CHAPTER 08

"Mark, can you sit down for a moment,"
she said to her stepson.

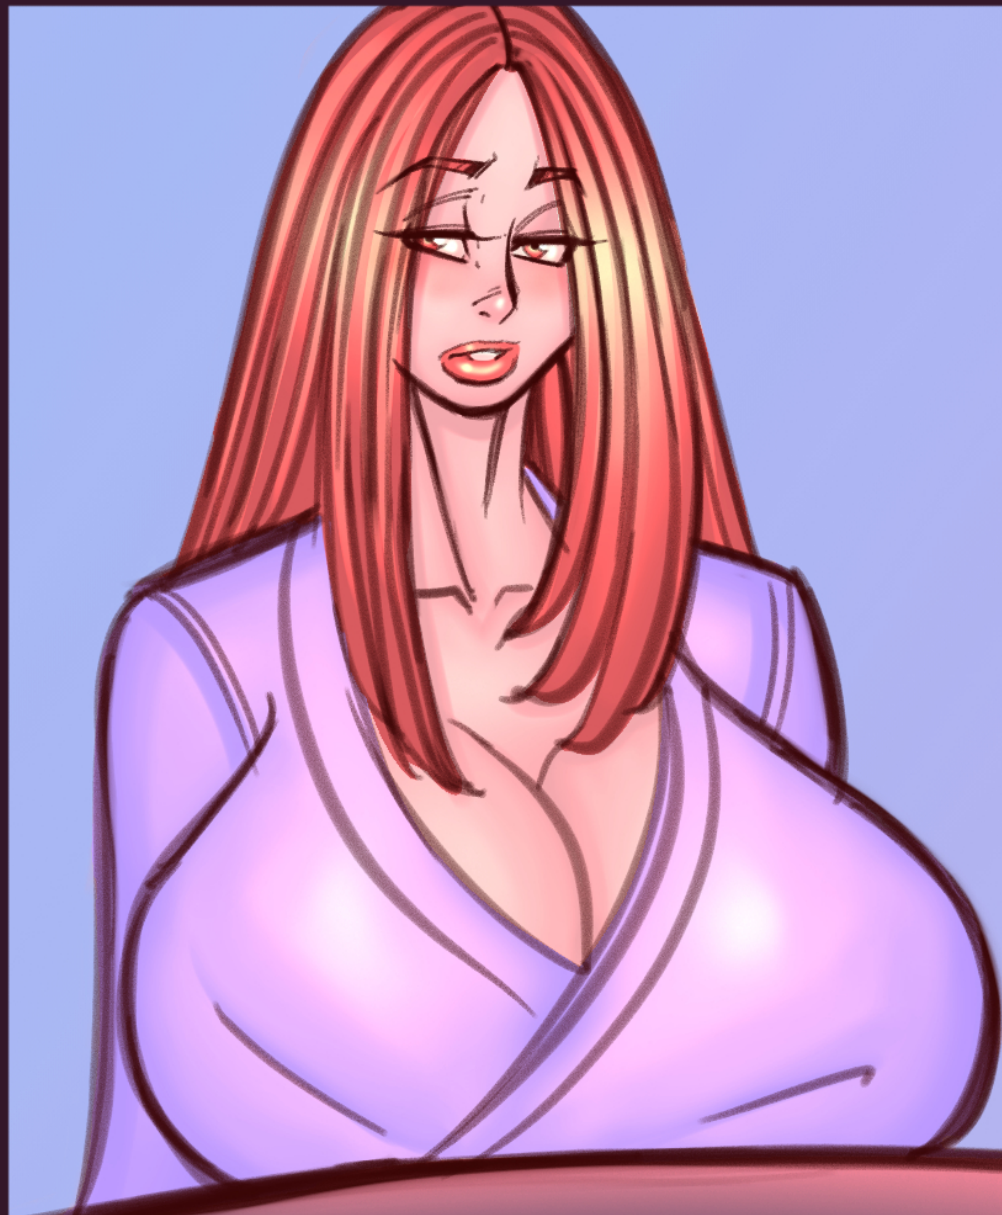

Judith looked cerebral while Mark looked like a guy who was about to lose his virginity for the first time.

While Judith wore a loose designer sweater and yoga pants, Claire wore a silk robe; which was incredibly unusual because she only wore robes around bedtime.

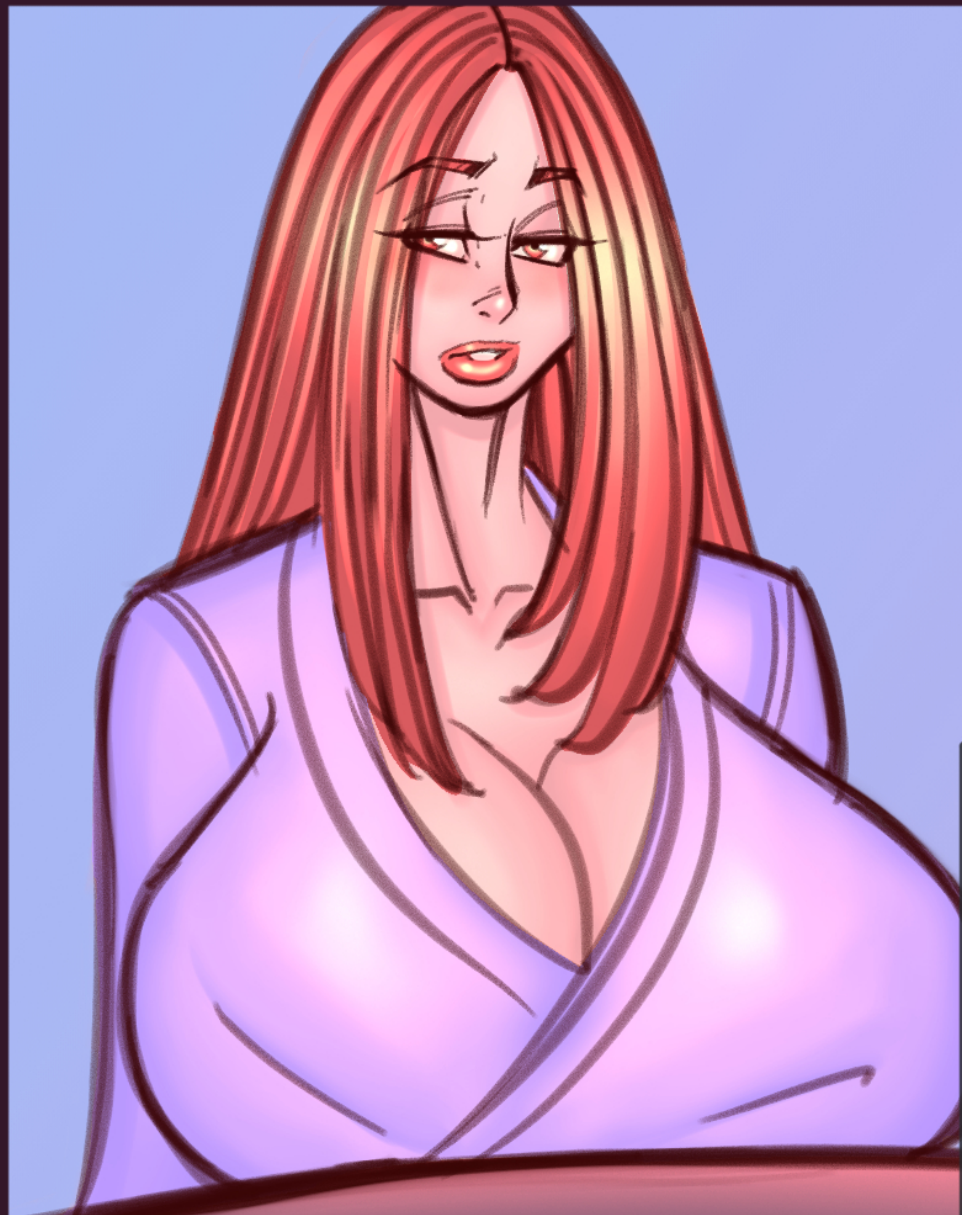

The roast chicken was still in the kitchen, but they sat at the table where all the side dishes and plates were all ready and waiting.

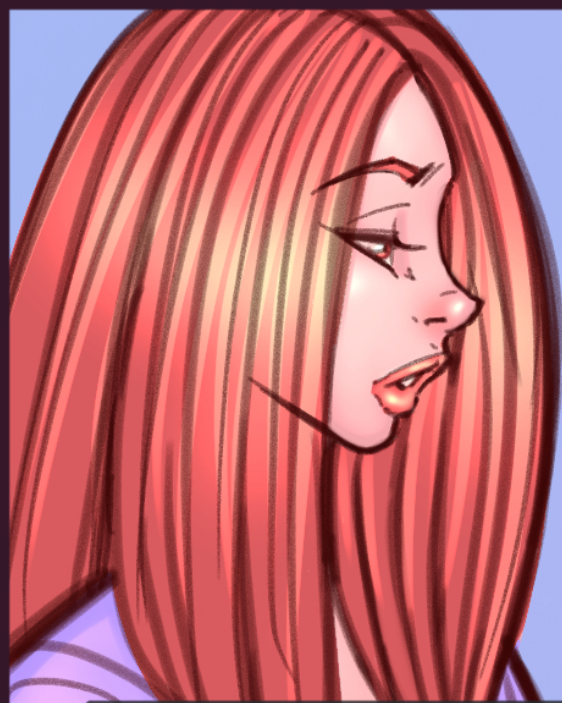

"Mark, I love you more than anything," she said, looking him in the eyes.

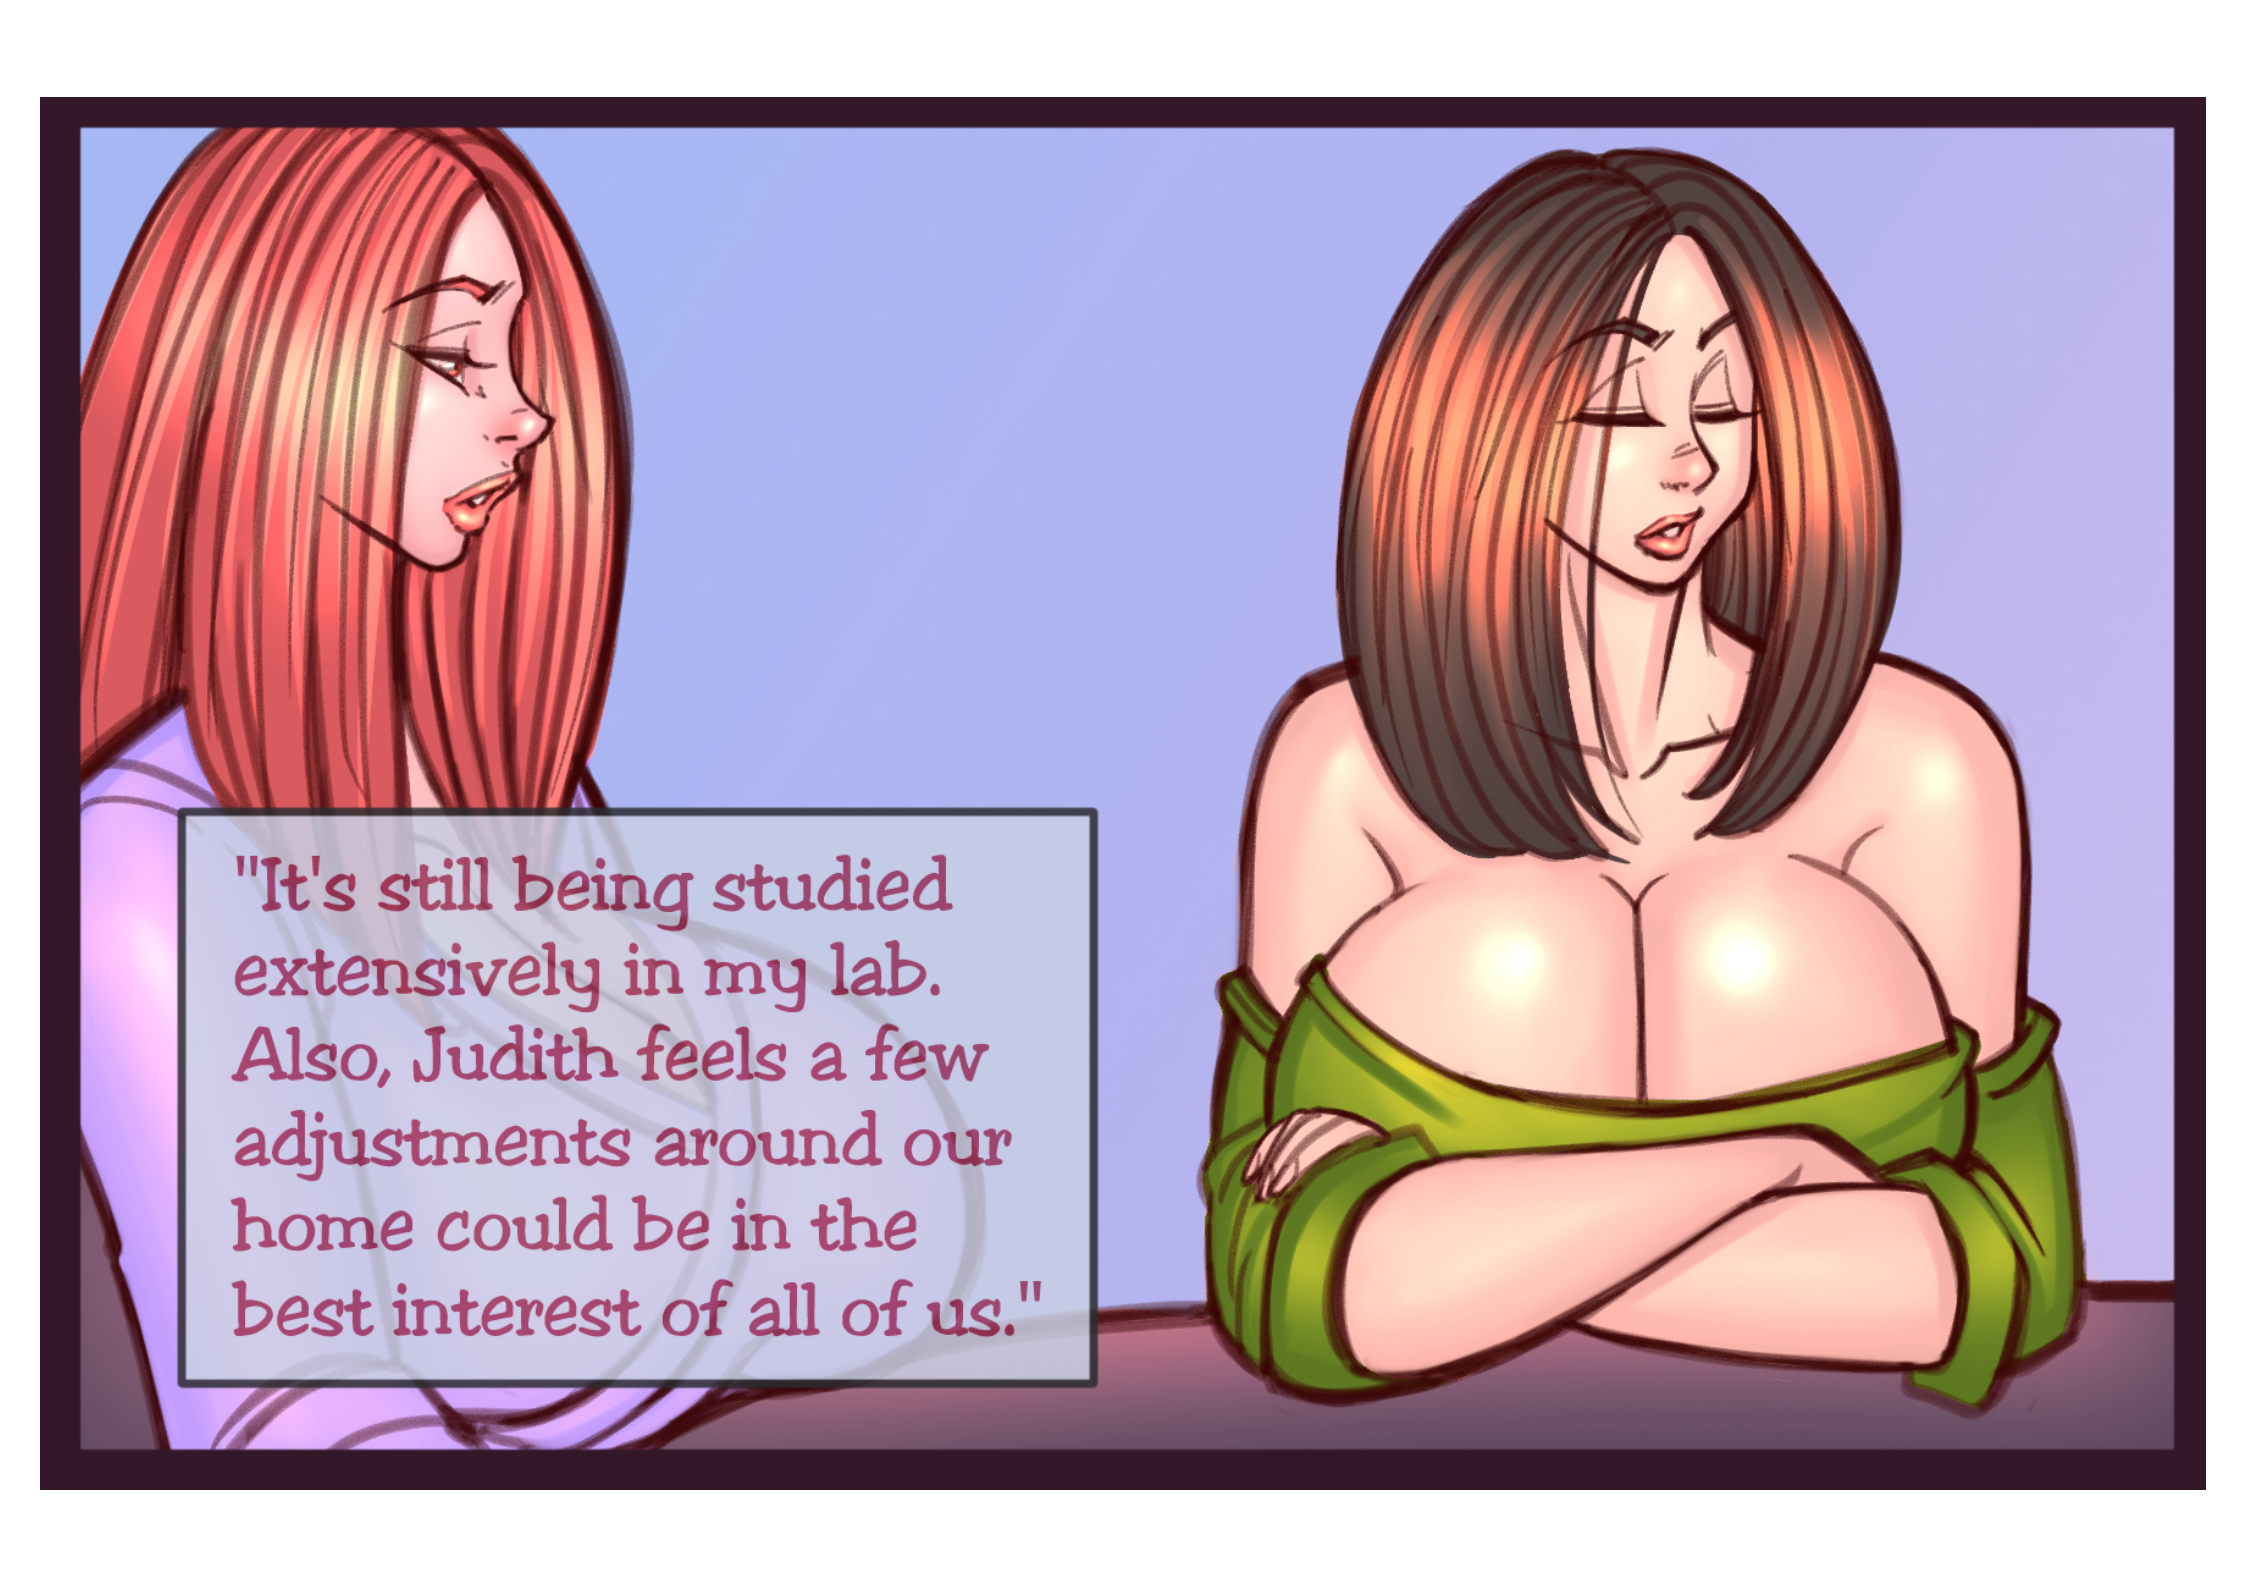

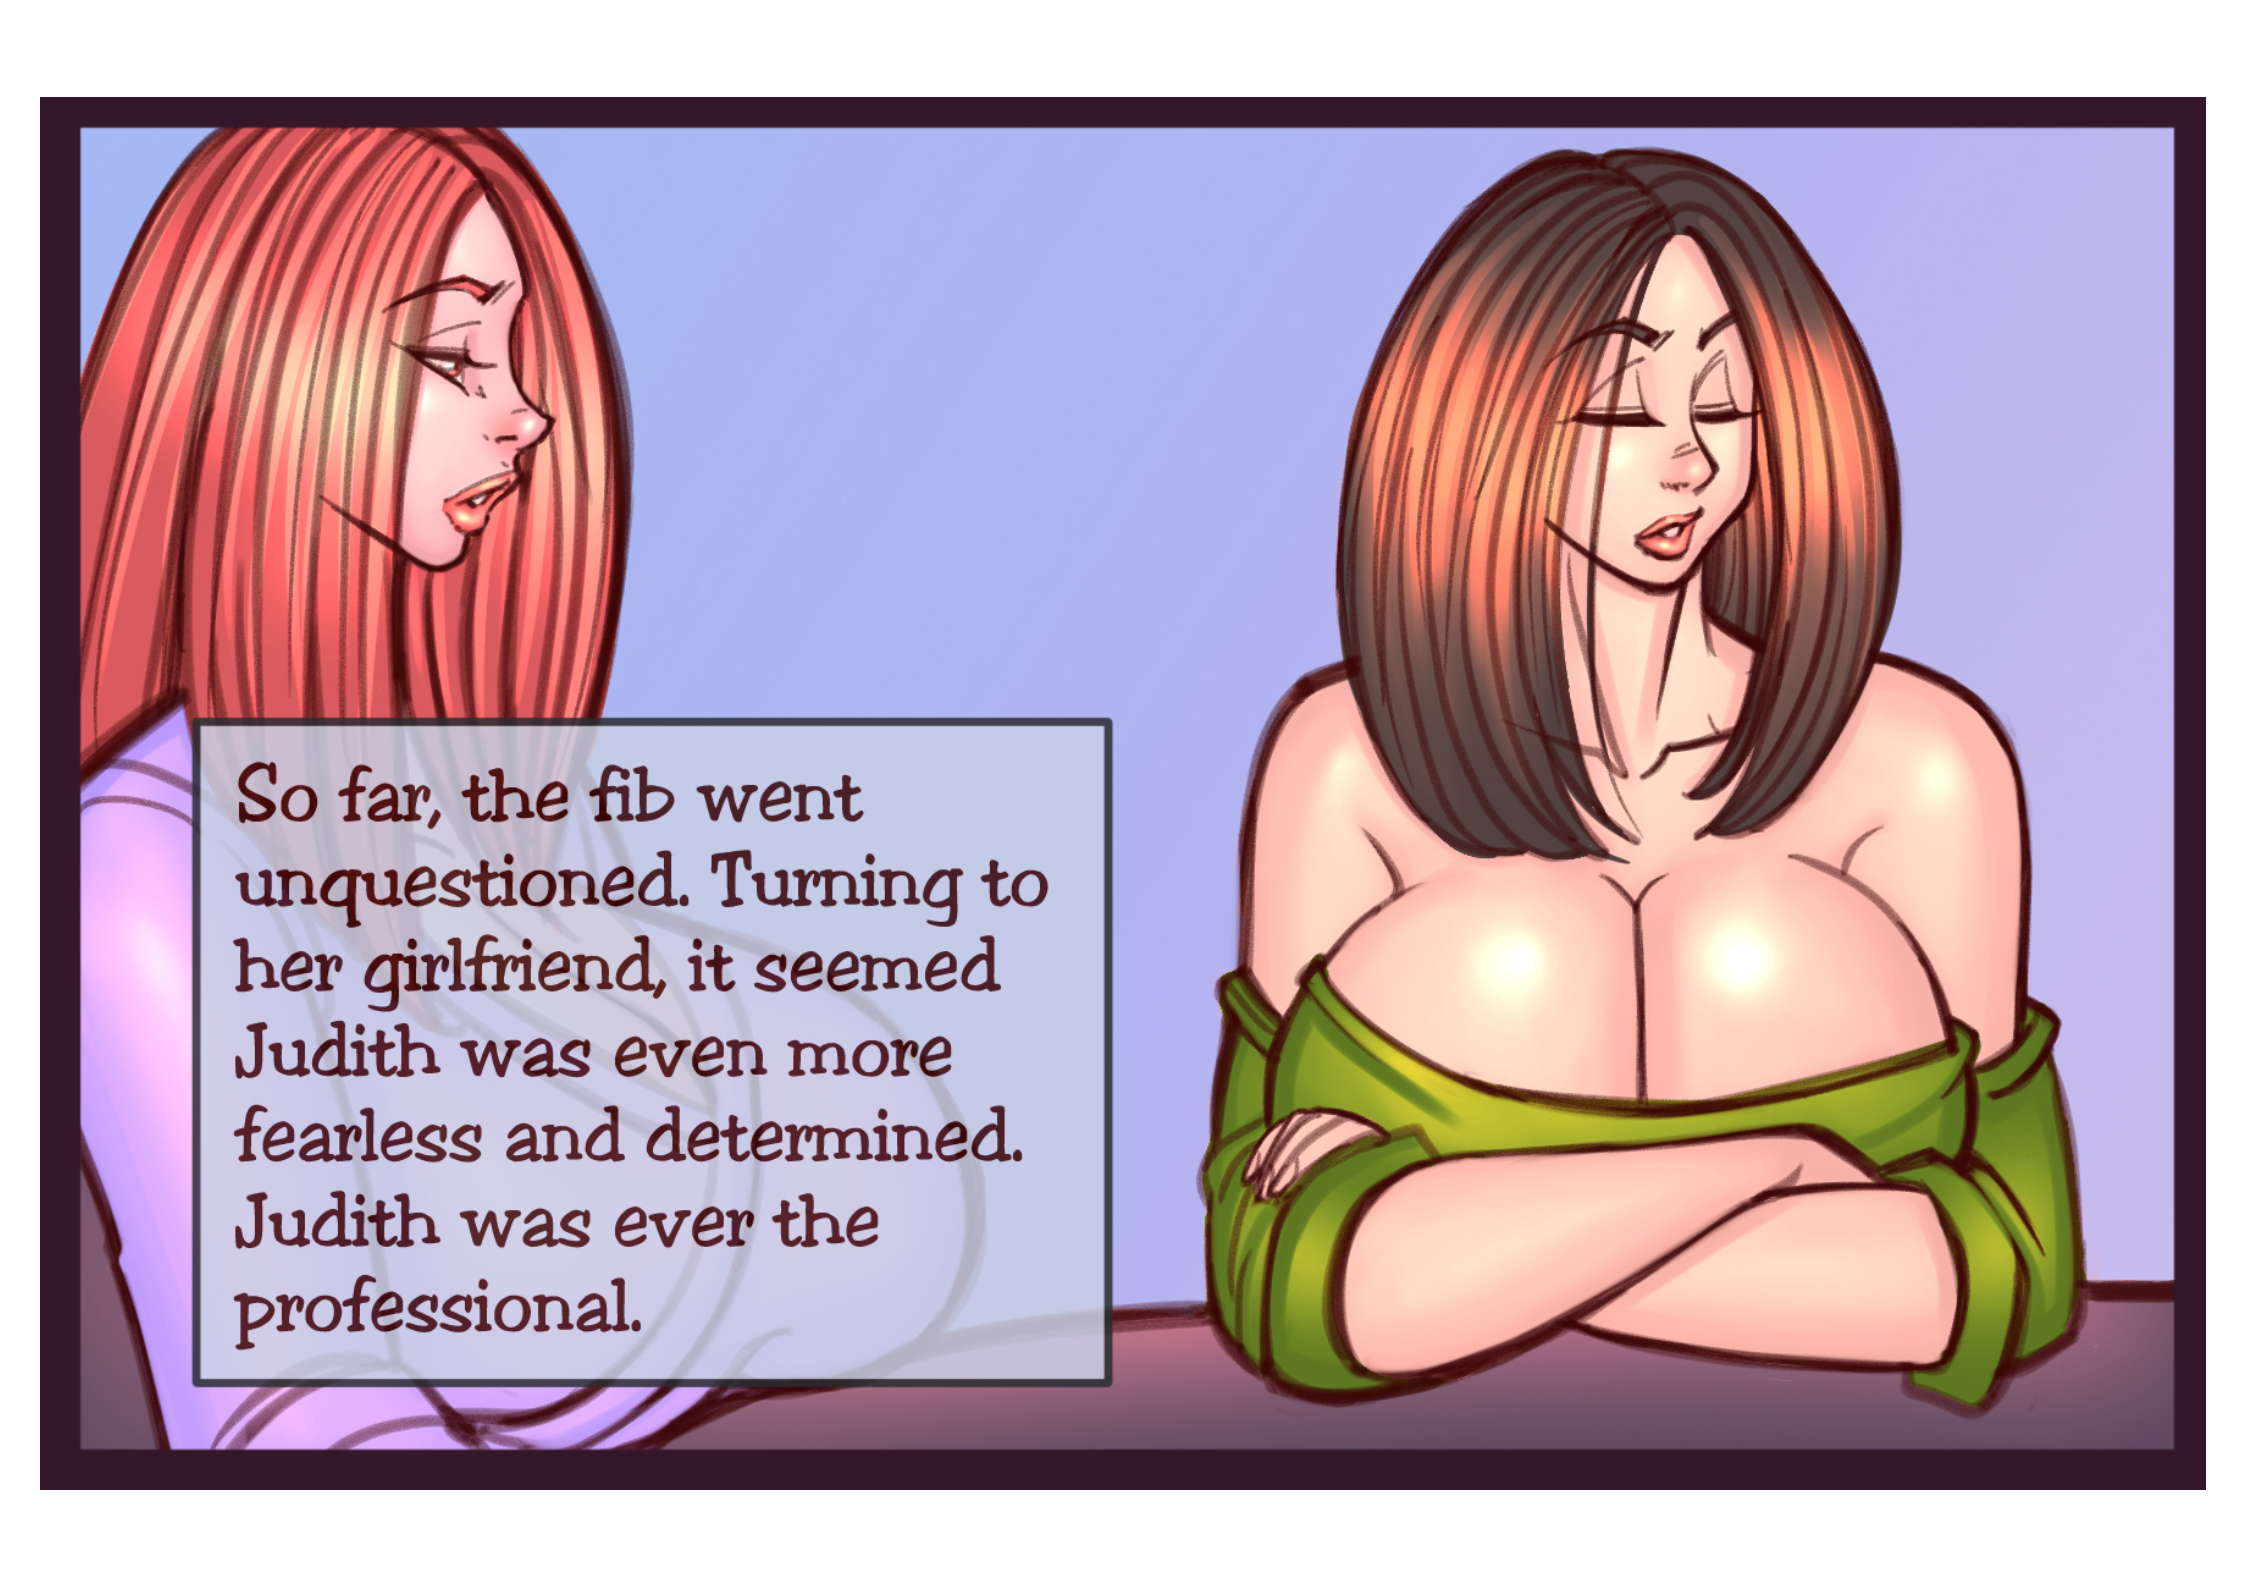

"Also, I know I went a little overboard, keeping you indoors more than necessary, but it's for your health."
"It's okay, mom, I..."

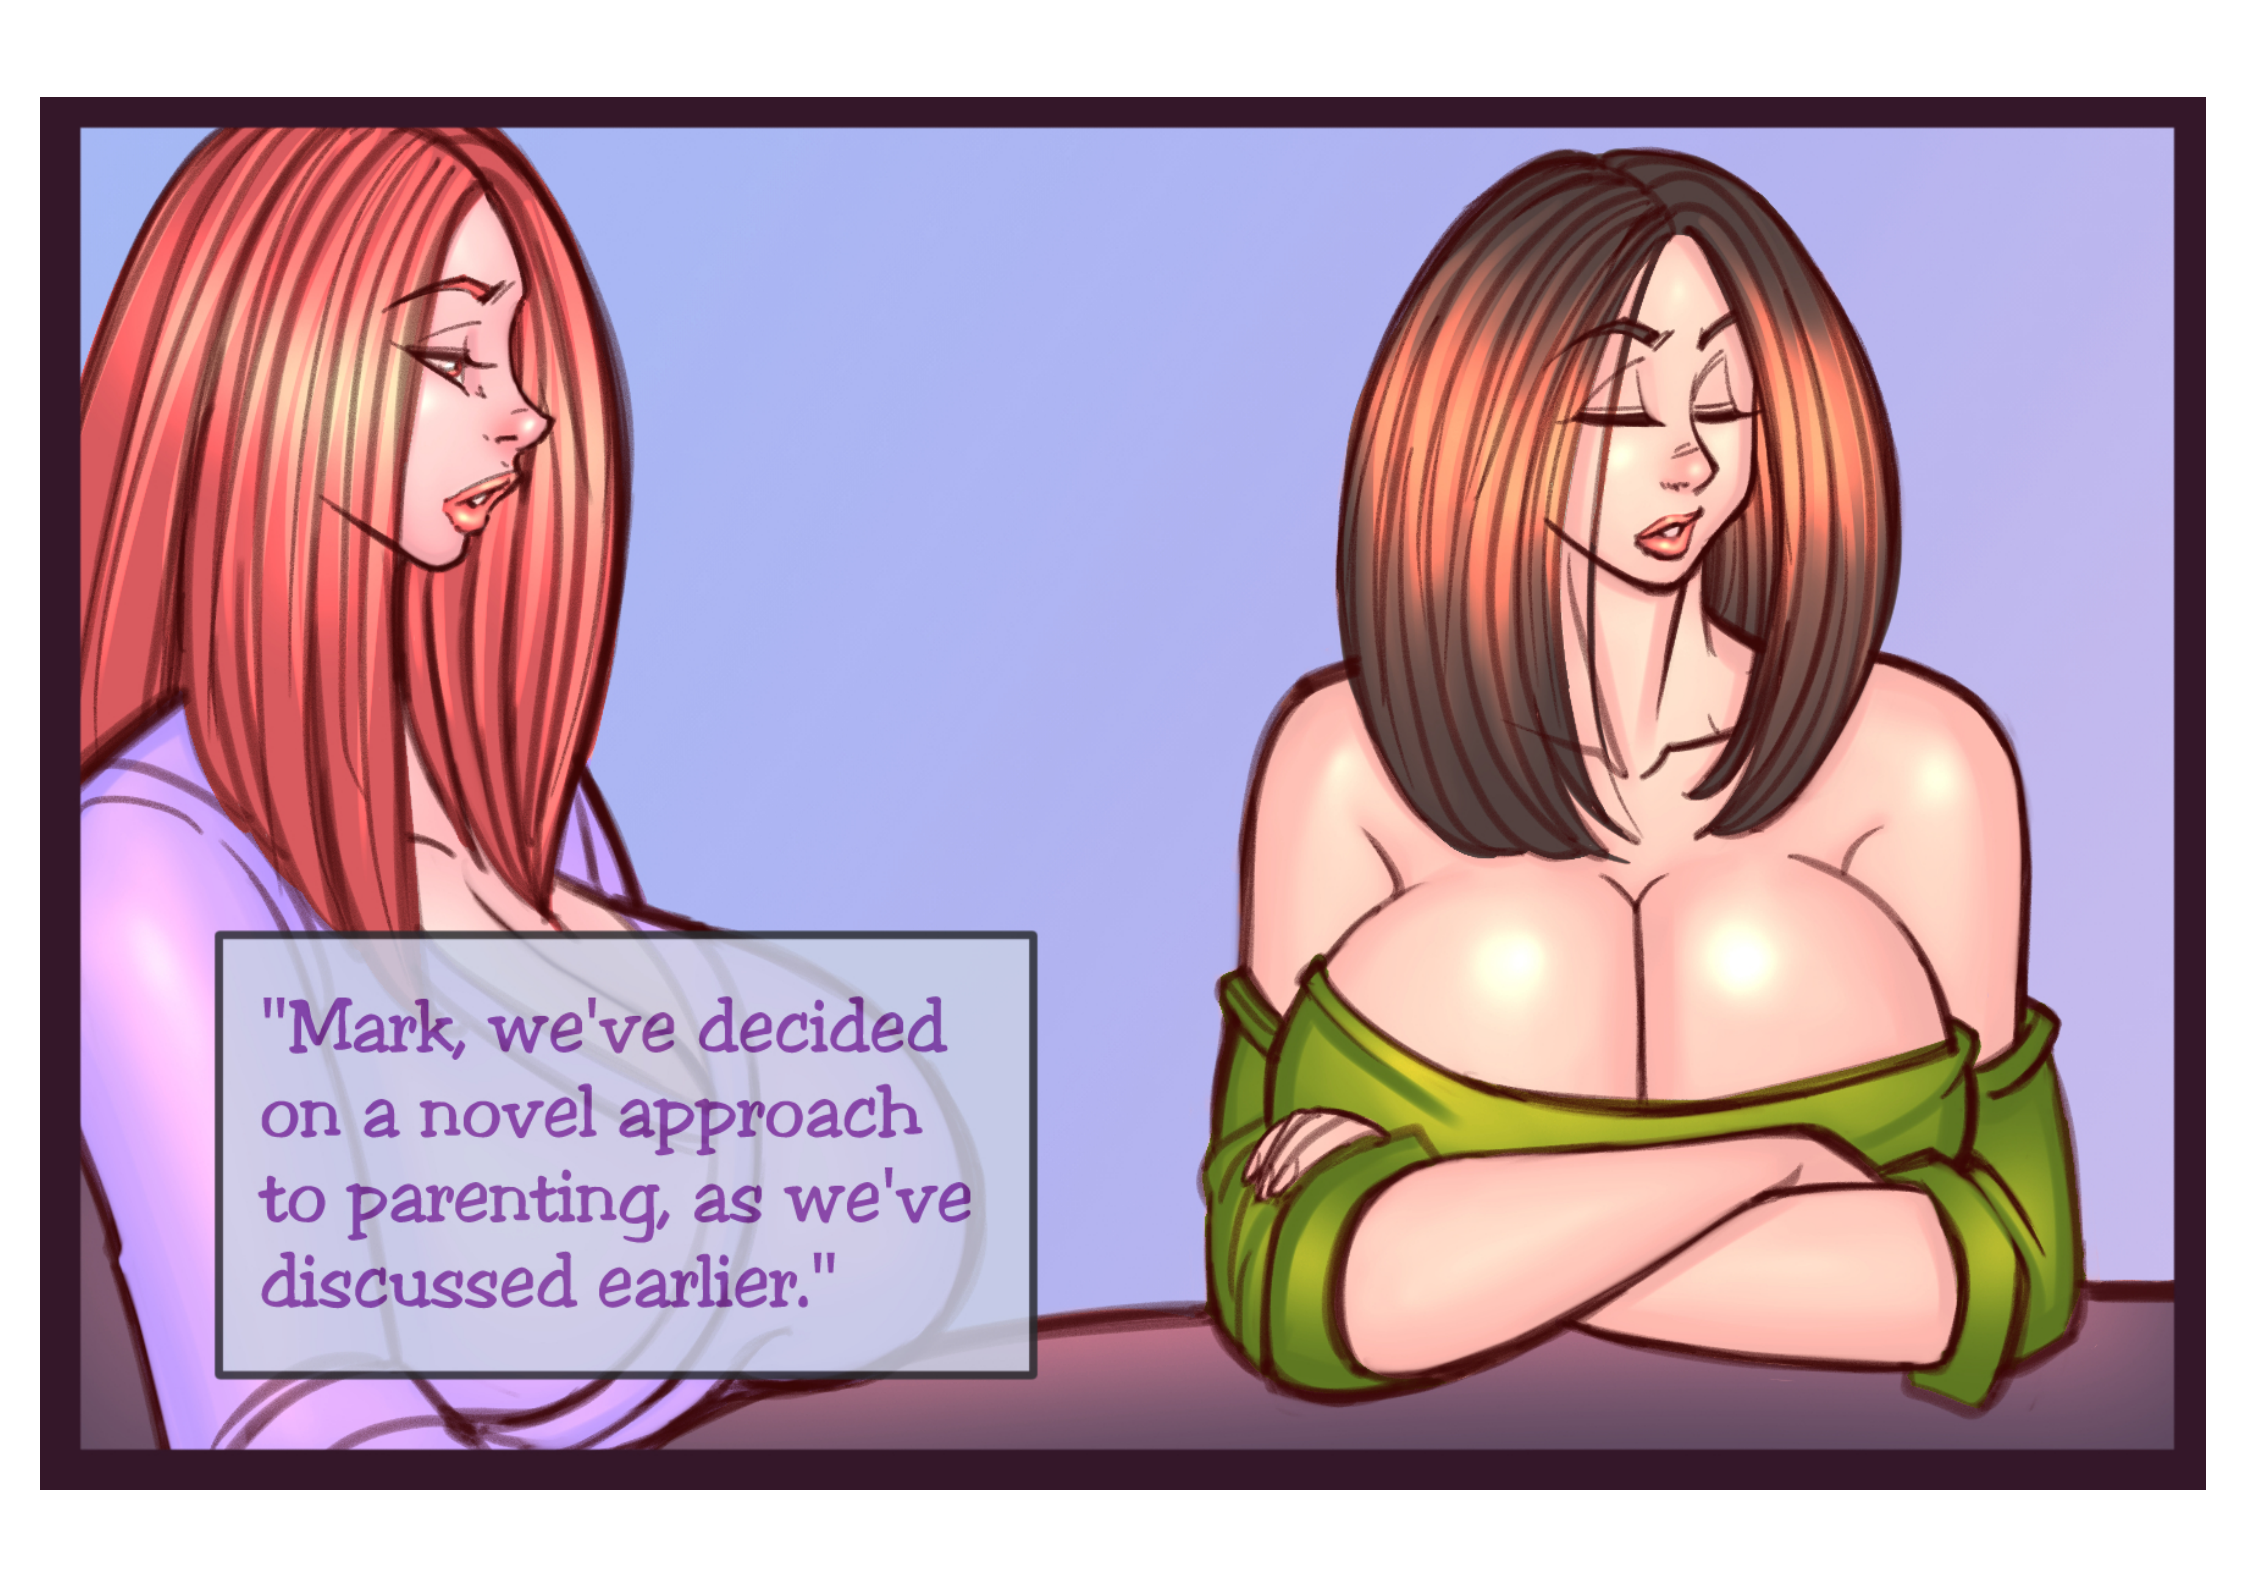

She cut him off.
"Just listen. There's nothing conclusive about this... but...
there could maybe be something in breast milk
which helps."

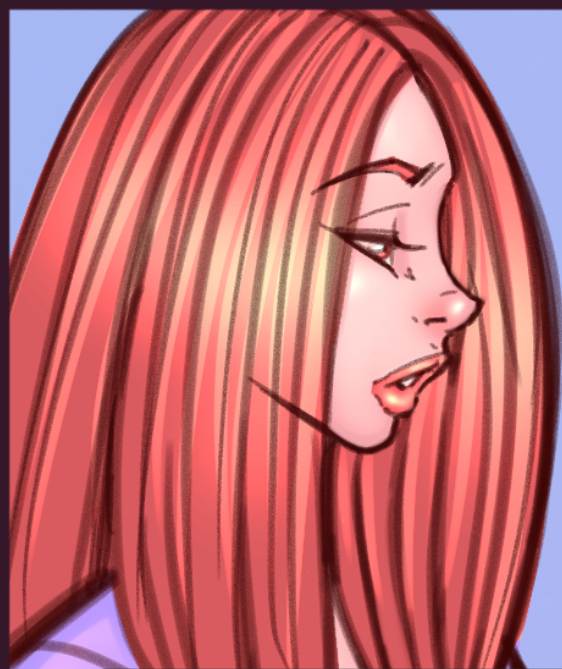

"It's still being studied extensively in my lab. Also, Judith feels a few adjustments around our home could be in the best interest of all of us."

So far, the fib went unquestioned. Turning to her girlfriend, it seemed Judith was even more fearless and determined. Judith was ever the professional.

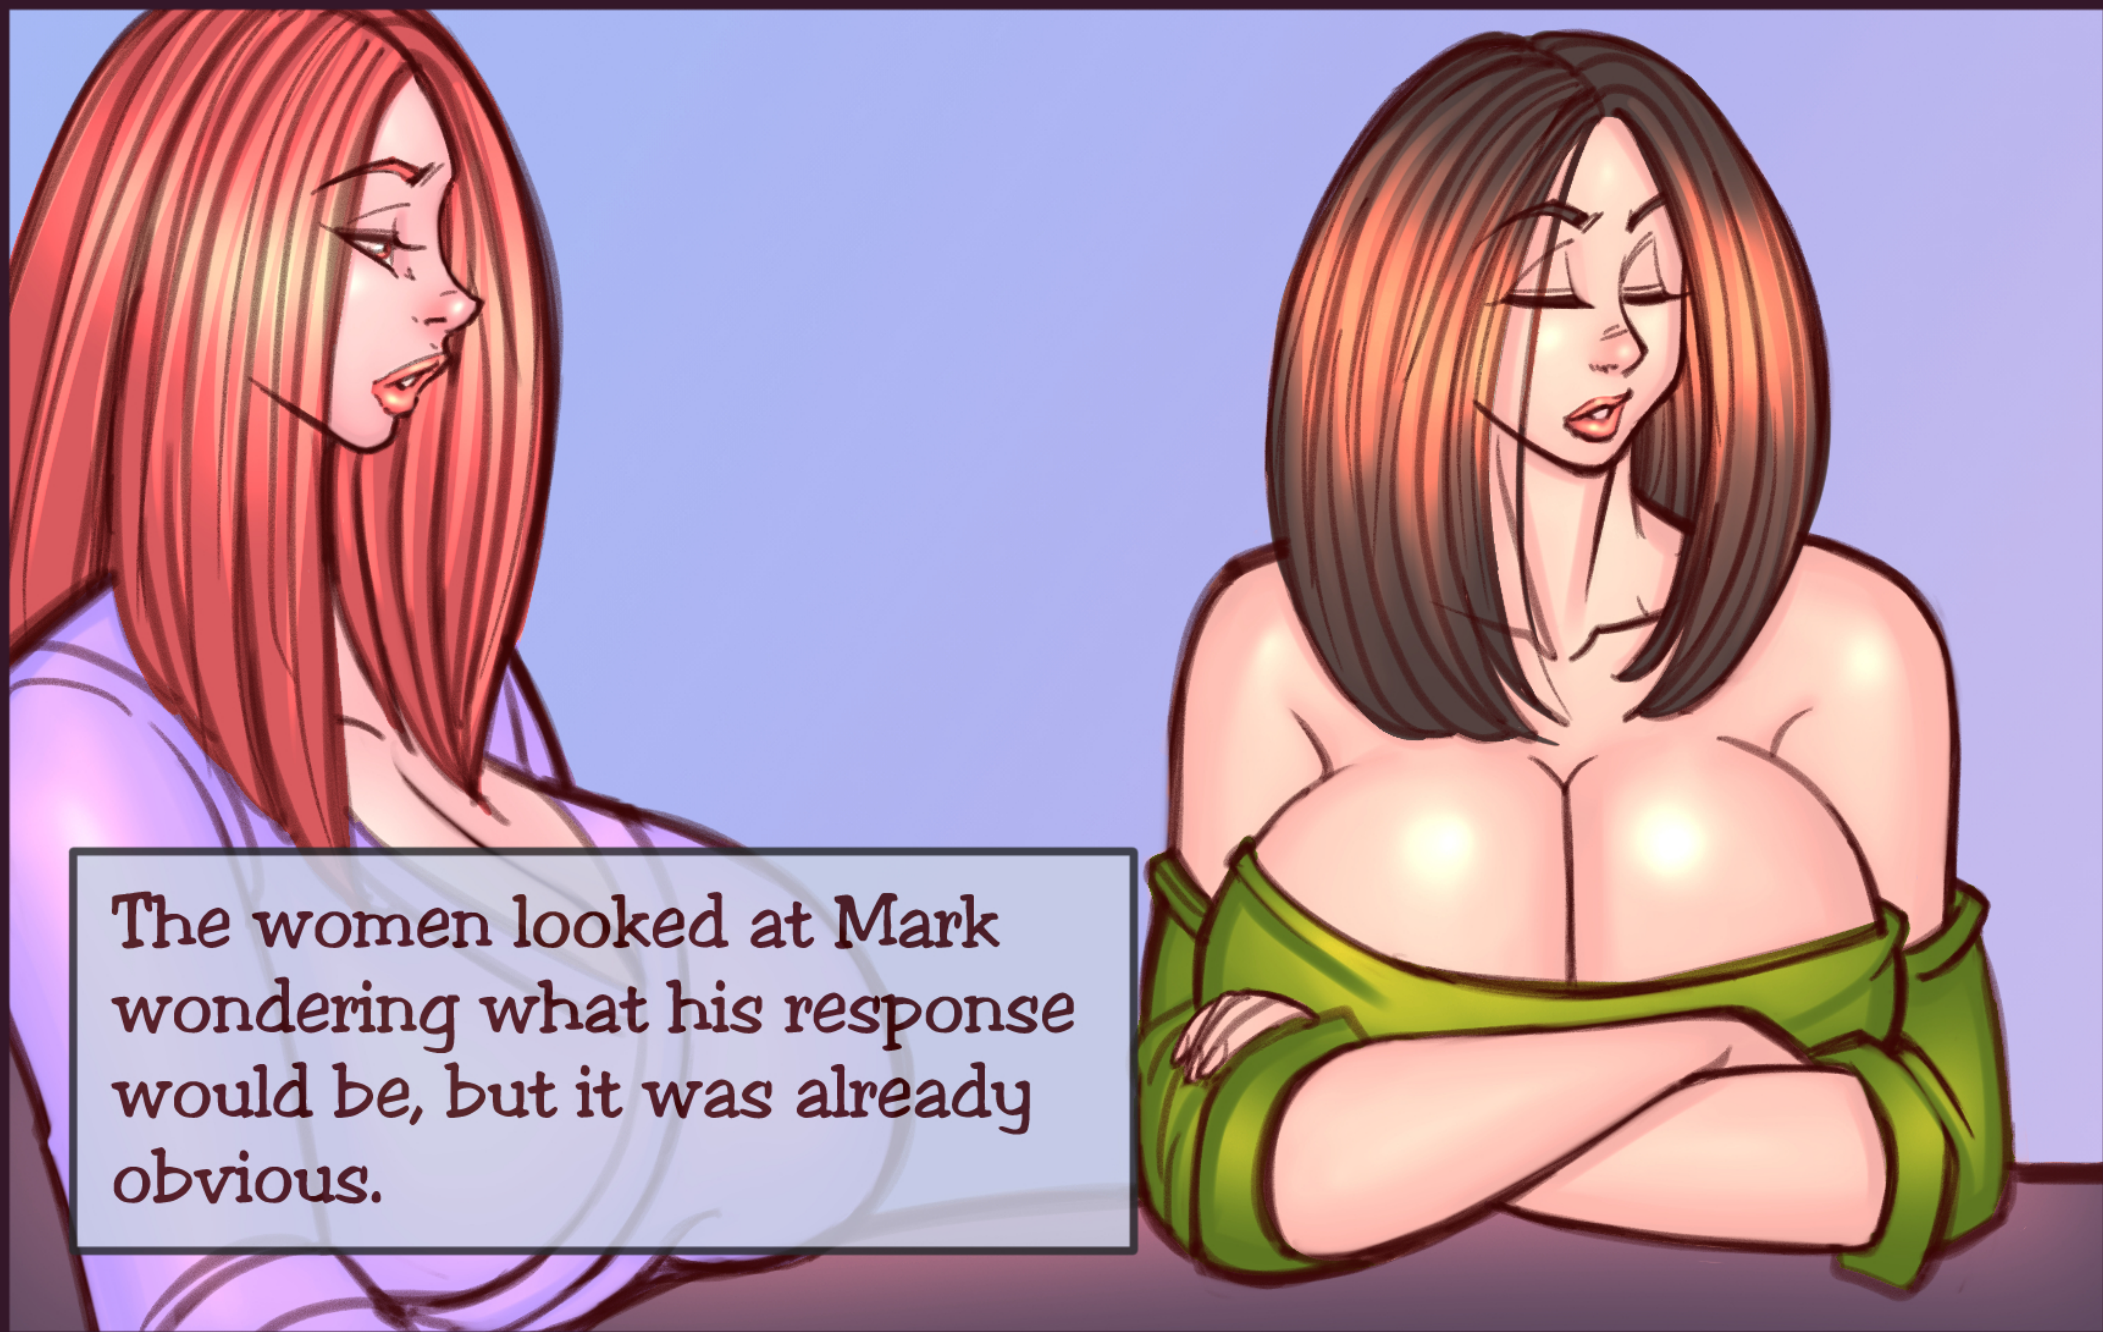

"Mark, we've decided on a novel approach to parenting, as we've discussed earlier."

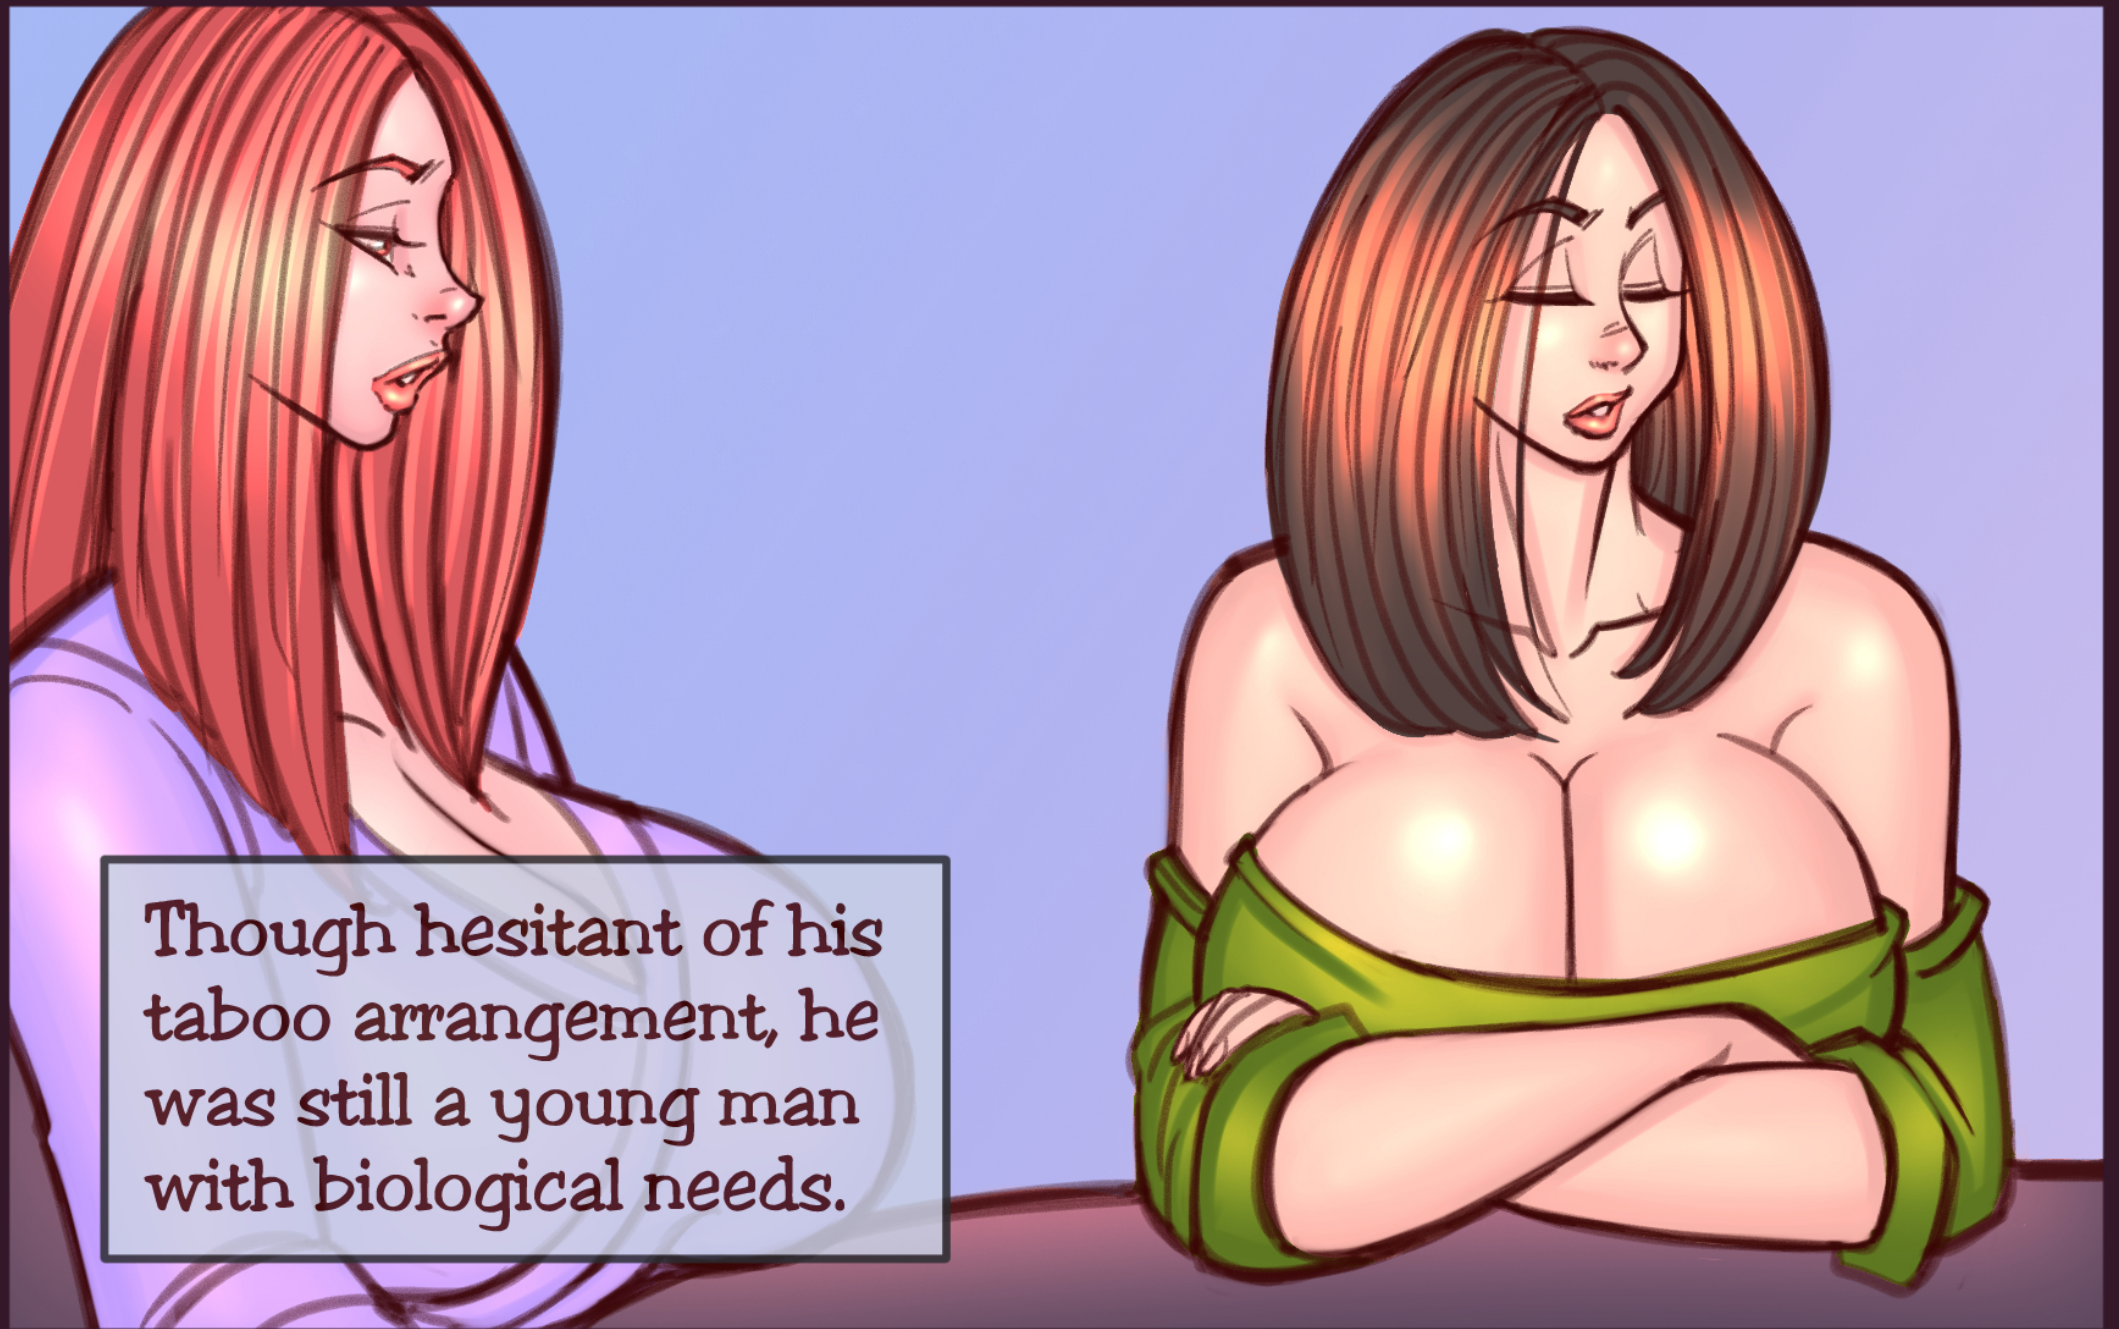

"This is all based on my...
our... professional opinions
considering the current situation this country is facing. Are you interested in proceeding?"

The women looked at Mark wondering what his response would be, but it was already obvious.

Though hesitant of his
was still a young man
with biological needs.

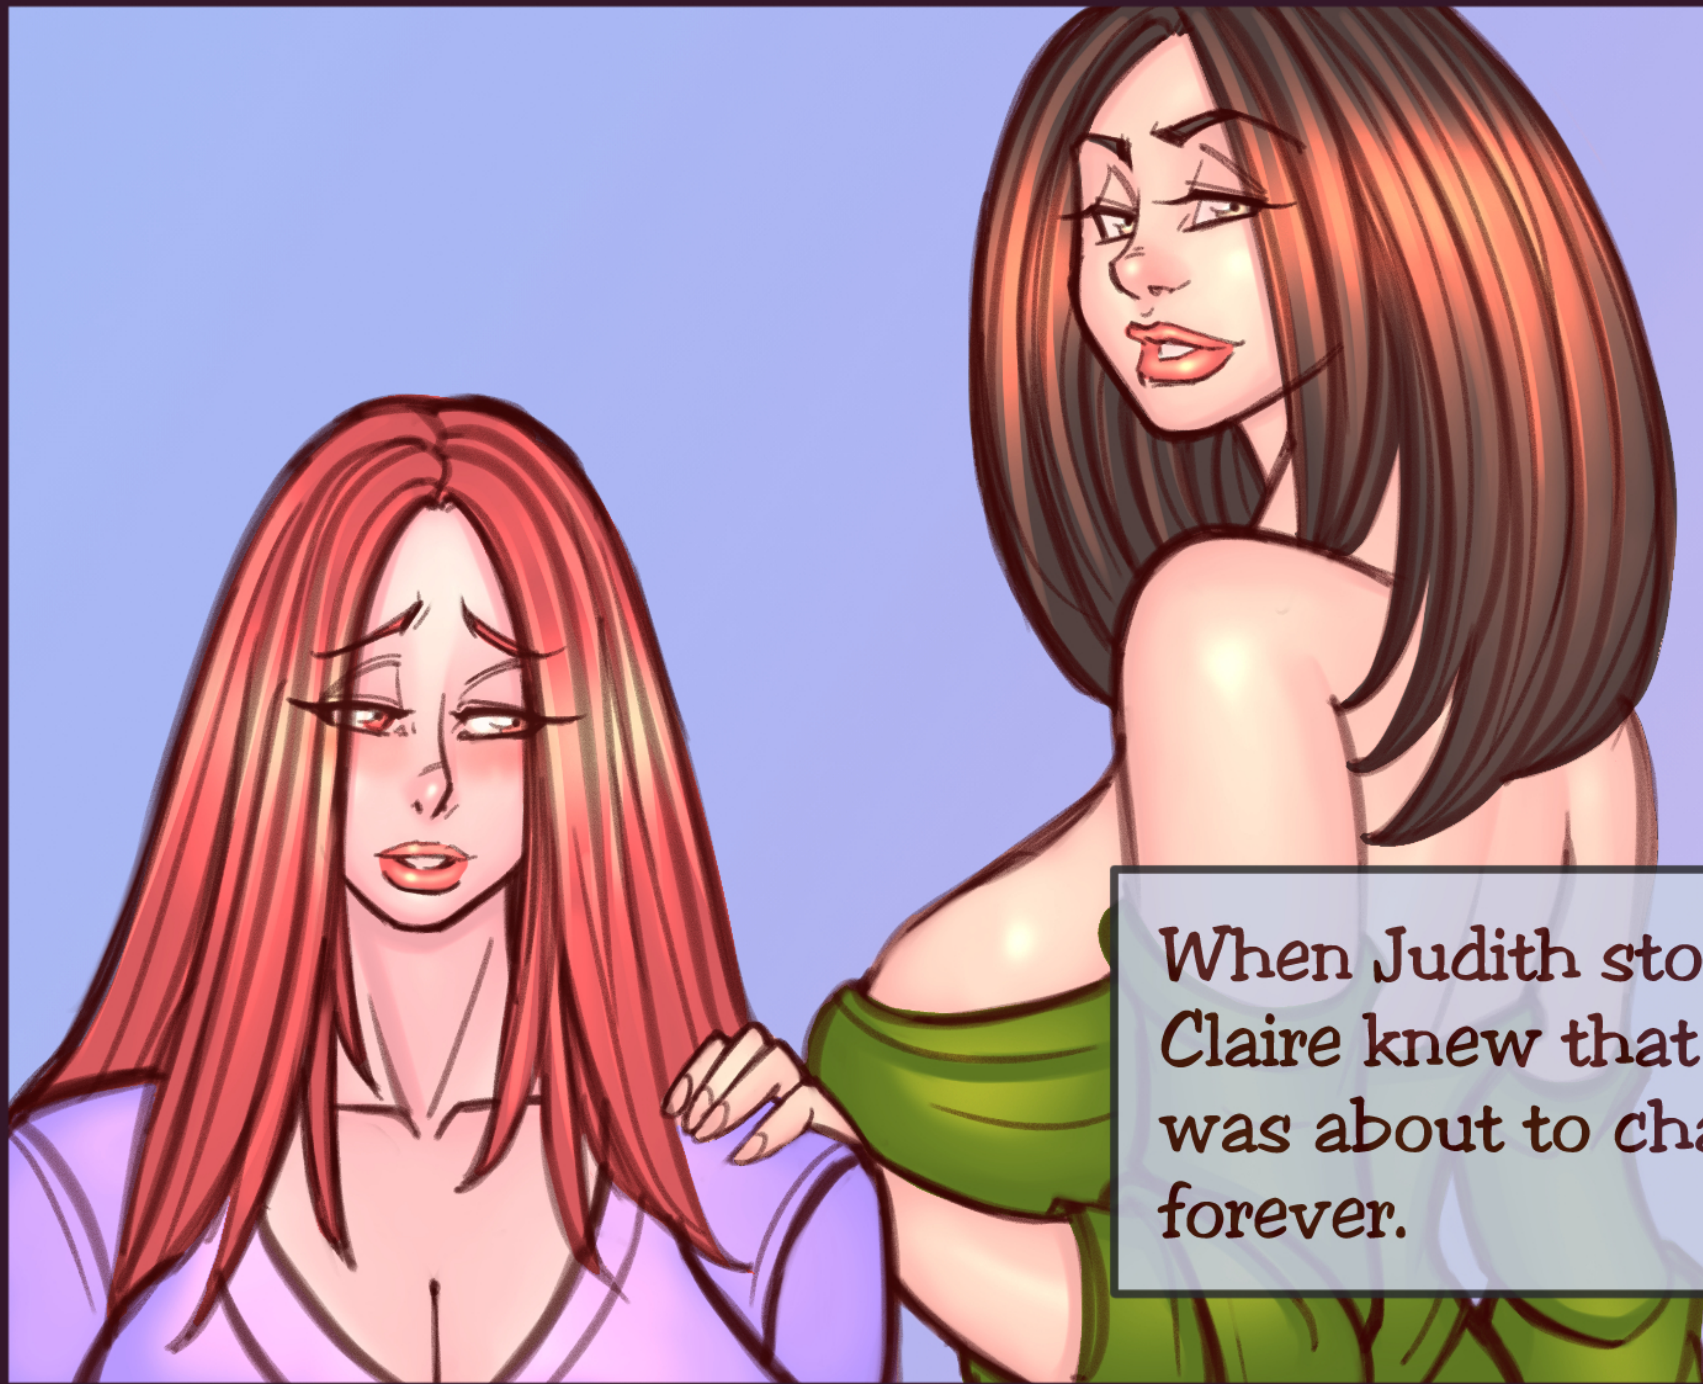

"I think it makes sense," he agreed. "Since, you know, social gatherings aren't allowed right now, and you two get tested regularly, it makes sense that... umm..."

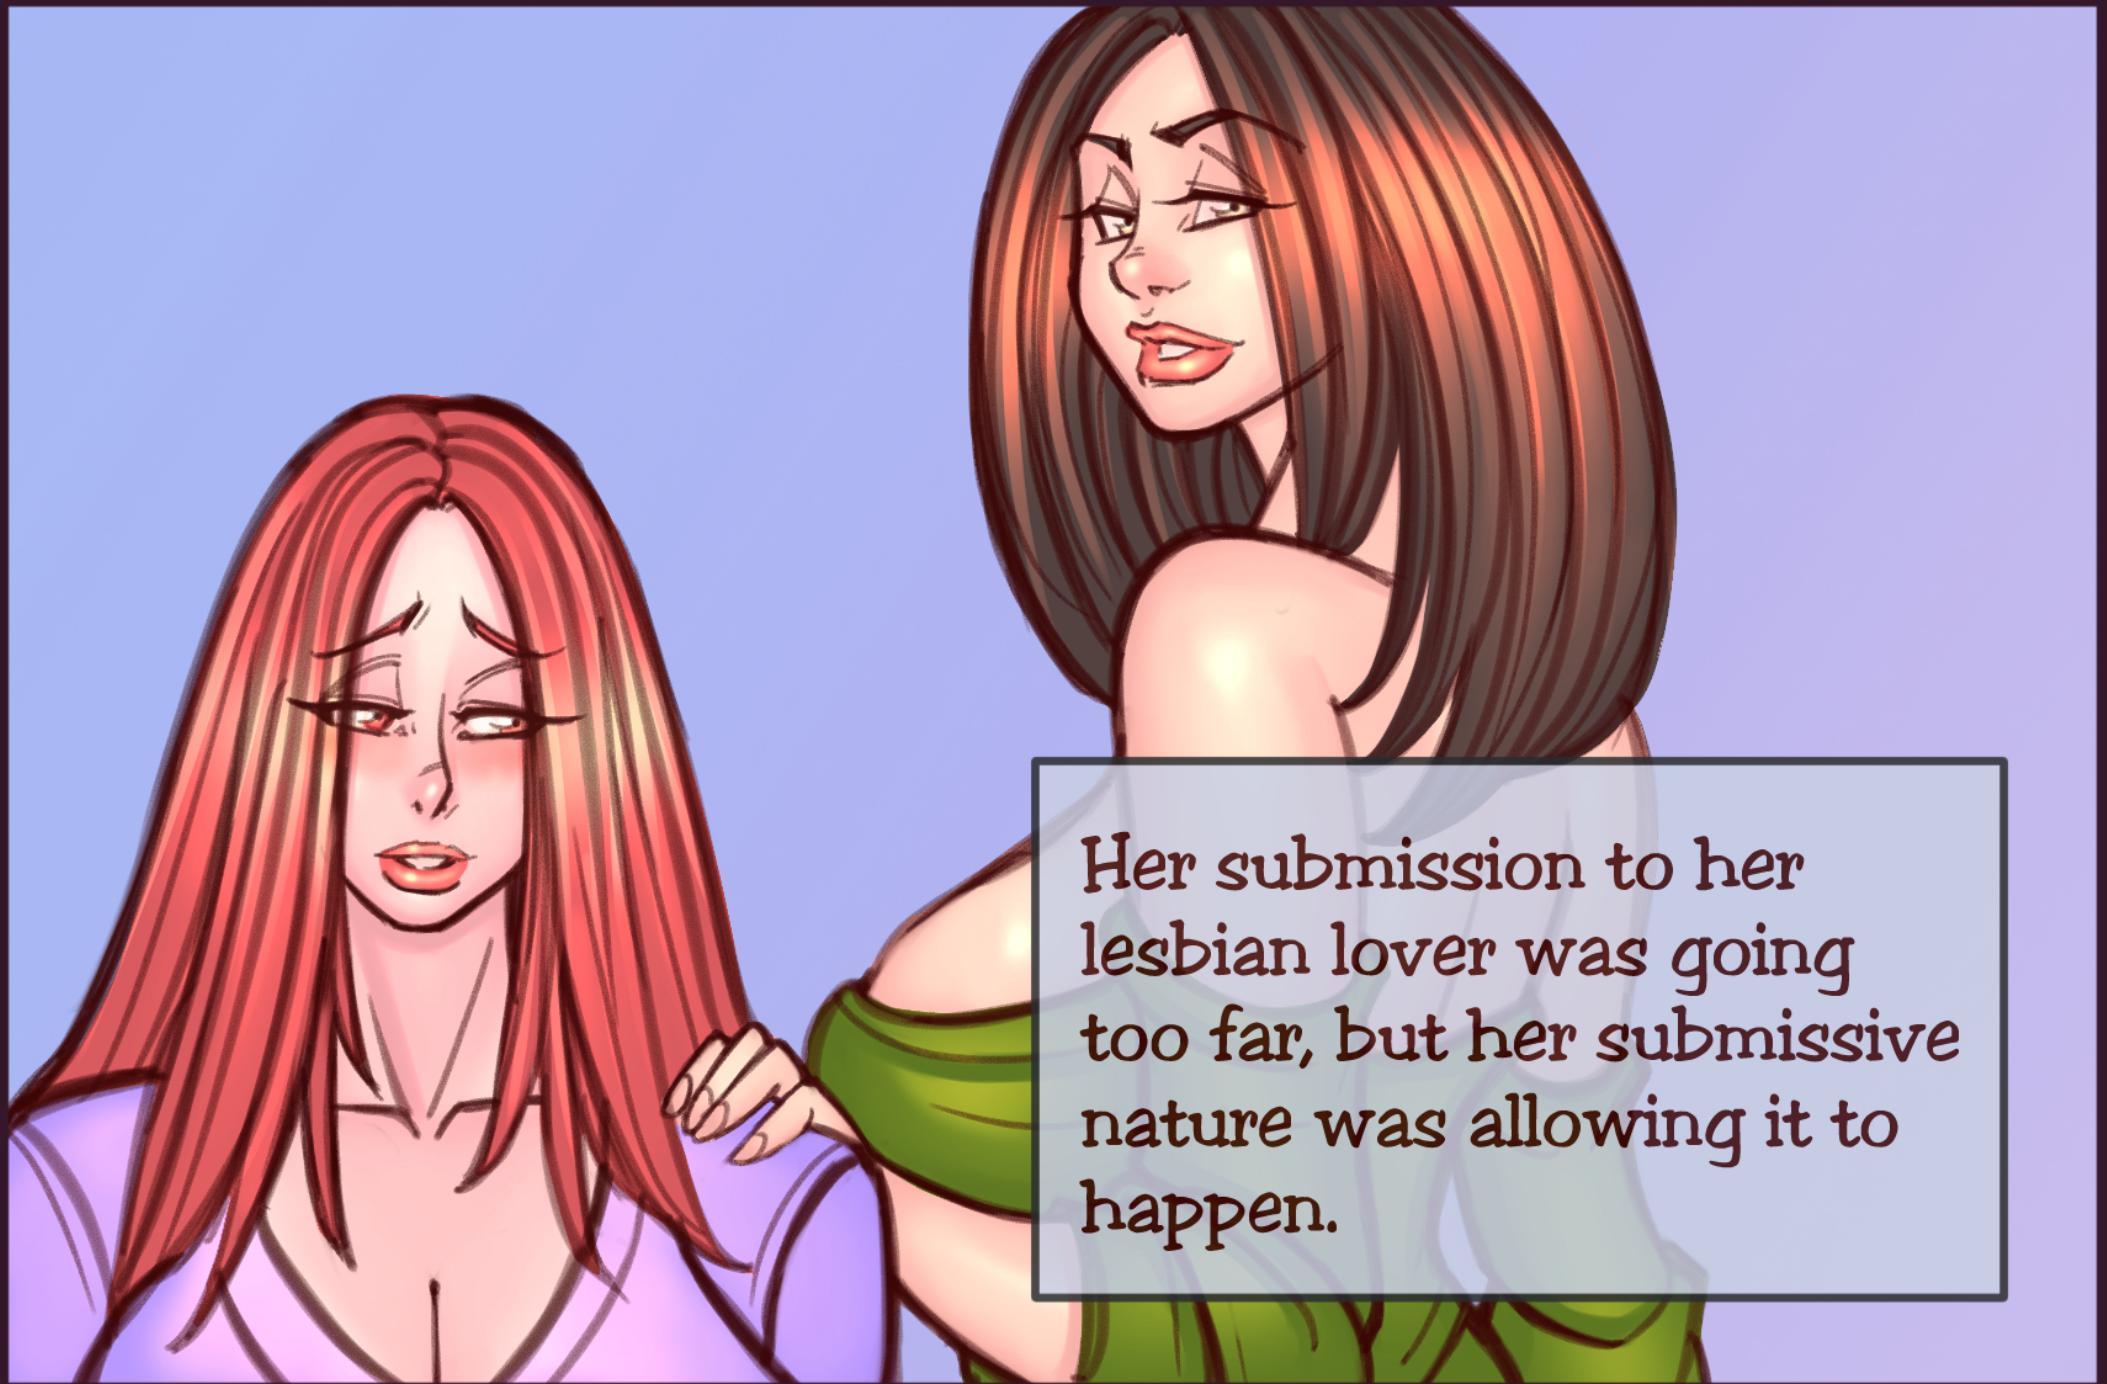

"... that we try something new?" Judith finished.

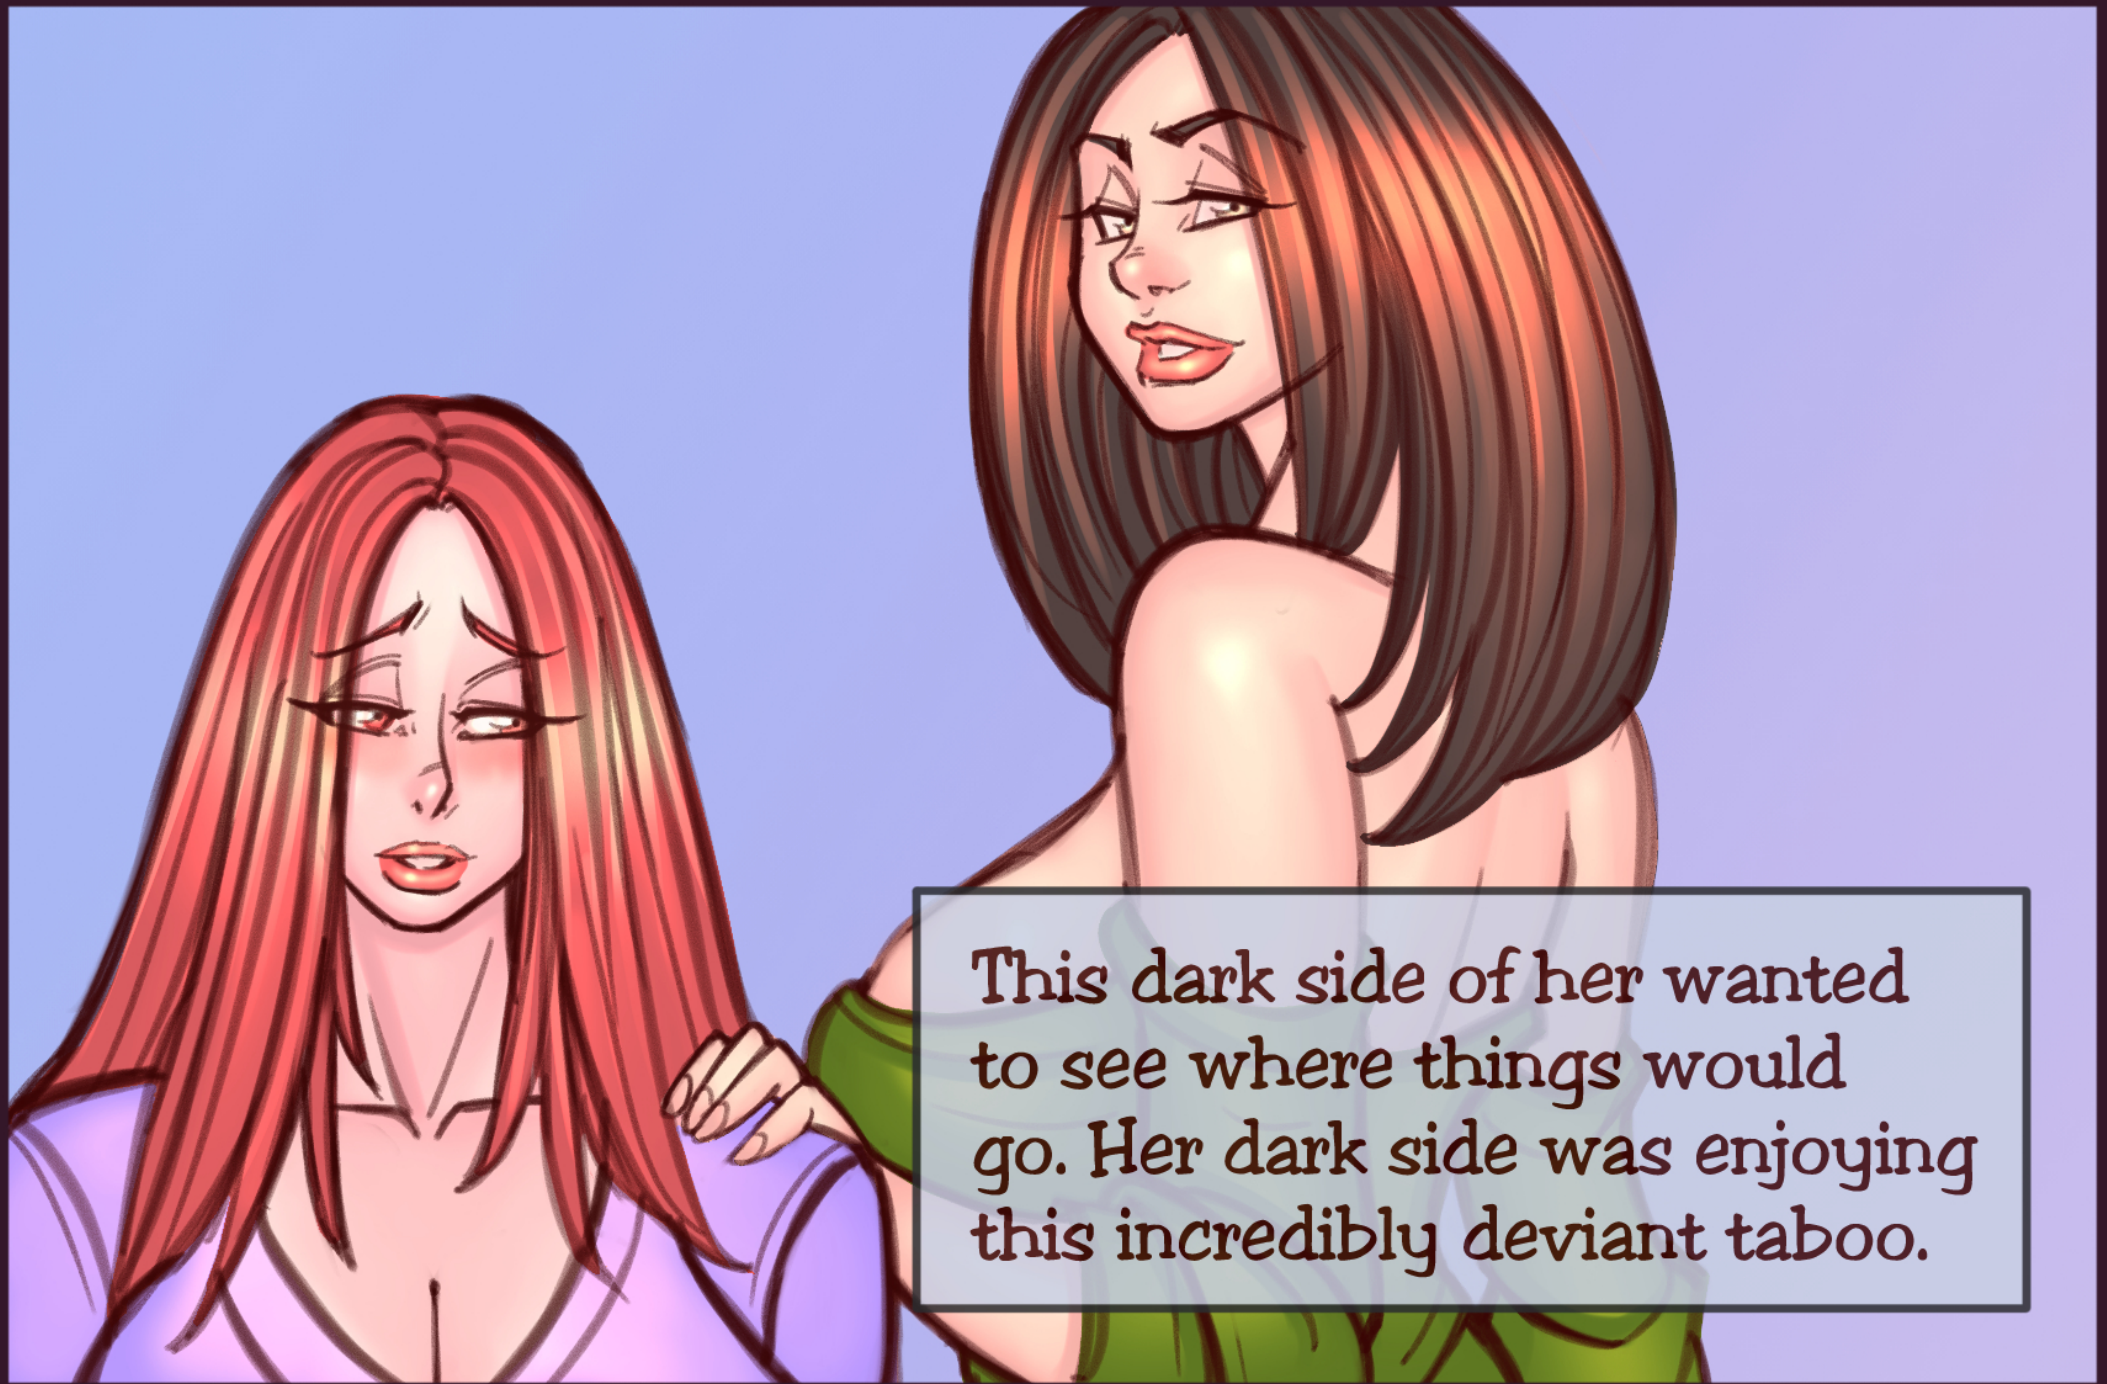

"Well then, the food smells delicious and I think we should get this out of the way first."

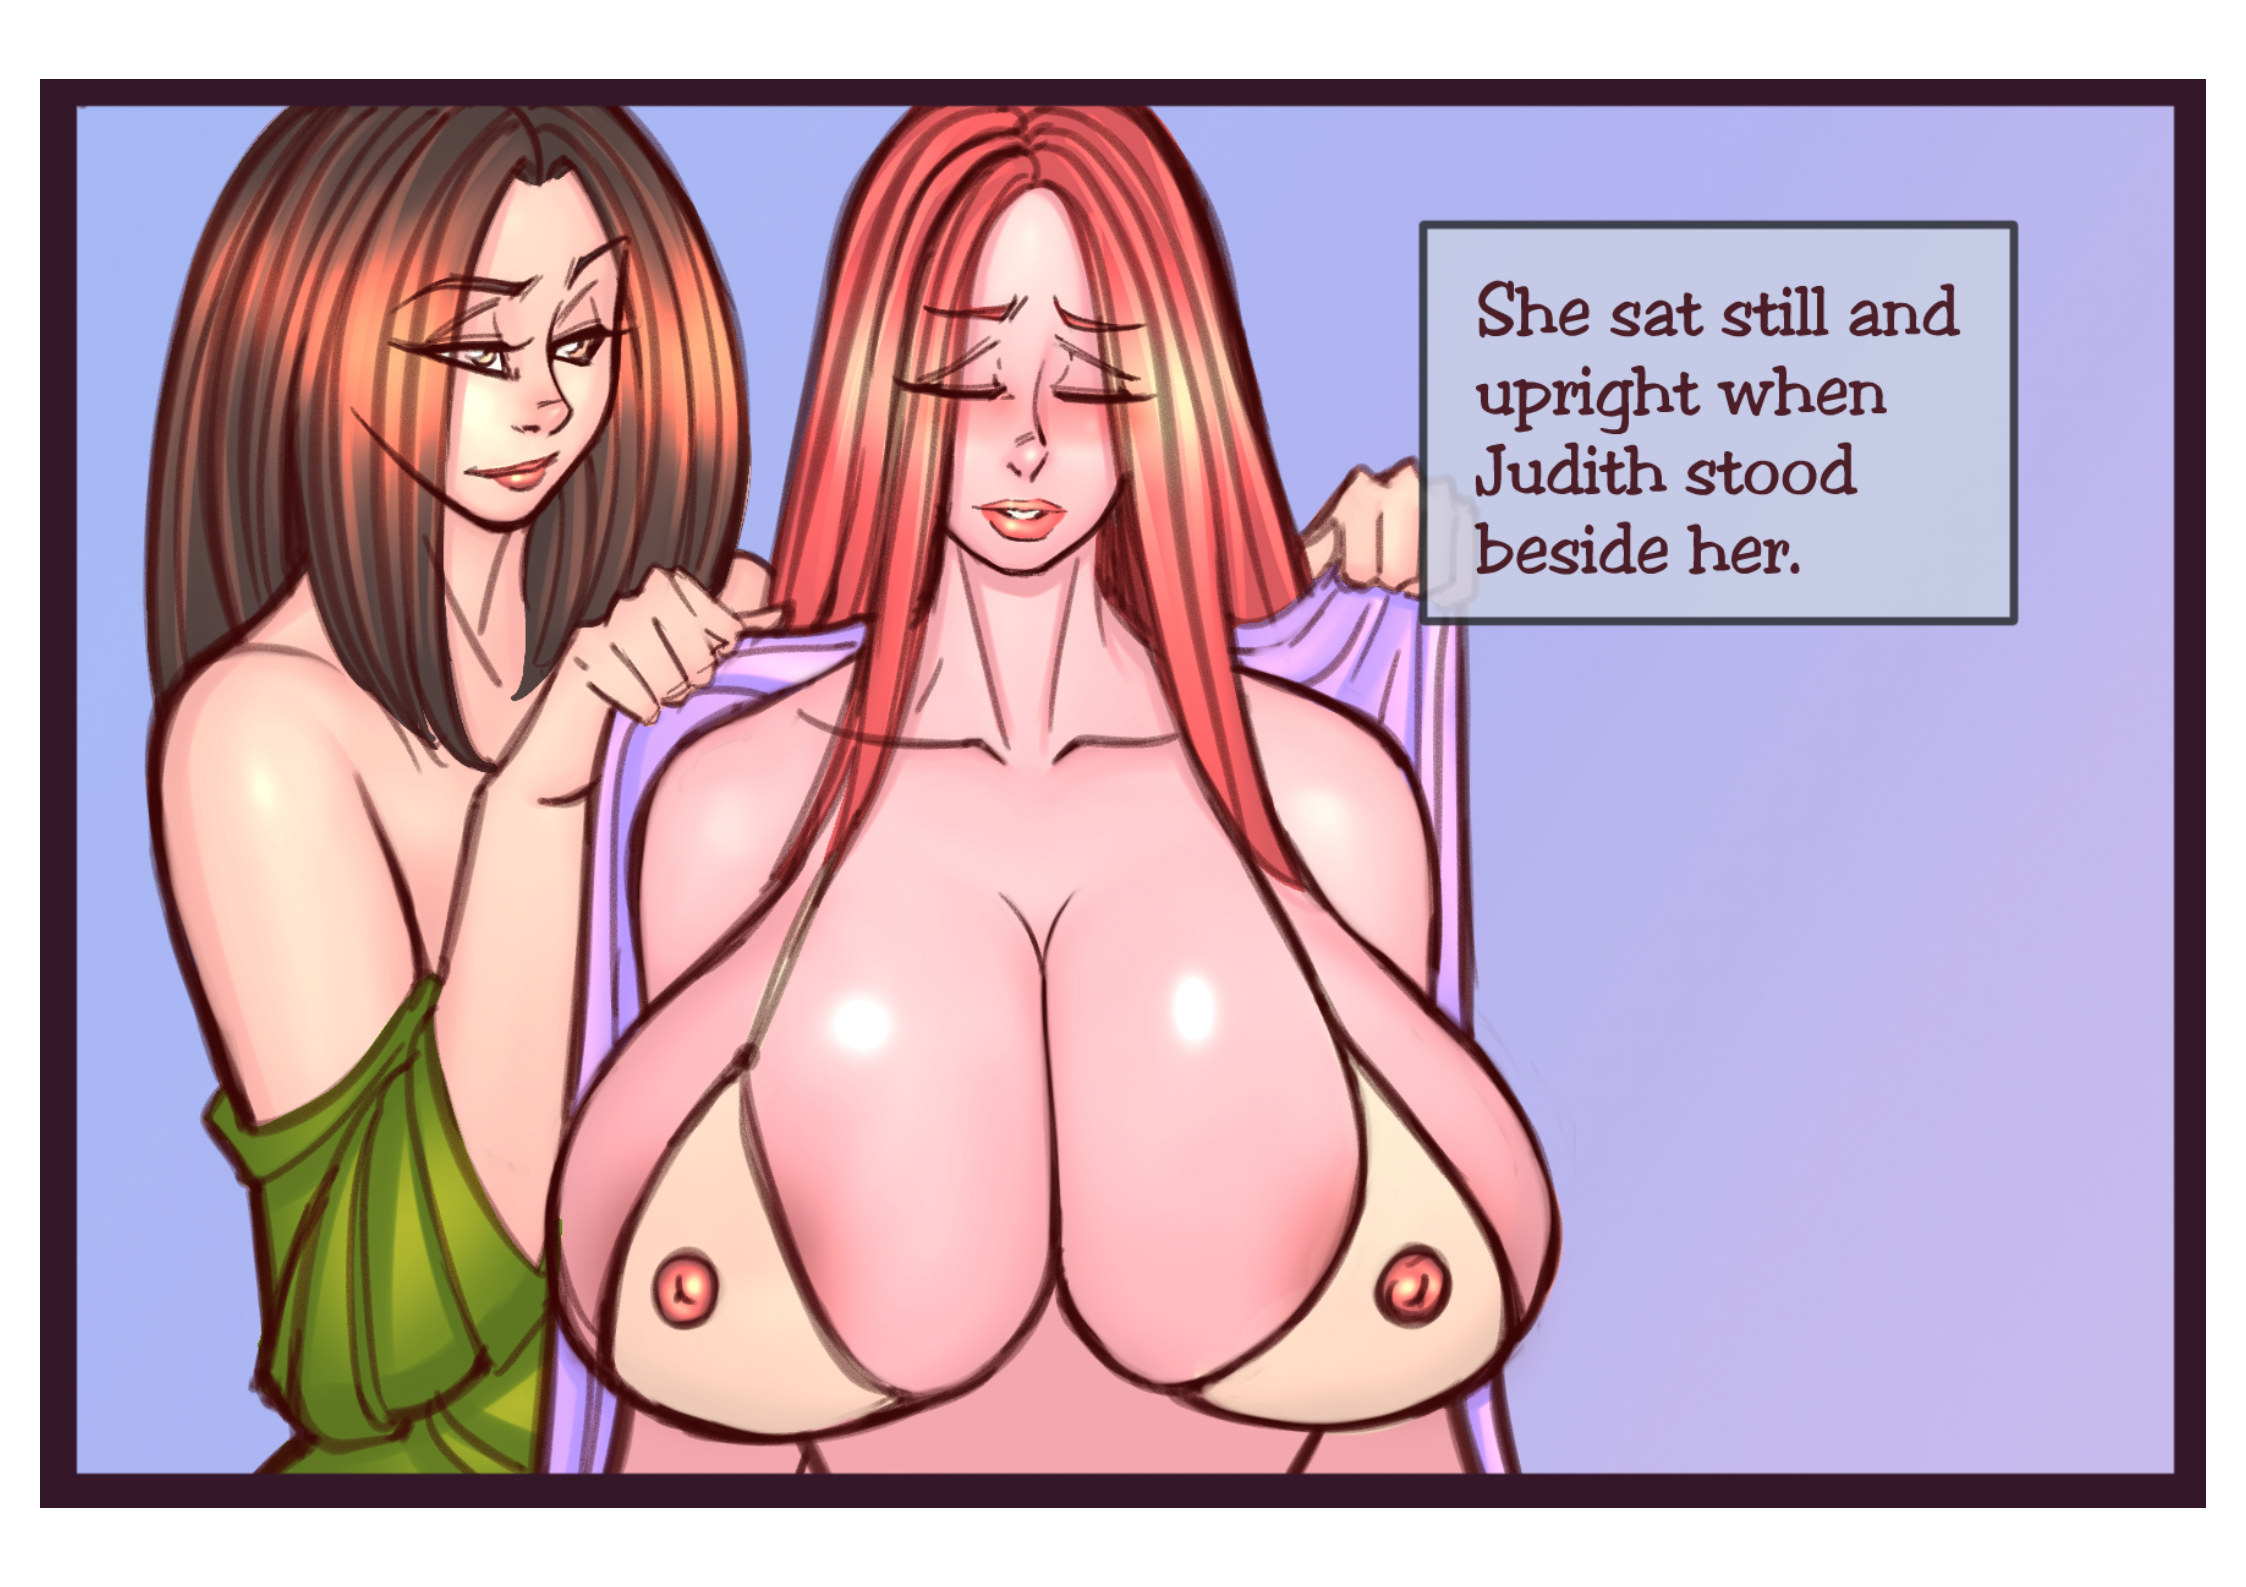

When Judith stood up,
Claire knew that her life
was about to change forever.

Her submission to her lesbian lover was going too far, but her submissive nature was allowing it to happen.

This dark side of her wanted to see where things would go. Her dark side was enjoying this incredibly deviant taboo.

She sat still and upright when Judith stood beside her.

And she remained still when Judith reached down to pull her silk robe open, exposing her new bra.

But this bra was customized. Judith had cut the front parts of each cup so that both of Claire's nipples were totally exposed, making it an 'open tip bra.'

Her nipples instantly turned hard and Judith pulled the robe away, setting it down on a chair.

As expected,
her stepson
was blown away by what was happening.

"This... is... my new... home outfit," Claire

"As long as San Francisco is in lockdown, I'll wear this for you."

"And as long as the virus is a threat, we'll continue with my breast milk treatment."

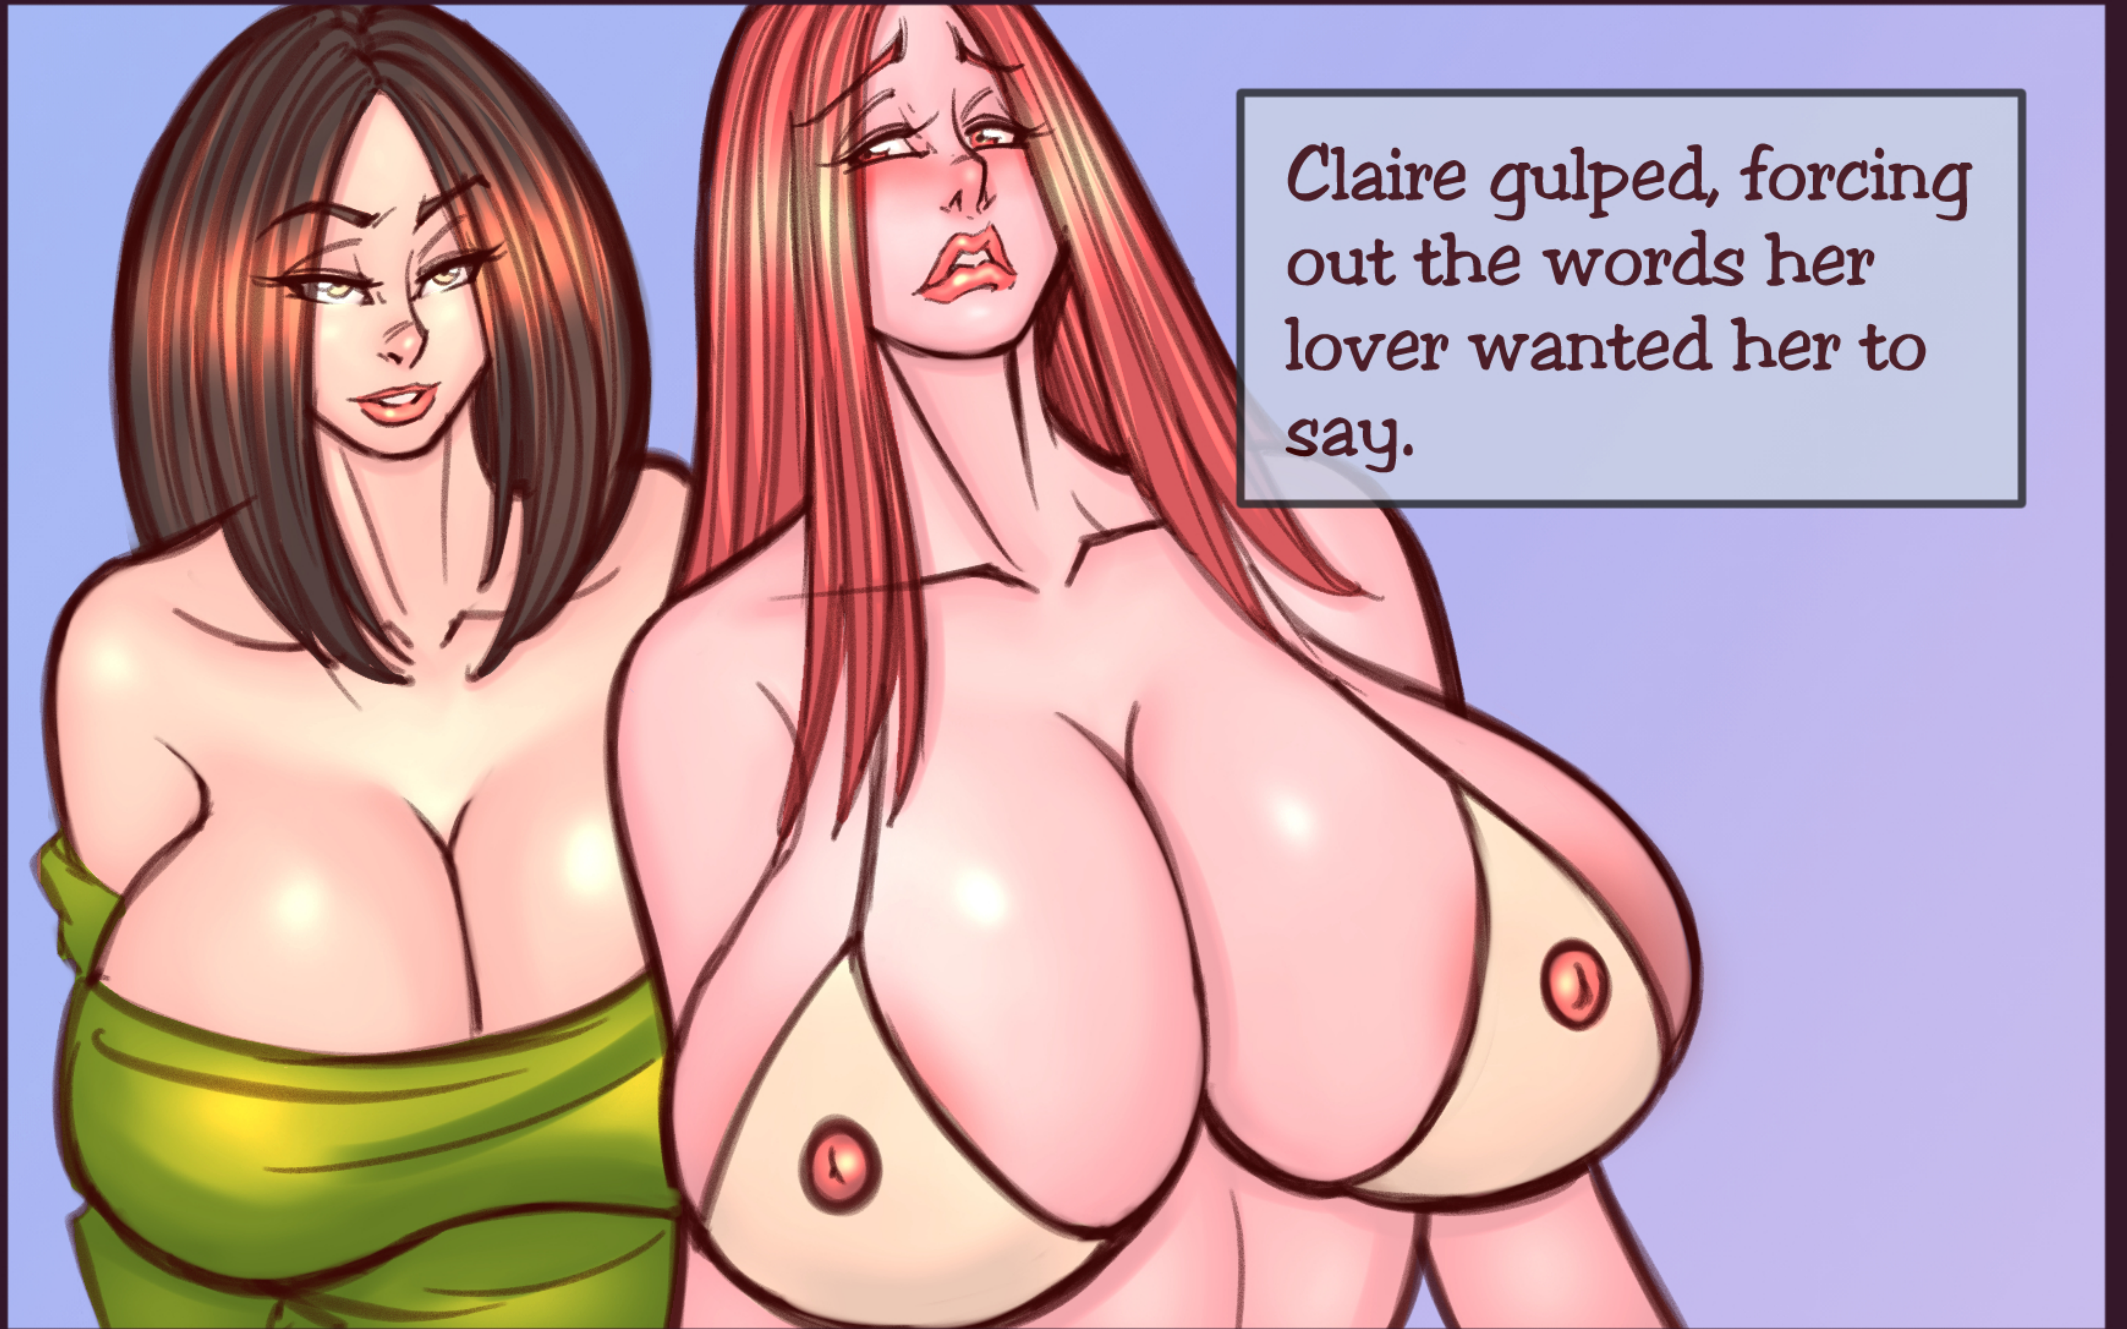

"It's for the best,"
Judith added.
"Don't you agree?"

Mark slowly nodded.
"I... I think I'd be okay with that."

"You think?" Judith raised an eyebrow.
"I mean, I will. It makes sense, for all of us."

Claire gulped, forcing out the words her lover wanted her to say.

"My breast milk is all natural and filled with vital nutrients, which will help you stay strong until you can get back to swimming. We can start right now."

"What did you have in mind?" Mark asked with an even deeper gulp.

They both looked to Judith for the answer,
and there was only
one.
