"Why?"

Mia asked the question flat out. She didn't know what else to ask. Questions of how she'd ended up here or where "here" even was seemed trivial in comparison. "Why are we here?" She repeated.

The well-dressed woman looked Mia up and down once again as she bit her bottom lip and clenched her hands into fists.
"You're needed." She said flatly.
"Needed?" Mia asked again, taken aback at the casual response. "Meaning...?"

The woman on the other end of the glass scowled, before clearing her throat and relaxing. "You know what, there's no reason to keep this a secret from you any longer. Any of you." She said, smiling as she glanced over to the other two suspended cells. "Not like you could stop me anyway..."
"I want what you have." The woman began. "All of it. The size. The power. The sense of freedom that comes with knowing nothing and no one can stop you from doing as you please. To tower over the rest of the world like they were ants, and all the benefits that come with it. A mind as great as mine deserves exactly that!" She continued, her voice rising in tone with increasing fury... before she sighed. "And yet, here I stand. Pathetic. Tiny. Normal."

"W-Why do you want that kind of power?" Mia asked, feeling incredibly uneasy at the woman's barely-restrained anger. "Wh...What would you do with it?"
"Isn't it obvious?" The woman began, stepping closer to the glass pane that separated them. "To rule, of course. Over a population too stupid to fend for themselves... and have some fun myself, of course. I intend to make myself as big as you were, Mia." She said, before motioning again to the other cells. "You three don't deserve the gifts you were given, so I'm only making sure the universe corrects that mistake."

"So it's true! They really did-I thought those were just conspiracy theories! They actually...?"
"This isn't a casual conversation." The woman interrupted with a scoff. "The details aren't important. What matters is for some reason, the three of you have managed to use the serum to grow. And for some reason, it hasn't worked on me. So I intend to find out what exactly it is that makes you special, and correct that problem."
Mia's blood ran cold. "Y-You aren't going to..."

"Kill you?" The woman laughed, shaking her head. "As much as I'd like to get you out of my hair, I might still need things from you. Lots of things. Blood, tissue, hair, even a bit of saliva."
"Well you can't have it!" Mia argued. "I-If you try and get anything out of me I'll make sure you regret it."
"You think I'd bother telling you that if you could stop me?" The woman said. "I already got everything, Mia. It's over. You lost. I'm only keeping you around so I can dispose of the three of you once I'm finished."

"Dispose...?"
"What, did you think you'd wake up in a place like this and get to go back home?" The woman asked, her smile fading. "Are you stupid? The moment my work is finished and I've begun to grow is the moment I will personally exterminate all of you."

"You... You can't! I won't let you!" Mia protested, her body tensing up. A heat in the pit of her stomach formed in an instant before spreading throughout her body, and she shot up a few inches in the blink of an eye.

Mia felt her body hum with power. Her temperature rise. She kept her eyes locked on the woman in front of her, eager to show her what she was truly capable of.

In mere seconds Mia's head was nearing the top of the cell. The entire thing heaved with the added weight of her expanding form, but it didn't break. Mia took a step forward, intending to intimidate the smaller woman threatening her...

But she didn't back down.
The woman simply stood there, thoroughly unimpressed as Mia effortlessly doubled her size in the span of a few seconds.

"I WON'T LET YOU HURT ME! ANY OF US!" Mia shouted, but it did little good. Her outburst had failed to move the woman who only scoffed, thoroughly unimpressed.
"Maybe you are stupid." She said flatly. "Are you done with your little outburst now?"

"I'll... I'll keep growing! Until I break this entire damn cell!"
"And then?"
"And... And then..."

"And nothing." The woman spat, her eyes narrowing into thin slits. "You can't break out of that cage. You don't think those other two idiots next to you haven't tried that? You're in there until I'm through with you. The sooner you get that through your thick skull the more peaceful your final moments will be."
"You can't hold me!" Mia shouted, banging a fist against the wall of the cage uselessly. "I'll... I'll..."

Mia tried to raise her hand again to slam on the walls of her cell... but it was no use. She was suddenly feeling very lethargic. Too tired to do much of anything but stand.
And then she couldn't even do that much.

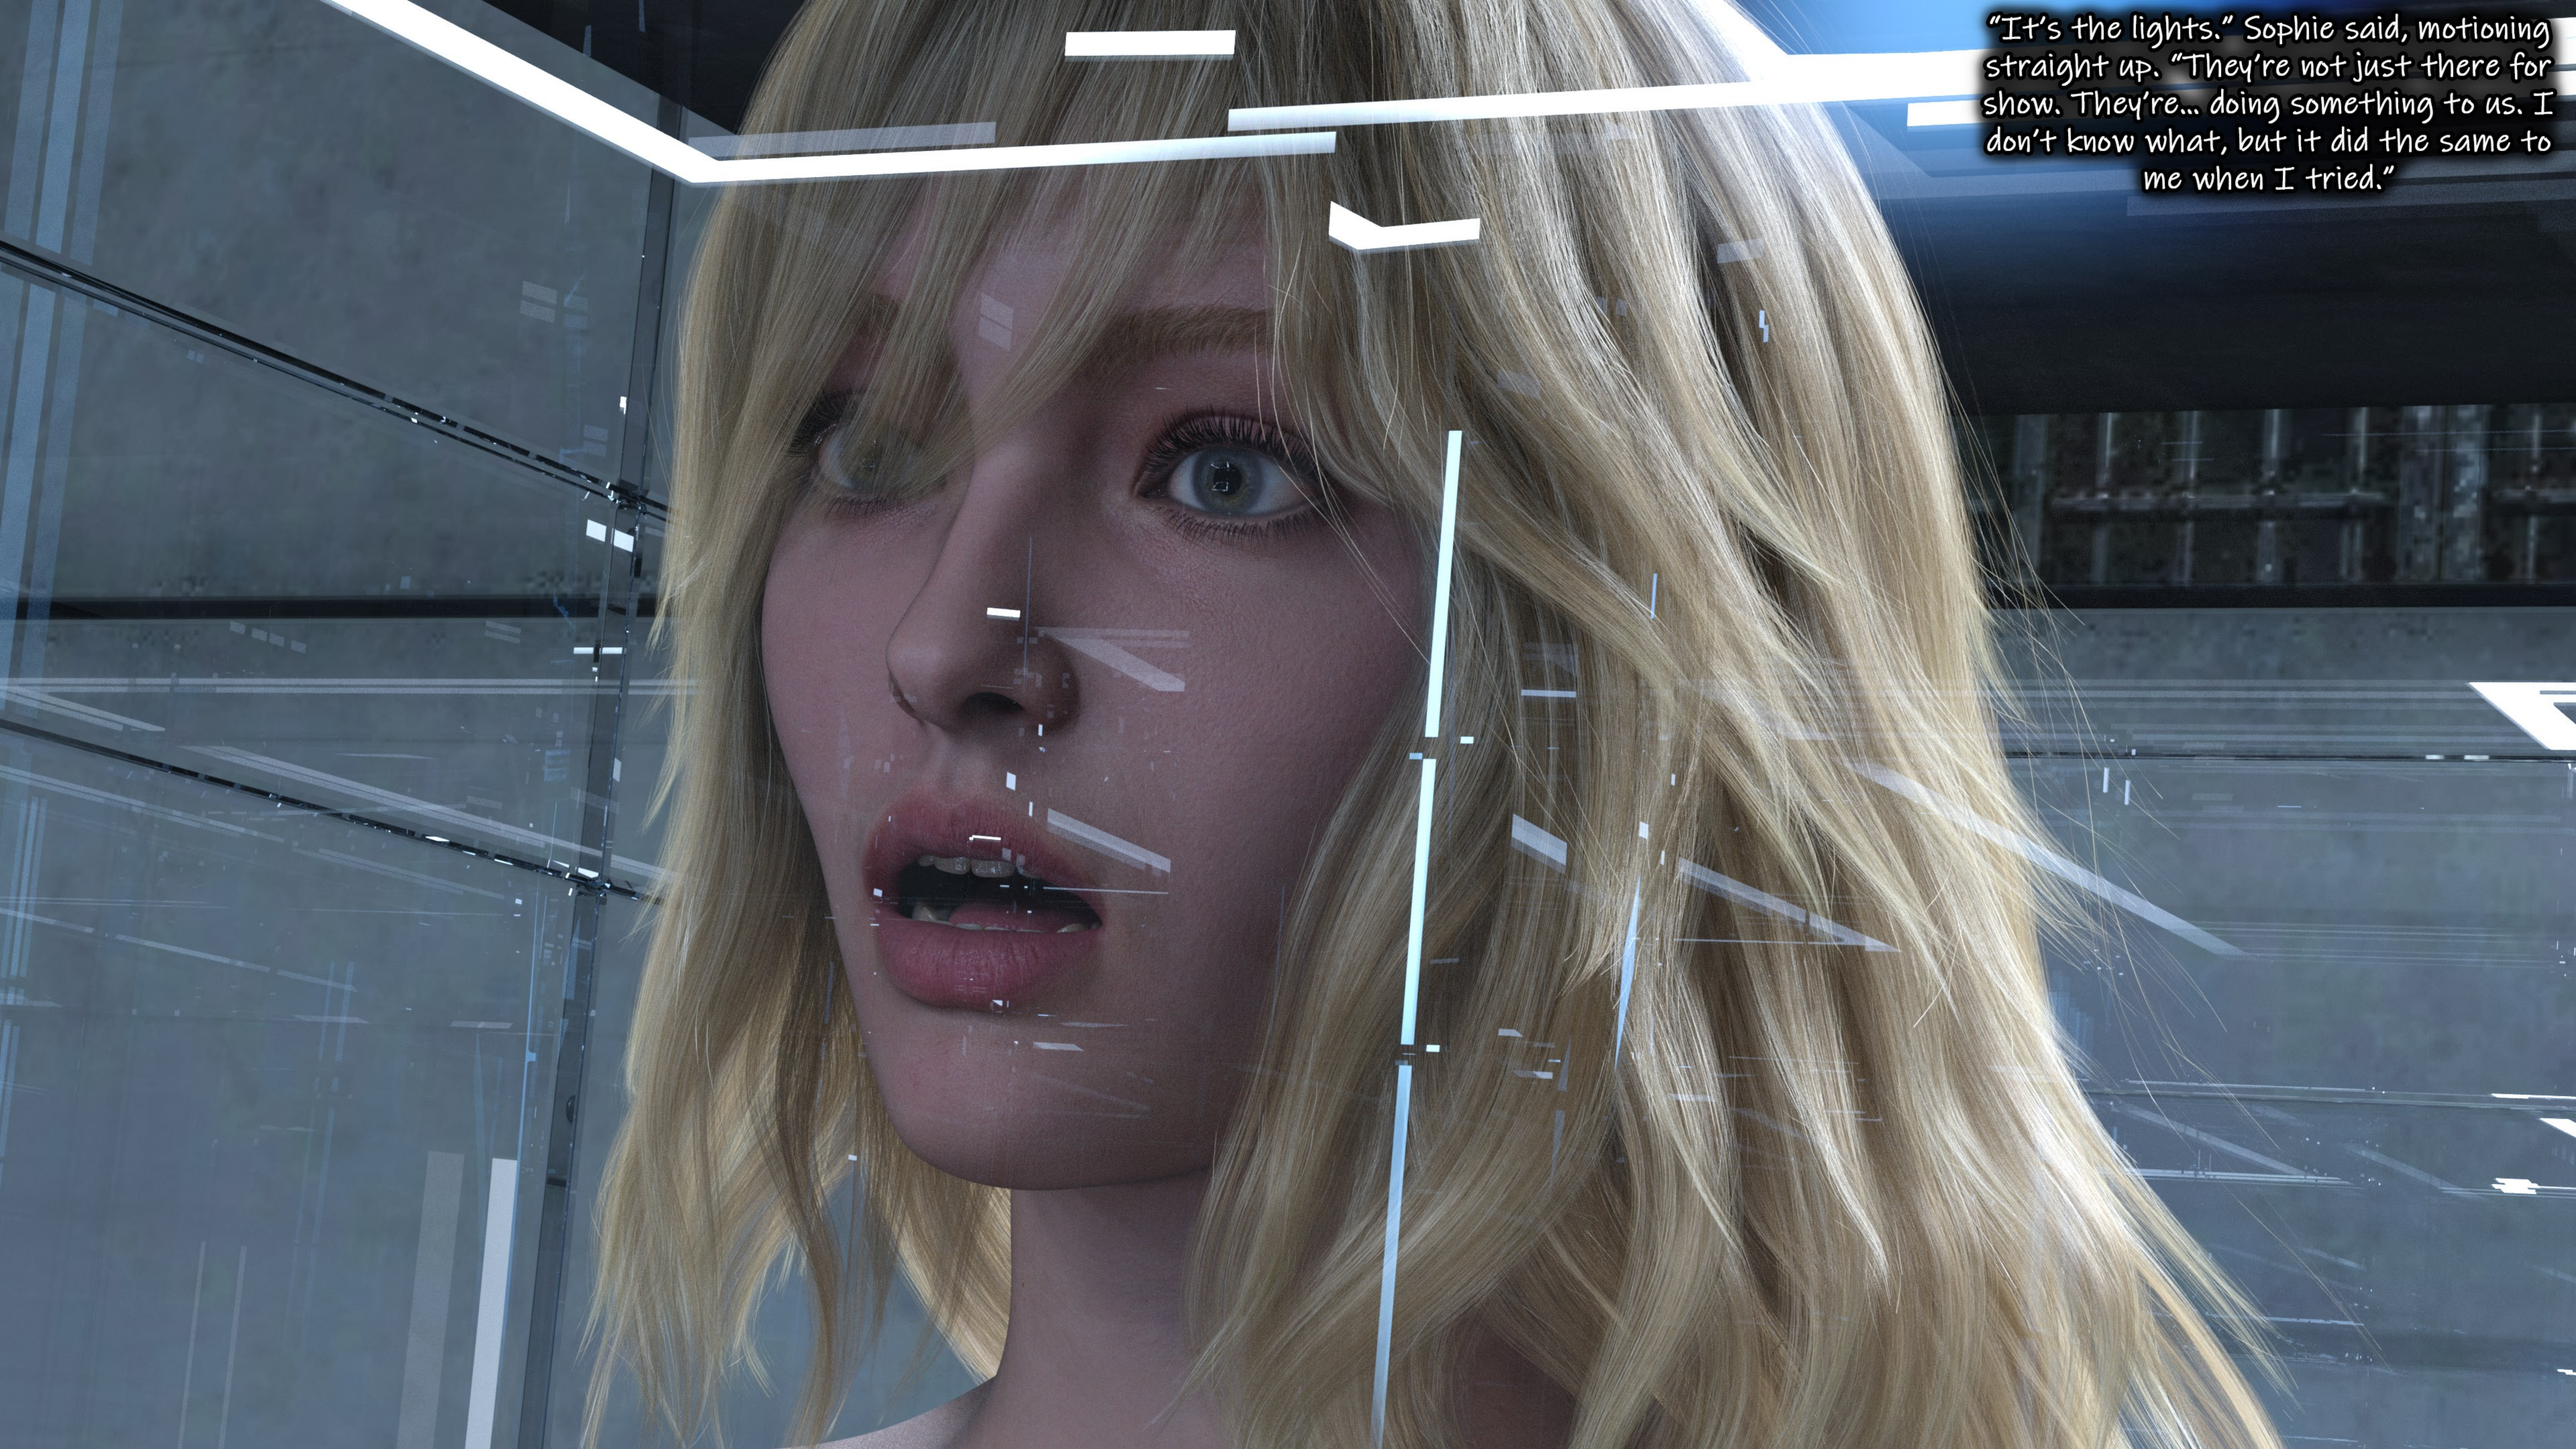

It was suddenly difficult for the giant woman to breathe. It felt like her throat was full of cotton as she struggled to fill her lungs... until she began to shrink. As she did so a portion of her strength gradually returned, even as her size melted away.
She hadn't shrunken herself. Not intentionally, anyway.

"What did you do?" Mia asked, her voice a low growl after she had returned to normal. "Did you inject me with something? Poison me? Why couldn't I breathe for a second there?"
The woman only shook her head in response.

"Me? I didn't do anything." She smiled. "You're more than welcome to try again. I'd love to watch you puff yourself up again though. Get all big and intimidating and hurl more threats... only to fail spectacularly again."

"I will get out of here." Mia said, stepping closer to the wall. "And when I do, I'm going to make you wish you were-"
"You're not doing a goddamn thing."

"She's right." Sophie said, finally speaking up. "I must have tried the same thing a hundred times when I got here... But every single time, it fizzled out just like that."
"So I didn't just lose control?" Mia asked, a wave of relief coming over her. "But then-"

"It's the lights." Sophie said, motioning straight up. "They're not just there for show. They're... doing something to us. I don't know what, but it did the same to me when I tried."

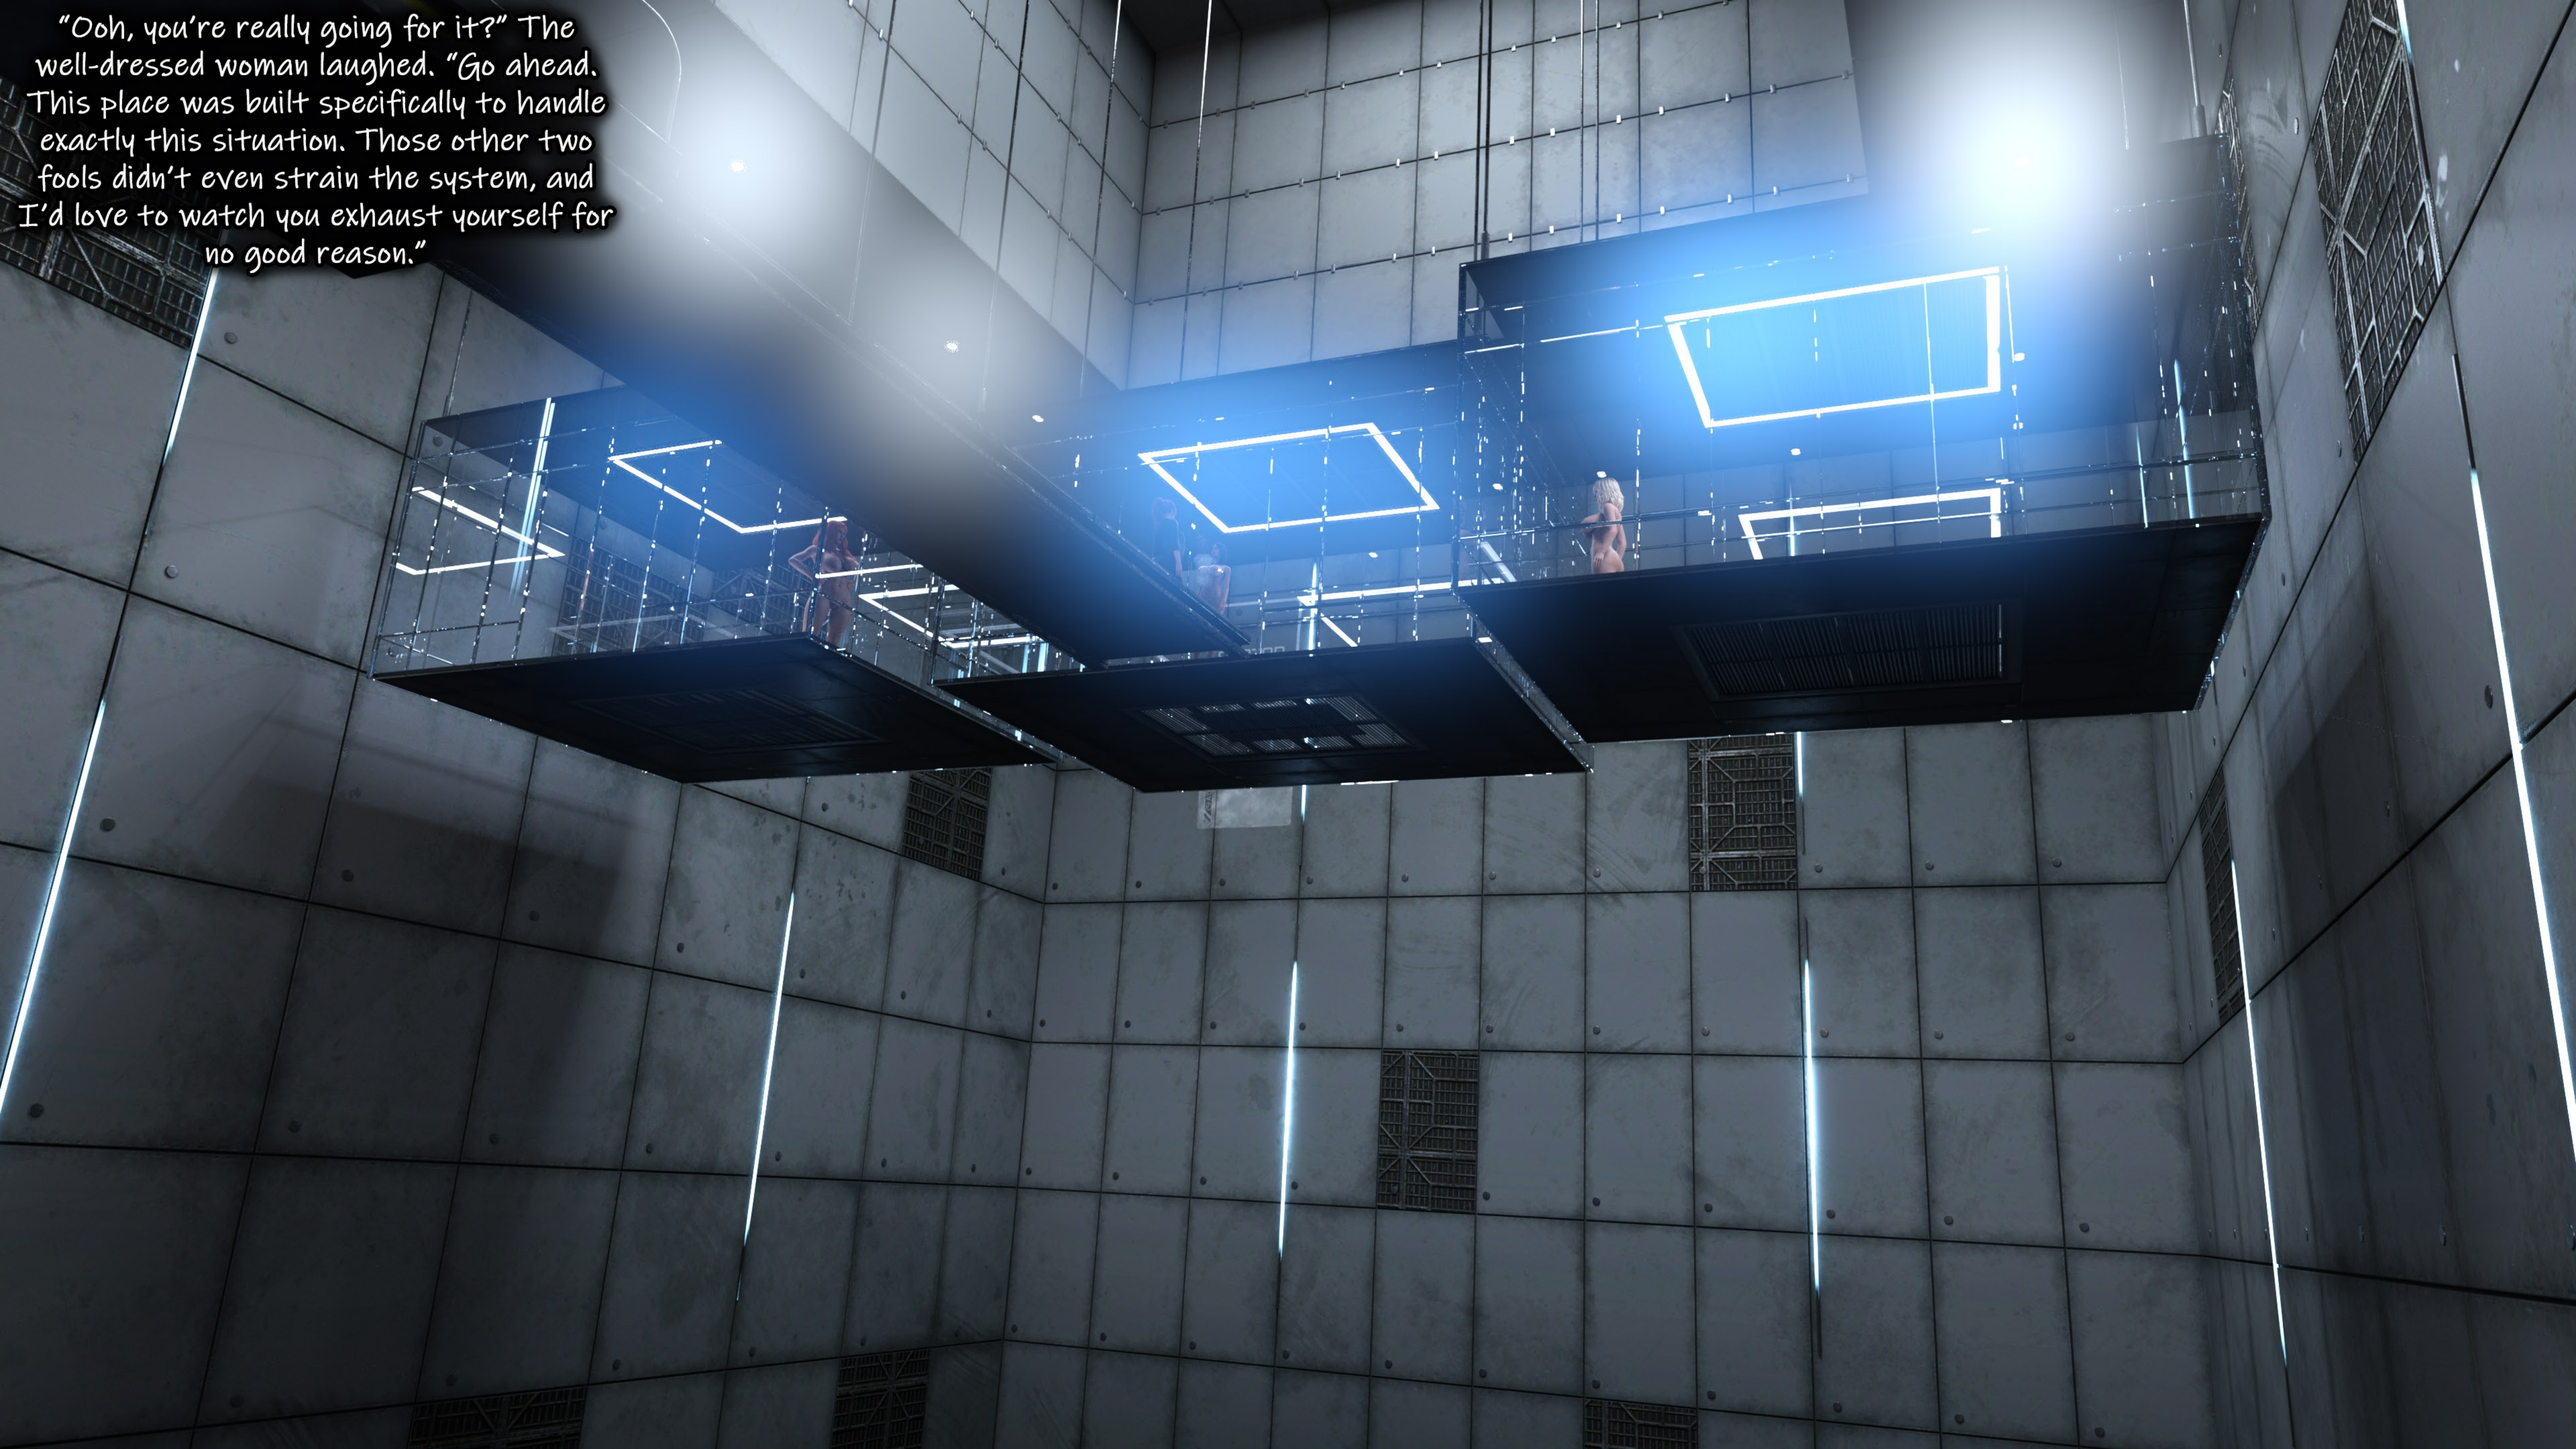

"To be specific." The woman said with a dismissive wave of her hand. "They absorb any energy output from inside of the cell. You try to punch and kick at the walls? You get drained. You scream and you shout? Suddenly you're sleepy. And yes... as soon as you start to grow, all that energy gets sucked right out of you and you're back to normal in no time at all."

"Thanks for letting me know." Mia said. "So all I have to do is break them, right?"

"Do you think we're stupid?"
Mia whipped her head to the side, surprised to see Annie eyeing her down angrily. "You don't think we've tried that? Tried growing as fast as we could to see if we could break out before we got too tired to move? It won't work. If I can't do it, then someone like you sure as hell can't."
"How do you know?"

"Are you serious?" Annie said, rage gradually building inside of her. "I don't know where you got that ego of yours, but you're just going to tire yourself out. Sophie might be a fucking pussy, but even I couldn't do it. And if I can't, then you sure as hell can't, either."

"Yeah, well..." Mia began, uneasiness creeping in at Annie's declaration. She mulled over the thoughts in her head for a moment before her expression hardened and she stamped her foot on the ground.
"I'm trying it anyway! Fuck you, Annie!"

"Ooh, you're really going for it?" The well-dressed woman laughed. "Go ahead. This place was built specifically to handle exactly this situation. Those other two fools didn't even strain the system, and I'd love to watch you exhaust yourself for no good reason."

The taunt was supposed to break Mia's spirit, but it instead had the opposite effect. She was incensed by the woman's attitude, and pressed her body right up against the glass. "You're going to regret locking us. It's only a matter of time until we break out, and when we do..."
The woman on the other end didn't even flinch.

Mia didn't care. She concentrated once again, and focused on channeling the same energy that had allowed her to grow before. It didn't matter if the woman wasn't scared. Her attitude would definitely change if she was proven wrong.

It only took a few seconds before Mia was expanding upward once again. She almost immediately felt her strength waver as the lights above seemed to intensify, but she only redoubled her focus.

Whatever it took to break out of this cell, she told herself. No matter what... she would do it. That was the mantra she kept repeating to herself. That was her mindset as her vision began to blur and she shot up another couple of feet.

Her head bumped into the ceiling, breaking her concentration for a split-second. A moment in time that resulted in her shrinking a couple of inches while the relentless lights drained never relented for even a moment.

But she wasn't going to give up. Not over something like this. The entire cell vibrated as she poured more strength into growing even larger. It wasn't long before she had regained those lost inches, and then some.

The amount of energy she was putting into growth quickly began to show its effects. Her legs wobbled, and she dropped to a knee, right as her shoulders pressed into the ceiling. Maintaining focus was more difficult than ever... but she kept going.

She looked down at the woman in front of her. The woman who had mocked her before... but even this wasn't intimidating her in the slightest. If anything the woman seemed amused at all the clear effort Mia was putting into this... as it was obvious she was wavering.

"You know, there is one thing I neglected to mention. The more energy you output... the more effective the finished serum will be when I get my hands on it." The woman said. "Didn't think any of you would be stupid enough to actually test the failsafe, but go ahead. Keep it up. You'll only tire yourself out, and make me even stronger when I get my hands on the finished product."

"FUCK... YOU!"
The woman shrugged her shoulders, and smiled up at the giantess in front of her. Beads of sweat were forming Mia's forehead as she pushed herself to continue growing. She felt as if she were still making progress, but every additional inch only seemed to become even harder than the one before.

"ARE YOU JUST GOING TO LET HER TALK SHIT?!"
The suddenness of Mia's comment shocked Sophie, who took a step back in surprise.
"You're just going to roll over and give up? Not even try?"

"I..." Sophie said, her mind swirling with thoughts. Annie wasn't lying earlier. She had indeed tried this before to no avail. She didn't like the feeling of being so utterly exhausted after the fact, but if what this woman was saying was true, then the only thing that awaited the three of them if they didn't break out was death.
"Fuck it." Sophie said aloud, locking eyes with Mia.

In a matter of seconds she'd jumped a couple of feet in size, and much like Mia she felt the heavy weight of energy being drained out of her. Only this time it didn't feel as severe.

She was able to fight back against it this time, climbing higher and higher. It still bore down on her like a heavy weight, but it was nothing like it had been her first time. She wasn't pinned to the floor, gasping for air as she threatened to suffocate from the effect of the lights.

She looked over to Mia, and noted that her legs weren't wobbling as badly as they had been a second ago. Her breathing also seemed less strained. Something was going on...

Sophie's head bumped into the ceiling of her own cell, and the answer came to her.
"I THINK WE CAN OVERWHELM THE LIGHTS!" She shouted, straining her muscles to look over to Annie. "Grow, you oversized bitch! All three of us together might be able to-"

"Yeah... Fuck it. I don't see any problem with trying. Tired of being so tiny anyway."
Like Sophie and Mia before her, Annie tensed her muscles up, and gave one look to the lights above. The only things standing between her and getting the hell out of this prison.

"If anyone's going to overwhelm this system, it's going to be me."
She said aloud, and instantly surged up in size. It was a subtle difference, but one she was immediately aware of.

Mia and Sophie may have actually been onto something.
That was easier than it had been before.

Annie didn't want to admit that. She was too proud of her own abilities to want to concede that a solution she hadn't come up with would work.

So she did what she did best.
And grew.

"S-Stop it! You'll just exhaust yourself!"
All three of the growing women had realized it by this point. The lights sapping their strength were still felt, but they were far weaker than they had been when they attempted it alone.

And the effects of the lights were weaker still. Mia had been practically forced to her knees from the effect, but she no longer felt weak. Her strength was gradually recovering, and it was very clear very fast that Sophie and Annie were enjoying the freedom to grow without being impeded as well.

Sophie and Annie both felt their heads bump into the roofs of their cells at the same time. The entire room seemed to shake from the movement of their expanding forms, but more concerning than that-

The lights above them flickered. It was only for a split-second, but every person in that room had seen it. Mia, Sophie, and Annie took it as confirmation to keep up the pace. The walls of their cells buckled under the strength of their growing bodies. The woman who'd taunted them. who until that very moment had felt utterly self-confident in her safety... took a step back.

The walls of their cells buckled under the strength of their growing bodies. The woman who'd taunted them. who until that very moment had felt utterly self-confident in her safety... took a step back.

"Y-You can't! THE SUPPRESSION FIELD CAN'T JUST FAIL LIKE THIS!" The woman shouted, her voice wavering with fear. She was trying to convince herself despite what she could very plainly see playing out in front of her. "STOP THIS IMMEDIATELY!" She ordered.
But no one was listening..

Mia was the first to realize the change. Having been forced to endure the lights longer than the other two she ended up crashing against the walls of her cell once they stopped. She heard the orders from the woman who'd trapped them here, and decided enough was enough.

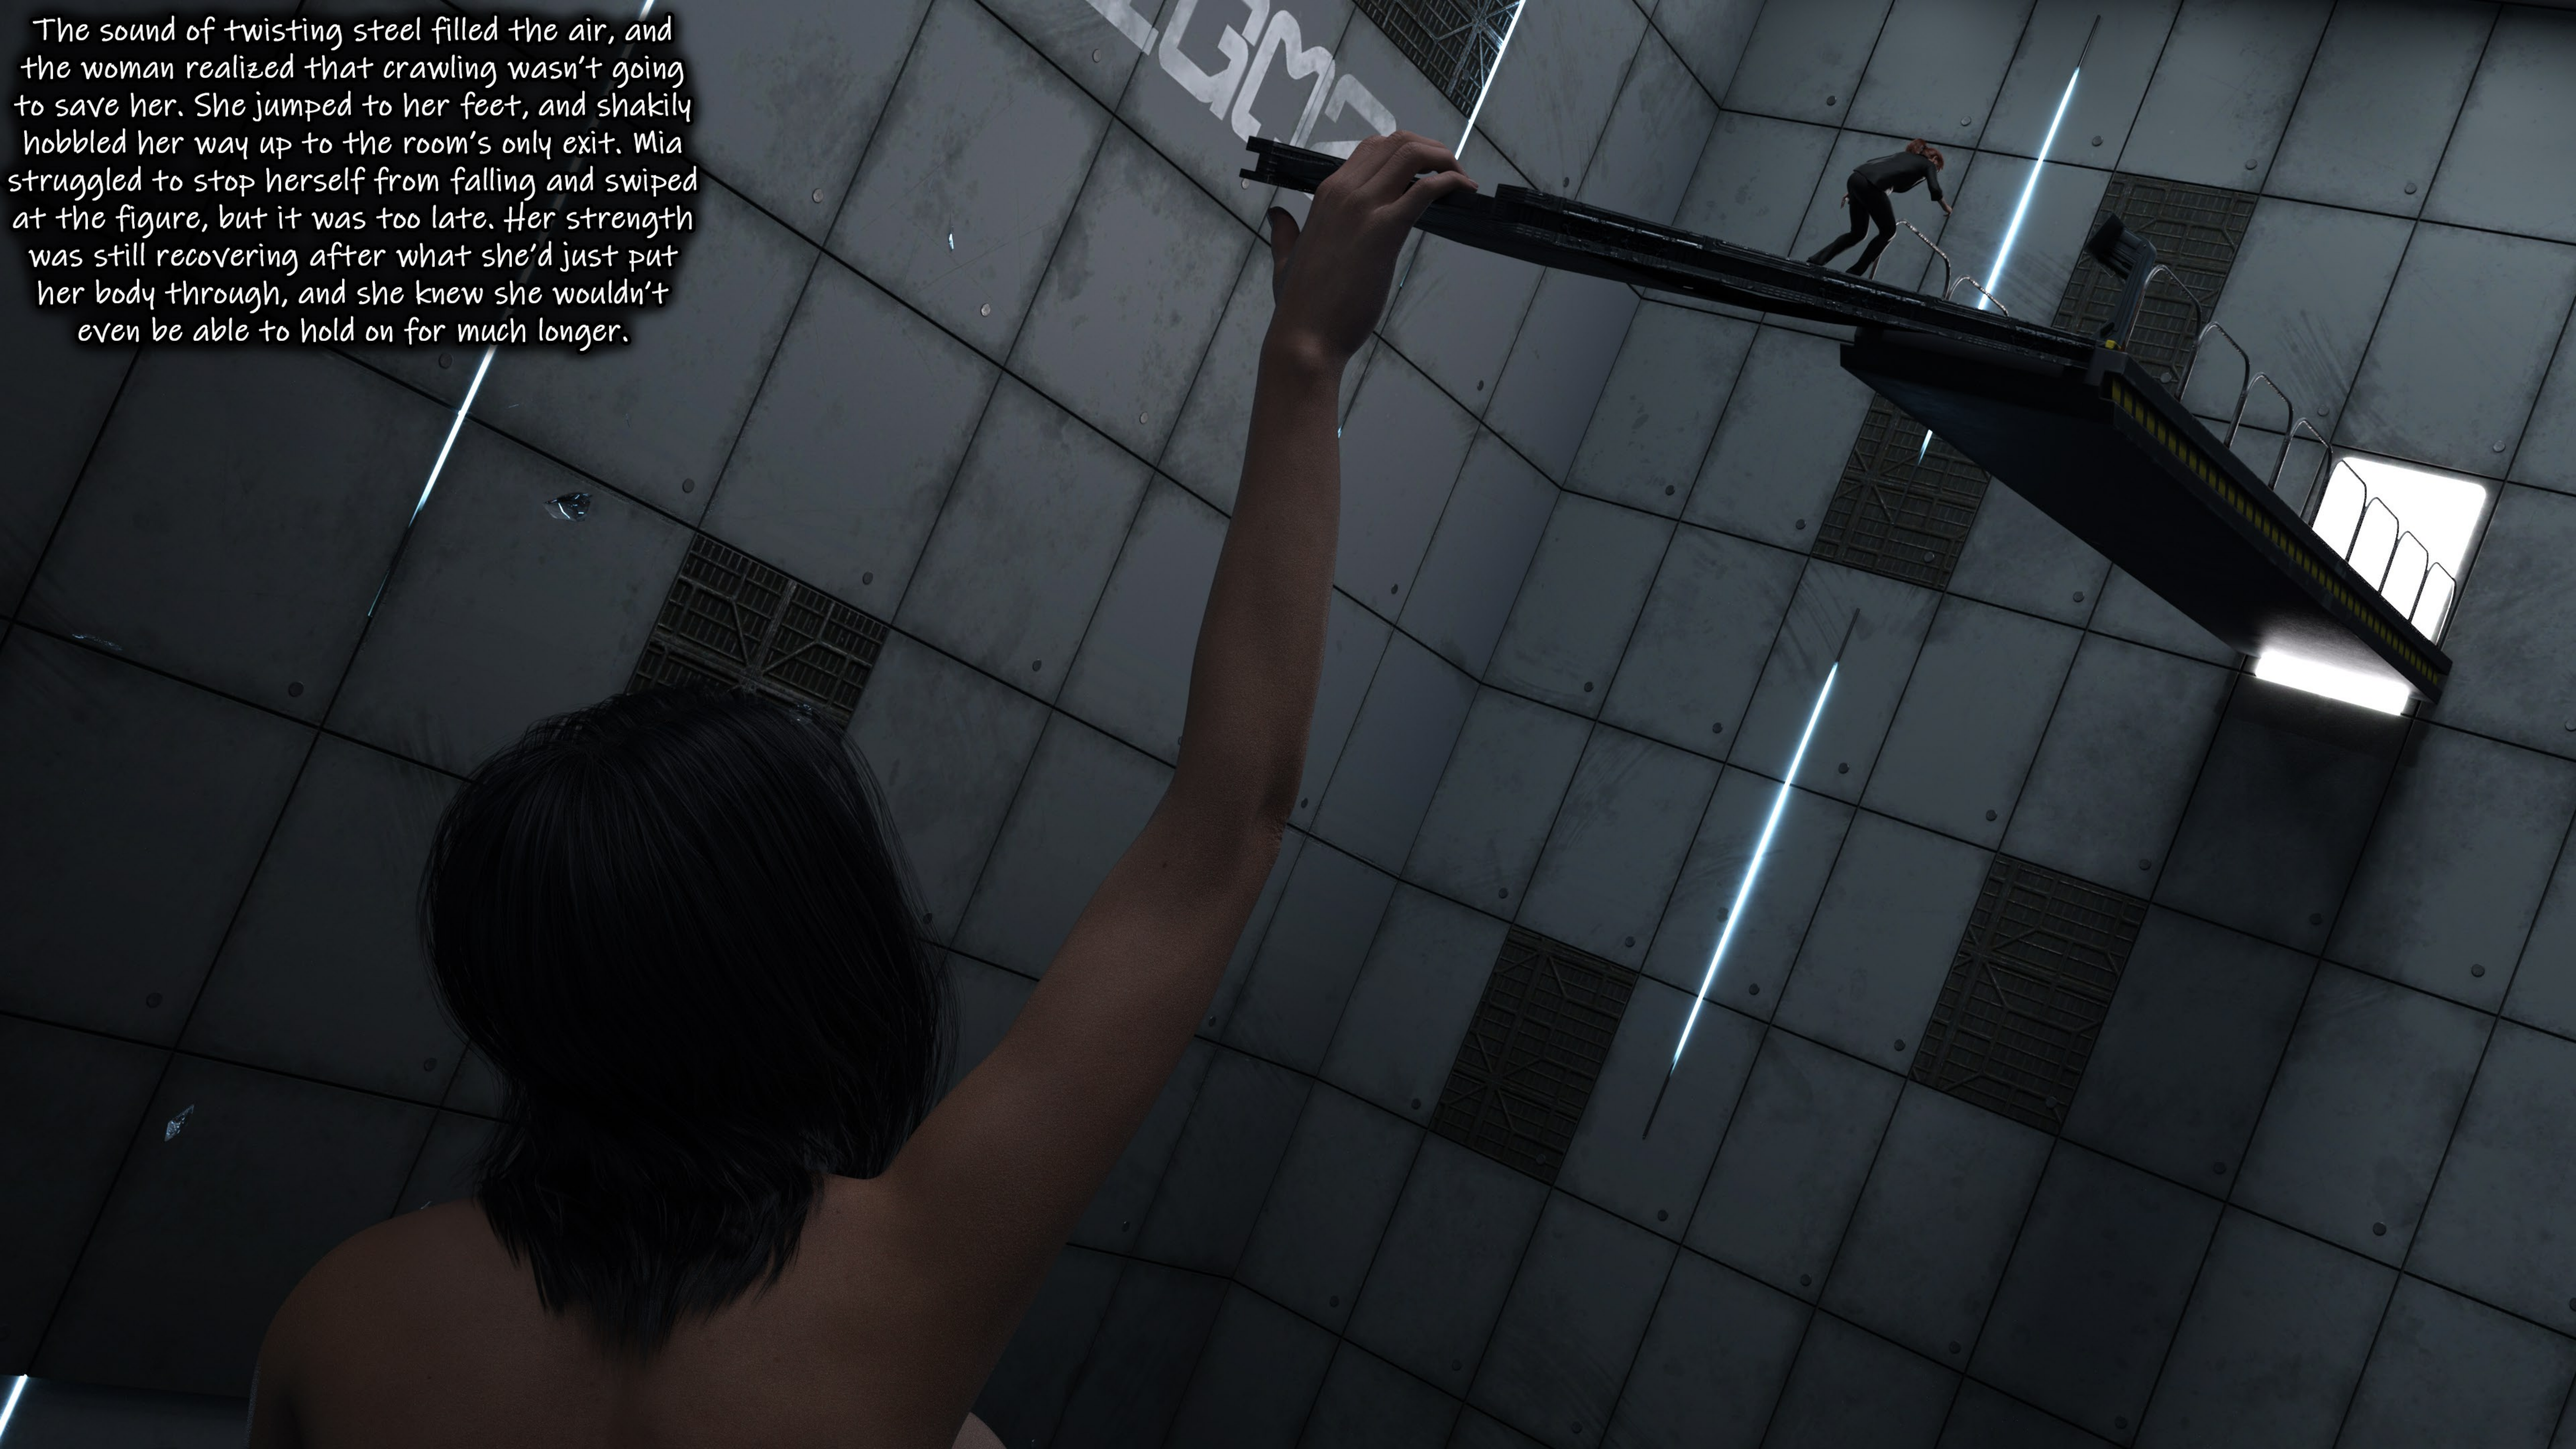

"I'M LEAVING!" She shouted, and slammed a palm against the walls. The clear walls flexed against their supports for a moment, before cracks formed around the tips of her fingers. Now largely unencumbered, Mia was able to focus more on growth, and those cracks quickly spread across the entire plate, until chips began to flake off and sprinkle to the ground far below.

Until finally, with a surge of strength and anger, Mia forced her palm straight through the glass wall. Shards rained around her bare arm and onto the platform that the woman had been observing them from as she was thrown back from the sudden shock of Mia's destructive exit.

"OH NO YOU DON'T!" An incensed Mia shouted, slamming a hand down onto the platform the woman was lying on. The entire thing shook violently, and the smaller woman screamed as she skittered a few extra inches back to avoid the giantess's deadly grasp. That wasn't the only platform suffering from Mia's movements however, as the very one she was hunched over onto groaned loudly.

Mia's eyes went wide as she felt the once-secure platform begin to sag. She reached ahead to grab onto the thinner one the smaller woman was standing atop of, and bent the entire thing dangerously forward when the cell she was in succumbed to her weight and collapsed.
SECTOR

"YOU FUCKING IDIOTS!" The woman screamed, trying her best to maintain her balance on the rapidly-bending platform. The combination of her own heels and the shaking all around her made this a dangerous affair, and she was forced to crawl forward on all fours lest she make the deadly fall to the ground below.

The sound of twisting steel filled the air, and the woman realized that crawling wasn't going to save her. She jumped to her feet, and shakily hobbled her way up to the room's only exit. Mia struggled to stop herself from falling and swiped at the figure, but it was too late. Her strength was still recovering after what she'd just put her body through, and she knew she wouldn't even be able to hold on for much longer.

More glass cracked, and Mia's eyes went wide. She'd completely forgotten about Sophie and Annie! She whipped her head back just in time to see Sophie testing the confines of her own cell, with the glass walls quickly succumbing to her strength.

Only this time, Mia was the one in the line of fire. Shards of reinforced glass chipped and broke apart, sending hundreds of cracks through the huge panes in every direction. It was clearly becoming very cramped, but Mia had a feeling that Sophie would be free in a matter of seconds.
SECTOR 28

The sound of bending steel from the other side of the room caught Mia's attention, however. She knew it could only mean one thing.
Annie was keeping up pace with her rivals.

The entire room seemed to vibrate, thrumming with energy as the other two giantesses pushed themselves larger. Big enough that the cages that had seemed so sturdy only a few minutes before began to buckle. Strong enough to shatter even the hardiest of plate glass.
The metal floor beneath Sophie's growing form began to sag, much like Mia's had. Something that the brunette realized all-too-late.

With the sound of breaking glass and twisting steel filling the air, the floor gave out on Sophie's cell. She gasped in surprise as she suddenly found herself free falling.
Thankfully, Mia was there to catch her!

Or so she thought.

Mia had been focused on trying to keep herself balanced. She wasn't prepared for a woman nearly her own size to smash into her all of a sudden, and what little grip she was able to maintain on the steel platform was lost.

THOOOOOOOM
Sophie was large, but Mia was even larger. The broken chunks of the cell that had once constrained them made for a poor landing pad, so the entire room quaked when both of their naked forms slammed into the hard floor far below.
The fall would have been deadly at human scale... but at their sizes it only knocked the wind out of them.

But at least they were alive.
Until the sound of more breaking glass shocked Mia out of her moment of relief.

More steel sagged, torn free from its construction as something far heavier than it was rated to hold began to threaten the foundations of the cell. Unlike Sophie or Mia however, Annie was more eager to break free. Her fists and feet pounded against the walls, shattering them early, and causing the very floor to fall out beneath her.

"WATCH OUT!" Mia shouted, but it was already too late. There was little Annie could have done anyway. Gravity had taken hold, and she could do nothing but hope that the landing wasn't too rough.

Thankfully, for her, it wouldn't be.
For Mia, it was a different story entirely.

PLAP
Annie's body was warm. Her butt was soft. It would have been an almost pleasant experience that stirred something within her... if not for the fact that all of her considerable weight had slammed into Mia's face like a sledgehammer.

Annie wasted no time rolling off of her landing pad, revealing a rather dazed Mia. She had yet to fully recover from the effects the lights had on her, and having two giantesses crash into her wasn't helping on that front.

"Mia...?"
Mia slapped herself on the cheeks, and sat up. She shook her head to clear the fogginess, to see Sophie looking back at her with wide eyes.
"B-Behind you."

Mia sensed it before she saw it. Heavy breathing directly behind her. She was free of her prison now, but that meant that ALL of them were free. Even...

"Annie...?" Mia said, craning her neck up. She had expected Annie to take the opportunity to grow even more as soon as she was able, but even she was surprised at just how much and how quickly she had taken advantage of the confusion.

Even with both feet firmly planted on the floor, it was clear that Annie had grown nearly large enough to reach the suspended cells that had kept them locked up. And if that wasn't bad enough, the two hands reaching down to grab her did little to put Mia at ease.

"Wait, calm down Annie! We still have to get out of-"
Annie wasn't listening. She firmly grabbed hold of Mia's arms, and forced her up into a standing position. She held onto the smaller giantess for a moment, seemingly enjoying the sense of power she once again held over another person.

"This reminds me of... the first time I ever ate someone, you know." Annie reminisced. Her tone was low, and husky, dripping with arousal as she pressed her into the top of Mia's head and took a deep breath. "It's been so long... way, way too fucking long..."
"H-Hold on! We can break out of here Annie! There's people outside and-"
"I don't need your help." The redhead interrupted. "But something to eat would help get my strength back faster."

Mia's blood ran cold, and she did the only thing that came to mind. She could still grow! She was a giantess, just like Annie! She just needed to focus and grow her way out of this situation and-

It quickly became obvious that she was too drained. Annie was the last of them to grow, so she'd fought against the lights for less time than any of them. Mia had also had to deal with hanging on for dear life, before the other two slammed into her. She was lucky she was even still conscious!
"Not going to say anything?" Annie taunted, biting her bottom lip. "That's fine. I'll take things from here." She finished, before opening her mouth wide.

"Hey! Put the new girl down!"

Annie stopped what she was doing and locked eyes with Sophie. Sophie could sense all the anger behind those eyes. Annie hadn't exactly made her disdain for Mia or Sophie a secret for the short time they were all locked up. She still blamed the fact that they were locked up on Sophie. But that didn't mean she was just going to stand there and watch Annie make a meal of the girl who got them out of here.

"Or what?" she said, her lips curling up into a grin. "You going to come up here and stop me?"

"That's exactly what I'm going to do," Sophie said, placing her hands onto her hips. "Don't test me, Annie. You don't know what I'm capable of."

"I know exactly what you're capable of," she said, her tone turning gravely serious. "You're weak. Just like Sasha."

"Bitch." Sophie's blood boiled at the mention of the friend she'd been separated from since waking up here. She wanted to reach up and strangle the redhead, but she would have to get bigger to do that. "You asked for this!"
She balled her hands into fists and focused. She wasn't even sure herself, in all honesty. She knew what she was capable of, knew what she could do, but her time with Annie had been brief. She could be walking right into the hornet's nest with this one.

Sophie wasn't going to just stand by and let Annie do as she pleased to one of their own. Not again.
Besides... she'd been looking forward to this for a while. And when she felt that energy flow through her body once again she tensed her muscles up, and watched as her view rose.

The air in this room was silent, but she could still feel wind rush past her face while she rocketed up in size. It felt liberating being able to grow so freely. She felt like she could outgrow this entire fucking building in a matter of seconds.

Annie kept her eyes locked onto Sophie's. She wasn't impressed with what she was seeing, which did make Sophie uneasy... But she wasn't going to back down.

"Put her down, Annie," she ordered. "Unless you want to fight the only person here who won't hesitate to beat your fucking ass."

Annie growled at her, but didn't say anything. Sophie couldn't exactly read her expression. If she was concerned or confident she couldn't tell, but she wasn't running away.

Sophie's eye line rose higher and higher, gradually reaching Annie's... but the space was starting to become cramped. This chamber that once seemed so vast was quickly becoming cramped.

In no time at all it had gone from a massive facility to what felt like a broom closet. And not even a big one.
Sophie took a step forward as she neared Annie's height, but Annie didn't move a muscle. Her body was hot against Sophie's, but she wasn't backing down.

"Now let her go," she ordered again. "This place isn't big enough for the three of us, and you'd still be trapped in that cage if it wasn't for Mia."
"I'd have found a way out."
"Bullshit."

"Big talk coming from someone who's still smaller than me," she said, straightening up so she could gain a few extra inches comparatively. "What's stopping me from growing big enough to swallow this entire building whole?"
"If you could do that, you already would have, wouldn't you?"

Annie's eyes narrowed.
"The lights drained you too, didn't they?" Sophie said, hoping to find some more strength herself soon. "Why don't you cut this stupid lone wolf act out so we can work together?"
"I don't need you holding me back."

"Whatever. Give her up," Sophie said, placing her hands onto Mia's shoulders... but Annie didn't let go. She glared up at her again, but Annie only narrowed her eyes back.
"Fine. You asked for it," Sophie said, focusing once again.

It was a bluff. At least, it was a bluff at first. She'd felt like she had used everything she had in her just getting this big... but she managed to find more. A well she was able to draw from, until she was bigger than Annie, if only barely.
The two of them were cramped inside of this room now, rapidly approaching the ceiling. Mia was trapped in between them, but still Annie refused to let go.

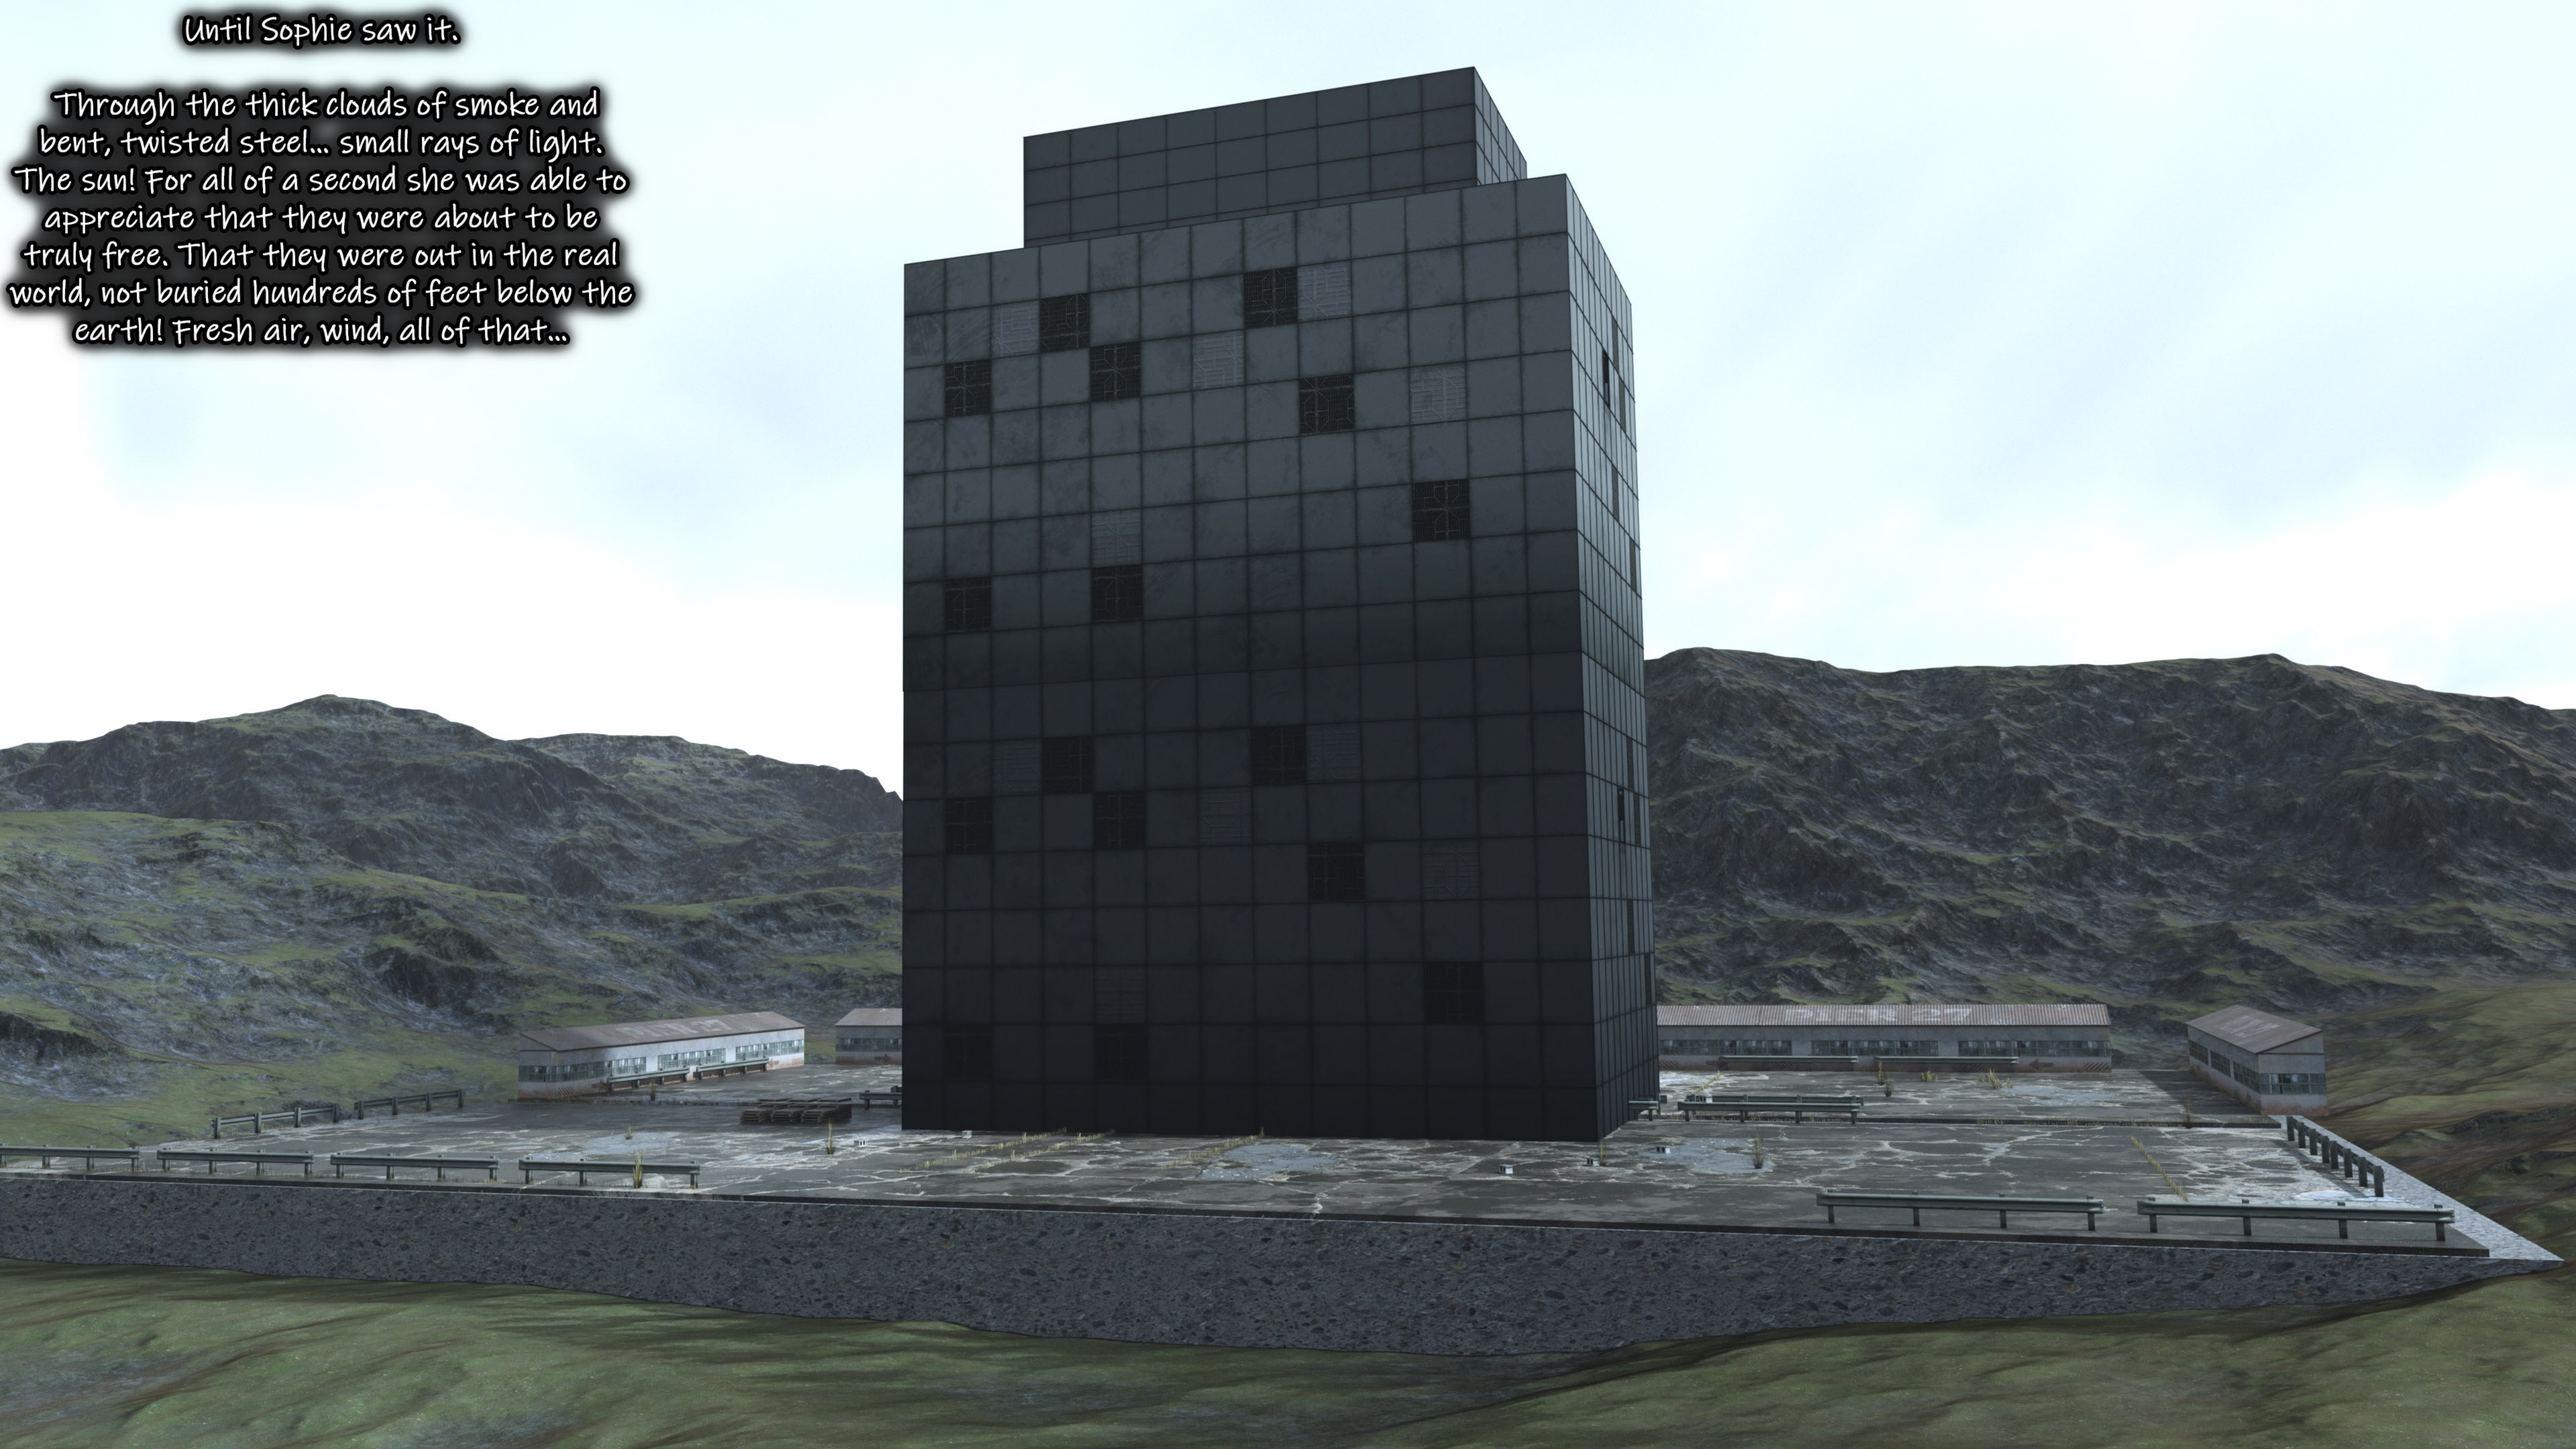

"I NEED HER!" Annie shouted. "YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT I'VE BEEN THROUGH! I'M STARVING!"
"YOU CAN FIND PEOPLE OUTSIDE TO EAT, SEE IF I GIVE A SHIT!" Sophie shouted, wrenching Mia back with everything she had but to no avail.

"Back OFF!" Annie shouted, her words echoing around the room as she surged up in size again. Her entire body seemed to emanate heat as if she was putting everything she had into growing as much as possible as fast as possible, but Sophie was in too deep. She wasn't going to back down.

"SHE'S COMING WITH ME, AND THAT'S FINAL!" Sophie said, growing a bit more to match her. As she did she felt her head bump against the ceiling, and suddenly found herself having to lean forward to remain standing.
Annie wasn't relenting though. Her own head smacked into the ceiling just a second later, and it became very clear very quickly that this building wasn't made to withstand pressure like this from the inside.

It started as an ominous crack. Unlike the rest of the room which had been covered in steel plating, the ceiling was made of cement. It was strong, but once it cracked... that was it.
In no time at all thick plumes of smoke fell from the ruined ceiling, making it impossible to see.

But Sophie didn't need to see. She could feel what was happening all around her. She had to lean forward even more as her shoulders pressed into the ceiling, which only made her ass slam into the wall behind her. Annie did the same, matching her growth pace for pace. The room itself seemed to strain as it tried to keep the both of them contained...

Until Sophie saw it.
Through the thick clouds of smoke and bent, twisted steel... small rays of light. The sun! For all of a second she was able to appreciate that they were about to be truly free. That they were out in the real world, not buried hundreds of feet below the earth! Fresh air, wind, all of that...

And then the building exploded around them.
As chunks of the ceiling fell around them and the walls began to collapse Sophie took advantage of the confusion to wrench Mia free from Annie's grip. It was enough to completely knock Annie off balance, and the wall behind her broke apart as they both rose above the dense clouds of dust and smoke and into the open air again.

THUD
Annie slammed onto the ground, having completely lost her balance from the scuffle. She looked up at Sophie, eyes burning with rage, before looking back at Mia. Sophie braced herself for an attack, knowing that they had a lot more space for Annie to try something now... but she didn't move.
"Bitch." She said, and spat onto the ground beside her.

"Yeah, whatever." Sophie said. "Do you want to cut the shit now and help us find that crazy lady who locked us up, or are you going to keep being a petulant-"
An unfamiliar sound echoed nearby. Something that definitely wasn't from Sophie, or Mia, or even Annie. It was... mechanical. Like a chopping sound?

"Would you look at that?" Annie said, lips curling up into a grin as she motioned up. Sophie looked in the direction she was pointing, and knew immediately what that had to be.
"Sasha!" Sophie said, which only drew laughter from Annie.

"Shame about your friend." She said, "If you ever want to find out what happened to her you should probably catch up to that psycho bitch, shouldn't you?"
It felt like Annie was goading Sophie into making a mistake. Like she knew this was stupid... but it wasn't like Sophie could let this chance pass. That woman had to have known something! She had to find out what happened to Sasha!
N600H

Sophie didn't care what Annie thought she was doing, she wasn't going to let her get away. Not without some answers. She stepped after the helicopter, but the terrain around here was uneven. Hills broke apart and sank under her toes when she moved, and she hadn't yet readjusted to what it was like to walk at this size.
And with every passing second... she saw it get further and further away.

"I have to get bigger." Sophie thought aloud. "I have to-"
"Good luck with that."

She whipped her head back, and saw that Annie had climbed back to her feet. She was looking down at Sophie again, smugly satisfied over the size advantage she once again had. Of course she'd take that distraction as an opportunity to grow again.
"Back off, Annie." Sophie said, not wanting to deal with this at the moment. "I don't want to fight you... but if I have to-

"Calm down, bitch." She said with a growl. "I don't care about you or your little pet now."
"That's awfully kind of you."
"You're going to make me regret not beating you to a pulp if you don't shut up." She said, before beginning to walk away.

"Where do you think you're going?"
"Where?" Annie laughed. "Isn't it fucking obvious? I'm still starving. But getting into a fight with someone my size is more trouble than it's worth. Not when I have..."

"All of this!" She said, spreading her arms wide and gesturing towards the city ahead. "Got that? This city here? Mine. If I see you or your new little girlfriend anywhere near it, then all bets are off. And I'd love nothing more than to swallow you both whole. Bet you'd scream real good going down."
Sophie thought about what Annie said. Even if she had thoughts about challenging that notion... She wasn't sure she wanted to. Sophie had heard Annie boast about eating her own friend when she'd first grown. She was nothing like Sasha and Sophie...
"Now get out of my sight." She said, turning back to look at us them last time, before walking straight ahead.

"Sophie!"
"Mia?" Sophie asked, surprised to finally hear her speak up. "What's up? Are you alright? Should we go after-"
"No!" Mia interrupted, frantically shaking her head. "I'm... I'm still drained from all that business back there. I think it's best if we stay away from Annie... for now, anyway."

Sophie clenched her fist at Mia's words, wanting to go against them. She wanted to put Annie in her place, since she knew she'd just come after the both of them in the future regardless.
"I don't know..." she admitted, looking at the giant woman marching ahead. "We're stuck between a rock and a hard place, Mia. Two ticking timebombs that would probably love to get rid of the both of us."

"What about that woman who locked us up?"
"I want answers." she told Mia, before shaking her head. "But Annie... She's going to get bigger. And I know you're not stupid. She's not going to be satisfied with just a couple thousand tiny people. Keeping her in line might be more important."
Mia looked down solemnly. Her shoulders slumped forward, and she sighed. "At least wait until she's distracted before following. I've been where she is... and there's no way she won't be intoxicated with power in a matter of minutes."

A few minutes later, Annie rounded a corner downtown. She was already miles from Sophie and Mia, happy to be done with them for the time being. Though she was loath to admit it, she couldn't shake the feeling that the two of them together could best her. Besides... It was so much more fun to torment people who were too hopelessly small to fight back anyway.
Being among so many tiny people made her feel truly enormous. A sensation she'd missed after being locked up so long. Tiny buildings lined the streets on either side of her, barely reaching her hips. Cars lay abandoned in the roads as word of her approach spread. And everywhere, in every direction, people ran for their lives.
God, she'd missed this.

She looked down at the crowds swarming between her feet, a slow grin spreading across her face. "Where do you think you're going?" she purred. "Don't you want to have some fun?"
Hundreds of tiny faces looked up at her with wide, terrified eyes. Some froze. Some screamed. Most just ran faster.

Not that running would do them any good. At her size all it took was one movement. A single step forward. The pavement cracked beneath her bare sole, and she felt the small, wet pops of bodies too slow to get out of her way. A shiver ran up her spine. She took another step, and another, each one accompanied by the sickening crunch of asphalt and the distant wailing of people who hadn't yet realized they were already dead.
THIS was what she craved.

A cluster of people ran on the sidewalk to her right. Annie bent down, closing her fingers around a handful of squirming bodies. She moved fast for her size, and it wasn't hard to catch them.

Annie straightened up, lifting the group to eye level. She could hardly believe how small they felt in her hand. How light, and weak, and fragile. Tightening her grip would have been enough to finish them off, but that would be far too boring for her.

She examined her catch. A college-aged girl in a blue tank top and skirt kicked uselessly against Annie's thumb, mascara running down her cheeks. Next to her, what appeared to be two businessmen clawed at her fingers with tiny hands. Annie tilted her head, appraising them.
"For my first meal in heaven knows how long..." she murmured, before smiling. "You'll do."

She lifted all three above her mouth, parting her lips wide. The tiny people screamed, their voices echoing around the cavern of her mouth.

Then, without a care, she tossed the three of them down. They tumbled through the air, limbs flailing helplessly as they descended towards her mouth.

The college girl hit first, landing square on Annie's tongue with a thud. The two businessmen followed a half-second later, one bouncing off her lower lip before sliding in after the other.

Annie closed her mouth. She could feel all three of them squirming against her tongue, tiny fists pounding uselessly against the roof of her mouth. She savored it for exactly one second before the hunger she'd felt gnawing at her for so long demanded to be sated.
She swallowed, feeling the familiar sensation of a wriggling lump slide down her throat and disappear for good.

Her entire body shivered at the sensation of the three lives moving through her body. She felt warm on the inside... and still plenty hungry.
She looked down at the crowd again. There were still so many of them. Hundreds of tiny people, running for their dear lives. They were packed together so tight, it was like they were just waiting for her to snatch them up.

So that's exactly what she did. Annie reached down with both hands this time, scooping wide. Some of them were sent flying through the air from her sudden descent, while others narrowly avoided capture. Not that it mattered. She had enough of them to fill both of her hands, and that was a worthwhile start towards satisfying her.

Annie straightened up and dropped them down towards her mouth. Most of them missed entirely, bouncing off her chin or her chest. Those tumbled back down to the street below, but their fates didn't concern her. There were thousands of others nearby to take their place.

A few landed where they were supposed to, falling into her mouth one after another. She swallowed those without ceremony, skin tingling from the sensations.

Then something changed.
A warm sensation formed in her backside. It was pleasant, almost electric. Annie paused mid-step, placing her left hand on her ass cheek.

The growth hit her lower body first. Her hips surged outward, widening by several feet in a matter of seconds. She gasped as she felt her thighs thicken, swelling with new mass that made the ground tremble beneath her shifting weight.

Then her ass started to grow. Really grow. She felt it pushing outward behind her, each cheek swelling larger and rounder. The sheer weight of it surprised her, forcing her to shift her hips just to balance it out.

It kept going. Her backside ballooned further, each second adding what felt like tons of soft, warm flesh.

She groped her fuller backside while looking over her shoulder and watching the shadow it cast grow wider, swallowing an entire lane of traffic, then two, then an entire intersection. Cars disappeared beneath its shade.

By the time the tingling began to subside, her ass had grown grotesquely, magnificently out of proportion with the rest of her already enormous body. Each cheek was the size of a small building, round and heavy and impossible to ignore, even when viewed from the front.

Annie twisted at the waist, testing her new weight. She swung her hips back and forth, moving them dangerously close to the buildings that flanked her. She couldn't help wondering what it would feel like to swing it into one of those buildings like a wrecking ball.
Then she smiled. Why wonder, exactly? When she could just do it?

"Here goes." she said, craning her neck to admire the sheer, ridiculous scale of her backside. "Let's see what this thing can do."
She turned around, and her ass swung wide above a squat brick office building. The people inside had mere seconds to process what was about to happen.

Annie lowered herself slowly, deliberately. Her enormous backside descended toward the building, blotting out the sky above it. She could feel the heat radiating off the roof as she got close, the rough texture of brick and mortar scraping against her skin.

She sat down.
At least, for her. For the building it was as if a hammer had struck an anvil with how instantly it gave way beneath her. Floor after floor flattened under her impossible weight. Brick, steel, glass, and everything inside compressed into nothing beneath her enormous form.

Just seconds later, her ass smashed into the pavement. The impact sent a shockwave rippling outward, shattering windows for three blocks in every direction. Dust, furniture, and debris erupted from the sides with explosive force.

Annie sat in the rubble for a moment, savoring the sensation. The entire building had been reduced to a pancake of debris beneath her. She wiggled her hips, grinding the remains even flatter, and a low, satisfied hum rumbled in her chest.
There was nothing left but a flat smear of dust and rebar and crushed concrete, still warm beneath her. The sight of it, the sheer totality of the destruction, sent a pulse of heat straight through her core. Her hand drifted down her stomach almost on its own, fingers trailing across her skin until they slipped between her thighs.

Annie let out a shaky breath as her fingertips brushed against herself. She was already wet. She had been since she'd first felt those tiny bodies pop beneath her feet. The memory of them squirming on her tongue, the way the building had just ceased to exist under her weight, it all fed into the heat building between her legs. She pressed harder, her fingers sliding through slick warmth, and a moan escaped her lips.

1 HOUR FILM PROCESSING
She couldn't wait anymore. Two fingers plunged inside, and her back arched involuntarily. The motion sent her hips grinding forward, and what remained of the foundation beneath her crumbled further into powder. Her walls clenched around her fingers and she gasped, loud enough that the sound echoed off the skyline.

The tingling started almost immediately. It began in her chest this time, a spreading warmth that radiated outward through her limbs. Annie breathed rapidly as she felt her body beginning to stretch upwards and outwards.

Her legs lengthened, thighs swelling thicker as they pushed outward across the street, demolishing parked cars without her even noticing. She didn't stop touching herself. If anything, the sensation of growing only made her push harder.

Annie threw her head back, letting her red hair cascade down her back. She surged up another few feet in a matter of seconds. The rooftops that had been at her waist now barely reached her knees. Entire city blocks disappeared into the shadow of her expanding body.

Her fingers pumped faster, and every thrust sent a tremor through the ground that split the asphalt in jagged lines radiating outward from her body. She could feel the growth accelerating, feeding on her arousal, each wave of pleasure triggering another surge of size that made the next wave hit even harder.

Annie let out a primal scream of pleasure, and shoved her fingers in even deeper. The pleasure was overwhelming, even more so with how long she'd been looking forward to this exact moment. But she wasn't even close to being finished. She was only getting started.

Her already enormous ass spread wider across the city block. What had once been an intersection was now just a warm spot beneath one ass cheek. She felt her expanding thighs press into the buildings around her as her legs stretched further down the street. The sensation of so many tiny things breaking against her skin only drove her closer to the edge.

She was massive now. Truly massive. The tallest buildings downtown barely came up to her chest, and she was still growing. Her massive ass swelled wider, filling up more of the street.

Her swelling ass cheek pressed into something metallic: a fire escape clinging to the brick apartment building beside her. She felt the cold iron bars dig into her skin, pressing shallow grooves into the soft flesh of her ass. It was such a tiny sensation against the enormity of her body, like a paperclip pressing into a pillow. She didn't stop. Her fingers kept working, and she moaned once again.

The fire escape groaned. Annie felt it bending, giving way as her ass continued to swell outward. Bolts popped free from the brick with sharp cracks, and the entire structure folded like tinfoil against her expanding ass cheek. She barely registered it; just another small thing breaking against her, another little reminder of how impossibly big she was becoming.

Then the growth kicked into something higher. A fresh wave of heat surged from her core, and her hips exploded outward. The buildings flanking her didn't stand a chance. Her expanding hips smashed through both of them simultaneously. She felt floors collapse against her thighs, an avalanche of brick and glass and steel cascading down around her widening frame.

"More," she breathed, and the word alone seemed to carry enough force to send debris skittering across rooftops. She wasn't going to stop. Not until there was nothing left small enough to break.

For Sophie, being back in the city was... enthralling. In a way she hadn't quite expected. It felt like it had been years since she'd gotten to stretch her legs and walk through the city like this. The soundscape of tiny people screaming and running in every direction was enough to make her shiver.

"Fuck." She whispered to herself, taking a step forward. That same rush of power she'd felt when she first got to experience this was returning and threatened to overwhelm her. Even now all it would take is an errant step to crush a few people running around beneath her.

She'd have enjoyed it more... but something odd became increasingly obvious. The crowds of people running around her feet? They weren't trying to get away from her. Not all of them, anyway. She'd have liked to believe that it was because they were delivering themselves to her for her own enjoyment, but she knew better.
"Annie must be near, right?" She said to Mia, who only nodded in response.

Mia never got to answer the question. Before she could say a word, the exhausted Annie lolled her head to the side, basking in the afterglow of an orgasm that had rocked her body... before spotting the smaller giantesses nearby.
She was still in the midst of catching her breath, but smiled when she caught sight of the comparatively tiny pair.

"You just couldn't resist, could you?" Annie said, placing her hands flat onto the street. A dozen bodies were crushed in an instant and the street itself caved in around her fingers as she pushed herself back up to her full, immense height. "Well? Are you here to give yourselves up?"

Sophie's mouth felt dry as she tried to find the words to answer. She no longer felt that exhilarating feeling of being a giantess in a tiny world. She felt small. Insignificant. Minuscule.

"MIA!"
The smaller woman's head whipped up in a panic as she looked at Sophie. "There's something Sasha and I used to do. Helped us grow really, really fast."

"Well stop talking to me and just do it!"
Mia said frantically.
"I'm going to need your help!"
"I didn't ask! Do it!"

At that moment Annie took her first step towards the pair. She didn't care about what found its way beneath her massive feet, and in the blink of an eye dozens of lives were snuffed out. Car alarms blared as the street shook from her approach, and Sophie steeled herself for what was to come.

"Are you serious?"
"You're right. Stupid question." Sophie said, shaking her head. "It's not like we have time for foreplay. Do you know how to-"
"Just do what you need to do, Sophie!" Mia protested. She knew herself what had helped her grow before she'd been captured... and though it was clear she was a little nervous about what was going to happen...

There weren't many options available to the two of them.
"Hold your breath." Sophie warned, and in an instant rammed Mia's face between her legs. Thankfully the walk through the city had gotten her wet enough that it was an easy fit, and her legs nearly turned to jelly as she felt herself filled in a way she hadn't for ages.

"FUUUUUUCK!" Sophie moaned, pleasure wracking every inch of her enormous form. "I... I fucking needed this...!"
Her toes curled, ripping up the street beneath her as she eased Mia's body further inside of her. The smaller woman's shoulders vanished, and just before her tits made it inside...

Skin beaded on Sophie's sweat as a flood of arousal surged past Mia, splashing onto the street between her legs. She was so overwhelmed with pleasure she almost passed out on the spot, and it was only her determination to deal with Annie that kept her salient.

Finally, she pauses, and catches her breath. She slides Mia out from her pussy, smiling at how she glistened and coughed. She wanted to say something to her, but she knew there was something more pressing to deal with.
She looked up, ready to deal with Annie... only to come to a horrifying realization.

She wasn't nearly big enough.
Not by a long shot.
"I could have stopped you during all that, just so you know." Annie said, winking as she placed her hands onto her hips. "But I was enjoying the show. Though if you're finished now... It's my turn."

Sophie looked up at Annie, smugly looming over the two of them. She thought about that woman who'd locked them up, and where she could be right now. She thought about Sasha, who was still missing. And most of all, she thought about Annie's threats. She tried to say something back, but the words caught in her throat.
