UN-BOXED & UNDONE

Deep in the wilds of the internet, people seek simple recognition of their existence in a large and baffling world. Hoping to feel like they're valuable, needed and necessary, they reach out and plead for likes, for comments, for views and the holy grail of "partner status."

In one nearly ignored corner of YouTube, an unboxing video youtuber is hoping to find his sense of purpose. Even in the face of video after video going virtually without notice, he keeps posting. Day after day, week after week, month after month. Soon, he keeps telling himself, something will happen.

In a way, he's correct. However, what's about to happen to him is far beyond what he could have ever expected.

Well I decided to try a few of them out. I mean, that's the whole point of my channel, right?

Tell me what you think in the comments.

There were some other things, like blush and stuff, but no way I'm gonna even try those...

Unless I get 100 likes on this video... I'll do it for that.

I want to thank all my Followers who have been so supportive during the past few weeks. You guys are like, amazing!

So let's start with my latest mystery delivery... looks like the supplements someone keeps sending me?

One is labeled as a 'blocker' - whatever that is. I think the label means it's for men and women. And the other one is something for hormone replacement.

Sounds like some powerful body-building stuff!

I've been taking them for a few months now, with no side effects and stuff, so they must be legit, right?
