okay."

Rising from the chair, Gary headed towards the living room, Gary-2 close behind. The original Gary was bemused by the way his new hair shifted and flowed in the slight breeze created by his movement.

Sitting in one of the comfortable chairs in front of the TV, he leaned back as Gary-2 settled into the second. With nothing better to do, he joined Gary-2 in watching - studying - the shows. Due the time of day, most of them were either soap operas or talk-shows.

Gary didn't even realize what he was doing.

Without knowing it, he was studying - intensely - the way female characters reacted to their hair. The way they moved their heads, the way they moved the hair, all tiny little details that seemed to seep directly into his mind. Without even realizing it, Gary began to copy these tiny little habits - he brushed his hair back with a smooth flick of his fingers, his hand held loosely. He tossed his head slightly to move the hair when it shifted, and he occasionally ran his fingers through his hair or patted it back into place.

A foot and a half away, Gary-2 - who had made a slight alteration in Gary's mind - watched with interest, without appearing to watch at all. As Gary's demeanor towards his hair changes - slowly - from masculine to feminine, the alien's incomprehensible, powerful mind filed away the data impassively.

* * * * *

Flushing the toilet, Gary squeezed a bit of toothpaste onto his brush and brushed his teeth. In the guest bedroom, across the hall, he could hear Gary-2 doing the same thing in the en suite, making Gary glad he'd remembered to explain the basics of hygiene to the alien.

Finishing with his teeth, Gary started to head towards the bedroom - then stopped, with a nagging feeling that he'd forgotten something. For a second he merely stood, brow furrowed, as he tried to figure out what it was.

A quick look in the mirror triggered the answer. Shaking his head at himself, he rooted around for his brush - he usually only used a comb - then sat down on the toilet and began to brush out his hair. He didn't really give it that much thought as he brushed it out, a hundred even strokes.

It simply seemed the natural thing to do.

A few minutes after he was finished with that chore, he was curled up in bed, fading off to a deep sleep. One of his last thoughts before slipping into the darkness was that he was almost going to miss this hair when it was gone - it felt so nice between his face and pillow, almost like sleeping with silk pillowcases...

* * * * *

"Get a good night's sleep?" Gary asked cheerfully, carefully brushing the last of the 'bed-head' from his raven tresses.

The alien looked thoughtful. "I believe so. Although I did not actually 'enjoy' sleeping, as I have no memory of the actual sleep, I feel more... energetic this morning than I did before sleeping."

Gary smiled. "Yup - that's a good night's sleep, all right." Gary-2 nodded. "I see. An interesting experience."

Gary headed towards the kitchen. "So - let's see how you like waffles..."

After finishing the last of their breakfast - Gary-2 seemed to have developed a real taste for coffee, Gary noted with mild surprise - they headed back to the living room. Once more, they settled down in front of the TV, but instead of flipping through the channels, Gary suggested that they watch one or two of his video collection, and the alien agreed. Gary wanted to see what the alien's response to 'emotional' movies would be, so he picked a rather immature comedy that relied heavily on slapstick and sexual humor, and a love-story drama that he'd always thought of as a real 'tear-jerker'.

After they'd watched both the movies - with Gary introducing the alien to popcorn, to make the experience complete - Gary turned to Gary-2.

"So - what did you think?"

The alien cocked his head. "Interesting. In the first film, I assume from your grins and laughter that you found it humorous."

"That's right." Gary confirmed. The movie's plot-line, basically, had revolved around a group of fraternity boys using pranks to force the shy new girl on campus into all sorts of semi- (and not so semi-) sexual situations, such as stealing her clothes and leaving sexier clothes in their place, among other things.

"I do not understand something." Gary-2 said. "The actress was the same through the entire movie. Yet, she was considered.... undesirable...? at the beginning, yet by the end, she was a real looker?" The alien's brow furrowed. "Why is this? She is the same woman at all times."

That stopped Gary for a second as he tried to find a way to explain it. "Well, it's kinda a two part thing. In movies, if they pretend a cute girl is kinda mousy, well then, you're supposed to accept it. Movies aren't supposed to be real life, you know." He explained. "But, the other part is mostly how she dressed, and acted. Like, at the beginning, she wore glasses, baggy, dark clothes, and no make-up. At the end, she was fully uh, 'tricked out', right down to short skirts and heels."

Gary-2 frowned slightly. "I am afraid that I still do not comprehend the significance of either the exposure of more leg, nor these rather impractical looking heels."

Gary never felt the slight shift in his thought patterns as Gary-2 reached out, mentally, and altered certain synaptic pathways deep in the human's mind.

"Well..." Gary said, the thought 'just occurring to him'. "Why don't I kind of demonstrate?" He asked. After all, it wouldn't be permanent, right? "Why don't you change my pants into a tight pair of shorts, then alter my legs to match that of the woman's in the movie." "Those legs are what you'd consider extremely desirable?" Gary-2 asked, making another small, unfelt mental adjustment.

"No, actually. They were kinda nice, but hold on a second." Gary headed into his room. When he returned, he was wearing tight spandex swim trunks, a T-shirt and sneakers, and carried a porno magazine in one hand. "These are awesome legs." Gary said, flipping the magazine open to a certain model.

"I see. Very well." The alien concentrated for a minute.

Gary felt an odd sensation in his legs, and looked down to watch as his legs reshaped themselves from the inside out. The hair that covered his legs fairly thickly merely fell out, fluttering to the floor, as bone, muscle and sinew changed their life-long contours, leaving him with a pair of incredibly shapely, toned, feminine legs that were silky-smooth and attractive. The red canvas sneakers he wore shrank slightly and became a bit narrower for their size, fitting his feminized feet perfectly.

"You see? It's not just the lack of body hair that makes female legs different." Gary said. He ran one hand over the smooth, soft skin, feeling strange about possessing such sexy, feminine legs. However, it wasn't as odd or repugnant as he'd expected - and he had no idea the reason behind that.

"Yes. I believe I see." Gary-2 admitted. "However, I still do not understand the appeal of 'high heels'."

"Well..." Gary said, then explained what the alien should do...

* * * * *

"See - don't heels make the legs look even better?" Gary asked. Almost without thinking about it, he bent one knee slightly to better show off his legs - and eyed them in the full length mirror, thinking to himself that these were the most spectacular legs he'd ever seen, even if they were on him.

"Yes, I believe I understand." Gary-2 agreed. He eyed the shapely curves of Gary's altered legs, displayed to an advantage by the bright red platform pumps with six-inch stiletto heels that Gary wore.

Moving easily, Gary crossed the room, almost forgetting that he was perched atop tall, needle-thin heels. Over the past twelve hours, his sneakers had slowly become these shoes, meaning that he'd transitioned from flats to six inch heels at the rate of half-an-inch an hour. It had been such a slow, smooth change that he'd adapted naturally to the heels, and walked in them as easily and naturally as if he'd been doing it for years.

"You know, you could make a fortune." Gary said with a chuckle. "There's women all over the world who'd pay good money to learn how to walk in heels so easily."

"Perhaps. But I fear that my method is not correct." Gary-2 replied.

"Oh?" Gary asked, surprised. The method had seemed so perfect that he didn't even feel weird wearing 'women's shoes' - at least, he believed that it was the slow transition that made it so 'acceptable', not knowing about the alien's tampering. "How so?"

"Although you are wearing heels, and it does pleasantly accent your legs, you do not walk like a woman does." Gary nodded. "Oh, that - well, a woman's walk is also from the way her hips and ass differ from a man's you see." "Really?"

Suddenly, it seemed almost ridiculous not to show Gary-2 what he meant, Gary thought. "Sure. Look, all you have to do..."

* * * * *

Gary woke slowly, the warm, golden sunlight streaming in through his window announcing that his insomnia had been - at least for now - cured by the alien's intervention.

Stretching, Gary threw off the covers and swung his legs over the side of the bed...

...and frowned.

He was looking at a pair of long, sexy, feminine legs.

"What the...?" Gary muttered, sliding one hand across the smooth, silky flesh, verifying what his eyes were informing him.

A confused, worried look on his face, Gary quickly pulled on a ropy, tying it closed. It felt weird, the way it hung from his wide, gently curved hips and amazingly firm, full ass. Ignoring the sensation, he stepped into the six-inch high-heel sandals that Gary-2 had 'thoughtfully' provided, after discovering that a 'mistake' had made it impossible for Gary to walk flat-footed anymore.

With the hem of the robe doing 'cute' flips from the womanly gyrations of his wide hips, Gary headed out of his bedroom, ignoring - for now - the way his hair was a mass of tangled knots.

"Uh... Gary?" Gary called for the alien. There was no response, and a quick check verified the fact that the alien was no longer in the house.

"Where the hell has he gone?" Gary asked, aloud. Then, staring down at his altered lower half, he asked "What the hell was I thinking?" Confused - and even more worried by the alien's inexplicable absence - Gary headed into the bathroom for his morning shower.

He had expected to awaken this morning his normal self, everything returned to the way it had been before. So the fact he still possessed such a sexy, feminine lower half, long, silky hair and startling green eyes worried him.

As he washed his altered thighs - with his unaltered cock hanging incongruously between them - he was even more worried by the fact that he'd agreed to any of this in the first place. Try as he might, he couldn't figure out why on earth he'd agreed to let this be done to him. He certainly couldn't figure out why he'd actually suggested the altered hips and ass.

Not that they were hideous, mind you - Gary had to admit that he possessed the most spectacular legs and ass he'd ever seen. But, God damn it!, it shouldn't be his ass and legs that looked this fantastic!

Quickly brushing out his thick mane of hair - it took forever to dry, he'd discovered - he headed back to his room to get changed.

He stopped dead. "What the fuck were you thinking, Gary?" He asked himself again as he surveyed the available clothing. Somehow - he didn't know why - it had seemed perfectly logical to have Gary-2 change all his pants, underwear and shorts into feminine equivalents. And considering the 'accident' in his altered feet, the shoes had been a necessity. Only now did it occur to Gary that the alien could have just fixed his feet - for some reason, that simple solution had never occurred to him last night.

Lips compressed, Gary forced himself to dress. The same while, frilly cotton panties he'd worn so casually last night now brought a bright flush to his face as he slid them on. He flatly refused to don the nylons he'd so blithely sheathed his legs in the night before, going straight - with a grimace - to the tight blue denim skirt that barely managed to cover the bottom of the panties. For comfort's sake, he tucked his limp cock out of sight, leaving an all-too-feminine contour to the panties, bringing further embarrassment. But there was really no option - neither panties nor skirt were designed for a 'frontal bulge'.

Pulling on a plain black T-shirt, Gary hatefully finished off his ensemble by stepping into a pair of black pumps with five-inch heels - the shortest ones in the house.

Grimacing at what the mirror showed, he turned away quickly. The reflection was deeply disturbing - it seemed to show a rather unattractive young woman who happened to have fantastic legs and ass. Worse, the clothing he was forced to wear made it look like that 'woman' knew her best attributes and was purposefully drawing the eye to them.

Gary had already set the coffee to brewing when he'd done his first walk-around, and now he sat out on the deck with a cup, lighting up a cigarette to calm his nerves. Part of his brain insisted on pointing out that he was supposed to be back to normal - and if the alien was gone for good, then he might be stuck like this.

But the larger part of his mind was trying to cope with being this way right now - and the fact that it had seemed so natural at the time.

Now it felt anything but natural. When he caught himself sitting with his sexy new legs crossed in a feminine manner, Gary cursed and quickly changed his posture - but that felt so strange, so... unnatural, that he soon shifted back with a grimace.

The combination of nervousness and caffeine piqued his energy to new levels, and Gary rose from his chair and began to stalk around on the deck, lighting a second cigarette from the butt of the first.

Well... stalk wasn't exactly the right word. As he moved, his body moved with a fluid, supple, feminine grace that had his wide, womanly hips swivel and sway with each step, his firm, sexy ass flex beneath its sheath of denim, and his high heel 'click'ed annoyingly on the hard wood planking. In addition, the wind stirred his soft, silky hair, causing it to flutter and shift, brushing across his neck with each turn he made.

The questions continued to gnaw at him. Why had he agreed to any of this be done to him? Why hadn't it been undone by the time he awoke, like the alien had promised? Where was the alien?

Finally, unable to restrain himself any longer, Gary turned and headed down the steps and across his yard, heading towards the gully where the alien ship had come down.

Just as his first trip across this ground had been slowed by lack of shoes, now it was slowed because of shoes. The high-heeled pumps he wore were never designed for this sort of terrain. In a fit of anger, he pulled the black suede pumps off - only to quickly replace them when he felt the agony that came from trying to stand on his unnaturally arched feet and the subtly shortened calf muscles of his sensual, feminine new legs.

Finally reaching the gully, Gary looked over the edge...

Gary's stomach flip-flopped as he stared down into the empty gully. The sere bottom of the gulch contained only a few scattered shrubs, dry now, and a huge granite boulder, irregular in shape, roughly the size of a mini-van. Of any extraterrestrial space-craft...

Suddenly, a light glimmered in Gary's mind, and he relaxed slightly. Sure, there was no sign of a spacecraft - but there was also no room for one to have landed, not with that huge boulder there.

The huge boulder that shouldn't have been there, if you thought about it. There was no way a boulder like this could have been moved into the dry gulch by the spring run-offs, and there was no way it could have been there under the dirt until it was eroded clean - the water would have found an 'easier' route.

Therefor - the boulder was the disguised alien spacecraft. Obviously, Gary-2 wasn't going to leave an interstellar runabout sitting out in the open to be ogled by any stray passerby.

Feeling better - somewhat - now that he knew the alien hadn't merely left, Gary turned to head back to the house, intending to have a word with the errant alien when he returned...

Gary felt a stranger rippling sensation run through his body, throwing him off stride and almost making him fall down. As a precaution, he threw his arms out in front of him to break any such fall...

...and gaped at the slender, feminine arms and the slim, feminine hands - complete with long oval nails - that graced the ends of those arms.

At the same time, Gary registered an odd sensation coming from his chest, waist and crotch. A quick glance down revealed his T-shirt being pushed out from underneath by what his brain instantly informed him were at least healthy C-cups. Below the burgeoning bust, his waist nipped in sharply before flaring out into his feminine hips.

Hesitantly, Gary slid a hand under the skirt...

"No...!" She cried, not sure whether or not to be surprised by the feminine contralto the denial emerged in. Slender, female hands flew to a smooth neck, then hesitantly quested across a face that sported a smaller, pert nose and fuller, softer lips. A face that Gary assumed was as feminine as the rest of her body.

Enraged, horrified and confused, Gary headed back to her house at the best speed should could manage atop the heels. It isn't really possible to slam a sliding door, but she gave it her best shot as she entered the house.

"All right, where are you?" She shouted, wincing at the sound of her new, feminine voice. There was no answer.

She stalked through the rest of the house in that damnably smooth, feminine sway, revealing that Gary-2 was not there. Finally, Gary just slumped into an armchair, her mind whirling. The fact that the alien could apparently change her from a distance took secondary importance to the fact that he'd changed her at all.

Into a woman.

She almost gave into the sudden urge to simply start crying, but forced herself away from that all-too-feminine reaction. Instead, she tried to force herself to be calm - and slowly rose and approached a mirror.

A beautiful, dark-haired woman looked back at him. Over-all, she was 'cute', with regular, smooth features that even reached 'beautiful', especially with the devastating green eyes nestled beneath her slender, curved eyebrows. Her ass and legs, of course, still shot past either 'cute' or 'beautiful'.

Hesitantly, Gary peeled off her black T-shirt and eyed the firm, out-thrust C-cup breasts she now possessed. Firm and flawless, they were tipped with large, frank nipples. Gently, Gary ran a hand over one breast, shivering at the sensation as her feminine hand slid across the sensitive nipple.

Even more hesitant, Gary slowly lowered her skirt and panties.

There, nestled between firm, sensual thighs was an unmistakable sight. Unadorned by pubic hair, there was no mistaking what nestled at Gary's crotch for anything else.

"I... I've got... a cunt." Gary stammered.

Quickly, Gary recovered this strange body, uncomfortable with seeing her new form. However, covering it didn't relive all the decidedly feminine sensations - the difference in how her crotch felt when she walked or sat, the way the shirt lightly moved over her prominent new nipples, the way...

Forcing her mind to stop cataloging all the tiny but undeniable differences and sensations, the newly feminized Gary sat in the chair and tried to completely shut down her frantic mind, to stop thinking all together - and, thus, refusing to deal with this situation right now.

It didn't work.

Frustrated, Gary tried to figure out what to do next. Inexplicable as her allowing the alien to change her the first times was, this - the sudden, complete, and unprecedented change was even worse. She had no idea why - or how - it had been done to her. She had no idea how long it would last, or what would happen to her while it did last. She had to deal with all this confusion on top of the actual effects of suddenly finding herself female.

So, when the door opened and Gary-2 entered the room, her reaction was completely understandable. "What the fuck did you do to me, you lying son of a bitch!"

Well, completely understandable - to a human.

"I have changed you into a female." Gary-2 said, calmly. "I thought you would have realized that by..."

"You fuckin' change me back right now, you bastard, or I swear I'll... I'll..." Gary ran down to a stop, unable to come up with a dire enough punishment for failure to comply.

"You seem... upset." Was Gary-2's less-than-stellar comment.

After several long minutes of very long profanity, Gary-2 was once able to make himself heard.

"I am interested in the differences between male and female." He said, calmly. "As you pointed out, the best person to explain the differences would be somebody who has been both."

There was another pause for rather less inventive - but much louder - invective.

Gary-2 seemed genuinely intrigued by the response. "Interesting. There is actually fairly little difference between the male and female of your species, yet you seem to place great importance on you 'lost manhood'. Yet, had you been born female, you would find it natural and be upset if you were suddenly be made male. This goes far beyond the loss of the familiar - you actually have an ingrained cultural identity that states that the other gender is less than human, and to be so changed is... 'a fate worse than death', I believe the term is.

Intriguing - I shall be very interested in seeing what happens."

Gary felt a cold shock run down her spine as she realized that the alien had no intention of undoing this. It seemed to be completely indifferent to her pain - in fact, it didn't seem to register emotions as having any importance at all. It viewed emotions and feelings as an odd 'personality quirk' of humanity.

Gary had thought that they were dealing as one intelligent being to another. Now she was gripped by chill fear as she realized the truth - she was nothing more than an interesting experiment to the alien, completely unimportant as an individual being. Her only worth to Gary-2 was for the experimental processes it could run on her.

"I see you have accurately assessed the situation." Gary-2 stated, calmly. "However, I feel it wisest to fully inform you of the experiment underway. As you may or may not have guessed, I am able to alter your mind at will. However, I have removed these alterations, for now, as I wish to view your 'natural' reactions. At the end of the experiment I shall just copy you memories - 'download' them, if you will - so that I can see exactly what you experienced."

Gary swallowed noisily. "Then... then what will you do?"

Gary-2 blinked. "Then I shall move on to a new subject. Probably one who began as a female." He cocked his head. "We shall begin the basic experiment now. For the remainder of the experiment you shall need a female name. What is one that you will be able to remember?"

Gary clenched her teeth, tempted to defy Gary-2 - or break out crying and collapse. Rather than either of those, she forced herself to consider the question. Her only way of getting out of this was to make sure the experiment ran as smoothly as possible and ended quickly.

Finally, she answered. "I suppose 'Carrie' would do." The alien nodded, and made an odd gesture.

There was a shimmer - then a purse appeared on Gary... Carrie's shoulder, startling her. Recovering her breath, she looked inside. She wasn't really all that surprised to find very authentic looking ID in the name of 'Carrie Bradley'. After all, and alien with the power to alter things at will would have little trouble with fake ID.

"Very well. Let us proceed." Gary gestured towards the door.

Carrie opened her mouth to protest that she refused to go out in public as a woman - then realized defiance would only delay the inevitable, and prolong her situation. Forcing herself, gritting her teeth, she ankled out the door, long, sexy legs scissoring seductively in time with the pert sway of her womanly hips.

* * * * *

"Here?" Carrie asked with a sinking sensation.

"Yes. I have seen that much interaction occurs between humans over this beverage you call 'coffee'. In fact, one of your major mating rituals involves 'going out for coffee' - or a 'drink'." Gary said, clinically.

Opening the door to her/Gary's car, Carrie stepped out and followed the alien towards the door of a popular 'Coffee Pub'. Following the human conventions he had studied, Gary held the door for her and 'escorted' her to a booth.

The waitress came around and Gary ordered their coffees for the both of them Gary sat, nervously fidgeting in the seat and trying to sink into the upholstery. Irrationally, she kept expecting somebody to rise up and denounce her as a fraud, a man posing as a woman.

Gary eyed her, then rose and headed for the washroom.

Carrie tracked the alien - her tormentor - as he crossed the room, so she was probably the only one who really saw it happen. Just before entering the restroom, he lightly touched one woman sitting with a group of friends whose attention was elsewhere. She shuddered, then seemed to forget anything had happened.

A moment later, Gary returned. He lowered himself into the booth, one hand lightly touching Carrie...

Thoughts. Images. Memories not her own, feelings she'd never had. They swept through her mind, sifting into slots, supplanting other ideas and skills...

Then it was over. Carrie's mind was once more her own - almost. For certain parts of the other woman's persona was now imbedded in her mind. She knew it, and she could tell which parts were 'hers' and which were the other woman's - but that didn't make it easier to ignore what those 'real' feminine instincts and habits' were telling her.

Shooting Gary a dark look, Carrie gave into the nagging, implanted thoughts. She straightened in her seat, assuming a more feminine posture. Rather than grip the mug - like her male instincts had her do before - she held it by the handle, the only way to banish the nagging, annoying feeling she was doing something 'wrong'.

Carrie guessed that the woman whose feminine habits had been introduced into her mind wasn't a smoker - at least she got to keep her old 'masculine' way of lighting a cigarette and holding it as she smoked.

"You see, I am introducing you to the skills and habits of the women of your culture, so that you may experience the true state of being female. Had I wanted to see a man attempting to 'play' female, I would have found... a 'transsexual'. They would probably be most eager to have a female body, but they would have had the wrong mindset for the experiment."

Gary said that in a low voice, leaning forward with a slight smile so that any one glancing over would have seen a good-looking couple having a pleasant conversation. Not wanting to attract attention to her plight, Carrie was forced to play along. Flipping her hair out of her face with a completely feminine gesture, she forced a small smile of her own to her full lips and leaned forward.

"Just as long as you don't really screw up my mind. When you did it before, I couldn't tell that they weren't my own thoughts. At least this time, I know it's an imposed thought pattern."

Gary nodded. "Indeed - as I intended. As I said, I wish to keep your... 'real' personality intact, so as to measure it. These additional skills and thoughts will be 'tacked' on, so you will have them, but they will not be 'integrated' into your base personality."

"How comforting." Carrie said as dryly as her new, feminine voice would allow her. She glanced down at the table to break eye contact with her idealized clone of her old body...

...and saw the pale reflection of her face in the glass-topped table.

Instantly, anxiety flooded her. She knew it was an 'imposed' anxiety, but that didn't change the power of the unpleasant feeling. "Carrie?" Gary asked.

Closing her eyes and gritting her teeth, Carrie forced herself to let the response leave her lips, burning with shame. "I.... I look... awful." She ground out. "I... need to put on some make-up."

Gary closed his eyes. "I have searched the memories from the woman I touched, and have duplicated the items she uses for this purpose. They are in your purse."

Carrie could have guessed that herself, from the extra weight that suddenly dragged the black leather strap of the purse down. It wasn't much - but enough.

Taking a deep breath, Carrie tried to fight the feeling - but, imposed or not, she felt more like some hideous freak than ever, bringing her 'exposure paranoia' to unbearable levels.

"I'll be right back."

Rising from the booth, Carrie quickly made her way to the bathroom. Her 'implanted' habits saved her from getting the wrong bathroom - or hesitating at the door to the right one. Still, it was unnerving to her to simply walk into the women's bathroom.

Quickly - eager to get it over with - Carrie began applying the make-up in her purse with the skills from the woman. She was only partially done when there was the sound of a toilet flushing, and a brunette emerged from the stall, smoothing her skirt into place.

"Hi." She said, politely, washing her hands.

Since she was in the middle of applying lipstick - God, what a galling thought - Carrie made a low noise in her throat in response. The other woman looked over... then looked harder.

"Oh... Uh..." She said, hesitantly.

Lowering the damned lipstick, Carrie turned to her. She kept her voice light and polite - partially to avoid any 'memorable' encounters, but also because the dark-haired brunette was kind of cute. "Yes? Is something wrong?"

The woman blushed slightly. "I don't mean to criticize - but that make-up scheme is all wrong for your coloration."

"Oh..." Carrie said, a little startled. She recalled that the woman whose memories she now had was fair-haired and skinned, but hadn't realized that it really made a difference.

"Here... we're close enough that I can help..." The brunette offered.

* * * * *

"You look lovely, my dear." Gary said - for the 'audience' - as Carrie returned.

"Yeah, well..." Carrie muttered. She was still disturbed by the fact that the make-up really did enhance her looks. Part of her hated it, part of her liked it because of the implanted thoughts - and part of the 'original' her liked the way the 'woman in the mirror' looked made-up. "Something to file away for your data - different hair coloration's require slightly different make-up schemes. The one you copied wasn't right."

"Intriguing.." Gary muttered.

Then, Carrie was forced to spend half an hour in small talk while using 'downloaded' flirtation on Gary. It wasn't strong flirtation, like that of the woman whom Gary had stolen it from, because Carrie wasn't willing engaged in it like the original owner. Eventually, however, the need would become too strong, and she'd give that coy look, or the slow smile, or lightly touch Gary's hand...

Feeling nauseous at flirting with a man - even if it was an alien - Carrie was very, very glad when Gary decided that they'd spent enough time in the coffee-shop - and nervous as hell as to what might await her next.

When it turned out to be nothing more than going home, she almost felt grateful to Gary. Almost.

It was a feeling that didn't last very long at all.

Gary turned into the mall's parking lot, selecting a spot fairly close to the entrance.

"What are we doing here?" Carrie asked, nervously. The thought of walking through the thronging mall... "I am getting out. I have some... work to do." Gary said.

"Oh. I'm just going home?" Carrie asked, relieved.

"Yes." Gary replied. "I wish for you to become more familiar with your new body. You are to bathe, and explore your body. Then I wish for you to pick out a new outfit from the clothing you will find in your room. Something... attractive. You are then to go to the bar on the corner of Fifth and Oak, and stay for at least two hours before returning home."

Carrie gaped at Gary. "What? You must be..."

"I can alter your mind so you have no choice, if you prefer." Gary said, flatly. Tightening her full, soft lips, Carrie nodded. "All right - I'll do it."

"Good."

* * * * *

Pulling into the driveway of her house, Carrie leaned over the steering wheel and closed her eyes, taking a couple of long, deep, shuddering breaths.

It was like living a nightmare. Her identity stolen, her gender changed, her free will a negligible commodity - everything was gone. Her only choice to utter obedience was to try and run, to get away from the situation. But doing so would leave her trapped in this body for the rest of her life. Even worse, she knew that Gary could alter her at long range - just how far away, she didn't know. There was more than a good chance, however, that any escape would be utterly futile in any case.

Shutting off the car, Carrie climbed from the vehicle and made her way slowly to the house. Even this was a mild torture in itself - atop the high heels she wore, she moved with the sinuous, graceful motions of a woman, with the movements of her hips, legs and breasts forcing the change of gender to the forefront of her mind, not allowing her to forget for an instant that her old life was altered, stolen, gone.

Entering the house, Carrie thought about the instructions she'd been given and shivered. For a moment, defiance flared - then died. No matter how demeaning, how humiliating, how unwanted the action or command - defiance would only serve to drag the situation out, and she knew the alien had the power to make her perform in the end, anyway.

Feeling tears welling up in her glorious emerald eyes, Carrie shook her head angrily, refusing to give in to the urge to cry, and headed towards the bathroom.

Only, it wasn't exactly the same bathroom she'd left earlier that day. It wasn't even the same bedroom that she'd left. Both bedroom and en suite were now decorated in a manner that, while not exactly 'frilly', was most definitely feminine. Venetian blinds were gone, replaced by gauzy white curtains. The plain beige paint in the bedroom was now something like a light pink - it was actually 'Pastel Coral', but Carrie didn't know that - with fancier, white-painted trim. The dressers and bed were different, a Neo-'Queen Anne' design in white, with silver-and-gold handles.

It was as if the 'original' Gary had never existed.

Walking into the bathroom, Carrie started filling the red claw-foot tub that had replaced the old, standard 'formed' tub. Looking at the items arrayed around the tub, she hesitated, her face becoming set - but they were there for a reason, and even if Gary hadn't specifically commanded her to use them, it was safer to 'err on the side of caution'. Having to force herself, Carrie added some of the scented bubble bath to the water, then lit the candles in the holders surrounding the tub.

Switching off the overhead light, Carrie undressed in the warm golden glow of the candle-light. The flickering light spilled across her smooth, unblemished skin, converting her slender figure into a living statue of gold. Grimacing at the sheer femininity of the situation, she shut off the water and slid into the warm embrace of the bubble-topped liquid.

Slowly, Carrie discovered something amazing - this wasn't bad at all. In fact, her nerves were sound wound up, her emotions so tangled, that this was actually very... relaxing.

Letting the warmth soak through her, Carrie dried her hands on a nearby towel, then reached over the edge of the tub and dragged her purse to her. Opening the black leather bag, she extracted her cigarettes...

Only, they were no longer her cigarettes. Instead of the brand she had always smoked, these were a slim cigarette - what she'd used to call 'chick-sticks'.

Ignoring that for now, she lit one of the long, slender cigarettes and relaxed in the tub, feeling tense muscles slowly relax, feeling the nicotine take the edge off her anxieties. She looked over for a place to tap the ashes...

..and blinked in slight surprise at the sight of an ashtray that hadn't been there before, sitting next to an equally 'miraculous' crystal 'goblet' of chilled white wine.

Shrugging mentally, Carrie took the glass and settled into the tub comfortably. Closing her eyes, she let her mind wander aimlessly as she smoked the cigarette and sipped the wine. Her situation hadn't really changed, and at no time did she ever managed to actually 'forget' what was happening, but she allowed herself to relax to the point that, for the moment, it didn't matter. There was just this moment, the comfort of it and the relaxation, and she refused to think of either past or future as she allowed herself to luxuriate in the comfort.

Finishing the cigarette and the wine, she lay them aside and - refusing to let her mind leave the warm glow of relaxation and alcohol - began to explore her new body.

Drawing one leg up, she slid one hand over her small, dainty foot. A small sensation of surprise made it's way through her haze as she realized her foot had been made 'normal' - still feminine, it had lost the built-in arch that made heels an absolute necessity.

From there her slender fingers moved over a slender, shapely ankle, gliding upwards over smooth, taut, calf muscle sheathed in silky skin.

Her hands slid over the shapely, slightly dimpled knees that were now hers, moving onward to the smoothly curved flesh of creamy, soft thighs.

Sliding past what lay between those toned thighs, her hands crossed over each other as she slid them over firm, slightly rippled stomach muscles before sliding down to the sides of her slim, pinched-in waist above the flare of her wide, smooth hips.

Pulling her crossed hands upwards, her fore-arms made contact with the firm swell of her breasts, pushing the taut, firm mounds slightly higher. Uncrossing her arm, she took one breast in each hand, feeling the heft of the silky-smooth globes in her small hands. Gently, she moved her hands upwards...

She couldn't help but moan softly as her slender fingers lightly squeezed her large, swollen nipples. Ripples of pleasure radiated out from her chest, quite unlike anything she'd ever experienced as a male. Softly, she pressed down on the sensitive nubs of flesh, then sliding her fingers around to oh-so-gently squeeze them, manipulating her own nipples with more gentle skill than she'd ever used on a woman when she had been male. Only now did she discover what did feel good, what was the right way to tease and touch and fondle, to squeeze and lightly tweak.

Sinking slightly lower in the tub, she spread her legs, her shapely, dimpled knees surfacing as she positioned herself without allowing herself to think. Instead, Carrie forced herself to become lost in the sensations, ignoring the causes and implications as one hand slowly traveled downwards once more. She hesitated for the briefest instant, then slid her hand between her silken thighs.

At first, she merely rubbed the flat of her hand across the slight mound, applying pressure that caused ripple of soothing pleasure from the sensitive flesh. Coupled with the sensations from her breasts, the ripples seemed to merge, creating a stronger pleasure than either alone could have achieved.

Then, lightly biting her full lower lip, she slid a finger into her new womanhood.

Ripples became waves as she moaned again. For a second she left her finger more or less in the same place, merely applying pressure in slightly different outward directions, seeking the center of that pleasure.

Then she began to slide her finger back and forth of the most sensitive part, her thumb curling at the base of that finger so that every stroke brought her thumb knuckle across the nub of hyper-sensitive flesh that formed her clit.

She gasped, her rhythm increasing instinctively in speed and length. Sweat stood out on her brow as the world around her seemed to fade away. A rushing filled her ears as the sharp waves of pleasure began to mount, starting to overlap each other as the sensation built, and built, and built...

"Ohhhh!" Carrie cried out as the sharp, bright lance of pure ecstasy lanced through her like an electric shock. The sharp, powerful orgasm was followed almost immediately but a fainter, longer one, a warm, pleasant after-shock that slowly faded away as she slipped her finger from the swollen lips of her new womanhood.

For a long moment, Carrie remained in that golden never-never land where nothing mattered, where there was no past or future, only the oh-so-very pleasant now.

Then she began to blush> The faint color quickly deepened as reality once more intruded, and what she'd just been doing registered fully.

"Jeez, Gary - you keep this up and you'll be begging that alien to leave you like this!" She muttered to herself, using her old 'male' name to reinforce the self-contempt. Despite that, she couldn't deny that the auto-erotic act had been a deeper, longer one than the similar act was a male. He'd never realized just how much of a woman's body was an erogenous zone. While he had been male, the center of his sexuality had been his cock, and that was about it. In a woman, it was faster to list the areas that weren't erogenous.

Climbing from the tub, she carefully towed. Doing so revealed something else - a woman's orgasm didn't relieve the sexual desire and sensitivity - it attenuated it, making it warmer, less intense but deeper, somehow richer. Her body seemed to be one warm, golden, sensually sensitive zone that almost begged to be touched.

God, Carrie thought - no wonder why women were so big on foreplay. Hell, making a woman come before you had sex with her would make the actual sex...

She forced her mind off that track, taking the time to blow-dry her hair as she let her body 'cool down' from the sensual activity that had only heightened her sensitivity to her new sexuality, unwanted or not.

Leaving the bathroom, she headed into her altered bedroom, opening a closet much larger than the one that had existed in the room's previous incarnation.

Making a low whistling sound in the back of her throat, Carrie surveyed the profusion of clothing with something approaching awe. It was a mildly horrified and extremely humiliated awe, of course, because she'd be wearing some of this stuff, but still - she'd never owned this much clothing as a man, and never in such a wide diversity of fabrics, styles and cuts.

...and the shoes...!

Shaking her head, Carrie grudgingly set about the task of picking out something 'attractive'. Thankfully, that was a relative term, and with the wide selection available, she thought she could pick out something 'tolerable', yet stay within the loose guideline.

That didn't mean she'd enjoy it. Merely tolerate it.

Her final decision was a simple yet 'attractive' outfit that she could live with. One of the major points in favor of the chosen outfit was the fact it avoided skirts completely. Instead, a tight - very tight - pair of black jeans would clad her legs. She was sure that the way the pants practically cupped her ass would guarantee the 'attractive' part - and the fact that she didn't have to wear a skirt made up for the extra trouble it took to get into the tight, tight materiel - and the fact she had to wear a pair of 'barely-there' black panties to avoid panty lines. The panties fulfilled that requirement but fitting up the crack of her spectacular ass.

With the jeans she had chosen a 'sand' colored suede vest. Tight-fitting, the vest was 'shaped' with a belt at the back that pulled the garment taut around her delectable waist, and the low neckline displayed a fair amount of her delightful cleavage. The bottom of the V- cut vest hem made the simple jeans look even more 'attractive', and when she completed the basic outfit with a pair of beige suede boots that came to mid-calf, it completed the look. Unfortunately, the boots had a four-and-a-half inch heel - with her 'repaired' feet, she was looking forward to flats - but the net effect was worth the discomfort.

Especially since the 'active, outdoorsy' feel of the outfit allowed - hell, practically demanded - minimal make-up. She applied on a light, low-gloss lipstick, a bit of mascara, and the faintest of blush and left it at that. Her hair she pulled back into a loose ponytail, tied into place with a length of rawhide - actually the one of the spare laces for the boots she wore.

Satisfied at the attractive-yet-not-too-girly look, Carrie grabbed her purse...

...then stopped. She looked over at the other purses hanging in the closet. Deciding 'what the hell', she traded the black leather purse for a smaller one of buckskin, then headed out to the car, her stomach roiling at the thought of spending at least two hours in public, by herself, as a woman.

* * * * *

Pulling into the parking lot adjacent to the plain, brown-brick building on the corner of oak and Fifth, Carrie felt a wry smile coming to her lips, realizing that this might not be such a terrible two hours, after all.

The Bar was the 'Grouse and Gander'. From the outside, it appeared to be a rather sedate Neo-British Pub style bar. But everyone who lived in town knew the bar for what it was - the local 'haven' for Gays and Lesbians.

In any other bar, Carrie would have been extremely uncomfortable, an unescorted female - to all appearances - and so 'fair game'. But she thought she could handle being hit upon by other women.

Then she forced her mind to deny the faint gratitude she'd felt for Gary. He might be 'easing' her into being alone in a public place - but if wasn't for the alien, she'd never have been in this situation in the first place. So, she'd be damned if she'd feel grateful to him for making it a lighter torture than it could have been.

Locking up the car, Carrie headed over to the side door of the building, pulled it open - and hesitated for a second, gathering courage, before going in.

Needless to say, she'd never been here before - and was surprised to find it cleaner than the town's other bars, with it's patrons quieter. Somehow, she'd expected... something else.

However, the fact that the couples were same-gender, and the fact that many were kissing or touching was still disconcerting to the new woman. Pushing the discomfort away - far enough, at least, that it didn't show on her face - she picked a stool at the end of the bar and settled her firm, full ass onto the soft red leather, tucking her legs up and hooking her heels over the rung at the bottom of the stool.

The bartender, a tall, muscular man with a shaven head and neatly trimmed mustache, walked over - well, almost glided over, he moved with such confidence and not-unmasculine grace.

"Miss." The bartender acknowledged her with a tilt of his head. His voice was surprisingly gentle for such a large man. "I haven't seen you around before."

In any other bar, that would have been a possible pick-up line. In this one, it was a polite check to make sure that any out-of-towners who might have 'drifted' in were fully aware of what type of place they'd entered.

Carrie smiled. "I used to do my drinking at home. With a friend. But she's gone, so..." She shrugged. "...I decided I didn't like drinking alone anymore."

The bartender managed to half-smile with his mouth at the subtle way Carrie phrased it, while conveying sympathy with his eyes. The look of sympathy was so genuine that Carrie felt a pang over the lie - but then again, it wasn't really a lie, was it? She'd 'merely' neglected to mention the fact that 'she' had been his last girlfriend - when she was a man.

That probably wouldn't have gone over well.

Then again, Carrie reflected, after ordering a gin-and-tonic, perhaps it would have gone over fine. A glance around revealed that the clientele wasn't limited to the more mundane homosexual types - there appeared to be a few cross-dressers, and at least two transsexuals in the crowd.

In fact, she had to restrain a start of surprise when she recognized one of the cross-dressers as being a guy she'd gone to high-school with. At least she was sure she was safe from being recognized herself.

Her drink arrived, and she sipped at it, allowing herself to relax slightly. Despite her current situation, there was something... 'voyeuristic' about this. Many a man in town had wondered what went on inside this bar - but would rather die than simply walk in the door and take a look.

"Excuse me - I don't suppose you'd care to have company for a drink or two?" Slightly taken aback by the directness of the question, Carrie looked around and up...

...and up...

...into the eyes of a towering, slender black woman. Considering all the jokes about women's basket-ball, this woman was practically a walking stereotype. Tall, thin, and - to Carrie, - unattractive, she towered over the ex-man.

"Uh..." Carrie said, eyebrows rising. She searched for a 'polite' way out. "No offense, but..."

The woman smiled - a trifle sadly, but smiled. "None taken." Giving a small wink, she wandered away, scanning the group. "Fresh talent always attracts attentions." A voice said near Carrie's elbow, dragging her eyes around.

The speaker was a deeply tanned, athletic blonde with a toned, shapely figure and bright blue eyes. She was smiling at Carrie, her eyes roving Carrie's body. "We more or less know each others tastes by now, so a new member of our little group always gets some attention." She held out a deep golden hand. "Lynn."

"Carrie." She responded, shaking the athletic woman's hand. "Can I get you something - a drink perhaps?" Lynn's smile widened. "Now, there's an intriguing offer. Why don't we find a nice private booth?"

* * * * *

"Well, welcome to Casa De La Lynn."

"Nice " Carrie murmured, letting her eyes sweep through the apartment. Truth be told, she wasn't the least interested in the decor, though she vaguely registered the fact that it was fairly nice.

Lynn had begun subtly pushing Carrie to join her for the evening at her apartment, and before long Carrie had been genuinely interested, the two-hour-minimum being the only thing holding her back. Now that the time had expired, she'd followed the tanned woman the half-block to the apartment building in which she lived.

"So - another drink?" Lynn offered. "I don't have any Gin, but "

"No, thanks - that's all right." Carrie demurred.

Lynn's smile widened. "Well then - why don't you make yourself comfortable?"

Carrie smiled back. Eyeing the toned physique of the other woman suggestively, Carrie went right ahead and made herself comfortable...

..by unbuttoning and removing her vest. The cool air made her shiver slightly, and her nipples immediately reacted, swelling outward. The sensation spoiled the illusion Carrie was trying to maintain - that she was a man again, about to have sex with this tanned blonde fitness goddess - but she was so aroused at this point that the illusion had served its purpose and could be discarded. Right now, she didn't care what gender she was - she was just horny for Lynn's taut body.

"Well, well, well..." Lynn murmured. Smiling, the muscular woman stepped closer, sliding her arms around Carrie's now bare waist, her hands cupping Carrie's spectacular ass.

Carrie let her eyes drift close as they kissed, passionately. Her hand came up, lightly drifting over Lynn's firm, taut ass, then moving up to the edge of the dark navy crop-top the woman wore. Gently, Carrie pulled upwards, breaking the kiss only long enough to slip the top off of Lynn, then returning to the embrace, their breasts pressed together, nipple rubbing against sensitive nipple as, entwined, they slowly, awkwardly made their way towards the bedroom.

Collapsing on the bed, the two women broke their embrace, smiling at each other as hands went to the other's remaining clothing. There was a bit of trouble when Lynn tried to remove Carrie's jeans before removing the boots, and they giggled while fondling each others soft, silky flesh.

Carrie had never felt anything like this before. She was aroused in a way that she'd never even dreamed existed. Not the centered arousal of a man, she was filled with a low, powerful warmth that centered in her crotch - and, to a slightly lesser extent, her nipples - but it also filled her entire body, filling her with a low urgency that was pleasurable in its own right, unlike the uncomfortable 'hydraulic' pressure that would have been the result of a two-hour-long arousal as a man.

Finally naked, the two women kissed once more then positioned themselves on the bed. Having told Lynn of her 'relative inexperience' earlier, Carrie was grateful when the tanned lesbian took the initiative, kissing her way down her body. She paused when she reached Carrie's firm breasts, larger than her own B-cup endowments.

Carrie shuddered with a low moan as Lynn's fingers and lips found her swollen nipples. Sliding her diminutive hands over Lynn's smooth back, Carrie let her head roll back as Lynn manipulated her the way only another woman could. Now her new gender almost became a thing of enjoyment, as Lynn's incredible skill at pleasuring a woman came through loud and clear. Deep in the recesses of Carrie's mind, she realized that when this was all over, and she was male once more, she was going to be an unbeatable lover...

Then Lynn moved further south, and all thought swirled away in time with the woman's talented tongue.

Carrie moaned louder as Lynn's talented tongue and fingers worked in sympathy, driving Carrie closer to the edge of... With a little cry, Lynn flew backwards, practically throwing herself from Carrie, spitting.

Carrie, startled, jerked and pushed herself up on her elbows, her body throbbing with unsatisfied need. "What the...?"

"I... I.. oh, God..." Lynn stammered - then turned and fled from the room. Seconds later, Carrie heard the sound of retching.

Frowning, Carrie sat up, one hand sliding down to the moist warmth of her crotch while the other slid across an engorged nipple. Confusion and lust warred in her mind as she tried to figure out what was happening. She had been so close...

Suddenly, Carrie jerked as an odd sensation, centered in her chest, throbbed through her body. Her hands stopped their sensual motions as she gaped down at her firm C-cup tits.

Only, they were now a D-cup - and still growing. Before her amazed eyes, they were slowly swelling outwards, the nipples perched atop the mounds slowly enlarging to keep pace with the burgeoning mass of breast flesh.

Beside the bed, the phone rang. Carrie ignored the first ring, her hands flying to her swelling endowments, trying - in vain - to restrain the implacable growth of the now almost-spherical DDD-cup tits that were pushing against her grip.

The second ring, however, had a completely different effect on her. The sound came in time with a strange wrench in her mind, making it absolutely imperative that she pick up the phone. Awkwardly - trying to compensate for the increasingly top-heavy balance as her tits continued to swell outwards - she pushed herself up the bed and picked up the phone.

"Gary." The word emerged in the same tone usually reserved for a particularly vile curse.

"Of course, My dear." Gary's voice came over the line - only it was more animated than usual, with a slight edge of dark humor to it. "I didn't disturb anything important, did I?"

Since the question about herself was unnecessary - and self explanatory - Carrie hissed the other question. "What did you do to Lynn?"

"Is that the lesbo's name?" Gary asked, indifferently. "I just changed a bit of her orientation - from this point on, she will be absolutely disgusted by any attempt she makes to have sex with a woman, and will be absolutely orgasmic when with a man." He paused. "I didn't alter her actual preference however."

That was cold. Not the coldness of indifference, but a calculated cruelty. Trying to ignore the sensations in her chest, Carrie ground her teeth and spoke into the phone to her tormentor. "What the hell's going on, you... you..."

Gary laughed - an unpleasant sound. "While you've been hanging out at the local gay bar, I took the opportunity to sample many minds of men around here, learning how a human male thinks and integrating it into my psyche for study. I've found some truly interesting 'mental' flavors at the local strip-club. One of which was a fondness for buxom women - extremely buxom women. I'm sure you know what I mean - or soon will." He laughed again, then spoke with dark intensity. "You've had your fun, Carrie. I'm heading home now, and you'd better hope to God that you beat me back, because if you're not waiting for me at home..."

Carrie didn't even bother to listen to the rest of the threat. He'd been to the 'local strip-club' before - once. A real dive, it was a hang-out for bikers, riffraff, criminals - and less savory characters. If it was these male minds that Gary had absorbed for his new personality...

She rose quickly from the bed - and promptly fell over.

Cursing, Carrie struggled upright against the weight of her massive new bust. They'd finally stopped growing - but much, much too late. Thrust from her ribcage was a pair of massive, unrealistic tits. Almost perfectly spherical, they were the size of small beach-balls, but much, much heavier. Topped by enormous, dark nipples, the massive masses of breast flesh must have weight twenty pounds - a piece. Her mind quailed at trying to assign a cup-size to the massive tits, not having ever seen anything to compare them to.

Quickly yanking on her jeans - sans panties - and boots, she staggered and stumbled from the bedroom, her massive new tits swaying and trying to yank her off balance with the new inertia they possessed.

Reaching the living room, she took one look at the vest and new it was a lost cause. There was no way she could stuff her massive tits into the garment. Instead, she grabbed the crop-top. The spandex stretched as she struggled into it, allowing her to get it on - but it barely managed to cover her enormous - and, as she discovered, highly sensitized - nipples. It displayed a vast amount of cleavage, and most of both the top and bottom of her breasts were visible. It was, however, legal - barely.

Struggling to walk - cursing the heels she wore - she swayed, jiggled and bounded out of the apartment, scooping up her purse on the way out.

The half-block walk seemed to take forever. The eyes of every person she passed turned to follow the progress of the impossibly endowed woman down the street - and they blinked at the steady stream of vehement curses that flowed from her full lips as she moved as fast as possible to her car.

Fumbling through her purse for the keys, she finally just dropped the suede bag when she found the keys, ignoring it as she unlocked the door, swinging her ass in and...

...cursing, moving the seat all the way back to allow space between her massive prow and the steering wheel. Turning over the engine, she slammed the car into reverse and laid a trail of rubber out of the lot. Stamping on the brake, she yanked the wheel all the way over and slamming on the clutch and dropping it into drive as the car performed a 180. As the nose aimed in the general direction of the street, she stamped on the gas, ignoring the blare of horns as she shot out onto the street, demolishing two shrubs and a street-sight as she struggled for control.

She didn't just break the speed limit on the way home - she shattered it, then ground the pieces into dust. Dire thoughts of possible punishments for failure continued to plague her as she shifted through the gears, barely touching the brakes as she skidded around the corners. On several, she used the parking break to throw the car into a semi-controlled skid around the sharper turns, stamping on the accelerator even before she was sure the car wasn't simply going to roll.

Perhaps crashing into a ball of lethal fire would be preferable. After all, these huge tits weighing her down and interfering with her driving had been 'granted' before any threat of punishment...

Reaching her driveway, Carrie finally used the breaks, screeching to a shuddering, forty-degree off-kilter halt. Not bothering to shift in park and shut off the ignition, the hugely endowed ex-male jumped from the car, barely able to keep from toppling over. She ignored the car slowly rolling towards the backyard as she dashed up the steps, fumbling for the right key.

It took endless seconds to get the key in the lock. Turning the tumblers with enough force to snap the key off when it reached the limit of its movement, she slammed the door open and stepped across the threshold...

...and came to a dead stop.

Gary sat in a kitchen chair in the foyer, an unpleasant grin on his face. "You're late."

The man who was grinning at her so unpleasantly wasn't the same one she'd left. Taller and broader, he was even more massively muscled - and endowed, judging from the enormous bulge in his jeans. His skin had deepened in its tan, and acquired a darker, thicker texture, like that of a man who spent most of his time outdoors. His hair was longer, and a pointed goatee graced his face, making his dark grin nearly Satanic.

Fear metamorphosed into anger as she finally reached the breaking point. It had all become too much - the change in gender being the first, worst shock, but each successive indignity only piling on the humiliation, fear and hate until she finally boiled over.

"You bastard!" Carrie screamed. She advanced on the grinning man, her walk stiff and awkward under the drag and sway of her impossible tits, her glorious green eyes burning with rage. Her long-nailed fingers curved into claws as she reached out to throttle the life from this... this... alien entity. "I'm going to kill you, you sick..."

* * * * *

She was walking to her bedroom.

She felt strange, as if she were walking in a haze. Her mind was dulled, and she couldn't seem to work up any real emotion, other than a very mild curiosity as to what was going on. The past was a blank, a swirling mist that would take more effort to penetrate than she could possibly expend.

She knew, vaguely, that something was wrong. She couldn't recall what exactly it might be, but she had the odd feeling it was connected to the way she was moving, having to walk so very carefully so as not to be over-balanced by the weight dragging at her chest.

It took almost all her will to just look down and ascertain that the drag came from a pair of gigantic tits barely enclosed in a spandex crop-top. Somehow, this seemed wrong, but it was only a minor variation on the fact that - for some reason - her entire body felt wrong, and she just couldn't work up enough interest to dwell on it. Instead, she concentrated on making it to her bedroom, so she could sit on her bed, legs together and hands on her knees as she waited complacently, her mind almost a total blank.

How long she waited, she couldn't tell. Time passed in a gray haze, unimportant and uninteresting. Finally, a tall, massively muscled man entered the room, his face composed and calm.

"It took some work to repair the chaos you left behind on your little joy-ride." The man said in an emotionless voice. "However, as far as the world is concerned, it never happened." He paused. "I also... 'reset' Lynn to her previous... interests. She also has no memory of what happened."

It took her some time to work out what he was saying. However, once the words themselves finally gelled, it still didn't really mean anything to her. It was... unimportant.

The man sat in a chair across from her, and she watched with mild interest as his body rippled and changed slightly. Some of his bulk vanished, as did some of his height. His hair became shorter and his skin softened and paled slightly. The rather rough clothes he wore became a more comfortable jean-and-t-shirt combo as he continued to look at her with interest.

"All in all, an intriguing experience." He said. "Despite your distaste for being a woman, it was not enough for you to try open defiance. Even 'attacking' somebody you'd formed a tentative friendship with only evoked anger, not true rage. The breasts, the threats - only fear and anger and humiliation. It was only after you had lost, when it was too late, did you choose open rebellion." His brow quirked. "You humans are strange. I find that taking away your volition like this makes you much less interesting - but easier to deal with."

She listened to his words, understanding some of it, not understanding the rest of it - and unable to worry about either part of it. She merely sat, listening.

"I'm interested - what do you think of your tits right now?" the man asked.

Asked a direct question, she found she didn't have the will to refuse to answer. It did take a moment, however, to formulate a response. "They're big." She said, dully. "Heavy."

"I would think so." The man said. Reaching under the chair, he produced a couple of magazines and tossed them to the bed beside her. "Much, much larger than the ones in here - I wanted to make a point. Why don't you take a look through those magazines?"

Numbly, she did what she was told. They were full of pictures of naked women with slender bodies, smaller breasts and more attractive features. After carefully scrutinizing each page, she lay them aside and waited.

"So - which woman has breasts that you would consider being the absolutely perfect?"

She considered the question for along moment, then opened the magazine and pointed out one of them.

The man's eyebrow rose, then she felt a tingling sensation in her chest. She slowly let her gaze drop to the massive expanse of breast displayed by the top she wore, and watched incuriously as they slowly shrank to about the size they'd been originally - or maybe a bit smaller. Full, firm, slightly large B-cups, perhaps, but shapely and perky.

"Undress and go look in the mirror, Carrie." The man commanded.

She slowly rose and stripped mechanically. Slowly, what the man had called her percolated through her mind, and although something seemed wrong, she decided it must be her name - or, at least, what she was going to answer to. In any case, it wasn't really a matter of interest to her.

Now completely nude, she walked to stand in front of the mirror - which hadn't been there before, not that it mattered.

The reflection showed a tallish woman with a slim figure. Her long, well-contoured legs were joined by womanly hips that supported a tear-drop shaped ass at the top, and terminated in dainty feet at the bottom. Her face was attractive, with full lips and a pert nose, but it was dominated by her emerald-green eyes, offset by the mass of dark hair that surmounted her face. Somewhere in the back of her mind, Carrie realized she was quite attractive and sexy - and also, the fact that it was vaguely disconcerting for some reason.

"What do you think of your height, Carrie?" The man asked. "Too tall for perfection? Too short? Just right?"

She considered the question. From somewhere in her mind came the realization that - for some reason - she'd view a shorter woman as being more attractive. She said so.

Quickly she began to shrink, losing a few inches in an equal number of seconds until she stood about five-one or so. "Your legs? Are they okay?" The man asked.

At her reply, her legs remained the same, as did her ass, hips and waist. However, prompted by the man, her face altered slightly, the lips becoming slightly fuller, the cheek-bones more pronounced, and the chin coming to a rounded point. Her neck became longer, more slender, while her shoulders narrowed and her arms gained a little more definition without gaining more muscle.

"Perfect." The man said. "Now, we're almost finished. All you have to do now is concentrate a bit. I want you to..."

* * * * *

The world shifted.

For one second, there was only blackness, a complete absence of everything. In that eternal instant, memory flooded back, allowing Gary/Carrie to remember everything, to feel the emotions surge through him/her in sequence, to allow him/her to catch up with what had happened in the daze, what had been altered, everything except the few seconds immediately before this... limbo.

Then the world snapped back into existence.

The first thing she was aware of was her mind. It was her own - Gary's - mind, untainted by any interference. Even the 'grafted' parts were gone - although, having used the skills in those grafted parts, they were now part of her 'own' mind, just as using any skill would have become.

The next thing she was aware of was her body - the same sexy, 'perfect' body that she'd been 'given' as the 'perfect' Carrie. She was stark naked.

Then lastly, her surroundings registered, and she found herself in what appeared to be some sort of dressing room. Sitting on the make-up table was a micro-cassette recorder, taped to which was a piece of paper that said, simple enough, 'PLAY ME'.

Carrie looked around for possible threats or exits. There was nothing immediately worrisome - except for the fact she was still female, and in a situation she knew nothing about - and the only exit was a closed door. Before she opened the door, she turned back to the make up table and picked up the tape recorder. Peeling off the tape, she pressed the 'Play' button.

Gary's voice emerged from the machine.

'Carrie, this is the final test in my study of you as a human being. After this, there will be no more interference whatsoever in your life, except for the appropriate changes to accommodate whatever choice you may pick in the next little while.'

'When you leave the dressing room, you will find yourself in a short hallway. Down one branch lies an exit. If you go through this exit, you will be returned to your own home, and you will be in the 'idealized' male body I have created. You will be able to pick up your life where you left off - and I shall even 'erase' all memory of the 'indignities' you have suffered.'

'However, if you choose this option exactly one thousand, eight hundred and sixty-two people you have never met will die slow, horrible deaths, many years before their time. You will not know that you are responsible, as you will have no memory of this.'

'Your other alternative is to go in the other direction. There, I will be waiting. I will have a 'fantasy' for you to act out that will - at maximum - last exactly one thousand, eight hundred and sixty-two seconds. For each second you successfully managed to 'act out' the fantasy, one person will be spared this fate. However, once you have chosen this route, the fantasy will slowly, gradually alter your mind and body as you 'play along'. No matter when you 'quit', whatever has been done to you will remain - and form the basis of your new life.

'Take as long as you need to decide and - if necessary - prepare for the fantasy.'

Carrie stared at the recorder with a look of purest horror. She'd known that the alien entity didn't really view humanity as 'real people' - but this?

More, it was all resting on her shoulders. The decision was impossible. If she left, she'd never know what she'd done - but before she could leave she'd have to accept those death, and make herself walk down the corridor and out the door. Once through, she'd be free - but could she make it through the door, or would guilt crush her....

...into the other impossible choice. Be left as a woman for the rest of her life? The type of woman whose personality would be defined by what she did and how she acted?

Could she live with that? Could she live with the other? Where was the 'out', the silver lining, the prize for doing it right?

There wasn't one, she knew - that was the purpose of the test. To determine whether she would place herself above those people - who she didn't even know.

But...

But...

Slumping to the chair, Carrie stared off into the distance, mind awl. But no matter how much she wanted to avoid answering the question, she knew that there was really only one thing she could do.

Squaring her narrow shoulders, Carrie opened the door to the dressing room. Taking only a swift glance at the door clearly marked 'exit', she turned and headed in the opposite direction.

Stepping through the curtain that blocked the doorway, she found herself in a large, dark space. It was impossible to judge how large the area actually was, but it was certainly as big as the high-school gym, and could be considerably larger.

The blackness was broken by two things. One was red numerals that seemed to float about twenty feet up in the air, displaying the number of seconds - and lives.

The other was a narrow pool of light that revealed the alien Gary, reclining in a chair, looking at her with that cool expression that she'd come to loathe. Then, suddenly, his expression changed, to one that seemed warm and welcoming. At the exact same instant, the numbers on the 'tally board' began to roll backwards.

"Ah, Carrie - there you are!" Gary said, warmly - and, at the same time, she felt something happening. She looked down at watched as clothing began to appear on her body.

Within seconds, she was dressed in a rather severe business suit with a knee-length skirt. She was wearing glasses, and her hair was done up tightly in a bun. Her viewpoint shifted slightly as she rose up atop blocky shoes with one-and-a-half inch heels. Even as the clothes formed around her, Carrie knew that if she quit, right this second, this would be the type of clothing she would 'prefer' from now on.

As the clothing finished coming into existence, the darkness faded around her, the empty space forming itself into something else - a room. A large room full of...

...books?

She was, apparently, in a library. And, judging from the clothing she wore, she was the librarian. That made it fairly obvious what life would be hers if she quit now...

...leaving thousands to die terrible deaths.

Taking a deep breath, she took the barest instant to think. So far, these decisions had been out of her hands - but however she acted would form her new personality, so she had to be careful - but not too careful or hesitant, or she would be in default to the game.

"Did you expect me to be somewhere else?" She finally chose, in a somewhat sarcastic tone. With a somewhat stiff stride, she walked to the librarian's desk and went around behind it, not yet sure what the 'game' she was playing was.

Gary laughed. "No, the only place to find you is with your beloved books, my dear." Rising from the chair - which had changed, becoming a leather one at a long reading table, he approached her, coming around behind the desk. Standing next to her, he slid one hand across the stiff fabric covering her shapely ass, while moving his lips towards hers...

She pushed him back. Surprise registered on his face, and she could feel the game trembling right on the ragged edge - but she had to play for time - and lives.

Of course, she also had to work up the nerve she'd need...

Before he could declare the game, she smiled coyly but correctly. "Not here, Gary." She said in a low voice. "Follow me."

She moved off into the stacks, and after a moment he followed, mild amusement on his face. She'd already figured out one crucial detail, and was going to play it to the hilt.

He really didn't care if he won or lost. He wouldn't cheat, he wouldn't rush her too much, he wouldn't try anything other than his original plan, modified by her responses. Because he wasn't evil, or a psychopath. Only now had she realized that - he was indifferent, emotionally uninvolved - he was only looking to see what her response was, to run the test for the data he wanted. He would do nothing to skew the data, and as long as she stayed within the boundaries of the test, she had some degree of control.

She was going to milk it for all it was worth, slowing the changes that were going to occur, fighting for the best possible outcome for herself - after saving those lives.

Stopping at the 'Romance' section, she picked a book off the shelf, praying that they would be more than simple, blank props. With a hidden sigh of relief, she looked at the printing inside as she opened the pages.

Gary - 'out of character' - was obviously intrigued by her gambit, allowing her a chance...

...if she didn't stretch it too far.

Picking a section, Carrie mustered all her courage - and began to read.

"Her bosom heaved as Roland approached, and she looked away, her face flushing..." She read - then, forcing herself to breath heavily, she glanced at him, then looked away...

Gary caught on immediately. Smiling, he began to approach her.

"Her eyes returned to his as she felt his strong arms encircle her, touching her soft, milky thigh on one side and her slender waist on the other." Carrie forced herself to inject a note of 'arousal' in her voice as he suited action to words. Wanting nothing more than to delay further, she forced herself to read on, hating/enjoying Gary's hands on her body.

"One strong hand slid around her womanly hips to slide across firm, forbidden flesh, and she tried to bring herself to demand he halt - but could not. Gently, he drew her to his manly breast..."

She was pulled tightly to Gary as he continued to fondle her ass with his hand. Unwanted shivers of pleasure ran through her body at his touch, and her slight moan of pleasure wasn't nearly as feigned as she would have liked. In the same instant, the enjoyment of that touch became a permanent fixture of her slowly altering psyche - as did a fondness for romantic novels. No matter how careful she was, her mind was slowly conforming to her actions and choices, and that fact was made worse by the knowledge that it was happening - and that it was here who was deciding what would be part of her new personality.

But she would not - could not - give up now.

"...and their lips met." She finished the paragraph, forcing her voice into a passionate whisper - and let the book fall from her fingers as she embraced him. She couldn't let her hesitation or disgust kill thousands, so she acted before she could think - closing her eyes and kissing Gary with all the hungry passion she could manage - and thus, imbedding forever in her psyche a pleasure in kissing, a desire to kiss and be kissed, as she was doing now.

But the sting of that fact was lessened by the sense of victory - for, by her actions, she'd managed to limit that desire to it being initiated by her - not by responding to any man who wished to kiss her.

A small victory, perhaps - but she'd have to take any victory she could get.

Then, even as she found herself actually enjoying the kiss, her altered psyche ensuring that it was intensely pleasurable to her... the room faded, and Gary seemed to turn to mist in her increasingly 'real' embrace, and he slid away from her.

She was disgusted by the pang she felt as she 'escaped'/'lost' his warm embrace and passionate lip-lock.

Then she felt a strange writhing sensation run through her body. A pressure in her chest prompted her to look down, and she watched - with rising dismay - as her bust swelled outwards, coming to rest when her breasts were firm, round DD-cups. Meanwhile, her clothes began to change, seeming to run - as if wet paint - before re-solidifying in a new configuration.

Then the room faded in on her.

She was seated at a desk. Although she was wearing 'business' attire, it was a lot less conservative. A fairly short, off-white skirt revealed much of her spectacular legs, clad in dark nylons. A silk wrap-around blouse in white covered her new assets - barely - and what the low neckline didn't reveal would be more than hinted at if she removed the cream-colored blazer that covered them.

"Miss Douglas, will come in here for a moment?" Gary's voice came though the intercom, tinny but clear. Taking a second to figure out how, Gary responded in the affirmative, even as she registered the changes in her psyche - including 'flaunting' her body in nice - but naughty - clothing.

Rising to her feet - clad in off-white pumps with three inch heels - she headed toward the doors she assumed led to the office.

At the last second, she remembered to put a little more sway into her step than her 'librarian' persona had used - thus embedding her new walk in her mind.

Closing the door behind she, she forced a polite 'company' smile at Gary, who sat behind a desk at the far end of the room. "You wanted to see me, sir?"

Gary smile lewdly. "Yes, I wanted to see you, Miss Douglas. Quite a bit more of you."

Well, that more or less defined this section. In the distance - beyond Gary, hanging above the skyline of the city - the numbers continued to roll backwards, and Carrie had to think very, very quickly to find the best solution to this one.

She smiled. A 'happy' smile - if a bit forced. "Naughty boy -you know we should really wait until I quit next week, so that our engagement can be open. People still frown upon bosses fooling around with secretaries, you know."

And with those words, she defined the 'scenario' - she wasn't a trampy secretary, but a secretly engaged woman who was making her husband-to-be happy. Which gave her a lot more latitude.

With the same smile, she shrugged out of the blazer and dropped it on the couch. Slowly, she ran her hands up her own body, ending up with her barely-concealed breasts, cupping her endowments as she slowly squeezed her rapidly swelling nipples through the translucent fabric.

Forcing a giggle, Carrie continued to define her persona. "You know the girls in the pool are all wondering what happened to 'shy little Carrie'. I think they'll be able to figure it out once we announce our engagement, don't you?"

"If not, they should be fired for incompetence..." Gary said agreeably, willing to play along.

Having bought all the time she dared at his point, Carrie undid the fastener on the blouse and - as slowly as she dared - unwrapped it, allowing her firm, perfect breasts into full view - and, thankfully, defining herself as a woman who enjoyed showing herself off - to her lover.

Dropping the blouse, she also stepped - slowly - out of her skirt. Forcing herself to keep the same, seductive smile, she moved slowly forward, her slender hands fondling her own body as she approached Gary.

This part of the act was disgusting to Carrie, the playing at the exhibitionist - and having it imbedded in her mind. But, somehow, it was more disgusting to her that she was genuinely eager to reach Gary and settle into his lap so she could kiss and be kiss - that part having already been altered and fixed in her mind, making her desire it even as she was disgusted by it.

So, it was with decidedly mixed feelings that she reached him. She had to actually force herself to continue her play for time, so eager was she - and she hated that.

Still, her discipline one out, and she bought a few more crucial seconds by placing one long, sexy leg on his chair and slowly, sensually peeling off her nylon, her panty-clad crotch close to Gary face. A few more long, necessary seconds were consumed as she repeated the action with the second leg, then she had-to/finally-got-to lower her firm ass onto his lap and claim a deep, hungry kiss from him.

He took the time to also fondle her enlarge breasts as they kissed, and she moaned softly, low in her throat, at the pleasure of his touch across her swollen nipples - and hating the fact that she would now enjoy having her breasts fondled and touched in the future.

Even as she was beginning to - grudgingly - enjoy her position in his lap, being fondle while half-nude, the scenario once more faded, leaving her in a sort of limbo.

As she'd feared, she again felt the pressure in her chest as he breasts once more swelled outwards, filing out to firm, spherical EEE- cup, and tipped by large, dark nipples. Even as she looked with wry acceptance at her expanded bust-line, she felt the clothing - and world - reforming around her...

Carrie felt a brief instant of panic as she realized that Gary was stepping up the pace of the experiment - and for a terrible second, she drew a complete and utter blank.

They were in a cheap motel room. Bright red light spilled from a neon sign outside the window. She was standing beside the bed, dressed in the unmistakable outfit of a 'working girl' - tight black leather skirt, fishnet stockings, bright-red crop top and bright red shoes with five inch stiletto heels. Gary, standing just inside the closed door of the hotel room, was looking at her with undisguised lust.

Then, in that instant of despair, when she thought she couldn't go on, that she'd have to quit before she either refused to continue - or did continue, locking her mentality into the scenario in which she was trapped - she found the out she needed.

"I can't believe we're doing this." She 'giggled'. "What?" Gary asked, slightly taken aback.

"I feel so silly dressed up like this." Carrie said, forcing herself to continue on, knowing what was going to happen soon. "But, when you're married to a Ensign in the U.S. Navy, you have to make sure you his twelve-hour liberty in San Francisco is... memorable." Then using every ounce of willpower in her mind, she forced herself to 'get in the role'. "So, sailor - come here often?"

Gary leered at her. "No - but I hope to cum here soon." He approached her, pulling his shirt off as he came, then his hands were reaching for her and she was eternally grateful that the role of 'hooker' meant she didn't have to make her smile look genuine.

Pulling off the crop top, he began - rather roughly - to fondle her tits, pulling at the nipples while her hands reached for his fly.

Knowing that she had to protect her psyche, Carrie put all her effort into making the sound of her 'passion' as artificial as possible - despite the fact that, rough as he was, some of Gary's touch was bringing pleasure. But her effort to make her sound less the realistic paid off - for, instead of her mind altering to 'enjoy' rough fondling, it merely made the minor change that she'd allow rough handling, in certain - and very limited - circumstances.

Plus, the fact she had to concentrate on perfection for that sound allowed her to slip his pants and underwear down without really thinking about it.

However, when her yanked off her skirt - revealing a bare cunt - that wasn't possible, and it took all she had not to just push him away, and lose the 'game'.

Instead, she forced herself to remember the 'role within a role' she was playing, and whisper in Gary's ear "careful, darling." Then he was pushing her back in the bed, his hands on her body.

There was no finesse in his acts, and there wasn't intended to be. His original set-up was a John using a hooker, and that's how he was playing it - it was up to her to preserve as much of her persona as possible. So, when he used his weight to push her legs apart and penetrate her, she felt both pain and pleasure from his rough entry.

The pain she'd sort of braced herself for - but the pleasure was surprisingly strong, and she almost lost her hold on her persona when it hit her. He began to fuck her - there was no other word for the act - with long, deep, fast strokes, pounding into her with energy, but little technique. Despite that, waves of pleasure rolled through her as she gasped at the sensations, disgusted at the sensation of being filled by a hot, hard cock, and at the way her cunt instantly became wet and hot, 'eager' for him.

The intense sensations continued to build, and only one thought kept Carrie on the ragged edge of control... This wasn't that bad.

As odd as it may seem, she didn't have that much trouble dealing with the fact that she was being fucked by a man. She knew - no matter how much she wished it was otherwise - that she was forever trapped in the body of a woman. Sex, as she'd once known it, was no longer an option. Even if she'd been mentally unaltered, and allowed to become a lesbian, she would have had to deal with having a cunt. In the body of a woman, vaginal sex wasn't as degrading as it could be, since it didn't have a 'homosexual equivalent' if she'd still been male.

But she couldn't/didn't want to/wasn't going to just 'give in' to the sex that was occurring.

"Honey - I know it's been six months..." She gasped, fighting both the ecstasy she was feeling and the emotions fighting in her mind. With those words, her psyche was safe from becoming 'cheap and easy' - at least for now.

Which meant that she could stop having to fight, to concentrate desperately on her 'play-acting' - and instead, surrender to the sensations that were coming through her body.

Wave after wave of pleasure continued to build, and she moaned, low and deep and - as much as she hated to admit it - honestly. She'd never experienced anything quite like this, not even masturbating, despite the fact that it was fast and hard.

Then she shuddered as her orgasm hit in time with Gary's.

She screamed, loudly, as intense pleasure rocked her body. Deep inside, she screamed in another way as her personality was forever altered, guaranteeing that she would be sexually attracted to men forever after, desiring sex in the future...

But, thank god, not necessarily sex like this. Her resistance had allowed her psyche to remember this as 'unsatisfactory' sex - not something to be sought, and only barely to be tolerated. It wasn't much, but if she was going to seek out sex in the future, at least she'd be seeking out really, really good sex.

Then, even as Gary rolled off of her and she began to ride the afterglow down from her first post-coital interlude, the world once more faded away.

An instant before anything else changed, she got a glance at the numbers rolling backwards, and a surge of hope rolled through her. She'd managed to delay things long enough that she was nearing the end of the test. Whatever happened, this would be the last segment that could happen. If she could just get through this - and do it without sacrificing her persona too much - then there was still some small measure of hope.

Gary was pushing her harder. Knowing that he wouldn't get to run all the segments he had wished to - for instance, anal intercourse, incest or bestiality - he was going to 'force the issue' on this last game, to see where her breaking point might be.

This time there was no warning, no time to adapt - she just appeared in a new setting, altered and dressed.

She barely had time to register anything - other than there was something different about her - when Gary started the scenario.

He was sitting on the bench of what appeared to be a locker room. He was also much younger than before - perhaps nineteen or twenty. He was dressed in jeans and a football jersey that stretched over massive musculature...

...and, jutting from the open crotch of his jeans was the most massive cock that it had ever been the misfortune of Carrie to see. "Well, Carrie - you said you were going to show me how an expert sucked cock." Gary said with a grin - waiting....

With no time to adjust, with no time to plan, Carrie only knew one thing at that instant - she couldn't give up. No matter the cost to her, she had to play the game to the finish.

Mentally crossing her fingers, she jumped in with both feet even as she fought the bile that wanted to rise in her throat at the thought. "Of course, stud-muffin." She said. "And the first step is 'the tease'."

Having bought herself an instant with that line, she took stock.

She was naked. Not a stick of clothing covered her body, denying her any 'reference' to plausibly start her persona from - whatever she went with would have to be whole-cloth, spun out of thin air as she went along.

She was younger. About the same age as Gary, or a little younger.

And her tits were huge - massive, firm boobs the size of medicine balls, topped with massive nipples as big as the necks of beer-bottles.

Then the instant she'd bought herself was gone and she had to play the game with no plan, nothing but instinct and her wits to guide her while she fought off the disgust and hate she felt.

She approached Gary, forcing her full, soft lips into a sensual smile as she neared him. With each step, her huge new tits jiggled and swayed.

"God, I love your tits, Kerri." Gary said with a grin, alerting Kerri to her altered name. "You must love having tits like those." It was a forcing bid - whatever she said would decide how she would view her tits in her new life.

However, since she was going to be stuck with them...

She smiled - and this time it was genuine, since she was actually amused at the thought that had occurred to her - Gary didn't understand. Since she was going to 'loose' anyway - from the point of view that she was going to be stuck in this form - then she wasn't going to fight this particular 'bid'. She was just going to pick how she wanted it to go.

"Most people's genetic 'defects' are awful" She said with that grin. "I'm so very happy that mine was having these huge, unbelievably sensitive tits! Even having to keep them 'hidden' most of the time is okay, since the touch of clothing on them makes me feel so good "

Boom - the point was hers. In an instant she'd guaranteed that she wouldn't mind wearing almost any clothing over them - and, since her psyche already 'liked' having her tits fondled, making that act even more enjoyable for her was another victory. She added 'insult to injury' by fondling her enormous new tits, and was rewarded with an incredible burst of pleasure as reality altered to match her words.

Then a thought struck her...

"Of course, the fact that my cunt, lips and tongue are also hyper-sensitive doesn't hurt either "

If she was going to have to do it in the future, she might as well find it extremely pleasurable, physically.

Knelling in front of Gary, she eyed the massive cock with hidden revulsion - and surreptitiously glanced at the clock. This was it - crunch time.

Having no choice now - or rather a choice she simply refused to consider - she leaned forward, opened her sexy lips - and slid her mouth over his massive shaft.

It was a struggle to maintain control. It took every ounce of willpower in her hyper-feminine body as she forced herself to act like this is exactly what she wanted to do - suck a guy's massive cock.

Expertly.

She put everything she'd ever learned from being on the receiving end into the act. Lips, mouth, tongue, fingers - and a touch of suction

- all played their part as she bobbed her head up and down on that massive shaft, telling herself desperately that she must not vomit! When his incredibly thick stream of warm, salty cum started gushing down her throat, however, it was a very close thing.

He seemed to cum forever, most of it gushing down a throat she forced to stay open with sheer willpower. Some of it, however, leaked out the edges of her mouth to splatter down on her massive, hyper-sensitive tits.

When he finally finished coming, she pulled her mouth away from his cock with a wet 'plop'. A look at the clock told her she had only seconds left, and those seconds were all she had to implement the most important part of the plan that had occurred to her...

* * * * *

Lounging on the quadrangle outside the library, John glanced around at the sound of high-heels on pavement - the surreptitiously nudged his friend, Dave.

"Psst, look" John whispered. "It's Kerri Douglas."

Both young men openly started as the incredible, dark-haired girl passed them. Her incredible tits jiggled and swayed hypnotically under the fuzzy pink sweater she wore, and beneath the hem of her short, white shirt her long, sexy legs moved seductively. The shoes she wore, with the five-inch heels, did amazing things for both her stride, and her already mind-boggling ass.

"God, I'd love to fuck her " Dave muttered, his eyes not wanting to leave the 19 year old sex-goddess.

John snorted. "You wish. We aren't even close to what she demands in a man. Besides, I heard that she's so unbelievably incredible in bed that if you're not an athlete it might kill you."

"I believe it." Dave said. "Holy fucking shit - gorgeous, rich, a certified genius, with no parents to boss her around - and she fuckin' owns half the collage. She's, like, the perfect girl, ya know?"

'Enjoying' the stares of the men around her - she really had no choice in the matter, thanks to her altered psyche - Kerri could take comfort in three things.

First, the fact that her last change had given her a longer life, and a second shot at youth. Second, that she'd safely guaranteed her enjoyment of the sex she was 'forced' to have.

And third, that she'd had just enough time to 'congratulate' Gary on 'graduating' - the only reason why the 'richest, smartest and most admired girl in the state would stoop to a 'gratuitous' blow-job without having had lengthy, dedicated pleasure for herself first '.

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: A curse from the past finds its way to haunt the present in this "Barbie Gone Bad" story.

Family Legacy

By Gunslinger

Hamptonshire Keep Northhamptonshire, England The Year of our Lord, 1502

Her once fine silk dress in tattered disarray, Lady Charlemaine still managed an air of dignity and nobility around herself as she gazed out the bared window and into the moonlit depths of the Northhamptonshire Moors, what little of it she could see through the thick fog rolling in from the English Channel.

"Enjoying your stay in Northhamptonshire, Ma'am?"

Her captor, his voice laced with thick, ugly humor. His words and dialect were of the low-born: 'Ajoiin' yer stay in Nor'amponshur, Mum?' Her reply was sharp, quick, coolly sarcastic, her diction perfect, her phrasing 'just-so': "I fear not, Master Smith."

The statement was followed by a lady-like snort from her narrow, high-turned nose, her usually pale cheek burning with rage as she regally turned her narrow, sculpted face away.

Allein the Smith's heavy, fire-singed eyebrows sank lower over his deep-set eyes, his leathery face scrunching in on itself as his massive, bulky body straightened in unconscious threat, hamhock-sized fists clenching tightly.

"Oh, so yer Ladyship's bein' all refined and courtly again, is she? Wot, jus' like she was when she first rode into town like she was the queen o' the world, wantin' her horses shod right-way and be right glad to take whatever she consents to pay ye for slavin' away all day." The black-smith's voice was dripping with sarcastic glee, because he knew the punch-line of this horrid little joke - and so did she.

Which was why his heavy, smoke-roughened voice dripped with glee as he taunted her. "Yer Ladyship weren't nearly so refined last night, now was she? No, sir, she were right forward, what with me bein' a widower twice her age, and just havin' buried my second wife. You just strut right into the pub, bold as brass, and in front of all them fine folk, and me own son to boot, ripped your clothes off and begged me to be putting the iron to the fire, and thank ye very much."

His gnarled face forced itself into a look of stunned innocence, as fake as a wooden ha'pence. When he went on, his voice was as if honeyed.

"On account o' your evil eye, I was helpless to do but what I was bid, doing things with you - to you - that my simple mind could not have even imagined before. You begged, and I obeyed, yer Ladyship..."

His feigned innocent dropped away, and his true nature shone out as he laughed, cruelly.

"That lust-potion to Old Woman o' the Woods sold me did all she said it would, aye - an' more! Best gold Sovereign I e'er spent, say I, and so I'll say forever. Yer a fine tumble-and-slap, me fine wench."

She screeched, then, whirling and diving forward. Her long, slender arms lanced out, darting between the thick iron bars of her cell as she tried to scratch her tormentor's eyes out.

" 'Ere, now, none 'o that..." Allein growled, roughly, slapping her hands away with muscular ease. That ugly smile rose again. "That's no way to treat yer 'usband, m'lady."

She recoiled, as one would from a sudden, vulgar stench. "I will never marry you, Master Smith!" "Ye best reconsider, mum - it's me or the flames."

His voice wasn't even the least bit apologetic.

"Then I take the flames, Master Smith!" She declared, whirling in him imperiously, slender finger extended. "But first I curse ye..."

He laughed. His huge, scorched arms clasped across his broad belly, thick fingers gripping his leather smock as he rolled his head back and roared with laughter.

She stumbled to a stop, mid-tirade, mouth tightening primly.

"Go right 'ead and curse me if it pleases yer Ladyship..." Allein guffawed. "The Old Woman also sold me a warding, for me an' my get, and my get's get after them. So curse 'way all ye like, yer Ladyship - and it won't do ye one drop o' good..."

Still chortling, the black-smith turned and stomped to the heavy oak door set in the stone wall, one meaty fist thudding on the iron-bound surface to get the gaoler's attention.

Moments later, his heavy footsteps thundered away down the oak stairs that circled down the keep's height, leaving her alone with her fears and hates, her hopes and her despair...

...her raging, uncontrollable urge for vengeance.

Her dark eyes blazing in the candlelight, Lady Charlemaine looked upwards, her hands rising outwards as she implored the dark forces that her Druidic heritage gave contact to.

"Give me my vengeance!" She hissed, eyes flashing. "If not on him, nor his get, nor theirs, then down the bloodline, five hundred years hence, when the bloodline will be so thinned as to be unprotected. Those distant offspring of that vile man, as yet unborn, shall take my vengeance, through you. As I have fallen, so shall they. They shall find change in fortune, change in position - and they will be forced to endure some of that which was forced unto me. I implore thee, carry this, my vengeance, until that day, giving it onto only the males of that yet unborn generation..." Her voice rose in pitch and volume as, outside, thunder ripped and crashed through towering dark clouds that were rising much, much to fast.

"Grant me this boon, Dark Gods of my Forefathers!" She thundered. "Take my life, now, for your amusement. Take my life, as payment for wreaking my vengeance on the male children of a generation as yet unborn! Take me - but forget not the geis I lay upon thee...!"

The last of this came out in the spittle-flecked shriek of a mad-woman, the high-pitched scream echoing out through barred windows and into the now storm-tossed night, ripping out with such force that even wind, rain and thunder could not obscure it from the blacksmith, huddled in the stone-arched doorway and begging for re-admittance against the rising tempest.

As the shriek pierced the storm, the hugely-muscled man stopped his heavy, frantic pounding on the door and looked up, grizzled gray hair flapping around his face as he stared at the top of the tower, far above...

...just as the bolt of lightning slammed through the thatched-roof tower, setting the roofing aflame even as the massive, uneven stones of the tower ripped apart, thrown directly upwards and outwards, into the ravening wind...

...and then came crashing down through the wind-torn night, slamming downwards and gouging heavily into the ground, shattering stone pathways and killing any living thing that happened to be there.

Not Allein the black-smith. Though blocks fell all about him, none landed on him.

Closing his eyes and promising to deliver a new caldron to the Woman of the Woods, the Smith brushed some dust off his tunic and smock, squaring his beefy shoulders as he began to stride towards home, already working out the very best way to tell this little tale down at the pub...

He paused, heavy brows narrowing, and he glanced over his shoulder at the ruined tower, flaming fragments of thatching lighting the lowering sky.

On second thought, the smith decided he'd keep this one to himself. No need to start rumors that the boys might hear, and then think less of their dear old dad because of it.

That decided, the black-smith dashed for the safety of his cottage before the full fury of the storm could catch up with him.

* * * * *

Pomona Freeway California, USA

Today

Bradley Carter-Smythe nearly died at 1:22 in the afternoon.

He'd been roughly midway between Montebello and Pomona, 'stretching the legs' on his brand new Mercedes, a 21st birthday present to himself from his father's trust fund. He'd had the gleaming back SSK up to seventy-five and was just putting the hammer down when his entire body had suddenly been his with an icy blast of cold that had seemed to send every muscle in his lean, sinewy body into spasmodic twitching.

Sweat quickly matted his wheat-blond hair as he struggled for control - not of the car so much as himself, since it was his own spasmodic actions that was causing the car to veer and swerve all over the (Thank God!) fairly empty freeway, his twitching feet alternately causing the engine to roar and mutter, the nose of the car dipping and swaying as he fought for control...

...and then the steering wheel went dead in his hands.

"Whu..at.. de... fu..ug..ck..?" Brad stammered out, sounding like a drooling idiot as his facial muscles defied him as much as the other muscles in his body. He was under marginal control of himself - but it didn't seem to help, since the car had become a dead thing around him, the engine's scream dying away as the car began to decelerate rapidly, gliding straight towards the shoulder even as the...

...metal grew transparent ?!

Even as his mind finally began to register the fact that the car seemed to be growing hazy, somehow, the car reached the graveled shoulder, barely crawling along...

...then Brad stumbled, barely managing to get his feet under him as the car, quite simply, vanished.

His recovery had been automatic, a lifetime of fairly good reflexes coming to his aid even as his body continued to tremble slightly - but of the car, there was no sign. It was as if it had been made of fog that had dissipated under the heat of the summer sun.

"Whatthe fuck ?" Brad asked, aloud, forcing his still-trembling tongue and lips to form the words clearly and angrily as he stood on the side of the road, an athletically built young man in tan chinos and a off-white silk shirt, his handsome face wreathed in much more annoyance and anger than fear and confusion. With his wealthy and privileged background, Brad simply wasn't used to situations he couldn't handle through influence or money - so he was less puzzled than simply royally pissed...

"Goddamn - I didn't even put a thousand miles on the damned thing!" Brad swore, bitterly, looking up and down the freeway in seething anger at having 'lost' his car, the inconvenience of it all more important to him than the strange nature of it's occurrence.

The whole thing happened in broad daylight, on a highway that wasn't exactly deserted - yet nobody seemed to have noticed anything strange about what had just happened. At least, none of them seem the least bit inclined to help the wheat-blond young man on the gravel shoulder.

Muttering to himself, Brad reached into his shirt pocket for his tiny Motorola cell phone...

...then, his face becoming thunderous, he began to pat around his body.

"Shit!" Brad swore, kicking at an inoffensive pile of gravel with the toe of his Italian leather loafers. Now really pissed, he looked up and down the highway again - this time, not focusing on the traffic, but considering distances...

"Aw, fuck it..." Brad swore, looking around. On the dirt-and-low-scrub hill that rose rather steeply from the shoulder of the highway, a rather large, modern, glass-and-white-plaster home was barely visible on it's crest, the large south-ward facing windows throwing off sharp highlights in the early afternoon sun.

Shaking his head in annoyance, Brad turned and walked up to the dusty, pebble-strewn base of the slope, idly kicking loose scree about as he eyes the slope with a look of resigned annoyance.

Giving his head a quick shake, Brad pushed aside his annoyance at the inconvenience of it all, and leaned into the hill as he began to climb it, his eyes focused on a spot about four inches in front of his toes as he carefully avoided loose gravel and sand, occasionally finding a short, sparse shrub to help pull himself up with.

The shrubs weren't quite as sturdy as they looked, their sparsely-vegetated branches supported by a very shallow - and, currently, very dry - root system.

One of the ones he grabbed onto for support gave way, and he wheeled backwards, his slender, longish-nailed hand instinctively releasing the bush so that he could wind-mill his arms for balance.

For a second, Brad was sure he was going to fall - and then he leaned forward just a little bit more, and felt himself regain his balance. He glanced down and verified the fact that, yes, the soles of his black size nine pumps were firmly ground into the hillside, the six-inch high tapered heels dangling in midair and what the... "fuck...?!"

He blinked, looking again, and the feminine footwear still enclosed his feet.

He hadn't even been aware of the fact he'd altered his climbing technique to account for the heels he now wore - and did so with such practiced skill and grace, that the climb had actually become a bit easier. If it hadn't been for the added skill he seemed to have somehow acquired when it came to moving around in very high-heeled shoes, he would never have regained his balance after the shrub unexpectedly let go.

Brad gaped down at the shoes, which were not only feminine, high-heeled, and glossy black - but cheap, made from patent leather rather than the real stuff...

It took him a second to realize that his first thought should have been to step out of the shoes - yet, the thought hadn't occurred to him when it should have, and now that it had, he found himself strangely reluctant to take the shoes off...

Oh, well - that was just his common sense telling hi he couldn't very well climb up the rock-strewn slope in his bare feet. In fact, the heels actually seemed to make the climb a bit easier.

He'd leave them on until he got to the top of the hill, he decided, then let the matter slip from his mind as he bent to the task of climbing, unaware of how odd it was for him to let the strange matter go by the mental wayside so easily.

With his mind just sort of focused on getting up the hill, he didn't really think much of anything - and he noticed even less, at least until he reached the top of the hill, crossing a short patch of dusty ground to the sharply-defined edge of the rich, green lawn that surrounded the house. Only then did he take a deep breath, stretching his bare arms above him and looking up towards the coral-blue sky as he let his breathing and heart-rate return to normal...

...and spent several seconds staring at his arms and hands before he realized something was strange.

His arms were thinner than they should have been. Not only that, but his hands and fingers were smaller, daintier than they should have been, and each more-slender finger was tipped by a longish nail, colored a faint semi-translucent red.

He stared at his arm in a mildly puzzled way, wondering what was going on. For some reason, he didn't seem the least bit panicked about the change, though he was confused and more than a little surprised.

He sifted his gaze, completely unaware that the feeling of longer, silkier hair brushing over the back of his neck was something he should be concerned about. He was too busy looking at his shirt...

...which seemed to have become some sort of 'tank-top' style undershirt, a bit loose on a slimmer-than-before ribcage, the once-silken material now a light gray color, and a heavier and... cheaper material.

His pants now seemed to be made of the same material, though they were now a dark brown in color below his now-shinier-gray belt.

They were not only a different color, but a different style - fairly tight-fitting, in fact - with the fly gaping open, exposing his considerably shrunken cock.

"Oh, no - my pathetically little cock is showing..." Was the only thing that he thought to say, completely unaware he'd added the 'pathetically little' part as he looking down at his slimmer, smoother legs, dangling cock, and the black patent-leather ankle boots with their seven-inch heels with mild - and somewhat vague - concern.

He no more noticed the fact that both the boots and the feet inside were smaller and slimmer then he noticed the voice he'd spoken in had been higher pitched and softer.

"I'd better find some big, strong man to help me out here..." He decided. "Big, strong men or so smart, and they always know what to do..."

He blinked, wondering why he'd mused that aloud - but not why he'd done so in a vague sort of sing-song voice.

He headed towards the house, aware of the way his wider hips were moving in a feminine little swivel-sway - yet not able to find any other sort of stride to use, since his every attempt to walk in a more masculine way just sort of screwed him up, causing him to stumble and sway - almost as if he had no skill or experience walking in anything other than a rather over-stated little sway, his unnoticed-but- noticeably-smaller feet taking short, pert little steps.

His mind focused on the problem of what was happening to him, Brad absently nipped the end of one of his golden-blond ponytail, lightly chewing on the French-braided end of the golden rope as he thought, his perfect white teeth occasionally showing past his fuller, lightly-tinted lips.

"This is, like, so totally weird..." He murmured to himself in a breathy soprano, the finely-shaped eyebrows above his big, blue eyes lowering in a puzzled expression. "Like, why would I be wearing, you know, women's clothing?"

He swayed towards the glass patio doors overlooking the pool that the back of the house boasted, swaying atop the eight-inch heels of his gleaming semi-'ballet'-boots, only marginally aware of the severe angle his tiny, dainty little feet were forced into by the footwear..

...since he was much more concerned by the way his chest was pressing outwards into the latex crop-top he was wearing. More and more creamy cleavage was being exposed as his chest swelled outwards into two very well-defined - and recognizable - spherical shapes.

"I'm growing huge, round boobies!" He exclaimed in shock - then looked past his swelling chest, to where the gaping-open crotch of his leather chaps revealed the finely-trimmed golden-blond hair around what was unmistakably... " and a tight, wet little pussy, too!"

She stood easily balanced atop the gloss-black patent leather ballet boots with their nine-inch heels, struggling to look at her tight new cunt - and finally having to give it up, since she couldn't see past the enormous, creamy curvature of her new bust-line, the medicine- ball-sized orbs of creamy breast-flesh obviously 'surgically enhanced' to be so utterly huge and spectacularly firm and wonderfully round, straining the leather crop-top that barely covered their huge expanse...

"What the hell do you think you're doing, Barbie?" A voice demanded angrily, and she snapped her eyes towards the voice, realizing as she did so that she was instinctively responding to that name...

Her gaze paused for a second, her big blue eyes widening as she caught sight of her reflection in the semi-mirrored glass of the house.

'Barbie' was it exactly. The woman who gazed back at her was the spitting image of Mattel's plastic doll brought to life, from long, impossibly slender legs and a tiny waist, to an incredibly long neck and heart-shaped face with big blue eyes and bee-stung red lips...

...except this 'Barbie Doll' had enormous, fake tits and was dressed up in gleaming black fetish-wear, including a black leather collar and gleaming silver cuffs at wrist and ankle. Thin-yet-strong steel chain connected her feet together, making her 'instinctive' little 'pansy- stride' a bare necessity, especially in the fetish footwear she wore.

She was Barbie gone Bad...

"Damn it, you stupid cunt, I didn't spend all that money on plastic surgery just so you could wander off and probably break that lovely new neck of yours." The man in the doorway said, angrily, drawing her bright gaze to him.

He was a short, broad-shouldered man, his skin darkly tanned under the thick mat of course dark hair that showed on his bare arms and where his open-necked white cotton shirt left his barrel-like chest bare. Heavily muscled, the man had dark hair and eyes, and surprisingly full, sensuous lips. Clad in a simple cotton shirt, black jeans, and leather sandals, he exuded a sense of hard confidence and adamant control...

...and the new woman's head swam as she stared at him, suddenly convinced that he was so much smarter, wiser and more powerful than she was, that she was barely a little speck compared to him, and insignificant nothing...

She tried, desperately, to shove the near-overwhelming sense of awe and near worship she felt for this strange man...

...and couldn't.

Her knees felt weak, and her stomach was in a tight knot. Her full lips were curved in a smile, but that seemed to be her new, permanent expression - since she was sweating and literally shivering.

She was desperately trying not to piss herself.

She knew it was completely illogical - even ridiculous - but she had the uncontrollable, overwhelming impression that this man could crush her like an insect, if he chose. That he could just think her out of existence, wiping her off the face of the Earth if she did anything to displease him...

...and he was staring at her in anger...!

"I'm so sorry, Master, I'm so stupid, I don't know what I was thinking, please, I'm sorry..." She heard herself babble, shocked to find her high-pitched new voice rattling off the apology - but completely unable to stop herself from doing it, driven by a frantic need that stemmed from a completely illogical-yet-overwhelming 'survival instinct'. "Please don't be mad and I promise I'll never do it again and please forgive me I'm so..."

Her need to take a breath finally stopped her insane begging for forgiveness, barely aware she'd run up to him in a jiggling, swaying little sissy-prance, dropping to her dainty new knees in front of him as she raised her tiny new hands imploringly upwards.

"get your ass in here, you stupid cunt..." He growled in a slightly mollified tone...

...and she was utterly ashamed at the flood of hope and terrified excitement she felt as she all-but-leapt to her feet and ducked into the house, babbling her gratitude to him helplessly.

"Shut the fuck up..." He snapped - and her mouth slammed shut so quickly that she nearly bit her tongue.

Heart pounding in fear, confusion, and completely unreasoning fear-inspired worship and awe, she followed the man whose name she didn't even know deeper into the big, expensively-yet-sparsely decorated house. Chrome and black lacquered 'Swiss Modern' furnishings gleamed on white sandstone tile floors and against white stucco walls, the only splashes of color the big photographs hung on wall after wall...

...all depicting her in various degrading and disgustingly pornographic poses.

There were all obviously 'her'; - though they showed the 'slow' series of changes that had turned a woman who looked exactly the way 'Bradley Carter-Smythe' would have looked if he'd been born naturally female into this unrealistic representation of feminine sexuality.

She wanted so desperately to turn and flee the house, huge-breasted bimbo body or no - but her panicked, horrified urge to run wasn't nearly enough to overwhelm her horror and awe of the man she followed.

She quite simply couldn't do anything she knew might upset him, no matter how hard she tried.

In fact - she was his helplessly unwilling slave, unable to make herself disobey or anger him in any way...

...which included showing the full extent of her horror and disgust, since that might make him mad, too...

"I haven't got all damned day to do the shoot for 'Fetishca', so get your ass in here and let's get to work..." the man growled, opening a door to a room and gesturing her inside...

...and, heart pounding and stomach ready to let loose, she found herself ducking inside with a pathetically easier-to-please smile on her face as he did so.

A complicated piece of chrome-and-black-lacquered-wood 'furniture' was sitting in the middle of the room, hang about with chains and clips and clear plastic objects that gleamed in the light thrown by the 'silk-umbrella' reflectors that shaded the expensive lighting equipment that surrounded the camera on it's tripod.

There was a door in the wall behind where the camera sat, a heavy, sound-proof door with thick glass that allowed her to see in the next room...

...where a group of geeky-looking young men were sitting, staring entranced at the big-screen TV that was showing her in some sort of bizarre pornographic film.

Each of the young men was busy jacking off into a beaker.

"Get over here!" The man demanded, angrily, and she yanked her sickened gaze off the masturbating group of men, helplessly obeying his instructions.

"I... I..." She whimpered, trying desperately to tell him she didn't want to do this - and unable to do so. "I'm coming, master..."

Helplessly, she stepped where he indicated, setting her ballet boots onto the small platform's shaped quarter-inch-deep-indentations.

"Take off your top, you dumb bitch.." He growled as he knelt and began to attach a pair of chains to her boots, locking her legs in the spread position.

Biting her full, gloss-red lower lip and struggling not to whimper, she complied. Her huge, surgically-inflated globes jiggled slightly when she removed her top and hesitantly tossed it away...

...and they jiggled even more when he roughly forced her to bend over, grabbing her by the back of the neck and forcible folding her at the waist so that he could slide a stainless-steel bar into position just above the smoothly rounded curvature of her exposed ass...

..and then he grabbed her French-braided ponytail and yanked on it hard, causing her to strain upright against that bar, her upper torso thrust forward and almost perpendicular to the floor, her face aimed upwards as he locked her hair into a specially-built clamp.

She couldn't even force herself to whimper as he painfully contorted her body, spreading her arms and attaching chains to her wrist- cuffs that left her hands yanked painfully out to the side.

Leaving her strapped into place, the man headed into that other room...

...and returned moments later, followed by a geeky-looking volunteer who ogled her, wide-eyed, as he lugged a big vat of fresh-pulled cum into the room and emptied it into the clear plastic holding tank attached to the metal frame of her ornate prison.

"Let's get this done...| The man growled, walking back to his camera. click

There was a surge of light as he triggered the camera, preserving on celluloid the image of her strapped into the decide, a huge tank of cum clearly visible in the three-quarter-angle shot he took.

Still with his eye pressed to the viewfinder of his camera, the man reached out and activated a button on a small control panel mounted close to hand. click click

Two quick snapshots captured the clear plastic dildo as it rode smoothly forward on it's extending metal shaft, the massive fifteen-inch phallus sporting a clear plastic tube attached to the hollowed-out 'pipe' through the center of the dildo. click

The camera captured the helpless look of pain and pleasure as the dildo's massive head pressed just into her cunt, creating new sensations that she hated to love and loved to hate as the slick plastic met her helplessly ready, wet cunt... click

...and slid deep inside it's warm, damp embrace, causing a pained pleasure that... click

...cause her to gasp, wide-eyed in shock and shame... click

...as the dildo firmly seated itself in her cunt, almost it's entire length embedded in her new womanhood, leaving just enough of the shaft exposed to see the place where the tubing attached to the dildo's bore... click

...which made it easy to see the lightly pressurized flow of fresh cum that was pumped through and into her cunt, the pleasure of the dildo's entrance having given way to a disgustingly pleasant 'bloated' sensation from having the immobile phallus filling her cunt, and filling her with cum, the pressurized flow creating new and nearly indescribable sensations as the cum... click

...began to seep around the dildo and drip down her chap-covered legs... click

...where it was joined by the flow of cum from another dildo behind her, which had just begun to jet cum, splattering over her firmly out- thrust ass-cheeks before... click

...the marginally smaller dildo slid forward, shoving itself deeply into her tight ass in an agonizing but of pleasured pain, making her feel wonderfully, disgustingly, painfully filled as she was stretched and pumped, causing her to gasp again... click

...which meant that the sudden gush of cum from the dildo in front of her face ended up right in her mouth, to be followed by even more disgusting, salty, luke-warm jizz as... click

...the dildo pushed forward between her helpless lips, filling her mouth was about a third of its thick length, the clear plastic easily showing the flow of cum that she was forced to swallow as it was pumped at a low-but-steady rate into her mouth and down her throat, even as... click

...cum began to gush from the dildoes pointed at her tits, sending a steadily growing stream of cum splattering over her massive tits and... click

...into her cleavage, some of the cum... click

...dripping in fat drops from her nipples, the slow drip becoming... click

...a splattering spray as... click

...the dildoes in her ass and cunt began to vibrate, causing... click

...her body to shake and shimmy in a mix of equally helpless pleasure and pain, her helplessly horrified humiliation captured on film as the camera continued to... click

...away - even though the man had hit a button and stepped away from the camera, and was, in fact... click

...walking towards the door they'd come in by, not even looking at her as... click

...he left the room, closing the door behind him as he left her hooked up in the cum-pumping apparatus, a... click

...helplessly obedient sex-slave to a fetish photographer who... click

...AHD absolutely no interest in actually making her feel pleasure, the fact that the buzzing dildoes made her.. click

...experience a painful orgasm that caused her to... click

...gasp, causing some of the cum in her mouth to 'back wash' from the corner of her lips... click

...and trip onto her... click

...heaving breasts,... click

...and yet,... click

...the worst part... click

...of it all... click
...was that... click
...she would... click
...never... click
...know... click
...why.
CLICK
THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: One man agrees to make his fuck bitch's "wildest fantasy come true" - but certainly he didn't know that she was a genie and her fantasy was to read his mind and create a new life for him as a cum-sucking "famous" slut.

Famous

By Gunslinger

Lucas Radbury was having an absolutely fantastic day.

So, when the woman who was the cause of making it so fantastic asked him if he'd help her fulfill her wildest fantasy, he immediately smiled and gave a very enthusiastic answer: "You bet!"

What she said next, however, gave him a bit of a pause.

"Okay, then..." Jennie said, in a seductive voice, her long-nailed fingers toying with Luke's thick mat of chest-hair. "Just say you wish that you could make my wildest fantasy come true."

The muscular, dark-haired young man looked down at where the slender, vivacious brunette was curled up against his broad shoulder. She was gazing back at him in almost breathless anticipation, her mysterious eyes still as inscrutable as ever.

Luke had met Jennie just that morning, while at a rummage sale held in the neighborhood park. As if reflecting the then-unknown future, Luke had met her in a very unusual way - he'd literally fallen to her.

He'd been looking at a cheap old brass decanter when he'd slipped on the dewy grass and fallen backwards down a short hill, instinctively clutching the decanted tight to his chest for protection. When he'd finally stopped rolling, he'd blinked and looked up to find Jenny standing over him.

A short, slender-yet-curved woman with rich olive skin and dark, coolly-seductive eyes, she'd been dressed in tight black leather pants and a black vest that showed a nice amount of her firm, DD-cup breasts.

Oddly enough, she'd been barefoot, and she wore no make-up or jewelry. Even more oddly, for the first instant she didn't even seem to be aware of Luke, looking around with a slightly critical expression.

Without thinking, Luke had blurted out his version of a compliment - a blatant come-on...

...and she'd twitched, an odd little ripple - and had agreed.

Though Jennie had tried to talk him out of it, apparently in such a rush to sleep with him that she didn't want to wait, Luke had bought the brass 'bottle' and had led Jennie eagerly towards home.

Actually, at the time she'd just been 'the hot chick', because it wasn't until they were almost to his place that it occurred to him to ask her name. She'd given him an odd look and told him it was a foreign name, utterly unpronounceable to Americans - but 'Jennie' would do.

Good enough for Luke. After all, it's not like he cared, or anything. Still, it was just another slightly odd thing about her.

She seemed incredibly eager to sleep with him - which was also extremely odd, but Luke wasn't counting that one, his ego not letting him attribute it to anything other than his own perfect 'studness'. However, she'd been so damned eager that it was almost an anti-climax when they finally made it into bed, naked - she rushed it so fast that it was over almost before it began.

She must have really needed to 'take the edge off'. That's what Luke figured. After all, he'd lewdly suggested that they should spend all day trying for the best sex he'd ever had, she'd agreed readily enough, even if she'd seemed to shiver slightly.

Now, several unbelievable hours later, Luke looked down at the woman who had, indeed, given him the best sex he'd ever had, and considered her odd request.

With a shrug, he complied. "Jennie, I wish I could make your wildest fantasy come true." "Thank Vorda!" She said in an explosive sigh of relief - and she rolled off the bed.

That was unexpected. Luke figured he should inquire as to her intentions: "Hey, baby, where the hell you goin'?"

"Not far." She said in a meaningful tone - as she began to dress. She pulled on her black leather pants - only, her black leather pants had been almost 'Xena-ish', rougher-grade leather with rawhide lacing up the outside of each leg. These pants were fine-grain leather buffed to a high shine, and were as new as next week in design, with neat silver buckles on the built-in belt and zippers at the cuffs to allow a perfectly-formed fit.

Then she pulled on a black leather bra. She hadn't had one before, just a vest - but there was no sign of the vest as she pulled on the glossy, silver-buckle-accented bra.

Then she sat on the edge of the bed and began to pull on the boots that she hadn't had, black leather boots that matched the rest of her outfit...

Luke was a little stunned by this. He wished to know what was going on: "Okay, bitch, what the fuck's goin' on here...?"

Jennie rose and turned, balancing gracefully - and, somehow, powerfully - atop the six-inch silver- colored spikes her boots boasted.

"You're seeing a genie live out her fantasy, asshole..." She said, a wicked smile curving her now dark- gloss-red-lips. Silver earrings now dangled from each dusky lobe, and she wore a black leather choker-collar with silver buckles. She also wore opera-length black leather gloves, each one of which was also accentuated with a silver buckle at the top.

"A... genie...?" Luke said in a tone that indicated two things very clearly: That he was perfectly willing to get royally pissed off if this was some sort of joke...

...and that, given what he'd just seen, he didn't really believe that it was a joke....

"Well, soon-to-be ex-genie, actually." She said, still with that wicked grin. "You see, my fantasy ends with me becoming a healthy mortal woman with an exceptionally long - and exceptionally youthful- looking - life-span ahead of me, a valid identity, and plenty of cash. Sort of the Emancipation Proclamation, as applied to genies."

Luke began to feel very unsure at that point. Not actually scared, of course, not a macho stud like him... but definitely unsure. Either her impossible story was true - or she was a complete psycho...

"That's how it ends." She repeated - then that wicked grin grew. "It starts, however, with me utterly humiliating my last Master, who used me as his own private sex-slave."

Then again - it was conceivable that BOTH were true....

"But... You... I didn't..." Luke tried to defend himself, finally admitting he was afraid. It wasn't a feeling he was familiar with, and certainly not in connection with women - but, more than anything, it was the strange aura of complete confidence that Jennie was giving off that bothered him the most.

"The first words out of your mouth were a lewd wish that I'd come back here and fuck you - and since you were the one that set me free, and you held my lamp, I had to obey. I tried to get you to not buy the lamp, since then you'd no longer be my master by the default of ownership or possession - but no, you bought the damned thing, so I had to come back here and fuck you."

"I didn't know that you..." Luke tried, slowly sliding his body across the bed...

"Then you wished I'd spend the rest of the day trying to give you the best sex you'd ever had !" She said, angrily - and snapped her fingers.

Luke was downright shocked to find that he'd instantaneously jumped from the bed to the middle of the room - and from a prone position to a standing one. Catching his balance an instant before he fell over, Luke gaped at Jennie.

"So, I was utterly humiliated. Now it's your turn." Luke didn't like the sound of that. Not one little bit...

That's why he bolted for the door.

Well - tried to, at least. It was a bit disconcerting to find himself unable to move more than a few, casual inches in either direction, allowing him to shift around and 'pose' anyway he wanted - but there seemed to be a short circuit of some sort between brain and body, because any 'run away' commands were simply ignored.

"Oh, fuckin' shit !" Luke swore, eyes widening as the gravity of the situation finally took hold. Without the benefit of anything so mundane as chains or walls, She'd effectively 'imprisoned' him...

Magically. As in the magic of a genie. Of a genie who'd openly admitted she was royally pissed at him, and was planning to humiliate him.

It was right about then that Luke discovered his 'beg for your life' circuits worked just fine. He dropped to his knees...

"I'm sorry for anything I did that you didn't like, and I didn't know you were a genie and had to obey me, I thought you were just a slutandpleasedonthurtmeokay ?"

He would have kept going, except that he had to pause and take a deep breath to replace that used in the fast, frantic, run-on sentence.

"Oh - this won't hurt..." She said, with a chuckle that was anything but amused. "Not physically, at any rate. In fact, I'm sure parts of it will feel very, very good - physically. Now, emotionally "

She trailed off, leaving the implicit threat hanging between them.

Then 'implicit' became 'explicit' as she spoke, smugly: "You're going to spend the rest of your life as a woman."

"No....!" Luke gasped, feeling as if he'd been kicked. "You.. You can't "

"Oh, yes I can..." She said, giving him that wicked grin again. "In fact, not only am I going to turn you into a woman - I'm going to do it in the most humiliating way possible. You see, part of my 'wildest fantasy' includes being able to read your mind. I know exactly what would be most utterly humiliating to you. Every detail that would raise the humiliation to its maximum intensity - and I know it. I'm going to utterly humiliate you. I'm going to make you famous."

While Luke stared at her, uncomprehendingly, she slipped into a very elegant, very expensive-looking black leather coat with black fur trim...

Just as she belted it into place, her long, dark hair curled itself up into a tight bun, and a pair of stylish silver-rimmed glasses appeared on her face. With everything but the bottom of her boots covered by the coat, she suddenly looked like a very sexy - but 'no-nonsense' - businesswoman.

He didn't have much time to 'appreciate' her new look, however - he was distracted by the fact that he was now sitting, fully dressed, in his living room. Jennie was standing beside him, and across from him was a very familiar-looking blonde woman in a stylishly-tailored suit, and a burly man with a camera on his shoulder...

"Mr. Radbury, thank you so much for letting us film this... incredible occasion." The woman said, warmly and clearly.

"Please, call me Luke..." Luke found himself saying, without planning to. "at least for a little while, anyway "

Missy Manfred, WGKY-TV Channel 6 News, gave a polite little laugh - while Luke struggled to do anything but sit there and smile slightly.

"Also with us is Jeanette Livewell, owner, founder, and director of the just-opened Livewell Clinic." Missy said, obviously for the benefit of the viewers...

..'viewers? Oh, holy shit - I.. I'm on live national TV....' Luke realized, in belated horror....

...then the perky blonde turned that million-kilowatt smile on Jennifer... Jeanette...? and said,

"There were many who frowned upon a medical clinic - even a radical new purely elective-surgery outpatient clinic - holding anything so crass as a lottery to determine who would get the 'honor' of being the first patient - not to mention having the winner get anything he wants, free of charge. Do you have anything to say to these detractors, now that the winner's been chosen, and soon to be your first patient?"

Jeanette laughed. "Well, Luke certainly seems to be happy with my idea."

Luke really, really wished he could scream right now - but, instead, he laughed. Not a big one, but a laugh nevertheless...

...and he'd done it because he'd known it was the most humiliating way he could act in the situation! He'd actually picked through his mind for the way to make this the most humiliating he possibly could - which, right now, would be to act as if this was really what he wanted. To be turned into a woman on national TV...

He was helplessly, unable to stop 'helping' Jennie/Jeanette. Luke was helplessly committed to humiliating himself as completely and thoroughly as possible.

Luke wasn't all that surprised to find himself wondering whether or not he'd be permitted to kill himself any time soon...

"Is there anything you'd like to say, Mr. Radbury...." Missy quite consciously paused, smiled, and corrected herself. "...Luke?"

The strangest thing was - he wanted to return that bright smile. He would have, whether he wanted to or not - but the fact that parts of it would be 'voluntary' only increased the humiliation...

...of course.

"What are we waiting for?" He asked - and to his lasting shame, he asked it 'eagerly'. "Let's get on with it!"

* * * * *

Having to act eager and excited on the trip to the magically-created medical complex was humiliating. The entire time, with the camera showing his actions and assumed attitudes, he acted absolutely thrilled at the prospect of using these radical new surgical techniques to fulfill his 'lifetime' ambition of becoming a woman.

"I'd always wished I was born female..." He'd 'confided' to Missy - and a nation of viewers. "Since there was no way I could afford SRS - which, at best, is a poor substitute, - I hid my desires by acting 'ultra-male'... but it was only an act. Now, with the wonderful new techniques available at the state-of-the-art Livewell Clinic, I'll finally be able to live life as if I were one-hundred-percent female."

"Really...?" Missy had asked, intrigued - and that had been Jeanette's cue to explain some of the incredible new break-throughs her clinic incorporated.

In truth, it had been more humiliation for an eager-looking Luke. The people watching the live special report on their televisions had no idea that he was squirming in humiliated horror as Jeanette explained all the incredible things her clinic could do.

Yes, the ride was horrible and embarrassing, and more than once he tried - uselessly - to open a door to the limo and throw himself to his merciful death.

As bad as the ride was, however, it was almost nothing compared to what happened in the clinic. After all, Jeanette knew the inside of his mind, knew what would humiliate him the most - and she wasn't the least bit shy about using that knowledge.

Especially since nobody knew about it except her and Luke. To all outward appearances, it was he who was asking - almost literally begging - for all these things to be done to him.

Once in the clinic, Jeanette led Missy into a large, curved room. The long, curving back wall of the room was filled with various pieces of computer equipment, including a dazzling array of high-resolution flat-screen monitors. The wall opposite this array of high-tech wizardry was also curved, but instead of the painted anechoic tile of the rest of the room, this wall was made up of a huge, double-layered Plexiglas wall that looked out into a smaller, completely circular room.

It was into this second room that Jeanette led an apparently excited Luke, personally leading him to the room's sole 'furnishing' - a large, stainless-steel device that was roughly 'X'-shaped, and surrounded by a wide variety of arcane-looking machines and devices mounted on stainless-steel robotic arms.

Struggle as he might, Luke could not control his body as he 'willingly' began to undress. On the other side of the huge plexi wall, the soulless eye of the video camera continued to watch him, and Luke knew with a sinking feeling of certainty that Jeanette had 'fiddled' with certain FCC regulations in order to allow every detail of his humiliation to be shared by John and Jane Q. Public.

Once completely naked, he literally had no choice as he stepped into place and let himself be firmly buckled into the slightly canted X-frame, self-adjusting padded restraints being applied at wrist and ankle, waist and forehead.

When he was finally trussed up so tight that he couldn't move more than a fraction of an inch in any direction, Jeanette patted him condescendingly on the cheek and then walked over to the heavy steel door that separated the 'Operating Room' from the monitoring room, stepping through it and pulling it shut behind her.

To Luke, the heavy 'clang' of the metal door being sealed was as grim and final as that of the lid of a coffin being closed over him. 'Luke' was dead - and was about to be 'reborn' into a whole new gender.

His extreme humiliation was now joined by a rising horror as what he hadn't-quite-really-believed was going to happen - happened.

"Okay, Luke - we're going to begin now..." Jeanette's voice said over the intercom, sounding coolly professional as she began his horrifying transformation. "We're going to start with the basic transgender program. There'll be no pain, but you might feel....uncomfortable "

'No shit, Sherlock ' Luke thought in horrified anger.

"This will take about ten minutes."

Maybe - but it somehow managed to seem like both a lifetime, and an instant.

With the push of a button on the command console, Jeanette started the robotic arms in the operating theater in motion. Two of them advanced and, with cold, uncaring precision, slid needles into each of his arms. Two different chemical cocktails - that had never existed until a few minutes ago - began to pump into his veins.

At the same time, a large, decidedly-weaponish-looking device swung out and began to pump very specific frequencies of radiation into Luke's body, at precise levels and in an invisible pin-sized beam that flitted and danced through his flesh and sinew.

Another gleaming steel arm rose from the floor between Luke's legs. Rising, the rubber-cupped top of the device slid between his hairy thighs and sighed perfectly into place, the rubber on the specifically- shaped 'cup' creating a seal. There was a soft hiss as a specialized topical anesthetic was pumped into the area. Derived from military nerve-gases, the anesthetic completely numbed his cock and balls, as well as an surrounding area, the numbers settling in deep.

For the benefit of those watching the live news special, and to increase the humiliation Luke was experiencing, Jeanette calmly - clinically - explained exactly what was happening, in easy-to- understand terms.

"The fluid you see being pumped through the needle in Luke's left arm is a custom mix of artificial hormones, plus enhancers and boosters." Jeanette explained. "These synthetic hormones simulate the effects of an entire lifetime of normal, feminine hormonal cycles. The boosters being used to 'fake' Luke's body into thinking it's been female all this time are 'decaying' compounds - that is, they have a finite life-span, one of just a few minutes, after which they dissolve. The then-unboosted hormones, however, are permanent. This means Luke will have a normal female hormonal balance for the rest of his life - for example, when Luke's own glands produce testosterone, the semi-sentient synthetic hormones will cancel it out and replace it with the correct amount of estrogen..."

Helplessly, Luke found himself moving the one part of his body that he could move, even slightly - his right index finger. He could only move it marginally, but it was enough to key the sensitive button beneath his finger, allowing him to speak through the microphones in the operating theater.

"Doctor Livewell, is it possible to alter that hormonal balance?" Luke asked, helplessly.

"Actually, it's easy - I can send 'instructions' to the synthetic hormones by using very specific radio frequencies. Is there something you wanted done, Luke...?"

"Yes, please, Doctor Livewell..." Luke found himself saying, knowing that whatever was going to come out of his mouth wasn't going to be good. "Can you set it so that my body produces much larger amounts of female hormones? Especially those associated with sexual arousal and functions? I want to really, really experience everything about being female, so I'd really like it if you could make me really, really horny."

Luke wished he could die as Jeanette responded: "Of course, Luke, no problem at all. Remember, you can have anything you want."

She paused to type some commands into a computer, then went back to her explanation.

"The chemicals entering his right arm are 'markers'. These are tiny devices programmed to 'swim' through Luke's body to specific locations. They amplify the effects of the radiation laser that's 'shooting' Luke right now, allowing pin-point effects in Luke's body practically commanded mutation, actually, killing some cells and forcing others to duplicate, quite a bit more rapidly than would otherwise be possible. At the same time, a combination of radiation therapy and surgical micro-manipulators are breaking down Luke's genitals. Basically, the flesh is being turned into a sort of organic 'slush', while his nerves and veins are relocated into the body. The 'slush' will be washed away, while the radiation forces the new opening to 'heal', at a vastly accelerated rate. Of course, by the use of specific radiation and placement, we're forcing it to heal into a fully functional female vagina, complete in every detail. Of course, Luke will not have a womb, and won't be able to have children, but he - or, rather, she - will be able to experience sex with all the sensations a natural woman would feel.

"Uh, Doctor ?" Luke found himself helplessly keying the microphones again.

"Yes, Luke ?" Jeanette said, patiently.

"Can you make my new cunt more sensitive to a natural woman's?" Luke was horrified and humiliated to find himself asking. "Sexually, at least. Can you make it so that sex would feel unbelievably great? Absolutely, unbelievably spectacular?"

"Of course." Jeanette said, indulgently, and turned to enter a few more commands into the computer.

A moment later, the first phase of the process was over, and the machinery was swung away to make room for a hydraulically-mounted mirror that swiveled down to show Luke the work so far.

In all actuality, it wasn't that much - but Luke desperately wished somebody would kill him, and end this horrifying, humiliating torture.

He was now a she.

Sure, her body was still almost identical to her male one. Put some clothes on her, and she could pass for her male self. Nobody would really notice that his muscles were slightly 'softer', covered in a new layer of outer fat. Nor would the tiny, prepubescent mounds on his hairy chest be visible.

Likewise, his somewhat more plump derrière could be blamed on a few too many eclairs.

Certainly, if Luke were dressed, nobody would be able to see her tight, perfectly formed new cunt, which was clearly visible since there was absolutely no pubic hair in the area where the cup had rested.

Luke knew that it was there, though - and that was the part that counted.

"That's the basic transgender program." Jeanette announced. "Now, we 'design' the actual woman Luke wants to spend the rest of her life as - and, judging from her reaction so far, I'd say she knows exactly what woman she wants to be already, so why don't we get right on with it. We'll start with basic body shape and appearance. Luke, sweetheart - what sort of build do you want...?"

'I want to be a man again, dammit...!' was what she wanted to scream in anguish - instead, words came out in a tone of breathless anticipation, words that further damned her: "Doctor Livewell, can you get rid of a lot of these ugly, masculine muscles and give me a nice, slender female body with wonderfully delicate ankles and wrists and dainty, feminine hands and feet...?"

"Of course I can, Luke. Is there anything else...?"

"Oh, yes...!" The new woman 'gushed eagerly'. "Can you give me smooth, hairless skin? The type of perfect complexion any woman would envy?"

"Why, yes - I should have thought of that myself...." Jeanette said, starting to turn towards the console...

"...and long, toned legs?" Luke went on, helplessly. "Sexy legs that seem to go on damned near forever?"

"Coming right up." Jeanette assured Luke. "Let me guess - I should throw in a firm, round ass while I'm at it...?"

"That would be wonderful..." Luke lied helplessly.

"Sure thing." Jeanette said, adjusting some settings on the control panel. "Okay - here we go..."

Again, there was no pain as the new technologies went to work on Luke's now technically feminine body, filling out the details of her new life. The mirror remained poised where she could see it, allowing her to watch with helplessly hidden horror and mortification as her body began to change.

A tremor ran through her body as a special low-voltage electrical charge was run through her - and the result was immediate. Her hair began to drift down to the floor, every follicle from the tip of her toes to the top of her head 'jolted' right out of her body.

As the last of the hair fell, another device swung out and began to move around, resembling the radiation-gun of before. Jeanette calmly explained that it was a special type of laser that would keep the hair from growing anywhere on her body, except for a few very sharply defined areas, such as her scalp and eyebrows...

At Luke's 'request', she also initiated the hair-growth program, causing radically accelerated hair growth in the parts of her body that were still viable for follicles to take root - and within a matter of minutes, a pair of finely-defined and delightfully arched eyebrows rode above Luke's eyes, their dark color matching the rapidly growing tresses of hair that were falling in a fine, silky spray down around now-smooth shoulders.

Luke wasn't really watching as the thick, wavy mane of silky hair grew in, though - she was more focused on the way her legs were developing, so long and perfectly toned, nicely muscled under a layer of fat that gave them smooth, sensual contours. At the bottom of these long, sexy legs were ankles that were growing steadily more 'delicate' with each passing second, and her feet - like her hands - were becoming smaller and much finer-boned...

More feminine, in other words. Not just 'feminine enough', but dainty and slender.

At the top of her new gams, her hips were growing steadily wider, becoming undeniably womanly - as her ass pushed more firmly into the padding of the table, unseen behind her - but almost certainly becoming as full, ripe and sexy as the rest of her body was becoming...

"Oh =- and a very, very slender waist...!" Luke called, helplessly, and the doctor complied. Even as the other changes were drawing to an end, her waist began to draw steadily inwards, moving from 'average' and through 'slender' towards downright tiny.

Meanwhile, Luke was still helplessly spewing request after request. To those watching, it was the perfect image of somebody so excited by what was happening that they could barely get the words out fast enough, eager and excited to bring about something they'd dreamed about for years...

Nearly twenty minutes passed this way, then Jeanette finally stepped back from the console and keyed the intercom again.

"Well, Luke?" Jeanette asked. "Is this the body you wanted?"

'No !' Luke's mind screamed, unheard, as she surveyed the new body in the mirror.

She was gorgeous.

Tint, finely-formed feet led upwards past slender ankles to legs that were long and smoothly curved. Her hips were also smoothly curved, widening to womanly dimensions before pinching inward sharply to a 'delightfully' tiny waist. Her ribcage had shrunk inward, more in keeping with her trim new build, and supported a small, taut pair of firm, B-cup breasts, tipped with dark, well-defined nipples. At either end of her finer new breast-bone, her narrowed shoulders joined to arms that were smooth and flawless.

Atop her slender, swan-like new neck rode the face she'd begged for - a heart-shaped face with softly full lips, big brown 'doe-eyes', and well-defined cheek-bones, all surrounded by a wealth of glossy black hair that fell in waves past her shoulders.

Her skin was silky-smooth and utterly bare of the slightest imperfection or out-of-place hair. Even the voice in which she'd begged for the changes had gradually risen to a warm, vibrant contralto. She was every inch a stunningly beautiful woman, right down to her now-long fingertips.

It was horrifyingly humiliating to look at this woman in the mirror - but it got much, much worse...

"Oh, I'm soooo lovely, Doctor Livewell..." Luke said in that damned warm new voice of hers.... "But... can we make my breasts bigger?"

"No problem, Luke..." Jeanette said, smiling. "I'll just program them to start growing. Let me know when to tell them to stop..."

Her breasts began to swell. Rising further from her ribcage, the firm mounds of flesh pushed through 'C' cup, and right into the 'D'-cup range, the perfect domes of her breasts starting to round out at the bottom, becoming heavier and more spherical as they moved through the double - then triple - D-cup sizes...

"Now, Luke...?" Jeanette asked, solicitously.

"Oh, no - not yet..." Luke said in a tone of breathless excitement, unable to express her true emotions as she watched her still-swelling new tits become as big as volley-balls... and then even larger...

"Oh, they're drooping too much!" She exclaimed in the first 'horror' she'd been allowed to display - a hollow echo of what she was really feeling. "Can you make them firmer... and a lot more sensitive...?"

"Of course..."

They were still growing, now the size of basketballs - and firming up rapidly. Her nipples were also growing - and becoming erect, standing stiffly outward as they - and they breasts they rode one - swelled in size and sensitivity.

"Yes.. yes, bigger..." Luke found herself moaning helplessly - while slowly building waves of physical pleasure began to tremor through her new breasts, the simple rise-and-fall of the weighty new mounds causing pleasurable sensations that she hated experiencing.

"Okay - you can stop now..." She finally said - much, much too late, for now an immense pair of breasts thrust roundly from her slender chest, freakishly huge on her body - each one easily as big around as a medicine ball, firm and heavy and hyper-sensitive, each one tipped by a thick, fully- engorged nipple. They were the sort of unbelievable huge, ludicrously firm breasts that Luke thought of as 'stripper-boobs', so unrealistically massive that nature wouldn't provide them - they had to be asked for.

They were also too massive to possibly be hidden or downplayed. They were gigantic, in-your-face tits...

...and they were hers.

"I love them...!" She gushed, as the devices swung away and the restraints were loosened. With a big smile on her full new lips, the new woman stepped off the X-frame with a smooth, gracefully feminine motion, her dainty new hands immediately coming up to lightly and happily fondle her massive new bust, sending shivers of pleasure up and down her spine.

"I'm perfect!" She exclaimed.

"I'm glad you like your new body, Luke..." Jeanette said.

"No - No, my name's not 'Luke'." The new woman helplessly corrected her tormentor. "I'm Lucy now. Lucy Lustworthy."

"Are you sure?" Jeanette asked, 'dubiously'. "We have a judge standing by to make any name change completely legal. Is that really the new name you want?"

"Definitely..." Luke - Lucy - stated, firmly...

...while, inside, she screamed.

* * * * *

She was still screaming two hours later.

Not that anybody could tell, of course - that might actually make her feel better, being able to let somebody know about the horrifying and humiliating things that had been done to her, and the humiliating and horrifying things yet to come.

Nobody could tell, though. Not with her walking with a sexy bounce in her step, dressed to show off her 'wonderful' new figure to the best advantage.

She was ankling along atop a pair of black patent-leather platform pumps, with a seven-inch heel. She'd explained to Missy that she'd 'practiced for hours and hours' in shoes like this when she was still just a guy who dreamed of being a woman...

It wasn't true, of course, but the magically-bestowed ability backed up her supposed story, and Jeanette the Genie had also made damned sure nobody would question her eager transformation into a woman.

After all, did a man 'forced' to be female wear black thigh-high seamed stockings that were attached to the corset she wore beneath her black leather skirt and matching jacket? Not likely. Such a hypothetical woman certainly wouldn't be wearing carefully - and expertly - applied makeup, and she wouldn't have her hair elegantly - and sensuously - styled. She certainly wouldn't be wearing plenty of flashy silver jewelry...

...and she most certainly wouldn't be walking into 'The Arena' - the local strip club - in search of a job.

However, that was just what 'Lucy' was doing, helplessly and hopelessly - for, of course, being an 'eager to flaunt my body' stripper was the most humiliating job for the new woman to have, eagerly showing off the body she didn't want to a crowd of horny strangers.

Despite the fact that, reality or revised 'history', she had no experience at all as an 'exotic dancer', she was somehow certain she was going to get the job...

...in the most embarrassing way possible, of course.

The club was open when 'Lucy' sensuously strutted up to the much-re-finished oak door of the place - but 'open' hardly meant lively. There were maybe twelve guys in the dark, smoky interior, die-hard fanatics who used the excuse of the 'lunch deals' The Arena had for the early afternoon crowd.

Lucy - as Luke - had never actually tried the food at The Arena. Which wasn't surprising, since on his first night there'd he'd been told it was 'the worst food' this guys had ever had...

The guy he'd been speaking to was in the Army, for God's sake. There was no way that Lucy-then- Luke was going to touch the stuff. To tell you the truth, The Arena was... well, sleazy. Luke-who- was-now-Lucy had only gone there twice...

Lucy had almost - almost - managed to loose her horror and embarrassment in a simple moment of reflection - but the reaction of the few guys who were in the club quickly snapped her out of it.

The very fact that she could almost find a moments peace was worse then being completely hopeless at all.

Driven by the web of magic that now surrounded and suffused her new life, Lucy didn't have time to 'reflect' on the hot wash of anger and shame that ran through her at this realization - she was to busy swaying sensuously towards the stage.

The bored-looking woman on the stage was just finishing up her set when she caught sight of Lucy, previously lost in the contrast between the brightly-lit stage and the darkened room. Now the somewhat sturdy blonde on stage paused in the act of gathering up her discarded clothing to shoot a startled, incredulous glance at the overly-buxom woman now mounting the stage.

"I think you're in the wrong club, honey...." The stocky blonde said in a wearily surprised voice. "With a body like that, you should be doing the big clubs as a Feature."

"Won't be long before that's exactly where I'll be." Lucy found herself saying, confidently. The worst thing was, the 'confidence' wasn't the least bit feigned - Lucy was positive that she'd become extremely famous. "Everybody's got to start somewhere, though..."

"I guess..." The blonde said, her own dubious tones revealing that even she might have been able to do better then this dive.

Then she was gone, leaving Lucy alone on the stage, standing with apparent confidence mid-stage. "Well, what do we have here ?" The amplified voice of the club-owner-and-DJ asked, lasciviously.

With a slow, sexy strut that made her toned legs shift seductively within their nylon sheaths, Lucy walked to the very front of the stage, her flawless, top-heavy body bathed in the spotlights that picked sharp highlights from her leather clothing.

"I'm Lucy Lustworthy...!" She declared, firmly and proudly, tossing her head back defiantly, " and I'm the sexiest damned dancer you'll ever see!"

After the proud, brave words, there was only one thing she could do...

Prove it.

She had no way of knowing what song was up next. Truth was, even when it started she didn't recognize it - but that didn't matter. Not in the least.

With the first, heavily-beat-driven riff, she was already in motion without 'planning' it. As if her body were perfectly attuned to the music, she began to move in sensual sync with it, with precise time and exquisite grace.

Oh - and sensuality.

The men in the room weren't exactly the literary type. However, this was no ordinary woman on stage, but a stripper who had been magically provided with every detail, every move, every instinct she'd ever need to become famous as the world's most erotic dancer. Though, of course, none of the men were aware of this fact, it still had an effect on them, and one of these low-brow types, when interviewed some months down the road about Lucy's memorable debut, was actually moved to state: "It wuz like she was makin' love to the music, yu'know?"

Any of the other men in the room would have known exactly what he meant - for they were all staring in slack-jawed amazement at this incredible woman on the stage, sending out almost palpable waves of sexuality that had an immediate effect on all the men - even those who'd seen her transformation on TV and knew what she 'really' was.

None of the men found that she cared anymore. She was incredible.

She was sensuously strutting up and down the stage, her slender heels meeting the hard material of the stage in perfect sync with the music, her knees locking ever so briefly to caused the muscles in her legs to look absolutely perfect. Her hips were playing a counter-beat to the music, swiveling and rocking with gracefully emphatic movements, gyrating as her upper body swayed and spun to the melody of the music. Her hands explored her own body exactly the way each of the men watching longed to do, and even her shoulders rolled and twitched in perfect time to the music, helping to add energy and passion to her dance of erotic desire.

As she danced, she spoke. No - she challenged. In the incredibly erotic new voice of hers, powerful and seductive, she teased and taunted the men.

"Oh, my legs are just so smooth...." She called, proudly, as her long-nailed fingers lightly slid over nyloned contours. "So smooth and sexy..."

Still moving in time to the music, she strutted up to 'Pervert's Row', the seats pulled right up to the stage - and in one smooth, sensual moment, she lifted her leg and kicked outwards, missing a dazed patron's head by less than an inch...

...then she gently moved it inward, until her leg was lightly grazing the man's cheek. She drew her leg back slowly, undulating on one leg as she let the smooth contours of her long, sexy legs slide over the man's flesh.

"You can't tell me you've ever felt sexier legs than that..." She challenged the man as she spun away, sinuously.

Considering his slack-jawed look of stunned amazement, he couldn't have told anybody anything.

So she danced. She danced without conscious thought, the inner man trapped in her incredible new body simultaneously horrified - and aroused.

Her body was getting very, very turned on by dancing. No matter how disgusted she was, inside, she still couldn't help but experience the incredible sensations thrumming through her aroused body as she danced and teased, whirled and taunted.

Helplessly, her body getting more and more aroused, the new woman danced her 'short set' of one song. Her clothes came off quickly and sensuously as she rushed-without-seeming-to-rush - and with every article of clothing she removed, her body got that much more aroused. When her leather jacket came off to reveal her huge, firm tits and thick, swollen nipples, she actually had to restrain a groan of pleasure.

When her skirt came off, it revealed that she not only possessed a tight new cunt - but that she was hot, wet and ready...

Even as she finished up her set, Lucy wondered how the hell she was going to be able to do standard three-song sets. Dancing to the one song, alone, had gotten her so very horny...

With a great deal of relief - none of which she could show, of course - Lucy gathered up her clothing and swayed off the stage and towards the DJ's booth...

She'd already opened the door to the smoky, electronics-filled room and stepped inside when the stunned dozen or so men in the main room finally managed to get control of themselves again. As she closed the door, she heard them clapping and cheering enthusiastically...

Shuddering inside, Lucy closed the door, glad that the small room was sound-proofed...

"Damn, girl - you're incredible..." The owner-slash-DJ said in a stunned voice. A pale, overweight man with too-narrow eyes and lanky, greasy dark hair, he was sitting at the little mixer-board behind the one-way mirror, dressed only in a pair of stained boxer shorts and a white undershirt. Since this room was his combination office/broadcast-booth, he obviously figured he might as well get comfortable...

Since he was so scantily clad, there was no way of missing the fact that her little strip-tease had given him a raging hard-on.

"So - I'm hired...?" She found herself asking, coquettishly.

"Damn straight girl - any terms you want..." The owner said, not even trying to hide his raging erection. A somewhat silly grin was plastered on his face. "I'm Ed - Ed Wilkinson."

"Hi, Ed..." She said, seductively, swaying over to where he sat...

Horried, the new woman found herself dropping to her knees. "You mind if I suck your cock, Ed...?" She asked, desperately trying - and failing - to stop herself as she pulled down his underwear and revealed his hard, throbbing cock. "I'd offer to fuck you, instead - but I only have actual sex on my days off. Being constantly horny and sexually frustrated helps me keep my edge..."

Her mind was whirling and quivering as the true nature of her fate sunk in - she was to be a cock- sucking slut. She was going to suck cocks, and only one or twice a week actually get fucked in her tight, hot new cunt...

...and the most humiliating thing was - she wanted to get fucked. Her new body was super-horny, and ex-male or not, she was desperately craving the release that orgasm would bring.

It was also denied to her. She knew without having to be told that she also wouldn't be able to masturbate. She'd spend all week getting more and more horny, and when she was finally allowed to fuck, she'd do so eagerly and hungrily. It had nothing to do with 'imposed will', like her dancing or cock-sucking - she'd actually be eager enough for it that she'd beg, desperately, for some guy to fuck her - and she'd mean it, all the way down to the disgusted depths of her trapped male mind...

Until then, however, she'd fill time by doing something else humiliating and disgusting...

Helplessly, her hands wrapped themselves around her new boss' average-sized cock. She gave him a long, sensuous look, slowly licking her lips...

Though she was straining with all her might not to do this, there wasn't even a noticeable hesitation as she lowered her face and enveloped his hard, ready cock with full, soft - and apparently eager - lips.

She began to make wholly-fictional moans of pleasure in the back of her throat as she began to lick and suck the foul-tasting cock filling her mouth, her hands working his shaft and balls in perfect rhythm as her head began to bob back and forth. Ed wasn't very clean, so the taste was musty and rather foul - and she was taking it way, way to deep with each thrust, further increasing the rampant desire to vomit.

She knew she wouldn't however. No matter how desperately she wanted to up-chuck, it wouldn't be allowed.

Anymore then she'd be allowed to stop this humiliating act. Here she was, clad only in nylons and high heels, kneeling in front of a sweaty fat man, eagerly slurping away on his cock... while he leaned forward so as to be able to reach down and begin awkwardly - and painfully - 'fondling' her massive new tits.

Mauling was more like it. Ed certainly wasn't a gentle man. Still, she had no choice but to simulate pleasure that wasn't totally feigned - her tits were amazingly sensitive...

Then she wasn't paying any attention to her tits. She was too busy trying to block out the sensations that came with hot, salty cum gushing into her mouth - and down her 'willing' throat. Her little strip- tease had gotten him so horny that it didn't take long at all to get him off, and she swallowed down every drop of his cum as if it were the most wonderful thing one earth...

"Mmm... That was delicious..." She lied, licking him clean and pulling his shorts back up. "I just love sucking on a hard, thick cock and gulping down warm, fresh cum - it's my major food-group..."

Rising, she smiled down at him helplessly. "Look, I've heard rumors about this place IS it true that private 'lap dances' can include hand-jobs or blow-jobs if the client pays for them ?"

Blinking, Ed started up at his newest dancer - and smiled. "Honey, you just do whatever you want, and don't worry about giving me my usual cut. You're going to make me rich as it is "

"I'm so glad you said that..." Lucy helplessly 'admitted'. "I'll do another set -a full length one - at about six, and then again at eight, ten and midnight. In between, you mind if I 'steal' one of the private rooms to suck on some more hard, thick cocks?"

"No - you go right ahead..." Ed said, still with that silly grin.

Smiling her supposed gratitude, the huge-breasted, 'cum-hungry' new stripper turned, opened the door, and helplessly went off in search of a hard cock to suck...

THE END

BACK TO FUN ZONE

SUMMARY: One roommate works on his great great invention that is going to make him rich and famous - a machine that can give the user just about an body they desire. And this time, his roommate is going to love the new invention.

The Feminine Persuasion

By Gunslinger

Rick was just getting into his newly-purchased DVD of The Fast and the Furious when the power flickered and died. "Goddamnit!"

Fumbling blindly - and swearing viscosly - Rick scrabbled around until one flailing hand hit the edge of the coffee-table in front of him, allowing him to put his beer down safely. If there'd been an observed equipped with night-vision goggles handy, they might have been surprised with the economy and speed with which the ruggedly handsome redhead moved - but, then again, the hypothetical observer probably wouldn't have realized that Richard Wheeler had plenty of experience at moving around after a sudden power failure.

In fact, too much experience...

"Damnit, Jim..." Rick shouted, rising from the couch and heading towards the hallway, one hand running along the wall to keep his sense of location solid. "It's shit like this that made me kick you out! Couldn't you have just waited another goddamn week, then pulled this stunt?"

There was no answer from the door behind which Rick's rather unusual roommate worked. That wasn't to say there wasn't anything at all coming from behind the door - knowing his own perchance for blowing fuses, Jim had bought a couple of those flashlights that you plug into the wall, the ones that automatically came on if the power was cut off - so there was a thin crack of pale white light to define where the bottom of Jim's bedroom door was. Light, however, wasn't the only thing escaping from the unsealed door - once again, the smell of ozone and burnt plastic leaked from beneath James Grosslighter's bedroom-slash-workroom door. It was an odor Rick loathed, and his fairly frequent exposure to it didn't lessen his dislike of it.

James - 'Call me Jim' - Grosslighter had shown up at Rick's door about eight months ago, responding to the ad Rick had placed after his then-roommate had left. Slight of build and quiet in nature, Jim was fairly well off financially, didn't smoke or drink, and almost completely lacked a social life. In many ways, Jim appeared to be the perfect roommate...

...except he'd considerably underplayed his 'Little Hobby'.

Jim Grosslighter was the quintessential American stereotype - the 'Basement Inventor'.

Unfortunately, Jim didn't have a well-equipped, quiet - and somewhat more remotely located - basement. Instead, he had the one bedroom, directly beside Rick's own room, and with a doorway that opened onto their shared space - so any odors connected with whatever current 'invention' he was working on quickly filled the entire apartment.

Aside from the one invention, an automated 'pop-tart'-style pastry maker, all those odors were less-than-enjoyable.

Then there was the fact that many of Jim's inventions were quite likely to blow the apartment's fuses. Jim had at least been considerate enough to change all the fuses in the unit's fuse-box to 'quick-fused' fuses, so that he wouldn't blow out the power to the entire building - but his experiments quite often left Rick in the dark, figuratively and literally.

All of which had finally prompted Rick to kick Jim out. He'd felt sort of bad about it, knowing that Jim's stupid experiments had eaten up quite a bit of his savings, leaving him low funds - and, with Rick's two-week ultimatum, short on time, as well. Still, Rick just couldn't live like this, and so Jim had to go.

Rick had just sort of expected that Jim would use the time he'd been given to look for a new apartment, and maybe even a job. Instead, he'd closeted himself in his room, working on one, last, invention.

Rick, as usual, had no idea what invention Jim was working on - but he thought that maybe Jim had re-invented the straw. The infamous straw that broke the camel's back, to be exact...

"Jim, I've had..." Rick started, angrily, throwing the door to Jim's room open and blinking at the wash of rather pale light against the darkness of the hallway...

...and then Rick's eyes adjusted, and he stopped dead in mid-sentence, dark eyes slowly widening as his jaw dropped as suddenly as if all the muscles in his face were to be taken up with pushing his eyebrows into his hairline to keep his mouth shut.

It was an extreme reaction, not just a simple 'gape', but a near caricature of a gape, right down to the little breathless 'whoof' sound as shock emptied his lungs for him.

The fact that Jim's room was so cluttered with strange, jury-rigged equipment would have been explanation enough for a regular gape - but the reason for Rick's exaggerated expression was the naked woman laying on a raised platform in the center of the room, the light from the two emergency flashlights creating high-contrast lighting that actually faltered the new woman's nude, sprawled figure.

It was that figure more than anything, that caused Rick's reaction - because the naked woman laying on the raised, padded platform was damn near his ideal woman in every respect.

Which, of course, was more than enough reason for Rick's jaw to drop and his eyes to fly wide open - because his ideal woman didn't exist. Not to his knowledge, anyway, and he'd kept pretty careful track - and his 'ideal' woman hadn't seemed to be anywhere, not even in the most 'specialized' porn movies, much less in 'real life', where he might actually meet her. His ideal woman was purely imaginary...

At least, until now.

Rick liked Asian women.

Not that it was the 'Asian' part that was hard to find, since there was literally more Asian women on earth than any other single genotype. Even when you got a little more specific about it, there was a lot about this 'fantasy woman' laying on the platform that could be found in many other Asian women.

For instance, most Asian women were, in fact, quite petite. Not just 'short', though the woman on the platform shared that in common with many other Asian women - her dusky-brass body couldn't have been more than an inch off of five feet, a 'respectable' height for an Asian woman, neither tall nor short enough to cause undue notice.

Though not always going hand-in-hand with 'short', this petite woman's build mirrored that of many other Asian women of similar stature

- fine-boned and delicate, with wrists and ankles so slender and perfectly formed that she seemed almost doll-like in some respects, her slender frame flexible and feminine, supple and sexy.

Already, that would have been enough to eliminate many Asian women from Rick's mental list as an ideal woman - yet not all of them, leaving many that were as short, slender and delicately feminine as the one laying only a few feet away from Rick.

However, more of this hypothetical pool of women could be stricken from that mental list for not sharing the silky-smooth and almost completely hairless skin that this woman boasted, the fine-pored flesh appearing almost like a faintly roughened plastic in the sharp contrast lighting, so smooth and flawless was its uncovered expanse - but it wasn't unheard of, certainly. If that had been the final requirement, Lucy Lui would have sparked every cylinder of Rick's libido, especially with her silky mane of gloriously gloss-black hair, just the way he liked it.

The smooth skin, however, wasn't the deciding factor - and although Rick thought Ms. Lui was definitely hot, he thought that the girl in a few of Jackie Chan's movies was even hotter, since she had the more rounded facial shape he preferred, less coolly sharp than Lucy's, more open and inviting - at least to Rick's way of thinking.

Even then, that martial-arts mistress wasn't his ideal girl, despite her dark, perfect eyes with their exotic folds giving them that tilted- almost look he found so mysterious and sexy. Even though she had the slender waist and the long, swan like neck, even though that woman had just about every detail at about three-quarters of what he'd consider perfection, there was one last thing that kept that particular woman from being perfect. One last 'little' detail that every other Asian woman he'd ever seen was lacking - and that this woman had, making her his absolute vision of sexual perfection:

Breasts.

Most Asian women could actually be said to be 'flat-chested', lacking almost any 'redundant' fat characteristic of the female mammary gland.

Not this woman.

In fact, this woman looked like she'd inherited all that 'missing' mammary fat, her slender ribcage supporting a pair of breasts that were not only utterly enormous, but incredibly firm. Rising and falling with each breath she took, each of this woman's breasts were as big as a medicine ball - and looked even larger on her diminutive, fine-boned frame, especially since they were so incredibly firm that they remained amazingly spherical despite the fact she was laying flat on her back.

This one the one last detail that every other possible 'candidate' for fantasy woman of Rick's life had lacked - not just big breasts, but huge breasts. Massive, round, firm breasts so incredible in proportion and shape that many - maybe even most - others would find them ludicrous, perhaps even disgusting - but, for Rick, it was the most crucial detail, the one thing more important than all the other, easier-to-find characteristics...

...which this woman also boasted, in addition to those massive - and, in Rick's eyes, perfect - breasts. She was perfect.

From the tip of her tiny, tapered feet to the top of her shoulder-length mane of straight, glossy black hair. From the tips of her slender, long-nailed fingers to her slight, finely formed shoulders. From slender neck to even slimmer waist, from full lips to tiny nose, from big, dark, exotically-shaped eyes to her huge, smooth, bronzed-copper breasts, she was utterly, completely, fantastically perfect.

So perfect, in fact, that Rick was quite literally entranced, standing with one foot inside Jim's room and the other out, hand still holding the doorknob as he stood stock-still, gazing in awe and wonder, to stunned by the sight to even wonder where she'd come from, much less where Jim was and how this was related to the power outage...

...and then she stirred, giving off a soft mutter in a voice that was sweet and soft and - again - perfect.

Rick suddenly became aware that he was staring at her, making no effort to hide his not-so-slowly growing erection and yet, he still didn't move, his own amazement and disbelief at seeing his fantasy woman made real enough to leave him pined in that position despite the realization that he was being more than just 'impolite'.

Still unmoving, he did nothing but watch as the diminutive-in-stature-but-not-endowment woman pushed herself into a sitting position, obviously having to work hard at it against the weight and drag of her massive new breasts. As she sat up, her breasts shifted and jiggled - which finished the job of getting Rick rock-hard, at least in one part of his anatomy.

If the jiggle-and-bounce routine hadn't already finished the job, however, what she did next would have gotten him fully erect.

With a slightly odd look on her face, the new woman looked down at her massive, round, unbelievably firm tits - then reached up and cupped them lightly with hands that barely managed to cover a tenth of their surface...

...and she gave them a light, almost tentative squeeze...

...and at the same time, let her eyes slide closed as she gave out the most sensuous, seductive moan of pleasure that Rick had ever heard.

In fact, Rick was so caught up in what he was seeing that it took the faint flickering at the edge of his vision for him to realize he hadn't yet replaced the breath that had been knocked out of him by shock. He'd been completely entranced by the vision in the room, so much so that he hadn't even felt the growing burning sensation in his chest as his lungs cried out for air - but now that his attention was drawn to it, the sensation hit with a vengeance, and he sucked in a heavy lungful of air, the hand on the doorknob tightening as he leaned against the opened door for support against the weak-kneed feeling that was half oxygen deprivation and half stunned amazement.

The incredible vision on the platform gasped at his noisy inhale, hands flying guiltily from her massive bosom as her eyes snapped open and her head whipped around, dark eyes widening as her cupid's-bow lips parted to reveal perfect, even white teeth...

"Oh...!" She said, her voice a rich contralto tinged with the faintest accent, sexy and sweet and utterly perfect. "Rick, you startled me!" "I'm sorry, I..." Rick started, ripping his dark brown eyes from the vision of loveliness as he felt his face flush a bright, hot shade of red...

...and then he did a double-take that was as classic an example of that expression as his gape had been of it's.

"How..." He said, hesitantly, frowning slightly even as his blush made his face match his bright-red hair. "How did you know my name?" The Asian woman on the platform looked startled - then she smiled wryly.

"Rick, it's me." She said, tilting her head in a way that looked oddly familiar. "I'm Jim."

For a second, Rick's brain simply refused to process what she'd said, the sheer absurdity of it making him sure that he'd misheard - and yet, after running it back in replay, there was no mistake...

"What...?" Rick asked, certain that he must still be confused. He glanced around the room, looking for the tall, skinny guy with the messy thatch of mud-brown hair...

...and failing to find him, despite the fact that the room's only window was sealed closed and there was no way Jim could have slipped out of the room without Rick noticing.

The woman's rich voice, edged with a humorous chuckle, yanked his attention right back to where it wanted to be - on her lovely, naked, wonderfully top-heavy body.

"Rick, it's me, your roommate, Jim." She said, patiently, awkwardly levering herself to her feet. "You know - the 'mad scientist'? The one you were coming in here to bawl out for blowing the fuses yet again?"

"I..." Rick started - then, realizing he had no idea where he was going with the pronoun, he tried something else. "You..."

That didn't work any better. While he stopped talking to try and figure out what, exactly, he was going to say, the huge-breasted woman gingerly made her way to the edge of the platform, walking with strange, unbalanced gait - and quite often pausing to lean forward in an awkward, oddly sexy way, to peer over her massive bust-line to see where her feet were.

Negotiating the single step down from the platform, she actually grabbed each breast with one dainty hand, and - with a soft sigh of pleasure - actually pulled her breasts further apart, allowing her to watch her step as she peered through that massive chasm of cleavage.

It was almost enough of a display to derail Rick's train of thought again - but what he'd finally decided to say consisted of a single word, and he managed to get it out, even if it was in a strangled - and, frankly, quite disbelieving - voice.

"How...?"

Pausing in her careful negotiation of the 'lab', the woman - who, Rick noticed with quite a bit of interest, had not yet released her massive breasts, though she'd let them settle back together - cocked her head.

"Well, actually, that's a very interesting story." She said. "You see, I was doing some research into electromagnetism, vis-à-vis its effect as a 'lens' on certain types of radiation, all coupled with the properties and possibilities inherent in the realm of relatively low-energy physics applications regarding the genetic sequences imbedded in the metallic compounds of the human body, including - but not limited to - copper, zinc, and, of course, iron, all suspended in a radiation-and-electromagnetic reactive solution of fluids that..."

Well, though she didn't look or, physically, sound, anything like his roommate, Rick had to admit that the mannerisms and speech patterns were a dead-on match for that of the missing pseudo-scientist - so, tentatively, Rick was willing to stipulate that this woman might, indeed, be Jim, or at least some form of him...

...which made the next question an easy one, also a single word of inquiry, though with considerably more emotional confusion in its tone: "Why?"

In perfect Jim-like fashion, her briefly unfocused eyes flared with annoyance at being cut short just as she was getting up to speed with her techno-babble...

...and then her eyes softened even as she lowered them slightly, her voice dropping a bit. "Why... so that I could be your fantasy woman"

The dropped eyes and lowered voice weren't done shamefully, but seductively - complete with that 'peering up past the eyelids' look that women occasionally used, the one that made them look like they actually knew every dirty, naughty thought you might be thinking...

...which, in this case, might actually be true - since Jim, if this was indeed him in another form, had listened to Rick's comments on the various Asian women on TV or in movies, and knew exactly what Rick wanted in a fantasy woman.

Slowly, consciously, and (not that it lessened the effect) a bit too theatrically, the gorgeous woman in Jim's room licked her full, bow-like lips, and winked one long-lashed eyelid at him.

Stunned, Rick stared at the woman that he was slowly becoming convinced was, indeed, his strange roommate in a different form - and could only repeat his last question, louder and in shocked tones, amplified by invoking a deity: "In God's name, Jim - Why...?"

"To keep you from kicking me out." She replied, matter-of-factly, as she pulled a folded pile of clothing from a shelf.

Rick blinked, beginning to feel as if somebody had spent the past few hours beating him over the head with a very large, very soft hammer: "Huh?"

She shrugged - which did truly interesting things to her massive new bust, things that both of them noted with great interest and - interestingly - with equal measure of pleasure.

"This is my great invention, the one that's going to make me rich and famous - a machine that can give the user just about any body the desire." She explained, laying one tiny, perfectly formed hand on the flank of one of the bigger pieces of interconnected equipment. "Getting the incredibly fine tolerances of the electromagnetic lenses was as much luck as skill, though, and taking it apart to get it out of here could ruin it completely. I couldn't take the risk."

"So you turned yourself into my fantasy woman?" Rick asked, numbly. "I mean... didn't it ever occur to you to just explain to me how important this was? I mean, honestly - a machine that can do...." He paused, searching for words, then finally settled on just waving his free hand in her direction. "...this, you don't think I would have changed my mind?"

The woman actually snorted - the first non-fantasy sound from her perfect little lips.

"I've tried to explain my work to you before - and your eyes just glaze over, and then you cut me off." She said.

He winced, knowing it for the truth - not even realizing that the instinctive wince was his final, subconscious acknowledgment of who this incredible woman 'really' was.

"Besides..." She went on in a gentler tone, "Would you really have believed me even if I had been able to keep you interested long enough to explain what I was doing? You might not have thought I was lying - but I'm sure you would have doubted my ability to accomplish it, much less so quickly."

Rick could have winced in acknowledgment of that, too, but she didn't give him a chance, continuing on without pause.

"Personally, I sort of doubted it myself, until it worked." She admitted, candidly. " Aside from all that, I had to completely convert my room to fit the machine in. My bed is actually the base of that platform there, and the padded surface came from the mattress. Since I'm practically broke, having spent all my inheritance on this machine, I also needed a 'test form' that would not only show you the value of my work, but that would make it acceptable for me to share your bedroom with you - and entice you to let me live rent free - hell, cost- free - until I can finish my work and patent it for sale. My best guess is that the process will take about five years - so I needed one hell of an incentive."

While she'd been explaining this to Rick, the new woman Jim had turned himself into had been getting dressed, starting with a pair of white cotton panties that were pretty 'Plain-Jane', and certainly not what Rick would have chosen to put that fantasy body into - and the fact that it was really Jim inside that luscious body meant that the realization that he was fantasizing what she 'should' wear something perverted and disgusting.

Not that the realization did anything to stop him from continuing to do it. The part of his brain interested in this fantasy woman had very little to do with logic or intellect, operating on much baser instincts - which was why his cock had remained disgustingly hard even as she awkwardly pulled on the massive white front-closing bra she'd had custom-made somewhere, the heavy-duty white fabric encasing her massive globes perfectly. It had continued to stay hard as she'd talked, pulling on a pair of tight denim shorts that left her long, smooth legs bare, and hadn't softened in the least as she'd lifted her arms and slipped the pearl-gray sweater over her head.

However, against his will, his cock had gotten even harder, his erection actually becoming painful, as she tried - in vain - to tug the off- the-shelf sweater down over her massive new breasts, and the bra that contained them. She finally had to settle for having the hem of the sweater riding just below the half-way mark of her enormous new breasts, the bottom third of the bra and her slender waist left bared at the front, while the sweater hung almost to her firm, fully-packed ass at the back.

Rick really, really wished he hadn't noticed the fact that her full ass, tightly packed in denim, was as equally perfect as every other inch of her new body...

"You... want me to share my bedroom with you...?" Rick stammered, feeling as if the intervening decade had somehow melted away, leaving him a gawky, awkward eighteen-year-old again. "I.. I could just get a fold-out couch and.. I mean..."

"Oh - that wouldn't work very well..." She said, appearing almost panicked as she hurried towards him...

...and then as she moved towards him slowly, having barely caught herself before falling, her new - and radically different - center-of- gravity obviously giving her trouble. The rest of her walk to the door was done more gingerly, one hand kept on something solid for balance at all times - but her movements were none the less urgent.

Rick's brain was a-whirl, unsure what to make of the woman whose body was his ideal fantasy, and yet who was awkward, unbalanced, graceless and - in his opinion - had lousy taste in clothing. Blinking, Rick wavered between hormones and higher intellect - and split the difference, glancing at her occasionally rather than staring hungrily at her body as she drew closer. Though his mouth suddenly felt drier than southern Nevada and his voice had become a near-laryngitic croak, he managed to ask: "It wouldn't...?"

"I wanted to make absolutely sure you'd not only let me live here, but pay any and all expenses I can't afford." She explained, pausing just inside the door to her room to open the door to the relocated fuse-box and throw the reset switch before carefully closing the rest of the distance between them. "That's why I also used a small sample of your DNA to make myself helplessly addicted to you "

...and then she was pressing her body hard against his...

...and a psychiatrist might have gained a lot of insight into Rick's psyche by noting the fact that Rick's ideal fantasy girl was two inches shorter than his own diminutive frame.

Psychology, however, was about the furthest thing from Rick's mind as he was assaulted by two diametrically opposed, yet equally powerful, urges - one, to shove 'Jim' violently away in horrified shock, the other, to wrap his fantasy girl into his embrace...

With incredible forbearance, however, he did neither. He merely stood stock-still, arm remaining exactly where they were, as he gazed in shock at the woman who was pulling her body against his, her huge breast shoved firmly (and very, very pleasantly, he noted numbly) against his lower rib-cage and stomach.

"Addicted...?" He croaked.

"Oh, yes..." She told him, brightly - while she began, slowly, to rub her body up and down against his, a somewhat awkward motion, but one that was nevertheless having a very pronounced effect on him. "Oh, it's not a super-strong one, since I want to be able to spend at least eight hours away from you - but that's my 'push' range, when it would get decidedly uncomfortable. With my physiological need to press my naked flesh against yours, often is better - and, not only that, but my body is 'sensitized' to yours, which means touching you gives me greater physical pleasure than touching anybody else, male or female, would, so any sexual activity, even something like sucking your cock, will feel much more enjoyable for me than it would otherwise - which is good, given the fact that making my breasts so utterly - or, should I say, 'udderly'? (he, he) - huge without resorting to implants meant I had to, um... well, deliberately unbalance my hormonal system, giving me a higher-than-usual libido."

Rick made a strange sort of squeaking sound - then closed his eyes, took several deep breaths, and thought desperately about baseball for a minute before trying to speak.

"You're more horny than a normal woman, and addicted to touching me - naked flesh to naked flesh...?" He finally asked, trying not to visualize that situation - and failing miserably.

The new woman grinned at him, purposely grinning one denim-glad thigh against the prominent bulge in his pants - and getting a small whimper for her trouble. "That's right, Rick. I'm not only your fantasy woman, physically, but I'm also a clinical nymphomaniac now - and you're the one stud on the face of the planet who can really satisfy me. Once I get some practice in this body, I'll even be able to move and walk the way a woman who looks like this should - though it may take a couple of months for me to get make-up and hairstyles down pat, and I have no idea at all how long it'll take before I can walk in really high platform heels - right now, I can barely manage it barefoot."

