Ellen was terrified of the pandemic virus.

She had spent days reading all the conspiracy blogs and had decided to buy a “cure” from one of the sites.

On receiving it, she took a dose of it without thinking. It immediately started to tingle and burn in her arm.

She could feel it spread throughout her body.

Her chest was tight and felt like it was swelling up.

The burning sensation caused her to sweat.

She struggled to think as her head throbbed.

All at once it stopped.

The throbbing in her head was gone, along with most any other thoughts.

The burning in her chest was replaced with a pleasurable sensitivity.

She felt a wetness starting to grow between her legs.

Downstairs she heard her daughter coming home.

Eli picked up the remaining dose.

She wasn't afraid of the pandemic anymore.

And she couldn't wait to share the cure with her daughter.
