

Your cousin would be right. We're short staffed on bartenders at the moment.

I've been told that you have some experience in that field?

It's true, Martin. She has years of experience. I hear the bar she worked at is rather similar to the Eclipse.

I just moved from San Juan to Miami last week. I've always wanted to try living in America.

Yes, sir. I was a bartender at the largest bar in San Juan for three years.

And since I know I'm damn good at mixing drinks and making customers feel welcome, I wanted to put my talents to work.

What made you choose the Eclipse over other clubs in the area?

My cousin and Uncle Diego swear that this the best club in Miami.

And that you were a very kind and understanding boss.

Also, if it helps, I can start working here right away. I'd even be willing to start tonight.

And you say she's a hard worker, Diego?

Absolutely, sir. She's one of the hardest workers I know.

Ask anything of her, and she'll give it her all. You won't regret hiring her.

Hmm... You certainly sound like you'd be a good hire, Carmen.

But I'd like to see you in action before I do anything else.

Would you mind joining me at our bar and making a drink for me?

I'd be happy to!

This is such a nice bar you've got, here. And you've got a good selection of drinks to choose from, too.

Take all the time you need to familiarize yourself with where things are.

If you don't know where something is, just ask, and I'll happily tell you.

That's alright, sir. I've got this under control. Now, what can I get you?

I admire the confidence. I think I'll have a Bloody Mary, please.

One Bloody Mary, coming right up!

Heh, I see what Martin is trying to do. He wants me to trip up.

On paper, a Bloody Mary is a simple drink. But it's also simple to screw it up.

A good Bloody Mary should cover a range of tastes. Sweet, salty, savory, but not bitter.

So I'll just have to make an exceptional one for him.

The trick is to use real tomato juice, mixed with lots of ice and inexpensive vodka.

Damn! I have to admire the theatrics that she's putting into this.

Carlos did the same thing. I guess it runs in the family.

You know, I'm actually most impressed that you know where everything is behind the bar.

Considering you've never been here before, that's wild to me.

Oh, uh... Carlos taught me how a lot of things at the 'Eclipse work.

To be honest, I've been training with Carlos a lot over the last week. I hope you don't mind.

That's more than alright. It makes it easier for training.

You're definitely acing the theatrical aspect, too.

I think you'll find that I ace every aspect, sir. I pride myself on that.

But of course, if there's anything you want me to fix or improve upon, I'm always happy to make adjustments.

But here you go, sir. One Bloody Mary. Can I get you anything else?

Just that will be more than enough, Carmen. Thank you.

Come on! I hope that I mixed that well enough.

Wow, that is a damn good drink, Carmen.

I must admit that you've impressed me with your skills and experience.

Thank you, Martin. Does that mean I get the job?

Normally, I'd think it over and get back to you in a few days.

But considering we're understaffed after your cousin abruptly left, I'll make an exception.

Welcome to the Eclipse, Carmen.

Seriously? I got the job? I promise that I won't let you down.

YES!!

And since you said that you'd be willing to work tonight, I intend to take you up on that offer.

You can count on me now, Martin.

I really hope I can. Your cousin Carlos wasn't always the best employee.

But since you impressed me so much, I'm willing to take a shot on you. Hopefully, you work out better than your cousin.

We'll need to do a few things before you start tonight, though.

Beginning with getting you a work uniform.

Gabby! Can you come out here?! I'd like to introduce you to someone!

Hey, Martin. What's up?

Gabby, I'd like you to meet our newest bartender.

Carmen, this is Gabby, one of our

Actually, sir, Gabby and I have already met.

Yeah, Carmen and I have been getting to know each other pretty well over the last day or so.

Oh, well then that makes this easier for everyone.

Anyway, Carmen will be working in Carlos' place at the bar tonight.

I'll go up to my office to get the paperwork for Carmen to sign.

In the meantime, can you take Carmen to the backroom and get her a work uniform?

Can do, boss. Come on, Carmen.

Nice going back there. Especially when he asked how you knew where everything was.

You were watching the whole time?

Duh. I'm not gonna miss being there for you, dude.

Congrats on getting your job back, by the way.

Don't get me wrong, I'm glad that I can still work here.

But the way Martin berated me when I quit is going to stick with me for a long time.

And now it feels like this female persona is taking over my life.

And look at it this way: working as Carmen is a lot better than being unemployed.

That's actually a fair point. At least I'm able to keep some semblance of my normal life, despite all this chaos.

By the way, what should I do about my shoes?

Oh yeah, I forgot about those.

It looked like you were wearing flats when you transformed, so you can keep those on.

I guess it just feels messed up that Carmen has a job, but Carlos doesn't.

I see what you mean, but what other choice do you have right now?

Plus, whether you work as Carlos or Carmen, the money is all going to the same place.

Alright, how do I look in this?

Not bad. You look like a true Eclipse girl. How does it feel?

Uhh... it feels tighter than I expected. Especially around the breasts and ass.

Well that's to be expected.

They don't make these uniforms to fit porn star measurements.

I'm a bit surprised that your girls didn't make that blouse just burst.

Don't get me wrong, I'm glad that I can still work here.

But the way Martin berated me when I quit is going to stick with me for a long time.

And now it feels like this female persona is taking over my life.

I guess it just feels messed up that Carmen has a job, but Carlos doesn't.

I see what you mean, but what other choice do you have right now?

Plus, whether you work as Carlos or Carmen, the money is all going to the same place.

And look at it this way: working as Carmen is a lot better than being unemployed.

That's actually a fair point. At least I'm able to keep some semblance of my normal life, despite all this chaos.

By the way, what should I do about my shoes?

Oh yeah, I forgot about those.

It looked like you were wearing flats when you transformed, so you can keep those on.

Alright, how do I look in this?

Not bad. You look like a true Eclipse girl. How does it feel?

Uhh... it feels tighter than I expected. Especially around the breasts and ass.

Well that's to be expected.

They don't make these uniforms to fit porn star measurements.

I'm a bit surprised that your girls didn't make that blouse just burst.

